Canadian Press.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13—Shipment of old, worn-out horses to various fox farms in the lower provinces was the main matter discussed at the monthly meeting of the Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals yesterday. The feeling of the meeting was that a determined effort should be made to put a stop to this practice, and a move will be undertaken to have a law passed prohibiting the shipment of the various towns in the province and that they were herded together, 20 to a car, without being tied, with the result that the weak ones are trampled to death. The society also inclined to the opinion that very little food was given the horses in transit, decided that this angle of the case would be calcally watched, and that, if there was any cause for complaint, action would be taken against those responsible.

LONDON, Nov. 13—The gun which fired the first British shot in the Great War figured in the unveiling ceremony at the Artillery Memorial, Hyde Park corner, on Armistice Day.

The officer who gave the order to fire the first shot is Major R. L. Ralmer, D. S. O., M. C., who, as a section subaltern under Major A. B. Forman, commanding the old "E" Battey, R. H. A., transmitted his senior officer's order and brought No. B gun of the battery into action on Saturday, August 22, 1914.

PUBLICITY SHY.

Major Palmer Palmer avoids publicity, which accounts for the fact that very few people know of his distinction those few did not include the Artillery Commemoration officials.

When asked to tell again the memorable story of the day when the first shot was fired by British Artillery in the Great War, Major Palmer said:

"What I can remember most clearly about that day was that just before we fired I had an argument with Sergeant Carter about the cartridge cases. He wanted to know whether we should save them, and reminded me that in manoeuvres we always did.

with the result that more and more traffic is going into alien channels.

The national conference may fairly give consideration to the one-sided nature of our partnership with the rest of the Dominion—to the extent to which we have paid for railway, ranal and immigration development without receiving anything like the direct returns from these enterprises to which we were entitled, and which the other provinces have received. It will be clearly understood at Winnipeg that the Maritimes, far from objecting to the prosperity and expansion of the other provinces, welcome such signs of Canadian progress, but it will be readly understood, also, that the Maritimes are suffering from a sense of injustice because while they have been taxed heavily for many national enterprises which have been of benefit to the Central and Western Provinces, the Atlantic Provinces have, in most instances, received little for their money.

War itself has borne some sort of fruit after all that is not wholly bitter—that it thas brought us to the realization and determination that such a calamity must not happen again.

And science has gone onward, drawing steadily nearer to the elimination of disease and toil, to the unlocking of the doors that keep four-fifths of man benefits and poverty.

Humanity stands at the dawning. An epoch in human affairs so different from everything that has gone before that it staggers the imagination seems about to open before us. How will we meet it?

Will we be ready for it—for universal prosperity, universal leisure? Or is the spirit of man to be the only thing that does not progress?

It is up to us to make ready, individually. To become more tolerant, more kindly, more alert; to learn that life is not solely a matter of meals and houses and automobiles and theatres, that happiness cannot be expressed in dollars, that the well-heing of one portion of the race must not rest on the misery of another. traffic is going into alien channels.

There is a traffic lesson in this year's grain crop. While the opening of the Panama Canal means that an increased amount of freight will grain crop. Vancouver, it is to be remembered that not only the Western wheat crop but the general volume of Canadian freight will be steadily increasing for many years to come as the country regains its business stride. That means that there will be more and more freight available for the eastern as well as the western ports, and in order that this freight may be moved expetable.

(London Mail.)

The death of M. Viviani recalls a story heard in Paris about his American mission with Marshal Joffre during the war. When he returned to France a colleague asked him whether his mission had been fruitful in a human as well as political sense. "Oh, yes," replied Viviani, "but I left the human part of the business to Papa Joffre. While I was doing my best to impress the Senators, he was kissing Vancouver, it is to be remembered that this freight may be moved expeditiously and may be kept in Canadian all the girls!" channels, it is necessary that the always open harbors in the Maritimes be developed sufficiently to meet the requirements of future traffic. The greater utilization of Maritime ports is not in any sense a sectional issue. It is a national and calling for vigorous action along lives which are perfectly clear.

LONGER LIVES. A survey of conditions among wage workers and their families in the United States and Canada with respect to longevity, made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, reveals some remarkable results. It is shown that in 1911 the average expectation of life at birth in the families of wage workers in the two countries was 46.6 years, and that in 1924 it had risen to 55.6 years. "This gain of nine years," says the Boston Transcript. "ic years," says the Boston Transcript, "is so great that it brings the expected life span of the industrial population approximately to a level with that formerly established for the nation's population in general, including all be car persons living in circumstances of a work.

Quebec Action Catholique: Everybody knows that the current of industrial centralization has set in strongly in our country; for some months now the City of Montreal has even been debating a trust in bread. ### Englishman Baths In Rain Out of Train Window

The other day the honest inhabitants on Voss, on the Oslo-Bergen Railway, were greatly shocked, says a dispatch from Oslo. The night train from Oslo, which passes that point at about 8 a.m., does not usually present anything sensational, but serves as an alarm for most of the blameless people living in this tiny town. But this time it was different. The rain was pouring in torrents. The tradesmen had just opened their shops and were waiting for their first customers. Then came the train, and, as quite natural, all eyes turned toward the railway line; only to be greeted by a truly astonishing sight. From one of the compartment windows a man was leaning out—quite naked. He had stepped right out of the window and was holding onto the roof of the carriage. There he remained, swaying on the edge, taking a bath in the fresh morning rain while the train was rushing along at more than 45 miles an hour. The nearest stationmaster was immediately advised by wire that the man must be mad. When the train stopped at the next station an official entered the compartment, only to find the man, still naked, sitting in his seat and humming a cheerful ditty while he shaved himself. He was quite normal. It was merely an Englishman who wanted his morning tub!

CHARGE AND DENIAL. Fred Secord was arrested this morning on a warrant charging him with stealing a set of harness and a wagon valued at $30 from Alexander Lorgon. The accused had been notified to appear at 10 o'clock in court but failed to attend. The complainant told the magistrate that he had kept a horse and the harness and wagon in Secord's barn and that Secord had taken them several weeks ago although he had returned the horse. He then swore out a warrant against Secord. About 20 minutes later the complainant was before the court and pleaded not guilty. He said he could bring witnesses to prove he had purchased the harness and wagon. The magistrate postponed the case as the complainant had left the court after the warrant was made out. varrant was made out.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS MANY. LONDON, Nov. 13—London seems to be running a race with New York for the position of city with most traf-fic accidents. Recent statistics show that for the first three months of 1925 there were 25,342 street accidents in the 24-square-mile area of this city. Of these 226 proved fatal.

A Carmarthen street United church social last night was greatly enjoyed. Rev. A. D. McLeod, pastor, was chairman and the programme included: Selection by the choir; historical sketch of the church, William Tyner; vocal solo, Mrs. H. G. Flewwelling; vocal solo, Charles Styles; report of the finances, A. H. Martin; solo, Miss Hester Sleet; violin solo, Leonard Roberts, accompanied by Miss Mary Fulton. The financial statement showed a considerable reduction had been made in the church debt. Rev. W. McN. Matthews, minister of the Kirk in West Saint John, gave the address of the evening and spoke of the maintenance and extension fund of the church. William Hawker, one of the staunch supporters of the church in its early days, spoke briefly. At the close of the program the Ladies' Aid served refreshments. There was a very large attendance. Mrs. James Armstrong Injured by Boys Coasting in Express Wagon

Two little boys coasting in a small express wagon struck Mrs. James Armstrong, 343 Union street, and knocked her down about 5 o'colck yesterday afternoon. She first went to her home, but about 9.15 o'clock last evening she was suffering so badly from an injury to her knee that she was taken to the General Public Hospital in the ambulance. An X-ray was taken this morning, but the result of the examination is not known as yet.

MEETS TODAY.

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fail in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, billiousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments. What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it is so easy by using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Truly the Institution of Marriage Has Many Faults, But It Brings Out the Best Qualities in Men and Women, It Endears Them by Mutual Struggles and Hopes, and in End Are Happier Bound Than Free.

A MAN says:
"Modern marriage is a failure. Do you not believe that the marriage institution should be done away with at this day and time?"

Certainly not. I think marriage should be made more permanent, more binding. Marriage is far from ideal, but it is the best arrangement for the association of the sexes that humas ingenuity has so far been able to desire

MARRIAGE is the very foundation stone on which civilization rests. It insures the solidarity of the family. It is the bulwark of the home. It is the first-aid to law and order and all the commonplace virtues that go to build up a prosperous and progressive

You cannot imagine any great race springing from the promiscuous and animal matings of men and women. You cannot conceive of any real home in which the father and mother at the head of it are transient having any respect for parents who are forever being swapped on them and who are continually getting a new papa or a new mamma.

THINGS are bad enough as they are, with our divorce mills running overtime, turning out a ghastly grist of wrecked homes, and the half-orphaned children who recruit our hoodlum class, for statistics show that the large majority of youthful criminals are the offspring of quarreling the large majority of youthful criminals are the offspring of quarreling parents, who have broken their marriage vows and separated. But a world parents, who have broken their marriage vows and separated. But a world in which there were no permanent homes, no eternal altar on which the fire never went out, no honest-to-goodness, never-changing fathers and mothers would be a world of chaos.

It is easy enough to pick flaws in marriage, but the trouble is to find a remedy for them.

Those who believe that margiage should be abolished claim that the mere knowledge that they are bound together for life slays all romance in a man and woman's heart, and that the only way to keep love alive is to keep it free.

Never was there a greater error than this. The thing that kills romance is not matrimony, but daily association.

YOU cannot keep up illusions about the one with whom you live; whom you see sick and tired and slouchy and disgruntled; whose every you see sick and tired and slouchy and disgruntled; whose every weakness you fathom

IT IS ALSO a fallacy that love thrives better outside of the matrimonial fold than within it, and that there is something peculiarly strong and tender in the tie that binds the unwed together.

And marriage enables men and women to make the sort of homes in which the children are reared who are the hope of the world.

Makes Sheet Steel So Thin He Can See Through It

SHEETS of steel so thin that they are as transparent as glass have been made by Dr. Karl Mueller of the Physical Technical Institute of Berlin.

Dr. Mueller makes these sheets by a process of his own invention. He uses electro-chemical means to deposit a thin film of steel upon a heavy block of metal. Then he strips the sheet from the block just as photo-engravers strip the gelatin emulsion from a photograp plate.

Tests with Dr. Muller's transparent steel indicate that the sheets of it are perfectly regular, since photographs taken through it show no distortions of any sort.

FOR CHARITES IMPRACTICAL, HE SAYS. H. Usher Miller thought the scheme impractical and believed it would be inadvisable to lose the aid of the multitude of volunteer workers. Dr. D. C. Maloolm said he knew that many people got assistance from more than one source. He thought the scheme was worth consideration but would necessitate a large staff. Mrs. F. Stetson said many cases would not go to a central or public source but would apply to the clergyman or women church workers. J. Hunter White felt confident that there was real need of an office for dispensing relief. He believed the generous-minded, who were often those less able, should not be called on to care for the relief work of the city but that the community should have entire responsibility.

The incoming executive of the society was asked to bring in a report on the matter.

Adjutant Chapman, representing the Salvation Army, said learning to love the people was the secret of success in charitable work. He thought the Army had an organization second to none for assisting the poor and told what precautions were taken to prevent overlapping.

The Ex-Kaiser.

(Christian Science Monitor.)

Many books criticizing the character and the pollitical actions of the former Kaiser have been published in Berlin since the war, but the most important, because it is by the pen of one of Germany's leading statesmen, and at the same time one of the most severe in its criticism, is the third volume of Bismarck's memoirs. When it was published the ex-Kaiser had court proceedings opened against the publishers from his residence in Doorn, but he could not, as will be remembered, prevent the publication of the book. Now the publishers have decided to bring out a popular edition of the third volume after they have already done so with the first and second volumes. Thus the population in general will be able to purchase this book, which will undoubtedly contribute to widen the gulf already existing between the former Kaiser and the German people, who never talk and very seldom think of him, with the exception of a comparatively small number of convinced monarchists, and even many of these admit certain mistakes and faults of the last crowned head of the Reich.

"HABIT, kept me from a Real Shave."

THAT'S what many men confess, once they've learned the advantages of the stropping feature of the Valet AutoStrop Razor.

"I formerly used an ordinary safety razor," many say "but only the first few shaves with a new blade were good. After that it was a choice between a poor shave or a new blade.

Now I give my Valet AutoStrop Razor blade a few strokes on the strop without removing it from the holder, and thus enjoy many perfect shaves from the same blade."

Changing Habits

If you're in a habit rut, why not break loose and find out how superior shaving is so easily attainable? If you'll just switch to a Valet AutoStrop Razor you will never return to old ways, for it is the only razor that automatically sharpens its own blades without removing them.

Leather strop for sharpening blades is supplied as part of every set.

In Eastern Kentucky there is a district known as Millers Creek. This district produces a variety of coals: some are Cannel coals, some are Gas coals; all of them can truthfully be called Millers Creek coal.

Separate and apart from these is a coal mined exclusively by the big Consolidation Coal Co., near the town of Van Lear. From this Van Lear section of the Millers Creek area comes the now celebrated CONSOLI-DATION MILLERS CREEK Coal. It has qualities found in no other.

Like other good things, CONSOLIDA-TION MILLERS CREEK has its imitators; some of them sized in Egg and Nut sizes like CONSOLIDATION MILLERS CREEK.

So the important "word" to remember in buying MILLERS CREEK coal is the CONSOLIDATION, CONSOLIDATION MILLERS CREEK is the coal with the qualities you are expecting. The word CONSOLI-DATION is used in connection with this particular coal for your protection. There is a difference—hence the distinction.

Montreal Rugby Outfit Expected to Put Up Hard Fight

FREDERICTON, N. B., Nov. 13—Not in a decade has this seat of learning been so enthused as it is today over the departure this afternoon of the University of New Brunswick's classy rugby team for Montreal, where they will play the Montreal Rugby Club for the MacTier Cup, emblematic of the championship of Eastern Canada, Saturday afternoon on the McGill Campus. One success after another by Captain Paul Fraser's band of warriors has only served to whet the appetite of the fans for more victories, and the fact that U. N. B. has won the intercollegiate crown for more victories, and the fact that U. N. B. has won the intercollegiate crown for the Maritimes has paled into the background somewhat as the team gets ready for its long trip to the metropolis. Some idea of the enthusiasm that has developed contagious qualities was in evidence at a general students' meeting yesterday noon when letters from two prominent alumni were read giving add to the heavy task of taking the rugby football team of the university to Montreal to play for the MacTier Cup. The letters were from Charles E. Neill, general manager of the Royai Bank of Canada, and Sir Frederick Williams Taylor of the Bank of Mon-

Bank of Canada, and Sir Frederick Williams Taylor of the Bank of Montreal. Both of these gentlemen are Honorary Doctors of Law of the university and at encaenias a few years ago delivered addresses to the graduating classes. Each is a distinguished son of New Brunswick who has been markedly successful in the banking profession.

Generous Provision.

The telegram from Mr. Neill stated that he was prepared to meet the expected deficit of $400 on the expenses of the trip, also that he had made arrangements for the accommodation of the team at the Mount Royal Hotel and he team at the Mount Royal Hotel and or its transportation from station to notel and for hotel to playing field. Mr. Neill also arranged with the captain of the Montreal English Rugby team which is to defend the MacTier Cup, to meet the U. N. B. team at Windsor station. Sir Frederick Williams Taylor's communication included a subscription of 3100 toward expenses and this donation was heartily applauded.

The team is expected to go in good physical shape, with Chip Seeley being the only regular on the sidelines.

Pro Hockey Teams Are Straining At Leash For The Opening Gun

DESPATCHES at current writing would seem to indicate that our young friend, "Joe" Lamb, of Sussex, has a fairly good chance to be taken on the line-up of the Ottawa Senators. There was a feeling hereabouts that the boy was too young and unaccustomed to the style of play among professionals to be able to catch on this year but the opinion was also expressed that if given a fair chance to gain some experience, the Sussex lad would make good. The regular defence of the Senators will be Clancy and Boucher with Ed Gorman, Smith and Lamb as reserves. The Senators will need at least three reserves for defence and as Lamb has shaped up well, there is a growing feeling that he will remain. Saint John is deeply interested in hockey just at present in view of Sussex's reported decision to stay out and if Lamb does not stay with the Senators but comes back to his native province, he may appear in a Saint John uniform. Always, provided Sussex stays out of the game this year. By the way, when is that meeting to be held in Moncton? The entire hockey destiny for the province is wrapped up in that meeting and time is slipping by quickly. December almost is on us and not even a schedule drawn up yet. Someone should get a move on and stir things up. Nor is the present inopportune for the discussion of plans for a local City Hockey League. If we cannot get the seniors out, let us get the juniors going and start some kind of a foundation for hockey in this city.

Along The Sport Trail

N. H. L. TEAMS are out daily now getting ready for the season. St. Pats turned out thirteen men for their first practice. "Babe" Dye was elected captain. Apparently, the boys were not superstitious.

THE biggest junior league in basketball circles in many years opens proceedings in the Y. M. C. I. tonight when the M. R. A. team meets the Nationals A. C., both newly-formed teams. This is an item of more than ordinary interest in local sport circles not because of the fact that it is the biggest league in years but principally because of the fact that we have a junior league at all. It's a fine big cauldron now with a seething, indistinguishable mass boiling things up but when the net is spread and the drainage for senior players takes place not many years hence we can see where this city will still be able to rule the basketball roost in these parts, as it has done ever since that McGill doctor invented the game. There are fourteen teams entered and according to the experts on each team, there will be fourteen winners if we are to believe all of them. The league will do the city and the boys good because it is organized. A few nights ago, we stood on Pitt street and watched a gang of juniors play rugby. The dividing line was the street car track and the goal line was the gutter while the scrim consisted of two hard-boiled guys. 25 goals constituted the made. We saw more forward passes than the Imperial hands out and we glimpsed more interference than an amateur official ever dreamed about. The boys had about as much organization as a Bolshevik meeting but they sure had the right spirit.

MONCTON wants to know why Mr. Joseph Woods' election to the president of the amateur hockey section is objectionable to Mr. Stirling. The reason is that Mr. Woods is classed as a pro. under amateur rules through his connection with the Moncton rink. It would be rather bad taste to have rink managers running amateur hockey.

Here are some of the world series heroes pursued by a Jinx. The two latest are Eddle Moore and Car son Bigbee of the Pittsburg Pirates. It was Eddie's homer that won one game, while Bigbee's double in the final game tied the score and enabled the Pirates to win. In 1923 Casey Stengel's homers won two games for the Giants and that fall he was sent to the Boston Braves. Mogridge was a tower of strength to the Senators, but soon after was traded to St. Louis. Then, there was Jess Barnes, pitching hero of the 1924 series, who was rudely shipped off to Boston soon after EDMONTON, Nov. 13—It is now expected that Edmonton will keep its professional hockey team this winter. The decision of Manager Mackenzie to keep his Eskimos in Edmonton instead of moving the team to Regina, is contingent upon the sum of $10,000 being raised through the advance sale of tickets by noon on Saturday, but as 70 per cent. of this amount has already been pledged, the objective is in sight.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13—One of the features of the workouts of the Canadien hockey players, holders of the National League title, has been the showing of the forward line. Morenz, Boucher and Joliat have been flashing over the ice, with all the old-time dash and punch which made them such a powerful trio in recent seasons. Billy Boucher has added a fair amount of weight in the off season, despite the fact that he kept in good condition all summer. The extra poundage should prove an asset to the quick-scoring right wing player, especially when at close quarters on the opposing goal. Mantha and Coutu have been teaming on the defence, the former taking the place left vacant by the sale of Sprague Cleghorn to Boston. Leduc, the local amateur, who signed with Canadiens last spring, is the sub-defence man. Montreal Maroons' practice yesterday had all the earmarks of a regular game, and provided some 800 spectators with plenty of thrills as the two sides battled. # JAS. B. DUKE USED WITS TO GET SNUFF

Old Makers Thought They Sold Him Skimmed Milk, But He Showed Them

The best business story about James R. Duke is one I heard long ago from that veteran snuff manufacturer in Philadelphia, Henry D. Moore, of Haddenfield, N. J., says "Girard" in a recent issue of "The Philadelphia In-

Min Moore had made a snug fortune dimself out of snuff, but Duke made a bigger one at the very time most of its imagined that snuff, like powdered tair and periwigs, was dead as bathing suit skirts for the beauties.

A considerable part of the $40,000,000 which Duke gave to create a huge university in North Carolina came from what he called the "skimmed milk," sathered from Philadelphia snuff factories.

Duke a Trust Builden.
In those haleyon trust-forming days about two decades ago, Duke was the leader in putting tobacco in a trust.
For a century or more Philadelphia had led the country in production of muff. Such names as Levi Garrett, Henry D, Moore, Alexander Ralph, Sinnott and others had for years stood first in that peculiar branch of the tobacco industry.

Industry.

There were secrets in the compounding of snuff which were for generations handed down from father to son. I know of one case in Lancaster where such a secret was the most valuable asset in a considerable estate.

So it was natural that when James B. Duke was putting a collar and bridle but the tobacco business he should come to Philadelphia to harness our snuff factories.

He made an offer to buy them. The mice was agreed upon, but when Duke suggested that the Philadelphia snuff men accept three-quarters of their pay in common stock and three-quarters in 6 per cent. preferred.

That bargain having been made, Mr. Moore said that Duke assumed a rather injured air.

"You Philadelphians," said he, "have taken all the cream off this snuff industry and left only skimmed milk for the rest of us."

Then he added cheerfully: "Now I must go out and hustle around and see if I cannot raise a little more cream on that milk."

Did he do it? At the time Mr. Moore was telling the story it was already a joke worth millions at the expense of himself and his Philadelphia associates.

That skimmed milk in the hands of Duke had magically turned to rich cream. The quarter in pay which had been made in common stock was worth more than the three-quarters pay taken in preferred.

As Duke and the American Tobacco of the common was worth to over $20,000,000.

Company organizers, including Mr. Widener, had that common stock, they had profited in proportion.

When the trust was formed Duke and twidener each had one-twelfth of the entire common stock—$40,000,000 par value in the American Tobacco Company.

That was really all good will, as it were. It represented a bonus given to those who had financed the bond issues and the preferred stock issue.

But when the Supreme Court smashed the trust each of those one-twelfth sections of Tobacco common was worth to over $20,000,000.

I said this stock was good will, but really it was far more than that. It was the symbol of future earning power of the concerns which comprised the trust.

Manufactured tobacco has today grown so big that the original $40,000,000 of common stock is absurdly small.

America this year will. make and smoke over 70,000,000,000 cigarettes.

This is ten times the amount made when Duke saw visions of rainbows stretching over thousands of tobacco plantations. I said this stock was good will, bu

And, of course, cigars, snuff and pipe tobacco have also expanded greatly, al-though less rapidly than cigarettes.

CENSORING HEADQUARTERS

The New Brunswick Board of Censors is therefore the first to view films coming into the Maritime Provinces, although the Ontario and Quebec prints of pictures passed on to this territory already bear the labels of the censor by a fas in these upper provinces in addition to the original vise of the National Board of Review of the United States Government, which examines all pictures as they come from the laboratories, In other words moving pictures shown in Saint John are censored three times before they are shown here and are afterwards re-viewed by Censor O'Connor of Nova Scotia. Prince Edward Island is satisfied with New Brunswick's judgment in the matter.
