"BEAVER" FLOUR

Is both a Bread Flour and a Pastry Flour

The perfect flour is the one that combines the good qualities of Ontario and Western wheat. This is exactly what "Beaver" Flour does. It is a blend of best Ontario fall wheat with a little Western wheat to add strength. "Beaver" Flour is equally good for Bread and Pastry—it has the real home made flavor that western flours lack. Love a Conqueror

OR— WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER XXXVI.
"And to-night you will go straight to bed and try to sleep?"
"Are those my darling's orders?"
"They are my entreaties, Guy. I cannot bear that look of unrest and suffering on your face."
"It will not be there long, Shirley. Do you ever think of the sadness of your own, dear? It is the saddest, loveliest little face in all the world. And now—he drew her closer to his breast, and, as she stood, she could feel his heart throbbing against her shoulder—"I must say good-night my darling."
"Good-night, Guy. You have not given me your promise yet."
"What promise, sweet?" he said, his eyes lingering over the earnest face as if they could not tear themselves from it.
"That you will have a good night's rest."
"That I will do my best to obtain one?" he corrected, smiling. "Yes."
"And that you will try to forget all the trouble of the past, Guy, and to think only of the mercy which has been over us all through it all."
"Our darkness but the shadow of His wings," he quoted softly. "Ah, darling child, how often that line helped me through all this troubled time!"
His face was beautiful now with the sudden light which came into his deep gray eyes as they looked into hers, and Shirley's sweet pale lips parted into a little smile.
"I often forgot it," she whispered.
"But I know you never did, Guy. And now good-night."
She unclasped her hands suddenly and released him; but Guy held her firmly and tenderly.

"Are you sending me away thus?" she said with a smile. "Do you think I will submit to such treatment, my dear? Have you no other good-night for me, Shirley?"
She hesitated for a moment; then she lifted her hands again and clasped them about his neck, and drew the head down to hers with a sudden passionate tenderness. Their lips met in one long kiss; then she gently disengaged herself, and, without word, she passed out, leaving her long, with the memory of that kiss upon her lips as she sank down upon her knees by the table and hid her face upon her arms. And thus Lucie found her half an hour late when she came in gently to tell her that it was almost midnight, and they were waiting to go to bed. And she face Shirley raised when the gentle hand touched her chestnut hair shocked and pained Lucie more than had ever done in all that time of misery, and it haunted her often afterward.

CHAPTER XXXVII.
The promise Guy had given was hard to keep, for he felt anything but inclined to rest when he and Oswald left Mrs. Jackson's cottage and walked toward the hotel where they had met up. The streets of the old-fashioned town were perfectly quiet then, for all the crowds which had thronged them during the earlier part of the day had dispersed homeward.

Oswald glanced at Stuart more than once with an earnest pity and sympathy on his face.
"You found her changed, Stuart?" he asked, as they walked on.
"Terribly changed, poor child!"
"Ah, but she has been ill! She will soon look like herself again."
"Heaven grant it!" Guy said earnestly; but the dark shadow was not lifted from his face, and the yearning sorrow in his eyes only deepened and, when they entered the sitting-room together, the languor of his movements rather startled his friend.
"Do you feel ill, old fellow," he asked gently, "or are you only very tired?"

"Only very tired," Guy answered, forcing a smile—"so tired that I feel as if I would willingly lie down and sleep the rest of my life away if I could. But I do not feel at all sleepy; my brain is on fire, I think; it burns and throbs incessantly!"
"It is from want of rest and from anxiety," Oswald answered gently; but in his eyes there was a pity and fear he did not dare to put into words. "And you have had—perhaps it was impossible but that you should have had—a painful interview with Shirley. Do you know, these last days seem to me to have passed like a dream. I have been speaking and walking and writing in a kind of mechanical manner; but I have not realized yet, I think, that poor Glynn is gone. Stuart, who could have done that evil thing?"

"How do you know but that I am the guilty one?" Guy said, restlessly pacing up and down the room, pushing back his thick, dark hair from his brow, with a fevered gesture of pain as his troubled shining eyes met Oswald's. "How can you tell? I hardly know myself sometimes! It is all so strange and unreal! How was it that they acquitted me to-day, Fairholme? How was it? I don't know!"

"There was no proof against you, old fellow. Don't talk of it, Guy," Oswald answered gently and gravely. "How could they bring you in guilty of a crime that you never committed?"
"They acquitted me because there was not sufficient evidence against me," Guy answered, with a deepening of the pain and shadow in his arm chair by the fire, to sit there me guilty—I saw and felt that. In the eyes of hundreds there is no more guilty man in England than myself."
"All those who know you, Guy, have not doubted you for a moment. You have not forgotten the testimony your friends and brother officers bore for you to-day?"
"That was more esprit de corps than real belief in my innocence," Guy said earnestly and passionately. "They were concerned about the disgrace which would fall upon the regiment if I were convicted."
"You no longer belong to it."
"Ah, but I did belong to it!" Guy said quickly. "Fairholme I tell you my life is blighted and dishonored. Never more can I walk among my fellow men save with the brand of a cowardly murderer, one who deceived a defenceless man to take a lonely walk and murdered him in revenge for a wrong done years ago. Ah, if I had killed him then in my first passion, they would have excused it! But to wait—to feign friendship and—"

"Stuart, for Heaven's sake, cease! You are feverish and excited and overdone. In the morning," Oswald added earnestly, "you will see all this in a different and a truer light."
"Shall I?" Guy said wearily. "At no, old friend! My eyes are open now. That poor child saw it too. She understood that I— But I promised her to try to sleep," he added. "And you are tired, Oswald. I want to keep you up."
"You promised Shirley?" Captain Fairholme said gladly. "That is good news, Guy, because you will keep your word."
"If I can," Guy answered, smiling faintly. "What a trouble I have seen to you, Oswald—almost ever since we met! Good-night, dear fellow."
Their hands met in a long clasp expressive of earnest friendship and good-will and kindness; and Oswald left Guy at the door of his room to go to his own, almost too anxious to sleep, fatigued and worn out though he was.

And, in his own room, lighted by the fire and lamp, Guy Stuart threw himself into an arm chair and bowed his head upon his hands, and sat here while the hours passed and the light wore on, sleepless, restless, fevered; anon rising and pacing the room with quick steps, then throwing himself upon the bed to try to keep his promise to Shirley, then rising once more and going back to his bed, "not because they did not think tiring with wide, weary eyes into the dying glow, only to rise again and resume his perambulations."
He could not rest; his brain was throbbing and excited, his eyes were tearless and burning. An intense weariness was upon him; but it was weariness which repose could not lessen. He was weakened by anxiety and confinement; the strain had been too great even for such a powerful man as his. For nights and nights

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.
Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my household work with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."
At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system. 50 cents a box, 3 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

he had not slept in prison. It was not his own fate which had troubled him; it was Shirley who had filled his thoughts; that her sorrow and anguish should be made public, that the love which he had buried so deep in his heart should be brought to light again, had tortured him with an intensity of suffering which had worn out both body and mind.
And now, though the ordeal was over, the suffering remained. Although he had been pronounced guiltless, the shadow of evil had fallen upon him, foul suspicion rested upon him; he was blighted, dishonored, shamed! He felt to the depths of his soul how true Shirley's shrinking from him had been—that she was right when she told him that they ought not to meet again, that, if they married now, the evidence against him would be infinitely stronger, the suspicion of his guilt infinitely darker. And yet it was very hard, bitterly, unspeakably hard that they should suffer so intensely when they were innocent of all wrong!

The fire died out unheeded, the night hours wore on, but no rest came to the burning eyes and throbbing brain. Guy Stuart sat and thought and thought until thought became an unmeaning chaos, and his brain grew confused and bewildered.
Chilly as the night was, he felt stifled in the room; he went to the window, staggering slightly as he walked—for he was weaker than he was aware—and throwing it open, gazed out into the night air, looking with blind unseeing eyes at the silent, deserted street, where the gas-lamps were flickering somewhat in the wind which had risen during the last hour. Resting heavily against the window frame, Guy Stuart let the soft breeze blow upon his burning brow, and cool his aching eyes. He remained there some few minutes, the reaction after his intense excitement creeping over him slowly.
As he stood, a man passing by in the street glanced up at the window and went swiftly on his way; but Guy staggered back with a hoarse cry of terror and pain, pressing his hands to his eyes, as if to shut out some horrible vision, and shaking with a fear which was new and strange to him. When, a minute later, he glanced out again, there was no one in sight; and he went back to the fire with the wild, troubled look deepening in his eyes.
"Is my brain going?" he murmured, half aloud. "Am I going mad? It was of course a delusion of the brain; but—"

Removal of Stains!

The removal of stains from Dresses, Cloaks, Gowns and other garments of wear is a special feature of our Dry Cleansing process. The stained article should be sent to us as early as possible, along with the information as to the nature of the stain. On no account should attempts be made to remove stains at home, as in a large majority of cases serious injury results and frequently the garment is ruined.

Our St. John's Agents, Messrs. Nicholle, Inkpen & Chafe, Ltd., Water Street, will give you full particulars regarding our process of cleaning and dyeing.

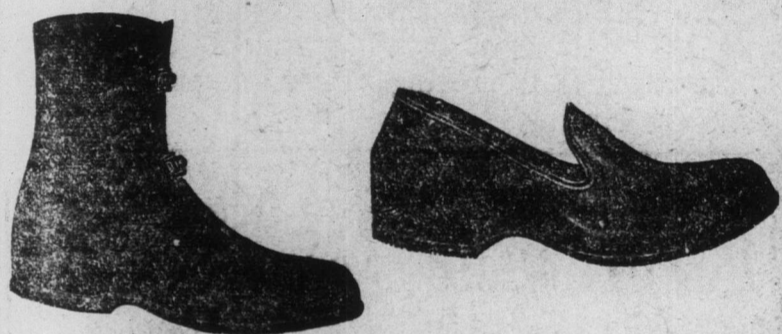

All orders executed with dispatch.

"Eventually."

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Eventually — Why not now?" is an advertising slogan to popularize what a thousands of dollars have spent. If those who read it would apply it to themselves, the money would have been well spent in the interests of humanity, whether the advertised product benefited or not.

There are many things which we hope to accomplish—eventually. In some instances the delay is due to a lack of money, or of time. Again, and perhaps more frequently, lack of determination or effort.

We plan to do these things eventually—why not now? It may be that you have a sneaking suspicion that you should visit the dentist. You know that nature has sounded its danger signal; you are one of those enlightened people who know that it is a good thing to visit the dentist once or twice a year, on general principle. You know you should go now. You know you will go—eventually. Why not now?

It may be, if you are a man, that you have a half developed idea, that if you should work it out and put it up to the chief, would help a lot. Or you are satisfied that you are not getting the most out of yourself and plan, for the future, some definite step, perhaps a course of study that will fit you for that occupation or profession for which you have natural talent. All this you promise yourself you will do eventually. Why not now?

It may be that you have a vice. Tobacco may be sapping your brain power, you feel that it would be better to swear off, you even promise yourself you will—eventually. Or you may be living beyond your income. You know it would be better to start saving. You realize the need, you have moments of foreboding. You promise yourself that you will cut down expenses. Eventually — but, why not now?

"Eventually" is the salvo we apply to our qualms of conscience. We feel vaguely uneasy over this or that. We argue with ourselves. "Eventually" is the word that comes to our aid. It means little or nothing, but it sounds large and imposing. We have a miraculous faith that the future will find us as strong in flesh as we are in spirit.

It is the old Spanish "mamana," which we all have in us, in greater or lesser degree. The captain of industry, forcing himself to greater and greater tasks, knows that he is reaching his limit, that to save himself he must take a long vacation. He promises himself he will — eventually. When eventually comes, with him, it is a longer, quieter vacation than he planned.

Eventually is too often the furthest outpost of to-morrow—and to-morrow is the day that never comes.

Fashions and Fads.

Even giraffe bows are being made of net.

Beaded handbags are always in good style.

Cotton broché crepe dresses have self-ruffles.

Scotch plaid will trim the new morning suits.

Straw hats for spring are being edged with fur.

Point-d'esprit makes some of the prettiest fichus.

Skunk is one of the most effective furs for evening.

Crass cloth and organza collars are particularly new.

The tub silk waists never go altogether out of style.

Cut steel is greatly in vogue for slipper and dress buckles.

The shapes of the new jabots and fichus are endlessly varied.

A lovely pale gray is one of the newest tints among gloves.

Parasols have borders of Dresden patterning, edged with black.

Silk buttons and trimmings will be seen on the new spring fashions.

Flowered cotton crepe is used even for young girls' nightgowns.

Now the fascinating flesh tint is seen even in marbour trimmings.

The loveliest new imported lace are outlined with gold and silver.

Some of the most extreme evening stockings are jet embroidered.

Some of the new dress silens are like the silk crepes with broché figures.

Now there is a new "furry" stitch in shadow embroidered flouncets.

White shadow lace and black net are used in neckwear for half mourning.

Marabou stoles and muffs seem to be as important as ever in milady's costume.

Black soutache, braided on black net, is one of the new ideas for half mourning.

Gray mocha gloves, fleece lined, have a white fur edge, which gives a novel look.

Big roses of satin and gold tissue are among the favoured giraffe flowers for evening.

Cherry-colored taffeta is used for girdles and revers on white cotton voile frocks.

A pretty sort of neck ruffling is plain net with a single tuck and hem-stitched edge.

The lovely embroidered cotton crepes are being made up with taffeta bindings.

One great velvet blossom at the waist is generally used with the filmy evening gowns.

The probabilities are that we shall see a good deal of soft ottoman silk in the spring.

Fitz Too Good for Hopes.

Old Ring Master Outclasses Present-day Dubs.

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 30.—Robert Fitzsimmons, former heavyweight champion of the world, displayed much of the old-time speed and ring generalship here last night in a six-round bout with "Knockout" Sweeney, of Cleveland. It was his first contest since he retired from the ring several years ago, and pugilistic experts who witnessed the battle declared he had "come back."

Fitzsimmons' blows were powerful, and while Sweeney remained in the fight for the limit, he was knocked down, and took the count repeatedly.

The publisher of the best Farmer's paper in the Maritime Provinces is writing to us stating:

"I would say that I do not know of a medicine that has stood the test of time like MINARD'S LINIMENT. It has been an untiring remedy in our household ever since I can remember, and has outlived dozens of would-be competitors and imitators."

Wolgast Beat Uholz.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Jan. 30.—Rudolph Uholz, former Boer, was knocked out last night by Ad Wolgast, the former lightweight champion, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout, after a game but hopeless fight. Uholz took the count of nine four times in the first round and once in the second, and was reeling helplessly around the ring when, after one minute and 35 seconds of fighting in the second round, his seconds tossed a towel into the ring.

Famous Streets.

THE CHAMP ELYSSES.

By GEORGE FITZEL.

Author of "At Good Old St. John's."

The Avenue de Champ Elysses is a favorite weapon with which to strike the visitor dumb with admiration. It is a street which has gotten beyond control and has grown into a park. It is possible to drift so far sideways, while walking along this celebrated thoroughfare, that one has to take a taxicab to get back into the central part of the street.

The Avenue de Champs begins in the west part of Paris at the Place d'Etoile, which is a convention of streets and avenues, twelve in number. For almost a mile the Champs proceeds eastward in an imposing and dignified manner, lined with palaces, ornamented with trees and beautified wherever possible with patches of gravel, for which the French have a passionate fondness. It forms the direct route to the Bois de Boulogne, the 2,300-acre park of Paris, in which the race courses are situated and the patient observer, who camps out on the Champs, will in time see all of Paris and a fair share of the rest of the world pass by.

At the end of this mile the avenue begins to swell like a corporation which has been attached to a hose. It soon becomes circular in shape and then attains a width of almost a quarter of a mile. Following the walka doggedly the traveler is finally shooed out into a huge paved square used at one time for the execution of superfluous royalty. Crossing this the pedestrian becomes involved in a tangle of gravel and flower beds, known as the Tuilleries, and finally finds himself caught between the two half-mile-long arms of the Louvre, with a four-storey stone wall in front.

At this point the stranger gives up the task of following the celebrated avenue and takes up the job of escaping from the Louvre. When he has done this he discovers that the beautiful street has sidestepped him a mile back and had slid peacefully through the center of town under an assumed name as the Rue de Rivoli.

The Avenue de Champs is a three-storied street, with an underground railroad beneath and aeroplane cars overhead. It has more trees, taxicabs, and harem skirts than any other street in the world and is so interesting that hundreds of Parisians prefer to loaf their lives away under its shade on a tiny income than to go to work. The skyline of the Champs was laid out years ago by Baron Haussmann with a ruler, and its only skyscraper is the Arc de Triumphe, 150 feet high and equipped with an elevator which is used by Parisians as an adventure.

Cadet Band at Carbonear Hold Meeting.

The C. C. C. Band, of Carbonear, held a meeting in their armoury Wednesday evening when final arrangements were made for their entertainment which will take place in St. Patrick's Hall, Carbonear, on the 17th inst. Mr. W. H. Kennedy, the late Lieut.-Col. and Bandmaster of the C. C. C., Harbour Grace, being present and was agreeably surprised at the rapid progress the band had made since his promises to be the hit of the season, consisting of band selections, choruses, quartettes and solos, with drill practice under command of Major Farley, concluding with a screaming farce entitled "The Irish Engagement" in which Mr. James O'Brien will take the leading roll.—Com.

Your Mother.

You've a friend the world has loved—
—has known for ages past—
—fond memories that shall last;
For she taught you how to speak, to walk, and how to pray,
The love that gave you life must lead to endless day.

There are memories of "mother" that go out from shore to shore;
She has been a happy theme for every poet's lore,
The freckle and the open have given
song for song
Which have made all hearts forever for all mothers long.

There are ties that earth has broken—
has severed long ago;
Yet fond memories of your mother
will eternal peace bestow,
No matter what your follies, your whims, or e'en your deeds,
Your mother was your dearest and the first to know your needs.

So this mother that all ages have bestowed their love upon
Must be your mother, too, and must reign from sun to sun.

God bless the name of mother!
God bless the patient care!
The love that's like no other—
"God bless a mother's prayer!"

FEBRUARY 6.

Days Past—36. To Come—323. Full Moon, 10.

SIR HENRY IRVING born 1838. The most prominent English actor of the close of the Victorian period. His record at the Lyceum Theatre covered a brilliant series of productions. "The Bells" was the first triumph, then followed "Charles I." and "Eugene Aram" and later a number of Shakespearean impersonations, in some of which notably "Shylock" and "Hamlet," Irving was really great.

DR. JOSEPH PRIESTLEY died 1804, aged 71. English scientist—the discoverer of oxygen and other gases and author of "A History of Electricity." He was also a great advocate of freedom and progress and having expressed approval of the French Revolution, a Birmingham mob set fire to his house, destroying his valuable library and scientific apparatus. Sometime afterwards he removed to America, where he died.

QUEEN ANNE born 1665. The second daughter of James II. and succeeded to the English throne on the death of William III. In 1702. With her death in 1714 the Stuart line of Sovereigns ended, the throne passing to the House of Hanover by the Act of Settlement.

FRIDAY, February 6, 1914.

A Radical Suggestion.

The Executive Committee of the Citizens' Committee have decided to lay before a meeting of citizens a radical suggestion in regard to the management of the municipality. Last night they decided to lay before citizens generally the suggestion that the present arrangements be suspended by the Legislature when the term of the present Mayor and Councillors expire in the summer and that the suspension last for a year.

It is suggested that the Municipal Elections be also suspended for twelve months. The Councillors suggest that ten or twelve citizens be appointed by the Governor in Council to take over the management of the city for one year, and that these appointees form an Interregnum city government. This is practically a Commission for one year. Outside the temporary management of civic affairs, the special object of the commission will be to investigate and reorganize municipal work and to prepare for submission to the Legislature in the session of 1915 a new charter for the city. The promoters of this movement believe it is essential to a successful reorganization of civic affairs to be daily in touch with the actual work of the city government. We understand also that some of the promoters consider that the commission should be composed mainly of gentlemen who are at present in the Council or who have had experience on that body, as either Mayor or Councillor. It is also proposed that the members shall receive absolutely no pay or emoluments of any kind.

We are not encouraged of the suggestion to do away with the Municipal Council even for twelve months, and consider that the onus of proof that such a change is desirable is on the promoters. But we are prepared to keep an open mind on the proposal and to suspend judgment until we have had an opportunity of considering the evidence which the promoters propose to furnish to back up their proposals.

AN ORCHESTRAL CLASS for Violin players is being formed, to be conducted by Miss Sybil Johnson. Full particulars as to fees, etc., may be obtained of the undersigned, to whom all names should be sent. ALFRED H. ALLEN, 29 Monkstown Road.—Feb 5, 21.

Sensational Case.

MAN CONVICTED OF ATROCIOUS ASSAULT ON HIS DAUGHTER.

Jacob Bright, of Victoria Village, Carbonara, arrived by the local train in charge of Constable Pardy, to serve a sentence of six months in the Penitentiary with hard labor. The offence for which he was convicted is one of the most serious heard of for some time, that of an atrocious and indecent assault on his daughter. The details of the case are altogether unfit for publication. The accused was tried before Judge Penney, and sentenced to six months' hard labor as before mentioned.

Shipwrecked Crew Arrives.

The shipwrecked crew of the brigantine Mayflower, which was wrecked in mid-ocean, as previously mentioned in the Telegram, arrived to-day by the Furness Liner Almerina. The crew numbered eight, including Capt. Halford, who refused to talk much of the voyage, as he had already given details to the English papers, and which stories appeared in the local press. The Mayflower was bound to Bahia in standard ballast for this port and was abandoned about seventy miles off Cape Race, on January 16th. The vessel met heavy weather, hurricanes and sales being continuous. She lost herudder and stern post and began to drift about helplessly. The vessel was storm tossed by the mountainous seas that went over her and the crew were caused much uneasiness and discomfort. At last she became so unmanageable that the captain decided to abandon the vessel. She was then in a sinking condition and the crew were in an awkward plight. The unad liner Lusitania, bound from New York to Liverpool, happened in sight and came up as near as she could to the Mayflower, put out a lifeboat and wing to the roughness of the seas. It was only with the greatest difficulty that the crew were taken off the sinking vessel. They were treated hospitably on board the Lusitania, which brought them to Liverpool. The passengers on board the Lusitania, donated the sum of $1,700 to be divided amongst the rescue party and those rescued. The shipwrecked crew joined the s.s. Almerina at Liverpool for St. John's. They are all well after their trying experience but are not anxious to have it repeated and are glad to be home again.

RETURNED FROM NEW YORK.—Engineer M. McGeehan, who was in New York superintending the work of putting the Stephano and Florizel in readiness for the icefields, returned to-day by the latter ship.

Rafuse Makes Long Passage.

The sch. J. N. Rafuse reached port yesterday afternoon with coals to Morey & Co. The vessel was 21 days out from New York, being obliged to put into Lahlave, through stress of weather, where she remained a fortnight. The run from there to this port was made in four days.

Patient for Asylum.

A man named George Roberts, of Lakeview Ave., but for some time past residing in Montreal, was taken to the Insane Asylum yesterday afternoon. The man has only recently arrived from Montreal, and the cause of his mental derangement is said to be due to some domestic trouble. The unfortunate man is 26 years old, married, and has two children.

The L. S. P. U. Night School.

Donation From Harvey & Co.
Editor The Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Permit me through the columns of your paper to publicly express on behalf of the Longshoremen's Protective Union their deep appreciation of a cheque for $50.00 from Harvey & Co., Ltd., through Honorable John Harvey, to be used in connection with the night school now being conducted by the Union.
For the information of the public I may say that the average nightly attendance of pupils is eighty, and the grades taught run from the first reader to the fifth and considerable interest and enthusiasm are manifested by the pupils. We have also an adult class, some of whom were unable to read or write but now are making rapid progress in this direction. Too much praise cannot be given the teachers who attend nightly and whose only compensation is the desire to impart the knowledge they acquired to their less fortunate brothers.

Yours truly,
JAMES McGRATH,
President L. S. P. U.
February 6th, 1914.

Personal.

Mr. W. G. Dalton, conductor with the R. N. Co., who was released from the hospital about a month ago, is still unable to work but expects to be around again soon. Mr. Dalton, it will be remembered, received serious injuries to his foot in a railway accident about six months ago, and after spending five months in the hospital returned to his home in Lewisport, where he is still compelled to rest by fore resuming work.

THREE ARRESTS.—Three arrests were made last night, all for inebriation; the offenders were up before court to-day.

Citizens Committee.

The Executive Committee of the Citizens' Committee have decided to call a meeting of Citizens on Thursday evening next. They will then submit a report, so far as their investigations allow, on Civic matters. They propose to suggest to the meeting that the Citizens shall petition the Legislature to pass an Act deferring for one year the Municipal Election, which should take place next June, and to ask the Governor in Council to select an appointive Committee of ten or twelve citizens who shall assume the management of the city for one year when the present Mayor and Council go out of office. That this Committee shall serve without pay or emoluments of any kind, and shall investigate and reorganize Municipal work, and shall prepare for submission to the Legislature in the session of 1915 a charter for the city by which it will be possible to bring the condition of the city in line with the requirements of the people.

Supreme Court.

(Present Full Bench.)
M. & E. Kennedy vs. Richard Byrne.—Set down for March 9th.
William Carroll vs. Patrick J. Shea.—This is an application on the part of the defendant for an order that the verdict of the jury be set aside and a verdict entered for the defendant, or that a new trial be ordered for the reasons that the verdict of the jury was contrary to the evidence and contrary to the weight of evidence, contrary to the weight of evidence. It was ordered that the judgment be set aside and judgment entered for the defendant.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—
Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.
He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.
I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a bar which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian E. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov8,11

Dr. Rendell Writes.

Dear Sir.—With regard to the Ford Runabout which you supplied to me early in 1913, I have to inform you that during the year I ran considerably over 4,000 miles over good roads, bad roads and no roads. I have no mechanical trouble, and my total bill for new parts and repairs amounted to 50c. for a new valve (31.50) and 30 cents for a front wheel cone. These facts I think speak loudly as to the value and usefulness of this excellent little car.

Yours truly,
H. RENDELL.

STOCKHOLM, To-day.
Thirty thousand patriotic Swedes marched before King Gustave and presented a petition to him for reinforcement of National Defences.

PROVIDENCE, To-day.
On his knees in the chancel of Grace Church, John Ogden, former Town Treasurer of North Providence, drew a revolver upon himself and shot himself in the head. He died almost instantly. About a year ago Ogden was accused of irregularities in office, but was acquitted by the courts.

CAPE TOWN, To-day.
After speaking four hours on Wednesday in Parliament, General Smuts, Minister of Defence, continued yesterday his justification of the Government's action in declaring martial law during the recent general strike, and in deporting strike leaders. He declared that the Labor leaders had planned serious military operations, had organized small commands of dynamites, had deliberately inflamed the spirit of the mob, incited it to crime, till the strike had developed into sheer anarchy. Every industry, the Minister continued, was to be brought to a standstill by strikers, but the declaration of war by the federation of trades was met by the proclamation of martial law and the mobilization of the citizens' defence forces by the Government.

The situation had been practically one of civil war, the Minister continued that a thousand miners were in possession of dynamite. A native outbreak was threatened and food supplies were scarce. The Government he said was therefore amply justified in proclaiming martial law which had proved effective, and the threatened great tragedy had passed away without bloodshed.

WASHINGTON, To-day.
President Wilson announced yesterday that he would endeavor to have repealed at the present session of Congress that provision of the Panama Canal Act which exempts American coastwise ships from payment of tolls. He made his position clear to callers in unequivocal terms. The President believed that the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty with Britain guarantees equality of treatment to all nations, including the United States in the matter of tolls and that the States is in honor bound to charge American vessels the same tolls if imposed upon those of foreign nations. The President impressed upon his callers that he would use every legitimate influence at his disposal to have the exemption clause eliminated from the Panama Canal Act. The President's views will be carried out in the House with little difficulty, according to representative Adamson the chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee who said the Congress undoubtedly would act quickly by "a straight repeal."

Capt. Saunders Visits Schools and Offers Scholarships.

Captain Saunders visited St. Patrick's Hall Schools during the week, and was cordially received by the Rev. Superior Bro. Ryan and Ex-Sup. Bro. Kennedy. He was shown through the different departments, and the several teachers in charge demonstrated to him their methods of teaching, with which Capt. Saunders was highly pleased. He then addressed the boys, congratulating them on the excellent opportunities afforded to them, by these zealous and devoted teachers, and promised to give the lads a series of illustrated lectures in the near future, which information was received with genuine delight by the boys. During his visit he offered a scholarship consisting of a mechanical course, the fortunate winner of which is Master Slattery, nephew of Mr. J. L. Slattery, of the Municipal Council.

Some Gifts of Carnegie.

Mr. Carnegie's gift in 1911 of $25,000,000 to the Carnegie Corporation which someone has facetiously remarked was a gift from Andrew Carnegie to Andy Carnegie, was among the biggest single donations in this age of great money gifts. John D. Rockefeller gave $32,000,000 at one time to his general education board on February 7th, 1907. The total of his gifts to that fund is said to be about $53,000,000.

Mr. Carnegie is credited with giving something like $52,000,000 in round figures for libraries, but the donations came from time to time as the needs presented themselves to the donor. The Carnegie Institute at Washington has received $25,000,000 from its founder, but the sum is the total of several gifts, including two of $10,000,000 each. Mr. Carnegie has scattered $20,000,000 or more among the smaller colleges of the country, but at various times. Altogether rough estimates of his gifts for the cause of education, peace, research and for hero funds and other philanthropic purposes made before the latest $25,000,000 gift totalled between $190,000,000 and $200,000,000. Mr. Rockefeller's general education fund has at its back a fund of $53,000,000. But this again is the total of a number of separate gifts, as is the $25,000,000 and over which the same donor has bestowed upon the University of Chicago.

Some of the principal Carnegie gifts are:

Libraries	$ 51,000,000
Carnegie Institute, Pittsburg	16,000,000
Carnegie Technical School, Pittsburgh	7,500,000
Festivals for College professors	21,500,000
Carnegie Institution Washington	22,000,000
Scotch Universities	10,000,000
United States Hero Fund	5,000,000
Dumfries Hero Fund	1,250,000
French Hero Fund	1,000,000
German Hero Fund	1,250,000
Danish Hero Fund	100,000
Steel Company employees	5,000,000
Dumfries endowments	6,250,000
Hague Peace Temple	1,750,000
Peace Fund	10,000,000
Allied engineers' societies	1,500,000
Bureau of American Republics	850,000
Gifts to United States small colleges	20,000,000
Miscellaneous gifts in United States	20,000,000
Miscellaneous gifts in Europe	2,500,000
Approximate total	$205,450,000

At the Crescent.

As a final bill of the Crescent's 8th week a clever bill will be given and those who will witness it can rest assured that they will enjoy it thoroughly. The feature picture is a strong drama, The Sheriff and His Man, with G. M. Anderson playing the leading role. Sincerity is a grand pastoral drama. An Hour of Terror shows the famous actress, Pearl White, in her cleverest act. When Lena struck New Mexico has sufficient fun to make the comedy worth while seeing. Mr. Dave Parks sings another beautiful illustrated ballad entitled Let Me See Your Rainbow Smile. This show is indeed a crackerjack and will no doubt win the appreciation of all lovers of motion pictures.

On to-morrow afternoon a special matinee for ladies and children.

"Syrup of Figs for Constipated Child"

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Bill Shakespeare.

In almost every modern home you'll see Bill Shakespeare's splendid tome. It stands by Bunyan Milton, Popp and other scrolls of his day or so. In every home old Bill's name and he ranks with the umbrella stand, the bearskin rug upon the floor. Remote from Poe and Richard Realf, Old Bill is standing on his shelf, and there he stands from year to year, in solitude, majestic drar. He's like the German eight-day clock which never more will go tick-tock; it stands upon the hallway floor, an ornament, and nothing more. No home's complete without Bill's book, yet no one, in the inglorious, e'er ponders o'er his rippling plays, or reads his vital, red blood lays. He's like the stuffed goose in the hall, the crocodile upon the wall; ne's there, with other master minds, because he'll match the window blinds. The father with his housewife darns, reads George McCutcheon's screaming yarns; the elder daughter, plunged in thought, is reading Rhoda Broughton's rot; the son is reading Rex. E. Beach, and now and then lets out a screech. The smaller kids, Jim, Willie, Ruth, are reading up Nick Carter, sleuth. Southeast of Poe and Richard Realf, Old Bill sits lonesome on his shelf.

Great Lubin Drama At The Nickel.

The Nickel yesterday presented a beautiful Lubin drama entitled "Until we three meet again," which was one of the finest stories ever told in the movies. It depicts the lives of three college chums who when leaving school decide to meet in ten years' time, and tells vividly of what happened and the circumstances under which they were brought together. Every scene is of the greatest interest. "The way of the Mountains" is a Western Drama which pleased everyone; "When Bobby For got" and "Everybody's Doing it," are full of fun and comedy. "The Warwick Bioscope Chronicle" was also good. Mr. Koch sang "The Sweetest Dream of all," to the delight of the audiences. To-day the program will be repeated.

We regret to say that Mrs. George T. Gordon is very ill at present, and her friends are very anxious about her. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gordon, arrived from Boston a few days ago and will remain some time with the sufferer.

"Lost, stolen or strayed, the Harbor Grace Agricultural Society. Last heard from at the annual exhibition of 1913. Any person keeping same in their possession after this date without reporting, will be placed in the Custom House." The above item was handed in to-day with the request that we pass it along to the Telegram.

The ice at the open-air rink is now in good condition for the carnival to-night. Some pretty costumes will be seen there, and I will endeavor to give your readers a little description of them in my next.

The K.E.B. are arranging for a Valentine Dance in the British Hall on the Friday night, Feb. 13. Their last Valentine Dance was a very successful affair, and quite a lot of amusement was gathered from the post office, which was arranged in the hall.

Another old member of the Conception Bay British Society passed away this morning, after a few weeks' illness, in the person of Mr. George Brown. Mr. Brown was 79 years of age, and was one of the originators of the C.B.B.S. He leaves a widow, who is at present in poor health. Mrs. Albert Heath and Mrs. Arthur Heath are daughters of the deceased. He leaves besides the above, four brothers—John in Lisbon Falls, Philip, at St. John's, and Moses and Frederick here. The funeral takes place on Friday, and the British Society in which the deceased always took a keen interest, will attend.

Five Minute Cure If Stomach Is Bad

When "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches stomach all indigestion, Gas and Sourness Disappears.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs. Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unflinching action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

St. Andrew's Society Elects Officers.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Society was held last night, and the following officers were elected for the coming year:—
President—J. Browning.
Vice-Pres.—R. C. Smith.
Sec.—Treas.—Malcolm Parsons.
General Committee—Hon. J. Anderson, Messrs. A. G. Gibb, J. J. McKay, A. K. Lumsden, J. M. Brown, H. Crawford, W. A. Munn, D. McFarlane and Ira Kennedy.
The first three were elected by acclamation, and sub-committees were appointed as follows:—
Reading and Musical—A. Wilson, V. Watson, Nichol.
Card Room—W. B. Wardlaw, R. Montgomerie, A. McDougall.
Sports—Dick, H. Ross, Burns, J. Saton, Lillie, Henderson.
Social—S. Harvey, J. Young, Hurlbell, Grant, Hanlin and A. Munn.
The reports submitted showed the society to be in a flourishing condition.

Pharmaceutical Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Newfoundland Pharmaceutical Society was held at the Board of Trade Rooms last night and was largely attended.
Mr. R. G. MacDonald, the newly-elected President, read an interesting paper on the advancement of the Society since its formation, and the efforts being put forward to raise the standard of Pharmacy in the Colony. The address was well received, and as he closed a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. MacDonald.
The Society is quite prosperous, and it is hoped that permanent rooms will be secured by which the members could meet frequently, and our port members during the stay in the city be brought in closer touch with their city associates.

MEMBERS DINED.—Several of the members of the Legislature were entertained by His Excellency at the Government House last night.

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Men Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.
Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why. Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief. I would never get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed. Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. I would fall to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me." Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE REINDEER

is an inhabitant of the Arctic Region, and it is, possibly the most useful of all the animals which dwell in this part of the world. Unlike the Reindeer, SUNLIGHT SOAP is to be found in all parts of the civilized world, and its great utility is vouched for by millions of contented housewives who would not be without it.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

enjoys a well-merited reputation, it is absolutely pure, and will not harm the most delicate fabric. A piece of Sunlight Soap used in your next wash will convince you of its excellence.

At the House

The Colonial Secretary tabled reports from the Commissioners on Lunacy, the Superintendent of the Penitentiary and the Superintendent of the Insane Asylum.

Petitions were presented by Mr. Jennings, from Farmer's Arm, for a post office and telephone connection, and by Mr. Targett from Chelsea for a road.

The vote from Committee on Supply for roads, bridges and ferries was reported and adopted.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on the Bill "An Act to amend Chap. 109 of the Consolidated Statutes Respecting Patents."

Mr. Kent proposed a certain amendment to the Act, pointing out that the law at present was a very imperfect and unsatisfactory one as it entailed great risk to patent holders, as a person who obtained a patent in this country was under obligation to bring it into operation within two years.

The Prime Minister endorsed the remarks of the leader of the Opposition, and stated that the amendment proposed by Mr. Kent was very desirable. The bill passed the committee and will be read a third time to-day.

The Bill, entitled the Aliens' Act passed without amendment.

The Bill respecting the Inspector of Food stuffs, then went into Committee.

The Prime Minister—The Bill should stimulate cleanliness among those dealing in foods in the city, and referred to the great work being done in other countries.

Mr. Kent considered the object of the Bill a commendable one and a good deal of common sense and system would be required to carry it out. It has been found in other countries that a certain amount of discretion and good judgment was necessary to accomplish any results. He referred to the great work being done by Dr. Brohm and Inspector O'Brien and suggested that if these capable officials were to be overburdened that they should be reimbursed commensurate with their work. He believed that a man of suitable training would be necessary to inspect the foods made up in factories.

Mr. Coaker—He endorsed what Mr. Kent had said, emphasized that much difficulty would be experienced in the carrying out of the Act, unless provision was made for an additional staff of inspectors, and contended that the sum of $20,000 should be voted for this purpose. He had reason to believe that molasses, pork and beef should be subject to examination more so than the commodities stated in the Bill. He knew that 20 per cent. of the beef and pork that he had imported here from the United States last year was unfit for consumption and had to be sent back. Besides he was aware that when they cannot sell fresh beef in the markets in New York, the decayed stuff is salted and packed to supply markets like ours. There were cases in which lime was an ingredient in molasses. The butter produced and supplied in this country was not of a uniform standard. He said some of the milk retailed in the city contained a percentage of water and not one per cent. of fat.

Mr. Higgins rose to concur with Mr. Coaker on various matters, but disagreed with what he said about milk. He considered the statement of watering milk a bald one, and an injustice to our farmers, and he never knew an instance in which milk did not contain the standard per centage of fat.

Mr. Dwyer—When farmers in St. John's have good milk they look for the best prices, and any farmer who has not the reputation of selling good milk won't do the business.

The Prime Minister—He mentioned the names of Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Cook, whom he considered two competent inspectors of milk and meat respectively. He thought that Mr. Coaker's statement in reference to the bad meat imported was a strong argument in favor of inspection. A great grievance, he said, and a difficult problem to grapple with, was the sale of liquors. The liquors sold in some places were very detrimental to health because of so many adulterations.

Mr. Bennett—He did not think the carrying out of the Bill would mean an expenditure of $20,000, as stated by Mr. Coaker; that their milk was good and pure. He did not give credence to the statement any concern in the United States packed bad beef for exportation, because of the strict public health rules in American cities.

Mr. Kent—From the general principle of the Act, no person could reasonably take exception. Primarily the object to be attained in the enforcement of the Act was to amend the prevailing wrongs, but to cope with the conditions, sufficient machinery was necessary. The present machinery was inadequate. The two officers who had been doing the work, accomplished a great deal, but they were always busily engaged, and to thrust further responsibilities on them would interfere with the good work they had done. Mr. Kent thought the matter of bad beef being imported into the Colony one of serious character. This was taking a great risk owing to the large amount of beef imported here, and immediate steps should be taken. The Government, he said, in order to get good results and bring about reforms would have to engage a competent and efficient staff of inspectors. He suggested that in a case where an inspector enters a store and finds what he considers impure food, he should be compelled to take samples and seal them as is provided in the Licensing Act. In regard to milk supply in St. John's, he was of the opinion that farmers would not adulterate their milk knowingly and intentionally.

Mr. Coaker—An Inspector of butter is absolutely necessary. He had been misinterpreted as to what he said about the milk supply. He did not say that farmers watered their milk, but that such was retailed in St. John's. He suggested that a place be appointed for farmers to get their milk examined and analyzed.

Mr. Stone—Salt beef was an article largely used by our people and should be included in the Act relating to the inspection of foods in St. John's. He contended that only experienced men should be engaged as inspectors and politics should not be a consideration in making appointments.

Mr. Moulton expressed himself in favor of the Bill. He said in his 37 years' experience he never found bad beef in direct shipments from Chicago. He said the members of the Opposition side seemed very suspicious and had termed the Government members rogues and robbers.

Mr. Coaker—It's not true. Mr. Moulton—You said it in the Advocate, and what paper was lower than the Advocate?

Mr. Halfyard—The Herald.

Mr. Coaker—I would defy any member to stand up here and say that we have been abusing them as rogues and robbers. He ventured to say that never in the history of the House was there such a body of men who acted as decently as this Opposition. I gave Mr. Moulton credit for having common sense. I always looked upon Mr. M. as a gentleman and do now, and I know that it is very little trouble he got out of the Government. The Advocate has done its duty and will not take back anything it has written.

Prime Minister—It had an effect in the north.

Mr. Coaker—It will have effect in more places than you'll expect, next time. We on the Opposition side of the House came here to perform a duty, and that we intend to do. He did not expect the Government members to criticize themselves and it was the duty of the Opposition to do it.

Mr. Moulton—He did not wish to make any insinuation, and meant by what he said that the Opposition members were very suspicious of those on the other side of the House.

Mr. Kent—The attitude of the Opposition has taken all through this session has been to criticize fairly and honestly and honorably the Government measures brought before the House. He had been here every day since the Legislature opened and he never heard any accusation made across this House by the Opposition members, and he had heard more accusations in former sessions in the course of one debate than probably he will hear for all this session. Mr. Moulton was evidently looking at the reverse side of the shield at the time he had a seat on this side of the House. The Opposition came to the House to criticize the actions, conduct and policy of the Government, and that they were doing fearlessly and honestly, and the Government could reasonably say that the Opposition had treated them gentlemanly and courteously. He believed that the sting of the late general election was still hovering around the hon. member for Burgeo. What was said outside in the campaign he is bringing here in the House.

Mr. Houlton—There is more said on that side.

Mr. Kent—There must be more on your side because you have the most members. Things that were said in the elections have not been said in this House, and he thought that the expression "rogues and robbers" thrown across the floors of the House by the member for Burgeo, was uncalled for. He had known Mr. Moulton for years and was sorry he used the words referred to.

Mr. Halfyard—He denied stoutly that the Advocate even mentioned such words as "rogues and robbers," and it seemed to him as if some members were all stomach and no head. He considered that the mental and intellectual well-being was more important than the physical well-being and that compulsory education was more important than discussing food stuffs, but the policy of the Government is to keep the electorate contented. He dwelt on the influence the denominational schools cry had in the election while he read from the Journals of the House an extract from a speech of Mr. Morrison, then Minister of Justice, who had advocated strongly the system of denominational schools. Mr. Halfyard said, "By your deeds you shall be judged." The Opposition had been termed suspicious whilst the Government members had given him to believe that they were political patriots and above suspicion.

Mr. Kennedy agreed with the Bill and thought it a move in the proper direction, but believed that it could be carried into effect without any additional expense.

Mr. Grimes pointed out that food stuffs inside shop windows are hot beds for flies and dust, and in this respect believed measures should be taken.

Mr. Lloyd suggested that in Section 1 of the Bill the word "fresh" before fish be stricken out; also the addition of sugar and jams to the Bill, as the latter were articles of food subject to adulteration.

Mr. Kent—All rules made under Section 9, besides being published in the papers, should be tabled in the House within a certain time, for discussion, and the Act should not be brought into force until a certain period and that no officer should be appointed by the Governor in Council unless he has a certificate of competency from the Medical Health Officer.

The Prime Minister—He believed that the suggestions laid down by Mr. Kent would be a decided improvement and thought that the rules and regulations should not be brought into operation for about six months, whereby sufficient time could be had to prepare for the changes enacted.

The Bill will go into Committee again to-day for amendments.

The Prime Minister gave notice of Resolutions in relation to the Fisheries.

STOP COUGHING.

It's quite as foolish as it is annoying to keep on coughing since

PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE is sold all over Newfoundland and is guaranteed to soothe and heal the irritated parts at once, and to rapidly destroy the very cause of this aggravating nuisance. Hundreds of persons are complaining every day about the cough or cold they have had for a long time, and are not able to get rid of it. Don't let a cough or cold hang on you day after day and run the risk of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to throw off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE at once. Price 25 cents a bottle, postage 6 cents extra.

M. C. L. Debate.

The question for debate at the M. C. L. Rooms last night proved a highly interesting one, as evidenced by the large attendance. The topic was, "Are the present tactics of the Militant Suffragettes" advancing their cause?" and the leaders for the affirmative were: Messrs. George Peters, Watson and Blair, whilst the negative was supported by Messrs. J. V. Wylie, Templeton and Ayre. The chair was occupied by Mr. Albert Snider.

The affirmative side contended that the agitation of these women had aroused much public attention, and that whereas all their tactics may not be advisable they were following in the with many reforms that are now taking place in national and parliamentary matters.

The negative side claimed that the steps taken by these women to assert their cause were illegal, and instead of evoking the sympathy of the public they were awakening their prejudices by their acts of violence. Such outrages as have been committed during the past five years were detrimental to their cause, as their actions bordered on sacrilege and anarchy, rather than law and order. Their tactics in general were not at all in keeping with the dignity of true womanhood.

After the leaders had finished, an interesting discussion took place, and on the vote being taken up the negative side won by 24 to 19.

Amongst the visitors last night were the Rev. Mr. Uphill, Rector of St. Mary's, and Mr. W. F. Frelegan, a respected citizen and worthy member of the Star of the Sea, both of whom spoke, and received a cordial welcome.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Since the young man had his hand taken off in a meat factory on Pleasant Street it has been reported around town that it was at my store it happened, which rumor I must say is not correct. The young man I have with me as sausage maker is an experienced hand and is not likely to meet with such accidents. Any person who have heard it was at my store can rest assured that such is not the case.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper.

Progressives, 5;

Orioles, 0.

A fast and interesting game of hockey took place last evening at the South End Rink between the Progressives (unbeaten leaders), and the Orioles of the Senior Amateur League, which resulted in a win for the Progressives, by the score of 5-0. The game was fast, but marred by the rough playing of some of the Orioles, who tackled the man more than the puck. The Progressives meet the Clippers next Tuesday night when a good game is expected.—Halifax Recorder, Jan. 30.

[While it has not been definitely decided, there is no doubt but that the Progressives will visit the city and play several games with a city team.]

If you have Ten Dollars to throw away Don't Read This.

Twice a year we receive surplus ends and cuttings of Serges and Cashmere Tweeds of the highest possible grade from a high-class English tailoring establishment. Our last shipment came to hand only this week, and we feel safe in saying that they are the best yet. Those who were fortunate enough to secure a length on former occasions will concede that "That's saying a great deal." MEN!—Can you afford to ignore a chance to save $10.00 to $15.00 on your Spring Coat? LADIES!—You may pay a wee bit more, perhaps; but oh! the difference in that costume. We have also secured a Bankrupt Stock of Laces and Embroideries and Odds and Ends. We therefore extend our Red Tag Sale to February 10th, so as to give you a final chance.

Public Utility Earnings.

A practical demonstration of the fact that the earnings of Public Utility or Public Service Corporations such as telegraph and telephone companies are not affected by depressions in trade, was evidenced in the great panic of 1907 and depression the following year. While, on all sides, the earnings of railways and industrial companies showed a marked falling off, the Nova Scotia Telephone Company, now owned by the Maritime Telephone Company, showed an increase of $16,000.

This is one of the reasons why we are recommending an investment in Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Company 6 p.c. Preferred Stock. It shows stability of earnings, the best kind of assurance that dividends will be paid regularly.

The par value of the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company Preferred Stock is $10. We offer a block in lots to suit purchasers. Prices and other particulars will be gladly furnished upon request.

A Canada Life Actual Result!

NET CASH RETURN MORE THAN TWICE THE COST
 W. J. Robertson, Welland, 12th June, 1913.
 Agent CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO.,
 Port Hope, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—When acknowledging receipt of the Company's cheque for my matured Endowment Policy No. 24937, I desire to avail myself of the opportunity to express my satisfaction with the outcome of my investment.

The policy was payable to me at age 60, with ten premiums of $45.00 each. The return under it is as follows:

Sum assured	$1,000.00
Dividends added	446.91
Total amount payable	$1,446.91
Deduct total premiums paid	450.00
	$ 996.91

That I should have insurance protection free for all these years and now have over twice the amount of my premiums returned to me in cash is a most satisfactory outcome and I heartily congratulate you on it.

Yours very truly, GEO. ROSS.
