AFTER GARRY VANZANT

Did Toronto Gaol Governor Take a Hand in West Elgin in 1899?

Two Reputable Citizens of St. Thomas Charge That He Was "Deputy Returning Officer Stratford" at Polling Division No. 4 In St. Thomas-The Affidavits in Full-Governor Van-Zant Denies Charge Emphatically.

Toronto, Jan. 12.-That Garry Van-Toronto, Jan. 12.—That Garry Van-Zant, governor of the Toronto Jail, had a hand in the West Elgin election of Jan. 12, 1899, is asserted by two reput-able residents of the city of St. Thom-as, who have sworn to affidavits now in the hands of the Provincial Secre-tary.

The men who make the solemn de-claration that VanZant is Christopher Stratford are Percy A. Honsinger, merchant of St. Thomas, and Benjamin Tr. Honsinger, cigar manufacturer, of the same place.

Mr. VanZant was appointed to the jail after the bye-elections of 1899; the office was the gift of the Ross Governoffice was the gift of the Ross Government. The Ross Government was sustained in power by the result in West Eigin. West Eigin prolonged the life of the Ross Government, but it was the turning point in its career. Interesting revelations are expected.

What B. F. Honsinger Says.

The affidavit of Benjamin F. Honsinger of St. Thomas, cigar manufacturer, says:

singer of St. Thomas, cagar manuacturer, says:

"I well remember the previncial election held in West Eigin on the 12th day of January, 1899, and was engaged at said election around the polling booth for polling sub-division No. 4, St. Thomas, and saw the man who acted in said division as deputy returning officer in the name of Christopher Stratford, and I know that the person who so acted there in his name was Stratford, and I know that the person who so acted there in his name was not Christopher Stratford. I have had produced and shown to me the photograph marked exhibit "A" to this my declaration, and I believe the person who is marked with the letter "A" in said photograph is the person who acted under the false name of Christopher Stratford at said election."

Percy Honainger's Affidavit.

Percy A. Honsinger swears:

Percy Honsinger's Affidavit.
Percy A. Honsinger Swears:
"That I am a merchant residing in the City of St. Thomas and have resided there for twenty years. That on Jan. 12, 1899, I acted as inside scrutineer at polling sub-division No. 4 for the City of St. Thomas, in connection with the elections holden for the electoral district of West Elgin. That at that time a man, representing himself as of the name of Christopher Scrutford, and gave his occupation as a railas of the name of Christopher Stell-ford, and gave his occupation as a rail-road engineer on the Michigan Central, and said he resided at Walkerville, in the County of Essex, acted as deputy returning officer.

"Since then I have had pointed out to me a man who is alleged to be Garry VanZant, formerly a resident of Markham Village, in the County of York, and his picture is marked as exhibit "A," hereto fantiexed. To-day, at the request of some friend, who thought that the present jailer, Garry VanZant, was the same person as the Christopher Stratford, above mentioned, I visited the Toronto Jali in order to see the said VanZant.

Thou Are the Man.

"I have seen the said VanZant, and I am perfectly satisfied that the said VanZant, who is now a jailor at the Toronto Jali, is one and the same person who acted as deputy returning officer in polling sub-division No. 4, in the said City of St. Thomas, under the name of Christopher Stratford, representations the same the same

Premier Whitney didn't know anything about it. "I know of no such thing about it. "I know of no such charges, affidavits or otherwise. When such affidavits come before me I can assure you I shall read them with a great deal of interest," he said.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said he had heard about the VanZant matter, but he was very emphatic that there was nothing official about it in his department.

VanZant Denies it.

"I never acted as deputy returning officer in West Eigin, or anywhere else in Canada, in my life. I was twice returning officer in East York. My son lives in St. Thomas and as far as I can learn he never acted as a deputy returning officer there. The immunitions are absolutely untrue. I have nothing further to say until some defining further to say until some defining returning officer there. The manual tions are absolutely untrue. I have nothing further to say until some definite charges are made by somebody, said Governor VanZant when he was asked about it all last night.

That Confession.

From the confession of Denald Machish, June 28, 1899: "That a large number of persons were especially sent into the constituency, which men, working on behalf of the Liberal party for the express purpose of taking part on Mr. Macnish's behalf in the election held Jan 13, 1899, and we believe that trandulent and corrupt means were used by some of such persons to scure his election.

"That several of the said persons 'llegally and without authority acted as deputy returning officers in the said election, and in at least three cases so acted in the names of reputable local men, having under assumed names been introduced to the returning officer by local agents of Mr. Macnish."

The really successful man does not have to call attention to the fact.

vention At Peterbere.

Peterboro, Jan, 12.—Yesterday was "cheesemakers'" day at the Dairy Convention, and the addresses were in keeping with this branch of the dairy industry. The attendance was about five hundred, and great interest was manifested.

The speakers were: George A. Barr; chief dairy instructor of Western Ontarie; G. G. Publew, chief dairy instructor of Eastern Ontario; and Dr. W. T. Ceanel, bacteriologist of the Kingston Dairy School.

Mr. Publew presented a report of the work of the syndicated factories in Eastern Ontarie during the past season, which showed progress along all lines. The factories had been improved, better dairies erected, and the farmers were beginning to take better care in handling the milk on the farm.

FOR PEOPLE

Conservatives Need Thorough Re-Organization, Says Phil. Bowyer, M. P. P.

Splendid Platform Suggested— Banish Question of Campaign

Phil. Bowyer in Ridgetown Domin-ton. As we laste previously remark-ed, the Conservatives of Canada must ed, the Conservatives of Canada must get together in convention, agree upon a policy and endorse its leader before it can hope to win victories. As for the policy, it must be one that appeals to the masses and not any class or section of the people. The spirit of compromise must be admitted in regard to a few questions that are likely to arouse sectional feeling by reason of what cannot be helped—the divergent races and creeds of the Canadian people. On all questions of a material nature there must be made clear-cut definite announcements.

There should be no hestitation in definite announcements.

There should be no hestitation in declaring for the nationalization of the telegraph and telephone lines, the placing of express companies under the Railway Commission, and an extension or enlargement of the parcel post division of the mail service. The taking over by the Government of at least one of the transcontinental lines, preferably the Grand Trunk Pacific, and its operation in conjunction with the Intercolonial by a commission of practical men, should be a chief plank in any platform adopted.

As for the tariff, let us also make

As for the tariff, let us also make a suggestion: Complaint has been made that after 1896 the Liberals "stoke" the protection policy of the Conservatives, leaving to the latter only a cry for still higher protection. Teme brings many changes to parties as well as men, and because the Conservatives wisely adopted the National Policy in 1878 and adhered to it for a quarter of a century, is no reason why the party or the country should consider that policy immutable in all its bearings. The Liberals having stolen the "clothes" of the Conservatives some ten years ago, why should not the Conservatives of this day attire themselves in a portion at least of the discarded raiment of the Old Liberals.

In short and to the point, the As for the tariff, let us also make

In short and to the point, the masses of the voters of Canada, in every province, believe not only that the tariff is quite "adequate," but that it might be lowered here and there to the advantage of the country. The Tariff Commission found no encouragement for an increase of the burdens on the people, rather the contrary. At the last general election we know of men who did not go to the polls. They wanted to confiem the broken pledges, railway policy and increased expenditure of the Liberal Government, but were checked by fear of an increased tariff should the Conservative win.

Let the Conservative party adopt a

WHERE THE MONEY IS.

Money enough; where is it? asks the Buffalo Express. Probably the farmers can tell where some of it is. The report of the Agricultural Department at Washington, issued a few weeks ago, said the farmers had over six billions of dollars more in 1905 than ten years earlier. Further, they received millions more for their crops last year than for many years previously. It is said the farmers are able to establish banks, buy railroad and other stocks, and invest in various enterprises. Again, the thrifty working people have money laid by. A few years ago many of them gambled on margins and poured their hard cash into Wall street at the rate of millions a day. Now the gambling fever is subsided and the money is in savings banks. The few made money, the many lost When the crash came in Wall street people began taking care of their own money instead of handing it to some bucket shop operator to invest (and lose). In Canada, according to Vice-President Stewart of the Sovereign Bank, the people have deposits in the post office, and other savings banks amounting to $600,000,000. That is a tidy sum, drawing a low rate of interest, to be sure, but the money is safe. When the cash is wanted and good security is offered, it will be found. Naturally, Wall street is short of funds for speculative purposes, and that is where the squeal is coming

But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning over broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgment are affected, and many an evil deed so clouded, the mind and judgment are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. No one can be well balanced in mind and body whose blood is impure. No one can have a wholesome and pure life unless the blood is pure. BACK FROM THE ARCTIC.

First "White" Worken In the Far North -Wife of Majar Moodie Tells Her Experiences.

Her Experiences.

Mrs. Moodle, wife of Major Moodle of the Northwest Mounted Police, was the only woman with the Hudson Bay expedition of the Dominion Government steamship Arctic, of which her husband was commander. She was the only "white" woman ever seen in those regions, and was, therefore, regarded by the natives with much curiosity. The party were for nine months frozen in the ice, going in on the 17th October and breaking out on the 5th July, the whole expedition occupying thirteen months.

whole expedition occupying thirteen months.

"We experienced no discomfort whatever," said Mrs. Moodle, in speaking of her Arctic tour, "and had a most interesting time of it. One has of course, to dress entirely in furs and skins, but then there is no danger of being frost-bitten. The thermometer overages 38 below; it is not so very severe, but it keeps low all the time."

The people are not like the Esquimaux of farther south (the Arctic wan just north of 64), many of them appearing more like Canadian or European types. The race is decreasing rapidly, however, owing to starvation and Mrs. Moodle thinks they would soon become extinct, unless, as she expects, the Government comes to their aid with food, as for the Indians. The children have been dying off fast, a fact which may be due to the custom of their mothers of not clothing them at all, allowing them to play around naked, only skins being spread for them on the floors of the 'igloos' or ice-houses. naked, only skins being spread for them on the floors of the 'igloos" or

"Could not those splendid people be brought down, to a more moderate climate, where they would have a chance to live?" Mrs. Moodle was asked.

"Yes, and I think it would be a good "Yes, and I think it would be a good thing to do for them; not to bring them down to civilization exactly, but along the shores of Hudson Bay further south. I think the Government will come to their rescue now, after the expedition has found out about their condition."

Speaking of the country, Mrs. Moodie was enthusiastic over the beauties of the scenery, saying she never saw such rich colorings in blooms as in the pro-fuse, though low, growths of wild flowers along the shores of Ungava Bay. The fishing, too, is excellent, both of salmon and of cod. "They speak of twenty hours' night, but there is really no night, for the twilight lasts is really no night, for the twilight laste so long, the sun dips such a short distance below the horizon and the northern lights are so vivid, that it is always partly light, except on stormy nights. There is no soft snow and no heavy snowfalls, only a continual light drifting, sort of fog of snow, which hardens on the ground and is cut into blocks to build the igloos."

Prefontaine Harbor, in Ungava Bay, is a magnificent land-locked roadstead.

s a magnificent land-locked roadstea nine miles long, capacious enough for the whole British navy to anchor in it. The party thought well to give it the name of the Minister of Marine and Pisheries. They named the promonory at its entrance Cape Laurier, and the island which shields the entrance they called White Island, after Col. White, the leader of their expedition. The party expects to cruise further north, going even to Greenland, next summer. nine miles long, capacious enough fo there are keeping an all night, ready to fice themselves, and to larm their neighbors in case of lunpending danger.

ALIENS ARE BARRED.

Marriage Licenses Must Now Not Be Sold to Them.

The Provincial Secretary's Depart The Provincial Secretary's Department is taking action to prevent the ssuing of marriage licenses at fronie'r points in Ontario to persons from the American side, a business which is quite a fleurishing one, particularly at Windsor. This follows upon the handing down of an opinion by the Attorney-General that these licenses should not be issued. He based his finding upon sections of clause 17 of the act respecting the solemnization of marriages. These sections provide that the stildayth made personally by the also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of cabarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherryback, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone rook, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worthmore than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula on the bottle wrapper is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no polsonous or harmful agents and no sicohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine should be and besides is a most case of the professional control of its formula affections. There is the highest medical anthority for its nes in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated cfyreric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent, medical authorities, endorsing its ingredient mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. X. marriages. These sections provide that the affidavit made personally by fue of the parties to the intended marriage, before a license is granted, shall state that one of the parties has had his or her usual place of abode in the county or the judicial district in which is the municipality where the marriage is to be solemnized, for fifteen days, immediately preceding the issue of the license. If the county or district in which it is intended that the marriage shall take place is not that in which either of the parties has resided, as stated, the affidavit must show that the reason for solemnizing the marriage shall take place is not that in which either of the parties has resided, as stated, the affidavit must show that the reason for solemnizing the marriage shall take place is not that in which either of the parties has resided, as stated, the affidavit must show that which either of the parties has resided, as stated, the affidavit must show that the reason for solemnizing the marriage in such place is not in order to evade due publicity or for any other tunescent purpose.

evade due publicity or for any other improper purpose.

In effect the ruling of the Attorney-General is that the licenses should not be issued to people who are not bona ide residents of the province, and the Provincial Secretam's Department will try to enforce that ruling. Some frontier license issuers and some ministers will naturally suffer financially, and those at Windsor to a greater extent than others.

Chamberlain "Facts and Figures" Concerning the Preference - Premier C. B. Gsts His Seat by Acclamation -His Opponent Withdrew Through Illness-Countess of Warwick Advises Dock Laborers.

London, Jan. 12.—(C.A.P.)—To the great controversy now waging, the Chamberlain Tariff Commission here contributes another statement, summarizing the testimony offered as to the Canadian preference. It says that the facts and figures justify these conclusions: First, that during the last twenty years the tendency has been for Canada in an increasing degree to depend on the United Kingdom for a disposal of her products and on the United States for the supply of the materials which could have been supplied by the United Kingdom. Largely as the result of the keen United States and German competition, British exports to Canada had declined till the preference was granted. Since then they have increased, yet the British share of the Canadian market is increasing at a lesser rate than the share of the United States. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's utterance in September last is quoted to the effect that his Cabinet was ready to make a trade treaty with the British Ministers.

Bannerman's Walk-Over.

There will be no opposition to the re-election of the Premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, to represent the Stirling district, in Scotland, the Unionist candidate, K. C. Murchison, being seriously ill. This has caused the Unionist committee to abandon the contest.

At the last election Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was elected by a majority of 630, the vote being: Campbell-Bannerman, 2,715; Lieut-Col. Oliver T. Duke, 2,085.

The first nominations for the coming elections were made yesterday at Ipswich, where the four candidates in the field have agreed not to raise the question regarding the legality of such an early date, on which subject there is a difference of opinion. The polling at Ipswich to-day will start the elections.

Lady Warwick in it.

Lady Warwick, the court beauty known as the democratic countess, took a hand in the election struggle yesterday, addressing her "comrades and friends," the dock laborers of Westham, in support of the dock laborers' candidate, "Will" Thorne, The countess, in a dainty Parisian costume, braved the bleak wind while from a tradesman's waron she urged from a tradesman's waron she urged. from a tradesman's wagon she urged the laberers to work to secure an in-dependent labor party in the House of Commons. She asserted that she was conviaced of the utimate victory of the democratic movement, and pro-phesied that the new Government would not last longer than 18 months. "You workers" said the counters

"You workers," said the countess, "are the empire. Remember your responsibility and sow the seeds of freedom for your children."

Her ladyship was accorded a tremendous ovation by crowds of dock laborers, who went without their dinaers to listen to her speech.

BANWELL ARRESTED.

Crewn Bank Absconder Run Down In Kingston, Jamaica.

Toronto, Jan. 12.-A cable was received at police headquarters last night from Kingston, Jamalca, stating that Edwin St. G. Banweil, the absconding clerk of the Crown Bank, was arrested there during the day. Detective William Black of the city force sent the message.

Banwell left the city suddenly on

Dec. 9 with some of the bank's funds.
Miss Hector is also under arrest. The cablegram from Detective Black tifying the department that he had captured the fugitives also said he had recovered the money. Just how much Banwell got away with is still a mys-tery. Bank gossip has placed the amount at $60,000 others have run it up to $100,000.

As Jamaica is a British possession, extradition proceedings will not be ne-cessary, and the couple are merely charge under the fugitive offenders act, and it is probable they will come back via Halifax.

. Continued from Yesterday. Casting one last glance at the Ice bound water below me, and with a shudder at the thought of what I had contemplated doing when I first arrived upon the Embankment, I made rived upon the Embankment, I made my way back into the Strand. It was now close upon three o'clock; and already a few people were abroad. If I were not out of London within a few hours, I might be caught. I would go directly I had decided what it was imperative I should know. Up one street and down another I tolled until at last I came upon what I wanted, a small restaurant in a back street, devoted to the interests of the early ar-voted to the interests of the early arrivals at Covent Garden Market. It was only a tiny place, shabby in the extreme, but as it just suited my pur-pose, I walked boldly in, and ordered a cup of cocoa and a plate of sausages. while they were being prepared I seated myself in one of the small compartments along the opposite wall, and with my head upon my hands tried to think coherently. When the proprietor brought me the food, I asked him if he could oblige me with the loan of writing materials. He glanced at me rather queerly, I thought, but did not hesitate to do what I asked. When he had gone again I dipped the pen into the ink and wrote a note to the proprietor of my hotel, telling him that I had been suddenly taken out of town by important business, and asking him to forward my boxes, within a week, to the cloak room, Aberdeen railway station, labelled "to be called for." I chose Aberdeen for the reason that it was a long distance from Lontha tit was a long distance from Lontha tit was a long distance from Lontha to the service of the reason that it was a long distance from Lontha tit was a long distance from Lontha to the service of the reason that it was a long distance from Lontha tit was a long d loan of writing materials. He glanced that it was a long distance from London, and also because it struck me that if enquiries were made by the police it would draw attention off my police it would draw attention off my real route, which would certainly not be in that direction. I then wrote a cheque for the amount of my account, enclosed it, and having done so sealed up the letter and put it in my pocket. On an adjoining table I espied a newspaper, which I made haste to secure. Turning to the column where the shipping advertisements were dis-played, I searched the list for a vessel outward bound to one of the ports I had chosen. I discovered that to Chili or any of the South American Repub-lics there would not be a boat saling for at least a week to come. When I turned to South Africa I was more fortunate; a craft named the Fiji Princess was advertised to sail from Southampton for Cape Town at 11 a.m. on this self-same day. She was of 4,000 tons burden, but had only accommodation for ten first-class passes. commodation for ten first-class passengers and fifty in the steerage. What pleased me better still, she would only call at Teneriffe on the way. The steerage fare was fifteen pounds, and it was by this class I determined to travel. My mind once made up, the next thing to decide was how to reach Southampton without incurring suspicion. To catch the boat this could only be done by rail, and to further increase my store of knowledge I had again to borrow from the proprietor of the restaurant. From the time table he lent me I found that a train left Waterloo every morning at six o'clock, which would get me to the docks to the d which would get me to the docks bewhich would get hie to the docks be-fore nine o'clock, thus allowing me two full hours in which to make my preparations and to get on board in comfortable time; that is, supposing she safled at the hour stated. But I had still three hours to put in London before the train would start, and how to occupy them without running any risk I could not tell. It was quite im-possible for me to remain where I was, and yet to go out and walk about the streets would be dangerous in the extreme. In that time Nikola might get hold of me again, and I believe I dreaded that more than even falling into the clutches of the law. Suddenly

I was struck by what seemed a splen-did idea. What if I walked out of London to some station along the line where the train would pick me up? In that case no one would be able to re-don to some station along the line where the train would pick me up? In that case no one would be able to remember seeing me start from Waterloo, and I should be believed to be still in London. The thought was no sooner born in my brain than I picked up my hat and prepared to be off.

When I paid at the counter for my meal, and also for the note paper with which the proprietor had obliged me, I strode out of the restaurant and down the street into the Strand again. Surbiton, I reflected, was twelve miles from Waterloo, and, besides being quiet, it was also one of the places at which I had noticed that the train was advertised to call. I had almost three hours before me in which to do the distance, and if I walked at the rate of five miles an hour it was evident I should accomplish it with ease. To Surbiton, therefore, I would go.

Having made my way back to Charing Cross, I passed down Whitehall and over Westminster Bridge to the Lambeth Palace Road. Under the influence of my new excitement I felt easier in my mind than I had been since I made my awful discovery three hours before but still not easy enough to be able to pass a policeman without a shudder. Strangely enough, considering that I had no sleep at-all, and had been moving about all night, I was not conscious of the least fatigue, but strode along the pavement at a swinging pace, probably doing more than I had intended when I had first set out. The snow had ceased, but an assty fog was rising from the river to take its place. I pictured the state of London when day should break, and devoutly thanked Heaven that I should be well out of it by that time. I could imagine the newboys running about the streets with cries of "Another orrible murder! A millionaire the rictim." I seemed to see the boards stuck before shop doors with the same ghastly headline, and I could realize the consternation of the town, when it awoke to find the mysterious assassin still at work in See The Gas Company About It.

The next witnesses would be the finders of the body, and after that the same verdict would be returned—"Wilful murder against some person or persons unknown"—as had been given in the previous cases. seen the deceased gentleman step in me I should probably have time to get out of England before the police could stop me, and, once among the miners of the Rand, I should be able to arrange matters in such a way that range matters in such a way that recognition would be almost an im-possibility. With a sigh of relief at this comfortable thought, I pushed on a little faster along the Wandsworth Road until I reached Clapham Junction Station. As I did so I looked at my watch. It was just a quarter to four, and already the footpaths were becoming dotted with pedestrians.

Leaving Clapham Junction behind me, I passed along the Lavender Hill Road, through Wandsworth, and struck out along the road to West Hill, then across Putney Heath, through Kingston Vale, and so into Kingston. From that quaint old riverside town to Surbiton is but a step, and exactly as the church clocks in the latter place were chiming a quarter to six. I stood on the platform of

With the solitary exception of an old man I was the only passenger from this station; and, as soon as I had discovered an expert this close see discovered an empty third-class con partment, I got in and stowed myself away in a corner. Almost before the train was out of the station I was fast asleep, dreaming of Nikola and of the horrible events of the night just past. norrible events of the night just past. Once more I drove the cab along the snow-covered streets; once more that strange woman's face arose before me in warning; and once more I descended from my seat to make the horrible discovery that my enemy was dead. In my agony I must have shrieked aloud, for the noise I made woke me up. An elderly was prossibly a sucup. Leaving Clapham Junction behind ter to six, I stood on the platform of the railway station prepared to board my train when it should come in sight. The last four miles had been done at a fast pace, and by the time I had taken my ticket I was complete ly worn out. My anxiety was so keen that I could not sit down, but waited until I should be safely on board the train. The cries of the newsboys seemed still to be ringing in ears—"Another 'orrible murder! Discovery of the body of a famous millionaire!" To while away the time I went out of the station again and explored the deserted streets, passing houses in which the owners still lay fast asleep, little dreaming of the miserable man who was tramping along in the cold outside. A biting north wind blew over the snow, and chilled me to the mar-row. The leaden hand of despair was pressing hard upon my heart, and when I looked at the rows of trim, matter-of-fact residences on either side of me, and thought of the gulf that separated their inmates from myself, I groaned aloud in abject misery.

At five minutes to the hour I returned the statement for the statement of the

"You have been having a pretty bad nightmare these last few minutes, I

An awful fear came over me. Was it possible that in my sleep I had revealed my scret?

"I am sourt I disturbed you." I said.

"I am sorry I disturbed you," I said, faintly, "but I am subject to bad Greams. Have I been talking very much?" "Not so far as I've heard," he answered; "but you've been moaning and groaning as if you'd got something on your mind that you wanted to tell pretty bad."

I replied, relieved beyond measure to hear that I had kept my dreadful secret to myself, "and I suppose that ac

My companion looked at me rather searchingly for a few seconds, and then began to fumble in his great-coat pocket for something. Presently he produced a large spirit flash.

"Let me give you a drop of whiskey," he said, kindly. "It will cheer you up, and you look as if you want it right down bad."

He poured about half a wineglassful into the little nickel-plated cup that fitted the bottom of the flask, and handed it to me. I thanked him sincerely, and tossed it off at one gulp. It was neat spirit, and ran sincerely, and tossed it off at one gulp. It was neat spirit, and ran through my veins like so much fire. At nine o'clock almost to the minute we drew up at Southampton Docks.

At nine o'clock almost to the minute we drew up at. Southampton Docks, and then, bidding my fellow passenger good morning, I quickly quitted the station. Before I left London I had carefully noted the address of the steamship company's agents, and, having ascertained, the direction of their office, I made my way towards it. Early as was the hour I found it open, and upon being interrogated by the clerk bebind the counter, stated my desire to book as steerage passenger for Cape Town by the steamer Fiji Princess, which they advertised as leaving the docks that day. The clerk looked at me with some surprise when I said "steerage." but, whatever he may have thought, he offered no comment upon it.

"What is your name?" he inquired, dipping his pen in the ink.

I had anticipated this question, and replied "George Wrexford" as promptly as if it had really been my patronymic.

Having paid the amount demanded, and received my ticket in exchange, I asked what time it would be necessary for me to be on board.

I thanked him for his courtesy and left the office, buttoning up my ticket in my pocket as I went down the steps. In four hours at most, all being well, I should be safely out of England; and should be safely out of England; and, for a little while, a free man. By halfpast nine I had purchased a small outfit, and also the few odds and ends—such as bedding and mess utensils—that I should require on the voyage. This done I hunted about till I found a small restaurant, again in a back street, which I entered and ordered breakfast. As soon as I smelt the cooking I found that I was ravenous, "Nother terrible murder in London," answered the lad with flendish glibness; and as he spoke my overtaxed strength gave way, and I fell back in my chair in a dead faint.

the same time endeavoring to sit up.
"Very much better. What has been the matter with me?"
"A bit of a faint, that's all." another answered. "Are you subject to them?"
"I've been very ill lately," I said, giving them the same reply as I had done to the man in the train, "and I suppose I overtaxed my strength a little this morning. But, thanks to your kindness, I feel ever so much better now."

As soon as I had recovered sufficiently, I paid my bill, and, having sincerely thanked those who had assisted me, left the shop and hurried off to the docks as fast as I could go. It was now some few minutes after ten n'elock.

Suffering.

No woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well, and regular in their action. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to have filtered out of the blood are left in the system.

The female constitution is naturally more subject to kidney disease than a man's; and what is more, a women's work is never done—her whole life is one continuous strain.

How many women have you heard say: "My, how my back aches!" Do you know that backache is one of the first signs of kidney trouble? It is, and should be attended to immediately. Other symptoms are frequent thirst, seanty, thick, cloudy er highly colored urine, burning sensation when urinating, frequent urination, puffing under the eyes, swelling of the feet and anyles, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

These symptoms if not taken in time and cured at once, will cause years of terrible kidsey suffering. All these symptoms, and in fact, these diseases may be cured by the use of Distinguished Men In Convention Im press Upon Canada the Need of Preserving Her Timber Resource For Years to Come-Earl Grey Delivered Opening Address - Expert Warning From the States.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.-The Canadian forestry convention, which had been call-ed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to consider ed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to consider the forests of Canada, their importance to the nation, and to discuss means by which the beneficial influences of the forest may best be preserved and perpetuated, opened yesterday in the Railway Committee room of the Parliament Buildings, which had been most tastily decorated for the occasion. Some three or four hundred delegates were in attendance from different parts of the Dominion. Among those at the opening session yesterday were: His Excellency Earl Grey, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. R. L. Borden, Hon. Messrs. Fisher and Oliver, E. Stewart, Dominion Superintendent of Forestry, and Gifford Pinchot, Chief of the Forest Service of the United States.

To Avoid Barrenness.

To Avoid Barrenness.

In opening the convention, Earl-Grey observed that although his experience in Canada had been comparatively short, it had been sufficient to impress him with the urgent desirability of focussing the best brains of the Dominion on the immediate consideration of what shall be done with regard to our forests, to protect the soil on which the maintenance of our agricultural prosperity depends. He had himself seen extensive tracts of country in India, Asia-Minor, Greece, and Italy, once inhabited by a strenuous and numerous population, but now reduced to the misery of a barren desolation by the unregulated deforestration of their lands by a blind and selfish generation which had no regard for fostering, and no eyes for anything but their own immediate requirements. The object of this convention was to fix in the minds of the people of Canada the warning that these countries hold out to us.

In opening the convention he hoped it might be the means of averting the sad fate of the countries to which he had referred.

Sir Wifrid's Remarks.

Sir Wifrid's Remarks.

Sir Wifrid's Laurier, as president of the Canadian Forestry Association, then addressed the convention, pointing out some of the questions to which it could with profit devote a share of its attention. Great loss had already resulted from wasteful methods of lumbering, but even yet it was not too late to take remedial measures. One of the first steps should be the establishment and preservation of large forest reserves. On no consideration should the Government allow the watersheds of the country to be denuded. Where these have in any instances been already alienated, the Crown should effect their re-purchase without delay. The success of reforestration had alrady been fully demonstrated. Pine forests can be renewed by judicious tree-planting. If some such steps are not taken the day will certainly come when there will not be a tree left of economic value for Canadian lumbermen to cut. Aside, however, from the havoc that the human hands have wrought in our forests, care must be taken to safeguard them against the inroads of insect pests and fire. He was informed that the lumber cut by the mills of the Ottawa val-Sir Wilfrid's Remarks. re. He was informed that the lum-er cut by the mills of the Ottawa valley did not represent one per cent, of what was destroyed by fire. The patrol service maintained by the lumbermen to keep down forest fires should be made much more thorough and efficient. Every class of the community should be taught that it is a crime to ignite forest fires by careless handling of matches or camp fires. Indeed, he would go so far as to make it an offence punishable by law to throw about lighted matches in the woods, or to court loss by neglective terms. ourt loss by neglecting to extinguish camp fires.

camp fires.

Railways to Blame.

The railway locomotive, observed Sir Wilfrid, had been one of the greatest blessings of modern times, yet what more depressing spectacle could one imagine than to travel for hours through a region once covered by magnificent trees, but now marked only by the charred remains of magnificent forest giants. No doubt the railway companies have made attempts to minimize the danger of igniting fires from their locomotive sparks. It is a question, though, whether they should not be compelled to go further and patrol the portions of their lines that traverse forest areas.

The French-Canadian was a good man with his axe, but unfortunately he has not been careful enough to preserve the trees on his property. The Canadian Forestry Association was doing good work, but should not rest content till the people come to realize the necessity of covering with trees every rock hill and the banks of every running stream. Scatter the seed, and nature will do the rest.

Conservatives Will Help. Railways to Blame.

Conservatives Will Help.

Conservatives Will Help.

Mr. R. L. Borden promised that he and those who sat with him in Parliament would assist the Government to bring in any regulations for the accomplishment of the objects mentioned by the Premier. Canada was specially interested because of her great forest areas, and because of her inland waterways, the efficiency of which depended on regulation of the forests. After denouncing the indiscriminate destruction of trees Mr. Borden gave a European example of the value of forestry. Saxony has 420,000, acres of forests in rough, mountainous country. In 50 Saxony has 420,000 acres of forests in rough, mountainous counity. In 50 years she has received $206,000,000, and the forests are better than they were 50 years ago. Canada has 400,000,000 acres of forest. State aid could be rendered in two ways, by education and by direct control by state regulation. There should be continuity in any such policy. The timber should not be regarded as a crop to be destroyed, and one which would be renewed in 100 or 150 years, but as capital of the state,

The next address was by Henri Joly Lotbinlere, president of the Canadian Forestry Association, who reviewed what that organization had accomplished in its five years of existence. He testified also to the practical work done by the Federal Government in the way of forest tree planting on the plains of the west, protection of forest iands from fire, and creation of forest reserves. Since 1891 the Government reserves. Since 1891 the Government had distributed 5,102,750 young trees to settlers, of which 85 per cent. have thrived. After dwelling at considerable length on the forestry work in the several provinces, the speaker con-cluded by referring to the prospect that before long steps may be taken to organize a Canadian forestry school, where our young men may re-ceive a forestry education suited to the

Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forest service of the United States, brought to the convention a personal message of good-will from President Rossevelt, who added also an expression of his conviction of the good that will result to Canada from the work of the convention.

Hon. James Wilson, United States
Secretary of Agriculture, desired also to express his high appreciation of the wisdom that prompted the calling of the Canadian Forestry Convention and his good wishes for the success of its work. Americans and Canadians have both seen enough to realize that the day will come when our extensive forest resources will be exhausted unless est resources will be exhausted, unles est resources will be exhausted, unless steps are taken to preserve them from extinction. Agriculture is an absolute impossibility in the absence of forests. Moreover the same thing is true of mining and railway building. In the United States forestry was looked upon as a business proposition entirely aside from sentimental feelings, and it was pleasant to learn that by so doing a widespread interest has been developed therein.

Need of Reserves.

Mr. Pinchot outlined the policy that had been adopted in his country of teaching the theoretical value of forestry in schools and of impressing it upon farmers and lumbermen by practical demonstrations and by setting aside forest reserves aggregating 100,000,000 acres. Canada was wise in forming such reserves before the property has passed into the hands of private owners. Need of Reserves.

Prof. Zavitz, lecturer on Forestry in the Gntario Agricultural College, discussed "The Agricultural Forest Problem." He described the reasons for the Agricultural Forest Problem. practice of forestry in an agricultural corractice of frestry in an agricultural scountry like Ontario as depending on (1) aesthetic effects; (2) protective influences; (3) financial investment. Topon the first he spoke briefly, remarking that a treeless waste would be a poor country in which to live. Topon the second he spoke at some dength, noting the benefits to field crops by keeping the snow mantle on them donger in spring, the regulation of the flow of streams, the protection of orechards from winds, and the prevention echards from winds, and the prevention off excessive dryness by arresting the seweep of winds. The Financial Aspect.

The Financial Aspect.

Mr. Zavitz's financial argument was Shat-a-farmer's word lot should yield mearly one cord per acre per annum. If this increment were two-thirds of a cord, and the price were $6 a cord, the metura would be $4 a acre. The average rental of farm lands in Ontario is 32.49 a year. Some Saxon forests have sycar, and the prices of wood in Ontario care often higher than in Germany. Upon this point of view Mr. Zavitz based a close examination of Ontario conditions, advocating a rational adaptation for products to soil and conditions.

Same Problem in the States.

A discussion followed, in which Mr. A. C. LaRiviere, ex-M. P., representing the Manitoba Government; Mr. J. D. Mallan, president of the Toronto Board of Trade; Hon. Mr. Tessier, Ministered Agriculture for Quebec; Mr. A. P. Stevenson, inspector of Tree Planting in Manitoba; Dr. Shenck of Baktimore, NN. The last named peatleman said he had been struck with the admirable progress made in three planting in the Canadian west, and for this Mr. Stewart and his assistants deserved great crédit. The United States was dealing with a similar problem, and he hoped to see both countries planting or seeding a million acres sweety year.
