The following article is worthy an attentive perusal. We will be happy to hear again from our friend D.

NECESSARY THINGS.

Well, what are they do you ask? Why, a sickle if you are to reap; a knife and fork if you are to eat; and—books if you are to study. People never think of reaping, or eating, without the appropriate instruments; but as regards studying, many at least seem to think that it needs no instruments. This is a fair inference from their actions. They send their children to school without books, or without anything like an adequate supply. But sickles and knives, are no more necessary to the employment for which they were made, than are books for education. This is a simple truth, but rarely thought of by some people. They will send their boys to school, year after year, with an old spelling book and testament—and not infrequently with but one or two of each, to three or four scholars; and imagine that they are providing sufficiently for their education. If the necessity for a few new books is represented by the teacher, and urged strongly upon them, they are at once displeased with him, conclude that he is full of whims and new-fangled notions, growl over it awhile, and finally refuse, or, if they at length procure them, do it with ungracious reluctance. This is no fiction. It is truth, and a strange one too. All of these parents profess a wish to educate their children. They know that if they are not educated they have not that kind of intellectual armor which will fit them for the fierce, hand-to-hand struggle which is every where going on, and into the midst of which they must be flung. They know that in these times and in this country, where honor and success are not the cheap fruits of rank, but won only, or chiefly, on personal effort, education is of the first importance; that without it they are not on a footing with their neighbors, and start in the great race before them at a disadvantage. They know that if education will not be a substitute for talent in their children, it will be a great aid to talent; that without it their resources will be few; that they will be less able to take advantage of circumstances, and cross their fortunes in the face of the world. Yet with all this before them, they will hold on to their money, or squeeze out a dollar, for a book which will open the world itself to a boy's gaze, with a face which strongly reminds one of—pickles! There is nothing which has astonished us so much as this. It is economy sadly misapplied. It is saving, when giving would be gaining. Withholding books, is withholding education and the result is little thought of in such cases. A few dollars judiciously expended in books for a boy, may alter the current of his destiny, and give a brighter coloring to his whole life. If parents are so poor that they cannot do this, at the present price of books, they are indeed to be pitied, and should be assisted. If they are able to do this, they are inexcusable if they fail to do it. But if they are indeed poor, the reason why they should furnish their children with books and an education, increases in strength. They cannot send them out into the world with fortunes in their pockets, but they can work harder, and live cheaper, if necessary, for a short time, in order to provide their children with what will brighten their whole life even if they are poor, and set open before them the door to honor and affluence. They cannot give them wealth, but they can give them the key to wealth, and furnish them at little expense, with a power that shall unlock the storehouse of Fortune. Money thus laid out is well invested. Economy here, is in them the height of extravagance, since they let slip so great a bargain, which can be purchased so cheap.

The evil alluded to is no shadowy evil.—It is a real one, an extensive one, and this we know from personal observation. We have thus briefly alluded to it, as schools are now commencing for the winter, and because we hoped it might set people to thinking, who have been thus deficient in their duty.

POETRY.

REMEMBRANCE.

BY EMMA BLOODWORTH.

We remember! all the sunshine
Of long long passed away.
We remember, till we half forget
The shadows of to day.
How often when the brow is grave,
And all is dark ground,
The heart from some sweet memory
An inward joy hath found.
And better far it loves to dwell
Midst those visions of the past,
Than to watch the changing splendour
Upon the present cast.
We remember! all the sorrow
That met us in our way
When our path seemed midst the flowers
Of the long summer day
And often when the eye is bright
And on the lip a smile
We feel the heart's pulse sinking
With some hidden wo the while
So we nurse perchance the brightest thought
Amid a thousand fears—
And we have not always done with grief
When we have done with tears.

ADVENTURES WITH ALLIGATORS.—Having encamped one evening when travelling in the interior at a place, called Oussage, where alligators abound, the Indians in clearing the game, left the entrails of the animals on the sand beach. The scent of them attracted an unusual number of alligators to the spot. The moon shone brightly, and they were seen moving under water by the waves occasioned on the surface, the people having retired to rest I was reading under my tent in the canoe, and was convinced that these voracious creatures were assembled in great numbers, from the strong musk smell that was given out from beneath the water. Presently one came up close to my canoe, drawing his breath, which in the stillness of the night sounded terrific. I started on my couch and wishing to get a peep at the creature, grew aside the little curtain, but he had sunk; a few minutes after, I felt the canoe moving, and thinking that one of the alligators had got into it, I grasped a cutlass which was near me, and, seeing my curtain move, I was just about to give a violent blow, when the thought flashed across my mind, perhaps it is some of the people; I therefore asked, Who is there? "John," was the answer. What do you want? "I see," said he; that there are "gourou camian," that is, many alligators "around you, and I have come to take care of you." Most thankful was I for not having struck the blow; and after recovering myself a little, I tried to persuade the Indian to go and lie down in his hammock, which he had slung high under some trees; but he positively refused. He sat down on a bench before the tent, with a spear between his legs, and there he remained till break of day. After the excitement was over, I fell sound asleep, and when I awoke the Indian was still sitting there. Alligators abound in the Upper Essequibe, and more especially in the creeks. I have seen as many as ten at one time, basking themselves in the sun, and swimming on the water like logs of wood. They are afraid of man and quite harmless; provided they are left unmolested; but when they are deprived of their young they are very ferocious. Erie, who accompanied me, told me that there he lost one of his people. The Indians in order to see to fish more distinctly in the dark waters of the creeks, are accustomed to climb on the trees which line these banks, from which they shoot them when passing by. One of his people when drawing the bow, slipped off the branch and fell into the water, when an alligator bit off his leg. He bled to death in a few minutes.

At another place higher up the river, Erie called my attention to an amusing incident which occurred to one of his people. Falling off the tree in the manner just described, he fell upon an alligator's back. The Indian no sooner perceived what had happened and felt the creature moving under him, than he placed himself in a riding position, and clasped his hands round the alligator's body. He was now dragged through the water across the creek, where the creature climbed up through the bush, by which the Indian's back was much lacerated; he returned to the creek and dragging him through, tried to climb up on the opposite bank. This being rather steep he was slow in affecting it, and the Indian observing this to be a favourable moment to make his escape, threw himself backward, and swimming across saved his life. It may be easily conceived that both the rider and his horse were equally glad of getting rid one of the other.—Beruau's Missionary Labours in British Guiana.

GOLDEN SANDS OF THOUGHT.

Some one says "there is nothing so prolific as a little, known well," and there is weight in the remark.
Love is humble, and secures the respect and friendship of others; but a haughty man is disagreeable to all.
The delicate hand of a princess may launch a man of war, and the voice of a peasant bring down an avalanche.
The three most difficult things are, to keep a secret, to forgive an injury, and to make good use of one's leisure.
Never despise trifles. The nerve of a tooth is a little thing, but disturb it, and it may drive a Webster crazy.
A pin-scratch is but a trifle, yet it has some times led to death.

European Intelligence.

FROM PAPERS BY THE ACADIA.

IRELAND.

It will be seen by our Irish intelligence that the Attorney-General has conceded the right claimed for the issue of a writ of error in the cases of Mr. Smith O'Brien and his brother convicts, and the 13th instant is fixed for this fresh contest in the common law courts of Ireland. In the event of the Court of Queen's Bench confirming the views of the judges who sat upon the trial, which is more than probable, considering that they are almost the same parties sitting at another tribunal, there be no doubt that the prisoners will appeal to the House of Lords, and, under any circumstances, the final decision of the points in question can scarcely be arrived at for many months to come. Reports are industriously circulated that Mr. Henn, the celebrated counsel, has intimated his opinion, that the judgment must be quashed by reason of the informality of the list of witnesses, and a copy of the jury panel not having been given to the prisoners ten days before trial, and further, that learned gentleman has added his opinion that the prisoners, in the event of their being again put upon their trial would have a right to plead their previous conviction as a bar to a second indictment. We can scarcely conceive that absurdity can reach so far in criminal law, as that a conviction should be wrong for one purpose, yet right for another. But however it may terminate, all anxiety for the lives of the prisoners has quite vanished, and their punishment, when it does come, must entirely fail in producing any salutary terror in the minds of those who might be tempted to follow in their footsteps. The whole affair, we suppose, will be allowed to sink into oblivion, and whether the parties condemned shall be visited with a severe punishment, or shall even escape punishment altogether, seems just now, in the actual absence of all political excitement, an affair of supreme indifference. The trials being over, the wit, genius, eloquence and eloquence of the counsel on both sides having subsided into silence, after so many weeks' excitement, all interest in the mighty event, since it is no longer to be a tragical one, has ceased; and even the future historian will find it difficult to deduce a moral therefrom, or adorn his theme with any brilliant parallels between the incoherent rebellion of Ireland in 1848, and any former political convulsion in that unhappy country.

RUSSIA.

A private letter from Stettin contains an account of the Emperor of Russia having made peace with Circassia; it is supposed with the intention of being able to withdraw his troops from thence, and send an army of two or three hundred thousand men into the principalities of the Danube.

The Rebellion in Ceylon seems to have been almost as miserable an affair as that in Ireland. It appears to have originated in a petition of the natives for a reduction of various taxes. The rebels, to the number of about 4000, having taken and sacked the town of Kornegalle, and crowned King of Kandy a young man named Moore Swamy, a relative of the late deposed king. Martial law was proclaimed on the 31st July last, by the Governor and commander-in-chief, Viscount Torrington, who offered a reward of £1000 for the capture of "his Majesty." After an attempt on Matille and Kandy, and some skirmishing with the 15th and 37th regiments, the Ceylon rifles and a small body of Malay troops, the rebels were dispersed like chaff before the wind, Kornegalle was retaken, and the would-be king "levanted."

It is stated very confidently in Dublin that the Earl of Clarendon is to be raised to the dignity of a Marquis.

A NOTE OF DEFIANCE.—The following defiant and unusually courageous threat appears in the Freeman of Wednesday: "We dare the premier, his spies, and his hangman, to enter the sanctuary of the Irish Church (Roman Catholic), or attempt to drag a single priest from the altar."

The Standard states, that on Friday 35,000 muskets were shipped at Southampton on board a steamer for Italy.

A company for insuring the lives of horses is in operation in Paris.

Until very recently, the Swiss authorities at Lucerne absolutely forbade the ascent of the Mount Pilate, in order that the ghost of Pilate might not be needlessly disturbed, and storms thereby increased.

A Calcutta paper mentions, as a sign of the decline of Hindu superstition, that a Hindoo widow of the Brahmin caste was lately married to a respectable man of the same caste.

The following list is handed about as likely to compose the Louis Napoleon Cabinet:—

M. Thiers	Foreign Affairs;
Odilon Barrot	Interior.
Victor Hugo	Public Instruction.
General Dadinot	War.
Du Puy Four	Marine.
Paul	Finance.
Vivian	Justice.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

Survey of the Saint John and Shediac Railway.—We are happy to announce that the survey of this proposed line of Railway was closed on Wednesday last, at the Mill Pond to the northward of this City, where the levels, from high water in Shediac harbour to high water in this harbour, were brought to an end. The working party were immediately discharged, and Mr. Wilkinson, the Commissioner, left for Fredericton on Thursday morning, there to make up his plans and general report, which we have no doubt will contain much interesting matter.

We are informed that the whole distance between Saint John and Shediac has been carefully measured, and that to check any errors which might possibly occur in this mode of measurement, a series of triangulation has been carried on throughout, so as to ensure the greatest possible accuracy. Owing to the imperfect character of the old surveys, no correct plans at present exist of the Rivers Kennbecassis and Funduac; these have now been surveyed with precision, as also the country generally on the proposed railway route. We shall soon have an accurate map of the rivers and streams, and of the whole line of country from the harbour of Saint John to the Gulf Shore at Shediac, which will be highly useful, and of great advantage to the public service at all times hereafter. The compilation of the plan will prevent much dispute and litigation; it will prove of great advantage in the establishment of great and bye roads, and the formation of settlements, and in various ways, will alone be well worth the whole expense of the Survey.

It only remains to devise measures for prosecuting this important railway. There are no serious physical difficulties to encounter, and we hope that those of a financial character will be promptly met by the Legislature and the country. [New-Brunswick.]

Trouble at Martinique.—An arrival at New York from St. Kitts brings news from Martinique of Oct. 1, to the effect that the authorities had arrested some nineteen negroes for depredations committed on the white inhabitants. They were under trial for the offence, when about 2000 negroes assembled together near the Court-House, and demanded their release. This the authorities refused, and ordered them to disperse immediately or they would be fired on. Capt. Bell did not learn the result. He also states that the blacks on the island are in a most deplorable condition, for the most part refusing to labour. The planters have chartered several vessels to go to the British West-India Islands and procure laborers. If this should not succeed, they say their crops will all perish. The duties have all been taken off American flour and lard, which is imported in French vessels.

The Quebec Chronicle says—"There is at present in Montreal, staying at the residence of Rev. Mr. D. Sola, the Rabbi of the Jewish Synagogue, a Persian gentleman, and we think the fact worth noticing, as he is probably the first native of the dominions of the Shah who has ever visited Montreal. We are told that he attracted great attention at the Synagogue on Saturday, being dressed in the costume of his country, with flowing robes and a turban, a long black beard down to his girdle. We have not heard what his object is in visiting Montreal.

NEWSPAPER READING COMMUNITY.—There is a small town not 25 miles from Brandon, numbering about 600 inhabitants and casting about 100 votes in which upwards of 200 copies of newspapers and other periodicals are received and distributed weekly, by actual paying subscription. In that town a little church of less than 100 members, pays its pastor $500 per annum besides a dwelling. The fortunate place where knowledge and religion thus walk hand in hand is Fairhaysen. [Brandon (Vt.) Whig.]

It gives us much pleasure to record the promotion of the son of the Hon. George Shore, of Fredericton which is notified in the following extract from the London Gazette:—
WAR OFFICE, 20th Oct. 1848.—24th Regiment.—Lieut. John Saunders Store to be Captain, by purchase, vice Courtina, who retires.

THE STANDARD.

St. Andrews, Wednesday Nov. 22, 1848.

Arrival of the Steamship

Acadia.

The R. M. Steamship Acadia, arrived at Halifax on Friday last, in 13 days from Liverpool—bringing dates to the 4th instant.

The mail was received here, on Monday night.

The news is not of much importance from England. Several of the State Trials had taken place and the Writ of Error in the case of Smith O'Brien had been granted by the Attorney General.

The city of Vienna at the latest dates was surrounded on all sides by the imperial troops. Several skirmishes had taken place, and a bombardment was threatened to lay the city in ruins.

The India mail had arrived, bringing accounts that the British commander, Gen. Whish, has been compelled to raise the siege of Moulton in consequence of the defection of a force of 5000 of the Sikh troops, and return to a distance of 15 miles from the citadel into an entrenched camp.

The Cholera is still making inroads amongst the population in England. The authorities have taken the most precautionary measures to prevent and meet the disease.

The Money market is easy. The Bank of England directors reduced the rate of discount to three per cent.

The tone of commercial affairs had improved during the week ending Nov. 4.—There was an increased activity the Cotton and Railway Share markets, both of which had been greatly depressed during the last month or two.

Another strange Animal.—An Ottawa paper gives an account of a very rare animal of the carnivorous species, which was killed a few days ago, by an Indian on the Ottawa; the skin of which is now in possession of Mr. Bangs, of Bytown, the animal is of a dark color, inclining to grey on the sides and belly, about eighteen inches high and over four feet long, from the tip of the nose to the extremity of the tail; with heavy muscular limbs a large head and ears resembling those of a bear, and a large mouth armed with a formidable set of canine teeth. From the prowling and predatory habits ascribed to this beast, by the Indians and also from the form of his body, we are inclined to think he belongs to the Hyena species; one thing is certain the shape of his relationship to the Wolfen tribes.

New Brunswick Benefit Building Society and Savings Fund.

We have this week met Mr. Street, the Secretary and Treasurer of this Society, which was established at St. John about a year since, from whom we learn, that the society has sold three hundred shares, and has already advanced about £2700 on good security in St. John and Fredericton. Agencies have been established at Fredericton and Sheffield; at the former place a Local Board of management has been appointed, and advances granted to the members resident there, who are on an equal footing with those resident in St. John. Mr. Street is now at St. Stephens, where he purposes establishing an agency, and on a few shares being taken, a Local Board will be established, and on Monday next, he will hold a meeting here for the purpose of explaining the objects and utility of the Institution, as will be seen on reference to an advertisement in our columns.

A sergeant by the name of Wilson belonging to the 1st Royals, in the Garrison Saint John, committed suicide on Tuesday evening by shooting with his musket, the charge of which entered his mouth. Jealousy is said to have led the poor fellow to commit the act.
