ADVERTISER'S PLAN FOR GREAT SPELLING MATCH INDORSED BY CITIZENS

Next Week 3,500 Boys and Girls in Upper Grades of Public Schools Will Be Trying for Fine Prizes—Parents Also Interested in City-Wide Competition.

LONDONERS GIVE FAVORABLE OPINIONS

Unless you're among the 3,500 boys and girls in the four top grades of London's public schools you can't take part in The Advertiser's big Spelling Match, which starts next week. But that restriction hasn't prevented the fathers and mothers and laid sober businessmen from catching the idea of the thing. The Spelling Match has caught on everywhere and everyone is talking about it. The boys and girls like it because it's a good clean contest with some worth-while prizes if they do well. Mothers and fathers like it because they're all perfectly sure Johnny is a champion. Businessmen and everyone else like it because they see in it a constructive idea which will rouse real interest in one of the big requirements of today's activities—ability to spell. Mayor Wenige, for instance, thinks there should be a similar scheme for adults. Here are some opinions from well-known Londoners:

James Gray, President of the Chamber of Commerce: "Spelling is certainly one of the essentials of education for all boys and girls going into business today. The need of accuracy in this respect is evident every day in most offices."

E. R. Dennis of the Dennis Wire and Iron Works: "I think that the day when a boy or girl is considered a failure because of poor spelling is a thing of the past. There is no question as to the necessity of sound and accurate spelling in any business office."

Mayor Wenige: "We get so many letters every day, fairly well composed and mightily spelt, that the need of greater care in spelling must be obvious to everyone. I think your spelling contest a fine affair and I should make it an annual affair and admit adults. That would keep us all up-to-date, and I would have a try at it myself, even if I were spelled down now and then."

A. T. Little: "Correct and accurate spelling is one of the essentials for all young people going into business. In my opinion, unless they can spell properly, they are entirely out of it."

Philip Pocock of the London Shoe Company: "There are, I think, too many frills in the present education of a child, and too little attention to the fundamentals, of which spelling is certainly one, would be a great benefit. As for the Advertiser's scheme, I think it is a fine idea and I very much approve of it."

Gordon Philip, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce: "The ability to spell correctly is one of the fundamentals of an education, and is absolutely essential for the office man and girl."

Alderman McKay: "I think The Advertiser is to be congratulated for the initiative shown in staging a contest of this kind. A slovenly spelled letter is most distasteful and I think this scheme should be extremely beneficial to the children in London."

Morley Aylesworth, assistant general manager of the Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation: "There is a good deal of slackness in the way of spelling in the part of many stenographers and office workers today, and I believe that a contest of this kind will interest the children in the value of spelling and be of real use to them."

W. R. Yendall, manager of the Richards Wilcox Electrical Company: "Correct spelling is a slight but necessary thing in the office. The office worker needs it. It is essential in a good education, and The Advertiser's contest should do much to stimulate interest in the value of spelling and accuracy in this respect. I think it a fine idea."

Rev. Dr. Wm. Beattie, minister of First Presbyterian Church: "Spelling is one of the essentials of an education, and anything which will promote interest in it is valuable and should be pushed to the limit."

Mrs. C. B. Hunt: "Many people are supposedly well-educated but if they are poor spellers they don't amount to anything. I approve of contests as a means of stimulating interest, and I consider the match a splendid idea."

Mrs. John Rose: "The spelling match may be a Godsend to the businessman, who complains that they can't find a stenographer who can spell right. Mrs. John Rose remarked laughingly, 'but seriously, if the words used are practical, common-sense words and those in ordinary use, it may prove of much value in stirring up interest among the children and cultivating a more serious attention to their spelling books.'"

Mrs. A. T. Edwards: "I consider all contests brighten the intellect of the child, and the spelling match seems to me quite in line with the efforts to make school work a thing of interest to the child and not a prosaic duty. I would call it invaluable."

Rev. W. Leslie Arncliffe, St. James' Church, South London: "Spelling is an all-important subject, and many a businessman has been put about through the incompetence of his stenographer as a spell checker. I am sure that a contest of this sort would intensify the interest, and there is no doubt that mistakes made in public are impressed indelibly upon a child's mind so that they are not readily made a second time."

J. Bevan Hay, president of the Kiwanis Club: "I think the spelling contest is a fine idea, and when you have finished with the match amongst the school children, hold one for city stenographers."

FERGUSON CAMP WILL OPPOSE P. R. IN ONTARIO HOUSE

Predict Drury Will Be Unable To Dissolve Parliament on May 4.

Toronto, April 13.—Three meetings of the Ferguson camp, which is opposed to the P. R. plan, were held here today. The meetings were held in the home of Mrs. J. K. H. Pope of the McGarry Manufacturing Company. "Yes, spelling is one of the most necessary things that the office worker needs. It is essential in a good education, and The Advertiser's contest should do much to stimulate interest in the value of spelling and accuracy in this respect. I think it a fine idea."

Rev. Dr. Wm. Beattie, minister of First Presbyterian Church: "Spelling is one of the essentials of an education, and anything which will promote interest in it is valuable and should be pushed to the limit."

Mrs. C. B. Hunt: "Many people are supposedly well-educated but if they are poor spellers they don't amount to anything. I approve of contests as a means of stimulating interest, and I consider the match a splendid idea."

Mrs. John Rose: "The spelling match may be a Godsend to the businessman, who complains that they can't find a stenographer who can spell right. Mrs. John Rose remarked laughingly, 'but seriously, if the words used are practical, common-sense words and those in ordinary use, it may prove of much value in stirring up interest among the children and cultivating a more serious attention to their spelling books.'"

Mrs. A. T. Edwards: "I consider all contests brighten the intellect of the child, and the spelling match seems to me quite in line with the efforts to make school work a thing of interest to the child and not a prosaic duty. I would call it invaluable."

TESTING ALBERTA COAL FOR HEAT POSSIBILITIES.

E. J. Larsen, chief chemical engineer at the St. Marys Cement Company's plant at St. Marys, Ont., is shown here conducting a delicate experiment to determine the number of heat British thermal units that are contained in the Alberta coal received from the west by The Advertiser. Mr. Larsen is shown reading the thermometer with the aid of a microscope. A reading must be taken once every second during the test. In the smaller picture samples of the coal are shown just as it comes from the car and after it has been ground to a fine powder in preparation for the analysis.

TEST OF ALBERTA COAL SHOWS FAIR HEAT VALUE

Consignment Brought to London by The Advertiser Falls Below American Anthracite in This Respect—Has Very Little Ash and Will Not Coke.

The most efficient tests known to science were applied to samples of Alberta coal supplied by The Advertiser to determine the number of heat British thermal units that are contained in the Alberta coal received from the west by The Advertiser. Mr. Larsen is shown reading the thermometer with the aid of a microscope. A reading must be taken once every second during the test. In the smaller picture samples of the coal are shown just as it comes from the car and after it has been ground to a fine powder in preparation for the analysis.

Through the courtesy of J. G. Lind, superintendent of the plant, a complete analysis was made of the samples by three expert chemical engineers who specialize in testing fuel. The analysis revealed every element in the coal as well as the number of heat units.

In the presence of an Advertiser reporter, E. J. Larsen, chief chemical engineer, who is one of the leading authorities on coal on the American continent, assisted by two other engineers, R. Grosch and J. N. Robinson, carried out a series of delicate experiments and then worked out a long list of mysterious figures so that they could give to the public their findings in tabulated form.

The tests were made in one of the most up-to-date laboratories in the whole Dominion. It is fitted especially for analyzing coal, and it is used for that purpose continuously for the coal used by the St. Marys Cement Company is tested every hour.

At the conclusion of the experiments, and after figures had been compiled, Mr. Larsen informed The Advertiser that the coal was western bituminous. He stated in the way of explanation that all coal containing from 55 to 75 per cent fixed carbon was placed scientifically in this class. The samples tested contained 55.83 while still retaining moisture and ash.

Result of Tests. Separate tests were made to reveal the number of heat units, the percentage of ashes, moisture, volatile carbon, fixed carbon, and sulphur contained in the samples.

The results were: Heat, British thermal units, 12,405; Ashes, 7.37%; Moisture in air dry coal, 3.75%; Total moisture, 8.00%; Volatile carbon, 23.00%; Fixed carbon, 55.83%; Sulphur, 1.94%.

To classify coal, it is necessary to find out the percentage of volatile and fixed carbon and the number of heat units contained after moisture and ashes are extracted. From the foregoing figures, Mr. Larsen declared that the composition, when free of moisture and ashes, would contain: Volatile carbon, 27.13%; Fixed carbon, 62.81%; Heat, 13,957 B. T. U.

So that a comparison could be made between the fuel value of Alberta coal and Pennsylvania anthracite coal, Mr. Larsen offered the following table, which was compiled after experiments had been carried out on an exceptional high grade of anthracite coal:

Ashes, 1.30%; Volatile carbon, 11.80%; Heat, 13,957 B. T. U. Sulphur, 1.55%; B. T. U., 13,940. By far the most important factor as far as consumers are concerned, Mr. Larsen explained, is the number of heat units contained and the amount of ashes.

Shows Fair Heat. The tests proved that the Alberta coal, with its 12,405 British thermal units, which put into every-day language the number of pounds of water one pound of coal will heat to one degree, contains a fair amount of heat, but falls slightly below American coal in this respect. Test results showed that the average American bituminous coal contains at least 13,000 units. Mr. Larsen stated that good anthracite coal will contain much or more, but he doubted if the coal sold generally last winter would contain that much.

"Buck-Shee"! If You Want To Be a Pal To Some of the R.C.R. Boys In Hard Luck Here's Your Chance

"Buck-shee!" That's an old army word. It means an unexpected gift—something extra in the rations, a big pay day, a bit of good luck. "Buck-shee" is a ray of sunshine on a dreary day, a pat on the back when you're feeling blue.

Some of the boys of the Royal Canadian Regiment are feeling a bit blue today, because the big fire last night wiped out everything they owned except the clothes on their backs and a plucky disposition. Several men lost all their savings, some lost war medals, most of them lost all their clothing and personal property.

They need a pat on the back from a pal—a bit of "buck-shee." There are plenty of good sportsmen in the city who would like to give it, too, and so The Advertiser is offering a chance to everyone who feels that way.

It's a "Buck-shee Bag" for the boys. It's open to everyone, to be filled by public subscription, and the total money collected will be turned over to Col. C. H. Hill, officer commanding the regiment, for distribution as he sees fit.

The opportunity was made known in The Advertiser office this morning, and so appealed to the members of the staff that $83 was in the bag in a few minutes. So here's your chance. The "Buck-shee Bag" for the boys is open! Fill it!

If you've got that sporting feeling, send in your money to The Advertiser. Just put it in an envelope, mark it "Buck-shee," and drop it in the mail or at The Advertiser office.

The complete list of amounts with names, either real or anonymous, will be published in The Advertiser, and this will constitute your receipt.

The "Buck-shee Bag" Is Open!

ASHES AND DEBRIS MARK FIRE SCENE, VALUABLES LOST

Micky, "C" Company's Mascot, Only Casualty in the Tecumseh Barracks Blaze.

MUCH CASH BURNED

Several Thousand Dollars in Money, Property of Soldiers, Fed Consuming Flames.

Smoldering ashes were all that remained this morning of the ill-fated Tecumseh Barracks, which last night succumbed to a spectacular fire, threatening the lives of more than one hundred men, women and children of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

A roll call taken at 1 o'clock this morning revealed only one casualty—a dog, "Micky," the beloved mascot of "C" Company, having been trapped in the flames. Micky was a lively little terrier. As the sun rose over the misty horizon, a solemn group of mourners extricated Micky's carcass from the blackened debris and buried him on the very spot where he used to bark and make merry.

A dozen sad-eyed youngsters watched the interment. Some placed a few stray violets and withered weeds on the dog's grave. Then a crude cross was placed on the tiny mound, and big men and little children laid sorrowfully for their duties.

"Micky was my father's pup," said one Isobel Frith, daughter of Pte. Frith of the R. C. R. "The men all liked him so they made him their mascot. When we heard he was dead we just cried."

Loss Reaches $50,000. An inventory made by Quartermaster M. Ryan placed the loss at approximately $50,000. Cherished band instruments, medals, thousands of dollars in cash and equipment of all sorts were reduced to dust. Quartermaster-Sergeant Stirling had his seven medals for war service stolen a year ago, and last night decorations recently received in place of the stolen ones were destroyed in the flames. Driver Gagnier had just drawn $500 from the bank, which he left in a wooden box besides his bunk. The fire spread with such fury he had no time to save the money, although sitting on his cot just beside it when the alarm was given.

LONDON PARTIES BEGIN TO RALLY AT BATTLE CALL

Liberals Hold Rousing Session of Ward One Adherents in Hyman Hall.

CONSERVATIVES NEXT

Labor Will Stage Weekly Session for Educational and Organization Purposes.

E. C. Drury's clarion call for battle finds the defenders of the three local political camps willing, if not actually prepared, for an early engagement.

Unwilling to remain solely on the defensive, the Liberals galloped into the fray last night with a rousing session of Ward 1 adherents in Hyman Hall.

The gathering storm caught a group of Labor supporters in regular session at the Labor Temple. Recovering their composure, they rushed for the attack, setting Thursday next as the day when they will dissect the Drury record clause by clause.

The local Conservatives wheel into action tonight with an informal gathering of the members of their executive. The "faithful few" will consider the recent developments at the capital and outline tentative plans for the London campaign.

Rally. A week from tonight is scheduled, however, as the big Conservative night for Western Ontario. Delegates from 21 Western Ontario ridings will assemble here in the afternoon for their annual convention. Election of officers will be but a detail on the program. Organization for the approaching struggle will claim the greater portion of the day.

Loading Conservative "whips" and "runners-in" will be in attendance, including Col. Price, M. P. for Toronto. From present indications it will be impossible for Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, the party chieftain, to be in attendance, as he has already claimed for a big session of eastern county representatives in Belleville.

More than 125 visitors are anticipated, including members of the 21 riding associations, sitting members of these constituencies, ex-candidates, and many prospective candidates. This session is just held several weeks earlier than at first expected in view of the war clouds on the horizon.

Members of the local executive will consider tonight when it would be most advisable to call a special session of the London Conservative Association. Possibly this session, this gathering would be staged in the evening following the Western Ontario session. In any event, it is not considered a satisfactory, it will be no later than the following week, it is assured today.

Optimism Prevails. Optimism prevails at Conservative headquarters despite the conflicting reports of a cross-current of opinion as to the relative merits of prospective standard-bearers.

The latest advice from Toronto to the local chiefs indicates that Sir Adam Beck, former member for London, and backed again by a faction of the party, will within a few days announce publicly that he will not entertain the candidature and that it is his intention "to keep hydro out of politics."

Should this transpire, it will undoubtedly simplify matters for the local Conservatives. No longer would there be any dissension among them, they assert.

Aside from this phase of the situation, E. R. Dennis, chairman of the Western Ontario Liberal Association, is still in favor throughout the riding, and while Mr. Dennis states that "his time should be devoted to his own business," there is a firm belief prevalent that he could be persuaded to carry the huge banner into the fight.

Everything hinges seemingly upon Friday night next.

Significant Rustle. There is a significant rustle of activity within the local Labor camp. The latest despatch from the front finds Dr. Stevenson's followers willing, if not exactly prepared for the conflict.

Preliminary manoeuvres were noted at the Labor Temple last night, when members of No. 1 Branch of the London Labor Party concluded that in view of the approaching election, they would stage sessions each week for both educational and organizational purposes.

The members appreciated fully that their first move should be to determine the attitude of the party relative to their policy during the campaign. In brief, how does Labor view the past alliance with the U. F. O. government, of which it was an integral part, and what should Labor's stand be in the future?

Members of No. 1 branch will tackle this question on Thursday evening, and their recommendation will go to the central local body. There will be a complete review of the Drury stewardship.

Delegates to session last night drew attention to the fact that Labor is facing an entirely different proposition at the present time. In previous elections, Labor has been a part of the Drury government during the past four years, and therefore must answer for the misdeeds of that administration, if any there be, if it chooses to accept joint credit for any achievements that may have been recorded.

THE WEATHER

FORECASTS. Fresh to strong northeasterly to easterly winds; fair today; rain during the night and on Saturday. A depression is developing in the Mississippi Valley, and pressure is highest over Northern Ontario and in the North Pacific States.

The weather has been fair over the Dominion, with the exception of a few local snow flurries in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Temperatures. The highest and lowest temperatures during the 24 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were:

Stations	High	Low	Weather
Victoria	54	42	Clear
Calgary	58	24	Fair
Winnipeg	50	20	Clear
Port Arthur	44	16	Cloudy
Sault Ste. Marie	48	16	Clear
Toronto	44	22	Fair
Kingston	32	30	Fair
Ottawa	40	24	Fair
Montreal	38	24	Clear
Quebec	30	22	Fair
St. John	38	30	Fair
Halifax	40	28	Cloudy

City-Wide Spelling Match Interests School Board

Disgruntled Deputation Fails to Kill The Advertiser's Plan.

STARTS NEXT WEEK

Board Bans School Book Advertising—the Empress School Site.

Yesterday's board of education meeting was enlivened by a discussion of the city-wide spelling match in the public schools arranged by The Advertiser.

The Advertiser's proposal was approved last month by the chairman of the board, the chairman of the public school inspectors and the public school principals. It was nevertheless new to several members of the board, and keen interest was displayed in the proposed arrangements, which begin next week, when 700 pupils are to be picked from the 3,500 contestants in the first round.

Much of the discussion really resulted from a somewhat absurd and unsuccessful attempt on the part of The Advertiser's local contemporary to "knock" the spelling match at the last moment. In spite of the eager interest already evidenced among the boys and girls in every school.

The Free Press sent down a deputation, consisting of their business manager and city editor, who, to use one trustee's expression, "decorated the wall back there" during nearly three hours of routine business before the spelling match was mentioned.

After all this effort, however, the deputation was unsuccessful, and the school children will have their contest, as already outlined in The Advertiser.

Appreciate Idea.

Members of the board were quick to appreciate the constructive nature of a real old-fashioned spelling match, and the petty motive of the protesting visitors. Some of the members were dubious as to the advisability of the board becoming involved in too much publicity, but the only opposition to the plan itself came from a minority of two, Trustees Smith and Rowe, who acted as interpreters for the disgruntled deputation against the wall.

Trustee Smith required some coaching, and the business manager of the Free Press was kept quite busy trotting forward to whisper wisdom in Trustee Smith's ear, but even with this assistance the trustee was not able to make much impression on the board, and Trustee Rowe's arguments petered out in similar fashion.

In the ordinary routine of the meeting the case of Adam Palmer, who had requested action on the part of the board regarding an account rendered by him for $761.96 for work done by him them, was presented and subjected to considerable criticism. It was shown that Palmer had written on two three occasions to the secretary as to this account, stating that he would have to resort to legal means should the board not see fit to grant his claims. Trustee Silto supply the names of those trustees who had given him his orders, that the claim be ignored and a resolution moved by him to that effect was carried.

San Book Advertising.

In the matter of placing advertisements on the back page of the school text books, the secretary stated that 15,000 books were used by the board, purchased at a cost of $2,300 to $2,500 and that the saving to be achieved by the inclusion of this suggested advertising would not amount to more than $500. The board was not in favor of carrying this kind of publicity on any of its property and decided not to do so. An answer was read from the city solicitor dealing with the interpretation of the last clause of the letter of the city clerk providing that in the event of the "present site of the Empress avenue school being sold the land shall revert to the city of London."

Claims Wrong Faulty.

Mr. Rowe pointed out that the wording of the original clause was faulty, but admitted that he thought the council really intended to use the money in the way suggested. Trustee Silverwood put a resolution that was carried by the board, which provided that the proceeds of the sale be used for the purchase of a new school site, the request of the council be acceded to, which was carried.

Eight Form Quorum.

There was a letter from the minister of education for the information of the board that eight members were agreed that certain information verwood, speaking as a member of last year's board, said that he had no recollection of any authority being granted to Mr. Palmer to carry out this work, and that in view of the fact that the claimant had so far refused the request of the board requested by J. F. White, M. P., as to the number of pupils attending city schools from non-taxable property should be forwarded to the minister. Trustee Campbell asked Mr. Beal whether there was any provision in the equipment of the technical school for teaching printing and the allied trades and whether he did not think these trades more essential than some of the others now being taught.

The principal said that there was no equipment simply because there was no room for it, and he did not think that printing was any more necessary than many other trades, adding that it would be extremely valuable.

E. Rainsbury applied to the board for the position of caretaker at Central Collegiate, and his petition was referred to No. 3 committee. Other applications for positions were received from J. Bell for the position of vocational officer, referred to a special committee; M. L. Blake of Toronto, for the position of supervisor of athletic and physical education, referred to No. 3 committee; and from Miss Evelyn A. Ferguson of Hamilton, who applied for a teacher's position, a case that was referred to the senior inspector.

Grant School Use.

The Knollwood Park ratepayers again requested the temporary use of the room at Knollwood Park School,

which was granted on the recommendation of the inspector.

The school attendance, according to the senior inspector, showed that the total role for 1922 was $6,665, as compared with $6,244 for 1921, an increase of 31. There were several recommendations in this report, including a recommendation that 100 chairs be purchased by the board of Ryerson School. It was stated that broken in moving them from the school to the armories. This seemed to be the result of carelessness on the part of the movers, according to the board, and the request was referred to No. 2 committee to investigate and report back. The inspector asked for a grant of $75 toward the purchase of a motion picture machine for St. George's School. The school already collected about $150 and the board agreed to furnish the needed amount.

The secretary's report it was suggested that the chairman of the board be authorized to affix his signature at any time after the vouchers had been signed by the chairmen of the committees a request refused by the board.

ALBERTA COAL TEST SHOWS HEAT VALUE

An Exact Test.

With the aid of a microscope Mr. Larsen kept his eye continually on the rising mercury, and every second he noted the temperature. As soon as the mercury began to recede he knew that the coal had been entirely burned out. From the highest point reached, he was able after taking other relative facts into consideration, to determine the heat value.

Mr. Larsen was quite pleased with the results. He claimed that for heat units the coal compared quite favorably with the best in the world and he is familiar with the products of most of the mines, having worked in the coal fields of Europe, as well as America.

The experiment for ashes was performed by G. Rosch. It was less complicated than the one for heat units.

In a small crucible some of the powder was placed after being carefully weighed. The crucible was then placed in an electric furnace which was glowing with heat. Only a few minutes were required to reduce the coal to an ash, and from the quantity contained in the crucible after it was removed from the furnace the percentage was secured.

Less Ash.

It was found that Alberta coal samples contained less ash than any American coal. The percentage of ash was considered quite low. And the quality of the ash was much softer and freer of grit than received from Pennsylvania. Usually the ash from American coal comes out of the crucible in a hard lump, but only a soft grayish-white powder.

Seemingly, anthracite coal is in a class by itself as far as ashes are concerned, for even in pre-war days, when undisturbed coal was received, the ash contents ran as high as 13.30 per cent. During the past few years, and especially during the past winter, the percentage has been higher for, according to Mr. Larsen, some of the mines are not so careful to remove all the slate and other waste matter is known.

The amount of water in coal is determined by the difference in weight before and after drying of samples. It will be noticed that two amounts given in the table. The first is the moisture in air-dry coal and the other is total moisture. This is due to the fact that experiments are carried out on samples which have been exposed to the air and therefore have lost much of their original moisture. The total moisture is the approximate amount contained in the coal originally.

Other Tests.

The test for volatile carbon and for fixed carbon is made in a small crucible much after the fashion of the experiment for ashes. The crucible is tightly closed before being placed in an oven. The heat drives off all the gases and other matters which would ordinarily leave the coal as smoke. The amount is determined by weighing the sample before and after heating. The substance which remains in the crucible is the fixed carbon, which contains most of the substance which goes to make a ready fire.

A coal that has much volatile carbon usually gives an intense heat, but it is deficient in lasting qualities. The coal which gives up its carbon readily burns out just as quickly. Anthracite coal is extremely high in fixed carbon and correspondingly low in volatile substances. For this reason it possesses little gas and lasts much longer than bituminous coal.

The test for sulphur is accomplished with the use of chemicals, and it was made by J. N. Robinson. In the tabulated figures sulphur is included both in the figures for ashes and for sulphur proper, accounting for what is seemingly a discrepancy of figures when the percentages are totaled.

Sulphur Content.

It is important, especially from the viewpoint of users of steam coal, to determine the amount of sulphur contained. It is necessary also to take the amount of sulphur into consideration when the heat units are being determined, for, while the substance burns in a crucible, a great part of it clings to the ashes when burned under a boiler.

Too much sulphur is highly undesirable because it affects the weathering quality of coal and it may cause spontaneous combustion when coal is piled in great storage heaps. The St. Marys Cement Company has lost many carloads of coal in this way.

Experiments also proved that the coal will not coke.

Mr. Larsen, while pleased with the quality of the coal, does not look upon it as the solution of fuel problems in Eastern Canada. The quality of the coal is not excellent enough to overcome the handicap of high freight rates, he thinks. He looks upon coke from the Maritime Provinces as the feasible solution. The use of Cape Breton coke, he thinks, will be made practical if the deep waterways scheme is consummated.

Mr. Lind, superintendent of the plant, holds a similar view to Mr. Larsen.

He has had wide experience with the coal problem in all parts of the Dominion, and is fully conversant with the national fuel problem.

"I cannot see that Alberta," he said, "will ever help the East." "There is a lot of coal out there right near the surface, and it gives a great deal of heat, but freight rates will keep it out of the reach of Eastern Canada, except, perhaps, as a substitute in a crisis."

"I cannot see how they will ever bring it here under $15 a ton, and give the railways the profit they ex-

Liberal Leader Pleased At Events In Legislature

"Hicks Bombshell Has Left Party in Better Position Than Ever," He Says.

Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Correspondent.

Toronto, April 12.—Mr. Wellington Hay, leader of the Liberals in Ontario, is highly pleased at the turn of events in the Ontario Legislature. "It has left us in a better position than ever. The charges by Hicks were leveled at the Liberals as much as they were at Mr. Drury. I went to Mr. Drury as soon as the thing broke, and told him to tell anything and everything as far as I was concerned, for there is nothing that will not stand all the light that can be turned on it. Liberals from several parts of the province have wired me today, saying that they have every confidence in the situation. Our work now is to get candidates in the various ridings and to do it as quickly as possible."

The Conservatives are going to have some fine explaining to square themselves for using the Hardy letter. There are Conservatives right now who realize that a serious mistake has been made in allowing a member of the party to retain private letters that were not the property of the man who secured them, and to make use of them in an effort to create political sentiment."

Mr. Hay will take the platform himself during the campaign. His health is much better now than it has been for some time, and he thinks he will be able to stand a pretty vigorous session previous to June 25. The local organizations should start in just as soon as possible, "because we want to have 111 candidates in the field. We have every reason to go into this fight with the very best of feeling. We are not ashamed of the stand we have taken on any question that has come before the house. We have criticized the policy of the government where we thought it was wrong, and we have supported the measures they brought in that were true to Liberal principles. We are stronger now in the rural sections than we were before. It will be a short, swift campaign, and I would urge all local organizations in the province to get into the fight early and stay in it until the last ballot is polled. We are not afraid of the results."

In addition to this, it will aggravate the transportation problems of the Dominion, for already the railways are suffering because the traffic is chiefly from the West to the East, and it means more long hauls for empty cars.

"I am afraid, too," he continued, "that the coal would be very apt to slack if handled in units. That, of course, can only be determined definitely by experience."

Both Mr. Lind and Mr. Larsen were convinced that Canada should find some way of securing fuel independent of the United States, although Mr. Lind claimed the American mines owned gave Canadian customers every attention.

"Coke from Cape Breton will be the ultimate solution," predicted Mr. Lind.

In the Maritime Province, they make a 48-hour coke especially for domestic use, and it cannot be expected to be as good as the coke from the West, but it lasts well."

"Isn't coke hard on stove or furnace?" asked the reporter.

"Not domestic coke," replied Mr. Lind. "It must not be confused with coke used for smelting, or even gas-house coke. It is prepared especially for furnaces and stoves."

Mr. Lind stated that the coke could be transported by boat directly from the Atlantic seaboard at a very low cost. It could be brought to Port Stanley, or any other port on the Great Lakes. Small boats could be used effectively until such time as the St. Lawrence River was deepened," he said.

ONTARIO ELECTORS WILL GO TO POLLS ON JUNE 25

POLITICAL FUSS STIRS LEADERS

Party Heads Caught Unawares
By Election Being Called In June.

PREDICTED OCTOBER
Expected D. M. Ross, Present
U. F. O., Will Again
Seek Convention.

Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock, April 13.—Considerable stir was occasioned in local political circles yesterday by the announcement that a general provincial election was to take place the last week in June.
A survey of the situation in North Ontario indicates the party leaders not expecting an election so soon, as most of whom were building on an October struggle. George F. Mahon, secretary of the Ontario Conservative party, said that while the party had not expected a June election they were ready for the campaign. The Liberals will have a candidate and the executive will be called right away to arrange for a convention.

In U. F. O. circles the announcement was also a surprise. However,
the U. F. O. organization, it is known,
has been working quietly for some time past preparing for the election.
In Conservative circles the feeling is unanimous that there is a candidate and W. S. West, secretary of the North Oxford Conservative Association, stated that the executive will meet soon to name a date for a convention to decide on a candidate.
In connection with the question of candidates it is a certainty that the present member, D. M. Ross, U. F. O., will again seek the convention.
It is also stated that it is altogether likely that he will have opposition in the convention. The name of Mrs.
J. S. Amos, prominent in the workings of the U. F. O. and vice president of the provincial U. F. O., is mentioned as a probable aspirant for the candidature.

John Scott, leader of the local labor party, was asked today in regard to the attitude of the party. He stated
there was no possibility of the labor men supporting the U. F. O. candidate.
"It would be impossible to get ten men to stick together behind a U. F. O. candidate," said Mr. Scott.

TYPHOID TAKES TOLL OF 34 IN COCHRANE

Half of Town's Population
Are Affected By Fever Epidemic.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Cochrane, April 13.—Five deaths occurred Thursday, bringing the total of typhoid fever victims to about 34.
A number of patients, including Charles Mulligan, master bridge builder of the T. and N. O. railway, are reported to be extremely low and may not survive the night. The total cases reported since the epidemic began have now reached 730, about half the town's population, but the number of new cases is on the decline. Three hundred and 23 new cases developed from secondary infection,
while today only seven were reported.
The people of Cochrane feel that assistance should be given to the town to bear the cost of the epidemic, as in the case of the great fire. In a statement to the Canadian Press tonight Mayor Russell estimated that the total cost of the epidemic will reach $35,000 or $40,000. Unless aid is received from the government, this will have to be borne by the town, and debentures in order to spread the
burden over a long term of years.
Mayor Russell stated emphatically
that rumors that the town had been warned were absolutely false.

BRACEBRIDGE CITIZEN SENTENCED TO BURWASH

J. Howard Lowrey Pleads Guilty To Stealing Firm's Funds.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Bracebridge, April 13.—A sentence of not less than six months and not more than two years, was passed by Judge Mahaffy yesterday on J.
Howard Lowrey, former assistant warehouse superintendent of the Standard Chemical Company, who pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing $477 of the Standard Chemical Company's funds. Lowrey made restitution, but the judge said the public had to be considered, and that there must be punishment for crime. Lowrey will be sent to Burwash.
J. T. Mulcahy, counsel for Lowrey, said Lowrey had been made the "goat" of some other higher persons formerly associated with the chemical company.
"Where are the other persons located?" asked the judge.
"There were two other persons higher up," stated Mr. Mulcahy.
They have not been apprehended.
Lowrey was their victim. There was a secret profit-sharing plan for buying wood. It was the two men higher up above Lowrey, engineered the profit.
Lowrey was drawn into it."
"Was there a number of employees implicated in it?"
Crown Attorney Johnson said it appeared to him the law must take its course.

ISSUES WRIT FOR HOLDING CAPE BRETON BY-ELECTION

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 13.—Speaker Lemieux announced in the house yesterday afternoon that he had issued a writ authorizing the issue of a writ
for a by-election in north Cape Breton, consequent on the appointment of Hon. D. Mackenzie to the supreme court bench of Nova Scotia.
The writ remains with the government
until the date of the by-election.

ONTARIO ELECTION SET FOR MONDAY, JUNE 25

Opinion That Mr. Hicks Suffered Most From His "Bomb."

DRURY EXPLAINS
Declares Hicks' Charge Came Like Bolt From the Blue.

Special to The Advertiser
by a Staff Reporter.
Toronto, April 13.—June 25! That is the day when the people of Ontario will decide political problems at the polls. The premier intimated that the contest would be that last week in June, and Monday, June 25, is the day decided upon.

Political circles here, now that the force of the Hicks' charges is all spent, have decided that the person hurt most in the incident was not named Hicks, as it may seem, it is a fact that the party was sprung
on Premier Drury without any intimation as to the nature of the charges. One of the cabinet ministers, believed to have been Hon. Manning Doherty, was in touch with Mr.
Hicks a day or so previously, as it has been rumored that there was some discussion as to whether he was going to bring some matter up on the floor of the legislature. Mr.
Doherty got nothing out of the man
from Huron.

Information "Leaked."
Some days previously a Conservative in Toronto wired some of the Ontario faithful that Hicks was going to bolt, and that half a dozen others were going with him. The telegram added that this was the breaking up of the U. F. O., and the final word was "Hurrah." By some strange turn the contents of this telegram made known to Toronto, and the U. F. O. Conservatives were all set for the explosion, for there were little cars and big cars bearing little around the parliament buildings on the day the bomb-throwing was to commence. It was also known in advance that the Hicks' letter was going to be brought in after the burge had been laid down by Mr.
Hicks. This was thought to be a thought to be sufficient to blow up the Drury line and cause Wellington
the first train for his grain business at Listowel.

Merely Mr. Hicks.
And so Mr. Hicks left off, but all he had was the opinion of Mr. Hicks.
He charged Mr. Drury with undermining the U. F. O., and with peddling
the whole organization in the open market.
Did Mr. Drury know what was coming? Here is his own explanation, as given to The Advertiser: "I did not know what Mr. Hicks was going to say. There had been reports that he had some matter that he wanted to bring up in the house, and he wanted me there when he brought in his statement. I was not sure if he would not come up and talk the matter over with me, but he refused.
The house had made his charges in advance, and I was not sure what he was going to say about it. It came as a bolt out of the blue to me. Mr.
Hicks is a very clever man, and he was as much surprised as I was.
There is not a man in the house who believes that Mr. Hicks would try to make a deal with any other party."
"Will anything more be done in regard to the Hicks matter?" inquired
The Advertiser.
"Not as far as I am concerned in the house," answered Mr. Drury. The effect of the whole incident has been
to drive our party transmitting him.
Mr. Drury will try and start his campaign speaking by the 1st of May if the work of the house is done. He will be the issue of the debentures in order to spread the
burden over a long term of years.
Mayor Russell stated emphatically
that rumors that the town had been

DISCUSS BUDGET QUESTION AT GOVERNMENT CAUCUS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 13.—General policy
for the remainder of the session can under review at a caucus of government supporters yesterday. There was, it is stated, some discussion in regard to the budget which Hon. W. S.
Fielding, minister of finance, is to submit to parliament, but it was rather in the way of suggestions from members as to the course to be followed than discussion of concrete proposals.
The conclusion of the caucus at 1:30 yesterday afternoon Premier King stated there was no announcement to make. Mr. Fielding also declared to make any statement.

Free State Army Seeks De Valera

Thomas Keating, Irregular Leader, Dies From Wounds.

Associated Press Despatch.
Dublin, April 13.—Six columns of Free State troops under General Proctor are scouring the mountains in Tipperary for Eamon de Valera, Dan Breen and the other irregular heads
who escaped the Free State troops when Liam Lynch was captured and fatally wounded.

GERMANS WILL SUBMIT NEW REPARATIONS PLAN

Finance Minister Hermes Has Prepared Proposition For the Allies.

Associated Press Despatch.
Berlin, April 13.—Reports from Paris that finance minister Hermes
has prepared a new reparation plan for submission to the Allies were given without denial in official circles yesterday.
Baron von Rosenberg, the foreign minister, will appear before the Reichstag next week, it was declared, and reiterate Germany's previously announced standpoint, making any negotiations conditional upon the evacuation of the Ruhr.
It is semi-officially announced that
at a conference between Chancellor Cuno, Baron von Rosenberg and the leaders of the parties supporting the government, the government policy was unanimously agreed to.

BLAMES SPANISH KING FOR MOROCCAN FIASCO

Deputy Prieto Placed Under Arrest For Libeling
Monarch.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser
and The Philadelphia Public Ledger.
Madrid, April 13.—The head of the Socialist party, Deputy Prieto, has been arrested and is charged with libeling King Alfonso, and before parliament declared in an address directly responsible for the Moroccan disaster of 1921, in which Spain lost territory and army corps and all the territory it had won subsequent to 1911.
He said the monarch superseded his prerogative when, without consulting the government, he ordered General Silvestre on the disastrous expedition. The deputy was released when he said he could prove his handwriting.
According to official statistics 22
persons have been killed and more than 30 wounded by gunmen in the streets of Barcelona during the last two weeks.

CANADIAN TRAVELERS MEET IN ST. THOMAS

Mayor Raven and Railway Officials Assist At the Banquet.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, April 13.—The Commercial Travelers Association of Canada held a banquet in the Grand Hotel last night.
Representatives to the number of about 100 from all parts of Canada met for the affair.
The majority of the travellers were
from Montreal, Toronto and London.
H. L. Wilcott acted as chairman.
E. Watson, M.P.P., proposed the toast to "Canada," F. A. Rutherford of the Canadian National Railways, that to several soloists, accompanied by "Transportation," and J. T. Webster
that to the "Commercial Travelers,"
to which J. Harry Dodgson responded.
Major C. W. Raven and J. H. Gould proposed the toast to "St. Thomas."

OPEN METHODIST CHURCH WITH SOLEMN SERVICE

Special to The Advertiser.
Wallaceburg, April 13.—Large congregations attended the re-opening services at the Trinity Methodist church Sunday. The church has been closed for several weeks for interior decoration and at the opening the result of the work was greeted favorably by the congregation.
The services were conducted by Rev. J. C. Reid of Ottawa, who was built nine years ago.
Under the leadership of E. U. Dickenson the choir rendered special music, and Mrs. W. H. Mitchell sang several solos, accompanied by Miss Elsie Shaw at the organ.
During the morning service an important ceremony took place when a baptismal font was dedicated to the memory of the late E. E. Parker and presented by his widow, Mrs.
Mabel Parker.

IMPOSE JAIL SENTENCES FOR LIQUOR ACT BREACHES

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, April 13.—Jail sentences for the first offence convictions under the Manitoba Temperance Act were imposed in provincial police court yesterday when Magistrate Noble fined three local men a total of $700 and sent them to jail for two weeks, with an additional sixty days if the fines are not paid. This is the first time jail sentences have been given for first offence convictions.

LONDON AND OLD BOYS' WEEK

Clubs and Societies Lay Initial Plans For Monster Celebration.

INVITE 25,000 PEOPLE Anticipate Period of Merriment Surpassing All Previous Celebrations.

Preliminary plans for Old Boys' Week, devoted at last evening's get-together or representatives from clubs and fraternal societies in London, if implemented, will make the reunion of old boys to be held Aug. 5-11 this year, bigger and better than ever.
A full attendance of delegates from the organizations gave spirit to the meeting. All acquiesced to the proposition that the week should be one of constant merriment and celebration surpassing anything hitherto staged in the city.
If plans materialize, London's population will be swollen to the extent of 50,000 extra persons. Invitations intended to reach 25,000 former Londoners have been broadcasted to all parts of the globe and another batch will be sent out when more definite information can be garnered.
The festival proper will commence August 4 if arrangements made by the executive of the London Amateur Athletic Association bear fruit. A delegate has been sent to Toronto to negotiate for the holding of the Ontario amateur athletic championships in this city on that date. There is every reason to believe the local association will be successful in procuring the event. This will be the first big shot of the carnival and will attract more than 500 contestants from all parts of the province.

PLEAD FOR CHILDREN AT PENSIONS INQUIRY

Soldiers' Aid Society Presents
Report on Child Welfare Work.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 13.—A strong plea that children should not be made to suffer through the shortcomings of their parents, an argument that children should not be deprived of benefits resulting from an income by the cutting of that income, and a reminder that if the children themselves do wrong they can be punished in juvenile court, were put before the pension commission of inquiry yesterday by J. Warwick, presenting the report on child welfare work of the Soldiers' Aid Society. The report was read by the chairman, who said the society should be allowed to take over the administration of certain pensions. Mr. Warwick said the society had been successful in not casting off all those who have erred, but to try and re-establish them. He pointed out that little children were often the innocent sufferers.

FIREMEN QUENCH TWO FIRES IN FEW HOURS

East End Storage Blaze and Burning Auto Cause Evening Runs.

Two small fires were extinguished
by the fire department early yesterday evening. At 5:47 o'clock the department fought a blaze in a storage building occupied by the Hawken-Lang Coal Company, corner of Simcoe and Rectory streets, for a half hour. The fire was caused by a burning automobile. The damage estimated, as both W. C. Hawken and C. V. Lang, the officials of the company, are out of the city.
Later in the evening a small fire
on Wharfedale road south of Chemicals were employed to extinguish the blaze. The damage was slight.

THINK ELECTIONS IN JUNE PIECE OF BAD STRATEGY

Special to The Advertiser.
Windsor, April 13.—The decision of Premier Drury to bring provincial elections in June caused a flurry in local political circles yesterday. Leaders of Conservative and Liberal parties say conventions will be held at once and the election called for June.
Local politicians profess to believe that the move to hold an election in June is bad strategy on the part of the premier, and that the cam-

ALBERTA'S COAL SUPPLY 100,000,000 TONS

Discoverer of Western Fuel Supply Gives Committee
Information.

QUALITY IS GOOD
Joseph Errington Estimates Cost
In Ontario At $16 Per Ton.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 13.—You would need several adding machines to estimate
the amount of anthracite in the hard coal areas of Alberta," Joseph Errington, discoverer of the Alberta fields, told the Commons committee on Canada's fuel supply yesterday afternoon. The Hoppe field, he said, was from 35 miles north and south,
and 30 miles east and west. Replying to E. J. Garland, Bow River, he agreed that the coal might run 100-000,000 tons, but it would be foolish,
in his opinion to attempt to estimate
the amount. In these coal areas, Canada possessed a tremendous national asset, and could, with proper development, secure a monopoly of the western trade and also invade the western United States markets.

Coal in the Alberta hard coal area was equal to any mined anywhere in the world. There was also a great deal of coal which was suitable for cooking. Transportation, however, was the great problem. Given railway lines and low freight rates, almost any tonnage of coal desired could be mined.
He estimated that coal from the anthracite areas could be placed in Toronto at about $16 or $17 a ton.
There would be additional charges for retelling. The coal was superior to Pennsylvania anthracite now being delivered to Canadian points.
Mining conditions in the Alberta field were superior to those in the Pennsylvania field and the coal itself
was clean and did not deteriorate.
The public would not need further education in using Alberta coal. If the field was developed it would also provide a profitable tonnage for the Canadian National Railways.

NOVA SCOTIA'S FISH CATCH SHOWS DECIDED INCREASE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 13.—The total value of production of the fisheries of Nova Scotia in 1922 comprising fish marketed for consumption fresh and canned, cured and otherwise prepared, was $10,207,444, an increase over the previous year of $428,821 or four per cent, according to a statement presented by the Bureau of Statistics tonight. Cod with $3,556,727, lobsters with $2-913,887, mackerel with $1,329,104, and other fish with $2,806,926, contributed 83 per cent of the total value

HEAT STEWART'S OFFICE WITH ALBERTA COAL

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 13.—Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, is warming his office in the parliament buildings yesterday with Alberta domestic coal.
H. H. Tutbury, Alberta trade
commissioner, and here to give evidence before the house committee investigating Canada's coal supply, made up the fire from samples of coal which he brought with him.
The fire burned brightly and gave off a splendid degree of heat.

CROWN PRINCE MADE QUITE A CRUSH BUT RICHES WERE LONE TOOTH BRUSH

Chavignaud, French Artist, Displays Work In London

Declares Modern Tendency Toward Commercial Art In Canada
and United States Destroying Individuality.

An artist learned in the technique of landscape painting, and familiar with every phase of art both historical and scientific, is George Chav-ignaud, the versatile Frenchman, whose exhibit of water-colors await the inspection of Londoners at John A.
Nash's jewelry store all this and next week.
Chavignaud, whose 82 years in this country have been interspersed with trips to all the picturesque spots of Europe, has flavored his 26 paintings showing in this city with a variety of interpretations. But the underlying motive of his work is the same. It is a tonality, the quality of mellowness
that distinguishes and at the same time typifies each one.
Mr. Chavignaud, speaking with The Advertiser, was somewhat pessimistic with regard to the future of Canadian art. The modern tendency toward commercial art was, in his opinion, destroying individuality. Futurism,
he declared, was a cubistic inclination was not reaping good results for the reason that so many embryo painters were anxious to be recognized as belonging to one or all of these schools without the ability or the experience which justifies recognition.
"Ambitious young artists nowadays
are ever delving into the intricacies and technicalities without attempting to learn the fundamentals," he said.
"Art after art, the artist is in a state of nature. It is a primeval thing and the more frills and erudition attached to it, the less acceptable it becomes."
Poster advertising is drawing the country's younger painters to its shores. America has become more proficient in this line of art than any other nation. But it is commercial art, and as such cannot hope to leave a permanent impression.
Mr. Chavignaud was a pupil of Verheyden. He was intimately acquainted with Jacob Smits, the German painter, Victor Gilsoul and many others. Years ago he won a scholarship at Brussels academy and has been accepted into the salons of Paris and Antwerp. Perhaps the greatest honor ever accorded him was being made a member of the Royal Belge Society of Water-Color. For years he conducted the art school of Halifax, and several of his paintings
now hang in the national gallery at Ottawa.

Chavignaud's favorite master is Velasquez. He believed St. Thomas Smith, the Canadian artist, to be possessed of rare talent. The frequent lack of public appreciation of great artists was illustrated in Mr. Chav-ignaud's admission that he had never with Paul Peet met his pictures had become famous long after his death.
Mr. Chavignaud's canvases are post-impressionist and cubistic in sentiment. In some there is a note of sadness that so frequently characterizes the studies of peasant life.
They strike the eye as pictures in which the quietude of rustic scenes are suggested with sure, deft touches
of color.
Temperament is, perhaps, a greater influence with the landscape painter
than the portrait or figure painter.
Nature presents herself in so many aspects that the artist can appeal to infinite variety of temperaments and provide something satisfying in each.
To Mr. Chavignaud the country of the wind-mill and the marsh has proved irresistible. In nearly every case his paintings are actual transcripts from nature, with close fidelity
to the scenes represented.

BARRACKS OF R.C.R. COMPANY BURN; $50,000 LOSS

BABIES WAIL IN TERROR AS FLAMES ROAR CLOSER

Alert Alarm and Heroic Efforts By London Soldiers Hold Destruction To One Building—Fire Broke Out At "Lights Out."

ONE MAN CAUGHT IN BATH—RELICS GO.

Fire, swift and spectacular, wiped out the frame barracks of "C" company R.C.R., Carling Heights, at 10:05 last night, endangering the lives of scores of women and babies and resulting in a loss estimated at $50,000.

The big building which was completely destroyed in one sweeping roaring blaze was occupied by unmarried men of the regiment, and fortunately all escaped with their lives.

Only the vigilance of Bandsman George Curran, however, saved eight other soldiers with their wives and babies from burning to death. Within two minutes of the time Pte. Curran frantically beseeched the bugler to blow the fire alarm, the building was a seething inferno of flames. Its occupants barely had time to rush from the building before the east wall crumbled under the terrific onslaught of the blaze.

Babies Wailed. It looked as if any moment the tar-covered quarters of the married men and their families situated next to the flaming structure would also succumb. Little babies, wailing pitifully, proclaimed their knowledge of danger, while parents fought desperately to direct streams of water on the building as the swirling flames from the blazing structure not twenty yards distant occasionally licked the west wall.

Women in light apparel carrying infants poured out of the married quarters. Some rushed back and rushed out again hauling other children after them.

The presence of a slight breeze blowing from the southeast favored the little band of fire fighters, but the neighboring building was always in danger until the single men's barracks finally tottered in a heap of smoldering flames to the ground.

The fire's origin is unknown. Although officers thought no one had been trapped in the crimson debris, a roll call could not determine whether some had become victims or not. Several men were given late leave and it is not known whether all took advantage of it. Not until early today will it be known whether or not any suffered. Officers and men, however, believe the chances of someone having been trapped extremely remote.

Were Playing Cards.

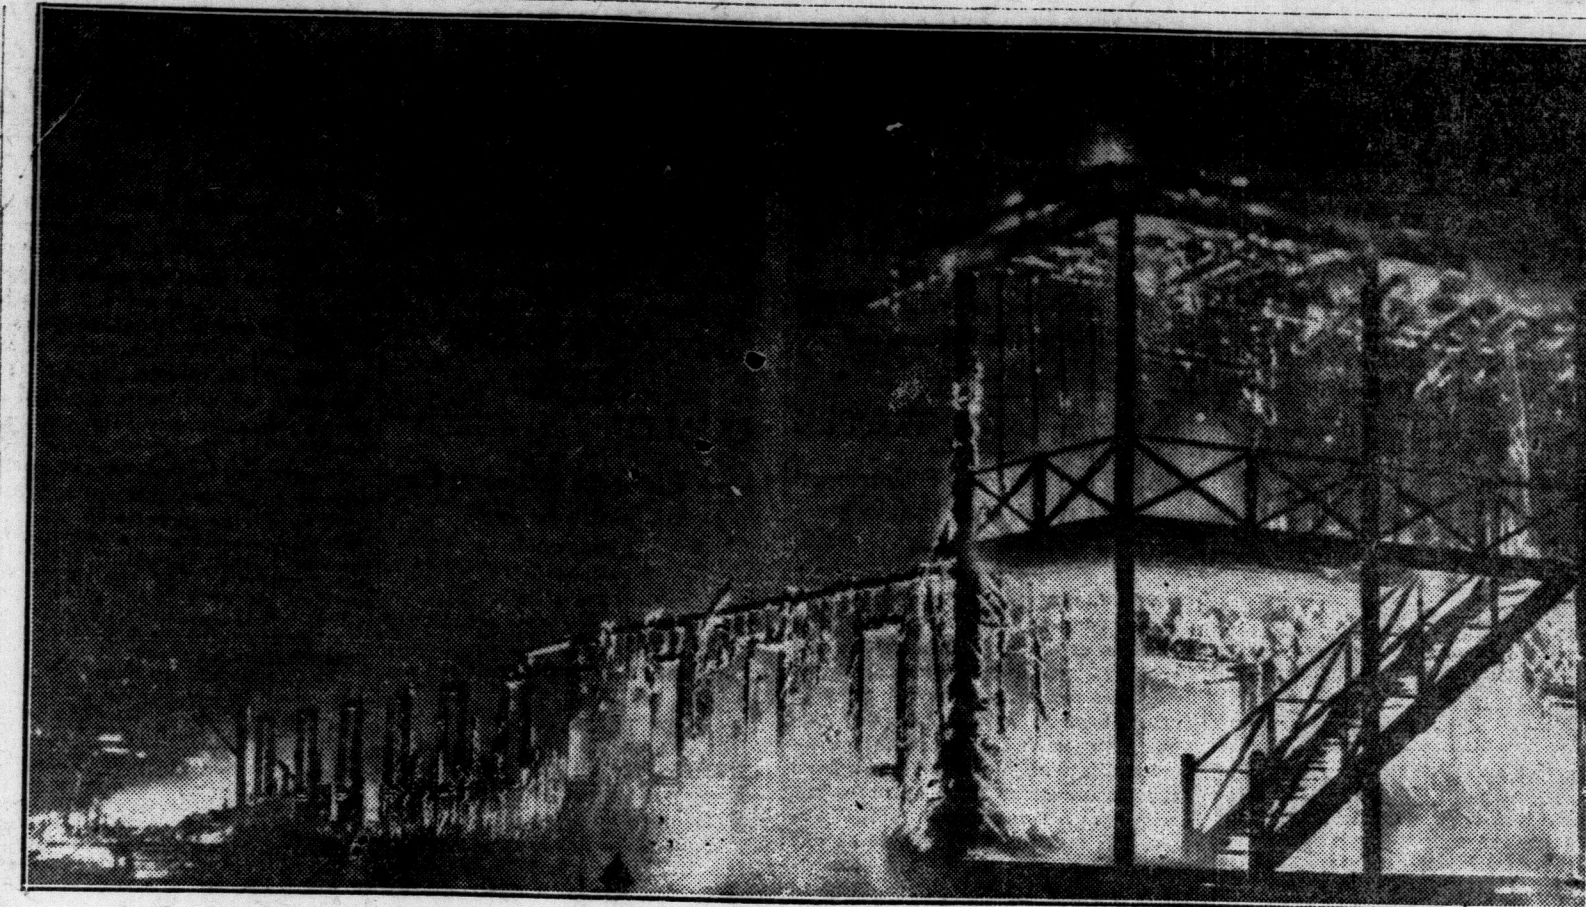

At 10 o'clock the men of "C" company barracks, under the supervision of Corporal Bryson, were having a game of cards, preparatory to "lights out" at 10:15. Five minutes after the hour Bandsman Curran, who was on fire picket duty, noticed a stream of flame darting out of the upper story of the building which was vacant. He barely had time to cry "Fire!" and tell Bugler Charles Ward to blow the fire alarm. Walter Cromer, was walking across the field separating the two buildings, when he too saw the flames. He and Curran together notified the men, some of whom did not have time to seize their jackets before vacating the doomed structure.

In a minute flames were sweeping the building. Wives of non-commissioned officers and men in the neighboring barracks screamed hysterically as their husbands dragged them into the open. Many carried three children in their arms. Then the small fire apparatus available was used to save the married quarters. Mrs. Wimperis, lying in bed, after having given birth to a child last week, was forced with her baby into the lecture hall. Others seized what bedding they could and made up an impromptu little camp outside the mess rooms.

In the meantime the alarm had been given to central fire headquarters, and No. 2 force arrived on the scene in five minutes. Other brigades arrived a few minutes later. At 10:20 the entire fire apparatus of the city was on hand.

Lost From the Start.

The building was beyond recovery, however, from the beginning. Lurid flames pierced the sky and as the soft breeze temporarily abated, darted like huge red snakes in the direction of the married men's barracks. With

JUST BEFORE THE FRAME TOTTERED.

The above remarkable picture taken by The Advertiser photographer ten minutes after the alarm had been given shows how the single men's all hope of saving a vestige of "C" company quarters gone, former occupants of the structure assisted the married soldiers in their battle to protect the east building. A water pipe was hoisted on the roof and the stream allowed to gush freely over the tar-covered walls. Onlookers gazed with apprehension on the building for twenty minutes, when the flames dwindled and all danger had passed.

The conflagration illuminated East London for a radius of two miles. Curling sheets of dense smoke crept up into the crimson sky and within twenty minutes after the first spark was seen a crowd of 7,000 citizens thronged the grounds. The sight that met their eyes was like that of a forest ablaze. Intrepid spectators who attempted to get within forty yards of the building could not stand the intense heat. The firemen realized the futility of fighting the blaze and concentrated their efforts on saving the adjacent building.

Two sick women were hurried into other quarters with their children while the remainder stood outside and watched the spectacle.

Officers were diffident about estimating the damage, but a conservative figure would be near $50,000. The structure itself was valued at less than $20,000, but according to Col. Frank Ware of the W. O. R., its contents would come to more than double that.

Souvenirs Go West.

"There go all the old relics of the war," Col. Ware said. "The boys haven't lost their lives, but they've lost many old tokens and belongings very dear to them. The sentiment loss is greater to them than the actual one."

Lt. Col. C. H. Hill, officer commanding the Royal Canadian Regiment, was notified of the disaster by telephone. He immediately hurried to the scene and directed his men.

"I thank God it wasn't the married quarters," said Mrs. J. Tilling, mother of one child, as she stood with her little one beside a pile of mattresses taken from her room in the emergency. "Myself and my baby wouldn't have been here now if it were. All of us would have perished, for we had long since gone to bed."

"Providence Saved Us."

"Providence alone saved us," Sergeant G. L. Skipper said. "My wife has five children, and they could not possibly have escaped had the flames come as far as our quarters. There were sixteen families in our barracks and 34 children, most of them babies. Two were less than two weeks old."

Lieut. Col. Langford, in charge of "C" company, ordered his men into the band and lecture rooms for the night. Until arrangements are made for other quarters these will have to suffice.

The quarterhouse stores were opened and sufficient blankets and other paraphernalia taken to provide for bedding for the soldiers.

When the fire started two R. C. R. bandmen were on picket duty. After the alarm was given many found themselves without tunics or overcoats. Some were forced to come out in their underwear.

Captain Fenton, speaking to The Advertiser, observed how fortunate it was that a small building separating "C" company barracks from the married quarters had been torn down last summer. The shed was formerly used as a sort of storehouse, and it was to prevent just such a catastrophe as might have occurred last night that it was removed. Had it remained there is no doubt what would have happened.

Both structures were frame, and both were covered with easily inflammable tar paper.

Soldiers Complain. Several soldiers housed in the east building voiced complaint regarding the poor fire protection afforded them and their families.

"If a blaze started here while we were asleep we wouldn't have a chance in the world," said one. "It would just gobble us and our families up before we were properly awake."

The families occupying the married men's barracks were those of Sergeant G. L. Skipper, with five children; G. Tilling, one child; Bandsman J. Carroll, two children; Bandsman McGuire, three children; Driver Wilson, one child; Pte. Grunwell, two children; Bandsman Cater, one child; Pte. V. Watkins, two children; Pte. Frith, five children; Driver Tapp, Bandsman Dickens, Sergeant Wimperis, six children; Pte. Lewis, three children.

The number of single men living in the burned building was about 70. Private Walter Cromer of the R. C. R. was crossing the campus between the married and the single men's quarters, when he noticed a dull reflection in one of the upstairs windows.

"I stopped for a second to make sure that it was really a fire," he told The Advertiser, "and then I rushed into the building and holed 'Fire.' The bugler Charles Ward then blew the fire call. It was just before 'lights out' and most of the boys were just going to bed, although a few were asleep."

"It's a good thing it happened in the single men's quarters instead of in the other building, where the married men were. There were women and children in the place next door, you know."

Wrapped in Raincoat. Sergeant O'Connor was found wrapped in a raincoat. He was shivering but still smiling.

"Of all the times a fire has for breaking out," he exclaimed, "I was taking a bath and was looking forward to a good night's sleep, when I heard someone shout 'fire.' I grabbed a few things and jumped through a window. I believe Jimmy Forsyth was in the same fix, and according to the boys he got out through a window also."

"There were about fifty in the building at the time," he told The Advertiser, "and Corporals Bryson and Makin were in charge. I think it was just before 'lights out,' although I couldn't be sure."

"I was just about to roll in," said Private Paucet, "when I happened to look up and saw smoke seeping through the floor. At the same instant I heard the fire call. I looked around and saw that the fellows were waking up some of the ones who were sleeping. Then I gathered what I could and went out."

Drummer Lewis, a small chap, grinned broadly when asked where he happened to be when he heard the call.

"Gosh! I was dreaming," he managed to say between laughs, "and the first thing I knew was being rolled out of bed."

Corporal Lawrence, who was acting as a radiator, was on duty when the fire broke out. He was in the middle of a lecture to the boys when he heard the call.

veranda, causing a live wire, which would have been dangerous to the crowd. As the wires seemed to be about to give way, however, the building tottered and fell.

orderly-sergeant last night and was in his bunk, was looking over some papers when he heard a crackling. He investigated and found a goodly portion of the building in flames. He had a hard time in getting out, he told The Advertiser.

For a while everyone around the barracks was worried. Drummer Olinshaw could not be located and no one could remember seeing him after the burning building had been vacated. Finally someone remembered that the drummer had a late pass and had not returned from downtown.

Many of the boys lost all their savings, and the number of "civies" saved did not reach a dozen. Quite a few in "C" company had bought new suits for Easter and these were lost as well as uniforms, drums, rifles and other miscellaneous equipment.

The private had received his discharge a few days or so ago and had drawn $100 from the bank. This was burnt up as well as another chap is out $300.

Among those who were either sleeping or about ready to retire, and whom they could see: Pte. Dunn, Drummer Wimperis, Pte. Gould, Pte. Roy Fawcett, Corp. Jack Cook, Pte. Wilson, Pte. Ison, Pte. Hill, Drummer Tanner and Corp. Mulvey.

RELICS AND CASH GO IN TECUMSEH BARRACKS FIRE

THE LAST REMNANTS OF TECUMSEH BARRACKS.

While a crowd of 7,000 thronged Carling Heights to see the great blaze last night, The Advertiser photographer took the above fine photograph. It shows the condition of the building ten minutes after the fire was discovered. On the right is a pool of water, caused by the firemen's hose.

called. Sergeant Stirling also lost a $150 gold watch, an heirloom from his father, which, for sentimental reasons, he valued more than any other possession.

All agree but for the vigilance of Bugler Charles Ward and Pte. Walter Cromier the married men's quarters and neighboring buildings containing valuable stores would have suffered the same fate as "C" Company barracks. Officers lauded both these men for their prompt work in giving the alarm.

Temporary Quarters.

Officers and men this morning removed part of the charred debris. The sixty odd men who escaped from the destroyed barracks were quartered last night in the bandmaster's store-room. Others slept in the lecture hall. The majority, however, were too excited to sleep and formed sickets through the night. Some of the married women were too frightened and hysterical to remain in the west building, and several with their children were accommodated in the bandroom. Mrs. Wimperis, who was confined to bed when the blaze broke out, after having given birth to a child eight days before, was looked after by Mrs. King, Gen. W. B. King for the night. Mrs. King asked her to use the general's quarters so her baby could receive every attention.

Bandman J. Tilling, in rescuing his furniture and dragging his wife and child into the open, nearly succumbed. He collapsed after he had run up and down stairs a number of times, but was later revived.

One of the items that went to swell the loss was the destruction of 175 rifles and two dozen revolvers in "C" Company barracks. Other paraphernalia lost included typewriters, banding, equipment of all kinds, trunks and band instruments. Many of the drums were relics of the war, and prized by the men. The loss in band instruments amounts to $400, eight slide drums, one bass drum, eight flutes, one piccolo, cymbals and other brassware having been ruined. These were the best type of instruments made.

Many Medals Lost.

A number of the men lost medals and military decorations. Sergeant Stirling had bronze and silver medals in recognition of his service in the Boer and European wars. These included the Victory, Service and other cherished decorations.

Sergeant O'Connor swears he will never again take a bath on Thursday evenings. Saturday, he is convinced, is a much more propitious time for the weekly scrub. During the war, his comrades say, he was nearly blown up by a shell while in the same predicament, and last night he had no sooner filled the bathtub with steaming water and plunged gallily into it when someone poked in his head and yelled "Fire." O'Connor got out of the porcelain faster than the champion speed bather of the world, donned a raincoat and emerged shivering on the road.

"Hello, Venus," said some wag, "you always would have your bath on Thursdays."

"It's Saturday for me in future," returned the grinning sergeant.

Instrument Stolen.

A member of the band in the excitement and hurry left two clarinets on the porch of the executive building near the flaming quarters of "C" company, R. C. R., at

NONE THE WORSE FOR AN EXCITING NIGHT.

The above picture, taken by The Advertiser staff photographer, shows the family of a soldier who was not disturbed by the fire. The soldier on the left, as is shown by his scorched tunic, came dangerously near to being injured. The photograph was taken just outside the building in which they live.

When he returned five minutes later the most expensive of the two was missing. Captain Ryan is certain some prowling civilian, taking advantage of the occasion, slipped the clarinet under his coat and made off with it.

Pte. Riags was one of the heaviest losers. This soldier owned numerous medals and a considerable sum of money, all of which was consumed. "We issued new bedding and essential equipment last night," Captain Ryan told The Advertiser. "The only thing that saved the married quarters was the bucket brigade. They worked hours pouring water on the roof and walls."

"The demonstration last night showed how necessary it is for the militia department to erect brick buildings for its soldiers. Fires have occurred recently in Halifax, Kingston and Rosedale barracks. All of them could have been prevented had the buildings been made of brick. Only a miracle saved lives last night. If we had ordered a wind to suit the fire we could not have got a kinder one than the light southeast breeze that blew the flames away from the west yesterday."

Nothing will be done in constructing new quarters until word is received from militia headquarters. In the meantime the men will have to be content with the improvised rooms provided last night in the emergency. Several women are remaining in the barracks today suffering from nervousness brought on by excitement and shock.

MEDICINE FACULTY STAFF DEFEATS STUDENTS, 10 TO 4

The staff of the faculty of medicine of Western University succeeded in defeating the Meds of '25 and '26 in an exciting basketball match last night.

The game was played in the medical gymnasium and was strenuous from start to finish. The score was 19 to 4, but the result gives little indication of the fight that both sides put up, the staff working hard to increase their lead gained in the earlier part of the game, and the students working like trojans to stave off defeat and if possible win the game. Spectators who saw the match are loud in their praise for both teams.

THE DESTROYED "HOME" OF SIXTY SOLDIERS.

All that remains of the "C" Company barracks room after flames had reduced it to ashes. The above picture, taken by The Advertiser staff photographer, shows officers and men of the Royal Canadian Regiment examining the debris. It was from this charred mass that the remains of Micky, the company's beloved dog, were extricated.

TO TRY FOR $12,000 FOR WELFARE DRIVE

Executive of Association Meets Tomorrow To Start Another Clean-Up.

The executive, members and committees and team captains of the United Welfare Association, will meet tomorrow afternoon to consider ways and means by which the $125,000 objective will be reached.

The association is about $12,000 behind the amount expected and another canvass of those who previously failed to subscribe will be arranged. Team captains are determined to do the job well and no effort will be spared.

Every member notified of the little "clean-up" drive, readily assented to lending all assistance possible. A list of citizens who are expected to contribute has been drawn up, and it is estimated that these will swell the treasury by about $8,000. A number of checks from persons out of town during the campaign will arrive within the month, which officials believe will bring the total up to the desired amount.

ITS OCCUPANTS WERE SAVED FROM THE FLAMES.

This picture shows the structure the part of fire fighters, would have persons in all are quartered here. The majority, women and children, were sound asleep when the fire started.

FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1923.

After It's All Over.

The manner in which the Hicks charges fell down in the Ontario Legislature was as much a vindication for Liberals as it was for Premier Drury. If it had been true, as Mr. Hicks charged, that there had been secret plotting and planning going on by Mr. Drury, he would have to have plotted with some one, and that some one would necessarily have been Mr. Wellington Hay, the leader of the Liberals in the province. Mr. Hicks has told his story. He has made neither a great nor a favorable impression with his performance. The day after finds the people wondering what it was all about, and whether it "went over" according to the ideas of the men who apparently manipulated the move.

Mr. Hicks did not play fair with his chief. His opinion of Mr. Drury or of the premier's adherence to U. F. O. principles was not a matter to be dealt with on the floor of the House. He gave no intimation that he was going to make such a vehement attack or that he would challenge the honor of the prime minister in a way such as he did.

Mr. Drury's reply was remarkably moderate, considering the circumstances. It is no small achievement for a man to sit still in his place in the legislature and hear charge after charge read out to him, couched in the most biting terms, especially by a man who has occupied a position of responsibility in the government. The premier was not moved to an excess of language although he knew the hollowness of the statements, and had good reason to believe they had been prepared by others than the man who read them.

In opening the House the day following, and announcing an appeal to the country, Premier Drury wisely minimized the proceedings of the night before. He simply referred to them as creating a situation that would be dealt with effectively only by the voters themselves.

The incident leaves the Liberals and the Drury party closer together than ever. They were both under fire; they were both charged with plotting; and they both await one bit of evidence to show that the Hicks statement contains anything more substantial than the skeleton of a poor plot.

Mr. Wellington Hay is making plans now to have candidates put in every riding. He has every reason to believe that the turn of events places the Liberals in a stronger position than ever.

The Conservatives will have a hard time trying to justify the use they made of private correspondence which fell into their hands. Senator Hardy was not duped by any Liberal to try his hand on the Ontario situation. He wrote as a private citizen to J. Walter Curry, a Liberal member in the Ontario Legislature, and the letter, marked "private and confidential," went to Col. J. A. Currie, a Conservative, who had neither the discretion nor the decency to see that it went at once to the man for whom it was intended. The Conservative leader knew of the existence of this letter, and yet he sat there and by his silence sanctioned the use of this letter-snatching in a poor effort to bring embarrassment on the Liberals and U. F. O.

Mr. Brackin, the Liberal member of Kent, called it "stealing," but after considerable pressure took back the word. If that act of Col. J. A. Currie did not constitute stealing a letter, then there must be some tall searching to get a more suitable word. Perhaps it might be expressed by "miserable detention of the property of another man."

The Conservative leader in the House kept silent on that score, whereas any leader with regard for common decency in politics would have there and then uttered his protest against any such miserable tactics being allowed under the auspices of the Conservative party in Ontario.

Take No Chances.

Repairing the Ridout street bridge and running a truck and street over it a few times is not the sort of test Londoners want before hanging up the word "Safe" on the entrance to that bridge.

Neither is there much assurance in the words of the engineer that the traffic bridge alongside the street railway bridge is safe up to four tons.

In this day of trucks and motor cars going both ways, a four-ton limit means nothing at all.

It would require the presence of an officer at each end of the bridge to maintain an observance of that supposed margin of safety.

It is much more important to investigate the safety of bridges than it is to probe the conduct of police or fire departments.

That bridge should be made safe without any four-ton qualifying clauses.

What Weather Means.

The continued cold weather and the effect that it has throughout the province is felt, not only in a continued consumption of coal for domestic heating, but is working changes in the farming conditions of the province which will be very marked before the harvest season arrives.

There is too little appreciation of the man who toils at our basic industry, farming, by his city brother, and the present unfavorable weather, which is tending at present to reduce his possible earnings for this season, should be considered by all who have the interests of our national welfare at heart.

Few people, and especially those living in cities, are in a position to grasp just how important a factor weather is in the production of the crops that not only supply our daily bread, but also keep our factories and mills in operation. It is common knowledge that unless the farming community is enjoying a measure of prosperity, in a country where 40 per cent of the population either directly or indirectly obtain their living from agriculture, it is hopeless to expect the balance of the people in other industries to prosper. At present the farmer is faced with the prospect of harvesting a very poor crop of fall wheat. Last fall the newly-planted crop came along better than was expected in the face of a shortage of fall rains, and when winter made its appearance with a blanket of warm, protecting snow the farmer was entitled to hope that he had every chance of obtaining a good yield.

As nearly as can be estimated at the present time, this prospect has been shattered. All parts of the province have not been heard from, but it is evident that the fall wheat in the London district at least has suffered from winter killing, and is still being injured. When the first real thaws came the snow melted rapidly, only to freeze again into fields of ice, and now that the ice has gone in its turn we find the farmer's wheat field in sad shape. Scarcely a field has escaped considerable winter killing, and the present intermittent freezing and thawing with sharp frosts at night bids fair to complete the damage.

Things are seldom as bad as they appear, and it is to be hoped that exceptionally suitable weather conditions during the summer will work a miracle in undoing some of the damage that is so apparent at present, but it is just as likely that the handicap will be increased.

If there was ever a time in the history of farming in this province that the farmer needed bountiful crops that time is the present. Bankers throughout the province say that never before have they carried so much of the farmer's financial burden, and that unless something outstanding in the way of bumper crops comes to the farmer's assistance many of the hardest workers in the farm industry will go under before the end of the year.

There are too many of us ready to belittle the farmer. It is the delight of too many householders to crow over the fact that they have succeeded in bargaining the farmer down a cent or two in the buying of their butter and eggs, and if these same people had a full understanding of the host of factors absolutely beyond the farmer's control that he has to grapple with in the production of his crops, there is no doubt that they would have a greater sympathy.

Farming today has become a complicated, heavily-capitalized industry, based on individual effort, and suffers more from factors of weather and climatic condition than any other industry, and a measure of friendship and better understanding of the farmer and his work will go a long way toward improving our national prosperity. The damage to this year's wheat crop is not the only setback that the farmer will get before harvest, but is mentioned simply because it is one that is apparent at the present time.

Racing With Children.

Women in England raced 50 miles shoving a baby in a carriage. Society for prevention of cruelty to children tried to have the race stopped.

But there's many a man who will swear that he's gone 50 miles in a single night with a baby, and on foot, too.

It may have been cruelty to the child, but the man was doing it with the best possible intent.

He would have welcomed the intervention of any society or any individual. But none was forthcoming, and the race continued until the child was exhausted from the sheer force of awkward handling.

Note and Comment.

At Toronto Fair this fall a house is to be built in 35 minutes. Yes, and after it's built they raise the rent in shorter time than that.

Musical training fits people for other kinds of work, says an expert. Surely. Beating the base drum develops a great muscle in the right arm.

Elgin county jailer adds up totals and says he can provide bed and pasture for 11 cents a day. For a family of five that means $3.85 per week, so if you are spending more than this there's room to cut and still keep body and soul together.

DIBS AND DABS

—BY HARRY MOYER

TO THE EDITOR

VIMY RIDGE.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—It's six years since the battle of Vimy was fought. And well we all know who took part in it. All honor, I say, to the Canadians.
How about the Old Contemptibles from Le Chateau, August, 1914, to the Aisne in September, 1914, and also the first battle of Ypres? We don't hear much of these glorious men, and, in fact, never will.
But I will say, had it not been for the old British army in 1914 the Canadians would not have had trenches to go into around February and April, 1915. But, any way, good luck to the Canadians, the imperials are forgotten. But why?

THE 50-CENT HAT.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—At the risk of being considered a little old-fashioned, I would like to say a few words in regard to your editorial in yesterday morning's Advertiser, entitled "The 50-Cent Hat," in which you soundly rebuked the above article and its wearer. Now, Mr. Editor, we are all aware of present-day conditions, and while there is nothing to be pessimistic about, unless it is the bartender proclivities of the press, who keep on shouting "Another drink, boys," and we all know the present-day tendency is to spend money on frivolities, without being urged by such an influential factor as the press. What a change from thirty years ago! In those days young people began housekeeping with necessary articles. Today they begin with a piano, gramophone and a dog, all bought on the instalment plan, and the latest fad is a radio set, all purchased in preference to a home.
I am acquainted with men earning only $12 a week. They support a delicate wife and two children. I know others with the same number of a healthy family who receive $25 a week. They are both broke two days after. Necessities for the one, $15 lids, swell cafes, and expensive shows for the other. So my respect and admiration goes to the lady with the 50-cent hat. Yours respectfully, SUBSCRIBER.

ABOUT THOSE BRIDGES.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—I see by the press the city engineer has been ordered to make a thorough inspection of the city bridges, which to me is an entire waste of valuable time, as our bridges have during the past winter unnecessarily undergone a most severe test caused by the accumulation of many tons of ice, added to that the rough surface caused by the ruts and holes in the ice.

Now I see policemen are sent out to still further test the strength of the bridge by not allowing the automobiles to proceed at a faster rate of speed than five miles an hour, thereby causing an accumulation of cars on the bridges, which will be much more trying to the bridges than it would be to allow them to pass on at their regular rate of speed. If our council will in future put some of the unemployed that we have with us every winter to remove the unnecessary burden above mentioned on the bridges, we need have no fear of our bridges for many years to come. I think our engineer could be much better employed looking after some of our disgraceful streets. Take, for instance, Wellington street, south of the C. N. R. tracks to the bridge, one of the leading arteries to the city from the south. It certainly needs attention. If it cannot be paved it should be scraped and some broken stone and gravel put on. As the engineer is a stranger here, if he goes to inspect Wellington street I would advise him to take a street car or walk, for if he undertakes to go in his automobile he may have a doctor's bill or a garage bill, possibly both, to pay. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for incouraging on your valuable space. Yours very truly,
R. H. CULLIS.

AN ANTELOVIAN IDEA.

"So no use has ever been discovered by the doctors for the appendix in the human system."
"Don't you believe the doctors have never discovered its use. It helps to buy their automobiles."
"I have a mind to give you a whipping!" exclaimed the impatient father.
"Well," replied the athletic youth, "maybe you can. But if you succeed in giving me some item for the sports page."

Your Health

ARE THERE NATIONAL SECRETS OF WELL-BEING AND BEAUTY?

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D., United States Senator from New York; Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

If you read the newspaper you find a lot of interesting things discussed. Most of the articles are true, but some of them are not. I fear. A few may be classified as propaganda. The other day I saw a London despatch, lauding the beauty of British women, and the laudable effects of the much complained of English climate. You will be much interested in the message which reads as follows:
"It is not generally recognized that the chief factor of the beauty of British women is our often abused climate. The humidity of our atmosphere is the best possible preservative of complexion, and the 'brisk northerly' which, as Charles Kingsley sang, makes 'hard Englishmen,' has, no doubt, an effect upon the health and vigor of the 'Devonshire drizzle' and the 'drizzly zephyrs of Cernwall.'"

"The women of Great Britain and Ireland excel in physical charm, because the standard of health is fairly high. The influence of the rainfall upon skin texture and coloring is plainly shown by the complexions of women living in the wettest quarters of the United Kingdom. The 'Scotch Mist' is a skin emollient, and the same may be said for the 'Devonshire drizzle' and the 'drizzly zephyrs of Cernwall.'"

"In Ireland also, where the rainfall is high, the women are famed for the delicate coloring of the cheeks and the brightness of the eyes.
"Our moist air prevents that early wrinkling of the skin of the face, seen among women of the southern races of Europe. The bloom of the Italian and Spanish belles wanes all too soon in the arid and constant sunshine."

There you have it! Are you going abroad at once, dear sister? While the moisture of the air has something to do with the results commented upon, that is but one of several factors involved.

But before I go any further I want to make a few comments on female beauty. Europe has no monopoly on good looks. If I am any judge, there is a larger proportion of handsome women in the United States and Canada than in any country of Europe.

It must be admitted that the physical condition of the so-called "upper classes" in England is somewhat superior to ours, because of the more common practice over there of getting into the open air.

Their sports, their gardening and, particularly, their fondness for walking, take the women into the open in all weathers. It rains so often and so much that the British disregard wet weather. It is well they do, otherwise they would venture little.

If you would be well and strong, like Kingsley's "hard Englishmen," you must have daily walks in the sunshine, in the mist, in the rain, in the snow. Going out once a week will help a little, but going out daily will be a thousand times better.

Let us brag a little about our women. They may not have cheeks as red, but they have better teeth. England should be ashamed of its dental negligence. Many a rosy, cheeked, red-tipped British woman is spoiled in looks because her teeth are decayed and broken.

F. T. Q.—I am a young man, and my voice is very high pitched and thin. Will you please tell me how I can strengthen my voice?
A.—You should go to the Y.M.C.A. and take voice culture. This will help you.

N. J. Q.—Recently while being examined in a hospital the doctor marked on my chart that I was the adrenal type, and that my heart was syssopic at the apex. Will you please tell me what these terms mean?
A.—You should write the doctor who examined you and get the meaning of his notations. That is the surest way to find your real condition.

E. D. Q.—Will you please tell me what causes my face to burn at certain times during the day?
A.—This is most likely due to nervousness. Have your family physi-

Up In the Attic.

By ANNE CAMPBELL.
Up in an attic I found a dress,
Packed in a chest for years,
And, shaking its folds, my happiness
Left in a mist of tears!

Up in the attic the sun of spring
Shone through the window-pane,
But, try as I would, my thoughts would Wing
Back to the past again.

Up in the attic I found a dream,
Bygone I thought had fled,
Because of a gown whose every seam
Frayed like a dream that's dead.

Up in the attic a bird song gay
Echoed in tones of mirth,
I came, as I packed the gown away,
Back to this good old earth.

ARMY BILL PASSES BRITISH HOUSE—CRISIS OVER

YET REDDER REDS
OF SOVIET PARTY

Promote New Scheme To Lure Foreign Capital Into Russia.

A MONETARY BUDGET

Seek To Do Away With Collection of Taxes in Wheat and Other Products.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
Moscow, April 12.—The convention of the Communist party, which opens next week, is expected to bring to the surface a new, anonymous "left wing," extreme even when compared with Leon Trotsky and other radical government leaders.

This new group is demanding two prominent revisions in the Communist form of government, it was learned
today:

One—Formation of a new scheme
to lure foreign capital into the development of Russia's great resources.
Two—Enactment of a purely monetary budget instead of collecting taxes in wheat and other products.

The new wing—as yet unnamed—will probably swing into action when the convention opens, possibly Sunday.

Embodied in its program there is also a provision, which would sweep away government subsidies for the various industries and a general containment of expenditure. There is strong opposition to the abolition of subsidies among those who fear that such a step ultimately will lead to widespread unemployment.

The views of the new wing so far have been expressed, and its sentiments and ideals outlined in a new publication called "The Workers' Truth." The organ recently launched its attack on the new economic policy of the government, claiming that the country faced the possibility of creations of new capitalism. The so-called drift towards "capitalism" is under fire.

WAGE BOARD TO HOLD
HEARING IN TORONTO

To Discuss Order Covering
Minimum Wage to Office Workers.

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, April 12.—The minimum wage board of Ontario will hold a public hearing in its rooms in Spadina House, Toronto, on the evening of Wednesday, April 18, in connection with its proposed order covering minimum wages for office workers in the province of Ontario excepting Toronto. The order respecting office workers in Toronto has been already adopted, and goes into force on the 1st of June. These other orders now under consideration are modifications with living conditions
in other parts of the province.

The proposed order follows generally the same schedules as have been applied to other trades in the different parts of Ontario, and are precisely the same as those in the retail stores for adults, whether experienced or inexperienced. In the case of young girls under 18 years of age, an apprenticeship period of 18 months is allowed with initial wages
as for the retail stores. However, in villages of less than 1,000 population and in the rural districts the order is simplified by uniting the two classes of inexperienced adults and young girls and allowing an apprenticeship period of one year in length, thus again repeating the order for sales-
women in retail stores.

Additional regulations provide that an office worker who presents a diploma from the commercial course in a high school shall be exempt from the apprenticeship periods, and provision is made for the payment on an hourly basis of temporary office workers whose term of employment is less than two months.

Anyone may attend this public hearing and present any criticism or comment whatsoever. It is the custom of the minimum wage board to hold this public hearing in connection with the issuing of each of its orders. These orders are never issued until after a thorough investigation of the wages paid in the trades concerned, which is later followed by a discussion of the minimum wage levels suggested with groups of employers and employees. The last step in the process is the making of the decisions reached by the board have been approved by those representatives of employers and employees.
The last step in the deliberation of the minimum wage board is this public hearing, which affords a chance for anyone whatever to make any statement he may wish regarding the order that is soon to be enforced as law.

MEMBERS SNORE
AS DEBATE DRAGS
IN BRITISH HOUSE

But Bonar Law's Government
Meets Crucial Test and Bill Passes.

SING "JOHN BROWN"

Labor Members Enliven Long and Tedious Session in the Commons Last Night.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
London, April 12.—The House of Commons debated throughout the night, and the session was still in full swing at noon today.

Labor members sprawled asleep on benches, government supporters
dozed and nodded as one speaker after another droned on. Occasional test votes interrupted the peace of the slumbers.

Finally, when it seemed that the session, which had lasted 21 hours might go on indefinitely, the bill before the house was voted upon, passed its third reading, and the weary members dragged home to bed.

Commons adjourned until Monday,
with speakers of Bonar Law's government breathing easier. It was the big test of strength for Bonar Law's government.

The army and air force annual bill,
subject of the debate, was relatively unimportant. Any other subject would have done just as well. The government was determined to demonstrate it still has a clear majority over all opposition in the house.

The long session was comparatively peaceful, although in the night Labor
M. P.'s sang "John Brown's body"
loudly while votes were being taken.
On each vote the government won.

About 10:30 this morning a Labor member moved an amendment to the army and air force bill, substituting imprisonment for the death penalty
now prescribed for army deserters.

The commons rejected the amendment by a vote of 175 to 103 after two hours' debate.

During the evening the snoring of two Labor members resounded through the drowsy house. The sleepers awoke indignantly when a member demanded the "corpses be removed."

OPPOSES ST. LAWRENCE
WATERWAYS PROJECT

Premier Oliver Claims Chief
Need of Canada Is More Rail Traffic.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Saskatoon, April 13.—Opposition to the St. Lawrence deep waterway's project was expressed by Premier John Oliver here last night, in speaking in support of British Columbia's fight for the equalization of freight rates.

The project would simply add further water competition at a tremendous cost, the premier said, when the chief need was more rail traffic, to make possible further reductions in railway rates and a greater net profit to the roads.

Premier Oliver criticized the sentiment of those who sought to create further waterways, when the "great Pacific" was unused. "The Almighty
God gave the Pacific Ocean for man to use," he said. "The Almighty is stronger than the Canadian Parliament. The Pacific Ocean shall be used for transportation. The reduction of a few hundred pounds which we won last year has started a movement of trade westward which the Parliament of Canada is powerless to stop."

PROTEST OF KING'S VISIT
FORWARDED TO PREMIER

Lord Stamfordham Acknowledges Receipt of Albert Hall Resolution.

By HENRY SOMERVILLE.
Special Cable to The Advertiser.
Copyright.
London, April 12.—Lord Stamford-ham, private secretary to King George, acknowledged the receipt of the Albert Hall resolution protesting against the king's visit to the pope, and says it has been forwarded to the prime minister.

The Archbishop of Canterbury and the bishop of London are both out of London, but their chaplain informed
The Advertiser that, in common with other leaders of the Anglican Church,
they have had no association with the Albert Hall meeting. The king, it is stated, has acted on advice of his ministers.

It is declared absurd in ecclesiastical circles to suggest, as was done
at Albert Hall, that the king's visit would be taken as an acknowledgment of the pope's supremacy. The king's courtesy, it is pointed out,
is only acknowledgement of the fact that his majesty has millions of Roman Catholic subjects.

Bishop Farthing Attacks
Principles of Prohibition

Advocates Government Control as Best Method of Dealing With the Province's Liquor Traffic.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, April 12.—Bishop Farthing created a mild sensation at the closing session of the Anglican Synod
when he expressed himself as being opposed to the principle of prohibition, and advocating government control as the best means of dealing with the liquor traffic.

"One of the great benefits of having the liquor under government control," said his lordship, "is that you eliminate the element of personal gain. If the government is going to be defeated, and the country would be guilty of half-legislation. It was not right to expect roads and schools to be kept up by half the people, while the other half go free simply because the province is deriving a tremendous revenue
from the government sale of liquor."

Ottawa will have daylight saving this summer from May 13 to Sept. 15.

The council of the Ottawa Board

GIVE SWIMMING AWARDS TO TRAIL RANGER GROUPS

A pleasant feature of the weekly meeting of the Trail Rangers in the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night was the presentation by Fred B. Isaacs of the swimming awards. Mr. Isaacs donated a beautiful shield for the Trail Ranger group making the best showing in the following swimming events: Dash, long plunge, near diving, fancy diving, relay race, egg and spoon race, long distance swim (4 lengths).

Mr. Isaacs also donated a cup for the individual scoring the highest number of points.

The shield was won by the Wing-
foots of Knox Presbyterian Church, who came first with 23 points. The Cubs of Knox Presbyterian Church came second with 22 points, and the Pointers of the Y. M. C. A. came third with 15 points.

The cup was won by Jack Rankin of Knox Cubs with a score of 21 points. Howard Pollock and Jack Manuel of Knox Wingfoots were second and third with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

REPORT INDIAN TROUBLE IS STILL IN PROGRESS

Recent Defeat of British Government Arouses Party to Action.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 13.—Despatches from India report the trouble at Amritsar, which began at 3:20 Thursday afternoon, was still in progress at 6 o'clock this morning.

The committee resolved to consider the national army bill late last evening and occupied itself throughout the night with a discussion of the resolution and its amendments. Proceedings were uneventful for the members had been somewhat subdued by the more strenuous meetings of the last few days. Even the fatigue of a long sitting which ordinarily tends to make the commons irritable, seemed powerless on this occasion to upset their resolution to "be good."

The lesson of recent events evidently had its effect on the government supporters, who were present in strength, determined to avert an other surprise defeat. Several leaders of both sides were absent, but it was understood that they were within call in case of an emergency. The debate was chiefly carried on by the laborites, several of whose amendments were voted down by considerable majorities.

BILL FOR LONG TERM LOAN
PASSED IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Associated Press Despatch.
Fredericton, N. B., April 13.—The bill under which municipalities are authorized to make long term loans
to farmers at low interest rates
passed the legislature last night.
Progressive criticized the bill because they alleged it passed the responsibility to the municipalities instead of adopting a policy of provincial loans, while Lewis W. Smith, Opposition whip, declared that "So far as relieving the present condition of affairs, the bill is not worth the paper upon which it is written."

ABERDEEN FISHERMEN
GET UNEMPLOYED PAY

German Trawlers Continue To Land Icelandic Fish in Harbor.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 13.—The fishermen of Aberdeen, who went on strike seven weeks ago in protest against the dealers of Aberdeen buying fish caught by Germans in the North Sea,
have been informed that they are now
eligible for government unemployment
pay. Twenty-five hundred men will receive 15 shillings each per week, with five shillings additional for the wife of each married man,
and one shilling for each child.

Five German trawlers landed 240 tons of Icelandic fish last night at Aberdeen.

The strikers express the determination to remain out until the landing of German-caught fish is prohibited
at Aberdeen, as is the case at Grims-
by. This, it is said, would leave the fish-curing trade of Aberdeen without the necessary supply, and the future state of that port would be worse than at present for most of the people who engage in the industry.

It is suggested that a solution of the difficulty would be for the Aberdeen trawler owners to provide sufficient boats to compete with the German fishermen in Icelandic waters.

Prepares Flight

Captain Amundsen Leaves To-

Associated Press Despatch.
Nome, Alaska, April 13.—Captain
Roald Amundsen expects to leave Nome today by dog team for Wainwright, on the Arctic Ocean, 600 miles north of here in preparation for an attempt to fly over the North Pole to Norway.

Captain Amundsen plans to fly from Wainwright to Point Barrow, 75 miles northeast of Wainwright, in the plane that he left at Wainwright
throughout the winter with Lieut.
Oscar Omdal, aviator, and to hop off at Point Barrow for the trip over the pole.

MOVES TO BANISH
SUNDAY BASEBALL
IN ILLINOIS STATE

Lord's Day Alliance Attempts
Most Drastic Measure Yet Undertaken.

BILL IS INTRODUCED

Senator MacMurray Would Close Theatres and Dance Halls on Sabbath.

Special to The Advertiser.
Springfield, Ill., April 12.—The Lord's Day Alliance move to establish drastic blue laws banning Sunday baseball, theatres, dance halls
and picnics where admission charges are made in Illinois, including Chicago, began in the legislature here
today.

Senator James E. MacMurray,
Chicago, introduced a bill sponsored by the alliance, to prohibit all the so-called "commercialized amusements and pastimes" on Sunday.

The measure is probably the most drastic yet attempted in the country.
All such pastimes as dancing at public halls and howling at public alleys
would be banned, and cabarets, fairs, exhibitions and the like would be closed over Sunday.

Price of Insulin
Cut In England

Distribution Is Still Under the

London, April 13.—Insulin is now on sale in England at two shillings
six pence a dozen.

English manufacturers have been licensed by the medical research council to supply it, but distribution is still under the council's direction.

NEW SCHEDULE BOARD
INSTALLED AT STATION

Time of Arrival of Trains To Be Made Clearer for Passengers.

Although London is still waiting patiently for a new Canadian National Railway station, a step in the right direction has been made, and today C. N. R. employees point with pride to the new time board which has been placed at the station. Although it will not remove the tedium
of waiting for trains, the officials suggest that it will be some comfort
at least to be able to consult a board that explains the timetable just, and long the waiting must be kept up.

The main feature of the new board
is that instead of referring to train number 613 or 522 as being so many minutes behind its schedule, the board will tell us that number 613, leaving Tonerville at 1:23 p.m., will arrive at 2:15. This last number represents the corrected time of arrival regardless of schedule.

SALVAGE WORK RUSHED
FOLLOWING TRAIN SPILL

Traffic Resumed Yesterday on Eastbound Track, Near Chatham.

Salvage work on the freight spill
that occurred at Chatham yesterday is being rushed to completion. As is usual in such emergencies, the clearing of one half of the right-of-way is the first consideration, and the removal of the mangled cars strewn about the tracks the C. N. R. are justly proud of the fact that traffic was resumed over the east bound track yesterday at 2 p.m. The heavier work of getting the overturned equipment out of the ditches has been going on since, and it is expected that the main east and west bound tracks will be in use by this time tomorrow, and the last traces of the accident removed.

FRANCE IS TRYING TO WIN SUPPORT
IN UNITED STATES

Poincare Government To Establish Bureau of Information at Washington.

CONSUL DIRECTOR

Expect Actual Operation of Branch Will Be Started Shortly.

Special to The Advertiser.
Washington, April 13.—France has taken a direct step to win the support of public opinion in the United States, especially in connection with the occupation of the Ruhr Valley in Germany.

The Poincare government has decided, it was learned today, to establish in New York a "French bureau of information."

Gaston Lebert, who for sometime has been French consul-general in New York, is to be the director of the bureau of information and has been elevated for this purpose to the rank of minister plenipotentiary.

Lebert is understood already to have virtually relinquished his duties
as consul-general, in which post he is to be succeeded by M. Barret, at present the French consul-general in New Orleans. The bureau of information in New York is expected to be put into actual operation shortly.

FORT WILLIAM LIBERAL
ELECTION FIGHT OPENS

District Convention Will Be Held May 1 To Select Candidate.

Special to The Advertiser.
Fort William, Ont., April 13.—Liberals are the first to take election action in this constituency. At a meeting of the city executive last night it was decided to hold a district convention before May 1, at which a candidate will be chosen. No doubt exists that the place will be a hot opposition candidate in the field.
Three prospective standard-bearers are mentioned, D. R. Evers, John King and F. J. McMichael.

It is more than likely that other names will be put forward before the final decision is reached. The city is sure to contain the contest, and because urban voters outnumber those in the country in the ratio of seven to two. Moreover, in the last provincial election, the Liberal government was represented by a farmer candidate,
and the city believes it is their turn.

Hon. Harry Mills is most likely to again run for the seat, and, indeed, interests, although there is some talk of A. H. Dennis, former mayor and Labor clansman, being an alternative nominee. So far the Conservatives have kept silent, and no organization
steps have yet been taken.

SEE HOPEFUL OUTLOOK
ON BILINGUAL QUESTION

French Canadians Speak Before Educational Association
at Ottawa.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 13.—The hopeful outlook for a settlement of the bi-lingual school question in Ontario on a basis satisfactory to French-Canadians was expressed by the Hon.
Anglo-Canadian desirous of "seeing justice done to the minority and a menace to national unity removed."
were dwell upon in notable addresses delivered last night before the sixth congress of the French-Canadian Educational Association of Ontario held at the Hotel Windsor, Ottawa.
The theme of the congress was
"The Bilingual Question in Ontario."
The speaker of the day was the Hon.
Bishop Beliveau of St. Boniface, Bishop Proulx of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and Hon. R. M. Ro-beau, bishop-elect of Valleyfield.

The address of Mr. Lemieux embodied a review of the bilingual situation in Ontario. Referring to the difficulties still standing in the way of a settlement of the school question, Mr. Lemieux declared that the storm had not yet subsided, but that the sun was peeping through the clouds and the rainbow would soon be outlined on the horizon.

The theme of Mr. Magnan's address was the treatment in educational matters accorded to the Anglo-Protestant minority in the province of Quebec. Mr. Magnan affirmed that the majority in Quebec had at all times accorded the privileges of the R. N. A. Act and had always protected the minority.

COMMUNISM IN BULGARIA
TO BE MADE COMPULSORY

Associated Press Despatch.
Sofia, April 13.—The practice of communism by avowed communists themselves would be made compulsory by a measure which the government is expected to present to parliament.

Premier Stamboulsky, in announcing the prospective law, said it would provide for the expropriation of communists' property in each locality in which there are at least ten persons professing the communist creed. These would be compelled to live in colonies established by the government. Each member would be forced to share equally in the labor of production as well as its fruit.

L.A.A.A. and Old Boys Start On Trail of Ontario Track Meet

L.A.A.A. WILL TRY TO BRING ONT. TRACK MEET TO LONDON

Send Committee To Toronto To Apply—Old Boys Will Co-operate—Hold Meet Saturday, August 4—Foot Re-elected President At First Annual Meeting.

The L. A. A. A. at its first annual meeting, held in the Y. M. C. A. last night, decided to apply for the Ontario championship track meet, to be staged, if the Ontario officials are favorable, in conjunction with the London Old Boys' celebration in this city on Saturday, Aug. 4.

There was considerable discussion on details when the advisability of going after the meet was raised. There was, however, practically a unanimity of feeling in favor of the project. The date and particulars regarding its cost, the returns that would likely be received, the part which the sports as a whole would play in the meet, and the co-operation of the Old Boys' committee were all points that brought out discussion.

A committee, consisting of W. Greene, M. Ferguson and W. Moore, was appointed to wait on the Old Boys' committee, which was sitting simultaneously with a view towards agreement on date and to ask co-operation. They returned shortly with the assurance of co-operation, and the committee was asked to make the necessary arrangements that Aug. 4 would be left open. They asked, however, that they be notified as soon as possible as to whether the Ontario officials at Toronto were favorable to the bringing of the meet here, so that they might properly include the event in their extensive advertising.

A. T. Taylor was the proposer that the meet would entail a cost of approximately $1,000 and perhaps a month's work with records and such. Others didn't think the cost would amount to that high. Still others maintained that the cost should not be considered, since the meet would be a good thing for the city. President J. J. Foot, who brought up the question, said that the cost of admission as compared with the 25 cent admission and the fact that the meet would draw 2,000 people, and perhaps up to 4,000, would be attracted to the meet with the lower rate for.

George Little stated that the meet ought to be put on, even if money were not made. He said that the Ontario championships would be the biggest event of its kind attempted here in the history of the city, and if the outlay were not exactly forthcoming from gate receipts and from the L. A. A. A. should handle it nevertheless from a London standpoint. The money could be obtained, he said, by the L. A. A. A. should handle it nevertheless from a London standpoint. The money could be obtained, he said, by the L. A. A. A. should handle it nevertheless from a London standpoint.

He also pointed out that right here in London and in Western Ontario are athletes who have been developed by the W. O. S. A. who not only were of Ontario championship caliber but would be thought of as one of the Olympic competitors.

W. T. Lawrence, who is another of the many supporters who strongly emphasized the value of bringing the meet to this city, said that he had not been to the meet since the war, but in the contrary, each succeeding year had shown a tendency to work upwards.

When the vote was taken for the application to Secretary Fry for the meet, there were no dissenters. Accordingly, A. T. Taylor and W. Lawrence were delegated to personally walk over to Toronto officials to secure the meet, if possible, for this city.

The meeting closed the pro tem. officers that were elected last December with the exception of the office of third vice-president. C. Casselman, who had held that office, found he could not devote the time, and J. J. McNeil was unanimously elected to the office.

J. J. Foot, re-elected president; W. E. Greene, first vice-president; J. W. Watt, second vice-president; W. Little, secretary; S. Reid, recording secretary; G. Jewell, treasurer.

It was decided to have J. J. Foot act as trustee until such time as deed and insurance matters concerning the L. A. A. A. should be transferred.

Reports of officials were read and adopted, and it was shown that a healthy condition during the short life of the organization, but were highly optimistic as regards the future.

The secretary reported that the officers and executive members had met on ten different occasions in the interest of the association's welfare and

C.N.R.-W.O.R. OPEN SOCCER SEASON

Caledonians-St. Thomas, Postponed Their Injured Cup Game.

STAGE PRELIM.

Thistles Face C. N. R. Juniors As Curtain-Raiser To Carling Heights Mix.

The Senior L. and D. F. A. will officially open its season when the Canadian National Railway aggregation meets last Saturday afternoon on Carling Heights Saturday afternoon in a first round tilt in the Thomas Furnture Injured Players' cup competition, when a stubborn fight for supremacy should take place, as both elevates have lineups of a most formidable nature.

C. N. R., whose non-climate last year was G. T. R., co-raled a good team together in 1922, but in most of their crucial games were unlucky enough to be nosed out of things by the orphan goal.

This year they expect to have better luck in that respect, and as far as can be learned the Senior Waps this year will be a much better position to give them all a run for their money, and perhaps some of the silverware meantime resting snugly in the local armories and elsewhere.

The first Western Ontario Regiment outfit, holders of the injured Players' trophy, and winners of both London and St. Thomas leagues in 1922 on the other hand were depleted forces. Several of their last season's star players have since migrated to Detroit with the black and white on top of that misfortune losing Goalie Nudds and Charlie Taylor, their brilliant outside right, to Maple Leafs.

However, the soldiers, led by Manager-Player George Crooks, have penned a formidable team together, and that the black and white will stubbornly contest Saturday's game, goes without saying. Viewing the fact that the supposed hitch between the O. R. A. of London and Ontario and the Senior L. and D. F. A. is not so far as in injured players, cup-tie and final games are concerned, the former body is represented in President E. Wilkins, who will have charge of the game. From reliable information received, the first round injured cup competition tilt scheduled to take place between Thistles and Caledonians Saturday evening.

Will not take place Saturday evening, but will be ready to open their season then. Seemingly the Caledonians' former body is not so far as in injured players, cup-tie and final games are concerned, the former body is represented in President E. Wilkins, who will have charge of the game.

Strangely adhering to the rule that all players must be signed on seven days prior to an official game taking place the London Juniors will have off their official spring until Saturday, April 21, meantime giving them the chance to try out some new talent.

J. J. FOOT, president of the L. A. A. A., was unanimously re-elected to office last night.

Not a little of the organization's success in the face of difficult situations has been due to President Foot's sense of justice and fair-play and his tact.

TECS SQUAD GO TO PARK TODAY

If Sun Shines, Mackey's Crowd Will Gamble On The Natural.

BOYLE GETS IN

Inimitable First Sacker and Lefty McCallum Are Last Additions To Roster.

If the sun shines today Manager Mackey will trot his squad over to Tecumseh Park for their first open-air workout from 11 o'clock to 2. The lads were sore but very keen last night, and decided to waive the usual lunch hour rites for a chance at the old apple and a chance to gamble around on their natural element, which is land.

The squad had no sooner staggered back from the "Y" gym yesterday afternoon from another strenuous workout and settled in their chairs about the lobby than the inimitable Buck Boyle breezed unapologetically in, looking bronzed and wind-swept from a winter of climbing high poles somewhere in Pennsylvania. Buck figures that after dangleing around in all sorts of breezes at the top of bending poles he's got an eye for curves and judging breezes.

"Lefty" McCallum, the good little southpaw who used to perform for Kitchener, also came to anchor about the same time, about rounding out the pitching staff.

Play-Off For Senior Cage Title of Ontario Here Saturday

WEST END Y. AND WINDSOR AGREE TO BIG TILT HERE

Is Season's Biggest Basketball Event and Receipts Are Likely To Go To Welfare Fund, With Thistles On Same Bill.

The Windsor Dodge team and Toronto West End Y will stage their play-off for the senior basketball championship at the London armories Saturday night, according to an announcement made late last night.

The play-off was made necessary when the O. B. A. executive ruled that Windsor, who had kept the score on the round tied at Toronto in the second game, did not need to play overtime. Windsor was beaten in the extra session, but protested the referee's order to play, and won out. West End Y at first, it is believed, had said they would not play, and are bringing two extra men, Windsor having agreed rather than take the game by forfeit.

It will be the big hang-out climax as far as London basketball fans are concerned, and will probably draw a big crowd from St. Thomas and Stratford as well. A London touch is given the Windsor team by reason of the fact that Alfie Gatecliff, for many years a well-known ballplayer of the city, and in business here at one time, is manager of the Dodge crew. Alfie enlisted with the 10th Western University Stationary Hospital in 1916, and saw service in France. On his demobilization he resided in London for only a short time, deciding on Windsor as headquarters. Gatecliff was always a popular athlete and his team will probably find lots of support amongst the fans.

West End Y team is acknowledged one of the fastest teams ever to perform in the senior cage series, and Windsor was not expected to do much with them. A 16-point lead gained at Windsor in the first game shattered this idea into exceedingly small pieces.

Thistles are certain to appear on the same bill, probably against St. Thomas C. I., and it is expected that the proceeds of the whole evening less the expenses of the teams will go to the Welfare Association.

GERMANY'S ATHLETES WILL TRAIN IN HOLLAND

Berlin, April 12.—While Germany herself is not invited to participate in the Olympic games of 1924, her athletic world promises to be represented through the training of the Dutch contingent. Paul Kellner, a well-known swimming instructor at the German academy for physical exercise, has been asked to train the Olympic swimming team from Holland.

ADMITS HE WAS SILENT ON $19,000 TRACK REBATE

Montreal, April 12.—Claiming that he was under the impression that officials of the Quebec government were aware of the $19,000 rebate to the Connaught Park Jockey Club, pending readjustment of the percentages by Frank H. Dunn, tax inspector, on trial in the court of king's bench on a charge of stealing taxes on pari-mutuel receipts, T. P. Gorman, secretary of the club, this morning testified on the witness stand to N. K. Lafamme, K.C., counsel for Dunn, that he had said nothing about the matter when a provincial government auditor inspected the books of the track. L. Girard, chief auditor of Quebec, went to Ottawa last June, said Mr. Gorman. He asked that all the books of the club be shown to him.

UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA SOCCER TEAM, CHAMPIONS OF THE PROVINCE.

Mr. Gorman said that the auditor examined everything but the bankbook in which the deposit of the money was registered. The witness stated he made no mention whatever to Girard of the $19,000, believing it unnecessary. After Mr. Gorman said he had not come to the satisfaction of the provincial officials with regard to the money given him, with Dunn in any way until September, 1922, after Dunn had been suspended.

Plan Conferences With Firms and Ball Players

L. A. A. Hits On Plan To Quickly Clear Amateur Baseball Situation So Early Start Can Be Made By the Seniors.

Despite the numerous meetings held by both leagues affected and by the L. A. A., there seems to be a great deal of misunderstanding with regard to the amateur baseball situation. To correct this, heads of firm welfare associations will shortly meet the officers of the L. A. A. in a get-together session where the whole matter will be threshed out and a proper understanding of the aims of the L. A. A. and the views of the firms involved. The same misunderstanding is rampant amongst the players themselves, and with a view to straightening out the whole affair in an evening, a general meeting of the players and representatives from the L. A. A. will be called shortly. These two get-together affairs should help straighten out the whole matter to the satisfaction of everybody and as the beginning of a new conception of sport from a civic standpoint, with no interests not dominant. Of the players who will probably be wanted by the baseball sub-committee

GODERICH WINS APPEAL IN ASSESSMENT ACTION

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, April 12.—The appellate division at Osgoode Hall today allowed the appeal of the town of Goderich against the order of Mr. Justice Middleton, made late November, directing the assessor of the town of Goderich to amend the assessment rolls for 1922 so that one-thirteenth of the taxes of the Western Canada Flour Mills would be applicable to separate school purposes.

Yanks May Cop Again, But Five Others Have Chance

Bar Injuries, Foster Picks New York—Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia Contenders.

By JOHN B. FOSTER. Copyright.

Following is the second of two articles in which Mr. Foster, whose pre-eminence as a baseball authority is unquestioned, sums up the chances and possibilities of the eight American League clubs in 1923 in the light of exchange players at the southern training camps, and discussions with players and managers, whose confidence he holds to a remarkable degree.

New York, April 12.—New York seems today to have by an inch the best chance of any team in the American League to win the championship in 1923. Look the Yankees over in cold blood, trying not to be biased for what they may have done and what they may have done, and you must recognize the vital points of their team strength.

So closely, however, are the teams of the American League intermingled, what has been added to some of them and what one of them seems to have lost, that the issue of the championship is fought to the last day, as it was in 1922, and any one of four has a chance to win the title.

Breaks Will Count. If, by an happening, the present champions are weakened by injury or by the loss of an important player in any other way, there are four, and perhaps five clubs which have a chance to win.

The principal feature of the strength in the New York team is its pitchers. It is an item which may be discounted within the next sixty days, after the season is actually on, because it may be proved as early as then that the pitchers of the New York team have retrograded. For the moment they appear not to have done so, and their estimate of presumable strength is based on nothing more than the immediate showing of spring training.

Next to the merit of the New York pitchers is the general strength of the team in batting, which will probably be established early. It is not likely that the champions will lead their league in batting, and yet they have good enough batters to carry them successfully to a finish if their pitchers maintain the standard which they are presumed to have by reason of what they have done in the past.

Bear in mind that no positive prediction is made that the Yankees will win the championship again, but that as they stand now, they seem to have tissue-paper chance over their rivals.

Contending teams will be Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia and Washington. But Washington, if the Senators should fight their way into winning a majority of the games with New York they would go far towards preventing the Yankees from winning their third pennant in succession.

The runner-up this year might have been St. Louis, if Sisler had been able to play. Leaning toward St. Louis in whatever way seems possible, it is simply out of the question to estimate the strength of the team as sufficient to carry it along in 1923, as it travelled in 1922, when it is without one of the greatest ballplayers in the history of the national game.

Detroit Is Strong. If St. Louis is not likely to be the runner-up in 1923, Detroit may be, because it has the inspired Cobb. But if Detroit has the inspiration of Cobb, why has Cleveland not the inspiration of Speaker, and what of the genius of Kamm and Collins on a striking fact has been brought out. Over three-quarters of the 20 odd athletes considered good prospects for senior ball are employees of any firm represented in any league. This proves that the industrial teams of the city have wandered some distance from the path they originally set out on. The outsiders understand it, the original idea of factory sports was to provide good healthy sport for their employees, and at the same time produce a good factory spirit. This idea has been broadened somewhat, and with good results as far as local sport is concerned.

It is believed that once the firms understand what the L. A. A. is striving for, there will be no opposition, and married athletes who have the fear of their jobs hanging over them will have their fears dissipated. The air should be pretty well cleared by the middle of the next week, and then the amateurs can get away to the start, which looks so promising, barring accidents.

The Chicago, Detroit is very strong in hitting. For the moment, it is taken for granted the sluggers will come through. Then, it is best to start with the idea that Detroit is stronger in batting than any of its western rivals, and perhaps stronger than New York, but the Tigers have yet to prove that they have the right pitchers, so that may be the deciding factor.

Cleveland has a smarter infield than it had in 1922 and a better outfield, but have they the pitchers? There enters argument between Cleveland and New York, and between Cleveland and all other clubs.

Chicago is in exactly a similar condition, its infield is so much smarter than that of 1922, that the Sox must be ranked as possible, and probable, first division players.

Its pitching staff doesn't appear to be one whit better than that of 1922. How far can an improved infield, and an outfield which is anything but simply average, aid a pitching staff, which did not show champion calibre in 1922, and which will have to improve greatly to show it this year?

Philadelphia has an infield, which is better than that of 1922, and an outfield which is no worse. For the sake of argument, it may be assumed that it is a trifle better, but the Athletics have not shown that their pitchers are so much improved that they can be recognized as flat challengers of the New York team.

After New York, you may take Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis in the order named. If that is not pleasing to your local pride, or personal opinion, you may wish as much right for your conviction take Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Cleveland and St. Louis, intermingling them in any order you wish, and you are as likely to be right as another.

And don't forget if these teams play to what they have shown this spring, the championship will be decided by less than 95 victories, and that they may be so bunched at the end of the year that none of them will be more than a half dozen games away from any or all of the others; and that New York, and as many of them, will turn up their toes if they can't keep their strength intact, and if they don't try all of the time. This is no laughing year in the American League.

MRS. WARDELL ENTERTAINS.

Middlemarch, April 18.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wardell was the scene of a happy gathering Tuesday night, when Mrs. Wardell entertained the ladies of the aid and their husbands. The first part of the evening was spent in playing games, after which lunch was served.

LIONS CLUB CONCERT TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Proceeds Will Go To Help the Fund for Girl Guides' Camp.

The Lions' Club of this city is staging a concert at 8 tonight in the Central Collegiate Institute auditorium in aid of the Girl Guides' Camp. Much effort has been expended in the preparation of the program and the organizing of the one-act farce, "The Trysting Place," and an enjoyable evening is assured to those fortunate enough to be able to attend. The program is made up of two parts.

The first part consists of selections from the orchestra, and vocal and instrumental numbers by Fred Dowling, Minnie Dobbyn, Wesley Roberts, Harry Carson and J. H. Finney.

The second part of the program will be the presentation of Booth Tarkington's very human farce, "The Trysting Place," in which Marion Drew, Alex. Morrison, Kitty White, Dr. J. F. Griffin, Mary Marshall, Ray D. Bright and F. O. Graham will take part.

KAMM'S BRILLIANT WORK CAUSES GIANTS' DOWNFALL

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, April 13.—Due somewhat to the all-around brilliancy of Willie Kamm, the star brought from the Pacific coast, the Chicago White Sox took the lead from the New York Giants in their rambling spring series by winning yesterday's game at Johnson City, Tenn., 8 to 7. Kamm made four hits in four times at bat. The Sox have won seven of the last eight games.

The New York Yankees lost a whole bag of things at Springfield, Mo. They were defeated by Brooklyn, 3 to 7, and lost the immediate services of Everett Scott, the shortstop, who is nearing a record of 1,000 consecutive games. Scott injured his ankle when his spikes caught in the bag marking second base, and had to be carried from the field. This season's exhibition series between the two teams thus far stands with 7 wins and 5 losses for the American League.

POLICE COMMISSION TODAY.

Members of the police commission meet in special session this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. "The meeting should be brief and snappy," predicts Mayor Wenig, chairman. "All we have on tap is O. K. the new 'seating capacity' clause in the omnibus by-law. This will allow the street railway to be operated, any other bus operator, to carry more passengers than he has seats for, providing no passenger registers objection."

His worship anticipates no opposition to the enactment.

TRADE INCREASE ON CATTLE MARKET

Large Shipment of Store Cattle
Received During Latter Part of Week.

Special to The Advertiser.

tonio, April 13.—The market opened on Monday with about 4,000 head of cattle. This number seemed to give the packers a fair margin, and, for the first hour or two, there was little else doing. Trade was very slow, and when the cattle were sold, the prices had settled down to about 25 cents a head, as in the previous week. Trade was more active in the afternoon, but at the close of the day prices for the best cattle were still five or six hundred dollars a head. The market for hogs was steady at the decline, but there was a better clean-up. Wednesday's market was good, with prices a shade higher. There were practically all offerings cleaned up, and the general tone of the market improving.

Thursday's market was good and active, and the light offering of fresh beef was sold at a good price. The higher prices than at the week's opening were due to the fact that the demand for choice hand-picked meat for the local meat market was unusually heavy.

The small meats' section very early receipts of calves, mostly of good quality, forced the market down a couple of dollars for the week. Receipts of sheep were very light, and the market generally holding steady.

There was a fair demand, but the market appeared with former weeks. Prices about steady all through, from $3.00 to $3.25. One or two extra sales were made for $3.25 to $3.50. There was little demand for store cattle for export the early part of the week, but the latter part of the week brought quite a few cars of western cattle down from Winnipeg. These were shipped by the United Fruit Growers of Manitoba through the firm of L. P. Kennedy & Co. shipment comprised about 350,000, all graded at Winnipeg, and here at Winnipeg freight to and from the coast for the purpose of transship for transit direct through the old country.

It is freely predicted that this year will assume quite extensive proportions during the coming months. The Dominion stock yards total receipts for the week: 460 cars, 6,388 cattle, 2,882 sheep, 8,746 hogs, and 811 sheep and lambs.

The Winnipeg cattle market: 31 cars, 383 calves, 361 sheep and lambs, 483 hogs and 104 calves.

DECLARES FUNDS OF JOCKEY CLUB USED POLITICALLY

T. P. Gorman Creates Sensation At Trial of F. Dunn In Montreal.

SPECIAL ALLOWANCE

Witness States Money Devoted To Further Hon. W. Mitchell's Campaign.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, April 13.—The sensation of the case heard in the court of King's bench yesterday where Frank H. Dunn is on trial on a charge of stealing $20,000 and falsifying accounts from the Connaught Park Jockey Club, occurred when T. P. Gorman, secretary of the club, told Mr. Justice Wilson and the jury of a conversation he had heard in November, 1921, in the Chateau Laurier with Dunn. The accused said Gorman had told him that thousands of dollars, part of the special allowance or "rebate" which was to have been bulked for distribution among the nine race tracks of the Province of Quebec, had been set aside for the campaign funds for Walter Mitchell, M.P., at that time Hon. Walter Mitchell, provincial treasurer of the province. Throughout the day Mr. Gorman had been subjected to a grilling cross-examination by N. K. Laflamme, K.C., counsel for Dunn, and the question had arisen as to the totals of the "special allowance" for the Connaught Park Club in 1921, spring and fall meets. Mr. Gorman stated that he had received $19,000 from Dunn, but that he signed vouchers for a much larger sum than that, and that he and the directors of the club expected something like fifty per cent more whenever the matter could be finally adjusted between the provincial government and the race clubs.

GOVERNMENT TO SPEND $250,000 FOR AVIATION

Commons Votes Large Sum To Buy New Flying Equipment.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 13.—A vote of $250,000 for the purchase of new flying equipment for the air force was passed by the House of Commons yesterday. The vote came up Wednesday, but was allowed to stand over.

Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of defence, took occasion to answer some criticisms contained in a letter read yesterday. One of these was that machines requiring extensive repairs had to be transported to Camp Borden. Sometimes they required very lengthy transportation with consequent expensive delays.

Mr. Graham explained that there was only one place in Canada at present where extensive repairs could be made, and until another similar repair point was established it was necessary that this work be done at Camp Borden.

The minister stated that Colonel Barker, V.C., was in charge at Camp Borden, and about 150 other officers and men were stationed there. About 70 machines were at Camp Borden.

Had Constipation for Six Months

Was Relieved by

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills

A free motion of the bowels daily should be the rule of everyone, but there will be no constipation, sick or bilious spells, heartburn, foul breath, sour stomach, etc.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular, removing the constipation and all its allied troubles.

Mrs. R. C. Hunt, Port George, N. S., writes: "I have been troubled by being constipated for the last six months."

"My tongue has been terribly coated, so much so that it made my breath bad. I was talking to a friend about it, and she advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which I did, and now I am perfectly well. My tongue is as smooth as it was before I got that way, and I owe it all to your Pills, of which I only used two vials."

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxide powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—Advt.

R. J. YOUNG & COMPANY

In Spring My Lady's Fancy Turns To Thoughts of Suits

Undecorated Tailleur Disappears, Trimming Much in Vogue, Including Fur—Suspicion Points To the Household Cat.

By AILEEN LAMONT.

New York, April 12.—Now that the weatherman, after several bad rehearsals and false starts, is playing the Spring Song in the proper key, thoughts of women shoppers turn as naturally to suits as does the fancy of the young man—and sometimes of the old—to thoughts of love. The extremely severe, undecorated tailleur, however, has disappeared, and the suits being purchased today are trimmed, whether the purchasers escape that fate or not.

Skirts of these new suit styles are of moderate length, and there is a tendency at present toward some fullness in the front. This may be produced by a series of pleats either directly in front, or one at either side. The flare here is also making its appearance.

The coats in most instances are of hip length, fall loosely from the shoulders with long revers and broad collars, and are caught together at the normal waist line by large, double buttons or clasps. In other instances, the jackets have high, close collars, buttoned up to the neck with one corner turned over to show a touch of color in the lining.

Poplin Popular.

In nearly every instance, the garments are trimmed with bright-colored embroidery, bands of beads, or galloon. For example, one charming model wore black alpaca and white georgette crepe trimmed with white leather bands stamped with designs in black and red. Another equally striking model was of red gabardine trimmed with bias bands of the same tissue, and with the coat fastened with crystal buttons. Poplin is becoming a favorite material for these models.

Many of the costumes this spring will be fur trimmed. As to what fur will be most used, dealers disagree, but it is worth noting that 22,000 house-cat skins were sold to the garment trade on one day this week.

However, skunk, muskrat, red fox and wolf were also well represented, and the knife, not iron and dye can do wonders.

Waist lines are dropping lower and lower toward the hips, and hips, under the latest decree of fashion, are a good deal like diamonds. "Them as has 'em wears 'em."

Ye Silhouette.

Perhaps the continued emphasis placed on the straight, flat silhouette, that fetish of dressmaker and designer, is responsible for the large house-cat trade. One may have a silhouette in a nightgown, a frock, a dinner dress, or an evening costume, but one cannot have a silhouette in a sport suit, at least not with a shadow-proof skirt.

One may have, however, a most comfortable, attractive and becoming costume consisting of a skirt of moderate length, wide enough to walk in, a charming tuck-in blouse of crepe or linen, a colorful slip-on full, brushed-wool cape may complete a costume which has individuality, color and beauty.

It is highly improper at present to sniff at or into the colored hair. Chiefs now so widely used. The utility of these is supposed to be solely decorative, but their uses for that purpose are manifold. Small handkerchiefs are employed to close the neck, as sashes about the waist, and bandeaus, and even as pendants to necklaces and bracelets.

Left-over cooked cereal may be made into a dessert for the children's supper by reheating it and adding gelatine. To a pint of cereal allow one tablespoon of gelatine after dissolving it in a little cold water. Stir the gelatine in the cereal over the fire until thoroughly dissolved, then take it from the fire. Add one-fourth cup of sugar, one-half teaspoon of vanilla, and one cup of fruit, fresh, canned, or dried, then put in a mould and set in a cool place until firm. Serve with cream. EXAMS COMING.

Members of the home nursing class of the Y.W.C.A. are taking the last lecture of the course this week from Dr. R. Gordon, in the Technical school, and will have their examinations next week. Sixteen members of the first aid class which preceded the home nursing were successful in passing and obtaining their certificates.

The first aid and home nursing classes have been among the most popular organized in connection with the girls' clubs during the past few years.

HOPKINS J. MOORHOUSE,

famous Canadian author, who is visiting London, his old home town. His boyhood days were spent in Christ Church rectory, when his father was the clergyman there. His last book, "The Gauntlet of Alcote," has met with large demand in this city. Other books which brought him fame are "Deep Furrows," "The Story of the Grain Growers' movement," "Every Man for Himself," a bulky story of mystery, romance, and political intrigue, with settings in Toronto, Sparrow Lake and the Algoma district.

"You can't lick them out west. Everyone is face front out there. The west has had some pretty hard knocks, it is true, but the people always come back."

The speaker was Hopkins J. Moorhouse, widely-read Canadian author and London old boy, who arrived in the city yesterday for a little visit with relatives on his way to Toronto to attend the meeting of the Canadian Authors' Association. "I expect," he continued, "from now on we will have steady growth. The boom days are here, pretty hard, but well over. Things have steadied. In Manitoba we are getting more like Ontario so far as mixed farming is concerned, and the Manitoba dairy products are beginning to share the fame of the wheat. Naturally, this balances things up in a year when the crops do not come up to expectations."

All of which was a manner of conversation that fitted in with a conception of an author who could write "Deep Furrows," the story of a farmer's life in the West. Turning to art and letters, Mr. Moorhouse, who has been made president of the Manitoba branch of the Canadian Authors' Association, voiced his personal regret that the national sentiment isn't yet behind the Canadian-made literature to the extent warranted by the quality of much of the said "home-brew."

Two million copies of American magazines are being circulated in Canada a month," he said, "yet we only have seven Canadian magazines with a national circulation, a circulation to keep them from being included in this statement weekly papers."

Hopkins J. Moorhouse has the distinction of being one of only fourteen Canadian writers who are devoting all their time to free lance writing, and depending on this for their daily bread. The rest are tied to other jobs with writing as a sideline.

London to Mr. Moorhouse looked "very much the same old place," though he had only a very short time to look around before being cornered by the press.

The spring-like appearance was gratifying, coming from a region of winter and snow, the most snow in years.

"The farmers will be later getting on the land in spring in Manitoba than any season since 1907," said the returned wanderer.

And again the author of "Deep Furrows" was asked to speak of course everybody is an agriculturist out west.

BLIND MAN ASKED AID OFFERED GREAT BOON

Told How He Could Become Independent, Self-Supporting.

By one of those interesting coincidences which are occurring all the time in life, Mr. G. H. Gustar, and Mr. H. C. Jackson, representatives of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who have been in town this week, were the two men approached yesterday by a blind man, begging for alms.

"Have you ever got in touch with the Canadian National Institute," they asked him.

He stated he had heard about it, but lacked means of support while taking the tuition which would make him self-supporting.

"That is what we are trying to prevent in Canada," said Mr. Jackson, commenting to The Advertiser on the incident. "We want to make it possible for every blind boy and girl, man and woman, to be independent, to earn for themselves."

An illustrated lecture to be given under the auspices of the Municipal Chapter L. O. D. E. in Cronyn hall the evening of Tuesday, April 20th, will tell the story by picture how the blind are taught to see with their hands, and enabled to engage in many lucrative activities, thanks to factories opened and crafts acquired through home teachers.

Dunstan's where blind soldiers were shown the way of light, the audience will be taken on a trip over Canada. The Canadian National Institute has been established to give all blind civilians as well as soldiers, the opportunity to find life rich and fruitful, even if denied their sight.

Factories have been opened in Halifax, Ottawa, Winnipeg, and Vancouver, as well as in Toronto, and nine home industries are teaching in Ontario alone, for materials are supplied at cost to the workers, and the value of these in February was $20,000.

Three blind girls, two from Toronto, and one living in this city, will contribute the musical numbers at the illustrated lecture here, paid by the Canadian National Institute for their artistic services.

The title of the lecture, by the way, is a suggestive one, "A Blind Man's Dream Come True."

LONDON OFFICERS MET MANY PALS AT DINNER

Home After Attending Vimy Ridge Anniversary Banquet At Rideau Hall.

Col. Rev. William Beattie, D. D., director of chaplain service for Canada during the war, Col. F. E. Ware and Major Lawless returned together from Ottawa yesterday, after attending the dinner at Government House, given by His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy, to mark the anniversary of Vimy Ridge on Monday.

Other London officers who attended were General W. E. King, Mrs. Gordon Battle of Sarnia. The Col. E. L. Leonard and Major Corrigan.

About 165 senior officers from all parts of Canada, from as far west as Edmonton and east as the Atlantic coast, journeyed to Ottawa for the reunion of veterans connected with Vimy, who served under Lord Byng.

The anniversary dinner, the first to be held at Government House, Ottawa, had two or three unusual features which made a strong appeal to the London men who attended, as well as to others. It was unique from the fact that it was practically a banquet without speeches, beyond a brief one of not more than five minutes, in which General Sir Arthur Currie, who succeeded Lord Byng as commander of the Canadian forces, proposed a toast to the host Lord Byng. It is stated, replied with the occasion. Governor-General

By tactful foresight, the only table to have place cards was the governor's, which made a strong appeal to all others to sit with their particular pals, and many were the warm friendships that were renewed over the courses.

Immediately after the dinner adjournment was made to the drawing-room, where intimates formed groups to recall their experiences.

REFEREES STAND FIRM ON FEES

Will Referee Saturday's Injured Players Cup Game Free of Charge.

IS DEADLOCK

Referees Will Lay Away Their Whistles Until Instructed by Provincial Body.

The local branch of the Ontario Referees' Association met in the Chamber of Commerce last night and decided to stand absolutely firm on the matter of fees. They will handle Saturday's Injured Cup game, as they said before they would, free of charge, but after Saturday, will not blow a whistle until further instructions are received from the provincial body.

Councillor Albert Noble, the body's representative to the L. and D., made his report pertaining to the last two meetings of the L. and D., stating that at both meetings the proposed referee's fee scale got very scant consideration, and that the L. and D. body resolved both times to abide by the rates as contained in their new approved constitution. Secretary E. Sheard also spoke and gave a good explanation as to his body's findings on the matter, but it did not meet with with general approval. Secretary Sheard also stated that he still came to his body's ruling on the matter and seeing it was a league fee question that was involved, the matter could in all probability be settled outside the L. and D. itself and with the leagues themselves. Secretary Devin and Councillor Tommy Strickland also spoke strongly on the subject.

On a vote being taken, it was decided to referee Saturday's Injured Players Cup first-round game only, and do no more until further instructions from Secretary E. L. Marshall of the O. R. A., Toronto. Councillor A. Allman, St. Thomas delegate, stood fast on the fee question, stating that if a satisfactory understanding was not come to, he personally was content to referee school and juvenile games at the fee set down by them.

Referee Tom Strickland of Westminster Hospital said that one heard lots these days about referees being paid, but he himself had no intention of participating in the matter nearest his heart, but no mention was made of the referee, who also lost time and had to dig out his pockets before he could be in a position to officiate as referee.

Councillor Charles Hollins brought the attention of the members to the fact that the W. F. A. ten years ago paid its referees $4 per game, and if that could be accomplished at that time, then surely the ten-year lapse is worth the other dollar either for league or cup finals.

The other members at the meeting were Secretary Barney Devlin, Councillors Allman (St. Thomas), Carr, Hollins, Elsie, Strickland, and Noble. London, with Secretary E. Sheard on the matter, but it did not meet with Petrolia, April 12.—At a meeting of the Boys' Athletic Association of the high school yesterday afternoon it was unanimously passed to abolish smoking in all athletes at the school. My 20 Years in the Ring.

BY JACK BRITTON—
—HERO OF 500 FIGHTS—

Britton Persuades Dan Morgan To Act as Manager—Fights With Eddie Murphy, Charley White and Mike O'Dowd—Big Money Starts Rolling In—The Inspiration for a Title.

Managers were just plain, ordinary bums, good only to get you in the papers and out of jail, according to the opinion that existed when I started boxing. The game, of course, wasn't as much of a commercial business as it is now, and a boxer could get along with a manager. I had no trouble doing my own business, and for years I could not see the necessity of splitting up purses when I could handle my own affairs.

Decides to Get a Manager.

After some of the experiences recounted previously, and after getting tired of being bothered with the worries of the business end of the game, I decided I needed a manager.

I was back in Chicago in 1911, and I signed up with "Doc" Messager, who had quite a string of boxers under his management. I stayed with him for three or four weeks, but I decided that he wasn't getting any better money for me than I had been getting myself, and I broke with him.

Drifting back to New York, I signed up with Jack Cowley, who owned a cabaret on Broadway, and I was with him a year. Unfortunately, I had to make the cabaret a sort of office, and I gave away a lot of money to the place. I met a lot of "good fellows" around the place, and I soon developed one of those "followings."

The life soon got more and more, and I wasn't any good at all. I was losing myself, and finally I broke with Cowley. Dan Morgan had been fighting Levisky and Knockout Brown as his headliners at that time, and he was said to be making a "barrel of dough" for them, so I thought I would do well to sign up with Morgan, but it wasn't as easy as I thought.

A Lecture From Dan Morgan.

Morgan's chief characteristic is a sharp tongue that he uses regardless of the feeling of the man he is talking to. I got a lesson in that when I met him for the first time. He was a man with a torrent of verbal epithets when I finally went to see him.

"Get out of here," he yelled. "I handle fighters; I don't want you. You're a coffee and cake!"

I protested, of course, and started to tell him how good I was.

"You turn and you run, and you jab and you run. You're no good," he repeated.

Finally, after many protests, I prevailed upon him to give me a chance, and he then plunged into a long lecture.

"If you come to me you'll have to knock off the fat. You'll have to eat breakfast every morning. You'll have to get your eyes used to the sun and you'll have to do all the work yourself. I'll get you a manager and handle your business, but I will not play detective on you. Just remember this, if you don't work hard for a bout you'll get your head punched off, and I don't give a damn. If we're a firm now, get out of that cozy room with your fat, and go up to "Cap" Bond's place in Stratford, Conn."

And I did.

Just a few weeks did wonders for me when I started real training. For the first time in years I started to eat breakfasts. I ate heartily, slept a lot, and kept regular hours. I was getting impatient to hear from Morgan, and he finally sent me a curt telegram.

"You can dance and tap, but what you want to do is get strong. Don't forget it."

Difficult to Get Bouts.

Morgan was trying to get bouts for me, but I learned later, but I had cultivated a bad name and he had a hard time with the promoters. Dan wanted Jack McGuigan to put me on a card at the National A. C., and he asked $250. McGuigan nearly dropped over.

"I've had that bum four or five times do a waltz in Philadelphia for ten bucks; where does he get that $250 stuff?" he said.

Finally I did get started with Eddie Murphy, a Boston lightweight, who was a great card at the time. Morgan told me if I wanted to make good I would have to get over him. They were betting 10 to 1 on Murphy to win and 3 to 1 that I wouldn't finish. I went in and knocked him out in the tenth round and got a purse of $300.

That bout made me. Harry Edwards, Philadelphia promoter, offered me three bouts at $750, $550 and $1,000, and we accepted. I won them all and then I went to New Orleans and knocked out Charley White, the sheriff stopping the fight in the eighteenth round.

First Big Money.

My first shot came at big money when I met Packey McFarland in Madison Square Garden in a no-decision bout. The consensus of opinion gave McFarland the victory. The bout drew $25,000 and I got $5,600.

Morgan tried to get a bout with Battling Nelson, but he wouldn't listen to any kind of a proposition, as subsequently happened also when we tried to deal with Wolgast, Ritchie and Walsh.

Three decisions and a draw that I fought with Mike O'Dowd gave me more pleasure than anything else in my career, as I look back on it. O'Dowd was beating everyone in sight. He was fighting at 160 pounds, and he had all the light heavyweights running away from him. Morgan wouldn't take him for Levisky, so I couldn't understand it when he told me that he was going to put me in with Mike. I was willing though, because I had watched Mike several times and I figured out that anyone who was fast enough to keep Mike on the move could beat him. He used to murder jabbers, so when I got in the ring with him I just kept going into him all the time, toe and toe, swinging with his swings, and he never got started.

Morgan a Hard Taskmaster.

All this time I seldom saw Morgan. He would call me up and say: "I got you Soundso at Suchplace next Friday. Better be there Thursday. Got fare?"

And when I got there Dan was there.

About the only time I did see him was when he would come down to the camp to throw out some of my "friends." I still had a few old cronies hanging around, and Dan would show up periodically to run them away. I would protest that they were my friends and that they were doing me no harm.

"If you want friends like those bums, go along with them. Get out," he'd yell, and they'd go.

"You'll get knocked dizzy some of these days if you don't work," he would shoot at me, and depart.

Morgan made me act more seri-

ciously than I had ever behaved before, but I became thoroughly tamed and subdued in 1912, when the love bug sat down on me. I went to Morgan and told him that I was ready to do anything he wanted, that I wanted to get married and wanted some big money. He was more than willing, and I married Miss Norton.

Taking care of myself and gaining strength and weight, I was having little difficulty in winning. Additional handicaps were forced on me, because I had to fight welterweights and middleweights, although I could do 135 pounds ringside.

Both Dan and I wanted to win a title, but the middleweight situation looked rather remote, and we thought we would have to wait some time. When the fates seemed to turn up the opportunity. The welterweight championship was almost dropped in my lap, and I will explain it in the next chapter.

Note.—In the eleventh chapter of "My Twenty Years in the Ring" Britton tells how he finally won the welterweight championship from his old opponent, Ted Lewis, what happened to Willie Ritchie, and an explanation of Britton's method of fighting, by reason of which he was able to stay in the ring twenty long years.

TILLSONBURG ARENA FUND REACHES $15,000

Will Go Ahead With Structure To Cost $20,000—Take Up Soccer.

Special to The Advertiser.

Tillsonburg, April 12.—A very largely attended meeting in the interests of the new ice arena was held in T. W. R. Taylor's this afternoon. The canvassers reported that on completing the canvass in the Tillsonburg Shoe Company plant, where nearly $1,000 worth of stock was purchased by employees, the total amount subscribed totals close to $15,000. The meeting unanimously decided to go ahead with the construction to cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 so as to be finished for next winter. A committee consisting of W. G. Pow, R. B. Moulton and F. R. Flood were appointed to take the necessary preliminary steps, and possessed of a rink second to none in the province.

Go Into Soccer.

It has been a good many years since Tillsonburg possessed organized football, but this year a first-class team has been organized, and they will be grouped with the St. Thomas Junior Football League, comprising six clubs as follows: Junior Rovers, Monarch Knits, Elgin Regiment, Cornthians, Eastern United and Tillsonburg United. Mr. Arthur Slaughter, local chairman, will attend a meeting of the Woodstock Football Association Friday evening to organize an Oxford County League. GOLDEN RULE TO PREVAIL IN COLLEGE BASEBALL

Associated Press Despatch.

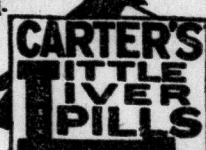

Chicago, April 13.—A golden rule in baseball will prevail during the Western Conference college season. Calling a pitcher a "big tramp," "big bum," or similar names in an attempt to rattle him, will be regarded as unsportsmanlike, and will not be tolerated either from the players or spectators, according to a code of sportsmanship for college baseball announced here today.

The code provides that there shall be no remarks or action by a player or spectator that reflects directly or indirectly upon the opponent, umpire or referee.

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100. Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Such evidences should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.,
Cobourg, Ont. and Lynn, Mass.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

TELLTALE SYMPTOMS OF WOMEN'S ILLS.

Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritability, or despondency, should recognize in such symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention before some more serious ailment develops. Thosher's Compound is often evidenced by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been pre-eminently successful in overcoming such conditions, and is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for women's ills.—Adv.

ANNUAL CONCERT OF VARSITY CLUB PROVES SUCCESS

Frank Oldfield, Baritone, Adds To Enjoyable Program By Delightful Singing.

CHOIR ENTRANCES

Little Theatre Orchestra Renders Selections With Extremely Gratifying Effects.

Two or three hours of genuine enjoyment were afforded the number of people who last evening attended the first annual concert of the Western University Glee Club conducted by J. Parnell Morris, and the Little Theatre orchestra, under the leadership of Miss Helen Patterson, assisted by Frank Oldfield, baritone, of Toronto. Twenty-eight or thirty voices composed the choir. Though somewhat light in volume, the tone quality was sweet, pleasing and unforced, the parts harmonizing nicely. Intelligent attention to the conductor, which might be expected from "Higher education" students, was evidenced throughout. This, associated with clear enunciation, good pronunciation and spirited interpretation rendered the contribution of the club most satisfying from a musical standpoint.

Creditable Finish.
The conductor was to be congratulated upon his wisdom in selecting numbers well within the compass of his choristers, thereby insuring for all creditable finish. Worthy of special mention were two of the unaccompanied numbers, an echo song by MacFarlane, characterized by delightful flexibility of tone and grace, and "The Violet and the Bee" (Caldicott).

The student came into his own with the university songs by Sidney Kingsmill, arranged and orchestrated by F. L. Willgoose, Mus.Bac. A most ambitious young organization, the Little Theatre orchestra proved itself capably conducted by Miss Helen Patterson, who obtained surprising good results in response to her gracefully manipulated baton. Such numbers were essayed as the Rachmaninoff prelude, in C sharp minor, "Romance in F" (Tschakowsky), particularly well done; "Angelus" (Massenet), "Cavatina" (Raff), and "Hungarian Dance" (Brahms).

Miss Marguerite Gibson, who has a good effect, sang "When the Great Red Dawn is Shining" with the Glee Club and orchestral accompaniment. Frank Oldfield, as always, was enthusiastically welcomed by a London audience. With his melodious baritone voice, his singing as easy and spontaneous as that of a bird, his perfect enunciation, and his story telling ability in song, he found it difficult to satisfy the demand for encores. The fact that he chose well known numbers, such as "Honor and Arms" (Handel), "Mandala", "Invincible", "A Little Wooding" made him share all the more popular. By special request he sang "The Floral Dance".

Most Artistic Feature.
A most artistic feature was the ensemble group for violins, "Prelude and Rondo" (Weinmann), and Mr. Willgoose's arrangement of "O Sole Mio", played by Miss Edith James. Mr. Walter Rennie, Miss Marguerite Gibson and Sidney Kingsmill. Beverly Baker added much to the gaiety of nations with his recitations, "A Reverie on an Old Shoe" to piano.

At the Movies Last Night

"Fury."
"Fury," at the Allen, is the most recent result to be shown here of the sudden fancy of directors to put their high-priced stars to sea, though we understand "Down to the Sea in Ships" is one of the series still to arrive. However, with Richard Barthelmess and Dorothy Gish, to say nothing of Tyrone Power, "Fury" is a mighty fine picture.

There was enough punch in the fight aboard ship at yesterday's showing to arouse one mild-mannered, though enthusiastic, woman to rise up in her seat and ejaculate forcibly, "Hit 'im again." There's a thread of seaman superstition running through the story of "Dog" Leyton and his son Boy, and it is at once powerful and pathetic. Both Barthelmess and Power give of their best to their roles, and Dorothy Gish has formed another of her half-comic and half-tragic characterizations.

The tale of the sea and the Limehouse district is strong and fascinating. There are scenes which are almost distressingly pathetic, but they are lightened by flashes of comedy, of which Dorothy Gish supplies the best to their roles, and Dorothy Gish has formed another of her half-comic and half-tragic characterizations. "Adam's Rib."
Advance agents with a flair for sensationalism put the city fans agog over "Adam's Rib" at Loew's, but, as usual, it proved nothing more disconcerting to the wary body of appointed censors than another love-stretch of supposedly modern sentiment, calmly eked out by Jeanie McPherson and decked out by the artistic Cecil De Mille.

In real life the flapper has been superseded by a new order of sisters of sophistication. She exists undisturbedly in the advertisements of "Adam's Rib" but in the picture, not at all.

The tale is the hackneyed one of a mother who at forty makes a last, desperate throw for romance, gets accompaniment, and "I'm an Englishman."

Mr. Parnell Morris proved a rare sympathetic accompanist for Mr. Oldfield.

Rev. Father O'Neill Is Shot To Death At Dinner Table.

Associated Press Despatch.
Kalamazoo, Mich., April 13.—The Rev. Father Charles Dillon, assistant pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic church, shot and killed Rev. Father Henry O'Neill, rector of the church, as they sat at the dinner table last night, then calmly went to the telephone and notified the police and coroner.

Dillon fired four shots, all of which took effect. As Father O'Neill fell dead, he turned to the Rev. Father McCullough, the only witness of the tragedy and handed him a phial containing Holy Oil, with the request that he administer the sacrament of extreme unction at once to the dead priest.

According to the statement the murderer is said to have made to the police, he was driven to fury by alleged ill-treatment at the hands of the dead priest.

"He treated me with disrespect ever since I came here, thirteen months ago, from Battle Creek," he is reported as having told the authorities. "He assumed toward me the attitude of a czar."

"He treated me as a little boy, refusing to permit me to visit the families of the parish, or take any part in the life of the parish. I protested in vain against his attitude, and to-night when we quarreled over the matter at the dinner table, he ordered me to pack my belongings and get out."

"I got up from the table and went upstairs to pack my effects, but it was a revolver not a suitcase I packed. I picked up a phial of holy oil and then went downstairs, where Father O'Neill and Father McCullough were eating. I intended to give him a chance to confess and to repent before I killed him, but as I advanced into the room, with the hand holding the revolver extended, I saw him grab a salt cellar to throw at me, and I fired twice. After that I do not recall very well what happened."

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a messy and troublesome job. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of medicinal ingredients called "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.—Adv.

Cuticura Talcum is Fragrant and Very Healthful

At the requiem mass for former King Charles, Count Czernoch was the celebrant. Among those present were Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, Archduke Joseph, Archduchess Isabella and all the royal aristocracy. The catafalque was surmounted by the Austrian and Hungarian crowns, symbolizing the double claim of the Hapsburg dynasty. The entire Budapest garrison paraded in honor of the occasion.

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.

Ottawa, April 13.—Estimates of the postoffice department will continue to occupy the House of Commons, followed by those of the public works department and possibly those of the soldiers' settlement board.

An entirely new kind of soap

A new kind of soap. Made of pure materials combined in such a way that it has more cleansing power than soap has ever had before.

It gently soaks loose the most ground-in dirt without weakening a single thread. Even the worst soiled spots need but a light rubbing with Rinso.

For all the regular family wash Rinso soaks clothes so clean that boiling isn't necessary. But if you like to boil your white cottons, pour enough Rinso solution into your boiler to give you the suds you like.

Rinso is made by the largest soap makers in the world. Get it today at your grocery and department stores.

London Liberals Prepare For Provincial Campaign

Organization of Party in City Is Taken Up At Hyman Hall Meeting—Optimism Prevails In Ranks of Local Reformers.

Organization of the Liberal party in London preparatory to the coming provincial election commenced in earnest at Hyman Hall last night when ward one was thoroughly gone over and officials placed to bring that section of the city to a state of political readiness.

A Tabbot occupied the chair and stressed the necessity for perfecting the Liberal organization. That was the first essential, he said. A convention would of course be held later and a candidate chosen in the most democratic fashion, but until that date arrives each ward should be completely organized for the oncoming battle.

The object of the series of meetings which will be held twice and three times a week is to organize the London Liberalism until the campaign terminates in the appointment of committees for each of the 78 odd sub-divisions. Last night's meeting was held for each sub-division of ward one and these will in turn organize a committee which will elect its chairman.

Each ward will be organized along similar lines as those inaugurated by representatives of ward one yesterday. On the date of the convention representatives will meet en masse at the local Liberal club and choose their candidate. Thus no trouble will be experienced by the candidate when he is given the nomination, in the way of last-minute organization work.

Thursday night next the chairman of ward one will report back to the executive. In the meantime other ward meetings will be called and the same procedure followed.

All attending last night's meeting expressed optimism with the chances of electing a Liberal representative to the Ontario Assembly. The disintegration of the farmer-labor alliance is looked upon as substantially increasing the possibility of returning a Liberal to represent London next session.

What is the name of your wife? "Why, to tell the truth, judge, I don't really know her name," Kaufman returned.

Reading from the complaint filed by Kaufman, Judge Hunt learned that Mrs. Kaufman was not in court. In her bill, she charged Kaufman with cruelty and jealousy. She charged that Kaufman had police visit her house on three consecutive nights to bother her.

The Kaufmans were married in Detroit, May 26, 1920, and separated June 9, of the same year.

Not too late yet to start tomato, cabbage or cauliflower plants indoors.

Amateur gardeners who take a keen interest in all of their gardening operations usually like to grow their own tomato, cabbage and cauliflower plants. The season is far gone for the starting of commercial hot-houses, but for the backyard gardener who is not content with the market there is still time if the matter is taken in hand at once.

If you do not care to go to the trouble of making a hot-house, it is quite possible to raise a flat or two of very nice tomato plants by starting them in a sunny window, preferably one with a south exposure. There are many varieties of tomato, several of which are well adapted to backyard gardening, among the best being Chalk's Jewel, John Baer, Industry and Bonny Bell.

To make a nursery flat for window growing, first get a clean flannel hadie box and bore several holes for drainage in the bottom of the box, or flat, as they are known among gardeners. Fill the box with a mixture of rich soil, black muck and sand, with the earth and muck in equal parts, and one-third of the whole sand. The sand is added to keep the mixture from packing from continued watering. Sow the tomato seed in very shallow drills made with a match or the point of a pencil, and cover with just enough soil to make sure that the seed will not be exposed by watering. Press the soil down firmly on the seed and place the flat in the window. Watering frequently to keep the soil moist is all the attention that is required until the plants are two inches high, at which time they must be transplanted into other flats, allowing each plant four square inches at least.

When transplanted these second flats should be kept in a cooler location in order to prevent the plants from becoming overgrown. They are preparatory to planting out of doors. Cabbage and cauliflower plants may be started in the same way, although among gardeners, this is usually delayed till the plants can be started out of doors in a cold-frame or in the open.

A hot-frame is an inclosed frame or box covered with sash (any old window sash will answer), and heated by the fermentation of manure which is packed in the bottom before the top soil is put in the frame. As the success of a hot-frame depends entirely on the length of time the manure continues to throw off heat, it is foolish to start with too small a frame. The smallest frame which can be expected to retain its heating power should not be less than four feet wide by six feet long. This, of course, will produce several times as many plants as the backyarder will need, and it might be well to share the frame with a neighbor.

To build a frame, first dig a pit slightly wider all around than the intended size of the frame, and have this at least three feet deep. Nothing short of three feet will do—in fact, the work must be done thoroughly to be sure that a depth of three feet will be sufficient. Next make your frame with your boards, taking care to have the corners securely nailed in order to keep in the heat. The sides should be at least one foot in height, and if it is desired to slope the frame six inches to the front side, the back board will have to be eighteen inches in height. This slope is used to insure the sash shedding rain rapidly, since if it does not, it is likely to leak and chill off the frame by too much moisture.

The next step is to put in three feet of fresh, strawy stable manure. This should be moistened and tramped down firmly and evenly until there is room for eight inches of soil, to which the whole slightly above ground level. Use the same soil mixture as recommended for filling flats.

Place the frame in position and cover it with the sash, and in a few days the temperature will rise to well over 100 degrees. Test this from time to time with a thermometer, and when the temperature falls below 80 degrees it will be safe to plant your seed.

The care of the frame will consist in a daily watering and the ventilation of the frame. At no time except during heavy, cold rains or a late snowfall, should your frame be entirely closed.

OXFORD AGRICULTURISTS
ARRANGE CROP CONTESTS

Special to The Advertiser.
Ingersoll, April 12.—On behalf of the Ingersoll, North and West Oxford Agricultural Society a campaign will soon be opened in connection with the standing field crop competition.

At the annual meeting of the society, oats was the crop selected and it is believed that through united efforts on the part of the directors the list of entries will be materially increased over those of previous years. The sum of $75 is offered in seven prizes, $50 being contributed by the government.

It may be necessary to appropriate property, he said, after the site is chosen. Strabine avenue, Ford, which was mentioned in bylaw passed by ratepayers, may not be selected. Secretary Baird intimated.

The commission expects that engineers will report in time to have work started within the next two months. This will mean that the plant will not be ready until 1924.

Special to The Advertiser.
Chatham, April 13.—The old steel standpipe at the city waterworks, that has served as a landmark for nearly four decades, is to be torn down. Authorization for the work was given at the regular meeting of the board of water commissioners.

Tenders will be called at once to have the work performed as the standpipe is no longer of use to the city waterworks and on account of loose bolts and plates is a menace to the men employed by the department.

REORGANIZE SCHOOL.
Special to The Advertiser.
Middlesex, April 13.—The reorganization of the Middlemarch Sunday School will take place at the church Friday afternoon.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid a social evening will be held in the Middlemarch Methodist Church Thursday, April 13.
