DR CLAUDE KILBORN'S DEATH

Deep sorrow was caused in many homes in Athens by the announcement of the death of Dr. Claude Kilborn at Winnipeg. We all recall Claude's pleasant disposition, his fidelity as a student, his modesty of demeanor, his blameless life, and his call from earth at a time when the labors of his life seemed to bear full fruition. In the great sorrow thus caused his parents and sister, friends here extend heartfelt sympathy.

The Winnipeg Free Press of the 7th inst. says:

The death occurred this morning at 4 o'clock of Dr. Claude E. Kilborn at the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs Kilborn, 640 Sargent street. Two weeks ago he was taken ill with typhoid fever of an unusually severe type, which cut short a life full of promise of unusual brightness.

Dr. Kilborn graduated this spring from Manitoba medical college after a brilliant course at that institution, where he had spent four years fitting himself to go to China as a medical missionary. He had been accepted by the Methodist church, and was to have left for the interior of China in the first week in November. A particularly sad feature of the death of Dr. Kilborn is that his marriage to a young Winnipeg lady was to have been solemnized a short time before his departure to the missionary field.

Dr. Kilborn was born in Ontario 29 years ago, but his parents moved to Deloraine in 1882, and resided there until three years ago, when they retired and moved to Winnipeg. He entered the medical college in 1903, and took high honors in every year of his course, gaining the respect of every one in college.

Dr. Kilborn was beloved by all and known throughout his wide circle of acquaintances as the soul of honor and right living. His influence was always for good and his mind always on the one object, to do good to all and ultimately carry the gospel of healing of soul and body to a foreign field in far off China, and to the borders of Thibet, where his appointment was made. As a lecturer and worker in church circles he was well known. A consistent member of Grace church, a leader in the Epworth League, and an organizer of the University Y.M.C.A., he was brought into prominence in a wide circle. On several occasions he occupied city pulpits to tell the story of the need of missionary effort in the foreign field, and this spring, after graduation, made a tour of southern and western Manitoba on the same mission.

Besides the sorrowing parents, a married sister at Deloraine and a host of close friends are left to mourn his untimely death.

Only twelve hours before, at the General hospital, Dr. Earl Stewart, Dr. Kilborn's life-long and closest friend, passed away with the same disease.

A double funeral was held for the two young men, and of the service the Free Press says:

Probably Grace church has never known a more profoundly impressive and solemn moment than that during which the mortal remains of these two young men were borne into the church. The sight of the two flower covered caskets placed side by side touched the very heart-strings of a congregation which filled every available seat in the church. For the people knew that resting beneath the flowers in the sleep of death were two young men whose lives had been full of promise in a land of progress; two young men whose names had already been connected with good works and noble ambitions, and the presence of the angel of death was keenly felt.

Model School Notes

Owing to the change made in the regulations of the Educational Department, those who have proper non professional qualifications and who will be eighteen years of age before Aug 17, 1908 may take a course at the Model School this year, 1907. They will be given their certificates when they are eighteen.

The above change has increased the attendance of the Model School and twenty-two are now in attendance.

The Public School boys formed a foot ball club and the following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—Mr Burchell.

Pres.—Ambrose McGhie.

Sec. Treas.—Keith McLaughlin.

The boys decided to have Ambrose McGhie and Keith McLaughlin act as field captains during practice.

The Model School Literary Club held their first meeting on Friday afternoon, the president, Mr Stevens, in the chair.

The programme was not very lengthy but was enjoyed by the class.

The instrumental duets by Misses Green and Briggingshaw and Miss Graham's recitation were well rendered. Mr Hanna and Mr Kearney began their careers as orators to the amusement of the class. The choruses by the class were heartily given, reflecting the spirit of "Men of the North."

AN INTERESTING TRIP

Mr and Mrs A. N. Sherman returned home last week from an extended trip, of which Mrs Sherman gives the following brief description:

"We left Athens on July 1st and went first to Little Falls, N.Y., the terminus of the Mohawk Valley railway, then staged nine miles to Richland Centre. We visited Batavia, Rochester and Buffalo, and thence to Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio; next to Elkhart, Ind.—all large and beautiful cities. We then went to Chicago, Salisbury and Beloit. Our next stop was at Madison, a beautiful city, great grain centre.

"After leaving Madison, we passed through Mileston, where there had been a cyclone the night previous in which eight persons were killed, buildings blown down, etc. Five acres of corn were blown out of the ground and five miles by a half mile of woods were piled up in heaps for miles around.

"We went to Belgrade, then to Glenwood Park and Brockton, where we saw the largest fish hatchery in the U.S. We next went to St. Croix.

"We then visited Minnehaha Falls the Soldiers' Home and Hospital. We visited Wonderland and saw the baby incubator. It contained four boys and three girls, ranging in weight from one and a half to four pounds.

"We next visited the state capitol, where we obtained some souvenirs, then went to the state fair. There we saw Governor Johnston's statue and grapes, calla lilies, etc., all made out of butter. All things were magnificent and there was the most beautiful fancy work I ever saw.

"Thence we returned direct to Athens."

After the Caledon Wreck

Markdale, Sept. 11, 1907.

Editor Athens Reporter.

Dear Sir,—As I have had several letters from anxious friends from Athens and vicinity, I would ask you to be kind enough to say in your paper that I escaped with a very bad broken ankle, some other bruises not serious, and a bad shaking up in the wreck at Caledon, some forty-five miles from where I live. My little boy, Frank, was with me and escaped with a sprained ankle, which he received by jumping from the car. As the daily papers give a fairly good description of the accident, these few lines I think will be sufficient to satisfy my friends. I have indeed great reason to be thankful, and am sure I am. If any of the readers of the Reporter ever had a broken ankle I would be thankful if he would write me a card and explain the nature of the break and how long he had trouble with the same.

LESSON I—SEPT. 22, 1907.

Joshua, Israel's New Leader.—Josh. 1: 1-11.

Commentary.—1. Joshua commissioned as Israel's leader (vs. 1, 2). This indicates a close connection with what preceded. It is quite probable that the book of Joshua originally began with the last chapter of Deuteronomy. After the death—After the thirty days' mourning were over. The servant of the Lord—This was the official title of Moses, as invested with a special mission to make known the will of God, and conferred great honor and authority.—J. & B. The Lord spake.—The Lord did not speak with Joshua face to face as he did with Moses, but probably through the high priest (Num. 27; 18: 22). Joshua's name was originally Hoshua, Salvation, or Help. To this was added afterward the prefix 'Jeh,' Jehovah, and his name became Jehoshua, shortened into Joshua—Salvation from Jehovah. This name in the Greek is Jesus, and in Acts 7; 45 and Heb. 4; 8 Joshua is called Jesus. "Moses the lawgiver" Israel to the border, Joshua a preparation of Jesus brought them over." Joshua was born in the land of Goshen, in Egypt. He was a descendant of Joseph, through Ephraim. At this time he was about eighty-four years of age. He was distinguished for his courage, faith and piety. "All his past life was a preparation for the great work to which he was now called. He never could have done the work, he never would have called to it, had he not been faithful, active, ready to learn, and always doing his best. He that is faithful over a few things will be made ruler over many things. This is the only ladder upward. So it always has been and always will be."—Peloubet. Son of Nun—Nothing is known of Nun only that he was of the tribe of Ephraim. Moses' minister.—It was customary for great prophets to have thus attended by ministers or servants. Thus and Joshua been trained in the best possible school.—Steele. Moses was the servant of Jehovah and Joshua the minister of Moses. A servant is less honorable than a minister, but it is unspicably greater to be the servant of the great God than to be the minister of the greatest earthly prince.—Terry.

2. Go over.—The command to cross the Jordan involved a direction to make all necessary preparations for that event. Accordingly, instead of enjoining Israel to strike their tents, Joshua has his attention to preparing the people (vs. 11) and obtaining the requisite information (Josh. 2; 1). The immediate presence of God with them, and the miraculous aid promised them and actually afforded in the crossing of the Jordan, did not lead this great general to neglect such matters as the food and provisions (vs. 11) and obtaining the requisite information (Josh. 2; 1). The immediate presence of God with them, and the miraculous aid promised them and actually afforded in the crossing of the Jordan, did not lead this great general to neglect such matters as the food and provisions (vs. 11) and obtaining the requisite information (Josh. 2; 1).

3. Your foot shall tread.—The land was before them and faith was much upon their consciences. But the Israelites intermingled with the heathen nations, and as a result idolatry was introduced among them and much of the land was not taken for many years. 4. From the wilderness.—The wilderness of the land here mentioned is the "wilderness" or desert of Arabia Petraea, was the southern boundary. This Lebanon—a double range of mountains which formed the northern boundary, "called this Lebanon" because of the cedars which were visible from the region westward. The eastern boundary was the Euphrates, the longest, and the most important of the rivers of western Asia. It is 1,400 miles in length. Hittites.—A tribe of Canaanites living in the southern part of the promised land. They were the most powerful tribe in Canaan, and the especial terror of the ten spies. The name is given but for the whole body of the Canaanites who the disbelievers called Amorites (Gen. 15; 16). This was an important promise.—Ye shall possess the land of even the dreaded Hittites. Great Sea.—The Mediterranean Sea. Called "great" in 2: 26, because of the size of Canaan. It is 2,850 miles long, and 1,200 miles in its greatest width, and has an average depth of over half a mile. Going down.—Meaning that this is the western boundary. 5. Scourged.—This was a larger territory than the Hebrews ever possessed, except for a short time during the reigns of David and Solomon.

6. Not any man, etc.—What a promise is this! He was to have victory in every conflict. But the divine promise implies a condition. See vs. 7, 8. I will be with thee—Joshua needed no other allies, but he needed these promises. A crisis had arrived in the history of the nation, and he knew that Jehovah alone could bring them into their promised inheritance. Not fall thee.—1. God's presence gives constant victory. "Any man may conquer who fights with the Lord on his side." 2. God's presence is given irrespective of ability or social condition. God walks with those who fear Him.—The down-trodden. 3. God's presence once given will remain with us forever, unless we disobey his commandments and forsake His love.

7. Joshua exhorted to be courageous (vs. 9). He urged, etc.—Better, "the strong and firm." It denotes strength of hand and arm to lay out and retain anything within one's grasp; and firmness in the knees, and ability to maintain one's position against the attack of foes. The expression occurs with increasing emphasis four times in this chapter, and is rather a command than an exhortation.—Steele. shalt thou divide.—See R. V. The Lord shows Joshua that "he is the last link in the chain which unites prophecy and fulfillment; that all the glorious possibilities of his nation bring upon his own personal valor and fidelity." Joshua was to use all his military skill, and avail himself to the utmost of all the means, natural and providential, placed within his reach. God will not help them who refuse to help themselves.—Clarke.

7. all the law.—All the moral, ceremonial and political precepts given from Jehovah to the house of Moses. Joshua is admonished that the law must be strictly and carefully observed, if the great work to which he had been called was to be successfully accomplished. He was to carry out its provisions to the letter.—Cam. Bib. the right.—... left.—Perfect obedience is represented by a straight line, and a course of sin by a crooked way. Mayest prosper—There is no real or lasting prosperity outside of a perfect obedience to all of God's commandments. 8. book of the law.—Moses had already written the law, and they were to study it diligently, and talk about it and meditate upon it, and their lives were to be governed according to its precepts. 9. thy God is with thee.—"As the soldier's valor is stimulated by the eye of his captain, so a vivid realization of the presence of God is a safeguard against fearfulness and discouragement." "Nothing so demoralizes the forces of the soul as fear; only as we recognize the presence of the Lord, does fear give place to faith."

10. Joshua prepares to cross the Jordan (vs. 10, 11). 10 officers of the Jordan (vs. 10). Joshua sends the leaders of the army whose offices embraced various duties. It seems to have been a part of their work to set as heralds, and to prepare the tribes for action. 11. prepare you victuals.—The word denotes food obtained in hunting.—Cam. Bib. Although the manna did not cease until several days after this, yet the supernatural supply probably began to decrease as the natural supply increased. "God never works miracles as a premium to indolence." within three days.—Compare 3: 1, 2. ye shall pass over.—Joshua assures the vast host that they and their wives and children and flocks shall, within a few days, safely cross the rapid Jordan, to enter upon their inheritance.

VANCOUVER NOW QUIET.

Mayor Wires That Police Control the Situation.

Vancouver Unionists Pledged to Keep Out Orientals.

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., Toronto, Discusses Problem.

Vancouver, Sept. 16.—As a result of the attitude assumed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier an effort is being made by the local authorities to avert the demonstration against the Japanese to the hoodlums of the city and agitators from the United States. While there is no doubt that the rough element did the work of destruction, it is also the fact that every labor unionist in the city is pledged to resist the entrance of any more yellow laborers and they will be ready to force it if necessary. Communications from the labor men at Victoria are to the effect that the same course will be pursued there. At a meeting to-day final instructions were given to the delegates who will attend the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress which is being held at Winnipeg next Monday. Messages were read from almost every corner of Canada, uttering full sympathy with the white men in their struggle to preserve British Columbia as a white man's country. The suggestion was made by several that, if necessary, a huge strike all over Canada should be called in order to show that this was not only a local, but a national affair. The delegates from Vancouver will ask the Labor Congress to demand that the Canadian Government take immediate steps to have nullified that portion of the treaty which allows the colored people to enter Canada on the same footing as white men, and to substitute rigid exclusion.

Vancouver Orderly. Ottawa, Sept. 16.—The following telegram received to-day by Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the only one so far received by the Premier from Mayor Belton, of Vancouver: "At a special meeting of the City Council, a resolution was passed on the 14th inst. 'Telegram of 9th received. Please assure His Excellency that the disturbance which occasioned some damage to property, but none to person, is being kept under control by an efficient police, backed by a strong public sentiment. The disturbance was directed against the Asiatic generally, more than against Japanese. The offenders who were apprehended number 26, and are before the courts of justice.' (Signed) Alex. Bethune, Mayor."

No such telegram as the one referred to in the press despatches from Vancouver to-day, asking if the Government will pay the expenses of housing the incoming Hindus in the Drill Hall, has been received by Sir Wilfrid. Reports received by the Department of Trade and Commerce show that during August the total arrivals of Japanese reported at Victoria were 990, of whom 881 were males. Of these 102 were en route for the United States, leaving a net total for Canada of 288.

During the first seven days of September 395 Japanese arrived at Victoria, 102 of whom proceeded to the United States. The net immigration of Japanese to Canada for this year up to September 7, according to the Department of Trade and Commerce from Victoria, is about 3,200.

Hindooes Have Money. Vancouver, B. C. Sept. 16.—The eight hundred Hindooes who arrived last night on the Montague departed this morning. There is no semblance of trouble. They scattered around the town. More than half the number will have to sleep in tents. They are well supplied with money, averaging $50 each. Many will go on railway work up country. There is not one woman amongst the immigrants.

E. F. B. Johnston Talks. Toronto, Sept. 16.—Oriental labor on the Pacific slope and western Canada is the subject of an interesting interview with Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K. C., who has just returned from a speech extended visit across the continent. "Speaking of the labor troubles," he said, "I heard a great deal of talk on both sides of the Chinese and Japanese being engaged in any kind of work. That position is, of course, unreasonable, because if carried out it would mean that no work would be done at all, except at the dictation of the unions. Canadians who can do all the work they want refuse to do it. Strikes and other difficulties have occurred, and it seems almost anomalous that men who will not do the work themselves except on their own terms should object to other people doing it. There is plenty of work everywhere who is willing to undertake it. The cry against the Orientals is largely from the working element, and the neutral position taken by the Provincial politicians is due to the idea of votes. The whole Japanese and Chinese residents in Victoria put together and would not interfere for one hour with the privileges or the earning power of the white man who is willing to work on a reasonable basis.

I believe that to a very great extent, if not wholly, the present attitude of the British Columbia politicians. If the Chinese and Japanese had votes I think you would see a different state of affairs. "The labor problem does not appear to me to be either a difficult or a very serious one if dealt with on a sensible basis. The grave part of the situation is that the whole Dominion can be disturbed and the peaceful contentment of the citizens upset by 50 or 100 rioters, who, I venture to say, have little or no stake in the country, and many of whom, judging by their actions, are not a credit to it or to themselves. I am strongly in favor of giving Canadians all reasonable labor protection, but I cannot assent to the proposition that the demands of any particular class must be granted, regardless of consequences to the country at large.

ROADHOUSE MAY SPEAK.

Magistrates Threatened With Legal Action—No Union at Halleybury.

Halleybury, Sept. 16.—Advised by their lawyers, the union who resumed meetings on the square as before, Magistrate Brown has received a letter from Mr. Ardagh, who defends the union in the recent cases, stating that in accordance with the agreement arrived at he had consulted his senior partners, notably Mr. Du Verney, and as the result they have notified Mr. Roadhouse that he has the undeniable right to free speech, public or otherwise, so long as he restricted himself to questions of industrial unionism and refrained from calling on any workmen to strike and from urging violence, intimidation or any other unlawful measures.

The letter also asserted that Mr. Brown had acted entirely without jurisdiction, and in any future action he might take he would be liable for a personal action for damages. They had also communicated with the North Bay Magistrate that as he had also acted without jurisdiction he was also liable for personal damages.

Last night Organizer Roadhouse held a meeting at Halleybury with the object of forming a branch of the Federation there among men engaged in the logging trades. Mr. Hamilton, postmaster at Halleybury, accepting Mr. Roadhouse's challenge to debate, and declared that they did not want any unions in Halleybury. No union was formed.

Last night Organizer Roadhouse declared during the week $2,000 was received from the central organization at Denver, $3,500 from the locals, and that 289 more locals were to be heard from.

TWO-CENT PLUNGER.

Failed to Raise $500,000 in Time to Buy Bonds. New York, Sept. 16.—Something went wrong to-day in the arrangements of Abraham White, the "two-cent stamp" plunger in bond loans. Whether nerve or cash was the minus quality is a mystery. Anyhow, Mr. White's bid for the entire $40,000,000 worth of 4 1/2 per cent bonds was thrown out by Comptroller Metz.

The comptroller was unable to cash an $800,000 draft which White put up for a guaranty of responsibility with the Greater New York Security Company, upon which it was drawn, and at noon asked the comptroller to wait three hours and the currency would be forthcoming. When the time of grace had expired, however, the funds were not there. The "two-cent stamp" man's chance of profit was then wiped out.

Comptroller Metz was prepared to award the Abraham White Bond Company about $15,000,000 worth of bonds, but for most other bidders had the guaranty draft been cashed. His "two-cent stamp" feat is still well remembered. He invested 44 cents in stamps in 1896 and bid on $8,000,000 worth of Government bonds issued by President Cleveland and Secretary Forthcoming. Carried the same amount in stamps in 1897 and bid on $8,000,000 worth of Government bonds issued by President Cleveland and Secretary Forthcoming. Carried the same amount in stamps in 1897 and bid on $8,000,000 worth of Government bonds issued by President Cleveland and Secretary Forthcoming.

PARDON FOR ROWLEY.

Manager of Defunct Elgin Loan Co. Released After Four Years in Prison. St. Thomas, Sept. 16.—George Rowley, the defuncting manager of the defunct Elgin Loan Co., the collapse of which four years ago ruined so many people here, who was sentenced to 12 years in Kingston Penitentiary by Judge Ermainger for forgery and theft, has been pardoned and is now out west.

Rowley served exactly four years. His pardon was kept a complete secret, and was not known until Rowley's defection came to light at the time of the Atlas Loan smash. He was arrested and brought to trial on July 25, but at the request of the crown sentence was deferred three weeks, allowing Rowley to assist the liquidators in investigating the books of the wrecked company.

At the time of his sentence Rowley pleaded for leniency in order that he might endeavor to repay at least some of the money he had taken from those who trusted him.

THE GREATEST CRIME.

It is Marriage for Life, Says California Professor. New York, Sept. 16.—The Herald has received the following despatch from San Francisco: In a lecture before the San Francisco Sociological Society last evening Professor Edgar Larkin, an astronomer, said:

"Marriage for life is the greatest crime that can be committed in the world, from either a physiological, psychological or anthropological point of view, and the third party who joins a man and a woman in a marriage for life, whether by civil or religious procedure or otherwise, is the greatest criminal in the world."

Professor Larkin said his views were the result of twenty years' close study of anthropology and of human nature. "Ninety-five per cent. of the crimes in the world are due to marriage for life. If it continues the Anglo-Saxon race will be wiped out. I know what I am talking about, for aside from my study of these matters it has been proven to me that I am right. I have asked and received letters from 1,800 women in the United States—women who are talented, intellectual and college-bred—and they tell me I am right."

Cupid Tries Again

"I do. You showed me her letter." "Ha!" cried Sir Frederic, "a light breaks upon me; the note appointing a meeting here may have been meant for you, and I may be the intruder. No matter, I am master of the position; I hold the damning paper; to Fane and to society it matters little if Morton or Carrington is the hero of the adventure!" Seeing the game was up, his fury blinded him; he was incapable of mastering his impotent thirst for vengeance.

"I repeat I am master, and Mrs. Fane must make terms with me, if she wishes to be spared the consequence of her cruel faithlessness."

"Silence!" said Carrington, in a ringing tone of command, as he made a step towards him, his eyes flashing fire, while Mrs. Fane's heart stood still with terror. "Give me the letter, or take the consequences of refusal."

"By what right do you demand it?" cried Morton. "Are you, too—"

"By the best right—the right to protect and uphold her. I am her husband. I am Clifford Fane. The name of Carrington I have lately adopted, and am legally entitled to."

"I suspect you are an impostor. Do you admit this? Do you recognize him?"

"I am not sure. I do not know," she faltered; "at all events, I accept his protection against you. I beg you will leave us."

"And I undertake to prove my words," added Carrington. "You have heard Mrs. Fane's request. Do not compel me to enforce it. Leave us, and remember, your character is in my hands."

Morton hesitated, and darted a deadly glance at Mrs. Fane.

"We shall meet again," he exclaimed to Carrington.

"I fully intend it," returned the other coolly, following him as he flung himself out of the room.

Carrington closed the door carefully, and walked back to the table, by which he stood in some embarrassment. Mrs. Fane had also risen, and leant against the chimney-piece, the folds of her bronze-green cloth and velvet travelling-dress visibly moved by the beating of her heart.

"Is he quite gone?" she said, almost in a whisper, as she put back the soft curls of her rich brown hair, that she might better see with troubled frightened eyes at the man who claimed to be her husband.

"Yes, quite; he shall never cross your path again!"

"And you, how am I to believe you?" She sank into a chair, as she could hardly stand, and grasping the arm of her chair with one hand, she looked at him searchingly.

"I don't know how to speak to you," he returned, "how to apologize for the sort of trick I have played upon you. From first to last we have been the victims of unkind fate! When I got into that railway carriage I recognized you the moment you spoke. I saw you did not know me and the temptation to make you acquainted in a new character was irresistible. I had just assumed the name of Carrington, in compliance with the will of a friend who had bequeathed me all his fortune. I told my scheme to Dalrymple, who heartily assisted me, and I succeeded in utterly losing my heart to my wife. I have dreaded unspeakably to reveal myself, and it has come most unexpectedly. I implore you not to make any hasty decision. Yet do not fear my forcing myself upon you. What you think will be best for your own happiness, that I will agree to."

"Your voice has always seemed familiar to me," said Mrs. Fane and her own trembled as she spoke. "But I still can hardly credit your assertion. Give me some proof; tell me of some passage in your former unhappy life which may convince me."

Carrington smiled.

"One or two circumstances have dwelt in my memory, though you may have forgotten them. Do you remember a certain ball on Twelfth Night at our neighbor's of Ripton Court. You wore a white lace dress, and while waiting for the carriage I told you you ought to wear your sleeves shorter, and show a certain very pretty mole high up on your left arm. I was thinking of you, and looked at you very gracefully when you silenced me by saying scornfully enough that you had not yet lost your plebeian modesty, and could not rest satisfied."

"I do remember," she exclaimed, coloring vividly to the roots of her hair.

"I am," he said, coming nearer, "your very faulty, misguided husband. If you can forget and forgive, Gertrude, and let me show you how fondly and passionately I can love, we may yet have many happy years. Your marvellously generous version of your own side of our story thrilled me with shame for myself and admiration for you. I urge no immediate decision, but give me some kind thought."

Mrs. Fane did not reply. A tide of memories, of painful mortified feelings and tremulous indecision, flooded her soul. What trying moments, what bitter regret, he had inflicted. Could she trust her future to him. By some strange mental operation the dread of her husband neutralized the attraction of her new admirer. Yet there was something touching in the sort of humility of the haughty-looking man who laid his rights at her feet.

"I liked Colonel Carrington, I confess," she said at length, looking down, "but I am afraid of Colonel Fane."

"They are alike in your hands," he returned, gravely. "But you must be worn out with the day's adventure; will you not rest?"

"It is quite impossible. I can stay here," she interrupted; "it would be a frightful breach of inpropriety! How can I get back? Do help me."

Carrington smiled.

"When the horses that brought me over from Torrionmurchan are rested, I think you might drive back in time to catch the ten o'clock express, and reach on early next morning to St. Outhberts. I will make the landlord let that rather neat-looking girl go with you; you will feel more comfortable with an attendant. I will not intrude on you myself, but—" he paused.

"You are very good," murmured Mrs. Fane; "you know, in deciding so momentous a question as separation or reunion, we should be prudent and deliberate."

"Perhaps so," he said slowly, and left the room to make arrangements for her journey. When he returned she was sitting by the table, her face buried in her hands.

"I am afraid you are awfully done up," he exclaimed, looking tenderly at her. "Come near the fire; you are trembling with cold."

"Not with cold," she returned.

While waiting for the carriage, Carrington told her how he had met Miss Onslow in Prince's street, and to his great surprise heard she had had no reply from Mrs. Fane; instinct suggested mischief; and he determined to save his wife the annoyance of disappointment and enjoy the delight of a few hours alone with her. He therefore took the train to Torrionmurchan, and thence drove to Findarroch.

"But how did my note get into Sir Frederic's hands?"

"Did you put it into a wrong envelope? Did you post it yourself?"

"No, I left two notes with Mrs. Bayley to post."

"Then I would not mind betting heavily that she did the mischief."

"Oh! impossible."

"We shall never know positively."

"The carriage is at the door," said the landlord.

"In a moment; take care the lamps are lit." Then, as the man left them, "My love! my life!" he exclaimed, "for whatever you decide, I love you with all my soul. I must let you go. Will you send me a line to-morrow, to let me know if all is well?"

"I will," she said, turning from his eyes, which made her heart throb wildly. She went to the window, and looked at the night. "It is very dark. I suppose the road is safe."

"Is, or would not let you go, Gertrude!"—catching her hands—"look at me! May I come with you—may I stay with you till death do us part?"

Yielding to his embrace with tenderest grace, she whispered, "Yes, till death," and in their long kiss the past was all forgiven, and its bitterness blotted out.

THE TROLLEYS.

ELECTRIC INTERURBAN LINES CHANGING SOCIAL LIFE.

knit City and Country—People Live Closer Together, and Old Types and Phases of Rural Existence Disappear.

(By Raymond, in Chicago Tribune.)

An entirely new element has entered into the social, commercial, and even the political life of the country. I have just finished a journey of 400 miles, completed within two days, over the interurban trolley system of Illinois, and am prepared to testify to the extraordinary effect in the development of the country produced by the electric railroads from town to town. They are running luxurious buffet chair cars, limited trains rush from city to city, express cars, and, last of all, the trolley line sleeper, as I can testify, is an absolute success.

There is something more in this building up than a mere extension of street car service to the country. Country and city are being knitted together and the social and economic transportation business seems destined to pass from the steam railroad to the trolley line within a short time. It may be many a year before the through lines of railroad are operated by electricity, but it will be but a short time until all the short lines business of the country is done on cars deriving their own motive power from a central power station, often many miles away.

No Longer an Experiment.

So new has been the development of the interurban system that there are no satisfactory figures to be furnished as to its extent. Like the early days of settlement in America and particularly in the west, the interurban trolley system in every state where it has been given a fair trial far outsteps its historians. It has progressed beyond the experimental stage, but the mileage is increasing so rapidly and new extensions are being developed so constantly even the financiers who are called upon for the money to build the lines can scarcely keep track of their investments.

One huge system in Illinois already has in operation about 475 miles of tracks, with 105 miles under construction, and schemes for an extension of 100 miles more. New England is gridironed with interurban trolley lines and Ohio and Indiana have developed their systems to such an extent that after a few links in the chain are completed during next year it will be possible to go from Wheeling, W. Va., by through trolley line to Chicago and St. Louis.

Bridging the Mississippi.

There is more than usual significance in the fact that it has been found advantageous to build a great bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis for the use of the Illinois interurban system. The passenger service is fully established in a dozen different states and the carriage of express matter and light freight is progressing with equal rapidity in every direction. The farmer learns to go to the city often, the city merchant sends his packages by the trolley line to the country, and perishable fruits, vegetables, milk, and dairy products are to-day being transported with greater success on the trolley line than by any suburban service the steam railroads can offer.

Even coal and whiskey and similar heavy products are being handled on the electric lines, and though the day may be far distant when these roads will be anything more than feeders to the steam lines on ordinary bulk freight, they are likely to have the monopoly of wayside transportation and come much nearer to the consumers than the railroads can ever hope to do.

Ideal Interurban Service.

Before going into the details of the development of the interurban transportation service of the country, which shares with the telephone and the rural free delivery the honor of having revolutionized life in the agricultural districts, it is just as well to lay down certain general principles which seem to precede or follow the establishment of electric car service between centres of population.

In the first place, the ideal interurban service runs between large cities and taps a number of smaller cities along the way, besides reaching the purely agricultural district in between. A type of this ideal system would be a line running from Chicago to St. Louis and tapping, for instance, Joliet, Peoria, Quincy, Decatur, Springfield, and some other towns en route, with trunk line feeders in either direction, so as to cut up the state pretty thoroughly. A similar line from Cleveland to Cincinnati is practically under operation at the present time. Within short time a link will be completed just east of Danville which will furnish direct trolley connections between Indianapolis and St. Louis.

Ohio is Gridironed.

One of the indispensable features of a successful interurban service on a large system is an abundance of small towns along the line. This ideal is furnished more completely, perhaps, by Ohio than by any other of the western commonwealths. A reference to the census figures will show an extraordinary number of small cities throughout the State of Ohio. In all directions an interurban trolley system can run but a few miles without striking a prosperous town of considerable size. Between there is almost everywhere a rural town which is almost equally necessary to the real development of interurban service so far as its good effect upon the whole community is concerned.

Massachusetts is the home of the interurban service. The old Bay State is dotted with prosperous manufacturing towns. The interurban system grew out of a natural extension of the street car lines for the connection of the manufacturing centres. A steam railroad could not afford to give frequent service with such short stops as that to-day may traverse the route from Boston to the Berkshires and from the Connecticut line to the shadow of the mountains, reaching every important population centre in the State, without touching the railroad where the cars are propelled by steam.

In Pennsylvania the mining section, the oil country and the rich agricultural valleys are alike tapped by at least 1,500 miles of interurban roads. The lake shores in Ohio from Cleveland to Toledo are excellently served by the trolley, while from Indianapolis.

Small Towns Not Hurt.

That the interurban trolley system rapidly develops the small cities along its line without doing the slightest harm to the villages and small towns is a fact seriously disputed by no one who has seen it. The shopkeeper in a small town at first saw ruin staring him in the face. He had the same foreboding when the rural free delivery was first being put into operation.

The developing power of the interurban railroad is only now becoming equally manifest. The village merchant at first was startled at the possible competition of the great city stores. Then he found he could solve the problem by the use of the means of transportation which has brought the city competition home to him. All he had to do was to increase his stock, add to its variety, discard unsaleable types, and study modern styles. Dealing in goods by wholesale, the freight charges alone would insure him a good profit, while the individual customer would go to the city only so long as the city furnished better styles or smaller prices either in clothing or in kitchen utensils. The small cities of the State have been built up by the interurban railroad and the merchant and bankers of cities like Danville, Champaign and Decatur are the first to acknowledge this fact.

Boon to the Farmers.

At the same time there has been an extraordinary impetus given to the social life of the farmer class of the country. A boy can remain at home, do his work on the farm during the day, and yet take his girl to the theatre, or to a lecture, or a dance, that night, and get home in time to do the chores in the morning at dawn. The farmers are coming offener to the city. They find they can get city types of clothes as cheaply as they formerly could the antiquated garments which once distinguished the agriculturist.

The gawky country boy and girl is disappearing so rapidly that there will soon be little material in that line left for the comic weeklies, because the type is being wiped out by the interurban railroad.

It is too early to determine exact results, but it is fair to presume that the loneliness of the farmer's wife is at an end, and if that be so the unfortunate percentage of suicides in the agricultural districts will surely decrease when a farmer can take his wife and children and in a few minutes be dropped at the nearest cross roads, or even at the village, or interior city which was visited only once in a season when the roads were good, and when the general farm team was not otherwise occupied.

ORNAMENTS OF BRITONS.

Ancient Amulets Found in Kentish Land Pitts.

Interesting relics of archeological value have recently been unearthed in different parts of Britain, says the Scientific American. During the excavation of some sandpits at Crayford in Kent, a number of metal articles were found about four feet below the surface. Upon examination they were ascertained to be fashioned in solid gold, of massive and heavy design, and of various shapes. They were oval in shape, or were left for the insertion of the ankle or arm. Judging from the size of the ornaments and the orifices, they were apparently articles of feminine adornment.

The intrinsic value of the metal is approximately $1,500, but from antique and historical points of view their value is almost priceless. The relics are in a perfect state of preservation, and are inscribed with hieroglyphics which have not yet been deciphered. The period to which the metal is computed to be far before the Christian era. It is believed that the spot at which they were discovered constituted a burial place of the ancient Britons, who were interred with their implements of war and personal embellishments. This contention is substantiated by the fact that at the same place on several previous occasions various other articles of an early date, consisting of flint and stone weapons, human bones and so forth, have been brought to light.

The previous discoveries now repose in the British Museum, to which the present articles will doubtless be presented, since they are the property of the Crown. At Manchester interesting relics pointing to the extent and period of the Roman occupation of the city have been brought to light. In the course of excavations on the site of the Roman fort within the civic boundaries a number of coins, none of which were struck before the reign of Hadrian, and a portion of the re-erected buildings were in some way destroyed by fire, probably by the marauding brigands about the time of Marcus Aurelius.

$33.33 FROM FIFTY HENS.

For years I had from twenty-five to fifty hens about the farm and fed them whatever feed I had, plenty of it to be sure, but somehow I never got eggs until April or May. I had a lot of hens and chickens, Barred Plymouth Rocks, and so I determined to make a trial with them, keep books and find out what I made from them and how to improve in methods. I picked out fifty pullets and young hens, matched up a half shelled meat two pens out of it, put in some south windows at small expense and started my experiment. I had fifteen bushels of mangels I had raised, some sunflower seeds and about three heads of cabbage. The night before the hens gathered up all the old bones I could find, as well as those on my own place. Now I was ready for the poultry business. I began keeping account with the flock November 1, 1905.

My foodstuff was as follows: Oats, buckwheat and sunflower seed mixed and kept in a box in front of the fowls at all times. A mash of cornmeal and bran every morning and whole corn at night. Burned bone finely broken up was kept in the straw litter on the floor of the poultry house. Finely chopped seeds were given every morning, just enough so that they would eat it all. A cabbage was hung up by a string in each pen and meat given three times a week, and here is the secret of egg production which I learned to save the carcasses of their young calves for which they had no use after the pelt had been removed. With the ones I had of my own and those my neighbors gave me I had meat at all times. Those hens laid well from the middle of November until spring. I kept account of the eggs gathered each day.

My total expense for one year—November 1, 1905, to November 1, 1906—was $33.34. My income: Eggs, 635 dozen at an average price of 18 cents a dozen, $113.60. I raised 159 chickens, seventy pullets and eighty-nine cockerels. The cockerels and twenty of the pullets sold for $45.00, making a total income of $158.20. I also sold twenty-five old hens for $7.75, making $165.95, less $33.04, leaving for profit $132.31 and 25 more hens than I had to begin with.

I have always tried to produce my own feed as far as possible, thus doing away with buying grain and feed. In my opinion this of itself has made many a farmer and kept him down and in debt.—Garden Magazine.

"Well," answered Farmer Cornstossel, "I dunno as he's much on French or German; but he kin understand every word of the baseball news."—Washington Star.

The Australian Parliament, created by the suffrages of practically every adult in the community who cares to vote, represents Australia to a degree that is hardly known in any other legislature on earth. ## WEAK, SICKLY PEOPLE

Will Find New Strength Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

A great many young men and women are suddenly seized with weakness. Their appetite falls; they tire on the least exertion, and become pale and thin. They do not feel any specific pain—just weakness. But that weakness is dangerous. It is a sign that the blood is thin and watery; that it needs building up, strength because they actually make new, rich blood—they will help you. Concerning them Mr. Alfred Lepage, of St. Jerome, Que., says: "For several years I have been employed in a grocery, and up to the age of seventeen I had always enjoyed the best of health. But suddenly my strength began to leave me; I grew pale, thin and extremely weak. Our family doctor ordered a complete rest and advised me to remain out of doors as much as possible, so I went to spend several weeks with an uncle who lived in the Laurentides. I was in the hope that the bracing mountain air would help me, but it didn't, and I returned home in a deplorable state. I was subject to dizziness, indigestion and general weakness. One day I read of a case very similar to my own cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to give them a trial. After taking four boxes of the pills I felt greatly improved, so continued their use for some time longer, and they fully cured me. I am now able to go about my work as well as ever I did, and have nothing but the greatest praise for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The blood—good blood—is the secret of health. If the blood is not pure the body becomes diseased or the nerves shattered. Keep the blood pure and disease cannot exist. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood—that is why they cure anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, headache, backache, kidney trouble and the secret ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by all medicine dealers or by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MAKING GREAT TRANSFORMATION.

WHAT IS BEING DONE AT EXPERIMENTAL FRUIT FARM.

Rittenhouse is a Native of Lincoln, Although Welland Has Claimed the Benefactor.

A trifle over two miles distant from the little station at Jordan, and having a frontage of 40 rods, on old Ontario's shore, covering an area of ninety acres, mostly clay loam, in the heart of the fruit district, there is being brought to ship-shape Ontario's new fruit experimental farm. The land on which the San Jose scale, the codling moth, the grape beetle and a dozen and one other pests that infest the ordinary orchards and vineyards, will never be found, is an almost level piece of ground. Standing on the fine, new piece of roadway along its lake end, one can see the whole extent of the farm from end to end. On the east side is the township line between Lincoln and Clinton, which is being rapidly put into shape for macadamizing.

In connection with this model fruit farm, and situated on a portion of its grounds, is the finest equipped rural school in the township. Last week the garden of flowers, and velvet lawns surrounding it, were a marvel of wonderment to many city visitors. Money has been no object in the beautifying of this school or in the excellent Victoria auditorium facing it across the roadway. In connection with the hall is a mammoth picnic grove. Granolithic walks and finely gravelled roadways, as spick and span as to be seen anywhere connect and encircle the buildings. New gateways of massive white freestone, arched with iron grilles work, and surrounded in the center and each pedestal with heavy wrought iron gas lamps are pleasing to the eye. A perfect system of water-works is in operation, the pumping station being situated about a quarter of a mile north, at the lake end. Here also is a little grove of trees covering perhaps half an acre, growing in a semi-wild state for many years, and buffeted by wind and waves. But the magic wand of the benefactor has even started a transformation here, and the scoops and road machines will have made a dainty resting place of this spot by next summer.

Mr. Rittenhouse chose wisely and well when he selected the ground for the new farm amidst such beautiful surroundings of lake and forest. With a station at the Grand Trunk tracks, and the new walks down, the people will be able to reach the grounds in twelve or fifteen minutes. In comparison to the Guelph farm, the new one is, of course, very much smaller in the extent of its grounds. In locality, for excursions and picnics on warm days, it will far eclipse the Royal City's boasted sight spot.

Mr. Fiore, a graduate of the Ontario College, is in charge at present of the preliminary operations, and has his hands full. None of the buildings projected have been started yet, the work on hand being an elaborate system of underground drains, in which a large gang of men and teams are employed. They are housed and fed in tents on the farm. This week will see a system of roads cut through the property, which will much facilitate the proper carrying on of the work.

None of the fruit men down this way expect to see very much experimental progress made before the spring of 1909. It will be that long, anyway, and perhaps another year later, some of them think.

The Provincial Department is bearing the cost of the work on the farm, such as buildings, roads, etc. Mr. Rittenhouse gave the Province the property, is beautifying the surroundings, and improving the roads and approaches.

The people down that way want it understood that the property is in Lincoln county, not Welland, as is printed in the papers every little while, and that Mr. Rittenhouse was born in Clinton township.

RESULTS OF EXPERIMENTS WITH AUTUMN SOWN CROPS.

The area used for sowing wheat and other autumn crops was somewhat greater throughout Ontario in the fall of 1906 than in that of 1905. At the Agricultural College this year winter wheat and winter rye have produced large yields of grain, which is above the average in quality, but the winter barley and the hairy vetches have given results somewhat lower than those of 1906.

Generally speaking, white wheats, as compared with red wheats, yield more grain per acre, produce a stronger straw, weigh a little less per measured bushel, are slightly softer in the grain, produce a more popular pastry flour, and furnish a somewhat weaker flour for bread production.

Of the white wheats, Dawson's Golden Chaff and other very similar varieties, such as Abundance, American Banner, Beardless Rural New Yorker No. 6, American Wonder, Superlative, Forty-fold, Prize Taker and Extra Early Windsor, and of the red wheats, Imperial Amber, Paramount and Crimean Red, have produced the highest yields of grain per acre in the College experiments. In the following characteristics the varieties mentioned below are very prominent: Stiffness of straw, Dawson's Golden Chaff; hardness of grain, Buda Post, Ontario Red, Crimean Red, Banatka, Tasmania Red and Geneva; weight of grain, Northwestern, Auburn and Geneva; and milling quality of grain, Tasmania Red, Rudy, Oniagara, Crimean Red, Yasulak, Turkey Red, Early Genesee Giant, Banatka, Northwestern, Geneva and Imperial Amber.

We are endeavoring to improve some of the best varieties of winter wheat by means of systematic selection and by cross-fertilization. Each of eight different selected strains of Dawson's Golden Chaff wheat gave a yield of over 70 bushels of grain per acre in 1907. Some of the most promising hybrids, which are constant in type this year, are those produced by crossing the Dawson's Golden Chaff with the Bulgarian and with the Turkey Red. The object in crossing is to originate new kinds, which will combine the good qualities and eliminate the undesirable features of the parent varieties.

The results of many tests conducted at the College indicate the importance of sowing with grain drill, large, plump, sound, well matured seed, and at the rate of about a bushel and a half per acre on well prepared clover sod, and earlier if possible than the 10th of September. Smutted wheat should be immersed for twenty minutes in a solution of one pint of formalin and forty-two gallons of water.

The recent tests at the college of other classes of autumn sown crops show the following varieties to be the heaviest average yielders of grain per acre: Mammoth white winter rye, 62 bushels; Tennessee winter barley, 53.4 bushels; hairy vetches, 5.7 bushels and black winter emmer.

In the co-operative experiments, conducted throughout Ontario in 1907 under the direction of the experimental union, the average yields of grain per acre were as follows: Winter wheat, imperial amber, 22.2 bushels; abundance, 21.7 bushels; and Michigan amber, 20.3 bushels; and of winter rye, Mammoth, 26.4 common, 21.4 bushels.

As long as the supply lasts, mate, I will be distributed free of charge in the order in which the applications are received from Ontario farmers wishing to experiment and to report the results of any one of the following tests: 1, hairy vetches and winter rye, as fodder crops; 2, three varieties of winter wheat; 3, five fertilizers with winter wheat; 4, winter wheat and 5, two varieties of winter rye. The size of each plot is to be one rod wide by two rods long. Material for numbers 3 and 4 will be sent by express and that for the others by mail.

Whales Bound for Alaska.

Capt. G. Hansen, of the steamer Rosalie, states in this morning that he sighted a shoal of big whales in the Gulf of Georgia between Bellingham and White Horn on the last trip to Blaine. He says that whales and blackfish or porpoise are more numerous than ever this year.

"There were three or four dozen of the biggest whales I ever saw," said Capt. Hansen, "and I should judge they would range from forty to sixty feet in length. I saw an exceptionally big whale in the water near Carlisle cannery a few days ago. He was close to the shore and was travelling slowly and every few minutes would sound the water, and when he went down head first his tail would stick up in the air about ten or twelve feet high."

"This is the season of the year when the whales and porpoise families seem to know that the salmon are travelling, and are following them up. They are headed toward Alaska, recognized as the best feeding ground for whales in the world."—Bellingham correspondence of Seattle Times.

A Cure for Hay Fever.

George B. Harrison of Garden City, who has just begun to harvest his crop of hay fever—says that he has discovered a sure cure for it. His remedy is simple, but he says it is none the less effectual. It consists in not taking breakfast until 11 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Harrison has not taken out a patent or copyright on the remedy, and any one who wishes to use it is at liberty to do so.—From the Topeka Daily Capital.

HOME LIFE OF DOUKHOBORS

"One of the most interesting bodies of people on this continent are the Doukhobors," says a writer in the October issue of the New Ideas Woman's Magazine. She continues thus: "Interesting not alone because of their peculiar religious beliefs, but because they are a people who have succeeded for six years in conducting a large social community with comparatively little friction, and with material gain to themselves. They came to Canada from Russia penniless, but today own land, stock, and the latest and most approved agricultural implements, while all business is conducted on a community basis." The many photographs which accompany the article attest to the primitive simplicity of the Doukhobor life. Their success is based on their mastery of many practical trades as well as their ability to withstand the greatest hardships. The intense religious ardor of these people has affected their mode of life in many curious ways, which will be of great interest to all readers.

Feed Value of Straw

This year, when coarse fodder is certain to be scarce, the following statement from the American Agriculturist will be found of value: "The importance of cutting grain promptly or at an early stage of maturity is not sufficiently felt by many of those who feed more or less of the straw. The value of straw for feeding is greatly enhanced when it is cut in good season. This is not so much on account of the adverse influence which maturity has on the nutrients in the straw as on the palatability of the same."

A.H.S. Vs. Plum Hollow

On Monday last there was a large attendance at the first football game of the season played by the recently organized A.H.S. team. Plum Hollow team were their opponents and they proved to be a very lively bunch. Individually they played a great game but were weak in combination, so the Athens boys were able to hold them well in check throughout the whole game. Not a single goal was scored by either side and Athens' defence proved so effective that the goal tender was called upon to block only one ball. It was a very interesting match and demonstrated that with practice the home team will be able to travel in fast company before the season ends.

NO MORE ANAESTHETICS FOR SURGICAL OPERATIONS.

Professor Discovers Method of Causing Electric Sleep--Painless Electrocutation.

Paris, Sept. 16.—Stephane Leduc, the eminent professor of the school of medicine at Nantes, has discovered a method of causing electric sleep, which, it is declared, will replace chloroform and other anaesthetics in all surgical operations.

The arguments for the electric sleep are said to be numerous. Anaesthetics, chloroform, morphine or ether is disagreeable, always dangerous and has often proved fatal, while the awakening is painful.

The sensations after the operation are quite agreeable. The mind appears to work more clearly and more rapidly and there is a sense of increased physical vigor.

The last circumstance led Professor Leduc to use his brain electrocution for cases of nervous exhaustion and even ordinary fatigue and moral depression, with wonderful results.

THE RIGHT OF SUPERANNUATES.

HOW TO DO THIS PUZZLES THE CHURCH UNION COMMITTEE.

Hope to Find Way Out—Methodist and Presbyterian Administrations Differ—Committee Dealing With That Portion of Basis of Union Has Been Enlarged and Subdivided.

Toronto Despatch.—The hardest proposition before the Joint Committee on Church Union at present appears to be that with which one of the sub-committees wrestled yesterday afternoon—viz. the administration of benevolent funds, such as those for the support of aged and infirm ministers and of ministers' widows and orphans.

The different methods adopted were gone into by one of the sub-committees of the Committee on Administration, but the solution is still in the future.

Because the sub-committee on administration has had the task on hand, its work has been sub-divided among four smaller committees chosen from among its own members.

The added Congressional members of the sub-committee on administration, who met yesterday morning, are Rev. Prof. W. T. Gunn, Rev. F. J. Day and Mr. Henry O'Hara.

The sub-committee of the Committee on Administration, which has to deal with missions, talked over the arrangement of the missionary work and the different funds in the various churches that would come under certain departments in the proposed new Church.

The sub-committee on book and publishing interests received information as to the workings in the different churches, and decided that there are no practical obstacles in that respect.

The sub-committee on polity, of which Justice MacLaren is Chairman and Prof. W. C. Murray is Secretary, went over its report yesterday afternoon. It is nearly completed, and no serious difficulties have emerged.

The Presbyterians met last night, under the Chairmanship of Principal Patrick, and with a large attendance of the section. They went carefully over the entire doctrinal statement and agreed after full and free discussion to make representation on two minor points in the general meeting of the Joint Committee this morning.

EASY TO MIX THIS

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, as formulated by a noted authority, who claims that he has found a positive remedy to cure almost any case of backache or kidney or bladder derangement, in the following simple prescription, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well known druggist here at home when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it should not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action on the kidney structure, cleans ing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering.
 Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventic" means sure relief for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head of these early colds. That's surely better.
 That's why they are called Preventics.
 Preventics are Little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your sickness. And don't forget your child. If he has a feverishness, mightier day. Heroin probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 25c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48
