TOMLINSON	The want of manure with which we should be so liberal is the great diffi- culty. But this may be managed by devoting one special compost heap for this purpose, and enriching this with the addition of bone dust, potash, safts, gypsum, or phosphate of lime and wood ashes. If this is prepared in time for use in the fall, and a light dressing of nitrate of soda and gypsum, or grass fertilizer is given after the first cutting, there can be but little doubt that the dry brown appearance of the fields will he changed to verdure, and the barns filled with a largely increased product. - American Agriculturist. - Horseradish will prevent pickles from moulding. Cut in little round slices a piece of horseradish root as large as your finger and twice as long, and throw them into a, two gallon jar of sweet pickles just before sitting it when you go in haste to get a dishfut	be or, he he or he he or he du dd s, st s he he he he he he he he he he he he he
