THE ADVERTISER, LONDON, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13, 1906. -TEN PAGES

WILL CONTINUE THE UNION NEGOTIATIONS;
ANGLICANS AND BAPTISTS TO PARTICIPATEAssembly Against Discontinuing Effort to Unite Various Denominations.

The question of church union was finally disposed of at the General Assembly this morning, when both sections of Principal Patrick's motion were carried by overwhelming majorities. There was some debate on the subject, but it was confined chiefly to the question of the advisability of sending down such a report to the people as to be considered. It was decided to do so. The motion to extend an invitation to the Anglican and other Protestant denominations to join in the movement was carried with but little discussion. The session ended by the appearance of representatives from the Congregational Union, who brought its greetings.

Would invite hers.

Rev. R. G. McBeth proposed an amendment to the effect that the committee's report should be received as an interim report, and that the assembly should express its gratitude to the work accomplished by the committee. He would reappoint a committee to perfect the work undertaken, and report at the next assembly. He would also move that at the next joint meeting the committee should invite the Anglicans and other denominations to enter into the negotiations. He explained that he was opposed to the committee's report, and as such should not be sent down to the people. He appealed to college principals not to send down to the working pastors a disturbing document, that would hurt the work of the church in every department.

Would Not Push the Question.

Dr. Headman, superintendent of missions, Calgary, did not think it would be a judicious thing to send a quantity of literature to the presbyteries of the west, as there is a feeling in the far west that they should not be pushed. The question of union had been discussed in eight of the presbyteries in one synod, and the ministers had largely opposed the union. He would advise that the question of union should not be pushed at present. He did not think the matter of union should be pushed along unless some better method of polity and management should be devised, suitable to both Presbyterians and Methodists.

A stir was made when a motion was offered that the vote be taken. Rev. J. P. Duffan, of Halifax, had the floor and insisted on speaking. The moderator was appealed to for a ruling.

Rev. Robert Campbell declared that "this thing is forcing its way into the church. Every man has a right to speak on the question."

Principal Forrest-I deny that this matter is forcing its way into the church.

Amendment Defeated.

Mr. Duffan was given the floor, and made a speech favoring the amendment. He asked what would take place in congregations and presbyteries when there was such a division in the assembly. He said it was not only a dangerous thing. It was being sent down for information and education. The people should be kept in the fullest possible knowledge of the subject. He thought it was a dangerous thing. The vote on the amendment was taken, and it was defeated by a vote of 111 to 57.

Rev. Mr. McInnes had another amendment to propose. Principal Forrest arose to a point of order, claiming that another amendment was out of order.

There was a warm discussion on this point, and Principal Forrest and Rev. Dr. Campbell had a lively tilt. The moderator, Dr. Falconer, ruled that the amendment was in order.

Mr. McInnes, in an amendment, wanted the question sent down to all the presbyteries and congregations and that suggestions be made to the committee upon the matters under discussion. He was of the opinion that the people were leagues ahead of the church leaders. They should be asked for suggestions, and be given the fullest scope for the expression of their opinion.

Dr. Sedgwick seconded this amendment.

Motion Prevalts.

Principal Patrick explained that the report which he brought down was only the opinion of the union committee. The mover was in hearty sympathy with the union movement, while Dr. Sedgwick was decidedly opposed to it, and hoped for far different results from the adoption of his amendment. Therefore, for the ambiguous character of the amendment, he opposed it.

The amendment was lost by an overwhelming majority. The first part of the motion was then put, and carried by a vote of 155 to 8.

The second part was the invitation to the Anglican and Baptist Churches to enter the negotiations.

Principal MacLaren thought that if he wished to oppose the question of union, he would support the second part of the motion. It was not fair to the denominations now negotiating.

Thoughts on Church Union

Dr. McMullen—I could not go away from this assembly with the burden on my heart and conscience that I had opposed union. I could not do it.

Dr. Sedgwick—I oppose this union because I do not conceive it to be an organic union of the right kind.

Rev. J. A. Macdonald—God is in Canadian history. God is in Canadian church history. If the people who listen to the voice of God go against union, well and good; if not, well and good. But let us trust the people.

T. C. James, Charlottetown—The laity have looked on this question of union as merely an academic question, not a practical one. I, as a layman, oppose it.

Principal Patrick—If this committee is dismissed summarily, the Presbyterian Church would be open to the charge of hypocrisy, which is unthinkable, or of inconsistency, which is hardly less worthy.

GREAT DOCKS UP IN SMOKE;
LINER BURNS; CREW IN PERILA Million Dollar Fire in Baltimore Harbor Consumes Wharves, Scows and the S. S. Essex.

Baltimore, Md., June 13.—A million-dollar fire early today wiped out the big Savannah docks of the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Company, destroyed the steamer Essex of that line, all the valuable freight with which the dock was crowded, and a number of scows loaded with cotton and rosin, with their freights, besides causing great anxiety as to the fate of the crew of the Essex, said to have consisted of about forty men.

All of the Essex crew save two are known to have escaped. The two others were almost certainly burned to death, as they were apparently unconscious when last seen by their fleeing mates. They were Edward Atkinson, a cabin assistant, and John Costello, a fireman.

The burning steamer and scows drifted to the south side of the harbor, and for a time there were grave fears that extensive damage would be done there, as the wind carried the flames from the vessels directly toward the shore and shipping on that side, but the firemen were successful in preventing serious damage there. The blaze was spectacular, the burning rosin and cotton giving off immense volumes of dense smoke, made lurid by the furious flames. The fire originated in a district surrounded except on the water side by extensive lumber yards, but the direction of the wind saved these from damage.

BRANCH LINE BILL
PASSES COMMITTEEThe G. T. Pacific Subsidiary Company
Gets Measures Reported.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, June 12.—The Grand Trunk Pacific Branch Line Company's bill was again considered at the railway committee today. Mr. Gervais moved that clause 11, in regard to the building of a branch line to Montreal, be moved. He favored the old proposition of a direct branch instead of the line through the county of Joliette, as decided by the committee. Mr. Henderson (Haiton) wanted reconsideration, because he was going to move to strike out the branch from Regina to North Pacific. The motion of Mr. Gervais was defeated 17 for and 38 against. Mr. Carvell wanted to discuss the question of branch lines in the Maritime Provinces. He was opposed to the striking out of the branch to St. John and also to Halifax. Some objections were taken, and Mr. Carvell left the matter over until the bill comes before the House. The bill was reported after being some five days before the committee.

DELEGATE TO SYNOD
SUMMONED BY DEATHThe Rev. J. Pitt Lewis Dies Suddenly at Toronto Gathering.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, June 13.—Rev. J. Pitt Lewis, rector of Grace Church for nearly 30 years, died suddenly this morning, following an apoplectic fit at the Rossin House. Before entering the Church of England, he was a Methodist minister. Yesterday he was as well as ever and presented the report of the audit committee at the synod, which is in session here. He had a very exacting day, there being a lot of discussion over the report. He was about 65 years of age and unmarried.

TO PROVOKE BRITISH

Sultan of Turkey Trying to Show His Sovereignty Over Khedive.

Constantinople, June 13.—Taking advantage of the visit of the Khedive of Egypt to the Sultan, the Turkish Government is, in its official utterances, making an effort to show the Sultan's complete sovereignty over the Khedive. The today's newspapers print an official notification, reading as follows: "Abbas Hild, Khedive of Egypt, called at the Yildiz Kiosk, in order to lay down at the foot of the Imperial throne, the most respectful expression of his absolute devotion to the Sultan. The Sultan deigned to receive him kindly. Afterwards the Khedive was permitted to withdraw to his apartments."

This is considered the most provocative sort of anti-British demonstration.

FORT ASSINIBOINE
WRECKED BY TORNADOImmense Damage Done in Montana by Breaking of Reservoir.

Have, Mont., June 13.—Meager accounts from Fort Assiniboine tell of the great destruction wrought there by yesterday's tornado. The large commissary building together with the adjutant's office, stables of the troops and several barracks, went down. Capt. Bonaface and seven troopers had a narrow escape from drowning while going to the rescue of a family which had been cut off by the flood. It is impossible to establish communication with Harlem and Chinook. Engineers report that the territory between Have and Glasgow resembles a sea, due to the breaks in irrigation reservoirs. A report states that both reservoirs at Fort Assiniboine have burst, and that the quarters of the soldiers are flooded. Four troops of the Second Cavalry, and four companies of the Second Infantry are stationed there.

MYSTERY LIFTS FROM
KENTUCKY MURDERSCurtis Jett Tells of Assassination of Marcum Cockrill and Cox.

Louisville, Ky., June 13.—The Courier-Journal today in a dispatch from Cynthia, Ky., prints the confession of Curtis Jett, which gives the alleged details of the assassination of James B. Marcum and James Cockrill, and also throws new light on the murder of Dr. B. D. Cox, the three crimes having been committed during the reign of feudism in Breathitt County. The confession is authorized by Jett's attorney. Jett says he, John Smith and John Abner killed James Cockrill; that Robert Deaton went after Abner and Smith to aid in the murder, and that Elbert Hargis, James Hargis, Ed Callahan, Jesse Spicer and Bill Britton are the men who formed the conspiracy.

Starting out with these statements, Jett enters extensively into details of the murder, and lays bare every feature of the conspiracy and the events before and after the murder. He then confessed to the murder of James B. Marcum, which, he says, was at the instance of James Hargis and Ed Callahan, declaring that the pistol with which he did the shooting was given him by Callahan for the purpose. He says B. J. Ewen told the truth about the killing.

DINED WITH KING.

London, June 12.—Countess Grey was today present at a dinner given by Whitehall Road to Mrs. Longworth, which was attended by the King.

Sudden Death This Morning of City Auditor G. F. JewellOne of London's Oldest Servants Expires in Arms of Physician After a Short Illness.

City Auditor George F. Jewell died suddenly at his home, 361 Dundas street, at 4 o'clock this morning. His death was totally unexpected and came as a great shock to his wife and family. Mr. Jewell for some time past had been complaining of what was thought to be a slight attack of indigestion, and he was being treated for it. Sunday he was not very well. He started to attend divine service in the Memorial Church, but was compelled to return to his home after he had walked a couple of blocks. Monday he was down town and attended to some minor business. On Tuesday he was still feeling unwell, but nothing serious was anticipated.

The End Came Suddenly.

This morning the end came. About 3 o'clock Mr. Jewell suffered a severe attack of heart failure. His friend and former physician, Dr. C. T. Campbell, was summoned and prescribed for him. Mr. Jewell appeared to improve somewhat, and was apparently resting quietly, when, about 4 o'clock, he complained of feeling sick at the stomach. Dr. Campbell, who was sitting by his bedside, went to get some medicine, but Mr. Jewell objected, saying, "I am able to get it myself," he said.

These were his last words. As he uttered them he jumped out of bed and made a step forward, falling dead in the arms of his physician. Death was due to angina pectoris, an affection of the heart.

The late George F. Jewell was born in London, England, on the 7th of January, 1836. He came to Canada in 1857, and entered the employ of Mr. Fred Rowland, who kept a store on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets. Subsequently, Mr. Jewell went into partnership with Mr. Rowland, and remained as such until the firm branched out as an auditor, and within a short time won for himself the name of one of the first experts in the auditing of accounts. He was instrumental in forming the Chartered Accountants' Association of Canada, of which he was one of the highest fellows.

Twenty-Four Years City Auditor.

In 1882 Mr. Jewell was appointed city auditor of London, which position he held, in company with Mr. Andrew Dale, until the time of his death. To the city of London and to the different governing bodies his services have been invaluable. He was minutely acquainted with every detail of municipal business for 24 years. He had been the right hand of the men who have occupied the mayor's chair of London. He was a Conservative in politics, but he enjoyed the confidence of men of both political parties.

shades, who happened to be thrown in contact with him, and in all his works he was loyal to the city's interests. By watching the city's financial affairs closely, he saved the corporation many thousands of dollars, and his loss to the city is incalculable.

THE LATE AUDITOR JEWELL.

When Mr. Jewell took hold of the city's business in 1882, London was in a strained financial condition owing to certain causes, but his wisdom and foresight brought the corporation through the crisis safely.

Besides holding the position of city auditor, he was also auditor for the Huron and Erie Loan and Savings Company, the Agricultural Loan and Savings Company, the Ontario Loan and Debenture Company, and several other financial institutions. All over Canada he was known as one of the first among the expert auditors of the Dominion.

Was Prominent Church Worker.

For many years Mr. Jewell was prominent in the work of St. Paul's Cathedral, where he had held the positions of Sunday school superintendent and churchwarden. Latterly he had attended the Memorial Church, where he took the same office in the affairs of the Church of England.

Mr. Jewell possessed a very fine library, and was until within the past few years an omnivorous reader. Latterly he was so busy that he found it impossible to read as much as formerly, but he still indulged in a little recreation in the way of nature study.

He survived by a widow (formerly Miss Emma Pope, daughter of the late Frank Pope, whom he married 43 years ago), two sons and one daughter—Messrs. Frank and George, of Toronto, and Miss Bella, who is a nurse in Whittier Hall, New York.

for Late Dr. Warden's Place at Salary of $3,000.

At the meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly this morning, the special committee appointed to consider a successor to the late Dr. Warden, treasurer, presented its first report, through the chairman, Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Ottawa.

The committee appointed Mr. Alex. Warden, son of the late treasurer, Dr. Warden, at a salary of $2,500 per annum. It gave Knox College the power to appoint Mr. Warden's treasurer of the college funds if the board so desired.

Rev. Dr. Somerville was appointed to a permanent position in the offices of the church at a salary of $3,000 per annum. This was in addition to his salary as clerk. He was also appointed to the board of trustees, and was to continue his work in relation to missions, and should have charge of the augmentation funds, etc. Dr. Somerville was also appointed to the

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

SEEN FROM THE GALLERY

The great debate on the union question in the General Assembly, to which The Advertiser has already made reference, was continued all day yesterday, till the hour of adjournment, and an audience that filled the church listened intently to the end. The first vote was taken just before the close of the afternoon session on Mr. Mackay's amendment, which was lost by 22 to 179. This does not in any sense settle the union question, but it practically settles the matter as far as this assembly is concerned. There are one or two amendments which may yet be pressed but the assembly will be impatient of any further discussion at this stage. The result will permit the union negotiations to proceed till the committees representing the various churches have completed their work. Their basis of union—if such can be agreed upon by the committees—will then be sent down to congregations, sessions and presbyteries, that the people may finally pronounce upon it. Those who spoke in the debate of yesterday have already been introduced to the readers of The Advertiser by your contributor. They were in favor of the union committee's motion, Principal McLaren, of Knox College, Toronto; Principal Forester, of Dalhousie University, Halifax; Dr. Lyle, Hamilton; Dr. Duval, Winnipeg; Dr. McMillan, Woodstock; Dr. Ramsay, Ottawa; Principal Scrimgeour, Montreal, and Mr. J. A. Macdonald, of Toronto. Against the motion and in favor of Mr. Mackay's amendment to stop further efforts for organic union were Rev. J. Knox Wright, Vancouver; Sir Thomas W. Taylor, Hamilton; Dr. Campbell, of Montreal, and Mr. T. C. James, of Charlottetown.

P. E. I. It is needless to say that all the speeches of yesterday, like those of the previous day, were able and statesmanlike. It was a battle of the giants. It was, indeed, from every point of view, a great debate, a momentous occasion, a historic day. Both in tone and consummate ability it was worthy of this great Presbyterian parliament. The Rev. Principal Gordon said at the Queen's banquet last night: "It was the very best debate we have ever had in the church since I became connected with it." That is high praise from such a quarter. Principal Patrick, the convener of the union committee, has shown that as a trained debater he is unsurpassed in the church. His summing up of the discussion was masterly.

One of the most remarkable men in the assembly is Rev. Dr. R. N. Grant, of Orillia. Dr. Grant is a man of the very finest, all-round intellectual equipment. He is a strong and earnest preacher, and a diligent and sympathetic pastor. Like some other members of the house, Dr. Grant has been for years been well known as a humorous contributor to various leading papers and magazines. His fund of genial humor seems inexhaustible.

For many years Dr. Grant contributed editorially to the staff of the "Herald," in its palmy days, one of the best-written weeklies, under Mr. Wm. Buckingham. On several occasions he reported the American Presbyterian Assembly for the Toronto Globe. Dr. Grant is the author of the life of the late Dr. Cochrane, of Brantford, a work which has been most favorably reviewed by the press. Thirteen years ago Knox College conferred on him the degree of D. D. In 1881 he was moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston. The church of which he is pastor has a membership of about 800. It was a great disappointment to his hosts of friends that he did not take part in the union debate.

Rev. R. G. McBeth, of Paris, one of the bright young men of the assembly, who has given notice of another amendment to the union motion, was born in the historic town of Kildonan, Man., and was ordained in 1891. He was pastor of churches in the Winnipeg and Vancouver before coming to Paris, in 1900 he established the Western Presbyterian, which he conducted with much ability until 1902, when it was amalgamated with the Presbyterian of Toronto. Mr. McBeth is the author of two most interesting books, "The Selkirk Settlers in Real Life," published in 1898, and "The Making of the Canadian West," published in 1900. The latter reached its second edition in 1904. Mr. McBeth is a popular preacher and platform orator. His congregation in Paris has about 600 members.

In his address against the proposed union, Rev. J. Knox Wright, of Vancouver, with an impressive gesture, and in an emphatic manner, asked the question, "Where are we at?" Quick as a flash came the answer from a humorous member of the court, "At confusion." Of course, the laugh was on the breezy western commissioner. Another distinguished doctor of divinity proposed the conundrum, "Why are some of the speakers on the union question like an unfinished rail? The answer was, "Because they have no terminal facilities." It must be said that two or three speeches were a little too long; although compared with most of those in a great debate in the House of Commons or Legislature, they were brief. In one case the moderator could hardly get the speaker to stop even when the hour of adjournment had come.

The missionaries in attendance this morning, both from the home and foreign field, are men of exceptionally high quality of manhood and power. Perhaps no church in the world has a finer staff of home and foreign missionaries.

The moderator, Dr. Falconer, had his hands full at certain points in yesterday's debate, when points of order or other interruptions came thick and fast, and new amendments were offered. Perhaps he was a little too gentle when the house grew noisy. But, as some one has said, it is not probable that the Apostle John was strong on the gavel when the synod met at Ephesus.

Mr. J. A. Macdonald, of the Globe, who spoke on the union question as a representative elder, gave a splendid address. All Mr. Macdonald's addresses at this assembly have been strong and inspiring. He is recognized by all as a brainy member of the court. Many of the older commissioners compare him to his distinguished predecessor, the great editor, statesman and tribune of the people, the late Hon. Geo. Brown, who was also an elder of the church. Young contributor, who frequently had the privilege in his young days of listening to Mr. Brown on the platform, thinks the comparison not at all inappropriate in regard to Mr. Macdonald's cyclonic style of oratory, his tremendous moral earnestness and his power to sway a great audience.

DEATH SUMMONS
DETECTIVE MURRAYWell-Known Officer Passes Away at Toronto at the Age of Sixty-Six.

Toronto, Ont., June 12.—Mr. John Wilson Murray, chief inspector of police, Ontario, died tonight at 7 o'clock at his home, 82 Brunswick avenue, having suffered a stroke of apoplexy on Saturday night.

He was at work all last week, having spent several days in investigating an alleged case of incendiaryism in York County. On Saturday he did considerable driving in connection with the case. When he arrived home in the evening he complained of feeling very ill, and some time later lapsed into unconsciousness.

Mr. Murray, the most famous of all Canadian detectives, had enjoyed excellent health for some time past. Nearly two years ago, while on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Boyd, wife of Mr. Wm. Boyd, chief electrical engineer of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, at Sydney, Cape Breton, he caught a chill, and as a result was seriously ill for several weeks. The only other surviving member of Mr. Murray's family is his daughter, Miss Mary, who lived with him.

Mr. Murray was for 31 years a detective in the employ of the Ontario Government, and his fame was international.

He was born in Edinburgh on June 25, 1840, and was appointed Government detective in 1875.

FOUR CHILDREN
DIE IN FLAMESWhile Mother Hurries for Help
Roof Collapses on the Little Ones.

Ottawa, June 12.—The town of Kildonan, situated in South Revere, 44 miles from Ottawa, has been plunged into deep mourning as the result of a tragedy that occurred early Saturday morning, when the four sons of Mr. Daniel Dixon, engineer, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home.

The dead are: Daniel Alexander Dixon, aged 12; Carol Herbert Dixon, aged 8; William Clements Dixon, aged 5; James Dixon, aged 2.

Mrs. Dixon, mother of the victims, and Irene, her only daughter, aged 4, had narrow escapes, and were lucky in not being burned, too.

The mother jumped, with Irene in her arms, and while she was getting a ladder for the purpose of rescuing her unfortunate little sons, the roof collapsed, burying them in the ruins. The four bodies, charred and disfigured beyond recognition, were found next morning.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a bonfire started to smoke out mosquitoes.

NEW HEAD FOR FLYING ROLLERS

Detroit Man Says That He Is Prince Michael.

AND LEADS ENGLISH SECT

Structure Erected by Head of Sect, Now Falling to Ruin, To Be Rebuilt.

London, June 12.—One of the prominent utterances of the late P. T. Barnum, who knew a great deal more of human nature than one can ever learn from books, was to the effect that the world would come to an end before the supply of fools ran short. There was a fresh sucker, he said, born every minute. So there can be no doubt that Michael Keyfor Mills, erstwhile of Detroit, Mich., U. S. A., who has proclaimed himself the Prince Michael foretold by the prophet Daniel, and the heaven-appointed successor of James Jereshon Jezreel, founder of the Jezreelites, will obtain a following in England.

The real name of "J. J. J." as he was called by his disciples, was James White. He served some years as a private soldier in the British army before the idea struck him that he could acquire much more glory and have a far easier time of it by starting a new religion. After he had obtained his discharge papers, he turned up one day with the document which he called the "Flying Roll," because, he declared, it had flown to him from heaven. It contained a lot of gibberish to the effect that "J. J. J." was the one and only leader of the twelve tribes of Israel, and anybody who wanted to stand any show of being numbered among the 144,000 elect, spoken of in revelations, who are not to see death, would have to tie up to James Jereshon Jezreel.

Made Business Pay. A lot of people did it, and Jezreel made the prophet business pay handsomely. He bought some property at Chatham, on the summit of a high hill, and started in to build there a rival to the tower of Babel. When completed it was to house the 144,000 elect. As designed by Jezreel, it would never have contained more than a fraction of that number, but, of course, the greater the claims he made on the credulity of his followers the more profitably did they believe in him. Before he finished the sixth story he died.

Inasmuch as he had proclaimed that by means of the "flying roll" he had been rendered deathproof, his decease staggered the faith of many of his followers in that precious document. Then his widow stepped into the breach. She explained that "J. J. J." had made a little mistake. Is was she, as Queen Esther, who had received a commission from on high to save the remnant of mankind from destruction. She ran the diminished band of Jezreelites for a time, but she did not make any attempt to finish the tower of Jezreel. Then she, too, gave the lie to her own pretensions by dying. Her father, Robert Rogers, next tackled the job. But with the Jezreelites reduced to less than 30 in number, there was not money enough in it to provide him with a living, and he has had to toil for his daily bread just like ordinary mortals.

American to the Rescue. Some years ago Michael Keyfor Mills came over from America, where he had established a band of Jezreelites, and intimated that he was the right man to boss the job at headquarters. But Rogers refused to abdicate in his favor, and the small remnant of the faithful left at Chatham jeered at him. Mills returned to America and devoted himself to making money. Cash counts in self to making money. Cash counts in fanaticism as in other things. The lack of it compelled the Jezreelites to part with their tower. The new owners demolished a good deal of it and tried to convert it into a factory, but could not make it work.

That was Prince Michael's opportunity. He has bought what is left of the tower of Jezreel. He has dubbed the hill on which it stands Mount Zion. And he declares that it is the only spot on earth where there is any chance of escaping the fire and brimstone and other dreadful things that are soon to fill this world with far worse horrors than the San Francisco earthquake. "They rejected me when I came to England before," he told me, "and you see the result," he added with a sweet gesture of his stick, indicating the half-demolished structure. "They have fallen from the faith and they have been punished." But I, Prince Michael, foretold by the prophet Daniel, have returned to them. The day of the salvation is at hand. They shall be delivered. I have come to gather unto me those whose names are written in the book. He declaimed these words in a hollow, sepulchral voice and emphasized their conclusion by hanging his stick on a brick that had fallen from the wall.

He is a thick-set, middle-aged man, with long grizzled locks and frowning gray beard. His eyes are small and deep-set, and when he plays the Prince Michael role, he does with a deal of vim, they seem to fairly glitter. One should imagine that he possesses a deal of hypnotic power. He started ranting again when asked what proof he could give of his humble scribe, that he is the real, simon-pure, genuine and only Prince Michael.

"Proof!" he ejaculated, bestowing on me a glance of withering scorn. "I have but to lay my hands upon you and exercise that wondrous power with which I have been invested, to stretch you unconscious—dead if I willed it—at my feet."

The reason why some men never buy gold bricks is because they are not sold on the installment plan.

New Automobile Law Goes Into Effect July 1, 1906

Pointers of Interest to Autoists and to All Who Use the Roads.

Writing in "Motoring," a new Canadian publication of more than ordinary merit, which is devoted to the auto and the auto boat, Mr. T. A. Russell says of the new automobile law which comes into effect in Ontario on the first of July:

"Motor owners and drivers generally will be pleased to know that the extreme measures in the bill introduced by Messrs. Sutherland and Lennox were eliminated from the bill which was finally introduced by Hon. Mr. Hanna. This measure was largely of the nature of a compromise, and while it still contains some measures and restrictions extremely unfair to motor owners and operators their attitude towards it, now that it has become law, should be to faithfully endeavor to carry out its provisions. The following are the main new features of the act as carried.

Numbers on Back and Front.
1. That the number on the back of the motor vehicle shall be securely fixed in such position that no part of it projects lower than the body of the machine. Very little objection will be taken to this provision by owners of motor vehicles.

2. An additional number must be carried in the front of the vehicle in a conspicuous place. It is expected that the number will be placed in such a position as not to interfere with the efficiency of the radiator.

3. What is known to the trade as searchlights are prohibited. This clause has perhaps caused more anxiety than any other in the bill, on account of the varying reports in the newspapers as to the actual wording of the section. They will be reassured to know that a searchlight as known to the trade is a moving light, one situated on a swivel so that the light can be made to search the ground in various directions about it. Headlights which are placed in a fixed position on the car are not prohibited, and are not prohibited under the act.

Stop on Signal.
4. On signal from the driver of a horse-drawn vehicle a motor driver must stop and not proceed further towards such animal unless such movement is necessary to avoid accident or injury, or until such animal or animal-drawn vehicle has been signalled to proceed. In case of a horse being frightened the occupants of the motor vehicle shall render assistance to the rider or driver of the horse.

5. No one shall drive a motor vehicle recklessly or negligently or in a manner dangerous to the public.

6. That in case an accident occurs to any person or property on the highway by reason of a motor vehicle being on the highway, the person in charge of the motor vehicle shall return to the scene of the accident and upon request give in writing to any one demanding the same, his name and address, and the name and address of the owner of the motor vehicle. Both these provisions are aimed at the driver who does not dismount at the scene of the accident, but in meeting frightened horses on the highway. No reasonable motorist will object to these provisions, but will be only too pleased to live up to them.

7. Perhaps the only exception that could be taken to the last clause would be in the case of an accident occurring of which the driver of the motor vehicle was not aware. Some accidents of this kind occur after the motor vehicle has passed and the driver may be totally unaware of the accident. In any such case, of course, the magistrate ought to exercise reasonable discretion as to the article of the driver of the motor vehicle.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Outing Magazine for June is a seasonable number. It has no room for the muck-raker, but instead it has Ralph D. Paine writing about "The Builders"—men who are building, not barking down. The chapter which opens the current number, "The Gold Camp of the Desert," describes the amazing growth of cities, with all modern improvements, which have sprung up in the middle of the most desolate desert places. Another feature is the second installment of Jack London's serial, "White Fang."

Photographs and drawings of the San Francisco fire, and pictures of scenes connected with Prince Arthur's visit to Canada are notable features of the Canadian Magazine for June. Prof. Coleman's article on "Earthquakes and Volcanic Eruptions" is deeply interesting, and will attract attention at this time. Frederick Dolman's article on St. John Mills is also of interest. A well illustrated Frank Carroll has an illustrated article on "An Experience in Tangiers." Then there is Mr. Webster's second article on "The New York Season of Drama," with illustrations, and stories by Nellie L. McCung, W. A. Fraser and Herman Whitaker, besides other attractive features.

"Roland Graeme, Knight," by Agnes Maule Machar, is a reprint by William Bland of the book first published in 1832. Those who are familiar with the work of the author, known better, perhaps, by her pen name, "Fidelis," do not require to be told that the tone of the book is pure and wholesome, and that it is written with a distinct ethical purpose. Roland Graeme is a young man deeply interested in the vexing problems of capital and labor, whose sympathies are with the wage-earners, but who is characterized by sanity and moral balance. The plot of the story, in which Rev. Mr. Chillingworth, the clerical orator, is brought face to face with the wife from whom he had been separated, is worked out with no small degree of skill. There is abundance of bright dialogue, and the interest is well sustained till the close.

"How Ought Wealth to be Distributed?"

Penalty for Infringement.

7. Any one guilty of infringement of the following provisions: (1) Driving without a number, (2) Racing on the highway, (3) Not coming back in case of an accident, or refusing to give information when he has come back, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $50 for the first offense, a fine of $100 for the second offense and imprisonment for a period not exceeding one month for a third offense. These penalties are unusually severe, but we do not think that motor owners would object to them except in case a number became detached through accident, or in case of the driver of the motor vehicle being identified with an accident on the highway of which he was not aware and to the scene of which he did not return.

8. Anyone guilty of three offenses against any one of these three above sections within a year shall have his permit canceled, and no new one shall be furnished him within a period of two years.

An Unfair Provision.
9. Anyone violating any provision of the act except those above shall be liable to a fine of not less than $10 or more than $50, and costs. This is one of the most unjust provisions in the act.

Everyone driving a motor vehicle knows a slight accident may cause a lamp to go out while the driver may be perfectly unaware of such a condition. It is manifestly unfair that any minor infringement of this kind should be treated as a crime, and where there is no intention to infringe the act, should be punished with a heavy penalty of $10 and costs. Every effort was made to have this clause defeated and cleared by the opinion of the majority of the House was that this minimum fine should be eliminated. On account of the bill itself being largely a compromise it could not be defeated without reopening other features which the opponents of the motor vehicles were desirous of inserting, and consequently this unjust provision was allowed to stand.

10. Peace officers are given power of arrest for infringement of the three above named provisions of the act.

11. The law is to come into effect on the 1st of July.

Live Up to the Law.

Any one reading the above provisions, which are practically all in addition to the existing law, will appreciate how stringent the new regulations really are. There were certain members in the Legislature who declared that the act was too stringent, and voted a great amount of time to working up an agitation against motor vehicles and who by circulars and otherwise brought large deputations to influence the view of the most important clauses of the bill. The extreme clauses of the bill, however, were quoted as a precedent and the result is that we have now in Ontario one of the most stringent laws in force anywhere on the continent of America.

The Toronto Automobile Club in opposing the measures sought to have the speed limit outside of towns and villages raised from fifteen to twenty miles per hour. While many members of the club were favorable to this, it was not possible to secure this concession during the present session. Despite the fact that the law as above outlined is unnecessarily harsh and severe there is only one attitude for the motor owner and driver to take and that is an earnest effort to live up to the provisions of the bill as finally enacted. If motor owners will seriously endeavor to do this and show a reasonable spirit of concession to other drivers of the highway there is little doubt but that in a year or two from now such measures as the above will be amended with the hearty concurrence of every member of the House or will become dead letters upon the statute books.

ed "is the striking title of a striking article in the June Atlantic. Prof. T. N. Carver has some significant things to say here about the various theories that are holding the field today. They may all be reduced to one, or to three, which he terms the aristocratic, the socialistic and the liberalistic—or democratic—theories. We have listened to so much protosocialistic eloquence of late that it is a relief to hear of one so soberly estimated and criticized.

CHAPEL FOR K. C. M. G.

To Have a Special Recession in St. Paul's Cathedral.

London, June 12.—The Order of St. Michael and St. George today acquired a chapel of their own, a special recess in St. Paul's Cathedral having been dedicated to the service of its knights, who now for the first time in the history of the order have a place in which to deposit their banners. The distinction of K. C. M. G. (Knight Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George) has heretofore been somewhat secondary, but it is now raised nearer the level of the orders of the Garter and of the Bath. King Edward, who took the greatest interest in the dedication of the chapel, attended the ceremony in full state. The Prince of Wales was also present. Great military and heraldic pomp marked the ceremonial and the interior of the vast cathedral was a blaze of gorgeous color, with the blue and crimson silken 'gowns' of the knights, whose breasts glittered with the dazzling insignia of the order.

A soft answer may turn away wrath, but you never heard of a book agent by that name.

FOR EVERYTHING.—The time for Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil is when crampy conditions appear in the system, when rheumatic pains beset the joints, when lumbago, arthritic, cough, cold, catarrh or saracoe attack either young or old, when burns, scalds, abrasions, contusions or sprains come to any member of the family. In any of these ailments it will give relief and work a cure.

HAS LITTLE HOPE OF CHURCH UNION

Bishop Mills Tells Ontario That Only a Miracle Can Bring It.

Kingston, June 12.—Bishop Mills, in his charge to the Ontario Synod today, claimed that the moral standard that now exists was shocking. He did say, however:

"I am glad to find the able and active Roman Catholic archbishop of Montreal taking such an absolute stand in behalf of temperance and the better observance of the Lord's Day; He will not to him for what he is doing. He will not only accomplish great things amongst his own people, but the change in them will have an influence on Protestants also."

Speaking of church union, Bishop Mills said, in part:

"The question of church union is occupying a very prominent place in the public mind, because of the steps taken by the Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists to establish a basis on which they can come together, and though there are still many difficulties in the way, what they have done seems to fairly promise an organized union which will constitute a body of enormous strength and influence. The Church of England has not been asked to join with them, though the Church of England in Canada has made overtures to these bodies in the past. A standing committee on union, appointed by the provincial synod, has existed for years, with directions to confer with Presbyterians, Methodists and others, as to the possibility of union."

After mentioning what would be essential and what the Anglican Church would be willing to sacrifice, including the Thirty-nine Articles and the dress of the clergy, his lordship concluded: "Looking at the matter from a human point of view, personally, I have no hope of union, unless God works a mighty miracle. I know that with him all things are possible and that he can overcome, if it is his will, every difficulty, and make men to be of one mind, but not otherwise, in my opinion, can union be brought about. The Church of England will continue to stand alone, and in God's sight and in God's strength to do her work, with the consciousness of endeavoring to be faithful to the trusts imparted to her; and the day may come, probably will come, when some at least of those outside of her will be thankful for her faithfulness."

Tonight Rev. Dr. Stone, Chicago, delivered the annual synod sermon in St. George's Cathedral to a large audience. During the business proceedings Secretary Shaver, of the Lord's Day Alliance, expressed the conviction that the privileges to Jews and Adventists in the new Lord's Day act would be struck out.

The synod stood while Bishop Mills paid tribute to the memory of the late Bishop Bompas.

SCHOOL BOOKS

TEACH EVOLUTION

Bishop Sweatman Objects to Certain Parts of the High School Geography.

Toronto, June 12.—The Anglican Synod was called together at St. James' Cathedral at 11 o'clock this morning. Morning prayers were held and Bishop Sweatman's charge was followed by divine service and communion. In presenting his report on the state of the diocese, the bishop first alluded to those who had been taken away by death, among whom were Rev. J. Anderson, Rev. Joseph Cowell, Rev. Dr. Sheraton, and only yesterday Bishop Bompas, the pioneer missionary of the west. Two lay members who had rendered great services were also taken away by death.

There are now 191 clergymen in the diocese, including nine superannuated ones. Fourteen have left the diocese in two years, but seventeen have been received by ordination, and ten from outside places. Confirmations and baptisms throughout the diocese showed a steady and healthy increase. The increase in the church population all told is over 10,000. Revenues have grown 5 per cent in two years, while two churches destroyed by fire are in course of reconstruction. In addition several pastors' houses and schoolhouses are being built, and many churches are being altered and enlarged.

The bishop referred to the overcrowding in Toronto churches, and said Toronto must face the problem of building some new churches, as the population was rapidly increasing, and the overtaxed seating capacity of the churches threw an unfair burden on the members of these churches.

There had been several vacancies, but no difficulty was found in filling them. The mission fund was in a very healthy state, so that better salaries could be paid and more efficient work done. Great praise was given to the mission fund committee. The hope was expressed that the congregations would keep up their good work in this respect.

All the church educational institutions were prosperous and doing good work. The need of religious instruction was never more felt. Exception to the new high school geography was taken, on the ground that its teaching on certain matters was opposed to Christian doctrine and religious teaching. It put forth evolutionary ideas on the creation of the world, and presumed to say the universe was not the work of a creator. Pages 2 and 41 of the high school geography were particularly cited as being dangerous in their teachings to Christian faith.

The passages on the pages cited dealt particularly with the evolution of the world in a gradual process, and with verbiage hypothesis as explaining the origin of the universe. In both cases, church teachings are rather directly contradicted. The bishop, however, was cautious in his criticisms, and stated that the synod could only pass resolutions advising against the use of the books in the schools.

LOSES SEVERAL FINGERS.

Ridgeway, June 12.—Peter Cole, pump manufacturer, met with a serious accident about noon today while operating a circular saw at his pump works on Ebenezer street.

In such manner his right hand became caught between the saw and guide, with the result that the end was taken off the thumb and the first, second and the third fingers were severed at the second joint. The thumb was also dislocated near the hand.

Faulty Digestion

Causes Physical and Mental Breakdown—Mi-o-na Will Strengthen Stomach.

Few people realize the intimate relation between the mind and stomach. Worry and excessive mental work re-act on the digestive system, while on the other hand the greatest cause of nerve and brain impoverishment is a weak or faulty digestion.

When the stomach does not assimilate the elements of strength and nerve force that are in the food we eat, the energies we expend in the active processes of life are not replaced, and physical and mental breakdown results.

If the stomach does not have action, it soon becomes unable to act, just the same as a muscle that is not used becomes weak and valueless. Just as soon as you find that your food is not properly digested, that you taste it after eating, that the tongue is furred, the breath heavy, the appetite poor, the head occasionally dull and aching, begin the use of Mi-o-na.

This reliable remedy contains no poison, and is an absolute strengthener of the digestive system. In fact, it is a guaranteed cure for all diseases of the stomach, excepting cancer. It is not a patent medicine, and its formula is furnished to physicians, druggists, and all intelligent people who may desire it. Mi-o-na differs from any other remedy on the market in its lasting effects.

Mi-o-na costs but 50 cents a box.

If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The R. T. Booth Company, Inc., N. Y.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The present General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada may stand out in ecclesiastical history. The debate on the question of union was worthy of the parliament of a great church, and it may safely be said that the majority of the speakers rose to the height of their argument.

An amendment which, if carried, would have put an end to the present movement for union, was rejected by a vote of 179 to 22. No doubt some delegates who are not yet converted, or have still open minds, sided with the majority, in order that the question might be further matured, but making all allowances, the vote indicates that the temper of the assembly is decidedly toward organic union. Its action yesterday, however, was not a decisive, but only a tentative, step. The hopes of the unionists must now be launched on a more or less uncharted sea. The subject has been hitherto debated by the picked men of the church, but it must now run the gauntlet of the membership. It will go to synods, presbyteries and sessions, and so down to the individual congregations, whose representations will flood the General Assembly before the latter submits a final referendum. Doubtless similar processes will be followed in the Methodist and Congregational Churches. On the principle that "the strength of some diffusive thought" should have "time and space to work and spread," years may elapse before the union is consummated, even under the most favorable conditions. Latent difficulties may be developed which will retard it for a generation; the movement may become a lost cause, wanting unanimity; or some federative plan may take the place of the larger conception, if organic union is impossible.

The movement for union is evidently not the work of youthful enthusiasts. The dead and front of it are veterans who might be supposed to be conservative in matters both of doctrine and policy. It is rather curious, also, that the opposition in the assembly was led by one of the younger members. Apart from the doctrinal question, which the opponents of union hold to be the supreme consideration, there is an admitted advantage in union by the conserving of resources which are to a great extent wasted in competition. No doubt the growth of the west, opening a vineyard which cries for laborers, has been potent in creating a sentiment for union, so that the energies of the churches could be combined under a single control and direction for the conquest of the new field. According to the last census the chief religious bodies numbered among their adherents the following:

Roman Catholics2,228,997
Methodists915,862
Presbyterians842,391
Anglicans680,346
Baptists349,977
Lutherans22,394
Congregationalists28,283

A union of Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists, would embrace at the present time nearly 2,900,000 souls, allowing for the growth of population since the last census. With the Anglicans and Baptists added, the united church would comprise, on the basis of the census of 1930, about 54 per cent of the population.

THE PRISON LABOR PROBLEM.

The question of prison labor in Ontario has been raised in an acute form by the contract made by the Provincial Secretary with a firm engaged in the manufacture of woodenware, under which the labor of the inmates of the Central Prison has been sold at an average rate of 31-2 cents per hour. A joint deputation of wood-ware makers and their employees waited upon the Government to protest against this agreement. They claimed that it was unjust to expose them to the competition of prison-made goods, which they could not meet because of the cheapness of prison labor. The contract has seven years to run, and there is no likelihood that it will be canceled. Moreover, the goods are to be placed on the open market without being labeled "prison-made," a violation of the promise of the Government.

An unprinted report of the United States Bureau of Labor on convict competition with outside workers, shows that in some trades the prisons have obtained practical control of the field. It is asserted that the whip and whiplash business, except in the buggy whip branch, "has been almost entirely abandoned to the prisons." Of saddle trees convicts make 90 per cent of the total output, special patterns only being attempted by outside manufacturers. Ninety-nine per cent of the cheaper grades of kettles, skillets and other store hollowware are convict made. In furniture, boots and shoes, binder twine, brooms, brushes, shirts and overalls, the convicts compete with outside manufacturers, and it is asserted, demoralize the markets. The products of prison and convict industries in the United States in 1903-04 were valued at $33,762,445. Of the goods manufactured $9,325,068 worth were sold to the public in the States of their origin, and $5,513,684 worth were used in public institutions, the remainder, or $17,000,000 worth, going outside to the general market.

It is declared by the labor committee of the House of Representatives that "old firms and long established industries are being driven out of business" by the competition of the prisons, and two letters from one manufacturing corporation are printed in the report to show that it has abandoned the making of spiders and regular sinks "on account of convict competition."

It is conceded that labor in some form is necessary to prison discipline and to the moral and physical well-being of the prisoners. There are manifestly grave objections to placing the products of this labor on the open market, where it may be injurious to capital invested in good faith, and to free labor. The ideal policy is to employ prisoners in making goods used in public institutions which have to be maintained out of the public purse. In this way the moral effect of labor on the prisoners will be preserved, and they will relieve taxpayers of a proportion of the expense of their maintenance.

MR. ELSON IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Our good friend, Mr. Peter Elson, of East Middlesex, has been performing "off his own bat" at Ottawa. Mr. Elson has tried earnestly to qualify for the higher politics by studying the Auditor-General's report. It is a repository of hard facts, appealing to a man of his practical instincts. He was rewarded by the astounding discovery that the Government had paid $31.40 for 80½ bushels of potatoes, or at the rate of $1.14 a bushel. This was a question in Mr. Elson's own line, a question which he could discuss with authority and confidence. An Ottawa dispatch to the London Free Press tells us he "created a storm" in the House of Commons when he flashed the tell-tale blue book on the cowering occupants of the treasury benches. Confronted with the proof of their criminal extravagance they writhed and squirmed under the lash of Mr. Elson's denunciation, and he let them off only after they had promised to make full inquiry. It was an opportunity that may come to a member of Parliament only once in a lifetime, and Mr. Elson rose to the occasion. He demonstrated to his constituents that he was attending to business, and trying honestly to earn his increased indemnity. Instead of lounging around the drawing-rooms of Ottawa and dawdling over pink teas.

Seemingly, the highest achievement to which a member of the present Opposition can aspire is to unearth a scandal, and Mr. Elson was in a fair way to winning his spurs. Potatoes at $1.14 per bushel! What a trump card in the township at the next general election! The calf with a cough would not be a circumstance to it. But Mr. Elson's chances of promotion were very much discounted by the discovery that he had been the victim of a clerical error. The voucher showed that the Government had bought 180 bushels of potatoes for $31.40, which was the market price at the time. In view of this Mr. Elson is rather an object of sympathy and is convinced that a scandal in the hand is worth two in the blue book.

WHY PREVARICATE?

[St. Catharines Star-Journal.]
The St. Thomas Times is talking loudly about the land limits in the west. Mr. Sifton's brother-in-law, Mr. Burrows, has, why does not the Times act fairly and acknowledge that Mr. Burrows got these limits from a Conservative Government, and Mr. Sifton says he got them for nothing.

"Say good-morning, then, Skidoo!"

THE GOLDEN ROSE.

[London Daily Mail.]
The "Golden Rose" which the Pope is presenting to the future Queen of Spain, is one of the most curious orders in existence.

It is a mimic plant of pure gold, standing in a golden pot whereon are emblazoned the papal arms. It has leaves, buds and flowers. In the central flower is a tiny receptacle in which is contained a small palm leaf, blessed by the Pope—a ceremony usually performed on the fourth Sunday in Lent. Often enough no one is considered worthy of the honor, and the plant is laid away in the Vatican until a suitable recipient appears.

The leaves of this golden plant are set with small jewels in imitation of dewdrops. Formerly the flower was made of red enamel, but now delicately worked gold is used alone.
The cost of the carving alone is about $350, and when the jewels are added from the collection of the Vatican it cannot be valued at anything less than $2,000.

The presentation of the Golden Rose is the highest honor the Pope can confer upon a Catholic princess. At the present time it is in the possession of the Queen Regent of Spain, the ex-Empress Eugenie, and some few others. In the past it was presented to the Empress Josephine, Queen Isabella of Spain, Queen Sophia of Naples, and many another famous lady since the days of Johanna of Sicily, the first Rose Queen in the time of Urban VI.

THE LIFE WORTH LIVING.

(N. Y. Sun.)
This is the life that I would lead:
A cottage on a grassy hill,
A few immortal books to read,<
A woodland way to roam at will,
A garden spot to turn with spade,
The shelter of a maple's shade.

This is the life that suits me best:
The daily burgeon of the East,
The daily blossom of the West,
The Milky Way my nightly feast,
The blue of skies my dearest boon,
The solace of the afternoon.

This is the life that woe and wine:
A living far from crowd and cant,
A home secure from raucous din,
A realm away from roar and rant,
The monarch of a modest hill,
To have and hold the world at will.

IS THERE NO LIMIT?

[S. E. Kiser.]
Mother's eating carrots, lettuce, greens and peas.
Father lives on onions; we've quit having meals.
Pancakes in the morning, breakfast food and rice.
We're saving money and it's worth the price.

Sausage? Bah! We wouldn't feed it to the pup!
If you speak of beefsteak, sister's nose goes up.
We have eggs for dinner, bread and milk for tea.
And we must be getting richer rapidly.

Every morning father, as he reads the news,
Seems to get discouraged, seems to have the blues.
And he pounds the table, saying things are wrong—
Vegetables seem to keep him pretty strong.

Every day somebody tells about some packing fifth we hadn't heard about before.
It is nearly time to hear again, I think.
That the milk is doctored and unfit to drink.

Onions, prunes and carrots, lettuce, turnips, rice—
Well, they might be better, still they're pretty nice.
Yet before tomorrow someone, raking muck,
May discover fifth in these things—damn the luck!

THE SILENCE CUR.

[London Punch.]
Nerve specialists, it is said, are now recommending a "silence cure" for women who suffer from nerves. The patients have to set apart a certain number of hours in which no word is spoken. A woman we know tried this treatment, with a curious result. She herself came out in a rash, but her husband, who suffered from headaches, recovered.

What is hers, too, is his—
Is marriage a hindrance?
Well, you bet it is.

ATROCITIES IN THE CONGO COUNTRY

[From the Philadelphia Inquirer.]

It was Mark Twain who said that people were always talking about the weather, but that nothing was ever done. The same thing may be remarked of the revolting conditions reported to exist in what is known to diplomacy as the Congo Independent State.

It has been strenuously and repeatedly denied that the Belgian administration of that enormous territory is anything like as bad as has been over and over again asserted. The public has been assured that the stories told by the missionaries about the barbarous treatment of the natives, which they with their own eyes have witnessed, are as much exaggerated as the famous report about Mark Twain's abuse of authority have occurred, the government of the country, as conducted by King Leopold's representatives, has, upon the whole, been enlightened, progressive and humane. Investigating committees have been appointed to ascertain the facts and as the result of their inquiries they have brought in a verdict of not guilty, but don't do it again, while the official representatives of the Belgian Government have exhausted the vocabulary of protest in denouncing the wicked slanders of which in this connection their beloved and revered sovereign has been the subject.

In spite of everything, incriminating statements about the horrible manner in which the miserable natives of the Congo country are systematically maltreated continue to be made and nothing seemingly is being done to rectify the situation. The most recent witness against the Belgian rulers of the Congo land is the Rev. Dr. E. H. Nassau, who has just got back to the United States after 45 years spent in missionary work on the South African coast. He spent the greater part of his time in the Congo and Cameroon districts, and it is his testimony that the very worst of the stories told of the brutality practiced by King Leopold's rubber gatherers is no more than the plain unvarnished truth.

What Dr. Nassau says is that the official rubber collectors periodically visit the native villages and order the delivery of so much rubber by a specified period. If the prescribed quantity is not duly forthcoming, the Belgian soldiers seize the wives and daughters of the delinquent villagers and lash them on the naked backs with whips made of hippopotamus hide. If it is desired, as often as happens, to render punishment especially severe and the example particularly impressive, Dr. Nassau declares that honey is rubbed into the raw flesh of the lacerated women, who are then tied to stakes near beehives and ant hills, with consequences more easily to be imagined than described. The victims linger a long time, but they die eventually.

This may be thought to exceed belief, yet it is in keeping with the assertions made by other witnesses and its truth may be assumed. Yet Secretary Root is not willing that the United States should be the first country to recognize the Belgian arrangements in the Congo region, should make any move toward ending these abuses, and among the European governments no one is willing to take the matter up because it is afraid of having its motives misunderstood.

This is hard on the Congo natives, but the Belgian rubber business continues to prosper.

JOY BRINGS TEARS TO TERRY'S EYES

Remarkable Reception Given the Great Actress at Jubilee Performance.

London, June 12.—The lasting and affectionate regard in which English players hold their stage favorites found splendid exemplification today in the matinee at the Drury Lane Theater in commemoration of the theatrical jubilee of Ellen Terry.

It was the most remarkable manifestation of its kind in the history of the British stage, not only drawn to the great historic auditorium an immense audience representative of all walks of life, but crowding the stage with the most notable names in the dramatic and musical profession, including players and composers, in an unprecedented programme, which continued from 12:30 to 7:30 o'clock.

The most conspicuous, of course, was the first act of "Much Ado About Nothing," with Miss Terry as Beatrice, and 22 other members of the Terry family in the cast; but perhaps the most moving and memorable event reserved for the end in the reception scene on the stage. Here Miss Terry was surrounded by 500 of her friends, embracing the participants in the programme and other well-known members of the profession, including Sir Charles Villiers Stanford and Sir Alexander Campbell Mackenzie, among the musicians.

The enthusiasm of the audience was unbounded and each appearance of Miss Terry was greeted with cheering and hand-clapping lasting many minutes.

One of the most notable features of the performance was W. S. Gilbert's "Trial by Jury," which the veteran author himself directed and in which the jury was composed of famous playwrights, Captain Robert Marshall being the foreman, while the "crowd" was made up of a host of well-known actors and actresses.

Before the performance began, Miss Terry was given a tribute by the pit and gallery gods who for more than twenty-four hours had waited patiently for the performance to open, amusing themselves meanwhile in good-natured fashion. The long vigil will be rendered eventful by the appearance of Miss Terry at the gallery doors at midnight to look at these friends through tear-dimmed eyes.

Her youngest brother, Fred Terry, at 5 o'clock this morning played the part of commissariat officer to the waiting crowd.

Ten Millions Voted for Construction Work on Transcontinental—Foster's Grievance.

Ottawa, June 12.—Business was transacted in the House today with an expedition that gave more promise of a general desire for early prorogation than has been manifested for some time. All but one or two of the remaining railway and canal items were passed, including $10,000,000 for N. T. R. construction work. Mr. Emmerson's statement indicated an early letting of the contract for the Quebec-Moncton section. Dr. Thompson, of the Yukon, secured general indorsement of his remarks in favor of granting responsible government to the far northern territory. Mr. Oliver evincing decided friendliness on behalf of the Government. Earlier in the day Mr. Foster blamed the House for laughing when Mr. Cinqmars was brought to the bar on Thursday last. Sympathetic references to the late Sir Hector Langevin were a complement to the flag at half-mast on the tower of the Parliament buildings.

Mr. Foster moved the adjournment of the House in order to complain about what he claimed was the lack of decorum on Thursday last, when, at his request, Mr. Cinqmars appeared before the bar. He charged that Liberal members had shown an unseemly sympathy with the offender, and that the matter had been treated with levity. Not only had the Liberal members applauded the most offensive expressions in the article complained of when read, but the Minister of Justice, the Postmaster-General, and the Minister of Marine and Fisheries joined in the applause, and the Premier made no attempt to prevent it.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, suggested that it was not the proper time or place to discuss what happened last Thursday. While accepting responsibility to a large extent for the proceedings of Parliament, when Mr. Foster wanted him to prevent other members cheering, he was going a little too far. Personally Sir Wilfrid had been surprised at the strictures Mr. Foster had passed upon him on this occasion. There might have been cheers, perhaps, but he was obliged to decline the responsibility for them. He did not think it was his duty to go so far as to attempt to control the personal liberty of any man, but was prepared to accept the responsibility for the decorum of the House. Sir

Wilfrid recalled occasions in 1879 and 1887 when persons had been called to the bar of the House, and he did not know that those occasions had been particularly decorous. Upon this matter, as upon many others, he was willing to follow the precedent of British Parliament. What ever might be the sentiment of each side of the House as to the matter which Mr. Foster had brought to the attention of the House, he had told him that it was perhaps unduly sensitive. But as the question had been brought up, it was for the House to determine whether an offense had been committed, and if so, what censure should be visited upon the offender. For himself he was prepared to say the decision of the House would be a judicious one, and one that would be dictated solely by the laws of Parliament. Mr. Foster's motion was declared lost.

KING AND QUEEN EXPECT DEATH

Will Never Appear in Public Separately, That They May Die Together.

Madrid, Spain (via Bayonne, France).—June 12.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, whose frantic devotion has been strengthened by the awful trial to which an assassin's attempt, they have solemnly vowed to each other that they will not appear in public except together. They anticipate, with a conviction almost fatalistic, that another assassin will hurl a bomb at them. If it proves fatal, it shall be to both, they are determined.

Ever since the attempt to assassinate the king, a censorship has been exercised over the press so rigid that it has been impossible to describe the conditions here accurately.

The wedding festivities, despite violent official efforts to galvanize them into life, were killed by Morral's dash. Now, the discovery that the murderous miscreant found hiding place and protection among men who, although republicans, are opposed to anarchy, has intensified the depression, for it opens up a terrible prospect before the young couple.

King Alfonso, whose courage is unquestionable, quickly regained his high spirits. But Queen Victoria, despite her brave demeanor at the royal ball fight, and her resolute determination to cheerfully play her part in the public duties, sustained a nervous shock, the full effects of which are becoming apparent only now. Were she any ordinary girl her awful experience at the moment the bomb was thrown must have prostrated her utterly. But nature has endowed her with great strength of purpose and she inherits to the full the Battenberg ability and ambition to rule.

The queen's mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg, openly expresses anger and disgust at the supineness of the Madrid police. At her suggestion, the police were ordered, a week before the wedding to investigate the character of everyone who had rented a room along the route of the wedding procession. The police never made the slightest effort to obey the order. The Prince and Princess of Wales have also strongly advised the king to reorganize his force of secret police.

Your correspondent ventures for the truth of this amusing fact: The carriage in which the Prince and Princess of Wales rode in the wedding cortege was the fourth carriage ahead of the bridal couple coach. The brave calmness of the prince and princess who, after the explosion, continued to bow and smile to the crowd lining the route won great admiration. But the truth is that the Prince and Princess of Wales thought the bomb's explosion was only a salute.

Forty-eight hours after the explosion half the visitors from the Spanish province and with a few foreigners had fled Madrid. The scene was intensified by the visible perplexity and the utter incapacity of the civil authorities. The magistrates had to interfere to check the indiscriminate and unjustified arrest and maltreatment of "suspects" whose innocence was quickly established that all but a dozen were liberated instantly.

The panic, even in the foreign embassies, can be imagined when it is stated that all the tickets issued for the gala opera performance were withdrawn and the list revised because a diplomat started a rumor that some of the foreign newspaper correspondents who had come to describe the festivities were anarchists. One ambassador had to pledge his word that the correspondent of a well-known Paris newspaper was not an anarchist before he could get a ticket to the opera for him.

DIFFERS FROM COX

Actuary Bradshaw Opposes Spending Funds to Obtain New Business.

Toronto, June 12.—The proceedings of the Dominion Insurance commission this morning dropped to a discussion of the administration of the Imperial Life, from an actuarial standpoint, and interest aroused by Mr. Thomas Bradshaw's evidence yesterday was wanting. Mr. Bradshaw was again a witness, and under examination by Mr. Tilley, expressed himself in favor of a policy of management directly opposed to that followed by Senator Cox in the Canada Life. Senator Cox, when he was a witness, declared that to extend the business he believed heavy expenditures of the surplus were necessary. Mr. Bradshaw, who is now actuary of the company which Senator Cox created, took the position that the funds of the company should not be expended for this purpose.

DESERVE IT ALL, SAY THE GERMANS

Teutonic Verdict Regarding the American Beef Packing Scandal.

Berlin, June 12.—"The people of the United States have just the kind of government they deserve to have," is the verdict of a great socialist paper in this city in an editorial dealing with the slaughter revelation.

"Though their constitution gives them every opportunity to elect a truly representative legislature, they have allowed themselves gradually to be robbed of all power, until they are absolutely unable to take the initiative in anything or to have the smallest voice in the making of their own laws."

"Some time ago Count Leo Tolstoy made the statement that the President of the United States is as much a tyrant as is the Czar of Russia, and thereby incurred the ill-will of many Americans who could find no other excuse for him than that he must be in his second childhood, but it is nevertheless a fact that there is probably no government which cares so little for the wishes of the masses of the people as does the American Government at Washington. Nearly all European countries have during the last quarter of a century passed laws protecting their citizens from being poisoned by impure food. For years it has been known on this continent that the products of the great American packing houses were unfit for consumption, and 25 years ago even the poorest German would never think of using American lard in his home."

"The American authorities must have been fully aware of the shocking conditions existing in the slaughterhouse of Chicago and other great cities; but although American packing house products were condemned in one European country after the other, nothing was done by the authorities in Washington for the protection of their people until a book written by a private citizen forced them to do something."

"And even now there is no one who believes that conditions will change. There will be the same excuses, the same investigations, the same newspaper investigations, the same column after column of the abuses—not because they really care anything for the welfare of the people, but because everything that is sensational is welcomed by them, but a few weeks or months from now the whole affair will have run out into the sands and nothing more will be heard of it."

Prince Henry of Prussia has been elected president of a committee to arrange for a great military and naval exposition which is to be held in this city next year. A site has already been selected for the exposition in the Trepow Park, containing more than 600 German and Austrian soldiers and sailors. The book is due to the personal initiative of the Kaiser, who, several months ago, asked a commission to look up old folk-songs which were in danger of being forgotten.

American tourists who think of visiting the kingdom of Saxony this summer had better be certain not to sneeze too loudly in the streets of Saxony towns.

Because he committed this great offense, a citizen of Reichenhausen named Furtmann was arrested the other day and taken before a judge. The policeman who appeared as complainant declared that the sneeze was of an unusually startling nature, and he was corroborated by several passengers on a passing street car who stopped to get witnesses as to the disorderly nature of Furtmann's sneeze.

The judge, after having been told by the arrested man that his sneezing was due to a polypus in his nose, acquitted him of all blame, but the police declared that they will appeal to a higher court.

Germans may object to eating American canned and embalmed beef, but they seem to have no prejudice against the meat of horses and dogs, which is fast becoming the food of the poorer class of the people.

During the first three months of 1904, 44,659 horses were slaughtered in this country, and in the first three months of 1905 this number had increased to 52,400.

According to official statistics published in the Badische Landes Zeitung, of Mannheim, there were 2,495 dogs slaughtered during October, November and December of 1905, and in this number are only included the common species of dogs which under official inspection were compelled to give up their lives and allow themselves to be eaten. How many dogs were killed and eaten privately no one knows.

NOTABLE FIGURE WAS "DIGGER DICK"

Remarkable Career of Richard Seddon Socialist-Imperialist, Premier of New Zealand.

London, June 12.—The sudden death on Sunday of Premier Seddon of New Zealand once more brings to the public the remarkable career before the public.

Born at Eccleston, Lancashire, in 1845, he emigrated when 15 years old as a steerage passenger for his native Lancashire to Melbourne, where he worked for some years in the engine-rooms of the Government Railways. We were told that most of Mr. Seddon seems to have had no political aspirations, but joining the rush of gold-seekers to New Zealand, he started a public house, took part in the discussions of the diggers who drank at his bar, and became a champion of their claims. They made him a municipal councillor, and, thus started up the ladder, "Digger Dick" discovered the secret of perpetual power. He was elected to the House of Representatives of New Zealand in 1879, and has held his seat ever since. He was not only premier, he was lord high everything else of the colony—postmaster-general, minister of labor, minister for native affairs, minister for electric telegraphs, colonial treasurer, minister of defense, minister for education, minister for immigration, minister of coal mining, etc., etc.

New Zealanders are fond of telling how he descended from the platform at one rowdy meeting, walked through the yelling crowd up to a couple of the ringleaders, seized one with each hand, dragged them from their seats, kicking and fighting, and threw them down stairs without anybody's help. Then he went back to the platform and calmly finished his speech, amid respectful silence.

Seddon soon became recognized as one of the strongest men of the Radical party. When Premier Ballance died, in 1893, everybody said there was no one who could succeed him and hold the party together as he had done. But Mr. Seddon stepped into the vacant place and soon led the Radicals to triumphs they had never dreamed of under Ballance.

His policy from the start has been to tax the big landowners and capitalists out of existence by the graduated taxation of land, and to divide the land in small lots among the people. His opponents in the House of Representatives said such a course was opposed to English principles.

"I know that," retorted Seddon. "In England half the people who reach the age of 65 also reach the poorhouse, and in London one person out of five dies in the workhouse, the hospital, or the lunatic asylum."

"Well may we question the economic and social system of which this is the product," he said, "to establish civilization in this new land on a broader basis, in a deeper sympathy for humanity."

"Thus it is that New Zealand, under Seddon's rule, has become the pet state of Socialists all over the world."

Also a Staunch Imperialist.

Mr. Seddon boasted that if he was a Socialist he was also one of the staunchest of Imperialists. It is said that when the Boer war broke out he was dissuaded with difficulty from giving himself a commission and going to the front. He had to be content with sending 6,000 other New Zealanders to South Africa. He wanted to send the Maoris to fight the Boers and advocated sterner measures towards the Boers. "The Maoris," he said, in a speech, "know how to conduct war and how to treat their enemies. They would trouble about no prisoners."

Mr. Seddon was not content with having New Zealand a prosperous and practically independent nation. He wanted to make it an Empire with tributary states. With this object in view, he annexed several islands in the Eastern Pacific to New Zealand, not to Great Britain; and wanted to annex others until he built up his empire within the empire.

The achievement of which he was proudest was the enforcement of the Arbitration and Conciliation act, which has done away with strikes and lock-outs in New Zealand.

Chivalrous Towards Women.

"I remember 'way back in 1868," said an old colonist, "hearing a man in Seddon's saloon make a foul remark about a woman in the settlement. 'Digger Dick' vaulted across the bar, took him by the throat, threw him to the ground and nearly shook the life out of him. Three of the man's friends, who were drinking at the bar, caught hold of him, but Dick shook them off as a terrier shakes off rats and held the man down until he took back his words."

"Dick was always chivalrous toward women. They were safe from insult even in the roughest mining camp if he happened to be there."

"But though he was a great fighter, he was always on the side of law and order. They say he prevented many a riot and lynching in the old lawless days, and did everything in his power to civilize the mining districts."

When the colonial premiers visited England on the occasion of the Queen's diamond jubilee, and had to attend King Edward's coronation, none of them, with the possible exception of

After Ten Years.

Mr. G. L. Stephenson, of Peterboro, says: "For over ten years I suffered constantly with Piles, first itching, then bleeding; pain almost unbearable; life a burden. Tried everything in vain till I used Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid."

"I had taken but a few doses when I began to notice an improvement. I decided to keep on, and now after using three boxes I am glad to say I am completely cured. My general health has also greatly improved. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Hem-Roid to all sufferers with Piles, and I feel convinced that what it has done for me it will surely do for them."

A $1,000 guarantee goes with every box of Hem-Roid. Price $1.00, all druggists, or The Wilson-Pyle Company, Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, made more favorable impression than Richard J. Seddon, the uncrowned king of New Zealand.

At a garden party given in his honor he was the lion of the hour. His dignity, his grave courtesy, his social gifts, his distinguished manner, captivated everybody.

"Good for old 'Digger Dick'!" exclaimed one gray-headed colonial from New Zealand to another who happened to be present. "He's gone ahead with a vengeance, hasn't he?"

"Who could think that the Hon. Richard J. Seddon, prime minister, privy councillor, doctor of laws, colonial treasurer, minister of labor, minister of defense, and all the rest of it—the man whom queens and princes do light to honor—is the same 'Digger Dick' whom you and I knew when he kept a little roadside saloon up in the mining district and threw the miners out whenever they got too fresh?"

"He's gone a long way since then, hasn't he? From tavernkeeper at the gold diggings to guest of the queen—bravo for 'Digger Dick'!"

Mr. Seddon refused a knighthood in 1897, but was instead made a member of the Privy Council, securing the prefix, "Right Honorable," and also received honorary degrees of LL.D. from Cambridge and Edinburgh Universities.

THE DUMA'S TALKFEST

Is Still Talking Agrarianism and No End in Sight.

St. Petersburg, June 12.—The Lower House of Parliament today continued the discussion of the agrarian question after reading motions to interpellate the ministers, including one asking the minister of the interior to give reasons for the imprisonment of one hundred and fifty peasants of Poltava province. A motion to reduce to ten minutes the time allowance of speeches on the agrarian question, was rejected, though the list of speakers still contains 117 names. A proposal by one member that no more speeches be delivered, as the nation was tired of them, was received with cheers. Members, however, continued to address the house at length, but they failed to excite interest.

Unslaked lime is useful in preventing rust because of its extraordinary capacity for absorbing moisture. Some careful workmen who take pains that their tools shall always be in the best condition make a practice of keeping a piece of unslaked lime in their tool boxes to absorb any moisture which might otherwise cause rust.

What Women Suffer

At All Ages They Need the Rich, Red Blood That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

A woman needs medicine more than a man. Her organism is more complex, her system more delicate. Her heart is disturbed regularly in the course of nature. If anything happens to interfere with that natural course she goes through unspeakable suffering. In fact the health of every woman is a woman's life depends upon the richness and regularity of her blood supply. That is the simple scientific reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold to women of all ages from early girlhood up—they actually make the rich red blood all women need.

Mrs. Edwin Ward, Brookdale, Ont., says: "For years I suffered from those ailments that make the lives of so many of my sex miserable. I would take weak spells and become so nervous that I could not go about. My stomach was out of order, and I frequently vomited the food I took. My aches and backaches afflicted me nearly all the time. Then I took a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and I went to a hospital for treatment. I had the best of care, but the doctors gave me little hope of recovery. My face and limbs became swollen and my system racked with a harsh dry cough. As the doctors did not look hopefully upon my case, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had taken half a dozen boxes there was a great change for the better. I still continued to take the pills until I had used thirteen boxes, and I am now enjoying perfect health. I have no hesitation in saying that I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Ward by actually making the new blood her system needed. That is all Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do, but they do it well. They don't act on the bowels. They don't bother with mere symptoms. They go straight to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why they cure all blood and nerve troubles like anemia, female irregularities, indigestion, rheumatism, headaches and backaches, sciatica, nervous prostration and St. Vitus' dance. Substitutes and imitations won't cure, purging medicines only make you worse, therefore you must get the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CANNOT HAND OVER THAT $1,000

City Solicitor Says Education Board Would Be Acting Illegally in Doing So.

Unless the advice of City Solicitor Meredith is totally disregarded, the board of education is in a position where it cannot hand over the sum of $1,000 to the city, which the council insists upon if the debentures for an addition to Chesley avenue school are to be issued.

At the meeting of the board of education last week, Chairman Strong expressed the opinion that the board had not the power to strike $1,000 off its estimates and hand it over to the city, but he was overruled by the Conservative majority.

City Solicitor Meredith has apparently settled the matter, however, and it is highly likely that the board will be overruled by the city council.

OFFICIALS REGRET DEATH OF AUDITOR

City Hall Staff Lament Sudden Passing of Mr. George F. Jewell.

The news of the sudden death of Auditor Jewell threw a pall over the city hall today. Without exception, the officials and clerks expressed the deepest regret, and they paid some splendid eulogies to the life and character of their late co-worker.

City Treasurer Pope was visibly affected. For many years Mr. Jewell and himself have been closely associated, and the sudden break in the tie almost overcame him.

The flag on the city hall flies at half-mast, and the offices are marked by a quietness which tells of the respect felt for the late auditor.

It is understood that all the civic bodies will walk at the funeral, instead of riding in carriages.

These bodies will be the city council, the board of education, the hospital trust, the public library board, the water commission and the board of health.

Mr. Jewell was, in addition to the above bodies, auditor of the L. and P. R. board, the I. and S. E. board, and the Western Fair board.

Meetings of the different civic bodies are being called to make arrangements for attending the funeral.

IS UNION IN DANGER?

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Our objects in writing the letter on "Is Union in Danger?" were these: First—To make it clear to the assembly in the plainest and most unmistakable terms that the thought of union with the English Church never entered the heads of the Methodist people.

Second—We are sure that it is in the Methodist Church, and not in the Methodist people, that the danger of union lies.

Third—In view of the historic relation of these two churches, and the fact that no word of union has ever passed between them, and in view of the fact that two years ago the Methodist Church of Ontario, and after two years of great labor and anxiety a basis of union has been arrived at, and in view of the fact that the annual conferences have just been held, and no word of union has come from the English Church, and now, just as the General Assembly is in the act of transmitting the basis to the presbyteries—just at this critical juncture—a bishop and delegation of English churchmen are coming to the city, and are holding outside its own pale, and are going so far as to insinuate that if these divisions continue it will be because the Presbyterians choose to unite with the Methodists, instead of coming under their wing, and freezing the Methodist out—to say the least of it, does it not look suspicious and a little presumptuous?

It seems to us that the only answer the assembly can honorably give is, "Why didn't you go to the Methodists?" "Wait until we have discharged the solemn obligation we owe to our Methodist brethren."

For the assembly to have anything to do with the English Church, or any other church, just now without the consent of the original negotiating bodies, would be inconsistent and unjust to the other bodies, and if they understand the situation they will never do it. The consent of the English Church is not given, and the union cannot be given, because they were not appointed for that purpose. The General Conference cannot, because it has never been asked and never will be.

Fourth—To sum up, sober old Presbyterian has his eye on lively young Methodist for a wife. The courting has been going on for two years. Prospects are good; they are getting ready for the wedding. Proud Miss Anglican doesn't like it. She says to herself, "I can't have him myself, but I might cut Miss Methodist out." Advice to old sober sides from the girl's brother: "While you are courting one girl, don't flirt with another."

CLAIMED LONDON BRIDE

Mr. L. W. Austin, of Toronto, Wedded to Miss Ethel M. Jones.

A pretty but quiet wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. William Jones, ex-water commissioner, 362 Waterloo street, when his eldest daughter, Miss Ethel Maud, was united in marriage to Mr. Lewis W. Austin, of Toronto, by Rev. J. W. Graham, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

The bride was gowned in white organdie, with Valenciennes trimmings, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Edith Jones, a sister of the bride, carried in pale green organdie and carried pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Orwell Austin.

The happy couple left last evening at 6:55 o'clock for an extended wedding trip in the east. On their return they will reside at 137 Grange avenue, Toronto.

Mr. Austin is an old London boy, and the young couple have a host of friends in this city who join in extending to them their best wishes.

WILL CONTINUE NEGOTIATIONS

For union. New elements would be introduced into discussion and make it much more difficult. The Presbyterians did not know what steps these denominations were prepared to take in this matter. He thought that the other denominations now negotiating for union should be consulted on this matter before he assembly committed the motion.

Rev. Dr. Campbell supported the motion because if there was to be union, it should be one that would commend itself to his judgment and conscience. He wanted the larger union if it were possible. The invitation to the other denominations was in accordance with the step taken by the Presbyterian Church when this subject was first broached.

All Should Be Given Chance.

Prof. Dyke, of Queen's University, thought that the Presbyterian Church should invite the Anglican and Baptist Churches to share in the negotiations now. He was in favor of union, and every Protestant church should be given a chance to enter into union. If they decided to withdraw owing to complications, that was their business. He was not afraid of complications. They would be bound to arise, and they certainly would meet. Invite all Protestant denominations into negotiations.

Rev. Dr. McMullen declared that the Church of England felt slighted because of their being left out. It was a matter of courtesy to everything in the world. He would like to see the General Synod of the Anglican Church invited to the negotiations. The second part of Principal Patrick's motion carried by a large majority.

The moderator, Dr. Falconer, was appointed to the vacant place on the union committee, occupied by the late Dr. Warden.

At 12:15 a deputation from the Congregational Union of Ontario, consisting of Rev. W. T. Gunn, Embro, chairman of the union; Rev. W. H. A. Clarke, Rev. D. S. Hamilton, B.A., and Rev. W. T. Currie, B.A., missionary of West Central Africa, was introduced to the assembly. The spokesman of the delegation was Rev. W. T. Gunn, who expressed his great pleasure in addressing the assembly. He traced the progress of Congregationalism. The jubilee fund had resulted in the payment of nearly all church debts, and he expressed a hope that it would soon be consummated. The union from them would receive quality, if not quantity. They were doing their housecleaning, and would be ready for the union.

The moderator, Dr. Falconer, expressed the gratitude of the assembly for the visit of the delegation from the Congregational Church. They stood closer to the Presbyterians than the other Christian bodies, the only difference being a secondary one, that of church government. He wished them all prosperity.

An official visit to St. Patrick's Church, Saintsbury, was paid by His Lordship Bishop Williams recently. A confirmation service was held. This was the first visit of the bishop since the consecration, and was the first service held in the church since its renovation. Therefore the occasion was looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure. The interior of the church now presents a very neat appearance, having been completely renovated. The ladies of the congregation are highly commended on the success which has attended their efforts to beautify and adorn the building. His lordship complimented the congregation on the chaste appearance of the church.

The tea meeting in connection with the anniversary services at St. Andrew's Church, Westminster, on Monday evening was a great success. The supper fully sustained the reputation of St. Andrew's as a generous and hospitable community. After the supper a very good programme was given, the pastor, Rev. Dr. McCrae presiding. The speakers—Dr. Milligan, Toronto; Mr. McGilivray, Chatham; Mr. Arnold, Petrolia, and Mr. McLeod, Ponoka, Alberta, gave splendid addresses. Solos were given by Mrs. Meldrum, of Belmont; Miss McCrae and Mr. F. H. Nichol, and duets on the violin and guitar by Mr. R. Baty and Mrs. W. Baty. Mr. Charles Nichol, of Glenworth, gave several selections on the gramophone. St. Andrew's people are to be congratulated on the success of their anniversary.

GETTING INFORMATION.

City Clerk Baker and Mr. William Scarlett, of the manufacturers' committee, are in Berlin today, gathering information in regard to the Keystone Sugar Beet Company, which is looking for a site in London. They will visit the sugar beet factory at Wallaceburg.

FISHERMEN WARNED.

The fisheries department officials desire to remind those interested that the close season for bass is from April 15 to June 15, both days inclusive. People who are making preparations to begin bass fishing on the 15th inst. must therefore curb their impatience a day.

Baking Powder Proof

It is an easy matter to determine the relative merits of baking powders by testing them yourself. When baking use Strong's Baking Powder in half the baking, and mark it so that you can use it afterwards. Do not mix same with any other baking powder in the other half, and notice the results. If you don't think Strong's Baking Powder is the best now, you will have no doubt of it after putting it to a practical test. Besides, it only costs half what any other pure powder costs, 25c pound.

The speakers—Dr. Milligan, Toronto; Mr. McGilivray, Chatham; Mr. Arnold, Petrolia, and Mr. McLeod, Ponoka, Alberta, gave splendid addresses. Solos were given by Mrs. Meldrum, of Belmont; Miss McCrae and Mr. F. H. Nichol, and duets on the violin and guitar by Mr. R. Baty and Mrs. W. Baty. Mr. Charles Nichol, of Glenworth, gave several selections on the gramophone. St. Andrew's people are to be congratulated on the success of their anniversary.

REMOVING HYDRANTS.

A FALSE ALARM.

High Constable Hughes had a call early this morning, a report reaching him that a woman on Egerton street had shot a man. He hurried to the place, but saw the supposed dead man headed across the fields at a lively clip with an angry woman at his heels. It seems that the man had been disturbing her, and she resented his intrusion by turning a cannon loose on him. He thought that discretion was the better part of valor, and took for the tail and waving. He did not return.

BODY FOUND

Remains of Eddie Waspe Located West of Hunt's Dam.

The body of Eddie Waspe, of Front street, who was drowned on Saturday, was recovered about 7:30 o'clock last evening.

It was located by a young Englishman named Culin Baldwin, who saw the lad's foot above the surface of the water about 25 yards west of Hunt's dam.

The strong current had carried the body far away from the place where the searchers had devoted the most attention, and had washed it over the dam.

Mr. Baldwin acquainted Mr. H. A. Waspe, uncle of the boy, and Mr. John Sullivan, one of the searchers, of the location of the body, and they brought the remains to shore. The water is shallow where the lad was found.

The body was taken to Smith, Sons & Clarke's undertaking parlors, where it was prepared for burial.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the family residence, 24 Front street, to Woodland cemetery. Rev. James Livingstone, pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church, conducted the services.

HERE'S GOOD LUCK TO YOU, ALLIN

Private F. N. Allin, of the Seventh Regiment, left Tuesday for Montreal, where on Thursday he will sail with the other members of the Canadian Bisley team for England. Capt. T. J. Murphy, of the Seventh, also qualified at the D. R. A. matches, but for business reasons he was unable to take the trip. Capt. Murphy has already been to Bisley, having been a member of the Canadian team two or three years ago.

Londoners will watch the work of Pte. Allin with interest. As winner of the Bisley aggregate at the D. R. A. matches, he headed the list of twenty qualified to go on the team. This in itself is no small distinction, especially when it is remembered that Pte. Allin is one of the younger class of shots. He was born at Allenford, Bruce County, in 1869. In 1890 he joined the Seventh Regiment, and his experience as a rifle shot dates from that year. He soon became known on the ranges as a promising marksman. During his shooting career he has figured largely on the prize lists of Toronto and D. R. A. Ottawa matches, but never until last year did he become eligible for Bisley. In 1905, however, he excelled himself, for after shooting strongly through the Toronto meeting, he secured at Ottawa the Bisley aggregate. For the past fifteen years Pte. Allin has been employed as a railway postal clerk. He comes of a good shooting stock, his father, one of the earliest pioneers of Bruce County, being well acquainted with the use of the gun.

The Bisley team this year is commanded by Lieut.-Col. E. W. Wilson, of the Third Victoria Rifles, Montreal, who is especially fitted for this position by his long military service in the militia, his interest in shooting and his skill as a marksman. With the Victoria Rifles he has been associated for almost a quarter of a century. Joining as a private, he rose through the several grades of corporal, sergeant, color-sergeant and sergeant-instructor of musketry, to a commission. In addition to holding the successive ranks of lieutenant, captain, major and lieutenant-colonel, he acted for two years as regimental adjutant. Lieut.-Col. Wilson is recognized as one of the comparatively few commanding officers who knows the drill as well the theoretically and at the same time is thoroughly posted in staff duties.

Lieut.-Col. Wilson's shooting career began with his first connection with the militia. During twenty years he has been a prominent figure on the rifle ranges. He has shot on the provincial team at the Dominion Rifle Association meet, and is known at Rockcliffe by all the best shots in Canada.

MUST BE TRIED AGAIN

Third Disagreement of Jury in Reid vs Shuttleworth.

The case of Reid vs. Shuttleworth, heard at the June sessions yesterday afternoon, resulted in a disagreement of the jury. This is the third disagreement on this case. The suit was instituted by Miss Elizabeth Reid, of Clinton, who claimed that J. R. Shuttleworth, manufacturer of this city, had engaged her for the purpose of discharging her without reason. The defendant alleged that he had hired plaintiff by the week only, and therefore was not liable for the season's wages.

The jury was discharged, and the case will go to another session.

DEPENDS ON DURABILITY

The Value of a Piano Determined by That as Well as Quality.

When buying a piano something should be known of the history of the piano in respect to its lasting value as well as to the immediate quality it may possess. In the manufacture of the Nordheimer Piano the makers have succeeded not only in producing the richest tone in America, but have perfected the construction so that the lifetime of the piano is long indeed.

This has been proved by the record of the instruments produced for many years by Nordheimer's Limited, this firm being the oldest in Canada. Though being among the pioneer piano firms of this country, they have ever been ready for the most modern improvements, and as a result are placing in Canadian homes the finest instrument made.

Sales are made by staff representatives, so that the pianos are really bought direct from the factory, and what is an exclusive system with Nordheimer's, Limited, is their one-price idea in the selling of pianos. This system was adopted as being the fairest way of dealing with everybody and now all pay alike, except that when desired easier terms of payment are allowed. Whatever the one price of a Nordheimer piano may be, that represents the greatest value obtainable for the money.

LAYMEN OPPOSE CHURCH UNION

there will be the same struggling, criticism and suspicion. I know that it is not who Christ meant by oneness."

A Layman's Opposition.

Mr. T. C. James, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., opposed the union of the churches from a layman's standpoint. He thought that the church would not suffer if this child were strangled here and now. He thought the eastern provinces were against union. He favored unity, but opposed organic union.

Dr. Robert Campbell, of Montreal, opposed the union. He was telling that the people should be informed on the subject, but that such information should be that which is approved of by the assembly. It should not be any haphazard work, but it should be a definite approved statement of doctrine and policy on the part of the church.

Dr. Campbell found that the women of the Presbyterian Church were opposed to union, not from logical reasons, but from instinct. They were instinctively opposed to such unity. He was also of the opinion that it was too much of a humiliation for the Presbyterian Church to unite. It occupied a position of superiority, recognized by all the other denominations. If there was to be union, let the others come into the Presbyterian Church.

Then the work done would have the stamp of the Presbyterian Church, and then would be good. He was also of the opinion that union was more feasible than desirable. He pointed out that the church would be composed of such diverse elements, that it would be impossible to hold it together. The successful unions were within the Presbyterian Church—people of the same nationality and same history.

Principal Scrimger made a strong speech in favor of union.

Sentimental Objections.

Principal Patrick closed the debate. He thought that the tone and language was not worthy of this worthy church. After all, what did the assembly mean when they appointed a committee to deal with the question of union? Did it mean anything? Were you honest, and did you expect them to be honest? If this committee were dismissed summarily, they would be open to the charge of hypocrisy, which is unthinkable, or of inconsistency, which is hardly less worthy. The objections to the union by Mr. McKay were largely sentimental. They savored of separatism. His speech was the variance with the spirit of Christ, and was almost tinged with pharisaism.

There is an absolute duty, unless one's conscience prevents him from such union. This is the Presbyterian teaching and catholic teaching," said the speaker.

Mr. McKay objected that Dr. Patrick was dealing in personalities, unless he had the right to reply. Dr. Patrick appealed to the moderator whether he had been personal or not, and the principal was sustained amid great applause.

No Snap Vote.

"Wise men do not fret, and wise men do not prophesy. I know not what God has in store for it, but I know that the people will be consulted, and they will judge right. I will accept their judgment. No snap vote will be taken, and the assembly will not be tricked with a motion. The people will be given an opportunity to understand the question, and whatever decision they give will be accepted."

The vote was then taken and resulted in an overwhelming majority for the motion. The figures were against the amendment and 22 for the amendment.

periences of his own in the mission work among French-Canadians. He told of the readiness of the people to accept copies of the Bible.

"Sixty thousand dollars are needed. Where is it to come from? This was the question which confronted the committee. It ought to be an easy matter for this wealthy church to raise that amount. The only way is to spread the news of the good work being done, and then vigorously canvass," said the speaker.

"What is Montreal doing? many will ask," said Dr. Mowatt, and then proceeded to tell of splendid work being done by the people of Montreal. The speaker thought that if the people could see the need as we see it, it would be done.

Mr. E. H. Brandt, of the Point Aux Trembles schools, delivered a short address on the work of the school. He went on to point out that the actual principle of the work was love.

Loves French Brother.

He mentioned the large families of Lower Canada French, and said he was proud of his countrymen for this fact, and predicted a wonderful future for the French Canadians on account of their being so prolific. He told how thankful he was to feel that the Presbyterian Church loved the French Canadians, and closed his address by inviting every one of the General Assembly to visit Point Aux Trembles next year.

Mr. Boudreau, of Quebec, next took the platform, and told of many of the difficulties to be encountered.

"Everyone living in Quebec knows that a great crisis is coming," said the speaker, and went on to tell of how the movement has already started.

Principal Scrimger seconded the adoption of the report.

A member of the committee then moved that the resolution which called for the location of Rev. W. R. Cruickshanks, B. A. in Montreal, as the treasurer of the board, be amended so that Mr. Cruickshanks could stay in Toronto. In this form the resolution carried.

The report of the board of French evangelization stated that the workers' operations extended from Louisbourg to Grand Bend, and from the St. Lawrence to the Quinze. Fifty-four workmen were engaged in Quebec, while seven were in Ontario, and two in the Maritime Provinces. In the various fields there was an average Sabbath attendance of 1,775 persons (over 10 years of age) at the services, and nearly 700 families were connected with the fields.

Young People's Societies.

Dr. W. S. MacTavish, convener of the committee of young people's societies, presented the report of the committee, and delivered a short address, dwelling upon the thriving condition of the young people's societies. He went on to read over the recommendations of the committee and explained the conditions which caused them to make each recommendation.

Dr. Dickinson moved the adoption of the report, and Rev. Mr. Fraser seconded the motion, which carried.

Unfortunately, the time left after the discussion on French evangelization was so short that there was no time for any of the representatives of the young people's societies to make speeches.

The report of the board of young people's societies stated that in a few cases the reports are pessimistic. In the great majority of instances, however, the tone is quite optimistic, and the reports show when they are reasonably full and accurate, that where societies have received the consideration they deserve at the hands of their sessions there is good ground for optimism.

There is a Chinese society in Montreal with a membership of 110, and of these 55 are communicants. This society raised $250 for foreign missions and $1,750 for all purposes. The new Presbytery of Arrol has as yet only one society, but it is a good one. Its 25 members contributed $39 to foreign missions. In summer open-air meetings are conducted in the park. Mission study classes are reported to be doing good work in the Presbyteries of Miramichi, Orangeville and Glengarry.

A young men's society in Erskine Church, Montreal, raised $1,700 last year. Kingston Presbytery increased its contributions for all purposes by $910 and has now reached a total of $4,179. The society in Oranmore has a postal department for absent members. Several societies have a teacher training class in connection with them. St. Paul's, Hamilton, contributed $275 to Home missions and $80 to foreign missions.

The following statistics have been taken from the committee report: Total number of societies 83; total membership 28,895, number of male members 10,965, number of female members 15,910, members in full communion 14,925, total contributed to the schemes of the church $14,067, total contributed for all purposes $41,233.

By a comparison of this report with the one presented last year, it will be seen that progress has been made in almost every department. The societies have increased by sixteen. The contributions show a very decided increase, being $8,060 larger than they were last year, and $7,051 in excess of the largest amount ever presented to the assembly.

MOONEY'S CAR LINE.

First Canadian Manufacturers to Adopt a System of Private Freight Cars.

It takes a lot of confidence in one's success, and an abiding faith in future prosperity, to invest the money necessary to equip a line of private freight cars in connection with one's business. Yet that is just what the Mooney Biscuit and Candy Company, Limited, of Stratford, Ont., have done.

Even in the United States, only a few of the largest concerns own and operate their own cars, so that it speaks volumes for the Mooney Company, who have been in business only three years.

The new cars are of the standard size, weighing 36,000 pounds, and having a capacity of 60,000 pounds (34 tons). They are painted a rich, cream color. On each side of the doors is the familiar blue and purple of "Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas."
