CHURCH RE-OPENED.

Praise From Ridgetown for a Chatham Contractor and Chatham Musicians.

Mount Zion Church has lately been Mount Zion Church has lately been thoroughly remodelled. Speaking of the work, the Ridgetown Dominion says: "The general contractor of the work was Mr. Wm. Blight, of Chatham, and a great deal of credit is due him and especially to the building committee." him and especially to the building com-mittee under whose guidance the work has been completed. The board of management consists of the follow-ing gentlemen: James E. McKinlay, Thos. Craig, John Mackenzie, Bobert McGregor, James Crawford, J. E. Thatcher, J. G. Little, W. R. McDon-ald and Duncan Cochrane, of whom the three last named formed the build-ing committee. The total cost of the improvements is put at about $6,000, outside of the new organ which cost $1,200."

Of the music rendered at the open-ing services on Sunday last the Do-minion says: "The musical part of the service was of a superior order. The grand new organ was heard to splendid advantage, being in charge of Miss Pratt, of Chatham, an organ-iste of more than local fame. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Walchoir, under the direction of Mr. Walter Mills, was assisted by Mrs. Cooper and Mr. Wilson, of Chatham. A duett, 'Ora Pro Nobis,' by Mrs. Cooper and Mr. Wilson, was a beautiful rendering, as was also a sole, 'The Palms, by Mr. Wilson."

BOER DESPATCHES

Give the Enemy's Ideas of Buller's Forward Movement.

They Evidently do Not Regard it as Serious-A Frightful Bombardment.

London, Jan. 20.—The Boer accounts of the passage of the Tugela River are given in the following two reports from Commandant Viljoen's camp, on the Upper Tugela, via Lourenzo Mar-

The second despatch runs thus:

"Jan. 17.—The night was unbroken save for slight rifle encounters between outposts, which lead to nothing. At daybreak the enemy was located as before. He had not brought a single gun across the river. But from the ridges of Swartz Kop a battery and a half of siege guns open on our position at 5 a. m. The bombardment was probably the most frightful ever witnessed on land. Frequently five heavy naval guns fired simultaneously at once schanze (entrenchment) "

The Boer force at Colenso must have been considerably weakened by the despatch of large reinforcements westward to meet Gen. Buller's advance, and they now hurriedly evacuated the river trenches and the kopjes opposite the village, and scattered before our shrapnel. By evening none of the enemy was left within rifle shot of Colenso. The British force then retired to Chieveley.

London, Saturday, Jan. 20, 4.40 a.m. | Monday and set fire to all the houses -Every hour that Gen. Buller delays his combined attack makes his position stronger. The transports contirue to arrive at Durban, and fresh troops are being sent up to the line to reinforce those in front of Colenso. It appears that Gen. Buller's troops north appears that Gen. Buller's troops north of the Tugela number at least 22,000, and possibly 25,000, with 50 guts. His total forces, forming a great outcurve south and west of Ladysmith, probably number 40,000. While Gen. Buller's forward operations, which began on Jan. 10, develop rather leisurely, the Boers appear to be fully aware that they must meet a strengues. leisurely, the Boers appear to be fully aware that they must meet a strenuous assault. Balloon observers have roughly estimated that 10,000 Boers are using spades and picks in artificially strengthening positions which nature has rendered easy of defence. Military critics in touch with the War Office think that news that general fighting has begun may be expected at any hour. It is not thought that one day's fighting will settle the fate of Ladysmith, but rather that there will be two or three days of continuous fighting. A special to the Daily Telegraph, dated—Thursday, from Spearman's Camp, describes the difficulties of the march, owing to their unwieldy baggage column, including all the tents and hospital, over bad roads in wet weather. The correspondent then goes on to say some 10,000 Boers arrived in the vicinity of Potgieter's Drift on Thursday and Friday of last week and began the extension of extensive and formidable lines of trenches, for their positions that apparently could only be turned from the west by assailing the high ridges of the Sproen Kops.

A despatch from Spearman's Camp, dated Friday evening, Jan. 19, says:— Sir Charles Warren and Lord Dunturned from the west by assailing the high ridges of the Sproen Kops.

A balloonist to-day reported that no guns were visible in the enemyls works, but that there was a large Boer camp in the direction of Brakfontein, a brown ridge four miles from Potgieter's Drift. Boers arrived in large numbers to-day from Colenso and Ladysmith. They have certainly run branches of the railway from Modderspruit around Mount Bulwaya. Nearly all the Boers have gone to atdonald are continuing a cautious advance, hourly expecting battle. There has been slight artillery firing here at Ladysmith and at Chieveley. The natives report that the kopies are full of Boars.

When the granotithic walks were be ing laid on Head and other streets less than two years ago, The Planet pointed out that the levels were too low, In many places now those walks are under water, mud and slush It seems to be the failing of most engineers to forget that there is such an article in this country as snow. They fail to make any allowance for winter conditions in putting down sidewalks. Then, again, where the granolithic walks obstruct the flow of water from the boulevards to the gutters it must necessarily run over them. This could be avoided, it strikes us, and people's lawns drained at the same time, by putting a pipe here and there under the walks when they are being laid. But, anyway, let us have the next walks well raised. A top dressing of mud and slush does not add to their usefulness by any means.

DO YOUR CHILDREN, RUN THE STREETS AT NIGHT?

Rev. Dr. McMullen, of Woodstock, in speaking of "The Pamily and the School," at one of the meetings in connection with the week of prayer in that town is reported to have said it was strange that children should be taught about all the heathen gods in creation in the public schools and not a word about their own great God of Christianity. He then went on to argue that though the teachers should not be expected to teach theology, that the great facts of the Bible should be taught in the schools because the church and the state were simply allies of the parent in the training of the children. This opens up a subject on which there has been a vast amount of controversy which it is not proposed to enter into again at this time, but the doctor is also reported as giving utterance to this advice to parents in the course of his remarks, and they are eminently sound, and quite as applicable to Chatham as to Woodstock He said :

"You should restrain your children Pay 400 men, 50c. per day, from running about the streets at all hours of the night. There are an enormous number of children running about the streets at night in Woodstock, particularly in summer. Parents know not the danger their boys and girls are in. Some parents make themselves busy looking after other people's children, while their own are going to rack." If some parents in Chatham were to pass along the streets at night, and hear the language that is indulged in by some children of tender years they would realize, or ought to realize, the force of such remarks. The education of the street is for the most part and should be guarded against, It is no worse in Chatham, perhaps not so bad, as in some other places, but it is in the wrong direction.

PREMIER ROSS' LITTLE JOKE.

The Mail is very unkind. It doesn't seem half inclined to give Premier Ross any sort of a chance in his new job as provincial treasurer. George Washington got mixed up in his figures the other day and thought he had discovered a surplus. As a result he at once exploded through the columns of The Globe. He went off at half cock. He was so delighted at the thoughts of discovering what he up to that time doubted was in existence, that he could not contain himself until the official figures were ready. But the public were not fooled. They are wary now of Mowat-Hardy-Ross surplus claims. They remember the time the government claimed a $6,000,000 surplus, then they shifted to $5,000,-900, finally retreated to $4,000,000, insisted there was $3,000,000 and took their stand on $2,000,000. Finally Mr. Ross appointed a commission to see whether there was any surplus or not and we are now waiting for a report on the subject. In the meantime, Mr. Ross thinks he has found $110,000 lying around loose, and has become hysterical over the matter. The Mail in all kindness might have let the Premier enjoy his little fallacy. No one takes it seriously. This province hasn't been in the surplus business for est improving effect. Doctor after doctor was consulted in vain. Bright's disease had its grip and could not be necessary to rob the hard pressed municipalities of a part of their taxes. Here is the way the Mail pricks Premier Ross' surplus bubble:

We are getting some extraordinary "figgering" from Mr. G. W. Ross, the new provincial treasurer.

He has just issued, through the organ, a statement that his revenue was $3.810,000 last year, and that he expended $3,700,000, thus reaping a surplus of $110,000.

It appears, however, from last year's accounts, that there was $271,-000 on deposit in the banks when 1899 opened; this sum was carried forward. As there is $110,000 left, the reserve has fallen by $161,000; in other words there is a deficit to that amount.

The new year, it is stated, begins with $1,618,000 in the banks, the money being the receipts from Ottawa and from timber sales; every year

But it is alleged by Mr. Ross that of this amount "$800,000 were the ac

"STRATHCONA'S HORSE."

Lord Strathcona's offer to raise and maintain a regiment of Canadian horse for service in South Africa will do more to advertise Canada than the sending of the Government contingents and must vastly increase the admiration of the Motherland for the Colony that produces such men. A military expert at the Capital figures out the cost of the undertaking as follows :-

400 men, outfit, $100 each, 5 20.000 400 men, arms, $50 each, 40.000 400 horses, $100 each, 20.000 400 horses, outfit, $50, 80.000 Transportation, $200 per man, 40.000 Do., horses, $100, 73.000 Maintenance, 50c. per day, 73.000 Maintenance horses, 50c, per day, 73,000 Contingencies and extras, say, 20,000

During the season of 1899, 25,255,810 tons of freight passed to and from Lake Superior through the canals at Sault Ste. Marie (Canadian and United States.) This is four times as much freight as passed the Sault in 1888. The Canadian canal had only about 12 per cent of this, the figures being 22,-252,139 tons through the Unites States canal and 3,003,671 through the Canadian canal.

That is a matter that will be dealt with by Parliament, and Sir William Meredith would do well in his capacity as Judge not to meddle with such questions from the bench. The disposition of some Judges to pose as pub-lic mentors on all subjects needs to be becked .- Hamilton Times.

We don't know why a Judge should not be allowed to express his opinion on public questions as well as anyone else. If the Times has any fault to find with Meredith as a Judge why doesn't it come at him straight or else attack the system which loads up the bench with men who are either failures as successful politicians or else played out party hacks.

The war in South Africa has greatly increased the manufacture of khaki cloth, more than 15,000 persons now being engaged in making the materkhaki is of Hindo origin and means dust or clay-colored. The cloth is made entirely of cotton. It was probably first used by the English soldiers in India. It is very durable and is well adapted for use in bot ctimates, such as the British troops have been operating in for many years. As is well known khaki cloth is also used to a large extent in the United States army in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico. A disinct advantage of this cloth in South Africa is its "invisibleness" and it is worth noting in this connection that, according to an English journal, the horses of one regiment have been dyed khaki color, in order to render hem less easily seen by the enemy.

SAYS THE CHANCES FAVOR WAL TER MILLS.

Ridgetown Dominion The Chatham Planet is having lot of fun over the race for the county court clerkship. Before the remains of the late clerk reached Chatham from the place where Mr. Campbell met his untimely death, half a score Liberal "workers," mostly lawyers, were after the job, which is worth a couple of thousand a year. Messrs. Pardo and Ferguson have had their ives made miserable by the appeals of applicants and their friends. Backed by "Irish Jack," the power behind the throne in West Kent Liberalism, Mr. James Holmes loomed up strong, but his hopes were dashed by a resolution of the Kent Law Society de manding that the position be given to a member of the profession. It is thought that Mr. Ferguson, stronger than Mr. Pardo, will see that an East Kent man gets the plum. John Coutts, R. L. Gosnell and Walter Mills are mentioned with the chances, we believe, in favor of the last named.

Healthy, happy girls often become languid and despondent, from no apparent cause, in the early days of their womanhood. They drag along, always tired, never hungry, breathless and with palpitating hearts after slight exercise, so that to merely walk up stairs is exhausting. Sometimes a short, dry cough leads to the fear that they are going into consumption. Doctors tell them they are a æ nic-which means that they have too little blood. Are you like that?

More pale and a zemic people have been made bright, active and strong by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than any other medicine.

Mrs M N. Jonese, Berthier, Que., writes:—"My daughter, aged fifteen has been restored to good health through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She was very feeble, her bloot was poor and watery, and she was troubled with head-aches, poor appetite, dizzuess, and always felt tired. After using four boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has in enjoying as good health as any girl of her age, and we are glad to give the ordit to your grand medicine. Some clothes and some positions make the pain and the discomfort seem less. Perhaps the nerves are most affected and this in turn disturbs the diges-tion. Nothing will aver completely and this in turn disturbs the digestion. Nothing will ever completely relieve but a radical cure. The start of so-called "female complaints" may be a very slight thing indeed. It may be that in the beginning some small hygienic measures would stop the trouble. Certainly at this time, a little bit of the right medicine would stop it. When the trouble becomes worse, it is harder to cure, but still it can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will positively cure any trouble of this character. It may be absolutely relied upon. It affords tasting relief to a woman whose natural modesty has kept her from consulting a physician.

THE END OF THE CENTURY CALENDAR.

The great progress of the printer's The great progress of the printer's art in the nineteenth century is fittingly marked in this closing year by the artistic calendar we have just received from N. W. Ayer & Son, newspaper and magazine advertising agents, Philadelphia. True to their motto of "Keeping, everlastingly at it," Meesrs. Ayer & Son have so made this calen-dar, year after year, that a demand for it has sprung up that always quickly absorbs the edition. This calendar's absorbs the edition. This calendar's proportions are commensurate with its dignity, is an art work, but its size is determined solely by utility. The figures are of the generous dimensions that quickly catch the eye and make it a favorite with business men; there are also helpful suggestions accompanying each month's figures, and there is a rich ensemble of color and design. This edition will not last long; while it does, those who send 25 cents to the publishere will receive a copy post-

The Historical Diary for the year is of peculiar interest, giving in an incredibly small space all the principal events of this very important year. A unique feature of the new Almanacies a list of titled Canadians, with their ranks and orders. This is the first time that such a list has been compiled and may be considered as the beginning of a Canadian De Brett. Certainly the Canadian Almanao is growing larger and more complete every year, until it is now difficult to see where it could be added to or improved. The price, however, still remains, as in past years, 25 cents.

"Say rather accursed, my friend. since it is marked by the blood of a brave man. I'll take the same blade Lord Carmorgan handled. Since a Briton failed to teach the Russian bear lesson with it, we'll see what Brother Jonathan can do. Hold it for me, Mr.

No one makes any remark, though secretly the baron is fuming, while both Mr. Grimes and Sandy chuckle at the words of the traveller. It is patent that Mynheer Joe has gauged the makeup of his antagon st to a dot, and will be able to take care of him. Both principals in the contemplated ffair proceed to business. Coats and tests are removed. Joe arranges his attire just as in the gymerasium, placing the feotherids over his shoes, tightening a belt around his waist and fastening up both sleeves.

The baron observes his movements with a curiousity that shows itself up in his face. He discovers that his American antagonist knows more than he gave him credit for and perhaps for the first time the startling thought flashes through his brain that this man may be revelation to him.

His practical eye takes in the wonderful wrist of Mynheer Joe and the superb forearm. These points give promise of astonishing supple sword play if in the session of a master.

The baron feels concern-something that never bothered him before when about to enter a little affair of this kind, for the duello has been a pastime to the Russian, feeling that he was a sure winner from the start. Both are now ready.

Their seconds place them, and as there is really no advantage in the ground, this requires little effort. "One moment before we begin! It is Mr. Grimes who speaks, and all eyes are at once turned upon him. 'Let us understand the conditions of this affair. Will the gentlemen's honor be satisfied with the first blood, or is it to be a duel to the death?" The baron opens his mouth to declare for the latter, remembering the disgrace put upon him when the wine was dashed into his face. Just then his eyes rest upon the countenance of the American. What is it in Mynheer Joe's looks that causes a spasm to pass through the frame of the duelist? He hardly knows himself, save that for perhaps the first time in his life he has had an undeniable twinge of fear.

"The first disabling wound will satisfy me," says the baron, coldly, secretly meaning that when he himself gives this it shall be the coup de grace through his foeman's heart.

Mynheer Joe inclines his head. "What the Russian says suits me. m ready for any conditions," he re-

"It is understood, gentlemen, a disabling wound brings the little affair to a termination, and we, the seconds, are to be the judges. Are you ready for business?" calls Mr. Grimes.

Both swordsmen a rume favorite post tions and make affirmative responses. Mr.Grimes nods his head to the French-

"Begin!" calls that worthy, sharply. Hardly had the word left his lips than the sword blades kiss with a ringing sound, and the extraordinary duel among the hills of Mokkatam has begun. It is the baron who assaults; he is eager to discover the mettle of his antagonist, and throws some fire into his attacks, though not forgetting to keep his guard intact, and retain some reserve.

The spectators group around, and prepare to witness one of the most astonish ing scenes that ever took place upon the bank of the historical Nile. It does not take an experienced swordsman long to learn that he has met a foeman worthy of his steel, and ere they have been at it ten seconds the Russian allows a look of surprise to be seen upon his face.

This is succeeded by an expression of terrible ferocity. He has discovered the calibre of his antagonist, and is more than ever determined to kill him then and there. Fortunately, the object of this solicitude has something to say about this matter himself, and he speaks with no uncertain sound.

For perhaps a minute or so, the swords meet and writhe and twist like gleaming snakes. Then the agile baron springs back beyond reach. He has failed in his first attempt. What will he endeavor to accomplish now?

He knows better than to display any signs of alarm. On the contrary, he forces a sneer upon his lips and appears

Again he advances, to adopt an entirely new system of tactics, which the American meets as becomes the favorite pupil of Monsieur Duval, the famous swordsmaster of all Paris.

The baron is amazed to find that each of his little tricks is met is rapid order. He gains no advantage. If Joe were surrounded by a wall of steel he could not be more secure apparently from the aslaught of his antagonist.

On his part, the American admits that ever has he met one who could wield the blade with such power and skill as this Russian duelist. He is kept busy repelling attacks, and when he finds an opportunity to make a lunge on his account it is met and parried by the clever work of the baron.

Mr. Grimes looks on and smiles; he thinks he can afford to, knowing well what a surprise will yet come upon the Russian. As for the French captain, he rubs his hands together in great glee; such a spectacle as this appeals to everything that is martial jn his comoung," said Oliver merry; his

"I have never felt better in my life than I do now," says Charles Hunwick, of Lenox, Macomb Co., Mich., in a remarkable letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery right along. I can now walk quite well with a cane and hope to throw even that away before long, and as I have had to use crutches for nearly two years. I think I am doing fine. I think I will have to change my mind about 'Patent Medicines, as I never had much faith is them; but you must know that I have been treated in two hospitals and by three doctors besides, and received no benefit so I think your medicine is the only medicine for me."

There is nothing in the world for constipation like Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They should be taken in conjunction with the "Discovery," whenever any disease is complicated with that dangerous condition. Nothing else that may be offered in their place will accomplish what they will. And their relief is permanent, Write to Dr. Pierce for free advice.

At last the opportunity he looks for comes; there is a quick movement. sudden cry, and the sword of the American protrudes through the right arm of the baron at the shoulder.

Lord Carmorgan has been avenged with the weapon he handled in vain!

CHAPTER XV.

With another quick movement the American withdraws his sword and steps back a pace to avoid any punish ment, but the baron is in no condition to deal such. He sinks back, and only that the French captain springs forward and catches the baron in his arms he must fall in a heap.

There is no sign of fainting, only exhaustion. He stands there, sustained in part by his second, looking at the first man in all the world who has proved his master, and the gleam of those eyes can be termed nothing less than diabolical. Mynheer Joe leans on his sword and coolly surveys his antagonist. Then he calls for a match and applies it to the cigar which he has held between his teeth all this while. It is evident that he has no fear of the future. The tableau remains unbroken for per bis repetory of curious strokes and haps a full minute.

How we strained them; how we taxed them with overwork, and then, because they were tired we rubbed them to make irritation worse. And to think that the most they needed, in fact, all that they were asking for in their quiet way, was a rest, a little help in the shape of a good pair of glasses, properly fitted. Hockey Sticks Pushing an Attack on a Boer Stronghold -- Ladysmith in Sight.

Spearman's Camp, Natal, Jan. 20.- The firing of field guns was heard early this morning from the left. Evidently, Gen. Warren has commenced the bombardment of the Boer trenches on Tabanmyana mountain.

There was also a brief musketry fire. Among the prisoners captured Thursday was a grandson-in-law of President Kruger.

NO PATCHED BATTLE YET. London, Jan. - Telegrams from the front indicate that the northward march of the relief column moving to ward Ladysmith is proceeding steadily. The authorities here seem satisfied that now Gen. Buller's forces are within sight of Ladysmith the besieged place is safe at present from serious attack. There is nothing to show that the general engagement, so frequently rumored, has yet commenced, though, obviously, news of such a battle is momentarily expected. BOER LOSSES VERY SEVERE.

Rensburg, Jan. 20.— A gentleman who has escaped from Colesberg reports that the Dutch inhabitants whe were sympathizers with the Boers, are proceeding to the Orange Free State, in anticipation of the evacuation of the town. Mr. Van Der Walt, a member of the Cape Assembly, has already gone.

a strong force at Norval's pont. The British shells hid much execution eastward of the town. The Boer loss, up to date, is probably 200 men.

Carefully compiled figures, from republican sources, some of which have been investigated and found to be correct, show the Boer losses up to date are, approximately, 6,425 men, including 2,000 casualties during the siege of Ladysmith. 'A general meeting of the Lawn Tennis Club will be held at 4.30 Monday afternoon, 22nd inst., at the Gas Co.'s The contract between the Great Northern Railway Co, and A. F. fighting occurred yesterday. The Boers are retreating.

There is every indication that a big fight for the western roads leading to Ladysmith will take place to-day, writes the Leader's military critic, though it may have begun yesterday. All the artillery of Gens. Warren and Hildyard were not across the drifts yesterday morning, and the ammunition train and most of the heavier guns were probably then still south of the Tugela. These indications, and to Gen. Warren's longer march, point to The choir boys, who have been for some time under Prof. Forsythe's training, will sing portions of the evening service in Christ Church to-morrow night. the serious effort being made to-day The war critic of the Morning Post The war critic of the Morning Post says: Gen. Warren's intention is to turn the right flank of the Boers, presumably those facing Gen. Lyttleton, but whether he proposes to attack that flank, as he would be descending ing the valley of Blaaubank Spruit or to march righ round it by the valley of Sand river, can hardly yet be determined.

The fighting, when it comes, may be expected to be heavy, and continuous, and the losses may be severe. Far from their base at Cheiveley with the river behind them and with the enemy in large numbers between them and Ladysmith, the position of the British forces is not an easy one.

CAUSED BY THE FOG.

CAUSED BY THE FOG.

As noted yesterday, two Wabash special freights had a tail end collision at Stoney Point. The accident was due to the heavy fog which prevented objects being seen at even a short distance. The leading freight slowed up at Stoney Point and the other train crashed into the first. Fireman Addison jumped but engineer Alex Forest stayed at his post. Addison has his shoulder distincted and received some nasty bruises about his face. Engineer Forest also received some bad cuts about the head from flying debris. G. T. R. WONDERS OF THE EYE

Dr. Talmage's Sermon on the System's Imperial Organ.

THE WINDOWS OF THE SOUL.

The Two Great Lights of the Human Face - How God Honors the Eye- Not a Blind Giant stambling Through the Washington, Jan. 14 .- In this discourse, Dr. Talmage, in his own way, calls attention to that part of the human body never perhaps discoursed upon in the pulpit and challenges us all to the study of omniscience; text, Psalm xciv, 9, "He that formed the eye, shall he not see?"

The imperial organ of the human system is the eye. All up and down the Bible God honors it, extols it, illustrates it, or arraigns it. Five hundred and thirty-four times is it mentioned in the Bible. Omnipresence-"the eyes of the Lord are in every place." Divine care—"as the apple of the eye." The clouds—"the eyelids of the morning." Irreverence — 'the eye that mocketh at its father.' Pride—'oh, how lofty are their eyes.' Inattention—'the fool's eye in the ends of the earth. Divine inspection—"wheels full of eyes."
Suddenness—"in the twinkling of an eye at the last trump." Olivetic ser-men—"the light of the body is the eye." This morning's text, "He that formed the eye, shall he not see?"

The surgeons, the doctors, the anatomists and the physiologists un-derstand much of the glories of the two great lights of the human race, but the vast multitude go on from cradle to grave without any appreciation of the two great master-pieces of the Lord God Almighty. If God had lacked anything of infin-Ite wisdom, he would have failed in creating the human cye. We wander through the earth trying to see wonderful sights, but the most wonderful sight we ever see is not so wonderful as the instruments through which we see it.

It has been a strange thing to me for 30 years that some scientist with enough eloquence and magnetism did not go through the country with illustrated lecture on canvas 30 feet square to startle and thrill and overwhelm Christendom with the maryels of the human eye. We want the eye taken from all its technicalities and some one who shall lay aside all talk about the pterygomaxallary fissures, the sclerotic and the chiasma of the optic nerve and in plain, common parlance which you and I and everybody can understand present the subject. We have learned men who have been telling us what origin is and what we were. Oh, if some one should come forth from the dissecting table and from the class-room of the university and take the platform and, asking the help of the Creator, demonstrate the would torch when you can't see?" "Ah," ders of what we are! If I refer to torch when you can't see?" the physiological facts suggested by only to bring out in plainer way the theological lessons of the latter part of my text. "He that formed the in structure and adaptation. The eyes of fish, and reptiles and moles and bats are, very simple things, cause they have not much to do. There are insects with a hundred eyes, but the hundred eyes have less faculty than the two human eyes. The black beetle swimming the summer pond has two eyes under and two eyes above, the water, but the four insectile are not equal to the two human. Man placed at head of all living creatures must have supreme equipment, while the blind fish in the Mammoth cave of Kentucky have only an undeveloped organ of sight, an apology for the eye, which if through some crevice of the mountain they should go into the sunlight might be developed into In the first chapter of Genesia divinity, as though to imply the powers of Godhead were to be the powers of Godhead were to be the power of the control of the enlisted in the achievement. us make man." Put a whole ton of emphasis on that word "us." "Let us make man." And if God called a convention of divinity to create man, I think the two great questions in that conference were how to create priate window for that emperor to look out of.

To show how God honors the eye, residence of the human eyes are richer by so much as human bone is more sacred than elephantine tusk. See how God honored the eye when he made a roof for them, so that the sweat of toil should not smart them and the rain dashing against the forehead might not drip them; the eyebrows not bending over the eye, but reaching to right and to the left so that the rain and the sweat should be compelled to drop upon the cheek in-stead of falling into this divinely protected human eyesight.

See how God honored the eye in the fact presented by anatomists and physiologists that there are 800 contrivances in every eye. For window shutters, the eyelids opening and closing 30,000 times a day es so constructed that have their selection as to what shall be admitted, saying to the dust, "Stay out," and saying to the light, "Come in." For inside curtain, the iris or pupil of the eye, according as the light is greater or less, contracting or dilating. The eye of the owl is blind in the daytime, the eyes of some creatures are blind at night, but the human eye, so marvellously constructed it can see both by day and by night. Many of the other creatures of God can move the eye only from side to side, but the human eye, so mar-vellously constructed, has one mus-cle to lift the eye and another muscle to lower the eye and another muscle to roll it to the right, and another muscle to roll it to the left and another muscle passing through a pulley to turn it round and round, an elaborate gearing of six muscles as perfect as God could make them

There is also the retina gathering the rays of light and passing the visual impression along the optic nerve about the thickness of the lamp wick, passing the visual impression on to the sensorium and or into the soul. What a delicate lens what an exquisite screen, what soft cushions, what wonderful chemistry of the human eye! The eye washed by a slow stream of moisture whe ther we sleep or wake, rolling im-perceptibly over the pebble of eye and emptying into a bone of the nestril, a contrivance so wonderful that it can see the sun 95,000,000 of miles away and the point, of a pin. Telescope and microscope in the same contrivance.

There also is the merciful arrange ment of the tear gland by which the eye is washed and through which rolls the tide which brings relief that comes in tears when some bereavement or great loss strikes us The tear not an augmentation of sorrow, but the breaking up of the arctic of frozen grief in the warm gulf stream of consolation. Incato weep is madness or death Thank God for the tear glands and that the crystal gates are so easily

What an anthem of praise to God is the human eye! The tongue is speechless and a clumsy instrument expression as compared with it. Have you not seen the eye flash with indignation, or kindle with enthusiasm, or expand with devotion, or melt with sympathy, or stare with fright, or leer with villainy, or droop with sadness, or pale with envy, or fire with revenge, or twinkle with mirth, or beam with love? It is tragedy and comedy and pastoral and lyric in turn. Have you not seen its uplifted brow of surprise, or its frown of wrath, or its contraction of pain? If the eye say one thing and the lips say another thing, you believe the eye rather than the

But these best appreciate the value of the eye who have lost it. Emperor of Adrian by accident put out the eye of his servant. "What shall I pay you in money or in lands —anything you ask me? I am so sorry I put your eye out." But the servant refused to put any financial estimate on the value of the eye, and when the emperor urged again the matter he said, "Oh, Emperor, I swant nothing but my lost eye." Alas for those for whom a thick and impenetrable wall is drawn across the face of the heavens and the face of one's own kindred. That was a pathetic scene when a blind man lightsaid he, "I can't see, but I carry this torch that others may see me of my text, "He that formed the limity of character when we find him limity of character when we find him eye, shall he not see?"

I suppose my text referred to the at the call of duty sacrificing his eyeat the call of duty sacrificing his eyeat the call of duty sacrificing his eyeat the call of duty sacrificing his eyeight. Through studying at late excels all other sight. Through studying at late hours and trying all kinds of medicament to preserve his sight he had for 12 years been coming toward blindress, and after awhile one eye was entirely gone. His physician warned him that il he continued he would lose the other eye. But he kept on with his work and said after sitting in total darkness: "The choice lay before me between dereliction of a supreme duty and loss of eyesight. In such a case I could not listen to the physician, not if Aesculapius himself had spoken from his sanctuary. could not but obey that inward monitor. I know not what spoke to me from heaven." Who of us would have grace enough to sacrifice our eyes at the call of duty?

But, thank God, some have been enabled to see without very good eyes. General Havelock, the son find that God without any consulta- the more famous General Havelock, tion created the light, created the told me this concerning his father: trees, created the fish, created the In India, while his father and himfowl, but when he was about to self, with the army, were encamped make man he called a convention of one evening time after a long march, General Havelock called up his soldiers and addressed them, saying in words as near as I can recollect: Soldiers, there are two or three "Let hundred women, children and men at Cawnpur at the mercy of Nana Sa-bib and his butchers. Kingly palace of tyory is con- raised hands, but I know they are sidered rich, but the halls for the all up. Forward to Cawnpur!" That hero's eyes, though almost extinguished in the service of God and his country, could see across India and across the centuries.

A surgeon, riding up one evening gave his horses into the care of the blind groom Late at night the traveling surgeon went to the stables and found the groom still at work upon the horses, and the grateful and sympathetic surgeon resolved in the morning to reward the blind groom with money. But in the night the surgeon bethought himself that perhaps he could give the groom some thing better than money. In the morning he said to the blind groom, "Step out into the sunshine! You are 40 years of age. I could surely have cured your blindness if I had seen you sooner, but come to Paris, and I will give you sight if you do not die under the operation." Paying the poor man's way to Paris, the operation was successful. For the first time the man saw his wife and operation was successful. children, and having taken a good look at them he turned and said, "Let me look on my friend the surgeon, who has opened all this beautiful world to me and shown me my

Perhaps no ailment to which flesh is heir brings men down to a more common level than catarrh and catarrhal affections. When it is rated that ninety in every hundred are subject in a lesser or greater degree to the ravages of this universal disease, the high, the low, the rich, the poor, must naturally come within its grasp. And it is not to be wondered at that such a galaxy of Canada's best men as have done so are willing, naving themselves been sufferers, to "let their light shine" that others may be warned of the malady, and herald to the world the efficacy, the quick relief, the absolute cure they have proven to be in so splendid a compound as Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

Thus it is considered no breach of

Only those who have been restored from utter blindness can appreciate the omnipotent blessing of eyesight.

To-day I have only hinted at the splendors, the glories, the wonders, the divine revelations, the apocalypses, of the human eye, and I stag-ger back from the awful portals of the physiological miracle which must have taxed the ingenuity of a God to cry out in your ears the words of my text, "He that formed the eye, shall he not see?" Shall Herschel not know as much as his telescope? Shall Fraunhofer not know as much as his spectroscope? Shall Swammerdam not know as much as his microscope? Shall Dr. Hooke not know as much as his micrometer? Shall the thing formed know more than its maker? "He that formed the eye, shall he not see?" The recoil of this question is tremendous. We stand at the centre of a vast circumference of observation. No privacy. On us eyes of cherubim, eyes of seraphim, eyes of archangel eyes of God. We may not be able to see the inhabitants of the other worlds, but perhaps they may be able We have not optical into see us. struments strong enough to descry them. Perhaps they have optical instruments strong enough to descry us. The mole cannot see the eagle midair, but the eagle midsky can see the mole midgrass. We are able to see mountains and caverns of another world, but perhaps the inhabitants of other worlds can see the towers of our cities, the flash of our seas, the marching of our processions, the white robes of our weddings, the black scarfs of our obsequies.

But human inspection and angelic inspection and stellar inspection and lunar inspection and solar inspection are tame as compared with the thought of divine inspection. "You converted me 20 years ago," said a colored man to my father. "How so?" said my father. "Twenty years ago," said the other, "In the old schoolhouse prayer meeting at Bound Brook you said in your prayer, 'Thou God seest me,' and I had no peace under the eye of God until I became a Christian." Hear it: "The eyes of the Lord are in every place." "His eyelids try the children of men." "His eyes were as a flame of fire." "I will guide thee with mine eye."
Oh, the eye of God, so full of pity, so full ol power, so full of love, so full of indignation, so full of compassion, so full of mercy! How it peers through the darkness! How it outthrough the day! How it glares upon the offender! How it beams on the penitent soul! Talk about the hunan eye as being indescribably wonderful-how much more wonderful the great, searching, overwhelming eye of God! All eternity rast and all eternity to come on that prina. The eyes with which we look into each other's face to-day suggest It stands written twice on your face and twice on mine, unless through casualty one or both have been obliterated. "He that formed the eye, shall he not see?" Oh, the eye of God! It sees our sorrows to assuage them, sees our perplexities to disen tangle them, sees our wants to sympathize with them. If we fight him back, the eye of an antagonist. If we ask his grace, the eye of an everlasting friend. You often find in a book of manuscript a star calling attention to a footnote or explanation. That star the printer calls an asterisk. But all the stars of the night hearins are asterisks calling your attention in God. Our every nerve a divine handwriting. Our every muscle a pulley divinely swung. Our every hone suggestiveness. Our every eye a reflection of the divine eye. God above us and God beneath us and God before us God behind us and God within us What a stupendous thing to live! What a stupendous thing to die! No such thing as hidden transgression.

He is not a blind giant stumbling through the heavens. He is not a blind monarch feeling for the step of his chariot. Are you wronged? He sees it. Are you poor? He sees it. Have you domestic perturbation of which the world knows nothing? He which the world knows nothing? He sees it. A legend of St. Frotobert is that his mother was blind and he was so sorely pitiful for the misfertune that one day in sympathy he kissed her eves and by miracle she saw everything. GREAT REGEPTION

The Canadian Contingent got at Capetown.

A St. Thomas Boy fleets Some P lends-An Awful Country.

Private W. J. Green, of St. Thomas vrites his father an interesting letter concerning the landing of the contigent at Cape Town and the trip up the country. He says:

We dropped our anchor in the harbor on Wednesday, Nov. 29th, about noon, and about five we ran into dock There were numerous vessels in the port, and they gave us all kinds of salutes and cheers as we sailed in.
These ships, about forty in number, were all troopships, some just in and some unloaded and ready to return. A funny thing happened just after we pulled into dock. Jack Watson, who used to be connected with the bookused to be connected with the book-store in St. Thomas, stood on the dock and yelled to one of our officers ask-ing if I was on board. I was sent for, and was glad indeed to see him. I had to talk to him from the ship, though, for they wouldn't let us go on shore. Reveille sounded at 4 a. m., on Thursday and we disembarked. marched through Cape Town, to Green

Point Common, and pitched our camp there. Then we struck for town and there. Then we struck for town and had our pictures taken by Alex. Watson, who used to be in the business at St. Thomas. Then we went with him to the swellest hotel in Cape Town and had one good meal, if we never have another. We had not eaten anything good for so long that we didn't have another. We had not eaten any thing good for so long that we didn't thing good for so long that we didn't know when to stop. It was certainly ensy to put the good things down. We didn't get much of a chance to view the town, which is a very pretty and quaint old place, and has electric cars and all modern improvements. R. H. Whale, the artist, who used to be in St. Thomas came out to camp next morning and invited us all up to his house, but we didn't have time to go. We paraded in the field service order, and marched to the train at 11 a. m., attended by immense crowds of a. m., attended by immense crowds o

a. m., attended by immense crowds of enthusiastic spectators. These people are all right, they gave us enough good stuff to keep us eating all the way to be Aar. We travelled day and night from 2 p. m. Friday till 3 a. m. Sunday, stopping for hard tack and coffee only, through the most described and barren country the most desolate and barren country the Lord ever made. It is just like the country around Georgian Bay, withcountry around Georgian Bay, with-out the trees and water. It is simply small patches of plain sand with stones on the patches, and hills of all sizes, some of them mountains, which are called kopjes, pronounced "cop-pies." These kopjes are simply piles pies. These kopjes are simply piles of stones and the only vegetation to be found is a kind of ground scrub never more than a foot high. The trip by rail was first-class, and it was all sorts of amusement to watch the little miggers who assembled by hun-dreds at all the little stations along dreds at all the little stations along the line. They were all sizes, some had clothes on and more had not. The white people, and the niggers, too, gave us the best they had—goats' milk, onions and fresh bread. We de-trained at 3.30 a.m. on Sunday and milk, onions and fresh bread. We detrained at 3,30 a.m. on Sunday and marched into camp on a sandy plain, or veldt as it is called, about three-quarters of a mile from the depot. It was simply awful that day; the wind blew the sand so thickly that you couldn't see your chum next to you, and we had to go half a mile for a drink of water. Since that, how-you, and we had to go hair a mile for a drink of water. Since that, how-ever, it hasn't been so bad, although we have to lie down in the sand, but we are all happy and the only thing we grumble about is that we are not sent to the front.

It refers to the war in South Africa, and, as will be seen towards the end, prophecies some rather exciting events in the course of a few seem. Among other things that few years. Among other things that ought to interest some of us, Mr. Wilson predicts that nine-tenths of us will die:

This condition of affairs was so contrary to the ordinary geniality of the family that, when Wilkins dropped in to wish them the compliments of the season, he was wonder-stricken. He attempted to engage Slingsby in chat, but failed. Christmas topics, election matters, every subject he tried fell flat.

"What ails you all?" he demanded irefully. "You are all as gloomy as if you had just attended a funeral! What's hearty Christmas dinner? What is it?" "That's ti." mournfully answered Wilkins onnes only once a year. "Why don't you read The News, "Wh-a-a-t?" gasped Slingsby. "Why don't you read The News, "Blingsby's question. "Everything. Look at me. I'll wager I enjoyed my Christmas fare as heartly as you did. I had turkey, plum pudding as you did. I had turkey, plum pudding (with brandy sauce), mince pies, and all the rest of it, and yet I'm as chipper as a speirrel—never felt so well in my life. Slingsby started. He couldn't understand. He was speechless. Wilkins went off:—"Yes, I read The News, you see?"

But I read The News, you see?"

Good Lady of This Bouse Spoke out to the Guest nd Gave Him a Cordial Greeting the Accepted Fitzsimmon's Style.

Before accepting an invitation it is as well to be sure it is given in good faith. After an afternoon service held many years ago in a certain village in Scotland, the preacher, a stranger, who had officiated, accompanied one of the elders of the congregation home, and was introduced to his wife. The good man having asked the clergyman to stay to dinner, the latter, after a little pressing, consented.

The good lady hurried off to prepare for the unexpected guest, and seeing, as she thought, her husband washing, as was the custom in those days, at the family sink, she seized the family Bible, approached stealthily from be hind and brought down the ponderous tome upon his bald pate, exclaiming: "Tak' ye that for bringing hungry preachers here to dinner every time they come to the parish." As soon as the assaulted one could get the suds out of his eyes he looked about him, and, after thinking the matter out, concluded that the old lady had made a slight mistake. She, too, came to the same conclusion when, on returning to the parlor, she beheld her husband patiently waiting for his revwart sons of old Erin met to hold an able and eloquent indignation meeting of considerable moment.

It appears that last summer R. M. Thompson and G. M. Baird, with characteristic enterprise organized the Irish picnic with a view of assisting the public library. It was thought advisable, however, to keep the library project in the back-ground and work up the enthusiasm as an Irish picnic to the Eau. This was carried out, committees were formed and the outing brought to a successful culmination. The committees share of the proceeds some $500 were forwarded by the L. E. & D.R.R. to the treasurer, R. M. Thompson, and a meeting held R. M. Thompson, and a meeting held shortly after, where the first hitch is alleged to have occurred. Some of the stalwart Irish committee men were "agin the government" and the idea of appropriating the funds the proceeds to the Library was vociferously opposed. Finally, however, the following grants were made:—$150 to to the Blenheim Public Libraary, $30 to the Chatham hospitals, for which they claim, they received not the slightest acknowledgment, and $10 each to Messrs. Thompson and Baird for their work. The trouble occurred over the remaining surplus of some $250, which, it is alleged, the treasurer would only pay to the library.

The first meeting of the indignation party was held some time ago, when they elected new officers and deposed the old treasurer and his colleagues. It was decided that it would be loyal and patriotic to forward the surplus to the widows and orphans of the victims of the war from Ireland. Capt. Shaw therefore communicated with the Globe, and was instructed that the Shaw therefore communicated with the Globe, and was instructed that the proper way to do this was to send the cheque to the Lord Lieutenant of the Island.
