THE GAME LAWS.

Close Season of Cow Moose extended Three Years
—Anglers Should Note That It Is Illegal To Take Over Thirty Trout in One Day.
—Sale of Caribou Meat Prohibited.

A number of changes were made in the Nova Scotia Game Laws at the recent session of the Legislature and go into effect immediately.

Many people, anglers in some cases, seem to think that the inland fisheries are altogether under the control of the Provincial authorities. This is a mistake. The Dominion authorities control and make the regulations as to salmon and trout, as well as bass and gaspereaux. It may not be out of place, however, to remind local anglers that a Dominion order-in-council passed last year, and now in effect, provides that in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and P. E. Island no person may legally take over thirty trout, or ten pounds of trout in all, in any one day. Fish story-tellers would do well to remember this and in relating their experiences dwell more largely on the big ones that got away rather than on large numbers and great weight taken. Otherwise it may be up to such persons to show cause, etc. The open season for trout is April 1st to Oct. 1st, and for salmon, March 1st to Aug. 15th, though fly-fishing for salmon is open on Feb. 1st.

As to the Game Act one of the more important clauses is that extending the close season for cow moose for three years longer, that is until Sept. 15th 1915. Reports from different parts of the Province to Chief Game Commissioner Knight indicated that the close season for cows in operation the past few seasons had been successful in its object and recommended extension. The close season for deer was likewise extended to October 1st, 1915, and for caribou, except in Victoria and Inverness counties, until Sept. 15th, 1915. Caribou meat may not be sold or offered for sale at any time. A clause providing that moose meat should not be offered for sale before Sept. 20th, 1915, was not adopted.

Regarding hares and rabbits, a change has been made in the close season. As the law now stands hares or rabbits may not be hunted, killed or pursued with intent to kill, or had in possession, save from Oct. 1st to the following March 1st, and shall not be snared or taken otherwise than by shooting between March 1st, and December 1st.

Minks, raccoons, otter or fox may not be killed or pursued with intent to kill, or had in possession between March 1st and November 1st. Beaver or marten may not be hunted or trapped, or the skin of such had in possession at any time. It is further provided that no person shall take, kill or pursue with intent to kill any mammal valuable only for its fur, as to which no special provision is made by the Act, (except bear, wolf and wild cat) between March 1st and November 1st, except that when necessary for protection of private property a person may take or kill at any time any fox, raccoon, skunk or weasel found on such persons enclosed premises or farm.

As to hunting of caribou in Victoria and Inverness counties, where there is an open season for same for the next three years a resident of the Province outside of these counties may obtain a license to hunt caribou there on payment of a license fee of five dollars, while non-residents of the Province desiring to hunt caribou there must pay a $30 license fee.

Some reference is made to wolves in the amendments, reports having been received by the Chief Game Commissioner to the effect that wolf tracks have recently been seen in the Province, the supposition being that they may have wandered from Quebec through New Brunswick to this Province attracted by the presence of deer, which are multiplying.

A summary of the Act as it now stands will be prepared at an early date by Commissioner Knight and issued free to the public.

Bell Ringers with Pembroke Oddfellows.

"If I am any good to judge human sentiment, every one present felt disappointed when the "Ringers" struck up "God Save the King" and the people were like an audience awakening from a dream. You never told us half of what might be said of the ability of "Bell Ringers".

H. C. NIEUKIRK,
Chairman Entertainment Com.
I. O. O. F., 203,
Pembroke, Ont.

The members of this wonderful Band are all residents of Horbury, Ont., which city is world-famous for its Bell Ringers. Several members of this party have been ringing bells together for eighteen years, the youngest being eight years with the band. Marvellous music as a peal of one hundred and seventy-one bells, from operatic overture to the most popular and well-known melodies. The press of Ontario refers to these Bell Ringers as "the greatest musical event heard in Canada in recent years."

Tennis and Quoit Club

The annual meeting of the Bridgetown Tennis & Quoit Club was held in the Ruggles Block on May 22nd, with the Honorary President, Dr. A. S. Burns, in the chair. The following officers were elected by acclamation:— President—F. R. Beckwith Vice-President—S. C. Mitchell Secretary-Treasurer—A. J. McLean Managing Committee—A. F. Hiltz, H. B. Hicks, LeMoine Ruggles Tea Committee—Mrs. B. J. Porter, Miss Bess Ruggles, Miss Louise Ruggles.

A number of names were brought before the meeting as candidates for membership. The grounds of the Club have been put in order, and now present a spot fitted to attract all lovers of beauty and fun.

Benefit Supper.

This benefit supper for the augmentation of the Riverside Cemetery Improvement Fund was held on Thursday evening last in the Masonic building. Although the evening proved rainy the supper room was crowded from six o'clock to eight. Although every provision had been made for the occasion it would have been difficult to serve more than were present. It was decided to repeat the entertainment on Saturday evening, and a large number availed themselves of the second opportunity. The handsome sum of approximately $1200 was awarded the ladies who had the matter in charge. How well they catered to the wants of the inner man may be learned from the perusal of the list of "Eloge" elsewhere.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To THE EDITOR MONITOR-SENTINEL:

Would you allow me as a comparative stranger to write a few lines in your valuable paper to record some impressions made on my mind by the present effort to put the cemetery of Bridgetown, known I understand by the beautiful name of "Riverside Cemetery," on a satisfactory footing. I have deemed of the generous manner in which the citizens have responded to the various appeals for this most worthy undertaking. The other day I was present at the public dinner to help in the undertaking, and could not but be impressed with the harmony, good fellowship, and delightful spirit of unity which pervaded the gathering. I found members of all churches present, and all seemed as one in their zeal for the good cause they had in hand. Judging by the least one would conclude that the response to the ladies' call for provisions was more than generous. The tables groaned under their weight of good things. But fortunately they were the only objects that groaned there—very few else seemed very happy. Both the ladies who presided at the head and those who assisted around the board evidently wished to give full satisfaction to their guests, and by their assiduous attentions made the occasion a delightful one. I learn too, that in the humbler offices of "clearing up" after the feast was over the young ladies and even smaller girls gave cheerful assistance. Then one cannot pass over the Concert in the Hall on Monday evening, when the youth, beauty and talent of Bridgetown delighted an overflowing audience with a really high class entertainment. And here, again, it was noticeable how all distinctions were forgotten in zeal for the common good. Both those who prepared this most pleasant Concert and those whose efforts on the stage made it such a success are to be heartily congratulated, and deserve the thanks of all the citizens. It is now an assured fact that the purpose so unanimously and earnestly sought is about accomplished, and that this beautiful town will soon be graced by a fitting and worthy resting place for the departed loved ones.

Yours,
ELOGE.

Editor Monitor-Sentinel:

Like many others I was interested in the contribution of G. B. D. on page two of your last issue. But I am wondering if he has given us the whole story. I am not much concerned about the extreme theory of "fire and brimstone" as it is sometimes called, but I am concerned lest in our revolt from one extreme we run to another. In G. B. D.'s contribution occur the words "Sheol" and "Hades"—one O. T. the other N. T., but is there not, as a matter of fact, another word in the New Testament, which the Revisers do translate "hell"—e. g. Matt. V, 29, 30. Mark IX, 43, 45, 47, etc. 7.

What is the word and what its significance?

ENQUIRER.

P. S.—Granted for the nonce, as the contribution of G. B. D. indicates the "holy Apostles and Prophets did not harp upon the danger of falling into that 'lake of fire' which is supposed to be the doom of billions of humanity," an Apostle certainly wrote "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the Kingdom of God? Be not deceived, neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with men, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the Kingdom of God." I am also under the impression that it would not require a very arduous search to find something very much like this among the Prophets, and my conclusion is, if men and women would lay this simply and effectively to heart, they need not concern themselves about that "lake of fire," "Sheol," "Hades," or the other word which even the Revisers translate "hell."

Rural Deanery Meeting.

The clergy of the Rural Deanery of Annapolis will hold a Chapter Meeting in Bridgetown, Monday—Wednesday of next week. The first session will be held on Monday afternoon at which routine business will be transacted and a paper read by Rev. W. S. H. Morris of Middleton. On Monday evening commencing at eight o'clock a public meeting will be held in St. James' school room and an address given by the Rev. V. Driffield of Digby on the very interesting subject of the proposed Prayer Book revision, enrichment and adoption. On Tuesday there will be a public service at 8 a. m. in St. James' church, consisting of Holy Communion and sermon "ad clarum" by Rev. C. W. Neish, of Granville Ferry. Chapter meeting will be held 10.15 a. m. to 1 p. m. and 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. At these, papers will be read by Rev. M. Taylor, of Weymouth, and Rev. Wm. Driffield. A discussion will also be introduced by Rev. C. W. Neish on "The Possibilities of a Rural Deanery Sunday School Association." During their visit the clergy will be entertained as follows:— Rev. Rural Dean How, Annapolis, by Mr. and Mrs. E. Ruggles. Rev. J. Lockward, Clementsport, by Mrs. Jas. Primrose. Rev. W. M. Driffield, Digby, by Hon. O. T. Daniels. Rev. M. Taylor, Weymouth, by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Strong. Rev. J. Reeks, Round Hill by Dr. L. G. DeBlais. Rev. W. B. H. Morris, Middleton, by Mrs. I. B. Freeman. Rev. C. W. Neish, Granville Ferry by Rev. E. and Mrs. Underwood.

Obituary.

C. AYLWIN CRIGHTON

The death occurred Wednesday at his late residence, Quarrell street, Dartmouth, of C. Aylwin Crighton, one of the most prominent citizens of the town. He was in the 53rd year of his age and had been ill for about four months. Some time in January he had a bad attack of la grippe and since that time has been gradually failing, so that the end was not altogether unexpected.

Mr. Crighton was a man who was widely known all over the province and he was very highly respected by every one. For a number of years he was German consul at Halifax, where he also carried on a successful commission business, as a member of the firm of Crighton and Gracie.

He was twice married, his first wife being a Miss Spurr, of Round Hill, Annapolis Co. By this marriage he had two children, H. S. Crighton and Mrs. Walter Crighton, both of whom are at present residing in Dartmouth. His second wife, who survives now, was a Miss Piper, of Bridgetown. By this union there were two children, John Crighton and Mrs. (Dr.) Stevens, who also reside in Dartmouth.—Halifax Herald.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon at three o'clock to Christ church cemetery. Rev. S. J. Woodroffe officiated. There was a large concourse of people present, many coming from the city.

Bell Ringers Vocal Quartettes.

The management guarantees that as soloists or in quartette work, the Canadian profession cannot produce another to equal Messrs. Wain, Charlesworth, Hunt and Jessop with the Belle Ringers. The quartette is a whole concert in themselves. Mr. J. E. Jessop, the conductor, possesses a magnificent bass voice and whether in operatic, oratorio or popular ballads such as "Father O'Flynn" "Off to Philadelphia," "The Blacksmith" etc. the voices roll out in power and richness like the tones of a great organ. Although only thirty-two years old this gifted young musician has been ringing bells since a small boy soprano. "A human bird Divinely voiced" is the way the Ontario papers refer to the alto soloist, Mr. Charlesworth. No other male alto has been heard in Canada for twelve years since the tour of the original Westminster Abbey choir.

THE BACHELORS' CONGRESS.

Highly Successful Local Entertainment Given by Amateur Talent for Benefit of Riverside Cemetery Improvement Fund.—Crowded House Supports Efforts of Performers.

This amusing play, preceded by a concert was performed in the Primrose Theatre on Monday night to a crowded house which must have been most gratifying to the promoters.

The concert commenced with a selection by a massed choir under the direction of Rev. B. J. Porter, followed by a piano duet by Mrs. A. R. Bishop and Mrs. W. E. Reed, and a vocal solo by Mr. A. C. Charlton, each number being finely rendered and amply meriting the generous applause evoked.

A recitation by Mrs. Harlow "The Band that Played Till the Ship Went Down" was the next item on the program and this proved one of the features of the evening, the talented reciter revealed the sad story of the Titanic entranced as the tragic lines elocutionist seemed to hold her audience's wreck. The dramatic interpretation was splendid and received well-merited appreciation. "Swing Song" duet by Mrs. H. Ruggles and Mrs. Estlin was beautifully rendered and this was followed by the well-known Scotch song "The Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond," by the Rev. N. MacNeil in his happiest manner. The first part of the program was brought to a conclusion with a solo "Oh, Dry These Tears" by Mrs. H. Ruggles, who was ably accompanied by Mr. Ross Bishop on the violin. The power and sweetness of this lady's voice was well displayed in her selection.

A very short interval elapsed before the curtain again rose on the second part of the program, the scene of "The Bachelors' Congress." Jack Benton falls in love with a Miss Sawyer, who at the same time has another admirer. Both Jack and his rival propose at about the same time, and Miss Betty, by some unfortunate mischance, places her letter of refusal into the wrong envelope, and this missive reaches poor Jack, when he happens to be receiving a visit from his mother and sisters. Before his mother and sisters Jack read the letter of refusal and when his mother denounced his sweetheart Jack thereupon declared himself an enemy to womankind in general. While in this very agitated state he is visited by Count Alphonso Jaquet, a mesmerist, who at the mother's request places Jack in a trance in which he dreams that a Bachelors' Congress is being held, at which delegates from all parts of the world are present.

The unmarried ladies hearing of the Congress are also present and occupy the front seats in the hall, where they obstruct the proceedings and make themselves obnoxious in various ways until eventually Jack, as one and all.

president, in disgust, challenges the women to hold the meeting themselves. The men delegates, vacate their chairs as the women swarm upon the stage, and take possession.

Throughout the proceedings of the Congress the fun-making element is very prominent, and a number of extremely funny specialties occur; local hits were quite frequent. The Sheikh, personified in the most original style by Mr. Kenneth Dolge, produced a magic carpet which responded to the wishes of several of the "sisters" resulting in a number of attractive features which were among the most entertaining part of the program. Space and time forbid our referring individually to the various performers who showed special talent. We can refer to but a few. Mr. Curtis Longmire made an especial hit as "country policeman" and his disguise was so complete his best friends would hardly recognize him. Miss Florence Lee presided over the Spinners, and her droll interpretation of the duties of her position was most effective. Mr. Robt. Purdy was complete as "Wearie Willie" Mr. Albert Burns' stump speech brought down the house again and again. Mrs. Harry Dickie was very droll as "Grandma" in her narrative of "How the Oxen moved the Barn."

The finale brought Jack back to his bachelor quarters. The Count having found and returned with Betty to make an explanation to Jack, attempts to arouse him from his dream, only to discover to his dismay that his subject remains mesmerized in spite of his endeavors to break the spell. The table is turned upon the mesmerist by Jack producing a revolver and ordering the Count to sing and dance at the point of it. The hired man is called to the rescue and succeeds in arousing Jack from his spell so that he recognizes Betty, when a happy denouncement ensues. Mr. Henry B. Hicks as Jack, Mrs. Hicks as Jack's mother, Misses Marquerite Hicks and Louise Ruggles, as his sisters, Miss Forrester as his sweetheart, Mr. E. A. Hicks as his friend the Count, Mr. Hiltz as the butler, and Mr. LeMoine Ruggles and Miss Jennie Vroom as Hiss the hired man and his sweetheart Kitty, the house maid, left nothing to be desired, interpreting their parts with the ease and precision of professionals.

Mrs. A. R. Bishop was the proficient accompanist for the entire evening to the satisfaction of performers and audience alike. The handsome sum of approximately $115 was netted as the proceeds, (after the payment of a twenty per cent. commission to the Primrose Theatre management and deduction of necessary expenses for the benefit of Riverside Cemetery Improvement Fund, which sum must be most gratifying to the capable promoter, Miss Annie Chute, and to the performers, one and all.

Obituary

MRS. EUGENIA QUIGLEY Mrs. Eugenia Quigley, proprietress of the American House, Kentville, after an illness extending over a period of nearly three months, passed away at her home, the American House, at 10.20 o'clock, Friday, May 10th. All that medical skill could do for her at home was done, four weeks ago she was taken to the infirmary at Halifax, and after a time was brought back without obtaining any relief.

The deceased was a daughter of the late John E. Casey, of Kentville. Her mother before marriage, was Miss Catherine Irvin, of Wilmot, Annapolis County. Her husband was the late James Quigley, who died about eighteen years ago. Her fiftieth birthday occurred the day before her death.

She leaves to mourn their loss, three sons, John, residing at Newport, New Hampshire, William, at Long Beach, Cal., and Arthur, in Kentville. Two brothers, William McIntosh, at Kentville, and Edwin Casey, living in Boston. Also three sisters, Mrs. Edgar Knodell, in Boston; Mrs. Eliza Wardrope, of Kentville and Mrs. Charles S. Silver, of Bridgetown, and her step-father, Mr. James McIntosh, of Kentville, who has now reassumed the management of the American House.

For the last six or seven years Mrs. Quigley was proprietress of the American House, at Kentville, and conducted it with such a degree of success as has made it the popular hostelry which it is today. Her kindness of heart, and genial disposition, and her willingness always to care for the interests of others at the expense of her own, made her a favorite with the public and universally popular over the whole county.

Mrs. Quigley's generosity, her sympathetic nature, and quiet and unknown benefactions to the poor and the distressed, will cause her memory to be long cherished, not only by a wide circle of personal friends, but by scores of others, who have just cause to remember her and mourn the departure of a true friend in time of need. She will be much missed in Kentville, and all over Kings County.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. T. C. Mellor, rector of St. James' Episcopal church, were held at the house, last Monday, at 3 p.m. and attended by a very large number of persons, both from the town and from the country round about. The floral offerings which were laid upon the casket, were both numerous and beautiful, expressing in that way the esteem in which she was held. They included in part:-

Wreath-Conductor and Mrs. James Simmons and Willie. Wreath-Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Webster. Wreath-Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Cross. Wreath-Mr. and Mrs. Adly Nichols. Sheaf of wheat-Mr. and Mrs. R. S. MacQuarrie. Anchor-Arthur and Edna. Pillow-Boarders at American House.

Floral Cross-The family. Cut flowers-Fred J. Warkup, J. and Mrs. J. H. Lombard, Miss Ada Pyke; Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. W. Rathbone and Mrs. Hansys.

A beautiful and elaborate wreath of mayflowers and evergreens completely encircled the grave, the tributes of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Eaton.

Interment was made in the beautiful "Coke's Cemetery." - Western Chronicle.

EMPIRE DAY MESSAGE

The Council of the Boy Scouts Association desire to send to all Boy Scouts in the British Empire the heartfelt greetings of their brother Scouts in the Motherland on this great anniversary of the birth of our good Queen Victoria.

On this day apart for Imperial rejoicing it is particularly appropriate that Scouts throughout the Empire should especially consider the meaning of that portion of the Threefold Promise which deals with loyalty to the King. It is loyalty which to a large extent is responsible for the consolidation of the British Empire in one great confederation, and on that sure foundation rests the present bond of sympathy and brotherhood between the Dominions and the Mother Country.

The great brotherhood of Scouts to which we all belong is foremost in its loyalty to the King and in fostering the great imperial ideals. We now, on Empire Day, send these greetings to our brother scouts across the seas, in the sure knowledge that Scouts will ever adhere to the high ideals of their founder and Chief Scout, Sir Robert Baden-Powell. We wish you all success in Canada, and trust that much progress will be made in the movement in your great Dominion.

CURIOSITY Prom Many Women To Try PURITY FLOUR

THEY were curious to see exactly what results would be produced by flour consisting entirely of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.

They were curious to know more about a flour that contained none of the low-grade portions, which are found in every wheat berry, but which are separated and excluded from the high-grade in the process of milling PURITY FLOUR.

THEY were curious to know whether an ALL HIGH-GRADE hard wheat flour was really superior to a mixed hard and soft wheat flour.

They were curious to see and taste the kind of bread, buns, biscuits, cakes and pies PURITY FLOUR would make.

Curiosity prompts you to seek the knowledge they discovered. It's urging you to try PURITY FLOUR.

REMINDER: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR it is necessary, for best pastry-results, to add more shortening than you are accustomed to use with an ordinary flour. Add more water when making bread.

Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now

Christian X Proclaimed King of Denmark

Immense Crowds of People Cheered the New Ruler--Royal Yacht to Take Body of Late King Frederick to Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN, May 15--Christian X, was proclaimed King of Denmark from the balcony of the palace at three o'clock this afternoon in the presence of a huge concourse of people, who had gathered in the square in front of the royal residence.

The Premier promptly at three o'clock appeared on the balcony of the palace and announced the death of King Frederick. He then proclaimed Christian X, successor, wishing the new King a long life. Enthusiastic cheering broke out as the monarch in the uniform of the Royal Guard, stepped on to the balcony. In a brief speech he paid a tribute to his father, and pointed out the difficulties of succeeding such a ruler, concluding:-

"May God give me strength rightly to rule my dear old country, and may it live for ever."

In response to the cheers of the people, King Christian and Queen Alexandrine, with her two sons appeared again and again. The scene was an inspiring one, and closed with the singing of the national anthem by the immense concourse.

Royal messages announcing the accession to the Throne were read in both Houses of Parliament at four o'clock.

HAMBURG, Germany, May 15--King Frederick VIII of Denmark, died alone, unrecognized and unattended, in the market place late last night of apoplexy.

The King travelled incognito, arrived here Monday on his return from a long trip to the South, where he had been convalescing from a serious attack of inflammation of the lungs. With the Queen and the royal suite, he took quarters at the Hamburger Hotel.

Left Hotel.--At ten o'clock last night, the King left the hotel unaccompanied for his usual stroll before retiring. He had gone only a short distance when he was overcome on the street with a sudden attack of apoplexy. He fell unconscious to the pavement and not being recognized as a person of so great prominence was rushed to the nearest hospital in an automobile.

When members of the King's suite became alarmed over his failure to return to the hotel, after a reasonable time, they called in the proprietor and a search was begun. The searchers found His Majesty dead at the hospital and brought his body back to the hotel with them.

Jac Thayer Was a "Man"

Two young Philadelphia lads who were saved when the Titanic went down will never forget their experiences in that great tragedy of the sea. Each told a graphic story of that terrible night. One of these boys was "Jack" Thayer, the fourteen-year-old son of John B. Thayer, second vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He and his father parted from his mother when the latter left the Titanic in one of the small boats. Later father and son jumped from the sinking ship into the sea. The lad was picked up, but the father perished. At his home in Haverford young "Jack" said yesterday: "An officer caught hold of me and carried me to one of the lifeboats. She caught me by the arm and led me toward the boat as he was doing the lifeboat service. By this time men and women were bidding good-by to one another. I heard the shouts of the crew that all men must stand back, and as mother was placed in a lifeboat, I freed myself from her grasp and told her not to worry."

"All men must remain," I called to her, and I'll stay with father. Mother implored me to come to her, and as she spoke the lifeboat was lowered. I waved my hand in farewell and returned to father's side. "For the next hour father and I remained together, and when we all knew that the boat was going to sink he put a life preserver around my neck and told me to jump for my life."

"I will follow," he said, and a moment later I was flying down the side of the sinking ship. I struck the water and floated among the wreckage until I was almost frozen to death. A big stick of wood came within my reach and I caught hold of it.

"My body was numb, but I still thought of father, and my thoughts seemed to relieve the terrible pain that made me think now and then that I was going to die. I must have floated around many hours, because it was daylight and I was far from the boats when a small boat came out and picked me up."

"I do not remember being carried aboard the Carpathia, but when I awakened mother was leaning over me crying."

"Where is father?" I asked, but he did not reply. "I remained" until the last, mother and tried to be a man, I told her.

"No one on the Carpathia knew anything about father. I wanted to stay with him until the end, but could not."

CROWDS CHEERED J. BRUCE ISMAY.

Manager of White Star Line Received Great Reception at Liverpool.

Liverpool, May 11--A big crowd awaited the arrival of J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star Line, on board the Adriatic and cheered him as he walked down the gangway with his wife who had gone on board at Queenstown and accompanied him here.

Mr. Ismay lifted his hat in acknowledgement of the reception, but excused himself from making any statement to the press, saying that he was still suffering from the strain of the disaster. He had, he said, already given a plain unvarnished statement of facts, to a responsible and adequate commission and he thought that his evidence to be given before the British Court of Inquiry should not be anticipated.

He expressed his gratitude for telegrams and letters he had received from public societies and private friends conveying their sympathies, and their confidence in him, "during the greatest trial of my life." Mr. Ismay was pale and haggard, and appeared much touched by his reception.

CAPT. SMITH SAILED OUT OF WINDSOR.

The Hants Journal says:--Capt. J. I. Smith, of steamer Titanic, in 1854 sailed out of this port on the ship Princess Royal before the mast. Capt. Tom Curry, deceased, was master, and Capt. Michael Doyle was second mate. This ship was built by the late Bennett Smith, and it is a strange coincidence that it was lost near the same place as the Titanic in the ice off the banks of Newfoundland. Capt. Smith afterwards sailed as second mate on the ship N. Mosher.

There never was a time when people appreciated the real merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy more than now. This is shown by the increase in sales and voluntary testimonials from persons who have been cured by it. If you or your children are troubled with a cough or cold give it a trial and become acquainted with its good qualities. For sale by all dealers.

TOO MANY BOYS.

Canadian Prison Report Shows Ten Per Cent. of Juveniles.

The annual report of the inspector of penitentiaries for the last fiscal year, just issued, shows that the average daily population of the Canadian penitentiaries for the year was 1,334, an increase of ten over the previous year, and of 401 as compared with half a decade ago.

Canadian born inmates of the penitentiaries numbered 1,004, while 199 were born in England, 54 in Ireland, 45 in Scotland, 12 in Newfoundland, and 13 in other British countries, making a total of 1,326 British-born criminals. The United States heads the list of foreign-born inmates with 229; other countries coming in the following order: Italy 94, Austria-Hungary 81, Russia 41, France 20, Germany 18, China 13, other foreign countries 63.

An interesting table is that which gives the creeds of the inmates of the penitentiaries: Roman Catholics number 930, Anglicans 317, Presbyterians 219, Methodists 182, Baptists 83, Lutherans 54, Greek Catholics 14, other Christian denominations 14, Hebrew 19, Buddhist 9. Only 14 professed to no creed.

The cities of Montreal, Vancouver and Winnipeg, in the order named, made the largest contributions to the penitentiary population. Those sent from Montreal and still in the penitentiary at the close of the year, numbered 389; from Vancouver 130, and from Winnipeg 114. Toronto has contributed only 89 to the present penitentiary population, and the other cities have contributed as follows: Hamilton 46, Sydney 42, Quebec 41, Halifax 39, Calgary 27, Macleod 26, St. John 25, Victoria 23, Edmonton 23, Ottawa 21, Truro 21, and New Westminster 21.

Regret is expressed that the practice of committing juveniles to the penitentiaries is still so common. Ten per cent. of the entire population is composed of lads under 20. At St. Vincent de Paul, the juveniles constitute 15 per cent. This condition, the report states, is partially due to the restrictions placed upon the judiciary by the provisions of the penal code and to the fact that certain judges do not realize the unsuitability of the penitentiary for persons of immature age.

A Unique Artist.

There is a man in Toronto who has played an important part in welcoming nearly every eminent personage who has visited the city during the past thirty years and more. Do you know who this is? We do not refer to any civic official, but to a Toronto artist with an unique talent for decorative work--Mr. A. H. Howard, R.C.A.

It was noted in The Daily Star that the address read to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught by Mayor Jearry was a typeset manuscript, and that the real, official illuminated address which the duke will preserve as a memento of his visit, was handed to him in much more elaborate form. This was made by Mr. Howard, and it is a genuine work of art.

The illuminated address is a survival of the practice of the works of olden times in making decorated documents on parchment. Modern printers have developed the art, but few are really master of it like Mr. Howard. All the Governors-General of Canada, from the Marquis of Lorne down to the present royal occupant of the office, have received one of these specimens of his artist's work, and to mention many other notabilities who have been officially welcomed by the city during the past three decades and have been tendered addresses illuminated by the same skillful hand.

In each case an entirely new design has been conceived, and each has been rich in subtle and suggestive beauties peculiarly appropriate to the occasion of the welcome, and the result of much thought, study, and the finest craftsmanship. As a rule these addresses consist of six or more pages, quaintly lettered and delicately decorated and bound in some rich leather, splendidly embellished.

Laurier Stories.

It is an odd fact that more stories are being told these days about Sir Wilfrid Laurier than were told a year, or even five years ago. The English papers are full of references to the Liberal Chieftain and the fine spirit with which he has met defeat. Indeed, in defeat Sir Wilfrid seems more famous than ever.

An admirer recalls--and it is an interesting fact to note just now--that Sir Wilfrid once described himself as "a Liberal of the English school, a pupil of Fox, Gladstone, and Bright." It is said that, in his early days in politics he read and re-read John Bright's speeches until he knew most of them almost by heart.

The prophesy of Sir Wilfrid's first law partner, after introducing him to the late Dr. Frenette, the poet laureate of French Canada, is also interesting to recall. "There's a head for you," he said. "Did you notice that head? The young man who has it on his shoulders is sure to make himself heard in the world. Why, sir, he is an orator, a poet, a philosopher, and a jurist. Mark my words, he is the coming man."

A Misplaced Doxology.

A tragicomic episode occurred in one of the towns of Elkin County recently, when the congregation of one of the local churches was holding its anniversary festival and tea meeting. The mayor of the town had consented to preside as chairman of the concert, which is always a feature of such entertainments, and just as it was commencing he was seen to fall to the floor. It was speedily ascertained that death had been instantaneous, and the body having been removed to an anteroom, the pastor sorrowfully rose to dismiss the assembled congregation. In his excitement he could only think of the form usual on all occasions, and announced the Doxology, giving out the first line, "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow." The congregation sang it faintly, though many realized the incongruity of the situation.--Saturday Night.

WHEN KIPLING WAS HUNGRY.

Had Mr. Kipling turned his attention to commerce instead of literature, perhaps he might now be retained by some merchant millionaire as a writer of advertisements, at a colossal salary. After the siege of Kimberly he was staying with Mr. Rhodes at a charming little fruit farm near that town. One morning it occurred to Mr. Rhodes to take a stroll round the orchards for a little while before breakfast. As Mr. Kipling did not feel like walking he stayed behind. Time went on and the idea came to the author that breakfast would be desirable. But there was no sign of his host. As a matter of fact, Mr. Rhodes, as was usual with him, had become so interested in the matter in hand that he had quite forgotten the passing hours, and it was nearly ten hours before he remembered his starving guest, and hurried homeward.

"What's this, sir?" said the manager, suddenly pausing before a tree.

Upon it was pinned a sheet of paper bearing in large black letters: "Famine!" The next tree was also decorated: "We are starving; feed us." Nearer the house they came upon a larger sheet with these words in huge type: "For the human race. Breakfast. Purifies the mind; invigorates the system. It has sustained thousands; it will sustain you. See that you get it." Finally, upon the front door was an enormous placard: "Why die when a little breakfast prolongs life?"

THE PARSON WANTED NO "SHANDYGAF" SINGING.

Rory was one of the most powerful singers in the choir of the kirk. To show off his voice to full advantage he would vary his style from bass to alto and from alto to treble in the name hymn. The minister had long observed that Rory's methods were upsetting the general melody of the congregation's singing, and at length he resolved to bring the culprit to book. "Hymn thirty-four," he announced, "and 'a' thegither! And, Mr. McShory, if ye're tae sing tenor, sing tenor, or if ye're tae sing bass, sing bass, but we'll hae nae mair o' yer shandygaff."

A DIFFERENCE.

George Ade, at a dinner in New York, urged a subtler use of words. "Use words with delicate care," he said. "Observe all their distinctions. Never write 'vision,' for instance, 'what'sight' is what you mean." "There's no difference between 'sight' and 'vision,'" interrupted an editor. "No," said Mr. Ade. "And yet, Billy, when you and I passed each other on Broadway yesterday afternoon, the girl I was with was a vision, while the one with you was a sight."

VERY LIKELY.

The family at the supper table had been discussing a horse, frightened by an automobile into running away. After silently listening for a while, little Mary finally looked up from her place. "I don't blame horses," she said, "for being afraid of automobiles. You would, too, if you were a horse." "Why, Mary?" asked her father. "Well," said Mary, "wouldn't you be scared if you saw a pair of pants coming along without a man in them?"

"IMPOSSIBLE TO HELP MY KIDNEYS"

Until I Used "Fruit-a-tives" Worlds Greatest Kidney Cure

Practically everybody in Toronto knows Professor J. F. Davis. For years, the elite of that city has taken lessons from Prof. Davis in the art of Dancing and Deportment.

His constant activity gradually weakened his Kidneys, which calamity threatened to make him an invalid. But read Prof. Davis' letter—

563 CHURCH ST., TORONTO, ONT., DECEMBER 29th, 1911

"I want to say that 'Fruit-a-tives' is my only medicine, and has been for the past five years. Previous to that, I had been troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies without satisfactory results. Noticing the advertisements of 'Fruit-a-tives' I adopted this treatment altogether, and as everyone knows, I am now—and have been since taking 'Fruit-a-tives'—enjoying the best of health."

J. F. DAVIS.

If Rheumatism or Kidney Trouble is making you miserable, take "Fruit-a-tives" and get well. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"ONE TOOT."

An old Scotch lady was compelled to carry an ear trumpet with her wherever she went. Upon visiting a small church in Scotland, not long ago, she was watched very suspiciously by the sexton, until she reached her seat. There, as if he could stand the suspicion no longer, he went over to her and, shaking a warning finger emphatically, he said, "madam, one toot, and you're cot."

THE CORRECT TIME.

The colonel beckoned to his orderly, Smith, I wish you'd ride into that town yonder and get the correct time. "Why, sir," Smith hesitated, "I haven't got a watch." "A watch, a watch!" the colonel bellowed. "What in the name of sense do you want of a watch? Write it down on a piece of paper, man!"

CANDY FACTORY COLLAPSES

Toronto, Ont., May 4—Two are dead, five more seriously injured, and from twenty to thirty others buried and probably dead in the new five-story building of the William Neilson Co., Ltd., at 307 Gladstone Avenue, the south walls of which collapsed shortly before eleven o'clock Saturday morning, while two hundred employees engaged in the manufacture of ice cream and chocolates were all at work on the first and second floors. The entire Toronto fire brigade is on the scene making heroic efforts to extricate those buried under the debris.

The building, which has only been occupied for the past two months, was fitted up with the most modern machinery procurable, and it is claimed to have been the most up-to-date manufacturing plant of its kind in America.

The dead—Mrs. Eva Anderson, Louise Shine. Badly injured—Emily Watson, several burns; Susie Burns, Lottie Garey, Mabel Brownman, Mrs. Thompson.

NOW IS THE TIME.

Dispose of all useless junk. This may be agreeably accomplished by the following plan:

Place in an unoccupied room three boxes or barrels. Have on one, "For the Salvation Army," or whatever charity can use it; another, "Useless Junk," and the third "Classified Regs." Ask each member of the family to carry to this room any clothing, magazines or decorations which may be discarded.

This system saves a lot of real grief. It is a delicate matter to decide what is worthless for oneself, then how one can expect to decide wisely for others? Children are frequently made very unhappy by the decision of all-wise big sisters, aunts, grandmothers and mothers. Things which are real treasures to children are mere trash to interfering grown-ups.

HIGH QUALITY TEA.

A verdict in favor of high quality tea as a harmless drink is given by the London Lancet. It is pointed out that when caffeine and tannin are in a state of combination the harmful astringent qualities of the tannin disappear and the bitter taste of free caffeine is not perceptible. Teas of high quality yield, as a rule, a simple infusion of caffeine tannate, not of caffeine or of tannin, and such teas must be regarded as the most desirable from a physiological point of view. Excessive infusion, it is stated, will spoil a good tea, but even a short infusion of a bad tea may be as objectionable as an excessive infusion of good tea. On physiological grounds, therefore, the consumer of high quality teas runs less risk of digestive disturbances provided the tea is made properly.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CO., Ltd.

Yarmouth, N.S.

Gentlemen,—In January last, Francis Lecarr, one of the men employed by me, working in the lumber woods, had a tree fall on him, crushing him fearfully. He was, when found, placed on a sled and taken home, where grave fears were entertained for his recovery, his hips being badly bruised and his body turned black from his ribs to his feet. We used MINARD'S LINIMENT on him freely to deaden the pain and with the use of three bottles he was completely cured and able to return to his work.

Edison to Perfect a Repertoire of Educational Films.

Orange, N. J., May 7—Thomas A. Edison expects to spend $3,000,000 and devote eight years to the work of perfecting repertoires of educational films that will meet the requirements he has set to make the moving picture useful in the school-room. A brief story of what the inventor has done so far and will do in the future was told to the New England Society last night, by Arthur D. Chandler, president of the Orange Board of Education.

Edison has already had a number of films made, among them one which shows, magnified millions of times, the process of chemical crystallization of certain substances. To watch the processes as shown by that film, according to Mr. Chandler, is to be deeply impressed with the fact that there is something controlling even the action of inorganic matter, and he said he felt that the scientists in their searching might yet find out God.

Edison expects to send into all corners of the earth, gathering material for his films. When his task is finished the pupils of the future will have opportunities of becoming acquainted with the activities of the world and of nature that adults today have not even dreamed of.

It would surprise you to know of the great good that is being done by Chamberlain's Tablets.

Darius Downey, of Newberg Junction, N.B., writes "My wife has been using Chamberlain's Tablets and finds them very effective and doing her lots of good. If you have any trouble with your stomach or bowels give them a trial. For sale by druggists and dealers."

Rice cooked in various ways is a most satisfactory article of diet.

It is an excellent substitute for the heavy and unhealthy meats often indulged in. It is nourishing and particularly desirable for the aged and infirm. Get used to eating rice in some of its very palatable forms of cookery. Do not be afraid that it will not sustain you, for it will, and it will be particularly desirable in hot weather, as it does not tax the digestive organs. Remember that in China over 40,000,000 people subsist chiefly on rice. Dr. Cullfeldt says that a rice pudding with raisins is a good dish, which is sufficient in itself to constitute a meal.

Household labor involves almost necessarily a great amount of standing.

This can at times be remedied, in ironing for instance, more especially in doing the smaller pieces, by means of a high seat adjusted to the height of the board. This gives one a rest for the lower part of the body. This is a great relief for those who suffer from varicose veins. If the ankles are inclined to swell through too much standing, a few seconds' rest lying flat on the back with the feet slightly higher than the head will be found a preventive.

Lame back is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the back, for which you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. For sale by druggists and dealers.

THE WORD PARADISE.

Its Earliest Meaning Was an Inclosed Pleasure Ground.

The earliest meaning of the word paradise appears to have been a walled-in pleasure ground. In the Hebrew it was "pardes," in the Persian "Ferdus," and from one or other of these the Greeks appear to have derived the word "paradise," from which we get our own word. We also know that the ancient monarchs of Chaldaea and Assyria and also of Egypt constructed vast inclosures of forest land for the preservation of wild animals kept for hunting purposes, and these were also called paradises. Thus the historical meaning of the word comes to this: A space protected from all incursions from the outer world, in which those who were privileged to enter were able to indulge in such pleasures as pleased the fancy.

It is easy to see the translation from the material to the spiritual meaning, paradise in the latter sense meaning the place of the elect or chosen.

This is strikingly borne out by the fact that the favorite battery of the Moslems, whose firm belief it is that those who die fighting go straight to heaven, was always "Fight! Fight! Paradise! Paradise!" And the strong probability is that they got the word from the Persian campaigns of the eighth century. The use of the word in its present form in the New Testament is of Greek origin, and its description as applied to the garden of Eden is probably of Hebrew origin, dating from the period of the captivity.

MILLET'S SKETCHES.

The Painter Didn't Value Them and Let Them Go Cheap.

I sold Senier a quantity of Millet's sketches, and this is how I got them. I went into his studio one morning and found the servant making a fire with pieces of paper that looked as if they had pencil marks on them. I examined them more closely and, seeing that they were the painter's sketches, began to upbraid her for what she was doing, but she very coolly told me that her master had told her to burn up the papers. I could hardly contain myself with astonishment, when in came Millet, and I began to reproach him for the destruction of what I knew would sooner or later bring money. To all of which he calmly replied: "Ah, they are good for nothing. I have got out of them all I want." Just then I noticed a pile of paper in the corner, and I looked it over and found that it consisted of sketches.

"Anything you have a mind to give, I'll take."

"Will 300 francs be enough?" "Oh, yes." "I handed him the money and took the sketches home and counted 300! Soon after I sold them to Senier, who mounted them carefully and set to work to sell them. From this one can get some idea of the endless preliminary study Millet gave to the preparation of a picture.—Charles Jacque in Century.

Almost an Accident.

The fussy little gentleman sidled up to the cabman, who was standing dejectedly at the bottom of the hill. "And pray, my good fellow," he purred, "what's the matter?" "Matter, sir?" replied the cabbie, turning the straw in his mouth. "Why, a gentleman's oss ran away with a broom." Never send anything like it, sir. Down the 'ill he came, with the reins a-dangling and the harness splintered, and knocks a butcher's barrow into a china shop!" "Dear me!" muttered the O.M. "Yes," continued the cabbie. "Then he baags again a carriage and pair and smashes the horse's back wheel all to bits. Then he bugets a phaeton and a gig, and if he hadn't run agin my old cab and turned it right over I'm werry much inclined to think there'd have been a accident!"—London Answers.

It Shocked Her.

"My goodness," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "I can't understand how any one ever is able to muster up enough courage or daring or whatever it is to go flying on an aeroplane. There is nothing in the world that could induce me to travel on one, no matter how safe they might make them."

"Yes, it's perfectly awful the way folks risk their lives," replied her hostess as she rubbed an $8,000 solitaire on her velvet sleeve. "I really think a good many people go crazy over them kind of things. When I was a girl I went to see a man who went up in a balloon and came down on his parusite, and it affected me so I never want to see anything of that kind again as long as I live."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sarcastic.

A young author, evidently desirous of benefiting by the experience of an older brother craftsman, once asked Richard Henry Stoddard how he had acquired such a mastery of Anglo-Saxon.

"I don't know how I ever did it," replied the poet, who, after a moment's reflection, added, "I think, however, I must attribute it to the fact that I never had any education."

Duties.

Man cannot choose his duties. He may choose to forsake his duties and choose not to have the sorrow they bring. But he will go forth, and what will be his? Sorrow without duty—bitter herbs and no bread with them.

The highest liberty is harmony with the highest laws.—Giles.

The Band of Mercy Union, the organization which is doing so much to inculcate kindness in children and also to protect the farmers' friends, the birds, took its rise in England in 1869 and is affiliated with the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, becoming honorary president at its commencement and personally designing the medal used.

The American Humane Education Society was the predecessor of the organization in England. The founder was the late George Angell, who gave up a lucrative law business to devoted himself to humane education, and who was an invaluable benefactor of his race in the cause of kindness, combatting cruelty in every form and proving himself the able champion of the dumb and helpless.

Mr. Angell was instrumental in forming 70,000 Bands of Mercy. When he went to England in 1869 he so impressed the Baroness Burdett-Coutts with the necessity of humane education that she took the matter up enthusiastically with the result that the Ladies' Humane Educational Society was inaugurated, and from it sprang the institution of the multitude of the Bands of Mercy that exist today in Great Britain.

Subsequently the organization spread to the United States where over 80,000 Bands now exist. Canada has been somewhat backward in taking up this work of mercy, but in 1890 the good work was organized in Ottawa, and there are numerous bands now scattered through the provinces, how many, there are no means of knowing, as there is no afiliation of the individual bands.

So far as we know there are no
Bands of Mercy in Annapolis County.
If there are any the Monitor-Sentinel would be glad to hear from them.
Cruelty in its many forms is responsible for much of the unhappiness of life and for many of its crimes, and in the impressionable years of childhood is the time to "sow the seeds of kindness."

TO SOME OF OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

Some of our correspondents do not seem to realize the relative value of a "personal" and a real news item.
If a death or a marriage takes place two or three weeks may elapse before the Monitor is supplied with any information regarding it, while if some one happens to drive a few miles to take tea with a neighbor, the event is duly chronicled. Now the Monitor does not want this information, but it does want live items of real news.
Another thing, please omit from your correspondence such information as "Mr. So-and-so is on the sick list." If Mr. So-and-so is under medical attendance, tell how long he has been sick and if possible name the disease. In nine cases out of ten probably the indisposition is not worth mentioning. Give us all the real news of your neighborhood with full particulars. We shall appreciate it and so will our readers.

OBITUARY AND HYMNICAL
NOTICES, when furnished by subscribers, are freely given space in this publication, provided they are received within two weeks of the occurrence. Otherwise they will be charged for at space rates.

CANADIAN, NEWFOUNDLAND AND U. S. REPRESENTATIVES MEET.

Ottawa, May 5.—L.K. Jones, Secretary of the Railway Department, has been appointed Deputy Minister of Railways. Mr. Jones has been connected with the Railway Department for many years.

Hon. J. D. Hazen is leaving this week for Washington to confer with Premier Morris of Newfoundland and the United States authorities upon a number of fishery questions arising out of the Hague award. The control of steam trawling will be one of the questions discussed.

Hon. Mr. Hazen will take up with Premier Morris the regulations for fishing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and on the Labrador coast. With the Washington authorities he will endeavor to reach an understanding on some Pacific coast questions, and as to bringing into effect the regulations for Great Lakes fishing which have been drawn up under treaty by Dr. David Starr Jordan and Professor Prince.

If the United States does not decide to bring these, Canada will probably give notice of withdrawal from the treaty.

AMHERST BOY DROWNED IN TUB OF WATER.

Amherst, May 15.—A sad accident occurred near the Victor Wood Working Company's plant this morning, when George Henry, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Burgess, met with a sudden death under very painful circumstances. The little boy was out playing about the yard when he fell head first into a tub of water, a portion of the tub being below the level of the earth, and used as a well. He was not discovered until some minutes afterwards, and notwithstanding the efforts that were made to regain life, death ensued.

SYDNEY AND SHIPBUILDING.

If Sydney votes a subsidy of $1,000, 000 payable in four instalments at five year intervals, the British Canadian shipbuilding and Dock Co. undertakes to spend at least six million dollars on a dry dock and shipping plant within five years; poll tax on 2,000 workmen; to pay for sewer, street, and water pipe extension up to half a million dollars, payable in ten years in fifty-year bonds of the city at par; to erect all workmen's houses within the city to provide money to pay the regular water rates.

You can get a Victor Victrola on Free Trial
We will send to any responsible person a Victor Victrola and 20
selections for an absolutely free trial. We do not ask any money
down or in advance.
There are no C. O. D.
shipments, no papers
of any sort to sign.
Absolutely nothing but a plain out-and-out offer to ship a Victrola and the selections mentioned on a free trial so that you can hear it and play it in your own home. There is no catch about it anywhere. If you stop and think for a moment you will realize the high standing of this firm would prohibit anything except a straightforward offer.

All you need do
All we ask you to do is to invite as many as possible of your friends to hear the wonderful hornless Gramophone. We feel certain that out of the number of your friends who will hear our machine there will be at least one and probably more who will want a Victrola of their own. If they do not, if not a single one of them orders a Victrola we will not blame you in the slightest.

If you want to keep
If you wish to make the Victrola your own, you may do so, but it is not compulsory. THIS IS A FREE TRIAL. You may send it back at our expense if you wish. We won't be surprised however, if you wish to keep the machine after having it in your own home. If you wish to keep it, either remit us the price in full, or if you prefer, we will allow you to pay for it on the easiest kind of payments.

ENTOMOLOGICAL STATION IN KENTVILLE—THE SAN JOSE SCALE.
In order to study more thoroughly in Nova Scotia the more serious insect pests affecting orchards and measures for their control, the Dominion Department of Agriculture is establishing an entomological field station in the Annapolis Valley, and in co-operation with the fruit-growers will carry on experiments in other sections. Mr. Ralph Eaton has located several acres of young orchard at the disposal of the Division of Entomology for experimental purposes.
Dr. Gordon Hewitt, Dominion Entomologist, is now in Nova Scotia for the purpose of making arrangements for the carrying on of these invest-gations, and the location of the field laboratory. Mr. G. E. Saunders, E.
S. C. field officer of the Division of Entomology will have charge of the work.

SCHOONER LOAD OF HAY TO BOSTON.
Fredericton, May 14—W. H. Allen, of Penniac has chartered the schooner
H. H. Chamberlain to carry pressed hay for the Boston market. She will load at Sheffield this week. He has shipped six hundred tons of hay to the American market and has seven hundred tons yet to forward. The price has recently advanced two dollars a ton.

TRURO AUTOMOBILE SPEED CASE
Truro, N. S., May 14—Stipendiary Magistrate Crowe today delivered judgment in automobile cases which have caused interest in Truro during the last week. All the drivers were found guilty of excessive speed and a fine of five dollars each was imposed.
This was a ride in which the mayor and aldermen of Moncton were shown about the town in autos.

Tuesday, 14th inst., was one of the worst days experienced in the Bay of Fundy for some years. Many sterns were completely destroyed; others were badly damaged, while at Apple River, two American schooners, the Henry May and Nellie T. S. Sawyer, dragged their anchors and went ashore. The latter has a big hole in her, while the former is a total loss.
The schooner Gipsy was capsized entering Parrishboro Roads. Fortunately the crews escaped. Many other vessels were more or less injured.—Western Chronicle.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Friday is Victoria Day and will be a public holiday.

The Dominion government issued new gold coins on the 16th.

Capt. Outhit, Inspector of Cadets, is in Charlottetown conducting examinations there.

Don't miss the Bell Ringers at Primrose Theatre on Friday night. A rare treat for music lovers.

A dance was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Fay last evening in honor of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Beckwith.

The notice of the health officer, warning householders to clean up their premises, appears elsewhere. Let everybody heed the word of warning.

At a fire in the old Spa Hotel, Middleton, on Wednesday last a little child was badly burned by a piece of plaster dropping upon it in the bed where it was lying.

A new house, the foundation of which is now being laid, is to be built by Mr. Chas. Morton of Centreton, on South Queen street, west side near Mr. C. L. Piggott's.

Buster, the thoroughbred Boston terrier belonging to Mrs. M. E. Marshall, of Paradise, was stolen on Sunday evening, 12th inst and found later dead on the rail road track.

Miss Kate Chesley, sister of Mrs. Owen Wheelock, of Middleton, and a well-known music-teacher, died suddenly at her sister's home last week, after a few hours' illness from heart failure.

Clarence V. T. Henson, the former Baptist clergyman, the confessed poisoner of his sweetheart, Avis Linnell, paid the penalty of his crime by electrocution on Monday night shortly after midnight.

Sunday next being Whit Sunday, the service in St. Mary's Church, Belleisle, will be at 8 a.m. consisting of a Choral Celebration of Holy Communion with sermon. There will be no afternoon service.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Currier, of Allston, Mass., to Dr. William Reginald Marshall, of Lyan, grandson of Mrs. Edward Marshall, formerly of Bridgetown, is announced to take place Tuesday, June 7th.

King's College, Windsor, honored itself last week by bestowing the honorary degree of D.C.L. on the following worthy recipients:— Col. Sir Henry Pellatt, A. Stanley MacKenzie Esq., M.A., L.L.D., His Honor Judge Savary, Rev. Powell, M.A., D.D., H. Lothar Bober, Esq., M.A., Rev. G.R. Martell, M.A. and R.D. Bambrick, M.A.

Blanche Robinson, of Dartmouth, was the victim of a painful accident, several days ago, at the residence of her married sister, Victoria Falls Annapolis Co., says an exchange. The little girl was playing in the yard and found a loaded cartridge. Having matches in her possession she lighted one, touching it to the open end of the cartridge. The powder exploded blowing off several fingers.

The sick and accident fund, which has been in vogue on the Dominion Atlantic Railway, will be abolished at the end of the present month, all the officials and employees coming under the Canadian Pacific pension system on June 1st. It is said that on the latter date several of the old employees will retire from duty to enjoy their pensions which will count from 1882, when the system was established by the C. P. R.

A beginning was made at the work of improvement on Riverside Cemetery on Saturday afternoon last, when a number of citizens and farmers in the vicinity undertook, at the suggestion of Superintendent Grace of Yarmouth, who has the laying out of the grounds, to plant spruce trees as a border around the Cemetery. About one hundred and fifty trees have been planted. Supt. Grace has returned to Yarmouth but is expected in a few days to complete the laying out of the grounds. The approach from Granville street will be planted with an avenue of trees and it is hoped to induce the town authorities to make it a permanent road of macadam.

Mrs. C. E. Bath came here on Thursday evening from New York, and the friends who learned of her arrival called to see her and greatly enjoyed a social hour in her company. When the news of the dreadful marine disaster reached New York, St. Luke's hospital generously offered the new wing to the White Star Company. The offer was accepted, and when the Carpathia docked at the pier, Mrs. Bath, who is superintendent of St. Luke's in company with Rev. George Clover, head of the institution, three assistant nurses, four doctors and ambulances were on hand. Their experience was a sad one, but they felt well repaid by the sincere gratitude of those who needed their care and attention.—Hants Journal.

MORSE'S TEA TRY IT!

Even At Three Score And Ten

(By Ida Jackson Burroughs.)

In the Van Valkenburgh family grandmother's birthday had always been a much fixed feast as any of the days set down as such in the calendar. With the passing of the years it acquired greater importance, until its observance came to be regarded by the younger members as an almost sacred obligation. To promote its success, no sacrifice, pecuniary or otherwise, was regarded as too great. True, the younger Van Valkenburghs seldom felt the glow of the sacrificial spirit that is popularly supposed to be the reward of self-denial; the ample fortune handed down by grandfather had been doubled and trebled in the hands of sagacious sons, until it had reached a size that made gifts that merely cost money the easiest to bestow.

After grandfather Van Valkenburgh's death, his widow, a gentle, white-haired woman, with soft speech and softer tread, came to pass her days in the homes of her children. The general impression was that the arrangement was peculiarly happy.

Frederick and Timothy Van Valkenburgh, straightforward, genial men of affairs, adored their mother and until her own marriage Molly, her daughter, had been her inseparable companion. The respective "in-laws" shared this affection to a degree that was unusual. Each group pressed its claims for a share of grandmother's time, and each would gladly have retained her longer; but bringing quietly into her place and adding to her an atmosphere of peace and serenity, she passed from house to house at regular intervals.

The younger Van Valkenburghs lived in big, essentially modern houses in the fashionable part of town. Outwardly the houses bore little resemblance to each other, but there was one feature that they all had. That was a suite known as "grandmother's rooms." Never were apartments of state more exquisitely cared for; daughter-in-law vied with daughter in adding the last touch of luxury to what was already so complete.

The original Van Valkenburgh house stood in a neighborhood that was sojly respectable rather than fashionable. It was a large, white frame building, far back from the street, with space for trees and grass and garden. Whatever architectural style it may have possessed in the beginning had been lost, through the successive additions, which has made of it a thing that transcends the skill of the cleverest craftsmen—a home.

In its white walls and green blinds; in the bay windows that were plainly mere afterthoughts, for they were thrown out where they would give the most pleasure from within, not where they would produce the most harmonious effect from without, in the wide veranda; even in the wood-pane on the west wall and the crimson rambler over the lattice side porch, there was an atmosphere of protected family-life, of every-day living marked by refinement and dignity and quiet joy.

The younger Valkenburghs loved the home; well enough to keep it from falling into the hands of strangers. How well their mother loved it they did not realize. That she had gone into it a bride, and that within its walls she had passed through all the deeper experiences of a woman's life, were things that the younger people knew, of course, but thought of seldom.

At first she believed that they who were part of her very body must feel the needs of her spirit, but when, with all their tender devotion, they failed in this, she yielded to their insistence and closed her home.

Having accepted her decision, she set about adjusting herself to the new conditions. Not only did she close her house, but she dismantled its rooms and divided her treasures. Some things of lesser worth she sent to the storage warehouses, but once out of their familiar setting, none of them meant much to her. Finally she turned the key in the lock of the old black walnut door, and left the house to itself.

Occasionally a man appeared to cut the grass, but the garden soon grew unkempt, the hedge ragged and uneven, the house shabby, forlorn and ashamed.

When it reached this stage, Madame Van Valkenburgh deliberately and actually closed her eyes whenever during the fight of the motor-car in which she dutifully took the air, she passed the old place. But of this neither daughter nor daughter-in-law knew anything.

"There's the old place, mother," Mrs. Freddy would remark.

"Yes, dear," grandmother would reply, quite as if she had not known for blocks that they were approaching it.

"It looks dear, doesn't it?" Mrs. Freddy would say. "I wonder why our box hedge won't grow like that."

"It was always a beautiful place," grandmother would murmur, with her eyes closed to what she dared not look upon for fear that tears should betray her. And by that time the car would have carried them so far that something else would have claimed Mrs. Freddy's attention.

So it came about that in the ten years since she had closed its doors Madam Van Valkenburgh had not seen her old home, a statement the younger people would hardly have believed, so often had they taken her past it. Why she so steadfastly refused to look at it was something that she could hardly explain, even to herself. Instinctively she preferred to keep the memory of it fresh and fair, rather than to get a glimpse of its decay and neglect.

It was at Timothy's breakfast-table that the subject of grandmother's birthday came up. Mrs. Timothy was pouring coffee.

"Mother will be seventy on the tenth," she said.

"Eh?" said Timothy, from the depths of his paper.

Mrs. Timothy repeated her words.

"The dear old lady!" said Timothy. "We must celebrate it. What shall we give her?"

"I'm sure I don't know! There doesn't seem to be much left since you and Fred gave her that electric brougham last Christmas."

"Money wasted," commented Timothy. "How many times do you suppose she has used it?"

"Never that I know of, unless some one of us has insisted upon it. I really can't think of a single thing, Tim."

"Well, I'll talk to Fred about it," said her husband.

"Mother seventy," said Frederick, an hour later, as the two brothers met just before a directors' meeting.

"We'll have to have a big celebration."

"What shall we give her?" asked Timothy.

"Don't know. I'll ask Molly."

"Why, of course," said Molly, otherwise Mrs. Chester Lloyd, when consulted by her brother over the telephone.

"I hadn't forgotten it, but I don't know what in the world to give her this year. Can't you think of something?"

"That what I rang you up for," returned her brother.

"Oh, why don't you ask Sue?"

"She hasn't thought of a thing for several years past."

"Well, asked Margaret."

"Timothy did, and he says that she threw the electric in his face."

Molly giggled. "There's no use in saying anything to Chester," she remarked. "He's so stupid about such things."

"Well," began Frederick in the tone a man assumes when seeking to terminate a prolonged and useless telephone conversation.

"Oh, just a minute, Fred. There is some one whom you might consult."

"The Liver Pills act So Naturally and Easily."

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what confidence responsible people have in these pills. Mr. A. L. Wilson after trying them wrote:

"I have used Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and also your Anti-Pain Pills, on myself, with good results. The Liver Pills act so naturally and so easily that I scarcely know that I have taken a pill. Frequently being troubled with headache I take an Anti-Pain Pill and get immediate relief in every case."

Mr. Wilson was for a number of years cashier of the First National Bank of Sparta.

Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills are different from others. Many kinds of liver pills are "impossible" after one trial on account of their harshness. Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills do not act by sheer force but in an easy, natural way, without gripping or undue irritation. They are not habit forming.

and Molly and the others. But— She hesitated.

"Tell me," said her son, quietly. She raised her head, her eyes flashed.

"You may think me silly if you want to. I don't care. I'll tell you what I want. I want to go to housekeeping by myself. I want a home of my own. I want to have a hired girl to order round—an old-fashioned hired girl, not a parlor maid or a housemaid or a cook. I want my own pantry to putter round in. I want to put up currant jelly and make some crullers. I want to go to housekeeping, if I am seventy years old."

"Good gracious, mother there's no reason why you shouldn't! Just cheer up and we'll see what we can do." Then, because he found his own eyes suddenly growing moist and his voice getting shady, Frederick rose abruptly and left the veranda.

Mrs. Freddy, now that the sunset was about over, put down her book and came over to her mother-in-law's chair.

"Where did Fred go so suddenly?" she asked. "Why, mother, are you feeling quite well? Your cheeks seem flushed and your hands are cold. We had better go in. Shall I read to you or do you want a fire in your sitting room and a cup of hot milk?"

But Madam Van Valkenburgh was in no mood to be coddled.

"I'm perfectly well," she said, with dignity, "and I am going to bed." Less than an hour later Frederick, Timothy and Molly faced each other in the Lloyd drawing room.

"We're a lot of stupid idiots," said Molly, with a little sob in her voice, and with no pretense of hiding her tears, "only I'm the stupidest because I'm a woman, and I ought to have guessed. Why, of course mother would rather keep house in three rooms than live with any of us."

THE HOME

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, of Chicago, the woman who is superintendent of the schools of one of the largest cities in the country, may more, in the world, and who was awarded that office despite the keenest of competition from the best male educators in the country, has newly proven her right to this great position.

At least it is in my opinion. For Mrs. Young has come out with the statement that the building up of the bodies of the pupils of the public schools is more important than the training of the mind.

"We have come to believe," says Mrs. Young, "that it is more important to build the body of the youth, until it is as near physical perfection as possible, than it is to devote so much time towards development in mental attainments."

I wish that every mother in this land might read and ponder well over that statement.

Especially every mother of daughters between the ages of ten and twenty-one.

I was visiting a woman recently who has a daughter fifteen years old in the last year of high school. She brought out the girl's report card to show me. It was almost all "A's," with a wee sprinkling of "B's." She was evidently very proud of this card. Myself I think she should have been ashamed of it. For the girl is a puny, undeveloped, undersized, stoop-shouldered, colorless little caricature of a girl. And the report card was the symbol of the reason for all this.

It almost makes me want to cry when I see mothers and fathers allowing an even encouraging their children to sell gold for dress in this way.

How can they be so blind or cruel? Is it success you want for your daughters, oh, mothers?

Then know that brilliant report cards, anxiously studied lessons will not do one-tenth as much to bring it to them as normal healthy bodies and a reserve of strength.

Is happiness you want for your daughters, oh, mothers?

Then know that nothing can do so much to bring it to them as a healthy attractive body—the beauty of health and the sanity and power of it.

I know two girls who have always given more thought to mental, than to physical development, and who have been brilliantly successful in school and college. These girls have married recently. Under the strain of married life, which should not be any strain to the normal woman, one girl has broken down so that she has had to give up her pretty little home and go to boarding, and another has become so nervous and unlivable that the patience of a pretty good man has been tried to the breaking point, and a disruption of the marriage is actually threatened.

Oh, mothers, please don't take this as the mere mechanical ranting of a newspaper writer. It's much more than that. It's the heartfelt word of one who knows.

Please believe me and save your daughters from the inefficient, unsatisfactory lives, for which they may be preparing by their folly.

Don't allow your girls, especially those between twelve and sixteen, to study more than two hours a day out of school. There's no possible need of it. If your daughter can't keep up with her classes that way, just let her drop behind. That is no disgrace, not half so much as disgrace as any danger of dropping behind in her health.

And in the time that she does not study, see that she is out of doors as much as possible. Woods Hutchinson says that everyone ought to have at least three hours a day of outdoor exercise. Does your daughter get this? Does she get half this? Does she get out doors at all except the walk to and from school?

These are questions that I wish every mother in the country could ask herself and if the answer is not satisfactory, make it so.—Eula Cameron.

DRESSING TABLE.

Many girls who go away to college use their trunks as window seats, but when they need anything from them they find it rather inconvenient to have to remove the cover and pillows. A better way to dispose of the trunk is as follows: Have a shelf as large as the top of a dressing table fastened to the wall just high enough to admit your trunk being placed beneath it with the lid raised. Hang a pretty curtain around the shelf and you will have an attractive dressing table, as well as a hidden trunk.

When boiling old potatoes, add just a little milk to the water. They will be whiter and of a better flavour.

THE EMANCIPATION OF BABY

"My baby is so good," bragged a fond mother, "he never gives me any trouble. He sits in his chair for hours, playing with his rattle, and I don't have to bother with him."

When I saw baby my heart went out to him. Poor wee tot! He was pale and anemic and sad-faced. He would sometimes whimper, but was not allowed to cry or scream.

It so happened that mother was called away for a few days, and she left baby in my charge. When she was well out of sight, I released him from his chair and placed him on a blanket in the middle of the floor. At first the little man was unsteady, and would tumble over. But presently he grew more sure of himself and began to look around. After a while he made a move forward; he crowded and chuckled, looking up at me uncertainly. Then he made another cautious move. In a couple of days he was crawling all over the room, wild with delight. He would stop now and then, saying, softly: "Wah!" Then he would say it a little louder. And presently he would shout it.

I kept him out in the sunlight most of the day, romped with him at night, let him scream or cry when he chose. In fact, he was free to exercise lung and limb as he elected, my only care being to keep him within sight. And in those wonderful days he took his first step, holding onto my finger.

When his mother came home, the first glimpse of him was a pair of dirty legs protruding from under the house.

"Baby!" she screamed.

The legs commenced to wriggle, and a small, sturdy body followed them from the hiding place. The baby covered with dust, and a few scratches, stood up with a kitten in his arms. The mother sank onto the stoop appalled.

"Can that be my baby?"

Baby gave vent to a whoop, then chattering like a prairie dog, toddled crackerly toward her. When he reached her, he made a grab for her hat, and soon had her badly demoralized.

"He's so strong, and rough, and tough, and red in the face!" she said faintly. "What have you done to him?"

"Spoiled him for being tied to a high chair," I replied complacently. And I had—G. F. Bond.

THE PLACE TO GROW UP IN.

The natural health and vigor of children reared in the country are superior to the city-raised children. Country cooking, with fresh vegetable eggs, milk, butter and bread made by the farmer's wife, far surpasses in health producing attributes other styles of living in cities. In the country the atmosphere is clear, while in cities it is hazy with coal smoke and clouds of dust swept up from the streets by every wind that blows. The country is the ideal place to grow healthful bodies and develop clear, strong minds. The child with a robust body trained to do things has a confidence in himself that cannot be acquired in any other way. The child reared in the country develops the qualities of a leader, and from the farm have come the men who are now the world's captains of industry. The contact with nature not only insals the principles of necessity and morality in the mind but brings them closer to their Maker, without which contact enduring success is impossible.

THE GOOD-NIGHT KISS

O mothers, so weary, discouraged, worn out with the cares of the day. You often grow cross and impatient. Consideration of the noise and the play; for the day brings so many vexations. So many things going amiss; But, mother, whatever may vex you. Send the children to bed with a kiss.

The dear little feet wander often. Perhaps, from the pathway of right. The dear little hands find new mischief. To try you from morning till night; But think of the desolate mothers. Who'd give all the world for your bliss.

And, as thanks for your infinite blessing. Send the children to bed with a kiss. For some day their noise will not vex you.

The silence will hurt you far more; You will long for their sweet childish voices. For a sweet childish face at the door; And to press a child's face to your bosom.

You'd give all the world just for this! For the comfort 'twill bring you in sorrow. Send the children to bed with a kiss.

in housekeeping," said Timothy, with decision.

"And in the old house," added Frederic. "Lucky we never rented it. something has been missing from my life ever since it was shut up. We'll open it and install mother in it."

"We'll have to repair the house and put the grounds in order," said the practical Timothy, obviously glad of something tangible to do.

"That's easy," remarked Molly, "but what about furniture? It would not be the old home with new things in it."

"Hunt up old stuff. That will be your job. You girls will have to disgorge," said Frederic.

"Margaret will weep if she has to give up the highboy," remarked Timothy.

"And how Sue will moan over the four-poster!" chuckled Frederic.

"Let them," said Molly. "It will do them good to give up something they really want to keep."

"What about the Sheraton sideboard and the saddle-back chairs?" asked Frederic, maliciously.

Molly colored.

"They're mother's," she said, stotily. "I'll miss them horribly, but I'd get along with golden oak rather than keep them out of mother's house."

There followed ten days of breathless interest for every one except grandmother herself. When Frederic made no further comment on her out-break, she told herself that probably he had thought her merely hysterical and childish, and in the fear that she had been ungrateful and unappreciative, she put the matter from her and tried her best to stifle her longings.

None of the hurry and confusion in which the others were plunged reached her. The time was short, but when money is of no consequence, much can be accomplished. Timothy and Frederic commanded and blustered and entreated, and Molly and the sisters-in-law cajoled and schemed and coaxed, until finally what had seemed impossible was wrought, and wrought in time.

Toward evening of the day before grandmother's birthday, Frederic's touring-car, with Mrs. Freddy smiling on the back seat, drew up in front of Timothy's house to which grandmother had gone by special invitation to spend her anniversary. Frederic ran up the steps as lightly as a boy.

"Come, mother, put on your bonnet and take a run with us." Get in, Margaret and Tim, and we'll pick up Molly and Chester. We'll make it a real joy ride. You won't mind being a bit crowded, will you mother?"

"Not when it's my own children who crowd me," returned grandmother, promptly.

Ten minutes later the big car, with its merry party, was moving smoothly down the street in the direction of the old house. Half a block away from it grandmother closed her eyes, as was her custom, but opened them with a start when the car came to a sudden stop. It had drawn up at the old gate. Frederic had already opened the door of the automobile and was preparing to alight.

"What is the matter? Have you had a breakdown?" she asked tremulously, because now she knew that she must look or betray herself.

"Not a bit of it," said Fred. "We are just going to take a look round the old house. Come along, mother!" He held out his hand, while Timothy who had scrambled out the other side of the car in dignified haste, appeared, to extend a second helping hand.

Madam Van Valkenburgh shivered and closed her eyes again. It was apparent that she shrank from seeing the house. "I'd really rather not," she said. "It's so long—"

Then her innate desire to please came uppermost, and she rose to her feet. The effort was so plainly forced that Molly's eyes brimmed over with tears.

"Let's go in just for a moment, mother, dear," she said. "I'm just dying to see the old house myself."

So grandmother, with a son on each side, Molly behind her, and the three "in-laws" bringing up in the rear, passed up the old brick walk. Dimly she wondered that it seemed so freshly clipped, the hedge was green and level, and the house, as she could see on drawing near, was fairly glittering in its white paint. At the door, she turned wonderingly to Molly.

"Why, there's the old brass knocker that I gave to you! How did it get here?" she demanded.

"I've given it back," said Molly. Then she ran ahead eagerly and threw open the big walnut door.

"Welcome home, mother!" sheltered "Welcome back home!"

For one moment Madam Van Valkenburgh leaned so heavily on the arms of her sons that they thought she was going to faint. Then, pushing them gently away from her, with shining like a bride's, grandmother stepped over the threshold and into her own.

Molly dropped her head on the new-el-post and cried softly. Timothy and Frederic stood with bowed heads as those who tread on holy ground: No one spoke as Madam Van Valkenburgh passed into the living room and looked about her. The firelight and the soft radiance of the lamp fell softly on the steel engravings on the walls, on the faded crimson hangings, with their quaint fringe and tassels, on the old sofa and chairs, released from other drawing-rooms and reupholstered as nearly like their original selves as possible; on the canarybird, swinging sleepily in his cage above the row of blossoming window-plants, and on the old square piano in the corner. It glittered on the brass fender and andirons, and made broad patches of light on the velvet carpet, with its big roses.

Grandmother looked about her as if she saw it only a dream. Then she lifted her eyes to the mantel above which hung the picture of grandfather, that had been stealthily removed from her apartments at Frederic's, and magically brought hither in her absence.

She gazed at it steadily, and then her lips quivered.

"We're back home, John!" she murmured.

"Mother, mother, forgive us!" Molly was sobbing like a child, with her face buried against her mother's shoulder. "We never guessed it meant so much to you. But you're back home now, dear, to live until you leave it for good, please God."

Madam Van Valkenburgh patted her gently.

"There, there, child! There's nothing to mourn over now," she said.

Then with quiet deliberation she took off her bonnet and slipped out of her cloak.

"Just take care of these, please," she said to Frederic. "I'm going back to the kitchen and see what there is to eat. Why, of course you are all going to stay to tea!"

HAVE YOU A SKIN RASH

ZAM-BUK WILL CURE IT

For skin rashes, eruptions, eczema, etc., either in adults or children, there is nothing known to science which equals Zam-Buk in the quickness and certainty of its curative power. Mr. Raymond Webber, of Al- lanting, Ont., writes: "I have tried Zam-Buk for many ailments, and every time have found it successful. Some time ago I had a bad rash all over my body. I tried home-made saives herb saives, and various home-made preparations, and these proved of no use, but when I tried Zam-Buk I was cured in a quarter of the time that I had been experimenting in vain with other preparations."

"On another occasion I had one of my fingers crushed, and in that case also Zam-Buk was the only remedy I used. It healed the wound splendidly."

"My boy had boils, and once again Zam-Buk brought about a complete cure. We have also used it as a noise bold balm, for the injuries and skin diseases which are common to every person, and can say that your experience there is nothing to equal Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk owes its unique healing power to certain herbal extracts. It contains no poisonous coloring matter no animal fat, but is purely herbal. For eczema, piles, blood poison, abscesses, ulcers, cuts, burns and all skin injuries and diseases it is without equal and should be in every home. See box all druggists and stores. WESTERN LANDS DO NOT OFFER AS GOOD AN INVESTMENT AS

TISDALE PLACE!

ST. JOHN'S GILT-EDGE BUY

The Exact Key to the Courtenay Bay Situation

MILLIONS OF GOOD EASTERN DOLLARS HAVE BEEN SUNKEN IN WESTERN REAL ESTATE, in most cases in localities offering no real merit as to profitable investment. St. John, N. B., destined to be Canada's Greatest Shipping Centre, and the one great point of export for the three transcontinental railways, as well as docking and shipbuilding port, is now the most real, most alluring of all Canadian investments. Western real estate men have been some of the biggest buyers of St. John property, particularly in Tisdale Place.

TISDALE PLACE is at the very entrance to the Courtenay Bay district.

TISDALE PLACE COMMANDS ALL TRAFFIC to and from the city, governing the assured Dry Dock and Ship Repairing and Railway activities.

MORE THAN HALF OF TISDALE PLACE HAS BEEN SOLD already. Stores, a hotel and homes are to be erected. The Place is being laid out on modern lines.

TISDALE PLACE IS THE CENTRE OF INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT. The big factories etc. following the railways, are selecting their sites nearby.

THE STREET RAILWAY ALMOST SURROUNDS TISDALE PLACE, making it very accessible, though on foot it is only ten minutes from the city centre.

WATER, SEWERAGE AND OTHER UTILITIES are soon to be installed in Tisdale Place.

Your correspondent made a call on Mr. Jas. H. Purdy on Sunday afternoon and was glad to find him improving in strength, although slowly.

Miss Josephine Clarke spent Sunday at home, returning to Wolfville, again on Monday.

On Sunday the Methodist and Baptist churches enjoyed a rare treat. Messrs. Munroe and Clarke Bros. from Berwick and Mr. Bennett of Kentville being in town over Sunday, the above named churches were favored with music from the quartette. They sang in the Methodist church in the morning and in the Baptist in the evening. The singing was of a quality seldom heard in our town churches and was listened to attentively and greatly appreciated by the congregation.

Miss Alice Benson returned home from Boston on Saturday last.

Preaching in Evergreen Hall in the afternoon of Sunday, 26th.

Port Wade

Port Wade, May 20th.—The funeral of Mr. Alexander Tanch, who was drowned at Ipswich, Mass. last week occurred at Victoria Beach Saturday afternoon, 18th. Quite a large number of relatives and friends of the deceased were present. Rev. Mr. Cornwall, Baptist, officiated.

Mrs. David Merson went to New Germany Friday for a short visit with relatives and friends.

It is reported that the "Albert J. Lutz" had been in collision last week with a steamer and had her main boom and mastsail torn away. Capt. Apt has wired that he got into Shelburne without further mishap.

Vegetation is advancing quite rapidly in this section. Garden seeds are coming much better than last year.

Mr. Fred R. Parker has purchased a nice driving horse recently of Mr. Joseph Withers, Granville Ferry.

Services in the Baptist church Sunday, 26th in the evening at 7.30. Weekly social service every Wednesday evening same hour. Pastor Cornwall.

The Methodist congregation have reorganized their Sunday school. There are very few children of this congregation here, but it is hoped that the grown-ups will take hold and make the school a success.

Lower Granville

Lower Granville, May 20th.—Quite a shake up lately in the matter of Dominion Government officials in this locality. So far Stephen Haynes, light keeper at Victoria Beach in place of James Hinds, Howard Burke light keeper at Port Wade, pier in place of Edward Slocumb; Edward Johns, wharfinger, Port Wade, in place of John D. Apt; James Merritt, Fishery Warden in place of Norman Apt; Ralph Hayden, Sub-Collector of Customs in place of E. H. Porter, placed on retired list.

Miss Hattie Clark has returned from Lynn, after spending the winter there.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Manning and daughter, Miss Sarah Manning have moved to Digby.

Hampton

Hampton, May 20th.—We regret to have to report Mr. John B. Templeman as having a bad attack of pleurisy, but under the skillful treatment of Dr. Dechman he is slowly mending. On Thursday of last week the doctor extracted over two quarts of water from Mr. Templeman's left side.

The sea-side boarding house of Mr. Reid Farnsworth is nearing completion and will accommodate a large number of tourists, having eight large airy and rightly sleeping rooms on the second floor. The dining room is all that could be desired, being large and convenient. Under the able direction of Mrs. Farnsworth we trust the venture will prove a financial success.

The residence of Mr. L. D. Brooks, when the improvements are completed will be a great addition to our village, as it will have a veranda in front, a large portico with a gable window in the roof. There is a rumor that Mr. Brooks will be in a position to cater to the wants of any wanting meals or to accommodate boarders.

Your correspondent understands Mr. Fisher of Bridgetown has sold his farm in Hampton to Mr. Norman Milberry of St. Croix Cove.

Perfect Coffee Every Time

Unlike common coffees, RED ROSE has the same rare flavor when it reaches your table as it had when it left the roaster. For it is sold only in airtight tins, hence none of its strength or flavor is lost.

Our new process crushes this coffee into grains of uniform size and takes away the chaff which makes most coffees bitter. Thus Red Rose Coffee is as easily made as Red Rose Tea, and pours clear without any "settling." For a "full-bodied," bright, brisk coffee we commend
