SHAMROCK AND RESOLUTE CREWS BOTH CONFIDENT AS YACHTS GET READY FOR SECOND RACE TODAY

SPEEDY BRITISH YACHT IS READY FOR RACE TODAY

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV.

British Racer Will Not Use Nicholson Wind Jacket Today.

SLIGHT BREEZE BLOWS

Sir Thomas Lipton Will Challenge Again If Boat Loses.

RACE DELAYED.

Sandy Hook, July 17.—The second race of 1920 for the America's cup was postponed at 11:30 a.m. until later in the day, by order of the regatta committee.

Sandy Hook, N. J., July 17.—A slight breeze prevailed this morning, as the crews made ready for the second race of the international yacht contest. It was a fickle, fitful breeze. Captain Burton cast a searching eye seaward from the deck of the Shamrock IV to observe wind and wave prospects.

"The Americans say that the British weather is all samples and no bulk," he said, "but on Thursday we had rain, hail, squalls, calms and cloudbursts. Now what today?

The wind gauge at Sandy Hook was barely doing three knots an hour, and the faint breeze failed to ruffle the Jersey ground swell that was running off shore.

Weather indications promised a slow race, though beachcombers said the wind probably would haul into the southeast by the time the sloops reached the starting line.

A slight haze lay over the sea that shimmered in the sun which burned brightly in the clear sky.

Will Discard Jacket.

Shamrock will not carry in today's race, the Nicholson jacket, rigged to prevent back-windage from the mainmast. The cup committee informed Captain Burton if Shamrock carried the jacket in future races she would have to be remeasured.

Rather than take the trouble of an intricate remeasurement and the possibility of adding a few seconds to Resolute's already large time allowance of six minutes and 40 seconds, Captain Burton advised the removal of the jacket, which now is stowed away in the hood of the tender Killarney.

Captain Burton and Designer Nicholson said this morning that five races was not an adequate test for the America's Cup.

"We have had one race; we won it in an accident," said Captain Burton, to an Associated Press correspondent, "and still I'm looking to today's race to obtain some idea in the respective sailing points of the two contenders.

"The first race was sailed in "fluky" conditions and was no contest. I have sailed 45 races in England on one boat, and still am in doubt as to the best craft. Here after months' of preparations we endeavor to show which is the better sloop in a short series of five races."

Shamrock Was Ahead.

Captain Burton admits in sailorman fashion that in a lumpy sea, with faint airs, the Herreshoff sloop foots faster than the Nicholson craft.

Skipper Burton said that in the early stage of Thursday's race Shamrock had outfooted Resolute and was in position to have crossed her bow when she was struck by a squall and wended of, so that when the weather cleared and the wind hauled Resolute found herself well to weather and ahead.

Captain Burton showed two photographs taken from an aeroplane just after the start to show that the challenger was leading. Claude Hickman, navigator of Shamrock IV, said the criticisms of Shamrock's start in the first race, were justified in appearance, but that the plan of the start was carried out by a calculation that would have shown its advantages had not everything been spoiled by the squall.

Sir Thomas is said to have told friends here that he will challenge again if Shamrock IV fails to lift the cup.

Breaking out a jib, Shamrock IV. dropped her mooring buoy at 9:22, and moved slowly out the Sandy Hook point. The wind was very light, and she gathered little headway as she headed seaward.

Heads for Starting Line.

Resolute hoisted a club top-sail after setting up the main-sail, but took down the club top-sail again. She was still at her moorings when the challenger rounded Sandy Hook point. Captain Burton hoisted his big club top-sail. The challenger's canvas fitted flawlessly. Not a wrinkle could be seen in the cloth from leech to cluff.

There was a scattering of spectators along the Jersey beaches and headlands as the racers made ready for the start.

At 9 a.m. stray airs, mostly easterly were ruffling the sea around the lightship. The air was very clear, and the weather prophets predicted more wind from the eastward at noon, which would give the yachts a beat off the Long Island shore, a reach toward the Jersey shore and another reach to the finish.

Resolute dropped her mooring buoy at 10:21, and took a tow from a tug for the starting line.

ALLOWANCE UNCHANGED.

Sandy Hook, July 17.—The regatta committee announced at 11:20 a.m. that the time allowance which Shamrock must give Resolute would remain at 6 minutes 40 seconds for the 30-mile course.

PETITION FOR AN INSPECTOR

Fruit Growers Want Government Aid in Fighting Black Knot.

A petition is being circulated throughout London and district by fruit-growers urging the department of agriculture at Toronto to take immediate action in appointing inspector for black-knot and scale on plum and cherry trees. R. A. Finn, district agricultural representative, is in charge of the petition, which is largely signed. When completed, it is predicted that the name of every fruit-grower in the district will be on it.

Those behind the movement declare that enormous damage is being done by these two fruit menaces, and are determined that if an expert were appointed to cope with the situation he could stamp them out by rigid inspection of all district orchards, ordering the affected trees destroyed, and having the co-operation and sympathy of every Western Ontario fruit-grower in doing so.

BECK DECLARES THAT GUELPH'S ROAD WAS INCLUDED IN DEAL

Hydro Minister Replies To Statements of Premier Drury.

Toronto, July 17.—Sir Adam Beck, in a statement issued last night, replies at length to Attorney-General Raney's proposals and recent remarks.

In the first place, Sir Adam Beck takes up the charge that the hydro commission attempted to put through the Guelph radial purchase under cover of the approving vote given by the electors to the Hamilton-Galt-Elmira-Guelph radial scheme bylaws, which the premier and Mr. Raney contended contained no reference to the purchase of the Guelph line. The hydro chairman charges his critics with obscuring the real facts by raising technicalities and calls upon the records to show that the voters of the municipalities understood right along that the hydro-radial scheme involved the taking over of the Guelph radial. He challenges the premier to say where the province is affected, since Guelph is ready to take hydro bonds without provincial guarantee.

Sir Adam dismisses Mr. Raney's argument that the indorsation of the bonds of the Essex system did not commit the Government, since the purchase of the Essex County lines was a separate transaction, by pointing out that the manner of taking over the system and its operation differs in no particular from that provided for the other proposed hydro radials.

The Port Credit Line.

Sir Adam flatly contradicts Hon. Mr. Raney as to the facts in connection with the indorsation of the bonds of the Toronto-Port Credit line. Mr. Raney contended that the Government had guaranteed the bonds of this section since the bonds were demanded by a bank as security for a loan made for the purchase of right-of-way, but that bonds for the Port Credit-St. Catharines section had not been guaranteed and would not be unless the Government passed favorably on the hydro scheme.

Sir Adam declares that no bonds have been issued for the Toronto-Port Credit section, of which the attorney-general speaks, but that $11,000,000 of bonds for the Port Credit-St. Catharines line have already been indorsed by the present Government.

$6,325,000 DIVIDEND DECLARED.

New York, July 17.—The board of directors of the Crucible Steel Company of America, at a meeting here yesterday, declared a further stock dividend of $6,325,000, payable August 31, to stockholders of record August 15. This is equivalent, it was explained to 7 per cent on the outstanding stock as of August 1, and is in addition to the stock dividend of 16 2-3 per cent payable July 31 to stockholders of record of July 15, which was authorized at a directors' meeting June 16.

ROMANCE NIPPED, LOVELORN BOY, 16, DROWNS HIMSELF

Chicago, July 17.—They laughed at William Harwig, a 16-year-old boy, who said he was desperately in love with Anne Gould, 14 years old, of Fremont, Mich., and could not live away from her. But today he lies dead in his father's home, his body having been dragged from a lagoon in Washington Park. He had written his father a note to the effect that he intended to end his life.

The boy's mother is living in Muskegon, and his father is employed in Chicago. While at Muskegon, the boy became infatuated with Anna, the daughter of Mrs. Charles Gould, of Fremont. Mrs. Harwig thought it merely a boyish fancy, and she sent him back to Chicago, thinking he would speedily forget little Anna. His father also made light of his love affair, telling him it was a sort of summer rash or "puppy love," and that he would soon recover.

But William insisted there never could be any girl in the world for him but Anna, and that if he could not be near her, life was not worth living. His parents and the mother of the girl did not give much heed to his talk, but that he was in deadly earnest was proven when his body was brought up by grappling hooks.

GREAT BRITAIN AND JAPAN TO RENEW ALLIANCE

Honolulu, July 17.—Great Britain and Japan have decided to renew the alliance between the two nations, according to announcement at the foreign office in Tokio, which has been received here.

HEAVILY FINED FOR HITTING CITIZEN ON THE HEAD WITH HOE

Joseph Wilkinson, a Victoria street resident, who was convicted on a charge of assaulting Arthur Shaw to occasion bodily harm, and pleaded guilty to a second charge of common assault, preferred by Arthur O'Farrell, was fined $250 and costs by Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon today, with the option of six months in jail. Wilkinson during an altercation emanating from a dog fight, hit Shaw over the head with a hoe on May 26, fracturing his skull and necessitating a sojourn of several weeks in St. Joseph's Hospital for his victim. An operation was required, according to the attending physician, in order to save Shaw's life.

"Wilkinson always had a clean character," said Albert Judd, who asked leniency for the convicted man. "This is an unfortunate affair, and he has a wife and family of three children. A prison sentence will simply place him in a class with criminals, and he had no criminal intent."

"It is a very serious thing for a man to give way to his temper," commented the court, in imposing sentence. "It is almost remarkable that death was not caused by the injury. On the other hand, I realize that this quarrel was not of your making. I am glad now that I did not obey the first impulse to send you to the reformatory. I intend to impose a fine that you will never forget."

On the charge of assaulting Arthur O'Farrell, Wilkinson was allowed out on suspended sentence. He paid the $250 fine.

Three drunks were assessed the usual $10 and costs.

John Johnston, remanded several times recently on a charge of vagrancy, was committed to the Ontario Hospital on evidence furnished by the jail physician and the superintendent of the former institution.

Is Victoria Park the Rendezvous of Women Smokers?

Are women in London becoming more seriously addicted to the habit of cigarette smoking? The other night in Victoria Park, about 11 o'clock, long after the police officer had shooed the last lingering spooning couple out of the park, late pedestrians using the park short-cuts observed two very elderly ladies strolling slowly up and down one of the secluded walks in the park, and puffing, with the satisfaction and finesse of epicures in the fumatic art, large-sized "Pell Mells." Their presence in the same part of the park about the same hour the next evening suggested the organization of a ladies' smoking club which probably resorts to the park as a rendezvous and recreation, because their husbands are anti-tobacco cranks. Smoking in restaurants and hotels by women has become too common to attract attention, but it is rarely that one observes a woman smoking out of doors in London.

LONDON STUDENTS MADE EXCEPTIONAL SHOWING AT ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS

Ninety-Two Per Cent of Those Who Wrote Were Successful—Best Showing in City's History, Says Inspector—Grammar Proved Stumbling Block To Most of Those Who Failed.

Five hundred and eighty-five students—or 92 per cent of the total number who wrote in this year's class—were successful at the entrance examinations. Seventy per cent of this number were not required to try the final papers, but were recommended on their standing made through the school year.

According to Inspector C. B. Edwards this is the best showing in the history of the city, and will compare favorably with any city in the province. The number who wrote shows the rapid growth of the city also, as it is not long ago, according to Mr. Edwards, that only 300 to 400 students comprised the entrance classes.

Many Took Honors.

Proof that discretion was used by the principals of the public schools in recommending students under the system of promoting students is shown by the fact that 75 per cent of those who tried the final papers passed, and some of these with honors.

Not one recommendation was turned down by the entrance board, which is composed of Inspector C. B. Edwards and Inspector V. K. Greer of the public schools, Principal W. H. T. Mooney of the Collegiate Institute, Principal H. B. Beal of the Technical School and Inspector J. F. Sullivan of the separate schools.

The certificates of the successful candidates, and the marks of those who failed will be mailed to them within a few days.

Owing to the complications arising through the system of recommending, the winner of the Robb medal, awarded to the student making the best showing, will not be announced until a later date.

Failed in Grammar.

Grammar proved the stumbling-block to the greatest number of students who were unsuccessful. The dents who were unsuccessful. The questions, which verged on the technical, seemingly did not appeal to students of entrance class age.

Spelling, which in the past was the terror of the majority of the candidates, plucked but this year. Inspector Edwards accredited this fact to an improved system of teaching spelling in use throughout schools under which the students take a greater interest in the subject. Arithmetic, which in the past also caused the downfall of many, had few victims this year.

Mr. Edwards has been advised by the department of education, that unsuccessful candidates who wish to appeal should first consult their teachers on the advisability of such a step. If a candidate should decide to appeal he should do it in the first instance to the entrance board not later than August 19. Notice of the appeals will be sent to the appellants not later than August 20.

May Make Appeal.

If the entrance board rejects his appeal he may make a further appeal to the deputy minister, so that it will reach him not later than August 26, on payment of a fee of $2. For an appeal received later than August 6, the fee will be $5. The candidate who appeals to the department against the result of his appeal to the entrance board, must notify the board to this effect at the same time they notify the deputy minister.

All appeals must be addressed to C. B. Edwards, secretary of London High School Entrance Board.

Out of the 585 successful candidates, it is expected that between 400 and 450 will continue their education in some secondary school.

STATISTICS BUREAU DEMANDS FIGURES FROM A NEW SOURCE

London and Port Stanley Board Is Asked For Statement—May Be Result of Recent Charges Made by Vice-Chairman Ingram.

Presumably as a result of the recent dispute between Sir Adam Beck and A. B. Ingram of the Ontario railway and municipal board the Dominion bureau of statistics has demanded a change in the source from which it obtains its information. In a letter to the city it asks that a report be filed by the London and Port Stanley Railway Company, of which a number of the aldermen are directors and not by the London railway commission.

This was the practice followed until the electrification of the road. Since that time, although a directorate of the road has existed it has done nothing but hold an annual meeting in compliance with the law, while all the work of operating the road has been done by the railway commission. They have also filed the reports with the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Questioned Returns.

While operating the London street railway here Mr. Ingram of the Ontario railway board charged that the returns to the Dominion bureau did not give a true indication of the financial standing of the London railway. He claimed that all the debenture debt since the road was built should be reported, while the railway commission contended that it was responsible only for the debenture debt contracted since the electrification of the road. They maintained that to all practical purposes they had leased the road and were not concerned with its previous finances.

Wants Statement.

The Dominion bureau of statistics has asked for a statement of the complete debenture debt from the London and Port Stanley board. This body is composed of Mayor Little and Aldermen Moorhead, Brighton, Drake, Watkinson, Wheatcroft, W. A. Wilson, Cunningham and Ashton. The London railway commission who have furnished the reports for the past five years is composed of Sir Adam Beck, Philip Pocock, W. A. Martin, Dr. R. W. Shaw and Mayor Little.

Some difficulty in filing the report may be experienced. The bureau has forwarded forms which are meant for steam railways and these will have to be adapted to the electric road.

NORRIS GOVERNMENT WILL CARRY ON, SAYS MANITOBA PREMIER

Decision Is Made After Conference With Followers.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Winnipeg, July 16.—That the Norris Government will carry on the business of the province, and that it will submit its position and policy to the Legislative Assembly when it meets, was the substance of a statement of Premier Norris last night following a conference of first ministers and other members of the cabinet with supporters of the government. The conference was attended by members and ex-members of the Legislature.

Premier Norris, seen afterwards, said: "We consulted with elected and defeated candidates from all parts of the province, and they unanimously indorsed the opinion of the government that the people generally consider it the duty of the government to carry on the business of the province. The government proposes to follow this course.

"At the first session of the new Legislature," the premier added, "the government will submit its policy to the House."

CUTTING HAY AND WHEAT.

Derwent, July 17.—Both hay and wheat cutting is general throughout East Middlesex. Wheat will be a good yield this season. Hay is plentiful and of excellent quality. The yield of fruit will be light. Farmers generally are well satisfied with the crops and with the harvest outlook.

NO COMPROMISE.—London's striking hodcarriers at noon today completed three weeks out. Although conditions are practically unchanged since a few days after the strike was called, when six or seven smaller contractors granted their demands, the strikers declared today that they intended to stay out until the other contractors were ready to offer them an acceptable compromise.

Took the Chance Left In Bottles For Morning Milk

Two Lads Devise Ingenious Get-Rich-Quick Scheme.

Two local juveniles of an ingenious turn of mind were haled into police court today charged with theft. It is alleged that they watched local residences in the early hours of the morning, and after the milkman made his rounds they purloined the change left by him. It is customary for local citizens who have an early milkman to leave money in payment for the staff of life provided and the milkman in turn makes change and leaves same.

This fact being known, the boys, it is alleged, did a lucrative business in taking the change until captured. Apparently there were many victims, because of the fact that about 20 local housewives marched into the magistrate's office this morning to voice their complaints. The charges against the youths were adjourned for two weeks by the court.

BUFFALO STREET CAR MEN POSTPONE STRIKE

Buffalo, N. Y., July 17.—Operating employees of the International Railway Company voted at two meetings early today to suspend indefinitely the street car strike planned for today. The executive committee, however, was vested with full power to call a strike whenever such a move is deemed necessary.

C. J. Joyce, arbitrator appointed by the street car company, has sent a wire from Philadelphia that he will come to Buffalo to confer with James H. Vahey, arbitrator for the carmen, on Monday, when another effort will be made to select a third arbitrator.

Speakers at the meetings of the men last night charged that the company was trying to force a strike by dilatory tactics and by refusing to consider any third member of the arbitration board except a public service commissioner.

HENRY FORD, whose boom for the third party's nominee for president of the United States has collapsed. The party's platform was too radical for him.

RUSSIAN EMPRESS, CHILDREN BURNED ALIVE, IS CHARGE

Paris, July 17.—The Russian empress and her children were burned alive after the execution of Emperor Nicholas at Ekaterinburg, it is alleged in statements attributed to Alexis Dolrovitz, formerly courier to the empress, published here today. Dolrovitz said he made vain attempts to save his mistress and her children.

The empress and the children, Dolrovitz declared, were taken to a wood near Ekaterinburg. Brushwood was gathered and a huge fire made, into which the royal victims were forced. Every time they sought to get out of the flames, Dolrovitz said, they were driven back at the point of the bayonet.

Tatiana, the empress' second daughter, fled from the pyre three times, and eventually fell pierced through by a bayonet. The empress and Alexis, heir to the throne, clasped in close embrace, walked almost automatically into the flames and disappeared in a whirl of smoke, according to Dolrovitz.

I. N. CLARK TO SUCCEED HYMAN

Appointed Master Car Builder of Ontario Lines, With Headquarters Here.

I. N. Clark, master car builder of the Grand Trunk Ontario lines, with headquarters here, has been appointed master car builder of the London carshops to succeed T. Hyman, who came here from Montreal as master car builded in May.

George Fisher, formerly of St. Thomas, who has been general inspector of Grand Trunk Railway System carshops, will succeed Mr. Clark as master car builder of Ontario lines. He will be advised by Mr. Clark on his new duties for some time.

SPECIAL MEETING MAY BE CALLED TO DISCUSS DEBENTURES

Water and Light Extensions To Be Provided For.

A special meeting of the city council may be called during the next week to deal with the matter of a debenture issue for water and light extensions. No. 1 committee will bring in a minority report recommending that the public utilities commission be granted permission to appeal to the Ontario railway and municipal board for authority to issue $85,000 for water main extensions, and $80,000 for electric light extensions.

The course followed in the past has been to have these expenditures approved in the yearly City of London bill. Because of other clauses the whole bill was turned down by the Legislature this year. This left the city without finances for making any extensions in either of the departments concerned. The only course open was to charge the full cost of the work in advance to the citizen having the work done, instead of spreading it over a term of years, as would be done with a debenture issue.

When the proposal to appeal to the railway board was laid before No. 1 committee it was strenuously opposed by W. G. Tite, secretary of the Labor Representation Committee. Since that time E. M. Hawkins, another member of the committee, has been in conference with T. W. McFarland, chairman of the utilities commission, and has informed him that Mr. Tite did not represent the general feeling of organized labor in regard to the matter, Mr. McFarland stated today.

As this was the only source from which there was any opposition, it is likely that the appeal to the board will be approved by the council. It is understood that a two-thirds vote is required to authorize it, but it is expected there will be no difficulty in obtaining this.

20-YEAR-OLD BRIDE CONFESSES BIGAMY

Married Twice to Have Home, Mecosta Girl Admits.

Big Rapids, Mich., July 17.—Pleading that she had married a second time to have a happy home, although she knew her first husband was living, Mrs. Katherine Oleson, 20 years old, was held for trial by Justice Bennett here under $500 bond.

Mrs. Oleson, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kinney of Barryton, was arrested on a complaint made by her present husband, Paul Oleson, to whom she was married a month ago.

She confessed to Justice A. W. Bennett that she and Claude Morey of Blanchard were wedded a short time before Morey sailed overseas. When he returned, she said, he did not come back to her, so she married Oleson. She admitted telling Oleson her first husband had been killed in the war.

ALLIES THREATEN TO DRIVE TURKS OUT OF EUROPE IF THEY REFUSE TO SIGN PACT

Time Limit Expires At Midnight On July 27—Allied Reply Is Made To Turkish Objections to Certain Clauses of Peace Treaty.

London, July 17.—(By the Associated Press).—A threat to drive the Turk from Europe "once and for all" is contained in the Allied reply to the Turkish objections to the peace treaty made public here today. Such action might follow Turkey's refusal to sign the treaty of her failure to give it effect, the reply stated.

The time limit for Turkey to make known her decision expires at midnight, July 27.

FEAR OF INVASION WAS ONLY REASON THAT LED GERMANS TO SIGN PACT TO DELIVER COAL

Kreuze Zeitung Declares That Germany Has Again Signed Terms That She Cannot Carry Out, While Independent Socialists' Newspaper Heartily Approves of the Action Taken by Delegates.

Berlin, July 17.—A semi-official statement relative to the decision of the German delegation at Spa to deliver 2,000,000 tons of coal per month to the allies, was issued here last night.

"No other decision was possible after Marshal Foch had been summoned," it declared. "On one hand there was invasion of Germany, with its incalculable political and economic consequences, and on the other a reduction by 8 per cent of the coal supply to German consumers, with the possibility, however, of remaining master in one's own house."

The Spa correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung censured the German delegation for allowing Hugo Stinnes, the German capitalist, to play the "role of dictator." The Kreuze Zeitung, organ of the Pan-Germans, declares: "Germany has again accepted terms which she cannot carry out."

Approval of the action of Germany's representatives is voiced by the Freiheit, organ of the independent socialists.

The allied governments will take appropriate measures to assist Germany in floating loans intended to meet her internal requirements, and to assist her in the prompt discharge of her debt to the allies, according to the agreement signed here yesterday by representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Portugal, settling problems relative to reparations. The distribution of indemnities from Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria was also provided for in the agreement.

Belgium is given priority in the payment of 2,500,000,000 goid francs, and the agreement enumerated the securities for such priority. It also arranged for a method of valuing the ships surrendered by Germany, and her allies under the various treaties, as well as the allocation of these vessels. Surrendered warships, docks and other war materials were also dealt with by the entente nations' delegates.

One of the articles of the agreement, fixing the cost of the occupation armies on a uniform basis, was not concluded, it being desired to discuss this matter with the United States before final adjustment of the problem.

FRENCH PRESS DISPLEASED.

Spa, July 17.—Results of the allied German conference here seem to have failed to satisfy the newspapers in Paris, according to comments printed here today.

"The conference," remarks St. Brice in the Journal, "wandered from the path to quick results, which is not the least of the regrets which it leaves behind it."

The Echo De Paris takes a more hopeful view, saying:

"Notwithstanding its evasion the conference seems to contain more possibilities favorable to France than the results we have recorded seem to indicate."

The Figaro takes the most gloomy view, asserting:

"The least that can be said is that the situation remains confused and disquieting. The allies exhausted all means, both of conciliation and coercion to which the Germans opposed the force of inertia."

Man, 30, Divorced Twice, Again Tries to Win Ex-Wife, 70

Woman Complains to Court He Is Making Nuisance of Himself.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 16.—Although divorced twice and arrested nine times on complaint of his former wife, 30 years his senior, Willie Warshburn has not had his fill of matrimonial bliss.

According to ex-wife, who made complaint today that her juvenile husband is still in his early thirties and she is nearly 70, he is pestering her with proposals for a third marriage to such extent that he is a nuisance to her and her friends.

The second divorce was granted to Mrs. Warshburn only a few weeks ago.

EXPECTS FARMERS TO PROFIT BY ABOLITION OF THE WHEAT BOARD

Hon. Robert Rogers Declines To Comment On Political Situation.

Montreal, July 17.—Hon. Robert Rogers of Winnipeg is visiting this city and is registered at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Interviewed as to the present political situation, Mr. Rogers was not inclined to state there was anything in it which called for comment. As to the Manitoba elections, he observed that what had occurred was only what those on the ground had expected.

Mr. Rogers commented that, in view of the fact that the Government had done away with the wheat board, the farmers would realize a great deal more money.

RIVAL CHINESE FACTIONS ENGAGE IN BATTLE TO SOUTH OF THE CAPITAL

Peking, July 17.—(By Wireless to Tien Tsin). — Fighting between the rival factions occurred today at Kwan-Hun, 30 miles south of Peking. Numbers of wounded are arriving here. The city itself is quiet, but wire and rail communication with Tien Tsin has been interrupted.

The mediators sent out in an effort to reconcile the contending parties have returned to Peking, their mission having failed.

BANDSMEN'S CASE HINGES ON RULING OF INTERNATIONAL

Players in Permanent Forces Cannot Work With Regulars.

"No men who belong to the permanent militia force are allowed to play in any military band in which regular forces play," is the ruling regarding the case of the P. P. C. L. I., who wish to play in military bands in the city. This rule has been in force for some time, and it not only includes the soldiers and sailors of Canada, but of the United States also. The rule was made by the international organization, and was reaffirmed at the last annual meeting.

For the past week, there has been considerable comment regarding the P. P. C. L. I. men holding union cards, and not being allowed to play in any of the military bands in the city. Ten men of the P. P. C. L. I. are affected by the ruling.

"It is the opinion of some of the people in the city that we are trying to keep the P. P. C. L. I. men out of the union," said a veteran bandsman to the Advertiser. "We are not. The rule is for men in the regular forces being the only ones allowed to play in any military band, and we cannot break it. We wrote to headquarters in New York, asking if they could slightly alter the rule so as to allow the P. P. C. L. I. men to come into the soldier bands. We are expecting word any day.

The first sign of trouble was at a meeting of the local union Monday when the matter was brought up by the members of the G. W. V. A. Band. The men wished to take the side of the P. P. C. L. I. However, nothing can be done till word is received from headquarters at New York.

CO-OPERATION SCHEME SUSPENDED UNTIL FA

Work on the co-operation scheme to unite some of the smaller Methodist and Presbyterian churches in Western Ontario, which are not self-supporting, has been suspended for the time-being until the fall. It is the idea of the committee, formed of Methodist and Presbyterian ministers, to unite the small charges, which are not self-supporting, and in so doing make them so. They will also release several ministers who are needed urgently in other parts. It is definitely stated by the committee that a Presbyterian does not have to become a Methodist or vice-versa.

Early in September Rev. J. D. P. and Rev. J. Brown, the Methodist and Presbyterian home mission secretaries, will visit the various congregations which will be affected.

The general assembly of the Presbytery in Canada was in favor of the movement, and also the Methodist conference. Ministers of both denominations are confident that the scheme can be carried out with success.

CANADIAN FARMERS NEGLECTED VALUABLE HOME PRODUCE TRADE

Foreign Farmers Sell Over $143,000,000 Worth of Produce in Canada.

Foreign farmers, i. e. those farming land outside Canada, found a profitable market here in the last twelve months alone for over 143½ million dollars' worth of their poducts. Farmers and livestock breeders will find the story told plainly and irrefutably in the following abstract from the returns of the Dominion bureau of statistics. It gives the imports of live animals and of animal products into Canada for the last three years, ending May 30: (The final 000's are omitted).

Animals, living ...	$ 2,517	$ 1,871	$ 2,494
Hides and skins...	7,885	5,903	25,642
Lard	636	399	2,682
Leather	9,640	10,955	18,059
Meats	17,807	7,338	20,220
Wool	33,715	40,940	74,259

Many of these imports are offset by our exports of the same class. That is, Canadian manufacturers import much of their raw material from abroad, and Canadian farmers have to export the results of their work to be raw material in other countries. The needless "criss-crossing" of products and the expense of their transportation might be largely eliminated were Canadian manufacturers and Canadian farmers to be more closely linked together. Manufacturers might utilize more what Canadian farms, under the climatic conditions, can best produce; farmers might more definitely aim to produce that for which manufactures can best find a market.

A considerable part of the products given above could have been produced in the Dominion and profitably manufactured for Canadian consumers, if industry and farming had been more closely related during the last twenty years.

HARROW

HARROW, July 16.—After being closed about eighteen months, the Presbyterian Church was re-opened for service on Sunday. Rev. J. Argo has been appointed minister of this augmentation charge and preached most acceptably to a large congregation.

The Baptists are holding union services with the Methodists for the next four Sundays, during the vacation of the pastor.

DRESDEN

DRESDEN, July 16.—The funeral of the late Mabel Shaw, aged 31, wife of Russel Shaw, Hamilton township, whose death occurred on Sunday last in Chatham Hospital, took place on Tuesday afternoon from her late residence.

The service was conducted by Rev. F. Craik of Dawn Hills, and was largely attended. The deceased was only ill a couple of months, never recovering her strength after an attack of "flu." Besides her husband, her mother, Mrs. Robert Holmes of Dresden, a sister, Mrs. Dell Huff of Camden, and four brothers, Theodore, Russell and Eldred of Wabash, and Elgin of Detroit, survive.

The body of Velma, the little two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Morgan of Chatham, was brought here yesterday for burial. The funeral took place from the P. M. station, and the service at the grave was conducted by Rev. W. C. Pearce, B.A. The only surviving child of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan is very ill and no hopes are held out for its recovery.

EMBRO

EMBRO, July 15.—The funeral of the late James McPhail, held yesterday afternoon, was largely attended. The many floral tributes testified to the high esteem the deceased was held in. Rev. W. P. Lane conducted the funeral service. The pall-bearers were James and Walter McCorqudale, James and Walter Ross, John K. McLeod and Ralph Mills, cousins of the late Mr. McPhail. It was a motor funeral. Interment was made in Kintore Cemetery.

The proceeds amounted to $500.

The local Orangemen attended divine service last Sunday in the Methodist Church. Rev. Mr. Crowley preached the sermon. The church was filled to capacity.

THE LATE ADAM NICHOL —AN APPRECIATION

[BY A CONTRIBUTOR.]

On July 8, 1920, there passed to his rest and reward in his 86th year one of the pioneers of Westminster township, Mr. Adam Nichol, who had but recently taken up his residence in London.

Mr. Nicholl was born on the old homestead in Westminster on December 6, 1834, and had lived on the farm where he was born for nearly 85 years. He was the last survivor of a family of five brothers, four of whom lived over 80 years, and one of whom was the late well-known Dr. William Nichol of Brantford. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Catherine Nichol, two daughters, Mrs. William E. Beattie and Miss Mary of London; and three sons, Rev. Walter Nichol, minister of St. Paul's Church, Parkhill; John B. on the homestead, and Thomas H. of Toronto, a member of the general assembly staff of evangelists.

In politics Mr. Nichol was a Liberal of the old school all his life. He took a keen and intelligent interest in public affairs, though never aspiring to office. He was a subscriber of The Advertiser from its first number, and was well read in the political history of the country. In religion Mr. Nichol was a staunch and prominent member and office-bearer of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, having been for many years an elder and active worker in the First Presbyterian Church in Westminster. He was always a generous supporter, not only of his own congregation, but of the missionary, benevolent and educational work of the church he loved. He was a quiet, a faithful and humble follower of Christ and was a friend and brother greatly beloved and esteemed by all who knew him.

Mr. Nichol was one of the pioneers of the temperance cause in his own township and rejoiced in all the great temperance reforms that have taken place since the thirties of the last century in Ontario and throughout Canada. The Bible Society also claimed his deepest interest and for 50 years he was treasurer of East Westminster branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society.

His death was sudden, but without illness or pain. On the previous Sunday he attended both services in Knox Church and on the afternoon of his death he was out in his usual health seeing off some members of his family who had been visiting him. After tea he sat down in his large easy chair and seemed to fall asleep, and when a few minutes later members of his family came to his side he was dead. He walked with God and he was not, for God took him. He rests from his labors and his works do follow him.

LA SALLETTE'S 9TH FRAME WIN TIES UP STANDING

LA SALETTE, July 15.—La Salette defeated Windham 9 to 8 at La Salette this afternoon in the most sensational game of baseball ever witnessed in this district. Until the ninth inning the home team was in the advance 7 to 4, when Windham went to bat and scored four runs, thereby leading 8 to 7. The home boys, however, play their best in the pinches and in their half of the ninth with two out, a man on second and third, Hagerman, with two strikes and two balls called, poled the next one far out in centre field, bringing in the winning runs. It was not necessary for the hero to walk in from second. He was carried high in the air by the players and fans, who crowded on the diamond.

Never has enthusiasm in baseball in this district been at such a high level. Rooting by the fans was of a world's championship calibre. La Salette is now tied with Windham in the Norfolk County League, and the boys are out for the flag. The game was also featured by good work from the batteries, grandstand fielding and double plays. The spirit of good sportsmanship was displayed throughout the game, the umpire's decisions being fair at all times.

Nearly 100 autos were parked outside the ball field and it is estimated nearly 2,000 witnessed the game. Enthusiasts came from Waterford, Simcoe, Nixon, Norwich, Vanessa, Scotland, Windham and the surrounding country. The batteries:

La Salette—Harwood and Slaght; Windham—McCurdy and Mercel.

Umpires—F. Cunningham and Alex Holmes.

SCOTCH PICNIC.

QUANTITIES OF CUT HAY WILL BE A TOTAL LOSS

Grain Crops in Essex Are in Splendid Shape Following Rains.

TILBURY, July 16.—Field after field of piled hay, turned black by the excessive rains, point to a loss in hay crops of probably thousands of dollars throughout Essex county. Many farmers have refrained from cutting their hay because of the almost daily rains which have fallen through this district. Much of the standing hay is in danger of becoming over-ripe.

Any loss in the hay crop will, however be made up by a heavy yield of wheat and oats, which have been aided materially by the rain and the cool weather of the last few days. Some farmers have started cutting wheat. There is every indication of a big yield, for the heads are exceptionally well filled.

The oats were never better. In many fields the grain is lying down in spots, owing to the heaviness of the heads, which the rains and cool weather have filled out.

Barley will soon be ready to cut. There is a fairly large acreage throughout the country and it all looks good. Roots and tobacco have also been aided by the rains.

TORONTO ENTERTAINER DIES AT KITCHENER FOLLOWING BANQUET

KITCHENER, July 16.—William McKendry, the well-known entertainer of Toronto, died suddenly here last evening after having participated in the musical program at a farewell banquet tendered to E. W. Lampey previous to his departure for Vancouver. Mr. McKendry had been most generous in responding to the encores of the banqueters, and after his final selection hurried to the dressing-room, where he collapsed. Medical attendance was summoned, but he expired in about thirty minutes. Death was due to heart failure. His son arrived in the city this morning to take charge of the remains.

DEAD MAN IDENTIFIED AS FRANK BOKOWY

Funeral of G. T. R. Tracks Victim Held Friday at Chatham.

CHATHAM, July 16.—It was learned today that the man who was found dead on the G. T. R. tracks yesterday was Frank Bokowy, an Austrian, and not Frank McCovle, as before stated. His two daughters, who live in Sarnia, came to the city and identified the body. The funeral took place to Maple Leaf Cemetery today, Dr. Daniel of Park Street Methodist Church officiating at the grave.

CHARTER HUNG.

The charter of the Automobile Workers' Union, Local No. 1395, affiliated with the International Association of Mechanics, was hung by the president of the new organization, C. McBride, at an enthusiastic meeting held in the I. O. F. Auditorium last evening. Mayor Brisco acted as chairman and several outside speakers were heard from.

EIGHTEEN CENTS A DAY.

In the jail report for the quarter ending June 30, Governor Davidson reported that during that period there were 60 commitments, with a total of 1,547 days. The total cost per prisoner per day was 18 cents. One female and eight male prisoners are the present inmates of that institution.

EXAMINATION OF FOUR RUM RUNNERS ADJOURNED

Port Huron and Sarnia Men To Face Federal Grand Jury.

SARNIA, July 16.—As the result of rum-running activities on the St. Clair River, Charles F. Yearn, former Port Huron policeman; Alex. Baldwin, Wilburt Welsh and J. Graham of Sarnia, were held to the next term of the United States district court for action of the federal grand jury, by Frank R. Schell, United States commissioner, under warrants charging them with violations of the national prohibition act, when they appeared for trial in Port Huron today.

Adjournment of the examinations of each of the defendants was granted by Commissioner Schell until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning to provide time for the filing of final bonds for men for their appearance to the federal grand jury. The bonds of Yearn and Baldwin are fixed at $1,000 each and those for Graham and Welsh at $500 each.

Delano R. Shamp and William L. Waltman, federal prohibition officers, who made the arrests of the men in the city on the evening of June 28, were the only persons called to testify at the examination, although several witnesses had been summoned to attend.

BUGGY HIT BY AUTO

Driver of Car Pays $50 Damages and $9 Costs.

PRINCETON, July 16.—As the result of an auto accident which occurred here on Wednesday evening an American man and woman touring through Canada were stoped by the police at Paris and before they proceeded the driver of the car had to pay Frank Hall of Princeton $50 for damages done to a horse and buggy, plus $9 court costs.

The accident happened just after the auto left Storm's Hotel headed south, the car colliding with a buggy driven by Frank Hall. The occupants of both vehicles escaped without injury, but the horse received some cuts. The buggy was considerably damaged and some minor damage was done to the auto.

Following the accident hot words passed between the two drivers, Mr. Hall declaring that the driver of the auto was on the wrong side of the road and therefore responsible for the accident. As neither was prepared to come to terms the autoist drove on. Mr. Hall then telephoned the police at Paris, Brantford and Woodstock with the result stated.

BODY OF MAN MISSING SINCE JULY 9 RECOVERED FROM ST. CLAIR RIVER

Colin Nadolleck's Boat Believed Swamped by Wash of Steamer.

SARNIA, July 16.—Word was received tonight that the body of Colin Nadolleck, missing since July 9, from the summer cottage at Corunna, Ont., where he made his home, was recovered this morning in the River St. Clair at the courtright dock. Frank Currier, ferryman, operating between St. Clair and Courtright, discovered the body floating on the water near the Canadian shore.

H. M. Scott and John Cod of Marysville left in the power boat Katherine for Courtright to identify the body which was clad in khaki trousers and high boots such as Nadolleck wore when last seen. The body was easily identified by the two Marysville men.

The remains were taken to St. Clair in the Katherine, and will be shipped to the home of Mrs. Ralph H. Meyering, Detroit, where the funeral service will be held. Another sister, Mrs. Crawford of Cleveland, survives.

Nadolleck was formerly employed on the Marysville Bulletin staff, but at the time of his death was in the employ of Govro & Govro, Marysville contractors. Together with several other Marysville men he made his home in Corunna. He could not swim, and his death is generally ascribed to his rowboat being swamped by the wash from a passing steamer.

Having occasion to send off a commercial representative in a hurry, a businessman was obliged to employ the services of a 17-year-old youth, whom he thus instructed:

"You will be set off at 8 a.m. tomorrow and will arrive at your destination shortly before 9. Have a cup of tea at the railway station, and then proceed to interview Mr. S—. But remember to telegraph me at the first difficulty.

The next morning he received this wire:

SCHOOL WILL TRAIN MEN FOR WORK OF COMMERCE CHAMBER

Sessions Will Be Held in University of Wisconsin Buildings.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Men will be trained in the principles of chamber of commerce work at a school which will be held in Madison, Wis., this summer, in buildings of the University of Wisconsin. It is known as the Summer School of Community Leadership, and is conducted by the American City Bureau, Tribune Building, New York.

This unique school is an outgrowth of an exceptional demand for capable men in the commercial and civic organization field. More than 600 positions as managers, or assistant managers of chambers of commerce were filled during the past twelve months, most of them at salaries from $3,000 to $8,000 and more.

These men are being recruited from many fields of work. Of 521 chamber of commerce secretaries who replied to a recent questionnaire, 360 (about 70 per cent) were holding their first positions in this field. This same questionnaire indicated that about 35 per cent of the men engaged in this work are former newspapermen, 17 per cent were retailers, 14 per cent educators, 14 per cent in transportation work, 11 per cent salesmen, 10 per cent in manufacturing. Others have come from the insurance field, state, county and federal government service, the law, real estate, banking, wholesaling, agriculture and other equally diverse occupations.

Chamber of commerce work calls for men who can combine keen business sense with a wide vision and broad human sympathies. The work of the manager may involve organizing a credit bureau, leading a citizens' movement to bring about a better form of city government, arranging for the arbitration of industrial disputes, organizing and financing a corporation to provide needed housing, or a score of other equally varied undertakings.

The Summer School of Community Leadership will occupy twelve days, August 16 to 27. This will be its sixth annual convention. Last year 191 students attended, and it is expected that the attendance will be larger this year.

DANGERS FROM GAS WHILE MINING POTASH

Potash in Germany occurs in the form of a rock salt and runs in seams of 30 feet or more in thickness. As mined, it has about the same consistency as common rock salt of commerce and its grinding is easy. It is ground to about the fineness of a coarse sand; in this form it is used for domestic agriculture and at the present time it is also mostly exported in this form. The depths at which the true potash deposits are situated render it necessary to sink shafts leading to levels of as much as 5,000 feet below the surface. Horizontal cuttings extend up to two miles in length. The miners themselves are, unlike coal miners, entirely free from the danger of fire damp. Occasionally dangers arise from hydrogen, the blue flames of which may sometimes be seen flickering on the walls after a blasting operation in a newly-opened mine. Sulphuretted hydrogen has caused the death of a few miners and carbonic acid gas renders suffocation possible. A much more real danger is a sudden inflow of water, and one, too, which cannot be regulated. As a matter of fact, several of the more valuable mines have been wholly destroyed through such irruptions. As it was impossible to pump out the water owing to the soluble nature of the salts, these flooded mines had to be entirely abandoned, with the consequent loss of all invested capital.

PRINCESS TO EDUCATE CHESS PRODIGY

Russian Lad in Paris Beats Europe's Best Players.

PARIS, July 16.—Samuel Rzesesewski, aged 8, is the happiest boy in Paris today. He has not only succeeded in defeating the greatest chess players of France, Germany, Italy and England, but has attracted the attention of Princess George of Greece, who has expressed the intention of educating the youthful prodigy.

Samuel is like any American youngster of his age with a fondness for outdoors and an abhorrence of books, but the princess believes he can be induced to study if the dull routine of daily lessons is eliminated. She has conferred with Dr. Lebon, the greatest French psychologist, regarding the boy's training. The latter believes that Samuel's faculty of reasoning is replaced by an exceptional capacity for intuition, and this will be taken into account when the young Russian devotes his time to the intricate problems of geometry instead of playing kings and pawns on the checker board.

LONDONER REFUSED BAIL ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY FROM CARS

G. T. R. and Wabash-G. T. Men Receive Part of Their Back Pay.

ST. THOMAS, July 16.—Allan Hewitt of London, who was arrested a week ago for the alleged robbery of merchandise from a freight car on the London and Port Stanley Railway, was before the magistrate this morning, and pleading not guilty, was remanded for a further hearing until Wednesday next. His counsel asked that Hewitt be allowed out on a bail, but the crown attorney refused, stating that it would be inimical to the cause of justice if Hewitt were given temporary freedom. Hewitt is well taken care of in the jail by his friends in London.

INTERESTING TALKS AT POULTRY MEET

Preparations Reported Beigg Made For Annual Show in November.

At the regular monthly meeting of the London Poultry and Pet Stock Association held last evening the main topic under discussion was the caponizing of cockerels. A lecture was given by the president, R. Beamish, in which he explained that this operation caused the bird to gain in weight and in quality for marketing.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.P.P., gave a lecture on "The Swatting of the Rooster," by this is meant the abolishing of the rooster after the 1st of July. He said: "It is for the betterment of yourself, the cold storage packers and the public in general. No eggs turn bad when they are not fertile. They are much better eating and a higher price is always paid for them. We must co-operate with the farmers and help them do this. I am sure we can get the farmers' co-operative societies to help us, and the sooner we begin, the better it will be."

The annual bird show will be held November 9 to 12 at the poultry building at Queen's Park. Birds of all varieties from many parts in Western Ontario and the United States are expected. Last year 2,500 birds were entered, and the show was a huge success. This year the committee is hoping to make it a bigger success. Six hundred dollars in prizes will be awarded.

Six new members were initiated last night, and many other prospective new ones are expected at the next meeting, which will be held on August 20. The lecture at this meeting will be on "The Preparation of Birds for Exhibition."

VETERANS IN FAVOR OF AMALGAMATION

G. A. U. V. Urge Action To Unite All Returned Men in Canada.

At a meeting of the local command of the Grand Army of United Veterans held Friday night a resolution was passed to be forwarded to the Dominion executive urging that body to take steps to unite all organizations of returned soldiers in Canada. Further, the resolution asks for permission to hold a mass meeting in this city in the near future, to which all discharged soldiers will be invited to attend and thresh out the matter. Speakers at the meeting would include representatives of all local soldier organizations, and every angle of the question would be discussed in an effort to bring about a harmonious amalgamation. The resolution passed unanimously. A similar resolution has been passed by the local Veterans' Council and G. W. V. A., London veterans being the first to propose this radical change.

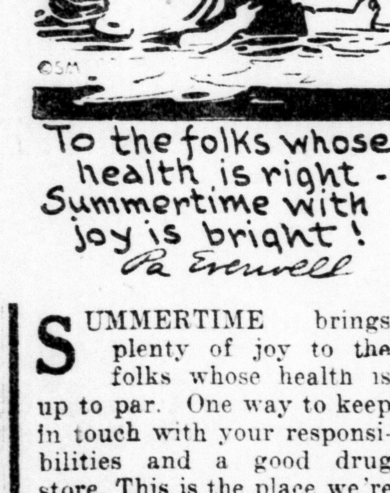

Optimistic reports were received from the committee in charge of arrangements for the G. A. U. V. picnic to be staged at Springbank on Saturday, July 31. Special cars will convey members and their families to the picnic grounds, where a bumper program of sports will be run off, to be followed in the evening by a free dance in the pavilion. Lieut.-Col. J. P. French presided at the meeting.

SUNDAY BAND CONCERT

The G. W. V. A. Band will give the following program in Queen's Park Sunday evening, weather permitting, at 8.30. The collection at the gates is in aid of the war memorial fund.

GREATER DRIVING CARE

Children Should Not Operate Cars in City.

New York, July 16.—With the summer period now in full swing, C. H. Larson of the Motor Club calls attention to the fact that in seashore and mountain resorts all over the United States children of 15 or 16 are being permitted to drive automobiles unmolested. Mr. Larson points out that the danger of accident in these places may not be great, but that the practice generally leads to serious accidents when followed in the city.

"Mere youths who believe that they understand all that there is to know about a car because of their experience in the country," Mr. Larson says, "attempt to drive in New York's crowded streets and tragic results are bound to occur in a number of instances.

"These children and their parents do not realize that a knowledge of the mechanical features of an automobile, and even a complete understanding of how to repair breaks, do not constitute a driver.

"It has been established before that the operation of a car calls for muscle, judgment, nerve and experience—and that these factors are every bit as important as the others. Proper judgment, which is the crowning attribute of the man at the wheel in a city such as New York, comes only with age. Running a machine in a quiet village is quite a different matter from running one on Broadway or Fifth avenue, where the brain must be quick and the hand steady.

"It must be borne in mind that an automobile is a dangerous weapon when in the hands of the uninitiated and its use must be watched.

"What we need particularly is a 'safety first' week, in which motorists all over the United States would ponder over admonitions and advice, and would have their brakes and clutches adjusted and would see that their fellow citizens were protected."

PROTEAN NOBLE IS LORD LYVEDEN

Nurseryman, Purser, Caterer, Actor, Producer, Naval Officer Becomes Bankrupt.

London, July 16.—Certainly Lord Lyveden has led a checkered career, of which the varied course ended in the London bankruptcy court recently. His public examination there revealed that he succeeded to his title and the estate in 1900, the estate being then valued at £60,000 to £70,000 ($300,000 to $350,000). His statement showed debts of £37,044, of which £10,760 are preferred. But preference does not much avail the creditors, for Lord Lyveden has absolutely no assets.

The founder of the house was a judge advocate-general in India and a member of Parliament, an elder brother of that famous wit, the Rev. Sydney Smith, canon of St. Paul's. Lord Lyveden's family name is Vernon, and the motto of his house is "Vernon Semper Viret" ("A Vernon always flourishes"). The motto seems to be half-punning. Translate it, if you please: "Everything sprouts in spring."

Yet this Vernon has been at various times a nurseryman, a ship's purser, a steamship caterer, an actor, a touring agent, a producer of revues, and an officer in the Royal Navy Volunteer Reserves.

The melancholy moral of this tale is that Lord Lyveden has been in the grasp of professional money-lenders for six years.

In 1915 he became interested with two other persons in the production of a revue called "There and Back." The name of this was afterwards changed to "Now Showing," but it was a failure, and he estimated that he lost £1,500 on it. In August, 1915, he and other persons entered into a verbal partnership to obtain contracts for army clothing for the British and Allied Governments. The necessary permit was not granted by the war office. In November, 1916, he entered into a scheme for the chartering from the Portuguese Government of certain interned enemy ships. The Portuguese would not part with the ships and he estimated his total loss at £2,000. His son found money for it.

From December, 1918, until June last he was employed in the cast of a comedy called "The Luck of the Navy" at £10 a week. He was now engaged at various music halls in sketches, and he hoped that certain contracts would mature in a few weeks' time. In August last he and two other persons produced a sketch called "A Little Camouflage," which was played at various music halls in London and the provinces, but after paying expenses they made no profit on its production.

He was afterwards interested in another sketch called "A Cuckoo's Nest" at three halls in London. That was a success, but he was compelled to take it off when he became bankrupt.

GERMAN WARSHIPS DUE IN U. S. AUG. 3

22,000-Ton Dreadnought and Four Others Leave Brest.

Washington, July 17.—The five German surface warships allocated to the United States sailed from Brest July 13 and are due to arrive at New York August 3, it was announced today at the navy department. The 22,000-ton dreadnought Ostfreisland is proceeding under her own power, but the armored cruiser Frankfurt and three destroyers are under tow by the transport Hancock and three American mine sweepers.

These four ships were incapable of self-propulsion, the Frankfurt's machinery having been irreparably damaged, while the destroyers were among the German vessels submerged at Scapa Flow. It is planned to open the vessels for inspection, it was said, shortly after their arrival at New York.

After remaining there two weeks, the destroyers will be towed to Norfolk.

Under a clause of the peace treaty, the German craft must be destroyed within a year after their arrival in this country.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

New York, July 17.—The stock market this week yielded much of the ground gained in the preceding period, reactions throughout the general list being attended by a lapse into the sluggishness which characterized June's operations.

The trading in bonds was relatively larger and broader, however, a firm tone prevailing, especially in several of the newly-listed issues, such as Swiss 8's and Belgians 7½'s, in which the high interest returns seemed to attract more than a little investment demand.

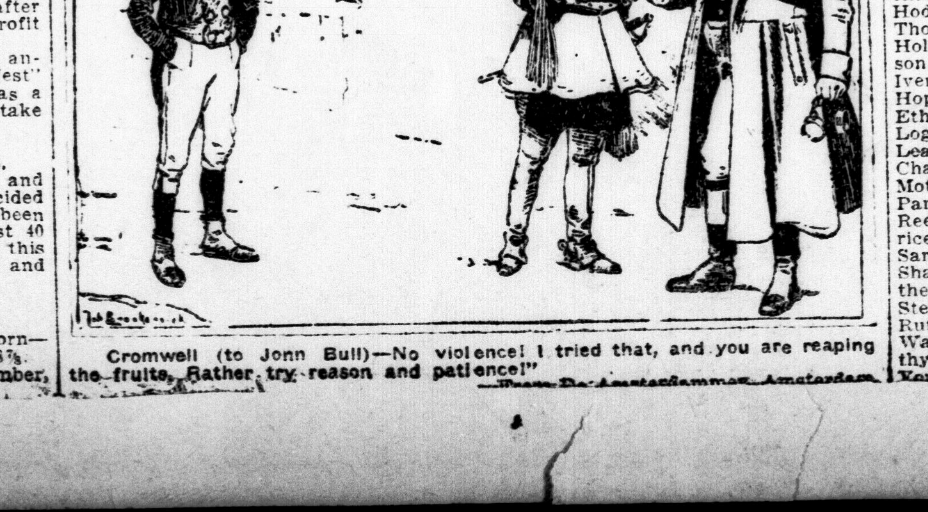

According to authoritative reports, the backward industrial movement shows signs of extending from the textile and leather trades to other important lines of manufacture, notably automobiles and related specialties. Shares of many of these companies were most susceptible to pressure.

Credits continued tense, although some loosening of funds was reported in the commercial paper market and at points where the crop movement is rapidly getting under way. Locally and at eastern centres generally little money was available for any but essential purposes.

The trend of foreign trade, as indicated by increased exports and reduced imports, probably contributed to the further deadlock in foreign exchange. A little more gold was received from London, but news that East India is in the market for the metal necessitates revision of estimates dealing with additional shipments to the United States.

WALL STREET.

New York, July 17—Wall Street, 10.30 a.m.—An advance of 8 points in Crucible Steel on over-night announcement of another stock dividend equal to 14.28 per cent, was the sole feature of interest at the opening of today's short session of the stock exchange. Other prominent issues were fractionally higher, further short covering being induced by the easier tone of the money market in yesterday's final dealings. Equipments, oils and motors benefited especially by the covering movement. Crucible lost almost half its rise within the first half hour on realizing sales.

Cromwell (to Jonn Bull)—No violence! I tried that, and you are reaping the fruits. Rather try reason and patience!" —From De Amsterdammer, Amsterdam.

DO WOMEN RULE OWN FASHIONS?

London "Blue Stockings" Differ About It in Discussion At Lyceum Club.

London, July 16.—Whether feminine whims or external forces control changes in style was debated by some literary women at the Lyceum Club. There were almost as many verdicts as there were speakers, but some unusually high-brow views on clothes were revealed by the talkers.

"Dress is the visible expression of the inner soul," was the simple and enlightening way one woman opened the debate, and then followed for several hours epigrams on fashions like these:

"When women design their own dresses they will make a far better job of it than men."

"Women have not yet emerged from the emotional stage of development. As long as they remain in that stage they will continue to be exploited by male dress designers."

"It is impossible to control fashion, because fashion is the expression of the spirit of the time."

"Some women try to stick to a beautiful fashion, but when it has ceased to be fashionable it has ceased to be expressive, and those who persist in wearing it are uncomfortably conscious of wearing something that is dead."

"It is untrue to say that women dress to please men. There are women who are perfectly happy to wear a beautiful dress, whether anyone sees it or not."

"There are girls who have such a passion for wearing beautiful clothes—just for the pleasure of wearing them—that they insist upon becoming mannequins."

"One cannot be intellectual and dress well at the same time."

"The crinoline is not likely to return as long as straphanging lasts."

"The psychologist can learn much by observing the most prevalent colors in dress. Before the war there was much yellow and black. When next these colors become popular look out for another war."

One speaker dragged the queen and past and present courts into the argument. "Dress was least artistic in the Elizabethan period," she asserted. "But it is perhaps a pity that the queen, in her desire to encourage economy, has not retained the train for court functions. The old courts were very beautiful.

Whether Queen Mary will revive her present idea regarding court dress is a question, but it is a fact that the three evening dresses which have been approved by the queen for court wear and are now being exhibited at the lord chamberlain's office in St. James' Place, do not altogether coincide with the views expressed at the Lyceum Club.

Although the queen does not desire to dictate what shall be worn at court, she wants to give a general idea to dressmakers and women who will go to court, of the type of evening dress she considers suitable. She has compromised between the elaborate dresses of the old drawing-rooms and the advanced fashions of today. Long trains and feathered head dresses are ruled out, but a filmy suggestion of a sleeve is retained, and the vogue of the shoulder-strap is not recognized.

The three dresses are designed, respectively, for a debutante, a young matron and a dowager. In each case the sleeve extends only about one-third of the way to the elbow, and there is only the slightest suggestion of any shoulder covering.

The bare-back fashion has been ruled out, but a generous "V" is allowed, and in the design for the young matron's dress the "V" reaches nearly to the waist.

There is no necessity to wear a train any longer, though the design for the dowager shows a short one. In fact, the queen wishes women to go to court in ordinary evening dress.

FRANCE LOSING ITS PRESIDENT

Nervous BreakdownWill Force His Resignation, Writer Is Informed.

Paris, July 16.—From the same high source which during the last few months has given out weekly interpretations of the French official viewpoint on both external and internal politics, comes the following statement on the situation at the Elysee:

"The accident to the president of the republic is a consequence of a nervous breakdown, from which he has suffered for more than a month. He is a victim if the overwork which he imposed upon himself to acquire the popularity that his personality had never assured except in parliament.

"Today he can no longer fulfill the functions of his office.

"A repose of many months is necessary, a repose that will be complete and far from the official residences, where political life would follow him. Without doubt it will be in Savoy, where he will seek the mountain air for the re-establishment of his strength.

"There is no doubt here whether he will succeed, and the most important personages of the Government consider that the presidential crisis now is an open one.

"Little by little the president will be led to resign. Between now and then candidates for the succession will be prepared. The future will show the exactitude of this prognostication. The absence of the president will not disturb the life of the country, because he is not the chief of government, but the chief of state, who does not play an active role except in times of crisis.

"Today there is no crisis, not even a ministerial crisis, on the horizon. However, the French public, which loves official pomp, will not stand long for this vacancy of the supreme office. A case similar to that of President Wilson could not exist here. So if M. Deschanel does not speedily recover he must renounce the office which he so ardently desired."

Nothing concerning the gravity of the situation has yet appeared in the French press, the only allusion being a cartoon in Humanite, showing the president's physician standing in front of the Elysee, with Poincare, Clemenceau, Ribot and Leon Bourgeois, all hat in hand, bowing before him and asking him if it is true that the patient must retire.

POLYGAMY CERTAIN CLAIMS AUTHORESS

British Woman Declares West Will Accept What East Has Recognized.

London, July 16.—The reduction that polygamy eventually will become a fixture in the domestic life of the new world as it is of the old is contained in an article in the Daily Express by Gertie de S. Wentworth James, noted British authoress. The scarcity of husbands, the authoress asserts will bring this about.

"The law of supply and demand," Miss James writes, "is the only force which governs the romantic and social sides of the world as well as the business and commercial ones.

"This being the case, the three most valuable commodities of the moment are man, the domestic servant and butter—and man, being in the greatest demand, is the most valuable of the three!

"And when any article increases in demand and decreases in supply it is obvious that no one individual can enjoy the same exclusive possession as formerly. Therefore, the obvious result of these deductions is a grudging and horrified belief in the prophecy that in due course polygamy will become established and recognized in the west as it is in the east.

Change in Sex Laws.

"I particularly accentuate the word recognized because it will be in the recognition of a social condition which permits of one man providing the love interest in the lives of several women that the sex laws of tomorrow will differ markedly from the sex laws of today.

"Today it is done all the time, but we don't recognize it. And as, tacitly, and secretly, many of us now accept the fact of a shared man, so in a frighteningly short space of time shall we do so openly and uncomplainingly.

"Is the recently reported case of Mrs. Cora Spiker (who even went to the Spartan lengths of being photographed with her husband's "affinity" and their baby) the thin end of the big wedge of polygamy which soon will be inserted into the fissures of our social structure?

"One western woman has accepted the situation and others may be willing to do the same, yet I know there is not a wife or sweetheart in Europe who wouldn't sooner discover her man to be guilty of almost any criminal offence than to have him even so much as think of another woman!

Feel Like Goddesses.

"We have grown so used to being looked up to like goddesses and being housed and fed and kept and having our bills paid and our parcels carried, and getting doors opened for us and seats given up to us, that we have gradually put our own value at such an absurdly high standard that some sort of an awakening was bound to come.

"And that awakening began when the first brave boy dropped on the battlefields of Flanders. From that moment the always scarce man became scarcer and scarcer, until today there are thousands and thousands of young, healthy women, ripe and sweet with the glorious instinct of maternity, who can never be mothers while the 'forsaking-all - others -and-'cleave-only-unto-her' sentence is maintained in the marriage service.

"It is my opinion that no man—not even the sight of a male thing—is better than a shared man, and that the main glory and rapture of love is a mutual fidelity. I think this and thousands of other women think so with me; but I am afraid there are thousands more who don't.

"Thousands there are—and some do not mind confessing it—who would rather achieve the divinely ordered fulfillment of their womanhood without the joyous certainty of being the 'one,' than not achieve it at all."

WHITE HOUSE HAS PEDIGREED TREE

"Grandson" of Oak At Tomb of Washington Returns Home.

Washington, July 16.—For its Hall of Fame the American Forestry Association which is collecting data on trees throughout the world, brings to light the fact that a Russo-American oak was planted in White House grounds April 6, 1904.

From the facts obtained in army files the relations between this country and Russia have changed somewhat from the time when acorns from the tree at the tomb of George Washington were planted in the grounds of one of the palaces of "His Imperial Majesty," the Emperor of All the Russias."

History Written Since.

The tree in the White House grounds, planted by Theodore Roosevelt is still standing, the American Forestry Association points out, and as far as known the trees in the palace grounds maybe, but the government of "the emperor of all the Russias" has changed to a great extent. Much history has been written since Charles Sumner, senator from Massachusetts, sent the acorns from the tree at Mount Vernon to the czar of Russia.

These trees grew and acorns from them were in turn sent back to America, and on April 6, 1904, President Roosevelt, Secretary Wilson and Secretary Hitchcock planted this Russo-American oak on the lawn east of the west terrace of the White House. Little did they know that on another, April 6, the United States of America would declare war on Imperial Germany, a war in which Russia would be involved, and as a result of which "the emperor of all the Russias" would be dethroned and pass into an exile around which much mystery has been thrown.

Czar Gets Acorns.

In the files of the army which has jurisdiction over all government land in the District of Columbia, he American Forestry Association finds the following notation made by E. A. Hitchcock, formerly secretary of the interior:

"While ambassador at the court of St. Petersburg, I made inquiry with respect to the disposition of some acorns that the Hon. Charles Sumner, while United States senator from Massachusetts, is said to have sent to his imperial majesty the czar, the acorns having been taken from a massive oak shading the original tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon.

"These acorns were planted on what is known as 'Czarina Island,' which is included in the superb surroundings of one of the palaces of his imperial majesty near Peterhof, and there I found a beautiful oak with a tablet at its foot bearing a Russian inscription, the translation of which is as follows:

From Washington's Tomb.

" 'The acorn planted here was taken from an oak which shades the tomb of the celebrated and never-to-be-forgotten Washington; is presented to his imperial majesty, the emperor of all the Russians, as a sign of the greatest respect. —By an American.'

"I was fortunate at the time of my visit, which was in the fall of 1898, in finding a number of acorns on the ground that had been dropped from this historic tree. Gathering a handful I sent them home, and secured from the seed thus planted a few oak saplings, one of which is here and now planted with the kind permission of President Roosevelt, in the grounds of the White House.

"Another is to be planted in a few days near by its grandparent, which is still in existence at Mount Vernon, both of which young trees, I hope, will reach such age and strength as will for years to come, typify the continued friendship of the governments and people, respectively, of the United States and Russia each for the other."

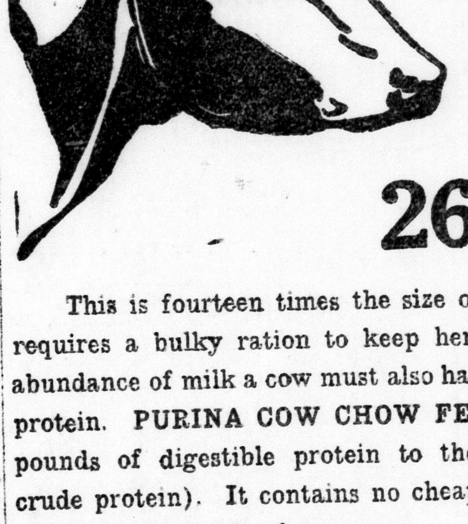

In Hall of Fame.

"This 'grandson' of the tree at Washington's tomb which came to us via Russia, is certainly entitled to a place in our Hall of Fame," said Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry Association today. "This is but an example of the unique history connected with trees that is being reported to us from all parts of the world."

Some recent nominations for the Hall of Fame are the Kit Carson tree, on which the famous Indian scout carved his name and date in 1841; the tree on Boston Common; the Constitutional Elm at Corydon, Ind.; the Naturalization Tree at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.; the Lover's Oak at Brunswick, Ga.; the Sir Joseph Hooker Oak at Chicago, Cal.; the Wye Mills Oak at Easton, Md.

QUANTITIES OF CANADIAN SUGAR CROSS BORDER

Removal of the Restrictions Makes U. S. Prices Attractive Here.

OTTAWA, July 16.—(Canadian Press)—Removal of the restrictions on the export of sugar is causing great quantities of Canadian sugar to be sent out of the country, especially from Ontario points, to the United States, according to advices received here. It is stated that even small storekeepers are exporting. Under the board of commerce regulations, the profit is restricted to 5 per cent. In the United States the demand is abnormal, and there is no control of prices, while Canadian exporters also have the benefit of the exchange.

The Government recently proposed to take authority to regulate the export of any commodity, but this legislation, after being referred to a special committee, was dropped.

MACBRIDE MAY YET CONTEST SEAT WITH W. F. COCKSHUTT, M.P.

Independent Labor Party of Brantford Preparing For Federal Election.

BRANTFORD, July 16.—The Brantford Independent Labor party will place a candidate in the federal riding of Brantford in the next Dominion election, which members of the party believe is not far distant. A secret meeting of the party was held this evening, at which the decision was arrived at and a committee of selection was named to present a list of possible candidates on Friday evening next. The party will make a selection from this list two weeks from that date.

Mayor M. M. MacBride, M.P.P., has in times past announced his intention of contesting the seat in the federal house with W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., and political gossip has it that Mayor MacBride, who is the Independent Labor party representative in the Legislature, will get the nomination for the Federal House.

MOORE SAYS DRURY'S "STALLING COMMIS'N" WOULD STOP RADIALS

Trades Union Head Denounces Policy of Premier As Opposed To Labor.

OTTAWA, July 16.—That the commission appointed by Premier Drury was a "stalling commission" which would result in the stoppage of the hydro radial purchase project until next spring, in defiance of the policies enunciated from year to year by organized labor, and expressed at the poll by municipalities, was the statement made by President Tom Moore at the allied trades and labor meeting.

President Moore was replying to a statement made by Delegate McDowell, in which the latter stood by Premier Drury in the attitude he had taken on the question of the Ontario radials, saying that as the Government had to be responsible for the bonds, he would be betraying the trust of the electorate if he did not first ascertain what the project was going to cost.

President Moore stated that he did not know whether he would be branded unfair, but he wanted to say that while he supported the Labor-Farmer Government, he was also an independent trades unionist.

"The Drury Government attempts to thwart the policies rather than be subservient to the Labor-Farmer Government. This is not meant as a challenge to the Government, but the farmer element must take cognizance of the policies laid down by organized labor before embarking upon such a source as it is at present adopting. The alliance must be one of equal partnership, and not one of the lion and the mouse, with the latter inside the lion. I owe no adologies to anyone for protecting the policy of the movement of which I am the head."

A Strange Fact About Indigestion

A strange fact about indigestion with which comparatively few people are acquainted, is that nine times out of ten pain in the stomach after eating is due to food fermentation and acidity; which, as any doctor or druggist can tell you, is almost instantly relieved by taking a teaspoonful of pure Bi-nesia (powder form) in a little hot water immediately after eating or whenever pain is felt. Pure Bi-nesia is obtainable of druggists everywhere and if everyone would adopt this simple plan, indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, gas and flatulence would soon be unknown.

French Armies Move Upon Syrian Kingdom To Enforce Mandate

Sent 24-Hour Ultimatum, Demanding That Syria Accept French Language and Currency As Official — Syrians Offer No Resistance.

LONDON, July 17.—The French have begun operations in Syria, moving toward Aleppo and Damascus, according to a report printed in the London Times this morning.

Advices have been received in London, say the Times, that the French on Wednesday sent a 24-hour ultimatum to Feisal, King of Syria, demanding his acquiescence in the French mandate for Syria, and also in the adoption of French as the official language, and French currency as the currency of Syria.

On Thursday at the expiration of the 24 hours, say the Times, the French opened hostilities in two columns, one directed against Aleppo, and the other against Damascus.

According to the latest reports, the Arabs were reported to have offered no resistance. The French were said to be using 80 battalions, including both French and Senegalese troops. The forces are equipped with tanks and aeroplanes.

PLAYING THE PONIES AND STRANGE FRIENDS A COSTLY EXPERIENCE

Indianapolis Women Minus Money and Wardrobe After Windsor Races.

WINDSOR, July 16.—Mrs. Edna White, daughter of a Methodist Church worker of Indianapolis, and Mrs. John Orr, wife of a prominent merchant of that city, came to Detroit to visit the races at Windsor. On the train they made the acquaintance of an engaging young woman, aged 19, who revealed an unsophisticated line and a desire to be friendly. Arrived in "the big town" the ladies registered at the St. Clair Hotel, while their new-found friend said she would stay with friends.

Had Honest Face.

Being accustomed to playing the ponies through betting commissioners, the lady visitors commenced hunting for a bookie in Windsor, ignoring the pari mutuels, and found a youth with an honest face, a friend of the train acquaintance, and intrusted their money to him.

Money and Wardrobe Gone.

Visiting the track the ladies also played the machines, picked "dogs" who romped in, "dogs" that may still be running, and then returned to their hotel. But the honest young man and the unsophisticated young lady had disappeared, taking all the money supposed to have been "placed" on the horses and the wardrobe valued at several hundred dollars, of the "wise ones" from Indianapolis.

They are game though, and intend staking their last cent on the ponies tomorrow.

COLORED MAN RUNS AMUCK AT WINDSOR

Fired At Horse Owner and Police, But Hit No One.

WINDSOR, July 16.—Coming up as a stableman with a string of horses from Jacksonville, Florida, and partaking too liberally of Canadian whiskey, Robert Jackson, colored, a stable attendant at the Windsor Jockey Club race track, ran amuck late last night, pulled out a revolver, fired a fusillade at a prominent horse owner, later turned the weapon on County Constables Fitzgerald and Reid, and was only arrested after a hearty scuffle.

The row originated in an argument in the horse stalls at the rear of the betting ring, and when words failed to carry sufficient weight the colored man opened fire on the owner, who is said to have had a considerable quantity of liquor cached in a stall with one of his horses.

When the police arrived Jackson took refuge behind a tree, opened fire on the officers, and was only captured when one of his friends took part in the contest and wrested the gun away from him. The owner dispeared and has not yet been located. Jackson appeared in the Windsor police court today and was remanded until Monday. Joseph Harney, another well-known horseman, said to have had a supply of liquor, was also apprehended.

COAL LOST IN RIVER.

WINDSOR, July 16.—When the docks along the Detroit River at the foot of Ferry street, Windsor, gave way this afternoon, 200 tons of coal, owned by the Detroit, Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry Company, slid over into the river. Although efforts have been made to recover it, they were futile, and the coal is considered lost beyond recall. The 200 tons is a day's supply.

WHEAT BOARD WILL NOT TOUCH CROP THIS YEAR

Pre-War Methods To Prevail Unless Control Becomes Necessary.

OTTAWA, July 16.—The Government has decided that the present wheat board will not function, in so far as the wheat crop of 1920 is concerned. The marketing of this crop will revert to the usual and normal methods of pre-war times.

The Government will, however, carefully watch the conditions outside of Canada, and will exercise the right to proclaim the enabling legislation of last session if circumstances make it necessary so to act in the public interest. From the present point of view it is hoped that no such action will be found necessary.

Legislation passed a few weeks ago enabled the Government to constitute a wheat board in continuance of the present board. The wheat board, under the bill, was to have well-defined powers and could be called into operation by proclamation in the Canada Gazette should circumstances make it necessary.

WINDSOR BARRISTER ATTACKS ACTION OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Prison Sentences For First Offences Against Liquor Laws Are Instructions.

WINDSOR, July 16.—"It has come to a pretty state of affairs when the attorney-general of the province dictates to the judiciary as to what sentences a magistrate can impose upon violators of liquor laws," declared Frank W. Wilson, prominent Windsor barrister today, in an attack upon recent measures taken by Toronto authorities to curb rum-running on the Essex border.

The attorney-general has advised the magistrate in future to impose prison terms for first offences, and, according to the new version of the law, first offences are vastly different to what they previously were.

The new policy is to have all liquor purchasers prove that goods consigned to them are not for sale, but for their own use. If the purchaser is unable to satisfy the court to this end, and in black and white, the liquor will be confiscated, even if he has made no attempt to sell a drop. Previously if the importation for sale could not be prove the liquor was returned and a check kept on the supply, and if it disappeared too fast prosecution naturally followed.

"It is going a step too far when a man is summoned to court to satisfy the court of the good faith of his purchase and is penalized for, at the very worst, a mere supposed intention to do a wrongful act," added the lawyer.

LIFE IN LATIN QUARTER TO BE SHOWN IN MOVIES

Paris, July 16.—Paris' world-famous Latin quarter is to be exploited. A syndicate has been formed to reveal the students and their haunts in motion pictures, lectures and magazine articles. Material is now being collected for an exhibition of drawings, sketches and etchings dealing with the life of the students at the Paris University since it was founded.

Great as has been the role played in the intellectual history of Europe by the Sorbonne, which is in the heart of the Latin quarter, not nearly so much publicity has been given to the manners and customs of its students as to those of the undergraduates of the great English universities.

OTTAWA, July 16.—"Very promising" is the verdict of Dr. John Amyot, Dominion deputy minister of health, after seeing for himself the work of Dr. Glover of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, in experimenting for the cure of cancer. Dr. Amyot returned this morning from Toronto. He was guarded in his statements about Dr. Glover's work, believing that publicity at this time would not be beneficial.

MOTOR CATTLE RUSTLERS.

REGINA, Sask., July 16.—The motor car, it seems, has achieved another success by winding its advent into the cattle rustling business. The old and well-known practice of cattle rustlers when they used to drive their stolen herds before them, is now a thing of the past. A few days ago three calves were rustled from herds near Bengough and spirited across the International border in two motor cars. Three of the rustlers were arrested on this side of the line and two others in Montana and are now awaiting trial.

WOMEN IN SYMPATHY WITH PREMIER'S STAND ON HYDRO RADIAL

WOODSTOCK, July 16.—The members of the Beavers' U. F. W. O. Club are in sympathy with Premier Drury in his attitude on the hydro-radial question. At their last regular meeting at the home of Miss Graeme McDonald they went on recod to this effect.

They are also keenly interested in the matter of having medical inspection for the rural schools, and in seeing that the by-law respecting sanitation at the rural schools is strictly enforced.

With these two latter questions in mind Mrs. Leon Blatchford and Mrs. R. H. Marshall will wait on the West Zorra council, and Mrs. S. P. Fraser and Mrs. D. G. Murray on the East Zorra council for the purpose of obtaining co-operation in the matter. The musical program of the meeting was contributed by the junior members of the club, and was much enjoyed.

TURK NATIONALISTS ATTACK GREEK SHIPS IN THE BLACK SEA

Dominate All Anatolia Ports and Frighten Entente. Shipowners.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 16.—(By the Associated Press).—The Turkish Nationalists have begun an attack upon Greek shipping in the Black Sea. The Greek steamer Filia, on entering Kerason, west of Trebizond, from Batum, on July 14, was seized by Nationalists who took the vessel's officers prisoner, put Turks in charge and seized 7,000,000 rubles.

The Filia wirelessed Constantinople for help, but the 1,000-ton ship, with its valuable cargo is still held. All Anatolia Black Sea ports are dominated by the Nationalists. Consequently, entente ships are not willing to make calls, unless convoyed by warships.

Why the Power to Win Comes From Rich, Red Blood---

THE KIND NUXATED IRON HELPS MAKE

You Must Keep Your Blood Filled With Iron If You Want the Mighty Strength and Tireless Energy to Take First Place and Hold It, Says Physician.

It is the men of blood and iron who win, whether it be in the gruelling endurance test of a Marathon or in the hard-fought Race for Success. The weak, thin-blooded men fall by the wayside, their strength and power sapped by Lack of Iron—often at the very moment when the goal seems within reach.

"No man who neglects to fortify his blood with strength-giving, health-building iron can expect other than failure and defeat—he is no match for the strong, red-blooded fellow, whose endurance and power knows no bounds," says Dr. H. B. Vail, formerly Physician in the Baltimore Hospital and a Medical Examiner.

"Countless numbers of men," he continues, "who started off in life with youthful strength and vigor, determined to win, find themselves today on the verge of a physical and nervous breakdown, simply because they failed to keep their blood filled with stamina-building iron. In the mad race for success they have allowed long hours, worry and overwork to drain from their blood the iron which had formerly given them the strength and endurance to keep on. Yet other men go through life apparently possessing, year after year, the elasticity, the strength and the energy of earlier days, for they have within them the never-failing source of courage, confidence and power—pure, red blood, rich in iron. Where others hesitate and stumble, these men go forward with a firm step and take the best prizes of life. Their brains are keenly alive, their bodies are fortified with the strength and energy that enables them to take and keep the best the world has to offer. It is surprising how many people who do not get along in life are in reality suffering from iron deficiency and do not know it. To help make men strong and red-blooded there is nothing in my experience which I have found so valuable as organic iron—Nuxated Iron. In case after case I have seen Nuxated Iron begin to give weak, nervous, run-down men new vigor, energy and endurance in only two weeks' time."

Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of New York City, says: "Weakened by the heavy drains upon their nerve force and physical strength, many men are held back in life by lack of iron in the blood. Their thin, pale, watery blood has utterly lost the power to send energy and power through the body, and as a result they are without the endurance to keep on—they are forced to drop back among the weaklings and failures—beaten because their blood is literally starving for health-giving iron. Today, it is red blood—rich in iron—such as Nuxated Iron helps to build, that gives men the force, energy and power to conquer obstacles and become virtually masters of their own destinies." If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test:

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again, and see how much you have gained. Many an athlete and prizefighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance which comes from having plenty of iron in the blood, while many another has gone down to ingloricus defeat simply for lack of iron.

Are YOU Falling Or Going Ahead? If others Pass You in the Race of Life It May Be Due To Lack of Iron in Your Blood.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped, and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists. Glaring Sun, Dust and Heat Strain, Injure and Weaken Eyes, Says Dr. Lewis. Prescribes Bon-Opto in Hot Weather

Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent in a Week's Time in Many Instances.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Dr. Lewis, an eye specialist of many years' practice, says summer time is hard on eyes, because the glare of the sun, heat and dust injure and weaken them. He says it is possible to strengthen eyesight wonderfully in a very short time by using Bon-Opto. He prescribes it freely and further says: "A patient came to me suffering from Blepharitis Marginalis. Her eyes had the dull expression common to such cases. She used Bon-Opto and not only overcame her distressing condition, but so strengthened her eyesight that she was able to dispense with her distance glasses. Her headache and neuralgia left her. In this instance I should say her eyesight was improved 100 per cent." The doctor's advice will prove of great value to many eye sufferers. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seemed clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes, so as to be spared the trouble and expense of getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules.

Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bop-opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

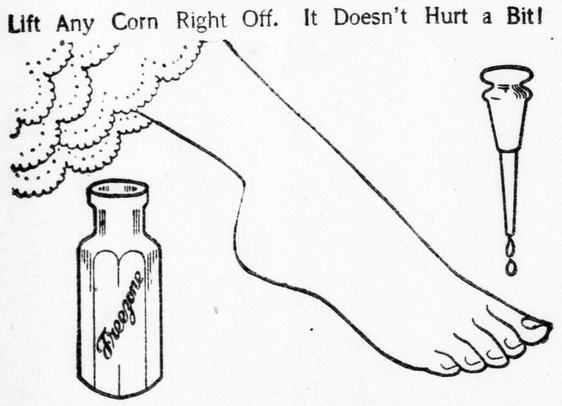

NOTE—Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family. It is sold in London by Standard Drug Stores and Strong's Drug Store, and other druggists.

TASK AS DANGEROUS AS DEEP SEA DIVER'S IS SAND HOG'S WORK

Work To Depth of 80 Feet On Detroit Bridge Foundations.

EXCAVATE FOR PIERS

Workmen Hourly Face Death Through Being Buried Alive or Drowned.

Detroit, July 16.—A task as dangerous as that of the deep-sea diver is that of the "sand-hogs" who are making possible the replacing of foundations under the Dix avenue bascule bridge near Miller road.

These sand-hogs, who work to a depth of 80 feet below the surface of the water, down into 64 feet of soil, to make excavations for the piers, hourly face death through being buried alive, drowned or falling a victim of paralysis. Of course, every safeguard is used.

The channel of the Rouge River is being widened and deepened by the government to 22 feet.

Four piers are being sunk at the corners of the old foundations. It is to sink these piers to 80 feet that the services of the "sand-hogs" are necessary. They work in a hollow box, which is sunk gradually under water, and through the sand until it reaches rock bottom. The bottom of this box is shod with bent steel plates forming an edge which cuts into the earth as it is sunk.

Partition Is Laid.

At a height of about seven feet above this cutting edge a partition of heavy timbers is laid, thus making the working chamber about 12 feet square and 7 feet high. Above the top of this working chamber the sides of the box are built up to act as forms to hold the concrete of the pier proper.

When this framework or "caisson" is completed a sectional steel tube is started up through the roof of the working chamber which acts as a manhole for men to climb in or out.

The first stage of sinking this caisson pier to its resting place is to pour five or six feet of concrete into the open box on top of the roof of the working chamber. The steel cutting edge is now resting on the ground, and the first section of the steel tube on the working shaft is in place like a large smokestack, through the roof of the chamber. When the concrete is hardened sufficiently the caisson is ready to be sunk through the soil.

Three or four working men go down through the steel shaft into the working chamber to start excavating. As the soil is excavated by an hydraulic method the weight of the timber and concrete of the caisson forces the pier to sink. For this purpose two pipes pass in to the roof of the working chamber, one of which is connected with a powerful pump and discharges water at high pressure through a hose and nozzle in the working chamber. The other pipe is a discharge pipe through which the water mixed with soil is discharged.

Air Is Introduced.

As the cutting edge gets below water level compressed air must be introduced to prevent the water from flowing in. It is at this stage that the work of the sand-hog becomes important. They now pump out by means of an air siphon, and as the wooden box sinks the working chamber is built up higher and additional sections put into the steel manhole shaft. At each successive stage a new lot of concrete is poured in, thus causing the box to sink still farther.

As the depth becomes greater more compressed air has to be introduced to keep the water and soil from forcing their way into the working chamber. If this were allowed to happen the sand-hogs would be trapped and buried alive or drowned. But, as the air pressure increases it becomes increasingly difficult for the sand-hogs to work for any great length of time without coming out into the normal atmosphere. But neither the danger of being drowned nor the danger of being buried alive is the greatest which the sand-hog risks. His arch enemy is "the bends" or "Little Jim," a form of partial paralysis resulting from work under abnormal air conditions. Its chief cause is a too sudden change from high air pressure to ordinary atmospheric pressure.

Pressure Is Equalized.

To guard against this contingency it is necessary for a man coming out of the working chamber to climb into the manhole shaft above, where a door is closed behind him. The attendant in the shaft slowly allows the compressed air to escape through a valve in the door at the top of the shaft until the pressure within the shaft has equalized with that of the free air outside. Then the door at the top of the shaft drops and the sand-hog climbs out. On going into the working chamber the process is reversed. On the inside of the shaft is a wooden chamber for climbing in and out. Both the shaft and the working chamber are lighted by electricity.

To the greenhorn there are several peculiar and unforgettable sensations on first going under high pressure air. He wears oilskins to protect his clothing from the water, muck and grime, and then steps into the top of the shaft. The attendant closes the door and the valve is turned. With a whistling the denser air begins to invade the shaft.

Causes Acute Pain.

The novice has been previously instructed as to certain necessary precautions, so when the sensation of pressure sets up an acute pain in his ears he immediately closes his mouth and nose and inflates his cheeks. This process tends to open certain minute channels behind the ear drums which connect to the throat, and with each release of these channels one can feel his ears "crack." At the same time one chews gum to create saliva and force him not to forget to swallow as the process of swallowing also aids these minute channels to open intermittently and thus equalize the pressure.

If the pain becomes too acute the attendant is signalled to stop letting in the compressed air until one has time to let his "inwards" catch up with his "outwards." However, finally the greenhorn hears the door open below and knows that he is under full pressure. His surprise at this time is to notice that words spoken or shouted within a few feet of his ears sound distant and the voices of his companions are strange and strained.

Sensation Reversed.

He next finds on trying that it is impossible to whistle, no matter how hard he may try—the air at high pressure becomes too dense to be disturbed by the efforts of the lips and lungs to make a whistling sound. The case is similar to that of trying to whistle under water. These sensations are reversed when the novice returns to the free air outside, and it is in this locking out process that the greatest danger from the bends lies.

After the caisson pier finally reaches its resting place on solid-bearing soil the working chambers and the manhole shaft are filled with concrete. The final result is a solid concrete pier about 12 feet square and 80 or more feet deep, resting on the solid soil far below the surface.

This work is being carried on under the direction of the board of county road commissioners of Wayne County, consisting of Edward N. Hines, chairman; John S. Haggerty and William F. Butler.

EUROPE FACING DISEASE PERIL

Typhus, Cholera, Smallpox Taking Heavy Toll—World Outlook Grave.

London, July, 16.—Dr. Royal S. Copeland, president of the board of health of New York City, has returned from the international health conference in Brussels impressed with the grave view the European health outlook presents to the world.

"There are typhus in Poland, cholera in the Balkans, smallpox in Italy, and plague in the Mediterranean ports," he said. "Now there is to be a Moslem pilgrimage to Mecca and Medina in the middle of July, which will constitute a new peril as a possible cholera and plague carrier. The only effective international health authority in Europe is the British, which has an international branch under a most capable chief.

London Milk Germ-laden.

"Britain also is far ahead of us in facing the housing problem, which it recognizes as a public utility. I have been attending the Interallied Housing conference here, where an effort is being made to cope with the problem which we ought to have to solve in New York without delay.

"Bad milk is a great menace to the health of London, as it is practically all germ infected by insanitary conditions prevailing on the farms. London milk we call in New York 'Grace C' milk, which is only allowed for cooking. Lord Astor, as health minister, is striving to improve milking conditions, but the farmers everywhere are hard to move.

Smallpox Sweeps Glasgow.

"There is now a smallpox epidemic in Glasgow, where, with less than a million population, there have been 284 cases in three weeks. It is noteworthy that 61 out of 82 children under 16 infected were never vaccinated, while no vaccinated child has died. When I return to New York I intend to advocate very strongly the revaccination of all persons who have been unvaccinated for seven years.

"I believe there must be some international health authority set up in the general interest for each country affected by the health and especially by the epidemic conditions in every other country. We in New York may be affected by the results of these pilgrimages as we certainly are by the conditions of disease now prevailing in Europe."

DON'T PACK WARDROBE FOR FRANCE IF YOU ARE A WOMAN, ADVICE

Knights of Columbus Worker Says Difficulties Are Intolerable.

Detroit, July 16.—No matter how strongly wanderlust may be crying out in you this summer to pack your wardrobe trunk, don't pack it with France as your ultimate destination, if you are a woman. If you do, you'll come back a sadder and wiser member of the sex."

This is a bit of warning Miss Mabel Callahan brings back with her from France after having spent five months abroad engaged in secretarial work for the forthcoming Knights of Columbus pilgrimage to Europe.

Miss Callahan is the last Knights of Columbus girl worker to return from abroad. While there she did considerable traveling and knows the difficulties whereof she speaks.

"It is the red tape and the train service that will prove so intolerable to the woman traveler in France this summer," she said, in discussing traveling conditions abroad.

"Everywhere in France," says Miss Callahan, "the red tape is enough to take the heart out of any traveler, no matter how ambitious he or she may be. Fines for failures to observe all the various rules and regulations are heavy. The many railroad strikes on the continent delay transportation. In many instances a train is detoured from its regular route and you are left stranded in some country to which you have no passport. Then you may have to wait weeks before the necessary passport arrives.

"It took me from half-past eleven in the morning until 8 o'clock at night to reach Verdun from Paris," said Miss Callahan. "It is a journey that should not take over two hours. That is just an example of what one runs up against all the time."

Traveling arrangements are so difficult that the French Government has urged the Knights of Columbus not to include women in their pilgrimage. Hence there will be none in the party that leaves in August for the presentation of the statue of Lafayette, by Paul Bartlett, which the knights are giving to the French Government. The statue is to be erected at Metz, at a cost of $50,000.

"The French are enthusiastic over this statue. Marshal Foch is one of the most ardent admirers of the project. In Rome the Pope will entertain the K-C pilgrims and the Vatican choirs sing for them before the choirs leave Rome for their second American tour.

STRIKE OF THOUSANDS OF CHINESE STUDENTS FAILS, SAYS REPORT

Shanghai, July 16.—A strike of thousands of students throughout China to compel the Peking Government to disclaim all intention of opening direct negotiations with Japan concerning a settlement of the Shantung problem has failed. Leaders of the national student organization in Shanghai attributed its failure to lack of popular sympathy and untimeliness.

Before going on strike, student leaders called upon the Government to issue a public disclaimer and demanded that the Peking authorities publish all secret agreements made with Japan. The Government ignored the ultimatum. About 30,000 Chinese quit their classes in Shanghai, and thousands of others went on strike in others of the 14 provinces. They remained out for a month or more and then called off the strike.

WHAT IS A LUXURY? IS QUESTION AS YET WITHOUT AN ANSWER

Various Organizations Try To Determine What Constitutes One.

Writer Says To Dismiss Them As Children of Selfishness Is Unjust.

Discussing the efforts of various factions, organizations and war boards to determine just what constitutes a luxury, and the utter failure of all of them to fix any status by which mere man or woman may be guided with due intelligence in the way of frugality, Bruce Barton, in the Woman's Home Companion, decides among other things that "luxuries have a place in the economic world," and that "to dismiss them merely as children of selfishness and sin is to do them a distinct injustice. They have their part to play in progress. Without them few of us would work as hard as we ought to work. They spur our ambition. We set them up before our eyes as something to be desired, and apply ourselves to the job a little harder in order to possess them."

"Cheap clothes, cheap tires, cheap books, cheap dentistry, cheap doctoring—these are the most wasteful of all extravagances," he declared, and classes idleness as "obviously a luxury" or "anything that produces idleness." "Vanity—the thing we buy not because we really want it, but because our neighbors have one, or because it is 'all the style' is the kind of buying that destroys not merely wealth but character as well. And finally," he says, "all selfishness, and all action that arises out of selfishness, unleavened by any consideration of social responsibility is luxury of the worst sort."

The many efforts to determine what constitutes a luxury developed kaleidoscopic variations of opinion. Immediately a body declared certain articles should be placed on the list of unnecessary purchases, the manufacturer of said article produced many varied reasons why this particular thing was needed, and it was found that any attempt at classification only served to increase the list of necessities. Money was cheap; products were high. There was more money than there were articles to purchase, so the money went down and the articles went up, and the solution of the problem of inflated values went over to some other body and luxuries continued to become daily necessities, and the poor bewildered individual just scratches his head and wonders where it would all end.

Mr. Barton continues to make the wheel revolve by assuming that "luxuries are necessities that spur us to greater effort." In his own words: "Luxuries are the bright sparks that keep the explosions going in our cylinders; we cannot dismiss them as entirely useless. Nor must we forget that the luxury of today becomes the necessity of tomorrow."

From this and certain other premises he draws a conclusion which places the responsibility upon the individual, where, it seems, the solution of so many big problems comes to rest. Briefly, he says:

"We have a full right, ourselves, to happiness. Comfort and satisfaction and pleasure may reasonably be demanded as a part of the contract of human existence. Living only once, and for a short time, it is certainly permitted that we should have some things that go beyond the mere essentials; but in deciding how many and how costly these non-essentials may be, we should remember that there is no finer material out of which to build character than a little regular exercise in the habit of learning to do without."

This is a perfectly clear and simple code which makes luxury as much of a thing to be lived as a thing to be had. In the meantime, in the old sense—what constitutes a luxury?

A CURIOUS FISH.

One of the most curious of fishes is the puffer, so-called because of its strange power to inflate its stomach. It inhabits tropical and warm temperate seas. The fish by inflating the abdomen with air or water may more than double its volume and become a veritable balloon, whence the name puffer, globe-fish, balloon-fish. When thus inflated, the fish becomes more or less globular in shape, with the fins and tail forming mere protrusions. If filled with air, it floats at the surface, belly up, like a small balloon, for a poor swimmer at the best, it is now entirely at the mercy of the wind and tide, having practically no power of locomotion whatever. The rotund shape of the distended fish is a protection against its enemies, since only a fish of extraordinary gape can take one in whole; the ordinary fish in biting at a puffer merely pushes it away or causes it to roll over.

WHAT WILL YOUR PIANO BE WORTH IN ELEVEN YEARS?

That's a question the prospective purchaser should consider. Herewith is reproduced a recent advertisement of our Calgary dealer. It tells its own story.

MADE IN LONDON

Sherlock-Manning Piano

Depreciates only $11 per year for over eleven years.

Mr. C. M. McLannan, living at 2135 Fifteenth street west, Calgary, last week sold his Style 70 Sherlock-Manning Piano, over eleven years old, through a want ad, for $375 cash.

A new Style 70 Sherlock-Manning..which is a much finer instrument in every way than the old, can be purchased for $500.00. Thus this old Sherlock-Manning Piano showed a depreciation in value at the very most of less than $11.00 per year. This is the second second-hand Sherlock-Manning Piano that has been sold in Calgary within the past month that has brought nearly a new price, the other being one over fifteen years old, sold by a competitor for $375.00. This record we have never heard of being equaled by any other make of piano.

These instances are absolutely convincing proof of two things: First, the sterling worth and wearing quality of the Sherlock-Manning Piano. Second, that we sell them at prices that in comparison with others are lower than right.

Small wonder that there are more Sherlock-Manning Pianos being sold in Calgary than of all other makes. Ask to see our list of Sherlock-Manning owners.

HYDRO RADIALS, THE PREMIER AND HIS ACCUSERS.

The remarks of those who criticize the Premier of Ontario for his attitude towards hydro radials prove how correct and necessary that attitude is. They assume a power in the Hydro Commission above that of the Government that created it. They assume a power in the municipalities supposed to have voted in favor of it above the power of the Government that created them. They demand that the Government take over the railways. Where would responsible government be if these orators had their way?

The premier says, "I'm from Missouri, show me." Among other things the premier said at Markham are the following:

"There is one thing I won't be, and that is a rubber stamp."

"Whatever else the people might call the Government, it could not be referred to as the 'seven sleepers,' as was the previous administration."

"This crisis has arisen out of the fact that the Government wanted to know."

"I believe in the public development, for the public, of the water falls of this province."

"We believe is the development of Niagara Falls."

"However, there are hydro-electric projects and hydro-electric projects."

"Where the hydro-electric will pay and is needed it will be a good thing to develop it."

"There were those who said that it was not the business of the province to interfere with the municipalities undertaking hydro radial development. I cannot agree with them."

"Unfortunately the province has found in more than one case that the estimates of cost were exceeded by the actual cost."

The spending power and capacity of the Hydro Commission exercised by it is greater than all other expenditures of the Government combined. That alone calls loudly for a complete change. The Hydro-Electric Commission should be abolished and made a department of the Government. The proposed method of building and acquiring railways is unconstitutional. No municipality can legally enter into the contract proposed.

The only chance to make debentures issued for hydro radials negotiable or saleable is to make the province indorse and be responsible for them. That does not make them a binding or legal obligation of the municipality. It may make them safe for the purchaser.

Hydro is off the track as at present constituted. The premier is right. "Show me that it is legal according to the British North America Act and then show me that it will pay and I will proceed. I believe in hydro radials. I believe in developing Niagara power and every other power in the province by the people and for the people."

And the people are behind him in the position he has taken.

CLEAN 'EM OUT.

Attorney-General Raney has announced that the Government will take steps to end the disgusting conditions that have developed from illicit whiskey dealing along the border. He cannot carry out the intention too quickly or too vigorously. Such incidents as the gun fight which occurred in broad daylight in the streets of Amherstburg on Thursday cannot be permitted in the leading province of this country. That rum-running gangsters—many of them professional gunmen from across the border—should be able to openly flout the law indicates an intolerable state of affairs. It is clear that these characters could not get away with it if the representatives of Canadian officialdom, municipal, provincial or federal, worked efficiently or whole-heartedly in the matter. Inspector Ayearst is doing the best he can with his forces, but there is not a question but that he is handicapped by lack of full co-operation by some border point authorities.

Along with the whiskey running there is wholesale thievery, bribery and gambling and prostitution and debauchery on a large and lurid scale. The Government should clean out this outlawry. Throughout the province there is a lot of official energy, municipal and provincial, that is being concentrated on the trapping of the individual with the occasional bottle, that might be used to advantage to smash the boot-legging rings along the border and rid that district of the indecency that has been forced upon it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The most deplorable feature about those gun fights between the border whiskey running gangs, is that the participants are such poor shots.

HON. MACKENZIE KING'S SPEECH.

(Labor for industrial peace appreciated by great American concerns.)

I have here a letter from the General Electric Company, which is another of the largest and most important industrial concerns on this continent. During the war it was employing over 50,000 workers, 12,000 or 13,000 of whom were engaged in the particular branch of which Mr. Richard H. Rice, the acting manager, and writer of this letter, was then in charge. His letter is as follows:

General Electric Company,
West Lynn, Mass., September 29, 1919.

Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King,
The Roxborough, Ottawa, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—During the great war it was the privilege of the General Electric Company to do effective work in the creation and production of devices of direct assistance in the winning of that war.

Of these devices perhaps the most directly useful ones were those which enabled the submarine warfare to be effectively combatted.

These devices were in the nature of detectors, and they are so effective that they enabled submarines in motion to be located thirty miles away; their course of motion plotted and intercepted; and even submarines quiescent on the bottom of the ocean were located and destroyed. These devices were largely used by the British and American navies, both in the waters directly about the United Kingdom and also in Italian waters and off the American coast.

Other apparatus produced by our company is too numerous to mention: shells, shell cases, fuses, aeroplane compasses, portable army searchlights, wireless telephone apparatus and a thousand and one other devices were actively produced in large quantities for the use of the United States Government and for the allied forces.

I mention these matters not for the purpose of glorifying the work of the General Electric Company in the war, but to indicate that our industry was considered as an absolutely essential one. This is perhaps also shown by the fact that the United States Government sent a large body of troops to our Lynn works without any knowledge of the management, for the purpose of protecting it against destruction by bombs or otherwise.

If it is admitted that our industry was an essential one, it must also be admitted that contentment of the laboring forces, continuity of operations and freedom from labor disturbances was an essential feature. In connection with this matter, and particularly at the time of greatest stress, when the production of the works was temporarily interrupted by a general strike, and for the period since that time, we have been greatly indebted to your sound, intelligent, progressive and humanitarian advice; and profiting by this advice we have established at our Lynn works a system of industrial relations which gives our employees a large voice in the determination of working conditions and conditions of employment. This, in my opinion, puts us in the forefront among organizations of industry in dealing with the human problem.

I was intimately associated with you for some time in the discussions which preceded the adoption of this method of dealing, and have had direct charge of the wokings of it since that time, and I know the value of your advice and the inspiration which it has given me in carrying out the work.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) RICHARD H. RICE,
Acting Manager.

I may say that the letter from Mr. Rice was accompanied by one from Mr. E. W. Rice, Jun., the president of the company, mentioning the extension of the plan adopted by the Lynn works to the other factories of the company, and indorsing what Mr. Richard Rice had written.

One other communication to which I would ask honorable gentlemen kindly to listen is from the Great Western Sugar Company, which has its factories in Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and Montana—some fourteen in all—and which during the war was employing some 7,000 workers. This letter, from the president of that company, reads:

The Great Western Sugar Company.
General offices, Sugar Building.
Denver, Col., U.S.A., November 4, 1919.

Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King,
The Roxborough, Ottawa, Canada.

My Dear Mr. King,—Upon my return to this city after an absence of about three months I find your valued communication of September 17, and hasten to acknowledge it.

Let me say at the outset that in my opinion the service which you rendered American industry during the war was not only a distinct contribution to the allied cause during that period, but has been of great value during the trying times since the signing of the armistice.

I am able to speak more specifically concerning our own industry. The matter of furnishing an adequate supply of sugar for the military forces as well as for the civilian population was generally recognized as one of the serious problems of the war. The beet sugar industry is one composed not alone of manufacturing plants which can be speeded up at will; it comprises, in addition to the factories, thousands of farms and farmers, and thousands of field and factory workers. To function most effectively there must be the utmost co-operation and understanding between these various groups. Realizing this, and realizing also that an unbiased outsider would probably be able to analyze and view the problems of the industry more clearly than anyone within it, we invited you to make a general survey of our operations, with the particular purpose in view of obtaining suggestions and plans which would insure a harmonious relationship between two various groups in the business.

All of us who were in contact with you during your vigorous and thorough examination of our situation appreciate the value of your contribution. It was a contribution the effects of which did not cease with the ending of the war. During the present troublous period it is very gratifying, and must be particularly so to you, to know that our operations are proceeding so smoothly. In our own case, our production this season will be from 20 to 25 per cent greater than for the previous season. The production of an extra 40,000 or 50,000 tons of such a concentrated foodstuff as sugar at a time like this is, in my humble opinion, of considerable value to everybody.

I assure you that it is a privilege to be able to express myself to you in this sense. With assurances of my high respect and regard, believe me, sincerely yours,
(Signed) W. L. PETRIKIN,
President.

I might quote also from other equally important concerns. I have here a letter from Mr. Harold F. McCormick, the president of the International Harvester Company, which has some 35,000 employees in the United States and Canada; one from Mr. J. H. Wheelwright, the late president of the Consolidation Coal Company, which operates mines in Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky, and employs from 8,000 to 9,000 workers; one from Mr. C. S. Robinson, vice-president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company of Youngstown, Ohio, which has about 10,000 employees; and letters from the officers or directors of other less important concerns. All go to show that these gentlemen at least regarded that I had been able to render a substantial service to the industries with which they are connected, and which were essential in time of war, and and essential industries at the present time.

I have referred to these matters to illustrate why, recognizing the opportunity which was mine when the war came on, having had to take into account, as I had, certain personal obligations as well as previous training and equipment, I took then what I believed to be the course that would enable me to take the most useful part that I could possibly take in the service of my country and the cause of the Allies at that time; and why I continue to believe I was not wrong in the judgment I then formed.

Mr. Speaker, I should be at a loss to understand how it is conceivable that two such gentlemen as those I have mentioned, members of honorable and learned professions, could stoop to the deliverances they have, and go on then to imply that there was some kind of continuing relationship on my part with industries in the United States calculated to prove inimical to Canada, were it not that recently there has appeared in the Canadian press a dispatch which refers to a survey made for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana in January of last year. Let me point this out to my honorable friends, so that there will be no misunderstanding: I have said that during the period of the war I had no connection of any kind with Standard Oil interests. That is true. Since the war, and after all that work to which I have today alluded had been completed, I received from the chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana a communication asking if I would make a survey of the company's plants and assist the company in drawing up some plan of joint councils between the company and its employees which would be of service in helping to maintain good relations. I accepted that opportunity and spent a few weeks making a study of the working conditions of the men employed in that industry, with results that are apparent in the dispatch to which I have made reference.

"Do? See Mr. Aylmore, of course."

He was turning over the leaves of a telephone address book; one hand had already picked up the mouthpiece of the instrument on his desk.

"Look here," said Breton. "I know where Mr. Aylmore is always to be found at 12 o'clock. At the A. and P.—the Atlantic and Pacific Club, you know, in St. James's. If you like, I'll go with you."

Spargo glanced at the clock and laid down the telephone.

"All right," he said. "Eleven o'clock now. I've something to do. I'll meet you outside the A. and P. at exactly noon."

"I'll be there," agreed Breton. He made for the door, and with his hand on it, turned. "What do you expect from—from what we've just heard?" he asked.

Spargo shrugged his shoulders.

"Wait until we hear what Mr. Aylmore has to say," he answered. "I suppose that man Marbury was some old acquaintance."

Breton closed the door and went away. Left alone, Spargo began to mutter to himself.

"Good God!" he said. "Dainsworth—Painsworth—that our farmer friend should have so much observation. Ah!—and why should Mr. Stephen Aylmore be recognized as Dainsworth or Painsworth or something of that sort. Now, who is Mr. Stephen Aylmore—beyond being what I know him to be?"

Spargo's fingers went instinctively to one of a number of books of reference which stood on his desk; they turned with practiced swiftness to a page over which his eye ran just as swiftly. He read aloud:

"Aylmore, Stephen, M. P. for Brookminster since 1910. Residences: 23 St. Osythe Court, Kensington; Buena Vista, Great Marlow. Member Atlantic and Pacific and City Venturers' Clubs. Interested in South American enterprise."

"Uh!" muttered Spargo, putting the book away. "That's not very illuminating. However, we've got one move finished. Now we'll make another."

Going over the album of photographs, Spargo deftly removed that of Mr. Aylmore, put it in an envelope and the envelope in his pocket, and, leaving the office, hailed a taxi and ordered the driver to take him to the Anglo-Orient Hotel. This was the something-to-do of which he had spoken to Breton; Spargo wanted to do it alone.

Mrs. Walters was in her low-windowed office when Spargo entered the hall; she recognized him at once, and motioned him into her parlor.

"I remember you," said Mrs. Walters; "you came with the detective—Mr. Rathbury."

"Have you seen him since?" asked Spargo.

"Not since," replied Mrs. Walters. "No—and I was wondering if he'd be coming around, because ——" She paused there and loooked at Spargo with particular inquiry. "You're a friend of his, aren't you?" she asked. "I suppose you know as much as he does about this?"

"He and I," replied Spargo with easy confidence, "are working this case together. You can tell me anything you'd tell him."

The landlady rummaged in her pocket and produced an old purse, from an inner compartment of which she brought out a small object wrapped in tissue paper.

"Well," she said, unwrapping the paper, "we found this in number twenty this morning—it was lying under the dressing-table. The girl that found it brought it to me, and I thought it was a bit of glass, but Walters, he says as how he shouldn't be surprised if it's a diamond. And since we found it the waiter who took the whiskey up to twenty, after Marbury came in with the other gentleman, has told me that when he went into the room the two gentlemen were looking at a paper full of things like this. So, there?"

Spargo fingered the shining bit of stone.

"That's a diamond, right enough," he said. "Put it away, Mrs. Walters. I shall see Rathbury presently and I'll tell him about it. Now, that other gentleman? You told us you saw him. Could you recognize him—I mean, a photograph of him? Is this the man?"

Spargo knew from the expression of Mrs. Walters' face that she had no more doubt than Webster had.

"Oh, yes," she said. "That's the gentleman who came in with Mr. Marbury—I should have known him in a thousand. Anybody would recognize him from that. Perhaps you'll let our hall porter and the waiter I mentioned just now look at it?"

"I'll see them separately and see if they've ever seen a man who resembles this," replied Spargo.

The two men recognized the photograph at once, without any prompting, and Spargo, after a word or two with the landlady, rode off to the Atlantic and Pacific Club and found Ronald Breton awaiting him on the steps. He made no reference to his recent doings, and together they went into the house and asked for Mr. Aylmore.

Spargo looked with more than uncommon interest at the man who presently came to them in the visitors' room. He was already familiar with Mr. Aylmore's photograph, but he never remembered seeing him in real life; the member for Brookminster was one of that rapidly diminishing body of legislators whose members are disposed to work quietly and unobtrustively, doing yeoman service on committees, obeying every behest of the party whips, without forcing themselves into the limelight or seizing every opportunity to air their opinions.

Now that Spargo met him in the flesh he proved to be pretty much what the journalist had expected—a rather cold-mannered, self-contained man, who looked as if he had been brought up in a school of rigid repression, and taught not to waste words. He showed no more than the merest of languid interest in Spargo when Breton introduced him, and his face was quite expressionless when Spargo brought to an end his brief explanation—purposely shortened—of his object in calling upon him.

"Yes," he said indifferently. "Yes, it is quite true that I met Marbury and spent a little time with him on the evening your informant spoke of. I met him, as he told you, in the lobby of the House. I was much surprised to meet him. I had not seen him for—I really don't know how many years."

He paused and looked at Spargo as if he was wondering what he ought or ought not to say to a newspaper man. Spargo remained silent, waiting. And presently Mr. Aylmore went on.

"I read your account in the Watchman this morning," he said. "I was wondering, when you called just now, if I would communicate with you or with the police. The fact is—I suppose you want this for your paper, eh?" he continued, after a sudden breaking off.

"I shall not print anything that you wish me not to print," answered Spargo. "If you care to give me any information——"

"Oh, well," said Mr. Aylmore, "I don't mind. The fact is, I know next to nothing. Marbury was a man with whom I had some—well, business relations of a sort, a great many years ago. It must be twenty years—perhaps more—since I lost sight of him. When he came up to me in the lobby the other night I had to make an effort of memory to recall him. He wished me, having once met me, to give him some advice, and as there was little doing in the House that night, and as he had once been—almost a friend—I walked to his hotel with him, chatting. He told me that he had landed from Australia that morning, and what he wanted my advice about principally was diamonds—Australian diamonds."

"I was unaware," remarked Spargo, "that diamonds were ever found in Australia."

Mr. Aylmore smiled—a little cynically.

"Perhaps so," he said. "But diamonds have been found in Australia from time to time, ever since Australia was known to Europeans, and in the opinion of experts they will eventually be found there in quantity. Anyhow, Marbury got hold of some Australian diamonds, and he showed them to me at his hotel—a number of them. We examined them in his room."

"What did he do with them—afterward?" asked Spargo.

"He put them in his waistcoat pocket—in a very small wash-leather bag, from which he had taken them. There were, in all, sixteen or twenty stones—not more—and they were all small. I advised him to see some expert—I mentioned Streeter's to him. Now, I can tell you how he got hold of Mr. Breton's address."

The two young men pricked up their ears. Spargo unconsciously tightened his hold on the pencil with which he was making notes.

Poetry and Jest

THE FORGOTTEN SOUL.

[Margaret Widdemer.]

'Twas I that cried against the pane
on All Souls' Night (O pulse o' my heart's life, how could you never hear?)
You filled the room I knew with yellow candle-light,
And cheered the girl beside you when she prayed in fear.

'Twas I that touched your shoulder in the grey wood-mist
(O core o' my heart's heart, how could you never know?)
You only frowned and shuddered ere you bent and kissed
The girl hard by you, handfast, where I used to go.

'Twas I that stood to greet you on the churchyard pave
O fire o' my heart's grief, how could you never see?)
You smiled in pleasant dreaming as you crossed my grave,
And crooned a little love-song where they buried me.

A GOOD REPUTATION.

[Hamilton Spectator.]

It is said of Christy Mathewson, who is retiring from professional baseball, that he never failed through pique or jealousy to give his best for his team, and religiously refrained from criticizing the decisions of umpires. Several players in the Ontario-Michigan League might study his behavior with profit.

TANGLED IN STARS.

[By Ethelwyn Wetherald.]

Tangled in stars and spirit-steeped in dew,
The city worker to his desk returns.
While 'mid the stony streets remembrance burns.
Like honeysuckle running through and through
A barren hedge. He lifts his load anew,
And carries it amid the thronging ferns
And crowding leaves of memory, while yearns
Above him once again the open blue.

His letter-littered desk goes up in flowers;
The world recedes, and backward
dreamily
Come days and nights, like jewels rare and few.
And while the consciousness of those bright hours
Abides with him, we know him yet to be Tangled in stars and spirit-steeped in dew.

OUR OWN GARDENS.

[From "Othello" William Shakespeare.]

Iago—"'Tis in ourselves, that we are thus or thus. Our bodies are our gardens; to the which our wills are gardeners: so that if we will plant nettles, or sow lettuce; set hyssop, and weed up thyme; supply it with one gender of herbs, or distract it with many: either to have it sterile with idleness, or manured with industry; why, the power and incorrigible authority of this lies

THE SONGSTER.

[E. Pauline Johnson.]

Music, music with throb and swing,
Of a plaintive note, and long,
'Tis a note no human throat could sing,
No harp with its dulcet golden string,
Nor lute, nor lyre with liquid song,
Is sweet as the robin's song.

He sings for love of the season,
When the nights grow warm and long,
For the beautiful God-sent reason
That his breast was born for song.

Calling, calling so fresh and clear
Through the song-sweet days of May,
Warbling there, and whistling here,
He swells his voice on the drinking ear,
On the great, wide, pulsing atmosphere,
Till his music drowns the day.

He sings for love of the season,
When the nights grow warm and long,
For the beautiful God-sent reason,
That his breast was born for song.

THE WAY OF IT.

[Pearson's Weekly.]

Judge—"The police say that you and your wife had some words."

Prisoner—"I had some, but I didn't get a chance to use them."

EVENING.

[Marjorie L. C. Pickthall.]

When the white iris folds the drowsing bee,
When the first cricket wakes
The fairy hosts of his enchanted brakes,
When the dark moth has sought the lilac tree,
And the young stars, like jasmine
of the skies,
Are opening on the silence, Lord, there lies
Dew on Thy rose and dream upon mine eyes.

Lovely the day, when life is robed in splendor,
Walking the ways of God and strong with wine.
But the pale eve is wonderful and tender,
And the night is more divine.
Fold my faint olives from their shimmering plain,
O shadow of sweet darkness fringed with rain
Give me to night again.

Give me to day no more. I have bethought me
Silence is more than laughter, sleep than tears.
Sleep like a lover faithfully hath sought me
Down the enduring years.
Where stray the first white fatlings of the fold,
Where the Lent-lily droops her earlier gold,
Sleep waits me as of old.

Grant me sweet sleep, for light is unavailing,
When patient eyes grow weary of the day,
Young lambs creep close and tender wings are failing,
And I grow tired as they.
Light as the long wave leaves the lonely shore,
Our boughs have lost the bloom that morning bore,
Give me to day no more.

O, LITTLE ISLES.

(To the British West Indies.)

[Clara Maude Garrett.]

O, little isles of snowless light
Ringed in a sapphire-jewelled sea,
Where through the velvet tropic night
The tall canes rustle restlessly,
Romance is yours and warm delight,
And all the luze of mystery.

I scent within your throbbing dusk
Old odors of the risen past:
The breath of orange and the musk
Night jasimines shed: until, at last,
The dawn emerges from her husk,
And parrots scream from some green mast.

I seen convolvuluses sway
All lazily their blossom-bells;
Poinsettias sun a darkened way
To waters caught in twilight dells;
O'er tumbling brooks that laugh and play
By still forgotten citadels.

For he who once has trod your ways
Beneath the trembling bamboo bowers,
Dreamed through your ever-restful days,
Beheld the moon fruit mid star-flowers,
May not forget your palm-crowned bays,
The sudden splendor of your showers.

He who hath breathed your opiate air,
Drunk of our clear, cool-flowing rills,
Tasted the fruit you idly bear,
And feasted upon your vine-roofed hills
The silver-throated solitaire,
Forever with your beauty thrills.

O little isles that pale and glow
Warm in the arms of sea and sun,
I hear you calling, calling so,
Your myriad voices blent in one,
I must arise, arise and go—
Lost dreams await; high deeds undone.

DONATIONS TO NURSERY.

Forty-three children are now on the roll of the Day Nursery, representing in all 31 families. The daily attendance has fallen slightly since school closed, but is an average about 15 or 16 children each day.

That the public is taking an interest in the nursery is shown by several contributions which have been made recently as follows: "Wide Awake Club," King Street Presbyterian Church, $3; Miss Simpson's class, Lord Roberts School, $3 from sale of papers and magazines; a large quantity of toys sent by Miss Lottie Armstrong of the London Conservatory of Music and others; 50 cents from Mr. Dalrymple; a huge bundle of old linen from Miss Clay.

Girlish, Wrinkle-Free Skin Easy to Have

Since its remarkable astringent and tonic properties became known, clever women all over the world have been using the saxolite face bath to "tone up" their faces, remove wrinkles and draw flabby cheeks and neck back to normal. After using the solution, the face immediately feels much firmer. The skin tightens evenly all over the face, thus reducing lines and sagginess. The formula is: Powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in witch hazel, one-half pint.

This simple and harmless face bath is a splendid thing for the outdoor girl, since sun, wind and flying dust are so provocative of squinting and other contortions which cause wrinkles and crow's-feet. Also it is fine to freshen up a tired face in hot, depressing weather.—Advt.

Mr. Francis M. Ward of Chicago has been a recent guest of his uncle, Mr. J. Ward, Fullarton street, and his aunt, Mrs. Thomas H. Dobbs, Dundas street.

The committee in charge of the musical contest to be held at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto has asked Mr. A. D. Jordan to be one of the adjudicators.

Yesterday was a veritable gala day for the Western University Summer School. Events began with a hike to the site of the new university, followed by a lively tennis tournament. Later tea was served on the university grounds, many of the members of the faculty and their wives being present. A literary evening followed ending up at last with a dance.

Miss Bessie Mossop of Toronto University was elected as London's representative on the executive of the Federation of University Women in Canada at a meeting of the local University Women's Club Thursday afternoon. At this same meeting Miss Ada Minhinnick was appointed London's delegate to the big convention of university women which is being held in Toronto at the end of August.

SMITH—SUTHERLAND.

A marriage of more than usual interest was solemnized at the manse, Leamington, on Tuesday, at 5 p.m., by the Rev. W. F. McConnell, minister of Knox Presbyterian Church. The contracting parties were Wm. Smith of Leamington and Mrs. Elizabeth Sutherland, widow of the late Dr. Jeffrey Talbot Sutherland. The bride was charmingly gowned in taupe taffeta. Her traveling suit was of navy blue with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are spending their honeymoon at Luddington and other points in Michigan.

ROBERTS—MILLER.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Miller was the scene of a very pretty wedding on July 14, when their only daughter, Annie Belle, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Roberts of Waterford, Manchester, England. The Rev. E. Sheppard of the Methodist Church officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly attired in a gown of ivory satin with georgette overdress and veil wreathed with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. She wore a rope of pearls, the gift of the groom. Miss Florence Hick of Alvinston acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. James Roberts, cousin of the groom, was best man. Mrs. Justus Miller of Toronto, sister-in-law of the bride, played the wedding march.

After a dainty luncheon the happy couple left on the 4:55 train for Detroit and points west.

About Rest as a Preventive.

If we did not live in poorly-lighted, poorly-ventilated caves most of the time; if we did not indulge in gluttony as a social custom; if we did not pass long hours in closely crowded inclosures, in personal contact with all sorts of people, harboring all sorts of disease germs; if we did not contrive in every possible way to live without exercise; in short, if we lived a reasonably hygienic life no doubt it would be seldom necessary to enucleate tonsils and adenoids. But we maintain schoolrooms which are vilely unventilated by guaranteed mechanical systems of ventilation in the wintertime; we fear drafts with a childish fear—as though fresh air acquired some evil potency from motion; we associate with almost human animals who sneeze and cough open face, regardless of the sensibilities and safety of those about them; and we stuff and sit around and grow soft and flabby. It is no wonder that disease germs find us such easy meat.

It is the overheating, the defective ventilation, the careful exclusion of drafts, the closed windows and the overcrowding and intimacy of contact in the schoolroom that account for the great prevalence of respiration infections in childhood. And respiratory infections include not only ordinary coryza and simple sore throat, but tonsilitis and measles, diphtheria, scarlet fever and the other too common epidemic diseases of early life.

I have mentioned in these talks the direct infection of the tonsils by germs from cavities in the back teeth.

A child, whose primary, baby or milk teeth are kept perfectly sound, by frequent regular treatment and inspection by the family dentist, seldom, if ever, suffers with diseased tonsils or adenoids. No price is too great to pay for sound primary teeth. If the temporary teeth are kept sound the mouth and face and head and chest are more likely to develop normally; the child escapes many an ill and sometimes serious ills, which would be likely to attack him if the teeth were decayed; but most important of all, there is a much smaller chance for involvement of the heart valves and permanent handicap therefrom.

In childhood is the time to prevent heart disease. In childhood the great majority of cases of valvular disease (leakage, resulting from inflammation of the heart lining, called endocarditis) have their beginning, although as a rule the trouble produces no pain and no alarming symptoms which would point toward a heart lesion.

In acute sore throat, acute tonsilitis especially, there is always a certain tendency toward involvement of the heart lining — germs conveyed in the bloodstream from the tonsils lodge directly on the heart lining and set up their insidious inflammatory process there, which in time produces distortion sufficient to prevent perfect valve closure, and that means valve leakage. For this reason, every child should be kept in bed or at rest for several days when ill with sore throat or anything like sore throat.

It is usually many months, or more likely years after the insidious beginning of valvular disease before the victim experiences any noticeable effects.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Liberal Vegetarianism.

I am a vegetarian. In the place of meat I eat eggs, cheese and milk, nuts, beans, peas. I indulge in long distance walking, rowing, swimming and a half-hour of vigorous gymnastic exercise every morning. I do bench work. Are peanuts all right to eat? Which food will be best for muscle building? Is buttermilk or whole milk the better muscle-building food? (G. W. E.)

ANSWER—Your vegetarianism reminds me of the restaurant patron who was offered his choice of apple, mince or lemon pie. He said: "I'll take lemon, and while you are bringing the mince I'll just eat a little apple pie." You are not exactly a vegetarian, for eggs, cheese and milk are meat as surely as beefsteak is. You might call yourself an anti-butcherarian. Whole milk is about three times as nourishing as buttermilk. I know of no food which can be considered a muscle builder—all foods are utilized with equal facility by the body for building purposes. Certainly there is no reason to suppose that proteids build muscle more than starches, fats or sugars do, although this notion once prevailed among uneducated physical trainers. Peanuts are very nourishing, sustaining food.

Eggs and Kidneys.

Kindly tell me whether three or four fresh eggs daily are likely to prove injurious to the kidneys. (W. E. D.)

ANSWER—No more than a similar quantity of meat. One doing muscular work or obtaining a reasonable amount of exercise may take such a quantity of animal protein without injury.

DAUGHTERS OF SCOTLAND ENTERTAIN MEN AT THE WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL

Excellent Scotch Program Affords Great Delight To Soldier Sick.

The men at Westminster Hospital received a rare treat on Thursday evening, when the local camp of Daughters of Scotland visited there and presented an exceptionally fine concert to the men. So delighted was the audience with what they received, that Mrs. Robert Tagg, president of the local camp, declared that it won't be long before they visit the hospital again. "I am afraid that people are beginning to forget that the soldiers in hospital need entertainment just as much as they did during war time and perhaps a great deal more," says Mrs. Tagg.

Military conveyances were waiting at the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets, at 7:30 on Thursday evening, to convey the concert party to the hospital, Major Graham, the chaplain, having made all arrangtments. And at the close of the concert, the social committee under the convenership of Mrs. Comber, saw that refreshments were served, the ice cream having been donated by Captain Bowie of the military "Y."

The very fine program presented to the men included vocal numbers by Fred Dowling, Miss Way, Miss Clarke and Miss Marion Stark, a splendid reading by little Miss Nan Kelman, a piano solo by Miss Rogers, and a three-some reel by Miss Marion Stark, Miss Gladys Tulett and Fred Tulett, the accompanists being Miss Rozers and Mrs. Fair. The camp pipers were also there and among them Piper John MacIntosh, the leader; Pipers Malcolm McLeod, Gladys Tulett, Fred Tulett, and Drummer Marion Stark.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Love's strength standeth in Love's sacrifice,
And he who suffers most has most to give.
—Hamilton King.

A Woman's Question.

Do you know you have asked for the costliest thing
Ever made by hand above?
A woman's heart and a woman's life,
And a woman's wonderful love.

Do you know you have asked for this priceless thing,
As a child might ask for a toy?
Demanding what others have died to win,
With the reckless dash of a boy.

You have written my lessons of duty out,
Man-like you have questioned me,
So stand at the bar of my woman's soul
Until I question thee.

You require your mutton shall always be hot,
Your stockings and shirts shall be whole;
I require a heart to be pure as God's star,
And pure as heaven your soul.

You require a cook for your mutton and beef,
I require a far better thing,
A seamstress you're wanting for stockings and shirts,
I look for a man and a king.

A king for the beautiful realm called home,
And a man that the maker, God,
Shall look upon as he did the first,
And say, "It is very good."

I am fair and young, but the rose will fade
From my soft young cheek one day—
Will you love me then 'mid the falling leaves,
As you did 'mid the bloom of May?

Is your heart an ocean so strong and deep
I may launch my all on its tide?
A loving woman finds heaven or hell,
On the day she is made a bride.

I require all things that are equal and true,
All things that man should be,
If you give all this I would stake my life
To be all you demand of me.

If you cannot do this—a laundress and cook
You can hire with little to pay:
But a woman's heart and a woman's life
Are not to be won that way.

Requests.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you please send me Lonesome Alone's address? I am a young farmer and I want to ask a few questions. What is nice to give a young gentleman for a wedding present? Would any of the readers send me the songs, "Say, Young Fellow, Where Did You Get That Girl," and "Oh, What a Pal Was Mary?" I have a large watermelon patch. Don't you like them? I will send my address and an envelope for songs when they come. Please find inclosed ten cents for C. H. fund.

WATERMELON.

In yesterday's paper I saw where Only a Rosebud would like the song, both words and music, of "You're Still an Old Sweetheart of Mine." I got it a very short time ago, and as I know both music and words off by heart, I can let her have it for 30c, which I gave for it. If she wants it, she can get my name and address from you.

What day did July 7, 1904, occur on?

CARNATION.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wonder if someone could let me have the songs "When I Was a Boy in Lexington"? I see where Old Mammy Dinah will show de lady how to make a paper head portiere. Veranda Chats.

Hello, there! How are you all? As I have seen no letters from this part, I will make a start. How do you like this kind of weather? The things don't suffer for want of rain now. Have any of you been out picking berries? I have, but the crop will be small this year. Here is a recipe for raspberry shortcake: One cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, yolks of 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, and 2 cups of flour. Bake in two layers. For frosting beat whites of eggs with ½ cup sugar and stir in ½ box berries. Put this between layers and cover top. Serve with cream. Please find mite for C. H. F. Please send stocking-foot pattern if there are any left. As our nearest store is Roseville, I will sign,

A ROSE FROM ROSEVILLE.

Ans.—Thank you for the hospital contribution, also recipe. Pattern mailed to you.

Saw in the column where a girl was asking if anyone knew what would help her mother, who was suffering from rheumatism. Now, if she would rub the affected parts with the oil of wintergreen, I am sure she would find relief. Of course, one or two applications might not make much change, but be patient and give it a good trial, and I am sure she will find some relief, as I have known ones who have been benefited by it.

Also another cure I have heard of is to put a square of camphor into a bottle of Eclectric Oil, place bottle in a dish of hot water until camphor has dissolved, and rub on affected parts. Hoping these may be of some help to poor sufferers from rheumatism.

What days did August 18, 1898, fall on; also April 23, 1900?

DOVE.

Ans.—Thank you for sending in help to the Mail-Box. Answer to dates: Thursday, Monday.

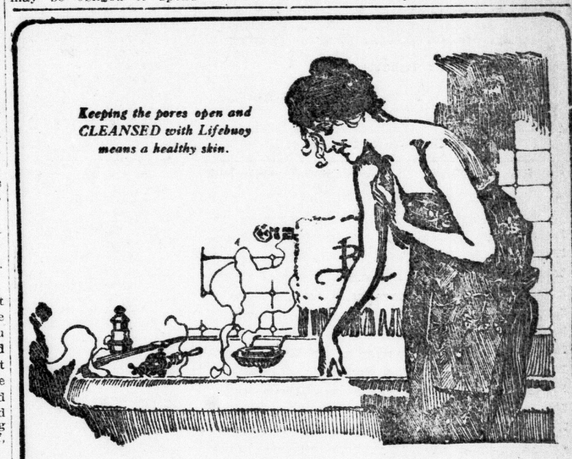

I am sending a letter for a Lover of Children. Please forward. I often thought of writing, but am always so busy and cannot complain of loneliness, as I suffered a nervous breakdown through over-strain, and while about again am unable to do much work, reading, writing, etc. If any of the members live in Arizona, California, etc., I would like to correspond, as I may be obliged to spend the winter in a warmer climate. We had over 40 below zero here last winter. I live very near Lake Huron, and it is lovely during summer. I enjoy sailing, rowing, fishing, the walks and the woods. Some day I may send you my sketch, "Dawn," if I am unfortunate enough to get it "accepted," so you may read it in print. How strange people see so little in this world of wonders. I must close, with best wishes for yourself and circle.

ACACIA BRUCE.

Ans.—Your letter has been forwarded to Lover of Children. Sorry, indeed, to learn of your illness. The name of your sketch promises beauty. Hope it is accepted.

I am inclosing 25 cents for the Sick Children's Hospital. May I have the stocking-foot pattern? I am sending a stamped envelope. CARTER

Ans.—Pattern mailed to you. Many thanks for hospital contribution.

MRS. ELIZABETH KENT, MacDONALD COLLEGE.

FACTORS IN PRICE.

There are a number of factors in the present cost of living which are beyond our control. There are others which are not. One of the latter is unjust weights and measures.

The unjust weight is much more easily managed by the dishonest dealer than the short measure, because it is more difficult for the purchaser to check it up. The scales may record but a fraction of an ounce light weight, and who is going to know it, or make a fuss about it. Yet this small amount multiplied thousands of times over each week, makes a very large sum total. Not only for your own sake, but for your neighbor's back up government inspection of weights, by checking up your grocer's and butcher's scales against your own, every once in a while, and if they do not agree, find out which is right. If you are, make a fuss, not to be disagreeable, or mean, but to protect the honest dealer. Package goods, of course, are very likely to run short weight, if the law does not require the net weight to be marked upon them. Even if it does, people are lazy and indifferent about calculating just what they are paying per pound, when they buy package. If they would stop to work it out, they would get severe shocks in some cases. Butter is especially apt to be sold short weight, and goodness knows we pay enough without paying for more than we get.

As for short measures, the tricks of the trade are very numerous. A deft sales clerk can cut materials short length by an inch or two, and if the yard measure also errs in favor of the dealer, there is definite loss for the purchaser, yet not two people in a hundred ever check up their purchases in this respect. You have a right, indeed, a duty, to get what you pay for. Short measures in food are achieved by all sorts of fancy containers, bottles of weird shapes—always in favor of reducing their contents, baskets, just a little smaller in some inconspicuous dimension, and jars with thick bottoms—all lend their aid. And even when the quantity is honestly marked we careless buyers let ourselves be cheated in effect just the same by appearance believing our eyes rather than using our brains. We have only ourselves to blame for that, but it is a trick of every trade to take advantage of human weakness.

THE PERFORMING DOGS.
Part Five.

It was still warm summer weather when the performing dogs left their training camp for the season's shows. The smaller dogs were all excitement, while Dandy, Ching and Roderick were very glad the training was over. Roderick, however, still had lots of things to worry over, for he had never appeared on the stage, and although he had learned his bit in the dog act and could do it perfectly on the kennel stage, he was not so sure that he would do it so well in public.

When the first day of their act came, Roderick was almost sure he would die of nervousness, but then he remembered that his father and mother had faced far greater dangers than an audience, and plucked up his courage as best he could. Poor Dandy was not able to help Roderich much, either, for he was having troubles of his own. Biggs had tied the weights on his feet again so that he would not forget to lift them high when he pranced across the stage. He left them on until it was time for the curtain to go up, too.

How Roderick did tremble when he sat in the row with the other dogs, waiting for the curtain to go up, and then what a blaze of light there was when it did go up! Oh, if only he could run away to his old home, he thought, but so far he had not had a chance.

Roderick was trembling all the time, but a cross word and a sharp cuff from Biggs soon brought him to himself, and he went through his part. His heart was cheered when at the last of the act he stood on his haunches with the big flag in his mouth and put his paw up to his head in a salute, for that seemed to please the children most of all, and they clapped and clapped.

But the little cheer the clapping brought was soon forgotten when the act was over, for there was hardly a dog that had not made some little mistake, and Biggs punished most of them for it. Roderick escaped with a scolding, but not so Dandy, who had forgotten to prance at the last of the act. The weights were put on his feet again and he was cuffed severely. Even little Mimso was cuffed for some little thing she had neglected to do.

"It is always this way when a new act first starts," Dandy confided to Roderick. "If only we did not have to stand it!"

"We don't have to," Roderick declared emphatically, and with that he called all the dogs around him and whispered a plan to them. But it was such a daring plan none of the dogs would agree to it at once, but finally, when Dandy said he liked the idea, the others agreed. They decided to try it out the next night.

TIGERS GET REVENGE MAULING HAYES AND LANDING FOR 13 HITS

Reddy Allows But One Run In, While Cats Sharpen Appetite On Hits.

ACES NOSE OUT BRANTS

McKee's Homer With Two On Does Trick To Sox When Game Apparently Sewed.

HAMILTON, July 16.—The Tigers got sweet revenge on Flint this afternoon by hammering "Red" Hayes and Landry for a total of 13 hits and nine runs. Flint managed to score but one run off Joe Reddy. Hayes was knocked out of the box in the fifth, and Landry, a southpaw, proved no more equal to the task of appeasing the Bengals' appetities than his predecessor.

Both clubs played errorless ball, but because of the early lead piled up by the home team the exhibition was not very interesting. Weinberg, purchased from Saginaw, played his first game at first base for Hamilton, and showed up well. He got a double and fielded his position smartly.

Reddy, in the box for Hamilton, struck out seven and walked but two. He was in trouble in only one inning. The score:

WHAT MADE KNOTTY SILENT?

BRANTFORD, July 16. — Saginaw staged a ninth rally here tonight and nosed out the Red Sox by the score of 4 to 2, McKee's home run in the ninth, with two on bases, gave the Aces three counters, one run having crossed the plate on Dodson's single. Dodson, an outfielder, gave ten bases on balls, but was unhittable in the pinches. The Sox also stole bases at will and appeared to have the game sewed up. A double, two singles and McKee's homer in the ninth, however, did the trick. The score:

BEAVERS ARE COMING

KITCHENER, July 16.—The Beavers won this evening's game against Bay City Wolves by a score of 8 to 4. Lefty Schwartz was on the mound for the winners, and held the visitors down to six hits in as many innings up to the eighth, when Bay City bunched four hits for three runs. Whaley pitched for the Wolves, and was hit opportunely, and a hard homer and two triples were included in the ten hits. Whaley's support was ragged owing to Newman being incapacitated with a sore ankle. Shortstop White jumped the team this morning. There was a large crowd present, including several hundred fannettes.

HE COULD NOT BEAT "KID" TIME

Tommy Burns essayed the old stunt of coming back last night against Joe Beckett and failed. It wasn't apparent to start off with, but in the seventh the old wallop that dimmed Tommy's eyes and hopes came. Burns has always been a prime favorite with British fight fans and he will probably be as great in defeat as he would have been in victory.

Harper Wins Own Game Driving In Needed Run

McMillan in Great Duel, But Banished From Game in Sixth—Horne, Injured by Pitched Ball, Is in Hospital.

The Tecs made it a two-all tie in the seventh, and then in the eighth the Custers pushed over a run that made it look all the harder. It wasn't, though, and in the ninth, after Pittenger had driven in Delotelle from second, Harper, who had tripled once before in the game, came through with a double that won his own game, 4 to 3.

It was a pastime as full of thrills as a Mexican president. Up to the end of the fifth Harper was getting slightly the better of a pitching duel with McMillan. In the sixth, while pitching to Shay, McMillan threw his hat up in the air, as a sign that he was displeased with one of Carroll's called balls, and then Carroll showed him the exit lettering. Bullard took up the mound duties after that, and he was touched up for five hits in the remaining frames.

Horne Hit.

In the fifth Harper hit Horne, the Custers' left fielder, with a fast shoot, and the player had to be carried off the field. He was taken to Victoria Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a badly bruised shoulder bone.

President Maines was present for the hair-raising finish, having entered during the seventh inning.

The Custers opened the scoring early, when Horne took a gratuity and second on Hooker's sacrifice. Kaylor drove in Horne with a single to left. Kaylor was shoved over the pan with the second tally, when Kuhn mussed Kelly's bounder, and Pittenger let the throw get away that was intended to stop him.

The gang didn't start the fun until the second, when Briger poled a double to right and scored on Pitt's single to centre. Dowling got a double, but died on the base, as Harper made the third out.

The tieing run came in the seventh. Pittenger singled and was sent in on Harper's three-station bingle to right. Harper made the third out when he was thrown out trying to make his hit a homer.

The invaders broke the tie in the eighth. Little Teddy was dished up a life. Kaylor scored on singles by Hooker and Heving.

The Tribe let lose in the ninth. Briger again opened the shady work with a two-base wallop. Crichlow made a mighty swat, but it went into Milan's hands in centre. Pittenger scored Delotelle, who ran for Briger, with a single. Dowling struck out and then Harper won his own game by pounding out a two-base hit to Kaylor, who was run ragged in right field, scoring Pittenger.

KASTNER WINS AT MEAFORD.

MEAFORD, July 16.—The Meaford tournament came to a successful close at 11 o' clock last evening. The consolation prize was won by Kastner's rink of Wiarton. W. Douglas' quartet of Owen Sound were the runners-up.

SHAMROCK IV. AND RESOLUTE HAVE MADE REPAIRS, ARE READY

Shamrock Won by a Fluke of Her Own, As Her Bowsprit Was Damaged.

SANDY HOOK, July 16.—Resolute and Shamrock IV, repairs made, tonight were ready to race again tomorrow for the America's Cup.

The crew of the defender had renewed the broken halyards and gaff, which caused their sloop to withdraw yesterday, giving the first contest to Sir Thomas Lipton, and the Irish baronet's yachting forces had replaced a weakened bowsprit with which, unknown to the thousands who watched her, the Shamrock had slipped across the finish line.

A bowsprit iron had worked inboard on the Shamrock, so that if the Resolute had not been forced out of the race by an accident the Shamrock, deprived of headsails, would doubtless have been left hopelessly astern. This became known only today, when a new bowsprit was stepped.

Whereas yesterday's race was over a windward and leeward course—a fifteen-mile beat down the Jersey shore and return—tomorrow's contest will be over a triangular course, ten miles to a leg. Like yesterday's, tomorrow's start and finish will be at the Ambrose channel lightship in the middle of New York Bay, but the course itself will not be announced by the race committee until a few minutes before the preparatory signal is blown.

One course could be down the Jersey shore to a point off Long Branch, then out to sea and back to the light vessel. A second could be out to sea, and then in the general direction of Long Island, and then back to the starting point. A third could be toward Long Island, seaward, and back to the Ambrose channel.

And, of course, on all these theoretical courses, the last leg could be made the first and the course covered in the reverse manner to that indicated. The direction of the wind at the hour of the race alone will be the deciding factor.

There was a hum of activity inside the hook today. While the crews of the rival sloops were busy making things shipshape, and their designers, Nat Herreshoff and Charles E. Nicholson, were giving them final inspections, Captains Charles Francis Adams, 2nd, and William P. Burton, were holding conferences with their quarter-deck forces, laying strategic schemes for tomorrow's contest.

Sir Thomas, with one victory to his credit, must win two more to lift the cup and the Resolute must capture three races to retain it.

Gentle, variable winds with fair weather were forecast for the second race off Sandy Hook tomorrow.

Races will be held daily after Tuesday's contest if more than three races are necessary, it was announced tonight by H. de B. Parsons, chairman of the New York Yacht Club's regatta committee. Either contestant may obtrain a day's layoff by making application to the committee before 9 o'clock on the evening preceding the scheduled race.

In order to determine whether or not Resolute should be given a new time allowance, on account of Shamrock having rigged up an extra piece of canvas, from her mast to mainsail, the official measurer went down to Shamrock this afternoon and reported that her rating was unchanged by the additional canvas and would remain at 93.08. He said that the difference made by the change of rig was too slight to be noticed. As a consequence Resolute's time allowance will stand at six minutes, forty seconds.

BECKETT WINS.

LONDON, July 16.—Joe Beckett, heavyweight champion of England, defeated Tommy Burns, the French-Canadian pugilist, in the seventh round of a 20-round bout at Albert Hall here tonight.

Edna Early Took 2:10 Pace—Six Youngsters Started.

TOLEDO, July 16.—Louis Grattan, the favorite, won the Willys-Overland 2:03 pacing stake, worth $1,850, the feature on today's grand circuit card, the three heats being the fastest paced this season. Roy Grattan won the first heat, as the favorite got away badly.

Six youngsters made their first start of the year in the Cresceus $1,000 stake for two-year-olds. Favonian, a rank outsider, came on and won the last heats and the race after Jane Volo had won the first one from the favorite, Holly Rood Fancy, which was distanced in the second heat.

Peter L., winner at Cleveland last week, won the 2:11 trot, although Millie Irwin came fast in the stretch and got the decision in the first heat.

Edna Early won the 2:10 pace, but Hazel Kuestner captured second money in the race by coming from nowhere in the second heat and moving to the head of the procession.

Small Crowds in Yank Parks, But More Rowdy—Events Sometimes Rather Hard To Explain.

The Minters have been at home a week now, and very little trouble has occurred at the games, the little ripple at Kitchener between McKee and the crowd the other evening not producing anything more than excitement for the time.

The contrast between Michigan crowds and similar crowds, only larger, on the Canadian side in their conduct at games has been glaring this season, and very much in favor of the fans on this side of the Detroit River. It may be true that the continued losses get on the sensitiveness of the Yank crowds, but it doesn't necessarily follow that they have to vent their dissatisfaction on the umps, whoever he may be, in theory. In fact, however, that is what generally happens at least once in a series at any of the Michigan cities, and it neither does the game there any good nor, for that matter, the pastiming in these parts.

Aside from the attitude of the fans in the Michigan cities, incidents throughout the season that didn't have anything to do with the crowds combined to form an undercurrent, for which an explanation is not readily found. The matter of the last trip of the Londons to Saginaw had some funny angles attached to it, for which some of the players on the London team still await a reasonable answer.

In the Saturday game the players who were chased are still in the dark as to why they were chased, and McKee, who was umpiring, certainly did not offer any explanation. However, there appears to be one, for it developed that McKee was arrested the night before and was just taken out of the cells in time to get in and work that game. McKee's work had been considered good throughout the circuit, even in Michigan, up until Saturday, and it wasn't bad then, except the banishment of the three players from the game without a reason. And that was bad because it immediately brings to mind the fact that McKee appeared before Judge Clements on a charge, and was out under bonds in the morning, and that Judge Clements is a director of the Saginaw Baseball Club and was in the stands during the game. Conclusions, serious in their import, might be drawn from the circumstances which would not be creditable to McKee, and would be less so to the Saginaw club.

However, the trips to Michigan are practically over for the season, and it now remains for the Canadian fans to maintain their season's good repute. London crowds haven't had much occasion to get out of hand this year, and, as a matter of fact, have never indulged in past years in violent demonstrations, so that everything looks bright for Tecumseh Park keeping its reputation for oderliness.

Naps and Yanks Series Next Week Best of July

If Teams Are Close by That Time, Games Might Ultimately Decide League Race.

By Ernest J. Lanigan.

July's most crucial series from present indications, will be that fought in Gotham between the Yankees and the Indians, starting Wednesday, the first, and continuing for four days. The two teams have met eight times this year, and at present the westerners have the edge on the easterners, five games to three. There was an even division of the spells in the first set, and the Tribe captured three out of four decisions in the second. In each Cleveland defeat the Indians failed to get a run, Shawkey keeping them from the plate twice, and Quinn doing so once. The Yanks also have been blanked, Coveleskie turning the trick.

The games between the two pennant contenders thus far have been mighty peculiar, and the dope shows that the two are most evenly matched, though the games, most of them, have been lop-sided. The two close battles were those of May 15, when Jack Quinn beat Stanley Coveleskie, 2 to 0, and June 12, when Ray Caldwell beat Coveleskie's conqueror, 5 to 4. Look at the other side of the picture, the games that haven't been close:

Cleveland Victories.

May 16—8 to 2, Bagby against Mays.
May 19—5 to 0, Coveleskie against Mogridge.
June 14—7 to 1, Coveleskie against Thormahlen.
June 15—10 to 2, Bagby against Mays.

New York Victories.

May 18—11 to 0, Shawkey against Myers.
June 13—14 to 0, Shawkey against Uhle.

Naps' Hitting.

The Indians have hit for .292 in the series, and the Yankees for .268, certain pitchers being remarkably effective and certain pitchers being remarkably ineffective. Coveleskie has pitched .167 ball, Shawkey .224, Quinn .233, Dagby .238, Caldwell, .258, Mogridge .286, Faeth .393, Shore, .333, Myers .355, Collins .360, Thormahlen .377, Mays .471, and Uhle .545.

Bob McGraw, pitching one inning, didn't allow a hit.

The unbeaten pitchers of the series are Bagby and Shawkey, with two triumphs, and Caldwell, with one. Coveleskie has won two out of three, and in the game he lost his work was better than in either of his successes. Quinn has won one and lost one; Uhle, Myers, Thormahlen and Mogridge have lost one, and Mays has lost two.

The submarine expert has been battered beyond recognition by Cleveland this year. He started the game of May 16 against the Tribe, and quit before the first inning was over, being located for five hits and for five runs. On June 15 Carl tried again and lasted until two were out in the third, Cleveland in this time making five runs and three hits and drawing four passes, two of which forced in runs. Mays hurried to the showers after Gardner tripled with three on.

Larry's wallop off Mays was the second clear up blow of the act, Sam Vick jumping Myers for a double in the third session of the conflict of May 13.

New York, winning two less games than Cleveland, nevertheless has scored one more run. The Yankees have obtained 36 tallies on 68 hits, the Indians 35 markers on 77 blows.

Pipp Timely Hitter.

Wallie Pipp has been the timeliest hitter of the series, with six runs driven in. Tris Speaker has batted in five and so have Larry Gardner and Duffy Lewis. Babe Ruth has hit in three, but he has been walked eight times, no one else having trudged so frequently. Speaker has been favored with six passes.

Two athletes who haven't been able to hit in the pinches in the Indian-Yank battles are Ray Chapman and Derrill Pratt. The westerner has left 11 men on the bases and hasn't hit in a tally. The easterner has batted in one run and left 13 men on the bases.

These figures show what each Cleveland and New York player has done in the series in the way of helping and hurting his team:

Runs Batted In.

New York, 31—Pipp 6, Lewis 5, Ruth, Vick, Bodie and Peck 3, Hannah, Quinn and Shawkey, 2; Menzel and Pratt 1.

Cleveland, 27—Speaker and Ed. Gardner 5, Wambsgnass 4, Coveleskie 2, Nunamaker, O'Neill and Johnston 2, Evans, Smith, Sanderson and Graney 1.

New York, 3—Pipp, Peck and Ward 1.

BISLEY SCORES

BISLEY CAMP, July 16.—The finish of the shooting of the first range for the MacKinnon Cup at 500 yards, in teams of twelve, fifteen shots per man, was: First, Scotland, 763; second, South Africa, 736; third, England, 834; fourth, Canada, 721; Fifth, Ireland, 688.

At the 1,000-yard range, Scotland steadily maintained its position, being three points ahead of England, eight points ahead of Canada, when six men had fired.

South Africa fell away, her first six men putting on less than any other group. It was plain that Scotland would win the trophy, but the second position was in doubt to within the last few shots, when Company Sergt.-Major Goodhouse and Capt. J. H. Vincent, Hamilton, steadily put bulls and drew totals scores level with England.

Canada, however, made the better score in the final range, therefore taking second place.

Totals 1,000 yards and aggregate scores are:

Scotland, 702, 1,455; Canada, 703, 1,434; England, 700, 1,434; South Africa, 696, 1,432; Ireland, 656, 1,354.

Canadian individual scores and aggregate at the 1,000 yards were: Capt. Crowe, Guelph, 61, 127; Major F. Richardson, Victoria, 55, 115; Sergt. James Boa, Montreal, 62, 115; Pte. W. J. Irvine Ottawa, 55, 111; Lieut. John Chandler, Woodstock, N. B., 48, 112; Capt. F. R. Martin, Calgary, 55, 116; Sergt. W. A. Hawkins, Toronto, 52, 124; Major Utton, Toronto, 55, 115; Lieut.-Col. Bowen, Edmonton, 56, 118; Lieut. J. O. Nix, Winnipeg, 53, 127; Company Sergt-Major Goodhouse, Ottawa, 65, 128; Capt. J. H. Vincent, Hamilton, 67, 126.

King Zip, 2:21¼, got his record at Brockville on July 1, beating seven horses, and won easily and could have stepped in 2:12 that day if he had had to. He never made a break, and only wears quarter boots. Anyone looking for a slow-class pacer cannot find a better one than this one in the country. The reason why he is being sold is to settle a partnership.

AS YOU WERE

If Sir Thomas Lipton does decide to claim Thursday's race, as he is entirely entitled to do by all the laws of sportsmanship and logic as well, it will be regrettable because of the factions such a decision would make among yachtsmen the world over. It's hardly likely that he will decide to claim the race; first and foremost, because as a sportsman he would get no real satisfaction out of such a verdict, and secodnly, if, as has been claimed, Lipton is a good businessman, who has mentally placed a part of the millions he has spent in his quest of the America Cup to advertising account, he will not want to bring against that combination of sportsmanship and business any controversial attacks.

One of the first requirements for the challenger to make is to sail across the ocean under its own sail, thus setting durability up as one of the factors determining the race. This applies to the defender as well, even though the defender may not have to make the actual voyage. So that in meeting with an accident in the first race Resolute is the victim of one of the biggest factors in determining a winner—endurance.

Both yachts are said to be fit and ready for the second race today, and as both crews have learned lessons from the first more excitement may be looked for today.

Pal Moore's victory over Patsy Wallace in twelve rounds was clear enough for an unanimous decision from the newspapermen at Toledo. As Wilde has decisions over both it looks as if Jimmie can come back in the fall without any further doubts being cast up his title of "Mightiest atom in the world."

Poor old war-worn England hasn't done so worse since international sport events are being put on. Starring with the Pen relays, she got the jump on the States and then Gardener, the Yanks' golfing hope, was hopelessly lost. Then United States came back at tennis, and later Princeton track team evened up. Now it's the yacht races which will decide another big international event, and then will come along the Olympic games and decide a lot in a short time.

It's probable that if they are even at the end of the year the Yanks would be mean enough to suggest a play-off with poker.

LEAFS GIVE FAIRLY GOOD TROUNCING TO SYRACUSE BY 11—9

Buffalo Retains Its Lead by Beating Jersey City 4--1.

TORONTO, July 16.—"Bunny" Hearne celebrated his return to the International League today by pitching the Toronto team to a 11-to-4 victory over Syracuse. In four times up Hearne pounded out three hits, including a home run and a double. Tim Jordan, formerly of the locals, knocked his second circuit clout in as many days, which accounted for the visitor's two runs in the eighth.

The score: R.H.E.

Syracuse	000	002	020	—	4	7	3
Toronto	120	080	00x	—	11	15	2

Donovan and Niebergall; Hearne and Devine.

BUFFALO, July 16.—Buffalo won from Jersey City today, 4 to 1. Thomas was hit hard, the visitors making four two-baggers, but the Buffalo heaver always tightened after one of these blows. Blemiller pitched well, but did not have the errorless support accorded the local pitcher.

The score: R.H.E.

Buffalo	101	101	00x	—	4	8	0
Jersey City	000	010	000	—	1	9	2

Thomas and Bruggy; Blemiller and Hyde.

ROCHESTER, July 16.—Reading bunched hits with Rochester's errors today, and won 21 to 9.

The score: R.H.E.

Reading	034	106	42x	—	21	23	3
Rochester	302	001	110	—	9	17	7

Barnhardt and Konnick; Acosta, Jaynes and Ross.

ORIOLES TAKE ONE.

AKRON, July 16.—Newton and Hill engaged in a pitcher's battle today, Baltimore winning the second game of the series from Akron 1 to 0. The game was played under protest by Akron.

The score: R. H. E.

Baltimore	000	001	000	—	1	4	1
Akron	000	000	000	—	0	3	3

THREE RACES ON SLATE AT FORT MIAMI TRACK FOR THIS AFTERNOON

Toledo, Ohio, July 17.—Three races are on the getaway day Grand Circuit program at the Fort Miami track this afternoon. The 2:09 trot was cancelled, while the Maumee, 2:05 trot, worth $1,450, will be the closing day feature, although there are only three starters. Baron Cegantle, Don De Lopez and Mignolia.

There will be eight starters in the 2:15 pace, with John Edwards, winner of a division of the Edwards stake at North Randall, the favorite. There will be ten starters in the 2:18 trot.

Most of the horses will be shipped tonight to Kalamazoo, Mich., where they will perform next week, while a few of the stables will be sent on to Columbus to lay up next week.

HORSE GOSSIP

Racing this week at Preston, Ont., Portage la Prairie, Man.; Virden, Man.; Saskatoon, Sask.; Red Deer, Alta. Next week they go at Sudbury, Kitchener, Brandon, Man., and Lloydminster, Sask.

Governor James M. Cox of Ohio has been chosen as Democratic standard-bearer in the coming presidential election. He is a brother of Walter Cox, the well-known Grand Circuit driver.

"Sep" Palin put the O. K. on his initial victory with Calgary Earl, 2:02¾, at Canton, by winning at Akron. Robert Burgess of Wenona, Ill., has reason to be pleased with his winter purchase. The son of Earl Jr., p., 2:01½, is one dandy pacer.

John Dewey, 2:12¼, sire of Frank Dewey, 2:01¾, and in the stud at John Groves' breeding farm at Stanstead, P. Q., is due for another 2:10 pacer. His pacing daughter, Juno, 2:11¼, a member of the Nat Ray stable, worked in 2:08 at North Randall, Ohio, last week.

To Walter Cox belongs the honor of marking the first foal of Lee Axworthy, 1:58¾, to score a record in standard time. He marked Lee Tide, David M. Look's grand 2-year-old son of the champion and Emily Ellen, 2:09¼, in 2:18¾. It was Cox who gave Lee Axworthy a record of 2:28¼ at the same age.

Another change has been made in the Western Ontario Short Ship Circuit. The dates allotted to Guelph, July 31 and August 2 remain the same, but the meeting has been transferred to Kitchener, thus giving horsemen four days' racing at Kitchener without moving. The classes and purses will be the same as the first Kitchener meeting.

Nat Ray, acting for D. E. Nichol, East Liverpool, O., last week, offered $6,500 for Teddy Grattan, 2:11¼, the large pacing gelding which Tommy Berry is racing for H. Stacy Smith of Newark, N. J. Nat would no doubt have raised the price to $7,500 had there been any disposition on the part of Mr. Smith to dispose of the fast wiggler.

Edwin D. Bither, who was the first man to drive a trotter in 2:10, when he piloted Jay-Eye-See to his record 2:10 mile at Providence, R. I., in 1884, rarely enthuses over one of his training pupils, but when he talks of the two-year-old trotter, Mr. Hoover, by the Harvester, 2:01, out of Louise Wilson, 2:03¾, by Prodigal, 2:16, owned by George A. Graves of Boston, the veteran reinsman's eyes sparkle and he is not backward in pronouncing the youngster in a class with his two former great race winners, Jay-eye-See and Kremlin.

SOCCER KICK-OFFS

At Springbank Park today a twin game takes place between the Grand Army United Vets and the Public Utilities, who meet in their return league fixture, and London (Grand Trunk), who face St. Thomas Rovers, in their semi-final senior W. F. A. replay; the first game starting at 2:30 p.m.; the second at 3:45 p.m.

The following is the line-up for the Grand Army Vets vs. Public Utilities game, kick-off 2:30 p.m.: Grand Army Vets—Goal, Judd; r. b., Harring; l. b., Bryan; r. h., Noble; c. h., Smith; l. h., Scagel; o. r., McVicar; i. r., Brewer; c. f., Friend (capt.); i. l., Summers; o. l., Hamilton. Reserves, Snelling, Yeo, Hearst, Mitchell and Elsby.

Public Utilities—Goal, Whitworth; r. b., Hunt; l. b., Dennis; r. h., Whitworth; c. h., Smith (capt.); l. h., Hodkinson; o. r., Turner; i. r., Barrett; c. f., Dickson; i. l., Iceham; o. l., Leigh. Referee—Barney Devlin.

London (Wasps) vs. St. Thomas Rovers, senior W. H. A. semi-final replay fixture. Kick-off 2:45 p.m. The following players will take the field in this important game for London (Wasps): Goal, Garrow; r. b., Gamney; l. b., Green; r. h., Askew; c. h., Potter; l. h., Fudge; o. r., Lownie; i. f., Spillsbury c. f., Brown; i. l., Bearchill; o. l., Allday. Reserves—Bearchill, Brooks, Maycock, Parker.

Referee—Mr. Farr, St. Thomas.

As the Wasps have a lead of one goal to overcome, a great game should therefore take place between these two formidable W. F. A. elevens, this game deciding who will play Stratford in the final at Woodstock, July 27. The winner of that game in turn will meet the Sarnia City. The Wasps vs. St. Thomas Rovers game played at St. Thomas Tuesday last, was the best game played there this season, the play being of a very fast and robust nature. All the way through the merits of the Wasps on the evening's play called for a draw. Sergeant Sam Hacking, D. C. M., Princess Pats, officiated as referee satisfactorily to everybody concerned. In fact, this particular game was the best refereed this season in St. Thomas.

The Grand Trunk Band will accompany the Wasps to Springbank and render appropriate music during the game on Saturday.

Dr. C. A. Thompson of Newton Highlands, Mass., has sent the eight-year-old Kentucky Todd trotter, June Todd, 2:15¼, out of the great brood mare, Black Heiress, by Heir-at-Law, 2:05¾, to the court of Echo Todd, 2:14¾, at A. B. Hastings' Fair Oaks Farm, Lexington, Mass.

LONDON FALLS IN FOR A COUPLE OF GAMES WITH FLINT

Farrell of Vehics Goes Into Big Show, the Cards Taking Him.

It was announced by President George Mains of the Michigan-Ontario League last night that there would be a directors' meeting in Kitchener on Sunday to discuss the umpire situation. Mr. Maines is making a clean-up tour of the circuit, and has divulged several articles.

One of the obscurities which has been made clear is that Flint and London will replay a game they played in June. The game was protested, as the umpire allowed a run to score when he was hit by a ball. The game will be played as the second of a double-header next Wednesday.

On Saturday, July 31, a game which was postponed in Flint will be played off here as the second game of a double-header.

John O'Hearne of Chicago has been taken on the strength of the arbitration staff. He will report in Hamilton today to take charge of the game. According to reports, O'Hearne is a handler of the indicator, and will find favor with all.

"Hick" Farrell, the long and loose twirler of the Vehics, has been sold for $750 to the St. Louis Cardinals, President Maines announced last night. "Hick" was a good man when it came to stopping some of the teams, although the locals never had a great deal of trouble to solve his delivery and hand him a trouncing.

On Sunday the local players will make a trip to Port Huron, where they will play an exhibition game. They will make the journey as free lances and will not play under the name of the club.

PARIS LEADS WESTERN ONTARIO CRICKET LEAGUE

GALT, July 16.—Secretary J. Smithson of the Western Ontario Cricket League today gave out the standing of the league to date:

City.	Pl.	W.	L.	Dr.	Pts.
Paris	5	4	0	1	9
Twin City	4	3	0	1	7
Stratford	6	3	2	1	7
Guelph	6	1	4	1	3
Brantford	5	1	3	1	3
Galt	4	0	3	1	1

That was a great meeting that J. T. Payette pulled off at Penetang on Dominion Day. Ontario has far too few men of the calibre of "J. T." in the racing game.

BECKETT HAS BURNS SO BADLY OUTCLASSED SECONDS STOP FIGHT

Ex-Champ Has Small Show Against British Champion, Who Downed Him in Second Round.

LONDON, July 16.—Tommy Burns, one time heavyweight champion pugilist of the world, was stopped in the seventh round of what was to have been a twenty-round bout in Albert Hall tonight by Joe Beckett, heavyweight champion of England.

The seconds of the French-Canadian fighter threw up the sponge after Burns had taken counts of seven and nine. Burns protested and desired to continue the unequal fight, but his plea was unavailing.

It was clearly a fight in which brute strength was pitted against age. Burns is nearly thirteen years older than Beckett, and he had not engaged in a big boxing match for many years. Three months of hard training had not reduced his waistline, and he appeared to be sluggish when the fight began.

It seemed that Beckett could have ended the bout in the second round, when Burns, to save himself, repeatedly clinched after having received a series of blows to the head and body. Nevertheless, the ex-champion came back in the third, and this was his best round. He outboxed and outmanoeuvred Beckett. His blows, however, lacked the old-time steam, and he could not hurt his rugged opponent.

ASKIN ELKS BEAT CHELSEA GREEN 4—1

The Askin Street Elks defeated the Chelsea Green nine last night at Springbank, in what proved to be the fastest game played in the league this year, by the score of 4 to 1.

Both teams played well, but the Elks, with their best of team work, proved too fast for their opponents. The Elks have been champions of the C. S. E. T. league for the past three years, and are no doubt one of the fastest amateur baseball teams in Western Ontario. The batteries: Elks—Baker and Milligan; Chelsea Green—Haynes and Noble.

CLOSE FINISHES MARK MICHIGAN SHORT SHIP

FLINT, July 16.—Large fields and close finishes marked the Michigan short-ship meeting here this afternoon. Little Kay surprised the talent by waltzing home in front in the 2:13 pace, with Elsie Onward, a Crumlin (Ont.) mare, in second place. Crystal Knight made short work of the 2:17 pace, winning in straight heats against a field of nine.

"Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain, and took the stiffness out of my muscles.

"I am well today. Ferrozone cured me completely. I can jump and run like I did forty years ago."

AT LOEW'S

ETHEL CLAYTON IN ABSORBING PICTURE OF DOMESTIC LIFE—PRETTY STAR IS APPEALING HEROINE IN "YOUNG MRS. WINTHROP" AT LOEW'S.

Ethel Clayton's latest Paramount Artcraft picture, "Young Mrs. Winthrop," will be the attraction at Loew's Theatre for three days, commencing Monday next. It is an entertaining story of young married life, telling of the estrangement of a youthful husband and wife and their reconciliation under dramatic circumstances. Bronson Howard wrote the play from which it was adapted.

EMMA DUNN IN "OLD LADY 31"

The famous stage celebrity, Emma Dunn, in the great American stage success, "Old Lady 31," at Loew's Thursday next.

Ethel Clayton has the role of pleasure-loving Constance Winthrop, while Harrison Ford is the husband, immersed in business. Their varying interests lead them apart, the sole connecting link being their 5-year-old child, Rosie. The husband becomes involved in an innocent, but shady-looking affair with a Mrs. Dunbar, who is bent upon revenging herself upon Constance. The climax of the picture is the death of Rosie, which at first separates them still further, but later brings them together through the action of a lawyer-friend of both.

J. M. Dumont, Charles Ogle, Raymond Hatton and Winifred Greenwood are included in the excellent supporting cast. Walter Edward directed the picture.

BOY AND GIRL SWEETHEARTS IN "OLD LADY 31" LEND A ROMANTIC TOUCH AT LOEW'S THURSDAY NEXT.

Antrim Short and Winnifred Westover furnish a touch of youthful romance in the Metro-Screen Classic production of "Old Lady 31," showing at Loew's next Thursday.

The theme of the play that Rachel Crothers based on Louise Forsslund's novel is, one critic remarked, that "grandmothers and grandfathers are just the same as other people, only older." The production of the juvenile lovers in gentle contrast to the romance of the old couple, played on the screen—as on the stage—by Emma Dunn and Harry Harmon.

"Old Lady 3-1" is the third Metro-Screen Classic picture Antrim Short has been engaged for in four months. He just completed playing Billy Wantage in Bert Lytell's latest picture, "The Right of Way." Previous to that he was Viola Dana's leading man in "Please Get Married." His present characterization is John, a carpenter, and the nephew of one of the elderly women in the home.

Winnifred Westover has played many important parts in pictures during the past few years. She was De Wolf Hopper's leading woman for two years, and has supported Charles Ray, William S. Hart and other well-known stars. In "Old Lady 31" she is the daughter of the village banker.

VAUDEVILLE AND ADDED FEATURES.

Excellent bills of vaudeville will be presented at Loew's next week. Each and every offering a star act, affording an unusual bill of enjoyment for Loew patrons.

A Big "V" Comic, chuck full of laughs and chuckles, will grace the screen for the first three days, while one of those irresistible laugh provokers from the Hank Mann studios will hold the screen for the last three days. The ever-popular Loew Screen Pictorial will feature both programs.

GIANT GRIZZLIES BATTLE TO THE DEATH IN JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S PICTURE AT ALLEN.

"THE COURAGE OF MARGE O'DOONE," NEW THRILLING PHOTOPLAY OF CANADIAN NORTHERN WILDNESS, SHOWN MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Have you ever seen two great grizzly bears battle to the death? Watched the fur fly, and felt the earth trembled with tire gigantic struggles? Two great grizzly bears are set to fighting in "The Courage of Marge O'Doone," James Oliver Curwood's new picture, which is shown at the Allen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Tarra had been raised from a wee cub as the friend and protector of this lonely maid of the north—and when the time came he gladly laid down his life in a terrific battle with a giant grizzly of the mountains for the safety of his mistress.

Then there is the fierce outlaw dog, killer of men, who would acknowledge no man as his master, until the young tenderfoot came into the wilderness—then he had been won by kindness, and was willing to fight to the death if necessary for this young master, who was like a god to his canine heart.

Just to show you that these aren't all the thrills either, we'll tell you of one more, the battle between the young tenderfoot and the big bully of the north, two six-foot towers of muscle, who fought like cavemen, the love and happiness of a girl the prize.

For thrilling situations, for wonderful scenic beauty, for one of the most exceptional romances that the screen has ever shown is "The Courage of Marge O'Doone" famous, it is a picture which you will retain in your memory as long as you enjoy entertainment—a tale of the out-of-doors which will thrill you through and through.

As picture in book form is one of the treasures of nearly every child, it will be a special treat for the young ones if you have them see it.

FAMOUS TYRONE POWER IN ALL-CANADIAN PRODUCTION STORY OF BOLSHEVISM, TIMELY DRAMA OF LABOR AND CAPITAL QUESTION—DEALS WITH PROBLEM IN FORCEFUL AND COMPELLING MANNER.

Presented at the Allen next Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be the great all Canadian special, "The Great Shadow," Tyrone Power's timely picture of modern Canadian life and its labor problems.

What would happen to our fair country if Bolshevism spread its red reign of terror throughout the land. "The Great Shadow" portrays the effect of a big strike, called through Bolshevik agents in this country, and the terrible doom that blind labor was sweeping the land towards, until there came a man out of the masses, a natural leader, to point the way and lead in such a masterful manner that all must follow.

"The Great Shadow" is entirely Canadian, story, settings and cast. It deals with a new subject, and is a picture which is sweeping from coast to coast with a wave of popular enthusiasm.

It is a picture which the trades and labor councils are taking an active interest in, and the leading figures in the labor world are in thorough sympathy with.

LARGE CROWDS FLOCK TO BEACH AND ENJOY SPLENDID BIG FREE MOVIE SHOW.

That movies on the beach in the open air has caught on, is quite evident from the large crowds that have flocked to Port and occupied every available seat on the beach to see "Other Men's Shoes," the big special photoplay production which featured the opening program and the innovation of movies on the beach. It is an absorbing drama of the weak versus the strong, and carries a real human interest story that holds the spectator until the very end. Seven big reels tell a most delightful story and undoubtedly big crowds will enjoy it tonight. The comedy feature, "The Rajah," holds the screen, as the comedy end of the program and, judging by the ripples of laughter that were in evidence the past two nights, should more than delight tonight's fans. Special music and the Pathe News completes the bill.

Monday brings an entire change of program with dainty Mae Murray in "The Twin Pawns," an intensely dramatic five-part photoplay. One man's craving for wealth and power—one man's lust for greed that hesitated at nothing to accomplish his evil desires—is responsible for the plot of "The Twin Pawns."

Daisy and Violet White are twin sisters. Mae Murray, captivating and bewitching, plays both roles. In their childhood their parents separated. Daisy was raised by her mother in the slums of New York, while Violet enjoyed all the luxuries bestowed upon her by an indulgent father, owner of a large steel plant in Uniontown, Pa.

Daisy's mother died, and papers indicating Daisy's relationship to the steel magnate fell into the hands of John Bent, as unscrupulous a man as ever existed inside or outside a book. By hiding from Daisy's father the truth of her existence, he is able to shift the twins to his own best advantage.

To give the plot in detail would be to remove much of the pleasure in seeing "The Twin Pawns" on the screen, for the story unfolds with the breathless excitement that characterizes all good melodramas.

"The Twin Pawns" was adapted by Leonce Perret from "The Woman in White," a popular novel by Wilkie Collins, a famous English novelist. A special comedy, "Order of the Court," and the Pathe News will complete the bill for the first three days of next week. June Caprice in "In Walked Mary," will feature the bill for the last three days of next week. The comic feature, "He Leads; Others Follow," and the Pathe News completes the entertainment for the last three days.

WILLIAM FARNUM IN TALE OF HIDDEN GOLD.

William Farnum in an entirely new sort of role is promised by advance news of "The Joyous Troublemakers," a new William Fox photodrama, which is coming to the Patricia Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. But it has become a byword in the motion picture world that a new sort of role is nothing new to this versatile star.

"The Joyous Troublemakers" is a story of hidden treasure, and William Farnum plays first the youth who finds the treasure and then the man who comes back to claim his own. The treasure was hidden by nature, not by man, and is in the bed of a river.

This all sounds very promising. Also, of course, there is a pretty love story—and the name of Louise Lovely in the cast is indication enough that this will be well acted.

Others in the cast are Henry J. Hebert, Harry Devere, G. Raymond Nye, Clarence Morgan, George Nichols, Sedley Brown, John Underhill, Harry Archer, Al Fremont, Earl Crain, Chiek Leyva, Pedro DeLeon, Claire Delorez and Molly Bishop. With such a cast one may expect abundant action, at least.

The story is by Jackson Gregory and the scenario by Charles Kenyon.

TREES 400 YEARS OLD ARE STILL BEARING

There are trees that bear edible fruit which are good for more than half a century, the olive tree standing alone with its long period of usefulness to mankind. Some of these trees are extremely long-lived. There are some in Syria which are known to be more than 400 years old, and not only are they in a flourishing condition, but they bid fair to bear fruit for another century or two.

Formerly the olive trees were not expected to produce fruit oftener than once in three years, but with improved methods of culture they now bear abundantly each season. In ancient times the olives were threshed from the trees with sticks, but now the Syrians pick them by hand, thereby preserving their trees, and also improving the quality of the fruit.

SAYS COUNTY PUPILS FIND COLLEGIATE MOST CONVENIENT

County Clerk Non-Committal Regarding Board of Education Request.

Regarding the action taken by the local board of education Thursday in deciding to ask the Middlesex County council to co-operate with the board in building a new collegiate institute here, County Clerk John Stuart said today: "I cannot state what action the county council will take on the matter. The county now pays 80 per cent of the cost of tuition for every county pupil attending the collegiate. The annual Legislative grant, which is as much for the county as the city, covers the other 20 per cent. Thus the county is paying its share of cost in maintenance of the collegiate, but I do not know what action will be taken regarding a new building.

"Should any friction arise between the county council and the London Board of Education, the latter body has power to bar county pupils from attending the collegiate here. They could then attend collegiates and high schools in other municipalities of the county, such as Strathroy, Parkhill or Glencoe. The only pupils inconvenienced would be those who return home from London every night. However, I admit that the London Collegiate is a mighty convenient institution for Middlesex County pupils, who make up 17 per cent of the total attendance there."

DRAPER SAYS THAT MONEY FURNISHED WAS PROPERLY USED

Secretary of Labor Congress Denies Accusations.

Ottawa, July 16.—An emphatic denial of the statements attributed to a delegate of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council in that city last night to the effect that he had used sums of money in bribing delegates to trades and labor congress conventions, was made by P. M. Draper, secretary of the congress this morning.

Secretary Draper also states that he merely acted as agent for the past president, Allan E. Barker, of the International Brotherhood of Railway Maintenance and Shop Workers, in the disbursal of the $50,000, which was sent to him by Barker. He declared that the money had been properly used for the purpose for which it was intended.

WHEAT PRICES BREAK ON CHICAGO MARKET

Big Slump Due to Lack of Buying Orders.

Chicago, July 16.—Wheat underwent a sensational break in prices today. The market opened all the way from unchanged figures to 9½c lower, and was down 10½c a bushel in some cases for December. The big tumble in values was attributed more to lack of buying orders than to any great pressure to sell.

PRESIDENT DESCHANEL IMPROVES IN HEALTH

French Executive Likely to Resume Office Soon.

ARMENIAN REFUGEES JOINING GREEK ARMY

Withdrawal of British Discourages Armenian People.

Constantinople, July 16.—By the Associated Press.—Eight thousand Armenian refugees concentrated in Smyrna, have enlisted in the Greek army. Large numbers of Armenians are enlisting in Constantinople daily. The Turks have begun deportations of Armenians eastward from stations where the Armenians might aid the Greeks. There have been deportations from Cesarea and many other places.

Reports say that Kiazim Kara Bekir, commanding the Nationalists in Erzerum, has begun a movement against Armenia, which is causing great uneasiness to the Armenians, who fear that the massacres and deportations of the last four years will be repeated.

The Armenians are declared to be greatly discouraged because of the withdrawal of the British from Batum.

NEW POSTMASTER IS NAMED FOR LEAMINGTON

Leamington, July 16.—W. G. Gidley has received notification from the civil service commission of his appointment as postmaster at Leamington for the probation term of six months, the appointment to become permanent at the expiration of that time if everything is satisfactory. Mr. Gidley will assume his duties, it is expected, the latter part of this month, when Mr. Selkirk's three months' notice accompanying his resignation from the postmastership will have expired.

FORMER 18TH MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Windsor, July 16.—Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle, former commander of the 18th Battalion, was advised in a dispatch from England today of the suicide of John McLennan, a former member of that unit, and a Windsor resident previous to the war. The tragedy occurred at Dalmuir, when a police officer of that place entered McLennan's home to make an arrest for charges pending against the former Windsor man. Evading the vigilance of the officer for but a moment, McLennan darted into an adjoining room and slashed his throat, dying shortly after.

BOY'S BODY RECOVERED.

Kingston, July 16.—The body of John Albert Dean, aged 8, who had been missing since Saturday night, when he left home to go fishing, was found in the harbor this morning. He was a son of John Henry Dean, who with his family moved here from Prescott about six months ago.

Londoner's Uncle Inflicted Defeat On Turk Forces

Young Greek Waiter Hears Good News From Overseas.

Gen. Stavros Demetracopios, in command of the 13th division of the Greek army, which recently inflicted an overwhelming defeat upon the Turkish forces near Smyrna, taking over 10,000 Turks prisoners, is an uncle of Spiros Kostis, waiter in a Dundas street restaurant.

Mr. Kostis was recently warned for possible service in the Greek army, but for some weeks has received no further notice from the Grecian authorities. The Greek premier having announced the other day that "the war is over," it is not likely that any Greek reservists will be called home from America. However no Greeks between the ages of 19 and 49 are being permitted to leave Greece, which would seem to indicate that so long as there is any possibility of the Turks making further trouble the Greek Government does not intend to be found unprepared.

REORGANIZATION TO MEAN SOME CHANGES IN RAILWAY HEADS

Hon. J. D. Reid Expects Work for All Employees.

Winnipeg, July 16.—Shifting in personnel through the reorganization and amalgamation of the Canadian National Railways, the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific was indicated by Hon. J. D. Reid, minister of railways and canals, who arrived in Winnipeg today. Mr. Reid further indicated that the amalgamation would not interfere with the superannuation rights of any of the men on the two systems. He discussed construction, the future of labor supply, and touched on the necessity for higher railroad freight rates.

"It is impossible for me to get details of amalgamation," said Mr. Reid. "I have not seen Mr. Hanna, nor have I been over the western lines. So it would be impossible for me to talk of actual changes in personnel or any details of that sort. However, in 22,000 miles of railway, with hundreds of more miles being built, there is going to be no difficulty whatever in taking care of the men now with both systems."

In discussing the opening up of new territory, Mr. Reid said:

"We are building lines now, and there are more lines to be built. Much construction was halted by the war. Construction is now difficult because of high costs, and the scarcity of labor. But I do not really think that is going to handicap us for long."

WAS GOOD CYCLIST, NOW CHICKEN KING

Lad Pedals Far To Learn From Poultry Expert.

During the latter part of May, 1899, a boy pedaled his way on a bicycle from Pennsylvania, through Shelbyville, Ind., and to the farm of Sidney Conger, south of Shelbyville, near Norristown. That boy was Joe Parks, and today Joe Parks is the largest breeder of Barred Plymouth Rock chickens in the world. His father lived near Altoona, Pa., and on the "old home place" Joe is now enjoying an income that has gone beyond the rosiest dreams of his boyhood.

At the time mentioned, Sid Conger was the Plymouth Rock king of the land. He was shipping eggs for hatching and fowls for breeding to all states of the union. He was the first man in the country to receive $1 each for eggs, and he was the first man to sell five hens and a rooster for $1,250.

On the Conger farm Joe Parks went to work for 50 cents a day and his board. The boy worked every day in the week from May 24 to August 11, twelve hours a day. On Sundays he worked eight hours, receiving his board but no money.

The youth later returned to his father's place in Pennsylvania. Today he is shipping Barred Rocks to all states and to foreign countries. The boy who pedaled his way down the Norristown pike on a May day, 21 years ago, is now able to get as high as $3 for a single egg.

HULL POLICE OF OPINION THEY HAVE ROUNDED UP TWO OF DRUG DEALERS

Ottawa, July 16.—With the arrest of Lloyd Cochrane and Henry Therien, who told the police that they lived in Montreal, the Hull authorities feel confident that they have rounded up two of the men who have been engaged in the illicit drug traffic, which, during the last few months, has been prosecuted in Quebec.

Cochrane and Therien, after their arrests, were searched at the Hull police station and a quantity of cocaine was discovered in their possession, the police say. The men were arraigned before Recorder Desjardins, and after a short inquiry they were remanded until next Tuesday.

KEEP CAREFUL DIARY.

Manasseh Cutler, founder of the State of Ohio, author of the famous "Ordinance of 1787," for several years a member of Congress from the State of Massachusetts, teacher, preacher, scientist and merchant, kept a diary in which he recorded his experiences and observations form day to day. In this diary is to be found the interesting story of the "Democratic cheese."

After Thomas Jefferson was elected to the presidency, Cutler wrote, John Leland, a Massachusetts preacher who had a profound admiration for Jefferson, proposed to his congregation that all join in and make the "biggest cheese the world had ever seen" by way of celebrating Jefferson's success in the election.

The diary says: "Every man and woman who owned a cow was to give for this cheese all the milk their cow yielded on a certain day. A huge cider press was fitted up to make it in, and on the appointed day the whole country turned out with pails and tubs of curd, the girls and women in their best gown and ribbons and the men in their Sunday coats and clean shirts.

"The cheese was put to press with prayer, hymn-singing and great solemnity. When it was dried it weighed 1,600 pounds, and the Rev. Mr. Leland drove with it all the way to Washington. It was a journey of three weeks. All the country had heard of the big cheese and came out to look at it as the elder drove along."

WANT AN INVESTIGATION.

Ottawa, July 16.—At the next meeting of the Hull City Council a petition will be presented, signed by fifty property-owners of the city, requesting that a judicial investigation, before a judge of the superior court be instituted at an early date into the administration of the city police department.

BRITISH GAIN CONTROL OF ALL OIL IN PERSIA

Will Be Important Factor in Obtaining Future Supplies.

AMERICA'S SUPPLY LOW

British Firm Is Negotiating For Important Concessions in Australia.

Washington, D. C., July 16.—While Americans desiring to develop oil fields abroad find themselves under a handicap, Great Britain is rapidly strengthening its hold on the future oil supply of the world. Information has just been received through official channels in Washington of new activities contemplated by the British in Persia, where the Anglo-Persian Oil Company already holds an exclusive concession for the whole of Persia, except five northern provinces, for a period of sixty years, dating from 1901.

The new move by the British in developing the Persian oil resources consists in the formation of another oil company known as the North Persia Oils, Limited, to develop the resources of the other five provinces. This new company will have a capital of £3,000,000. It is stated that the new company has been formed in conjunction with the Anglo-Persian Oil Company. The Anglo-Persian Oil Company, it is learned, has been in negotiation with the Persian Government for additional concessions and the new company has been organized to develop these.

Future Supply for Navy.

The Persian situation is typical of activities of the British in providing for the future with respect to a supply of fuel oil for its navy and merchant marine. Under the terms of the concession by the Anglo-Persian Oil company, citizens of the United States are excluded from petroleum development in Persia. The concession heretofore held by that company, covering about 500,000 square miles, has been greatly strengthened by the agreement between the British and Persian Governments, signed August 5, 1919, by which the Persian civil, military and financial administrations were placed under British supervision and direction.

According to official reports on the world oil situation to the state department, the British Government has a controlling interest in the Anglo-Persian Oil Company. The Government also has assisted in the development of oil fields in other countries by bearing one-half of the expense and contributing experts.

Seeks Australian Concession.

The Anglo-Persian Oil Company is not confining its activities to Persia, but is negotiating for a concession in Australia. A bill now under consideration by the Parliament of Australia provides that the Commonwealth of Australia and the Anglo-Persian Oil Company shall become partners in the oil industry in Australia and the Papuan Islands.

The commonwealth undertakes to insure the full success of the development of the industry in Australia by preventing dumping and unfair competition by imports of refined oil from other countries. Under the proposed agreement relative to the Papuan Islands the Anglo-Persian Oil Company is to send out geological expeditions to explore the country for oil, select drilling sites, and conduct and superintend boring operations. The British own part of the Papuan Islands and have acquired the German portion under a mandate since the war.

Prohibits Alien Control.

In line with its policy to strengthen its control over the future oil supply the British Government seems to exclude aliens from the control of the petroleum supplies of the empire and to endeavor to secure some measure of control over oil properties in foreign countries. This policy, according to reports to the state department, appears to be developing along the following lines, which are directly or indirectly restrictive on the citizens of the United States:

1. By debarring foreigners and foreign nationals from owning or operating oil producing properties in the British Isles, colonies and protectorates.

2. By direct participation in ownership and control of petroleum companies.

3. By arrangements to prevent British oil companies from selling their properties to foreign owned or controlled companies.

4. By orders-in-council that prohibit the transfer of shares in British oil companies to other than British subjects or nationals.

Governs Prospecting.

Prospecting for petroleum is lawful in the United Kingdom only by the board of trade or the minister of munitions or persons authorized by them. Similar regulations apply to working a petremmn property. The only drilling now going on in the United Kingdom for petrolemn is being done by S. Pearson & Son, Limited, as petroleum development managers for the Government.

It is unlawful for British citizens, without the consent of the board of trade, to transfer to an alien or to a foreign controlled company any interest in a company controlling an oil field in the United Kingdom.

America's Supply Low.

Significance of the British domination of the future oil supply of the world is indicated by the fact that while about 65 per cent of the petroleum now produced in the world is drawn from the United States, yet government experts say that the total underground reserve in this country will be exhausted in twenty years at the present rate of consumption. The greater part of the outside sources of supply are under the control of Great Britain.

While Great Britain is able to produce oil in the United States on equal terms with American citizens, the reverse is true when Americans attempt to invade British territorry. American oil companies are expressly excluded from doing business in Burma by proclamations signed by Queen Victoria and Lord Salisbury, secretary of state for India, in 1884, and a blanket concession of ninety-nine years was given the Burma Oil Company, Limited, protecting this company from all foreign competition.

Officials of the navy and shipping board are greatly concerned over the future supply of oil for the American navy and merchant marine.

SWEARS BY BUDDHA INSTEAD OF GOD IN COURT AT CORLOBA

Young Agnostic Law Student Is Admitted To Bar.

Buenos Aires, July 16.—Permission to swear by Buddha instead of God and the Holy Apostles was granted by the superior court of Cordoba the other day to a young law student of agnostic belief when he took oath of membership in the Argentine bar. He sought first to take the oath "by my country and my honor," but the court informed him that he would be obliged to take a "religious oath."

The student, it is related, thereupon went to a library and began a profound study of the world's religions, on which he spent several days. He then returned to the court, and informed the learned judges he had found that the Buddhist religion was "the most moral and most complete" and asked permission to take oath upon it. The judges consulted musty tomes of Argentine law and decided there was nothing to exclude him from taking such an oath.

FOREIGNERS FINDING GERMANY DEAREST COUNTRY IN EUROPE

Steady Rise of Mark Causes Prices To Increase Abnormally.

Berlin, July 16.—As a result of the steady rise of the German mark, foreigners are discovering that for them Germany is now perhaps the dearest country in Europe. And as the mark strengthens prices continue to rise.

For several months German hotels have been forcing foreigners to pay from 100 to 200 per cent more than natives are charged. Many shops also make a practice of mulcting foreigners, some haberdasheries in Berlin charging 60 cents, American, for an ordinary white collar.

Newspapers, learning of the great influx of American tourists to England and France, are beginning to wonder if the extortions of shops and hotels will have the effect of keeping the Americans and other foreigners out of Germany.

WILL TAKE FIVE YEARS TO DEVELOP PROPERTIES

BUCHAREST, July 16.—Despite the heavy speculation in oil land and oil property now going on in Rumania, expert oil men say that it will take at least five years for this country to properly develop such prospects. The speculators are merely selling prospects to each other rather than developing the property.

The oil production in 1919 was 917,999 tons, which was less than 50 per cent of the pre-war production of the oil fields. The amount of oil shipped out of Rumania in March, 1920, for example was 5,278 tons, which indicates the difficulty of getting the oil transported.

There is one small pipe line which runs from the oil fields to Constanza. There are about 2,000 tank cars, which might be operated. It takes two years to drill a well. It costs ten times as much now as before the war, the oil transported is bad, and the Government puts many restrictions on the export of oil.

RAGGED, HATLESS AND SHOELESS, MAN FOUND COUNTING PAPER BITS

Gendarmes Take Him To the Police Station As An Inebriate.

HAD 115,000 FRANCS

"Father of Luck" Had Won Fortune At Horse Races, He Explained.

Paris, July 16.—Ragged, hatless and practically shoeless, an elderly man was sitting in a park on the south side of the Seine a few nights since, muttering to himself, 50, 60, 70, the while stacking thin little slips of paper one upon the other. He attracted the attention of two gendarmes, for he had apparently been drinking too much wine. He was taken to the station.

The desk sergeant was bewildered when the ragged man explained that the little slips of paper he was counting were good bills of the Bank of France and that the figures he was mumbling represented their amount. He had 115,080 francs.

"I won this money at the races," explained the denizen of the park.

It developed that the man was one Billigot, a former colonial soldier, at times street newspaper vendor, known to the citizens of Grenelle ward in Paris as "Father of Luck" or "Father Cherry" (the little fruit being known in the parlance of the Paris gambling circles as the emblem of luck). He had run up 140 francs, the amount of his pension paid to him as an ex-soldier, into 115,080 francs. The police released him, after giving him a little advice about counting his wealth in public parks while slightly under the influence of red wine.

Billigot invested 80,000 francs in a life annuity the next morning, bought a suit of clothes, shoes, etc., and before departing for Saint Cloud race track called on the friendly police sergeant and gave him a tip on the races for that afternoon. The horse won. The newspaper L'Eclair has offered him 100 francs per day for his racing selections until the end of the season.

JAMAICA RESIDENTS UNITE IN PROTEST AGAINST PROHIBITION

Home of Rum No Place For Dry Law, Is Islanders' Cry.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 16.—Thousands of residents of this island, the home of Jamaica rum, have united in a protest to the government and legislative council against prohibition, state control of the liquor trade or alteration of the present licensing system.

A measure has been introduced in the legislature by the government providing for state control of the trade after the legislative council had been asked to consider also the questions of prohibition and licensing.

Those opposed argued in a memorial to the government that the manufacture of rum, as a by-product of sugar, had been carried on in the island for hundreds of years and formed a very important industry which would be seriously affected if prohibition were imposed. They objected also to state control, chiefly on the ground of expense and risk involved.

Rio de Janeiro, July 2.—North American moving pictures, which during the war period enjoyed a virtual monopoly in the Brazilian field, are now encountering competition of German-made films. For the first time since 1914, German films are being used in local theatres.

DRASTIC MEASURES FOR FALLING OFF IN CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

German Lutheran Body Votes To Exclude Backsliders From Privileges.

Berlin, July 16.—So great is the falling off in church membership here that the Berlin synod of the German Lutheran Church has voted to take drastic measures against persons who withdraw. Reports read at a recent meeting of the synod showed that while in 1915 there were only 25 defections, the number last year reached 5,287. As many women as men withdrew, most of them being young, and the majority members of the Social-Democratic party.

The synod resolved that all those withdrawing should be excluded from the privileges of the church, their children to be denied baptism and to receive confirmation instruction only on certain conditions. To make these measures effective the synod voted to introduce cards to show that the holders are bona fide church members.

Escape from church taxation is said to be the principal reason for the withdrawals. Every German citizen is assumed to be a member of the state church and is taxed for its upkeep. Formerly there were few withdrawals owing to the difficulties placed in the way of those wishing to do so and also to the social discredit that accompanied the act. But under a new law all a person has to do is to appear before a designated official and state his desire to give up his church membership. Thereafter he is exempt from the payment of church taxes.

FAMOUS COBBLERS ARDENT PACIFISTS

Worcester, 'Apostle of Peace,' Was Shoemaker Prior to Entering Church.

The world has been much concerned about shoes lately, but chiefly on account of exorbitant prices. How many of us stop to think, or know that shoemakers have exerted a great influence upon the world's history, and that some of the greatest advocates of peace have been the notable shoemakers of ancient and modern times.

One of the most ancient of the famous shoemakers was Rabbi Ochanan the Shoemaker, who lived in the second century, and held that "an association established for a praiseworthy object must ultimately succeed, but an association established without such an object cannot succeed," which sounds almost like a suggestion of a league of nations for peace.

"Stick to the Last."

The ancient proverb, "Shoemaker, stick to thy last," is said to have originated in ancient Greece. The artist Apelles painted his pictures and placed them by the wayside to hear the comments of passersby. On one occasion he heard a shoemaker criticize a shoe in his picture as faulty, and he corrected the error.

But when the shoemaker, noting that his advice had been accepted, criticized the drawing of the leg, Apelles was forced to cry out: "Shoemaker, stick to thy last," that is, you may criticize in your own department, but not otherwise.

America has produced at least two very famous cobblers. One of these was Noah Worcester, known as the first great "Apostle of Peace." He it was who founded the first great "Peace Society of Massachusetts." Born in 1758 he went into the war against Great Britain when about 18 years of age, and fought at the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Hater of Wars.

He became so disgusted with the vices of the soldier's life and the horrors of the battlefield that he became a hater of war, and advocate of peace. He worked in the field all day, and made shoes at night, besides studying as much as he could. He became a minister before 30, continuing to do farm work and cobble shoes so as to eke out an existence.

He even taught the children of his parishioners for no pay, conducting a school in his study.

It was in 1814, after he had written urging Christian unity, that he published his famous pamphlet, "A Solemn Review of the Custom of War," advocating the abolishment of war, interpreting literally the New Testament doctrine. "Resist not evil," in line with the teaching of the Society of Friends. Dying in his 80th year, he asked to have inscribed upon his tombstone: "He Wrote the 'Friend of Peace.'"

Whittier at Bench.

John Greenleaf Whittier, the "Quaker Poet," was another very famous American cobbler. While on his father's farm at Haverhill, Mass., he worked in the fields and at the shoemaker's bench, until at the age of 19 he was sent to a college supported by the Friends.

He was a sturdy advocate of the abolition of slavery, and in his famous "Songs of Labor," published in 1850, is a special poem addressed "To Shoemakers."

CAMPAIGN AGAINST HOOKWORM SUCCEEDS

Kingston, Jamaica, July 16.—Effects of the campaign against the hookworm conducted by the Government and an expert for the Rockefeller Foundation already are felt. In Vere, one of the largest sugar centres of the colony, the laborers now work six days a week, whereas formerly they were able to work but three.

On account of their improved physical condition large numbers of these workers are leaving Jamaica to work in the cane fields in Cuba. Governor Probyn is sanguine that with the assistance of the Rockefeller commission the hookworm will be eradicated from the island.

FRENCH RAILWAYMEN HAVE RETURNED TO PATH OF MODERATION

Labor Officials Say They Have Shelved Extremist Leaders.

Paris, July 16.—"The railway men have shelved their extremist leaders and gone back to the path of moderation," said the head of a labor federation today. "The election of these former president, M. Bidegaray, to his old post at the head of the union, demonstrates that the workers are tired of being misled by the radicals.

"There will not be any more hasty unpopular strikes. The workers will reflect well before ceasing to work again, and if they do they will act through the old, seasoned labor leaders. The railway men have decided to take part once more in the arbitration commissions, which, with the co-operation of the employers and the Government, are used to regulate the conditions of labor."

The action of the railway men is significant of the situation in other parts of the French labor world. Last May they formed the most radical element of the labor confederation, and their swing means that the overwhelming defeat of the strike about a month ago has taught a lesson to the working people as a whole.

The agitation conducted recently by the Communists for a strike in sympathy with the movement in Italy has fallen on deaf ears.

PLAN TO INCREASE COAL CAR SERVICE TO LAKE ERIE PORTS

NEW YORK, July 16.—Plans for increased coal car service to Lake Erie ports—the gateways of the Northwest States—to prevent all possibility of a winter coal famine, were agreed upon at a conference here today between the Association of Railway Executives and the National Coal Association, the latter representing the bituminous industry. The plan will be submitted Monday to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval, and the issuance of necessary orders to put it in effect on all railroads.

The coal operators say the plan will permit the movement of sufficient coal to prevent a famine in any part of the country during the coming winter.

ALASKA MAY PROVIDE PULPWOOD SUPPLIES

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 15.—Requests for information are being received by the Alaska Bureau of Publicity from capitalists in all parts of the country who are interested in pulpwood timber, mill sites and water power, presumably as a result of the recent intimation that the department of agriculture is about to propose 30 to 35 year leases to those desirous of engaging in the manufacture of pulpwood.

The Tongass national forest, comprising about 15,000,000 acres, approximately one-sixth of which is heavily timbered and abundantly supplied with mill sites and water, is the subject of many inquiries. Those who have closely observed the awakening of interest in the pulpwood industry in Alaska are of the belief that the elimination of the "cash in advance" and "year to year" system of leasing timber lands will result in the development of a great paper-making industry, which, they are confident, is bound to attract attention to other natural resources of Alaska which have long awaited the touch of capital.

PRICES STAY FIRM SAYS TRADE REPORT

WINNIPEG, July 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Creditmen's Association gives several interesting points. One is that many lines of goods are now coming forward from factories more freely.

Another is that prices as a rule are remaining firm, the only exception being in boots and shoes, in which an easing of the price is clearly apparent.

Winnipeg and Manitoba wholesalers find business up to the average for July, and with grocery and provision lines busy. Retail trade throughout Manitoba is on the quiet side generally.

Saskatoon and Regina advices give indications of slightly improved conditions in wholesale circles. The volume of business also looks brighter, generally good weather conditions being responsible for an improvement on the buying.

SMOKER IN HONOR OF DRAYTON, DOHERTY

KINGSTON, Ont., July 16. — A "smoker" was given by W. R. Givens, publisher of the Daily Standard, of this city, at his residence tonight in honor of Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, who is visiting here, and Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, who has been investigating dismissals of certain officials from the Portsmouth penitentiary, complained of by Brig.-General A. E. Ross, M. P. P. About one hundred citizens attended the smoker, which was of a non-political charact r.

PINK BOLLWORM IS FOUND IN LOUISIANA

Pest, Previously Supposed To Exist Only in Texas.

The pink bollworm threatens the cotton industry of the United States, according to the department of agriculture. The worst pest of the south's crop, previously supposed to visit only in Texas, has been discovered at a number of places in Cameron parish, Louisiana, where it is believed to have been for the last two years.

It has also been found in Calcasieu parish, but so recently that no definite data are available. Lots of cottonseed, ranging from one to twenty cars, have been shipped from Cameron parish to many southern cities, where there are no oil mills, presumably for use as seed. This brings about a serious situation for the cotton industry.

Unless the radical but necessary steps are taken promptly by the various states concerned, in co-operation with the Federal Government, the pink bollworm will get out of hand, and the work of experiment already carried out in Texas will be lost. Congress has been asked to provide additional funds and make them immediately available.

NEWSPAPER OWNER COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

VICTORIA, B. C., July 16.—Griffith R. Hughes was today committed for trial in a higher court, on a charge of stealing $28,095 from David Spencer, Limited, after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Jay in city police court.

The defendant's counsel reserved the defence, but indicated by the terms of a motion for dismissal that it would take the form of a contention that the complainants had only the right to civil action against the accused; and that the crown, by the use of certain evidence, was placed in the same position as the complainants.

Some two hours after the committal, defendant was re-admitted to bail in the sum of $20,000 and four sureties of $5,000 each.

Mr. Justice Gregor of the supreme court granted the application for bail.

TO ACCOMPANY KRASSIN.

COPENHAGEN, July 16. — Leonid Krassin, the Bolshevik minister of trade and commerce, will be accompanied, on his return to London to discuss trade intercourse, by several Russian diplomats of the old imperial regime.

It is reported that Maxim Litvinoff, assistant commissioner of foreign affairs in the Soviet Government, will leave Copenhagen tomorrow for London.

GERMANS APOLOGIZE FOR THE REMOVAL OF FRENCH TRICOLOR

BERLIN, July 16.—Dr. Haniel von Haimhausen, under-secretary of foreign affairs, with Herr Moll, counsellor of the Government, representing the prefect of police, paid a personal visit to the French embassy this afternoon to express official regret over the removal on Wednesday of a French flag hoisted over the French embassy in honor of the Bastille Day. Herr Moll announced the arrest of the guilty person.

Later a company of Reichswehr, with an officer at the head, filed past the embassy portico which was filled with French officers. The soldiers turned and stood at attention while the tricolor was hoisted. They then marched away singing "Deutschland Uber Allies." The crowd and the police guards joined in the singing.

COOK PUTS MOVIES TO SHAME, CATCHING BEAR WITH LASSO

ANYON, B. C., July 16.—Putting wild west movie stars to shame, Alfonse Kobloff, chef de cruisine at Granby's meashouse, is the local hero of a spectacular bear capture. That he is alive to tell the tale is a miracle.

Kobloff and a Chinese farmer were skirting the edges of Granby Bay, so the story goes, in a skiff looking for a rowboat which had gone adrift, when a big black bear emerged from a thicket and made his way toward the pair. The farmer retired a few paces, but Kobloff, a cowboy of renown in his day, picked up a folded rope from the boat, dodged the bear in its rush, and neatly slipped the nose over its head.

Standing on hind legs, bruin started again toward his captor, who then deftly threw a couple of half-hitches over the animal's extended forepaws.

Neither man had a gun. Kobloff delivered a hard blow on the bear's skull with a hammer, however, apparently killing him.

Pushing off in their boat, the men essayed to tow the bear home. When a few rods from shore the bear revived and pulled a movie stunt of his own by attempting to crawl into the boat with two very unwilling passengers. The Chinaman succeeded in holding him off with a boathook until Kobloff again brought the hammer into play. Bruin's hide was sent to Vancouver for mounting.

STEAL FIFTY CASES.

TORONTO, July 16.—Forcing a window at the home of "Scotty" McEwen here last night, unknown thieves took 50 cases of liquor out of his cellar. The police are investigating.

MOST people are acquainted with the idea of keeping foods hot or cold in thermos bottles.

Now you are to know of Thermokept foods in our new patented Thermokept containers.

Think of taking ginger snaps out of a tin that has been kept through the "muggy" days of summer—and finding them as fresh and snappy as when taken from the oven—or of opening a tin of nut-meats, perhaps a year old, and finding them as crisp, as crunchy, as tasty, and sweet as when they were shelled!

Marvels like this, the Thermokept process accomplishes—for the process takes the air away from the products and thus prevents loss of flavor or change in condition, no matter what the weather conditions, or length of time packed.

It is exposure to germ-laden air that causes food products to go "bad."

For coffee, one of the most delicate of food products, which starts losing its flavor through evaporation, the moment it comes from the roaster, this process has actually provided a new drink—Thermokept Coffee is so markedly different and superior in flavor and aroma.

This is the first Thermokept Product to be offered the People of London.

Try it—compare it with the coffee you have on hand—you have a treat in store.

MIXED FARMING IN WESTERN Canada—In Central Alberta and Saskatchewan are rich park lands—open prairie ready for the plow, interspersed with trees, which afford excellent shelter for stock. Here grain growing, dairying and live stock raising are being carried on successfully. The country is ideal for mixed farming. The Canadian Pacific Railway is offering a large area of these fertile lands in the neighborhood of Lloydminster and Battleford. These rich districts will become the home of thousands of prosperous farmers. On similar land Seager Wheeler grows the world's prize wheat. Near Lloydminster the world's prize oats have been grown and butter of the highest quality is made. A man can soon become independent on a farm here. These lands can be bought now at prices averaging about $18. You pay down 10 per cent. If land is purchased under settlement conditions, no further payment of principal until end of fourth year, then sixteen annual payments. Interest is six per cent. Irrigated lands in Southern Alberta $50 an acre upwards. Same terms. Write for illustrated booklet. H. La Due Norwood, C. P. R. Land Agent, Windsor Station, Montreal, Que. July3,17,31

AUTOMOBILE HELD AS SECURITY FOR $200 FINE

Quartet of American Tourists Face Magistrate at Blenheim—All Fined.

BLENHEIM, July 16.—As the result of being drunk and driving recklessly four American tourists were today brought before Magistrate Whittington and fined varying sums. The young men who were in two autos are alleged to have been racing on the Back Ridge road when in making a sharp turn, a wheel of one of the cars came off.

As a result of telephone messages Constables Earl and White were sent out to investigate and found Serphine Hofferth of Detroit keeping guard of the wrecked machine, his companions having gone to Chatham for repairs. As the man was intoxicated he was arrested and brought to the lockup and his companions being accorded similar accommodation on their return to the scene.

The accused pleaded guilty to charges of having liquor on the highway contrary to the O. T. A. and to violating the motor vehicles act, by reckless driving. They are fined as follows: Joseph Reading, Chicago, $25 for reckless driving; Edwin Glauser, $15 for reckless driving and $200 for a breach of the O. T. A.; Edwin Billrose, Chicago, for being drunk, $25; Serphine Hofferth, for being drunk, $40. The men had sufficient money to pay all the fines and costs, except the $200. This they were allowed to wire to friends for on leaving one of the cars as security. The quartet left in the other car to visit friends in the East.

SUPER-ROCKET TO GET EARLY TEST

Demonstration of Goddard's Moonship Planned For July or August.

Washington, July 16.—First test of working models of rocket apparatus by which Professor Robert H. Goddard hopes to reach altitudes above the earth's air envelope, and even the moon, will be made at Worcester, Mass., late in July or in August, it is announced in a bulletin from the National Geographic Society's Washington headquarters.

"Should Professor Goddard's theory prove workable by his demonstrations at that time," the bulletin states, "the event may rank in the history of a new super-aviation science, as yet unnamed, along with the trial flights of the late Professor Samuel P. Langley's flying machines.

World Open Minded.

"But while the world ridiculed Langley, and for a time regarded Bell's telephone and Morse's telegraph as mere playthings, our amazing strides in invention have created an open-minded attitude toward adventures in ingenuity so that the Goddard experiments are being awaited with keen interest.

"Wide publicity has been given the speculations concerning whether Professor Goddard's device may be projected to the moon; and while he holds that such a development is not impossible, it is one of the less practical aspects of the device. More immediate possibilities which Professor Goddard holds forth include the study of the aurora; of the short wave lengths in the spectrum of the sun which are entirely absorbed by the air, and, at more moderate altitudes, measurements of wind velocity, humidity, temperature and pressure, all of which enter into weather forecasting.

"While the penetration of the upper air, where there is supposed to exist a gas unknown on the lower aerial levels; the projection of a rocket beyond the world's atmosphere, and perhaps its direction to other planets; all offer a field of speculation outrivaling the pure romances of Jules Verne or H. G. Wells, the basic principles of the apparatus, like those underlying most inventions, are simple.

Would Obtain Great Range.

"Briefly, Professor Goddard's theory is this: The best rocket which could be imagined is one in which all heat energy of the powder could be converted, on burning, into energy of motion. In addition this ideal rocket would consist chiefly of this propelling material, or powder. With a rocket of this sort it is evident that very great ranges would be obtainable with a comparatively small initial mass of rocket.

"In the case of the ordinary rocket neither of these conditions is realized, as only one-fiftieth of the energy of the powder is converted, on burning, into energy of motion. Furthermore, the powder constitutes but one-fifth the total mass of rocket. So far the problem is to strip the rocket's body and install the highest powered engine possible, as one would in a racing automobile.

"Experiments already performed demonstrate that as much as two-thirds of the heat energy of the powder used can be converted into energy of motion of gases, as compared with a previous efficiency of but 2 per cent.

"As regards the second point—namely, the possibility of using a large proportion of the weight of the rocket as propellant—enough already has been done to show that successive charges of propellant may be fired in the same combustion chamber and experiments in progress are for the purpose of firing a comparatively large number of charges in succession in this way.

"For extremely great altitudes a series of secondary rockets, or rockets within rockets, acting on the same principle might be utilized.

Long Range Gun Principle.

"In working out the application of these principles, Professor Goddard has employed a nozzle to obtain the greatest force possible from the combustion (or explosion); a reloading device whereby the explosive material is used a little at a time; and the employment of a secondary rocket, similar to the first, when extreme altitudes are to be achieved.

"Herein, it is apparent, the principle of the long-range gun is employed; and effort is made to avoid the tremendous intial shock, such as occurs with an ordinary gun, by substituting a succession of explosions. One practical advantage of that course is to enable the rocket to carry with it instruments by which the high altitude conditions are to be registered. To prevent the tremendous concussion upon the fall of the instruments a parachute device is contemplated.

"In his experiments with smokeless powder, Professor Goddard already has attained a velocity of nearly 8,000 feet per second—the highest yet attained for matter in any appreciable quantity.

"In respect to the possibility of projecting a rocket to the moon, the question has arisen whether, even should sufficient momentum be obtained, the direction could be controlled to insure hitting the celestial target.

"Professor Goddard believes it possible to correct the flight, direction of which would be influenced by many disturbing factors, by the use of photosensitive cells. Thus the reflection of the moon's light upon these cells, he believes could be made to operate automatic devices which would fire jets so arranged that their explosion would turn the rocket back to its desired course. Rudders could not be employed, of course, since there would be no resistance after the projectile passed outside the earth's atmosphere."

GERMANS COMPLY WITH ALLIED DEMANDS AND SIGN COAL PACT

Representatives Affix Signatures At 8:45 p. m. Friday After Four-Hour Session—Final Distribution of Reparation Payments Is Decided.

SPA, July 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—The German representatives signed the coal protocol drawn up by the allied representatives at 8:45 o'clock tonight, thereby settling one of the most difficult questions which has come up in the present discussions. Signatures were affixed on the document after a four-hour session at the Villa Fraineuse, one hour of which was spent by the Germans in a cabinet discussion in an adjoining room.

There was a conflict over introduction in the protocol of the menace of occupation of additional German territory after October 15 next if German coal deliveries were not up to the stipulated quantity—6,000,000 tons—by that date. The Allies decided to drop this clause of the protocol below the signature line.

Object To Preamble.

Then the Germans objected to the preamble, which declared that the decisions set forth in the document had been taken in common accord by the Allied and German delegations. The Germans contended it was not by common accord, but by sole will of the Allies that any further occupation would occur. At this juncture Dr. Fehrenbach, the German chancellor, sent for three of his cabinet colleagues, who were at the German headquarters, and called a cabinet meeting. An hour elapsed before Chancellor Fehrenbach and Foreign Minister Simons appeared at the conference room. After an explanatory speech by Dr. Simons, all the delegates signed the protocol.

Revise Distribution.

Before the arrival of the German delegates today the allied premiers completed their consideration of the distribution of the reparations due from Germany. As finally adopted, the reparations will be made on the following basis:

France, 52 per cent; Great Britain, 22 per cent; Italy, 10 per cent; Belgium, 8 per cent, and Japan and Portugal each ¾ of 1 per cent. The remaining 6½ per cent will be divided between Serbia, Rumania and Poland.

Beside the 8 per cent Belgium is to receive, she will retain the priority right to 2,500,000,000 marks, from which will be paid sums loaned Belgium by the Allies.

Reject German Proposals.

The proposed changes in the protocol submitted by the Germans were for the most part purely technical and were rejected, except an amendment to article one, by which the Allies accepted an additional provision that the deliveries of coal should be averaged in order to take into account floods in the Rhine region. Section two also was amended to allow a premium of five marks per ton on all deliveries by land or sea.

NO REPLY FROM RUSSIA.

SPA, July 12.—Up to this evening no reply had been received from the Soviet Government at Moscow with regard to the British proposal for an armistice between Poland and Soviet Russia.

DELEGATES DEPART.

SPA, July 16.—Chancellor Fehrenbach will leave Spa for Berlin Saturday morning. The British, French, Italian and Japanese delegations will also depart Saturday morning.

GIRL WOULD MARRY FOR 1 MONTH ONLY

"Death Do Us Part" Statute Frustrates Plan.

Denver, July 16.—Fanny Hurst is outdone.

A young woman applied at the Denver marriage license counter for a permit to wed for 30 days.

With a business-like air, she came up to the clerk just before closing time.

"I want to buy a temporary marriage license," she announced.

The clerk, H. E. Dowd, gasped three times.

"But my dear young lady—" he began and stopped. He passed a hand over his forehead. Somehow he hadn't noticed before that it was such a warm day.

"How much is it for a temporary license?" continued the applicant, reaching for her purse.

"Such a thing is unheard of!" said Mr. Dowd. "What is your name?"

She declined to tell her name. A girl friend with her took up the conversation.

"She don't want to tell her name," said the friend. "She just wants to get married for 30 days. You give her a license for 30 days."

Mr. Dowd assured the pair that the law contemplated only "death do us part" ceremonies, though he admitted that frequently judges replace death in the premises.

The applicant held whispered converse with her companion and they departed.

DRURY'S OBJECTIONS TO GUELPH PURCHASE ARE TECHNICAL, BECK

Hydro Knight Issues Lengthy Statement On Radial Question.

TORONTO, July 16.—Sir Adam Beck issued a lengthy statement this evening dealing with the Guelph Radial Railway question, and claiming that Premier Drury's objections to the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission taking over this railway, in accordance with an agreement with the city of Guelph, were technical, and not based on the merits of the project. Sir Adam placed emphasis on his claim that neither the Government nor any other municipality than Guelph risked one dollar in connection with the proposed taking over of the Guelph Radial Railway. He declared that he was at a loss to understand why the premier and his colleagues should hesitate to allow Guelph and the hydro commission to make the working arrangement which they wished to make.

ORDERED DEPORTED.

WINDSOR, July 16.—Apprehended by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police with a quantity of seditious literature and other suspicious evidence on his person, Paul Zakharoff, thought to be a Russian Bolshevistic agent, was today ordered deported to the United States, where he said he resided. The suspected Soviet delegate was found in a house on Drouillard road.

DIED OF INJURIES.

WINDSOR, July 16.—Struck by an automobile in the crowded traffic on Woodward avenue, Detroit, earl ythis week, Bert Virtuso, an employee of the Chick Contracting Company, and resident of Windsor, succumbed late this afternoon to injuries sustained. He was a father of but a day, his wife having given birth to an infant son yesterday.

WHEEL MANUFACTURER DIES.

ST. CATHARINES, July 61.—Reece McKinley, retired pioneer wheel and spoke manufacturer, passed away here today, aged 90 years. He is survived by one daughter here and one son, George, representative of the Standard Oil Company in London, England, and secretary of the American reception committee in London.

'SWEDISH COUNT' BEHIND THE BARS

In His Wild Nights Clerk Used $23,000 Not His Own.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Alex. Hedberg, known in cabarets as the "Swedish count," came to the end of his primrose path tonight, finding there an iron-barred cell—and he's rather glad it ended that way.

He is charged with stealing $23,000 from the Union Bank of Chicago, where he was in charge of the foreign exchange department. He admits taking the money and says it may exceed that amount.

While his wife was living it was a hard struggle for them to get along on his salary, first $50 a month, and finally, by various raises, $1,500 a year. After his wife died, the long, lonesome nights and the desolate home got on his nerves and he started out to seek excitement that would prevent his brooding into insanity.

He decided to be another man altogether. During the day he was the precise bank clrk, but at nights he was a gambler a millionaire oil man, a turfman, a count, anything the crowd desired.

"Sometimes I spent $200 in a night, sometimes less, but frequently more. I spent it on Blanche and Madge and Magdalen and Tom and Dick and Harry. Nights of wine, women and song. And the wine was contraband, the women untrammeled and the song was jazz.

"Twenty thousand dollars I scattered along this primrose path of mine; night after night I scattered it on women and wine and taxicabs and tips and good fellows."

TO ASK PENSIONERS TO DECIDE FOR OR AGAINST LUMP SUM

Commissioners Will Forward Statement Within Next Two Months.

OTTAWA, July 16.—Commutation of pensions, or payment to pensioners of lump sum in the final settlement of their pension claims is a matter that is now engaging the attention of the board of pension commissioners.

The amount of final payment, in case of disability between 5 and 9 per cent, shall not exceed $300, and in the case of disability between 10 and 14 per cent shall not exceed $600, and shall be determined in accordance with the extent of disability and its probable duration. Members of the forces permanently disabled between 10 and 14 per cent, shall receive $600, while those permanently disabled between 5 and 9 per cent shall receive $300.

Members of the forces who are in receipt of a pension for a disability of less than 14 per cent, who elect to accept a final payment shall not be entitled to any payments of their pensions after September 1, 1920, and any payments which have been made subsequent to that date shall be recovered out of the final payment.

In a memorandum the board points out that the important point for pensioners to bear in mind is that no pensioner need have his pension commuted unless he desires to do so. It is emphasized that any pensioners with disabilities between 5 and 14 per cent may have their pensions commuted.

Pensioners entitled to commutation of pensions will be forwarded a statement within the next two months, in which they will be asked to decide whether or not they wish to have their pensions commuted or continued for the period of their disability. All cases will be dealt with automatically and it is not necessary for pensioners to communicate with the board.

PLEADED GUILTY TO BURNING A CHURCH

SUDBURY, July 16. — Ferdinand Rochen and Felix Courcheane, charged with having set fire to the Catholic Church at Bigwood, Ont., on June 29 last, pleaded guilty today before Judge Kehoe, and stated that they were willing to make restitution for the damage done. Sentence will not be imposed until July 26. The church was burned down as the result of a controversy over a question as to where it should have been located.

FOUR EARTH TREMORS FELT IN THE CITY OF LOS ANGELES

Slight Damage To Buildings and Minor Injuries To Several Persons Follow Earthquakes — Some Faint, Others Pray During Shocks.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 16.—Four severe earthquakes here today threw the city and its suburbs into excitement, indirectly causing a number of injuries to men, women and children, and slightly damaged several buildings, chiefly old ones, but none to a great extent.

While the shocks seemed to centre in Los Angeles, some of them were felt for more than 30 miles away, but, as in this city, no material damage was reported.

An unusually warm morning produced from some citizens the remark "Good earthquake weather." It was said in jest and none was more surprised than those who made the remark when the first tremor came at 10:10 in the morning.

It felt much as does the stopping of a street car, operated by an inexperienced motorman, only that the tremor produced the unpleasant sensation multiplied many times. Excitement, which in many cases became hysterical, followed the first shock, and had hardly been calmed, when at 1:27 in the afternoon, came the second, followed two minutes later by the third, and then by a fourth at 6:13. The two in the afternoon were sharper than that of the morning and the agitation of the citizens became prolonged. It was some time afterwards before it was a case of "business as usual."

Public places were scenes of near panic, some people running for the open air, some fainting, some stopping to pray. Many gathered at street intersections waiting to see what would happen. Others who felt they must be on their way walked down the middle of the street with watchful eyes on the buildings. Many sought Pershing Square in the heart of the downtown district, as a sanctuary.

TEACHES WOMEN ART OF POLITICS

Marion McCarthy Opens in London School To Train Them To Enter Parliament.

London, July 16.—In a big studio in the West End, fitted up like the House of Commons, Miss Marion McCarthy, sister of the well-known actress Lillian McCarthy, is teaching women parliamentary aspirants the rules of the game.

"Several prominent women came to me recently and suggested the idea," said Miss McCarthy. "They are anxious to enter public life but they wish first to train their voices and to gain self-confidence.

"Here is the speaker's chair. In front of that mirror is the opposition bench. I want my political pupils to face themselves. It is a most difficult thing to do. Over there is the government bench.

"I want to create the atmosphere of debate, to teach my pupils to speak with conviction, and to drive home their points with vigor. I want them to use, as Mr. Lloyd George does, the great power of oratory, the subtle inflections and modulations of the voice which arrest the attention of an audience and create a feeling of confidence in the speaker. There will be full dress debates on parliamentary lines, and the usual parliamentary heckling."

BELA KUN LEAVES HUNGARY FOR RUSSIA

VIENNA, July 16.—(By the Associated Press).—Bela Kun, former dictator of Hungary, and all the Communists whose extradition has been demanded by Hungary, left Vienna last night for Russia by way of Germany in a prisoners' convoy.

HOSPITAL CROWDED DURING EXCITEMENT WHEN EARTH SHOOK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 16.—For hours the receiving hospital maintained by the city was crowded with women and children, most of them having fainted in the excitement of the tremors. Some, however, suffered more serious accidents. Private and emergency hospitals were overflowing with hysterical and fainting cases. Adding to the excitement was a fire alarm, when a piece of coping fell from a building at Main and Market streets, breaking a fire alarm box. When the fire department responded some of the excited persons brought out the city ambulances by telephoning to the police department that a number of people had been injured.

ALLIES WOULD DELAY FINANCE CONFERENCE UNTIL AFTER SEPT. 15

Inform the League of Nations That Results Would Be Reached.

SPA, July 16.—The Allied representatives here have telegraphed the secretary-general of the League of Nations in London asking for a postponement of the financial conference at Brussels until after September 15. The dispatch said that it was considered that the conference could not combine the elements necessary to achieve the results for which it was summoned.

The international financial congress was to be held in Brussels July 25. It was to discuss economic conditions of the various nations.

FINANCIAL, MARKET AND COMMERCIAL SECTION

PRICES OF POPULAR STOCKS IMPAIRED AT N. Y. EXCHANGE

Partial Readjustment Made in Last Hour When Call Money Relaxes.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The stock and money markets played at cross purposes again during the greater part of today's professional session with resultant additional price impairment of many popular issues. This condition underwent partial readjustment in the last hour, however, when call money relaxed. Instead of rising to yesterday's maximum quotation of 11 per cent or higher, the rate fell to 8 per cent, plenty of funds being available at that figure.

As a matter of record, most of the day's money was placed at 9 per cent, renewals also being made at that rate. Interior banks were reported to have made loans on commercial paper at 8 per cent, but the ruling quotation here was slightly above that price.

Trading in stocks slightly exceeded recent averages, but activity was most marked when prices were on the down grade, rails almost alone reflecting recent concessions. The final rally was in the nature of short coverisg rather than any accession of buying power, an irregular tone prevailing at the close. The total sales of stocks amounted to 585,000 shares.

The industrial situation, particularly as effecting the automobile trade and kindred lines formed the basis of unfavorable discussion, and shares of those groups, with equipments, constituted the weakest issues of the general list.

Transportation conditions were visibly better, but labor developments and foreign trade tendencies seemed to enter into the calculations of the short interest. Exchange on leading European centres showed no appreciable alteration.

Railroad, Liberty and miscellaneous bonds were disposed to react moderately with foreign issues issues featureless. The total sales of bonds, par value, aggregated $10,250,000.

Old U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

HESITATION EVIDENT IN TRADING ON ALL CANADIAN 'CHANGES

Rally in Afternoon From Depression in Morning—Most Stocks Lose.

TORONTO, July 16.—The Toronto Stock Exchange will be closed on Saturday, but the Standard Mining Exchange will be open.

Hesitation was again evident in trading on the Canadian exchanges today, and though there was an afternoon rally from the depression in the morning, most of the active stocks showed losses on the day's trading. Weakness in Wall Street contributed to the lack of strength on this side. On the Toronto Stock Exchange none of the active paper stocks escaped the recession. Spanish River issues had sharp losses, the common going down almost 5 points, and the preferred down 1 point. Abitibi, Brompton, Laurentide and North American Pulp were all down, while Whalen Pulp on the curb lost 2 points at 58½.

The forenoon saw broad trading on the local market, but no heavy volume in any one stock. American Sales Book took its place in the active list, selling at 25, or the equivalent of $5 for a shares of $20 par. One of the few strong issues was Car and Foundry, with a gain of 4½ points for the day. Lake of the Woods sold at 210 on the announcement of a stock distribution. General Electric rallied a fraction.

The steel group shared in the general weakness of the day, Dominion Steel losing ¾ point, and Dominion Foundries 1 point, though Steel of Canada closed unchanged at 73.

Tractions were all lower, Twin City, Quebec, Barcelona and Porto Rico each losing a fraction, but Brazilian rallied enough to close unchanged. Canners and the National Car issues closed with losses.

In the unlisted market, National Breweries made a small gain, while mining stocks, such as Temiskaming and Beaver were active and made substantial advances.

Total trading: Listed stocks 1,152 shares; unlisted stocks, 2,785 shares; war bonds, par value, $2,200.

BIG BREAK IN WHEAT PRICES ON CHICAGO BOARD ON THURSDAY

Statements That Exporters Had Withdrawn From Market Partially Responsible.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Assertions that exporters had withdrawn from the market had much to do with causing a big break in the price of wheat. At the extreme low point, December, the chief speculative delivery, was down 14½c. The close was unsettled at 10 to 10½c net decline, with December, $2.60, and March, $2.64. Corn finished unchanged to ⅝c higher, oats were up ½c to 2⅝c, and provisions at gains of 25c to 42c.

Wheat began to plunge downward in value as soon as the market opened. There was a notable absence of buying orders, and before any real demand was evident, the December delivery had fallen 10½c; then there were moderate rallies, but after word was out that no more export business was at present in sight acute weakness developed.

Selling was mainly in the nature of hedging, but some of it was said to be on foreign account. Bearish weather reports from the Northwest States, together with talk of money scarcity, contributed more or less to the unusual setback in values. As expected, transactions showed a liberal increase as compared with yesterday's total.

Corn and oats were temporarily affected by the weakness of wheat, but rallied on covering by shorts.

Higher quotations on hogs lifted provisions.

WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, July 16.—Oats closed 2½c higher for July; 1⅛c up for October, and 1½c in advance for December.

Barley closed 3c up for July; 3½c in advance for October, and 2c lower for December.

Flax finished 2c down for July, and 2¼c lower for October.

They Used To Strap On Spectacles!

Old pictures and collections show grotesque shapes in early spectacles.

In the earliest styles the lenses were round, very large and fastened in a rind of black horn half an inch wide.

They were strapped on with a leather thong over the nose and another about the head. Small wonder wearers of spectacles were ridiculed in those days. Obviously, the adjustment could not have been very good. Such crudeness makes those shudder who appreciate the scientific necessity of delicate, accurate adjustment, as practiced at Michigan Pikers Complete Another Leg of 1,300-Mile Journey.

NORTH BAY IS NEXT

Tourists Dine As Guests of Ontario Motor League—Biggs Present.

TORONTO, July 16.—An hour or more behind the scheduled time, the 200 touring members of the Michigan Pikes Association breezed into Toronto about 8 o'clock tonight, dusty and hungry, but bent upon enjoying their visit to the utmost. They will leave in the morning and continue their 1,300-mile journey from Detroit and back again, going by way of North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie and Northern Michigan.

They camped at London last night, and today on their way to this city, they were given warm welcomes at Ingersoll, Woodstock, Paris and Hamilton. They are carrying their camping outfit, including field kitchen, throughout the journey. To night they enjoyed the luxury of sleeping in hotels.

As guests of the Ontario Motor League, the tourists dined at the King Edward Hotel, where they were formally welcomed by Mayor T. L. Church. Good roads was the theme of all the hikers, including Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works for Ontario. An open air meeting was held in Queen's Park tonight, wher the Ford band that is in the party played, and speeches were made. In all the speeches emphasis was placed on the friendly feeling existing between Canada and the United States.

W. D. Edenburn of Detroit, who is the manager of the tour, climbed into F. G. Erickson's aeroplane at Hamilton this evening and was delivered in Toronto in 25 minutes. He took an automobile and went out from this city to meet the tourists coming in.

WOODSTOCK, July 16.—The members of the Michigan Pikes Association spent a half-hour here this morning while passing through on their tour. Large crowds of citizens met them at Victoria Park, where E. W. Nesbitt, M.P., and Mayor Gahagan formally welcomed the tourists. Dr. Dougall and Capt. Galbraith of the visitors replied. A feature was the presentation to the visitors of a souvenir in the form of small but attractive booklets containing pictures and facts about Woodstock.

MIX-UP AT INGERSOLL.

INGERSOLL, July 16. — Immense crowds turned out this morning to welcome the members of the Michigan Pikes Association, who reached here about 9 o'clock. They were behind schedule time, and the confusion which resulted for a time created some uneasiness as to whether the tourists were following a different route. Finally, to the music of the Citizens' band and escorted by the Motor Club, they entered the town from the north, having come by way of Thamesford.

The route mapped out for the parade was not followed, but after a short trip over the paved streets they were halted at the corner of King and Thames streets. Moving pictures were taken of the gathering, and the Ford band of Detroit and the Ford quartet opened the program.

Presented With Souvenirs.

Donald Sutherland, M.P., delivered an address of welcome, to which Lucius Allan, president of the Ontario Good Roads Association, replied. Souvenirs were presented to the tourists on behalf of the Motor Club, in the form of china dishes, containing packages of Ingersoll cream cheese, while on behalf of the John Morrow Screw and Nut Company they received packages of nuts, screws, etc., which may be of use during the tour.

WIFE ALLEGES THAT HUSBAND PUBLISHED A BOOK ABOUT HER

Decree of Divorce Granted in Detroit To Former Canadian Woman.

WINDSOR, July 16.—Married in Windsor in November, 1896, Isabel Murray, former Canadian, was today granted a decree of divorce from Edgar A. Murray, millionaire Detroit manufacturer, by the courts of that city.

The complaint was based upon grounds of extreme cruelty, Mrs. Murray alleging that her husband had often attacked her, inflicting severe injuries, had called her the vilest names possible, and had, a short time ago, published a book on married life, telling of their relations and heaping unbearable insults upon her. This book had circulated among all their mutual asquaintances, and he had sent copies to every one with whom he came in contact. Mrs. Murray was given custody over five of the eight children, two of whom are married, while the others remain with the father. A property settlement was effected out of court.

PAID $16 FOR BED AND TWO BREAKFASTS

Exorbitant Charges Alleged To Be Affecting Port Stanley Season.

PORT STANLEY, July 16.—Exorbitant charges for boarding and hotel accommodation at the lakeside is alleged to be having a detrimental effect on the number of visitors coming from across the border, two specific cases being named as examples. In one case, it is said that ten Clevelanders forced to stay in the village overnight were charged $40 for sleeping accommodation, two in a bed, while in another case two people were charged $16 for one bed and two breakfasts.

It is stated that the management of the trans-lake boat service has reported having already felt the effects of the excessive charges made at the lakeside boarding houses. Proprietors of the boarding houses in defence point to the shortness of the season, and claim a right to reap the shekels while they may.

There are not lacking old residents of the port who declare that Port Stanley wants none of the summer visitors, and, in fact, would be better without them. The village council consider the matter outside their purview, and the only possible way of remedying things appears to be the laying of a charge of "charging excessive prices" against some of the boarding-house keepers, said a London visitor tonight.

GOVT. WILL RETAIN ATHABASKA LANDS FOR TAR DEPOSITS

OTTAWA, July 16.—An order-in-council gazetted this week provides for the withdrawal from sale, lease or settlement of approximately 55,000 acres of land along the Athabaska River in Alberta. This action was taken, the order states, because "it is confidently expected that a successful process will shortly be evolved for the extraction from the tar sands of the Athabaska River of oil, bitumen and other hydro carbons in commercial quantity.

WHISKEY AIDS "DRYS"

TORONTO, July 16.—The suggestion that the "atrocious quality" of United States whiskey sent to Scotland during the war has sickened the Scotsmen of liquor is made by C. J. Bell and Rev. J. Bailey, two officers of the Dominion Alliance, who are working for prohibition in Scotland. They claim that Glasgow, Edingburgh, Inverness and Aberdeen all show increasing public sentiment against the licensed saloon, and quote statements that the whiskey from the United States was so vile it was driving Scotland to temperance.

ANOTHER CLUE TO SMALL GOES INTO DISCARD

Detective Mitchell Says Body At Niagara Is Not the Theatrical Man's.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 16.—Another supposed clue to the missing theatrical magnate of Toronto, Ambrose J. Small, was dispelled tonight when Detective Mitchel of the Toronto police force, viewed the body of a man that was taken from the river here today and stated positively that it was not that of Mr. Small.

The body was recovered from Niagara River near the landing of the "Maid of the Mist," the steamer that plies close to the falls, and as it was about the size of the missing Toronto man and badly decomposed, it was believed to have been a case of old Niagara at last revealing the mystery of the whereabouts of the man who has been searched for throughout almost the whole civilized world.

Detective Mitchell's declaration that it was not Ambrose Small's body that was in the morgue here awaiting identification, carried weight with the local authorities, as Detective Mitchel has devoted most of his professional skill and time in recent months in trying to discover what happened Mr. Small when he dropped out of sight on December 2, 1919. A reward of $50,000 for the discovery of Mr. Small's whereabouts, if he is alive, and $15,000 if dead, offered by Mrs. Ambrose Small, some time ago, holds good until the first of September.

ARBITRATORS START GRAND TRUNK CASE IN MID-SEPTEMBER

Formidable Battery of Counsel Selected For Various Parties.

OTTAWA, July 16.—The three arbitrators appointed to fix the value of the common and preferred stocks of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, to be acquired by the Government, will start work at Montreal about the middle of September. Sir Walter Cassels, Sir Thomas White and W. H. Taft will confer next month and arrange preliminaries. In the meantime a formidable battery of counsel is being selected by the interested parties. The Government will be represented by Pierce Buller, a well-known railway lawyer of St. Paul; N. P. Tilley, K.C., of Toronto; Hector McInnes, K.C., of Halifax, and H. A. Lovett, K.C., of Montreal.

The company will be represented by Eugene Lefleur, K.C., of Montreal; Hon. F. C. Phippen, K.C., of Toronto; Hon. A. W. Atwater, K.C., and W. H. Biggar, K.C., of Montreal.

In addition there will be a big staff of engineers in charge of R. A. E. Henry for the Government, and J. B. Berry for the company.

The proceeding will occupy several months, and will be limited to Montreal, which is the headquarters of the company. The maximum amount fixed in the act, beyond which the Government will not go, is in the neighborhood of sixty-seven million dollars.

DRY OFFICIALS ANGRY AT WET YACHTING FANS

Prohibition Agents To Investigate Liner's Right To Serve "Cheer."

Officials Claim Boat Was Within Three-Mile Limit During Race.

NEW YORK, July 16.—(By Canadian Press.)—Some of the people who witnessed the first race for the America's cup off Sandy Hook yesterday had too good a time, and the prohibition enforcement officers of New York are going to see about it.

James Shevlin, supervising prohibition enforcement agent for this district, is incensed at the news that the Ward Liner Orizaba, carrying 500 passengers to view the cup contest, allowed alcoholic beverages to be served on board to the yachting enthusiasts. The Orizaba has accommodation for many more passengers, but it had not been advertised that the bar would be open.

Mr. Shevlin says that the Orizaba did not clear for a foreign port, and therefore, sailing as she does under the United States flag, she had no right to dispense cheer as she did. Moreover, he alleges that the vessel was well within the three-mile limit when her passengers came out from beneath the cloud of the eighteenth amendment.

The prohibition official is studying the law today, and declared that if his view of the incident is correct he will seize the liner's supplies.

At the office of the steamship company operating the Orizaba, it was stated that New York is not one of the vessel's regular ports and that she only put in here for repairs. Her regular run is between Havana, Cuba and Corunna, Spain.

DRURY DEFENDS HIS STAND ON RADIALS IN WINCHESTER DISTRICT

OTTAWA, July 16.—Hon. E. C. Drury, premier of Ontario, spoke today in Winchester before a large crowd and reviewed the actions of the Government of which he is head. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Winchester Agricultural Society and Reeve James Ault presided. Mr. J. W. Kennedy, M.P., Glengarry; Mr. Ross, M.L.A., Glengarry; J. McLeod, M.L.A., Stormont, and W. H. Casselman, M.L.A., Dundas, were present.

In the evening Mr. Drury spoke at a band concert held in Chesterville. He returned to Toronto tonight.

Mr. Drury reviewed the general policy of the Farmer-Labor Government, and told of what had been done by the Government during the past session. He also strongly defended the policy of the Government in connection with the hydro radials. Investigation was absolutely necessary before the Government could take action in so important a matter involving so much of the province's money.

Hon. Mr. Drury got a fine reception on both occasions.

COST HALF-MILLION FOR HIGHWAYS TO ENTER HAMILTON

HAMILTON, July 16.—Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works for Ontario, submitted to the board of control here today his department's estimate of the cost of an entrance to this city for the Toronto-Hamilton, Dundas street, and Guelph highways, the estimate being $400,000. Hon. Mr. Biggs said he thought the work might be done for $350,000. City Engineer Gray estimated the cost of the work within the city to complete the highway entrance at $282,000, a total of $682,000, based on the public works department's estimates.

City Engineer Gray's plan is not to make the suggested fill from Carrol"s Point, estimated to cost over $5,000,000, and would provide an entrance only for the Toronto-Hamilton highway. Mr. Biggs referred to the proposed fill as a "one-eyed" project.

The board of control promised Hon. Mr. Biggs a speedy decision on the matter.
