SYNOD OPENS SESSIONS IN FREDERICTON

Large Gathering of Clergy of Diocese and Goodly Lay Representation at Opening Meeting Yesterday.

DISCUSS KING'S COLLEGE.

Special to The Standard.
Fredericton, Nov. 7.—The annual session of the Diocesan Synod of Fredericton opened here this morning auspiciously with a large gathering of the clergy of the diocese as well as a large representation of the laity. The first day was a busy one, several important matters coming up for consideration. His Lordship Bishop Richardson presided, and on the platform were, Very Rev. Dean Schofield, Archdeacons Forsythe and Raymond, Canons, Hoy, Hammington, Cowie, and Neale with Chancellor Dr. T. C. Allen. Rev. Canon Powell of Windsor was invited by the bishop to a seat on the platform.
The whole afternoon was devoted to a discussion of King's College, Windsor, its past, present and future and the relationship of the diocese with that of the sister province as regards what steps should be taken to sustain the existence and support of the ancient institution. The governors of King's College asked for $125,000 to put the institution in good financial position and the entire assistance of the Fredericton diocese to help them raise this amount, claiming that the college is as beneficial to New Brunswick as to Nova Scotia. The synod seemed to be in harmony with respect to giving every aid possible to the movement for raising funds, the only difference of opinion arising as to the action that should be taken. Rev. Canon Powell spoke eloquently in behalf of King's College, and it was evident his remarks made a deep impression. When he and Mr. Harris (the latter secretary of the extension movement) had finished their addresses, Canon Smithers followed with a resolution pledging the sympathy of the diocese to the movement. G. O. Dickson, City and the Very Rev. Dean Schofield in strong speeches claimed that the time had come when if the diocese took any definite action, it should do so and not meddle with the question any longer.

RAILWAYS WANT MORE MONEY FOR MAINT.

Considered at Afternoon Session of Railway Commission and Sheld'g Till Late in January.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—The most important application to come up at this afternoon's session of the railway commission, was the consideration of the question of remuneration to be paid railway companies for carrying the Canadian mails. The original contracts with the railways were nearly all made many years ago, that of the Canadian Pacific Railway being executed in 1885 and with the Grand Trunk Railway much earlier.
Since then the railways claim the increase in mails has been one of about 800 per cent, while the train service has increased 400 per cent. The remuneration they consider, should increase along the same scale. A large amount of the country's money is thus involved.
When the case was called, F. H. Osborne, of the justice department, asked for a postponement until Jan. 23, which was granted.

PROTEST CONTEST OF LAURIER'S ELECTION

Fyled Exception with Mr. Justice Laurendeau in Practice Court — Mr. Etherier's Grounds for Contest.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—Athanasie David, of Elliott and David, appeared before Mr. Justice Laurendeau in the practice court this afternoon on behalf of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and filed a preliminary objection to the contestation of the election of the ex-premier in Louisiana. The merits of the charges brought by Benjamin Etherier, the plaintiff, were not treated in the exception filed, which in general declared that the charges were vague and pointed out that the plaintiff had not complied with all the formalities demanded by law in entering the contestation proceedings.
Mr. Etherier will have a chance to reply to the exception after which the case will be argued on its merits. The charges against Sir Wilfrid Laurier are in general that the electors were corrupted by the distribution of free meals, refreshments, etc.
That Sir Wilfrid or his agents re-

END OF MANCHU DYNASTY NEAR

Little Hope of Even Nominal Throne -- Small Danger of Attack on Foreigners -- Court Prepared to Flee -- Viceroy of Nanking Suicides -- Rebels Gain Ground.

DR. WU'S REVELATION.

Pekin, Nov. 7.—The legation considers that the end of the Manchu dynasty is imminent. There seems no hope of saving even a nominal throne. The provinces north of the Yang-Tze, the only force of Manchu troops large enough to cope with the local situation, are now declaring for a republic. The only force of Manchu troops large enough to cope with the local situation, are now declaring for a republic. The only force of Manchu troops large enough to cope with the local situation, are now declaring for a republic.
Where the court will take refuge is a question. There are evidences that the court intended to proceed to Chang Kia Kan (Kaigan). Troops are being ordered to that town, which lies in the province of Chi-Li, 125 miles northwest of Peking, were expected to dynamite the tunnel after the passage of the train bearing the emperor and his household. Reports have now been received that Chang Kia Kan is unsafe.
The national assembly is holding meetings without a quorum, but certain members are endeavoring to maintain a nucleus. Na-Tung, vice-president of the privy council, has taken rooms for his family in a hotel in the legation quarter. Prince Ching's palace seems to be deserted. It is believed that he is in the Forbidden City.
American soldiers with a supply of sky rockets were sent to each outlying mission compound tonight. The legation has advised the Americans to come into the quarters or seek other places of safety. A concerted attack upon the foreigners is feared, but there are many within the city who are opposed to foreigners.
Gen. Chang Siao-Tsen, who was appointed by imperial edict, as envoy to proceed to the Yang-Tze province to conciliate the people, has declined the appointment, saying that he preferred to remain at his own post at Lanchow. The third Changshun division which halted at Lanchow for a day, is being sent to Peng-Tai, near Peking. A trainload of arms and ammunition from Lanchow has already been shipped to Peng-Tai. It is believed that the third division is acting under Gen. Chang's orders.
The government proposed today to cut the Peking-Tientsin railway beyond Peking to prevent additional troops from arriving. It is understood that the British minister, Sir John

THE DANGER OF SPREADING FALSE NEWS

Sir Edward Grey Scores Sensational Newspapers — International Complications Arising from Such Reports.

London, Nov. 7.—The Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Sir Edward Grey, took occasion in the House of Commons today to read the so-called sensational press homily on the danger of spreading false news. "Some of these days," he remarked, "if false news continues to be reported, public resentment and excitement will get beyond the control of the government concerned."
The incidents which called for these remarks were an alleged interview with the British Ambassador at Vienna, and an alleged passage in the speech of Home Secretary McKenna, both strongly criticizing Germany. The foreign minister explained that neither the ambassador nor McKenna had been guilty of the alleged indiscretions, but before this was known in Germany, the incidents had been construed as a direct public international affront which had given rise to great resentment and called forth a request for explanation from the German minister.
"There had been," he continued, "a tendency on the part of the newspapers of Great Britain and Germany to put a sinister construction upon the actions taken by the British and German governments respectively in different parts of the world."
Received money from certain camps for the furtherance of their agents; that Sir Wilfrid or his agents carried out a direct public international affront which had given rise to great resentment and called forth a request for explanation from the German minister.

SINISTER INTERPRETATION.

London, Nov. 7.—The Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Sir Edward Grey, took occasion in the House of Commons today to read the so-called sensational press homily on the danger of spreading false news. ## BILL FOR MANHOOD SUFFRAGE.

London, Nov. 7.—Premier Asquith announced this afternoon that the government intended to introduce a manhood suffrage bill at the next session of parliament.

ARABS AND ISRAELIS AFFRAY

Several Collisions During the Last Few Days—Akabab Bombarded by Italians—Turkish Gunboat Sunk.

Tunis, Nov. 7.—Groups of Italians and Arabs came into collision today and a desperate affray ensued. It required strenuous efforts on the part of the whole police force reinforced by detachments of troops to restore order and this was only accomplished after a large number had been killed or wounded on both sides. In addition a police sergeant was killed and several of his men were badly hurt.
Constantinople, Nov. 7.—An Italian cruiser bombarded the town of Akabab (Arabia) on Sunday, sinking the Turkish gunboat Italdj, which was lying in port. The second officer of the gunboat was killed, but the others of the crew escaped. Subsequently, the cruiser shelled the hilly portion of the town. The damage is not stated. Before sinking, the gunboat returned the cruiser's fire. Though not so stated in the despatch from Constantinople, the town meant to be evidently Akabab, a fortified village of Arabia on the east side of the Gulf of Akabab, near its northern extremity. The Gulf of Akabab is the eastern horn of the Red sea, and the significance of the despatch is that it indicates that the Italians, meeting with unexpected opposition in Tripoli, have carried out their threat to attack the enemy's actual country in the Red Sea.
Paris, Nov. 7.—A Tripoli despatch from an Italian source says that the Italian advance began today. A turning movement was executed and the Hamedieh fort was occupied. The force today does not claim that the Turkish troops have re-occupied Derna. An official telegram from that quarter, however, reports that the Turks won a big victory over the Italians, 500 of the latter being killed and 18 guns and large quantities of ammunition and provisions being captured. The party has despatched a messenger to the governor of Italy's Cyrenaica, setting forth Turkey's determination to resist.

U. S. SENDS CRUISER.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—Friends of Dr. Wu Ting Fang, when they read today that the former minister from China to the United States had been chosen minister for foreign relations with considerable interest a spiritualistic seance in which he took part here two years ago, when the events of the past few weeks were foretold to a marked degree. Dr. Wu's penchant for investigation, while he was king had ordered him not to attend a seance at which the "Medium" conveyed him messages from the Spirit world.

NUMBER OF INDIANS IS INCREASING

Report of Department of Indian Affairs Explodes Theory that Red Man is Disappearing Gradually.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—The report of the department of Indian affairs issued today for the year ending March 31 estimates the Indian population of the Dominion at 108,261 of whom 4,600 are Eskimos. The increase of births over deaths during the year was 346, showing that the prevalent idea that the Indian is gradually disappearing is not sustained by the facts.
The Indian population by provinces is—
Alberta, 2,688; British Columbia, 24,581; Manitoba, 6,104; Nova Scotia, 2,026; New Brunswick, 1,892; Prince Edward Island, 292; Ontario, 22,496; Quebec, 11,482; Saskatchewan, 9,439; Northwest Territory, 12,625; Ungava, 1,246; Yukon, 3,500; Eskimos, 4,600.

PORTUGUESE POSSESSION IN 'REVOLT'

Lisbon, Nov. 7.—Serious news is received daily from Angola, the Portuguese possession in western Africa. A revolt among the natives is spreading rapidly and they are burning and pillaging everything in their path. In this region of the Caecero and Casal, warlike tribes attacked the sea, and massacred a number of Europeans after subjecting them to terrible tortures.

BOSTON HUNTERS LUCKY IN MAINE

Harold Archey Gets the largest Buck Brought Down This Season in Maine Woods.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 7.—About 25 deer were received here today on the trains from the game regions. One of the finest bucks seen here this season was brought down by Harold W. Archey of Boston and weighed 235 pounds, the largest of the year so far.
O. J. Kallach, of Boston had two deer, C. F. Lanchon, of Boston one. A deer was tagged to E. B. White of Taunton, Mass.
Maine hunters with deer were J. E. Rounds of Ellsworth Falls; James Malone, Richard Martin, T. C. White and P. H. Pickett, of Bangor.
Hunters report that the woods are still hard and still hunting practical, if impossible. Tonight a heavy storm is moving north which will probably bring snow and improve conditions.

PASTOR WHO MARRIED COL. ASTOR RESIGNS

Providence, R. I., Nov. 7.—Because of the criticism resulting from his marrying Col. John Jacob Astor and Miss Madeline T. Force, at Newport on September 9, Rev. Joseph Lambert has resigned as pastor of the Elmwood Temple (Congregational), of this city and will leave the ministry to go into business. Although the church has not as yet accepted his resignation, Mr. Lambert says that he will insist upon it doing so. His retirement will be considered by the church at a meeting on November 18.

NO COMMISSION FOR CHELSEA

Voters Against That Form of Government -- Governor Foss Returned -- Socialists Carry Day in Shenectady -- Baptist Minister Mayor -- Tamany Maintains Supremacy in New York.

New York, Nov. 7.—The results of the municipal elections today point to a Republican victory in most quarters, while Schenectady for the first time in its history returned a Socialist majority to the civic offices, with a Baptist minister as mayor. The role of Tammany Hall remains unshaken in New York state, where Republicans were in the majority. Returns from Providence at midnight indicate a victory for the Republicans who had a majority in the part of the state heard from by midnight. Governor Pothier, a native of Quebec, was returned to office apparently by a greatly increased plurality. With 108 out of 184 voting precincts heard from the vote was: Pothier, 21,119; Waterman, Democrat, 16,533.
The same district last year gave Pothier 18,850, Waterman 18,119. The Republican gains extended into the general assembly where the Republican majority of last year has been augmented apparently so that the Democratic representation will be very slight. Indications at midnight were that the Senate would be solidly Republican.
New York, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Returns received up to midnight from throughout the State on the Assembly election indicate that the complexion of that body will be as follows:—Republicans, 100; Democrats, 49; Socialist, 1. This would mean a net gain of 37 seats for the Republicans, and give them a majority of 56. In New York City election for local offices, Tammany Hall maintained its supremacy, but lost many votes to the Republican Fusion forces.
Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Hiram H. Edgerton, Republican, was elected mayor of Rochester today for the third time by about 6,500 plurality. He carried with him the entire city ticket. The Republicans have 19 of 22 seats in the common council, Munroe county also went Republican and will send a solid delegation to the assembly.
Plattsburg, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Andrew G. Senecal, Democrat, was re-elected mayor of Plattsburg and all six of the Democratic aldermen were elected.
Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Republicans made practically a clean sweep in Buffalo and Erie county today. The principal candidates on the city ticket were elected by pluralities ranging from 2,500 to 16,000. In the upper house all five Republican candidates were elected and in the board of aldermen the result is, Republicans, 18; Democrats, 4. Republican gains of 18 seats in the city council were made. At a meeting of the board of supervisors, Rev. Dr. George R. Lann, pastor of the United People's church, and editor of the Citizen a socialist weekly, was elected mayor by a plurality of 1,999, or practically two thirds of the total vote polled.
Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Cleveland which two years ago went Republican electing Herman C. Baehr mayor over the late Tom L. Johnson, today returned to the Democratic field, electing Newton D. Baker, Tom Johnson's political heir, mayor over Frank C. Hogen, Republican, by about 18,000 majority. The entire Democratic city ticket was won with the exception of five councilmen.

CAMBRIDGE KEEPS COMMISSION.

On the face of the returns from 94 out of 1,070 election districts the Democrats won the state election today and kept Massachusetts in the party column by continuing Governor Eugene Foss in office for a second term. The returns gave Foss, Democrat, 187,653; Frothingham, Republican, 177,074. Last year the same district gave Foss 201,224, Draper, Republican, 167,497.
It is years since Massachusetts has had an election in which the result was so hot in doubt, as in the contest that was fought in the old bay state today. The early returns were decidedly in favor of the Republicans and the party leaders and many of the newspapers declared for several hours that L. G. Foss, Democrat, had won over Gov. Louis A. Frothingham, the Democratic candidate for a second term by a plurality estimated variously from 10,000 to 40,000. But as additional returns rolled in from city and country, the Republican lead dwindled until at midnight it had settled upon the fact that the Democrats had won by a plurality of 10,000. The late returns were in favor of the Democrats and the party leaders and many of the newspapers declared for several hours that L. G. Foss, Democrat, had won over Gov. Louis A. ### Inauguration of Madero and Cabinet

Mexico City, Nov. 6.—A new ruler sits on the throne of Diaz and the reign of Christian Socialism, embodied in Francisco I. Madero, has begun in Mexico. Standing before the president of the chamber of deputies at 11 this morning, the leader of the recent revolution swore to protect the constitution and the Mexican people. With the last words of his oath, a solitary gun at the artillery barracks, a mile across the city, boomed out twenty-one salutes, two hundred thousand voices took up the cry "Viva Madero!" "Viva El Presidente!" just as on hundreds of other occasions they had taken it up for Diaz. According to custom established by Diaz, Madero left his home in the Colonia Juarez at 10 a. m., garbed in the conventional "dress suit" worn in daylight functions by the men of higher Mexican society. Madero rode in a gaudily decorated coach, covered with the red and green and white of the national colors from his home down the "Calle de la Reforma, into the Avenida Juarez, thence down Avenida San Francisco to the national palace. The president-elect was accompanied by his brother, Gustavo Madero, and his uncle, Ernesto Madero, minister of finance. Then came in long procession the numerous members of the Madero family, all sure of jobs under the new government, and all eager to be in at the crowning of the new dictator. Senora Sara Perez de Madero, wife of the president-elect, was in the parade. She has followed his fortunes, always at his side, since the beginning of the Mexican revolt when Madero was imprisoned in the penitentiaries of Monterrey and San Luis Potosi, and to her more than to any other factor is due the success which crowned the little leader today. Arrived at the palace Madero ran, rather than walked, up the stone steps, which Diaz trod so often. Then the procession moved to the chamber of deputies. The chamber was packed to capacity. Madero passed up the steps on a carpet of flowers thrown at his feet by admiring friends, passed down the crimson carpet to the raised dias at the end of the sloping floor, and stood before the president of the chamber of deputies. Slowly the chief of the lower house of congress pronounced the oath, and in a voice scarcely above a whisper, Madero replied: "I promise."

"This may you do," came the reply from the head of the deputies, "and the nation will reward you; but if you fail, she will ask of you an accounting."

YOU CAN'T CURE CATARRH BY SWALLOWING DRUGS. Cough Syrup, Tablets and Sprays Sicken the Stomach But Don't Reach the Germs of Catarrh—Hence Their Failure to Help.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no remedy has ever achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhose, which alone can be breathed in one second at every cell of the breathing organs. The healing vapors of "Catarrhose" mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich pine essences that ease, heal and cure.

Catarrhose has entirely displaced the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, sprays, tablets, and sedative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and drowsy narcotics so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrhal remedies. "Catarrhose" Cured. "No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago," writes Mr. G. E. Root, a well known resident of Bridgetown, W. I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhose gave me a little relief, so I continued to use Catarrhose every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhose quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhose, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhose lasts two months price $1.00; smaller sizes, 50c and 25c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

The attendance was large and the tea and sale proved a success. The president of the guild, Miss Dole, assisted by the ladies had charge of the entertainment.

On returning from the island he will visit the St. Peter's high tea. A joint reception will be tendered the visitors in the evening in the rooms of Division 1 by the divisions of the order. THOUGHT COLD WOULD TURN INTO CONSUMPTION. LEFT LUNG GOT VERY SORE, HEART DID NOT FEEL ANY TOO GOOD. Mr. Robert McLarnon, Shawville Que., writes:—"I am writing to tell you an experience I had with a bad cold and a bottle of your valuable medicine. I was up in the lumber camps teaming horses, and I caught a very bad cold. I thought it was going to turn into consumption, for my left lung got very sore, and my heart did not feel any too good. I came home and tried some different remedies but they did me no good. A friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I tried it, and when I had taken two bottles my cold was gone. I think it is a great remedy, and will advise any one with a cold to use it. I can't praise it enough."

WED, HIRE FLAT AND TELEPHONE HOME

Ralph Taylor and Miss Helen Smalley, of Plainfield, N. J., Spring Surprise on Their Families.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 7.—While Newton B. Smalley, mayor of North Plainfield, N. J., and Mrs. Smalley were attending the Princeton-Harvard football game at Princeton on Saturday their daughter, Miss Helen Smalley and Ralph Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ralph Taylor, of Grant Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., were married in New York city. Information concerning the marriage was received by Clarence Smalley, brother of the bride, through a telegram from the bridegroom, which read, "Helen and I were married today. Will write later." Later a telephone message to the Smalley home conveyed the information that Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are residing in an apartment in Daily Avenue, the Bronx. Saturday morning Miss Smalley told her parents that she and Mr. Taylor were going to West Point to see the football game, but there was not a hint of marriage. Neither the bride's parents nor those of the bridegroom are pleased over the affair. The families expected the marriage to take place in the spring, but they regret the way in which their children took matters into their own hands. Mr. Taylor is 29 years old and is employed in a wholesale silk house in New York. His bride recently celebrated her 21st birthday. Horse in Trouble. Last evening a horse owned by J. Reid of Fairville, escaped from his barn and ran away. After a brisk hunt along Protection street the horse ran amuck on the trestle work at Sand Point. The animal's feet became entangled in the trestle and despite desperate efforts the horse could not free itself, and the endeavors of a number who gathered around the struggling animal were without avail. Finally an alarm was sent in from box 117, which brought the fire apparatus to the scene. The firemen went to work with ropes, and after a short time rescued the horse from its predicament. Except for a few scratches sustained in struggling to free itself the horse was unharmed.

WRINKLELESS SKIN NOW EASY TO HAVE

(From Family Physician.) There's no excuse for any woman having wrinkles now. It has been found that a simple mixture of saxolite and witch hazel has a remarkable action upon the deepest wrinkles, no matter what their nature, whether caused by worry, habitual frowning, a debilitated condition or the ravages of Father Time. This harmless remedy, which anyone can easily make, restores the ingredients at any drug store, acts both as an astringent and a tonic. The combined effect of tightening the skin and heightening its vitality is to immediately affect every line and wrinkle, keeping the cuticle smooth and firm as in youth. The proportions are one ounce saxolite (powdered) to one-half pint witch hazel. The solution should be used as a wash lotion. It is equally effective in disposing of flabbiness of cheek and neck, as well as sagging below the eyes.

New York, Nov. 7.—Three retired seamen who sat outside the tobacco store at the foot of Brooklyn Heights yesterday afternoon had nothing but words of disparagement for the wooden Indian who stood with one foot advanced in a deferential and listening attitude beside them. It was the opinion of all three ex-sailors that the Indian was a poor creature.

NO ALUM MAGIC BAKING POWDER

But while his business was fine and he got into real estate and other things making a lot of money for those days, the lady brought him disaster at last. One of the young women of the town looked a good deal like the statue, and as she had made up her mind apparently that she just was going to be married to my mate, she studied the figurehead, did up her hair as the lady's was done, and wore the same kind of dress. Soon everyone remarked on her likeness to the statue and you could see that people were beginning to expect him to marry her. My mate who suspected the young woman of designs on his peace held out as long as he dared against her arts, maintaining that she didn't resemble the figurehead at all. But public opinion was too strong against him. She bossed him from the hour of the wedding and he died rich but under strict discipline and very unhappy.

DOMINION REPRESENTATION.

The Winnipeg Telegram is not disposed to permit the Maritime Provinces to maintain their present representation at Ottawa and apparently will do whatever it can to prevent any amendment to the British North America Act having this end in view. Expressing its deep sympathy with the Maritime Provinces because of the slowness of their growth, as compared with Western Canada, the Telegram also expresses the opinion that in seeking to prevent a reduction of their representation in the House of Commons, the Premier of the Maritime Provinces are undertaking to cure a manifestation of disease rather than the disease itself, and thinks "it would be dangerous to open the question of representation as it might establish a precedent which would cause perpetual embarrassment." The Telegram is a "stand-patter" on the British North America Act.

It would be a poor constitution indeed that could not stand amendment without danger of collapse when the change is a just one. The Telegram forgets that a tremendous change took place on May 11th, 1870, when the Dominion of Canada, then composed of Upper and Lower Canada, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, paid the Hudson Bay Company £200,000 to secure their rights in Rupert's Land. There was no Northwest when the original Confederation was formed, and it is due to the vast increase in the territory of the Dominion and the subsequent admission of British Columbia with an area greater than that of the three Maritime Provinces, that the Maritime Province representation at Ottawa is decreasing and will continue to decrease after each decennial census. It is a strange thing that on entering Confederation, all of the Western Provinces were secured a minimum representation at Ottawa, while no such security was accorded to any of the Eastern Provinces, with the exception of Quebec. The policy adopted for the West was altogether different from that applied to the East. In this respect the constitution of Canada certainly requires amendment.

The Telegram says that one reason why the young men of the East have emigrated to the West is that for fifteen years the Maritime Provinces have suffered "from the effects of a paternal policy which left them dependent upon bounties and the Dominion Government favors rather than upon their own resources." This is rather amusing considering the millions that have been expended by Federal Governments for many years past to bring population from every quarter of the globe to settle the prairies of the West. Whatever of paternalism there has been in Canada, has been for the development of the West. Nine-tenths of the Federal expenditure for railroads has either been in the West or for the purpose of moving the products of the West to tide water for export. The whole effort of the Government at Ottawa has been to populate the West, and it is only in recent years pamphlets to make any reference to the Maritime Provinces at all.

In such a condition of affairs it is rather amusing to be told by a Winnipeg newspaper that "the Maritime Provinces must henceforth go ahead under their own steam," and that "paternalism has been the real drawback to the Maritime Provinces." It is a mistake to suppose, as the Telegram does, that the Maritime Provinces have not increased in population since Confederation. With the exception of Prince Edward Island which has 15,000 less people than in 1881, there has been an increase. In Nova Scotia and New Brunswick there are 140,000 more people than when they entered Confederation. Compared with the growth of the West, this is comparatively small, but it furnishes a complete answer to the statement of the Telegram, that the Maritime Provinces are seeking to maintain a fixed parliamentary representation in the face of a steadily declining population.

The Maritime Provinces are simply demanding justice from the other Provinces of the Dominion. They are asking no favors but only what the other Provinces have themselves. It is possible for every Province in Canada with the exception of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, to increase its present boundaries and therefore increase its representation at Ottawa. Indeed one of the contentions of the Maritime Province Premier is that a principal cause of their loss of representation is due to the enlargement of the Province of Quebec since Confederation. It is a matter of surprise that a newspaper in a province like Manitoba, which owes its very existence to the patriotism and National sentiment of the East, should stand in the way of justice being done to those who have worked so hard for the development of a "Greater Canada."

There is no feeling of jealousy in the East at the magnificent development of the West, but there is a strong feeling in the East that the representation at Ottawa should not be decreased any further by the populating of that great and growing country.

CANADIAN WHEAT THE BEST.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, offered a prize of $1,000 for the best wheat, sown or summer grown, on either continent of America, to be awarded at the Great Land Show now in progress at Madison Square Garden, New York. This show, which is the first of its kind ever held, is attracting thousands of visitors, and includes exhibits of what the land produces, gathered from every section of the American continent. There were many exhibits of wheat and fruit, Canada being well represented in every department of agriculture.

The judges appointed to award the prize offered by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy were all distinguished men, but none of them were Canadians. The committee was composed of Mr. C. G. Williams, Agronomist at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station; Professor Alfred Atkinson, of the Montana Agricultural College, and Professor W. M. Jardine of the Kansas State Agricultural College, and unanimously concurred in the official statement that Canada raises the best wheat in the world. "The grower of the world-beating wheat was Mr. Seager Wheeler of Rossan, Saskatchewan. Another Canadian, Mr. W. I. Glass of Macleod, Alberta, was the alternate.

Everybody believed that Canada was growing some pretty good wheat but for a Canadian to gather in a magnificent prize in competition with producers from such a vast territory—practically world-wide—is an honor hardly expected. It is an endorsement of the main product of our Great West and affords abundant proof of the particular adaptability of the climate and soil of Western Canada to the production of the grain which is the mainstay of existence for those who dwell in the great cities of the Mother Land and continental Europe. Such an endorsement cannot but increase the demand for Canadian wheat—the best in the world—among the consumers of this cereal. It comes at a particularly good time, as Canada is only beginning to have a place among the wheat exporting countries of the world, great as her progress in this direction has been.

THE LAYMAN'S OPPORTUNITY.

A trumpet call to the laymen of the diocese to more fully realize their responsibilities and take a deeper and more practical interest in the well being of their church is the key note of the charge delivered by His Lordship the Bishop of Fredericton at the annual meeting of the Anglican Synod, and printed elsewhere in this issue. In many ways Bishop Richardson's address is a notable pronouncement, not only bringing forcibly before his people the needs of the diocese but affording much food for thought to churchmen of other denominations in the wide field of Christian endeavor.

There are abundant signs that this is the day of the layman's opportunity. The Men and Religion Forward Movement which is sweeping over North America and the Laymen's Missionary Movement, in which New Brunswick is more particularly interested, are evidences of an awakening in things spiritual which cannot but have good and lasting results. The wide and undenominational scope of the Laymen's Movement is well expressed by the bishop in his charge. After referring to the Men's Congress, to be held in St. John from the 20th to the 22nd of this month, he says concerning the movement:

"It is not an organization, but an inspiration. It aims to awaken in the hearts and lives of laymen all through the world a sense of their responsibility for the Gospel of love in whose light they live. It invites the co-operation of all, but leaves all free to work along the lines to which they are pledged by principle and practice. It tries to bring to bear upon the common task of common Christianity the united impulses of a common faith. I see in it nothing from which to shrink, but, on the contrary, everything to welcome. I hope, therefore, that the Church of England will not fail to claim its full share in the coming Congress. Already, we have received much missionary help from the work which the movement has done, and I trust that, as the outcome of this Men's Congress, there will go through the diocese a new impulse of devotion to the work of 'missions'."

One of the most striking points in the Bishop's charge is his appeal for a higher standard of ministerial stipend. The laborer is worthy of his hire. This precept has a wide application and is too often lost sight of by laymen of all denominations. The statements quoted by Bishop Richardson showing the increased cost of living, and his reference to the increased wealth of the people, should be taken to heart by professing Christians everywhere. His summing up of the claims of the church is eminently practical when he says:

"This question of giving to the church is a spiritual question, and it is only an axiom of common sense to say that a man gets just as much from his religion as he puts for it. The Kingdom of God, like the Kingdoms of capital invested. My brothers, if the church is worth anything at all to you, it is worth paying for. If it is worth anything to you to have the church in your parish, with its preaching of the Gospel, and its ministrations of the Sacraments, then it is worth paying for. If there is any real meaning in religion, then it must have as its basal element the virtue of self-sacrifice."

GHOSTLY LEGALITIES.

It has just been adjudged in England that ghosts have no standing in the eyes of the law, but, as might be supposed, on the principle that writs being very unsubstantial and impermissible objects come under the provision "De minimis non curat lex." A London leaseholder, in defending a suit for non-payment of rent, pleaded that he had abandoned the leased premises because they were haunted by an "old, gray-headed man."

It was impossible, so it was claimed, to sleep in any of the bedrooms because of unearthly noises. One of the daughters of the house had her face slapped by an invisible hand. Brass rails were hurled across the room. There were pattering up and down the stairs. One night the dog was let loose and admitted into the house after the door had been forced open by some mysterious agency. As a result the family was reduced to a state of nerves which compelled it to move out of the house.

The judge before whom the case was tried held that ghosts could not be cited as an excuse for breaking a lease, but his decision seems to have been due in part to the fact that the only testimony adduced to prove the existence of the unearthly visitors was a letter by the mother of the family giving an account of its tribulations. Thus the way would still seem to be open for some ingenious lawyer to force a legal distinction between authenticated or real ghosts and uncorroborated or spurious ghosts.

Through the courtesy of the Globe, The Standard is enabled to give its readers the full text of Bishop Richardson's charge to the Anglican Synod, which first appeared in the Globe's columns yesterday.

Current Comment

(Stratford Beacon.)

The Des Moines plan of city government by commission is said to have already developed weaknesses. It is now proposed to introduce rotation of department members so as to make each member of the commission familiar with all the departments. There are objections made to this plan, however, it being contended that it would lead to rivalry in spending a city's money. There does not appear to be an inflexible system.

A statue has been erected to Robert G. Ingersoll, the famous agnostic, in Peoria, Illinois, where he lived for many years. What the inscription carved on it is we do not know, but his own words of faith, rather than his own statements of doubt, would suit it best: "In the night of death he sees a star, and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing."

(Montreal Gazette.)

A man in the United States has defined "politics" as "the business of making laws to worry business." Enough has happened in recent years to give point to the quip. The man in politics who thinks he sees votes in posing as a friend of the people is in his propositions quite as likely to be the enemy of those whose help he secures.

Many high-brow gentlemen are discussing in print the future of Canadian Liberalism. Meantime practical minds are concerned with its immediate past, particularly as exemplified in the state of the Federal departments.

A meeting was recently called in Toronto to "cultivate a civic spirit." The attendance promptly faded away when it was found that no liquor would be served.

The recent Dominion election cost the country $300,000. Still it was worth it.

OFFICERS WERE NOMINATED AT BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

Regular Session Held Yesterday When Considerable Business Was Transacted - Change in Method of Election of Officers Inaugurated - To Investigate Methods of Publicity Experts.

The regular meeting of the board of trade was held yesterday afternoon, and nominations for officers and members of the council for next year were made. Considerable interest in the nominations was manifested, and several suggestions which had apparently been carefully prepared were put in evidence. Apart from the nominations, and the change in the methods of election, the usual business of the board was not very engrossing.

Ask For New Warehouse.

A motion to ask the federal government to establish a frost proof warehouse on the West Side, was adopted and at the instance of W. S. Fisher a committee was appointed to make arrangements to send Secretary Anderson on a visit to other cities to inquire into the methods of publicity commissioning. After the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting the report of the council was received and approved.

Need of Facilities.

P. W. Wetmore, of Clements and Co., said they had a lease of the frost proof warehouse on the West Side. But its capacity was only 15,000 barrels, which was inadequate. He said something should be done to enlarge the storage facilities for potato shippers. The matter was referred to the council.

New Members.

Armstrong and Bruce and James Stratton were elected to membership. J. Hunter White moved that a change be made in the method of the annual election, providing that nominations be made for president, vice-president and ten members of the council at the annual meeting in December; every member to be furnished with ballot papers and the ballot box to remain open for an hour at the December meeting. H. C. Schofield seconded the motion. J. A. Likely moved in amendment that every member be allowed to vote at any time between examination and election day by handing or mailing their ballots to the secretary. E. G. Hutton seconded this.

A. H. Hainington objected to the amendment on the ground that it would throw too much on the secretary.

Ald. Potts thought the change proposed by J. A. Likely would enable somebody not desirable as a president to secure the office by canvassing the membership.

G. S. Fisher wanted to know what would happen if candidates nominated by members were not to be voted for before the December meeting.

Mr. Hatheway said that in such case the council could be empowered to receive nominations before the annual meeting.

J. A. Likely said his only object was to secure an interest in the proceedings of the board.

Large Attendance Needed. J. Hunter White said the amendment would defeat the object of the original motion—which was to bring out a large attendance at the annual meeting.

F. A. Dykeman suggested that a compromise might be effected by allowing members a limited number of proxies. S. Armstrong seconded this. The two amendments were voted down.

Before the original question was put changes were made providing that the president must have over half the votes cast, giving the council power to receive nominations in the event of the non-attendance of the November meeting refusing to serve.

The motion as amended was then put and carried. The text of the original motion was as follows:

Text of Motion. In accordance with my notice of motion at the October meeting of the Board, I would move: That all of that portion of section two of the by-laws after the words "election of officers" be stricken out, and the following substituted therefor:

Nominations for the offices of president, vice-president and ten members of the council shall be made at the regular general meeting of the Board in November, by those present at said meeting.

No member shall have the right to nominate more than one member of the office of president, one member of the office of vice-president, nor more than ten members for representation on the council.

The council shall cause to be sent by post to each member of the Board, not later than the Thursday prior to the date of the annual meeting, a ballot paper containing the names of all those nominated who are eligible for election, and if more than the requisite number for each office be nominated, a list for that office will therefore be voided.

Ballots must be deposited personally by members attending the annual meeting, a ballot box in the place of meeting being provided for that purpose.

The chairman upon calling the meeting to order shall declare the ballot box open, and it shall remain open for the receipt of ballots for one hour, when the chairman may then declare it closed.

S. W. MacKinnon suggested that a smoker be held in connection with the annual meeting, with the object of bringing out a large attendance; but no action was taken.

Advertising Committee. W. S. Fisher brought up the matter of giving more support to the advertising committee. He said the committee had reached the end of their resources. He called attention to the fact that Secretary Anderson had been on a visit to Ontario cities, and even to Winnipeg for the purpose of investigating the methods employed by other cities to secure new industries. The secretary had done excellent work, but the information he might acquire on such a trip would probably enable him to do better work. He moved that arrangements be made to send the secretary on such a trip.

A Live Wire. Ald. Potts said the Public Commissioner in Davenport, U. S. A. knew Mr. Fisher and called him a live wire. He thought St. John should have a publicity commission.

A. H. Hainington said he could no longer hope for new industries in St. John while they had the present system of taxation. New industries would go to Montreal and other places where they only had to pay taxes on real estate. "St. John has a peculiar system of taxes," he said, "it obtains nowhere else in the world unless it be in Halifax."

The motion to send the secretary on a trip to other cities was adopted. Ald. Potts called attention to the resolution of the Union of N. B. Municipalities regarding a change in the system of taxation, and moved that the Board of Trade rooms be kept open one evening in the week to give the citizens a chance to discuss the tax system.

The President—that can be arranged without a motion.

Nominations. Nominations for officers were then called for.

Ald. Potts nominated W. S. Fisher for president, but Mr. Fisher said it would be impossible for him to serve and nominated Mr. Estabrooks. Mr. Estabrooks said he had been in office for two years, and declined to run again. "One year should be enough," he said.

The result of the nominations followed. For president, J. Hunter White, H. C. Schofield, H. B. Schofield. For vice-president, J. H. Tilton, W. F. Durkin, A. F. Hays, J. W. Smith. For members of council: W. H. Thorne, R. T. Hayes, W. F. Hatheway, T. H. Estabrook, W. G. Cross, W. H. Barnaby, W. E. Foster, F. L. Potts, C. Allison, R. G. Murray, G. Kimball, L. P. D. Tilly, A. Malcolm, E. G. Elkin, C. B. Pidgeon, A. Wetmore, F.

Learn why PURITY FLOUR is unlike any other brand

PURITY FLOUR is unlike any other brand of flour. No two milling companies follow exactly the same process of milling. In fact, no two different brands of flour in the world are exactly alike in quality.

And here is another fact worth knowing: Every wheat berry contains both high-grade and low-grade portions.

The process of milling PURITY flour costs more than to mill ordinary flour. The low-grade portions are separated and excluded. PURITY is an ALL HIGH-GRADE, hard wheat flour. It has greater strength, greater absorption and greater expansion. It is a thirstier, more elastic flour. It drinks more water and expands into more loaves.

Use PURITY FLOUR for your next batch of bread. Count the loaves. You'll find you have made "MORE BREAD AND BETTER BREAD" from PURITY than when you've used an equal weight of weaker and cheaper flour.

"More bread and better bread"

IMAGINE, if you can, how much whiter, and more toothsome, and more nutritious, the bread made from such a HIGH-GRADE flour must be.

And can you imagine yourself enjoying the flaky pie-crust and the light, delicate cake?—your reward for using PURITY FLOUR.

When making pastry, please remember to add more shortening than required with ordinary flour—for on account of its extra strength, PURITY FLOUR requires more, shortening for best pastry-results.

Yes, PURITY FLOUR costs slightly more than ordinary flour. But use it once and you'll say it's worth more—much more—than the difference.

Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now.

Today at the matinee only the Nickel will show the baseball championship pictures for the last time. Great crowds saw this fine feature again yesterday in spite of the inclement weather. The new programme this change is as follows—The strong Eassey drama, Lost Years, one of the best things this company has turned out, the advance notices state. The Edison Co. will present one of Carolyn Wells' fine romances in "That Winning Smile," and also a farce of a tenement-house called "No Cooking Allowed." Melvin Vaniman Will Chase Storm Across The Atlantic

Daring Aviator Who Will Attempt to "Fly" Across the Ocean With a Dirigible Balloon--He Expects to Make the Trip in Four Days--How He Intends to Do It.

THE BIG DIRIGIBLE "AKRON" EMERGING FROM THE HANGAR.

BY MELVIN VANIMAN.

I'm not a daredevil now though I was once. I made two Arctic balloon trips, starting out 300 miles from civilization with only a donkey engine for motive power.

My wife is the greatest woman ever lived. She says that being the wife of the first man ever to cross the Atlantic in the air will more than make up for any worrying she may do while I am on the way.

The "Akron" is the first American balloon having rubber as a principal component of the envelope fabric. This fabric is practically gas tight. Tests have shown that the "Akron" will lose by leakage one per cent. of gas in ten days.

The "Akron" will lift a net cargo greater than her own weight. "Hydrolevator" is the new word you will hear hereafter. It is Vaniman's invention and the most important part of the "Akron" equipment. It takes the place of Wellman's lamented equilibrium, now cast on the junk heap.

Hydrolevator, Latin, means "water lifter" and that's what it is—a sort of long distance pump. "If we could invent a rigid balloon which would not allow gas to expand, the problem of air navigation would be solved," says Vaniman. "As it is, the sun by day expands the gas giving it much greater lifting power. At night the gas contracts and the balloon must throw ballast overboard or fall into the ocean."

Wellman's equilibrium consisted of a line strung in a line and dragged through the waves) was clumsy. Vaniman now proposes to fill the empty gasoline tanks, built under the floor of the car, with sea water, and also emergency tanks in case great expansion of gas occurs. The hydrolevator will do this. It consists of a series of six galvanized iron buckets, the cone-shaped bottom of one fitting into the neck of its neighbor, strung together and dropped into the sea and hoisted to the ship by a donkey engine. The buckets are emptied by hand.

The Akron has two sets of big propellers, quite close together, and may be turned by a lever so as to propel the ship up, down or straight ahead. The total of 280 horsepower, three engines, may be set to work turning the four propellers.

"My plan is this. You know storm centres pull the winds towards themselves. We will wait for a storm, wait until the storm centre has travelled a day out to sea, then put out and chase it."

"One storm centre I observed went 800 miles the first day, 1200 the next and the third day it was over Ireland. With our power and driven by winds, we ought to follow very close."

DIFFICULT TASK TO FORECAST FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS

New York, N. Y., Nov. 7.—With the football season drawing close toward the championship days the situation as regards the leading team is more in doubt than it has been in several seasons. Upset has followed upset so that no one appears as hard to forecast as the probable winner in the gridiron game as it does in baseball. This uncertainty is doing a lot for the popularity of the game from the standpoint of the general public, but it is working havoc with loyal college adherents who look always to see their team win the year's game by some rare feat, and the team that won its early games in clean cut fashion seldom failed to come right through to the end with victory.

For A CORSET COVER

ONCE in every little while we must replenish our underwear stock, and I am glad to offer today a pretty design in flowers and bows that I am sure you will like. The flowers are on the front only; the scallops are continued around the top of the back. You can place a little spray at the back, if you wish, by tracing a part of the design on the front.

Barred muslin, fine hainsook, durable lawn and fine cambric are good working materials for this smallest pattern. Allow one inch on the shoulder seams and an inch for the hem on each side of the front. Turn the flap back and work the two scallops that head the hem double.

Now work the flowers solid and use French knots for the slender stems and work the leaves solid. Use outlines stitches for the scattered dots in the design you will find are effective in solid or eyelid work. I would suggest the latter.

When working the bowknot, there are three ways that I wish to suggest to your quick fingers. You can outline the ribbon, going back over the stitches and whipping the outline into a cord. Now fill in the space between with tied stitches, quite close together, and do not draw the thread too tightly. These backstitches are fine for filling in, and you will find that they are nearly always used in French embroidery.

Another way is to fill in the bowknot with French knots. The third is the regular solid stitch that will go very quickly here, because the hand is narrow. Start the lines slightly, and a little padding before working will make the work relax in appearance.

Work the dots in eyelid work and trim the scallops after padding.

one half of front

Some women are omitting the eyelids and running embroidery and lace beading along the line, through which ribbon of linen tape is run. An additional edge of fine Valenciennes on the top and around the armholes gives a pretty finish.

If you wish, you can add Valenciennes lace to the space between the bow and the material after the ribbon is worked. These little touches add so much to the general effect that it pays to think of them.

The homemade corset cover lasts so very much longer than a bag one that you will find yourself forming the habit of making your own underwear. I cannot urge too strongly your acceptance of this pretty design.

A Handy Workbag

A PRETTY workbag is made with two fancy handkerchiefs, men's size, laid one on top of the other so as to have the eight corners separate.

Stitch across the corners of the uppermost handkerchief, running the line of stitching to the center. This will make four straight lines of stitching all the way across the bag and will also leave four open edges forming triangular pockets in which to put thread, scissors, needles, etc. Sew small rings at each point where the stitching meets the edge and run ribbon through these rings so the bag can be drawn up tight. The prettiest bags are made of a plain and a fancy handkerchief in contrasting colors. Have the ribbon long enough so the bag can be laid out flat on your lap when in use.

When finished

A HOMEMADE BEDSPREAD

DEIGHTFULLY clean and cool is a spread, covering a young girl's white enameled bed, which was made at home by the young lady's mother from two remnants of cretonne, one 4 1/2 yards, the other 2 yards in length.

The cretonne has a broad border of lovely full-blown yellow roses and green leaves on one side, and sprinkled over the white surface at stated intervals are little garlands of blossoms and leaves.

In making the spread the longer piece on the edge without a border; then the border was cut from the two-yard length and sewed across one end of the large piece, making a spread 2 1/2 yards long and two yards wide, with a pretty border across that portion which hangs

Mending a Sweater

TO MEND a hole in a sweater use a yarn as for darning. Start at the top and chainstitch down the length of the hole with a darning needle, catching each loop securely.

You will have a neat piece of work and no one will notice where the hole has been.

Padding Embroidery

WHERE heavy padding is desired under embroidery, try using little wads of raw cotton instead of filling in the padded space with many stitches of darning thread.

To pad a scallop, catch up a bit of raw cotton in your fingers and roll it between the thumb and forefinger until it is the length of the scallop, thick in the center but tapering to a mere thread at each end. Lay this on the scallop and with a few stitches catch to the material. Embroider over it in the usual way.

Flowers have their petals padded by making little cushion-like wads of cotton and catching them down to the material, well inside of the working line, with ordinary sewing cotton.

Combed and ribbon designs are treated accordingly.

Skirt Pads

SOME dressmakers frequently have great difficulty in making skirts cut with the raised waist line hang straight in front at the line of the normal waist.

At this point the skirt breaks and is very apt to show an ugly wrinkle, especially when the wearer is seated.

This can be avoided by making a small oblong pad of the same material as the skirt and inserting it directly in front. The pad is made four inches long and two inches wide and is placed lengthwise with the skirt. It can be tucked in place.

The Growing Girl

WHEN making dresses for a little girl who is growing rapidly allow six extra inches in the length of the skirt. Just above the hem set in a deep tuck on the wrong side; now above it put in two or three small tucks on the right side to hide the line where the deep one has been made.

When the skirt needs lengthening, all you have to do is to pull out the thread of the deep tuck, and down comes the skirt without any trouble of letting out the hem and facing it up again.

The small tucks on the right side remain as they were and serve to make a pretty finish to the skirt.

For Twisted Thread

THE woman who sews is very often annoyed by having the thread twist into knots, especially if she is using a long thread.

Waxing the thread by running it over a bit of beeswax is the proper way to avoid this trouble, but was sometimes discolors the thread slightly and is not always desirable on that account.

For either silk or cotton thread you can use the same wax, a small piece of pure white soap that is perfectly dry. This makes the thread slip through the material very easily and absolutely prevents twisted knots.

CHILDREN'S FABRIC HATS

THEY are not hard to make at home—these dainty fabric hats for your growing girl—and have the advantage not only of being light weight and cool, but also the correct style for girls of any age.

They are made over a wire or white buckram frame, and a wide range of covering is permissible.

Select a frame that fits the small girl's head snugly—one that will not wobble around on top—and cover it first with white lawn, if it is a wire frame. Buckram frames need no other covering than the final one, but you never cover a buckram frame with lace or fine embroidery.

If you are making a lingerie hat of embroidery, use a wire frame. After the first covering of lawn is put on smoothly, cover the underbrim and crown with allover embroidery and the upper brim with an embroidered edge to match.

Put the allover plain, but gather full, and catch it down to the under brim in several places.

Now the hat is ready for its trimming. A hat of lace or embroidery needs very little trimming; it should have only a twist or fold of some bright-colored ribbon around the crown and a full one of ribbon on the left side.

Another attractive way to trim such a model would be to make a wreath of small satin flowers, intermingled with greenery, and encircle the crown with that.

If you prefer a cluster or wreath of artificial blossoms, caught lightly to the brim of the hat.

Lace-covered hats are trimmed in practically the same style. The covering lace is put on in the same way as embroidery, unless it be of narrow lace which is slightly gathered and sewed on in rows, beginning at the edge and working toward the crown line on the brim, and at the base of the crown toward the apex, when covering that part of the hat.

Children's hats of linen, pongee and cretonne are acceptable for everyday wear. These receive a different treatment from the lingerie hat. They are made over buckram frames and often have the brims stitched in several rows. Hands of velvet, with a flat pump bow on the side, make a pretty trimming. If the hat be made of a gaily flowered cretonne, trim it with black velvet; if it be of plain-colored material, trim with bright ribbon or flowers.

Hats of pongee faced with black satin make pretty and sensible head coverings for the little miss to wear to school during the fall.

A Child's Dress

IF YOUR little daughter has reached that age when her dresses which were made early in the season have become too short because she is running up like a weed, you will find it necessary to let out the hems in the skirts.

Do this when the dress is ready for the tub and not after it has been freshly laundered.

A good way to do is to lower the hem half its width, stitching the hem in again where the crease of the former lower edge is marked. Then when it is washed and dried there will be no slightly dark mark on the hem, for the present stitching will quite conceal this.

Hooks on a Wash Dress

WHEN using hooks and eyes to fasten a wash dress, try sewing the hooks on the upper flap and the eyes on the lower flap, instead of the usual way. You will find that with this method the lap of your gown that shows most can be ironed flat and will have no unsightly bumps where the hooks are underneath.

ROSES of satin and silk are not difficult to make and furnish a fascinating pastime for the needlewoman. Not only roses, but violets, sweet peas and various other flowers can, with very little practice, be made for the adornment of gowns and hats. One of the fairest lingers hats for a young girl that I have seen this season had as its only trimming a wreath of varied colored buds, interspersed with dark-green velvet leaves. The combination was unusual and beautiful.

It so happened that the wearer's mother had not only made her hat, but had also made the flowers. The leaves she bought at a French milliner's shop. Small pieces of satin were utilized in making the flowers. Each petal was cut from an oblong piece of satin two inches long and one inch wide, one edge being cut curved at the corners.

About twenty petals were used in each rose. Each, being finely gathered on the square edge to the curved portion, is pulled up tight and fastened to a short piece of very fine wire.

When making these flowers, start from the center and work out to the calyx.

First cover a tiny wad of cotton with a bit of the satin and attach it to a piece of white hat wire. This forms the center of the rose. The petals are then added, working around and around, twisting the fine wire around the central stem.

After all the petals have been added cut five small three-cornered pieces of light-green silk for the calyx. Add these with the aid of fine wire. This calyx can be dispensed with if you wish; but without the calyx the flower does not look as natural as with it.

By closely bending and crumpling the satin you can get a very natural-looking flower. After the rose is complete add the leaves and wrap the stems with dark-green tissue paper. Violets are fashioned of small loops of lavender satin or ribbed wire and bunched together, with the addition of foliage. Sweet peas offer a greater variety of color combinations than any other flower. Make these with three double satin loops wired on the outer edge and held together with an extension of this same wire. Place two loops upstanding and one down, with a very small wad of satin-covered cotton for the center. These should be mounted on long covered wire stems and used only with plenty of foliage.

Satin flowers are being used extensively this season on millinery and to ornament evening gowns.

They are exceedingly useful as a means of introducing a desired note of color on a hat or costume.

For this reason they are frequently of unnatural but always of beautiful color. In such cases, when the shade is far from being true to nature, it is well to omit ordinary green leaves and simply use several of the soft satin flowers massed together.

THE MONOGRAM FAD

IF YOU desire to be strictly up-to-date, have an artist or an artist friend make your monogram into a pretty design and apply it to all of your belongings.

Everything from gloves to parasols formed into a quaint and distinctive design give individuality and charm to your lingerie, as well as putting it into the foremost ranks of fashion.

The monogram is used in different sizes and is carried out in hand embroidery in mercerized cottons on linens, stockings, gloves, parasols, house-gown, table covers, bureau scarfs and handkerchiefs.

The prospective bride, preparing for her wedding in the fall, will do well to mark the articles included in her trousseau. The work can be done in otherwise leisure hours on the porch.

These monograms are sometimes quite elaborate affairs set in medallions, often with the family crest at the top. Others are simply script letters, run together; and some are done in Japanese fashion, having their letters placed in a design, one below the other.

W

The girl who prefers severity of outline uses the plain block letters for her marking, simply varying the size from the tiny letters on her handkerchief to those six or eight inches long in the center of a sofa pillow or on the corner of her best tablecloth.

The embroidery is done in the heavily padded satin stitch; but when the monogram is very elaborate the stitch is combined with seeding or very fine French knots in the center.

A dainty touch on lingerie is given by working the letters in colored cottons.

To Draw Threads

WHEN drawing threads in material it is best to use a brush. First soap the goods where the threads are to be drawn. Make a lattice and apply with a small brush and, when dry, the threads will pull out easily.

One half of back

THREE WAYS TO TRANSFER

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty. Surely the way is easy.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY HOLDS CONVERSAZIONE

Guests Hear Excellent Speeches and Good Programme—Cordial Welcome by Chinese Idols - New Members Elected - Young People Particularly in Evidence.

There was a jolly crowd at the conversation last evening which inaugurated the winter season of the Natural History Society, and the function proved a most enjoyable one. The Chinese Idols at the head of the stair were a broad smile of welcome as the members and their lady friends trooped in and they were still smiling jocosely when the gathering broke up and the guests departed. During the evening there were brief addresses by Lieut. Governor Tweedie, Mayor Frink, and others, and an interesting musical programme was carried out, followed by refreshments, and an inspection by the guests of the collections in the museum. Senator Ellis, the president of the society, presided at the meeting in the lecture room, and opened the proceedings with a brief address, referring to the occasion of the gathering, and predicting an entertaining and successful winter for the society.

Mayor Frink, the next speaker, congratulated the society on the improvements made in their quarters during the summer, and spoke of its importance in the intellectual and social life of the community. Governor Tweedie spoke of his pleasure at being present, and expressed surprise at the size of the society as indicated by the large attendance, and also, at the extent and variety of the collections. He dwelt at some length on the importance of the work the society was doing and congratulated it on its enterprise in gathering its new collections, illustrating the natural resources of the Province of New Brunswick—exhibits of agricultural, forest, mineral and fishery products. He referred to the Borden collection at Fredericton, and expressed the opinion that more attention should be given to the work of educating the people to the greatness of the resources and possibilities of their province through the medium of such collections.

CLAIM OFFICIALS DISREGARD THE LAW

St. John County Temperance Federation Decide to Investigate Method of Enforcement of Law.

A strict inquiry into the manner in which the different officials are fulfilling their duties as regards the enforcement of the liquor laws, and the taking of initiative steps to secure a prohibitory law for the province, are among the important matters that will engage the attention of the temperance workers of this city during the coming months. At a largely attended meeting of the St. John County Temperance Federation held last evening in the Christadelphian Hall, plans to prosecute a vigorous campaign in the interest of the temperance cause were discussed. Among those present at the meeting were: President C. F. MacTavish, Rev. W. R. Robinson, Rev. H. E. Thomas, A. A. Wilson, K. C. Robert Cocher, J. Willard Smith, E. S. Hennigar, R. N. Riley and others. The matter of drafting a prohibitory act was discussed at length by its author after consideration, a committee consisting of Rev. W. R. Robinson, Rev. H. E. Thomas, J. Willard Smith with A. A. Wilson was named to draft a law to be submitted for the approval of the Provincial Temperance Federation, and subsequently to be submitted to the government.

Another matter which received lengthy consideration on the part of the members in which the different officials are enforcing legislation in the matter of the sale of liquor, it is said that the laws are being openly and notoriously violated, and the meeting decided to take steps to have a thorough investigation made, and to fight the liquor traffic to a finish.

DOMINION EXPRESS CO. PLAN EXTENSION

The visiting officials of the Dominion Express Company, with the local officials of the Canadian Express Company, made the rounds of the city yesterday and decided on a plan of extension of their present routes that will be laid before the mayor and aldermen today. W. H. Burr when interviewed last evening, said, "The old limit going out the city road was the Marsh Bridge. It is planned to extend this limit to Kierstead's store and to include everything in that end of the city, from there. The new limit will sweep out around Fort Howe to Adelaide street. The old limit on Adelaide street was the bridge, the new limit will be the corner of the Pokiak and Adelaide roads. "From that point the line will run down the Pokiak road to Spar Cove on the St. John river. Going out Douglas Avenue, the old limit was Bentley street, this will be extended to the bridge. "This is the proposition that will be laid before the city fathers today and if they agree the complete will be sent to the Canadian Railway Commission to be sanctioned. J. R. Higcock and Joseph Taylor, made the St. John West inspection. Since the first of June Carleton has been temporarily included in the present companies' routes, but the officials do not think that they will continue to do so at the same rates. They have, however, drawn up a proposition that will be included with the other business that will go before the council today. The commission left last evening in their private car, Leithbridge, which was attached to the late train. They will inspect Sussex and Moncton today.

BAY OF FUNDY LIFE BOATS TOO SMALL

Commander Thompson, of Life Saving Station in City, Thinks Shipping Warrants Increase in Size.

Commander Henry Thompson, Dominion Inspector of Life Saving Stations, arrived in the city yesterday and registered at the Royal. He will leave today on the government steamer Stanley for a trip down the Bay to inspect the stations at Brier Island, Grand Manan and places. Asked whether there was anything new in connection with the affairs of his department, he said he had nothing special to announce at present. While in the city yesterday he had an interview with Dr. Daniel, who recently made a trip down the bay in the Stanley, and came to the conclusion that the life boats at the strategic points in the Bay of Fundy were not as large as they ought to be.
