

FRESH OFFENSIVE BY BRITISH

Russian Situation Today Considerably Improved; Insubordination at an End

Haig's Forces Renew Sweeping Drive Upon Lys Sector of Western Front

Objectives Carried in Early Morning Attack

German Positions Near Lys River Successfully Assailed by British Forces in Conjunction With French; Sweeping Progress Recorded on Wide Sector

By Courier Leased Wire. London, July 31.—British troops in conjunction with the French forces on their left, attacked the German positions along a wide front north of the River Lys at 3.50 o'clock this morning.

The Allied troops, according to a British official statement, have captured their first objectives on the whole front and are reported to be making satisfactory progress at all points.

A considerable number of prisoners already have been captured by the French and British.

The text of the British statement announcing that an offensive had been launched by the British and French against the German positions north of the River Lys in Flanders, says:

"In conjunction with the French troops operating on our left we attacked at 3.50 o'clock this morning on a wide front north of the River Lys.

"The allied troops have captured their first objectives on the whole front attacked and are reported to be making satisfactory progress at all points.

"Considerable numbers of prisoners already have been captured."

Violent Artillery Fire New York, July 31.—A cable to The Sun from London says: Reports from the front unanimously declare that all of the superlatives which have been hitherto used in describing artillery operations are hopelessly inadequate to impress the magnitude of the present bombardment on the British front.

Such assurances are entirely unnecessary in London, for the reason that the reverberations from the Flanders battlefield are heard every night when the roar of the city's traffic subsides. There are curious debates constantly to be heard as to whether the people really hear or feel the reverberations, which frequently make houses tremble as from the shocks of a far distant earthquake. The effect makes a powerful appeal to the imagination. Most people insist that they feel the shocks rather than hear the reports.

It is pointed out that the people who think they really hear the cannon are probably wrong, for the reason that the sound would probably be dissipated by the flight of 120 miles over the land and sea.

Official Statement London, July 31.—In the mountainous region between the Casin valley and the Putna, the enemy tried to attack us at different points but the attacks were everywhere repulsed," says the official Roumanian war statement under date of July 28th.

"Fighting is in progress for the possession of the Magura Casulin height," the statement adds.

OFFENSIVE OF ENTENTE UNDER WAY

Allied Troops Reach Second Line Defences on 20 Mile Front

PROGRESS IS RAPID

By Courier Leased Wire

British front in France, July 31.—(By the Associated Press)—The Entente allied forces which launched their offensive this morning have advanced well beyond the shell shattered front line German trenches. In many places they have reached the second line defences on a twenty mile front of attack, according to the early reports.

The British and French troops went into battle under cover of what perhaps was the greatest barrage fire seen during the war. The Entente artillery is moving forward and the whole situation is satisfactory in every particular.

British front in France, July 31.—(By the Associated Press)—Between Dixmude and Boesinghe the attackers reported they had secured the two first lines of trenches after having fought over the most difficult terrain imaginable. The British again have captured La Basseville, which they recently relinquished to the Germans.

RUSSIAN SITUATION MUCH BRIGHTER

Reports From Front Indicate More Hopeful Trend There, Insubordination Being Put Down With Iron Hand; Petrograd Again Troublous

By Courier Leased Wire. London, July 31.—A despatch to The Times from the headquarters of the Russian seventh army says the situation is rather more hopeful. Panics among the retreaters are suppressed ruthlessly. Three divisions of cavalry have taken positions across the whole front of retreat. Deserters are shot and attempts to spread panic are suppressed by prompt executions. Deserters, spies and agitators who enjoy complete immunity under the committee system lie dead on the highways. A paper pinned on the corpses reads:

"Here lies a traitor to his country." Red badges and other symbols which accompanied the demoralization have almost disappeared.

The Retreat London, July 31.—A despatch to The Post from Petrograd, referring to the Russian retreat in Galicia, says it is conservatively estimated that more than 2,000,000 Russian troops are steadily marching rearward. These constitute the Eleventh and Seventh armies with their reserves. The Eighth Army, which is largely cavalry, and not included in the foregoing figures also is retiring, and its position, says the correspondent, is extremely critical. The Germans are straining every effort to capture while following up the Eleventh and Seventh Armies and it looks as if the Eighth army might be caught in a bag.

fighting in Petrograd last Monday and Tuesday was of considerably greater proportions than admitted for publication, according to information given the Associated Press by a man who has just arrived from there. This informant, whom the correspondent has personally known several years as an impartial and capable observer, said that the reports submitted to the government showed four hundred killed and about a thousand taken to the hospital.

Public opinion in Petrograd is highly inflamed against the bolsheviks, whose leaders so far have not yet been arrested, and dare not show themselves publicly. Despite the especial indignation against Nikolai Lenin, he is not generally regarded as a German agent.

Guns Taken Copenhagen, July 31.—The Berlin Tageblatt's correspondent at Austrian army headquarters, gives the number of cannon captured by the Germans in the Russian retreat as 70, those taken by the Austrians numbering nearly 200. Gen. Korniloff, according to the correspondent, apparently is attempting to organize a new resistance along the rocky Galician frontier.

Kaiser on the Job Copenhagen, July 31.—A dispatch from Berlin says Emperor William left Mittau, 235 miles southwest of Riga, Russia, and went down the river to the Riga front, where he complimented the troops.

Prisoners Escape Petrograd, July 31.—The notable growth in the number of enemy war prisoners escaping from Russia since the revolution, is engaging the attention of the military authorities. According to published data from the beginning of the war until March, a total of 5,350 escapes have been registered, whereas during March 735 managed to get away; in April, 2,518 and in May, more than 3,000 escaped.

Dual Objectives in Latest Franco-British Drive are Recapture of Belgian Coast and Aiding of Russians Upon the Galician Front

By Courier Leased Wire.

The offensive launched this morning by General Sir Douglas Haig, the British Commander, in conjunction with General Petain, the commander of the French forces, against the German lines on the Belgian front is the culmination of the tremendous big gun bombardment which has been in progress almost continuously in this area for a week.

The intensity of the artillery drum fire with which the Entente Allies had been demolishing the Teuton trenches, preparatory to today's assault has been described by the German general staff as the greatest in the history of warfare, even surpassing the terrific fire maintained at the beginning of the Somme and Arras offensives.

Military observers have attributed two objectives for the Entente offensive—the recapture of the Belgian North Sea coast, which has been used by the Germans as bases for their submarines and to assist the hard pressed Russians on the Galician front.

The battle front north of the River Lys stretches from Warneton, on the Franco-Belgian border, to the North Sea coast, the distance between those two points being about thirty miles. Included in this battle area is the famous Wytshaete-Messines front where the British on June 7, after exploding 1,000,000 pounds of high explosives under the German lines, attacked on a nine mile front and captured the high ridge, several towns, forty seven heavy guns and more than 7,000 prisoners.

SUBMARINE SURRENDERS AT CORUNNA

UB-23 Entered Spanish Waters, Damaged, Last Evening

By Courier Leased Wire. Carunna, Spain, July 31.—The German submarine UB-23 anchored in the harbor here late yesterday evening. She entered the roadstead with only her periscope emerging from the water.

The submarine had been seriously damaged, but the commander and crew refused to tell the causes of the accident. The underwater boat anchored beside the German interned ship Belgrano.

The German submarine UB-23 is of the coastal type. She was built in 1915-16, is 118 feet long and carries a crew of twenty men.

Madrid, July 31.—Premier Dato announced today that the German submarine UB-23, which had anchored in Corunna harbor had been taken to Ferrol, the chief naval arsenal of Spain, 12 miles northeast of Corunna.

The Premier added that the government intended to keep strictly to the terms of the recent regulation regarding the entry of belligerent submarines into Spanish ports.

Fresh Deportations Havre, July 31.—Deportations of civilians from Mons, Belgium, continue, the German government sending away 123 men on June 26 and 39 on June 28. It is probable they will be made to work on the German front in France.

War on Children Paris, July 31.—Four hundred small children threatened with death by asphyxiating gas bombs dropped by enemy aviators, were successfully removed yesterday from a small French town near the firing line to a place of safety by the American Red Cross in response to the first emergency call received at the Parisian headquarters.

The first word of the children's condition reached headquarters late Thursday afternoon, and the next day the Red Cross sent doctors and nurses and a truck load of condensed milk, clothing and drugs for their relief. The children were bathed, fed and provided with clean clothing. They were given medical attention and finally transferred to a safer locality.

As the German aviators are using gas bombs, and because it is impossible to equip children properly with gas masks, it has been considered necessary to take them out of the danger zone. Many mothers, who are busy harvesting crops have been unable to give adequate care to their children, and the Red Cross has now taken them under its control temporarily.

THE SITUATION

Lloyd George made a highly important speech yesterday to the press representatives in the British House of Commons. Referring to his recent attendance at the Allied conference in Paris, he stated that the spirit of the French was even better than he had previously known it, and affirmed, "if the French and ourselves hang together we shall get through to the end despite our Russian troubles." Of such a close continuance of co-operation, there can, of course, be no doubt. The British Premier further affirmed that his latest information led him to believe that Russia will recover and become as formidable as ever. As a matter of fact, the Muscovite temperament is manifestly full of surprises, and it may well prove to be as Lloyd George opines. Certain it is that recent events in the army have served to scare the people generally into the absolute need for the dictatorship which has been entrusted to Kerensky, and it is equally certain that recalcitrant troops are being shot down. Meanwhile the Germans continue to gain ground, generally in Galicia, and Berlin alleges that some of the Kaiser's troops have now crossed the border into Russia. On the other hand, another report states that Korniloff's troops are now offering more stubborn resistance to the Austro-German forces. The Canadians have again done good work in the capture of a suburb of Lens, known as the Cite De Moulin. It is satisfactory to know that their losses in connection with the operations were slight.

Sir Edward Carson, in a signed cable to the New York Times, also affirms that "Russia will once more be brought into effective co-operation with the Entente Allies," and expresses the view that American resources will make victory doubly sure.

An Amsterdam paper publishes a communication which shows that Belgian civilians deported to Germany have been subjected to terrible cruelty. They have been compelled to perform forced labor, although insufficiently fed, and dying victims have been denied the consolation of religion.

INCOME TAX DETAILS

Copies of the new Income Tax Bill prepared by Sir Thomas White, Finance Minister, have been distributed to the members at Ottawa. The provisions are very drastic, and so they should be.

Every one is aware of the manner in which the municipal income tax is dodged. The Government does not propose to have any such evasion under the new measure. To this end, any person making a false statement in any return required by the Minister will be liable, on conviction, to a fine not exceeding $10,000 or six months' imprisonment. Furthermore, in connection with each proved default in complying with the provisions of the act governing returns, there will be a penalty of $100 a day during said period of default.

Every person liable to this form of taxation shall on or before Feb. 28th in each year, without any notice or demand, deliver to the Minister in clear and proper form, details of his entire income during the last preceding calendar year. In addition, all employers shall make a return of persons in their employable to the taxation, and all corporations and syndicates shall give a return of all dividends and bonuses paid to shareholders.

The following incomes are exempt from the operation of the tax: the income of the Governor-General and of consuls and consuls-general who are citizens of the country they represent and not engaged in any other business or profession; the income of any company, commission or association of which not less than ninety per cent. of the stock is owned by a province or municipality; the income of any religious, charitable, agricultural and educational institutions, boards of trade, chambers of commerce, labor organizations and benevolent and fraternal societies; the incomes of mutual corporations not having a capital represented by shares and no part of the income of which inures to the profit of any member thereof, and of life insurance companies, except such amount as is credited to the shareholders' account; the incomes of clubs, societies and associations, organized and operated solely for social welfare, civic improvement, pleasure, recreation or other non-profitable purposes, no part of the income of which inures to the profit of any stockholder or member; the incomes of such insurance, mortgage and loan associations operated entirely for the benefit of farmers as are approved by the Minister; the incomes derived from any bonds or other securities of the Dominion of Canada, issued exempt from any income tax; the military and naval pay of persons who have been on active service overseas during the present war in any of the naval or military forces of his Majesty's allies.

From incomes the following will be deducted for the purpose of the tax: the value of property acquired by gift, bequest, devise or descent; proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the person insured; such reasonable allowance as may be allowed by the Minister when determining the income derived from mining and from oil and gas wells as shall make an allowance for the exhaustion of the mines or wells; the amount subscribed and paid by a taxpayer during the year to the Patriotic and Canadian Red Cross funds and other patriotic and war funds approved by the Minister. For the purpose of the normal tax the income embraced in a personal return shall be credited, with the amount received as dividends upon the stock or the net earnings of any company or other person which is taxable upon its income under the bill.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

First of all it was wet weather and now its sweat weather.

Dr. Clark of Red Deer received a tumultuous reception when he delivered a speech in Hamilton. His address was received with cheers throughout and especially so when he said:

"I contend that office and party politics should be as dust in the balance, compared with Canada doing its duty in the war."

So say all of us, except Quebec and the Teutons and the slackers.

Any boy young man is perfectly safe in putting the great question these days, without standing in any danger of receiving an icy look.

If some man would come along with an invention for bottling heat like this, for use in the winter, he would be crowned with perennial chaplets.

LETTER FROM FRONT

City Clerk H. F. Leonard this morning received an interesting letter from Pte. Charles Flett, of this city, now with the Fort Garry Horse overseas. The writer states that Lt. Watson of this city is paymaster of the P. G. Horse, and mentions having met several other Brantford boys. Expressing regret at the number of Brantford men who have been killed and wounded, Pte. Flett says, "We shall never know how many of our chums we have lost until we are all home again."

BUILDING PERMIT

Two building permits were issued at the office of the city engineer this morning, one to William Sager, 255 Nelson St., for the erection of a frame garage to cost $95, and the other to C. H. Nichols, 275 Darling street, for the erection of a frame verandah to cost $50.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES

During the month of July twenty-four building permits have been issued at the city hall, the total value involved being $7,425, a decrease of $1,695, as compared with the corresponding month of 1916. For the first seven months of the year, 213 permits were issued for a total value of $73,220.00, a decrease as compared with the first seven months of 1917 of $24,977.00.

DUFFERIN RIFLES

DAILY TALKS

No. 8. "HOW DISCIPLINE IS TAUGHT"

Discipline is taught principally on parade. If there was no need for discipline, sharp words of command and minute detail of movement could be abolished. A company commander who is unable to move his command to an appointed place by saying merely "Follow me" and on arrival "Fall in in two ranks facing me." Of course he would allow ample time to enable the men to toss for places in the rear rank! But no; instead of this easy-going way, a smart and uniform movement is insisted upon. The recruit is made to understand that he must "turn to the right upon the right heel and left toe," and that any other method of turning will not do. More than that it is insisted upon that he shall turn smartly and in a certain time, and finally that the movements of every man shall be uniform both in method and time.

On his first parade, the recruit is conscious only of restriction of liberty. He is constantly enquiring "Why?" Why should he be required to step off with the left foot, the right is equally handy. However, he very soon realizes that "keeping step" means comfort in marching, and his first lesson is learned. Through all the details of drill the same lesson follows, until the habit of discipline is formed. But this training is graded and progressive. The days of the "Prussian style" drill sergeant are over. Fear and discipline are widely different. Obedience based on a dread of consequences may be suitable to armies which favor attack in masses; it is quite useless in the open. Intimidation to fight in the open. Intimidation may ensure obedience under supervision; discipline ensures obedience without supervision.

One thing is certain: the higher the standard of discipline in a unit, the greater the satisfaction of all concerned therewith. The great desire of all ranks is "to play the game." They want to fit themselves for the future needs of their country. Let them remember that, when the time comes, there will be no maelstrom to transform them from undisciplined civilians into disciplined soldiers. When the call comes it will be sharp and unexpected, and on their readiness and fitness for service will depend the lives and honor of those who are defenceless. To-morrow—No. 9. "Saluting."

SOLDIERS RETURNING.
The Courier has received word from the Military Hospitals Commission, Toronto, stating that in all probability eight returned soldiers will arrive in the city on Wednesday. The men who are expected are W. Cook, 59 Arthur street, E. Evans 51 1-2 Oxford street, T. Hewitt, 302 Rawdon street, W. Hume, 158 Albion St. W. Podd, 141 Pearl Street, R. Story 49 Oak Street, E. B. Wright, 23 Beaufort street, west, and W. Yates, 23 McClure Avenue. This is the largest group that had arrived in the city together in a considerable time.

BERRY FARM.
There is a possibility that Brant county will be the location of a large farm to be used for growing strawberries and raspberries in sufficient quantities to supply the E. D. Smith canning factory of Winona with fruit. Mr. A. W. Cook is in the city for a week looking over available farm land with a view to purchasing.

ITALIAN RED CROSS.
A campaign for funds for the Italian Red Cross is to be conducted in Southern Ontario in the near future. Mr. L. P. Schumway manager of the Y. M. C. A. Hotel, Buffalo, and Mr. L. Porter Moore are to direct the campaign, and will have their headquarters located at the Y. M. C. A. in this city.

CROPS GOOD
City Assessor A. G. Ludlow made a trip through the western section of the county last evening, and stated to a Courier reporter this morning that the crops throughout the district which he traversed, were in a splendid all-round condition. "About three-quarters of the hay crop has been harvested," he said, "and it is an exceptionally good crop. The farmers are commencing to cut their wheat and rye this week, and there is an excellent sample of wheat being harvested. The oats and barley are in good condition, while the root crop will make a fine showing. The crop is the only crop that is expected to be short. The shortage of labor is being fairly well met, both men and women working overtime, the women hoeing the root crops in many cases. New machinery is being utilized to a greater extent, and these measures are proving fairly successful in combatting the labor shortage."

FOR RED CROSS.
Despite the almost insufferable heat and the fact that this is holiday time Brantford children have not forgotten the soldiers suffering greater pain in hospital or on the battlefield and have thoughtfully devoted their time and talent to aid the cause of the Red Cross. Seven little girls—Marjorie Jordan, Eleanor Ellis, Marion Wilmer, Eleanor Cutcliffe, Hazel Brown, Sidney Hewitt, Ruth Gibson recently held a concert for the Red Cross, at which they made $2.50. Another bright little girl made her way to Red Cross headquarters—Miss Phyllis Secord, who with a sweet smile proffered a dollar bill, a reward for leading an erring canine to his home. Doubtless she thought of all the ice cream and candy that dollar would buy but resolutely turned her back on it and smilingly gave it to help some wounded soldier. The Oxford Street Sunday school also has the Red Cross in mind which is indebted for the sum of $21.50.

POLICE COURT.
The weather that is responsible for making the majority of mortal weary and languid has evidently stirred up strife in some parts of the city, for there were two cases of assault to occupy the attention of Police Magistrate F. J. Calbeck this morning. John Diggins and William Heaps, who live side by side, indulged in a little dispute last Friday night over the dividing line between their respective properties. In the discussion Heaps alleges that Diggins wielded a heavy hammer to excellent effect. The charge was dismissed. John Danby, was accused of assaulting his wife, Mary, but the quarrel was adjusted this morning, and the charge dismissed. Roy Jackson, who some weeks ago struck Mr. Herbert Johnson, and knocked him down, was fined $5.00 and cost of $4.10 for neglecting to give his name and address and the license number of his automobile.

Miss Annie Digby and brother Lloyd, have returned home after a week end touring trip to Crystal Beach and Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rouse, of Chicago, Ill., are visiting Mrs. Rouse's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Guilfoyle, 275 Greenwich St.

RUSSIAN SITUATION

Continued from page one. The international Socialist and labor conference regarding which the Russian Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates took the initiative, it was decided that the conference should be held from 9th to 14th September at Stockholm, or, if that city proved inconvenient at Christiania or any other city.

It was also decided that all organizations affiliated with the international should be invited to the conference, and whereas since the war there had been a split the minority groups as well as the majority combinations should be invited provided they had formed themselves into district groups.

The national sections will be required to bind themselves to make known solemnly before the conference is held how they intend to apply the general decisions of the conference. The international entente allied Socialist conference will be held in London on Aug. 28 and 29. Russian delegates will be present, but they will not participate actively.

VICTORY ASSURED EVEN WITHOUT THE SUPPORT OF RUSSIA

Britain and France Able To See Fight Through, Says
Lloyd George

London, July 31.—Addressing the press representatives in the gallery of the House of Commons yesterday, Premier Lloyd George referred to the buoyancy of the French nation after three years of war and said: "I found during my visit to Paris that the spirit of the French people was better than I had ever known it. There was a sense of discouragement at the collapse of the Russian armies, but in spite of all, the French were as resolute as ever."

"It depends very largely upon the French whether we shall get through to the end. If the French and ourselves hang together we shall get through to the end in spite of our Russian troubles. The Russians are an incalculable quantity; they fought when we least expected them and they hung back at times when it seemed they ought to go on. My latest information is that Russia will recover and become as formidable as she ever has been."

JOURNALIST DEAD

By Courier Leased Wire
Los Angeles, July 31.—General Harrison Gray Otis, president and general manager of The Los Angeles Times, died here yesterday, aged 80. He was veteran of the civil war and the Spanish-American war. Quite early in his career, as editor and publisher of the Times, Otis came into conflict with organized labor, and thereafter until the day of his death, he waged an unrelenting warfare for what he termed industrial freedom. On October 10, 1910, his building and printing plant was dynamited and 20 of his workmen killed. The arrests and trials which followed were matters of nationwide interest.

TO CARRY COAL

By Courier Leased Wire
St. John, N.B., July 31.—The Dominion Department of Marine and Fisheries has offered to arrange for steamers of two thousand or more tons capacity, to bring anthracite coal here for New Brunswick use, if dealers arrange to have the coal ready at an Atlantic port on a date or dates. The question of finding facilities at St. John to handle coal steamers of two thousand or more tons at the expense of the government is now engaging attention.

DEFINITION OF THE IDEAL WOMAN

English Conception of That Standard Rapped by Mrs.
G. M. Atherton

(New York Times.)
Between Gertrude Atherton and the teachers in the girls' schools of England there is a great gulf. The existence of this gulf was recently revealed by the publication of a definition of a perfect woman a definition formulated by the teachers. Now, not all the women in Gertrude Atherton's novels are ideal; but Mrs. Atherton certainly is a close student so she was asked to comment on the definition made by the English school teachers.

The definition resulting from this English pedagogical symposium is this: "The perfect woman is 40, is married and is the mother of five children. She is in happy circumstances, living in a beautiful part of the country a few miles from a big town. She is the centre of a good home in which there is a high standard of cleanliness and comfort, and where good taste is everywhere visible in furniture, carpets, curtains, wall paper, ornaments and clothes."

"The ideal woman is sensible and businesslike, and her home is a place of peace. She is patriotic and interested in politics and does all she can to remove the causes of suffering among the poor. She is a delightful companion and has a gift for friendship. She is a religious woman and tries to fulfill her duty toward God and toward other people."

She takes walks, rides a bicycle, climbs, swims, dances, skates, rows and plays games. She can ride a horse and drive a motor car. She is proficient in many branches of practical learning. She can do anything and everything about the house. She has some knowledge of the "law," knows how to invest money, can use a typewriter. She is a great reader; every day she reads some serious book, as well as a newspaper and a novel. She speaks three languages besides her own, and reads foreign books. She is fond of gardening, and has learned several crafts—wood-carving, metal work, bookbinding and embroidery."

For Only a Year.
Mrs. Atherton was interested by the very first clause of this definition.

"The perfect woman must be 40, must she?" she said with a smile. "Why the poor thing can't be 40 for more than a year. Though I don't know—when a woman reaches what she considers to be the ideal age I suppose she never leaves it. "But I am inclined to think that is the English idea of the ideal age."

SIDELIGHTS ON THE STAGE AND SCREEN

THE GRAND

Phew! Yes it was a hot night and then some. We'll say it was. But there were a few residents of this burg—not so many but that there was room for more—who for the better part of the evening forgot that such a substance as mercury was busy emulating the high cost of living in the science of aviation. Those were they who formed the audience at the Grand Opera House, and who derived more laughs to the half second from "Seven Keys to Baldpate" than there are cheers in the world's series. The Roma Reade Stock Company, during its stay in the city has staged some good productions, a few extraordinarily good ones, but none to rank equal with "Seven Keys," the farce fantastic, the comedy delicious. From the moment that William Hollowell Magee, novelist, entered Baldpate Inn, bearing the only key to that hostel, in existence, adventures crowded hard and fast upon his heels, until the head of that bewildered novelist spun like a top. "Seven Keys" is like no other play written, it has originality and individuality in the deepest sense of those misused terms and complication follows complication in the development of the plot until the only difficulty confronting the audience is that of keeping pace with the play. Last night was the first performance in this city of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and assuredly no better presentation of it could have been made by any road company. The various members of the Roma Reade company are seen probably in every instance to better advantage than ever before in their stay here, while the scenic effects and staging of the production are equally beyond criticism. Farce, comedy, drama, near tragedy; the essence of laughter, mystery and suspense, these are some of the qualities which go to make the play what it is, and that may be best judged by all by witnessing it at the Grand either to-night or to-morrow.

for a woman. An Englishman once told me that 40 was the ideal age. A woman of 40, he said, was easy to get along with; she had outgrown her little foibles and jealousies, and it wasn't necessary to flatter her.

Standard Moves On.
"It's curious how the standard moves on. In England they like the woman of 40. Over here youth is at a ridiculously high premium. On our magazine covers we see an everlasting succession of empty-faced American girls. Anything would be better than that—not old ladies nor women of 40, necessarily, but landscapes or flowers, or anything instead of this eternal smirking juvenile insanity."

"But the English woman of 40 is different from the American woman of 40. The English women wear so well, largely because of their outdoor life. The English woman of 40 is at her best. The American woman of 40 is beginning to break down."

Bad Taste.
"I see that the definition says that in this ideal woman's home, good taste is everywhere visible. Now, in the first place, good taste should not be visible—taste is not ostentations. You should know that things are good taste if you were to examine them, but they should not advertise the excellence of their owner's taste. Advertisement of good taste is bad taste."

"And furthermore, many persons who have good taste in clothes have bad taste in household decorations and vice versa. I know any number of persons who dress beautifully and have no idea how their homes should be decorated. And I know a number of people whose houses are fitted up exquisitely, and who dress ridiculously. "And how monotonous life would be," said Mrs. Atherton, "if we were surrounded by women who fulfilled this definition! The ideal bore would be realized!"

"And all this athletic business! What a ridiculous definition this is. Why is a woman more ideal if she skates or rides a bicycle or swims? What has that to do with the matter? Thousands of delightful women can't ride a bicycle or drive a car. And must a woman who cannot ride a bicycle give up her lifelong yearning to be the ideal woman?"

"The definition describes a great many different women, a part of it describes the home woman, the essentially domestic woman, and her we have always with us. The anti-suffragists needn't worry; the domestic woman always will remain, vote or no vote. And so will the non-domestic woman."

While Skating.
"And I see that this poor ideal woman reads every day some serious books, as well as a newspaper and a novel. What does she do it—while skating, or while caring for her five children? That sounds like a caricature. The ideal woman reads what she feels like reading, and that's all there is to it. Of course, the ideal woman reads a newspaper to say that is merely to say that the ideal woman is not a fool."

"Imagine a woman, setting out to live up to this definition. What a terrible task she'd have and what a terror she'd become! She'd be all the while concentrating on herself. She'd be such a prig that no man ever could live with her."

REMARKABLE RECORD OF WOMAN WHO SOLVED RUTH CRUGER MYSTERY IN N. Y.

Mrs. Grace Humiston's Persistence and Detective Ability Saved the Lives of Three People Condemned to Death for Murder—Something of History

The New York police let a woman, a little, unobtrusive, and seemingly unaggressive woman, put them to shame the other day. She solved the most mysterious disappearance of the big city had had in many a day after they had failed. And Mrs. Grace Humiston did this in spite of the fact that they did much to discourage her when she told them that they had not tried hard enough to find Ruth Cruger, that she knew the girl never left Coeche's repair shop after she went there to get her skates and that they could find the body if they persisted in the search.

"How did Mrs. Humiston know?" "Because!" Women are like that. They have certain characteristics that fit them to do certain things better than men can do them. There is intuition, for one thing; men call it jumping at conclusions.

Mrs. Humiston's intuition told her that a pretty, intelligent high school girl with a refined home, with a capacity for skating and dancing and other wholesome, light-hearted fun with boys and girls like herself, was not going to throw it all up without warning and run away to a life of shame. Girls don't do such things, no matter what the police are quoted as saying about Ruth Cruger and other girls who have disappeared.

In the same way this woman lawyer jumped at the conclusion that if Ruth Cruger never came home with her skates from the shop of a fellow like Coeche then he had something to do with it, and when Coeche slipped away to Italy about the time the police began to hunt for the missing girl, why anybody, cried Mrs. Humiston, could have guessed that he had a reason.

"You put two and two together," she says simply. That is, you do if you are a woman. If you are a man you don't, or you get the addition wrong.

"She ran away with the dago," "they quarrelled with her at home," were some of the theories reported to have been put forward by members of the city's police and detectives. And all the time the child's body lay buried beneath Coeche's cellar, and someone helped Coeche to escape. Who did it?

It is probable that Mrs. Humiston has her suspicions on this point. She knows a great deal that she is not terminated lines. With the persistence it reflects tirelessness and optimism. Her health is excellent. She can work twenty hours out of the twenty-four, and the four hours' rest completely restores her vigor. And during the Cruger case she has sometimes slept less time than that.

Three Saved from Death.

Little things do not exasperate her to the point of making her give up, as men will. Women can stand more little annoyances than most men and Grace Humiston can stand more than most women.

Which goes far to account for her connection with the Stielow case and with Ruth Couger's case. To her executive ability she adds power of exhaustive application to the remotest detail of any undertaking. She would have made a detective. Indeed she is a detective.

Grace Humiston is a horn and broad New Yorker. She knows her United States; she also has knowledge of the Italians, among whom she has had many clients.

She was born Grace Winerton. She studied law when she became a widow, after her first marriage, was graduated from New York University and as Grace Quackenbos began practicing law in New York 12 years ago. It was at this time that she had her first important case, one that leads almost directly and fatefully to the forces that drew her into the Cruger affair.

An Italian woman was condemned to death at Trenton, N.J. Her name and her crime are of no importance here, for while many will recall the circumstances, the general public has undoubtedly forgotten her name. To bring it up to-day might cause sorrow to a happy, progressive Italian family in which the one condemned woman moves and shines and is loved.

She killed a man who thrust his attentions upon her, although she had a husband and little ones and he had a wife and grown sons. The woman was young and pretty and devoted to her family. She could not speak a word of English, and she could not bear to burden her husband with her troubles. She never told him that her days, when he was at work, were spent behind barricaded doors and windows. Instead, she told the adorer's grown son, which frightened off his father.

Even then she did not use it until the man cornered her, and he too had a gun. She pulled the trigger for the first time in her life she said, and Mrs. Humiston believed her, but the bullet went through the intruder's heart.

She was condemned to die. A little group of Wellesley College girls wrote to Grace Quackenbos and begged her to help the woman of whom they had read.

Trenton and wrote with all the zeal, ability and tirelessness of which she is capable. Through her efforts, the death sentence was changed to one of six years' imprisonment.

In that case, six years the Italian woman learned to speak, write and read English and to run a typewriter. Money was raised by strangers to pay the woman lawyer, but she invested the money in a flat that was ready for the Italian woman when she came out of prison to her little family.

Some time after this case, Mrs. Quackenbos married Howard Humiston, a lawyer, and gave up her practice. She does not believe particularly in suffrage or in women's clubs; she thinks in her heart of hearts that woman's place is in the home. She did not expect to practice law again.

But the Italian woman impelled her to do it. One of the woman's countrymen was in Sing Sing awaiting death. He had killed a bad man in self-defence. He had neither friends nor funds nor an understanding of English. The woman who had profited by Mrs. Humiston's tire-

AUSTRIANS TREAT CAPTIVES CRUELLY

Roumanian Soldier, Escaped From Imprisonment, Tells Story

A Roumanian soldier, Toma Haralam, taken prisoner by the Austrians last September in the Roumanian invasion of Transylvania, has just succeeded in escaping to the Italian lines on the Carso. The following is his story in all its simplicity and horror: "As soon as I was taken prisoner in a wood near Basso I was brought before a German officer, who examined me. I refused to answer his questions and betray my country, so he handed me over to an Austrian sergeant, who kicked me without mercy. I was left absolutely without any food, not a piece of bread or a drink of water, for three days, and then taken with many other prisoners to a concentration camp in Hungary on the River Leytha, where 20,000 prisoners-of-war, Russians, Italians and Roumanians, were confined. We were literally starved. Our rations consisted of five ounces of bad bread and a handful of boiled beans daily, with a small piece of meat every week. The men died like flies, both from insufficient nourishment and from cold, as the Austrians took away our uniforms and warm underwear, as well as our boots, and gave us in exchange the castoff uniforms and torn boots of their first-line troops.

Soup From Human Bones. "We all had to work, generally in the fields, and as we ate the seed given us to sow or the raw turnips and potatoes we had to plant often we were punished by being tied to a pole with our arms raised for hours or else chained to the ground. The Italian prisoners were treated worst of all, and systematically beaten by the Austrians. Orders reached our camp in January that 1,000 Roumanian prisoners were to be sent to work on the Italian front. I was among the thousand picked men. We were all young and strong, comparatively speaking of course, as the starvation diet had weakened us. We were divided into four sections of 250 men each and sent to different localities. My section was sent to Komau under the command of an Austrian sub-lieutenant and 30 territorials. We worked at building a railway together with 2,000 Russian prisoners. Our food was worse and less than that we had in camp, as we got five cents a day pay and were supposed to spend it on food, although bread cost a dollar a loaf. As we were ravenously hungry because we had to work hard we were compelled to rummage among the garbage for food and even ate rats and mice. We also got bones, human bones they were sometimes, which we boiled to make soup. In 25 days sixty men out of the 250 in my section died from hunger, exhaustion and exposure. Five men committed suicide, three attempted to escape and were shot.

The Escape. "On January 23 my comrade, Niku Crstif, and I decided to escape. Our flight was favored by an Austrian soldier, a native of Bukowina, who gave us a knife and a box of matches. We hoped to catch some animal, kill it and cook it. We walked for three days in the direction of the Italian lines with nothing to eat, but we finally reached the ruins of a village where we found a pig sty. We took shelter here and found some potato peelings and turnips, which we ate. On the following day I went out in search of food and nearly caught a stray chicken, but I heard voices and ran back to the pig sty. My comrade was exhausted, but when night came on I made him get up and we both went out in the snow. He could hardly walk and wept like a child, begging me to give him a piece of bread. The cold was intense. We reached another village completely in ruins and we could hear the Italian guns very near. We could not find anything to eat and my comrade was more dead than alive. We slept during the day and when night came on I tried to arouse my comrade, but he was dead.

In Austrian Lines. "Just then I distinctly heard the characteristic sound of machine gun fire and I knew I was near the first line trenches. I decided to go on, and after two hours I crossed, or rather crawled, through the Austrian lines, where the men were having hot coffee served out to them. The smell of the coffee drove me crazy. I could no longer resist and I shouted out in the hope of being discovered. I knew I would be shot, but then I hoped that I would taste the coffee. I tried hard to shout but failed. I had completely lost my voice. I must have lost consciousness because I lost count of time and must have slept for many hours before my

SGT. DUNCAN MACNEIL OF THE CANADIANS Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Cured Dyspepsia Completely

Sergeant Duncan MacNeil, of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, writing from Europe (his home address is 116 Pleasant-street, Halifax, N.S.) says: "For six years I suffered from frequent attacks of dyspepsia, often being in bed for days at a time. When the war broke out I joined the Expeditionary Force and came to England. I had not been long there, however, when my old trouble returned, and I had to go to hospital. While in hospital a friend told me of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and I decided to try them. The first box brought such pronounced relief that I continued the treatment. To make a long story short, a complete cure was effected."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of 5 cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie and Co., Ltd., 10, McCaul-st., Toronto.

mind cleared and I decided to go on. It was still dark, possibly another day had gone by, and as I crawled on, being too weak to walk upright, I tumbled into a dugout, where an officer was asleep. He woke up with a start, cursed me in German and went to sleep again.

Finds Friends at Last. "Probably he was dreaming of food and mistook me for the spectre of hunger. I stood still and waited. When I knew that the officer was bound asleep again from his regular breathing I crawled out and carefully climbed over the parapet of a trench, letting myself fall on the opposite side. The snow was high and soft and I fell without noise. Besides the Austrians, like their officer, were all asleep. I already felt free, but I had to get over the wire entanglements and crawl over such a long stretch of ground that I thought I had made a mistake and that the Austrian trench I left behind me was merely a support position. As I hesitated what to do, a voice came out of the darkness: "Al! Chi va la?" ("Halt, who goes there?") I understood what the words meant so I stood up and shouted, "Rgnun! Roman!" and when the Italians saw me I could see the astonishment in their faces. I did not look human. They pulled me up and carried me inside their trench. They gave me coffee, wine and bread."

"CREATION" BIG MIDWAY FEATURE

Sensation at Panama Pacific Exposition to be Seen at Toronto. The famous World-at-Home Shows will provide the Midway attractions at the Canadian National Exhibition, and the fund of amusement guaranteed is not only unique, but so arranged that no matter what one wishes to see or how diverse their tastes, they will find something worthy of patronage. "Creation," the original spectacle exhibited at the Panama Pacific Exposition, is one of the head-liners. From impenetrable darkness and absolute quiet and solitude, the wonderful tale of the birth of the universe is told and unfolded day by day, each incident, as told in the first book of Genesis, being faithfully and artistically worked out and portrayed in every detail, even to the appearance of Adam and the creation of Eve. Venus, the most perfect woman in the world, is another feature, and there are rides and pony shows, submarine gisls and a host of living curiosities.

A blight in potato tops has been noticed both in the farmers' fields and the backyard gardens in Peterboro. While driving to one of his fields Alex. Schotter, a farmer, living near Kitchener, was accidentally shot through the right hand when a loaded gun lying on the wagon beside him exploded.

WANT IN GERMANY. The crops have failed in Germany. Your children cry for liverwurst, and famine stalks the land; the wheat is poor and verminy, the sugar is full of sand. The drought did more than Wilson or our armaments could do, and even the noted Kaiser is but a sickly brew. The Kaiser, in his vanity, swore war full soon would cease; the foe, regarding sanity would come to him for peace. Oh, hungry Germany, what of your Kaiser's vow? Art ready to determine he has dealt you bunk now? Whose heartstrings ache and quiver worst—your heartstrings or the foe's? er Bill.

KEEP POTATOES GREEN

(Experimental Farm Note.) Many are growing potatoes in Canada this year, for the first time and as a result of the greatly increased number of growers the crop will probably be greatly increased. But to insure a good crop there must be an abundance of moisture in the soil and the tops must be protected from insects and disease.

Cultivation—The soil should be kept cultivated with the cultivator or hoe until the tops meet sufficiently to shade the ground. As most of the tubers develop in the three or four inches of soil nearest the surface, and as the tubers will not develop well in dry soil, quite shallow cultivation is desirable at this season of the year. In soil which is dry there may be good development of tops, but there will be few tubers. The roots in such cases have gone down deep into the soil to obtain moisture, but the tuber-bearing stems, which are quite different from the root system, do not develop well. Where the soil is a loose, sandy loam, hilling is not necessary and may be injurious, as the soil will be looser and if left on the level. In heavy soils it is desirable to hill the potatoes, as it will loosen the soil and the tubers will be shapelier than when the ground is left level. When there is sufficient rainfall and moisture in the soil, hilling is likely to give best results in all kinds of soil, as the soil will be looser and the tubers can push through it readily. As a great development of tubers takes place during the cooler and usually moister weather of the latter part of summer it is very important to keep the plants growing well until then. In one experiment it was shown that during the month of September there was an increase of 110 bushels of potatoes per acre.

Protection of potato tops from insects—It is very important to prevent the tops of potatoes from being eaten by insects, particularly by the Colorado Potato Beetle. The old "bugs" do not do much harm to the foliage as a rule, and usually the plants are not sprayed to destroy these, although the few there are will lay eggs, the less difficult there will be in destroying the young ones. These begin to eat rapidly soon after hatching, and a close watch should be kept so that the vines may be sprayed before much harm is done. Paris green kills more rapidly than arsenate of lead but does not adhere so well, and in rainy weather it is desirable to have something that will stay on the leaves so that they will be protected until it stops raining and thus prevent the tops being eaten.

At the Central Experimental Farm a mixture of Paris green and arsenate of lead is used in the proportion of 3 ounces Paris green, 1 1/2 pounds paste arsenate of lead (for 32 oz. dry arsenate of lead) to 40 gallons of water in order to get the advantage of both poisons. It may be that it is not convenient to get both poisons when either 12 ounces of Paris green or 2 pounds paste arsenate of lead or 1 1/2 pounds dry arsenate of lead to 40 gallons water could be used, or in smaller quantities, say 3 ounces Paris green to 3 gallons of water or 3 1/2 ounces paste arsenate of lead, or half that quantity of dry to 3 gallons of water. An experiment conducted for six years at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, showed that, on the average, where the tops were sprayed to kill "bugs" the yield was 136.9 bushels per acre, while when the tops were not sprayed and allowed to be eaten, the yield was only 98.2 bushels per acre. It is desirable not to stop with one spraying which usually does not kill all the bugs but to spray several times, if necessary,

VENTILATING THE HOUSE

Some persons seem to think that it is impossible to have fresh air in a room without having a draught. To enlightened persons this may seem a strong statement but there is no question but the thousands of seemingly intelligent persons always close the windows of their sleeping rooms at night unless the weather is decidedly warm. A few weeks ago one of the most important daily journals in this country, commenting on the death of a clergyman, said: "Dr. Blank's death was caused, by the carelessness of a hotel attendant who left the window in the bedroom open allowing the night air to enter." One would think from such statements that night air was dangerous in itself. It is as pure as day air; though not so warm, no doubt, it is more wholesome than the dust-filled air of the day.

Every sleeping room should have windows on opposite sides of the room to insure cross ventilation. If a bedroom has but one window open at both top and bottom and leave the door of the room open also, even on extremely cold nights the windows should be open, as fresh cold air heats more readily than stale air.

A warm bed is more healthful and comfortable than a cold one; the bed warming pans that colonial dames filled with hot embers and passed between the sheets on chilly nights, were excellent inventions that hot water bottles, warm irons and soap stones cannot compare with. But to keep warm in bed some persons pile on bed clothing until the very weight of it tires them. Weighty bed clothes are not necessarily warm. Cotton flannel sheets, outing flannel gowns, and lightweight woolen blankets make sleeping time restful.

Getting the children into bed in many homes is the chief thought after the evening meal, and so long as they appear to sleep comfortably and rise rested and rosy, no thought is given to the details of their rest. One important thing to teach children who sleep in the same bed is to turn their backs to one another. This prevents their breathing one another's breath. It is a heart rending thing to go into orphanages and see row after row of little white beds with fatherless and motherless little tots in them. But after the first throbs of pity you cannot help but notice how the beds are placed so that the children's heads will be out of draughts, low pillows are kept smooth and low and are all so the too early rays of daylight will sides. The window blinds are drawn so the too early rays of daylight will not strike their eyes to injure them and the night light kept burning constantly, is shaded so it cannot annoy.

It is sad for children, to be parentless but it is almost as unfortunate for a child to have a mother who does not know the simple ethics of proper sleeping arrangements.

THE STORY OF THE STAIRS

Every time you go up stairs you can test your state of health—the condition of your blood.

Do you arrive at the top of the stairs breathless and distressed? Does your heart palpitate violently? Do you have a pain in your side? Perhaps you even have to stop half way up, with limbs trembling and head dizzy, too exhausted to go further without resting. These are unfailing signs of anaemia. As soon as your blood becomes impoverished or impure the stair-case becomes an instrument of torture. When this is so you are unfit for work; your blood is watery and your nerves exhausted, you are losing the joy of an active life and paving the way for a further break down and decline. In this condition only one thing can save you. You must put new, rich, red blood into your veins without further delay and so build up your health anew. To get this new, rich blood give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and they will give you new vitality, sound health, and the power to resist and throw off disease. For more than a generation this favorite medicine has been in use throughout the world and has made many thousands of weak, despondent men and women bright, active and strong.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The teaching staff of the public schools of Orillia will have eight new members at the beginning of the fall term.

There is an Ottawa rumor that Justice Duff will be a member of the proposed Unionist Cabinet.

RUTH CAMERON
MY SPREE.

I went on a spree night before last. In the afternoon, on a car, my nose informed me of the fact that the woman next me was eating sweet chocolate, and immediately I was seized with an overwhelming craving for some.

On the way home, I stopped at a drug store and bought a large cake. And that night after dinner I settled down on the couch with a new magazine and that cake of sweet chocolate.

I was alone in the house for which I was duly grateful (such is the blackness of my heart when I go on a chocolate spree) since I could have every bit of that chocolate for myself. And I actually did eat every scrap of it in about a half hour.

My Morning After
Of course I went to bed feeling deplorably sick; of course I slept miserably. And of course I waked up with that blue, depressed, ineffective feeling which an outraged stomach always gives one in retaliation.

And I deserved it all. I was ashamed and I had reason to be.

Why do we do those things? You see, I refuse to admit that I am the only woman who goes out that sort of spree.

They Despise Masculine Sprees But—
I know dozens of women who are death on masculine sprees and yet who outrage their systems, and reduce their efficiency every now and then by one of these feminine sprees.

I don't necessarily mean a chocolate spree, of course, but any kind of untimely and unrestrained sweet eating.

The woman who lurches on an eclair and a college ice when she needs something hot and nourishing is indulging in one form of spree.

The woman who attends a tea or an afternoon function and eats a lot of rich food at five o'clock and then can't eat her dinner, is indulging in a very harmful form of spree. Afternoon teas and bridges with "eats" at five o'clock are meant for society folks who dine at eight. They are fatal to the digestions of plain folks like you and me who eat our dinner at half past six or thereabouts.

Eating Candy on An Empty Stomach

Is "Digestionicide"
A young girl writes me a note asking when to eat candy and how much. The proper time to eat candy is right after a meal. How much varies somewhat according to individual temperament, but you can usually be pretty sure you are eating too much, if you eat all you want. And to eat candy when your stomach is empty is just plain "digestionicide."

This is a time when we need all our efficiency if we ever did. The really best women in the country are keeping themselves fit so that they can make their "bit" as big as bit as possible. It is always foolish to go on sprees of self-indulgence. It is more than that now. It is unpatnotic.

Good Night Stories

THE LITTLE BIRD WHO FORGOT TO GO SOUTH.

Now, little ones," said Mamma Brown Bird, to her birdlings one evening, "to-morrow we must be up with the sun, because we start on our southern trip."

"Oh, dear! Why not wait until it's cooler? It's too early to start now. I don't want to go," chirped Robin Brown Bird.

"We don't have to go so soon, but I like to get my choice of the houses before the best ones are gone," replied Mamma Brown Bird.

"Well, I'm not going now," cried Robin, and nothing that Mamma Brown Bird could say would make him change his mind.

"All right, stay, but don't forget it turns cold fast once it starts," warned his mamma.

The next morning the sun was so bright and warm that even Mamma Brown Bird hated to give up their pretty home, but she knew before many days that Old North Wind would sweep over the hills with his cold breath. So bidding Robin not to tarry too long, Mamma Brown Bird and her family joined the great flock of bird folk that flew to the south.

Robin fluttered about in the sunshine and gathered all the bugs and worms he could find. It seemed good not to have to share them with his brothers and sisters, as was his habit. That day another crowd of his friends sailed over, but Robin laughed and flew into the deep woods where it seemed warm.

He met Spotted Sparrow, and they played together until Robin forgot all about going south. Days turned into weeks, and Robin was having such a good time with Spotted Sparrow that before he knew it Old North Wind whistled around the branches where Robin and Spotted Sparrow were.

Then Robin began to shiver, and for the first time he remembered Mamma Brown Bird's warning.

"I must hurry south," cried Robin, but Old North Wind shrieked with joy, and blew so roughly that Robin could hardly fly against his force.

"I didn't know it ever grew so cold," shivered Robin.

"Put on more clothes and you won't feel the cold wind," replied Spotted Sparrow, whose brown coat was very warm.

Robin grew colder and colder, so finally Spotted Sparrow took him to Mr. Tailor Bird. Tailor Bird could find nothing but a tail red vest.

"If this will help keep you warm you're welcome to it," said Tailor Bird.

Robin, quite proud of his purchase bade Spotted Sparrow good-by and followed the trail to the south.

When Mamma Brown Bird saw Robin she hardly knew him—he looked so smart and stylish in his beautiful dull red vest.

"When we get back north again we shall all have vests just like Robin's," Mamma Brown Bird promised her birdlings.

Next season was the busiest Mr. Tailor Bird ever had, for Robin had set a new fashion and every Brown Bird of the woods wanted a red vest.

I guess it's still in fashion, for most any time you can see a brown bird with a red vest flitting among the foliage, and the children call "Robin Redbreast! Robin Redbreast!"

One pint flour, 1-2 teaspoonful salt, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1-4 cup butter, 1 egg well beaten, 1 scanty cup of milk, 4 sour apples, 2 table-spoonfuls sugar.
Mix the dry ingredients, rub in the butter, then stir the egg and milk into the dry ingredients. Spread on a shallow pan. Core, pare and cut the apples into slices, lay them in parallel rows on top of the dough, sharp edge down, sprinkle with sugar over the apples, bake in a hot oven 30 or 40 minutes; serve with lemon sauce.

Loss of Vitality is loss of the principle of life, and is early indicated by falling appetite and diminishing strength and endurance. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitality-builder—it acts on all the organs and functions, and builds up the whole system.

CHILDREN'S ONE-PIECE DRESS.

By Anabel Worthington.
The kindergarten age is the natural time for the wearing of such a charmingly childish little dress as No. 8344. It is all in one piece from shoulder to hem, but the line may be broken by a belt in a fancy shape if preferred. The front of the belt is pointed somewhat like a vest, but the pockets are so deep in this case that they show under the belt. The collar has a new outline, and is made of the same material as the belt and cuffs. The set-in sleeves offer a choice of two lengths, long ones gathered into cuffs and short ones with flare cuffs. Materials such as cotton poplin, gingham, chambray, kindergarten cloth, tissue, percale or pique are suitable.
The dress pattern, No. 8344, is cut in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. The four-year size requires 2 1/2 yards of 27 inch or 1 1/2 yards of 36 inch material with 3/4 yard of 36 inch contrasting material. To obtain the above pattern, send ten cents to the office of this publication.
