Mixed Farming in Alberta Makes People Independent of Crop Failure.

W. A. Bichanan, proprietor of the Lethbridge, Alta. Herald, assured the London Kiwanis today that there was no danger of annexation or separation as part of western sentiment. At the same time he told the members that the difficulty of the high rate on transportation of wheat to Vancouver was going to be solved by the C. N. R. and its low-grade haulage from Edmonton to the coast.

In answer to Rev. William Beattie, C. M. G., Mr. Buchanan said that while the C. P. R. complained that it was unable to lower rates from the prairie to the coast owing to the grades through the Rockies, that the C. N. R., which ran to Edmonton to the coast, has easy grades as on any part of its prairie route, and that it would probably solve the question of the coast rate in the future.

Ease Burden.
Mixed farming, which the speaker said was now being done in Alberta and which within the last 20 years had raised Alberta from a mere nomadic to a dairy province to the second exporting dairy province in Canada, would do much to ease the burden of the western farmer.

"For years," he said, "the bankers in the west have been urging the farmers to go into mixed farming. Now they have taken this advice and have gone into it with a will. The result is that they are independent of a bad wheat year. I think that this will do a very great deal to remove much of the unrest which has been troubling the west for years."

"Sometimes you in the east are inclined to criticize the west because it uses so much American capital in the building up of its industries. The reason is this. The American firms which are situated near us, in Oregon, and Washington, are anxious to understand our problems and go out of their way to help us."

Build Refinery.
"For instance a large million dollar sugar refinery is going up this summer in southern Alberta, being built by a Montana concern. It is built on the basis of promises of the surrounding farmers to grow enough beets to keep it busy. It is the same with the vegetable situation here. American firms are willing to put up canneries if the Alberta farmers will agree to grow enough in the irrigated districts to keep the canneries busy. I would like to see the eastern capitalist take more interest in the western problems, and to come out and invest only when the time is ripe for investment. In the past, some men have invested in businesses which were either premature or impossible of success. The American Please See Page 3, Column 1.

San Francisco, Cal., March 27.—While the law shaped a jury here yesterday to try her on a charge of murder, Dorothy Ellington, 16-year-old, who two months ago said she shot her mother rather than stay away from the night life of San Francisco, sat through the proceedings nervously twisting the handle of her handbag.

Twice she fainted, both times while she was on her way back to jail. The jury, twelve men and two women, seated permanently with the problem of selecting the twelfth juror and a possible alternate left for today when a new venire will report.

ACQUITTED ON CHARGE OF MURDERING HERMIT

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hull, Quebec, March 27.—An unanimous verdict of not guilty was returned this morning by the jury in the trial of James E. Carey, a farmhand of Pointe-au-Loup, Quebec, who was charged by the crown with the murder of Joseph Bonheur, aged hermit, farmer of Glenelg, on or about Christmas Eve.

The trial, which has been based entirely upon circumstantial evidence submitted by the crown prosecutors, J. A. Parent and F. B. Major, was the outcome of the death of Bonheur, whose body, with a shot wound in the back, was discovered on Jan. 4 in the cellar of his log home with the trap door nailed securely above it.

Feared Richard Arthurs Will Lose Eyesight As Result of Accident.

CAP SAVES HIS LIFE

Nose, Mouth and Neck Are Badly Seared by the Liquid.

Horribly burned about the face and head when a pail of boiling tar slipped and poured about his body, Richard Arthurs, 31 years old, of 142 Rectory street, an employee of the Brownlee Roofing Company, lies in Victoria hospital in a serious condition. The burns to his face and eyes are so severe that he is liable to lose his sight.

The accident occurred at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Arthurs was engaged in repairing the roof of the Thompson Carriage Factory, at 175 King street. He was working on the roof when in some manner the pail of hot tar slipped. The contents were poured upon his head and body. A cap which he wore probably saved him from suffering more severe burns to the head. His eyes, nose, mouth, neck and arm are badly seared, according to hospital officials.

Dr. E. M. Platt attended him at Victoria hospital. He stated this afternoon that Arthurs' condition was serious, and that, while there is a chance his sight may be saved, the burns he suffered were very severe.

U. S. Aviator Makes Record Drop Before Opening Parachute.

Associated Press Despatch.

Garden City, N. Y., March 27.—By his fall of 1,500 feet through space before opening his parachute, a test jump at Mitchell Field yesterday, Sergeant Randle L. Rose is believed by army officials to have established a record. In two subsequent jumps before opening his parachute he dropped 1,000 feet without losing consciousness and examining physicians found he had suffered no ill effects as a result.

The tests have overturned the theory that a person falling from a great height loses consciousness from the rush of air, army officials declared, adding that instructions to pilots concerning the jerking of the trip cords of parachutes would now undoubtedly be revised.

HIGHWAYS FINANCES UNDER DRURY REGIME TO BE PROBED

Audits, It Is Claimed, Will Reveal Almost Unbelievable State of Affairs.

INVOLVE THOUSANDS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, March 27.—According to a Toronto newspaper the public accounts committee of the Ontario legislature, which met for organization today, will probe very deeply into the affairs of the provincial department of highways, particularly the financial side of the department during the Drury administration. "While nothing of a criminal aspect has been found," says the Telegram, "it is said that the audits will reveal an almost unbelievable state of affairs in the department. At one time, it is said, moneys disbursed by the department, for which no vouchers could be found, totalled over a million dollars. In the meantime, these sums were covered by the minister's warrants, and eventually, as receipts and vouchers came in, the sum was reduced to a little less than a third of a million dollars."

The newspaper continues: "The committee, it is said, will also probe an alleged debt on the part of the city of Hamilton to the provincial department of highways, which claim that this amount was 'given' them by Mr. Biggs, and no effort has been made to pay it. 'The amounts owing by Hamilton and South Westworth are stated to have been uncovered by the provincial auditors. It is known that auditors have been working on these accounts for over three months.'"

RAILWAY POINTS TO CUT FARE

Make Efforts To Boost "Workmen's" Tickets With Slight Reduction.

USE MAYOR'S "STUFF"

Calls On Everybody For Co-Operation As Duty of All.

The London Street Railway Company is making efforts to boost "workmen's" tickets at the rate of 22 for a dollar, and these yellow strings of pasteboard have been brought forcefully to the notice of patrons this week.

Conductors are offering not only 22 tickets for a dollar, but 11 tickets for 50 cents, which constitutes a 10 per cent saving during certain hours, from 5 to 8:30 o'clock in the morning and from 5 to 6:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The tickets were authorized by the company several years ago, but have never been greatly popular, as the investment required was too much. However, some success is reported this week in the sale of these tickets. The company seeks to catch reflected rays from the chief magistrate's epitome when its printed tickets urge co-operation.

"Our duty and yours—co-operation," suggest the pasteboard. "Mayor Wenige says co-operate. We will co-operate, certainly. How? By giving the best service possible at the lowest fares possible. This is the first step towards reduced fares."

In the meantime the street railway lengthens its army vouchers in council circles, and no effort will be made to bring it into the limelight until after the tax rate has been struck.

DISEASE IS SPREAD BY RIVER

Byron Protective Association Points Out Farmers Unable To Keep Cows Away.

WANT SANCTUARY

Bird Paradise Sought From the Government—Pheasants Increasing.

The Byron game protective association, at the annual meeting last night in the Byron town hall, decided to enlist the co-operation of the boards of health in Westminister, London and Delaware townships in an effort to force the city of London to make radical changes in the city sewage disposal plant near Kensal Park, on the way to Springbank. Members of the association pointed out that sewage was being dumped in a raw state into the river Thames and was killing the fish as well as making the stench almost unbearable during the summer months when the river was low.

Contract Disease.
"The city forces the milk producers to test their herds and then the cows contract disease by drinking the water in the Thames. Farmers who have pastures along the river bank cannot keep their cows from drinking river water. The best feed is to be found on the flats adjoining the river, and it would be a shame to waste all that good feed along the bank. But if we are going to keep our herds in good health we will have to keep them away from the river. It is up to the city to do something and do it quickly."

Messrs. Foster, Davis, Sanderson and Bycroft requested the association to apply to the government for permission to set aside all lands from the river to Oxford street north of Springbank park as a bird sanctuary. The request was looked on with favor and a petition will be forwarded to the government in the near future.

Hatch Pheasants.
The members reported splendid success in the hatching of pheasants' eggs supplied by the government last year. It is estimated that over 300 pheasants are now breeding in the game preserves of the association. John Exley gave the members some valuable information on the raising of pheasants.

Harry Wickerson was elected president of the association, a vote of thanks was tendered to the president, David McEwen, for the energy he had put into the work last year.

Paris, March 27.—"I will only consent to be sworn on the symbols of my religion," declared Rafta Duzene, former communist deputy, when he appeared before the parliamentary committee which is investigating election campaign funds. Chairman Mysterel said he was afraid he could not oblige the witness, with the necessary symbols, but M. Duzene said he was prepared for that. From a portfolio he drew forth a hammer and a sickle, the point of the blade guarded by a cork, crossed them on the table, raised his hand and declared in a loud voice: "I swear on this emblem of the union of the workers of the city and of the fields to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

The members of the committee held their sides in laughter.

POLICE CLEAR LONDON OF BOOTLEGGER GANG

What Illegal Liquor Trade Remaining, Carried On in Small Way.

DIFFICULT TO CATCH

Whiskey Sold Placed in Bottles With Fake Labels—Quality Is Poor.

Practically all sources of illegal liquor supply for London have been cut off, according to police, following four big liquor clean-ups since the first of the year. Few bootleggers, if any, now exist in London, and those that do are carrying on only a petty trade. Police reach this belief from court records of the past few months, which reveal many convictions registered for selling liquor contrary to the O. T. A. and a decreasing number of breaches of the intoxication section of the temperance act.

With heavy fines imposed last week against two bootleggers, and large amounts of whiskey and gin confiscated, police declare that there is a few places in the city left where any variety of alcoholic beverage can be purchased. One bootlegger arrested last week claims himself to have sold as many as 50,000 cases in the city since the O. T. A. came into force.

The few persons who are carrying on an illegal liquor trade in London are now lying low in respect to Police Lucas said today. The success of police activities recently has compelled them to go about their business with more discretion, and if they are violating the O. T. A. by selling liquor, the trade consists only of the sale of an odd bottle here and there to regular patrons. The police, however, are not content that London is yet bone dry, and the work of liquor enforcement officers still is being carried on relentlessly.

Difficult Problem.
"The small bootlegger is a difficult one to secure a conviction against," Inspector Lucas said. "He operates in the early hours of the night and sells only to persons whom he knows are in no way connected with the police department. Bootleggers who are known to us as having carried on a large business are now out of the way and if liquor continues to be sold in the city we are convinced that it is only done on a small scale."

There is one bootlegger, however, whom the police as yet have not secured a conviction against. He is one who has not been seen in court and furnishes only regular customers with an occasional quart of gin or whiskey. Speaking to The Advertiser, Inspector Lucas declared that "business is rotten."

"New Year's week was a profitable period for London bootleggers," he said, adding that since Premier Ferguson's O. T. A. amendments were announced the trade had suffered a noticeable slump. "It's getting worse and worse," he declared. "During the last few weeks, I have not seen a single bootlegger on the streets."

On week-ends, Saturday night and Sunday night, does it show signs of being good. The people haven't got used to a large business in a separate house to my own, and sell only one bottle at a time. The export trade is the big end of the game. This idea of selling the odd bottle doesn't bring in much money."

Not New to Police.

This information concerning the working of the small bootlegger is not new to the police. They state that he is well acquainted with the manner in which illegal sales are made, and that they know the bootlegger who sells only a few bottles at a time, keeps no excess supply on hand in his own house. The quality of liquor which has been sold in London recently, although not injurious to health, good. Rude and liquor confiscations show that the brands are all synthetic, manufactured from pure ethyl alcohol, coloring matter and sugar. This concoction is placed in bottles bearing fake corks and labels. Little of the "genuine" variety has ever been sold in London through legal channels, according to the police. It is O. T. A. "synthetic stuff," made locally from imported pure alcohol.

DISEASE EASES IN KNOLLWOOD

Public School Will Be Allowed To Be Opened on Monday.

CLOSED A WEEK

Knollwood Park public school will be re-opened on Monday morning, following orders issued by Dr. W. S. Downham, medical officer of health. Dr. Downham today declared that health conditions have been greatly improved in the district and fewer cases of mumps and scarlet fever are now reported.

The school was closed a week ago today when mumps and scarlet fever were reported rampant amongst the pupils. The epidemic appeared to be growing in proportions and the school children were given an indefinite holiday until conditions improved.

"It is impossible to estimate the number of cases in the district," Dr. Downham said today. "There are a great many undiagnosed cases of a mild type, no doubt."

MURDER CASE OPENS AGAINST G. CHAPMAN

Four Witnesses Testify in the Hartford Court at Trial of Mail Looter.

Associated Press Despatch.

Hartford, Conn., March 27.—Hartford's county court machinery yesterday started to grind out its case against Gerald Chapman, mail looter and alleged murderer of Patrolman Skelly in New Britain last October.

Four witnesses giving technical testimony for the most part, necessary as a foundation for the more telling evidence intended to be introduced later, took the stand after almost the entire day had been spent in obtaining a lone juror to complete the jury.

Chapman, seemingly a languid spectator at this trial, which is a matter of life or death for him, had a decision in the selection of eleven of the jurors. His chief counsel, Frederick J. Groehl, challenged or rejected the tallismen as Chapman directed. But all of Groehl's 25 peremptory challenges had been used by the close of yesterday morning's session, and Chapman had no voice in the selection of the twelfth man.

Huron County Admits Obligation To City :: Agnes McPhail Raps Govt. In Strike

BOARD PREPARES ESTIMATES SLASH

Some Members Class Reduction Move as False Economy.

According to the expressed wish of the city council, the board of education will make "a desperate attempt" to reduce its estimates for maintenance in spite of the fact that any cut made can only be "at the expense of the efficiency of the system."

The board will tackle the task set it by the council at a special meeting called for tomorrow afternoon when the estimates will again be carefully scrutinized and reductions made with the least possible disturbance in the efficient administration of the schools.

"Any slashing that the board of education undertakes now," said Chairman S. Fred Lawason this morning, "will mean a saving only for this year with increased expenses for next year. The cuts made by the board will be made at the expense of the efficiency of the system."

The fact that the council by a vote of nine to three has requested the board to eliminate the item of $2,500 for cadet uniforms this year and suggests a plebiscite upon the question at the next municipal elections leads Mr. Lawason to favor dropping of the item from the estimates this year and the leaving of it to the people to decide what has come to be a vexed question.

False Economy.

In the opinion of Trustee A. Roy Cairncross, vice-chairman of the board, there can be no cut in the estimates without the practicing of what would be false economy.

Mr. Cairncross declared himself personally to be opposed to any reduction of the item of $2,500 for cadet uniforms and also the item of $1,500 for the inauguration of the plan of medical inspection of pupils in the public schools.

"I consider that the cadet training is good for the children," said Mr. Cairncross, "and besides it is money making. We pay $6 per uniform and get back from the federal government $1.25 per uniform per annum. In five years the uniforms will be paid for, but the uniforms will last for a much longer period than five years."

Both Mr. Lawason and Mr. Cairncross fail to see how a teacher for educational and vocational work amongst the crippled children in the War Memorial hospital at Victoria, B.C., that at the present time is being recommended to the board by its special medical committee, when further reductions in the estimates already tabled have to be cut at the request of the council.

Cost of Upkeep.

"If any substantial cut is made," stated Administrator K. K. Greer, "it will be made at the cost of the upkeep of school buildings and the efficiency of the work. It would be necessary for at least three schools to be closed down, one less teacher for the full term. This would be done by crowding and enrolment of say 600 pupils into 12 rooms instead of 13 rooms."

Some members of the board are known to be strongly opposed to any cutting of the estimates, but whether or not certain items will be eliminated remains a question.

It is unanimously agreed, however, that it is quite impossible for the board to bring its estimates down to last year's figures and thus meet the wishes of the council.

Thus with the further reduction of estimates placed at the outside limit the council will still have to face the problem of granting approval of the board's $25,000 estimate and building program with current estimates above those for last year.

Corrects Impression.

Mr. Buchanan corrected the impression that Mr. Hoey, the Progressive leader, had ever thought of advocated secession from the British Empire.

"What Mr. Hoey said and what he wants is separation from the Dominion of Canada, and the founding of a new colony in the west," he said. "He is no more suggesting secession from the British Empire than I am a separatist in the east. I think there has been a misunderstanding of his speeches in the east on that point."

However I can assure you there is no danger of secession or separation in the west.

In Canada's Parliament

Canadian Press Despatch.

TORONTO, March 27.—The senate will not sit.

In the house of commons the debate on the budget will be resumed by W. F. Carroll, Liberal, Cape Breton South.

YESTERDAY.

The senate did not sit. In the house of commons the Conservative amendment to the budget was moved by Sir Henry Drayton. It urged a reduction in taxation. A sub-amendment was moved by Robert Forke, Progressive leader, calling for a revision of the tariff based on a need for revenue rather than upon the principle of protection. The sub-amendment was ruled out of order by the speaker, as there could be only one amendment to the budget resolution.

EDUCATION BILL OF $860 SETTLED

Huron County Admits Obligation to London—Check Received.

Huron county has paid the London board of education its 1924 bill of $360 for the education of students attending the London collegiate institute from that municipality.

The reception of the check by Treasurer James Bell this morning marks the conclusion of correspondence with officials of the Huron county extending over a period of four or five months.

The contention of the Huron council was that it was not responsible for the cost of educating in the London collegiate students who passed by colleges within the bounds of Huron county to attend the schools here.

The Huron council was informed, however, by the board here, upon advice secured from Solicitor T. G. Meredith, K.C., that at the present regulations stood the Huron council was liable for the payment of the bill.

Word was received back from the Huron council that the bill would be paid in full and now the check has come along to close the matter.

Free-For-All Fight Is Staged on Floor of Italian Chamber of Deputies.

TROUBLE COMING

Associated Press Despatch.

Rome, March 27.—Premier Mussolini's prophecy last Sunday that the fun would begin with the advent of spring began to come true yesterday when his first appearance in the chamber of deputies since his illness precipitated an uproar, general scuffles between the Fascists and Communists, and the forcible ejection of the Communists.

Bad as the incident threatened to be, it was in the opinion of political circles, only a mild example of what might have been expected had the members of the Aventine opposition also been present.

The parliamentary atmosphere began to grow heavy from the moment of Mussolini's appearance at 4:15 o'clock.

Mussolini stood in his place in the center of the ministerial bench, bowing acknowledgment of the Fascist plaudits and apparently paid no attention to the Communists epithets flung at him. Finally the tension grew so taut that several of the Fascists rushed toward the extreme left and became engaged in a general scuffle with the Communists. Among the aggressors were Farinacci, secretary-general of the Fascist and Deputy Turzilli, who seized the Communist Darni by the throat, dragging him to the door and throwing him outside the chamber.

It was several minutes before Deputy Casarotti was able to make his voice heard above the tumult, but finally he was able to deliver a short speech in which he congratulated the premier on his recovery.

REDISTRIBUTION PLANS DISCUSSED IN CAUCUS

Indemnities, Natural Gas and Other Issues Come Before Government Supporters.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, March 27.—A caucus of government supporters this morning discussed redistribution, lights on all vehicles, sessional indemnities and the natural gas bill. There was a demand from several members that more progress be made on the church union matter and that the sub-committee now considering that measure be requested to speed up. The indemnity question occupied a few moments and there was opposition to an increase in remuneration.

The principles of redistribution were laid down by the premier, county boundaries will be maintained as far as possible. The new seats will be in the large cities and Northern Ontario is not likely to get much increase in representation. Another principle of the skeleton bill which the premier hopes to introduce in the house within the next few days is that the rural unit of representation will be considerably smaller than the urban unit. A committee of the house will complete the bill in detail.

The redistribution was arrived at on the lights on vehicles measure.

Washington, March 27.—The first enterprise to resume business at Griffin, Indiana, after the recent tornado was the United States postoffice there, reports to the postoffice department disclose.

The Griffin postmaster established a postoffice in a railway car the morning after the disaster and is now putting up a "ready cut" small house by borrowing lumber from Evansville.

BEER BILL GETS SECOND READING

Division in Legislature Comes After Long Debate on Subject.

RANEY OPENS ATTACK

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, March 27.—Debate throughout the afternoon and night, the government's bill amending the Ontario temperance act and providing, among other things, for 4.4 per cent beer, or double the strength of the beverage being sold in the province at the present time, was given second reading at two o'clock this morning. Earlier in the day Premier Ferguson pointed out that the government was determined to reach a vote upon second reading. W. E. Raney, former attorney-general, had protested against the debate proceeding as due notice of the government's intentions had not been forthcoming.

The measure was given second reading by a vote of 75 to 43, following the defeat of an amendment proposed by Mr. Raney, by a similar division. The Progressive leader's amendment recorded the party's disapproval of the present legislation and urged the appointment of a special committee to inquire into and determine whether the proposed beer is an intoxicating liquor. The Progressives and Liberals lined up solidly for the Raney amendment with the exception of Z. Macgeau, Sturgeon Falls; E. Proulx, Prescott; J. A. Pinard, East Ottawa, and E. Teller, North Essex. On the motion for second reading, four Conservatives voted against the government; J. F. B. Balfour, East Northumberland; Aaron Sweet, Dundas; R. J. Patterson, South Victoria; and A. H. Acres, Carleton Place. The long debate was featured by several clashes between government and opposition leaders, on one occasion Hon. Forbes Godfrey, minister of health, and Mr. Raney, flouting in a wordy battle that finally culminated in both withdrawing remarks insulting to each other.

In moving the second reading, Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, testified to the house that he had reviewed the administration's reasons for increasing the strength of beer.

RANEY SEEKS PROOF

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Parliament Buildings, Toronto, March 26.—The Progressive leader began a surprise attack on the motion for second reading, that a committee of the house be appointed to determine the question of whether 4.4 per cent beer was an intoxicating beverage.

Karl Homuth, Labor member for South Waterloo, who followed, outlined the amendments which the Labor party proposed to demand in the beer bill, as announced exclusively in The Advertiser last night. Mr. Raney, who had been expected to address himself to one point alone, which he considered the crux of the whole matter, the point of whether 4.4 per cent beer was an intoxicating beverage, said he would not do so.

Mr. Raney proceeded to express the opinion that the attorney-general had had it "but over him." He was going to show the house that the case put up by the attorney-general was not a scientific case at all but just a case of beer propaganda. When he has learned how he has been deceived and humiliated, if he has retained his reputation, he will withdraw this bill.

Mr. Raney proceeded to show how Professor Rosewater of Columbia University was a gentleman whose scientific findings were quoted extensively by Mr. Nickle in regard to people imbibing without intoxication, even or eight quart bottles of beer. Professor Rosewater's real name, he read from Washington senate committee papers, was Rosevater, and he had given evidence in behalf of the United States brewers before the senate committee.

Messrs. Raney and Nickle differed in cross-examination as to the technical relations of percentages of alcohol by volume, weight and proof spirits, but they finally agreed that the 2.5 per cent liquor used by Rosewater and the other scientists mentioned by Mr. Nickle in their tests was a six per cent beer. Mr. Raney said that it was the quality that all Mr. Nickle's references had been to 2.5 per cent beer.

PRINCE OF WALES NEARS END OF LONG ROUND OF GOODBYES

Associated Press Despatch. London, March 26.—The Prince of Wales is nearing the end of his long round of goodbyes prior to sailing for South Africa. At St. James palace today he received, among many others, Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, and J. H. Thomas, who was secretary for the colonies in the Labor government. The prime minister, Stanley Baldwin, and the other members of the cabinet will bid him bon voyage at Victoria station Saturday morning as he starts for Portsmouth.

Prince George, who has made a caused him to look up the men whom he quoted.

Paid by Brewers? Mr. Raney read from the statements of Wayne B. Wheeler before the Senate committee respecting Dr. Rosewater, which were to the effect that he had carried on investigations as to the prevalence of the drug habit in dry areas and that Professor Rosewater had once recommended the sale of wines and beers in hotel restaurants Sunday, involving also an inference that he might be on the payroll of the United States brewers.

When Mr. Raney said that he had been indirectly in communication with Prof. Hollingsworth of Columbia in regard to the standing of Prof. Rosewater, Mr. Raney said he professed to deal with him too.

Prof. Hollingsworth had also been before the senate committee as an expert witness. Premier Ferguson said that Mr. Raney's imputation was that they were dishonest witnesses.

Mr. Raney—They were expert witnesses giving testimony for the men who employed them. They were not the benevolent scientists of high reputations.

Later on Mr. Raney asked if anyone imagined that these experts before the senate committee were doing this out of pure love for the people. "Everybody knows," he said, "they were fed by a million-dollar interest."

Another Under Fire. Then Prof. Gies of Columbia came under Mr. Raney's attack and Mr. Raney asked why Mr. Nickle had given the house the information that Rosewater was a delegate from New Jersey to the fifteenth national congress, against alcoholism, and Mr. Nickle referred him to the printed pamphlets.

Mr. Raney accused Mr. Nickle by the common sense of the wine and beer companies. He said that the wine and beer companies had been discriminating for they had left out certain other experts whose opinions were more open to question. Mr. Nickle replied that he had prepared the briefs himself from information which he could gather from all quarters, and in consultation with an eminent Canadian scientist, whose name he could not give, but who was a prohibitionist.

Sinclair Speaks. Continuing after the supper hour, Mr. Sinclair asked how could the government's O. T. A. amendments be considered as in the interest of temperance when they apparently placed the weight and displaced the dross, as attorney-general, said Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Nickle should not put himself in the position of saying to the province that a statute to increase in doctors' prescriptions and liquor drinking when it was a real temperance measure that were proposed, it would not need any explanation at all.

"The government," he said, "must stand condemned by the principle of this bill to strike a statute to increase in doctors' prescriptions and liquor drinking when it was a real temperance measure that were proposed, it would not need any explanation at all."

When a government sets itself up in authority over the expressed will of the people, the remedy was for the people to take into their own hands good recovery from his recent operation, was out driving today for the first time. Prince Henry will accompany the Prince of Wales to Portsmouth, as will also Prince George, if his doctors consent.

The principal farewells will be said in London, it being desired to make the prince's engagements as informal as possible, and it is believed that H. M. S. Repulse will sail within half an hour of the prince's embarkation.

When the proper time came, before another year rolled around the Premier would find that the argument as to the non-intoxicating qualities of 4.4 beer were just as accurate as the arguments on the judicial act.

Dealing with the enforcement of the O. T. A. the attorney-general declared that the bootleggers had been formed in Ontario which defied the law, and it is in realizing this that this government brings in a bill which deprives the bootlegger of his life on the first offences against the act.

There was a growing tendency in the province for the consumption of hard liquors, he admitted. The present bill had not proved a very refreshing drink and to some it was even nauseating.

Mr. Nickle shows the House forged labels and forged corks on whiskey bottles filled by the bootleggers of Ontario. It required an expert, he said, to tell the difference between the genuine and the forged. In the forged bottles the worst kind of poison was being sold.

He declared that in some districts in Ontario the bootleggers were so plentifully behind the act to enforce it. The next few months, he said, would be an answer to all criticism.

He added that he knew every drunken man seen on the streets would be charged against the bill, but he asked the co-operation of the public, the brewers and those to whom liquor was sold, to help him to enforce and uphold the law.

Drunkness, he said, would be regarded as a crime.

The morning service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church next Sunday will be marked by the presentation of the session's awards to the junior members of the congregation for perfect church attendance.

The session's awards embrace a pin for the first year's attendance, an engraved silver bar for the second and up to the sixth year, and a solid gold medal for the seventh year's attendance.

Perfect attendance is taken to mean at least one church service each Sunday at St. Andrew's church in the city. During summer vacation attendance at some special religious service is recognized if reported in writing.

A large number of children to receive pins and bars this year a large turnout of the congregation is expected. Since the first of the year, seven yearlings have been presented for some time yet.

DAKOTAS ARE SWEEPED BY BIG FOREST FIRES

Associated Press Despatch. St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—Fire-fighters in two widely separated areas today continued their battle against prairie fires which, according to unconfirmed reports, destroyed three villages, taking the lives of four persons and devastated more than 300 square miles of land after raging virtually unchecked for days.

In the Rosebud Indian reservation country of South Dakota, near the Canadian border, volunteers from six counties were fighting a blaze which had leveled the villages of Tuthill, Vetel and St. Francis in South Dakota.

An Indian woman, her two children and another child, were reported burned to death at Tuthill. The other village was sweeping into northern South Dakota from southern North Dakota and was reported to be flaring across a huge strip of land.

BOTTRILL HITS EXTRAVAGANCE

$354,000 School Construction Program Should Be Turned Down, He Says.

Policy of the mayor and other members of the council in supporting the school board's $354,000 construction program was scored today by Ald. Harry Bottrill, chairman of No. 2 committee. In spite of the fact that the tentative tax rate is down to 35.7 mills today, the West London alderman asserts that the council is not saving money by authorizing another debt issue of over a third of a million dollars.

Mr. Bottrill said that the school board's 1924 surplus and a cut in the patriotic fund requirements for the year reduced the tentative rate to 35.7 mills, a rate of less than 35 mills appear quite possible, and still give East London a new high school.

Face $1,000,000 Plan. "We are facing a million-dollar expenditure for school construction, besides this year's program," points out Mr. Bottrill. "This $354,000 issue the school board wants will not provide any stopping point. There will be much more asked for next year and the year after."

"Yet in spite of that the mayor wants to go on piling up expenses on the taxpayer. He takes expenses out by the teaspoonful when he asks the school board to reduce its general estimates and then tosses in expenditure by the shovelful, by advocating the building program. The building program only $2,000,000 for this year, but the burden will be on us for years yet."

Reduction Seen. Confidence is expressed in council circles today that the school board will tonight reduce its general estimates to last year's figures, coupled with available surplus. Under such a condition it is more than likely the council will on Monday sanction the board's building program.

Today the estimates are as follows: Mills. R.C.S.S. board $ 45,453.04 Public schools $ 634,945.00 9.7614 Coll. inst. $ 228,841.11 3.2850 Tech. school $ 117,017.82 1.5788

Patriotic tax $ 12,191.43 1.703 General $ 1,395,561.74 20.8344 Total $ 2,423,809.38 35.7275

A large number of children to receive pins and bars this year a large turnout of the congregation is expected. Since the first of the year, seven yearlings have been presented for some time yet.

Inspector Nickle, along with Miss Terpu, won last night's booby prize. Sergeant M'Cullough won first prize with the highest score for the evening's play.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, March 27.—Babe Ruth, greatest of home run hitters, nearly lost his title when he met Jacques Lafitte, Brooklyn first baseman and the National league's champion at long-distance hitting, in an exhibition match at Clearwater, Fla., yesterday. Ruth's best efforts yesterday resulted in three singles. Meantime Fournier sent three balls hurtling over the right field fence. Brooklyn won, 11 to 10.

At Winterhaven, the Giants conquered Columbus of the American Association, 9-2, with excellent pitching by Wayland Dean and Kent Greenfield.

The Boston Braves' pitchers were weak yesterday in the game which they lost to the St. Louis Browns at St. Petersburg. The Browns are scheduled to meet Buffalo today.

The Boston Red Sox, although making but five hits, defeated the New Orleans Pelicans, 5-2. Joe Shaute and Sherrod Smith, Cleveland Indians, southward regulars, making their first start of the season, held Cincinnati to four hits at 0-0, yesterday, the Reds losing 2-0. It was the Indians' second straight victory in a week. The Clevelanders play Milwaukee at Lakeland today.

Innings ended by the Detroit Tigers, at Durham, N. C. won a 7 to 3 victory over Toronto. The teams were scheduled to meet today at Danville, Va., for the third game of the series.

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Fresno Seals at San Francisco by 2 to 6 in the seventh game of their ten game series.

Five of the six recruit pitchers taken south by the Cincinnati Reds, have been released.

The Chicago White Sox won a 7 to 0 victory over the Louisiana polychrome yesterday.

Rain kept the Chicago Cubs indoors at Los Angeles. The Cubs were to play Vernon today, weather permitting.

After winning two games from Kansas City, the St. Louis Cardinals have a third and final engagement of the series with the American Association today at Stockton, California. Eleven innings climaxed by a wild pitch gave the Cardinals a 6-5 victory yesterday.

Canadian-Made Smokes Almost Entirely Used in Dominion.

DUTY PROHIBITIVE

Old Cuban Favorites Have Lost Market in Canada.

The imported cigar has gone from London. The fragrant smoke that trails away from the end of the cigar of today comes from the Canadian-made article in most cases.

Nearly all the cigars and cigarettes smoked here are made in Canada, according to A. Wolfe, Cuba, home of the cigar, has been practically cut off from the Canadian market.

For years Cuba has been regarded as having the best tobacco, the best cigar-makers and the best cigars. But the price is prohibitive in the Dominion. It is next to impossible to get a Cuban cigar in the city for less than 25 cents. Canadians have taken to their own cigars and apparently relish them.

The ten-cent cigar and the two for a quarter variety are the most popular, though many of the five-cent ropes are sold. Cigar prices range from a nickel to $2.

Smoked by Royalty. Experts in Cuba make the cigars smoked by royalty. The cost of the cigars is a nice little dollar bill every time the match is applied. Those who have not even had the pleasure of a whiff of the royal cigars say they must be pretty fair.

It has been said that cigars killed General Grant. He smoked innumerable long black cigars. They set him back one dollar apiece.

One cigar authority says that no Canadian cigar goes into the states and none come from the republic. His opinion is that Canada gets a better cigar for the money than the man across the line. This is not true of the cigarette smoker. A box of 100 cigarettes of a popular brand sell in Chicago for 42 cents. The same box here costs $2.25.

The best pipe tobacco comes from Virginia. Most Canadian tobaccos are made up from raw leaf imported from that state. To this is added the product of Essex and Quebec plantations.

There are few importations of cigars. Some come from England and a limited number are imported from Turkey and Egypt. The Egyptian cigars are often made from Turkish tobacco sent to the Nile district for ageing.

Pipes Imported. Most of the pipes used here are imported, though some are manufactured in Canada. The largest number come from France. The French briar is the most popular. English briar comes next.

The maris of the world supply the smoker. From Austria come the "meerschaums." The word is German meaning "sea foam." From Vienna the elaborate cases, from Missouri the faithful of corn, sometimes called the "Southern meerschaum." The wooden pipe, with the bark on it, hails from Germany. It is sometimes called the "Wagel" or the cherry wood. Clay pipes come from Scotland. Copenhagen snuff comes from Montreal.

Fine old briar comes from Italy. The cigarette cases of good quality are imported generally from England, though one dealer says that a Canadian case of excellent material is made by the British competition with a holder at one-fourth the price.

Like everything else the pipe styles change. Time was when the pipe mouthpiece was a piece of wood, now the boys are treating themselves to Italian briars with black vulcanite stems.

TENDERS STILL CALLED FOR PARK AMUSEMENTS

Local and Toronto newspapers are this week carrying advertisements over the name of the public utilities commission requesting bids for Springbank park amusements.

The advertisement, which calls for bids to be in by April 15, states that "applicants must submit plans of the type of buildings they propose to erect and describe fully the kind of amusements."

It is confidently expected that consideration will be given the tender received at the regular meeting of the commission on Thursday afternoon, April 16.

VICTIM OF ASSAULT IS MUCH IMPROVED

The condition of Frank Uttley of Zurich, victim of an assault made upon him by three colored men at No. 9 Front street, Monday morning, shows considerable improvement, according to his physician, Dr. W. J. Tillman. Uttley was robbed of more than $300 and was struck over the head with a heavy bottle. He is reported to be resting comfortably at St. Joseph's hospital.

City Churches

KNOX W. M. S.
The regular thank offering meeting of the W. M. S. of the Knox church was held yesterday afternoon with the new president, Mrs. Cooper, in the chair. Mrs. T. A. Symington read the Scripture lesson, after which Miss Josephine Campbell contributed a pleasing solo.

Miss Lillian McVicar was the special speaker of the afternoon, and she gave a most interesting and instructive address on her work in India, which was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. McKay then closed the meeting with prayer. The meeting yesterday was the largest and one of the finest in the history of the W. M. S. of the church.

CHOIR BANQUET.
A pleasant evening was spent at the Wellington street Methodist church recently when the members of the choir and their friends were gathered for a banquet arranged by the music committee and trustee board and their wives.

Delightful music was rendered by an orchestra during the supper hour. Mr. George acted as chairman in a capable manner and speeches were made by Rev. Mr. Watts, Mr. Werner and members of the board.

Those contributing to the delightful program were the Messrs. Webb, Farnice, Harris and Mr. Chas. Boyce. WELLINGTON W. M. S.
The annual Easter thankoffering of the W. M. S. of the Wellington street Methodist church was held Wednesday. After the opening hymn, Mrs. Booth led in prayer, which was followed by a responsive reading of the lesson. The choir sang "Brady, Miss Winnifred Mack sang delightfully, after which Mrs. Kerr led in the reading of the apostles' creed.

Mrs. H. A. Uren was the special speaker of the afternoon and gave a charming talk on "The Easter Message," which was greatly enjoyed by the women. Among the ladies taking part in prayer during the meeting were Mrs. Woollett, Miss M. G. and Mrs. Pearson. The thank-offering was then taken up, but the sum was incomplete. Mrs. G. Keer presided.

LIFELONG RESIDENT OF CITY DIES SUDDENLY

Frank Arscott Passed Away Last Evening at Ann Street Home.

Frank Arscott, a life-long resident of this city, passed away suddenly at his residence, 127 Ann street, late last evening. The deceased was in his 60th year, and had been in ill health for a year, but his death came as a great shock to his many friends and relatives.

Mr. Arscott was born in this city on the same street on which he died, and he made London his home during his entire life. He was a member of the firm of Arscott Brothers' tannery of Teeswater with head offices in this city and after the dissolving of this partnership he continued in the business of hide buying on the local market, where he was known by many and where he made a wide circle of friends.

In the days of the old Alder club ball team of 1892 Mr. Arscott was known as the "One-Armed Ball Player," having lost one arm while a child. He was a member of Forest City Lodge of the Prominent Order of this city and a loyal member of Talbot street Baptist church.

Besides his widow he is survived by one daughter, Ena, and one son, Ezra, both residing at home. Four brothers, John of Windsor, Robert of Teeswater, James and Richard of this city. The funeral will be held from his late residence on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. Rev. Dr. Bowley Green of Talbot street will officiate. Interment will be made in Woodland cemetery.

SHOWS PROGRESS.
Harold Bolton, Strathroy, son of Louise, Inspector Walter Bolton, who is confined to St. Joseph's hospital, is progressing favorably. Hospital authorities stated this afternoon.

SEWAGE PLANT SEEN FOR 1926

Work Will Be Started in Fall on $50,000 Project on Thames.

Work will be started next autumn on London's new sewage disposal works, and the plant will be in shape for use early in 1926. Plans have been furthered during the past week, and Inspector Dallyn of the provincial department of health is expected in the city during the coming week to confer with city officials on the matter.

Information has been received from the provincial department that a mandatory order for the construction of the plant will be issued as soon as definite plans are sent in by the city of London. Completion of these plans will pave the way to purchase of property in the vicinity of Front street, a waste acreage that is now flooded with spring freshets. The construction of the plant will be effected at less than $50,000, according to City Engineer Near. The work will be financed by a debenture issue. Operation of the plant will greatly increase the efficiency of the city's sewage disposal system.

In addition to this plant, a pumping station for the Wellington and High street sewer system will be in use about the 1st of May. Machinery for this station is now in the city and will be installed during April.

AT THE THEATRES

LOEW'S THEATRE

"Lady of the Night."

"Lady of the Night," with Norma Shearer occupying dual feature roles is the picture attraction at Loew's for the balance of the week. Miss Shearer has appeared in many pictures here, but she excels in this picture in the role of a smart society girl and then as a dance-hall queen. The picture is a story of life in New York, where society and the criminal world rub elbows. Such a theme gives ample scope for thrills, and they are provided in every reel. One of Al Christie's comedies, "Sea Legs," provides a goodly number of laughs, while "Topics of the Day" are as usual, quite interesting. Four colored men and a woman head the vaudeville bill with a dancing act that is peppy and snappy from start to finish. We have seen a number of vaudeville offerings of a similar description, but none could compare with this revue of Lee Marshall's for fast stepping. Last night's audience gave the colored boys a wonderful reception. Violet Goulet has a pleasing personality and she also knows how to play the violin. Her act, which opened the vaudeville performance, put the entire audience in good humor. Bond Norse is the funny man. His "wise cracks" vary in subject and atmosphere. One or two we have heard before, but his laughs are many and shake the "indigestion blues."

GRAND THEATRE

"Stepping Out."

For melody, quip and inexhaustible "paw," the latest revue of the Originals, "Stepping Out," has outmarched all its predecessors. A goodly audience at the Grand theatre last night proclaimed its appreciation by applauding for repeated encores. "Stepping Out" is a lively and entertaining show. There is plenty of rollicking fun, and the vocal end of the revue is particularly good. Every sally found its mark last night and each bon mot was followed with roars of mirth. The revue is merely a pot-pourri of scenes arranged to display the talents of the various artists, but there is a satire, "Heroes," that deserves more than mention. It deals with the dedication of a war monument, and has moments of real pathos. Company Is Good.

The whole Originals' company is of the first calibre. The Originals' quartet scores heavily, and many members of the company appear in a series of solos that place them musically in the forefront of khaki revues. This year the company has obtained a real comedian in Bob Anderson, whose every appearance in synonomous with gales of hilarity among the audience. First in the role of John Willie Shuckbottom, a newly-widowed gentleman of nondescript features, very red about the nose, and fitted out with distressingly baggy evening clothes, he has a delightfully funny part to play as the would-be husband of a prima donna. In subsequent scenes he emerges as a scrappy red-haired widow, a down-and-out veteran and a butler at a duchess' "drawing-room." He is an irrepressible comedian, a host in himself.

"Her" Is Here.

There is an extraordinary number of good voices in "Stepping Out," and those who heard "her" on the Originals' last appearance here are glad to find that the sensational Gene Pearson is still with the revue and has added considerably to his repertoire. As a pretty blonde "she" whose feminine wiles with most convincing effect, and the realism of "her" femininity is enhanced by the brilliant collatura separano which "she" displays in her songs. It is of such unusual power and range that it carries well above the robust chorus of seven or eight voices and an orchestra in one or two numbers. The other "ladies" of the company are Leonard Young, the first and original duchess, who makes an impressive figure as the "Duchess of Delia," in the final act; and Allan Murray, whose particular claim to distinction lies in a number of spectacular dances. Murray and Jerry Bravard provide one of the most spirited and graceful dancing acts of the whole revue, to an accompaniment of castanets. Catchy Choruses.

There are some catchy choruses in "Stepping Out," the best being "Turned Up," and "Jog Along Jasper." A grand opera burlesque, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," furnishes a boisterous conclusion. "Stepping Out" is certain to draw good audiences for its remaining performances in London after its splendid first-night reception here. The company includes some of the original Dumbells, the cast being Gene Pearson, Alan Murray, Bob Anderson, Gus McKinnon, Norman Blume, Jerry Bravard, Thomas Dunn, Bertram Langley, James McDonald and Lionel Broadway.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"The Great Divide."

Plenty of action and a reel full of thrills are provided in "The Great Divide," showing for the last of the week at the Capitol. Alice Terry, Conway Tearle and Wallace Beery, as members of the cast, are sufficient guarantee of a picture being well played.

The story is that of a girl, married in a moment of haste to a man she does not love, as the only means of safety from the attacks of ruffians. Eventually she does come to love him, of course, and the "they lived happily ever after" ending fits the rest of the picture, which is melodrama.

However, as the location is the Grand Canyon, Arizona, there are some exceedingly fine scenic effects, and the cloudburst, with the consequent flooding of the Box Canyon, is very well done and most realistic. The whole length of the Grand Canyon is used in the locale and various parts of it, with the hills in the background, form the scenes of the action. A large dam was built at the end of Box Canyon in the filming to represent the cloudburst, which was opened at the right time. Two figures are shown on horseback just ahead of the oncoming wall of water in a scene that is one of the most forceful ever made on the screen. The whole picture is well worth seeing. A Mack Sennett comedy, "The Haunted Honeymoon," and a Pathe

MAJESTIC THEATRE

"Buddies."

When George V. Hobart wrote "Buddies," the comedy playing at the Majestic this week, he probably had in mind that along with the memory of the conflict of war soldiers and civilians alike would not forget some of the lighter moments in camp and bivouac.

These have been preserved to be given life anew by the Majestic players and some local favorites. Incorporated into the comedy are such touches as the army boxing match, wherein the soldiers "mix it" to the delight of the crowd, and a sentimental, something of dramatic force and no little comedy serve to make "Buddies" a delightful play. Lyle Clement, who has in several productions occupied the place of a carefree man about town, is seen as a lushful soldier lover in "Buddies."

He longs to tell the pretty little French girl, Julie, just how much he thinks of her. He is genuinely funny. Miss Leslie Rice as Julie is given ample opportunity to display her histrionic abilities. In the last act Carmen W. Learn sang the "Twilight Song," one of the outstanding numbers of the program. It was well done.

MANY FEATURES AT CIRCUS TONIGHT

Pugilistic Contests Will Follow Regular Program—Draw For Prizes Tomorrow.

In spite of threatening weather and in large crowds attended the evening performance at the armories last night. The armories were filled long before the hour of starting. Many of the crowd were Scots, who had come to listen to the skirl of the pipes once more in the pipe band competition.

Tonight all the fight fans will be here. Cy Pook will be in action and a couple of good boys from St. Catharines, as well as a Detroit fighter, will be in the ring. The pugilistic contests will be held immediately after the regular evening performance.

Playing before a large crowd at the armories last night the London Fusiliers demonstrated their ability as a pipe band and won the trophy given for the best pipe band to play at the armories during "Joy Week." The margin of victory was small. Only two points separated the London band from that of the Western Ontario Regiment. The score was $3 and the verdict seemed to meet with the approval of the majority of those present. Forest City Pipe Band was given third place.

Last night the largest crowd of "Joy-Week" was seen at the armories. The band, which was decorated, lined the four walls of the building, were patronized throughout the night. The cawkers with their shrill cries were centers of attraction.

Interests of Personalities. There are two interesting personalities at the armories for Joy Week, who should be seen by everybody. There is little Princess Corsetta and Cornelius. The lady, who is only 39 inches high, claims to be the smallest woman in the world. She weighs 40 pounds, wears No. 5 baby shoes, and is 37 years of age. What is more, she is a Canadian, and proud of it. She is a charming conversationalist, well read and interested in everything going on. The lady, who is only 39 inches high, claims to be the smallest woman in the world. She weighs 40 pounds, wears No. 5 baby shoes, and is 37 years of age. What is more, she is a Canadian, and proud of it. She is a charming conversationalist, well read and interested in everything going on.

As for Cornelius, he makes friends as easily as he reads minds. He is a mind reader of more than ordinary merit. He has a small booth on the west end of the armories, where he sits in his green turban and helps people to find things they have lost, and tells them things they want to know. All that he asks is that the client concentrates.

A man went to him the other day in a skeptical mood, boasting that he could not pick out the thing he was thinking of. Cornelius took him by the hand, led him round the hall among the crowds, and stopped at a booth lined with large dolls. He picked out one of the dolls, and the doubter admitted he was right. Music and singing go together, and this accounts for the popularity of the bands at the armories. The R. C. B. band has been playing by the kind permission of Lieut.-Col. Seeley Smith, each afternoon and evening, and tonight the orchestra of the Central college will supply the music. This orchestra, under Douglas Peterson, has made an enviable reputation for itself, and is always a welcome feature of any program. The manager of this school orchestra is Miss Dorothy McCann.

Daring Trapeze Acts. No circus is complete without a few trapeze acts, and the armories have three or four good acts of this kind for Joy Week. One of the most spectacular acts is that of Aerial Ferris, who does some of the most daring and swinging stunts, with no life net between him and the floor. His act, in which he balances on two legs of a chair resting on a wire, has been specially applauded during his stay in London. Everyone buying an admission ticket to the armories has a chance to win a car or a washing machine, or a handsome bedroom suite, or a vacuum cleaner. The draw for the ticket numbers takes place on Saturday, when the announcement of the winners will be made. The car stands in the armories and attracts general attention each day.

VISIT FROM EARL HAIG IS SOUGHT FOR CITY

Will Be Urged to Come to London During His Stay in Canada.

With Earl Haig's forthcoming visit to Canada in July to open the British service league at Ottawa, as guest of the Canadian command of the G. W. V. A., he will be urged to come to London as guest of the G. W. V. A. local command. A. Shields of Toronto, secretary of the provincial command, who is now in the city in connection with the G. W. V. A. Joy Week celebration here, declared that every effort would be made to put London's invitation before the British expeditionary forces commander-in-chief.

Remarkable progress has featured almost every branch of the G. W. V. A. in Ontario. Mr. Shields said. London and Toronto command members particularly have made outstanding membership gains, displaying also an increasing amount of work among returned veterans. Progress has also been made in Kingston, Windsor and Ottawa groups, while smaller branches are taking on added interest in the veteran movement.

Mr. Shields was particularly enthusiastic regarding pensions for returned war heroes. He stated that pension matters were being pushed by all commands of the G. W. V. A. to such an extent that an active and satisfying result is almost assured. London has made a request to hold this year's provincial convention of the G. W. V. A. here, according to Secretary Shields.

GREAT WAR VETERAN DIES AT WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL

BIG GAME SHOOTS WILL KEEP PRINCE IN TRIM

Thirty Thousand Horsemen Will Provide Picturesque Desert Salute.

LEAVES TOMORROW

British Heir Will Make Extensive Tour of South African Provinces.

By HAYDEN CHURCH, Special Cable to The Advertiser.

London, March 27.—One of the high spots in the Prince of Wales' African tour, upon which he embarks on Saturday on the battle cruiser Repulse, will be his first month away from home. In honor of the prince's visit to Nigeria, on the west coast, where he will arrive on April 9, a Durbar is being arranged at Kano (Northern Nigeria) which promises to provide as mighty a spectacle as even the much travelled and feted heir to the British throne has ever witnessed.

Emirs and chiefs, with their retinues and footmen, will be disposed for the event on the great Kano plain. The horsemen alone will probably number 30,000. The Durbar horsemen will be clad in chain armor. Court jesters, mounted and unmounted, will dance round the Emirs. But the most impressive part will be the desert salute given to the prince, bands of selected horsemen in rapid succession charging up to the stand in a whirlwind of dust. The prince will be introduced to the prince, Mohammedan religious person, to whom he will give a striking demonstration of their loyalty.

State embassies. Other displays, descriptions of which will read like passages from Rider Haggard, will be given before the young ambassador of empire when he visits his host to southern Rhodesia, he meets first the chiefs of the Matabele, and later those of Mashonaland. These dusky leaders will vie with one another in the splendor of their "state umbrellas," hundreds of which (including at least one with a "ferrule" of solid gold), will be paraded before the prince, while their followers are rehearsing the wild dances and displays of mimic warfare which will be given in honor of the eldest son of the great white empire.

At Cape Town, where the Prince arrives on April 30, a striking feature of the rejoicings will be a huge children's entertainment—only one item of an elaborate program.

Probably, however, the Prince's most wonderful experience while in South Africa will be his big game "shoots." He will go up against big game in Africa for the first time during his halt for "rest and recreation" at Sir Abe Bailey's farm at Colesburg, where he will arrive on May 10, and put in three days. And later at the Sabie game reserve in the Transvaal, which the Prince will reach on June 14, and in the Central estates of Rhodesia. His Royal Highness, under Douglas Peterson, has made an enviable reputation for itself, and is always a welcome feature of any program. The manager of this school orchestra is Miss Dorothy McCann.

Busy Round at Polo. The Transvaal reserves alone contain 10,000 square miles and form the chief natural zoo in the world. There has been very little shooting for the sake of sport there for two years. Many of the animals have absolutely lost their fear of man. About 1,000 carnivora are shot there annually to reduce their number.

Polo is another of the Prince's favorite sports in which, during his forthcoming tour, he will be able to indulge to his heart's content. Natal polo ponies have been chosen for his use. It is expected that the Prince will play at Maritzburg, Durban, Maseru, and at the Duke of Westminster's estate in the Orange Free State. The Prince has become an honorary member of the South African polo association, under whose auspices matches will be played.

While in the Southern Rhodesia, on the last lap of his tour, the Prince will visit the lonely grave of Cecil Rhodes in the Matopos, and the Zimbabwe ruins. He will reach Salisbury on July 7, and will hold an investiture of orders granted at the New Year and on the King's birthday. The program includes a race meeting and a public ball. On July 11, the Prince will arrive at the Victoria Falls.

Tour by Automobile. Most of his tour in South Africa will be made by automobile. The driver of the prince's car, P. J. Small, is already at Cape Town, trying out the six Crossley cars, which will be used by his royal highness and his suite. Small, a member of the staff of Crossley Motors, Limited, is a Manchester man. He does not lack experience of tropical tours. In 1913-14 he drove the prince throughout his Australian tour, following this with the great Indian tour of 1921-22. He has driven the prince in Hong Kong, Japan, in Singapore, and during many tours made in this country.

The prince's South African tour ends on July 22, when he re-embarks on the Repulse, and sails for South America. A brief stop en route will be made at St. Helena. His first port of call in South America will be Montevideo, where he will probably arrive on July 31. The prince is enthusiastic welcome awaits him. He will be received on arrival by Jose Cerrato, Dr. Juan Carlos Blanco, foreign secretary, and the other members of the government. His stay in Uruguay is limited to two or three days, after which he leaves for Argentina for a three weeks' tour.

When he reaches Buenos Aires, the prince will find the city specially illuminated, and Buenos Aires illuminated is worth travelling 7,000 miles to see. He will be officially welcomed at the president's palace, then by the nation at the Hall of Congress, a magnificent building at the end of the Avenida de Mayo.

After these and other ceremonies have been carried out, with a pomp and splendor rarely seen outside of India, the prince will be officially welcomed by the people and will become just plain "Don Eduardo." He will then spend glorious days on some huge "estancia." There he will be the guest of some cattle king, on an estate as big as an English county. He will see the gauchos or native cowboys (All rights reserved.)

the world's most popular bachelor, who leaves England Saturday on his tour of the empire. He will visit all parts of the British dominions that he has not already seen. (From a recent photo.)

SCHOLARSHIP, TUITION MATRICULATION AWARD

Total of $225 To Be Given to Best Commercial Student in Western Ontario.

The scholarship for $75 awarded to the best student of the third year honor course in commercial economics will be awarded next year and for all subsequent years as a matriculation scholarship for students in the fourteen counties of Western Ontario, and registering for the commerce course at the University of Western Ontario, who obtain the highest average marks in upper school examinations in English, mathematics, Latin and one foreign language. COLLEGIATE TO GIVE PROGRAM IN FRENCH

Literary Society of East London School Will Present Unique Concert.

A program entirely in French will be given next week at the regular meeting of the East London Collegiate literary society. The music will be investment of orders granted at the New Year and on the King's birthday. The program includes a race meeting and a public ball. On July 11, the Prince will arrive at the Victoria Falls.

ELECTRIC STORM CAUSES BIG LOSS

Broom Factory Damaged and Street Cars Tied Up For Over Hour.

A severe electrical storm swooped down on London last night after a day of extreme warmth and sunshine for the time of year, caused considerable damage. A blaze in Gurd's broom factory at the corner of Wilson avenue and Blackfriars street was caused through lightning, and the main feed line to the north branches of the city street railway lines was similarly hit. Street cars were tied up for more than an hour before the trouble could be remedied.

Loss of more than $1,000 was suffered in the Gurd factory fire. A bolt of lightning struck the base of a brick chimney on the southwest corner of the building. A pile of broom corn stored in that section became ignited. Three lines of hose were run into the building after response from the fire department shortly after 9 o'clock. The flames spread over the greater part of the second and third floors. Chief Aitken declares that had the fire started later in the evening with the rain, the building would have been totally destroyed. Attached to the factory and under the same roof is the West London postoffice, a grocery store, above which, is a dwelling and a butcher shop. The house occupied by William Gurd stands close to the building and would have suffered also.

Fifteen cars on Richmond, North Belt and Oxford lines were tied up when electrical connections to the north-end of the city were destroyed. The halt in railway traffic occurred when the storm was at a severe height, and passengers were compelled to remain in darkened cars until the heavy rain. It was not until 11 o'clock that the main feed line was put into repair and service was resumed.

Forest Garage Changes Hands

London and Sarnia Buses To Operate From Same Terminal.

Special to The Advertiser.

Forest, March 26.—R. T. McIntosh has sold his residence, property and garage on King street to Stanley Hare, who will take possession in April. The residence is a double house, and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jennings will occupy the other half. Since Mr. Hare operates the Sarnia bus and Mr. Jennings the London bus, the new arrangements will have both services at the one garage. Mr. McIntosh has not decided if he will leave Forest.

District Deputy Mark W. Cullington and his wife were in attendance and were introduced to the members. The altar was dedicated by the district deputy, as this was the first meeting of the ladies in this hall. A number of candidates were initiated into the hive and were quite enthusiastic over the ceremony. A large class has been promised for the next meeting, which will be held in the new lodge rooms, A. O. F. hall, 227½ Dundas street, on Wednesday, April 22.

The commander of the hive, Mrs. Grace Summers, was appointed as delegate to the provincial convention which will be held in Toronto on April 14 and 15, and Lady Lambert was appointed as alternate delegate.

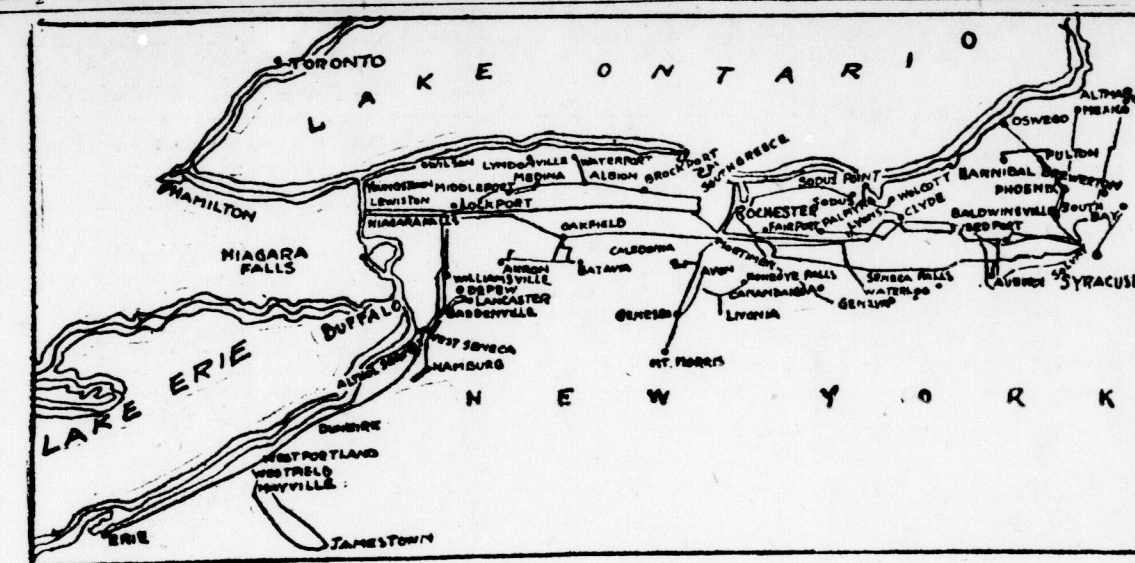

An invitation to all the members to attend the convention as visitors was given by the district deputy. Strength of Order. An invitation of the extended to the ladies to attend the euchre of London tent No. 4, the Maccabees, which will be held on Thursday, April 9, and a good attendance of the ladies was promised. District Deputy M. W. Cullington gave a short address on the order and the benefits paid out during the last year and pointed out the policies as a remarkable showing of the soundness of the order at the present time.

The pallbearers included James Storrie, William Collins, Arthur Elliott and George Parker of Sarnia. Mrs. Beecroft is survived by her husband, James, and two daughters, Mrs. William Storrie of London and Mrs. Arthur Elliott of Detroit. Funeral services were also held at her late home in Cleveland on Wednesday, conducted by Rev. W. W. Bustard of Euclid avenue Methodist church, of which Mrs. Beecroft was an active member. She belonged to the Sarah Andrews W. X. T. U. the Women's Union and Woodland circle No. 50, W. O. W.

WHERE ONTARIO EXPORTS HYDRO POWER. Under long-term contracts taken over from two companies, the publicly-owned Ontario hydro system last year supplied about $5,000 horsepower of electricity for distribution in the United States. The district supplied is 200 miles long from east to west. A tax of $1.95 per h.p. will now have to be paid on all the power exported, and must be shouldered by those who get the power or by the hydro municipalities which supply it. And all the places on the map get hydro power.

SEVEN-CENT TICKET DRAWS AUTOMOBILE

T. H. Luney of Huron & Erie Wins Second-Hand Model.

Is a car cheap at seven cents? It all depends on the car. H. Luney of the Huron and Erie staff, won a car on a seven-cent ticket the other day, and thinks he got a bargain. However there are other members of the staff who hold a different opinion.

The car originally was owned by one Lawrence Moore, also of the H. and E. staff. He thought that he needed a new car, so he decided to let the old standby go to someone more in need of travel de luxe. He hit on the idea of a draw and issued tickets for it all the way from seven cents to a dollar. One of the seven-cent tickets made the grade. It is a touring guaranteed to go

'Ten-shun!' Khaki Appears To Adorn Prisoners' Box

Many who have now scattered to the corners of the earth would give testimony, if they could be reached, to the hospitality of the grimy prisoners' box that reposes day in and day out in the London's ramshackle police court. This diminutive meeting pot of nations is most cosmopolitan, but it is a long, long time since a khaki uniform slumped within its confines.

The army made a quiet comeback this morning and brushed shoulders for a minute with civil life. Drinks, which knows neither class nor creed, was blamed by police for the appearance of the two prisoners.

The mid-lenten function was indeed brief. "Military" classed in the popular category of "drunk," was turned over to the military authorities. Thomas O'Hagan, charged with driving a car while under the influence of one of the many nervy enemies of the O. T. A., asked for a remand. He got a week-end ticket and must appear again Monday. "He's still drunk," Magistrate Graydon mused as O'Hagan started his return trip to the cells.

"Court's adjourned," Chief Birrell droned. 'Twas a quiet morning.

home at command, to answer to "Henry," and to use the minimum of gas. In view of this guarantee the new owner believes he is justified in saying that he has got good value, pressed down and running over for his seven cents.

WILL HOLD DANCE.

On Monday night the individual Labor Party will hold a dance in the Ritz Pleasure Gardens. The dance will begin at 8 o'clock. This is the first entertainment to be given by this branch of London labor this season, and all labor in the city and their wives have been invited.

EXHIBIT DIRECTOR IS GUEST OF CITY

J. S. McKinnon Interviews Manufacturer as to Entries at Wembley.

J. S. McKinnon, director of Canadian exhibits at the Empire exhibition at Wembley, is in the city today interviewing local manufacturers as to showing exhibits this year in England. He has already a larger number of exhibits arranged for this year than last and has even had to make some changes in the arrangement of the Canadian building to accommodate them.

"There are some people who think that Wembley was a failure because it was not an immediate financial success," he said, "but it was never intended to be an immediate success in dollars and cents. It was expected that fifteen million people would view the exhibits, but the actual figure was eighteen million."

"It was the first effort made by any country engaged in the war to get together for a new industrial life on the basis of post-war conditions. It was conceived with the idea of acquainting the people of the world with the industrial capacity of the British Empire and there is no question that it accomplished its purpose. It was the beginning of an empire movement that will last for decades, and which will be paying dividends when the present Wembley buildings have been forgotten."

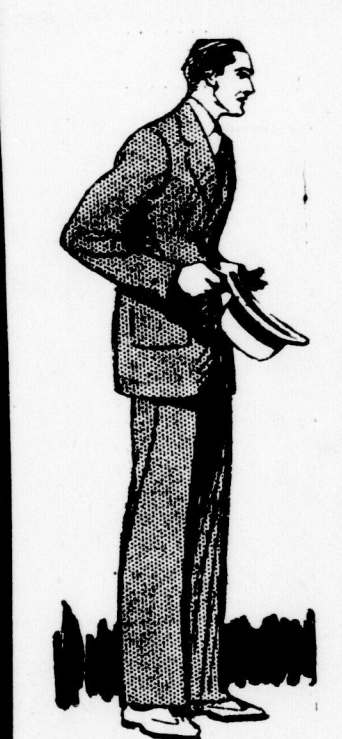

Mr. McKinnon has sets of very fine photographs showing the exhibits in general and the Canadian buildings and exhibits in particular. It is noteworthy that the Canadian exhibits are well arranged, and that it was the general opinion in old London that they were the best "put up" exhibits at Wembley. He is leaving for Wembley in about three weeks' time.

GERMANS AGREE TO ANY POLICY

Willing To Accept Any Plan That Will Give Them Work and a Living.

"I believe the average person in Germany now is ready to support any policy that will give him a chance to go to work again and make a living." That is the belief of William Maglader, now Canadian sales agent for the Massey-Harris Co. and until a couple of months ago their special representative in France.

During his residence in France Mr. Maglader made many trips to Germany in the connection with the organization of business for his firm on a post-war basis. "There is a decided difference between the people of Germany and of France," he remarked. "In France the average individual is well off, and many of them have more money now than they had before. The population is well employed. In Germany there are extremes. For instance the money lending classes are down and out. It happened this way. A lender made a loan of a thousand dollars, or its equivalent in German money, and it was on the interest he received from that loan that he depended for his living.

Money Lender Loses. "When the value of the mark dropped to nothing at all, and the loan came due it was very easy matter for the man who had borrowed the money to pay it back mark for mark, because the mark he was repaying it with was practically worthless. The money lender was wiped out, and the same thing happened to many all over the country who had uncollected debts. The people who were able to hang on were those who had something tangible such as a piece of property or the farming classes who had the implements of cultivation. Today they are in a position to go ahead and work and as far as I could see there is nothing they desire more than a chance to do it.

"A person who had not seen what the breaking down of the mark meant could hardly recognize what it meant to business in general. I can recall one case at the time of the Leipzig fair, being in a store purchasing a small article, the price of which was something over a million and a half marks. Just when the purchase was being wrapped up there had been a new rating put on the mark, and the floor-walker went through the premises calling out a number.

Value Quickly Increased. "The parcel I was getting had increased in value some five hundred thousand marks, and I had to pay the new value. When I got back to the hotel I started to figure out what it all meant and found that at the prevailing rate my purchase that was worth about two million marks had really cost me about thirty-seven cents.

"Of course that is past history now, but the results of the practice still remain and there were thousands of men ruined. That is why the Dawes plan is acceptable to many in Germany, because they see in it the only way out for them. There are features of it they don't like, but the great mass of the people are anxious for peace and a chance to get back to a working condition."

DEBATERS FROM DUNNS WIN FIRST SEMI-FINALS

Defeated West Oxford Team
in County League Debate at Beachville.

Special to The Advertiser.
Ingersoll, March 26.—An interesting debate was staged this evening at Beachville, when teams from West Oxford U. F. W. O. and Dunns U. F.

O. met in the first of the semi-finals of the Oxford U. F. O. debating league series.

The topic was: "Resolved, that the railroads, mines, and other national resources should be owned by the dominion government." The affirmative was upheld by Archie Todd and Miss Beatrice Gerrie of Dunns, while the negative was taken by Stanley Allin and Mrs. Pullin for West Oxford. The debate was well handled, and showed proof of much preparation.

The judges were Rev. Raymer of Beachville, Mr. Moran of the Ingersoll collegiate, and George James of Ingersoll, and gave the decision to the negative.

The gathering was held in the assembly room of the public school, and was well attended.

WOMEN and THE HOME

DRESS By MARY MARSHALL

Glazed Chintz Inspires Milliners and Dressmakers Who Drape It With Net and Lace.

The decorators first taught us the possibilities of glazed chintz. Of course there was nothing new about it. It was revived from a hoary past along with old pewee, old quilts, old miniatures and daguerotypes. Rather, daring modern decorators used it to make window curtains, and for covering cushions and upholstered chairs. Now it is an accepted fabric with the decorators.

The milliners have come to the upholsterers to borrow many fabrics and now they come in search of this revived glazed chintz. It is all part of the general rage for lacquered fabric. Lacquered ribbons, braids and flowers have been used repeatedly by the best milliners. Charming little hats of this material are shown in some of the shops, designed, of course, for resort and country wear. The designs are usually of small, distinctive floral type. In the sketch you may see a charming model of pink and yellow glazed chintz lined with pink and trimmed with pink ribbon. Lest the effect depart from the hat of perfect ensemble, the white crepe de chine frock with which the hat is worn is trimmed with bands of the same chintz.

Frocks are also made of this interesting fabric. One gown showing a quite vivid glazed chintz is draped with black lace, producing the effect of a rich but unusual brocade. Sometimes the glazed chintz is covered with silver lace or lace dyed a brilliant green. In making these interesting frocks, one of the clever dressmakers puts a wide band of colored silk at the bottom of the skirt, so that the chintz is never seen unveiled. When veiled with green-dyed lace the silk is of green, while the frock veiled with black lace over flowered chintz shows a wide band of orange silk.

Pink and yellow glazed chintz hat lined with pink and trimmed with pink ribbon. Bands of the chintz trim the white crepe de chine frock.

In painted design and applied in silk and muslin on the frocks of his spring collection. One of his most charming designs frocks of mauve georgette and silver lace with morning glories forming the belt.

SOME PUDDING SAUCES.

Fruit sauce—Whip a cup of cream solid and fold into it half a cup of fresh or preserved fruit rubbed through a sieve and sweetened to taste. Jam, marmalade, or jelly may be used instead of the fruit, and the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs may be used instead of the cream.

Golden sauce—Rub to a cream half a cup of butter and brown sugar, heat in a double boiler and add gradually the beaten yolk of one or two eggs. Cook slowly until thick, stirring constantly, and season to taste with wine or lemon. Add a little spice if desired.

Lemon sauce—Cream one-third cup of butter with one cup of sugar and a tablespoon of flour. Add one and one-half cups of boiling water, simmer until smooth, and add a lemon which has been chopped without peeling, removing the seeds.

Foaming sauce—Cream half a cup of butter with a cup of sugar and add a teaspoon of cinnamon. Add one egg well beaten and, very gradually, one cup of boiling milk. Serve immediately.

Hard sauce—Soften a cup of butter with two tablepoons of boiling water and add gradually two cups of brown sugar. Add grated nutmeg to flavor, beat until light and creamy, and serve cold.

A GOOD SAUCE FOR FISH.

Tomato Sauce. Simmer one-half cup tomatoes, one chopped onion, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one clove together ten minutes. Rub through sieve. Cook together one tablespoon each of flour and butter one minute, add tomato gradually, stir till smooth, and simmer five minutes.

FI-FI DELIGHTS AUDIENCE FIRST NIGHT AT PATRICIA

Spectacular Musical Play Will Be Repeated by Clever Cast Tonight.

FOR NEW Y. W. C. A.

"Fi Fi of the Toy Shop" delighted a large audience at the Patricia theatre last night. It was the initial presentation of this whimsical musical play, which has for its background all the quaint charms of an old-fashioned toy shop, the spectacular beauty of the milky way and the loveliness of a fairy garden.

The title role was played by Miss Kathleen England in charming fashion. It takes greater skill to be a doll, come alive, than to take a natural lead, and Miss England managed her part with ability, from the absolutely still poses to the mechanical walk and dance across the stage. Her voice was lovely in the singing numbers.

Miss Erie Mitchell as Bonnie, the little girl of the toy shop, shared the honors with her. Miss Mitchell made a perfectly natural little girl, bubbling over with fun and curiosity. Her vivacious manner and charming personality were put to dramatic use last night and captured the hearts of her audience.

The play was presented under the auspices of the Campers' Association of the Y.W.C.A., in aid of a new Y.W.C.A. building, and will be repeated tonight.

Most Striking Scene. Perhaps the most striking scene of the whole production was the opening one in the toy shop. So cleverly were the artists made up and so perfectly did they maintain their lifeless poses that it seemed a stretch of the imagination to believe that they were flesh and blood people. It must have been a full fifteen minutes before the initial tableau was broken up and the dolls awakened, and yet not a movement could be detected.

Their gradual coming to life was another clever piece of dramatic work, the dolls' eyes opening and as they swung their heads and arms and legs, the notes of their love song came floating into the theatre.

Attractive Choruses. "Fi Fi of the Toy Shop" is filled with lovely choruses and quaint and witty dances. Among the loveliest was the bridemaids' dance, featured by an attractive solo dance by Miss Florence Foot. The Paper Dolls was another pretty chorus, while the Arimals from Noah's Ark made a decided hit by their quaint antics. The cleverest chorus was a drill of small girls, who represented the letter blocks and spelled messages to the audience as they matched letter with letter in the course of their drill.

Among the comic roles, that of "Loosey" the rag doll, played by Miss Joyce Glibbert, stands out in delightful relief. She was the looziest sort of a "Loosey" and provided many a laugh. Miss Beese Hardie as "Pink Spot" was another humorous character who drew her share of laughter. Mildred Grant made a most excellent Prince Lollipop, while Murray McDiarmid was a brilliant Tin Soldier.

Clever Acting. Miss Grace Cape enacted the role of The Witch cleverly, as did the other members of the cast—Bill Mills as Captain Barnacle; George Overton as The Toy Maker; Pearson Greene, George Tambling and Ernest Johnston as the clowns; Miss Kathleen Gibson, who has a pretty singing voice, as The Fairy; Miss Doris Johnston as the Jap Doll; Miss Jean Barbour as the Talking Doll; and Miss Jean Montgomery as Aurelia, the fairy.

Altogether, "Fi Fi" which was produced by the Rogers company, under the personal direction of Paul W. Pine, was a success and will go over with even more vim tonight. Miss Helen d'Avignon, girls' work secretary, was general convenor of the production.

DRAMA LEAGUE IS TO GIVE "BELINDA"

Interesting Series of Plays Will Be Presented This Spring.

The London drama league has an active spring in front of it. The presentation of "You Never Can Tell" by Bernard Shaw on Monday of this week, was the beginning of a series of interesting productions which are in the process of preparation.

Within three or four weeks a one-act drama, "In Shadow of the Glen," by the Irish writer, Synge, will be given under the direction of Basil Morgan, the cast to include Mr. Morgan and Mrs. Arthur Breckenden. "Belinda," an A. A. Milne comedy, starring Mrs. Arthur Breckenden, will be the big spring offering, and will be given about the end of April. Other leading parts will be played by Basil Morgan, Harry Whyte and Vincent Perry.

J. Stanley Meredith is preparing a one-act play for the annual meeting in May.

TRY THIS FRUIT SALAD. One-half pound almonds, four oranges, one can pineapple, three bananas, one-half cup French cherries, one cup powdered sugar. Dorothy Dix

The Infatuation of the Idle Wife Whose Husband Is Away Too Much.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am married to a woman whom I love dearly and who has always seemed to love me, and we have got along beautifully together for a number of years. Unfortunately, my business necessities are being away from home a great deal of the time, and I recently found that my wife has become infatuated with a musician in one of the movie palaces of this city. I am handy with the automatic, but before resorting to desperate means to get rid of the thief I would like to try some other plan of saving my wife and home, if it is possible to do so. Kindly advise. HARRY.

Answer: I should certainly urge you not to take the automatic route out of your difficulty. It has always seemed to me the height of idiocy for a good man to wreck his life for the sake of a worthless woman, as a husband does when he kills his wife's lover.

It is easy to understand the desire for revenge and the mad rage at being robbed and betrayed that makes a husband see red and yearn to take the life of the man who has wronged him. But that savage impulse lasts but for a moment, and when the blood lust is faded and the long, lonely years of wreck and ruin of one's plans and happiness to be lived out.

For murder is murder and the law is the law, and no matter what a man's grievance, no matter how justifiable, no matter how he is aggrieved, the man who takes another's life is ruined. It takes all his fortune to fight through a long murder trial. It breaks his health and nerves, and he comes out branded with the brand of Cain on his brow. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a man in the forties, very much in love with a splendid young woman, but there are three things that make me afraid to pop the question. The first is: There are some things about which our opinions differ, and she can always give good reasons for the stand she takes. Do you think this would cause us to be unhappy if we were married?

The second is that she makes a fine salary. I am afraid that if I should be able to give her what she is accustomed to having that it might make her unhappy. Do you think so?

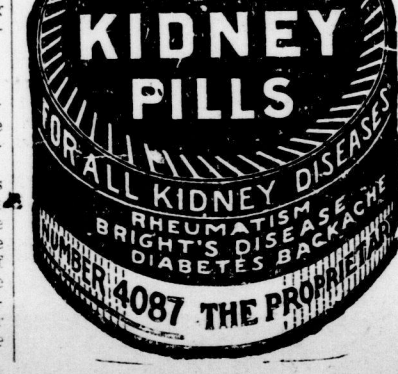

Third, while she knows I love her, I do not know whether she loves me or not. What do you think?

AN UNHAPPY BACHELOR.

Answer: "Faint heart ne'er won fair lady." Take your courage in your hands and jump into the sea of matrimony. The water is fine.

To find out whether the lady loves you or not, you have only to ask her. You shouldn't expect her to wear her heart on her sleeve, and to tell you how much she adores you without your making a pass or two in her direction. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married not quite a year. My husband is just as kind, and good, and considerate as he can be, and he is perfectly devoted to me. But before we met he had been keeping com-

Health and good looks—the reward of internal cleanliness.

IF YOU do not keep clean internally your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks and insomnia, each of which saps your health and vitality.

Avoid Laxatives—say Doctors

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

HIGH-HEELED SPORT SHOES.

There seems a general swinging away from the erstwhile favorite—the perfectly flat-heeled sport shoe. At any rate, in many girls' colleges here and there girls who have never worn anything but the very flat low heel save for "parties" are now wearing fairly high-heeled shoes for everything save actual sports or gym wear. For some time French women have considered a fairly high heel perfectly appropriate for the sports costume. They have even had high-heeled sports shoes. Now, word comes from England that women who took to the flat shoe as a duck to water are giving them up because they feel that such footgear robs them of "ankle charm"—something very important in this dance era. Moreover, the perfectly flat, broad-heeled shoe did not prove in every case to be a cure-all for every sort of foot discomfort. There are women whose feet simply are not made for such shoes. Many women complain that the flat-heeled shoe causes neuritis or similar pains about the feet and ankles.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads. That is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxide powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Ad-

TRAFALGAR WILL HOLD EGG SHOWER

Mothers' Club Plans Easter Gift For Ronald Gray Home.

Plans for an Easter egg shower have already been made by the Trafalgar mothers' club. Thursday, April 2, between 3 and 4 o'clock, will see dozens of eggs pour into the Trafalgar school for the Ronald-Roy Gray home, as gifts from the members of the club. Arrangements for the shower were made at last night's meeting, held in the school.

"Home and Its Influence" was the subject of an inspiring address delivered before the members of the club last night by Mrs. J. S. Calvert. "The Christian home is a great asset to the country," declared the speaker. "It is there that the child's first impressions are formed, and for this reason home can make or mar a man's future. First training should be carefully given. Mothers should see that the home life is pure and good, because the child will meet enough evils outside to overcome."

"A mother's influence begins when the first smiles at her baby. She is the model of the child. Too many mothers leave their training to school teachers, for it is a fact that although the teachers' influence may be good, no one can take the place of a mother."

The speaker closed her talk by repeating a pretty little poem written by herself, entitled "Catching Shadows." The program included readings by Hazel Partridge and piano solos by Siemsi Versteeg. Announcement was made that the club had cleared $40 in the recent home-cooking sale. Announcement was also made of the Union mothers' club meeting on April 27. A stirring

DE MARKY SCORES IN CHOPIN RECITAL

Presents Brilliant Program in Central Collegiate Auditorium.

An entire Chopin program was the offering of Paul de Marky, when he appeared in recital at the Central Collegiate Institute last night. Mr. de Marky's brilliant playing has been heard on several outstanding programs this season, but last night was the first occasion on which he has given the entire program himself. The large number who heard him were delighted with his offering.

The program was opened with a request number the magnificent "Polonaise in B flat major," which he played with sparkling technique and artistry. The first group also included the "Ballade in F minor," another favorite. Mr. de Marky has the gift of pulling his audience up to the plane of his music. He plays with perfect ease and yet with a dignity and artistic touch which is rare indeed. He appears at his best in Chopin, which allows ample scope for his brilliant technique and gives his artistry a perfect medium with which to work. The middle group had for its numbers: Two Preludes in E major and B flat major; two waltzes in E flat and G flat major; a Berceuse, and five Etudes in A minor, D flat major, C major, F minor and A minor. Rarely have these numbers been played with such sympathy and such perfect workmanship as they were played last night.

The altogether delightful program was brought to a magnificent close by the Sonata in B minor.

Discussion centered about the buying of new realia. The lodge has accepted with pleasure an invitation to a banquet and progressive euchre, which is being held in Toronto on April 14 by Maple Leaf lodge, 161, of Toronto.

A happy event of the evening was the presentation of cut glass flower bowls to the treasurer, Mrs. Tom Heard, and the secretary, Mrs. P. Lazenby, in appreciation of their splendid work during the year.

A quilting was arranged to be held at the home of Mrs. Jack Rodger, Quebec street, on Tuesday afternoon. At the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. McMillan and Miss Rennie.

LONDON BRANCH W.M.S. TO HOLD ANNUAL SOON

Congregational Women Will Meet in Southern Church in May.

The annual meeting of the London branch of the W. M. S. of the Congregational churches of the city will be held in the Southern Congregational church on May 20. This was announced at a most successful meeting of the W. M. S. of that church, held yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. M. Thomas, Waterloo street.

Mrs. H. Taylor read an interesting mission story, "Mrs. Grant's Miracle," which was greatly enjoyed. During the afternoon it was decided by the women to take as their study, "India," and each member is to bring in some literature on this country at the next meeting. A "get-acquainted" committee was also appointed, with Mrs. W. Powell as convener, and including Mrs. F. Burridge, Mrs. J. Hawke, Mrs. Rudland, and Mrs. Russell. Plans were also made for a panacea social to be held under the convenship of Mrs. J. George on April 2, when Mrs. Burridge will arrange for an attractive program.

A display of the many lovely personal gifts to the missionaries in Africa was viewed by the members during the afternoon, which included a women's and children's dresses.

Quilts, boys' shirts, dolls and many other attractive presents. Mrs. W. Charles, the president, presided over the meeting and Mrs. Rudland read the Scripture lesson. Following the meeting dainty refreshments were served, with Mrs. B. Gillett, Mrs. J. Walton, and Mrs. Thomas as hostesses.

The Astonishing Adventure of Jane Smith

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

Anthony Luttrell caught a slow local train at Withstead—the sort of train that serves little country places all over England. It dawdled slowly from station to station, sometimes taking what appeared to be an unnecessary rest at a signal box as well. It finally reached Maxton ten minutes late, thereby missing the London express and leaving Anthony Luttrell with a two hours' wait.

Waiting just at present was about as congenial an occupation as he could find. He walked up and down with a dragging, restless step, and tried unsuccessfully to shut off his torturing thoughts behind a safety curtain. The time dragged intolerably. Presently he left the platform and went up on to the bridge which ran from one side of the station to the other. Here he began his pacing again, stopping every now and then to watch a train come in or a train go out. From the bridge one could see all the platforms.

When an express rushed through the whole structure shook and clouds of white steam blotted out everything. It was when the steam was clearing away, and the roar of the receding train was dying down, that Anthony noticed another local running in to the Withstead platform. He bent over the rail and watched the passengers get out—just a handful.

There was a young woman with two children, two farmers, three or four nondescript women, and a big man with a suitcase. Anthony looked at the big man and went on looking at him. Something about him seemed vaguely familiar. The man came along the platform and began to mount the steps that led up to the bridge. Halfway up he put down his suitcase, took off his hat for a moment as if to cool himself, and stood there looking up. Then he replaced his hat, shifted the suitcase to the other hand, and came up the rest of the steps. He seemed hot.

He passed Anthony and went down the steps on to the London platform. Anthony followed him. When the big man stood still and looked up, eight years were suddenly wiped out. Memory is a queer thing and plays queer tricks. What Anthony's memory did was to set him down in the year 1912, in the gallery of a hall in Chicago. There was a packed and rather vociferous audience. There was a big man on the platform, a big man who seemed hot. His speech was, in fact, of a sufficiently inflammatory nature to make anyone feel hot. It breathed fire and fury. Its rolling eloquence must have involved a good deal of physical exertion. Suddenly after a period the speaker stopped and looked up at the gallery for applause. It came like a veritable cyclone. The meeting was subsequently broken up by the police.

Anthony remembered that the speaker's name was Molloy. If Mr. Molloy had come from Withstead, it occurred to Anthony that his destination would probably be of interest. The London train was due in ten minutes. When it came in Molloy got into a third-class carriage, and Anthony followed his example. It was at seven-thirty on Sunday morning that Mrs. March's cook, who was sweeping the hall, was given what she afterwards described as a turn by the arrival of an odd-looking man who would give no name and insisted on seeing her master.

"Awful he looked with that 'grind' scar and his 'air' that wild, and not giving me a chance to shut the door in his face, for he pushed in the moment I got it open—that's what gave me the worst turn of all—and walks into the dining-room as bold as brass and says, 'I want to see Captain March—and be quick, please.'"

When Henry came into the dining-room he shut the door behind him very quickly and looked as if he also had had a turn.

"Good Lord, Tony, what's happened," he said.

"Nothing," said Anthony, with nonchalance.

"Then in heaven's name, why are you here?"

"I'm through, that's all. You can't say I didn't give notice."

"It's not a question of what I say, it's what Piggy'll say."

"Oh, I've got a sop for Piggy. I've been doing the faithful sleuth. I've trailed a man from Withstead, a highly genteel boardinghouse in South Kensington; and as I last saw the gentleman addressing an I. W. W. meeting in Chicago, I imagine Piggy might be interested."

"Who was it?" said Henry quickly.

"Molloy."

"You're sure?"

"Absolutely."

"Good man. You're in luck, Molloy, under the interesting alias of the Bernier, has just been selling the government Formula 'A'."

He was trailed over here with the swag and then lost sight of. For a dead cert he's been to Luttrell Marches by the back way and seen Ember."

Anthony turned away.

"There's the devil to pay down there," he said. "No, no, the girl's all right. This is something I ought to have told you when you were down. I ought to have told you the whole thing. I couldn't bring myself to."

"Sit down, Tony. What is it?"

"No, I can't sit. He walked to the window and stood there, looking out. His hands made restless movements. He spoke keeping his back to Henry.

"You didn't go through all the passages?"

"No, I was going to tonight."

"I ought to have told you. The big place under the terrace, you know—they've turned it into a laboratory. Molloy may have been working here, for all I know; he had the name of an expert chemist."

"Yes, so on."

"You'd have found it yourself tonight, but I couldn't let you go blundering in unwarned. Ember might be there—anyone might be there. It's damnable, Henry, but I believe she's up to her neck in it."

Henry was silent. There seemed to be nothing to say. He also believed that Raymond Heritage was up to her neck in whatever secret enterprise was being developed at Luttrell Marches. He remembered the passion in her voice when she said, "I should like to smash it all."

and he remembered how she had stunk. "Would we not shatter it to bits, and then remold it nearer to the heart's desire?" Whatever the thing was, he believed she was in it up to her neck. So he was silent, and Anthony was grateful for his silence.

The silence was broken by a tapping, and a rustling, and the turning of a handle. The door opened very abruptly, and Mrs. de Luttrell March made a precipitous entrance. She wore a pink silk negligee and a boudoir cap embroidered in forget-me-nots, also an expression of extreme terror—the cook's description of their early visitor having prepared her to find Henry's corpse stretched upon the hearth rug. When a living and annoyed Henry confronted her, she clung to his arm and gazed round-eyed at the blond thin man who had swung round at her entrance. Uncertainty succeeded fear. Henry was saying, "Go back to your room, mother," but it is doubtful whether she heard him.

Gradually her grasp of his arm relaxed. She walked slowly across the room, and stared with horrified amazement at Anthony.

He looked over her head at Henry, shrugging his shoulders just perceptibly, and made as if to turn back to the window again. Either that shrug or the faintly sarcastic lift of the eyebrows that accompanied it, brought a sort of broken gasp to Mrs. March's lips. She put out her hand, touched his coat sleeve with her finger-tips, and said:

"Anthony—it's Anthony—oh, Henry, it's Anthony."

She backed a little at each repetition of the name, looked wildly round, and sinking on to the nearest chair, burst into tears.

"Henry—oh, please somebody speak," she sobbed.

"It's all right, Aunt Rosa. I'm not a ghost," said Anthony in his dress voice.

Henry experienced a cold dread of what his mother would say next. She had talked so much and thought so incessantly of Luttrell Marches. Later, she had been so sure of Henry's ownership, and so proud of it. What would she say now—as she dropped her hands from her face and gazed with streaming eyes at Anthony, who regarded her quizzically?

"Tony, you're so dreadfully changed. That fearful scar—oh, my dear, where have you been all this time? We thought you were dead. I don't know how I recognized you. And you were such a pretty little boy, my dear. I used to be jealous because you had longer eyelashes than Henry, but you haven't now."

"Haven't I?" said Anthony, with perfect gravity. He took his aunt's plump white hand and gave it a squeeze and a pat. "It's very nice of you to welcome me, Aunt Rosa. The scar isn't as bad as it looks, and Henry's going to lend me a razor and some clothes."

It was later, when Anthony could be heard splashing in the bathroom, that Mrs. March beckoned Henry into her room, flung her arms round his neck, and burst into tears all over again.

"My poor boy," she sobbed. "It's so hard on you—about Luttrell Marches. I mean—do you mind dreadfully?"

"Not an atom. Besides, I knew Tony was alive. I always told you he would turn up."

"I couldn't think of anyone but him at first," said Mrs. March, sniffing gently. "Then afterwards it came over me Henry won't have the place—and I couldn't help crying because, of course, one does get to count on a thing, with everyone saying to me as they did, 'Of course your son comes into Luttrell Marches, such a beautiful place'—and so it is, and I did think it was Henry, and what I felt about it was, if I feel badly about it, what must Henry feel? You see, don't you?"

Henry endeavored to disengage himself. "Yes, mother, but you needn't worry—you really needn't. Look here, you dress and don't cry any more. I've got to telephone."

Mrs. March clasped her hands about his arm.

"Henry, wait, just a minute," she said. "That Miss Smith—you're not still thinking about her, are you?"

Henry laughed. "I am," he said.

"Well—" said Mrs. March. She edged with Henry's coat sleeve, bridled a little, and looked down at her mauve satin slippers. "Well—you know, my dear boy, I didn't want to be unkind, but I simply couldn't picture her at Luttrell Marches—as its mistress. I mean—and I'm sure you did think me unkind about it; but now that it's all different—Tony coming back like this, does make a difference, of course, and what I was going to say about it is this. If you really do care for her and it would make up to you for the disappointment, I wouldn't hold out about it, not if you really wanted it, my dear, and really cared for her, only of course you'd have to be quite sure, because once you're married you're married, and there's no way out of it, except divorce, and whether it's the fashion now or not, always have said and always will say, that it's not respectable, it really isn't, and it's not a thing we've ever had in our family—not on either side," added Mrs. March thoughtfully, after a slight pause for breath.

"I really do care for her, and I really am sure," said Henry. He kissed his mother affectionately, and once more attempted to detach himself from her hold.

"I am," he said.

Mrs. March let go with one hand in order to dab her eyes with a scrap of pink and white chiffon. Then she looked up at her son fondly.

"Your eyelashes are much the longest," she said.

Henry made an abrupt departure.

"Pizgyl'll see you as soon as you can get there," he told Anthony five minutes later—"at his house. I'm off to Luttrell Marches. I was going down anyhow tonight, but things being as they are, I think I'll get a move on. Pizgyl's sending someone to the address you gave, to keep an eye on Molloy. He doesn't want him arrested yet, as he's in hopes that Belovitch will roll up—that's the other man concerned in the actual sale of the formula. He went to Vienna, but was in Paris yesterday. Good Lord, Tony, I'm glad you've got rid of that beastly beard!"

Mr. Cartwright Should Wait.

H. Cartwright, editor of the Canadian Law Publishing Company, of Toronto, has challenged Attorney-General Nickle to resign his seat for Kingston, promising to take the field against him, and adding that he will give him as warm a time as he ever had in his life.

The reason for all this comes from the fact that Mr. Nickle criticized the changes made by a court of appeal in the original judgment rendered against Aemilius Jarvis and Peter Smith. Mr. Cartwright accuses Mr. Nickle, in treatment of Jarvis, of "hounding an honorable man."

The Toronto editor evidently takes himself and his views very seriously. That idea of urging a member to resign his seat and fight it out before the electors is neither impressive nor necessary. Recent history has not shown that is popular with the electors. Guss Porter led it in West Hastings when he adopted thisustering and blundering method to bolster up his stupid position on the charges against Hon. James Murdock.

Attorney-General Nickle was perfectly within his rights when he criticized the changes in the verdict against Jarvis and Smith. As attorney-general he is responsible for the attitude of the province toward the administration of justice, and if he considered the appeal had done an unwise thing in changing a decision that had to do with the cleaning up of a nasty situation in Ontario public life, it was his plain privilege and duty to say so.

There will be an election in Ontario in due course, when the people will deal with the Conservative government. Mr. Cartwright in the meantime can lay the whetstone on the blade of his claymore and battle for the political scalp of Mr. Nickle then. It will be far better for him to share in the general slaughter than to indulge in a duel just now.

A New-Old Power.

Wind, cheapest and most bountiful energy in the world, has been turned to once more as a source of power. From time immemorial it has been so used, but with the dominance of coal in the last century, and oil in this century, it has been looked upon as too primitive a source of power.

Now, with the earth's coal deposits ever dwindling, its oil stores inexactly known, with both constantly mounting in price, scientists are lifting their eyes from the earth to the heavens. They are discovering new ways of utilizing the wind so as to increase the efficiency of its power.

The Flettner rotorship, which has just startled the world, is one example of this new use of the wind. Its two revolving towers are sails; wind its propelling force. It is nothing more than a sailing vessel without sails, but where lies its significance—it is a perfection of the principle of the sailing vessel.

Another example of the use of wind for power is a new aerodynamic, developed in Germany, which will be tested soon at Oxford by the British ministry of agriculture. It is the result of research work in aerodynamics carried out by Major Kurt Bilau at the famous Göttingen institute for aerodynamics.

This aerodynamic weighs but three tons, stands on a slender mast 40 feet high, and has a wheel span of 25 feet. Its wheel turns when the wind is almost imperceptible, when blowing at one and a half to two meters per second. Its horsepower starts at five and mounts in proportion to the strength of the wind. It can be assembled or dissembled by anyone, and is easily transported.

The discovery is based on the fact that in the action—or so, as the Germans say—of the wind lies its greatest power. Scientists believe the discovery may develop cheap and plentiful power to a point that will scrap most of the present power machines and revolutionize industry.

There can be no "wind lords," as there are coal barons and oil kings. The wind blows ceaselessly for the man who can utilize its power. And it costs nothing.

There Are Enough Groups Now.

Thirteen members of the Progressive party in Ottawa have broken away from their moorings, and W. C. Good of Brant is their whip and leader, although not so recognized in the standing of parties in the house.

The defection of thirteen from a party of sixty-five members brings into existence the fourth group in the federal house, and the "noble thirteen" are now asking for recognition on committees named, such as is granted to Liberals, Progressives and Conservatives.

Very full and complete recognition has been given to the Progressives in Ottawa. Their leader has the same standing as the leader of any other party, and the same can be said of the party whip. If thirteen of the members of that group, after being elected as Progressives, choose to break off and form a wheel within a wheel, it is not a matter that concerns the government or the people at large.

The dividing of the forces into three separate camps is quite sufficient without building more partitions on the premises. The interests of the country can best be served by the members gathering together around one central idea rather than following a plan whereby little cliques will be encouraged to herd themselves on a path that after all may be only a blind alley.

Toronto Wants Jarvis-Smith Fine.

One war very often leads to another, and the first move by the city of Toronto to secure the fines paid by Aemilius Jarvis, amounting to $140,000, has led to an intimation being given by Premier Ferguson that the province will take steps to secure the money on the ground that it belongs to the people of Ontario.

It may not be generally known, but as the law stands at this moment Toronto would have a fairly good claim to the fines imposed on Jarvis and Smith. There was keen disappointment on the part of Toronto civic officials when the fines were stepped down from $600,000 to $300,000, and there was more keen disappointment when the first $140,000 paid by Jarvis found its way to the provincial treasury instead of to the coffers of the city of Toronto.

Although Toronto has a legal right to the fines under the enactments of 1922, the paying of those fines to that city would have been a peculiar conclusion to the case. It was the province that was robbed in the first place; it was the province that had to pay the costs of provincial and other police who were working on the case, and it was the province which had to carry on the prosecution, and it is the province that has to keep the men after they are put in jail, yet there was a good chance of the money handed back going to the city of Toronto because the case was tried there and the offence committed there.

If the province is going to secure the fines it will be necessary to change the legislation and make it retroactive. Civic Toronto can be counted on to put up a brisk fight against this, and the developments will be worth watching.

Putting First Things First.

The Ottawa Journal claims that Premier King, out of courtesy to Mr. Meighen, should have a day set apart for the leader of the opposition to discuss the resolution he made public before the present session of the house was under way.

The Journal thinks it should have been discussed prior to the budget, and can see no reason for the government not allowing a day for Mr. Meighen to discuss his higher protection document, adding that the government "for some reason best known to itself" is rushing the budget to the house before the end of the fiscal year.

The reason for an early budget is plain. The changes to be made in tariff are kept secret until that document is brought down—the private members do not know them and certainly the business world does not. The advantages of having the budget brought down early are easy to see. Once the finance minister has made his announcements for the year, industrial concerns know the conditions under which they will have to operate; it gives them a degree of certainty that did not exist before.

It is of far greater importance that the budget be brought down early than that a day should be set apart for Mr. Meighen to discuss a theory that he has previously spoken on from platforms all over the country.

Note and Comment.

Routine means roast beef on Monday, cold meat on Tuesday, meat pie on Wednesday, and soup on Thursday.

One of the reasons some folks live in the past is that a person could have quite a heap of fun out of a dime then.

The office boy says a great deal of trouble would be saved if the brakes and the driver got tight at the same time.

The man who has been complaining that it was too wet to clean up the back yard is now scared that he's going to have a chance.

During 1924 Canada exported corsets to Australia to the value of $162,703. The official figures are not the only ones concerned in the deal.

One young man in London was late for a show last night because he had to run the clippers over the back of his girl's neck before she'd go out with him.

Auto driver in town near London crashed into a tree at three o'clock in the morning. The tree is still there, but the wreckers have the car and the hospital the driver.

Toronto boasts of the first boat crossing the lake; Chatham sends word of the first cherry blossoms, but one Londoner has brought fame to his town by appearing in a straw hat.

President Coolidge is anxious to call another conference on armament or disarmament. It would be interesting at such a gathering to have explained why United States bought Grindell Matthews' death ray.

General Ludendorff refuses to take seriously the suggestion that he withdraw as a presidential candidate in Germany. Ludendorff will be remembered since the war as the leader of the movement that aimed to restore the monarchy in Bavaria. His move was as unsuccessful as it was stupid. Ludendorff is through, the only trouble being that he is too vain and bull-headed to realize it.

Man, Oh Man!

Wherein we glimpse through years what's went, and note what fickle man has worn, and wonder why he giggles when the women have their raiment shorn.

I just been hearin' an address about the proper length of skirt, me thinkin' it be lopped a yard from where the feet plant on the dirt. The man who was a-speakin' there he riled upon the women folk, him holdin' how they slashed their duds it be a funny sort of joke.

Which set me thinkin' back a spell at things what men had took to wear, from days when they wore velvet vests and parked soft butter on their hair.

In courtly days of long ago they had silk britches to the knees, and powdered wigs upon their dome flopped gaily in the summer breeze. Some ancient swain kicked up the deuce and so that fashion had to go, his legs was warped when he was young, they'd sprung an awful lookin' bow.

And passin' on to later years men's britches was hewed big and wide, 'twould be no trick at all to take and poke a stovepipe down inside.

'Twas then we took a flat-iron out and pressed the creases up and down, preparin' for to treat the folks when we went walkin' through the town.

Most folks can mind when some one went and carved men's britches out so tight, that lots of times you'd go to bed and leave them hitched on you all night. I know one chap who got a pair just like the other dressy men, he had to get six neighbors in to pry them britches off again.

And skinny men they wore them too, the knock-kneed fell in line as well, and how they looked in skin-tight pants it ain't quite fit for me to tell.

It wasn't long before they found the weavers singin' doleful toons, for men was usin' little hemp in cuttin' out their pantaloons.

Then came the baggy ones again, we hailed them like a day in June, bay-window swains was mighty pleased to waddle in this spacious room.

They've cut them big, they've hewed 'em short, they've made them most unseemly small, they've glued the sackcloth to the hide like paper on a bedroom wall.

So when I heard that speaker speak a-laughin' at the lady's skirts, and ridiculin' at the styles in words that blisters up and hurts—why I be thinkin' back a spell and lookin' over ancient days, when men has had their britches hewed in fifty-seven different ways.—ARK.

London Had 28 In Council of '66

THE smaller governing bodies for council and board of education in London is a long way removed from the size of these organizations in 1866, when the public schools were managed by a joint board of grammar and common school trustees, consisting of twenty members, and the city council was composed of a mayor and twenty-eight members.

A city directory of the year 1866 gives the public school board as follows: Ven. Archdeacon Brough, Rev. John McLean, Rev. Francis Nichol, Rev. John Scott, Charles Moore, M.D., and Wade Owens, grammar school trustees, Ward 1, P. Schram and James Cousins; 2, S. Peters and T. Partridge; 3, J. G. McIntosh and James Dunbar; 4, Wm. Rowland and Thomas Webb; 5, S. H. Graydon and John Phillips; 6, Alex. Johnston and Alex. Gunn; 7, Thos. Partridge, Sen., and Mr. Steel.

Apparently some were serving on both public school board and city council. In 1866 there were seven wards in London, each ward having two aldermen and two councillors. David Glass was mayor in that year and the other elected members were:

Ward No. 1—Aldermen, Wheeler and Barnabus; councillors, Deadman and Pavey.

Ward 2—Aldermen, McBride and Campbell; councillors, J. B. Smith and Baynes.

Ward 3—Aldermen, Hughes and Cousins; councillors, James Reid and J. W. Cryer.

Ward 4—Aldermen, Ross and Murray; councillors, Beccot and Peck.

Ward 5—Aldermen, McFie and Lester; councillors, Brown and Purdett.

Ward 6—Aldermen, Christie and Peel; councillors, Owen and Seriaton.

Ward 7—Aldermen, Partridge, Sen., and Partridge, Jun.; councillors, Gill and McNamara.

City clerk, A. S. Abbott; city chamberlain, John Brown; bailiff and chief of police, Richard Wigmore; market clerk, John Scanditt; weigh clerk, Thomas Winnett; engineer, William Robinson; wood inspector, Edward Cowley; assessor, Benjamin Nash.

Just Three Crosses.

Kitchener Man Does Not Agree With Views Expressed By Pastor of Tillsonburg About Crucifixion.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—In a recent issue of your paper appeared a letter from F. P. Emmons, of Tillsonburg, who says that "two thieves" and "two malefactors" were crucified with Christ. The prophet, Isaiah, says that He was numbered with the "transgressors." Therefore, according to the logic of F. P. Emmons, there must have been at least seven crosses!

No, brother, there were only three crosses; the "two thieves" were thieves, malefactors and transgressors.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I remain, C. M. HAGEY.

Golden Rule In Business Slogan of Orth's Limited

London Merchant Builds Safely On Foundation of Age-Old Wisdom.

NEW ERA DAWNING

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Though the text is often taken for ministerial subjects, one London merchant has used it as a daily business slogan for seven years.

The merchant is S. Orth of Orth's Limited. To the practice of that text, which he has made the golden rule in his retail business on Dundas street, he owes his success in the field of men's wear in London.

Mr. Orth says that the age-old phrase, as old as civilization, has been put to work in his store and it has won a position in the mind of the buying public that can only be met by competition based on similar principles.

There are three fundamentals in business that are based on the text, according to Mr. Orth. They are: The merchant, in justice to himself, must serve others as he would like to be served. The public in return has placed its approval when buying in the first instance, and the retailer is duty bound not to abuse the confidence.

Protects Customers.

The third point is that the merchandise displayed by Orth's Limited is chosen with the same care as though the head of the firm were buying for his personal use. The customer is therefore protected.

Mr. Orth claims that price is not always uppermost in the mind of the buyer. Style and value enter largely into the matter. The bringing back of a customer is the satisfaction gained by the retailer when he gives a satisfactory combination of all three.

Saturday opens a new era for Orth's Limited. The disastrous fire of December 22, which ravaged the Orth building, involved the second and third floors of the building. It is an ill wind that blows no good and much good followed in the wake of that blaze. It enabled thousands of people to obtain good values during the Christmas buying season.

Today the stock stands brand new throughout. The building has been redecorated, upstairs and down. The upstairs tenants have modern quarters.

And Downstairs.

Downstairs the latest spring styles in Stetson and Brook hats, Hobblerlin custom-made clothes: Forsyth, Arrow and Tootie shirts, collars and underwear fill the cabinets and shelves.

Boxes containing Dent's, Perrins' and Fownes' gloves have just been unpacked. Curry, Brophy and Reid suspenders and neckwear are on display. Holeproof hose and interwoven socks of the latest designs have arrived in good time for the spring rush.

Among those who suffered temporarily from the fire were Dr. F. F. Baker, dentist; Land Division of the Service Truck Company; Savoy Shoe Repair, and Star Signs. These firms are all back in newly-renovated offices.

The contractors who handled the work of remodeling were: John M. Moore, architect; Hyatt Bros., contractors; Cusden & Son, woodwork; J. F. Winegarden, electrical work; Parker & Allen, plasterers; Bennett & Wright, steam heating and plumbing; Durst Company, show cases; Brownlee, metal ceilings.

SCHOOL BUILDING PLANS DEPEND ON GENERAL CUT

Council Will Approve $354,000 Program If Other Estimates Trimmed.

"DUTCH TREAT" TIP

Aldermen Intimate Debtenture Issue May Pass If $40,000 Is Saved Otherwise.

The board of education's $354,000 building program will receive city council sanction, provided general school estimates are reduced to $299,815.43, a cut of $40,000.

Presence of half the school board last night failed to speed the council on its way to strike the tax rate for this year. The council heard no less than four delegations who protested against various cuts in the preliminary estimates. Reconsideration of fire department, Victoria hospital and grants estimates was touched on, but these questions will not be reopened until the next council meeting, Monday night.

"Dutch Treat" Suggested.

A "Dutch treat" for the school board was all the council would offer. The $354,000 debtenture issue asked was all the council could touch, but the aldermen gave voice to a gentle impeachment that the board might be recommending unnecessary expenditures in its maintenance appropriations.

"Cut down your estimates to last year's totals," the mayor told Chairman Lawerson of the school board. "That's what every other board has to do. If you would do that then objection to the debtenture issue would be lessened. I'd also suggest that the Rectory street school not be tampered with this year."

Aldermen Circularized.

Members of the board left no stone uncovered in their efforts to set estimate requirements before the council. A lengthy circular letter was supplied each member of the council. Chairman S. F. Lawerson discussed the high school question at some

Men Are Vainer Debate Decides

Special to The Advertiser.

Blyth, March 26.—An interesting debate was held in the Methodist church at the joint meeting of the young people of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. The subject was, "Resolved, That men spend more time and money on dress and pleasure than women."

The affirmative was upheld by Alexander Elliott and Harold Jenkins of the Presbyterian church, and the negative by Miss Ruth Vincent and John Duzan of the Methodist church. The judges were Mrs. Hawkins, Mrs. Watson and Miss Metcalf of the Anglican church, and they decided in favor of the affirmative.

Length and other members of the board dealt with various phases. Ald. Frank McKay did not agree with the mayor's proposal to turn the onus back on the school board to decide on reduced estimates. He suggested that the whole matter of school estimates be left over until Monday night.

"The whole thing should be turned down for another year," declared Ald. Harry Bottrill in discussing school construction. "There's too much expenditure wanted for this year."

Creditable Showing.

The annual financial statement shows that collection of the amount estimated collectable (of the objective of 1924 not yet paid in), will provide for payment of the total amount placed on the 1924 budget to all organizations, less 5.43 per cent.

This was characterized by Mr. Gray as an exceedingly creditable showing in view of the difficulties in the way of slack business, which had faced the work of the association in 1924. The 5.43 per cent represents shrinkage in the objective.

Total subscriptions last year amounted to $119,561.12. The total estimated shrinkage is $6,100.95, of which $2,890.91 is considered to be collectable. Total subscriptions paid to date amount to $106,569.23.

James Gray, pleading for the active co-operation of all members and units of the fighting force of the association, stated that they could have no better thing to sell to the citizens of London than the things for which the welfare fund was collected.

"This fund which we are going to collect is used to keep institutions going in the city which are absolutely necessary to the health of the city," he said. "Unless we did this work, every institution would have to go out and make its own appeal, with great overlapping and profitless work. Our central fund takes care of all these places in one campaign, and does it at the least possible cost. No one can deny the utility or the idealism of the institution for which we work every spring, and we are doing the greatest service to our own city when we go out and ask for the necessary money to keep them alive, and with their heads above the water of adversity."

Saving to City.

W. R. Wendall told members that the fund was in reality a saving to the city, as it reduced the cost of other less desirable institutions. The more the fund accomplished, he said, the less would have to be accomplished by hospitals and orphanages.

Dr. H. W. Hill, D.P.H., declared that all the world's poverty was caused by two things only, Feeble-mindedness and sickness. Both of these two were best combated by the success of such a fund as the welfare campaign would bring in. He said that the first reason was responsible for but 2 per cent of poverty and that sickness was responsible for the remainder.

"The object of this fund is to make itself unnecessary," he said. "The sooner a welfare fund is not required the better for the city, but we need the fund to get rid of the fund."

A. T. Little, speaking on the budgets, stated that the needs of the orphanages and the aged people's homes were the primary demands on the fund. He added the Salvation army as the third in importance.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh made a colorful address, in which he asked for a spirit of unity among all classes in carrying out the work of the association during the campaign.

E. J. Jenkins of the Y. M. C. A., Father Stanley, Brigadier McManmond of the Salvation army, and several other members spoke during the

SHAW'S "SAINT JOAN" AT GRAND APRIL 13

Miss Julia Arthur To Appear Here in Brilliant New York Success.

London is promised some splendid theatrical treats at the hands of the new owners of the Grand theatre, if the play which they are making their debut is the criterion.

George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," with Miss Julia Arthur as the maid, under the direction of B. C. Whitney, will appear at the theatre for three nights and matinee Wednesday, commencing Monday, April 13. The play is the latest, and perhaps the greatest Shaw has produced.

Possibly the most distinguished honor that the play has received occurred when the play was enjoying its great success at the Empire theatre, New York, when the gold medal of Joan of Arc, in the name of the Joan of Arc statue committee, was presented to the actress portraying Joan by Gaston Liebert, minister plenipotentiary of France.

Similar medals have been presented to Pope Pius XI, Marshal Joffre, Marshall Foch, Premier Poincare, General Henri Gouraud, Admiral de Bon and M. A. Croizeau, mayor of Blois, the town from which the maid of Orleans led 10,000 men into the victorious assault, that wrested Orleans from the English.

Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," has won state and church by the mastery in which he has presented one of the most remarkable characters in history.

It is only the first of many excellent plays promised by the new owners.

YELLOWJACKETS WIN.

Yittsburg, March 25.—The Yellowjackets, holders of the U. S. A. H. A. western wing championship, today defeated the Eveleth Yellowheads, 4 to 1, in the first of a playoff series to determine who shall play the Pittsburgh Hornets for the championship series.

WELFARE FUND ASSOCIATION PLANS ITS ANNUAL CAMPAIGN

Drive On Behalf of Local Institutions Will Probably Start April 20.

OBJECTIVE RAISED

A. E. Silverwood To Again Act As Campaign Committee Chairman.

At an enthusiastic meeting last night in the Tecumseh house, plans were laid by the Welfare fund association to carry the standard of the common weal once more in a fund campaign. James Gray, president of the association for 1925, voiced the sentiments of the meeting when he prophesied a successful campaign for 1925 with the objective raised and the needs of the various institutions which come under the wing of the association fully met.

Colonel W. M. Gartshore, who asked to be relieved of the vice-presidency, and Hon. C. S. Hyman were elected honorary presidents. Philip Pocock and T. W. MacFarlane were elected vice-presidents for this year. It was announced that A. E. Silverwood had consented to fill his old post as chairman of the campaign committee, an announcement which met with general approval. John S. Moore will act as treasurer for another year.

The Welfare Association's campaign for the funds necessary to support the London institutions will probably be held during the week of April 20. This matter is left to the executive, however, for final decision and approval.

Chairmen of committees were chosen as follows: Publicity, Gordon Ingram; budget, A. T. Little; audit, G. F. Pearson.

Philip Pocock will take charge of the committee looking after the P. U. C. the railwaymen, hospital employees and all public employees; T. W. MacFarlane of the industrial committee; H. B. Beal of the educational; William Turnbull of the wholesale employees; Morley Aylesworth of the financial houses, and F. E. Harley of the house-to-house canvass by the commercial travellers.

Urges Fire Apparatus. Urging that Fire Chief John Aitken's application for a new pump-truck and fire alarm system not be ignored, Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis spoke at some length.

"The alarm system is crude and unreliable as it now exists," Mr. Lewis said. "No other city in Western Ontario has such antiquated equipment." He intimated that there would have to be a reduction in London's fire loss this year or insurance rates would climb.

General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the public utilities commission stated that efficient service could not possibly be given by the present alarm system. A thorough examination of alarm boxes, wires, batteries, switchboard and gongs had been made, and the opinion of competent electricians was that the system was inefficient and obsolete.

George Moll and R. H. Dowler, of the fire prevention committee, also urged reconsideration of the chief's request. The matter will not be touched until Monday night.

The Canine association's request for reconsideration of their application for a $200 grant will also be dealt with on Monday.

NEW STRATHROY FACTORY

FORMALLY STARTS WORK

Special to The Advertiser.

Strathroy, March 26.—Power was turned on, and the factory of the Hy-Lo Jacks, Ltd., Strathroy's new industry, formally commenced operation this afternoon. Members of the town council, chamber of commerce and Lions club were present to take part in the ceremony and to congratulate the officials of the company in getting into operation so soon.

John Carruthers, for the company, stated that the factory would be soon running 24 hours a day, as incoming orders justified it.

TAX OFFICIAL DIES AT TILLSONBURG

S. H. Betts Served Municipality As Collector For Over Thirty Years.

Special to The Advertiser.

Tillsonburg, March 26.—Tillsonburg lost another of her highly-respected municipal officers in the death, this afternoon, of S. H. Betts, in his 65th year, following an illness of some 12 years' duration, but he was able to attend to his duties throughout this period. He was appointed tax collector in 1894, and held the position continuously until his death. He lived in Tillsonburg practically all his life and was a member of St. Paul's Methodist church. Survivors are two daughters, Helen and Isabel, both at home. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon to the town cemetery. Municipal officers will attend the services in a body.

O Hara San Is Presented To Appreciative Audience

University Students Do Operetta After Months of Preparation.

SINGING EXCELLENT

Following months of preparation which brought the pretty operetta to a high state of perfection, O Hara San was presented by the University Glee Club and orchestra in the auditorium last night. The audience was large and appreciative and well it might be for the singing individually and in concert was well done.

The Japanese Operetta tells the story of a real true love and the trials it had to survive. O Hara San, a charming little girl loved O Kashi Kintaro. But Prince Nashimoto Fushimi was enamoured of the pretty maid. He told her that her lover was going to America where he would find sweet solace when away from her. He sowed the seeds of discontent but they fell on barren ground.

Six-Months-Old Pig Weighs 290

Special to The Advertiser.

Mount Elgin, March 26.—Thomas Williams of the 5th concession of North Norwich shipped ten hogs last week at six months and four days old, which averaged 225½ pounds each. One weighed 290 pounds, showing a gain of over 1½ pounds per day from birth. Mr. Williams received 12 cents per pound, which amounted to $270.60.

O Hara San continued to trust in her lover, though he did not return on time.

Sydney Kingsmill played the lover, in the absence of Harold Tufts who is ill. This necessitated other changes as Mr. Kingsmill's original part was that of the prince.

Miss Helen Hughes was the dainty little O Hara San. Her clear soprano voice was all that could be desired. Mr. Kingsmill sang with feeling and his rich, powerful voice gave a note of strength as well as beauty to the play.

Miss Reta Lowery, mezzo soprano, took the part of O. Toki San with nice effect. Miss Miriam Smith, contralto, has a pleasing voice. She played O. Toya San.

Douglas Morris as the Prince sang "He's going to America" with considerable effect. G. Pears proved himself equal to the occasion when he took the baritone part. Tokaka at the last moment, Nelson Andrews, bass gave a fine interpretation in the role of Kanyan.

The choral numbers were beautifully done. The twenty-one members showed any amount of training and the voices blended in a perfect, harmonious whole.

The university orchestra under the direction of J. Parnell Morris and conducted by Walter Rennie was excellent.

The costumes and lighting effect were well done, and the scenery with its quaint Japanese background.

TONG WAR ENDED BY PEACE PACT

Many Chinamen Killed in U. S. in Past Few Months.

CONVICTIONS FEW

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, March 26.—A treaty of peace was signed today between the On Leong and Hip Sing tong, officially ending the war which has caused the deaths of numerous Chinese in the past few months.

Chinese tong wars have been the source of much concern for the police of most of the large cities in the United States, and the mysteries surrounding murders have been most difficult of solution. Evidence in such a case was always particularly hard to secure, even when the police were satisfied that they knew who was responsible.

Fires of hate flamed quickly and frequently in tong circles, and members of various organizations were absolutely merciless in their crafty pursuit of enemies. Members of opposing factions clashed openly on the streets of the Chinese quarters in the larger cities, and always a trail of death was found.

The tongs which have now come to an agreement have been most prominent in "war" which have been waged from coast to coast, and on trails which have led even into sparsely settled sections of the country.

MUSSOLINI RECEIVES ENTHUSIASTIC OVATION

Deputies Stage Demonstration On Premier's First Appearance After Illness.

Associated Press Despatch.
Rome, March 26.—Premier Mussolini made his first appearance in the Chamber of Deputies today since his recent illness. He entered the chamber at 4:15 o'clock, followed by all the cabinet members. At the moment of his appearance the entire body, with the exception of the communists, rose and gave him an enthusiastic demonstration, in which the galleries joined.

Every day more and more people are suffering from what is known as "Brain Fog."

Listless, "all in" before noon, finding it harder all the time to meet the day's problems, folks are continually coming to doctors with the chronic complaint:

"Doctor, I don't know what's the matter. I feel tired all the time. I seem to have lost my pep."

Without realizing it, they have hit upon the exact diagnosis of their case. Medical authorities are agreed that to be full of pep, with rare exception, is the normal condition of all human beings. When they feel that their pep is gone, folks should look for the cause. Something is wrong with their "personality engine."

The good word that is being passed out by modern science today, is that YOU CAN HAVE PEP IF YOU WILL EAT IT. In other words, if one simply watches his diet and eats to be full and not to be full, he will be charged with vitality—full of that feeling of confidence and ambition that spells success.

Milk, vegetables, fruit and cereals comprise a good part of the simple diet.

ONE HURT IN PLANE CRASH.

Everyone In British Columbia Must Be Vaccinated At Once

Canadian Press Despatch.
Victoria, B.C., March 26.—Every person in British Columbia must be vaccinated forthwith or produce to medical health officers throughout the province proof of successful vaccination within two years, according to regulations advertised by the provincial board of health.

The only other exemption clause is the production of a certificate that a person is at present insusceptible of vaccination or a certificate of a physical unfitness for vaccination.

The order provides that a person violating the regulation shall be subjected to a fine of $100, or to six months' imprisonment with or without hard labor, or to both fine and imprisonment.

SECURITY TREATY URGED FOR CANADA

Rowell Believes Dominion Should Join in Guarantee Pact.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, March 26.—Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., who represented Canada on the organization of the league of nations, told the Empire club, in an address here today, that he could see serious objections to Canada committing herself to any obligations under a purely European pact for a treaty of mutual guarantee.

Mr. Rowell's address was on the question, "Will the suggested seven-power treaty take the place of the protocol?" He said he had followed the proceedings of the court of the league of nations with greatest interest, and thought that the British empire should join in giving it consideration.

Mr. Rowell said that if Canada did join in such a seven-power guarantee treaty she should at least be a party in its negotiation.

Breakfast Cost Cut By Budget

Grape Fruit From West Indies Admitted Free.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, March 26.—Wholesale fruit dealers say that free grape fruit from the West Indies as provided by Hon. Mr. Robb's new arrangement would make breakfasts somewhat cheaper all over the Dominion, and might have some effect of checking the bountiful supply of Florida grape fruit that has been coming to Canada for years.

BODY OF MOTHER TO BE EXHUMED

Grave of Dr. Olson Also To Be Opened by Authorities.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, March 26.—Coroner Oscar Wolff announced today he would issue an order for the exhumation of the bodies of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, mother of the dead orphan millionaire, William N. McClintock, and Dr. Oscar Olson.

The coroner's decision, after a conference with a representative of the state's attorney, came shortly after counsel for William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of the McClintock orphan, had announced he would fight on in an attempt to free Shepherd on bail, which was denied late yesterday by Judge Jacob Hopkins. Mrs. McClintock died sixteen years ago, and Dr. Olson three years ago.

Judge Harry Olson, chief justice of the municipal court, who lived in St. Marys, Kansas, when Emma Nelson McClintock was a little girl, instigated the investigation that resulted in the indictment of Shepherd.

Although medical experts have held out little hope of finding any evidence of any irregularity in connection with the deaths of Mrs. McClintock and Dr. Olson, the coroner, after a conference with state officers decided to proceed with the investigation along the lines laid down by Judge Olson.

Judge Olson has declared there were suspicious circumstances about the death of Mrs. McClintock, who, a witness had invited Shepherd, a lawyer, and his wife to live with her. She left her son in their care when she died.

The judge also has declared his belief that Dr. Olson was murdered with prussic acid. He stated the doctor, who had been a friend and adviser of "Bilby" McClintock, had mistrusted Shepherd.

Cupid Faces Hard Dilemma As Bride Is Barred By U.S., Groom Must Quit Canada

Ohio Man To Be Deported,
Wedded Hungarian Girl
at Brantford.

ILLEGAL ENTRY CASE

Laws of Man Contravention of Laws of God, Says
Magistrate.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Brantford, March 26.—Cupid is an efficient and diligent worker, who makes light of obstacles with means to an end, but even his efforts are sometimes frustrated by man-made regulations.

This was made known to Steve Nemeth, Claresholm, Ohio, today, when he faced a charge of illegally entering Canada. Meanwhile, his bride, a recent arrival in Canada, is barred from the United States.

The evidence showed that Nemeth corresponded with the woman, who comes from Hungary, for two years. She then sailed for Canada, ostensibly to enter domestic service at Liscomb, Sask., to which place she proceeded after landing at Halifax.

Nemeth went all the way to Liscomb and brought her to Brantford, where they were married by Rev. Father Ferguson.

In the meantime the United States immigration authorities notified the Canadian immigration department of Nemeth's entry into Canada, and he was arrested. He appeared before Magistrate S. A. Jones, and was allowed to go on suspended sentence, but he will be deported.

Cupid now stands aghast as he sees his work undone. Because of immigration laws the couple will be separated.

Application, however, has been

Hammer Is Used In Lovers' Tiff

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, March 26.—Frederick Tilson, a machinist, was charged in the women's court today with aggravated assault, his fiancée, a young Toronto teacher, having laid an information that he had hit her in the back of the head with a hammer.

No denial of the charge was made by the young man's lawyer, who made the plea that it was merely a lovers' quarrel. The girl alleges that she saw stars and flashes of lightning under the force of the blow, but was not rendered unconscious. She made it plain that she desired to break off the engagement, and the court put Tilson on probation.

made to Washington for the bride to enter the country of her husband. Tilson is a naturalized American citizen. Meanwhile the bride will be cared for by friends here.

The magistrate commented that it was a case where the laws of man were a contravention of the laws of God.

EMPLOYMENT HAS FAVORABLE TREND

6,696 Workers Added To Payroll During Month of February.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, March 26.—"The trend of employment at the beginning of March was favorable," states a bulletin issued today by the dominion bureau of statistics.

An upward movement, though slight, is in contrast to the downward tendency of a year ago. Returns received by the bureau from 6,696 firms show that 715,158 persons were employed on March 1, or 5,921 more than were on the payrolls on February 1.

The index number reflecting this comparatively small increase rose from 88.1 in the preceding month to 87.9 on March 1. Manufacturing, according to the bulletin, was decidedly more active, but employment in other divisions on the whole showed declines, partly seasonal in character.

Will Not Apply To Operation of Fishing Boats or Farm Machinery.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Fredericton, N.B., March 26.—Premier Veniot issued a formal statement today, intimating that a gasoline tax, with exemptions which would make the tax inapplicable to gasoline used for fishing boats and the operation of agricultural implements, is favored for New Brunswick by the government, but indicating that the tax cannot be put into operation this year because there is not the opportunity to complete the necessary arrangements.
