TURKISH SENTIMENT IN CONSTANTINOPLE IS SAID TO BE VERY GLOOMY--GOEBEN DISMANTLED

ITALIANS OCCUPY THE IMPORTANT HEIGHT OF ZUGNA, NEAR ALA

Official Statement Tersely Emphasizes the So Far Unbroken Order of Italian Advance--Skirmishes in the Alps Gave Italian Victory.

Paris, June 1.—The following official statement of the operations of the Italian military forces was issued to-night by General Cadorna, chief of the general staff: The advance of our troops beyond the Alpine frontiers continued and we have occupied the important height of Zugna, about four miles north of Ala, which dominates the region. Upon this height the Austrians some time ago ordered a heavy bombardment. The vigorous artillery action upon the plateau being followed up, the Austrians abandoned the fort Belvedere, which was in our hands, and our infantry pushed on in intensity and our infantry is solidly established upon the heights. Our front advancing in Val Sugana has arrived within five miles of Borgo and is supported strongly on two slopes of the valley. The mountain of Belvedere which dominates Fiera Di Primieri in the Cismon Valley is also in our hands. A battalion and a half of Austrians with machine guns attacked our Alpine troops in a defile of Monte Croce on the Carina frontier, May 30. The Alpine troops repulsed five spirited attacks delivered one after the other, after which they took the offensive in a violent rain and thick fog, putting their assailants to flight. Our losses were light. The rain continues on the Friuli frontier and the water courses are swollen, but our troops advance in serene confidence to overcome their difficulties.

Statement To-morrow

By Special Wire to the Courier. WASHINGTON, June 1.—PRESIDENT WILSON ANNOUNCED TO-DAY THAT HE PROBABLY WOULD DEFER MAKING PUBLIC HIS STATEMENT ON MEXICAN AFFAIRS UNTIL TO-MORROW MORNING.

DESPATCH FROM ATHENS TELLS OF CONDITIONS IN STAMBOUL

By Special Wire to the Courier. ATHENS, June 1.—The latest advices reaching here from Constantinople are to the effect that the battle cruiser Sultan Selim, formerly the Goeben, has been virtually dismantled. SUE FOR PEACE Recent developments at the Dardanelles are described as having cast a gloom over the Turkish capital, where a strong current of opinion is in favor of opening the straits and negotiating for peace. During the recent British submarine raid in the Sea of Marmora and off Constantinople there was a condition of panic in the city. The people shouted the Russians were coming, and vessels were hastily withdrawn to the far end of the Golden Horn. Troops on board transports were disembarked, and some guns were fired at the submarine. SOBERED BY RAID. Italians and Greeks continue to arrive at Dedeagach by rail. They report that Constantinople was sobered by this raid. One of the results was the despatch of all the troops available to the Dardanelles. Talaat Bey had the Armenian patriarch brought before him. He remonstrated at the behavior of the Armenians and warned the patriarch that conditions must improve.

SHORT, DECISIVE NOTE IS PREDICTED IN MANY QUARTERS

Officials at Washington Regard an Answer as Evading Main Issue—Count Von Bernstorff Has Been Granted an Interview With Wilson.

Washington, June 1.—On to-day's session of President Wilson and his cabinet of ten advisors depends the course which the United States Government will pursue in one of the gravest international situations that has ever confronted it. Three weeks ago the President and the Cabinet, after two hours of debate decided to send to Germany a note demanding full reparation for the loss of more than 100 American lives when the British steamer Lusitania was torpedoed without warning, and asking for guarantees that American rights on the high seas would not be again violated. Germany's unyielding answer is regarded by officials as evading the main points at issue, it was before to-day's meeting. A decision to send a second note, brief and emphatic, setting forth the American Government's position on the disputed points raised by Germany's, was generally predicted in executive quarters. What would result in the event of a non-compliance by Germany; whether the United States would, in its communication, indicate its course, or name a time limit within which a reply would be expected, were matters of general speculation in all quarters. That the note will not be sent before Thursday is the prevailing belief, because Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, has been granted an interview with the president for to-morrow. Its purpose has not been revealed, but in Austro-German quarters he will endeavor by formal discussion to reach an understanding as to the wishes of the United States for transmission to his government at Berlin. In view that the German ambassador, because of his difficulties in cable communication, is not closely informed on the attitude of his own government, prevails in quarters close to the White House for which reason it is hardly thought the ambassador's visit will alter whatever determination is reached at the cabinet meeting. Respective of the seriousness of the delicate point that has been reached in relations with Germany, the President has determined to issue to-day, after discussion with the cabinet his statement to be communicated to all Mexican factions demanding an (Continued on Page Four.)

MILLIONS SLEPT THROUGH THE ZEPPELIN RAID ON THE CITY OF LONDON

London is Not Visibly Perturbed—Millions Never Knew of it Until it Was Announced in the Morning Papers.

London, June 1.—Zeppelin airships, which reached London last night, and the several million inhabitants of the Metropolis slept peacefully through the raid and all they knew this morning are the brief facts of the admiralty announcement which states that the raiders flew over certain outlying sections of the city. The official announcement makes mention also of numerous fires, which may or may not have been connected with the raid. The ordinary life and business of London is being carried on as usual, and the small groups which gathered around discussing the raid, are so few that the public here has been allowed to know, a general lull pervades the different military fronts. It is apparent nevertheless that fighting will proceed along the River Scheldt in the vicinity of Przemysl. This is the extent of the information given by Vienna, which contents itself with the bare mention of the fact, but in nothing, either in confirmation or denial of the reported Russian success at this point. The official announcement from London indicates the resumption of active hostilities against Austria-Hungary, which had been suspended during the Halo-Austrian negotiations. The near east apparently again is in agreement with a Bulgar-Roumanian front reported as among the probabilities of the near future, and Con-

PROPOSAL TO HAVE STREET RAILWAY, HYDRO AND OTHER CIVIC BOARDS AMALGAMATED

Much Business Transacted at Council Meeting Last Night--Big Plans Were Discussed--Pool Room License Refused Without Discussion.

The City Council had a short but busy session last evening. MAIN BUSINESS. The application for a pool room license on Dalhousie street was finally turned down without any debate. Consideration of a by-law was suggested for one board regarding public utilities instead of several boards. The condition of Lorne Bridge came in for a good deal of attention in connection with the desire of the residents of West Brantford to have the street car service renewed. The services of an engineering expert will be obtained in connection with further data. All the members were present. COMMUNICATIONS. There was a long list of communications read by City Clerk Leonard. These were briefly discussed and passed by the councillors. The time lists of T. H. Jones and John Thresher were ordered to be paid. A communication was read from Miss Nellie Van Norman, of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, thanking the Mayor and councillors for their contributions towards the field kitchens they were purchasing for the Canadian soldiers at the front. D. S. Webster and others wrote, asking that the council take steps concerning the level crossing on Leonard street, which has been closed and traffic obstructed for months by an idle engine of the Lake Erie & Northern Railway. This was moved to be referred to the board of works by Ald Calbeck. Ald Suddaby, in speaking about this obstruction, stated that the level crossing was in a bad condition and needed attention. Ald Calbeck replied that the L. E. & N. would lay pavement in the needed places, and they would attend to the improvement of the crossing. The City Clerk of London, S. Baker, requested the Brantford city council to sign the petition to amend the colonization act of the province. He stated that it would be of great benefit to the province if this amendment was made. Referred to the finance committee. A letter was read from the City Clerk of Kingston, asking the city council of Brantford to co-operate in asking that standard time be put one hour ahead. Mrs. E. E. Bertrand sent in a request that they might be granted a license to run a shooting gallery and merry-go-round on the empty lot opposite the Kerby House. Referred to finance committee. W. F. Cocksbutt, M.P., in writing from Ottawa concerning the new post office opening ceremonies here, requested that a committee be appointed to take charge of the affair, as the Postmaster-General, T. Chas. Casgrain, would probably make a visit to the ceremonies himself. City Treasurer A. K. Bunnett wrote stating that he had received a communication from the Provincial Treasurer stating Brantford's share of the salary and travelling expenses of the health officer of District No. 3, amounting to $577.00, had not yet been paid. It was moved by Ald. Ryerson that the communication from W. F. Cocksbutt, M.P., be filed, and that the mayor, finance committee, clerk and treasurer be a committee to act in conjunction with Mr. Cocksbutt. Also that the communication of A. K. Bunnett be referred to the finance committee. Carried. Angus Wilson, an old city teamster, requested that he be permitted to use Patricia street for garden purposes. Arthur F. Dell also asked permission to install a Bowers system gasoline tank on the curb outside of his store, at 45 Dalhousie street. On behalf of the Brantford Hydro-Electric commission, Mr. Ireland requested that seven new 150 watt candle power lights be placed on (Continued on Page 3.)

Anti-German Demonstrations

London, June 1.—The Zeppelin raid on the Metropolitan area last night has brought a recrudescence of the anti-German demonstrations of the mob. The feeling against Germans is acute. Crowds have attacked German shops, and special constables have had to be called out to deal with the people.

VIOLENT FIGHTING NORTH OF ARRAS AND TO THE EAST OF AIX NOULETTE

German Position to the East of Notre Dame de Lorette Was Taken and Germans Were Repulsed in the Vosges.

Paris, June 1, 2:40 p.m.—The French War Office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of hostilities which reads as follows: "Violent fighting took place last night in the region to the north of Arras. To the east of the road from Aix Noullette to Souchez we made our way into a grove, and here developed a hand-to-hand fight, in which we had the advantage. "On the plateau to the east of Notre Dame de Lorette we took possession of a German work. "A very violent fight developed around the sugar mill at Souchez, in the course of which we took about 60 prisoners. "In the Vosges, near Fontenelle, north of St. Die, during the night of May 30-31, a German attack, in which two companies participated, was repulsed by us with heavy losses for the enemy."

GAS-FILLED BOMBS OF ENEMY ARE NO LONGER EFFECTIVE

Paris, June 1.—Scientists, aiding the military, have discovered, it is believed, a means whereby the poisonous gas-filled bombs of the Germans rendered ineffective. The Germans of the British War Office here now purchasing hundreds of ordinary garden syringes, such as are used for watering flowers. With these it is planned to squirt hypodermic doses of sodium into the air as the poisonous gases reach the lines. The soldiers are to be supplied with masks covering the head, soaked in some chemical and which is coated with glycerine to prevent evaporation. London automobile buses, it is discovered have shown an unexpected utility in the treatment of gas victims. If they can be picked up immediately and rushed to a hospital at a high speed it has been found that the journey through the air is of great benefit.

"KULTUR" AND COURTESY

London, June 1.—Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent sends an article written by George Bernhard in the Vossische Zeitung, in which Bernhard emphasizes what he styles the politeness of the German reply to the American note. "We would have been thoroughly justified," says Herr Bernhard, "in replying with a sharp protest to the American note. The writer expresses the opinion that the United States will be convinced of the truth of the information Germany has advanced with regard to the Lusitania, and that instead of protesting further to Germany it will hold the Cunard Line responsible for the disaster.

FRESH GAINS NEAR ARRAS MADE BY THE FRENCH TROOPS

Paris, June 1.—The War Office announced fresh gains last night in the region of Arras on the Souchez-Carigny road. Some German trenches were captured near Souchez and 50 prisoners were made. "Otherwise, according to the night official communique, the day was not marked by important infantry engagements, the Germans having contented themselves with an artillery bombardment of the French front, making no attacks. The following official statement of the Belgian operations of May 30 was made public here last evening: "During the day the enemy artillery was very active. At night it bombarded our advanced posts one of our bridgeheads and the villages of Noordschoote and Ostvlieteren. Our batteries dispersed the enemy on the Crootegheten and Schoorbakke roads, as well as working parties around Blaufutteken."

THE SITUATION. In Galicia the Russian official report now declares that the battle is turning in favor of the troops of the Czar. The fact that this is the case would seem to be confirmed by the laconic official declaration from Berlin:

"Eastern theatre of war—Nothing of importance has occurred." If it had not been checked that fact would have been dwelt upon without any doubt. This means that another big Kaiserite drive has been stopped with enormous losses to the enemy.

The Italians continue to do well, but they are commencing to get in touch with some marked resistance. The long-threatened Zeppelin air raid upon London has at last taken place. Details have been rigidly suppressed by the official press bureau, and all that they have allowed to be published is the circumstance of the attack and the fact that many fires were started. There are, of course, two sides to this suppression. From a newspaper standpoint it seems as if no harm could be occasioned by giving the details of something which has admittedly happened, and there is the further undoubted fact that suppression will lead the Germans to the conclusion that the British authorities are afraid to avow the full extent of serious damage. On the other hand, from the War Office standpoint, it may be the view that to announce where missiles hit might act as a guide in connection with future raids. Whatever the reason, whether justified or otherwise, the plain fact remains that the papers are muzzled and the general public of Great Britain and the world at large are thus kept in ignorance of the full effects of the assault.

LORNE BRIDGE. This structure, which is getting to be pretty nearly as venerable as the City Hall, but not quite, has come to the forefront because of the very natural desire of the residents of West Brantford to have the street car service resumed in that section of the city. The first bridge, it might be noted, ever built over the Noble Grand was erected in 1812. It was located at a point just below its Lorne namesake, and had such a weak constitution that it went down with a sudden crash just after the first team went over it. Bridge after bridge was later constructed, only to be swept away by the spring freshets, and on the last such occasion, Sept. 14th, 1878, an old merchant named Tyrell went down with the crash. The structure was guarded, but he foolishly eluded the watchers, and paid for his temerity with his life. Mr. Robert Henry, then in his 34th year, was mayor at the time, and he and the City Council at once decided that there should be a bridge worth while and likely to stay in the land of the living with some degree of permanency. Samuel Keefer was the engineer, and the bridge was opened for traffic on March 8th, 1879. It is now in the thirty-seventh year of its existence, and the fact might as well be faced that it is about time for a new and much broader structure.

NATIONAL POSITION IS GOOD. Mr. Fred W. Field, writing in the Monetary Times, points out several satisfactory features in connection with Canada's present position. We find that this year, for the first time on record, the total deposits of the Canadian banks for any March exceeded a billion dollars, the figures being $1,016,390,076. The deposits payable after notice (the savings of the people) in the same month totalled $676,875,790, being $31,000,000 greater than in March, 1914, and $47,000,000 more than in March, 1913. There has been a steady increase in what, in the true sense of the word, are savings deposits, and ordinary depositors also, being either unable or unwilling to lend their funds at present, are transferring abnormally large current account balances to savings bank accounts.

The bond houses find a fairly good demand in Canada for first-class securities. There is an absence of any unhealthy speculative tendency. This will be an excellent factor if it continues for any length of time. Looking at all the money signs, it would seem that after the war, when it is hoped that confidence will be fully restored, and allowing for the demands of war loans, there will be ample funds for legitimate investment purposes, with a tendency for the rate to harden as the world gets back into its peaceful gait.

During the twelve months an unfavorable trade balance of $162,891,000 has been transformed to a favorable balance of $6,071,000, a remarkable change within one year. A country which has borrowed less, reduced its imports by 34 per cent. and slightly increased its exports is travelling a good path.

Good crops this year will put a finishing touch to a lengthy period of economic readjustment. A moderately large harvest, with the present or even higher prices, will strengthen the situation to a wonderful degree. Such conditions will probably put Western Canada in the best shape of its history, especially in regard to the liquidation of debts. Last year was a comparatively poor year for crop yields, although the prices helped to counteract that factor. Despite all, however, Canada grew field crops on 35,102,175 acres, valued by the census and statistics office at $638,580,300, as compared with $552,771,500 in the previous year. Allowing for some of the adverse crop factors, that amount should be considerably increased this year, firstly because of an increased acreage of from 15 to 20 per cent. and exceptionally good crop conditions to date. Taken altogether, Canada's national position and outlook are both very reassuring.

SHORT DECISIVE (Continued from Page One) early restoration of order by the Mexicans themselves, and indicating that unless this is done, some other means will be employed to save the population from the effects of famine and the extensive devastation wrought by the internal warfare.

London, June 1.—The Washington correspondents of the London papers send long comments on the situation as between Germany and the United States, which they regard as very serious and they generally express the view that a rupture of diplomatic relations may not be far distant, although in the words of the Times' correspondent: "It is expected that the President will give Germany one more chance." The Morning Standard declines to believe that President Wilson "will fall into the trap laid by Germany, who wishes to gain time to allow the indignation of the American public to cool off" and it adds: "The latest Berlin warning to American shipping is not calculated to modify the situation created not merely by the tragedy of the Lusitania, but by the attempt to sink the Nebraska which was even more flagrant."

TO GAIN TIME. Paris, June 1.—Under the caption "What Will America Do?" the French press comments on Germany's reply to the United States' note of protest regarding the sinking of the Lusitania. All papers agree in characterizing the answer as another German diplomatic "blunder." They declare Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg is endeavoring to open a controversy to gain time.

The Matin says the imperial chancellor invites the United States to abandon neutrality by exerting pressure on Great Britain to induce the latter country to give up her blockade, "that is to say, abandon her naval supremacy," in consideration of "what the German admiralty would 'cease assassinating the passengers of unarmed ships.'"

The Journal believes Germany, notwithstanding the calm moderation of President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan, who have resolved not to be forced into anything precipitate, will end by exasperating America. The paper declares the president and his secretary are Democratic leaders of a democratic nation, who must follow, rather than lead public opinion.

AT IT AGAIN. Port Townsend, Wash., June 1.—An attempt to put out of commission the big guns at Fort Worden and Fort Flagler, guarding the entrance to Puget Sound, was made several days ago, it became known to-day, and as a result all visitors have been barred from the forts in this district. It is reported that breach blocks of four guns were removed and the loading mechanism damaged.

The discovery followed a report that Fort Worden had been photographed in detail by persons who had surreptitiously entered the grounds. The photographs gave the relative locations of the big guns and the hidden batteries.

Second Division Now Complete at Shorncliffe

London, June 1.—"The second division is now completed," stated General Steele to a reporter at Shorncliffe yesterday. The commander expressed satisfaction with the quarters and the general organization, and paid a high tribute to his staff and to the men as a body. General Steele is starting parades of the various battalions this week. John McPherson, No. 24,382, 13th Battalion, reported killed, was a native of Aylth, Scotland. James Cunningham, 4th Battalion, who died in the hospital at Oxford, and Lance-Corp. Peter McGurk, second contingent, who enlisted at Toronto, were both from Scotland. Mgr. Bewachter, representative of Cardinal Mercier in England, speaking in French and English at a meeting of citizens in Folkestone yesterday, said that Belgium's first duty on its restoration should be the erection of a monument with an English inscription acknowledging Folkestone's generous and sympathetic treatment of the refugees. Mgr. Bewachter, who has just returned from a visit to the Belgian lines, asserted that King Albert's soldiers are as determined as ever to conquer or perish.

Cermans Giving Ground Before British at Ypres

London, June 1.—The British troops are advancing on St. Julien, according to a message from the correspondent of the Daily Mail, in Northern France. The German line is said to be greatly weakened and is giving ground north-east of Ypres before vigorous attacks, which have been preceded by an effective bombardment of their trenches. They have made desperate efforts to hold their positions and are said to have been ordered by the German headquarters staff to hold their ground at any cost. The ground which the Germans won a month ago is gradually being pierced, according to the correspondent, at various points. The resistance has been of a desperate character, every cottage, clump of trees and every wall being held on to until the last with grim determination. Their line is no longer the regular one that it was following, the advance in this region, but now is an irregular series of hastily improvised forts, practically all the way between Ypres and Dixmude.

FRENCH OFFICIAL NOTICE

Paris, June 1, 2.35 p.m.— There was given out in Paris this afternoon the following official report on the operations in the Dardanelles: "The fighting has resolved itself for several days past to engagements over a limited area. These have taken place almost daily and they all have come to an end with gains for the allied troops. On the western slope of the ravine of Kereves Dere a detachment of volunteers belonging to a colonial regiment captured by assault on Friday evening a small fort which the enemy had built at the left end of his line and which dominated our trenches. Our men went forward with such speed that the defenders of the fort, taken by surprise, fled without making any resistance. Two counter attacks delivered by the Turks in large numbers, the purpose of which was to recapture the fort in question, were repulsed by us and the enemy suffered heavy losses. The British troops also won a brilliant success in repulsing a violent assault near Gaba Tepe."

MASQUERADER

By Katherine Cecil Thurston,
Author of "The Circle," Etc.
Copyright, 1904, by Harper & Brothers

The message was interesting as well as imperative, and he made an instant response. The thought of Lakeley's keen eyes and shrewd enthusiasms always possessed strong attractions for his own slower temperament, but even had this impetus been lacking, the knowledge that at the St. George's offices, if anywhere, the true feelings of the party were invariably voiced would have drawn him without hesitation.

It was scarcely 12 o'clock when he turned the corner of the tall building, but already the keen spirit that Lakeley everywhere diffused was making itself felt. Loder smiled to himself as his eyes fell on the day's placards with their uncompromising headings and passed onward from the string of gayly printed cards drawn up to read to their first consignment of the paper to the troop of eager newsboys passing in and out of the big swing doors with their piled up bundles of the early edition, and with a renewed thrill of anticipation and energy he passed through the doorway and ran upstairs. Passing unheeded through the long corridor that led to Lakeley's office, he caught a fresh impression of action and vitality from the click of the tape machines in the subeditor's office, and a glimpse through the open door of the subeditors themselves, each occupied with his particular task; then without time for further observation he found himself at Lakeley's door. Without waiting to knock, as he had felt compelled to do on the one or two previous occasions that business had brought him there, he immediately turned the handle and entered the room.

Editors' offices differ but little in general effect. Lakeley's surroundings were rather more elaborate than is usual, as became the dignity of the oldest Tory evening paper, but the atmosphere was unmistakable. As Loder entered he glanced up from the desk at which he was sitting, but instantly returned to his task of looking through and making a pile of early evening editions that were spread around him. His coat was off and hung on the chair behind him, and he pulled vigorously on a long cigar.

"Hello! That's right," he said laconically. "Make yourself comfortable until a second, while I skim the St. Stephen's."

His salutation pleased Loder. With a nod of acquiescence he crossed the office to the brisk fire that burned in the grate.

For a minute or two Lakeley worked steadily, occasionally breaking the quiet by an unintelligible remark or a vigorous stroke of his pencil. At last he dropped the paper with a gesture of satisfaction and leaned back in his chair.

"Well," he said, "what d'you think of this? How's this for a complication?"

Loder turned round. "I think," he said quietly, "that we can't overestimate it."

Lakeley laughed and took a long pull at his cigar. "And we mustn't be afraid to let the Seaborough crowd know it, eh?" He waved his hand to the poster of the first edition that hung behind his desk.

Loder, following his glance, smiled. Lakeley laughed again. "They might have known it all along if they'd cared to deduce," he said. "Did they really believe that Russia was going to sit calmly looking across the Heri-Rud while the sham played at mobilizing? But what became of you last night? We had a regular prophesying of the whole business at Brantford's; the great Fraide looked in for five minutes. I went on with him to the club afterward and was there when the news came in. 'Twas a great night!"

Loder's face lighted up. "I can imagine it," he said, with an unusual touch of warmth.

Lakeley watched him intently for a moment. Then with a quick action he leaned forward and rested his elbows on the desk.

"It's going to be something more than imagination for you, Chilcote," he said impressively. "It's going to be solid earnest!" He spoke rapidly and with rather more than his usual shrewd decisiveness; then he paused to see the effect of his announcement.

Loder was still studying the flaming poster. At the other's words he turned sharply. Something in Lakeley's voice, something in his manner, arrested him. A tinge of color crossed his face.

"Reality?" he said. "What do you mean?"

For a further space his companion watched him, then with a rapid movement he tilted back his chair.

GOING MAD FROM THE TERRIFIC PAIN

Prominent Merchant Thinks His Life Was Saved By "Fruit-a-lives".

DRYSDALE, ONT., JUNE 15th, 1915.
"I am a general storekeeper at the above address, and on account of the great good I have experienced from using 'Fruit-a-lives', I recommend them to my customers. They were a great boon to me, I can tell you, for about two years ago, I was laid up in bed with vomiting and a terrific pain at the base of my skull. The pain nearly drove me mad. Doctors feared it would turn to inflammation of the Brain, but I took 'Fruit-a-lives' steadily until I was cured. I have gained fifteen pounds since taking 'Fruit-a-lives' and I verily believe they saved me from a disastrous illness".

to light, you did some promising work, and a reputation like that sticks to a man even when he turns slacker! I won't deny that you've slacked abominably," he added as Loder made an uneasy movement, "but slacking has different effects. Some men run to seed, others mature. I had almost put you down on the black list, but I've altered my mind in the last two months."

Again Loder stirred in his seat. A host of emotions were stirring in his mind. Every word wrung from Lakeley was another stimulus to write, another subtle tribute to the curious force of personality.

"Well?" he said. "Well?" Lakeley smiled. "We all know that Seaborough's ministry is—well, top-heavy," he said. "Seaborough is building his card house just a story too high. It's a toss up what'll upset the balance. It might be the army, of course, or it might be education, but it might quite as well be a matter of foreign policy!"

They looked at each other in comprehensive silence.
"You know as well as I that it's not the question of whether Russia comes in, but the question of whether she or Russia goes out of Persia when those Hazaras are subdued! I'll lay you what you like, Chilcote, that within one week we hear that the risings are suppressed, but that Russia, instead of retiring, has advanced those tempting twenty miles and comfortably ensconced herself at Meshed—as she ensconced herself on the island of Ashurada." Lakeley's nervous, energetic figure was braced, his light blue eyes brightened by the intensity of his interest.

"If this news comes before the Easter recess," he went on, "the first nail can be hammered in on the motion for adjournment. And if the right man does it in the right way I'll lay my life 'twill be a nail in Seaborough's coffin."

Loder sat very still. Overwhelming possibilities had suddenly opened before him. In a moment the unreality of the past months had become real; a tangible justification of himself and his impetus was suddenly made possible. In the stress of understanding he, too, leaned forward, and, resting his elbows on the desk, took his face between his hands.

For a space Lakeley made no remark. To him man and man's moods came second in interest to his paper and his party politics. That Chilcote should be conscious of the glories he had opened up seemed only natural; that he should show that consciousness in a becoming gravity seemed only right. For some seconds he made no attempt to disturb him, but at last his own irrepressible activity made silence unendurable. He caught up his pencil and tapped impatiently on the desk.

"Chilcote," he said quickly and with a gleam of sudden anxiety, "you're not by any chance doubtful of yourself?"

At sound of his voice Loder lifted his face. It was quite pale again, but the energy and resolution that had come into it when Lakeley first spoke were still to be seen.

"No, Lakeley," he said very slowly. "It's not in the sort of moment in which a man doubts himself."

JIM COFFEY VICTOR IN FIERCE BATTLE

New York, June 1.—For eight rounds Jim Flynn made a gallant stand against the powerful young Jim Coffey, the Rosecommon giant last night, and then in the ninth a dripping sponge came splashing into the ring. Jack Curley, Flynn's manager tossed it through.

At the moment the veteran Colorado was rocking on his heels from a steady cascade of smashes to his face. Battered and bleeding from a dozen cuts, and with one eye practically closed, old Jim was still trying to push close to his young opponent when the sponge fell. It was said that Jim had broken one hand along about the sixth round.

It was a great battle. The memory of that second round will long live with those who saw it. Old Jim stood toe to toe with Coffey, and slugged and slugged until he had the huge Irishman closing in for respite. There were moments when the old fireman had him swaying.
