Is France Decadent?

(From America.)

A very interesting report is that of the Society of the Propagation of Faith for 1908, which the Annals of that Society present in its June issue. We are informed that the receipts from all the dioceses throughout the world, contributing to the work of the Missions, amount to $1,280,517.35, nearly half of which has come from France alone. This is surely a very hopeful sign in a land where the churches have been confiscated by an infidel government and the ministers of religion unjustly deprived of State support, and compelled to depend for a living on the charity of the faithful. At first sight it would seem that the Lord is ungenerous to allow the dreadful evil of persecution to befall a nation which is and has always been so ohivorously generous for the spread of the gospel, but in inspiring the noblest of her sons and daughters to sacrifice their lives and pour out their blood in martyrdom for God's holy cause, the salvation of souls. But as in the life of individuals, so also in that of nations, apostolic zeal will frequently encounter the malice and, for a time, the successful opposition of the powers of evil. Christ warned his disciples: "If the world hate you, know ye that it hath hated me before you. The servant is not greater than his master. If they have persecuted me, they will persecute you also." The people who, ignoring their own trials and the enforced poverty of those who minister unto them, can with a generosity that challenges the admiration of the rest of Christendom give nestingly for the spread of Christ's Kingdom on earth, may be relied on to maintain the faith at home and rid themselves of the conditions that shackle their freedom. While the Church in France is thus suffering, a striking parallel is presented by the missionaries abroad. During the nineteenth century the Paris Society of Foreign Missions gave many martyrs and confessors of the Faith to the Church in the far off missions in China, Annam, Tonquin and Cochinchina. In 1900, forty-nine of these heroes of the cross were raised to the honors of the altar by Leo XIII. On May 2, of the present year, Pius X declared thirty three others Blessed. In the list of those recently beatified appear the names of one French Bishop and three French priests, while the other martyrs were all fruits of their missionary labors. One may be pardoned for seeing in these facts the relation of cause and effect and for believing that the Society for the Propagation of the Faith has been reaping its reward. Last week the President of Leland Stanford University, in a public address to the students of Bryn Mawr College, Pa., spoke of France as a decadent nation. Frenchmen throughout the United States are indignant. Ambassador Janssard, addressing a gathering of his fellow countrymen Saturday last in San Francisco, maintained that "the nation that can produce a Pasteur, that leads the world in the sciences, that first developed the submarine and ranks first in the navigation of the air, cannot by any stress of circumstances be termed decadent." We would add that a nation whose hierarchy has to a man resisted the unjust encroachments of an atheistic government and shown its loyalty to the Vicar of Christ by making every personal sacrifice and resisting every compromise which involved a surrender of principle is sound at heart. When to this is added the liberality of her people and their active interest in the missionary field, the observant Christian will be ready to concede that France has within herself the ingredients of vigorous Catholic life, and, given the opportunity to assert itself, the land of St. Louis will stand forth once more in the pristine splendor of her achievements as the eldest daughter of the Church.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throbbing. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or again there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visible pulsations of the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centers, is beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need suffer.

Mrs. Arthur Mason, Marlbank, Ont., writes: "Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have serious sinking spells and could scarcely get down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all with heart or nerve trouble."

Suffered More Than Tongue Can Tell From Liver Trouble.

A lazy, slow or torpid liver is a terrible affliction, as its influence permeates the whole system, causing Biliousness, Heartburn, Water Brash, Langour, Coated Tongue, Sick Headache, Yellow Eyes, Sallow Complexion, etc. It holds back the bile, which is required to move the bowels, and lets it get into the blood instead, thus causing Constipation.

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly upon the bowels, and will tone, renovate and purify the liver. Mrs. J. C. Westberg, Swan River, Man., writes:—"I suffered for years, more than tongue can tell, from liver trouble. I tried several kinds of medicine, but could get no relief until I got Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills. I cannot praise them too highly for what they have done for me."

Minard's Liniment cures Distemper.

On Saturday, May 13, 1809, Napoleon, after a bombardment which lasted thirty-six hours, made his entry into Vienna. He found that the ammunition and military stores piled up in the Capital of the Austrian Empire were sufficient for a whole campaign. Four days later, Wednesday, May 17, he signed the decree annexing the Papal States to the French Empire in the Palace of Schoenbrunn, the very palace in which his only son, King of Rome, died twenty-three years later. It was the last link in the long chain of arbitrary and iniquitous attacks upon the Holy See and upon the august person of him who in 1804, in the dead of winter, had gone to Paris to snout Napoleon as Emperor of the French in the Cathedral of Notre Dame.

These arbitrary attacks began in 1808 by the occupation of Rome under the pretext that Pius VII. had "favored the enemies of France." On the following March 27 the Pope issued a brief threatening Napoleon with excommunication. An appeal was made to the latter as "a son who had been anointed and inducted into office" by the Pope. In the brief the Pope recalled the fact that the Holy See had defrayed the cost connected with the army of occupation, which had amounted to the enormous sum of 2,800,000 francs ($620,000), and that at this very time Napoleon had despoiled the Holy See of the Duchies of Benevento and Pontecorvo. The Emperor's answer was the annexation on April 2d of the Legations of the March of Ancona to the Kingdom of Italy. On the morrow Cardinal Caprara, the Pope's Legate, quit Paris and France. From this time on Napoleon was openly at war with the Pope. Through his Minister, Champagny, he let the Pope understand that the first result of war is conquest; and that the first result of conquest is change of government. But too much occupied with the affairs of Spain, Napoleon waited a full year before proceeding to the complete spoliation of the Pope, always hoping that Pius VII would recede.

The decree of May 17, 1809, permitted the Pope to reside in Rome and granted him an annual income of 2,000,000 francs ($400,000). It was on this same decree that the Government of Victor Emmanuel II, in 1870, based the famous "law of guarantees," which Pius IX, indignantly rejected. Napoleon audaciously claimed that he was only revoking the grant Charlemagne, his "illustrious predecessor" had made to the "Bishop of Rome." The Imperial decree issued from the Palace of Schoenbrunn on May 17, 1809, was promulgated in Rome on Saturday, June 10, the Octave of Corpus Christi and the eve of the feast of the Pope's Patron Saint, Pius VII. immediately denounced a bull of excommunication against Napoleon and his co-partners in the invasion of Rome. On the following 9th of July the Pope was seized at night and carried across the Alps as a sort of outlaw that it would be well to be rid of. No regard was had for his advanced age and his exalted dignity. Napoleon believed that he could safely act in this way. At Bayonne he had overturned the dynasty of the Spanish Bourbons, and he had just installed himself in the palace of Maria Theresa at Schoenbrunn. He was convinced that he had nothing to fear from the indignation of Catholic countries and that he incurred no risk in stimulating the spirit of resistance.

The brutal violence done to the sacred person of the Pope is an indelible stain upon Napoleon's reputation. At Saint Helena the Emperor tried to cast the odium upon the actual perpetrator of it, General Ruder. History, however, has not altered its verdict. Rader would not have dared to take upon himself the responsibility of an act which was destined to be productive of such terrible consequences, so far as the memory of his master is concerned. The decree signed at Schoenbrunn a hundred years ago and the forcible removal of Pius VII, which was the result of it, were the outcome of a species of mental aberration traceable to the intoxication produced by the possession of unlimited power. This is the only extenuating circumstance which can be adduced in mitigation of the decree of May 17 and of the shocking outrage perpetrated on the night of July 6-8, 1809.

Providence issued its decree which has been recorded by history, Pius VII. re-entered Rome on May 24, 1814. Napoleon was sent into exile on a far-off island in the ocean, where, guarded by Sir Hudson Lowe, he ended his life in captivity.

to abstruse passages, often end by disbelieving wholly in the Word of God. To argue with Rationalists, or to attempt to "explain" to those who have rejected all notion of the supernatural from their minds, is to follow a false route. Says the Franciscan: "Saint Paul divided all humankind into two classes, namely, those who are animal and those who are spiritual, the animal being those who have received the gift of grace, but who have rejected it. There is no point of contact, he told the Corinthian, between the animal and the things of God. To him they appear as a kind of blindness or ignorance, and since he does not understand them, they become, accordingly, the object of his scorn. For Faith is an especial gift of God. It is a supernatural intelligence given to some in order that they may accept the truths taught by the Church. * * * The Rationalists make the mistake of thinking that knowing and believing are the same thing. For example, they know that the Church teaches the doctrine of the Trinity, and suppose that the application on their scientific rules to the understanding of that mystery ought to show the truth of it as plain as daylight. If their reasonings fail to bring forth such light, then, according to them, the doctrine must fall."

Holy Writ may be considered as one of the provinces of the Kingdom of God here on earth, and it is certainly not the easiest to travel over. It is, nevertheless, more likely that those who are accustomed to travel daily over its territories will the better succeed in discovering its mysterious paths, than that those who are professedly ignorant of its intricacies will prove of service as guides.

It is unfortunate that this spirit of criticism is not confined to those who are not in communion with the Church.

There are some within the fold itself who pursue with undue avidity their investigations into the readings of Holy Writ with the object of finding bow far the Rationalists have grounds for their skepticism. Says the Franciscan: "As far as imbibing the divine spirit of Holy Writ is concerned, such persons are much in the same position as an infidel who would go to communion. The infidel may have physical contact with the bread, but he does not receive the sacrament. With the Rationalist, as with the skeptical investigator, the fruit of their study of faith is denied both. What, then, is one to do? One cannot afford to ignore wholly what is going on in the opposite camp. I reply: piety and pious practices will best fit us for that condition of mind in which we should approach the study of Holy Writ. Copy the Saints, and you will have rendered to the Church, to the faithful and also to the Rationalist all the services you owe them. The Saints did not seek to discuss or dissect the Bible; they approached its study only when they could do so in the spirit of faith from which they derived the intelligence that permitted them to understand it. It is because of the dearth of the spirit of piety or inclination to piety that the Scriptures are either not read, at all, or are woefully misread in our age. And, indeed, the Christian people may be said to be perishing of inanition just because they are not sufficiently nourished with the truths of the Gospel."

Even as Pius X requires of all good Catholics that they shall frequently go to communion, so he enjoins upon the peoples of the Catholic faith the cultivation of a love for the reading of the Bible. Saint Augustine drew very little distinction between going to communion and taking in the word of the Gospel from Holy Writ. The performance of the two duties, says the Franciscan, goes to make up the proper kind of Catholic.—N. Y. Freeman's Journal.

Pius X is about to establish in Rome an International Institute of Higher Biblical Studies. The importance of this Institute can scarcely be overestimated. In recent years the Higher Criticism has been playing havoc with the Bible. Moreover, the theories of Rationalists are often buttressed with the most profound scholarship. Hence a Catholic Institute that shall "be a university for all branches of erudition and investigation connected with the Sacred Scriptures is a desideratum." The Editor of Rome says that "the scope of the new Institute will be two-fold: first, to promote, develop and coordinate the stores of Scriptural knowledge inherited from past ages and acquired in our own times; and, secondly, to serve as a training ground for the professors of Scriptural studies throughout the Catholic world."

The School Book Question.

On our fourth page we publish a comparative statement of prices paid for school books in Ontario and New Brunswick, under Liberal and Conservative Governments. As we have already pointed out, the Liberal Governments in Ontario and New Brunswick, for years played into the hands of the monopolists in the matter of school-books; so that parents were paying two prices, and in some cases more than two prices for the books required for their children attending school. In Ontario the Liberals appointed a commission which made a pretence of investigating the hardship under which the people were laboring; but nothing resulted. When the Whitney Government assumed power, and started to remedy the evil, they looked for the records of the commission to see what had been done; but they could find no records, they had been destroyed. The Liberals had been simply humbugging the people; they did not want to remedy the evil, they were in league with the ring that was robbing the people. The same condition of affairs obtained in New Brunswick. The Liberals were in close alliance with the monopolists and assisted in perpetuating the wrong and in robbing the people. It took the Whitney Government but a very short time to remedy this crying evil and obtain relief for the people. The tabulated statement printed in this issue, on our fourth page, shows what that Government has done for the parents of Ontario. The Hazen Government in New Brunswick were equally alert in grappling with this monopoly and removing a huge incubus from the shoulders of the school children of that Province. Referring to the action of the Whitney Government in this connection the Ottawa Citizen has this to say:
Again the Whitney government has made good, even beyond the promises which its Liberal critics had formerly laughed to scorn. It had promised to break up the school book ring which had existed for many years under a Liberal government and to supply better and far cheaper text books for the school children. A contract has now been entered into with the Eaton company to supply reading books for the public schools at a net cost of 39 cents for the four readers, which prior to 1905 cost the parents of Ontario children $1.15. What this means to the people of Ontario may be concisely summed up in the statement that the saving to the purchasers of these school books will be $125,000 per year, or at a conservative estimate not taking into account the increase in population, $1,250,000 during the ten years that the contract will be in force.
The school book graft has been one of the meanest in connection with any government, and it was not confined to the Liberal government of Ontario. The fact that a responsible firm has undertaken to supply these readers for ten years at less than one-third of the price charged by the school book ring, speaks for itself. Not only is the price reduced nearly 70 per cent but the readers which will now be issued are new and brought up to date; they are printed on superior paper with modern illustrations, durably bound and of much higher literary standard than the old books. It may be incidentally mentioned that in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta the school children are being charged $1.22 for the four readers of the old form, whereas the new readers will be furnished to the children of Ontario at 39 cents.

The contract which was in force under the Ross government did not expire until December 1906, and the Whitney government thereupon made a short contract for a year and a half at 49 cents for the set, while the preparation of the new set of reading books was at once begun. At that time Sir James Whitney pledged himself that if the new books were not as cheap as those secured under the short term contract the government would print the books themselves. At that time the Liberal press ridiculed this promise, and declared that the price of 49 cents had only been possible because it was a job lot of old books. In this connection Mr. J. A. Cooper of Toronto who was a member of the text book commission, appointed by the government to inquire into the text book question, contributed an article to the press in which he predicted that the price of the new text books would go back "to the old figure, if not higher." This was seized upon by the opposition press which jeered at what they called the government's "fake reduction." Now the government has been more than amply justified. The net price of these readers is 10 cents lower than the short term contract which embodied the alleged fake reduction.
"The parents of Ontario irrespective of politics, will appreciate this widespread advantage which will mean to every family having children going to school a large annual saving in the cost of school books. Not the least interesting phase of it is that the contract has been awarded to a prominent Liberal. It is hoped that the Whitney government will continue its good work by applying the same business principles to the other lines of text books in our public schools. Many of them besides being very dear, are out of date, poorly bound and printed."
While the Whitney Government in Ontario, and the Hazen Government in New Brunswick have taken hold of this matter in practical business way, what have the Government of Prince Edward Island been doing? They are doing what the Liberal Government in Ontario did; they have appointed a commission; they are sustaining the monopolists; they are in with the ring. Three years ago, when Mr. Mathieson brought up this matter in the Legislature, the Liberals were still in power in New Brunswick, and for a year after, in March 1908 the Conservatives came into power in that Province, and in a few months thereafter the people had the prices of their school books reduced by forty per cent. This relief, the parents of New Brunswick have been enjoying for over a year; but the Government of Prince Edward Island have not got beyond the commission stage; the parents are still paying two prices for school books for their children. The Conservative Governments of Ontario and New Brunswick have taken up this question in a practical manner; they have done business in a business way. While these Governments have acted, our Government have talked, have delayed, have played into the hands of the monopolists; have appointed a commission; but the people are still paying the two prices. When the Leader of the Opposition, and his supporters in the Legislature, referred last session to what Premier Whitney had done in this matter, Mr. Hazzard and his friends jeered at the statement and endeavored to make believe the reductions introduced in Ontario were bogus. But now, Premier Hazzard goes about the first district of Queen's telling the people what a splendid bargain Whitney has made for the people of Ontario and that he (Mr. Hazzard) has the assurance of the Premier of Ontario that we can have the books used there, for our schools at these reduced prices. A good bargain Sir James Whitney surely has made; but let no one place any dependence in Premier Hazzard's statements about securing such advantages for our people. Such a proceeding is quite contrary to the traditions of the Liberal party and the Liberal Government of this Province. They have broken all the promises they ever made to the people of this Province, and should not now be trusted. Let the people of the first district of Queen's bear these facts in mind when Premier Hazzard comes before them and makes promises of any kind.

This is nomination day for the first district of Queen's.
The argument has been all on the side of the Opposition speakers throughout the campaign in the first district.
That venerable chestnut, the $200,000 has again been trotted out for duty in the campaign in the first district. What a pity our Liberal friends could not get it set to music, so they could sing it!
The election campaign is in full swing in the first district of Queen's. Seven largely attended and warmly fought public meetings have already been held, and more are to come. Great enthusiasm reigns in the Conservative ranks, and the prospects of redeeming the seat are of the very brightest.
The Liberal candidate, Premier Hazzard and other Government speakers, at the public meeting in the first district have nothing new to tell the electors. They rehash the thread-bare story of political happenings of a quarter of a century ago. They forget to tell their audiences that the Liberal Government clamored into power on the cry that revenue and expenditure were therefore to meet; that the era of deficits was to come to an end and that the day of taxation was far off. They forget all this, and they forget to inform the people that everyone of these promises and pledges has been flagrantly, shamefully and scandalously violated. But the people remember these facts.
In their campaign in the first district. Mr. Hazzard, Mr. Crosby and their friends take good care to conceal from the electors that in 1891 only $128,000 of a Public debt existed, or $171,000 debt and liabilities, according to the report of their own commissioners; that $188,000 worth of debentures were issued by them to meet these liabilities, and that from that time forward revenue and expenditures were to meet, and we were to have a clean sheet. They do not tell the people this promise has been kept by increasing the debt and liabilities to over $1,000,000; that the annual interest charge has increased from $2,600 to over $38,000; that deficits have ranged from $12,000 to $120,000 a year, or an aggregate of over $900,000; that while this debt, these deficits and this interest burden were rolling up, the people were bled in taxation to the tune of another $900,000. These are pertinent facts; these are living issues in which the electors are much more interested than in the dead issues of a quarter of a century ago.
Throughout the campaign in the first district, Mr. Myers, the Conservative candidate, Mr. Mathieson, Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Alex. Martin and other Conservative speakers have been well received by the people and attentively listened to. They have told a straight story, bristling with facts and have invariably driven the Government speakers into a corner. In fact they have not left them a leg to stand on

The Government's ruinous financial administration; their failure to keep faith with the people on public matters of the most vital importance to this Province; their failure to press our claims in a vigorous manner against the Federal authorities and their playing into the hands of the school-book ring, rather than relieve the people of an obnoxious burden of prices have been plainly and vigorously presented at the meetings. These and numerous other short-comings of the Government have been presented in an unanswerable manner; and the Government speakers had to grin and bear the charges brought against them. They had no answer. Surely the electors of the first district are sitting up and taking notice.
Local Transient Bills
Much suffering and loss has been reported along the line of the Transient through the failure of final sub-contractors to pay their bills. In some cases it is said that their contract prices were so low that they could not pay their way. These low contracts have no relation to the prices paid by the Government. Take for example, the cases mentioned at the Stanley meeting. First there was the G. T. P. Construction Co. contract. This company let a sub contract to a Toronto firm. The Toronto concern sub-let to several contractors of the third degree. Under these came a fourth series of sub-contractors. These latter are said to be receiving in some cases about half what the Government pays. Even then they might pull through with a slight margin if they were not crowded and pressed by creditors before they got their own pay. But a number have abandoned their job to the great advantage of the contractor over them, and to heavy loss of the merchants, farmers and others from whom they have obtained supplies. The original contractors and the Government refuse to be responsible to the local creditors, many of whom are great sufferers. —St. John Standard.
Thrilling Fall.
Varying only a fraction of a degree from the record of heat in Montreal during several days, the torrid wave continues unabated, carrying much discomfort in its train to those who are exposed. A remarkable case of sunstroke was reported on the 24th, with a corresponding remarkable escape from death. Joseph Dureuil, Bell Telephone lineman, was working at the top of one of the highest poles, when he was overcome with excessive heat. Before a companion could reach him, he fell. A short distance below another line man caught him and broke the fall, but he could not hold him and Dureuil went on down until he struck some wires, which broke his fall again. Down further he fell until, reaching the ground another workman caught his head and prevented it from striking the earth and otherwise eased the contact. He was badly shaken up and had to be taken to the hospital.
Lost A Leg.
At Chipman N.B. the other day in Pharr and Holly's new saw mill George Crossman, son of David Crossman of Chipman, had his left leg taken off just below the knee by coming in contact with a large rotary saw. Crossman went to work this morning in another man's place and was engaged on the rotary. Crossman, after a plank had gone through and was about to return, he then being opposite the saw, removed his hand from the lever to pass to William Morrison, a fellow workman, a chew of tobacco. While, doing so the carriage was reversed, causing him to lose his balance. It swung him around with his back to the saw. His left leg was thrown over the saw and was practically severed just below the knee. He was hurried to Dr. Hay's hospital but both Dr. Hay and Dr. Sutherland were away. Dr. Nugent was sent for at once. In the mean time Dr. Hay was overhauled near Coal Creek. Dr. Hay and Dr. Nugent dressed the wound. This is the second time inside of a year that Crossman has suffered from accidents in Pharr and Holly's mill. Last fall he lost two fingers in that establishment.

Insufficient washing of lettuce purchased from a Chinese gardener, has been responsible for much Paris green poisoning that has greatly puzzled doctors and the police in Victoria, B. C. It was feared at one time that a monomaniacal poisoner was operating in the residential districts. Happily the small quantity adhering to the leaves was insufficient to cause death, although perhaps a score of victims have sought medical aid.
London advices state that the resignations of two members of the Asquith Government have been accepted. The members resigning are: Lord Fitzmaurice, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster and Thomas B. Buchanan, Parliamentary Secretary to the Indian office. Their places are filled respectively by Herbert Louis Samuel, under Secretary for Home Affairs and Alexander William Charles Oliphant Murray.
The ominous case of the resignations is ill health; but it is alleged they were due partly to the disapproval of the budget.
The twenty-year old bride of J. Loughton and her brother William Ward, were drowned in the Kamistiquia River about 5 miles above Katabeka Falls on Saturday. Loughton, his wife, and brother-in-law, went out canoeing. Not only in the river at this point very deep but the current is swift and while Ward was changing his paddle from one hand to the other the current swung the little craft around and it capsized. Loughton supported his wife until she became unconscious and the eddies swept the woman from his arms. He was rescued by the men just as he was going down for the last time.
Schooner Stranded.
Libby Island, the graveyard of the eastern Maine coast probably became the last resting place on the 24th of the three-masted British schooner Phoenix, bound from Windsor, N. S., for New York with a cargo of 400,000 feet of lumber. The schooner was wrecked on the outside of the island, in an exposed position, about noon. Captain Bentley mistook the position of the Libby Island wharves, which he thought sounded further away than it really was, and was among the breakers before he realized his position. Captain Bentley, his son and daughter, and the crew of four, reached the island safely in their boat and were given shelter over night. There was no means of communication with the shore except by boat, the island being ten miles out to sea. A fisherman who brought the first information tonight said the schooner probably would be a total loss, but that part of the cargo might be saved. The Phoenix was built 28 years ago at Ferrisboro, N. S.
A Very Strange Phenomenon.
Great stretches of road are disappearing from the highway six miles from the town of Antigonish and people are greatly alarmed. The first case in occurred two weeks ago, when a section fifty feet long by twenty wide disappeared carrying telephone posts far out of sight. No sooner had this opening been filled with brick and stone than another cave-in took place, when a strip of road 100 feet long disappeared. The hole made on this occasion was forty feet deep and thirty feet wide. The cavity is now filled with water and is a great sink. A road commissioner went to the scene from Halifax, and while he was investigating another portion of the road fifteen feet long by ten in width disappeared, and next day still another 200 feet from the first cave-in sank from view. The international railway track is also affected, rails having settled over a foot in two places. The road commissioner says subterranean waters are discharging the earth far beneath the road and that the district will eventually become a large lake. It has been decided to build 200 feet of new highway to the rear of what people consider a death-trap and which is very dangerous.

Canadian Capital Abroad.

It is a promising feature in connection with government and municipal loan issues during the present year, that an increasing percentage has been taken up by Canadian investors. This is probably due to the experience of our investors during the panic of 1907. It is a matter difficult to explain that, in a country like this with such admirable opportunities for the judicious investment of capital, so much Canadian money seeks investment not only in the United States, but in Mexico, the West Indies and South America. A recently published statement shows that Canadians are more or less interested in eleven industries and railways in Mexico, Brazil and the West Indies, having a total stock issue of nearly $63,000,000 and a bond issue of over $55,000,000. Surely distant fields look green to the Canadian capitalist. Recently the largest of these companies came into the hands of a gang of exploiters, who faked up the work on a supposedly expensive dam built for hydro-electric purposes, and the dam a few weeks ago was carried away with an enormous resulting loss to the company. In addition to Canadian investments in these more distant fields, a relatively very large amount of Canadian money seeks investment in the United States railways and industries, many of which passed their dividends during the money stringency, and they have not since resumed. On the other hand Canadian investments suffered comparatively little by the money stringency, and it is estimated that during the next month our investors will draw $10,000,000 of dividends, nine-tenths of which are paid by Canadian enterprises.—Ottawa Citizen.

What Conservative Governments are Doing

In the matter of securing advantages for the people in the purchase of school books and other school supplies. Sir James Whitney Premier of Ontario and Mr. Hazen Premier of New Brunswick have come to the rescue of the people and have broken the monopolies that were oppressing the parents of school children.

Synopsis of Reduction in Ontario School Book Prices

With Outline of What Will Be Done When Present Contracts and Copyrights Expire. If the cut in readers was applied to all school books...

REDUCTIONS TO COME

Then there are the others which are now ready for the axe. The list gives the books, exclusive of readers and copy-books, which each pupil will have to buy in order to get through the four forms in the public school.

Itching Skin

Distress by day and night—That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure.

The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

SOME OTHERS

But this is not quite all the official list authorized by the department. For the junior classes there is a book on Our Home and Its Surroundings authorized at 40 cents.

It is true that it is not absolutely necessary for every pupil to have every one of these books, but as they are all authorized by the department they form a legitimate basis of comparison.

Announcement has been made from Fredericton by the Provincial government that at the conclusion of the present school year on June 30th an additional number of school books will be added to the list of those sold through vendors and at the greatly reduced prices promised by Premier Hazen and his colleagues when in opposition.

What Premier Hazen is Doing in New Brunswick

During the past year the English readers, the geography, and scribblers have been vended and the system has proved a complete success and the people have been saved about 45 per cent, on the price that they pay for school books.

At the close of the present school year the grammar, arithmetic, geometry, history of Canada and England health readers (No. 1 and No. 2), copy books, drawing books and the French readers will be added to the list of books used in the common schools of the province.

The complete list of books which will be on the vended list with the old and new prices in tabulated form is given herewith:
