

SWEPT BY TORNADO

Central Illinois Visited Yesterday

Three People Killed and Many Are Fatally Injured at Kingston.

Chicago, June 13.—A great tornado passed over the central portion of Illinois, and many people have been killed at their homes by the ravages of the wind and in the falling debris from their houses. It is believed that the damage to live stock and the crops that are as yet so young to withstand the force of the gale, have suffered to the extent of several million dollars. Detailed dispatches from various portions tend to increase the losses and the number of deaths.

Pekin, Ill., June 13.—A tornado which passed over Tazewell county last night, killed three and fatally injured two. At the Kingston mines, in the coal district, the entire east end of a village of a thousand inhabitants was swept away.

Conspired to Defraud

Sherbrooke, Que., June 13.—Judge Adams committed L. C. Belanger, a court of the king's bench, to stand trial for having conspired by deed to defraud Charles Bresse out of $1,000. It was a family and partnership trouble.

Bridge Disaster

Winnipeg, June 13.—Three men were seriously hurt and two killed in the collapse of a part of the bridge being erected for the forest commission of the Canadian Pacific at Raphton.

Priest's Body Found

Winnipeg, June 13.—The body of the Rev. M. J. Mercer, a Catholic priest of Armour, S.D., was found in Red river, near Emerson. It is supposed to be a case of accidental drowning.

Convicts Cornered

Salem, Or., June 13.—Governor George today called out the National Guard and ordered it to Gervais, where Tracey and Merrill, the two escaped convicts, are surrounded.

Reduced By Thousands

London, June 5.—An official statement issued by the war office this evening shows that the total reduction of the British forces in South Africa up to May 30 of the present year was 97,477. This includes killed, wounded, prisoners, deaths from disease and men invalided home. Of these many have recovered and are joining their regiments, leaving 28,434 dead or permanently incapacitated. The total number of troops killed in action, or who died of wounds, is 7,792, while the total number of deaths from disease is 13,250.

FEARS ARE ALLAYED

No More Smallpox at the Quarantine

Suspect's Fever Has Disappeared and He is Said to be Suffering From a Cold.

Word was received from the quarantine station today which will do not a little to allay the apprehension felt yesterday over the reported appearance of another case of smallpox. Gulick Paulson, the suspect, is much better, he has recovered his appetite and his fever has disappeared. His indisposition had fever is thought to have been due to a severe cold he had taken. The medical officer in charge does not hesitate to say the man has not the dread disease.

Has Killed Forty-Two Men

Phoenix, Ariz., May 24.—Captain Mossman of the Arizona Rangers and Col. Kosterlitzky, commander of the Sonora gendarmes, have combined forces to run down the most blood-thirsty of all Mexican bandits, Augustin Chacon.

For a generation Chacon has operated along the border line, committing murder after murder. He boasted not long ago that he had killed forty-two men.

By the recent capture of the Mesgrave gang the rangers broke up the most desperate band that has operated recently in Arizona and New Mexico, and with the capture and death of Chacon, Mossman thinks that an end will be put to the outlawry along the international line.

CAPT. JAS. T. GRAY

To Organize Y. M. C. A.

W. A. Reid, so long connected with the Y. M. C. A. of St. George, has taken up the work of organizing a branch of the association in this city. He came here three years ago for that purpose, but the time was not then ripe for the movement. During the past month, while he has been organizing one for the soldiers at Fort Gibbon, several meetings have been held here on the subject, and Mr. Reid, who arrived on the Hannah, says he is pleased to find the subject as well forward as it is. But first he is making a thorough canvass to be able to correctly estimate what amount of support such an association is likely to receive. He says that at present everything looks encouraging. He called upon Governor Ross this morning.

Oats for South Africa

Portland, Oregon, May 24.—The British steamer Askehell, a six-thousand-ton carrier, sailed today from Coronel for Portland, under charter to load 300,000 bushels of oats for the British government in South Africa. This will not only be the largest cargo of oats ever put aboard on the Pacific coast, but it will be the first full cargo ever shipped from an American port on the Pacific for South Africa.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Miss Clara McMillan, a sister of Mrs. Card of the Hotel Cecil, left on the Sybil yesterday on a visit to the outside.

Mr. A. I. Irving, auditor of the transportation department of the N. C. Co., was a passenger on the Susie for St. Michael.

Mrs. Allan Joy has returned to the outside, being a passenger on the Columbian this afternoon.

Mr. Howard Turner, formerly N. C. Co. agent at Circle, has been transferred to Nome. He left on the Susie.

Presbyterian Church.—At tomorrow evening's service the following special music will be rendered: Mr. McMeekin will sing "If With All Your Hearts" from "Elijah"; by Mendelssohn, and the choir will sing "The Sun Shall be no More," an anthem by Woodward.

ARE GLAD TO BE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chute Return to Dawson

Traveled Extensively Throughout the United States and Canada.

J. A. Chute, of Chute & Wills, the large placer operators on Gold Run, returned yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Chute, from a trip to the outside. They left here on October 13th and returned June 13th, but there is no superfluous vein in either of their characters and they both declare they have had a very pleasant and successful outing from every point of view.

"We have travelled over the major portion of the United States and Canada, visiting most of the large cities, and we return to the Klondike for good, fully satisfied with it. Mrs. Chute, who came to Dawson with her husband five years ago, corroborated this with a blush and a smile.

Mr. Chute was at Ottawa during a portion of the season, and while not caring to discuss the action of the administration for publication he did express an opinion that so far as the administration is concerned matters were showing improvement and that there was good hopes of further improvement. In the United States he found that Mexico was attracting a good deal of attention among mining men, and Central America among capitalists generally. It was hard, he said, to form a definite opinion which route would be decided upon for the interoceanic canal, but that such an enterprise would be undertaken within a short time there could be no doubt.

As to the firm's mining interests here he could not say anything at present, as he had not had time to get an accurate view of the situation, but he believed matters had run very satisfactorily during his eight months absence.

Had a Close Call

Denver, June 5.—A special to the News from Glenwood Springs says a broken truck under the tender of the engine pulling the second section of the Shriners' special on the Denver & Rio Grande nearly caused the wrecking of the train in the Grand Canon ten miles east of Glenwood Springs this evening. The train was brought to an abrupt stop, but as it was running slowly at the time, no damage was done except the severe shaking up of the passengers. The baggage men were bruised a little by flying baggage in his car.

Jumped into the River

Portland, Or., June 5.—Dreading over a disappointment in love, Miss Inez Higgins, 27 years old, living with her parents at 88 Park street north, took her life by jumping into the river some time after May 23. Her body was found in the water today. She had kept company for three years with Charles Ray, a commercial traveler, who is now in California, and for reasons unknown they drifted apart.

THE RENT QUESTION.

It is perfectly plain that the high rents that have prevailed in Dawson up to the present time can no longer continue. Landlords must be contented in the future with less rentals or expect that their property will remain unoccupied.

Risks from fire which were formerly urged as an excuse for demanding in a year's rentals the entire cost of a building, have now been reduced to a minimum. The fire department is excellently equipped and efficiently organized, and as the records of the past year will readily show fires of a serious nature have been few and far between.

But aside from the above, the law of supply and demand will shortly regulate the rent business, if nothing else will do it.

New structures intended both for residential and business purposes are being erected in every quarter of the city and the owners are on the lookout for tenants. New and better quarters are being offered to business men every day at less rentals than they now are paying—a fact which foreshadows a general decrease all around.

The average business man in Dawson is perfectly satisfied now if he succeeds in turning a reasonable profit on his goods. Landlords in the future must expect to meet their tenants half way and not expect the latter to pay all their profits in rent.

TOO MUCH TALK.

If a very small percentage of the "quartz talk" that one hears upon the streets is based upon actual facts Dawson ought to be in the midst of a big quartz boom. At any hour of the day or night men may be found ready and willing to pour into the ears of the credulous, full details of quartz discoveries richer than ever before known in the history of mining camps.

Such talk is all right in its way, but it will not attract the bona fide investor nor will it add a dollar to the gold field of the camp. To develop the industry of quartz mining and place it upon a basis where moneyed men will feel justified in making investments, it is required that actual work be done. If ledges of gold-bearing rock exist in this country—as we have every confidence in the case—definite knowledge to that effect is all that is required to secure all the money necessary for development purposes.

fect is all that is required to secure all the money necessary for development purposes. Until a showing is made, however, it cannot be expected that money will come. Owners of quartz prospects must themselves exhibit some confidence in their property before they can expect that others will do so.

More work and less talk is needed if the hopes of those who believe in the future of the camp from a quartz standpoint are to be realized.

Whitehorse, through the medium of the Star, published in that bustling little town, registers a very strong remonstrance at the manner in which it has been treated in the matter of school facilities. Thus far Whitehorse has been compelled to depend upon the public spiritedness of the directors of one of the churches or it would have had no school of any nature whatsoever.

It begins to look at length as though the legitimate Dawson merchant will be given some measure of protection in the future against the transient scowmen. The man who remains in business twelve months in the year should not be thrown in competition with parties who never see Dawson excepting when they come in during the summer to unload a scow load of goods.

The ten thousand ton shipment of freight with which the W. P. R. proposed to set the merchants of Dawson up in business has failed to materialize. Another case of "unprecedented storms," perhaps.

The big Liberal dinner to be given on Dominion day will probably determine who is to be "it."

Chicago Eats Horse Meat. At a conference held by the city health department of Chicago and the state pure food commission, a special committee was named to investigate the oft repeated charge that horses are being slaughtered in great numbers in that city and sold as beef.

Died Last Night. Thos. M. Wallace died last night at St. Mary's hospital from the effects of kidney trouble. He was a Virginian by birth and was 40 years of age. His relatives reside at Lake City, Colorado. The remains will be interred tomorrow by Brimston & Stewart.

An Approaching Wedding. Invitations have been received in Dawson announcing the approaching wedding of Mr. Wm. P. Allen of this city and Miss Annie G. Temple, daughter of Rev. W. H. G. Temple of Seattle. The wedding will take place in Seattle on July 2nd and the couple will leave immediately thereafter for Dawson.

STEAMERS CUT RATES

War on the Up River Route

Second Class Fare to Whitehorse as Low as $20—No Agreement in Sight.

Yesterday witnessed the first round in what looks as though may develop into a first-class rate war for outgoing business among the upriver steamers. For over two weeks the opposition lines have been sparring with the White Pass, but it was not until the sailing of the Casca that things became interesting.

The managers of the opposition lines have blood in their eyes. They claim the White Pass people precipitated the cut because under the rates as established at the beginning of the season they could get no business.

The outside boats are more numerous this season than ever before and taken collectively can handle a large volume of traffic. The list includes the Clifford Sifton, La France, Thistle, Nora, Casca, Prospector and Wilbur Crimmin.

"No, it is not true that we started the cut. At the beginning of the season I was approached by the outside boats and asked as to what our rates would be. I told them $60 to Whitehorse and they immediately assumed a differential of $10 which is too much, more than we can stand against the same class of boats.

A Plucky Woman. Seattle, June 6.—Had it not been for the courage displayed by a woman last Wednesday Edward Miller, who is believed by the police to be one of an organized gang of thieves operating on the water front, would not now be behind the bars at the city prison, booked on a charge of larceny from the person. In fact, the police are satisfied that Miller is not the man's real name but an alias and Patrolman Bannick, who made the arrest, thinks he will be found to have a record.

is the proprietor of the Fair, a mercantile establishment at 120 Pike street, and has a branch at Unalakka. He and Mrs. Mafrige were standing in a crowd, conversing with J. P. Adams, a clerk, and several others, when the click of a coin striking the pavement was heard. Mafrige had been jostled once or twice and hurriedly thrust his hand into his pocket on hearing the sound. He found $20 in gold and some silver missing, and started to catch hold of a man standing at his side, who was acting suspiciously.

Mafrige broke loose from Miller's clutch and ran after the man, but he mingled with the crowd and disappeared. Miller tried to slip away, but Mrs. Mafrige grasped him by the arm and clung tenaciously to him until her husband returned.

Are All Smoking. Seattle, June 6.—While Redoubt has been most active as regards volcanic eruption in Alaska, two other peaks in the Cook inlet section have been throwing off smoke and steam in greater or less volume for several months.

Redoubt, though apparently subsiding, is still active in a sense. When we were on the inlet, ten days ago, Redoubt, Iliamna and Augustine were all smoking. Redoubt, when in greatest eruption, threw out sprinkling ashes on the windward side for a distance of 200 miles.

Pardon Asked for Erving. Seattle, June 6.—The application for a pardon in the case of Walter Erving will be heard by Gov. McBride shortly, probably before the end of the present month.

The delay for many reasons has been long, but the attorneys for the family of Erving, who are presenting the petition, have now filed the necessary documents at the state capital. Lester Still, attorney for Island county in the case, was in Olympia yesterday for the purpose of arranging a date with the governor for the consideration of the petition.

The murder for which Erving is now in the state penitentiary was a diabolical deed. Finley Garrison, a prosperous farmer, was killed for $100 which he had on his person, and his body was thrown in a well. Three years later, in 1897, the remains were discovered and suspicion immediately rested upon Erving, who since the disappearance of Garrison had changed his name to Harry McNabb and had left the country.

How the Thurstons Went to the Circus.

The six Thurstons fled gloomily out of the house to the hayloft for a council. "Two dreadful things couldn't have come together if they'd tried," remarked Molly, seating herself with a disconsolate snuff on a soap box.

"I'll be contortionist," answered Tommy, sitting up much tousled, and very dusty, and straightway he began to practice by looking through his legs which were still on the box. "If mother knew about the circus she'd probably think of a plan so we could go, but I wouldn't bother the dear for forty circuses," said Molly, getting up.

"No, Jim, you never do intend to do anything that's the reason you fall into trouble so often," said the doctor. "Now, you can pay me the $5 in your pocket." "I ain't," said Jim.

"We've got about a pound of rags in the bag, and how far would that go to you think toward taking six of us to the circus, I'd like to know?" said Tommy. "There's too many of us, is the trouble," he concluded, gazing gloomily around at the rosy faces of the circle.

"I'm glad of one thing," said Polly, getting up, preparing to follow. "It doesn't cost anything to see the procession and look at the posters, anyway." The morning of the circus day beheld the six Thurstons lined up in front of the doctor's office, blissfully gazing on the procession from the brass band, that began it, to the clown in a miniature cart drawn by the smallest of ponies, that finished it.

"Please, uncle doctor," said Dummy Dee's tearful voice, "let him go." "O, do, uncle doctor!" chimed in the five. They had never seen their dear doctor angry before, and they all shook in their shoes for fear of what might happen.

"You wouldn't care for a reserved seat would you?" asked Teddy, craning forward in Donny's direction. "None, indeed," said Donny with emphasis and eager to explain. If you sit down by the ring place, where all come in—but, with a change of tone and a comprehensive glance at the interested faces, "I'm not thinking of going."

"What's all this?" cried the doctor, pushing aside the five who were stricken speechless with astonishment at the entirely unexpected spectacle of their small brother, sitting on a man's back. "He was stealing your money, uncle doctor," explained Dummy Dee, in a shaking voice, "so I jumped on him from our window seat."

"I ain't," said Jim. "Yes you have. When you were in here this morning, whining about your wife's sickness putting you so behind, and the bad crops and all that, I forgave you the debt, though I saw your father give you a $5 bill in the postoffice this morning. You hung around here, and saw others pay their bills, and then you tried to rob me. Well, we'll turn you over to the police. Donny, telephone one up here quick."

"I'll be Angelina, the snake charmer," said Molly. "I'll be ring master," said Teddy, "and Don'll be clown, and he'll like that," he concluded, in a deliberate way of showing that they appreciated his sacrifice, and Donny nodded broadly at the landscape from the doorway. "Dummy Dee can be trick rider on the old tricycle."

"I wan't intending to do nothin' but to be a contortionist," answered Tommy, sitting up much tousled, and very dusty, and straightway he began to practice by looking through his legs which were still on the box. "If mother knew about the circus she'd probably think of a plan so we could go, but I wouldn't bother the dear for forty circuses," said Molly, getting up.

"I ain't," said Jim. "Yes you have. When you were in here this morning, whining about your wife's sickness putting you so behind, and the bad crops and all that, I forgave you the debt, though I saw your father give you a $5 bill in the postoffice this morning. dead weight. The Westminster Gazette thinks it probable that Milfordhaven will be the port of departure of the fleet. The scheme contemplates a line of steamers running to China, Japan and Australia from Vancouver, B. C. Canada and Australia are expected to join in paying the subsidies. A draft of the scheme involves the home government guaranteeing a small interest on the capital invested. This will have to be ratified by the house of commons, "where," says the Westminster Gazette, "it will probably be met with opposition."

Extended into State. Seattle, June 4.—The Great Northern and Northern Pacific local offices yesterday received notice that the homeseekers' rates would be extended to cover points in Eastern Washington rather than only to the boundary line between Washington and Idaho. This will be decidedly to the benefit of the eastern half of the state. At the Great Northern office General Western Passenger Agent A. H. C. Dennison received word that the rates would apply during the months of June, July, August, September and October to points as far west on the line as Wenatchee, and to all points reached by the Spokane Falls & Northern, as well as to stations on the O. R. & N. to and including Umatilla and Huntington.

New York, June 5.—Mrs. Bailey Bartlett, an original daughter of the revolution, is dead, of pneumonia, at Orange, N.J. She was 95 years old and was the widow of Bailey Bartlett, jr., of Massachusetts, a son of the Bailey Bartlett of that state who was a member of the first continental congress, and a close friend of Washington, John Adams and John Hancock.

For Fast Service. London, June 5.—The negotiations of the British and Canadian governments and some of the other colonial governments with the Cunard line and other lines comprising what is now termed the Liverpool syndicate, which is opposing the Morgan shipping combine, contemplate, according to the Westminster Gazette, both a fast service of mail and passenger steamers in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific railroad and a fleet of fast freight steamers. The mail steamers which it is proposed to build will be of enormous size, capable of steaming twenty-five knots an hour, and will be fully equipped for use as armed cruisers, carrying eight quick-firing six-inch guns forward and aft, and broadsides of three 4.7 inch guns. The freight steamers will be sixteen-rigged vessels, carrying 6,000 to 7,000 tons many intricate channels. The vessel is scheduled to leave here June 7, and during the summer will make five excursion trips from Puget sound, visiting all the principal points of interest on the southeastern coast of Alaska. Her double bottom and water-tight compartments are intended to insure safety, and the large and unique observation parlor on the upper part of the hurricane deck is expected to prove popular with excursionists.

Study of Human Features

When a bevy of maidens would while away an idle hour and foretell fate and fortune, it is not the lines on their hands which they study nowadays, but their features—the eyes, the brow, the nose, the mouth, the lips, the teeth, the chin, the ear tips. All these may be consulted in order to learn about one's character and luck in life.

"Let me tell your future by your chin," says Isabella Moncrieff to her companion. "Give it a saucy, tip-tilted pose—yes, that is it. Now you look fetching, and, let me see, you will—"

"Marry a tall, dark-haired man who looks like a pirate, I suppose," interrupts her companion.

"I cannot go quite as far as that," says Isabella, "nor tell whether he—the future he—be dark and piratical or light and poetical, so don't expect too much from me. Your chin belongs to the class designated as pointed, and it is a solemn fact that the owner of such a chin is so difficult to please that single-blessedness is threatened, although not absolutely assured."

"Now, if you had a narrow, square chin," continues Isabella, "you would be a deal worse off than you are with a pointed chin, for then you would bestow your love upon some unworthy or unsuitable individual—some one who lacked both birth and fortune."

"A deal worse off, I suppose," was the reply, "although you never can tell until you have tried it whether it is a sadder fate to marry no one or to marry the wrong one."

Chins may be divided into five classes—the pointed, the narrow square, the broad square, the broad round and the indented.

The pointed and the narrow square are essentially the feminine chins, while the broad square is the masculine chin. The broad square chin denotes the propensity of earnest devotion, of ardent love, and is usually accompanied by great strength of intellect.

Faithful love or constancy is shown by the broad round chin. The owner of such a chin is apt to be of a sanguine temperament.

The indented chin denotes the desire to be loved. In a man it is not an admirable sign, unless accompanied by other balancing qualities, as it gives a lightly come and lightly go disposition.

Will or strength of purpose is shown by the long chin. The owner of such a feature is steady, purposeful and always advancing from one accomplished work to another, and success in life is assured to him.

All intellectual people have prominent chins. The rule for a chin is that in its modeling it must suggest three generations behind it, and be rather round than square or pointed.

There never was a person of character who had not a large mouth, and lips are usually finer and more expressive in a large mouth. It is not necessarily the small mouth which is the ideal one. The Madonna mouth, the one which shows a slight projection of the upper lip over the lower, reveals deep purity and affection, great tenderness and self-devotion.

If the mouth never closes, a lack of mental power is indicated; such a mouth belongs to a person who thirsts for notoriety, applause and condemnation; generally speaking the person is deficient in passions and emotions.

The tightly compressed lips are a sign of weakness. Thin lips are associated with unsociability and coldness of disposition; they also denote a great degree of self control.

Lips which show a straight closure and are delicately creased can only belong to a refined nature. Prominence of the lower lip denotes obstinacy, but if a mole mark the right side of the lip, good fortune is signified.

Full lips, rosy and regular, finely arched, show a loveable disposition; if they also have a cushioned appearance they belong to a domestic nature, fond of caresses.

If teeth are long and not narrow the owner has large, liberal views, strong passions and heroic virtues. Teeth that are long and narrow belong to people of weak character.

If broad and short, strong mental powers are indicated, if close together the person has a quick intelligence. Evenly growing teeth show a better disposition and better developed mind than those that crowd and overlap each other.

Teeth that project outward show inequity; if they project outward upon the lower lip the person possesses generosity. If they turn inward the person is penurious.

Where the upper teeth project greatly over the lower ones, it shows a non-emotional nature and a lower order of intellect. Vertical teeth represent an even temper.

The more the teeth and gums are displayed in conversation the less profound the mind. Teeth unusually pointed and sharp show a depraved nature.

American women are fatally deficient in nose, so we are told by one who has made a study of the subject. "It is not too much to say," this authority declares, "that if you make a study of a tier of boxes at the opera you will not see one good nose. If a woman has a nose it is probably a proboscis, and she could supply three or four of her meager sisters; the others, without exception, have little pugs, or an irregular piece of flesh and cartilage that cannot be classed."

"You will see a queer, peaked affair, that seems to point derisively at her bang; another has a minute nose, so unfortunately constructed as to give her the effect of one whose fate it is to be constantly tormented with odors that are not redolent of the rose or the lily."

The person who writes in this strain about the American nose either has no nose herself or a Roman one. As a matter of fact, plenty of women have the Grecian nose, which is considered the ideal one.

By the tip-tilted, or the one with a heavenward trend, a hopeful, joyous nature is indicated, and a piquancy is added to the face, which is most attractive. Long noses are cautious; if not too long they tell of independence of character.

Foreheads are high or low, round or square, flat or convex. The ideal brow is rounded, slightly convex and smooth.

If the forehead rises slantingly the person is sharp and daring; if it is full in the middle and upper regions, the person is shrewd and cautious. If it is full at the outer angles eccentricity of behaviour may be looked for. Excessive size of the brow is a sign of idleness.

Eyes may be like twin stars, with dark and glorious rays fit to dazzle one, but if they look at you with a sideways glance don't trust them or her. She is fooling thee.

Eyes with a clear, steadfast gaze belong to a truthful, constant nature. Gray eyes, which sometimes look hazel and sometimes violet, show a lovable nature, with a good intellect.

There is a whole world of telltale indications in the apex of the ear. If it lies close to the head and is small the owner possesses a refined, susceptible nature. But if the top starts away from the head at a well defined angle that person has an uneven disposition, and is not to be relied upon.

If the ears stand forward so as to show their entire form, when the face is seen from the front, cruelty is denoted. Delicacy and poetry of feeling are indicated by a thin ear, while a thick one shows the reverse.

A wide space between the wing of the nose and the earlobe shows coarseness of nature; too little space means coldness and coldness of temperament.

An ear, to be perfect, should be rather small; it should not be higher than the eyebrow and not lower than the tip of the nose. If ears are set in too sloping a direction they show timidity; if too upright, animal instincts, especially if they protrude from the head.

In color the ear should be a delicate pink, and a little, but a very little, deeper shade at the lobes. Perfectly colorless ears denote timidity and want of warmth of temperament. Ears of a deep red color show animal instincts.

Character may also be determined by the neck. The shorter and thicker the neck the stronger the character and the greater the prospect of health and happiness and long life. Such a neck gives an appearance of power to the head.

A long thick neck detracts from the size of the head and entitles its effect. If the neck curve forward a yielding disposition is indicated; if it curve backward a haughty disposition.

A person versed in the art can read a woman as accurately by her hair as by her eyes, mouth or nose.

"Have the head entirely concealed" this wise individual will say; "all I want to see is a good-sized strand of her hair; of course I would have to know it was grown to her head. The manner of wearing her hair would not enter into or affect the decision."

This prophet starts in his reading of a woman by her hair with the quite generally known and accepted principle that the finer the hair, the gentler the birth. The closer the ends of the hair cling together the more intellectuality does the owner possess.

When the ends show a tendency to curl it is an infallible sign that the owner has inherent grace and poetic ease of body. The straighter and less yielding—though not necessarily harsh—the hair, the firmer and more positive is the woman's nature.

Treachery and jealousy hide beneath lustreless or dead black hair in nine cases out of ten. Hair that may appear of the finest texture and be glossy almost to brilliancy, when viewed at a little distance, but that on closer examination is found to have a broken or split appearance, indicates an unbalanced character; a woman with an excess of especially queer notions and one who, while she may be nice enough to bow to on the street, should be avoided as an intimate friend.

The lighter colored the hair, the more sensitive and touchy the owner. Brown hair is the most pleasant and satisfactory shade of hair to have to do with in a business way.

Whatever the shade of brown may be, it is a fact almost infallible that such hair covers a lot of common sense, reason and good judgment.

The women with red or auburn hair are impulsive and quick spoken, but possessors of the most appreciable traits—they have common sense and are among the brightest and gentlest of gentlewomen.

Not only by the features and the hair may fortunes be foretold, but by the fingers, the finger nails, the foot, the heels and the ankles.

Easily led by this one and that, meaning well, but seeing things in a different light from day to day, is the person whose fingers—each take a different curve. Bow-legged fingers, or those which touch only at the tip and base, show ability and strength of character.

The fingers which bend backward mean powerful determination. If they are round, strength, both physical and mental, is shown. Stubby fingers are grasping fingers; a finger broad at the tip denotes great energy.

A little finger with a decided prominence at the base, upon the outer side, shows good judgment and good qualities generally.

If a girl's thumb lie flat or droops a little marital submission is indicated. The dmsel is headstrong if her thumb has a tendency to stand at right angles to her hand.

A person weak mentally and physically has a weak, pendent thumb. The strong character has a strong, erect thumb. A very fleshy thumb at the base shows coldness and selfishness.

Finger nails that are oval and rounder show refinement. Those that are broad and short say "coarse and unambitious."

Long nails, rather square at the top, mean firmness and energy. Small ones, with the top curving in, instead of out, mean laziness and lack of confidence. Long, sharp-pointed nails, almost claw-like, denote ability to originate. Short, square, broken ones, carelessness and bad temper.

A woman, lively, vain and coquetish, is the one who has a small foot of medium with the toes curving upward. If the space between the great toe and second toe is large it is as much an evidence of distinguished birth as a high instep, particularly if the toes are long and narrow.

Small, rounded heels show a vain disposition. If the muscles and veins are well defined, you will live to see your wishes realized, and you will be lucky in love.—New York Sun.

On From the Porpoise
The porpoises killed in winter are the fattest and produce most oil. The largest size measure about 7 feet in length, 5 feet in girth and weigh about 300 pounds. Such a porpoise yields from six to seven gallons of oil. The blubber of a big porpoise weighs about 100 pounds and is one and a half inches thick in summer and two in winter.

The jaws of the porpoise yield a superior quality of oil. When hung up in the sun, it readily drips away into cans provided for the purpose, the quantity of oil thus procured, however, being not more than half a pint to the jaw. The oil from the blubber gives an excellent light and is in demand along the coast for lighthouse use. It has no offensive odor.

Porpoise shooting is followed at all seasons and in all kinds of weather. On a calm summer's day the porpoise may be heard blowing a mile or two away. If you wound a porpoise and there are any sharks around, the shark is very apt to share your booty with you even if he doesn't devour it in toto.

He Was an Artist
A lady of high position once ventured to remonstrate with Worth, the Parisian milliner, because he had charged her $120 for a ball dress.

"The material," she said, "could be bought for $20, and surely the work of making up would be well paid with $5 more."

"Madame," replied the milliner in his loftiest manner, "go to M. Meissonier, the painter, and say to him: 'Here is a canvas, value a shilling, and here are colors, value 4 shillings.

Paint me a picture with these colors on that canvas and I will pay you one and three-pence.' What will he say? He will say, 'Madame, that is no payment for an artist.' I say more. I say, if you think my terms are too high, pay me nothing and keep the robe. Art does not descend to the pettiness of the bigger." — London Tit-Bits.

Mummies

In estimating the value of a mummy its medical qualities are no longer appraised and thus the problem is easier of solution. Its value must have been greater when it formed a regular part of the materia medica. Until pretty late in the eighteenth century mummies entered into a great variety of drugs, balms and other medicaments.

As the genuine mummy was then expensive, receipts were given by many ancient writers for converting human flesh into mummy. Usually only certain portions of the body were used, and these were beaten, dried, macerated and spiced out of all likeness to their natural condition; hence "beaten to a mummy."

Numerous allusions are made to the practice in ancient literature, and in an old play, "Bird In a Cage," are the directions, "Make mummy of my flesh and sell me to the apothecaries."

Bologna's Learning Tower

Bologna has two great square towers, the Asinelli, which is 315 feet high and was erected in 1109, and its rival, the Garisenda, which was built one year later and was originally much higher and is rendered peculiar by its decided inclination to one side. It is now only 153 feet high, the width of one side is 23 feet, the walls at the base are 6 feet 6 inches thick, while higher up they are 4 feet 9 inches. Its origin is somewhat obscure, but it was certainly intended to outdo the Asinelli, and both were for retreat in troublous times. Some say the original intention was to make it lean, but others contend that either the ground has settled or there was a defect in the engineering. This unique relic was so little thought of by one of its later possessors that it was sold in 1266 for 220 lire, something less than $44.

She Knew It

A Philadelphia man thought he would be more successful than his wife in securing servants. So he cut out a number of advertisements from the "situations wanted" column of a newspaper and started out in a cab to visit the various addresses. The first place he stopped at was in front of a little house in a narrow street, from which a cook had advertised. He saw her and was favorably impressed.

"I am looking for a good cook," he said.

"Sure, an' don't Oi know it!" exclaimed the cook. "Oi only left four house yistidday!"

He made a hasty and undignified retreat and decided to allow his wife to continue in her direction of the household affairs.

She Had Improved

The Princess Charlotte, daughter of George IV., was a young woman of great spirit and originality. One day one of her teachers chanced to enter the room when the princess was reviling one of her attendant ladies in great wrath, and, after giving her a lecture on hasty speech, he presented her with a book on the subject.

A few days later he found her still more furious and using language even more violent. "I am sorry to find your royal highness in such a passion," said he. "Your royal highness has not read the book I gave you."

"I did, my lord," cried she tempestuously. "I both read it and profited by it." Otherwise I should have scratched her eyes out!"

To Give Him a Title

London, June 4.—The house of lords will hold a sitting today to receive a message from King Edward with reference to peace in South Africa. It is expected that this message will announce the conferring of a title upon Lord Kitchener and the granting to him of a reward for his services. The reward will probably be £100,000.

It now appears that Lord Kitchener will not return to London for the king's coronation, and Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, has said that the government does not purpose to have the new South African colonies represented at the crowning of King Edward. The Transvaal and Orange River representatives could hardly reach London in time for the coronation.

Mayor Macaulay Has Many Pothetic Letters From Far Away.

Every mail brings to Mayor H. C. Macaulay inquiries for people who have either never since been heard from or who, after writing regularly from here for some time, suddenly ceased and dropped into obscurity so far as outside friends are concerned.

The last mail brought to the mayor quite a batch of inquiring letters, some of which were the following: Mrs. W. Clark, of 184 La. Salle street, Chicago, wants information of Phil and James Rohan, father and son, who left for this country last year and have not since been heard of.

The elder Rohan is described as having been prominent in Chicago politics. There is a possibility that he is a member of the "Kid committee" under an assumed name.

Father G. C. Van Goethem of Dunbar, B.C., says an inmate of the orphanage is anxious to hear of her father, J. L. Campbell and his two half-breed sons who were at Ketchikan, Alaska, last year ago and came on to the Klondike.

Sarah Sophia Rees of The Hawthorn, 23 Bolton Road, London, England, writes for information of her brother, Jone Rees, supposed to be in this country. The writer states that their mother is old and feeble and worries greatly over not hearing from her son.

Albert H. Blaisdell, whose family resides at 281 Pleasant avenue, St. Paul, Minn., has not been heard from two years at which time he was president of West Dawson. For nearly two years all letters addressed to him at Dawson have been returned to the writers.

Any information regarding any of the above mentioned people should be addressed to those inquiring for them at Mayor H. C. Macaulay, who will see that such information is forwarded.

Best Sugar Men Ahead

Washington, June 5.—The committee appointed by the beet sugar senators, consisting of Senator Elvins, Senator Burrows and Senator Jones, of Nevada, to confer with the Republican members of the committee on relations with Cuba to decide on the degree of relief to be given to the planters in the way of tariff concessions or otherwise, had their first meeting with that committee today.

The meeting was attended on the part of the committee by Senators Platt, of New York, Cullom and Spooner. The conference extended for a period of two hours' time, but no agreement was reached, and an adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

The proposition to grant a rebate on Cuban products was made by the beet sugar representatives, and most of the time was devoted to the discussion of this proposition.

The representatives of the beet sugar interest united in the assurance that there would be no difficulty in securing substantial unanimity in support of the rebate plan, but said that it would be impossible to secure solid representation in support of any plan for tariff reduction, due to the serious effect on the industry of beet sugar.

Western Labor Union

Dawson, Col., June 5.—The American (Western) Labor Union convention today voted to make the president's salary $5.75 per day, with an increase of $2.50 per day and mileage when traveling in the interest of the union. Resolutions were adopted advising cooks and waiters of the union to strike with the national waiters' restaurant employees' organization. The national brewery workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, were invited to join with the American Labor Union. An effort will be made to organize the farmers and farm hands of the West by the American Labor Union. The purpose is not to organize labor unions, according to President McDonald, but to get them together for educational purposes, and have them co-operate with the American Labor Union in political contests.

It is very likely that the American Labor Union will adopt the referendum system of electing officers.

The Pioneer Leads

Yesterday and today have constituted a busy time at the Pioneer where, after the arrival of the steamer Selkir, a choice article of draught beer was placed on tap with the result that Jim O'Neill, "Ansome" Barry and two others are kept busy on the day shift, and an equal force at night, supplying the wants of the Pioneer's many patrons.

The lunch room adjunct with its tables, chairs and cheerful surroundings, is proving a winner, for there patrons may rest in comfort as they discuss the latest in popular beverage. Affairs of business may more satisfactorily be talked over at a private table than while being jostled around at a bar and for that and many other good reasons the tables in the rear room of the Pioneer have been crowded ever since the introduction into that already popular resort of draught beer.

The present arrangement at the Pioneer is the greatest innovation in the solid comfort refreshment line ever introduced in Dawson.

Holle's Body Found

Vancouver, B.C., June 5.—Charles Holle, who has been missing for ten days, was found drowned yesterday near Point Gray. Holle recently moved here from Seattle with his family, and was to have started for Dawson on the steamer City of Seattle on the day he disappeared.

The body was found by Indians and brought to the city. Identification was established absolutely by the underclothing worn by the deceased, which was marked with his initials. He had been drinking for several days prior to that on which he was to have left for Dawson, and early on the day on which the Seattle sailed he disappeared altogether. His wife at first thought that he had gone aboard the steamer, and was expecting a letter from him when his body was brought in.

The Author Found

The celebrated Wichita liar sent his last fake from Topeka, judging from the story that comes up from that famous capital about the falling of a shower of hot lava blocks onto an innocent man's farm down near Osborne, Kansas. He is the same inventive genius, doubtless, who telegraphed all over the world a few years since the catastrophe caused by a meteor that plunged through a Kansas homesteader's cabin and smacked him into a pancake.

Also the story of a railroad grading gang that unearthed two hundred thousand skeletons on a prehistoric battlefield down in Oklahoma. Also the story of another Kansas farm that caved in and left nothing but a bottomless hole in the ground.—Nebraska State Journal.

Terms Meet Approval

London, June 3.—Judging from the opinions thus far given out by the London newspapers, the terms of peace appear to meet with approval from all sides, but the extremists of both the jingo and the pro-Boer parties find something to cavil at.

The moderate newspaper of both political parties have nothing but satisfaction to express. Among the Liberal newspapers and politicians a strong idea prevails that King Edward will grant some kind of amnesty to the Cape rebels at the coronation.

SPORTY TOWN OF CARIBOU

Glove Contests of Frequent Occurrence

Caribou and Britton to Box for $1000 on July 3rd—Game Billy Stone.

Jeff Hanna and Billie Stone of Dominion creek met in what was to have been a 10-round contest for a decision last Tuesday evening at the Caribou Athletic Club. Hanna is a local miner and Stone is the son of a prominent claim owner. Each had bested a number of local boxers and a good match was anticipated, several hundred dollars changing hands as the result.

As the men appeared each was loudly applauded and Hanna showed up considerably the heavier. At the call of time each jumped to the center and went at it in earnest, Hanna uppercutting and Stone cleverly ducking two or three heavy swings. Stone landed a straight right hand on Hanna's neck and a half swing in return caught him on the jaw and neck, knocking him out. Time one minute.

Kid Owen of Dawson was referee and J. T. Kelly official time keeper. The main event was introduced by a 3-round exhibition between Caribou Sinclair and Herman Frank, who gave a clever exhibition. J. T. Kelly, the referee, came nearly being put out as both men turned on him, chasing him around the ring to the amusement of the spectators.

Caribou is becoming a great center for sporting events and the business men have raised $1000 as a purse to be contested for by Caribou Sinclair, instructor of the local gymnasium, and Britton of Hunker on July 3rd. Both men are favorites on their respective creeks and will be heavily backed by their admirers. The Dominion boys say the Hunkerites can take several thousand dollars home with them if their man is a winner.

Greeted by Pope

Rome, June 5.—The pope today received Judge Taft, civil governor of the Philippines; Bishop Thomas O'Gorman, of Sioux Falls, S. D.; Judge Smith and Waj. Porter, of the judge advocate's department at Washington. Judge Taft presented to his holiness a letter from President Roosevelt and a box containing President Roosevelt's literary works. The pope expressed his thanks for Mr. Roosevelt's friendly greetings, promised to study the different Philippine questions and said he hoped

Benefits of a Birch

The cane should never be used as the ordinary instrument of school punishment. A cane may possibly bring about irreparable damage, and caning on the hands is the most senseless and cruel form of punishment imaginable. The birch is the best implement of punishment for small boys. First, it hurts; secondly, if applied in reason, it does no harm.—London Lancet.

Their First Case

The cheerful member of a firm of young lawyers who hired an office in a downtown building about a month ago, and had been waiting for business ever since, collected half a dozen of his nearest friends the other day and herded them in a bureau of liquid refreshment.

"It's on me," he explained, "but don't go higher than beer. There's nothing in it but the joke."

It was not difficult to persuade him to explain, because it was a story he evidently had to share with somebody or explode.

"We've got our first case," said he. "We've been sitting up nights thinking what it would be, and now we've got it, and it's a lulu. No, don't have another yet. Wait till I tell you."

"You see, since we sent around word that we were embarked in the profess all the fellows we know have been 'outing' for business for us. Nothin' doin', though, till two weeks ago. Then Jim Jenkins, who was a classmate of mine at the old college, came around in a great state of mind."

"Brown, old man," said he, "I've got a client for you. He's a 'good friend of mine' and he wants a lawyer. He has some money, too. He came to me this afternoon and told me he was in trouble. He didn't say what it was, and I didn't ask him, but I guess it's serious, for he looked bad about it. I told him about you and he's coming to see you. Now do your best for him."

"Do my best? You bet I vowed I would. I invited Jenkins to lunch on the strength of it. I even thought of opening a bottle, but I decided I'd let that wait till I heard from his friend."

"Then I went back to the office and waited. I wondered what it would be, and I thought sadly about the points I was weak on and wondered if I could handle his case to suit him."

"He didn't come around, and I feared he mightn't. Me and my partner talked it over, and worried for fear he'd forget us and employ somebody else."

"We wondered whether it was divorce, or a will or a real estate dispute, and I'll be honest about it. We discussed it mornings and sat up with it nights."

"Well, he came around today, and what do you think it is?"

"Everybody guessed and nobody hit it."

"It's a three-dollar dispute over a twelve-dollar plumber's bill," said the cheerful young lawyer. "And I'm going to get that $3 for my client or I'll take down my shingle. Now, does anybody wonder why I'm happy? The law's the business to grow rich in. But only one round, boys. The firm can't stand more on the present business basis."—New York Sun.

Greeted by Pope

Rome, June 5.—The pope today received Judge Taft, civil governor of the Philippines; Bishop Thomas O'Gorman, of Sioux Falls, S. D.; Judge Smith and Waj. Porter, of the judge advocate's department at Washington. Judge Taft presented to his holiness a letter from President Roosevelt and a box containing President Roosevelt's literary works. The pope expressed his thanks for Mr. Roosevelt's friendly greetings, promised to study the different Philippine questions and said he hoped for good results. The pontiff also asked Judge Taft to thank President Roosevelt for his gift. The audience lasted forty minutes.

Judge Taft subsequently met Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state, and opened the discussion of Philippine matters.

While talking with the pope, Gov. Taft briefly reviewed the questions in the Philippines which required settlement. He pointed out to his holiness that the readjustment of the relations of church and state in the islands was not an indication of hostility of the United States to the Catholic church, but declared that such a readjustment was merely a necessity under the American constitution. Gov. Taft referred to the prosperity and freedom of the Roman Catholic church in the United States and cited these conditions as an assurance that the Vatican had nothing to fear from the extension of the authority of the United States over the Philippine islands.

Replying to Judge Taft, the pontiff expressed the greatest pride in the Roman Catholic church in the United States and intense interest in the great republic. He said he earnestly desired to help the American administration of the Philippines in every possible way and he assured Gov. Taft that the Vatican would approach all questions raised in the broadest and most conciliatory spirit. The pope said also that matters of detail in connection with the questions to be decided would be referred to a committee of cardinals, where they would be considered at length, and that all the issues would be treated with the sole aim of reaching a settlement satisfactory to all parties concerned.

The pope appeared to be in excellent health during his interview with Gov. Taft and was in a vivacious humor. He referred pleasantly to Archbishop Ireland in what he had to say concerning the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

Wanted Claim "Salted" for an Expert

Defendants File Hot Affidavits in Case of Carboneau vs. Letourneau and Bernier.

Edmund Letourneau and Joseph Bernier are laymen who have been working the upper half of No. 12 Gold Run all winter under lease. The owners of the claim are Charles Eugene Carboneau and Beinda A. Carboneau and from the voluminous pleadings and affidavits filed in the territorial court in a case wherein the latter are plaintiffs and the former defendants it is evident the relations of lessors and lessees are not the most amicable in the world.

The statement of claim filed by the plaintiffs recites that they are the owners of the upper half of No. 12 Gold Run, upon which a lay agreement was entered into with defendants September 20 last. The terms of the lay were that all shafts and drifts were to be cribbed, all dirt containing gold was to be taken out, each was to contribute equally in the payment of any royalty imposed, the laymen were to pay all the expenses of operation and give the owners 50 per cent. of all the gold taken out.

September 28 defendants executed a mortgage to plaintiffs to secure the payment of advances made for the purpose of purchasing machinery, supplies, etc., the mortgage covering the interest in the dumps and all the machinery, wood and supplies, such advances made not to exceed the sum of $20,000. The mortgage was made payable May 1, 1902, and it was stipulated therein that in case of default in payment plaintiffs were to have immediate possession. It is now claimed default has been made, there is $20,000 due on the mortgage, the dumps have not been wholly sluiced up and it is further alleged that Letourneau, one of the defendants, has been drinking heavily and is incapacitated from properly attending to business.

Recently on behalf of the defendants Wilfred Thibault has told the way of an affidavit what he knows of the case. He states that he has been employed on the claim as a book-keeper since September 21. There have been taken out during the winter 64,000 wheelbarrows of pay dirt averaging 15 pans to the barrow. Before the appointment of the receiver there were seven men employed in the drifts and three men and one horse on the dumps. The last two cleanups made amounted to 296 ounces. Since Baptiste's arrival on June 9 he has had 15 men and two horses at work and his last two cleanups amounted to but 197 ounces. The affidavit states there is but one sluiceway of water available and that with that number of men shoveling in the boxes are so choked that much of the gold is carried off into the tailings and is thus lost. It is further stated that Baptiste is not present personally but has deputized one Jealous to act for him who knows nothing of mining. The allegation that $20,000 is due under the mortgage is denied; the sum is but $13,789 exclusive of the money already received as the result of the cleanups made by the receiver.

The sensational part of the story is in the affidavits filed yesterday by Letourneau and Bernier, the defendants, which allege that Carboneau is guilty of conspiring to "salt" the claims in view of a prospective sale at a large figure, and that because the affiants refused to be a party to the fraud he is now harassing them in every possible manner. Letourneau swears that in April last both the plaintiffs were on the claim and were surprised at the amount of work that had been done, and were highly satisfied. The affidavit further states that the claim was about to be sold to a French syndicate which was represented by J. M. Bell who was charged to make an inspection of the ground and test the dirt in order to ascertain the value of the property. Continuing, the affidavit says: "That in the first part of May, 1902, the said J. M. Bell was rocking on the said above mentioned property and testing the dirt when the said plaintiff, C. E. Carboneau, asked Joseph Bernier, the other defendant, and myself repeatedly to put gold in the rocker in order that the dirt said J. M. Bell was testing would give $2 or $3 to the bucket."

The affiant swears that both he and his partner refused to accede to plaintiff's wish after which time he began to cause trouble and interfere in every way with their working. The receiver has refused to allow the defendants to prosecute their work according to the terms of their lay agreement and he has dismissed and refused to pay the men employed during the winter. The defendants have not been notified by the receiver of any cleanup he has made with but one exception, they have asked plaintiffs for a settlement of accounts repeatedly but they have neglected to do so, and they have and are now suffering great loss and damages by reason of plaintiffs' actions.

The affidavit of Bernier is identical with that of his partner.

Tomorrow Night

In announcing the benefit in yesterday evening's Nugget to be given tomorrow night to Manager Bittner, it was inadvertently stated that the performance would be given in the Orpheum. All must have known that such was an error as it would indeed be rather strange for the beneficiary to go outside his own house upon such an occasion. A program of exceptional excellence has been arranged, one that will be extremely gratifying to the audience. The opening act will be a farce comedy entitled "A Happy Pair," then will follow numerous specialties by the best vaudeville talent in the city, the whole to conclude with the last act of "David Harum." An augmented orchestra will be present and as Mr. Bittner has done much this winter to drive dull care away he should be greeted with an overflowing house.

Mrs. Lueders has received a fine assortment of ladies' walking skirts, dress skirts, summer dresses and hair goods. c16

Balliet Convicted

Des Moines, Ia., June 5. — Letson Balliet was found guilty in the federal court of using the mails to defraud investors in stock in the White Swan Mining Company, whose property is located near Baker City, Or. He was charged with having received about $230,000 from purchasers of stock, and with having invested not to exceed $25,000 in the property, and that largely in acquiring the title to it after he had begun to sell stock. It was proved by the government that during the two and a half years that Balliet operated the scheme he had expended $25,000 in buying a newspaper at Baker City, about $35,000 in advertising the mine and himself as "the Cecil Rhodes of America"; that he had expended various sums on actresses and personal outlays, and that since the purchase of the White Swan mine he had put practically nothing into it with a view to developing it on behalf of the stockholders.

It was essential for the government to prove that Balliet intended to defraud the investors when he sold them the stock. This was shown by proving his expenditure of about $75,000 of the money in the manner described and in no way connected with the development of the property. The government clinched the case against Balliet when he went on the stand and failed to testify as to the whereabouts of the remaining $150,000 known to have been collected by the sale of the stock, but not accounted for.

HINGSTER AND HARRY

Play Regular Engagements in Police Court

Both Will Again Appear for Trial on Thursday of Next Week.

Harry Woolrich was again in the dock at the police court this morning and had no sooner been tried in one case than he was placed in the box on another charge. All three grew out of the excitement connected with the gambling raid. In the case in which he pleaded guilty yesterday the charge was disorderly conduct, and he paid his fine. This was in connection with his scrap with William Hingster. The latter was brought up on a similar charge, but Attorney Asbaugh, who appeared for him, put in a plea of not guilty and obtained a continuance of the case until Thursday.

This morning Mr. Asbaugh was again in court for the prosecution of Woolrich on the grave charge of "assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm," brought by Hingster. To this he pleaded not guilty, and the case was set down for Thursday also. Should he then be found guilty he must be committed for trial in the criminal court. But the magistrate gave him his liberty upon his own recognizances.

Then came the charge of using insulting and abusive language on First avenue, brought by J. A. Clarke. The evidence was that as Woolrich and Hingster were passing the Queen street corner of Front street on Wednesday morning in the custody of the police, the accused saw Clarke and Moses McGregor and called out: "There is one of the spies; you —" Moses McGregor was the first witness, and Clarke corroborated the testimony, adding that he had nothing whatever to do with the gambling raid, nor had he spoken to Woolrich since last he met him in court.

The two policemen also testified, and Woolrich, who conducted his own case, cross-examined with a view to showing that he had mentioned no name to whom the language was addressed, and the inference that the appropriate epithet could only have been meant for Clarke.

Captain Starnes reserved decision until after the trial of the alleged gambling cases.

The city ordinances are gradually being put into use and one class of offenders after another is brought up and made an example of. This morning A. Mizony was brought up at the police court charged with pushing a hand cart along the sidewalk, contrary to the city ordinance so made and provided. He pleaded guilty and made the customary excuse that he did not know of the law. Captain Starnes had again to declare that ignorance of the law was no plea, but as the accused had only been in town a week the fact was taken into consideration. Also, as this was the first charge to come up of a breach of this ordinance the nominal fine of $10 was imposed, with the warning from the bench that the next offender would not be treated nearly as leniently.

It is now up to those who delight to bicycle on the sidewalks to recognize that Dawson has a city council.

To be Sold Again

The steamer "Monarch" which has been in court so long will again be put under the hammer on Wednesday, June 25, at the court house at 2 p. m. by Sheriff Ellbeck. Mr. Justice Craig recently decided that the sale of the boat last winter by Police Magistrate Taylor at Whitehorse was illegal and that such officer had no right to dispose of the boat at that time, it being then in the admiralty court.

A Huge Bridge Moved

New Brunswick, N.J., May 25. — Pennsylvania Railway officials came here today in a special car to witness the engineering feat of moving the steel bridge which spans the Raritan river and the Delaware & Hudson canal. The structure was moved a distance of 15 feet. The bridge has six spans, is double tracked and is 900 feet long. The last train to pass over the bridge in its old position crossed at 12:09. A force of men was ready, and as the last wheels reached the abutments the work began at 12:10. Everything was pronounced secure and ready for use again at 12:30, and a freight train crossed. The moving of the bridge was made necessary in the track elevation scheme of New Brunswick.

Tropical Showers

The action of the weather these days is more that of a tropical country than of the far north. On the coast of the Gulf of Mexico beginning about the middle of June rain is liable to fall every afternoon for two months or more; otherwise, summer in that country would be almost unendurable.

The afternoon showers now visited on Dawson are of a decidedly tropical variety.
