

FRANCE WARNED ITS ATTITUDE ON ARMS LIMITATION SUCH AS WILL STIR UP ENMITY

Peace Will Never be Achieved by One Power Working for Selfish Interests.

LORD CURZON SPEAKS EMPHATICALLY

Expresses Determination to Bring Germany Into the Comity of Nations.

London, Nov. 24—One of the most outspoken warnings ever addressed by the Foreign Minister of one nation to another friendly nation was delivered publicly today at a luncheon by Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, to France. The British Foreign Minister declared that if France pursued an isolated and individual policy, she would not in the long run injure Germany and would fail to protect herself.

It was a warning couched, if anything, in plainer terms than a similar speech delivered by Premier Lloyd George last May, at the time when France was proceeding to the occupation of Germany's Ruhr towns, which created such a tremendous sensation.

Talks Sound Sense.

Lord Curzon's address was directed primarily to the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions, but it was clearly an invitation to France of the effect of that country's attitude toward disarmament. It also applied, with equal force, to the French policy in the Near East.

"Peace will never be achieved," said Lord Curzon, "if any one power tries to steal a march on another and concludes an arrangement on its own account. The Foreign Minister bluntly reminded France that her safety lay, not in her own strength, but in the confidence of the world, and he cautioned France that she could not succeed by a revengeful policy toward Germany or be permitted by isolated action to frustrate the work of the nations at Washington."

Speech Full of Meaning.

The speech, which occupied only half an hour in delivery, but was filled with striking matter, clearly indicated a determination to bring Germany into the comity of nations and for its enunciation of Great Britain's duty in the new world which succeeded.

After saying the great powers would assist Germany, provided she showed sincerity, Lord Curzon said: "So long as Great Britain, France and Italy hold together I am hopeful of the result."

Alluding to the new struggling nations which have arisen from the ashes of Germany, Austria and Turkey, Lord Curzon said: "We, as one of the great powers, are largely responsible for the creation of these new nations. Therefore, it devolves upon us to do our best to curb their rivalry, help their progress and make them instruments not of renewed disturbance and warfare, but of future peace."

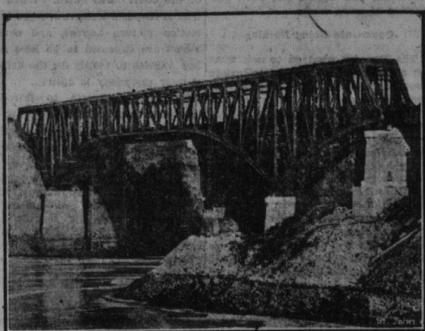

Hughes' Proposal Receives Further Endorsement

National Liberal Federation, London, Urges British Delegation to Support Project.

London, Nov. 24—The National Liberal Federation, meeting in Newcastle today, adopted a resolution endorsing Secretary of State Hughes' proposal for a ten year naval holiday, urging that the British representatives in Washington be instructed to support all practical projects for the progressive disarmament of all nations, and demanding the publication of all treaties. An attempt to include in the resolution an amendment demanding denunciation of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance was defeated on the ground that, considering Japan's hearty cooperation at Washington, it was "inadvisable to give Japan such curt and brusque notices."

Westminster, B. C. Faces Strike of School Teachers

New Westminster, B. C., Nov. 24—Seventy-four teachers in the high and public schools here, have their resignations ready to present to the School Board of Trustees unless that body puts into effect the award of the Board of Arbitration, of last May, approving the scale of wages sanctioned by the Teachers' Federation. The award means an increase in salaries for the teachers, but the Board has refused to comply. The resignations would take effect the end of the year. The teachers held a meeting recently at which this line of action was approved.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM SHOWN AT RALLY OF GOVERNMENT SUPPORTERS IN GLEN FALLS

Colonel MacLaren and Other Prominent Speakers Discussed Campaign Issues in Logical, Sensible, Convincing Manner—Audience Keen to Grasp and Show Appreciation of Meighen Policies.

The meeting held yesterday evening in the Manor House at Glen Falls, in the interests of the Conservative candidates, produced a rousing rally in support of Hon. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter and Col. Dr. Murray MacLaren. Great enthusiasm was manifested at all times on the part of the gathering, who turned out in large numbers, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. Many ladies were present to hear the addresses and the discussions of the political issues of the campaign, and they joined in the applause and approbation of the policy of the Meighen Government which had granted to them full franchise rights. The speakers of the evening were Col. Dr. Murray MacLaren, S. W. Palmer and Lt. Col. W. H. Harrison. The Minister of Customs and Excise, owing to his absence in another part of the province addressing several meetings, was unable to be present. At the conclusion a vote of thanks to the speakers was moved by W. G. Drake and seconded by A. H. Patterson. The chairman for the occasion was J. P. Clayton.

Woman Beats Up Farmer Who Sold Poor Meat

Heartlessly Fined $16.85 by Magistrate for Delivering the Knockout Punch.

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 24—Because she beat up a farmer named Ball, at Ball's Creek, Mrs. Katcherusky, of Sydney was fined $16.85 by Judge Mughan today. Evidence showed that the lady in the case purchased some meat from Ball and several days later asked him to take it back on the ground that it was unfit for consumption. Ball refused and the assault followed.

Youthful Bandit Cuts Up Pranks in Drug Store

Winnipeg, Nov. 24—A youthful bandit, about 22 years of age, entered a drug store at the corner of Gertie and Notre Dame Avenue at six o'clock this evening, shot the proprietor and his assistant, cleaned out the till and escaped. J. Wilder, the proprietor, was shot in the arm and hip and A. Davis, the assistant, was shot in the abdomen and seriously wounded. Both are in the hospital. No "hands up" command was given by the assailant, who simply entered the store and started firing at the two victims. It is not known how much money was stolen.

Salient Points in Halifax Address of Sir Hibbert

"This charge of autocracy has never been defined, for the obvious reason that it has no definition, no existence, outside Mr. Mackenzie King's brain. I think that Mr. Mackenzie King's fear of autocracy must have been largely induced by his visit to the United States during the war. 'I will tell you why I think the women of Canada will vote for Meighen. First heart never won fair lady, and the women of Canada will vote for Mr. Meighen because he states the principles upon which he is fighting boldly and without fear; and he is the only leader who does so state them.' 'The tariff is the paramount issue. All other issues are relatively unimportant.' 'The Liberal Party, or what is left of it, is fighting behind a mask.' 'What the Liberals say in substance is this: 'Pay no attention to our pretensions or pledges in regard to free trade. We have never kept a pledge in our party history, nor do we intend to do so in the future.' 'We want to play fair with the United States. We want to be friendly with the United States. The man who would suggest anything other than this would be not less than a lunatic; but—we must have a protective policy which will make sure that there will be no injury to Canada's home industries.' 'Everybody knows that Mr. Mackenzie King is due to walk the plank. If the Liberal party were returned to power it would be Mr. Gouin who would lead them, not Mr. Mackenzie King.' 'Mr. Meighen's policies will win in this election because Canada has begun to THINK NATIONALLY.'"

CANADA TAKING KEEN INTEREST IN CONFERENCE

Dominion Headquarters at Washington Flooded With Telegrams and Letters from People.

ALL HOPEFUL OF SUCCESS

Public Borden Pledged to Sir Robert Borden in His Work as Delegate.

Washington, Nov. 24—(By Ben Deacon, Staff Correspondent of Standard.)—A flood of telegrams and letters has been received at the Canadian delegation's headquarters, since the opening of the Armaments Conference, from various organizations and from private citizens in the Dominion. They contain resolutions, endorsing the objects of the Conference and pledging support to the delegates. Some of them offer advice and suggestions as to what the Conference might undertake to accomplish. "These messages arrived by the score in every mail, and hundreds of them are now on file in the Dominion headquarters in the Franklin Square Hotel. All Hope For Success

Anyone in doubt as to the interest of the Canadian citizens in the great international gathering, at present underway, need only glance through this file to be convinced of a very real, heartfelt interest which extends from ocean to ocean, a unanimity of support for the object which the Conference seeks to achieve, and wide recognition of the responsible part which the Dominion is taking in it through the Canadian representative, Sir Robert Borden.

Most of the resolutions are similar in form. They express hope for the success of the Conference and pledge public support to the Canadian delegate. Some of them urge that full publicity be given to the discussions, and a few declare in favor of all sessions being open. Several contain a plea similar to that sent by the Women's Institute of Lunenburg, N. S., which urges Sir Robert not to allow himself to be influenced by motives unworthy of the people of Canada. "The majority of the messages come from church congregations and societies. They represent practically all creeds and denominations in the Dominion, many having been received from Roman Catholics as well as from Protestant bodies. Various lay organizations are also well represented. "Nova Scotia and British Columbia, if one may judge by the number of these messages, are the provinces in which interest is more active, though there is hardly a corner of the Dominion that has not been heard from. In the Nova Scotia list there are resolutions and letters from Halifax, Trenton, Windsor, Lunenburg, Amherst, Truro, and a score of other towns and cities.

BELFAST LOYALISTS URGED TO KEEP COOL UNDER PRESENT TRYING TIMES

London, Nov. 24—Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, tonight sent a message to the government at Belfast urging defensive measures against "the dastardly outrages" upon the loyalists, "no matter how severe the provocation."

"I have learned with the greatest of horror," said the message, "of the dastardly outrages upon loyalists in the city of Belfast. I am taking drastic action at once."

"I appeal to all those who trust in me to remain strictly on the defensive, no matter how severe the provocation, and when I return Saturday morning I promise to take personal charge of the situation. I hope an actual crisis may be avoided in my absence."

PREMIER MEIGHEN ISSUES CALL TO WOMEN TO STAND BY THEIR COUNTRY NOW

On the Conscience of Women, He Declares, Rests the Chief Responsibility for Determining What Is To Be Done With Canada—Out of Their Love of Country Is to Come the Decision by Whom This Nation Is To Be Governed.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 24—Canadian Press Staff Correspondent—Premier Meighen this evening handed out the following message to the women of Canada:

"The call is out now to the men of Canada to stand by their country. But the call is still more to the women of this Dominion. Because of her numbers the voice of woman predominates. On the conscience of our women now rests the chief responsibility for determining what is to be done with Canada. Out of their intelligence, out of their love of country is to come the decision by whom and for what and this nation is to be governed. Make this appeal. Think of the past; think of the hours of trial, think of the peril unspeakable in which we have lived for years. 'It is not the best, the wisest thing to stand by those who, through all those years themselves stood true and strong. Look over the battle array now as it shapes up for this campaign. In which camp do you find a clear, vigorous record of performance? In which camp do you find consistency of policy? From which side do you hear directness of appeal, the voice that calls for unity, candour and confidence among all classes of the state? The voice that rings true to Canada and to the Empire in whose fold we live?'"

"Earned Citizenship. 'The women of our country rise to their rights by their patience, their exertions, their sacrifices in war. They earned the full measure of citizenship, the most treasured, the most solemn privilege of citizenship they exercise just a few days from now. The women voters of this Dominion will show by their first great assertion of suffrage that they require, first of all and most of all, consistency in public men, fidelity to pledges, frankness from political leaders, honor from political parties. They will show, too, that they prize, as the men through many a test have prized, the commercial integrity of our country, a policy of courage and of spirit, a policy that breathes always fidelity to Canada and all that Canada means, in the great era that is opening of a more secure and happier world.'"

Warm Response Given To Charges of James Murdock

Sir Henry Drayton Declares Murdock is Blessed With Convenient and Elastic Memory.

Toronto, Nov. 24—A warm response was given today by Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance and Commerce, candidate in West York, to charges made against him last night by James Murdock, Liberal candidate in South Toronto, and former member of the Board of Commerce. When asked if he had seen his name on Murdock's list, Sir Henry replied: "You are quite right. Now he has me on the list. Mr. Murdock appears blessed with a convenient and elastic memory. He started out with four members of the Cabinet as responsible for his alleged throttling of the Board of Commerce. Categorical denials have already come from every body who knows anything about it; but when it becomes necessary and convenient I am added to the list."

A special despatch to the Telegram from Ridgeway, Ont., says: "W. F. O'Connor, K. C., was the last of five speakers at a big meeting here in support of W. A. Hammond, government candidate in Kent, and made his remarks in reply to the Murdock charges very brief. 'I have said these things so often,' he remarked, 'that I am getting tired and perhaps by this time people are beginning to believe one of us. I am getting to that stage where I don't care very much which.'"

"There's a general condition of unrest," James Murdock is Liberal candidate in South Toronto and he has to pander to the condition of the times; but he makes allegations which, unfortunately for him, he cannot establish, that there has been interference with the board. All I can say forcibly and solemnly, and I will stand cross-examination, go anywhere and swear upon a stack of Bibles, and say in the most unequivocal terms that there was no such thing."

LOYD GEORGE TO MEET ULSTER PREMIER TODAY

Will Make Effort to Induce Him to Consider Plans for Ulster's Good.

GRIFFITH RETURNS TO DUBLIN

Ulster Parliament to Hear Reasons Why They Should Treat With Sinn Fein.

London, Nov. 24—Mr. Lloyd George who probably will be accompanied by Lord Chascelor Birkenhead, is scheduled to meet Sir James Craig tomorrow morning, in what may be the last effort to induce him, as Premier of Ulster, to discuss alternative plans devised to protect Ulster's interests to the proposed all-Ireland parliament, which the northern delegates thus far refused to even consider formally.

Griffith Goes to Dublin.

Meanwhile, Arthur Griffith, chief of the Sinn Fein delegation, for the first time since the Irish conference opened in October, went to Dublin tonight to consult with Eamonn De Valera, the Irish Republican, and Robert C. Barton, his delegation colleague.

This visit to Dublin is understood to be a result of discussions during the past few days between the Sinn Feiners and members of the British Cabinet, at which Mr. Griffith and his colleagues are said to have made clear that they could not agree to swear allegiance to the British crown, their idea of association with the state of the British Empire being by treaty, as would be the case with foreign powers.

Publication of Correspondence.

On Tuesday, the Ulster Premier will submit to his Parliament the reasons, urged by the Prime Minister, why Ulster should consent to treat with the Sinn Fein. It is expected that he will ask Mr. Lloyd George to facilitate the consideration of Ulster's case by publishing the whole correspondence, exchanged thus far, so that Ulster may see the real state of the negotiations. But the discussion with the Sinn Fein have, by the desire of the Government, proceeded on condition that secrecy be observed; no publication of the correspondence is now expected until an agreement or disagreement is finally reached.

The Irish Liberal Federation, an organization in which former Premier Asquith is interested, at its annual meeting today, passed a resolution supporting Dominion Home Rule for Ireland, suggesting that Parliament should be asked to endorse this policy, and recording its conviction that, if the conference fails, there will be no return to the policy of force.

GENERAL CURRIE CRITICIZES THE SLANDER MONGER

Sir Arthur Writes in Praise of War Record of Conservative Candidate.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 24—Premier Meighen's two crowded meetings here this evening were, featured by the reading of two letters, the first from Sir Arthur Currie, formerly commander of the Canadian Army Corps in France, and the second from Lieutenant-General Sir Richard Turner, former commander-in-chief of the Second Canadian Division, testifying to the excellency of the war record of Brigadier-General A. E. Ross, candidate in Kingston.

The letters were read by W. E. Greaves, of Kingston Standard, who prefaced their reading by stating that a campaign of slander and insinuation was being carried on against General Ross. It was being stated, said Mr. Greaves, that the Conservative candidate had enjoyed a "cushy job" during the war, and that his record was far from being a creditable one. Hearing these insinuations he had taken it upon himself to write Sir Arthur Currie and Sir Richard Turner as to the war record of General Ross.

Sir Arthur Currie wrote that he was taking no political sides, but that he was going to fight slander-mongering. "I know of no more blackguardly practice engaged in today," he continued. "The slander-monger is a cunning coward, knowing full well that rumors once spread can never be overtaken, and that the man who starts the rumor on its foul way can seldom be definitely placed."

"No higher standard of gallantry or patriotism was set by any man serving in the Canadian corps," Sir Arthur said, referring to General Ross. "Sir Richard Turner wrote that Brigadier-General Ross 'endured himself to everyone by his gallantry,' and that it was 'his organization that made the medical service so efficient in the Canadian corps.'"

Moncton Has Small Fire Loss

Moncton, Nov. 24—Fire causing damage of seven thousand dollars, broke out this afternoon in the wooden building known as the Dunlop Block, at the lower end of Main street. The building was gutted, the principal damage being by water. The loss on the building was covered by insurance. A number of the occupants of the building suffered loss ranging from one to three hundred dollars.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM SHOWN AT RALLY OF GOVERNMENT SUPPORTERS IN GLEN FALLS

Lt. Col. W. H. Harrison, declared that, as a returned man, he felt that the Government had provided well for the soldiers while they were serving overseas. The greatest consideration had also been given to Canada's soldiers by the Government after the cessation of hostilities in the form of legislation and otherwise.

The Railway Policy
The speaker also referred to the effect of the railway policy of the Liberal Party, the unnecessary expenditure of money, and the building of railways far in advance of their time. The Government had been forced to take possession of several railways which were on the verge of bankruptcy, in order that an opportunity would be afforded of recovering the large sum of money which had been expended in connection with these schemes by the Laurier Government.

The People's Candidate
Dr. Murray MacLaren declared that it gave him great pleasure to meet the electors of Glen Falls and he would also endeavor to represent the Minister of Customs and Excise who was speaking at Cole's Island. Hon. Dr. Baxter, as a member of the Dominion Cabinet, and the Federal representative of New Brunswick, was participating in various meetings throughout the province and Nova Scotia; and for that reason, although he would have been very glad to address the meeting, was unable to be present.

Farmers' Policy
The policy of the Farmers' Party called for Free Trade, which would, among other evils, permit goods to come into Canada from the United States, free of duty. On the other hand, products and manufactured articles going from this country into the republic to the south of us bore a large tariff duty. One result would be the pouring into Canada of a large amount of American goods free of duty, while a substantial duty had to be paid on articles from this country going into the United States. Such a condition was absolutely one-sided.

Up to the People
In conclusion Dr. MacLaren said: "You have the choice of choosing between the Government of Premier Meighen, who never failed in his duty in Canada in fighting the huge problems which confronted her, or voting for the party whose platform might lead anywhere and the supporters of Mackenzie King, do not think the people of this country want free trade with its accompanying disastrous effect; and I ask you to support Hon. Dr. Baxter and myself by your votes on December 6th."

RESISTANCE OF SMUGGLERS WAS MOST SERIOUS

Further Details of Clash Between Revenue Officers and Cape Breton Rum Runners.

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 24—Sixty two kegs of choice liquors, captured at Malmedun after a sensational fight between revenue officers and smugglers Tuesday night, were landed here today by the cutter Restless which, later, started back for the south coast to bring around to Sydney the seized schooner, Isma, and several passengers taken during Tuesday's battle.

The Isma had already undergone confinement when the cutter Restless arrived in the harbor, and the cargo had been concealed in various caches, but footprints in the snow were traced by Captain Briggs to a patch of woods where 22 barrels of French wine and spirits were found hidden. Two sailors, armed with carbines, were left in charge while the Captain searched elsewhere for the rest of the stores.

GOVERNMENT FORESIGHT PREVENTED MORE SERIOUS RESULTS FROM UNEMPLOYMENT

Premier Meighen Declares Unemployment Situation Inevitable Following Great War.

CANADA BETTER OFF THAN OTHER NATIONS

By Establishment of Gov't Employment Bureaus Many Have Been Assisted to Jobs.
Kingston, Ont., Nov. 24—The Premier said that he understood the trouble of Kingston centered around unemployment therefore, he proposed to deal with this question.
Unemployment was inevitable following a great war. Nation after nation, except the buyers of the products of this country, were shattered, prostrated and unable to purchase. One great nation had come to such a terrible pass that millions would die on the roadsides this winter. The result of all this was unemployment, but Canada had not one-half the unemployment that prevailed in the United States, and in New York city alone there were more people out of work than in this whole country.

Canada's Condition Favorable
Mr. Meighen recounted the reasons why Canada's condition in regard to unemployment was more favorable than that of other countries. Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, and a

Princess Mary and Fiancee Greeted By London Public

Made First Appearance With Lord Lascelles Since Their Betrothal.
London, Nov. 24—Princess Mary today made her first public appearance with Lord Lascelles, her fiance since their betrothal, when the two left Buckingham Palace in an open carriage with Queen Mary for a drive through Hyde Park. Although the news that they were to drive out only became known, shortly before their departure, quite a large crowd assembled in the vicinity of Buckingham Palace and cheered the royal party heartily as the carriage drove away. Crowd quickly gathered along the route and made the drive partake of the nature of a triumphal procession, much to the perceptible embarrassment of Princess Mary, and the apparent satisfaction of the Queen and Lord Lascelles.

Canadian Cities Plan Receptions For Lord Beatty

Great British Admiral Is Scheduled to Arrive in Ottawa Saturday Morning.
Ottawa, Nov. 24—The complete programme of the visit to Canada of Earl Beatty, which was announced today by Colonel Ernest Chambers, gentleman usher of the Black Rod, covers visits by the famous British Admiral to Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton. He will spend a day in each of the first three cities but only a few hours in Hamilton. Earl Beatty accompanied by Lady Beatty, is scheduled to arrive in Ottawa on Saturday morning.

Vatican Ready To Make Peace With Italy

London, Nov. 24—A Central News despatch from Rome says the newspaper Temps publishes an interview with Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, who is quoted as having asserted that Pope Benedict is ready for a reconciliation with Italy. Relations between the Holy See and the Italian government ceased in 1870, when Rome was incorporated by Royal Decree with Italy and made the capital of the kingdom.

Arbuckle Wishes To Give Evidence In Own Behalf

His Attorney Hesitates to Allow Comedian in the Witness Box.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 24—Rocco C. Arbuckle wishes to testify in his own behalf in his trial for manslaughter resulting from the death of Miss Virginia Rappa, Gavin McNab, his chief counsel, said today. It has not been decided, however, whether his counsel will permit him to do so. Today being a holiday, no session of the court was held. When the trial resumed tomorrow, Albee Lake, motion picture actor, and several others are expected to be here from Los Angeles to testify for the defence if their testimony is desired.
The defence expects to introduce testimony of several physicians in an attempt to refute the assertions of the prosecution that Miss Rappa was injured fatally by force applied by Arbuckle. The defence has contended that the bladder of Miss Rappa, which an autopsy disclosed had been ruptured, causing death, was weakened by disease. A committee of three physicians, appointed by the court, is expected soon to render its opinion concerning this.
It was expected the case will be sent to the jury next week.

COULDN'T DO HOUSEWORK HEART WAS SO BAD

Many women get weak and run down and unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung.
Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy instead of sick and wretched. But how can a woman be strong and healthy when day in and day out she has to go through the same routine of work, sweeping, dusting, cooking, washing, etc. Is it any wonder that the heart becomes affected and she gets irritable and nervous, has hot flashes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells and can't sleep at night.

HEART AND NERVE PILLS
as the best remedy to tone up the system and strengthen the weakened organs.
Mrs. David Beaumont, Loganville, N. S. writes:—"As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you that your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me. My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep, I would take smothering spells, and was so weak I could not do my housework. I tried two doctors, but got no results. A friend advised me to try your pills. I used six boxes and am completely relieved. I think they are the best remedy for heart trouble there is."

TWO SESSIONS IN PARIS MURDER

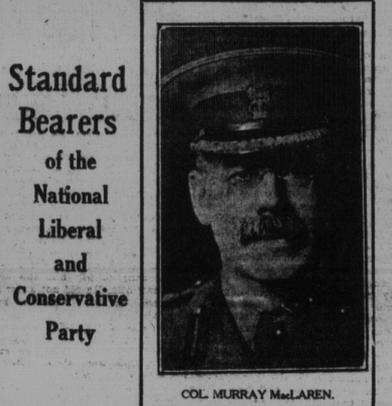

Entire Morning and Afternoon Given by the Accused—Maintains He Was Innocent.

Mr. Byrne asked Paris if he satisfied that he had told everything he could remember that occurred from 12 noon to 12 night that would help establish his alibi.
Mr. Vernon objected, that the accused had already gone over the ground three times and asked if it would be any limit to the proceedings.
Judge Chandler replied that if the had any more material to present take Paris back over the ground often as he wished.
Paris again gave a recitation of what occurred. He was speaking this time in a spasmodic fashion.
Referring to the officers he met by the yard, he said they were Fraser and Mr. Barton. He was at about two in the afternoon, saw his grandmother when he was home, between 10 and 12 o'clock. His grandmother came to his house for a milk pail which he picked mushrooms in. This about milking time; he couldn't fix the time. He was not at home about the past before. He had a large kettle when the officers were there. He saw the officers twice on the second of August, once on the island and in the town. He Fraser in the forenoon and afternoon of the second of August.
Mr. Byrne: "You told the court jury last time that it was Fraser McLennan." Paris, "I kind of think I did."
Mr. Byrne: "It was Boes this time, eh, Paris?" He appeared to be deeply and, "can't say which it was. He knew it was Fraser, and kind of thinks it was Boes."
Mr. Byrne: "You were mistaken when you swore last time, thinks it was McLennan. He officers on the third and one on the fourth. He was not at home was in the 1st or 2nd, or the 3rd. It wasn't the 30th of July."
Mr. Byrne: "At the last trial you said that they were not there one occasion, on the 2nd of August. He sold the gasoline to Stan Nichols between 3 and 4 o'clock. He mark it in his book. He was in the book in the last court. Perhaps saw the book in the court at Truro. He was arrested on the charge stealing gasoline. Mr. Nicholson defended him. He saw the book in Truro. He was not in Nicholson's age on the 3rd of 4th of August. He had the second of August. He was not at home. He left home about 12.30 and was in town and up to Bible Hill. He the Byard boy and was asked to the gas. He knew the second of August, when he sold it. He very ridely cross-examined by Byrne on the date and how and he remembered it. He told Fraser where he was on the second of August. He has been asked in police station in Truro where he was on the second. He had been asked about it two or three times. He asked a couple of times one morning and once about three weeks ago. He didn't tell Fraser he had seen him before when Fraser asked at where he was on the 2nd of August. He had seen Fraser on the second that you didn't know where you were not correct. He was not right when he said that Paris did not know the second of the 2nd of August. Someone is telling the truth." Paris told of being up town on the morning of the 2nd of August. He went to Byard house. He went to the back part and picked mushrooms. He sold mushrooms to Mrs. Archibald in town. He was at Mrs. Archibald's on the 2nd of August. He went to Byard house. He got home about 12 o'clock. He met the Byard boy, Talbot's between 11.30 and 12 o'clock. Paris said he had seen Fraser at island at 5.30 in the morning, and went to town. Byard in his team Paris on a bicycle alongside.
He pointed the place visited said that when they reached H. store, he got into the wagon drove home arriving about 12 o'clock. He had dinner at the grand man at 12.15 and right after went on wheel to Bible Hill.
Questioned by Mr. Byrne, he remembered the place visited during the afternoon, during the day of the day and time spent at a place.
He said he did not know the gas sold was stolen. He did not know at the preliminary hearing for the Nichols, who bought the gas, said gas had been bought on the 2nd at the first trial said the 2nd of August. As to whether he could have committed the murder on the 2nd, to Truro and sold the gas on the 2nd and return on the 4th to St. John. Paris said, he could not, than would prevent him.
As to the 3rd of August, he remembered the day because it was the he had sold the gas. "That was day Humphrey rowed you across river, and refused to help you by the body, the day of the night." He went to the attorney-general's intimations. Paris replied, "That was not the night I went to Truro."
Asked if he could fix it from picking mushrooms. He said no. He picked them different times. He did not know if he picked berries that day. He said on trial in the morning he picked berries the 1st, but not the 3rd. He still said so.
When he arrived in town on a morning of the 3rd Paris said he was

TWO SESSIONS HELD OF THE PARIS MURDER TRIAL YESTERDAY

Entire Morning and Afternoon Taken Up With Direct Evidence Given by the Accused and in Cross-Examination—Maintains He Was in Truro on Date of Murder.

(Continued from Page 12.) Mr. Byrne asked Paris if he was satisfied that he had told everything he could remember that occurred from 12 noon to 12 night that would help establish his alibi.

Mr. Byrne: "It was Boon this time, eh, Paris?" He appeared to think deeply and, "can't say which it was. He knew it was Fraser, and kind of thinks it was Boon."

Mr. Byrne: "You were mistaken when you swore last time. He thinks it was McLennan. He saw officers on the third and one on the fourth. He was not sure whether it was in the 1st or 2nd, or the 2nd or 3rd. It wasn't the 30th of July."

Mr. Byrne: "At the last trial you said that there were only three on one occasion, on the 2nd of August. He sold the gasoline to Stan Nichols on the 3rd and 4th of August. He fixed the second of August when the Chataqua parade and collecting money from a man. The Chataqua parade would apply to the fourth as well as the second in a way. He left home about 12:30. He went to town and up to Bible Hill. He met the Byard boy and was asked to sell the gas. He knew it was the second of August when he said it. He was very rigidly cross-examined by Mr. Byrne on the date and how and why he remembered it. He told Fraser where he was on the second of August on the train going from St. John to Truro. This was about the 22nd of August. He had been asked in the police station in Truro where he was on the second. He had been asked about it two or three times. He was asked a couple of times on morning and once about three weeks later. He didn't tell Fraser he had asked him before when Fraser asked again where he was on the 2nd of August. Mr. Byrne: "Then Fraser was to the second that you didn't know where you were not correct. He was not right then when he said that Paris did not know where he was on the 2nd of August. Someone is not telling the truth." Paris told of going up town on the morning of the 2nd of August. He went to Byard's house. He went to the back pasture and picked mushrooms. He sold the mushrooms to Mrs. Archibald in town. He was at Mrs. Archibald's about 11 o'clock. He got home about 12 o'clock. He met the Byard boy at Talbot's between 11:30 and 12 o'clock. Paris said he first met Byard on the island at 9:30 in the morning, and they went to town. Byard in his team and Paris on a bicycle alongside.

NAVAL HOLIDAY WILL HIT GREAT MANY CONCERNS

American Manufacturers, However, Are Not to Oppose Hughes' Plan.

Washington, Nov. 24.—A Government market worth more than $1,000,000,000 to American manufacturers and builders alone during the next 10 years will be blotted out by a naval holiday. Estimates by some Government officials are much higher.

That American manufacturers and business men generally would cheerfully submit to the destruction of this market to benefit the great majority of people of the United States and throughout the world is regarded by Government officials as a foregone conclusion. In one group of American business men from the adoption of the American proposal there is no intention to fight against the adoption of that proposal. Rather, it is intended to line out the extent of the sacrifice that business men would be called to make and call attention to the fact that they stand ready as one element of the American citizenship to join the nation in making the common sacrifice for the welfare of humanity.

Upward of 1000 concerns now have contracts with the Government in connection with the construction, begun or projected, of war vessels and arms. The Government last year dispensed more than $90,000,000 in connection with its naval building program.

There is no attempt on the part of official Washington to minimize the cost to business of the proposed naval holiday. But, on the other hand, it is desired that the real facts be made known so that these facts cannot be distorted.

Lighten the burden of the individual taxpayer in Europe and the East and the principal nations of the world will come again into the world markets for goods, in the opinion of American delegates to the Limitation of Armaments Conference. This is their answer to the complaint that American business will suffer a big loss.

Fredericton Fair Association Plans For The Future

The Association at Present Has Deficit of About $7,500.

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 24.—Agricultural Society No. 34, which conducts the Fredericton exhibition, held its annual meeting this afternoon and afternoon reports, adjourned until a date not later than Jan. 15 to allow time for the working out of a scheme of twelve directors, elected by the society, and three elected by the City Council. It is proposed that such a holding company will have control of the property used for exhibition purposes. As thirty days must elapse before the changes in the by-laws necessary for the formation of such a company can be made, the adjournment took place.

Reports were presented by Secretary W. S. Hooper, Treasurer C. Fred. Chestnut, and heads of the various departments. Upon presentation there is a deficit of some $7,500 on the exhibition, but that amount is subject to alteration as there are numerous amounts payable to the secretary which will reduce it materially when collected.

A recommendation has been made to purchase the lot at the corner of Saunders and Smythe streets, owned by the McCrea estate. It is improbable that the recommendation will be carried out owing to the financial position of the society.

Slidehara's Illness May Affect Policy

Ambassador May Give Way to Military Party.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—The continued illness of Baron Slidehara, Japanese Ambassador at Washington, is attracting marked attention. Nothing is definitely known of the Ambassador's condition. The Japanese insist he has been seriously indisposed. In other quarters curiosity regarding the Japanese Foreign Office is losing control of the situation in Washington and that the military party in Tokio has assumed direction of the negotiations.

The Japanese reaction to this is that the policy of the Japanese delegation is wholly unchanged by the recent accession of Premier Takahashi and that it continues to aim solely at arriving at a firm basis of peace with all the world and especially with a complete understanding with the American Government.

SORES SPREAD ALL OVER FACES AND BODIES

Mrs. Howard Hoeltzle, Westchester, N.Y., writes: "I wish to tell you of the benefit we have received by using your valuable medicine Burdock Blood Bitters. My children started to break out on their faces in small white pimples which kept getting larger each day. I was told to use the Bitters and they would come off, and each time the sores would be larger; some were as large as a twenty-five cent piece, and would spread all over their bodies. I was nearly in despair and sent to the village for a bottle of good blood medicine. The druggist sent me a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters which I commenced giving them at once. In about ten days I saw an improvement, and they grew steadily better each day, and in one month the sores had all disappeared."

Children's Aid Society Annual

Reports Received from President and Agent, Showing Good Work Performed.

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held in the Children's Aid Home, 68 Garden street last night with the president, A. M. Belding in the chair. Election of officers resulted as follows:

A. M. Belding, president; Mrs. W. B. Tennant, first vice-president; Mrs. J. H. Doody, second vice-president; Mrs. J. B. Scott, secretary.

The annual reports of the president and agent were on motion referred to the incoming executive. Before the election of officers Mr. Belding intimated his desire to resign from the presidency. Those present, however, were unanimous in refusing to consider the matter and Rev. W. M. Deane and David Hipwell spoke in high terms of praise of the work done by Mr. Belding in his office.

Representatives were appointed for the Women's Council. They were: Mrs. W. B. Tennant, Miss "Frank", Miss Annie O'Neill and Miss Suckell.

In his report the President repeated the plea made in previous years for a provincial system of mothers' allowances. Such a system, properly administered, would enable many good mothers to keep their homes instead of having them broken up and the children scattered, also the plea for a provincial superintendent of neglected and dependent children. Many appeals have been received from places outside the jurisdiction of this society, or those of Fredericton and Moncton, and some are very pathetic cases; but because there is no Children's Aid Society and Children's Shelter in the county, town or village, there is no machinery to bring the law into prompt action. A provincial superintendent would organize such societies, appeal to the municipal authorities, get shelters provided, and himself have authority to act in any case in any part of the province. We should have child wardens, to conserve the greatest asset of the Province. He remarked that until St. John has a fully equipped juvenile court with probation officer it cannot deal effectively with the problem of juvenile delinquency. There is also need of a police woman, to protect girls of tender years whose parents are indifferent or ignorant of their conduct in the streets at night.

The agent should have to place eight children in institutions within a week, and that seven of these should be deserted by their mothers, emphasize a condition which is the despair of child-welfare agencies. The class of mother who is only too ready to rid herself of the care of her children presents a problem with which it is extremely difficult to deal. A number of such cases have been brought to the Society's attention during the last few weeks. Mothers' allowances would be of no benefit in these cases, unless under a very close supervision, because the maternal instinct appears to be lacking. It is a distressing fact that such mothers are found, and they present a social problem of grave significance, which calls for the devotion and influence of sympathetic social workers constantly following up such cases. I may add that of five children taken into our care today four were of school age, and while three had been at school, the eldest being twelve years old, none of them had got beyond the first grade. This suggests the need of stricter enforcement of the compulsory attendance law in this city, as the case cited is by no means an isolated one.

The society since the advent of prohibition, has not been called upon to deal with such glaring cases as formerly, when police raids left groups of helpless children to our care; but there are still many cases of neglect to be dealt with, and the extent and value of the work done from day to day and week to week cannot be shown by any set figures, especially as our aim is not to break up, but if possible to build up the home, and only in hopeless cases is the law invoked.

One of our troubles at the moment is that of finances. Last January, knowing the many demands upon the municipal treasury, and hoping for generous support from private sources, we asked for a grant far short of our actual needs. Our hopes were not fulfilled, but we now trust that the day is held by our ever sympathetic friends of the Local Council of Women will meet our needs until the next grant is made. While the total of our expenditures is large, it must be remembered that the children who are brought to our Home need special care and good nourishment. We are especially fortunate in having our present matron in charge, and the whole work of the Home, under the careful supervision of our ladies' committee, is well conducted.

Because there is not sufficient accommodation in other institutions we are constantly being asked to take children who should be otherwise provided for. If there were a home where children could be placed to board, under proper care, in the many emergency cases that arise, it would serve a real and pressing need; for the orphanages are not large enough to take care of all that need a temporary home while a mother is in hospital, or when for some other adequate reason they cannot be looked after in their own home.

The problem of the mental defective is still with us, and cannot be dealt with in a satisfactory way until a home for the feeble-minded is provided; and it should be a properly equipped provincial institution.

This year as last we have to pay tribute to the faithful and fruitful work of our agent, Rev. George Scott, and my most sincere thanks are due to the members of the board for hearty and cheerful co-operation, and a devotion to the work which I feel has been more active throughout the year than my own.

Agent's Report

In his annual report the agent referred to the assistance services rendered by Dr. Macpherson well as by Dr. McGeorge who kindly volunteered their services to care for the little ones under the care of the Society. While there was no serious outbreak of sickness in the home there were innumerable calls on these two gentlemen which were always cheerfully responded to. He also acknowledged his indebtedness to the Police Department of the city whose services were always willingly rendered. The Commissioner of Public Safety has had in many ways aided him in his work in the actual hearing of cases. Chief Justice McKeown, J. King Kelley, K. C., and J. L. Thorne had shown ready sympathy while Kenneth A. Wilson often at much sacrifice to himself had attended all hearings on behalf of the Society.

The total number of visits made during the twelve months was 550 to 53 families. The number of children involved were 234. Thirty of these children were admitted to the Home; thirteen were sent to other institutions; five were committed to Reformatory institutions and one died. The average number of children in the Society's care per month was 24, and the number in the Home on October 31st was 25.

Inquiries in regard to cases from outside points were received from nine counties in this province, three, were from Nova Scotia, two came from Boston and one each from New York and New Hampshire. In the past twelve months 350 letters were written and 240 post cards were sent out.

Common Council Dealt With Report

Matter of West Side Trestles Fully Gone Into by Commissioners.

At a committee meeting of the Common Council yesterday, the joint report, made by the City Engineer and District Engineer Kirby, of the C. P. R., in reference to the West Side trestles, was considered section by section and was considered satisfactory. Suggestions were made which will involve making some of the sections more durable and these will be reported on again by the city and C. P. R. engineers, and the city solicitor will then be asked to advise on the legal aspect of the proposed agreement.

Commissioner Bullock was asked what amount of money had been expended on the trestle this year, and he replied that upwards of $18,000 had been paid out. He said section L provides that the city be reimbursed by the railway for repair work on the docks in 1921.

Commissioner Bullock explained that an estimated revenue of $7,500 was expected from the car rental scheme, which went into effect on Nov. 1. From the revenue would have to be deducted an estimated expenditure of $5,000 for checking. He said the C. P. R. had already begun to charge the rental of $2.50 against the traffic.

Commissioner Bullock said that a clause would be added to the agreement, requiring the C. P. R. not to charge traffic for car rental on the city's trestles. The railway had agreed to do this.

Commissioner Bullock said that the annual expenditure on the trestles had been from $2,000 to $10,000, and that had there been such an agreement such as is proposed, half that expenditure would have been saved.

Commissioner Frink said that the policy of the city has always been to expedite and facilitate the work of the C. P. R., as that railway has been a tremendous factor in developing our trade. It is well that the elasticity between the C. P. R. and the city should continue. We recognize the potency of this corporation and will probably arrive at a satisfactory agreement.

The Mayor suggested that Messrs. Hare and Kirby get together again and later that the city solicitor be called in. If the details of the clauses can be made satisfactory the section relating to the rental of $2.50 a car can be eliminated. Commissioner Bullock said Vice-President MacTier had approved of the principle of the proposed com-

Who Perpetrated the Railway Crime?

Grain shipments go to Portland over the old Grand Trunk lines, not over any part of the Canadian National lines controlled by the Board appointed by the Government.

In reply to an enquiry by Hon. Dr. Baxter as to the quantity of grain being shipped to Portland and whether the C. N. R. had any authority to order it routed otherwise, Mr. D. B. Hanna, President of the C. N. R. Board of Management, writes as follows, under date Nov. 18th:

"As perhaps you know, the management of the National Railways has no jurisdiction whatever over the Grand Trunk Railway, and I am, therefore, not in a position to give you any information respecting the movement of traffic on that line."

The policy of the Meighen Government is to bring the Grand Trunk under the management of the Canadian National Board and thus control shipments over all parts of the Grand Trunk, assuring trade through Canadian ports. The Liberal party in the first place was responsible for the diverting of Canadian grain to Portland through the deal which gave the Grand Trunk access to the grain fields of the West at an expenditure of $500,000,000 of the people's money.

The Liberal party, again under Quebec leadership in fact if not in name, threatens once more to strike at the interests of the Port of St. John. Sir Lomer Gouin advocates return to private ownership of the National Railways and the giving of further assistance to the Grand Trunk. Hon. Mr. Lemieux is out and out a C. P. R. monopolist.

Under the Meighen plan we are paying dearly for the railways, it is true, but we have the railways and they are now more than paying operating expenses.

The Liberals are not agreed on any definite policy but, they do appear to be agreed that Canada should keep on paying for the railways and not own them, nor control them to the extent of confining Canadian trade to Canadian Ports.

Is this good business? Blair was Right in 1904; Laurier was wrong. Meighen is right in 1921; Gouin is wrong.

HON. MR. BLAIR'S WARNING

What does the right hon. gentleman mean when he says: "We cannot wait, because time does not wait."

"I think, Mr. Speaker, and I say it with all respect to my right hon. friend, that it would have been as correct if not so poetic for him to have said: 'We cannot wait because Senator Cox cannot wait.'"

"I am unable to understand, after we had adopted the principle of Government ownership down to this point, what are the reasons, what are the cogent and convincing reasons why we should divorce the principle of public operation from the principle of public ownership, and hand the road over to the operation of a private company. There is no reason to my mind which at all ought to commend this idea to one's reasonable judgment. Therefore, I complain of that feature of the scheme. I think it is, in this respect, radically defective, and that it cannot be worked out successfully. I think it contains defects which will impair the successful working of the railway and which will prevent, rather than promote, the successful working out of financial results. And it will strike a blow, which I regret to see struck by the Government of this country, at the principle of Government ownership."

"The outcome is most gratifying from both a national and international point of view. The gain to our country (Canada) from an economic point of view is likely to be considerable. While the scheme finally settles its terms, it is likely to be responsible for an effort in colonization difficult to parallel."

"And the Yorkshire Observer (London), among other Old Country nays, makes this prediction: 'It is a goodly proportion of returned soldiers can be re-established in Mr. Meighen's scheme, a great will be taken towards the realization of the prediction that Canada is to enter upon an era of material prosperity.'"

"In this way has praise been accorded on the Federal Government's very drastic and beneficial act."

"A member of the New Zealand legislature, Mr. William Jennings, was in Ottawa in September, making a statement that Canada's soldier settlement scheme was proving to be more successful than any other settlement scheme adopted by any other country."

THE GOVT HAS INTERESTS OF

All classes in the community should be political opinion and the Liberal, Conservative, Farmer, all have whole country through the settlement project.

In an address in Winnipeg, D. B. Hanna said: "The Government of Canada is ready embarked on a plan of assistance to those of our return men who wish to go on the land. I am glad to bear tribute of acknowledgment that the work the Government has done in this respect up to the whole to be well justified."

The Manitoba Free Press Bulletin of Feb. 13, 1920, said: "The scheme will not only give the soldiers but will be a great benefit to the whole country through the development and increased production resulting from it."

The Toronto Globe, Oct. 1, 1919, says: "The Soldier Settlement Board has made mistakes and probably human enough to make others, is doing a real service and justifying its formation."

While the Montreal Star expresses the opinion that: "We have made a much better of inducing returned men to take land than we did after the South African War, in spite of the fact there are now far more soldiers less available good land, now seems every chance that the Canadian population will be increased a thoroughly desirable element."

Other quotations: "Kingston Whig: One of the drastic land measures ever brooked in Canada... Far better the most sanguine of the returned soldier bodies hoped for; the backland movement finds much among returned soldiers."

Ottawa Journal: The scheme wisely conceived and thoughtfully worked out with the twofold object of benefiting the men who deserve that Canada can give and of adding to the Nation's wealth by filling empty spaces and increasing the volume of agricultural production."

Farmers Magazine: That to make good and the produce of farms will add considerable to the volume of agricultural production of Canada."

The Toronto Star: It now appears that the work of soldier settlement may develop into a big important movement.

The Veterans: Results have proved the soldier settlement scheme on the whole a most excellent and progressive measure for the re-establishment of a large number of returned men.

Such as these quotations have appeared in leading newspapers throughout Canada, but the scheme has been lauded by Old Country papers of those of the United States as well. Leslie's Weekly, of New York, its issue of October 3, this year, full description of the soldier settlement in Canada, and what has been done by veterans generally by the Government. In an editorial comment on this work, Leslie's holds Canada as an example for the United States, observing:

"The keynote of the Canadian scheme is self-help, the provision of opportunities by which the Canadian soldier, or his widow, can become useful and honored a citizen in his own country, and the produce of his own land. It is a programme that has ready stood the test of time, as compared with our own which, so far as it exists at all, is still in a state of infancy. It is a scheme which, with its eagerness of purpose and less talk, might have adopted in its place with equal success."

"And when, after a million of the men who served our army or navy, were wounded in their behalf, suffering from neglect, it will do no harm to regard with humble gratitude, more generous, more effective course of our neighbor and ally to the north."

Extracts could be multiplied, one or two more will suffice: "The Christian Science Monitor, Boston, a great newspaper says, referring to the splendid success of settlement in Canada, that: "The outcome is most gratifying from both a national and international point of view. The gain to our country (Canada) from an economic point of view is likely to be considerable. While the scheme finally settles its terms, it is likely to be responsible for an effort in colonization difficult to parallel."

THE GOVT HAS NOT NEGLECTED INTERESTS OF THE RETURNED MEN

All classes in the community, every shade of political opinion and the press—Liberal, Conservative, Farmers—will have united in endorsing the land settlement project.

In an address in Winnipeg, Dec. 10, last, Mr. Crerar said:

"The Government of Canada has already embarked on a plan of generous assistance to those of our returned men who wish to go on the land, and I am glad to bear tribute to the acknowledgment that the work the Government has done in this respect appears on the whole to be well justified."

The Manitoba Free Press Evening Bulletin of Feb. 18, 1926, said that:

"The scheme will not only benefit the soldiers but will be a great benefit to the whole country through the development and increased production resulting from it."

"The Soldier Settlement Board has made mistakes and probably will be human enough to make others, but it is doing a real service and justifying its formation."

While the Montreal Star expressed the opinion that:

"We have made a much better job of inducing returned men to take up land than we did after the South African War, in spite of the fact that there are now far more soldiers and less available good land. . . . There now seems every chance that Canada's farmer population will be increased by a thoroughly desirable element."

Other quotations:

Kingston Whig: One of the most drastic land measures ever brought up in Canada. . . . Far better than the most sanguine of the returned soldier bodies hoped for, the back-to-the-land movement finds much favor among returned soldiers.

Ottawa Journal: The scheme was wisely conceived and thoughtfully worked out with the twofold object of benefiting the men who deserve all that Canada can give and of adding to the Nation's wealth by filling up the empty spaces and increasing the volume of agricultural production.

Farmers Magazine: That there are bound to be failures is certain, but the way many are making good is encouraging.

Grain Growers' Guide: A great majority of the settlers will doubtless make good and the produce of their farms will add considerably to the volume of agricultural production in Canada.

The Toronto Star: It now begins to appear that the work of soldier settlement may develop into a big and important movement.

The Vancouver: Results have proven the soldier settlement scheme to be on the whole a most excellent and progressive measure for the re-establishment of a large number of returned men.

Such as these quotations have appeared in leading newspapers throughout Canada, but the scheme has been lauded by Old Country papers and those of the United States as well.

Leslie's Weekly, of New York, in its issue of October 3, this year, has a full description of land settlement in Canada, and what has been done for war veterans generally by the Government. In an editorial comment of this after-war work Leslie's holds up Canada as an example for the United States, observing:

"The keynote of the Canadian programme is self-help and the provision of opportunities by which the Canadian soldier, or his widow, can become as useful and honored a citizen in peace as in war, an asset instead of a liability. It is a programme that has already stood the test of time, as compared with our own which, so far as it exists at all, is still in a tentative stage. It is one which with greater singleness of purpose and less politics, might have adopted in its essentials with equal success."

"Now, when maybe half a million of the men who served us are out of jobs, when thousands of those who were wounded in our behalf are suffering from neglect, it will do us no harm to regard with humble gaze the wiser, more generous, more efficient course of our neighbor and ally to the north."

Extracts could be multiplied, but one or two more will suffice:

The Christian Science Monitor, of Boston, a great newspaper says, referring to the splendid success of land settlement in Canada, that:

"The outcome is most gratifying from both a national and international point of view. The gain to the country (Canada) from an economic point of view is likely to be remarkable. . . . When the soldier settlement scheme finally fulfills its measures, it is likely to be responsible for an effort in colonization difficult to parallel."

And the Yorkshire Observer (England), among other Old Country journals, makes this prediction:

"If a goodly proportion of returned soldiers can be re-established under Mr. Meighen's scheme, a great step will be taken towards the realization of the prediction that Canada is about to enter upon an era of unexampled prosperity."

In this way has praise been showered on the Federal Government for this very drastic and beneficial project.

A member of the New Zealand Legislature, Mr. William Jennings, who was in Ottawa in September, made the statement that Canada's soldier land settlement scheme was proving to be more successful than any other land settlement scheme adopted by any belligerent country.

With the details of the land settlement plan the people of Canada are familiar. The Government in effect said to every returned man:

"If you sincerely desire to take up land and you possess the necessary qualities to farm successfully, we will assist you with advances by way of loans up to $7,500 for the purchase of private lands, for stocking and equipping a farm and for erecting the necessary buildings. We will lend you money at 5 per cent for long periods. We will assist you in your farming operations by giving counsel and by aiding in any other way to make your venture a success. If you are not qualified to farm and earnestly desire to take advantage of the benefits of the act we will pay you subsistence allowance for yourself and dependents during such time as you are gaining experience while working on a farm. We will help you to buy machinery and live stock at prices below those quoted to ordinary farmers.

Up to the end of July, 43,765 returned men had been accepted by the Board as qualified out of 60,827 who had made application. Of this number 26,701 had found desirable locations and had been established as settlers. Loans had been granted to 26,634 men amounting to $84,777,245. There were settled on free Dominion lands, 9,230 men, of whom 6,077 did not ask for loans. These men have so far, on the whole, made excellent progress, as shown by the latest figures published by the Board. In the fall of 1926, there was due from settlement $2,314,548 in the way of repayments, and the amounts received, which included repayments over and above the amount due was $2,259,697. There were 403 who repaid their entire loans, although in some cases they had 26 years to do so. Of course, there have been failures. The Board reports something like 1,470 men who are in process of adjustment, i. e., men who are not giving evidence that they will succeed. Of these 425 have been replaced and their farms sold to others with an average loss in each case of only $19.30, which is a most satisfactory state of affairs. The slight loss is accounted for by the natural depreciation in implements and stock, in most cases the land was sold at an increase. Out of 283 parcels of salvaged land in the Western Provinces, which have been resold, the board obtained for land and buildings $90,000 more than the price paid.

It is difficult to appraise the full value to Canada of such a land development scheme. It means that nearly 5,000,000 acres of land have been placed in the possession of war veterans, about 2,500,000 acres being free lands which are now rapidly coming under cultivation. Some of these free lands are situated in former Indian and Forest Reserves, Grazing Leases and other lands that had been idle from the beginning of time. They are being developed into progressive soldier settlements, adding greatly to the increase in agricultural production, to the freight receipts of the railways, to the business of manufacturing firms, to the improvement of conditions generally. In 1926, soldier settlers produced more than 10,000,000 bushels of grain crops.

Although our sister Dominions in the Antipodes have developed soldier land settlement schemes, there is no doubt but Canada has gone farther than any other belligerent country and evolved the best soldier settlement plan in existence. There has been a great deal of talk in the United States about a similar scheme, but it has ended in talk. Nothing has been done yet and the millions of soldiers who enlisted under the banners of Uncle Sam have received nothing in the way of encouragement to go back to the land. In the Mother Country no loans are made to returned soldiers. Great Britain has spent about $20,000,000 to purchase land for soldier settlement. The plan is for soldiers to work on a colony farm, sharing the profits. Applicants are employed as farm laborers at current wages during the training period, after which the applicant is allowed, at a rental, as much land as he is likely to work successfully. There is a central farm on the colony which has machinery and horses to hire to occupants of holdings.

Thus we have shown the great advantages possessed by Canadian war veterans over those of other countries in the way of gratuities, pensions, vocational training and land settlement. The fifth number in the series will deal with insurance.

GAUNTLET GLOVES.

Paris, Nov. 23.—Gauntlet gloves seem to be taking the palm for smartness this fall. However, this need not imply that the staple two-button glove is passing out of date. The gauntlet is simply taking place along with it, and offers opportunity for newer effects not possible with the button glove—the leather fringe finish, for example, introduced in Paris, and now adopted by many buyers.

This season a particularly original innovation is the white or black kid gauntlet with royal blue velvet facing, embroidered in white. Whether we will adopt it remains yet to be seen. Fabric gloves are worn extensively, and the English tan cape glove remains its followers, as it is still the best match for the Russian calf shoes which we like so well to wear with the fall tweed or other sport suit.

Progress Made in Dealing With The India Rebellion

Large Concentration of Moplahs is Reported Taking Place at Bear Chembrasana.

London, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Although the official report of the operations against the Moplahs in Southern India, declares that considerable progress is being made in dealing with the rebellion, it is evident that the process of clearing up still involves severe fighting, from the announcement that 233 Moplahs were killed and fifty-four captured. One Gurkha officer and one British officer were killed in the drive north of the Beypore river. A large concentration of Moplahs, under all the best known leaders, is reported as taking place at Bear Chembrasana, and the British authorities think it would probably be most satisfactory from a military point of view if this force could be induced to give battle.

EXPENSE OF ARMIES MAY BE IN OPEN REVIEW

Attempt to Limit Land Forces Will Compel Powers to Reveal Costs.

Washington, Nov. 23.—(Associated Press)—Army expenditures of the various Powers probably will come under review if the Washington conference makes any serious attempt to work out a scheme for limitation of land forces.

The most authoritative data thus far available indicates that the per capita military expenditures for purely army purposes of the five countries are as follows:

Continental United States, $3.22; Great Britain (mother country), $12.35; France (excluding dependencies), $22.53; Italy, $6.70, and Japan, $3.33. Including figures for possessions or dependencies for each the figures are: United States, $2.89; British Empire, $1.71; France, $10.24; Italy, $6.34, and Japan, $2.42.

Actual expenditures of the five Powers on the armies, exclusive of the air service, on a current basis, are approximately as follows: United States, $242,000,000, being the total for the army and fortifications for the fiscal year 1922; British Empire, $755,000,000; France, $933,000,000, including $54,000,000 in addition to the budget for the Army of the Army of the Levant; Italy, $245,000,000; Japan, $189,000,000, including a special allotment of $50,000,000 for the Siberian expedition.

The pay scale for privates per day for men of the lowest grade is as follows for each country: United States, $1; United Kingdom, 69 cents; France, 5 cents; Italy, 4 cents; Japan, 6 cents. The ration costs per man per day runs about like this: United States, 40 cents; United Kingdom, 51 cents; France, 33 cents; Italy, 69 cents, and Japan, 17 cents.

The United States does not contemplate offering any definite programme for limitation of land forces during the conference here, and so far as the American delegates and their military advisers have been able to ascertain, none of the foreign delegations has prepared proposals for army reduction.

The United States has no proposals for army limitation, it was said on authority today, as she had nothing to offer in her own behalf, the American army already being as small as is consistent with national safety and domestic needs. Great Britain, it was said, was in similar position, her army not admitting of any reduction.

Radio Prescription Helps Patient At Sea

New York, Nov. 24.—A wireless message from the Canadian ship Volunteer, 160 miles east of New York, was received Saturday at the Seaman's Church Institute, 25 South street. "Seaman suffering from bad swelling over knee," the message read. "Appearance of housemaid's knee. Unable to move. Intense pain. Advise."

The appeal was relayed to the Public Health Service Hospital, and Dr. Gray of that institution wired back: "Advise Epsom salts to pint of hot water. Five drops of carbolic acid added to boiling hot water and apply with hot compresses to knee joint for several hours."

Four hours later a radio came from the ship stating that the remedy had been applied and that the patient was out of pain and grateful.

Grandma Used Sage Tea To Darken Hair

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mix the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wynth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the oldtime recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not stylish, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wynth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

ST. JOHN, N. B. FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1921.

THE MARITIME PROVINCES' DESTINY IS WITHIN THE EMPIRE AND HON. MR. BAXTER.

Macdonald, Currier, Tupper, Talbot and others gave us Confederation. The spirit that moved them to this great feat was love of country, belief in the strength of the union of the Canadian provinces and races, a deep-rooted faith in the future of the British Empire, and an unwavering loyalty to the British Crown.

For many years the Maritime Provinces gave to Canada its greatest statesmen, originating in many cases, and in all, aiding in carrying through the many measures of national importance that made Canada what it is today. The Maritime Provinces and the Maritime Province men bulled big in the affairs of the nation. Latterly, and it applies when both parties were in power, the Maritime Provinces seem to have lost their status and now occupy a more lowly position than they did and than they deserve. What is the reason, and where does the blame lie? The reason is more hard to find, but the blame can be traced to ourselves. The Maritime Provinces will only become what our men and women make them, and only to the extent that they are an important and necessary part of the Dominion. We have depended too much on the sacrifices that we were supposed to have made in entering Confederation, and placed too much reliance on the gratitude and generosity of the larger provinces, that seemed to have reaped the greater benefit of the pact. We are trying to improve our future out of the shadows of the past. We have lived too long in the past and not looked far enough into the future. We have trailed each year into Ottawa with our taxes of war. Our population has been decreasing, our industries have had unfair competition, our subsidies have not been what they should be, railway rates have been advanced, and even some so far as to say our railways have been taken from us. These and similar complaints reached Ottawa with the postscript: "Give us something for the wonderful things we have done in the past, and for the sacrifices that we have made that the rest of Canada might grow." Many memories are short and in the age of commercialism and keen competition it is becoming still shorter. Everybody is looking for a "quid pro quo."

Now, what have the Maritime Provinces to offer to the rest of Canada, outside of their "glorious past," that the rest of Canada should join in doing something for them? It is not a dream, it is a statement of a plain fact, that the Maritime Provinces are the most essential part of the Dominion of Canada, if this country ever hopes to reach that stage of development, that position of independence and security, that freedom of trade dependent entirely on our transportation facilities both by land and water, which are all essential to a sovereign state. No country will ever be great whose trade with foreign countries must go to a foreign seaboard over foreign railways. In a time of stress, whether it be commercial or military, Canada must not be at the mercy of another nation. This was experienced in 1914. Where would Canada have been from 1914 to 1918 during the winter months if it had not been for the maritime ports of St. John and Halifax and the all-Canadian I. C. S. T. That will be forgotten unless the rest of Canada is reminded that it is to the interest to develop these maritime ports and have the Canadian trade go to foreign countries through Canadian ports at all times of the year.

As a necessary complement to the railways is the water-transportation. If private enterprise cannot for some years encourage services to new fields of export, then the Government is justified either in subsidizing ships or operating them. The Merchant Marine is doing this today and, in spite of criticism, will be a great factor in the development of foreign markets for Canadian products. Doubts may occur, but the indirect benefits to the country will more than offset them. It is also a mistake for a country to buy too much from its next door neighbor, especially when that country is more populous and immensely wealthy, and particularly where that neighbor produces and manufactures the very things that the smaller one does. Commercial domination is as bad as military domination. The only cure for that is a tariff high enough to protect the agriculturists and manufacturers of the smaller state; such time as it can stand competition. Reciprocity is a good thing and ideal, but it must be reciprocal and not one-sided. It will be reciprocal and advantageous to the countries involved where one produces what the other does not and cannot. With a tariff against the United States, really protective and sometimes retaliatory, Canada will be in a position to make preferential trade agreements with practically all the countries of the world; and let those preferential agreements have taken on to them the clause that the preference only applies when the goods are shipped out of or into Canadian ports.

Joseph Chamberlain's efforts to bring about preferential trade within the Empire were deserving of better results, and of the hearty support of the Maritime Provinces. The rest of Canada, we know, believes in the Empire. The unity and strength of that Empire will be more readily assured if its component parts trade as much as possible within themselves. On the future of the Empire depends the future of Canada. We might get along without it, but we do not want to, either from a sentimental or commercial point of view. Direct trading with all parts of the Empire, by land and sea, will mean to it a viable, real and concrete fact. If the Empire is necessary to Canada's growth, if that Empire's future is strengthened by having our own Canadian railways and our own Canadian ports, summer and winter, fully developed and equipped, is it not time that the other provinces of Canada turned their eyes to the Maritime Provinces and made them, at whatever cost, the dependable outposts of the Empire on the North American continent. The West, Ontario and Quebec do not wish to be cut off from the outside world in the winter, except through a foreign country and they will be wiser if they realize what can be accomplished by the national idea of developing the Maritime Provinces and forcing Canadian trade, at least in the winter, over Canadian railways, through Maritime Province ports, and by doing so they can make this country absolutely independent of its next door neighbor.

On Halifax just extended beyond the limits of the Maritime Provinces. It is for us to prove that we are worthy of consideration. Let the past be our heritage of which we can be proud, but we need something more to make our future what we know it can be. In Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, an account of his ability, character and integrity, we have a man who can be the apostle of this new creed, "The Maritime Provinces' Place in the Empire." No one is better qualified to convince the other provinces that New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and their welfare is of vital importance to Canada and his argument will not be that we want things for any political advantage, or any political party, but because the prosperity of the Maritime Provinces, the development of our ports and the carrying of Canadian trade to and from those ports to all parts of the world, are needs which neither Canada nor the Empire can overlook. The working out of this destiny must be left to the successors of that great Canadian, Sir John A. Macdonald, who transmitted in 1891 that inspiring message to the Canadian people:

"Shall we endanger our possession of the great heritage bequeathed to us by our fathers, and submit ourselves to direct taxation for the privilege of having our tariff fixed at Washington, with a prospect of ultimately becoming a 'portion of the American Union'?"

"I commend these issues to your determination, and to the judgment of the whole people of Canada, with an unclouded confidence that you will proclaim to the world your resolve to 'show yourselves not unworthy of the proud distinction that you enjoy—of being numbered among the most dutiful subjects of our beloved Queen. As for myself, my course is clear. A British subject I was born—a British subject I shall die. With my utmost effort, with my natural breath, will I oppose the 'velled treason' which attempts by sordid means and mercenary 'prudence' to lure our people from their allegiance."

and not to the successors of that other great Canadian, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who in 1911 at the same time mistakenly laid down as his policy for Canada "Unrestricted Reciprocity with the United States."

CANADA BEFORE THE WORLD

The result of the impending general election will be interpreted by the outside world as the reaction of the Canadian people to the peculiar conditions which obtain as a result of the world war. These conditions of disturbance and unrest are universal.

Guesses as to the result of the election are based upon the assumption that Canadians, in common with other people, have drifted from the traditional moorings and are eager to grasp at sensational doctrine, in the belief that there is an easy and hazardous way out of existing difficulties. So many unfamiliar irritations have swept down upon us that demagogues can get a ready hearing for their plausible falsehoods. Responsible leadership is pictured easily as base conspiracy; the tendency is widespread to turn to strange and alluring theories in the extravagant hope that some magic may be forthcoming to overcome the awful wastage and disturbance of the Great War.

How many Canadians have been swept off their feet by all that has happened? Will Canada, quality before the interested world as another awful example of post-bellum confusion as Russia has done? Is this country, which kept her head so admirably amidst the red alarms of war, to fall so far below the reputation achieved by her soldiers and their supporting masses as to add the weight of her popular weakness to the anxious old world's crushing load of unrest?

There are Canadians who covet for their country a more useful and honorable part in world affairs. Indeed, the determination exists that Canada shall, in the full exercise of her freedom, take a stand for order and authority which may carry far beyond our borders a message of hope and cheer. To this task of demonstrating Canada's stability and good sense is summoned all those who are too proud and strong to fly in the face of the currents of unrest. To this crusade is called an honorable company of responsible citizens, who can see beyond the momentary accidents of the electoral mood, who can rise above the tumult of unreasoning demagogues who can visualize their country as a sober and ordered land in a world of drunken revelry.

The next crisis in Canada for a great movement of sanity and restraint. Who can glance at the daily spectacle of rampant class hatreds, body at play in the political arena, without feeling some sense of disrespect for the Canadian mentality?

Is Canada no longer a nation but an assortment of occupational groups arrayed against each other in envious selfishness? Mindily accepting theories that are universal as the peculiar distress visited upon us by our vicious neighbor-Canadians?

Hon. W. E. Foster is reported in the Liberal press as having said at St. Andrews, in an effort to make capital against the Government, that the distance from Montreal to Portland, Me. is 171 miles. The exact distance is 297.25 miles. Anyone desiring of confirming this assertion can do so by referring to the folder of the Grand Trunk Railway system, table 61. We have no desire to accuse Mr. Foster of deliberately stating an absurdity, but we would advise him in the interests of St. John not to make the distance to Portland any shorter than it actually is.

One of the most amusing incidents of the campaign is the side-tracking of King, the Liberal leader, by Gouin, who is stayed by his friends—the little Napoleon of Quebec. The boy leader has been strongly bewitched to one side. Quebec Liberalism has asserted itself as the power.

Premier had on? In that case H. R. would have the satisfaction of feeling that he was the better dressed man of the two, so why worry?

The gut across the way says the sort of chap she can't stand is one of those who smokes a strong pipe, and then declines to discuss with her because she has packed onions for supper.

Seems to me it is carrying this disingenuousness a little far when the police are ordered to take photographs of the boys. They are doing this in St. Thomas, Ont. I see.

According to the newspaper reports, admission to the Arbuckle trial is by card only. Apparently this is quite the event of the San Francisco social season.

An association of prune growers on the Pacific coast announces that it is putting on the market for the Christmas trade a carton containing eight pounds of choice prunes. This would make an appropriate gift for the boarding-house mistress.

"Reginald, old dear," says the Eminent Girl, "It says in this paper that scientific measurements show that girls' heads are broader than boys' heads, as a rule." "Maybe they are," I said, "but they ain't half as level."

I see where a hunter who was mistaken for a rabbit, was shot in the underbrush. Is this what they are calling boards and whiskers now?

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Respectfully and Admiration. (Mail and Empire). Mr. Crerar says openly that if put into office, he will immediately begin negotiations with Washington for another reciprocity pact. Here comes to the front again that issue of 1891 and 1911. The Knox-Fielding agreement was for reciprocal free admission of a large group of natural products, but Mr. Crerar wants not only that, but he likewise proposes to reduce materially the Canadian tariff on manufactured goods. In 1911, the Laurier campaigner tried to argue that the Fielding agreement did not touch duties on the general run of manufactured goods, but the people refused to accept reciprocity in "natural products" as not threatening economic invasion in the whole field of Canadian industry, and turned it down.

Now comes the Crerar group, denouncing Protection as unjust and immoral, and proposing another Knox-Fielding pact along with similar free admission of industries whose capital in Canada is $600,000,000, who employ 180,000 people normally, and who are responsible for perhaps one-third or one-fourth of all Canadian industrial activity. For in instances, there are about thirty farm implement manufacturers in Canada. They produced in 1919 implements valued at $37,715,000. Under "free" implements, what will happen to them? A few companies, such as the Massey-Harris Company have admitted that they could survive, given free raw materials, but that is because 60 per cent. of their output goes to foreign markets. How many of the 36 companies have a relatively large foreign market? Few indeed. These companies would be virtually put out of business by the competition of American companies with foreign markets. Canada would be one of the "foreign markets," and the main business of manufacturing implements would be transferred from Ontario to the Middle Western States. Thus one stroke, the Crerar group would open Canadian markets to a large list of American products, and encourage importations that ought to be discouraged, and chop down home industries that make markets for our own food products.

Mr. Crerar knows that the "agricultural bloc" at Washington, as it is called, is determined on keeping out Canadian farm products. That Mr. Crerar has the audacity to propose reciprocity shows contempt for that solid Canadianism that once before, in the crisis, stood firm for "Canada First."

Low Tariff and Revenue. (Ottawa Journal). Asked where he will get revenue if he practically abolishes the tariff, Mr. T. A. Crerar falls back upon the hoary argument that a protective tariff does not secure revenue because it keeps out goods, whereas a low tariff, permitting entry of goods, provides more duties.

Let us see how this theory worked out in Canada last year. During the fiscal year ending March, 1920, the Canadian Government collected in duty, on dutiable goods imported from other countries, the gross sum of $127,000,000. The war tax of 1-1/2 per cent. was then struck off, lowering the tariff by that amount; and what happened? Despite the fact that there was an immense increase in imports, customs revenues furnished by nearly $10,000,000 for the year. For the year ending March, 1920, the total amount of dutiable goods imported was $47,500,000. But though more than $100,000,000 worth of foreign goods entered the country, ten millions less revenue entered the treasury.

In other words: More foreign goods and less work for Canadians and less revenue for the Canadian Government.

A Plain Solution. (Ottawa Journal). If some one with occult power of influencing public opinion would convince the people of Canada that their railways can, almost overnight, be turned from a losing to a paying venture, he would only have to tell them that the solution is "more traffic."

What the Canadian National Railway system asks for from those who own the railways, and those who own the people of Canada, is not to discriminate against their own property, the "default" which is pushing the minds of economists will disappear like snow on an April day.

Obituary William H. Colwell. Many friends will regret to learn of the death yesterday morning at 6.00 at his late home, 144 Douglas avenue of William H. Colwell, in his eighty-fourth year. The late Mr. Colwell was born in Careton, Jan. 16, 1837, of Loyalist parentage, and lived there until thirty years ago, when he moved to the city. He was in business at Pleasant Bay for many years, retiring from active business only four years since. Deceased is survived by his wife, one brother, Levi Colwell, of Charlottetown, one brother, R. B. Colwell, a prominent merchant of Halifax, N. S., and six daughters, Mrs. W. C. Vincent and Miss Elizabeth B. Colwell of Winnipeg, Man.; Mrs. P. C. Head, of Halifax, N. S.; Miss Annie B. Colwell of New Brunswick, and Misses Nettie G. and Emma L., at home. Mr. Colwell had been ill for three weeks and seriously ill for the last eleven days. He was a highly esteemed and much beloved member of the German street Baptist church; previously he had been a deacon of the late residence on the Sunday school there for many years. In politics the late Mr. Colwell was a staunch Conservative, always serving his party with a faithful and untiring energy, and was interested in the welfare of his native city and his country. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. Mr. and Mrs. Colwell were within four days of celebrating their fifty-first wedding anniversary. The funeral will be held from his late residence on Saturday, Nov. 26, at 2.30 p. m.

George Wilson. Miss Eliza Wilson of 60 Princess street, has received the sad news of the death of her brother, George Wilson, of Wilmshurst, Ohio, after an illness of about a year. The Dread Pylorrhea Begins With Bleeding Gums Pylorrhea's infecting germs cause many ill. Medical science has proven this. Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pylorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth.

Science finds that a great many people grow prematurely old and worn out because their foods lack one important substance called vitamin.

FOR WOMEN

Santa Claus Opens Christmas Stocking Fund For Wee Waifs

Wireless to Standard Readers from "Never-Never Land," Notifies Them That Fund to Ensure Merry Yuletide for Unfortunates is Open.

Santa Claus Land, Nov. 24.—Suppose nobody cared for St. John's unfortunate little children who, to the estimated number of thousands will hang up their empty stockings vain on Christmas morning unless Standard readers all those empty stockings by subscribing to The Standard Readers' Empty Stocking fund, 1921. I am glad that everybody will help in this great work, the rich and the poor, in the true spirit of Christmas giving. I know you will prove that "Somebody cares," by sending me to fill every empty stocking in this city by the sea. Help me in this great work. Love and happiness to you all, this Christmas.

Empty Stocking Editor Opens Fund

This wireless message from "Never-Never Land" of little children proved irresistible to the Standard Reader Empty Stocking editor when he received it today, so he declares the lists open and invites the public to fill once again, as of yore, the empty stockings and to gladden little hearts as they look through wintry windows at homes or in institutions on Christmas morning.

Address all subscriptions to: Empty Stocking Fund, Standard, St. John, N. B. Make contributions by cheque, money order, postal note or registered letter, or make your contribution at the Standard office.

Santa Claus, in his wireless message to Standard readers, has stated the case clearly. The need this year will be greater than ever and his faith is that greater than ever will Standard readers rise to that need in the name of Him who wrote: "As much as ye have done it unto the least of these, my little ones, ye have done it unto me."

SOMETHING ABOUT WORD TEMPERANCE

The word "temperance" has been used for a long time to denote abstinence from alcoholic beverages. But now that meaning has been set aside, the world is coming to look upon the word in its broader sense. Mothers, for instance, who ardently write and valiantly preach temperance daffily, teach temperance to their children by allowing them to make playthings of their stomachs. They are allowing these children to grow up with an exaggerated idea of appetite and desire.

A mother will allow her child to have what some of his little playmates may possess. If Miss Mary comes in to tell her mother that Betty has a new doll, she must have one just like it too, that mother breeds the germ of intemperance when she gratifies the wish. In later life, Mary will want what her neighbors have and not being able to possess those same things or duplicates thereof, she will become unhappy through the intemperate desire.

Household Hints

When a piece of ham begins to look "down at heart" and no longer attractive on the table, cut off a few slices of the lean and put them through the mincer. Add an ounce or two of cooked macaroni or spaghetti and a little grated cheese. Season well, and turn into a greased dish. Moisture with a little stock or milk, sprinkle the top thickly with grated cheese, and bake in the oven till brown.

Chicken Salad.
Two cups of the white meat of a cooked chicken, 12 blanched almonds, one and a half cups diced celery, a few capers. Mix all together with mayonnaise dressing, and serve on crisp leaves of head lettuce.

Stuffed Figs.
Purchase whole figs; pour hot water over them and let stand five minutes; open at one end and insert a marshmallow; roll figs in powdered sugar.

Current Tea Cakes.
Two cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 cup sugar, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1/2 cup currants. Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt; add beaten egg and melted shortening to milk and add to dry ingredients, add currants which have been washed, dried and floured; mix well. The batter should be stiff. Grease hot tiffin tin and fill half full. Bake about twenty minutes in hot oven.

Stuffed Leg of Pork.
Remove bones from leg of pork. Stuff with one cup of cracker crumbs, mixed with salt, pepper, one-half a tablespoonful of poultry seasoning and one-fourth a cup of melted butter. Roast in a moderate oven four hours. Serve with cooked cabbage and carrots.

Cranberry and Prune Pie.
Mix one-and-one-half cups of cranberries cut in halves, one cupful of prunes cooked until soft, and cut in small pieces, three-fourth cupful of sugar, and one tablespoonful of flour. Turn into a pieplate lined with pastry, dot over with one tablespoonful of butter, cover with strips of pastry, and bake in a hot oven. This may be baked in double crust if preferred.

HOW TO LIGHT AN INNER ROOM

An ingenious method of lighting the inner room which is shut away from direct outside light is the inside window. It is to bring light into a dark hall that the window was cut through from the living-room. Long and narrow, and gloomy, even with its light cut in small pieces, the hallway fairly seemed to pant for breath and for a ray of light from some other source than the front door. Consequently the owners had a friendly window cut through. From the hall the incoming light got a pleasant glimpse of the living room, with its grand piano, bookshelves and bowls of flowers, in fact, on the sill of this inner-room window stood a pot of English ivy, which will grow in shady places, and a low bowl of Chinese lilies, which should stand in semi-darkness until the leaves have gotten well started. Beneath the window bookshelves wandered along, and an inviting chair-covered chair was visible from the hall.

On the wall in the hall, deftly hung where it could reflect this inside window, was a large mirror which added its reflected light to the general brightening of the hall. A similar window can be used with good results in any room, which needs to get the light from an adjoining one.

"Dip And Rub," Charm Tale On Eye Beauty

Daily Care Will Surely Increase the Glory of All Important Feature.

The eyes are the mirror of the soul, the reflection of our thoughts. Their beauty lies not only in the expression that our thoughts define, but in the health of the tissue itself and the graceful clean eye cap and lid that outline them.

If you have been gifted with beautiful eyes it is a duty you owe yourself to preserve them. The eye is a delicate and important feature and special care must be devoted to the daily care of the eyes to bring out all the charm that lies in them. The daily eye bath is the rule that every woman should follow. At night, preferably, just before retiring is the best time to bathe the eyes. Mix a light solution of warm sterilized water, that is, water that has been boiled and cooled, with a pinch of boracic acid. Pour some of the solution into a scrupulously clean eye cup and lift it to the eye. Throw back the head and close the eye. Place the cup directly over the eye, open quickly and roll the eye around so that the boracic acid solution may touch every part of its tissue. A daily massage treatment to nourish the tissues from which these silken lashes grow will do wonders toward promoting their growth. A square of oil linen should be dipped into warm water, wrung out and applied to the eyes. With the eye open apply a small amount of white vaseline on the lower and upper lid.

The vaseline will nourish the brows, and makes and stimulates their growth. If applied faithfully once a day, in some cases a few weeks are necessary before the promotion of growth is discernible. It is sometimes used on the eyelashes to promote their growth. While its effectiveness may be seen in a shorter length of time; the lanolin is a product from the glands of sheep and is a little irritating to sensitive tissues. The salve is best used when heated and applied warm to the upper and lower eyelids, being careful to wipe away all excess. Brushing the eyelashes is another way to stimulate their growth. The lashes should be gently but firmly cleaned with one of the pencils or dust. Then the very narrow eyebrow brush is used, brushing with an outward stroke first the top lashes, then the lower.

The lashes may be brushed more effectively if the eye is closed and a gentle stroke is sent down the eyelid, eyelid out to the end of the hair. This stroke also tends to make the lashes curl back in a graceful line when the eye is opened.

LEXICOGRAPHER.

Mr. Punch prints the following: "Lines inspired by Professor Ernest Weekley's Etymological Dictionary of Modern English."

"The lexicographer's a drudge—
A harmless drudge," wrote Johnson on his tombstone.

Yet, Pace Johnson, this is fudge
When tested by the works of Weekley.

Though Becky Sharp could not endure
The gift of Johnson's volumes
She would have welcomed, I am sure,
The learned levity of Weekley.

He always wears a fawning guise;
He never compromises sleekly;
He's witty and he's also wise;
He argues strongly though he's —Weekley.

Rich in precise linguistic lore,
He's rich, he's positively treacherly
In his quaint congeries of War—
Is our alert omniscient Weekley.

So, whether you affect the high
Familiar style or chatter chit-chat,
In either case you can rely
Securely on the aid of Weekley.

In fact, these humble rhymes to close
His dictionary quite uniquely
The paramount "importance" shows,
And proves, "of being Ernest"—

SOME TIPS.

Don't forget the backs of the pictures or the tops of the doors. Quantities of dust settle in these places and vermin are often found there.

Rust on ironware should be well covered with lard and set in a hot oven for half an hour. Wash afterward with soap and water. The rust and grease will come away together.

Use your seam pan for individual omelets. Drop a piece of butter into each compartment, and divide the beaten eggs into as many portions as there are persons to serve. Place on pieces of toast, and serve individually. The little omelets take less time than a large one, and look far better.

The latest trend sports coats are showing a circular back akin to the cape of last season. Grey frocks in satin and lace will be popular as the season progresses. All shades of grey are being shown. Long side panels on the new sports frocks are edged with monkey fur. Some of the new French hat boxes have tiny inside pockets where sachets may be stored to keep lady's bonnets sweetly fragrant.

Anaemia

Thin, watery blood is no more nourishing than thin, watery milk. But you can soon enrich this blood, overcome the anaemic condition and build up the whole system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "For about eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I had nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. When I was a doctor, who told me I was anaemic, but as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while. I am quite well now, and decidedly and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

Latest Fashions In United States

Not even New York for Horse Show week revealed Fashion's last whisper as did Washington for the opening of the Armament Conference. Of dazzling brilliance was the White House opening reception, where American women's attire rivaled that of the most regal of their world visitors. Monday night's opening at the Metropolitan did not reveal lovelier gowns. They showed much the same color scheme, much white satin, metallic cloths, brilliant reds and rose and pink tints, particularly turquoise. Huge feather fans, black or white and vivid shades vied with the new vulture or coq plumes. The latter were favored in copper, dull green or Pompeian red.

Black velvet vogue continues for dowager and debutante alike, but the Metropolitan opening saw many sapphire velvet gowns, replacing the matron's black. Light blues are decidedly growing in favor, any blue, Washington and New York. Of fairy loveliness are the season's white gowns, much favored in chiffon or georgette accentuating with beaded trimmings.

Bandeaux of leaves, green, silver or gold, or studded with jewels, or brilliant jeweled bandeaux, are the favorite head-dresses. Bands of marble to match the hair, on the front of which is pinned a sparkling ornament, are also being worn, while the Spanish combs are larger than ever.

Black and silver or black and gold vie with velvet in new evening wear. One costly open cloak of ermine was lined with granitum red and worn over awn the satin gown. But the height of magnificence seemed reached in one of gold tissue lined with ruby velvet and outlined with black. While even the opera coats are seen with black panels.

"To paint the lily and gild refined gold!" These words haunt you when gazing on the new season's modishness. The afternoon frocks gleam with gold and silver. Grey or black duvetye skirts are topped with rich brocaded tulle-like bodices, and over it is worn a loose, long smothered with costly lace. There is a veritable mania for broadtail, caracul or krimmer.

For the opening of the arms party, there was no more smartly attired woman than Mrs. Mary Robert Roberts, who wore black broadtail with broadtail choker and a boxy, hip-length coat banded with this fur. A wide black hatters' plush hat with brush-like side mounts completed it.

Black leads with frocks on every occasion. Grey is its smart complement. Brown, in all its shades, is a close rival. One extremely smart Washington toilette was of tobacco brown broadtail with riding habit like coat to the knees, worn with a brown satin director's hat with heavy side plumes. Navy blue has almost vanished this season.

Purple tints, reds and grey were much in evidence at New York's Horse Show. Not in years has it been more picturesque than in the Upton Cavalry Armories, where it was held this year, instead of Madison Garden. A reproduction of Washington's Mt. Vernon mansion at the entrance formed the members' stand at one end. Laurel and bronze oak leaves embowered the entire building and the lights were enclosed. Maypoles twisted with red, white and blue ribbons through which shone golden gleams.

So keen an interest is the younger set taking in this year's Horse Show that even an old track attendant was enthusiastic. "It'll mean new life for the horses," he assured us, "those lazy fat men can go ride in their automobiles. Young New York seems to favor brown in the sports clothes she wears."

DOOLEY'S BRIDE

(Written in Cornish Dialect.)
Mike Dooley's first his married wife
Miss Molly Ann McGee,
The' phatver Mike could find in her,
Hobbed us all here in Killeas;
Her hair is red an' wavy, and her nose
is tilted baigh,
An' she looks a long way past ye,
wid th' aquaint' uv her eye.

When she wafts she's loike an o'treach shaking out her tail behind,
An' she's always that appearance as if she's something on her mind;
When her pigeon-toes git gone' and her lanky arms shewing out,
She's as comical as can be and a scare widout a doubt.

But Dooley's an Adams, an' as handsome as kin be,
So jolly an' so smottin', his hair ripplin' loike th' sea,
Tall and strong, an' so good-natured,
no better man yit meet,
Dooley's has an Irish gentleman from his brown curls 't his feet.

Yit we've wondered, and we've wondered at th' choice uv Dooley's mads,
He courted many coosens, swate girls
uv ivry grade,
Yit he's gone an' married Molly, th'
ugliest uv th' crowd.

Wholst his friends are fairly spittin',
Moid! wid laughter pretty loud,
Well 'tis only chance above us know, phatvar Molly's got,
And uv Dooley's future's happy there'll be lavings quite a lot.

Yit ye've seen some weo small wim-men many men us strong an'
tall, Wholst ogin some big fat females
merry men us lean an' shmall.

Well 'tis only Dooley's own affair, he but knows phat Molly's worth;
Outside she's just a scarecrow treadin'
on the lovely Airin,
Yit sometimes th' plainest cover hides a treasure held widin'!

Maybe some Angel's thus hears his 'cover up man's sin.
So Mike has his "Molly darlin'"
(seems a parody supremo)
Uf his choice is any wonder—let him have his plain dream!
We may laff, an' we may wonder, an'
may flivake our brow, Widall be seems so happy wid his
"Angel Molly" now.

CANARY BIRD AND THE WICKER

And still the bird hopped within its wicker," ends the opening sentence of "Falcon's Words," the novel supposed to have been written by a young woman who lived hundreds of years ago. The old English name for cage, which makes a noun of the word we use as an adjective, quaint and pretty enough to be adopted as when so many charming bird cages are made of wicker in all sorts of odd shapes and designs.

If you are one of those people who love birds too well to bear the thought of caging them and who care too much for real birds to be content with artificial ones then you will not want a "wicker" at all, yet they are temptingly decorative things, and one wishes there might be some reason for having one hanging in the window that would not involve either a caged live bird or a wooden substitute.

Occasionally, however, a wickered bird is a missionary, even if it is a nurtury. When it bears company to some shut-in.

High in her sunny window, with a wide expanse of dilly park beyond, hung a wicker cage in orange with a bright yellow canary singing his heart out to such an unfortunate patient. She admitted that the bird

Hairpins Bear Sweet Sachets

The woman with beautiful hair will love this different way to freshen sachets which one clever woman discovered and all of her friends are copying. Get six of the large unorna-mented bone hairpins. Make very very narrow, sachets not over an inch long. Put a frill of dainty organza, preferably with some delicately colored flower design, around the top of the pin, passing the cloth under the loop and sewing it together. Slip the sachets in. A bit of lace may be added as a finishing touch.

helped make her long hours shorter than any of the people or books or flowers that came her way. And the "wicker" was certainly a cheerful addition to the pleasant things infused that had been planned for her.

WORLD'S GREATEST PLAYERS, P.

Among the Ladies, Mrs. Lam Best, With Mrs. Bundy. Next in Order, by Capt. I. sted Mallory is Placed T

(By Capt. R. Innes-Taylor.)
It would not matter who ranked the first ten greatest tennis players the world has seen, there would be bound to be a difference of opinion for the reason that there have been more than ten really great players. This is not so much so the lady players as the first ten seem to me to stand out fairly prominently.

The most-talked-of lady player today is the wonderful French girl, Miss Suzanne Lenglen, who has won the world's championship three times. Unfortunately she has somewhat marred her record by defaulting to Mrs. Mallory in the American championship when she was being beaten. To be a really great tennis player, or a great player of any game, one must be able to lose as well as win.

Miss Suzanne Sulks.

Miss Lenglen played three hard sets with Sam Hardy the day previous to her match with Mrs. Mallory, during which she showed very little evidence of distress. There is absolutely no doubt in the mind of anyone who saw her match with Mrs. Mallory, that the French girl could have finished the game. She has been spoiled by her parents. Her father has openly said that it is better for her to default than to be beaten, as default is bad for her morale. People in this country do not know, I think, that this is not the first time that Suzanne Lenglen has refused to continue when the game was going against her. As a stroke player I do not think the world has ever seen her equal. Her strokes are made with the same apparent ease that characterized the strokes of the late H. L. Doherty. There is no weakness in her game—she volleys beautifully, is very fleet of foot, has a forehand drive with a lovely follow through and a sound backhand, but she has a poor tennis temperament.

Miss L. Dod a Great Player.

Undoubtedly one of the finest lady players we have ever had was Miss L. Dod, who won the world's championship five times, 1887, 1888 and 1891 to 1893. Her game was modelled on the Renshaw style of play. She volleyed with great precision and had very fine ground strokes. Many of the old time players think that she was the greatest of all. She retired from the game in 1893 after winning the championship that year, and then went in for golf, which she succeeded in winning the British amateur championship. There have been few finer lady athletes than Miss Dod.

Mrs. Chambers Ranka First.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy would be given a place among the great players by everyone. To my mind they were the two greatest exponents of the base line game we have ever seen or are likely to see. In 1906 and 1907 Mrs. Bundy, then Miss Sutton, beat Mrs. Lambert Chambers at Wimbledon. In 1906 Mrs. Lambert Chambers scored a win over the Californian girl so that Mrs. Bundy has two wins to Mrs. Lambert Chambers' one, and yet I think that Mrs. Lambert Chambers was the greater player of the two. She has won the world's championship seven times. She lost it in 1912 to Miss Lenglen after a most thrilling set in which she was twice within a point of match. This stamps her as a very great player. It is 18 years ago since she won her first world's championship at Wimbledon. Mrs. Sutton Bundy won the American championship once. The only reason she did not win it more often was that she was playing in England.

Mrs. Hillyard a Veteran.

Mrs. Hillyard, who is still playing tennis, won her first championship in 1886, and now has a record of six world's championships to her name. Mrs. Sterry (who was Miss C. Cooper) has won it five times. They both played good, sound tennis, but frankly I do not think their tennis is as good as Mrs. Hillyard's. Hillyard's tennis was a most thrilling set in which she was twice within a point of match. This stamps her as a very great player. It is 18 years ago since she won her first world's championship at Wimbledon. Mrs. Sutton Bundy won the American championship once. The only reason she did not win it more often was that she was playing in England.

Miss Browne's Volleying Strong.

Miss Browne's short volleying is truly wonderful, better, I think, than any lady player. Mrs. Wightman is a very strong volleyer and once won an extraordinary match against Mrs. Bundy at Niagara-on-the-Lake. After losing the first set 6-0 she having the second set 6-0 against her, Mrs. Wightman proceeded to win every game from then on. I do not know of a similar occurrence in first-class tennis.

WORLD'S GREATEST TENNIS PLAYERS, PAST AND PRESENT

Among the Ladies, Mrs. Lambert Chambers is Considered Best, With Mrs. Bundy, Miss L. Dod, Mlle Lenglen, Next in Order, by Capt. Innes-Taylor—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory is Placed Tenth in List.

(By Capt. R. Innes-Taylor.) It would not matter who ranked the first ten greatest men tennis players the world has seen, there would be bound to be a difference of opinion for the reason that there have been more than ten really great players. This is not so much so the lady players as the first ten seem to me to stand out fairly prominently.

The most talked-of lady player today is the wonderful French girl, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, who has won the world's championship three times. Unfortunately she has somewhat marred her record by defaulting to Mrs. Mallory in the American championship when she was being beaten.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen. Mlle. Lenglen played three hard sets with Sam Hardy the day previous to her match with Mrs. Mallory, during which she showed very little evidence of distress. There is absolutely no doubt in the mind of anyone who saw her match with Mrs. Mallory, that the French girl could have finished the game. She has been spoiled by her parents. Her father has openly said that it is better for her to default than to be beaten, as default is bad for her morale.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers. Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy are the two ladies who have finished the game. Mrs. Lambert Chambers is the only one who has won the world's championship three times. She has won it in 1902, 1903, and 1904. Her father was a very fine forward drive; Mrs. Lambert Chambers has won five tournaments this year, and Miss K. McKane, the most promising young player in England today, who recently beat Miss Ryan at Hendon.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory is the most finished player of all, but, personally, I do not place her as No. 1 of great lady players. She lacks one of the great essentials of a great player. My ranking would be: Mrs. Lambert Chambers, Mrs. Bundy, Miss L. Dod, Mlle. Lenglen, Mrs. Wightman, Mrs. Mary Browne, Mrs. Hillyard, Mrs. Sterry, Mrs. Larcombe and Mrs. Mallory.

Mrs. Hillyard a Veteran. Mrs. Hillyard, who is still playing tennis, won her first championship in 1886, and now has a record of six world's championships to her name. Mrs. Sterry (who was Miss C. Cooper) has won it five times. They both played good, sound tennis, but frankly I do not think their tennis is as good as Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, who won the American championship four times, or Miss Mary Browne, who won it three times. Both Mrs. Sterry and Mrs. Hillyard are good base line players, but not as good as either Mrs. Bundy or Mrs. Chambers, and neither of them possesses the all-round game of Mrs. Wightman and Mary Browne. The latter, I think, has the finest form of any lady player with the exception of Mlle. Lenglen.

Miss Brown's Volleying Strong. Miss Brown's short volleying is truly wonderful, better, I think, than any lady player. Mrs. Wightman is a very strong volleyer and once won an extraordinary match against Mrs. Bundy at Niagara-on-the-Lake. After losing the first set 6-0 she having the second set 5-0 against Mrs. Wightman proceeded to win every game from then on. I do not know of a similar occurrence in first-class tennis.

Mrs. Mallory this year's American champion and in all winner of the championship four times, is a very sturdy and aggressive player. She beat Mrs. Bundy in this year in the final, but then Miss Brown had been out of the game for years. Of the two, the latter has the better strokes. Miss Brown has given up tennis for golf, at which she has won the Southern California championship.

Defeats Mrs. Mallory. Mrs. Larcombe has won the world's championship once and been the runner-up twice. She defeated Mrs. Mallory this year in straight sets. She is an exceptionally fine doubles player.

Several Star Players. Other ladies who deserve mention are: Miss D. Boothby, winner at Wimbledon in 1900; Miss M. E. Robb, who beat Mrs. Sterry for the championship in 1903; Miss Ryan, who has won fourteen tournaments this year; Mrs. Hannan, who played every one year and was beaten by Mrs. May Sutton Bundy in the final for the international—Mrs. Hannan has a very fine forward drive; Mrs. Shattertown, who has won five tournaments this year, and Miss K. McKane, the most promising young player in England today, who recently beat Miss Ryan at Hendon.

Mrs. Bickie Best Canadian Player. The best lady player who has ever been equal, her strokes are made with the same apparent ease that characterized the strokes of the late H. I. Doherty. There is no weakness in her game—she volleys beautifully, is very fleet of foot, has a forward drive with a lovely follow through and a sound backhand, but she has a poor tennis temperament.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy would be given place among the great players by anyone. To my mind they were the two greatest exponents of the base line game we have ever seen or are likely to see. In 1906 and 1907 Mrs. Bundy, then Miss Sutton, beat Mrs. Lambert Chambers at Wimbledon. In 1906 Mrs. Lambert Chambers scored a win over the Californian girl so that Mrs. Bundy has two wins to Mrs. Lambert Chambers' one, and yet I think that Mrs. Lambert Chambers was the greater player of the two. She has won the world's championship seven times. She lost it in 1912 to Mlle. Lenglen after three thrilling sets in which she was twice within a point of match. This stamps her as a very great player. It is 18 years ago since she won her first world's championship. Mrs. Wightman and Mrs. Sutton Bundy won the American championship once. The only reason she did not win it more often was that she was playing in England.

Mrs. Hillyard a Veteran. Mrs. Hillyard, who is still playing tennis, won her first championship in 1886, and now has a record of six world's championships to her name. Mrs. Sterry (who was Miss C. Cooper) has won it five times. They both played good, sound tennis, but frankly I do not think their tennis is as good as Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, who won the American championship four times, or Miss Mary Browne, who won it three times. Both Mrs. Sterry and Mrs. Hillyard are good base line players, but not as good as either Mrs. Bundy or Mrs. Chambers, and neither of them possesses the all-round game of Mrs. Wightman and Mary Browne. The latter, I think, has the finest form of any lady player with the exception of Mlle. Lenglen.

College Football In United States

Penn. State's Undeclared Team Held to Scoreless Tie by Univ. of Pittsburgh.

New York, Nov. 24—College football featured the sporting schedule in connection with today's Thanksgiving Day celebration. In the feature game Penn. State's undeclared team, playing at Pittsburgh, was held to a scoreless tie by the University of Pittsburgh's warriors. The game was played on a field ankle-deep in mud. Pitt outplayed the visitors gaining more ground through the line and around the ends, and registering seven downs for four for State, Colonna, full back for Pittsburgh, made a number of sensational gains.

Colgate Defeated Columbia. Colgate defeated Columbia in a morning game at South Field here, mainly through the spectacular running of Captain Webster who scored all three maroon touchdowns. Twice he caught punts and ran for distances of 40 and 50 yards respectively for touchdowns. Later he caught a forward pass and made a forty-yard run for another score, the game was played in a driving rainstorm.

Cornell Won. At Philadelphia, Cornell's team came out of a six-year slump on Franklin field and defeated Pennsylvania 41 to 0. The Ithacans who had not crossed the red and blue lines since 1909 scored six touchdowns and overwhelmed the Pennsylvania eleven.

The Results. At Pittsburg: Pittsburg 0, Penn State 0. At Morgantown, W. V.: Washington and Jefferson 13, West Virginia 0. At Detroit: University of Detroit 21, Michigan 0. At Washington: Georgetown 14, DePauw 0. At Cincinnati: University of Cincinnati 7, Miami 15. At Baltimore: Johns Hopkins 0, Washington and Lee 7. At New York: Colgate 21, Columbia 14. At Philadelphia: Cornell 41, Pennsylvania 0. At Springfield, Mass.: Springfield 0, New Hampshire 0. At Brookline: Brookline High 19, Deerfield High and Chicago 14. At Cleveland: Western Reserve 0, Case 0. At Athens: Ohio University 0, Marietta 0. At South Bend, Ind.: Notre Dame 48, Michigan Argles 0. At New Orleans: Centre 21, Tulane 0.

Horse Races For Winter Carnival

Ottawa Plans to Spring Something New at Big Winter Event.

Ottawa, Nov. 24—In connection with the winter carnival, which is now assured for Ottawa, there will be the biggest winter meeting for trotters and pacers ever held in Canada. Plans are already under way to arrange a programme of races which will be most attractive to horsemen and spectators alike. A committee of management will be appointed and an effort made to arrange with Mount Clemens, Mich., Toronto and Montreal associations to have no conflict of dates, so there may be a grand array of harness horses for the meeting, which is to be staged here January 25 to February 4.

Some famous trotters and pacers, particularly the latter, have been seen in action at local winter meetings, notable among them being Frank Bonshaw Jr., 1894, world's champion gelding, and the fastest harness horse ever foaled in Canada. In addition to the best of the horses racing on this winter being brought to Ottawa, there will also be a score of leading drivers, including many of grand circuit fame.

Famous Veterans Piloted The Giants

John McGraw, Hughie Jennings and J. Burckett in Many Championships.

New York, Nov. 24—Reunited after many years of glory and strife on the diamond, a great trio of baseball players brought the New York Giants through this season's battles for the pennant. John McGraw, Hughie Jennings, Jesse Burckett—the names of all three are written on the top of the list of baseball's heroes. And then to make the record complete, they won the big series.

McGraw is finishing his twentieth year as manager of the New Yorks, and in this year he has had as first assistant Jennings, his old teammate on the old team of Orioles of Baltimore, and Burckett, as the second deputy. The individual records of this trio at bat and at the bat stand out among the greatest in the history of the game.

Burckett has never had the good fortune to manage a major league team, but McGraw has piloted the Giants to a goodly string of flags, and Jennings has won three pennants with the Tigers. Trio Hit 300 As Players. McGraw was a third baseman, first with the great Baltimore club and then with St. Louis, and when he landed in New York he retired as an active player and became a leader—one of the foremost in the annals of the game. Jennings was a shortstop—first with Louisville, then with Baltimore, and finally with Brooklyn. His work as manager in Detroit came to a close with the season of 1920.

Burckett came to the Giants in 1896 as a pitcher, but was converted into an outfielder because he could not control his left-handed shoots. And as an outfielder with New York, Cleveland and St. Louis, Burckett made history as one of the most able batsmen in the game.

The batting records of McGraw, Jennings and Burckett, combined, represent 27 years of hitting over the 350 mark in the big show. Burckett batted better than 300 for 11 years, McGraw for nine and Jennings for seven. Burckett was the mightiest of the trio, and in 1896 he batted .423—a mark second only to Hughie Duffy's .428 of 1894.

Hugh and John opposed Burckett, McGraw's top average was .390, in

Carpentier Is The French Fallen Idol

Jack Dempsey's annihilating smashes, which sent Georges Carpentier sprawling to the mat in Jersey City, also "fumbled" the gorgeous Georges from his high pedestal in France. The quondam idol of the French people, broken in morale as well as in body, finds himself no longer acclaimed, but the subject of some ridicule.

The boxing editor of L'Auto, the most prominent French sporting newspaper, was in a very close touch with Carpentier, says Georges' former fight agent. He says Carpentier could not get three rounds with any opponent without a rush of blood to the mouth. In his present shape, according to L'Auto's boxing expert, Carpentier would not be a good match even for Ted (Kid) Lewis.

Francois Decamps, Carpentier's manager, attempts to make light of Georges' ailments. He says Georges is merely suffering from a bad case of grip, but admitted he would be to be abed for three weeks and could not do any training at all for a month. It was this attack of grip that necessitated the postponement until some time in January of the fight with George Cook, the Australian light-heavyweight, scheduled for December 8 in London.

Those who know Carpentier rather intimately have observed a great change in his manner—a decline in his spirits since Dempsey's right fist crashed against his jaw and laid him low. However, it was the body-beating he suffered from Georges' former fight agent, which appears to have caused the injury to which L'Auto man referred by saying, "There is something wrong with him inside."

George was to have appeared at a matinee benefit performance for the widows and orphans of his dead comrades of the Air Service. At the very last moment Carpentier sent a telegram to the committee asking to be excused. That was the "breaking." The press "lambasted" him for it. Newspaper comments pointed out to Georges that many other former flyers, wholly blind or maimed, went through intense pain to appear in benefit shows for the dependents of their dead comrades, whereas he, the idol pampered by all of France, a man of great wealth, would not exert himself to make a success of the benefit

Old Glory Horse Sale At New York

New York, Nov. 24—Canadian horsemen were once more in evidence in the second day of the Old Glory Horse Sale, held at Squadron A Armory.

William McMannus, Truro, N. S., added three youngsters to his string. One, a yearling, was purchased by S. A. Proctor, Toronto; Joe Rochette, Quebec; D. M. Braull, Valleyfield; G. N. Jordan, Three Rivers and C. H. Cleveland, Danville, Va.

The stock offered for sale yesterday was fancier than on the opening day and prices ruled much above the first day's average.

Forty-one colts, comprising the bulk of the harness racing stable of S. A. Fletcher, Indianapolis, were sold for $161,000.

At the close of the session ninety-two standard bred horses of all ages had been sold for a total of $135,160, or an average of $1,470 per head.

The top figure was $15,100, paid by the Good Time Stables, Goshen, N. Y., for Laurel Hall, 2,081-4, br. c., 1918, by Peter the Great, dam Baby Bertha by Silk Cord.

Another Peter the Great got, Vologda, br. c., 1920, brought $12,000, going to R. B. Moreland, Lexington, Ky.

Mr. McManus' purchases were: Nashla, b. f., 1920, by General Watts, dam Axilla, by Chino, $775. Silk Pringe, 2,271-2, b. f., 1918, by San Francisco, dam Cream Silk by Director Spier, $575. Peter Brewer, b. c., 1920, by Peter the Great, dam Zembrowa by Zembrow, $1,075.

BY LEE PAPE

Me and pop was in the setting room, pop smoking and thinking and me looking at my arismetok homework and wishing that whoever invented homework had bin ran over or something before they invented it, and all of a sudden I had a keor. saying, Hay, pop, I bet you use to be good as anything in arismetok wen you went to skool, didnt you, pop?

Well I believe there was one boy in the class better than I was, but he was inceptions, sed pop.

Did you ever win any prizes or anything, pop? I sed.

Not that I can remember, may have, sed pop, and I sed.

Well G pop, gook, I tell you lets wa, supposing you do this trample that we got for homework and see if your anser is the same as mine, and if it is I'll know mmes rite.

Lets have a look at it, sed pop. And I showed him the example and he took out his fountain pen and started to do it on a pece of paper, saying, Let me see now, lets me see, this looks simple enuff, let me see, if 4 men can do a pece of work in 3 and a half days working 8 hours a day, let me see, was kind of a foolish example is this to give a child, let me see, no thats not rite, well if you were able to do it I certynly ari to.

And he kept on talking and making faces and putting down numbers for about 10 minuts and then he sed, O, thats simple enuff, theras nothing to that, Ive got the anser already.

G that was quick pop, no wonder you use to win prizes. Leave me see the anser you got, I sed.

Wats your anser? sed pop, and I sed, Leave me see yours and Ill tell you if its the same.

O ho, I smell a rat, sed pop and I sed, Sir? and pop sed, You havent done the example at all, have you?

Sir? No sir, I sed, and pop sed, Then let the 4 winds of heaven take my anser. And he tore up his peeces of paper with the anser on it in little bits of peeces and throw them up in the air and they went all over the floor, and wen ma came in stairs she made me pick them all up.

The Annual Ten Mile Road Race

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 21—Earl Johnston, of the Edgar Thomson Club of Braddock, Pa., won the third annual Irish-American Athletic Club ten mile road race here today. His time was 53 minutes 45.45 seconds.

Johnston was followed by Charles L. (Chuck) Mellor, of the Logan Square Athletic Club of Chicago. Steve McMillen's heels was Albert Smoko, of Peterboro, Ont.

James Moorecroft, of the Gladstone Athletic Club, of Toronto, was fourth, and Saylor Munnick, of Detroit, fifth. A field of fifty-two contenders faced the starter at Ferndale, a suburb. The course was down Woodward avenue to Grand Circus Park, in the heart of the business section here.

1894, the year that Ed. DeLahanty finally succeeded in his long effort to go over the 400 mark with an average of 408. Jennings did his best work with the bat in 1896, when he hit .397. Tatters, three, indeed!

Burckett went to Cleveland in 1892, and saw his club beaten for the National league pennant by Boston. It was not until 1895 that Burckett was arrayed against both McGraw and Jennings in the Temple cup series.

With Burckett playing a heroic role with the bat, the Spiders took the measure of the pennant winning Orioles that fall. Cleveland won four games and Baltimore only one. In 1906 it was Baltimore against Cleveland again for the Temple cup, and once more it was McGraw and Jennings against Burckett.

This time the Orioles cleaned up with no losing a game. They took four straight, finishing the series with a 5 to 0 shutout on the grounds of the Spiders. Baltimore was in the series again in 1897, but Cleveland had dropped back and Boston fought the Orioles for the old trophy. The Orioles won that final competition for the Temple cup.

Ottawa Hockey Club Secures Great Star

Ottawa, Nov. 24—The Ottawa Hockey Club announced tonight the identity of a big league star they have been negotiating for during the past week. The puck chaser, whom the Ottawa hope to land to replace Sprague Cleghorn, is none other than Gordon Roberts, who was for several seasons the leading scorer of the National League. Roberts was the property of the Pacific Coast League, but he came east on business and the Ottawa received today his release and transfer from President Frank Patrick of the Pacific Coast League, with which he played until last season. Roberts is endeavoring to make business arrangements and if he succeeds he will sign an Ottawa contract in a day or two.

TRAIL RANGERS LEAGUE.

The second basketball game in the Trail Rangers League was played in the Germania street Baptist gym last evening between the Germania Street Baptist Chippewas and the St. David's Trail Rangers. The Chippewas won by a total score of 24 to 7. They also had the best of the first half, when the score was 15 to 2. The game was not so one-sided as would be thought according to the score, but proved a good hard fought clean battle and a number of the young players showed considerable class.

P. B. Cross refereed in a most satisfactory manner. The teams lined up as follows:

St. David's: Forwards, H. Pheneay (captain), Ban Turner, Centre, Sterling, Carson (captain), Guards, Saxe, Thomson, Donnelly, Sparsa, O. Pheneay, Chippewas.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The moderate area centered over the lower lake region this morning has moved to the New England coast attended by local showers in Southwestern Ontario and light snowfalls in Northwestern Ontario, Southern Quebec and the western portion of the Maritimes. Temperatures continue low in the West.

Forecast—Strong winds or moderate gales westerly; some light snowfalls, but mostly cloudy and somewhat milder.

Northern New England—Cloudy Friday; Saturday fair, no change in temperature. Fresh and strong west and northwest winds.

AROUND THE CITY

COMMENCED WORK. The Federal Public Works Department yesterday started work of fitting up shed "D," sand point, for cattle. The job will be completed in three weeks, and accommodation will be provided for 600 cattle. The cost is estimated at $10,000.

OFFERS FREE FUEL. Commissioner Frink told the commissioners at yesterday's meeting of a conversation with Henry King, who has been engaged in lumber operations near Miscpec. He said Mr. King had a large quantity of wood there which he would give free of charge to the poor of the city for fuel if the city would arrange to have it hauled in. He said he considered the offer a generous one.

TWO SESSIONS HELD OF THE PARIS MURDER TRIAL YESTERDAY

Entire Morning and Afternoon Taken Up With Direct Evidence Given by the Accused and in Cross-Examination—Maintains He Was in Truro on Date of Murder.

Yesterday morning and afternoon sessions of the circuit court in the trial of John Paris, charged with the murder of Sadie McAuley, were taken up with the direct evidence and cross-examination of the accused. Every detail concerning dates were gone into and with the exception of a few instances the prisoner told about the same story as he did on his first trial. The case will be resumed this morning.

Morning Session. When the court opened for the morning session Paris again took the stand in his own defense. He gave a detailed statement of his movements from July 23 until the time of his arrest. He denied having a conversation with Humphrey with regard to burying the body of the murdered girl. His story was much the same as on the former trial. For over an hour he was subjected to cross-examination by the Attorney-General.

He said he left St. John for Truro on July 23 and Walter Humphrey accompanied him to the station. He told of places he had called at and whom he saw in Truro on Aug. 2, and said he left Truro on the night of Aug. 3, and told who he traveled with on the train to St. John, arriving here on the morning of Aug. 4.

The witness said he never had a khaki shirt since he had been in St. John, nor had he ever owned a pair of khaki riding breeches. He identified a pair of khaki trousers produced in court as his. He said he did not wear them in Truro, but wore a blue suit.

Cross-examined by Mr. Byrne, he said he did not buy a ticket for Truro on July 23 but paid the conductor. On Aug. 7, he said, he was in West St. John, and was in the city or Carleton on Aug. 8. He thought he went first to Truro on Aug. 9.

Paris said he was at the Truro railway station on Wednesday, July 27, but said he did not see Archie Paris there on that date. He said it was not true that he had asked McDonald for $20 on Aug. 1, telling him that he had just come back from Truro. He said he was not at Truro station on the night of Sunday, July 31. He said he was not picking berries on Aug. 2, but was picking berries in July.

He said that Mrs. Craft, Mr. and Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Gerow said that they saw him in West St. John on the evening of Aug. 2, but he said it was on the afternoon of that day he sold gasoline in Truro. He said that he was to Spencer's garage on Aug. 2, but was not in the garage. He was arrested for the theft of this gas later, and had a preliminary hearing in Truro. Louis Bayard, the man who went to the garage with him.

Asked if Alonzo Bagnall gave evidence in Truro, Paris said he did not remember.

Asked if Bagnall gave evidence that he (Bagnall) was in Spencer's garage there, Paris said he did not remember.

The court adjourned until 2:30. Afternoon Session. On the opening of the court in the afternoon Paris was called to the stand.

At the request of Mr. Byrne, all witnesses for the defense were ordered to withdraw from the court room. Mr. Byrne then resumed his cross-examination. To his questions Paris said he left St. John on Saturday, the 30th of July and went to Truro by second class. He was not as clear as Sunday the 31st as he was to the 1st of August. He remembered the 29th and the 28th after some pondering. He had "a slight memory of those days." On the 27th of July he remembered being at the station at Truro at about 10 o'clock about the time the train left.

He did not say the gasoline was stolen on the 26th, but on the 26th or 27th. The statement made by one of his own witnesses that he saw him in Truro on the night of 31st of July he would not say is not correct, he might have been there. He believed he was there, but might have a doubt. It would be possible to leave Truro on the 31st and arrive in St. John the next morning. If he did that it would be possible for Mrs. Calvin to see him in the park the 1st of August there.

Mr. Byrne told Paris to fix his mind on the 2nd of August, the day the little McAuley girl, who he was charged with having murdered and outraged, disappeared and tell him truthfully what he had done on that day. Quite calm and collectedly Paris proceeded to outline his movements on that day. That morning, he said, he went to town with Louis Bayard and gathered clothes, at Mrs. Archibald's, Queen street; from there they went to Hill's for groceries and drove home.

In the afternoon Paris said he came to town on a bicycle and met the Bayard boy in a wagon. The latter had a five gallon can of gasoline which he asked Paris to sell for him. Paris mended five garages he visited in an endeavor to make a sale, and said he only succeeded at the sixth, Nichols', where he was given $2 for it.

From there he said he went to Snook & Ruante's grocery and to Hill's, where he purchased two dozen coats. From there he went to the Eastern Hat and Cap Co. factory where he was paid 95 cents for three hours' work. The hour was then 2:30. He started for home and on the way met two colored girls, Annie Clyde and Lou Collins. He gave the Clyde girl his wheel to ride into town on an errand, but as she could not ride it, went back for her himself.

He turned in a paper she gave him at Hill's and received some parcels. He got some meat at another shop, and went back, arriving at Clyde's at 5 o'clock. He got to his own home about six or seven he thought. After he left the girls he rode to William Byard's home and gave Louis Bayard, his son, the wheel. Then he went to John Byard's house. It was then about six o'clock.

To the question of whether he had

Luxor Temple Held Grand Ceremonial

Excellent Banquet in Evening—Forty Candidates Walked the Burning Sands.

A grand ceremonial was held by Luxor Temple Myrtle Shrine last night in their rooms, Masonic Temple, Germain Street. There were present Nobles from all over the province and it was voted as being one of the most successful ceremonials yet held by Luxor.

A first class dinner of many courses was served between 7 and 8:30 o'clock and nearly two hundred Nobles were in attendance. After the dinner and a few toasts the members adjourned to their rooms and forty candidates traveled the burning sands and after their journey appeared pleased with it. The candidates are from different parts of the province.

When the ceremonial had finished an excellent programme of moving pictures were shown by Reginald March, manager of the Specialty Film Import, Ltd., which delighted the large audience.
