platform I admit the financial argument is altogether in favor of temperance. But he should remember that the Council did not take either view of the subject. The Council merely considered the situation from a practical standpoint, viewed in the light of existing circumstances, therefore I contend that the reverend Mr. Bill has being the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Rustoring Agent on earth. My position is this that while the manufacto place my conduct in a false light. My position is this, that while the manufacture, importation and sale of liquor is permitted, just so long will liquor be manufactured, imported and sold, therefore I argue that since we have been unable to prevent the importation and sale of liquor we should, at least, derive some liquor we should, at least, derive some as the will not cure or help. liquor we should, at least, derive some revenue therefrom. This is the position I take, and I think that any impartial, intelligent person who is not a lunatic or a fool will admit that my position is correct. Olive Merton's lips. Miss Agatha Errol, her former fiance's sister, dropped in a few days afterward-a stout, bustling maiden of 20, who kept house for George, scolded the loose buttons on his shirts.

'Packing your trunks, eh?' said Miss Agatha. 'Going to move?' 'Of course; I cannot continue t board in so expensive a place,' said Miss Merton sadly. "I shall soon have to maintain the children as well as myself.' "Humph!" said Miss Agatha; "so you still persist in setting up an orphan asylum on a small scale. Rather a Quixotic business, I think."

Olive was silent. "When do you expect 'em from the west?" pursued Miss Errol.
"On Tuesday of next week."

"What train?" "There are two, but I shall not look for them until the latest, which comes

"I hope they are nice children, said Miss Agatha, doubtfully.

"One cannot help loving children, said Olive, earnestly. "My dear, you are an enthusiast."

" Perhaps I am," said Olive, smiling faintly, "but I can't help it." "Well," said Miss Agatha, jumping briskly up, "I must be going; I wish you joy of your new undertaking, Olive." "You will come and see me sor times ?" said Olive, wistfully. "Y-yes," said Agatha, rubbing her chin. "I will come sometimes," " And," Olive hesitated, "you have not told me yet how George is." "George? Oh, he's pretty well," said Agatha; "good-bye!"

"Gord duty should always be pleasant, George."

The voice was subdued and pained. Mr. Errol rose.

"Since you have chosen your path I know of nothing that is left me save to bid you good-bye!"

"Good-bye, George; try to think kindly of me,' she faltered, her little hand trembling in his palm as a frightened bird flutters sometimes beneath the human grasp.

And so they parted, these lovers who a brief while ago had been all in all to each other. And Olive Merton dropped into a chair, burying her face in her hands as soon as he was gone. She had hoped, she had fancied, she knew not what—perhaps that George would approve of her self imposed duty, and cheer her with his love in its performance; nay, it even crossed her mind, so a remote possibility, that he might even take the poor little orphasus as well as herself to his heart.

"But I thought, George, that you disapproved —"
"So I did, Olive at first, but when my sober senses came back to me I could not but see what a selfish brute I had shown myself, and what an angel you were. I had loved you before, dearest—how I reverenced the spirit of self-sacrifice and devotion which you had shown in contradistinction to my own coldness and brutality! So I thought the least reparation I could make would be to make ready the brightest home I could devise for my little wife that is to be. Do you like it, darling?"

Did she like it? What was the use of asking her the question, when the answer shone so radiantly on her face!

And this was one of the very, very few cases in which duty proves its own reward.

THE WEEKLY GLOBE SPECIAL TRIAL TRIP-TWO MONTHS

ONLY 15 CENTS We want to increase our present large list of subscribers by ten thousand within the next ays, and for this purpose make the above liberal and unprecedented offer. In addition to the above liberal offer we make the following : Cone sending us

THE GLOBE has special arrangements by which it possesses the sole right in Caparitic of the leading writers of fiction, such as Wilkie Collins, Miss Braddon, Justiu McCarthy, B. L. Farjeon, Sarah Douchey, Wilfiam Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Hugh Conway, and others.

A story of enthralling interest, entitled WYLLARD'S WEIRD, by Miss Braddon, is now running in The Dally and Weekly Globe, and will be continued till completed. It will be succeeded by a story from the powerful pen of JUSTIN McCarthy, and after the last named story is completed there will follow one from R. L. FARJEON, the famous novelist.

In addition to the regular continued story, there are always running in the 12 and 3 o'clock editions of Dally, and in THE WEERLY GLOBE one or more additional novels by authors of world-wide repute. In this manner readers get five or six complete novels each year.

AS AN AGRICULTURAL NEWSPAPER THE WEEKLY GLOBE IS UNSURPASSED SPURGEON'S SERMON *

ed by Spurgeon's own hand, given every week in Saturday's DAILY GLOBE and in THE LIY GLOBE, under special and exclusive arrangement for the Dominion of Canada. etv. C. H. Spurgeon is, beyond question, the most widely read preacher in the world, always racy, practical and instructive.
