WILLIAM WRITES TO VICTOR

Expects to Have a Good Time When the King Comes to Berlin-Sir Wilfrid in Paris.

Constantinople, Aug. 21.-The sharp reminder of the United States Minister, John G. A. Leishman, to Porte is having the desired effect of hastening the carrying out of the latter's engagements for the settlement of pending questions. One of the American demands, heretofore disregarded, namely, the return of a package of insurance policies seized by the authorities, was complied with yesterday, while indications point to the Porte being desirous of preventing further friction by settling the other matters, including the rebuilding of the American mission house at Kharput, Turkish Armenia, destroyed at the time of the Armenian massacre there, and the granting of permission to Armenian women and children to join their husbands and fathers, who are naturalized Americans. KAISER WRITES TO VICTOR. Rome, Aug. 21.-Emperor William has sent a letter to King Victor Emmanuel expressing the pleasure which he anticipates at their approaching meeting in Berlin, adding that he desires to pay him a return visit in Rome on the occasion of the unveiling of the monument to Goethe, which the Emperor has presented to

According to these statistics there are 12,000 titled noblemen in servitude in Russia, 5,400 in Italy, 983 in France and 350 in Belgium. These include two Italian dukes of Notarbartolo, who are in prison for the murder of an officer; the Duke of Caracciola, held for the poisoning of his wife; the Belgian Marquis Varela, for the murder of his mother, and Prince Charles Deloozcowarem, convicted of several violent crimes.

PLAGUE SPREADS. London, Aug. 21. - The Exchange Telegraph Company publishes a dispatch from Simla, British India, saying that the plague mortality is increasing at the rate of a thousand CAPTURED BY COLOMBIAN RE-BELS.

Panama, Aug. 21.-The former Government gunboat Boyaca, which left here July 29 to carry 300 soldiers to Agua Dulce, and which was captured by the Colombian revolutionists, is now at sea flying the rebel flag. The rumors that the Boyaca had been sunk are therefore refuted. Revolutionary reports of the capture of the gunboat are that she fought two hours before captured. It is believed in Government circles that some accident to her machinery or rudder forced the commander of the Boyaca to accept unequal battle until further resistance was impossible. The hopes of the Conservatives of Panama are now centered in the steamer which Senor Concha, Colombian minister at Washington, is supposed to have bought recently at San Francisco. CHARTER TO BRITISH ACADEMY. London, Aug. 21.-King Edward has granted a charter dated Aug. & incorporating the new British academy for the promotion of historical, philosophical and philological studies. charter names 49 gentlemen as original fellows of the academy. They include Lord Rosebery, Prime Minister Balciety of Antiquities; Lord Reay, James Bryce, William E. H. Leckey, John Morley, Sir Frederick Pollock, Leslie here.

Stephen and other well known scholars. Both Cambridge and Oxford Universities are represented among the charter members, but a notable omission from the first list of names is that of Herbert Spencer. MARTIAL LAW IN CAPE COLONY.

Cape Town, Aug. 21.—The Cape Par-liament assembled yesterday. Sir Walter F. Hely-Hutchinson, governor of the colony, announced in a speech that martial law would be removed on the passage of a bill indemnifying the harvesters' excursion to the west

No Immediate Change in British Fiscal Policy Probable-Prefer-

once Decided Upon.

STEADY DECLINE IN CONSOLS

London, Aug. 21 .- Ever since peace vas declared there has been a steady decline in the price of consols. The market was very much depressed yesterday by the knowledge that an important Transvaal loan is looming in the near future. The talk is that the prospectus will be issued in October. and that the amount will be from £30,-000,000 to £40,000,000. The Government may not actually require so large a sum of money, but the operation will probably embrace a reduction of the floating debt and a settlement with the foreign holders of Transvaal Railway securities. NO FISCAL CHANGE. One of the most capable financiers of the United Kingdom remarked yesterday: "There will be no immediate arrived in Paris yesterday. He was change in the British fiscal system.Our people will watch what goes on in the United States. Our own industrial

The precise form of this declaration has not been disclosed, but officials present at the conference admit that the principle of preferential treatment within the empire has been favored, and that the future will disclose whether anything can be done with it. LESS ALARM NOW. There has been a marked reaction against the uneasiness and alarm caused by German and American competition. Sir Alfred Bateman's comprehensive report on British trade has been widely quoted and discussed, and has tended to dispel many illusions. Alarmists are now cautioned against drawing premature generalizations upon the effects of German energy and American resources and organization. BESSIE BONEHILL DEAD. A telegram from Portsmouth nounces the death there today of Bes-

Hard Coal in New York City Sells for $11.75 a Ton-Two Hundred Miners Resume.

Ottawa, Aug. 20. - Mr. Ralph Smith, M. P., Vancouver, left here yesterday afternoon for the coast, being advised from there that the soft coal mines of British Columbia may be compelled to close shortly. Mr. Smith is secretary of the Nanaimo Miners' Union, and it is in this capacity that he is called to the coast, in connection with the grave situation which appears to confront the coal miners in the west. He stated that soft coal, the product of British Columbia, is used in that province for fuel, but the demand for that purpose is not sufficient to take the full output of the mines. San Francisco has been a good market for the coal in the past, but now the peo-ple and railways of that place are using petroleum instead of coal for fuel, and this is seriously interfering with the coal market. Mr. Smith will however, be back to attend the meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress at Berlin on Sept. 15. WON'T USE NON-UNION COAL Montreal, Aug. 21.-At a meeting of the Conductors' and Railwaymen's Association Tuesday night, resolutions were adopted pledging its members not to use or handle coal moved by non union labor. The association, it is claimed, represents 20,000 souls.

FUEL FAMINE. Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 21. - The Post publishes a story to the effect that fuel famine is threatened for the mills in this district, and that 50,000 men will be thrown into forced idleness through the lack of coal. The trouble comes from a scarcity of engines to move the loaded cars. $11 75 PER TON.

New York, Aug. 21 .- Coal took another jump yesterday when the committee of the Retail Coal Dealers' Association ordered an advance of $1 a ton. SOME MINERS RESUME. Montgomery, W. Va., Aug. 21.—From two to three hundred miners resumed work today at this place, Red Ash, and Loup Creek. Twenty-seven mines are now being operated in the Kannext year. That will be the main awha and New River fields; the greatest number by far since the strike began. Nearly two hundred cars of coal were loaded yesterday and the number today will be greatly increased. Operators declare that they have assurances from union miners that many will resume before the week is over. New miners are arriving daily from the east. There is no violence. MOLDERS STRIKE. Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 21.—An attempt on the part of the Grand Rapids Malleable Iron Works to cut the scale of the molders in the employ of the company, resulted in a strike and 125 men are out. The men have been earning $3 50 per day, but under the new scale, $2 50 would be the maximum day wages. In the strike the union men are joined by the nonunion men and both factions say they are determined to remain out until the old scale is again put in force. STRIKE AT HAVANA Havana, Aug. 21.-The longshoremen and lightermen of all classes and the dock laborers went out on strike yesone being that coal should be unloaded per ton instead of by day wages. Efforts are being made by the union leaders to bring out the laborers at Cienfuegos and Cardenas. British Rifle Team Here.

Quebec, Aug. 21.-The Lake Simcoe, of the Elder-Dempster Line, proceeded to Montreal at 3 p.m. today. She has on board the coronation choir and and Canadian teams for the Palma trophy. This team, of which the expenses are raised by public subscription, is a thoroughly strong and representative one, and should give a good account of itself. Post and Fighter-Sir George White,

The object was the raising of money for the Cottage Hospital, and the admission fee was fixed at threepence. Today, according to the programme, Lady Raglan exhibited herself, garbed in all the splendor of her coronation robes, at her country house in Beckenham, at the modest charge of admission. Five hundred of her ladyship's neighbors, and many families of country people and tradesmen in Beckenham and Bromley, took tickets. small, red-haired girl, guarded by an imposing-looking policeman, took tickets or "thrippences" at the gate. She shouted constantly: "This way to where her ladyship is receiving guests; now please go right in." Then she ushered them into a small drawing-room were about thirty men and woexamining abbey coronation tickets. In the farthest corner Lady Raglan was seated by an escritoire. She was dressed in her white satin state robes, her erimson cloak, her coronet and the rope of pearls. The guests stood slient in open-mouthed wonder, at a respectful distance. Now and then her ladyship would rise and sweep her train across the floor, giving a view of her scarlet cloak, and causing a murmur of admiration and laudatory comments. The guests then went to the lawn, where tea was serv-

Politics and the Pulpit.

Cleveland, Aug. 21.—Rev. Morgan Wood, in answer to questions about his congressional candidacy, says: "I have not decided what I shall do. You had better see me after the Democratic convention."

"Does that mean that it is up to the convention?" he was asked. "No, not necessarily. It simply means that I can't accept a thing until I have the opportunity." >
"Will you accept if nominated?" "I will have to decide whether I want to change the whole course of my life, for that is what it would amount to."

"Are you a Republican or a Demo-crat?" Wood was asked. "I am for the best man," he replied.

"Did you ever vote the Democratic ticket?" "No, I can't say that I ever did, but I am for the best man every time." Trustees of Dr. Wood's church say

> Hamilton, Aug. 21.-A telegram was received at the residence of Mr. Henry Carscallen, M. P. P., Tuesday evening, announcing that Miss Jean Shaw, a nurse girl employed in the family, and with it in Muskoka, had been drowned. No particulars were given, but the fact that the message asked what should be done with the body showed that it had been recovered. Mr. Carscallen was in Toronto, and was telephoned to. Yesterday he and Mr. C. D. Blachford, undertaker, went to Muskoka, and will bring the body home for interment.

> Miss Shaw was a young woman of about 19 years, and had been in Mr, Carscallen's family employ about two years. She was very highly thought of by them and by all who knew her. She was daughter of the late Mr. Neil Shaw, who died here about 6 years ago, and her mother is also dead. She had no relatives here. She was staying with Mr. Carscallen's family at Moinus, about 2 miles from the Royal Muskoka Hotel, on Lake Rousseau.

A Cold Bath on a Hot Day.

A cold bath on a hot day is refreshing. Every pore of your body is more open in het weather and requires more frequent cleansing than in cold weather. The pores in hot weather absorb more freely than in cold weather; it is therefore most undesirable, after taking a morning bath, to cover the body with underclothing that has been washed with adulterated common soap. For comfort, cleanliness, and free-dom from skin disease, the clothing worn next the skin should be washed with a pure and well-made soap. If Sunlight Soap be used in the laundry your pores

FRANKFORT JAIL MUTINY | STOLE 42 DIAMOND RINGS

Robbery of a Jewelry Store in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Customers and Clerks.

New York, Aug. 21 .- A tray containing 42 diamond rings, valued at $3,150, was stolen from a showcase in the jewelry store of A. A. Webster & Co., 440 Fulton street, Brooklyn, Tuesday afternoon, and although there were at least a dozen persons in the store at the time, no one saw the tray removed from the case, nor did they make the discovery for some time after the thief

The showcase from which the diamonds were stolen is in the center of the store. It had a sliding door in the back. Mr. Webster, one of the firm, was in the store, as was also Miss Bauer, one of his clerks, and several jewelers who were repairing watches. Webster, who was in the rear of the store, saw a man standing at the diamond counter. He approached the man and asked him if he was being waited upon. The man said he was. and Mr. Webster then returned to the rear of the store. A few minutes later Miss Bauer asked the man what he wanted. He told her he was being waited upon. She also left. Then a woman customer entered the store, and Mr. Webster soon was engaged in conversation with her and accompanied her to the cashier's office as she wanted to pay a bill. Some time later Mr. Webster discovered that the tray of diamonds was missing.

Then the strange man was suspected.

Detective Sergeants Brady and Mc-Cormick, of the Adams street station, were notified of the robbery, and Mr. Webster told them that the man must have reached over the showcase and shoved back the sliding door to get at the tray. After securing it the thief had to pass Mr. Webster and the woman customer, and also the cashier, but none of them could remember seeing him leave the store. Mr. Webster said the thief must have concealed the tray under his coat.

The police say it was the work of a professional and daring thief, as none other would attempt to commit such a robbery when so many persons were in the store. The thief is described as being about 26 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, of medium weight, smooth face, dark hair and wearing dark clothes. The diamonds weighed from 1/2 to 11/2 carats each. A similar robbery took place about a year ago in the jewelry store of Jacob Morsch at 180 Broadway, Williamsburg, and the police believe the same man committed both robberies.

Is a Delicious Combination of Pure Malt and the Choicest Wheat.

A Breakfast Relish for the Strong and Weak.

Thousands of people dare not use oatmeal in any form, as they find it has a tendency to irritate the stomach, excite heat and redness of the skin and produce eruptions. Then again, cracked wheat and other cereals contain too much insoluble starch which retards digestion.

Malt Breakfast Food is the king of foods for weak and strong stomachs. It does not contain a particle of insoluble starch, it is partially predigested, therefore does not tax the powers of digestion. Malt Breakfast Food contains a much greater amount of body and brain nutriment than other foods. It is the most delicious of all foods. pleases every palate and becomes a fast favorite in homes where it is tried. Ask your grocer for it; take no and Took Their Money.

New York, Aug. 21.—The authorities of Bloomfield, N. J., are looking for an alleged healer, who has been fleecing the innocent farmers of Brookdale in the farming section of the town. The "doctor." who said he came from Jersey City, visited the little hamlet and gained an extensive practice among a certain class of people. He is a German and there was much mystery conpatients, and as usual in such cases stories of marvelous cures soon went the rounds. Two men who happened to be in Brookdale on the occasion of one of the visit of the healer saw the latter. whom they describe as a big, pompous that brooked no contradiction or crossquestioning.

In some manner the two men obtained entrance into a patient's house and got an inkling of the healer's methods. The farmer was apparently quite ill, and the "healer" was performing a series of evolutions with a cheap-looking hand mirror around the views, angle views, right and oblique, were repeatedly made by the doctor. He asked of the services of a doctor. He asked some questions about the cost and efficacy of the treatment. The "healer" assumed a very mysterious air and said that the mirror possessed special properties, and that when he reached his office in Jersey City and looked into the glass it would reveal all the active and latent dis-eases in the patient he had just subjected to treatment with it. The visitors, satisfied that the man was a humbug, reported the case of the police. It is said that he got several hundred dollars from patients in and around Brookdale.

The cheap paper novel is an evil which will probably always exist as long as boys are born with imaginations. To extirpate it in one stroke without offering the boys something in its place would be impossible, and it is the disregard of this fact that makes useless the work of so many social purity organizations. By giving the boy literature, that, while appealing to his imagination and his inherent love of adventure, is healthful and manly in its tone, you may in time cure him of his taste for the lurid and unnatural form, for at heart every boy is manly. With the exception of "Robinson Crusoe" and "Tom Brown at Rugby," no book ever published in the English or in any other language appeals more strongly to boyish enthusiasm than Mark Twain's delightful story of the Mississippl. There is not a single sentence in the whole book that could possibly suggest a wrong thought to a boy's mind. But at the present rate at which American farmers are going to Canada, the ele-vator builders will have hard work to keep up .- Minneapolis Tribune.

If any further assurance is needed that the present is "the growing time" in the great Canadian West, it is furnished by the newspapers of the United States. It has not been the Londoners are deeply interested and custom of United States journalists in they will share the pleasure of his the past to take Canada seriously; it friends in all parts of Canada in the has pleased them better to refer to it news that soon he will be again fit for as the Great Lone Land, a mere fringe of snow-covered plains on their northern borders, inhabitated by French fur traders and Indians. It would not be fair to their intelligence to say they did not know better, for, as a matter of fact, they have realized for a long time that Canada is a country of vast resources. Their indifference was, rather, affected. But recently an extraordinary change has come about. The entire press of the republic from Boston to the Golden Gate is devoting much attention to Canada, and, although there is an occasional sneer. the more influential journals frankly admit that the Dominion is on the crest of a wave of prosperity and development which must eventually make It a formidable rival of the United States in the markets of the world. The paper quoted above has another editorial under the significant heading, "Northward the Star of Empire," in which it points out that the westward trend of settlement is already beginning to diverge to the great, fertile plains of the Canadian West, It says:

"The westward trend of settlement on this continent must come to a halt on the Pacific coast, Beyond, there are slands of the sea, and Asia, but those lands are already filled with teeming populations. There is yet a considerthe large migration is already sheeroff towards the north. There are occupied in clutching their skirts.

vast uninhabitated tracts reaching to the arctic seas. Time was when most of this was regarded as too cold in climate for the occupation of civilized man, but opinion upon this subject has rapidly changed in the past few years. It has been discovered that there are fine wheat lands in far-off Athabasca, and the valley of the Saskatchewan is exploited as a veritable garden. * * * Already there is talk of another transcontinental line north of the Canadian Pacific. The projected route is from Port Simpson on the Pacific through the Pine or the Peace River district in Athabasca, London, Thursday, August 21. thence southward across the northeastern corner of Saskatchewan, passing north of Lake Winnipeg, through the district of Keewatin and Northern Ontario to Moose Factory, on James Bay, through Northern Quebec to Chicoutimi, with extensions to Montreal and Quebec, and branches to Winnipeg and Toronto. It is not to be supposed that this road will be built without from the Canadian Government. ald but the enterprise and courage that put through the Canadian Pacific in the days of little general faith in it, may suffice for this. To the Americans and other settlers who are rushing into the far Canadian Northwest, additional railroad facilities will be a necessity to enable them to market their surplus crops at a profit. The American immigration is no doubt what has led to the conception of the plan outlined Thus American enterprise is above. helping to push the star of empire northward. We may regret that it cannot find sufficient expansion and tempting field of operation under the stars and stripes; but we may console ourselves with the thought Greater Canada that is to be built up in the Northwest Territory will one day be drawn all the more strongly to its southern neighbor by this influx of the youthful population of Denver are American blood, brains and brawn."

Mid-Ocean Telegraphy.

A scheme is on foot in Liverpool, according to the Electrical World and Engineer, which, it is claimed, will soon be in commercial operation for utilizing wireless telegraphy in a midocean postoffice and signal station. It is the intention to permanently moor at point 110 miles west of The Lizard a ship which will be equipped with a searchlight and a complete set of Marconi apparatus. As the water at the point selected will involve the use of a mooring chain 400 or 500 feet in length, the weight of which would prevent the bows from riding buoyantly over the heavy seas, the vessel will be provided with a horse-pipe placed on the keel of the foremast. The searchlight is to have a vertical beam for the purpose of illuminating the clouds, and enab ling the floating postoffice to be picked up at night from a distance of 60 miles or more. As the vessel will be located in the fair way of the British Channel, it will be advantageously placed for the distribution of orders sent from shore by the owners to vessels which are passing in or out of the channel. Thus a ship coming in from the west or from the south could be directed, as soon as it picked up the station, to proceed either to Liverpool, Bristol by lightning 593, or slightly over oneor an English Channel port. By this would neans pilotage and port dues be reduced, and, of course, there would be a considerable saving of time. It is the earnest hope of every Canadian that Sir William will make such a speedy recovery in the old world that his return voyage may be in the nature of a pleasant outing.

A cablegram from Paris to the Atlanta Constitution says that ten women took out licenses for wearing trousers during the ensuing twelve months, among them decorators, painters, one cab-driver, and one foreman in a printing office. This is really too much. Is it possible that the last one of man's sacred privileges untouched by the fair sex is to be thus ruthlessly violated. It is time mere man called a halt. The Widow Malone.

[Charles Lever.] Charles James Lever was born at Dublin in 1806. He was a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and afterwards became a physician as well as a journalist, and the editor of the Dublin University Magazine. He was consul at Spezzia in 1858, and later at Trieste, where he died in 1872. His poems, when he did not try to be serious, are full of humor, and rhythm. Se wrote, among other novels, "Harry Lorrequer," "Charles O'Malley" and "Tom Burke of Ours.'

Did you hear of the Widow Malone, Who lived in the town of Athlone. Oh! she melted the hearts Of the swains in them parts— So lovely the Widow Malone, So lovely the Widow Malone. Of lovers she had a full score Or more; And fortunes they all had galore, In store; From the minister down To the clerk of the crown,
All were courting the Widow Malone,
Ohone! All were courting the Widow Malone, But so modest was Mistress Malone, 'Twas known That no one could see her alone, Let them ogle and sigh, They could ne'er catch her eye— So bashful the Widow Malone, Ohone! So bashful the Widow Malone, Capt. Shoemaker, chief of the revenue cutter Service, heard through the Aleutian Island natives that there was a seal herd near the western end of the long chain of islands, and he issued instructions last spring that the re-port be investigated by the Manning. Fred Smith, a Sarnia boy, 16 years old, met with a most painful mishap on Tuesday. He was assisting at a threshing at a neighbor's, and was walking along the top of the machine, when he accidentally slipped and stepped into the fast revolving cylinder with his right foot. The foot was torn and crushed in a dreadful way. Workmen who happened to be near grabbed the young man and pulled him out of the machinery, otherwise he would undoubtedly have been fatally injured. The boot which the young man was wearing, together with his sock and a portion of his trousers were torn from his leg and were carried through the machine. A portion of the foot was amputated.

The Anita was of tremendously stout build, and had weathered countless storms and tornadoes in all parts of the world, but she was also the slowest ship afloat.

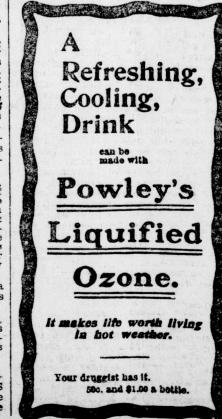

Straightening Channel.

Windsor, Aug. 21 .- The objections of owners of water lots in Amherstburg have finally caused a cessation of the work of straightening the channel from Lime Kiln crossing down to Amherstburg landing. The present channel is difficult to navigate, owing to angles, and some Americans undertook to straighten it by excavating a part of the river bed. Several years ago property holders on the river bank purchased water lots from the Canadian Government, extending in some instances as far as 160 feet into the river. This was to prevent docks or buildings being erected that would spoil the view from houses along the shore. The present channel runs well inshore until it reaches the crossing, when it turns out toward the other side. Then it suddenly resumes its course down the river. The desired change is to continue the inshore channel and thus avoid turning out and then down. This would bring passing boats close to shore, and the property holders object. They have therefore forbidden any trespassing on their water lots.

McCafferty, a broker of Monteral, with Mr. Peterson, of Peterson, Tait & Co., shipowners, of Newcastle, have been in the city on > this business. It is taken as a matter of course in shipping circles here that the com-pany will be closely allied to the Canadian Northern Railway, of which Mr. Mackenzie is president, and Mr. Nicholls one of the directors, and that it will establish a freight service on the lakes to handle freight from the > Canadian Northern. As to whether it was intended the new line should handle merely an in-land trade, or connect with the fast Atlantic line, there was some difference of opinion. One gentleman thought Mr. Peterson only wanted to get rid of some old whalebacks he had on hand, and wanted the new company to buy them. But another gentleman who is considerably better informed on this subject is sure that the purpose of the new concern is to connect with the fast Atlantic line. This would have the effect of diverting considerable trade from New York and Baltimore into Canadian channels.

Baby Born on the Beach

New York, Aug. 21.—The police re-cords in Queens Tuesday night said that a woman at Rockaway had given birth to a child clad in bathing suit The records were wrong, as it was the mother who wore the bathing suit. Esther Cismer, 20 years old, who has no home, is the mother. She went in bathing at Garfinkel's Pavilion at Rockaway. The boy was born just after the woman had left the water. The mother and her baby were taken to St. John's Hospital in Long Island

HYMEN AT UNDERTAKER'S THE POLICE AT SEA AGAIN

Young Couple Married Where They Have No Proof That Minnie Mitchell Was Murdered.

Jury Will Look Further.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—After an investi-gation by the Chicago police extending over a fortnight and a two days' that of Minnie Mitcheli. Three men found the body, could not tell its sex because of its advanced decomposition Coroner's Physician Springer stated that the body must have been exposed ten or twelve weeks before the brain could have been absorbed. Even the coroner's jury, when it rendered a verdict yesterday, recommending that Oscar Thompson, Edward Counselman and John Claffy be held to explain the death, stated that the body was supposed to be that of Minnie Mitchell. Articles of clothing found near the dead body, however, were identified by the Mitchell family, and a week ago the body was buried as Minnie Mitchell by relatives of the girl, who has been missing since July 30, and who was last seen in the company of her sweetheart, William J. Bartholin. Two witnesses, Lieut. Healy and W. M. Allen, testified that Counselman, an intimate friend of Bartholin, had told them the fugitive wanted money with which to pay for a surgical operation on the Mitchell girl at a north side hospital.

With this conflicting testimony to hinder them, the police are almost stalled in their search for William J. Bartholin, whom the coroner's jury recommended should be apprehended. The verdict of the coroner's jury practically leaves any further investigation as to the supposed death of Minnie Mitchell to the September grand jury. State Attorney Deneen will return soon and will take up the charges against Thompson, Claffy and Counselman. of Mrs. Anne Bartholin.

Over six thousands people, among whom were a thousand women, participated in the two-mile march to St. Commissioner Ross left White Horse June, Dr. Piper reserved his passage yesterday for Victoria. In a telegram back for the steamer leaving on Aug. Joseph's Church at Summit Hill, where coronation was announced he tried to secure passage for Aug. 14, 21 or 28, but everything was already taken. So great was the demand for accommodation that one man offered Dr. Piper the price of his ticket and $100 additional, but the doctor refused, as he knew he would probably have to wait till September or even October if he relinquished his chance to sail on the 7th. Many people cannot secure bertles at any terms and will have to remain in England for two or three months quickly in case of trouble.

"In every part of France today there is an amount of money seeking investment," he said; in fact, during the past six months, there has been so much of it that it is being sent out to different countries, and many large loans have been made both in England and Germany. Now, French capitalists are looking towards Canada, and it will not be long before large sums of money are invested in this country, and more particularly in the Northwest. Everybody that knows anything of the Canadian West knows that it has a great future before it, and that it is a pretty safe investment to loan money on any lands out there. "I have thought of little else for many months," he whispered in a very low voice, not much steadler than her own; and I confess at this juncture I began to consider whether a third person must not be rather in the way. Gertrude had not returned from her mission with the tea. Gordon was in the little drawing-room, as it was called, obviously reading the paper, to judge by the irritable crackling of the broadsheet. Besides myself, these two were the only inhabitants of the apartment, and they seemed to be quite forgetful of my presence, so to be quite forgetful of my presence, so engrossed were they with the absorbing engrossed were they with the absorbing topic which some one has described as "taking to each other of each other." Old gentlemen are all very well in their way, but if they are dense and incombiderate they may sometimes be very much in the way of other people. I began to think I had better penetrate into the library; that was my natural sphere now. There was not much temptation to remain with John Gordon in the retreat he had selected, and I caught myself repeating the "Me nec femina nec puer" of Horace as I sat me down to a stiffish page of Diodorus Siculus which had long puzzled me, but of which that evening I certainly failed to extract the meaning.

No! I do not think I would have it all No! I do not think I would have it all over again if I could. "Otium divos. rogat in patenti." How that Horace keeps running in my head! but surely rest, rest is what poor mortality must yearn for, after all. It is better to he still, though it be down fathom-deep below the dark waters, than to be ever heaving to and fro, the sport of the changing wave. No more fair breezes and smiling skies and purple islands studding the smooth sheen of the tropic sea; and smiling skies and purple islands studding the smooth sheen of the tropic sea; but then no more treacherous fogs and hidden reefs and sudden squalls and long-continued gales to baffle the bold mariner, and vex and weary and make him long for any port at last. No more joyous chorus round the capstan, nor pleasant carouse with jolly messmates on Saturday nights; but then no more turning up all hands to shorten sail in the night, with the sea washing heavily over ing up all hands to snorten sair in the night, with the sea washing heavily over the slippery deck, and the bare spars dancing and reeling aloft against the cheerless, windy, starry sky. The mariner is down in the sea caves, wrapped in his clean hammock, with a round shot at his feet. There let him sleep sound and still till the resurrection. He is better so.

Once it crossed my mind, as I turned over the pages of Diodorus Siculus, that a lady of whom I had heard as the Siga lady of whom I had heard as the Signora Bravoura might be somewhat dissatisfied with the arrangements so obviously impending. How that strongminded vocallst herself or any of her fashionable friends, would have laughed at my being so much behind-hand in the gossip of the world. They had parted menths ago; and from what I have heard of the lady, it was by no means the least courageous act of his lordship's life thus to free himself from a captivity that was growing more hopeless day by that was growing more hopeless day by

With all the intuitive tact and admin-istrative powers of the female intellect, there are some characters of the other sex, and those not the least capable, in the management of which women find themselves completely at fault. To soothe the hasty, to cajole the obstinate, to flat-ter and impose upon the vain, or with honeyed accents and specious eloquence to mystify the weak, what advocate so successful as a woman? But there is one class of disposition she usually mistakes, which baffles her persuasive powers, and before which her boasted influence is swept away like a mesh of cobwebs. It is that of a frank, good-humored, single-hearted, yet resolute man. His very absence of cunning foils all her tactics. harmless duplicity; the shaft that would sting a more artificial heart to the quick. Tebounds innocuous from the stainless shield of honesty. There can be no trial shield of honesty. Beaten from her usual mode of warfare by such an opponent, the fair aggressor is prone to mistake forbearance for weakness, and patience for stupidity. Then she falls into a fatal error, and elects to try the issue by sheer strength. He has borne a good deal. He will bear just a little, ever such a little more. You are had bendiwhich turns the triumph of Newmarket to a defeat none the less ruinous that it was within a yard of victory? Be advised by me. If you have half reclaimed

Ruffle its feathers but once too often, and the bird breaks away from wrist and jesses, never to stoop to the lure Bravoura was a lady of considerable physical calibre—deep-bosomed as Juno, ox-eyed also like the mother of the gods, vouched for the power of her lungs, and her servants and courier could answer for her high courage and temper to cor-respond. She feared nobody on earth but respond. She feared nobody on earth but Holyhead, and she tried to bully him. The obvious result of such a measure was to be found in his lordship's happy was to be found in his lordship's happy escape from thraldom, which left him at liberty to tell Bella Jones such a tale in the quiet drawing-room at West Acres, as called up blushes, but not of shame, on her comely cheek, and tears, but not of sorrow, into her downcast eyes.

"They will suit each other remarkably well," was the way in which I translated a page of the vellum-covered volume on my knee; "better than nine couples

He is the last person on earth to exact obedience except in a case of absolute necessity, and then, unless I mistake him very much, he is a man who will not be denied. I believe such make take him very much, he is a man who will not be denied. I believe such make the best husbands. "Moreover he is a widower, and Bella will gain hugely by comparison with his late viscountess, a lady with whom I had the disadvantage of being acquainted. She has at least this in her favor, that her rival will not be that imaginary piece of perfection who is supposed to be endowed with all those charms proverbially to be found only in 'bachelors' wives.' Holyhead's, again, is not a nature that can love anything a little, and for a short time. He is old enough to know his own mind, and he seems pretty sure of it on this occasion. It will be a cheerful wedding, with more smiles than tears. Then they will go away to the old place in Yorkshire, and the school children will cheer them under arches of laurels, and the tenants will get drunk, and the bonny bride receive a beauty wedding with the school children will cheer them under arches of laurels, and the tenants will get drunk, and the bonny bride receive a hearty welcome hom. Holyhead will live there entirely, and farm a little, and hunt and shoot a good deal, and put on stone of weight every year; and Bella will expand into a comely matron, with a fine, numerous family, a blessing to the poor, an acquisition to the neighborhood, and the very prop and mainstay of the nnual York Ball." I thought of the altar-rails, and the grave priest, and the touching blessing—"Well is thee, and happy shalt thou be!" Then I thought—how could I but think?—of one in that very house, its lord and master, sitting spart from all in his own room, alone with his desolate heart. I could feel for him looking blankly into the future—no romise for him in the coming years—no hope of that to which almost all men who hope at all, look forward at some time or another—a happy home. It is bad enough to think of the journey through the Great Sahara when it is nearly over; but who, with the weary ride fresh in his remembrance, the aching eyes, the diresome bell, the cruel thirst, the maddening sameness day by day—who, I say, in sight of the palm trees and minarets tiresome bell, the cruel thirst, the maddening sameness day by day—who, I say, in sight of the palm trees and minarets at last, but would pity one whom he knew to be mounting his patient camel to commence the self-same pilgrimage? Alas for Gilbert! I could hardly bear to think of him. Unconsciously as I rose from my chair and paced up and down the long library, my glance rested on the portrait of Frank Orme. In the dim light those eager eyes looked startlingly out of the canvas into my own. I began to understand Lady Gertrude's youthful dislike to the picture. For the first time I acknowledged to its full extent the wild fascination of that handsome face. There was a spell upon me that seemed to affect was a spell upon me that seemed to affect my nerves and my brain. The eyes haunted me, the more painfully, too, that I avoided them and turned my back on the figure. While in my ears something seemed continually to whisper, "To our next merry meeting! To our next merry meeting!"

CHAPTER XLIIL The evening in question was an event-ful one at West Acres. As we read that before the Deluge people feasted and amused themselves, and married and before the Deluge people feasted and amused themselves, and married and were given in marriage, not discontinuing such indulgences even after the rain began to fall, and the avenging waters to mount inch by inch from the sea—so we of modern times must dine and dress, and make love and conversation, whatever may be impending on ourselves individually, at those who are nearest and dearest to our affections. If you or I were to die tomorrow, kind reader, our survivors must eat and drink. The butler would fill their glasses with sherry as usual, perhaps a triffe fuller if a feeling man; and should the fish not be boiled enough, do not suppose the cook's shortcomings would escape notice on account of our demise. Is there one heart in the world, think you, that will break when you are gone? If so, thank God that you have really lived, and grudged not to depart when you are called "Home, to go and take your wages."

There were several agitated minds above stairs in Mr. Orme's house when the servants' supper bell rang. Not the least so, though he tamed and kept it under with his iron will, was that of Mr. John Gordon, reading the Western Luminary upside down in the little drawing-room, and deriving obvious stores of information from the well-filled columns of com, and deriving obvious stores of in-ormation from the well-filled columns of hat meritorious journal. John was very iscontented and unhappy. He had mis-culated his strength; he, who never calculated anything, and who piqued self so especially on that same god-calculated anything, and who piqued self so especially on that same goduality of strength. He had thought quite man enough to come down tacres for a week and enjoy his g, and be as happy as he had albeen in Gilbert's society; and, if aling decided should take place while was there, why, that he could contulate the coursins with a steady voice. gratulate the cousins with a steady voice and an unruffled brow. Love is blind in-deed. John saw clearly, though nobody else did, that Lady Gertrude was on the eye of becoming mistress of West Acres.

At I now today he had found out that he couldn't bear it. He felt hurt and angry; he had spoken unkindly, bitterly, almost rudely. She must have remarked it; everybody must have heard it; he would not run such another risk of losing his self-control. He would go away tomorrow morning, and never see her again. Do you remember the magic mirror on which Cornelius called up for gifted Surrey the image of his love? Do you think she ever looked so fair to him in the reality of daylight at home, as far away in that foreign land, wide, the second in that foreign land, under "the vaulted roof of gramarye?" Did his heart ever thrill to her fondest whisper when he sat by her at the banquet, or led her a stately measure through the hall, as it thrilled to mark her image in the depths of that dreamy picture—where the dear

Those are the words, that is the spell to call up at an instant the image of the loved one, in its brighest beauty and its dearest perfections. Then we feel the worth of all that we have lost; then we reprosely correlves we have lost; then we reproach ourselves that we did not value it half enough while it was our own; then we know that henceforth the mirror must be broken and the self-emitted light be quenched for evermore.

John Gordon ran over his whole past life in his mind. He recalled the delicate high-born girl on whom he had dared so long ago to set his heart; a thousand graces of voice and manner, a thousand bright looks and kindly words, beamed on his memory over your life.

on his memory once more. He remembered—oh! so well—the first happy day on which the possibility had dawned upon him of winning her at last. What that owned so high a name, and the determination, which he felt he possessed, that could alone conquer the difficulties in his path! What labor, what efforts, what self-denial had he shrunk from while there was yet a hope? Had he ever miscalculated an advantage or thrown a chance away with this one object in view? He had submitted to drudgery, to confinement, to a career of endless and continuous labor, because these were the only steps to advance him on his way. only steps to advance him on his way. He had consented to be thought avaricious, grovelling, ungenerous, for his relentless pursuit of wealth. And why? Because the bars of the ladder must be made of gold. Why had he winced so painfully from the news of his partner's difficulties, and gone out at once to Sydney, making light of danger, trouble, and hardship, but that he might leave no means untried to refit the dismartled. means untried to refit the dismantled bark that carried all his venture? remembered so vividly her farewell in Portland Place—the turn of her head, the color of her dress, the very gloves she wore. He had been angry with her then. Ah! he was not angry with her now. Then he recalled her greeting when he An: he was not angry with her now. Then he recalled her greeting when he returned, and the sense of honor which enforced him to silence while his heart was bursting to speak. Surely she cared for him then. Perhaps he, too, like others, had learned to agree with Dante to acknowledge.

"WHIZ!! WALK A MILE"

Is a laconic definition of a toboggan ride. It's quick work going down the slide, but it's a long climb back to the starting point. It is very much that way with health; it is quickly lost and slowly the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. These diseases are perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures through the stomach disorders which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach. There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," neither opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"I was all run down; had no strength; had sharp darting pains all through me; head and back ache every day," writes Mrs. Frank Caswell, of Salamanca, N. Y. "I was also troubled with a distressed feeling in the stomach and pain in front of the hip bones. I had a severe cough and it nearly killed me to draw a long breath, I was a sore through my lungs.

and it nearly killed me to draw a long breath, I was so sore through my lungs.

"I wrote to Dr. Pierce, telling my symptoms as near as I could. He sent me a very kind letter, advising me to try his medicines, which I did, and before I had taken them a week I was decidedly better. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of the 'Pavorite Prescription,' and am sure I never felt better in my life than when I quit taking them."

GREAT GAME AT FOREST. Forest, Aug. 21. - One of the best games of baseball ever played in Forest was that on Tuesday afternoon between Forest and Watford, on the grounds here, in which Forest won by a score of 3 to 2. Angus George, the Kettle Point Indian, was in the box for Forest, and with the splendid support the field gave him, kept the visitors down to five hits. Forest scored one in the fourth and one in the fifth, but Watford did not see the plate until the eighth, when they made two and tied the score. When Forest went to bat in the last half of the ninth it looked like a ten-inning game, but Tripp made a safe hit, and on a sacrifice to Waddell and a hit by Webster brought in the winning run with one man out. Little Dan Webster, of Forest, played the star game of the day. He made the hits which brought in the first and winning runs, and took care of everything that went into center field. Mr. Withmann umpired very satisfactorily. The score:

The Victim's Story Resulted in an Arrest,

But He Didn't Walt to Prosecute-'Grand Central Pete' the Operator.

New York, Aug. 21.—Peter Lake, known to the police as "Grand Central Pete," was arrested at Thirtyfourth street and Eighth avenue on suspicion that he was one of four men who had swindled M. M. Facey a West Indian fruit merchant out of $990. Facey left town without making a complaint. The prisoner was discharged by Magistrate Mott in the West Side police court.

Facey's story was that on the afternoon of Aug. 4 he was stopped on Broadway by three strangers. them asked to be directed to Union Square, as he was a stranger in the

"Why, I'm a stranger, too," replied Facey, but he gave the desired information. Then the three strangers, in consideration of his kindness, asked him to join them in a drink and he accepted. One of the strangers told the fruit merchant that he had just secured a good place as traveling salesman for a clothing house. There was another place open, he said, and perhaps Facey might like to take it. Facey thought that perhaps he would Then the four men went to a flat on Broadway near Forty-fourth street. There Facey saw a number of samples

"You can get the place all right," said one of the men, "if you can put up security for the return of the valuable samples." Facey had $990 in his pocket and showed it. Just then one of the men threw a pack of playing cards into the air. They fell all over the table and floor. At the same time the sidedoor opened and a man wearing what Facey thought was a policeman's shield, ran into the room. "Cheese it, the cop," shouted one of the men. The three men bolted out of the open door, taking with them Facey's money. It took him half an hour to explain to the newcomer that he had not been gambling. After hanging around the house for a couple of hours, waiting for the men to come back with his money, Facey decided that he had been robbed. He went to police headquarters. After looking over the Rogue's Gallery he said that in the picture of "Grand Central Pete" recognized one of the men who had

NOT AS OWNER SEES IT

Mark Twain's Estimate of His Handsome Home.

Not Quite So High as That of the Tarrytown Assessors.

Tarrytown, Aug. 21.-Mark Twain was no "Innocent Abroad" when the met today to hear grievances against the roll prepared for this year's tax.
When the assessors for the village met recently, Mr. Clemens was out in Missouri, receiving an LL.D. degree, meeting "Huckleberry Finns" and town town lawyers, and his assessment of $70,000 stands in the village records, as he made no protest. Mr. Clemens likes a joke, but thinks a joke that costs him several hundred dollars is not all that it is cracked up to be. So on his return east he began to study the way of the wily assessors and today when the board met he was prepared to fight for his rights.

Mr. Clemens paid $47,500 for his estate at Tarrytown. The village assessed him $70,000 and the town assessors made the assessment $60,000. Mr. Clemens, represented by Lawyer Henry C. Griffin, asked that the assessment be reduced to $45,000, as that was a fair market price for the place. No improvements had been made since the purchase and he had offered the place for sale for $40,000. The assessors received Mr. Clemens' complaint and promised to give it consideration. Among others who protested was the City of New York, which wants an assessment of $161,000 stricken from the rolls as incorrect and illegal. Jeannette R. Rowell, wife of George P. Rowell, wants her real estate valuation reduced from $35,000 to $30,000. The Western Union Telegraph Company wants the assessment of $22,000 reduced to $11,000. The Robin's Nest Association, which is supported by wealthy persons here, wants it asessment of $12,000 stricken from the roll, as it is declared exempt by law. In all about 65 complaints were recomplaints were received. No complaints were made by William or John D. Rockefeller, as their assessments had been fixed by the courts.

Negro Turning White. New York, Aug. 21.-William R.

Weeks, a negro, was sent to Bellevue Hospital on Aug. 14 in an ambulance. When the doctors examined him they found that all over his body there were patches of skin which had turned white. Since his admission streaks of white have appeared on his chin and face. The doctors say he is suffering from a rare skin disease, a form of tuberculosis. If the disease doesn't kill him shortly they say he has a chance of becoming a white man before he dies.
