They would miss him in many ways, in church and in sports, for Sergt. Newell was always prominent in all local activities. He had a high sense of duty and in giving his life for King and country it could be said "he had fought the good fight, he had finished his course, and heuceforth there was laid up for him a crown of life."

The Chaplain, Rev. S. P. Irwin, also made a touching address, in which he said that Sergt. Newell had brought said that Sergt. NOTE AND COMMENT

I wonder if William Howard Taft, who once said that the tie which binds Canada to the Mother Country is light and almost imperceptible, has read the story of Langemarck.

Germany claims the capture of 1000 Canadians. She also claimed that the captain of the Dresden had blown up his ship rather than allow her to fall into British hands.

'Fifteen years ago," says the Aylmer Reformer, "the first automobile was brought to Aylmer by David Marshall. To-day there are in a circle surrounding this town and in the town itself over 250."

The country weekly and the small town daily can establish the dignity and value of local life. The villages towns and smaller cities of Ontario have not rewarded the work of their own newspapers. Ontario has failed to encourage the editors of local weeklies and dailies to fill a place that can never be filled by city newspapers.—Toronto Telegram.

'There never was anything finer. There never can be anything finer,' said General French of our Canadian boys, but—they shed their blood freely! And all over Canada the mother hearts stand still as they wait for the blow to fall, wait for the bullet which laid their boy low and will finally rest in the mother's heart. Thank God for the boys who are to-day "Dead on the field" which, speeding over land and sea,

Crooked Men

There are some men so crooked that they can't lie straight in bed They will only stop lying and cheating when their stammering tongues and itching fingers 'lie silent in the grave." They can't make a sale without faking, and they can't take off a trial balance without teetering. Crookedness is a hard thing to shake when it gets a hold on a fellow. When he can't deceive others he takes satisfaction out of deceiving nimself. "A false balance is abomnation to the Lord," whether it be a pair of grocery scales or any other kind of truth-telling apparatus. It is an abomination to men also, and when a man once gets the reputation of a moral juggler, it is a hard thing to get people to believe he has honest moments. Tell the truth and shame the devil. It's better to lose a little money or a few friends than ose your character and reputation.

The living room should be comfortable and restful to mind, eye and body with solid, well made furniture, carefully placed and shaded lights, soft neutral tinted walls, low toned rugs and hangings, never so intricate nor conspicuous in design or color that they create restlessness by torturing the eye of the beholder. Easily accessible books, a capacious desk or writing table and a sofa designed for use and equipped with cushions for use and not for show. No cushion has an excuse for being save the one with an easily laundered cover against which the head can rest without the uneasy feeling that possibly you may be soiling it or with the still more disturbing feeling that it may be already in that condition.

The sofa pictured here was in a room which had been recently finished over. All the pieces were of walnut and were reupholstered in a tapestry in which the predominating shade was a brown a trifle lighter than the walnut frame work and was figured with brownish leaves like the soft brown often seen when oak trees have donned their autumnal coloring. The cushions were all of washable materials in the same

It is, moreover, a fact that a few shots from a great gun such as that used by the Germans against Dunkirk put it out of business by destroying its rifling. Lastly the anobile aeroplane is most effective in locating and destroying such giant engines of war before great havoc is wrought. For one reason or the other we hear no more of the cannon which last week did such long range work against Dunkirk.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

Duck farming is becoming more profitable year by year. People are learning that ducks are the hardiest of domestic fowls and are the easiest to feed. Matured ducks of the larger breeds are worth $1 to $1.25 each dressed. The feathers add a few cents

Ducklings grow fast and reach a nice roasting size at two months, it being quite common to get a four pound fowl at this age. They are a great delicacy then, and as they bring a higher rate per pound than when matured it is considered most profitable to market them at a weight of three to four pounds. Their feed up to this time should consist mainly of bran or shorts wet to a thin mash with skimmilk, adding a little cornmeal. Stale bread or crackers soaked with skimmilk will also do nicely. They need a clover patch to run in. Garden stuff is excellent. A little cracked corn is needed in the last two weeks. In raising ducks to an age of six or eight months considerable grain is required in addition to the mash and green

From time of hatching to five days old provide the following mixture: Cracker or bread crumbs and cornmeal, equal parts by measure; hard boiled eggs, 15 per cent of the total bulk of crackers and meal; sand, 5 per cent of the total of crackers and meal Mix with water or milk and feed four times a day.

From five to twenty days old the following mixture: Wheat bran or shorts, two parts by measure; cornmeal, one part; rolled oats, 50 per cent of this bulk; beef scraps, 5 per cent;

sand, 5 per cent; green food, 10 per cent. Mix with water to a dry, crumbly state and feed four times a day.
From twenty to forty-two days old the following mixture: Wheat bran or shorts, two parts by measure; cornmeal, one part; beef scraps, 5 per cent of this bulk: sand. 5 per cent: green food, 10 per cent. Mix with water to a dry, crumply state and feed four times a day.

From forty-two to seventy days old the following mixture: Cornmeal, two parts by measure; wheat bran or one part; beef scraps, 10 per cent of this bulk; coarse sand or grit, 5 per cent; green food, 10 per cent. Mix with water to a dry, crumbly state and feed four times a day.

Of all ducks for farm and practical purposes none stands higher in popular esteem than the White Peking. It is valuable for raising on a large scale and is the most easily raised of all. It is a very timid bird and must be handled quite carefully. It was imported from China in the early seventies and has steadily grown in popularity since its introduction into this country.

The White Aylesbury ducks are second to the popular Peking for market purposes and are bred in large numbers in Europe. In this country they are not so extensively bred as the Peking; neither have they been found so good as the latter.

The Colored Rouen duck is called deservedly popular throughout this country and is considered one of the most profitable varieties to keep. some raisers the Cayuga is considered to be as good as the Peking for early markets, and the claim is made that it can be grown as cheaply. The Indian Runner is best for egg production, but is not equal to the others for meat.

Ducks should have a snug shelter for nights. A swimming pond or creek is not needed, but they need a trough for splashing and washing. They consume a lot of clean water.

Ducks usually lay their eggs early in the morning, and they often prefer to drop those eggs in any mud puddle about the barn lot, or as they swim Children Cry for Fletcher's

Nests can be made for the layers along one of the walls by nailing little boards about fifteen inches apart to this wall. These form a sort stall, into which you place straw. Nail a low cleat along the nest fronts, close to the floor. This prevents the eggs rolling out and does not hinder the duck stepping into her laying stall.

Occasion For Dunning

An exchange says:—We presume that many people think the newspaper men are persistent duns as they keep reiterating, "look at the label on your paper," "move up the date," "you are back on your subscription," "pay what you owe," "pay up," "pay us." Now, let the tarmer or business man place himself in a similar business position and see if he would not do the same. Suppose a farmer raises a crop of one thousand bushels of wheat, and his neighbor should buy a bushel, and the price was two dollars or less, and the neighbor says, "I will pay you the sum in a few days." As the farmer does not want to be small in the matter of small things, he says, "all right." Another comes in the same way until the whole of one thousand bushels are gone to one thousand different persons. No one purchaser concerns himself about it, and, of course, that could not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away his crop of wheat in little dribs and that he is seriously embarrassed in his business because his debtors treat it as a small matter. But if all would pay him promptly, which they could do as well as not, it would enable him to carry on his business without difficulty. The above comparison is too true of the difficulties that a newspaper man has to contend with. a newspaper man has to contend with.

It Rubs Pain Away .- There is no liniment so efficacious in overcoming pain as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The hand that rubs it in rubs the pain away and on this account there is no preparation that stands so high in public esteem. There is no surer pain-killer procurable, as thousands can attest who have used it successfully in treating many ailments.

Leather Medals

Leather medals were originally conferred as a genuine mark of honor. When King John of France, captured at Agincourt, was forced to pay Edward III. of England a ransom of 3,000,000 gold coins to effect his release, he was left without precious metal for coins or decorations. So he found it necessary to pay the palace expenses with leather money. He also used leather medals when he wished to confer honor on some noblewished to confer honor on some nobleman. The custom quickly arose of presenting "leather medals" as a burlesque distinction.—The American Boy.

He has also purchased a farm in Plympton, on which he has erected dwelling house, barns etc., and is paying constant attention to the development of the place. WATFORD, FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1915

The following letter acknowledging clothes sent the Belgians speaks for it-

Stedum, 28th February, 1915. DEAR SIR GARDINER ROBINSON: Stedum, 28th February, 1915.

DEAR SIR GARDINER ROBINSON:

Our sincerest thanks for your letter of November 15th, 1914, that I found in the clc thes destined for the Belgian refuges. We all give the sincerest thanks for all you sent us It is wonderful how the American people have tried to help us in these difficult circumstances. Never must we forget that, and never may we Belgians forget what the Dutch nation has done. They received us with the old Dutch hospitably, and they took care of us in a splendid manner. We therefore send you a letter to satisfy you of the letter found. We fled to Antwerp on the 6th of October, 1914, from the German soldiers. It was shocking. It was abominable when we heard the shrapnel over our heads and we can never forget that. Luckily for us we reached Holland and there we are treated as well as we may wish. All that we wanted was given to us. Presently we are in Stedum, in the north of the province of Croingen in the north of Holland. We all hope that the Germans may be thrown out of our dear Belgium, and that the allied armies of Belgium, France and England may gain the victory. It will be an abominable sight in Belgium now. Many towns and villages are destroyed. Receive yet our sincerest thanks for the clothes and I hope that you let us hear from you again.

John H. Pickering, V.S., who has accepted the position of standard bearer of the Liberals of East Lambton in the coming general election for the Dominion Parliament, is well and favorably known throughout the greater part of Lambton. He is a son of Isaac Pickering, one of Lambton's pioneer farmers, and was born in Plympton 38 years ago last November. He received his early education in the Forest public and high schools, after which he farmed several years in Bosanquet, and later attended the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, where he graduated in 1902. In the same year he went to Alberta, where he spent ten years in the practice of his prospent ten years in the practice of his pro-fession. independence and democracy which have carried the people of our western provinces to a front place in matters of progressive legislation, and which places the welfare of the people before party expediency. In 1912 Mr. Pickering returned to Forest, and has since taken a lively interest in all matters pertaining to the progress of the town and surrounding country. He has also purchased a farm in Plympton, on which he has erected dwelling house, barns etc., and is paying constant attention to the development of the place. He is also deeply interested in live stock and, being a lover of horses, has invested deeply in several standard bred stallions, as well as drivers and farm horses. He has built for himself and family a neat and commodious home on Main street, Forest, and has spent considerable time and money in improving the locality. Mrs. Pickering is a daughter of H. McFatlane, of Forest, ex-reeve of Warwick. In Mr. Pickering the people of Lambton have a most desirable candidate for the representation of the Riding in the Parliament of Canada a man who will devote his best energies to the wellare of the Riding and country as a whole. He will be free from the dictations of corporation interests and the influence of organized wealth, which are doing so much to impede the agricultural progress of this agricultural country. Mr. Pickering declares that, if elected, his sole aim will be to serve the best interests of the country, regardless of party influences.

An Incident of Travel 8

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

Cosgrove stepped aboard a morning train at Philadelphia for New York. The weather was pleasant, and, after he had finished his newspaper, he leaned back in his chair and looked out through the window.

Why is it that a man is more impressible while traveling than during the ordinary routine of life's duties. pleasures, rests? Animal trainers say that if they wish to train a dog they try various dogs till they find one whose attention they can secure. Per-haps this is so with Cupid. The little god waits till he gets a man in con-tiguity with a woman when he has nothing else to think about. At any rate, many a man has met his fate on a train.

Clinton Cosgrove mentally gave thanks that the girl across the aisle was so absorbed in her newspaper. Cosgrove could not do much reading on the train. The shifting lights made his head ache

A crowd of noisy drummers, jubilant over their nearness to New York, were filling the cafe car with the smoke from their cheap cigars and had rendered the place unbearable. It was pleasant to sit back in his chair and study the girl opposite.
Cosgrove enjoyed mysteries, and here was one ready at hand to beguile the tedium of the trip to town.

To begin with, she was rather more than pretty and, moreover, possessed an air of distinction that added to her physical charm. She wore her fashionably tailored gown with the air of one used to good dressing, yet the hand bag that rested at her feet was worn and shabby-a relic of the days when paper imitations of alligator hide were "quick sellers" in the shoddy

She occupied her seat in the chair car as though she were used to such conveniences, yet the woman who had escorted her on board and taken an affectionate farewell, with the wish that the "job" would come quickly, suggested the day coach rather than the Pullman.

Almost before the train had pulled out she was engrossed in a New York paper, turning, after a brief glance at the headlines, to the "want" advertisements. She was so interested in these that she was not conscious of Cos-grove's steady if polite scrutiny.

For a man who spent the major porrion of his waking hours in an en-deavor to get the best of the Wall street gamble Cosgrove possessed an imagination of singular fertility and delicacy, and from the meager facts apparent he wove a romance about the

From between his half closed eyelids he observed the mass of golden hair that crowned the shapely head and shaded the high, white brow. He re-joiced in the purity of her profile and the soft coloring of her skin and noted with an artist's appreciation the lithe lines of her slender figure and the ner-

HOW TO GURE A CHRONIG GOUGH

Told in the Following Letter by a Jackson Man Who Knows from Experience. His Word Is Good.

His Word Is Good.

Jackson, Miss.—"I am a carpenter, and the grippe left me not only with a chronic cough, but I was run-down, worn out and weak. I took all kinds of cough syrups but they did me no good. I finally got so weak I was not able to do a day's work, and coughed so much I was alarmed about my condition. One evening I read about Vinol and decided to try it. Before I had taken a quarter of a bottle I felt better, and after taking two bottles my cough is entirely cured, all the bad symptoms have disappeared and I have gained new vimand energy."

—JOHN L. DENNIS, 711 Lynch Street, Jackson, Miss.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because the active medicinal principles of cod liver oil contained in Vinol rebuilds wasting tissues and supplies strength and vigor to the nerves fection of detail in her dress. From every point of view she was admirable. Then his thoughts reverted to the mother, with her coarse, red hands, her florid coloring, the rusty hat and the plaid shawl surmounting the skirt of some rough dark stuff that long since had faded from any definable tint. From the comparison the inference was obvious.

The girl must have inherited her refinement from her father. He could picture the very type of broken down fellow of good family—glad to wed a woman of coarser fiber who would put him on a pedestal of adoring love, content to slave over the tubs and scrubbing bucket that he might enjoy the leisure that was so clearly his due.

Those fellows seldom lived long. Usually they drank themselves to death. Then the love that had worked uncomplainingly for him had worked for the

She should be a lady as her father had been a gentleman. He could imagine the sacrifices and privations that had been endured that this tender girl might be reared to a life of gentility. Now her education was complete, and she was faring forth to New York in search of a job. Perhaps a few months in an office and then the stage would claim her for its own.

Show girls of her rare distinction were eagerly sought. Somehow he did not like to think of this flower girl engulfed in the vortex of Broadway.

And so, as the train sped through the Pennsylvania valleys, Cosgrove speculated on the outcome of the quest. He started guiltily as the porter gave the first call for lunch and the girl rose quietly to go forward to the diner. The meal meant the price of a day's work for the toil worn hands of the mother, yet it seemed perfectly right that she should go.

She had carelessly thrown the Daper on the seat, and with an assumption of indifference Cosgrove reached for it. With a confident smile he turned to the "want" pages.
It was just as he had supposed. The advertisements she had been clipping were from the "wants" for typewriters and stenographers. She was looking for a place in an office.

She had clipped more than a dozen of the tiny slips, and in his imagination he could see her that evening laborlously answering the advertisers. Probably she had already arranged to go to some working girls' home, and she would enter on her task with the confidence of a novice.

He could trace the gradual growth of disappointment at her lack of success, the dwindling of the scanty funds and finally the abandonment to despair. And then! Would she go back to the squalid home-or would she stay?

It all seemed so real to him that she returned before he remembered to put back the paper. She gracefully accepted his apology and tendered its longer use in well chosen words, but he blunderingly thanked her and retired in confusion to the diner for a lunch he did not care for.

He braved the smoke from the drummers' cigars until the train had r ed Newark. Then he went back to his seat with his mind made up.

But it was not until the train had crept into the shed at Jersey City and they were hurrying down the platform between the tracks that he at last found courage to speak.

"I beg your pardon," he stammered as he raised his hat. "I suppose you will think me meddlesome, but I could not help seeing that you were interested in the 'want' advertisements."

They had passed the gate, and she turned and faced him, polite inquiry in her expression.
"You see," he hurried on, "I don't suppose that you—that is, your friend -realizes that most of the places advertised are already filled. Now, if-er-your friend is looking for a stenographic position there is a vacancy in my office. If you will call—that is, if your friend will call—tomorrow after 3 perhaps it might be arranged."

"I thank you," she said gratefully as she took his card. "At 3, you said?" "At 3. The exchange does not close until then."

He raised his hat and turned away. He congratulated himself on that fic-tion of a friend. It had made it very easy for him to speak, and he saw that she understood.

They needed another typist in the of-Within twenty-four hours she would be installed in his employ. What might not the future bring forth?

Cosgrove had never known time to drag so slowly. The hands of the big clock behind the chairman's little balcony seemed to stand still as he moved impatiently about the floor of the exchange. Once when Sugden met him and had begun to complain of his typewriter Cosgrove had mentioned the paragon he was to have in his em-

He was ashamed of himself a minute later, but the damage had been done, and when the hands at last reached 3 and the gavel fell Sugden headed a delegation that would not be shaken off.
They burst into the outer office of Carman & Cosgrove and came to a dead balt. Cosgrove gasped, but went rorward to greet a replica of the old woman of the station.

She was younger, and the plaid shawl was replaced by a badly cut jacket, but she was her mother's daughter. Cosgrove would have known her in a thousand. He hustled her into his private of-ed him. It was his own card, and on the reverse was written, "Introducing Behrman, in whose behalf you were kind enough to speak last night." It was some satisfaction to find that she was a capable worker, with orthodox ideas of spelling instead of her own system of simplification, and with a brief arrangement as to terms Cos-grove rose to indicate that the inter-fice and turned over the card she hand-view was over. Mrs. Behrman looked up. "And it is really that I am engaged?" "Of course," was the impatient re

The flood gates of her tears were open, and she raised her voice in homely expressions of gratitude to him and to Helen Westervelt.

Cosgrove gasped as he heard the name. It was at least a mercy that he had employed his "fiction" of a friend. She had supposed that he understood, for she was the prime leader of all movements for working girls, and it was only natural that she should suppose that he knew her by sight. The woman sobbed out her story. She had run away from home to marry Behrman, who had deserted her as soon as he had obtained possession of her slender savings. Her mother would not forgive, and Miss Westervelt, interested in the case, had acted as ambassadress.

It was Mrs. Behrman's satchel she was carrying, and she had been largely accountable for the mistake he had made, and it was with Mrs. Behrman's forgiveness and promise to join her daughter that Helen was returning to town.

Cosgrove rang for one of the other stenographers to look after the weeping woman and went out into the office to face his tormentors. His appearance was greeted with a shout. "Is it that you are no judge of beauty, or is it some new exhibition of your perverted ideas of humor?" demanded Sugden. "I don't think the laugh-or the dinner-is on me," suggested Cosgrove. 'It seems to be up to you, Jimmie.' "I guess I'm it," agreed Sugden, not realizing that he himself had suggested to Cosgrove a way out. "I coaxed the boys over to investigate a romance, and we find it is a farce."

"Wait until I get my coat," commanded Cosgrove as he disappeared. He struggled into that garment as he muttered to himself: "It's a farce so far, but it's just the comedy relief to the romance if I can make it so. For it will be a romance, and only the first act has yet been played."

Nothing makes better wash cloths than white stockings cut open. The edges may be finished with pink or blue crochet.

For salad dressing three tablespoonfuls of oil, one and one-half of vinegar, quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, oneeighth of pepper. If you keep a canary see that his cage is spotlessly clean. It is better for his health as well as for the cheerful aspect of the room. Make a batter with six ounces of flour, one egg and three-quarters pint of milk or milk and water. Pour over the meat and bake for one hour. For serving cut in squares and pile on a hot dish. New dishes are not so apt to break if they are put into a pan of hot water and set on the stove. Let the water come slowly to a boil. Then take them off the stove and when the water is cool take them out. After this you can put them in as hot water as you wish and have no fear of cracking them. Delicious Boiled Custard.—Boil an ounce of rice in a pint of milk until the latter is quite creamy. Then strain out the rice, sweeten the milk to taste and add a well beaten egg. Pour into a jug and proceed as directed in the above recipe. This is both economical and nourishing, also suitable for deli-cate folk or children.

Why suffer from corns when they can be painlessly rooted out by using Holloway's Corn Cure.

Complete Kitchen Sent by Department of Agriculture to San Francisco Is Composite of Many Model Kitchens, Illustrating Convenient Arrangement.

A machine by which may be measured the amount of energy expended by housekeepers in doing various tasks in different ways is a feature in the department of agriculture's office of experiment stations. By this machine, which is called a "respiration calorimeter." many other experiments may be carried out, such as, for example, determining the relative values of various foods. The accompanying illustration shows a model of this machine, which the department has sent to San Francisco for its exhibit at the Panama-Pacific fair. Within is shown the chair where the subject of the experiment sits, and without are seen the various pieces of apparatus used in measuring and recording the energy expended by the body in doing various tasks and in collecting data in experiments regarding the relative value of foods, etc.

A complete kitchen with a real stove, refrigerator, sink, work table and other necessaries has also been sent. This kitchen is not a model in the sense that every housewife is to try to make hers as nearly like it as possible, but is rather a composite of many possible model kitchens and is designed to Mustrate various essential principles of convenient kitchen arrangement. The American housewife, for whose special benefit the model has been constructed, must judge from it what appliances and improvements in arrangement will best fit her peculiar household needs and those of her purse.

One general idea emphasized by the department's San Francisco kitchen is that the size of the ordinary kitchen should be small rather than large if the room is to be used only for the preparation of the meals. be as compact as possible to save traveling back and forth. The stove, table and sink should be as near together as is convenient, and the distances to supplies and the dining room or pantry should be short. On the floor of the model room the distances most commonly traveled in preparing and serving meals are indicated by straight

"The fewer ornaments the better in a housewife's workshop" is the text of another lesson of this little exhibit. Corners are rounded; surfaces are plain; there are as few moldings as possible to eatch dirt, which must be removed with so much effort. One feature is a table with legs that may be raised or lowered to suit the height of the worker.

The refrigerator as it stands would never in the world recommend itself to any thrifty housewife, for one part of it is lined with solid porcelain, another with enameled steel another with zinc painted with enamel paint and another with unpainted zinc. However, this refrigerator preaches a sermon of its own, for the advantages and disadvantages of each particular lining are explained in labels attached. Each woman who reads may look for what suits her own refrigerator, and housewives from the north or from the south, from a high, dry region or a low, moist region, may each decide which feature is most adaptable for her own use and pockethook.

A stew kettle is shown in several common materials in the model kitchen, but no particular make is recom-The aim is to show sauce pans or kettles made of steel, aluminium, enamelware, copper and earthenware, and descriptive labels explain how each material excels in its own way and its disadvantages.

On the walls of the model are shown samples of the more common floor coverings and wall finishes, with labels setting forth the relative merits and drawbacks of each. Linoleum and oilcouth have their strong points, and so have tinted, painted and undressed wall surfaces. Varnished wall paper is good for some purposes and unvarnished for others.

To Set Stencil Colors.

If you will press a hot flatiron over a pattern that has been stenciled you will find that it will make the color fast so that it cannot be washed out when the fabric is laundered. If you have mixed too much oil with the paints and smeared the fabric, place a blotter over the smear and press with a hot flatiron. The oil will have been absorbed when the blotter is lifted so that it is not noticeable.

DOMESTIC TOPICS.

Try having a supply of paper napkins and a roll of oiled paper on hand if there are school lunches to pack. The paper napkins save washing and the oiled paper keeps the lunch from dry-

To make mock whipped cream use one cupful of milk, sweetened, and a scant teaspoonful of flour. Cook to a cream. Beat the whites of two eggs stiff, pour the boiling cream over them and beat for a minute or two.

Hard boiled eggs should be plunged into cold water as soon as they are removed from the saucepan. This prevents a dark ring from appearing around the yolk

Anchovies may be used as a garnish for cold meats, and an-chovies on toast furnish a nice relish.

HOUSEHOLD GENERALIZATION How to Get the Most Out of Your Income. In the poor family the larger part of the income is spent for the house hold needs-food, service, laundry clothes and household supplies. These lie in the woman's province, and it is therefore fairer for the man to lay aside such a sum as shall cover rent, insurance, heat, light and his own personal needs and bank the rest of the income in a checking account for his Rent in this land of high rents is one-third o income, but that is too large an obligation to assume, and one-fifth or onesixth is the only safe reckoning.

Heat and light it is impossible to generalize about, as these expenses will depend entirely on how and where you live. If you live in an apartment you can afford a higher rent in proportion, as your heat will be provided. The heat and light bills are usually better left to the man to regulate and settle, as he is better fitted to cope with the furnace, and in the matter of using light men are naturally the more extravagant and careless. They should therefore have the payment of the bills and the understanding that that brings. Also in the matter of a mistake in the gas or electric meter a man usually feels that he is better able to attend to the subject than a

Food, however, comes entirely in the woman's province, and too large a sum often is allowed for it. This is often not the woman's fault, but is due to the man's insistence on too much and too expensive meat. The man who thinks that he must have a roast. steak or chops every day is an impossible man to cater to economically or efficiently. A variety of cuts, fish once or twice a week and an occa-sional meatless supper or high tea for a change will keep the meat bill down most amazingly, and the careful and efficient housewife should have no dif ficulty in keeping her household bills

Timely Tip.

When choosing a cream consider the nature of your skin. If it is at all dry do not use a cream with peroxide in it. If, however, the skin is inclined to be oily get one with as little grease in it

Nights of Agony come in the train of asthma. The victim cannot lie down and sleep is driven from his brain. What grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It banishes the frightful conditions, clears the passages, and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as soundly and restfully as a child. Insist on the genuine at your nearby druggist.

THE LUSITANIA SUNK BY GERMAN SUBMARINE over 1,100 Go to Their Death by Drown ing on the Irish Coast

London, May 8.—The Cunard liner Lusitania, which sailed out of New York last Saturday with more than 2000 souls aboard, lies at the bottom of the ocean off aboard, lies at the bottom of the ocean on the Irish coast. She was sunk by a Ger-man submarine, which sent two torpedoes crashing into her side, while the passen-gers, seemingly confident that the great, swift vessel could elude the German swift vessel could elude the German underwater craft, were having luncheon. The Lusitania was steaming along about ten miles off Old Head, Kinsale, on the last leg of her voyage to Liverpool when, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a submarine suddenly appeared, and, so far as all reports go, fired two torpedoes without warning at the steamer. One struck her near the bows and the other in the engine room. The powerful agents of destruction tore through the vessel's side, causing terrific explosions. Almost immediately great volumes of water poured through the openings, and the Lusitania listed.

Boats, which were already swung out

Boats, which were already swung out on the davits, were dropped overboard and were speedily filled with passengers, who had been appalled by the desperate attack. A wireless call for help was sent out, and immediately rescue boats of all-kinds were sent out, both from the neighboring points along the coast and

But within 15 minutes, as one survivor

But within 15 minutes, as one survivor estimated, and certainly within half an hour, the Lusitania had disappeared.

May 10th.—The statement issued by the Cunard Company said:

"Up to midnight Sunday Queenstown advise total number of survivors 764, including 462 passengers and 302 crew.

"One hundred and forty-four bodies recovered, of which 87 identified and 57 unidentified. Identified bodies comprise unidentified. Identified bodies comprise 5 passengers, 22 crew.

'Number of persons injured: 30 assengers and 17 crew."

There were somewhere around 1,906 persons on board and this would reduce the number of dead to about 1,134.

WOMEN'S WEAKNESS AND HEALTH PERILS

Anaemia Comes so Gratefully that the Victim Scarcely Realizes the Hold the Trouble Has Upon Her Until Almost ın a Decline

Woman's work is more wearing than man's because it lasts almost every waking hour. There is no eight or nine hour day for the breadwinner's wife, and often she toils under the greatest difficulty because her strength is below what it should be. The woman who is indoors all day is very often careless about what it should be. The woman who is indoors all day is very often careless about what she eats and does not keep her blood up to the mark. If becomes thin and poor, which makes her weak, headachy, 'tired, breathless and liable to pains in the back and sides, the scourge of her sex. New blood will do wonders for the woman who is tired out, who aches all over when she rises in the morning and feels unaccountably depressed. She can gain new blood now, and drive away the pains and aches and tiredness if she will take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have worked marvels for other women and will do the same for you if you are weak, tired depressed or suffering from the state. Woman's work is more wearing than worked marvels for other women and will do the same for you if you are weak, tired, depressed or suffering from backaches or sideaches. Mrs. Elmer C. Taylor, Calgary, Alta., says: "I was so run down with anaemia that I could scarcely walk without aid. I was not able to leave the house. I had no color, the street of the same that it is not able to leave the house. I had no color, the street is that the same that it is not able to leave the house. I had no color, the same that the same tha no appetite, and was constantly troubled with headaches, duzzy spells and a general disinclination to move about or do anything. My friends did not think I anything. My friends did not think I would get better and even the doctor was apprehensive. I was constantly taking medicine, but it did not do me a particle of good. One day a friend asked if I had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so almost as a forlors hope. Atter I had used a few boxes there was a decided change for the better, and people began to ask what I was taking the change was so noticeable. As I continued the Pills my color came back, I could eat my meals regularly, the cheadaches and dizzy spells ceased, I cained in weight and took a new interest is life, my cure being complete. I have told many sickly women and girls what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for mee and urged them to take them and shall continue to do so, knowing what a splendid medicine they are."

Every weak and ailing woman who
