

WELLMAN SAYS VOYAGE ACROSS ATLANTIC WILL YET BE MADE

Aviator and Party Arrive Safely at New York and Recount Their Experiences—Fatal Mistake of Trip Wellman States Was Heavy Equilibrator—Will Likely Build Aeroplane Bigger and Faster Than America and Try Again.

New York, Oct. 19.—Walter Wellman and the members of his ill-fated trans-Atlantic expedition in the dirigible America, who were rescued from almost certain death at sea, 360 miles east of Cape Hatteras yesterday, believe that a voyage in an airship across the Atlantic yet may be accomplished. The Wellman party aboard the steamship Trent, which rescued the aeronauts when their position was desperate, reached here this afternoon.

Wellman's Story.
Wellman says that after working well to sea on Sunday the dirigible was caught in a thirty-mile north-west blow, which carried the America clear off her course. Night came and the dirigible drifted and bumped over the waves threatening the America with destruction.

The crew were calm but exhausted, and one after the other went to sleep expecting to wake up in the sea. Every effort was centred on keeping the America afloat and gasoline was tossed overboard.

The dirigible kept up its incessant pounding and threatened to sweep away the lifeboat. Wellman told the Trent's passengers that a course was laid for the Azores, but a varying wind made it impossible to reach the islands with reduced gasoline. Bermuda was the next hope of the party. On Monday night more gasoline and some damaged machinery was jettisoned to keep the America afloat.

The Rescue.
Early Tuesday morning rescue came. The Trent was sighted two hours away and signalled. The lifeboat was successfully launched, Captain Van Inan cleverly bringing the America down close to the waves. Canon Tucker directed the release of the lifeboat. The lifeboat was struck a glancing blow by the dirigible which nearly capsized it.

The weight of the lifeboat and of the parties moved from the airship, the America shot up high in the air and disappeared quickly in the distance.

The loss of the unfortunate dirigible was witnessed without regret, according to Mr. Wellman, as it could never have been used again, having been weakened by the constant jerking of the equilibrator. Wellman believes that the feat of crossing the Atlantic in a gas bag may be accomplished, but that a larger and stronger airship would have carried the airship safely across the Atlantic.

Wellman says the equilibrator was the fatal mistake of the expedition.

Cover 1,000 Miles.
The total distance covered was about 1,000 miles, which is one-third the distance across the Atlantic.

The course brought the America up three hundred and fifty miles off Cape Hatteras, but had the thousand miles covered been in a direct course along the trans-Atlantic steamer line it would have carried the airship about 200 miles eastward of the banks of Newfoundland.

There is the remotest possibility that the America, relieved of the weight of the crew and lifeboat, may in some unvarying westerly blow be wafted across to Europe, though this is regarded as unlikely, as the dirigible, weakened by the pounding equator, was tossed again. The gas bag may be caught in some tropical gale and be blown over the Atlantic seaboard. The opinion of aeronauts, today is that it will never be seen again.

The America almost had the unique distinction of being the only dirigible to cross the Atlantic.

Countdown Police Are on a Hunt for Various Kinds of Thieves

The county police are deeply interested in the identity and whereabouts of chicken, turkey and wood thieves who have been operating in the vicinity of Pottersburg recently.

MONTEAL CATHOLICS BACK BISHOP FALLON

Say Bi-lingual System Works Very Badly in Quebec.

Montreal, Oct. 18.—The Irish Catholics are heart and hand with the Bishop of London. They declare that the bi-lingual system has been a failure in the Province of Quebec, just as the good bishop declares it is a failure in Ontario. They admit that his references to Quebec are founded on fact and are strongly in sympathy with the move for English separate schools in the slatter province.

The French-Canadians, on the other hand, take Mr. Fallon's statement as a bitter pill. They consider it an attempt to trample on the rights and traditions of their race and effort to shut the French-Canadian entirely out of the Province of Ontario. The French papers all contain strong editorials of all but the most violent kind against Mr. Fallon's statement.

The Nationalist organ last night merely printed Mr. Fallon's statement without comment. This was because Mr. Bourassa is in New York, and Mr. Heurieux, his chief editor, did not know just how far to go.

CANON TUCKER

Warns Canadians Against Selfish Dealings With Far Eastern People.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—"If we deal with Japan, India and China in the selfish way put up barriers along the Pacific coast, and so on, we are sure that the Hindu will come into Canada unless he pays $500 poll tax, by-and-by to be raised to $1,000, do you suppose this will last forever? Japan and China are trailing great armies and navies. Do you suppose we will for all time shut out the Mongolians from our country? Even if we do we are bound to be brought into the closest contact with them."

These remarks were made by Canon Tucker last evening at a banquet of the Anglican clergy of the city, the chairman of the parochial committee, and a few of the laymen who have been prominently connected with the Laymen's Missionary Movement. The banquet was held at St. James' Cathedral parish house on the occasion of the annual meeting. In an eloquent address Canon Tucker referred to the fate of nations which have worked for selfish aims.

KILLED BY FALL

Wyoming Farmer Dropped 30 Feet Into a Silo.

MOVING PICTURES TO EDUCATE BOYS

Mr. F. E. Leonard Is of Opinion That Much Can Be Done in This Line.

HOT SHOT FOR SCHOOLS

Mr. C. M. R. Graham Says They Are Turning Out City Loafers—Commission Concludes.

The technical education commission finished its session in this city yesterday afternoon. A large amount of testimony was received, and a number of leading manufacturers and educationists will supplement their evidence by statements which will be forwarded in the near future to the commission.

Striking evidence was given yesterday afternoon by Mr. Frank E. Leonard, W. W. Gammage, and Inspector Edwards. The feature point in Mr. Leonard's testimony was his suggestion that there was a great field for moving pictures in the education of the youth of this country.

Messrs. Wm. Thompson, W. B. Albright, and Allan McLean, of the Farmers' Advocate, gave evidence concerning rural education. All made the point that rural education has no application whatever to the employment which the boys may follow after leaving school. In that point, it failed lamentably. The witnesses referred to good work being done by the farmers by the agricultural colleges.

The Western University.
Principal James, of the Western University, followed, and gave an interesting account of the work done by the Western, its equipment, etc. In response to a question, he declared that it would be possible to teach arts work in connection with a technical school or college. Dr. James was in favor of technical schools from a sociological point of view—they would keep the boys out of mischief, and teach them some useful employment. There was undoubtedly a large number of boys from the age of 14 to 18 probably.

GRAIN GROWERS ASK FOR LOWER TARIFF

Big Deputation From West Will Go to Ottawa Shortly.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]
Winnipeg, Oct. 18.—The grain growers of the west have practically completed arrangements for the monster deputation which will go to Ottawa to lay before the Government their claims for a lowering of the tariff, reciprocity in farm products, and a removal of the duty on farm implements.

It will be the largest deputation which has ever left the west, and probably the largest that ever invaded the capital city.

The deputation, which will leave for Ottawa about Dec. 1, will charter a special train, and it is expected that anywhere from five hundred to two thousand will be on board.

John Hooper, who was found guilty of attempting to steal from an old gentleman who was under the influence of intoxicants, was sentenced to six months at the Central Prison farm at Guelph. William Hier, his companion, who was with him at the time, was remanded for one week.

WESTMINSTER MAN CHARGED WITH ROBBING A COMPANION

Patrick Eaton Taken Into Custody on the Complaint of William Mooney, Who Also Resides in the Township of Westminster.

Patrick Eaton, of Westminster Township, was arrested at his home this morning by County Constable Shaver on a charge of highway robbery preferred by William Mooney, also of Westminster.

Eaton was remanded for one week by Squire Chittick.

It is alleged that Eaton and Mooney spent some time at a Hamilton road hotel, and started to drive east towards Nilestown together.

Mooney claims that he had a purse containing about $70, and that Eaton took this from him as they separated. There was a scuffle, and Mooney recovered the purse, which, he claims, had been relieved of five ten-dollar bills.

The evidence of the case will probably be heard on Wednesday, Oct. 26.

BOARD TO EMPLOY A NURSE TO EXAMINE SCHOOL CHILDREN

The board of education will consider the appointment of a competent nurse to inspect the children of the schools of this city.

A thorough medical examination, particularly as to the teeth, eyes, ears and general health will probably be instituted in the near future.

At a recent meeting of No. 1 committee of the board, a communication was received from the Mothers' Clubs of the city, asking that a system of medical inspection be inaugurated.

It was on this communication that the committee decided to act. From a canvass of the board it is quite probable that a nurse will be employed to begin her work in January next.

TWO YEARS IN THE COLLEGIATE SPOILS BOY SAYS THE CHAIRMAN

That Is Unless the Pupil Is Sent to the Commercial Department—Mr. C. M. R. Graham Stands By Statement That Schools Now Turn Out City Loafers.

Mr. C. M. R. Graham, ex-chairman of the board of education, today stood by his indictment of the public school system, made while giving evidence before the technical commission, when he repeated that such schools were turning out city loafers.

"I made that statement with full knowledge of what it meant," said Mr. Graham to The Advertiser. "I might explain it still further. To many—in fact, a very large number—passing the entrance is the end towards which they are working. With our modern methods an ordinary boy is graduated from the public schools at the age of 14. He is then not fitted for any kind of labor. He is not wanted in the factories or places of business, as many who testified at the inquiry will tell you. He is turned out into the world with practically no equipment for life."

"Suppose he goes to the Collegiate. He can go there not more than two years. He has no aim, nothing to work for, and very often nothing that will appeal to him. He loafs, and when he is 16 he leaves the school worse than he went in. He has received nothing of a practical nature to assist him in his work. He drifts, and in a large number of cases becomes the loafer, rather than a producer of members of the body from 14 to 16 is at a critical age, and the average lad, if left to himself, and not directed, will not amount to much. It is there, I say, that the system falls down."

Should Do Something.
"The endeavor of the commission, and those interested in education, should be to do something for the boy at that period of his life. The few only can go into the professions—the rest must earn their livelihood by manual labor. Scores and scores of times I have had people come to me and ask me whether or not they should send their boy to the Collegiate for two years. As a rule, they say they cannot send him any longer."

DELEGATES MEET ON FRIDAY TO PREPARE FOR OTTAWA

A meeting of the members of the deputation who will go to Ottawa to discuss improvements to the Port Stanley harbor on Wednesday next, will be held in the board of trade rooms on Friday afternoon at 4:30, to name the gentlemen who will speak on behalf of the representatives, and prepare the matter to be submitted.

It is not known as yet how many will go, but there is no doubt that the deputation will be over 25, and will be made up of many of the leading businessmen and manufacturers of the city.

"We will prepare a plan of campaign, so to speak," said Mayor Beattie. "We will arrange for speakers, and we will make our facts so plain that they will produce the best results. We hope to be successful in our quest."

CITIZENS ARE PASSING THE HAT TO RAISE MONEY FOR SOLDIERS

One Gentleman Says There Is Too Much Legal Tangle Business Going On at the City Hall and the City Is Making Itself Cheap.

Subscriptions are being taken up to provide $300 for Col. Hodgins to entertain the visiting regiments who will be here on Thanksgiving Day to take part in the tactical exercises.

The list has met with generous response, and there will be no difficulty in securing a sufficient sum of money for this purpose.

However, there is a great deal of dissatisfaction as to this method of raising money, and a large number of citizens have entered a vigorous protest against it.

The city council refused because of lack of funds to make a grant.

"People Dissatisfied."
"It seems to me that they are carrying this legal business too far," said one large businessman. "Here is a laudable enterprise. Regimental money is being brought to the city. They will attract many to London, and keep our citizens at home. The city could easily afford to pay something for their entertainment. What do the council say? We have no money. It would not be the first time a council has faced an overdraft if that is what they are afraid of. The council borrow autos from leading citizens to entertain visitors rather than pay for them as they should. This sort of cheap business is getting absurd, and it is high time a stop was put to it. The Legislature, nor any person else would object to the expenditure of money for proper purposes. This sort of economy makes me tired. We have passed the country village stage, or, at least, we should have. Let us do business as if we were living. The council can authorize the expenditure of this money, and not allow the hat to be passed around every time an enterprise is mooted."

AWAIT CENSUS OF 1911 FOR RAILWAY EXTENSIONS

Mayor Says Little Can Be Done For Next Year or So.

The question of double-tracking Horton street will not come up again until after the census of 1911, when street railway extension will again become a live issue.

The London street railway have made provision for switches on Horton street, and there will be little need of them double-tracking that thoroughfare for some time.

PASSENGERS BADLY SCARED WHEN CARS CAME TOGETHER

Belt Liner and West London Trolley Collided at Corner of Dundas and Adelaide Streets—No One Was Hurt But Many People Aboard Were Greatly Excited.

A score or more passengers on two trolley cars had a thrilling escape last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the corner of Adelaide and Dundas streets, when a West London car was struck by a Belt Liner.

No person was hurt, but it was by the rarest good fortune.

A West London car in charge of Motorman Fonger was going west, and was crossing the switch at the point. A Belt Liner, with Motorman Atkinson in charge, was around the corner, waiting to take the Dundas line west.

A Close Call.
It was the intention of Motorman Fonger to go ahead of him. He put on the brakes but the car skidded and ran past the switch. Just as it passed the Belt Liner car swung around the corner, and it looked for a moment as if the Belt would crash through the centre of the West London car, which was crowded.

Motorman Atkinson jammed on the brakes, and was enabled to retard the speed of his car somewhat. However, it swung around the corner and struck the West London car at the rear.

The impact made a noise that could be heard for a block or more. Many passengers screamed, and for a moment pandemonium reigned.

But Little Damage.
In a minute the excitement subsided, and when the officials looked about there was little damage done. The West London car was in motion, and the collision shot it ahead, avoiding a bad crash.

The only damage was the front part of the Belt car smashed in, several pieces of the timber being broken. "It was a narrow escape," said one passenger. "We were all scared."

Had Much Trouble.
"We had a lot of trouble yesterday," said a street railway man. "Not in months have we had such a bad rail. The cars skidded badly, and motor-men had a hard time. However, no escaped with little damage all day."

EIGHTY INJURED IN MAINE COLLISION

Falling Leaves Made Track Slippery Cars Could Not Stop.

Kittery, Maine, Oct. 19.—Eighty employees of the Portsmouth navy yards were injured today, three possibly fatally, in a collision between two heavily-loaded trolley cars on the Atlantic Shore Line Railway, at Fort Hill.

Falling leaves had made the rails slippery, and the first of two cars mounting the hill failed to respond to its brakes, and rolled back down the hill, crashing into another car. A similar accident occurred at the spot six years ago.

Resolution Passed.
The following resolution was also unanimously adopted: "Whereas, certain newspapers and persons declare that the object which the French-Canadian Association of Education of Ontario has adopted, and is now continuing on Page Nine."

NOW HE'S COMING SATURDAY NEXT

The Daily Guess in the Van Cleve Arrival Contest.

Mr. A. H. Van Cleve, head engineer, will be here on Saturday. Mayor Beattie had a long-distance conversation with him last night, and after much pressure, he decided to come the day mentioned.

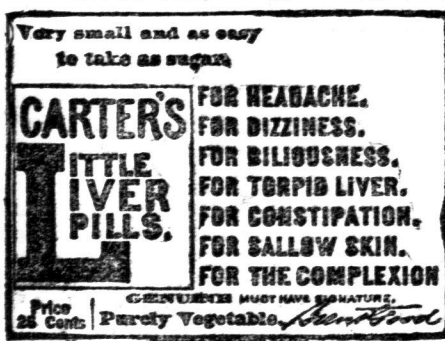

"He is not in good health as yet," said his worship. "However, he is badly needed here, and I told him that he would not be expected to do any work that he could not do. He is wanted here for consultation more than anything else, and that is what I impressed upon him. He will do that work until his strength is such as he can take charge altogether."

PRINCES' GAY LIFE MUST CEASE NOW

Kaiser to Discipline His Sons and Teach Them Politics.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—Two of the German Emperor's sons, the Crown Prince and Prince Adalbert, are about to start on tours abroad, and both will sail in German battleships.

On Nov. 10 the crown prince leaves Wilhelmshaven for the Far East aboard the armored cruiser Gneisenau. The tour, it is stated, is being undertaken by the crown prince with the object of broadening his knowledge of some of the problems of far eastern politics.

It is reported that he and the crown princess, who accompanies her husband on his travels, are not so pleased at the prospect before them as they are generally supposed to be. They regard the trip in fact as a sort of penance for the life hitherto too gayly lived. If current gossip may be believed.

Unit To Succeed.
Some months ago when the Kaiser was suffering with a disabled wrist the newspapers commented upon the apparent unfitness of the crown prince to take his father's place in the conduct of the empire's affairs. The crown prince, so the story goes, realized his limitations, but sought to excuse himself by laying the blame on the manner of his upbringing. He maintained that he had always been rigidly excluded from politics, that he had never been consulted by his father, and that in consequence he had been forced into an idle life in which sport played a large part.

The Kaiser, it is said, suddenly realized his son's shortcomings and decided to adopt another policy by rushing him into political affairs. The crown prince in the past has sought for the opportunity of making himself useful in state affairs. The opportunity having always been denied, he now seems being sent on a voyage which he holds should have been undertaken five or six years ago, and which he interprets as a reproof for his present mode of life.

According to advices received from Peking the Chinese Government intends to bestow upon the crown prince a unique honor by inviting him to reside in the Forbidden City during his stay in Peking. If he decides to be the guest of the Chinese imperial family instead of the German legation he will live in a palace of the late Emperor Kwang Hsu, prettily situated on an island in one of three picturesque lotus lakes within the red walled Forbidden City. The palace stands quite apart from the other palaces and is sacred in ordinary circumstances from intrusion by foreigners or even the highest Chinese dignitaries.

Goes to South America.
While the crown prince travels east Prince Adalbert goes west, his voyage taking him to South America. He will cross the Atlantic in the new 10,000-ton cruiser battleship Von der Tann, either as navigating or chief ordnance officer. The Von der Tann will sail early in 1911, and she will show the German flag in some of the principal ports of the eastern coast of South America. She may also go round Cape Horn and visit Chile, Bolivia and Peru.

The object of the vessel's great cruise with Prince Adalbert aboard is twofold. It is understood that the cruise is intended not only to raise the commercial and political prestige of Germany throughout Latin America, but to exhibit on the spot a specimen of the battleships which German dockyards are capable of turning out. The vessel is the latest and finest product of German naval skill afloat, and she was built in remarkably quick time, having been laid down in March, 1908, and turned over to the navy in May, 1910.

Prospective customers, it is pointed out, will learn that her builders, Messrs. Blohm & Voss, of Hamburg, offered to deliver the Argentine battleships now building in the United States faster than either the British or their American rivals, namely within 27 to 30 months. The richer South American States are regarded in Berlin as highly desirable customers, and nothing will be spared to make the Von der Tann an alluring sample. She is expected to return to Wilhelmshaven in the autumn of 1911.

Wants To Marry.
It is stated that Prince Adalbert is engaged in a peaceful quarrel with his father and mother on the subject of matrimony. The prince wants to marry and has chosen for his wife the very youthful daughter of a Thuringian prince, who is said to respond favorably to his suit. But their betrothal is subject to the Kaiser's sanction, and his majesty is again in the match on the grounds that it is undesirable for his son to marry until he gives up active service in the navy. The Kaiser does not desire Prince Adalbert to leave the navy yet. The imperial idea is always to have one Hohenzollern prince on the active list. Now that Prince Henry has retired, Prince Adalbert must remain in the service until his youngest brother, Prince Joachim, is ready.

To these objections Prince Adalbert replied that he is 26 and 5 years older than his younger brother, Prince August Wilhelm, at the time of the latter's marriage. The Kaiser and Kaiserin both objected also to this marriage as premature, but August Wilhelm had his way, and was married in October, 1908.

SERVICE OF PRAISE A GREAT SUCCESS

Splendid Programme Was Rendered by Choir and Soloists of St. Andrew's Church.

The thanksgiving service of praise in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Monday evening was very successful. The programme was exceptionally good, and was greeted by an unusually large and appreciative audience. It is worthy of note that the entire concert was the work of the choir and soloists of the church. The chorus numbers were well presented, particularly "Gounod's 'Sanctus,'" Moeller's "Peace and Rest," and Hawley's "Holy Night, Peaceful Night." The individual parts and numbers were especially well taken. Miss May Mason, the alto, delighted everyone with her rendering of "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace." Miss Nellie Burnip, the soprano, contributed a finely-rendered aria, "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion," from Handel's Messiah.

The tenor soloist, Mr. Walter Nixon, gave Cutler's "Just As I Am" with a clear and well-trained voice. Mr. W. A. McCutcheon, the deep-voiced and pleasing baritone, rendered Wooler's

"Consider and Hear Me" with effective impressiveness. "The Temptations" from H. Elliot Burton, and Heinrich's "Evening Shadows Gather," were presented by the quartette, composed of Misses Burnip and Mason, and Messrs. Nixon and McCutcheon. The service was under the direction of Mr. C. E. Wheeler, who himself gave several masterly and finely-executed organ solos, including "Faulkes' 'Legende and Finale,' 'Gavotte' (from Mignon), and 'Chanson Russe.' Miss Vera Hagerman, a young pupil of Mr. Wheeler, gave evidence of unusual talent in an organ solo, the offertory, 'St. Cecilia,' from Batiste. The opening exercises of the programme were introduced by Rev. Dr. Ross. After the concert was concluded, the members of the choir were entertained by the managers and ladies of the church to a dainty supper in the church parlors, during which a presentation was made to Mr. Walter Nixon, who is leaving London to enter business in Western Canada.

BRIGHTON---BOWLEY

Popular Couple Wedded in South London.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Bowley, Brighton Villa, Wootley road, was the scene of a very sociable gathering on the occasion of the marriage of his daughter, Nina Olivette, to Percy L. Brighton, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Brighton, Emery street.

The bride was in a very pretty dress of cream mousseline, and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses. She was assisted by Miss Mary Brighton, and Miss Mary Bowley. The groom was supported by Mr. Wm. Fitzwater.

The bride was led under an arch of autumn leaves and English ivy by her father to the accompaniment of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Edith Brighton.

Many out-of-town guests were present, as well as quite a number from the immediate vicinity. The numerous presents given to the bride were both beautiful and serviceable. Amongst them were a silver service from the bride's parents, and a check from the groom's parents.

The groom presented the bride with a beautiful sunburst of pearls, the bridesmaids with brooches, and the best man with a tie pin. After the ceremony which was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Walker, the 40 or 50 guests partook of a dainty breakfast, and then escorted the bridal couple to the G. T. R. depot, from where they departed on a trip to Hamilton, Toronto and other eastern points. On their return they intend residing in East London.

EMBRO.

Embroid, Oct. 18.—Miss J. Munro, of London, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. C. J. H. Munro.

Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Alex. Clark, of Woodstock, spent a few days with Mrs. J. W. Gordon.

Mrs. Robert McIntosh, of Woodstock, and daughter, Miss Jessie, of London Conservatory of Music, were visiting with Miss Jessie Sutherland, John street.

Mr. John A. McKay, of London, is visiting his uncle, Mr. Graham McKay, and other relatives in this vicinity.

The death took place at her home on Saturday of Jane Ross, relict of the late Mr. John M. Sutherland, at the age of 67 years. Mrs. Sutherland's death is particularly sad, coming only seven months after that of her husband. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon to North Embro Cemetery, and was attended by a very large number of friends and relatives. The services were conducted by Rev. P. Matheson, the newly-inducted pastor of Knox Church. Mrs. Sutherland is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John A. McDonald, and Miss Mary Ellen at home; also, three sons, Donald M., William H., and Robert; also two sisters, Mrs. Wm. McKay, and Mrs. Donald Kennedy, of this village, and two brothers, Hector Ross, of Woodstock, and William, of East Zorra, all of whom have every sympathy in their bereavement. The pallbearers were Messrs. Donald M. Sutherland, Wm. H. and Robert Sutherland, John A. McDonald, Wm. Anderson and Donald Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McKay and children, of Ingersoll, were Sunday visitors at Mr. John G. McKay's.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Wallace, of Ingersoll, spent a few days with Mr. Col. Ross, Scotia Farm.

Rev. and Mrs. Finlay Matheson have taken up their residence at the manse.

Two and a Half Hours on Operating Table

Specialist Could Not Remove Stone in the Bladder.

GIN PILLS PASSED IT.

Joliette, P. Q.
"During August last I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with stone in the bladder.

He decided to operate, but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it, although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and at once began to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world, and because they did me so much good, I can recommend them all the rest of my life."

ward by the congregation of Knox Church, Embro, and will long linger in their memory. It was marked by the induction of their new pastor, Rev. Finlay Matheson, B. A., into their church. The Presbytery of Paris, with Rev. Dr. McMullen of Woodstock, as moderator, were in charge of the induction. Rev. Mr. Allan, of Brantford, Rev. Mr. McMillan, of Paris, addressed the new pastor, Rev. Dr. McMullen addressed the congregation. In the evening a reception was tendered Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Matheson by the ladies of the congregation and attended by an exceptionally large number. After tea had been served in the basement of the church, all repaired to the auditorium where a fine programme was carried out. Rev. Dr. Munro, of Paris, was the pastor of the church, and was chairman for the occasion. Speeches were given by Rev. Dr. Munro, Rev. Mr. Lindsay, of Kintore; Rev. Mr. Father, of Niagara Falls (formerly Spence and Findlay of this village). The choir were given by Miss Maggie D. Murray, Miss Merle Creighton and Miss M. Watt, of London. A duet was given by Mrs. Moffat and Mrs. H. E. Fair, and two numbers given by the ladies' quartette, composed of Mrs. (Rev.) Findlay, Mrs. (Rev.) Spence, Mrs. (Rev.) and Mrs. Donald Campbell. The choir also rendered an anthem in good style. Readings were given by Miss Anthistle, of London, which were much enjoyed. The meeting was brought to a close by a few well-chosen songs from the new pastor, Mr. Matheson, and the singing of the doxology.

MONTREAL CATHOLICS

French-Canadians are both greatly worked up over the bi-lingual question, and it is likely that the Bishop of London has started a controversy which will be continued in Montreal. The Irish Catholic priests are all very strongly in favor of the stand he has taken, but they do not care to say so. "More power to him!" exclaimed one priest in a conversation on Bishop Fallon's views. "I am sure that a good luck in his work. But what a full expression of opinion was asked for publication the reverend father should put like a word, and it was impossible to get a word of either is for 'His lordship is right,' remarked another Irish priest, 'but I would not dare say so in public. If I did I would receive an invitation to go up to the Archbishop's Palace at once and I don't know what might happen to me there.'"

An Outspoken Man.
Rev. Father Donnelly, pastor of St. Anthony's parish, is the only Irish priest in the city who could be prevailed upon to allow his words to be published. He is noted for his independence of stand.

Rev. Father Donnelly thoroughly concurs in the position taken by his lordship.

"Why, of course, I cannot but second Bishop Fallon in the remarks he made at Goderich yesterday, considering that our experience here with bi-lingual schools has shown us that they leave much to be desired. The result of the thinking is that either one of the primary schools is that either one of these languages are neglected. In the first place so short is the time allotted for school work that justice cannot be done the pupils in such schools."

"Incidentally his Lordship of London has shown up certain persons who have been indulging in times against him on this score. His attitude is clear, and as such should be admitted by everyone at all familiar with conditions prevailing in educational circles as they really are. A thorough grounding in the mother tongue, with a supplementary study of any other language desired, is what is needed, not a system wherein a child is forced to absorb a little of both languages, with but small prospect of retaining much of either."

Can Easily Learn Both.
La Presse, speaking editorially, said last night:

"We regret that we cannot agree with the opinion of Mr. Fallon. French-Canadians are well able to learn both French and English at the same time, provided that they are given the means of doing so. This is proven in the Province of Quebec. No French-Canadian refuses to learn English, because he understands that it is necessary, but no French-Canadian will consent, nevertheless, to abandon French. It is very beautiful to say to the French-Canadians, like Mr. Fallon: 'Have purely French schools if you wish.' But the French-Canadians understand well that their one resource is bi-lingual education."

"It is possible that Bishop Fallon, up to a certain point, is right in saying that the bi-lingual schools in his diocese are not as successful as might be desirable. But to what is this due? The French-Canadians obtain these schools through trouble and misery, and they find all sorts of obstacles in their road. Also, in the Diocese of London it is not with such sympathy as is shown for them by Bishop Fallon that they can prosper. It is for that reason that the Ottawa congress demanded from the Government better protection for the bi-lingual schools."

La Patrie, in a long editorial, said: "The Bishop of London cites the cases of the schools of a number of French-Canadian parishes which the last examinations, he says, revealed the incapacity of nearly all the scholars. During his tour of inspection he was informed in one parish that the greater part of the boys from 11 to 16 years of age were unable to read."

"These facts may be true. But the conclusion which Mr. Fallon draws from it is altogether false."

Toronto Doctor Finds Himself
Once More a Prisoner.

[G. N. W.]

Toronto, Oct. 18.—Dr. Herbert Sheppard, the old man who was acquitted yesterday on a charge of bigamy, was arrested again today on a similar charge. Yesterday the physician produced papers to show that Sheppard had obtained divorce from his first wife, whom he married in 1842, in 1894.

The charge was brought by Mrs. I. Moore, whom he married in Toronto. During his testimony, however, the physician stated that in 1891 when he living in Eden Mills, he married another woman.

His wife, he said, lived with him until he lost all his property, then and he could find no trace of her. Sheppard stated that he was not aware of this evidence; the arrest today ordered.

Dr. Sheppard was remanded for a day in the police court this morning.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 19.

THE TECHNICAL EDUCATION COMMISSION.

The technical education commission has come and gone. There was no lack of appreciation of its aims and objects on the part of the manufacturers, labor organizations, and educationists of the city. The commissioners took the practical course of inspecting local industrial establishments, and they exhibited an earnest desire for first-hand information. It is to be hoped their London data will not be among the least useful they are gathering.

The commissioners found their mission justified by the overwhelming consensus in favor of the creation of a system of technical instruction, adapted to the special needs of each important industrial community. It is a common complaint among manufacturers that the present school system gives the boys a bias away from mechanical industry. A lad is too young when he leaves the primary school to begin to learn a trade, and if he enters the high school his course of studies is too bookish to aid in equipping him for the factory or the workshop. He should have facilities for technical instruction to fill in the gap between his leaving of the primary schools, and the age at which he is sufficiently mature to enter the ranks of industry.

This period of a boy's life is the most critical one for his future. He is tempted to drift into odd jobs in which he can earn more money for the time being than as an apprentice. The result is that at a time of life when he might have acquired a trade, he finds himself a mere casual laborer. There are, unfortunately, many boys and girls obliged by circumstances to become wage-earners as soon as they pass the school age. For these the door of opportunity could be kept open by means of night classes, at which they could qualify for skilled occupations. To bridge over the hiatus between the ages of, say, 14 and 17 or 18, would be the function of the elementary technical school.

The commissioners are no doubt on their guard against a too materialistic conception of education. There is a tendency to regard the workman merely as a producer. He must be considered in his other and more important aspect as a citizen in a democracy which cannot rise above the level of the masses. There must be an infusion of cultural studies in any system of education, even if its aim is vocational. It is a vicious theory that would place livelihood above life.

THE JANUS-FACED AGITATION.

[From a speech by Henri Bourassa.] [From the Winnipeg Telegram.]
"One day your wives will see the agent of the Government, come now to decide between this infatuated Laurier and the sons (naval) law. In his hand, and the saying to them: 'Good mother, it is necessary that you give me your son, not to defend his native country, but to fight in all countries and on all the seas of the world in favor of the English flag'; but when your women learn some months afterwards that the Canadian people will enroll this web of rhetorical apology for separatism, a Japanese bullet, or a German ball has slain her child, who has fallen into the depths of an abyss or from the bridge of a ship, do you think she will say: 'It's all right, my husband was a good Liberal and as it was Mr. Laurier who passed this law, it's all right.' No, she will curse you, and she will be right in doing so."

HIGHER EDUCATION FOR BANK CLERKS.

The Monetary Times contains as a supplement a summary of the report just written by Professor Johnson, of New York University, on Canada's Banking System for the National Monetary Commission of the United States. After a large number of valuable comments, mostly complimentary to the Canadian system, the writer expresses his regret, as a teacher, "because of the seeming indifference of Canadian bankers with regard to the education of their employees." Prof. Johnson says: "When a boy at the age of 15 enters a Canadian bank he leaves all hope of education behind. He will have little chance to improve his mind by systematic study or thorough attendance upon lectures. His hours will be long and, from the American point of view, his pay will be small. He will have to work out his own salvation without the aid or encouragement of the world's best thought and experience. It is to be hoped that the older bankers of Canada will get a conviction of sin on this subject and through their Bankers' Association make some provision for the intellectual growth of the young fellows in their employ. If they fall on this score, the time may come when the staffs of the Canadian banks, despite their prestige, may no longer contain men of the quality necessary to the making of a first-class general manager."

While the clerk who has it in him may develop by more banking and social experience into an efficient general manager, it is no doubt true, as Professor Johnson says, that a more liberal and deeper education is requisite for a really first-class general manager. In a time of large enterprise, and when, also, business is beginning to be determined by considerations of a more generous nature than the older school of political economists took account of, the young banker needs not only a training in political science, commercial law and finance, but in the humaner law of ethics, as illustrated by the poet, the philosopher, and the historian. Some large-minded bankers founded the Bankers' Scholarship some years ago at Toronto University for the encouragement of the banking studies as a preparation for banking. But the young clerk needs more than the theory of his work, and the intention of the scholarship is also incidentally to promote the more liberal studies which go along with a political science course in college. It seems that not much good has as yet come of that good intention. Few bank clerks have had a university course or have the time to take it or anything like it. And yet it would make better bankers, and what is more important still, better men of them. Intellectual curiosity once aroused and systematically directed, is the best preservative against ennui and old age. Books give a surer independence to the mind than a bank account can provide for the pocket; they make a kingdom of the mind.

It is an educational question in Essex, not a race question.

A parasite is threatening a turkey famine. Next to a green Christmas there would be nothing so depressing as a turkeyless one.

The farmer's boys and girls must not be overlooked in any scheme of technical education. It was gratifying to see that their claims were well presented before the commission yesterday.

The Drummond, Que., by-election will be fought between the Liberals and the Nationalists. The latter will make the navy the issue. In such a contest every patriotic Conservative ought to be on Laurier's side.

The Quebec Nationalists are fermenting strife in Essex as a handle in their anti-Laurier campaign. In this Mr. Bourassa has the scarcely-concealed sympathy of many of Laurier's enemies in Ontario who are more partisan than patriotic.

There was no need for Sir Hilbert Tupper to demolish the story that he would enter the Laurier Government. It was the most incredible one that could be invented unless rumor had assigned him a place in the McBride Government. His dislike for Laurier is affection beside his feelings toward McBride.

Witnesses before the technical education commission testified to the generous use made of American correspondence schools by the workers at McClellan's and other factories in the city. This is highly creditable to the workers, but not so creditable to a province which has failed to bring facilities for education to the workers.

LUGGAGE WITH SENSE.

"Why didn't you put my luggage in as I told you?" screamed the irate passenger, as the train moved off.
"Oh, man," replied the porter, "your luggage is no sic a silly as yerself. Ye're in the wrong train."

WATCH MR. BORDEN.

Mr. Borden voted against the reduction of the duty on agricultural implements, and denounced it on his late tour of Nova Scotia. But just watch him dancing to the western tune when the House opens!

WHAT IT CONTAINED.

A well-known physician was walking down one of the main old London thoroughfares with his 5-year-old son, when they were stopped to await the passing of a funeral procession. The youngster had never seen anything of the kind. His eyes widened. Pointing to the hearse (an enclosed one), he asked: "Dad, what's that?"
"In that, my son," said the physician, with a grim smile, "is a mistaken diagnosis."

UNCLE SAM'S GROWTH.

In 1900 the population of the continental United States was 75,000,000; last year it was expected that the present census would reveal about 85,000,000 inhabitants. Now the director of the census prophesies returns of over 90,000,000 souls. With the overseas possessions that would mean a total of about 100,000,000 citizens for the United States.

THEIR BIG GAME.

Football may be doped out as a great American game, but it is not, nor will it ever be the great American game. What a wrench it must have been for the world's baseball championship series to be forced to hand back over $50,000 of gate money to people who could not be accommodated owing to the rush of early comers.

THE LATEST.

[Detroit Free Press.]
Nellie's getting love-dovey.
Yesterday she kissed me twice,
Put her gentle arms around me,
Called me something sweet and nice.
When I left her in the morning
At the door she kissed my brow,
Then she whispered: "Hubby, dearie,
I must have a dream skirt now."

Muffins hot she made for supper,
Honey on the table, too;
Thick steak, broiled the way I like it—
Usually she serves me stew.
Jelly, and no strangers present,
That she doesn't oft allow;
When I asked her why the banquet:
"Dear, I want a dream skirt now."

After supper, fagged and weary,
I stretched out upon the couch,
Fell asleep while she was sewing,
And she didn't fret a grouch.
Didn't rouse me or disturb me,
As a rule this starts a row;
Just as nice as she was Nellie,
But she wants a dream skirt now.

I've been thinking all the morning,
Cannot get it off my mind,
That the things she is wearing
Are the things that make her kind.
Never sweeter is a woman,
That is when she is a frau,
Than when wearing some new garment.
What's a dream skirt, anyhow?

THE POPULAR ACCLAIM.

[Montreal Witness.]
The announcement of the demonstration in honor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had evidently sounded like a clarion in the ears of the residents of Montreal, for it seemed last evening that every citizen had turned out to welcome and acclaim the Prime Minister of the Dominion.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

The issue between Sir James Whitney and Dr. Reame's secretary seems to be as to whether the latter is an amazin' villain or merely a Maisonville.

TRUTH WILL OUT.

[Toronto Star.]
The truth will out. The following passage occurs in an article in the Mail and Empire of Thursday: "Mary Barton" is undoubtedly the strongest piece of work Mrs. Gaskell ever produced, although its charm may be inferior to that of "Cranford." It is a chronicle of the English poor at the worst time in their history, before the establishment of free trade had wrought a transformation in industrial England."

NO MUCKRAKING.

[Cleveland Leader.]
"Your wife always weighs her words, doesn't she?"
"Yes, and nobody'll ever have her arrested for giving short weight."

DOESN'T ALWAYS WORK.

[Buffalo Express.]
"Even great men can pass unnoticed in a crowd."
"Say, did you ever try to get into a baseball game without a ticket?"

MODERN STRATEGY.

[Washington Star.]
"Do you think airplanes could be used effectively in warfare?"
"They might," replied the skeptical person, "if we could provide the airplanes and induce the enemy to go up in them."

MOMENTOUS QUESTION.

[New York Telegram.]
In the pleasant autumn weather,
When the leaves begin to glow,
And the forest looks as brilliant
As the lady in the show,
Sweetly we compare with nature,
Feeding on her wealth our soul,
As we wonder how in thunder
We can buy our winter coal.

In a mass of gold and yellow
Hang the leaves upon the trees,
Or to earthward softly flutter
On the light, impulsive breeze.
As we view the living picture,
Done in smooth, artistic rhyme,
It's distressing to be guessing
Can we buy our coal on time.

A COMMON FATE.

[Washington Star.]
"It is a terrible thing," said the prisoner, "to be known by a number instead of a name, and to find that all my life I shall be an object of suspicion among the police."
"But you will not be alone, my friend," replied the prison guard, "for you will be some thing happens to people who own automobiles."

THE NATURAL ORDER.

[Milwaukee Journal.]
"Look at that trunk," exclaimed the lady in the baggage-room, examining her damaged possessions.
"Yes, I'm looking at it," said the baggage smasher.
"Well, what are you going to do about it?"

"I'll report it to the baggage master, he will report it to the agent here, he will take it up with the division superintendent, he will take it up with the general manager, who will refer it to the damage department, who will send an agent around to see you in a couple of years to ask you why you didn't buy a decent trunk in the first place."

THE FIDDLER'S FAREWELL.

[Aired Naves, in London Nation.]
With my fiddle to my shoulder,
And my heart turning grey,
And my heart growing old and mellow,
I must shuffle on my way,
Tho' there's not a heart to greet me,
I must reap as I have sown,
And the sunset shall meet me
At the turn of the road.

O, the whin's a dusky yellow,
And the road a rosy white,
And the blackbirds' song is mellow
At the falling of night;
And there's honey in the heather
Where we've made our last abode,
My tones are no longer sweet,
At the turn of the road.

I have fiddled for your city,
Thro' market place and inn,
I have poured forth my pithy
On your griefs and your sin!
But your riches are your burden,
And your pleasure is your goad!
I've the whinhold for my guerdon
At the turn of the road

Your village light'll call me
As the light of the long dead,
But a black night betrays me
Ere your pillows rest my head!
God be praised, tho' like a jewel
Everywhere is to be showed,
There's a star that's no so cruel
At the turn of the road.

Nay, beautiful and kindly
Are the faces drawing nigh;
But I gaze at them blindly
And hasten, hasten by,
For O, no face of wonder
On earth has ever glowed
Like the one that waits me yonder,
At the turn of the road.

Her face is lit with splendor!
She dwells beyond the skies!
But deep, deep and tender
Are the tears in her eyes.
The angels see them glistening
In pity for her load;
And she's waiting there, she's listening
At the turn of the road.

DISEASE DECIMATING CANADIAN TURKEYS

Famine Is Likely Unless Strong Measures Are Adopted.

Ottawa, Oct. 18. — With the approach of the Thanksgiving Day dinner a statement made today by the Dominion biologist, Dr. Charles Higgins, of the department of agriculture, relative to the cause of the first turkey famine in Canada, is of especial interest. Dr. Higgins accounts for the soaring prices for the festive bird by the fact that a parasitic disease, commonly known as blackhead, is responsible for an alarming turkey mortality in all the provinces. The disease is manifested by a black appearance of the comb, and is due to parasitic affection of the digestive organs. Unless stringent measures are taken at once to combat the disease intelligently, he says, Dr. Higgins, the supply in all parts of Canada will be still further seriously depleted.

A remedy suggested is to starve the bird for forty-eight hours and then let it drink from a mixture composed of a teaspoonful of muriatic acid to a quart of water.

ORGAN WORTH $58,000

Two Metropolitan Church Members Are Bearing Expense of the Improvements.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, Oct. 18.—After being closed for five months the Metropolitan Methodist Church will re-open next Sunday. During this time $45,000 has been spent on extensive alterations. The famous organ has been added to and altered at cost of $10,000, now making it indisputably the largest and best organ in Canada. The instrument is now valued at $58,000. The biggest part of the expenditure is being borne by two wealthy members of the church.

WEST WILL VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION

One Hundred Places Will Take Vote In December.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Regina, Oct. 18.—Petitions have been filed for a local option vote on Dec. 12 in over 100 places in Saskatchewan. This city, Moosejaw, Saskatoon and Prince Albert will have contests, while no less than 17 towns, 82 villages and 31 rural municipalities will also test the feeling of the people on the subject.

HAMILTON WATER RATES WILL BE CUT AGAIN

Twenty Per Cent To Be Taken Off And More Later On.

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—A reduction of 20 per cent for domestic users will be recommended by the special committee which was appointed to report on the matter of cutting down the water rates. There was talk of introducing an entirely new system of assessing for water rates, and charging by the number of rooms in a house instead of on the present basis. It was thought advisable, however, to follow the present system, with 20 per cent reduction for a year at least. If the recommendation is adopted by the council it means that the city will lose $24,000 revenue, based on next year's assessment. Early this year the council cut $22,000 off the waterworks revenue by reducing the rates on bath and closet to $2 and $1, respectively, per year. Notwithstanding this the waterworks receipts for this year will show an increase of $8,000 over last year. The department figures that when the new electric pumps are in operation it will cut down the cost of pumping by one-third. "We hope by the end of next year to be in a position to make another reduction of 25 per cent, which will apply to everyone," said Controller Allen. He pointed out that the reduction recommended by the committee, which it is proposed to have go into effect at the first of the year, does not interfere with any of the meter users or vacant lots. About the only change made in the present system of assessing is on the graded scale, on which house owners are charged. A man assessed for $500 pays $110 a quarter, and there is a gradual increase, the rate being raised with every extra $50 increase in assessment. Now the increase will be on every hundred dollars. The controllers believe that the reduction in the water rates will appease many householders who have complained about the increased assessment.

ECZEMA AND WHAT IS DONE TO CURE IT

Desperate Efforts, Disheartening Failures and Final Success.

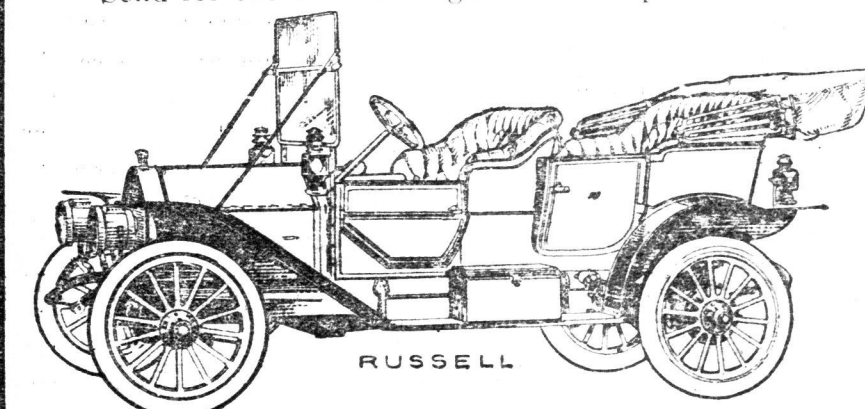

Eczeema is a skin affliction to which men and women alike are subject, from the first to the last day of their existence. It may occur as a single tiny spot, appearing and disappearing with each change in general health or present only at certain seasons; at the other extreme, the whole body may be involved in a torturing eruption. The latter condition may gradually arise through the neglect or improper treatment of lesser troubles or an apparently healthy skin may, in a single day, become a mass of eczeema. But whatever the form of the affection, the distressing itching, burning, scaling and crusting, the serious disfigurement and the constant dread that the eczeema will become chronic, make a speedy cure the aim of every sufferer. Unfortunately, such a cure is not always readily obtained. The most skilled physician is often at a loss and even hospitals are forced to discharge the patient as incurable. Then a wide variety of remedies are resorted to, many perfectly harmless and equally ineffective, others so offensive to every sense that, were it not for the relief they are supposed to afford, no person of refinement would tolerate them for an instant. To such sufferers, discouraged by repeated failures of even these heroic methods, the instant relief afforded by the first bath with Cuticura Soap and gentle application of Cuticura Ointment is almost incredible. They stop the itching and burning at once, make sleep possible and, in most cases, point to a speedy cure. So pure and sweet are Cuticura Soap and Ointment and so free from every substance of a disagreeable or harmful nature that they can be used without hesitation on the youngest infant or tenderest skin. Before the white ointment is being used, a single being often sufficient for the treatment of even the severest cases.

In proof of the efficacy of the Cuticura Remedies it will be enough to quote here a single letter, from Mrs. Edward Nanning, 11 Lansing Block, Watertown, N.Y.: "Four years ago I suffered with a terrible eczeema, being a mass of sores from head to foot and for six months confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor, I was advised to try Cuticura. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for three weeks. At the end of that time I was entirely cured and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies, as I know what they did for me."

"Made up to a standard—not down to a price." What has made this car's success this year? Its motor, its material, its workmanship or its design? All of them—together they made it good all through. And what the 1910 Russell "30" has been, the 1911 model is and more. It is made so well that the profit per car is lower than the usual manufacturer will accept. But the Russell car cannot afford a lower standard. It has built a reputation for quality which is its greatest asset, and that quality must be maintained at any cost. The policy may not pay us so well per car, but it pays in the long run, for this reputation has increased our business till our 1910 output is 75% ahead of last year, and our 1911 business bids fair to double that of 1910.

WANTS DAMAGES

Berlin Domestic Claims Former Employers Called Her Witch.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]
Berlin, Oct. 17.—A domestic has brought an action against her former employers, Christine Metzger, of St. Jacobs, and Abram Brubacher, of Heidelberg, claiming damages for alleged false and malicious charges that the plaintiff had put certain drugs in food to be eaten by Mrs. Daniel Brubacher in order to obtain evil influence over her. The plaintiff also charges the defendants with having used words in the German language insinuating that the plaintiff had been practicing the crime of witchcraft upon the said Lizzie Brubacher, ascribing the latter's illness to this cause. Damages of $500 and costs are claimed for anguish of mind, caused by being shunned by former associates and having her reputation injured.

The Man First.

I want to introduce a young lady to a young gentleman; which should I introduce first? MARIE.
A man's name is mentioned first, as, "Mr. Burns, I want you to meet my friend, Miss Burke."

Name for a Club.

Dear Miss Grey:
We have read your good advice, so we thought we could write to you for a name for our club. It is for the purpose of having a good time. The girls of the club are about 14 or 15 years of age. O. V. C.
Why not call yourselves the "Sky-larks," or the "Merry Ramblers"? If you would like a French name take "Ami," which means "Good friend."

Addressing a Minister.

Dear Miss Grey:
Please tell me how to address a letter to a minister; shall I say Rev. Mr. Brown, or Mr. Brown, or Rev. J. T. Brown?
Address the envelope The Reverend James T. Brown, and add "D.D." if he is a doctor of divinity.

Let the Dear Man Alone.

Dear Miss Grey:
Is it proper for a girl to ask a gentleman to call on a certain evening, or for him to call oftener than twice a week? How late should she stay? Supposing he says he will come on a certain evening and fails to appear, but, happening to see him the next day, he makes an excuse, what should I have said? I pretended I had forgotten it. Was this proper? Wasn't he showing indifference? He first started to pay his marked attentions to me some months ago, but now he seems indifferent. Conversation was not hard with either of us. He appears little interested in almost everything I say, and does not say much. Perhaps I have shown him I think too much of him, for he is quite indifferent. How can I make him think different and act as he used to?

A SON OF
THE IMMORTALS

BY LOUIS TRACY.

Author of "The Stowaway," "The Message," "The Wings of the Morning," Etc.

Count Marulitch, of course, had not counted on one who was a complete stranger not only recognizing him, but stripping the scene so thoroughly of the artistic commission offered to Alec's friend. He must put his best face on his blunder when discussing it with Belian, and he promised himself a quite definite understanding with Poluski before another sou left his pocket.

Who was Poluski? That question, at least, could be answered easily. One clue might lead to another. Tomorrow, when they met, it might be his turn to astonish the warped little Pole.

Pole, feeling that he had spoiled the Egyptians excellently well, hobbled off to his favorite cafe. Early as the hour was, various cronies were there already, sipping their morning refreshments, but he passed them with a nod and made for the fat proprietor's room, where he had a high desk. When he caught sight of him, a certain air of firmness seemed to struggle with sympathy in the expression of his bulging features, and she hastily thumbed a small account book taken from beneath a pile of waiting letters.

"How much, madame?" asked Felix, who had missed none of this.
"Twenty-seven seven five," she said severely.

"Can one make it thirty, madame?" "Thirty? Tell me then, how earnest bills are to be met when one is owed these things?"

"Dear angel, Providence has decided that you shall deal with such problems." "Well, well, no more, not a centime beyond the thirty!"

"Monstrous, yet all heart!" murmured Felix. He struck an attitude, and sang with exultant feeling the opening bars of the Jewell Song from "Faust." As applied to the earthly tabernacle of madame's generous soul, the effect of that impulse was ludicrous. But Felix, the hundred-franc note on the counter.

"There, ma petite, be rewarded for your trust," he cried. "Now give me the railway time table, for I have far to go ere I return, when you and I shall crack a bottle of Clos Vostogot with our dinner."

Madame, who had not betrayed the least embarrassment when she and her sister were apostrophized in Gounod's impassioned strains, was utterly bewildered by Poluski's appeal. Not once in many years had he owned so much at one time, count of his pictures and kept himself going had-to-morrow fashion. But here was Felix intent on the time table and sweeping seventy-two francs twenty-five centimes of change into his pocket without troubling to count a coin.

You have found a mad Englishman, I suppose, muttered the countess.
"Better, far better, ma chérie! I have met a man who would be a king!" He hurried out, climbing into a passing omnibus, and descended at the Gare de Lyon.

Joan was just leaving the pretty hotel at Barbizon, meaning to put in some hours of work after a distracted morning, when Felix emerged from the interior of a rickshaw cab that had barred him from Melun to the edge of the forest.

Now, a cab drive of several miles, plus a going had-to-morrow fashion, was utterly bewildering. But here was Felix intent on the time table and sweeping seventy-two francs twenty-five centimes of change into his pocket without troubling to count a coin.

"Alec still reigns, if that is what you mean."

"What, do I look like an envoy?" He laughed. "Well, well, ma belle, there is some truth in that. I come in behalf of one before whom even Kings must bow; I represent Saint Peter! But even an apostolic dynamiter must eat. I am starving, having sacrificed my luncheon to my love of you. Commend me, then, to my love of Alec. He is a good fellow, and was able to secure some soup and a cold chicken. Felix eyed the bird distrustfully."

"Although I am here in behalf of Saint Peter, there is no sense in asking me to chew the wretched fowl that proclaimed his downfall," he muttered.

"Oh, Felix, dear, please do tell me what has happened!" said Joan, clasping her hands in real distress. "I received a letter from Alec this morning. It was sent to me by the post, and it was in what between that and the extraordinary things in the newspapers, I think I am bewitched. Now I am sure that you, too, have heard from him. Is it a telegram?"

"Yes," he said, "a message sent without wires. It is a dream that will come true. Listen now, and don't be afraid. For these grey old trees of Barbizon have heard mad whisperings that you will become a Queen. It is in the natural order of things that I, who gave my best years to the study of the occult, should be chosen in my dotage to help in fixing a king firmly on his throne. It is some sport to the gods, I suppose, a superhuman jest, perhaps the touch of fate that makes tragedy more vivid, but I am sure that you, Joan, are the one you thought fit to lighten Hamlet by introducing a comic gravedigger. Be that as it may, Joan, you are Alec's Queen, and, as he cannot come for you, it follows that you must go to him. Shall I tell you why? You are necessary to him. It is decreed, and you cannot shirk your lot. He knows it, and he has written to bid you come. His enemies know it; but there is a kind of knowledge that leads its votaries blindfold to the pit, and Alec's enemies are blindly plotting now to send you to Delgratz and thus compass his ruin."

"What are you saying?" "The truth, the simple truth. Not a hint of metaphor or extravagance about it. You are necessary to him. It is decreed, and you cannot shirk your lot. ATHLETICS SET NEW RECORD BY TAKING TWO GAMES AT START OF CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

For First Time in History of Baseball American League Team Wins Both Openers.

MORDECAI BROWN, THREE-FINGERED MARVEL, NO PUZZLE TO WINNERS

Stellar Work of Eddie Collins Helps Jack Coombs, Philadelphia Twirler, Out of Many Tight Places—Later Overly Anxious.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—For the first time in the history of the king sport of the Caucasians in North America, has an American League club won the first two games of a world's series.

This new epoch in sport history came about this afternoon, when Cornelius McGillicuddy's young and ambitious Athletics outplayed Frank Chance's older men and gave them their second beating in two days.

John Wesley Coombs pitched for the Athletics, and Mordecai Brown started and Richie finished for the Cubs. The score was 9 to 2.

Philadelphia, with the first game of the series marked down to their credit, were even stronger today than yesterday. They put up a remarkable offense, but no less remarkable defence.

On Monday it was the pitcher who held up the team and steadied and started it right, while today it was the team that held up the pitcher, steadied him and saved him by remarkable fielding, in which Collins and Murphy and Ira Thomas played the most important parts.

Luck also cast her lot with McGillicuddy's young champions, the Athletics, favored the local team. The American League found everything coming their way, and this carried them to a wide chasm.

It is nothing unusual for Coombs to start off wild. It is done by John Wesley quite frequently, but he has a habit of steadying down in the first or second inning. Today he forgot to steady down. He did not control his desire to throw the ball so fast past the batters that all they would have as evidence that it passed would be a whizzing sound. In the second inning Collins again came to his rescue by converting a good catch of a drive on an attempted hit-and-run play into a double play.

In the third inning he was again in a hole, but pulled himself out, and in the fifth Collins ordered his men to start a bunting game. Coombs kicked a couple of bunts himself in this inning. One he went after he picked up, dropped and kicked it with his foot. Another one he let get away from him.

Then came another bunt which Davis fielded and went for a sacrifice, and Coombs was so wild that he walked a man, Chance lifted a fly to Murphy, and Brown tried to score from third.

Duffy made a perfect throw to the plate and retired the three-fingered twirler, and saved Coombs from a tight pinch.

It was the same thing over in the sixth. Eddie Collins put through another double play. It again helped Coombs out.

THREE-FINGERED WONDER WEAKENS.

Jack looked none too good in the seventh. A double, base on balls and a single gave the Cubs a run and put them one truly behind the Athletics, and the way Coombs was working he might be made the victim of a terrible assault in the next round. Brown weakened in this inning. The Athletics fell on him with as heavy a hitting exhibition as any world series ever offered, and drove him from the box by making five hits for eight bases, scoring six runs and breaking up the game.

Collins played a great game. His fielding was wonderful. That Coombs was not made the victim of a rally was due to Ira Thomas. The former held him up well, worked hard and coached him well.

Brown is not the same man whom the Detroit team fell before in the clashes between Tigers and Cubs for world series honors. Brown has not pitched the best kind of ball all year, and those who watched him claim that he was no better today than any time this season.

Brown could not stand off the Athletic batters. They hit him hard all the way. Just before the National League closed he got away with a brilliant pitching victory. Maybe the other club wasn't hitting that day. The Athletics were hitting today. They found him easy.

Richie pitched but a single inning. He showed nothing particularly good.

YANKEES FAIL TO SOLVE MATHEWSON

New York Nationals Win Fifth Game of Series By 5 to 1 Score.

DEVORE HITS A HOMER

Giant's Outfielder Makes Circuit on Long Drive to Left Field Bleachers.

New York, Oct. 18.—Christy Mathewson was an unsolvable problem to the Highlanders today, and the Giants had no trouble in winning the fifth game of the post-season series, 5 to 1. The games now stand: New York Nationals 3, Americans 2.

Devore brought in the Giants' first run with a high drive into the left field bleachers for the circuit. After two men were out in the second inning Myers got a lucky infield hit and Mathewson walked to first on four wide ones. Devore doubled to right, scoring Myers, and Doyle followed with a drive that rattled the ball against the centre field fence.

Doyle was across the plate before the ball reached the diamond, and their only run in the seventh inning on a single by Knight and a wild pitch by Mathewson and Doyle's error. The score:

OYSTERS IN THE DICKENS' TIME.

[From the London Chronicle.]

The beginning of the oyster season prompts a lover of these delicacies to ask why they are not cheaper. This writer, with a father who remembers, as a young man, oysters at three a penny, gets his cheapest at 1s. 6d. a dozen. And on Margate front recently he has seen mothers developing their children's appetite for them at a penny apiece. For at those excellent street stalls of the Kentish Brighton you can get, what our restaurant deny you, just the fillip of three or four—in fact, any fancied fraction of the dozen. Sir J. Crichton Browne has been lauding a fish diet. One would dearly love to see a redemocratization of the oyster.

George T. Stallings will manage the Buffalo team next season. The deal was closed in Philadelphia last night.

The former manager of the Yankees, who won two pennants for Buffalo, signs to lead the Bisons in 1911, and will become a stockholder and take immediate charge.

FALKENBURG BLOWS UP

Allows Six Hits and Five Runs in Sixth Round—Score 8 to 5.

Cincinnati, Oct. 18.—The Cincinnati National League baseball team, by defeating the Cleveland Americans by 8 to 5 today, won the post-season series between the two teams for the championship of Ohio.

Falkenberg pitched gilt-edged ball until the sixth inning, when six hits allowed Cincinnati to take the lead by scoring five runs.

In the fourth Cleveland had made four runs by pounding Sugars hard. Cleveland tied it up in the seventh, and in the Cincinnati half the locals went ahead again by scoring two more. They added one to this in the eighth. Kaler, who relieved Falkenberg, served only three men, walking all of them. Mitchell, who pitched the last two innings, was also wild. Gaspar, who relieved Sugars, was hit rather freely, but he managed to keep the hits well scattered.

and the schools failed to give them the proper direction.

Judge Meredith's Opinions.

Mr. Justice R. M. Meredith submitted a letter to the board which was accepted as evidence. He thought the present school system was not satisfactory, as its tendency was to lead boys away from agriculture and the industrial arts. The higher schools were too often dawdling places, and failed to reach the masses of the students as they should. His lordship favored technical colleges in connection with the universities.

Mechanics Plentiful.

Mr. Frank E. Leonard declared that skilled mechanics were quite readily obtained at the present time. But the number of apprentices was small, and it was extremely difficult to get them to take an interest in their advancement.

ment. He helped any who desired to improve themselves, either at night school or by correspondence courses, as he had found such work very beneficial. Years ago, there was an art school in connection with the Mechanics' Institute in London, and a number of laboring men took a deep interest in it. Mr. Leonard, in a statement submitted to the commission, favored industrial education. The Canadian boy had an aversion to trades, preferring other means of livelihood. He thought that industrial training should begin where the kindergarten left off. He thought also that the moving pictures could create a great field in educating boys and girls. That field has not been carefully explored or considered, but there was undoubtedly much to be done in this way.

Mr. Leonard thought that technical education must be increased in scope if it was going to do the good intended. As for technical schools the fees should nearly, if not altogether, cover the operating expenses.

Dr. Robertson took a deep interest in the suggestion regarding moving pictures. Mr. Leonard stated that he had not worked the details out, but he promised to further consider the matter.

Principal Radcliffe.

Principal Radcliffe, of the Normal School, followed and gave some information regarding the number of students in attendance and the like. In answer to a question by Dr. Robertson, he declared that it would be impossible to teach instructors in technical education in the Normal Schools.

Dr. Robertson asked him if he did not consider it a mistake to establish an agricultural college, and not have a Normal School with it, but Mr. Radcliffe, while favoring the principle, could give no reason why the Government had separated the institutions. The salaries in rural sections were increasing, there being a great scarcity of teachers. In response to a question by Mr. Forsythe, Mr. Radcliffe stated that the class he was teaching the year was the best he had ever had. Mr. Simpson wanted to know what happened to the teachers who went west. Mr. Radcliffe stated that 30 per cent of the graduates of the Normal went west and a large proportion of the girls married there.

"We are supplying teachers and wives," said the principal. "A very good work, I should say."

Vice-Principal Dearness.

Mr. John Dearness, vice-principal of the Normal, thought the public school courses should be stretched out so that children would not graduate too young, but he would supplement the course by manual training and school gardens and they like. Book courses, too often, were professional, and not sufficiently towards the business of life which the boys and girls would follow. The rural school system failed in this regard, and the pupils of a country school to a model farm to be instructed in their life work. At the request of Dr. Robertson, Mr. Dearness will elaborate on these ideas for the commission.

Board of Education.

Mr. W. W. Gammage gave interesting evidence. He informed the commissioners that the board of education were extending manual training, and were discussing domestic science for the public schools. A nurse had also been recommended for medical inspection of the schools. He declared that stern necessity drove boys to work at 14 years of age, and some provision should have been made to send them out into the world equipped for their working manhood. The commercial course at the school was doing good work, and was sending out one class of students at least that were well equipped to begin life. The public school system was sending out boys to be city loafers, and technical education might prevent this.

Mr. C. M. R. Graham was deeply interested in manual training. At the age of 14 years it was difficult for a boy to obtain work, said Mr. Graham, in his home town. The commercial course at the school was doing good work, and was sending out one class of students at least that were well equipped to begin life. The public school system was sending out boys to be city loafers, and technical education might prevent this.

Mr. McCutcheon's Opinion.

Principal McCutcheon thought manual training should be compulsory in the public schools, with industrial subjects optional. Out of 267 who passed the entrance this year, 175 went to the Collegiate. The rest went to work. Manual training had a cultural value that was lost sight of, and was not merely training pupils for an occupation. Principal McCutcheon dealt for some time with the commercial department, and declared that it was giving pupils who otherwise would not obtain it a commercial education, and the students were in demand. No effort had been made to introduce night schools, nor was there any demand for them so far as he could learn.

Inspector Edwards was the last witness of the day. He submitted a lot of school statistics that should be very valuable to the commission in their deliberations. There had been no evening classes in fourteen or fifteen years. The last held were not successful. The inspector made an especial plea for better education of girls along practical lines, and suggested a course in home making in the public schools. Three hundred girls in London annually leave school at 14 years of age to go into factories and stores, and know little or nothing of home making. This should be taught them.

In response to a question by Mr. Simpson, Inspector Edwards declared that he would raise the age limit for going to work from 14 to 16. It would be a gradual raise. The inspector gave a lengthy report of his observations on the subject of technical education, and gave a lot of information regarding industries, the character of labor wanted, and a lot of interesting matter along these lines.

Some Explanation of the Backward Condition of Pupils in Bilingual Schools—French People Are Apathetic and Do Not Read Much.

A special correspondent of the Toronto Star, writing from Windsor, in regard to the bilingual schools, says: "One does not have to travel far in and about Windsor to find plenty of reasons advanced as to why education among the French of North Essex lags behind, after the manner described by Bishop Fallon. Whether these reasons are well founded or whether the conditions are as bad as painted may be open to argument, but when such a prominent educationalist as the Principal of the Windsor Collegiate attests to the backward condition of the teachers in the bilingual schools, and that the pupils are in many cases incompetent and ill-trained, it is fair to assume there is some ground for the criticisms which have been made. From sources which ought to have reliable information causes for this incompetent teaching were advanced. It was stated, for instance, by one who ought to know that in the days gone by French children were given a bonus of 200 marks on exams and that the children who were thus rewarded through the schools, teaching in the bilingual schools, teaching in many cases in the district certificates, after having failed lamentably in their Collegiate exams. The entire facts are, it is understood, known to the department of education.

Principal's Statement.

The statement made by Mr. F. P. Gavin, principal of the Collegiate Institute here to The Star was as follows: "From my experience of the pupils that pass through the schools, and from my general observation, I should say that the teachers of the bilingual schools are not well trained or properly qualified. I think there is no fundamental reason why French pupils should be behind, as they are able and willing. They simply are not as well prepared. They are just as bright and willing as the English pupils, but they come to us ill-prepared, and they leave us before their course is complete. I can see no reason why the department should not insist on a compliance with the regulations in this section of the country as well as in other parts of Ontario. With proper qualifications they should be able to teach English and French."

In these words Mr. F. P. Gavin, put his finger on what he conceives to be at the bottom of the school trouble here. It is significant that he is the same view taken by Dr. H. R. Casgrain, as quoted in The Star yesterday.

Both men had lived in Windsor for many years, and know thoroughly the conditions there. Each looks at the present situation from a different viewpoint, however, for Dr. Casgrain is a Roman Catholic, and Mr. Gavin a Protestant.

"Is there any reason in itself why the bilingual school system should not be a success?" Mr. Gavin was asked. "With properly qualified teachers I cannot see that there is," was the answer. "Perhaps I am not in as good a position as some others to speak on this point, however."

Both Governments to Blame.

Incompetent, ill-trained teachers cannot be expected to turn out first class pupils—incompetent is the word Dr. Casgrain used, echoing Bishop Fallon—a short dip into the history of education in North Essex tends only to confirm the observer in its use. The ultimate blame is to be laid at the doors of the department of education, not only of this Government, but of the preceding one. That the present department of education is in possession of the fact that there are a number of unqualified teachers at work in North Essex may be taken as granted; that they inherited that condition of things from the Government before can be only a feeble excuse.

Get Permits to Teach.

"There are cases in our country today in which French girls have failed, and failed lamentably, in their Collegiate examination, have left the school, and later turned up as teachers in the rural schools. There is another weakness of the bilingual system carried on here. In these schools the district certificate is just about as much value as the third-class certificate, which was abolished as a teaching certificate by the department some years ago. A pupil gets that after two and a half years in school. The department knows that the equivalent of a third-class certificate is being used in North Essex today. Is it any wonder that these conditions are allowed? It is the bonus teacher of the years gone by that's teaching today here, and this system of allowing permits at present means that the teachers of tomorrow will not be much better. The result of this system of permits and extensions will not be eradicated in a generation.

It is a hard proposition to get teachers in this district, doubly hard because of two things, the necessity of the two languages, and the fact that there are such splendid openings in the business and professional world so near at hand. With Detroit right across the river, the young French man or girl has little inducement to remain and go into teaching in Essex. The salaries are poor, as compared with what he or she can earn elsewhere, although not unduly low for teachers' salaries throughout Ontario. The rural school teacher makes an average of about $500 a year, but there are few among them who cannot make $50 or $60 a month across the river in business if they are any good. A great many of them go over there to study medicine. They can live at home, and go over to their classes. In a year or two they get through a good school, and set up in practice among their fellow-countrymen in Detroit. After a while you see them driving their automobiles about.

FOUND DEAD BODY.

[G. N. W.]
Toronto, Oct. 18.—Attracted by the strange action of her cat early this morning, Mrs. Fred Hollowell, 150 McCaul street, went into a lane at the side of her house to examine a bundle around which the cat was sniffling. The bundle proved to be the body of a newborn male infant, wrapped in a piece of tablecloth. The little body was removed to the morgue, and likely an inquest will be held.

HAMILTON POLICE AFTER AUTOMOBILISTS

Must Carry Number on the Rear of the Body of the Car.

Automobilists in Hamilton have been neglecting the letter of the law in regard to the rear numbers on their automobiles. The law provides that the rear numbers shall be on the body of the car, and on a line with the rear lamp, so that at night the light shall shine on the number. Up to the present this requirement has often been overlooked, but auto owners who persist in continuing to break the law are now being summoned to answer for their neglect to comply. This regulation has always been enforced in London, and motorists almost uniformly comply with it. Only occasionally do the local police discover delinquents who overlook this matter.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS ARE ASKING CITIZENS' HELP

Each Citizen Is Expected to Pay 50 Cents Towards a Good Work.

The Y. M. C. A. boys' department have caught the enthusiasm of the Toronto Y. M. C. A. campaign. They have divided the city into districts, and put a certain number of boys in each. They are going to canvass every house, asking only 50 cents, to put their rooms in such a condition that the citizens of London will bring all of their visitors to see the London Y. M. C. A. boys' department. They will bring all strangers to see the place where the boys of London get their all-round development. They will show people where the London boys go to spend their evenings, instead of on the street.

The citizens should encourage the boys in their efforts to help the conditions in the boy kingdom of London. said an officer of the Y. M. C. A. The boys are the future citizens. They are responsible for the men of tomorrow, and the Y boys ask them to help them, as they plan to raise the moral, social and educational life of the boys of London. Fifty cents is not much, but if every citizen who is able gives 50 cents, the city of London will not hang its head for shame, at the conditions that prevail in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.

The Reasons.

1. The boys take in a thing he has been given.

2. The boys want more games, etc., to amuse themselves with. There is not enough to go around at present.

3. The boys are tired of the street for amusement.

4. The boys know the street corner is where they get into trouble, and do the things they are ashamed of.

5. (a) The boys want to make a home for the boys who have not a home. (b) Many boys in London have no papers, books or magazines to read in their homes. (c) Many boys have no games to play at home. (d) Many boys have no chance to hear a piano and sing some of the popular songs, unless they come to the Y. M. C. A. (e) Many boys do not go to Sunday school, but they gladly join the group Bible class at the Y. M. C. A. (f) Many boys do not go out on tramps to the country like the "Y" boys. (g) Many boys are not in the school. (h) Many boys never get to the big camps like Fisher's Glen.

6. The London Y. M. C. A. boys want to know why they cannot have a piano of their own like Stuart's. Why they cannot have enough good games to amuse 75 boys in the rooms all the time as well as ten or twelve. Why they cannot have a room or rooms at Ottawa or Brantford, or Stratford. Why they cannot have as good running clubs, poultry clubs, snowshoe clubs, etc.

"Now they are coming to the people to tell them they will beat any city yet mentioned if they will stand by them," the officer continued. They will improve the Y. M. C. A. boys' department. They will increase the number of boys in Bible study. They will lessen the number of boys on the street corners.

"They will raise the moral life of the boys. They will raise the mental standard and encourage them to improve themselves. They will improve the Y. M. C. A. boys' department. They will increase the number of boys in Bible study. They will lessen the number of boys on the street corners."

"They will give the boys clean sports. They will train Bible class teachers for the churches. They will improve the boys are bringing in good reports so far."

One boy reported six out of ten tickets sold within twelve hours of the time he received them.

BISHOP WILLIAMS AT PORT HOPE SERVICE

Attended Speech Day Proceedings of Trinity College.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Port Hope, Oct. 18.—The speech day proceedings of Trinity College School were held today, and passed off very successfully, many visitors coming from Toronto and other outside points.

Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Huron preached the sermon at the religious service in the school chapel. At the close of this service Bishop Reeve donated a stained glass window in memory of Humphrey Ernan, an old boy of the school, the new west doors and stalls in memory of Frederick Ridout, another old boy, who died in India, and the new festival altar.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

So Thinks at Least One Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. "I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first-class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance."

My friends often "josh" me about it, but I am an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three or four times a day, and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I pay for every day, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first-class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and are what count, a potent medicine as much as in selling barbiturate.

WESTERN JOURNAL OUT OF BUSINESS

Liquidator Appointed for Calgary News, as Delict Reaches Nearly $70,000.

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 18.—Mr. Justice Stuart today appointed the Trusts and Guarantee Company liquidator for the Daily News Publishing Company. The appointment was reached after a compromise. The assets, according to a statement made up to Aug. 1, show liabilities over assets of $56,000. These have increased by $10,000 since that time. In the statement the assets are put in at inventory value, which is somewhat large. When all is liquidated it is expected that little will be left for the unpreferred creditors.

In court the solicitor for the News read out the list of shareholders of the News. In addition to Dan McGill, Cuddy there were Hon. Frank Oliver and Hon. Messrs. Rutherford, Cross, Cushing and Findlay.

Among the creditors of the company are the Goss Printing Company, the Toronto Type Foundry, which are secured and Teess and Persse, E. S. Riley, Lieut.-Governor Bullock, A. J. McArthur, M. P. P. Sheriff Vanwart, and many others of smaller amounts.

On account of the large advance sale for the Glasgow Select Choir on Thursday at the Grand Opera House, it has been decided to open the gallery—seats 25 cents.

Two Minute Talks About PANDORA RANGE for Coal or Wood

Of course the Pandora Range is a few dollars more than an ordinary range. But it will soon pay for itself in the fuel it will save for you.

The Pandora Flue System and Wide Fire Box, designed by our brainy stove experts, save about half a ton of coal per year, because they supply more air than the flue systems and fire boxes of ordinary ranges, causing better combustion of fuel.

The Pandora Oven saves some more fuel, because it heats up more rapidly than a cast iron oven. The heavy Fire Clay Coating on the main bottom of range prevents any heat wasting towards the floor. It drives the heat back into the oven, and thus saves still more fuel.

But the big economizing feature is this: The draft for cooking on top of the range is also the draft for baking in the oven. The heat does double duty and your fuel bill is largely reduced.

Get the Pandora—the range that pays for itself. No other range is high-class enough for you.

GETS TWENTY YEARS.

Parry Sound, Oct. 18.—Joseph Lavigne, alias Joseph Albert Roy, twice previously convicted, imprisoned and lashed, for offences against little girls, was again today convicted of carnally knowing a little girl of thirteen years, named Edna Wright. The jury took a merciful view of the case, and brought in a verdict for the lesser offence, but Mr. Justice Clute, who evidently recognized that the accused was a moral degenerate, inflicted a sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary and twenty lashes.

HESPELER ACCIDENTS.

Hesper, Oct. 18.—Three painful accidents occurred here today. While at work in Krib's planing mill, Thomas Walsley had four fingers of his left hand cut off. Rev. Mr. Bridgman, while assisting some men to pull a pump, had his hand badly smashed. The third accident was the most serious one. Oswald Monday, a worker in William Black's factory at Flamborough, had the cap sawn off his head. He was taken to the Galt Hospital.
