G. W. V. A. ATTENDED CHURCH

And Listened To Able and Earnest Address by Rev. Dr. DeWolfe.

The service at the Baptist church on Sunday evening was under the auspices of the local G. W. V. A. and a considerable portion of the centre of the auditorium was reserved for the accommodation of the returned men. There was a good attendance including something over sixty veterans of the war who gathered at headquarters and marched to the church occupying the seats provided for them. The music for the occasion was particularly fine and the vocal solo by Miss Evelyn Duncanson most enjoyable. Rev. H. T. DeWolfe, D. D., was the speaker and he delivered a characteristically eloquent and able address.

Taking for his text Luke 2:14 the speaker referred first to the utter waste and futility of war. War wastes in that it destroys actually and potentially the finest manhood, destroys those who might have been the poets, sages, leaders of the new age, cripples in mind and spirit many of those whom it spares in the body. War is futile in that it does not and cannot in the very nature of the case bring to pass a lasting peace. In many respects it is a resurgence of the brute in man, the application of force to the solution of problems which are in their nature spiritual. It is a throwback in the evolutionary process. As a consequence we have as the result of four years' war and four years of peace, so called a new militarism, a new implemented barbarism introduced to a sovereign position in Europe, black war clouds in the near east, bickerings and misunderstandings between nations, all of which may create a bolt of destruction as fateful as that shattered Europe in 1914. None of the ideals of the war for which we fought have been measurably realized.

Peace which is the great desire of all the nations cannot be secured except by presenting to mankind a moral substitute for war. If this can be presented and all the powers of man for idealism and devotion, self-sacrifice, love of justice, fair play, can be focussed upon this moral ideal, a permanent peace becomes possible. Other things do not avail. All the things which seemed to make for peace, such as the internationalization of labor, art, culture and the various means whereby man was learning to live with his fellow in the world of peace, disappeared in the great conflagration. They may be necessary but not causal and fundamental in peace.

This moral ideal is presented in the purpose and programme of Jesus Christ; is stated in his great manifesto, is illustrated in his life and presents itself to us in many concrete embodiments, such as child welfare, the destruction of all forms of evil which spring from selfishness, and the preservation of all forms of good which root in love, the establishment of right relations of love between man and man and class and class and nation and nation, the dispersal of the mists of ignorance, the spread of the knowledge of God in all nations, beginning with the unifying of the individual nature, and the maintenance of love in the individual nature.

These ideals being embraced and becoming universal will bring in the universal era of peace when the lamb shall lie down with the lion and the little child shall guide and control the destinies of antagonistic forces which have hitherto seem absolutely irreconcilable. If this thing comes not to pass then our dead have died in vain. May it never be possible to say as an English poet has recently said, Happy the English dead who died in vain, And cannot know how vainly they have died. They were, as kings do ever mine for their clothing, Longsuffering, pain, obedience fortitude, Honor and inextinguishable loathing. Were part of all their daily drink and food. These have endured and died for England proudly. Let none tell the bitter truth too loudly. May God grant that this may never be said of our sacred and honored dead. Therefore, let us seek peace and ensue it.

A UNIQUE RECITAL

Probably a number of people who attended the recital given on Wednesday evening by Miss Helen Davis and Mr. Victor Young at The Opera House, were at first puzzled and disappointed when they discovered a phonograph cabinet occupying the center of the stage.

Mr. Young appeared and in a short and interesting address told of the birth of the phonograph by Mr. Thomas A. Edison some forty years ago. A short history of the development of the phonograph followed, Mr. Young pointing out the fact that Mr. Edison's ambition was to perfect an instrument which would re-create music so perfectly that the recreation would be indistinguishable from the original performance. Subsequent developments in the program proved this to be a reality in the New Edison Official Laboratory model.

Miss Davis was introduced and took her position beside the New Edison. Both Artist and Phonograph started the selection, but suddenly Miss Davis paused and the New Edison carried on the melody so perfectly that it was impossible to distinguish one from the other without watching the Artist closely. It was indeed marvelous as there was not the slightest difference between the re-created art and the original performance.

In the course of the evening similar tests were made by Mr. Young with the same miraculous results. There must have been a slight difference in volume when the artists stopped singing or playing but it was not noticeable for the tone which came from the cabinet was round and luscious with all of the vibrant, pulsating quality of that which came directly from Miss Davis' throat and the piano of Mr. Young. It was only by watching the singer's lips or the piano keys that one could be sure when they sang or played or played and when they did not.

This proof was convincing. If it were not, another proof was offered. After Miss Davis had commenced to sing one number, the lights were turned out—ostensibly so that the audience could not watch the singer's lips.

It did not seem difficult to determine in the dark when the singer sang and when she did not. The writer was pretty sure about it himself until the lights were turned on again and it was discovered that Miss Davis was not on the stage at all and that the New Edison alone had been heard.

The continuation of the article on "The Children's Aid Society and its Task" in type and intended for this issue is unavoidably crowded out on account of the unusual demand upon our space. It will appear as soon as room can be found for it, probably next week. The series is well worthy of careful perusal and the first article has awakened considerable interest in a most important work that is going on in the county.

And cannot know how vainly they have died.

They were, as kings do ever mine for their clothing, Longsuffering, pain, obedience fortitude, Honor and inextinguishable loathing. Were part of all their daily drink and food.

These have endured and died for England proudly. Let none tell the bitter truth too loudly. May God grant that this may never be said of our sacred and honored dead. Therefore, let us seek peace and ensue it.

BRITAIN'S NEW PREMIER

The British elections appear to have given the Conservatives a majority all groups which will place Mr. Bonar Law at the head of the Government of that Country. The above is a very good portrait of Mr. Law, photographed on the day on which he assumed the duties of directing the affairs of the British people. A native of the province of New Brunswick, his present position is a high honor to Canada.

GASPEREAU NOTES

Mrs. Eliza Davidson, aged 84 years, relict of the late Jehiel Davidson a former highly esteemed resident of this place, passed away on Sunday, November 5th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Eagles, after an illness of a few weeks. Before her marriage she was Miss Eliza Davidson, daughter of the late Cyrus Davidson, one of the early settlers of this place. A lady of fine intellect she was a most interesting companion and had many friends. Until a few weeks before her death she retained her mental and physical powers to an unusual degree and her reminiscences of early life were most interesting. She leaves behind one sister, Mrs. Harriet Davidson; two sons, Reuben and Homer, in California; two daughters, Mrs. Rebecca Fielden, also in California; and Mrs. W. S. Eagles, with whom she has made her home for several years. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. Dr. Bennett, pastor of the church, conducted the service, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eagles, and gave a comforting and most appropriate address. A quartette composed of Mrs. N. O. Benjamin, Miss Leta Gertrude and Messrs. A. D. Coldwell and J. L. Gertrude sang two favorite hymns "When My Soul Reaches Home" and "Saved by Grace" with most pleasing effect and the whole service was most fitting.

Dr. Grace Currie, of Cambridge, Ma., spent the week end with her cousin, Mrs. Mary Gertrude.

The Gaspereau "Sons of Temperance" having been closed for the summer months, was re-opened on Friday evening of last week. Members are requested to come and help in making a good Division. On Friday evening of this week refreshments will be served by the ladies.

Mrs. Charles Brown, of Wolfville, is visiting Mr. R. J. Gertrude.

Mr. and Mrs. Burpee Lyman are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

CLINIC ITEMS

Tuberculosis Clinic at the Clinic Rooms, Weaver Block, Kentville, on Thursday (instead of the usual Friday) Nov. 23rd, commencing at 2 p. m. Specialist from N. S. Sanatorium will be in attendance.

There is one thing we should always bear in mind in dealing with tuberculosis. It is not a plague to be shunned in the same sense as our forefathers shunned leprosy for instance. No other disease plays the game, so to speak, as tuberculosis. It is the one disease that gives us ample warning and time to overcome it, if only we use common sense. And that means that experience has demonstrated to be effective in dealing with it. The one thing to be avoided is panic or any tendency to panic, for cleanliness, good food and fresh air will arrest the disease and effect a cure if only given in time. Excerpt from a paper by Dr. H. Chisholm, of the Provincial Department of the Public Health.

DOG A TRAINED ACTOR

Does Wonderful Feats in William S. Hart's Picture, "White Oak"

There is a remarkable dog in William S. Hart's new Paramount picture, "White Oak", which comes to the Opera House next Friday and Saturday. In the story the canine carries a message from an emigrant train surrounded by Indians, through the circle of death to a pioneer settlement where Oak Miller, a gambler, impersonated by Mr. Hart is in jail accused of murder. The dog follows the scent to the jail window and then helps Oak escape by digging a hole on the outside while the prisoner digs inside. Then the dog follows Oak who is mounted on a fast pony and both return to the beleaguered wagon train where they arrived in the nick of time to save the emigrants from death. The dog is a fine example of the intelligent canines employed in motion pictures.

ARMISTICE DAY

Fittingly Celebrated by Citizens of Wolfville

The open-air service held at the post-office grounds last Saturday morning in commemoration of Armistice Day was most interesting and fitting. There was a large attendance of citizens and college students with a full turn-out of school children under the direction of Principal Silver. The program as outlined in our last issue was successfully carried out.

Mayor Sutherland presided and called upon Rev. R. F. Dixon who offered a short and appropriate prayer, after which Kipling's "Recessional" was impressively rendered by the massed church choirs of the town under the direction of Mr. W. A. Jones, head of the vocal department of Acadia Seminary.

The address by Mr. Norman Rogers, of Acadia University, was thoroughly in keeping with the occasion. Himself a returned man with an honorable war record the speaker's message well deserved the close attention which it received. In part Mr. Rogers said:

We have met together for a short while this morning in memory of a great event and for the purpose of renewing within ourselves something of the spirit which made that great event possible. Four years have passed since the signing of the armistice proclaimed to the world the victory of the allied forces over Germany and the Central Powers. There are few of us here who cannot remember the wave of relief and thanksgiving that swept over the country when the news of peace was first received. But even then as today our thanksgiving was mingled with sadness for our freedom had been purchased at a tremendous cost of human life and effort.

Since 1918 four years of peace have followed four years of war and as time passes, we become farther removed from the events of the long struggle for victory, and less able to recall the impressions it left upon our minds and the spirit it awakened within us. Military uniforms are no longer seen on the streets; military bands no longer call us from our shops and houses to watch regiments marching by, and there are no daily casualty lists to bring to our minds the sacrifice and suffering of war. We have returned to business as usual and have left the war to the historians and the military experts.

It was inevitable that we should return to business, but it will be a tragedy if we return to business as usual. Often during the war itself, and these four years of peace that have followed, we have asked ourselves the question, What was it all for? What change is it going to make in our lives as individuals and nations?

What was it all for? There is only one way to answer this question. What would fifty thousand Canadians in France have thought it worth dying for? Would they feel satisfied if in 1922 we were beginning to regard the war as but a mere interlude in our daily struggle for existence? Would they have thought it worth while to have given their lives for mere territorial expansion and indemnities from the defeated nations? You cannot put a material value like that on human sacrifice. Time and again we have heard them say and have read in their letters, that all that made the suffering and hardship endurable was the thought that they were on a crusade for a better world and that the future generations would be saved from a like calamity. Business as usual after 1918 is not a motto of progress. If we con-

BOARD OF TRADE

Interesting Meeting Addressed by Mayor King, of Annapolis Royal.

The Board of Trade held an interesting meeting in Parish Hall on Thursday evening when Mayor King, of Annapolis Royal, gave an instructive and inspiring address on the leading features of the Agricultural Exhibition held in Annapolis a few weeks ago. Mr. King was introduced by the president Mr. Eaton Graham, and received a cordial greeting. He spoke of the new spirit that had come into the business men of his town, which found expression in Commercial Club and culminated in a most successful exhibition. Wolfville is looking forward to conducting the exhibition of the three Counties, Hants, Kings and Annapolis, next autumn and the suggestions given by Mayor King were greatly appreciated by those interested in the forth-coming event.

A hearty vote of thanks was, on the motion of Mr. L. E. Shaw and Mr. B. O. Davidson, tendered Mayor King for his instructive and useful address.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Eagles, Gaspereau wish to express their thanks to the friends who so kindly helped in caring for the latter's mother, Mrs. Eliza Davidson, during her recent illness.

Thanks are also extended to the Women's Institute and relatives for fruit and flowers. Seldom have we been favored with such lovely music as was furnished by the Valley choir especially the two quartets.

CANNING NOTES

A wedding of interest, was solemnized in Church St., Rev. Gordon Brown, rector of St. John's church, officiating, when Vera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milledge DeWitt, Medford, became the bride of Donald Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. F. Smith, Canning. The bride wore a tailored gown, with hat to correspond; both bride and groom being unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in Canning.

duct private and national business today in the spirit of 1913 we have missed the significance of sacrifice. There is a further lesson the armistice should teach us. That is a new conception of patriotism. We have interpreted it too often in terms of marching regiments, and have held it in leash in times of peace. But a high conception of our duty to our country and our fellow citizens, is just as essential to peace as it is to war, and without it we can hardly hope to consolidate the moral position we gained on Armistice Day.

On the stroke of eleven by the clock two minutes of silence in honor of those who fell in the great War was observed, followed by "The Last Post" sounded by James Northover and John Johnson.

A recitation entitled "The Lads Who Are Paying Still" was effectively rendered by Doane Hatfield after which the exercises closed with the singing of "O Canada" by the children accompanied by the school orchestra and the National Anthem. Beautiful wreaths were placed at the foot of the Memorial Tablet by the G. W. V. A., the Give Service Girls and the I. O. D. E.

Special credit is due Mr. E. Percy Brown, who is largely responsible for the very creditable manner in which the affair was arranged and conducted.

WOLFVILLE BOY SCOUT ASSOCIATION

ITS HISTORY

The Boy Scout Association of Canada was incorporated in 1911, and the Wolfville Association was formed during the same year.

Wolfville Troop of Boy Scouts is registered at Halifax as No. 1 of the Nova Scotia Troop.

The present Scoutmaster, Mr. E. P. Brown, obtained his warrant, signed by H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, in 1911.

The first Wolfville Troop consisted of only 8 boys. Now nearly every boy in town of scout age is a member.

Meetings have been held almost every week since organization, and camps every summer except one, during the war.

First camp was held without equipment of any kind at Davison Lake in 1911.

In 1912 tents were borrowed and a larger camp located at Black River. Original patrol was given a trip to Chester.

PRESENT EQUIPMENT

The Wolfville Troop owns three acres of land on the north shore of Sunken Lake, and thanks to the late Capt. J. Pratt, a commodious building 50 by 12 feet with kitchen in rear.

This building is fully equipped with tables, benches, stove and cooking utensils for 100 boys.

In this building are stored three canoes, two boats, two punts, six large bell tents and four smaller tents, all belonging to the Association.

The Association also owns the building in Wolfville which is exactly suited to the needs of the work. This building is now being used in the afternoons and evenings by groups of boys and girls from the Sunday School for their weekly meetings.

All this equipment is used by the Girl Guides and organized S. S. Classes as well as the Scouts.

FUTURE NEEDS

The friends of the Boy Scout movement in Wolfville believe that the time has now come when the citizens generally should assume responsibility for the financial support of the work which has been demonstrated of such vital importance to the community. In order to ensure its permanence under competent leadership a sum of not more than Two Thousand Dollars is required each year. The provision for this amount in the town budget would relieve the necessity for private solicitation and leave those in charge free to give the best possible effort for the promotion of the welfare of our young people.

The undertaking has the approval of the Town Council, and citizens will have an opportunity to give their assent at the public meeting on November 22nd. Will you consider the proposition carefully and in the interests of our boys and girls.

The Boy Scout Association Solicits Your Support. Be on Hand Promptly at the Meeting on Nov. 22nd, and Vote for the Two Thousand Dollars Required.

THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL- LORS

Just why party politics should enter into the selection of representatives to the County Council is, we venture to say, beyond the ken of any reasonable man. Yet we are informed that this was the chief issue in the late municipal contest in this county and throughout the province. The Halifax Morning Chronicle is responsible for the statement that in Kings county in the eight wards in which contests were held four Liberals and an equal number of Conservatives were returned. The information as to the church affiliation of the successful candidates has evidently been overlooked by this authority but why this is of less importance than their political leaning we are not able to say. In this election, as in most of the former municipal contests in this county, the attitude of the candidates toward needed reforms in any of the various departments of county government was probably left unquestioned. No man was asked or volunteered to state his views regarding a more business-like method of handling our minor criminals so that while in custody their labor might provide for their own support and the maintenance of their families.

There are numerous reforms that ought to be set in operation for the benefit of the people of the municipality which might well engage the attention of the citizens of the county, any one of which is of far greater importance than the political faith of the men who sit at the council board and transact the public business. Thousands of dollars might be saved to the people and public contentions greatly improved by a keener interest in the affairs of the county on the part of its citizens. As a rule the people get the kind of government they desire and if the inhabitants of this favored section of the province want politicians rather than public-spirited men alert to give the best possible service in the interest of the constituency which they represent they may be sure that they will have their reward.

A BETTER SYSTEM OF FIRE ALARM

THE ACADIAN begs to suggest that in future alarms of fire in Wolfville some provision be made for giving definite information to citizens as to the location. This might be done by means of a series of either long or short blasts of the whistle to indicate whether the fire is in the east, west, central or southern portion, with the details worked out by a competent committee and published so that residents might be familiar therewith. As is usual when a fire occurs in Wolfville the night operator at the telephone central was deluged with inquiries which she was unable to answer when the alarm was rung in on Tuesday morning of last week. It was impossible for "central" to give the required information because it had not been furnished her and also for the reason that one operator could not possibly attend to the numerous calls made. As a re-

RECIPES FROM AN OLD COOK BOOK

General Taylor's Pudding

To one cupful each of chopped suet, molasses and milk, add four cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of saleratus and two tablespoons of cream of tartar.

Add a little cinnamon, nutmeg, clove and salt and two cupfuls of fruit well floured. Boil four or five hours. This will keep a week or two in cool weather, and is just as good steamed as when fresh. Serve with plain hard sauce or with the sauce given below, which is one of the finest ever tasted.

English Cabinet Pudding

Butter a charlotte russe mold and place round the inside of it sliced citron, currants and stoned raisins. Fill the mold entirely with slices of sponge cake putting currants and bits of preserved cherries, if at hand; between the layers of cake. Pour a quart of uncooked custard—four eggs, half a cupful of sugar and a pint and a half of milk well flavored with vanilla—over it. Tie a floured cloth over the entire mold and steam one hour. Serve with any good sauce. This is one of the favorite recipes of an old Southern cook.

Cider Cake

Cream two cupfuls of sugar and one cupful of butter, and add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs; then one cupful of milk and one cupful of cider in which has been dissolved one teaspoonful of saleratus. Then stir in gradually five cupfuls of flour, beating well; and then the whites of the eggs, beaten to a stiff froth. For spice use half a teaspoonful of cloves, a teaspoon of cinnamon; and half a nutmeg grated. Fruit may be added to suit the taste; about a cupful each of raisins and currants and half a cupful of sliced citron rolled in a little of the flour. Give the mixture a good, strong beating before putting it into the pan; in fact, any cake in which butter is used should receive a good beating after all the ingredients are mixed to insure a fine, even grain. The above rule will fill three pans, but the cake keeps well.

Baked Batter Pudding

Batter puddings were much used in the olden times when eggs were less expensive and were used in abundance to make the puddings light and delicate. Batter puddings were both steamed and baked. The following is a good rule for the baked variety. Beat four eggs until very light and add two even cupfuls of flour and a pint of milk, putting in half the milk first and beating the batter until smooth and then adding the remainder. Add one teaspoonful of salt and a small pinch of soda. Bake in a well-buttered dish three-quarters of an hour. Serve with rich sauce.

Uxbridge Indian Pudding

Scald two quarts of milk, and stir into it a cupful of meal; let the mixture come to a boil. In a bowl mix two well-beaten eggs, half a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of flour, a little salt and half a teaspoonful each of ginger and cinnamon. Pour into the scalded milk and meal stirring briskly until smooth. Bake in a buttered dish in a moderate oven three or four hours. After it has baked one hour stir into it half a cupful of cold milk. Well baked and eaten with thick cream this is a delicious dish.

Mark Twain was once asked what he considered to be the worst combination of diseases. He replied: Rheumatism and St. Vitus' dance.

sult the service was demoralized and the operator came in for much undeserved censure. Future provision for similar conditions will be appreciated by citizens who are naturally interested to know the location of the fire and the danger that any very likely menace their own property. The solution of the problem should not be a very great difficulty and the proper authorities are invited to undertake the task.

PICKING OUT THE FRUIT

What would you think of a farmer who only gathered the fruit that fell to the ground? Lazy? Indifferent? Blind? Overlooked opportunities?

A lot of merchants are like this farmer. They gather in only the cream of their advertising results. What comes, comes. The balance is overlooked.

Get the most out of advertising—the advertising that you are doing and the advertising that the other man is doing. Make every dollar invested in advertising as applied to your business produce a full 100 per cent. return.

To illustrate: If you spend money in advertising yourself as a retailer: Do your salespeople know what articles are advertised, or do they wait until the article is asked for by a customer before finding out? Is the merchandise advertised easily available when inquired about? Do you back up your advertising with the right kind of window displays and store displays? Does everything co-operate with the advertising right down along the line or is there a lot of resistance in the way?

If it's the other man's money invested in advertising: Do you tie up with it? Do you capitalize upon the interest he is creating for you, as a dealer? Do you make window displays of his product at the right time, and are you as salespeople alert to the interest created? He is spending money as a manufacturer to bring customers to your store. Customers are created without doubt. Are you getting them or is your competitor? Pick all the fruit—squeeze the final drop out of every dollar invested in advertising! Tie-up!—The Bulletin Business Builder.

A town will go on for years producing good citizens who don't lie about their taxes or the speed of their motor cars, but it has to bring forth a five-legged calf or a triple-yoked egg before it is known beyond the county line.—Ottawa (Ks.) Herald.

THE TEMPERANCE SITUATION IN NOVA SCOTIA

By Mrs. Powers, Prov. Pres. W. C. T. U.

Dr. H. R. Grant, in his report to the Social Service Convention, said: "There has been progress all along the line and we have every reason to be optimistic. The best is certainly yet to be—within a not very long time, judging from past happenings. The success of the campaign for prohibition should convince us that prayer and perseverance through faith in God and man can accomplish anything within reason. A few years ago one of the leading papers in the Province declared that Prohibition was a dead issue. We now find all Provincial papers think it is a live issue."

The following reports of conditions in a few towns may be taken as samples of the whole—some better, some worse: While not perfect, the N. S. Temperance Act is as well enforced in Lunenburg as in any other town in Nova Scotia. Occasionally, a bootlegger or moonshiner gets caught with the goods, but such cases are not frequent. The chief complaint is that the medical men issue too many prescriptions for the number of genuine cases requiring alcoholic treatment. One or two of the doctors refuse to give scrips and the drug stores refuse in some cases to fill others.

Amherst has not yet reached the goal for which temperance people have been working, but it can be said that there have been fewer public evidences of drunkenness during the past few months than at any similar period for ten years. The Temperance Act Inspector is a conscientious public servant, and in spite of the small salary paid him has been waging constant warfare against bootlegging fraternity. Something like thirty different raids were carried out by him within a few weeks of his appointment, and the effect was to make this line of business somewhat precarious.

Members of the Police Department are at a loss to account for the lack of crime in the City (Halifax) during the past few months. The lack of drunkenness is accounted for by the strict enforcement of the Act and the present unemployment situation, but the latter has not tended to increase crime of greater magnitude as it was feared would happen. There is not a single prisoner at the County Jail awaiting the opening of the Supreme Court—which is said to constitute a record.

A wine and beer bill was introduced in the House of Assembly and an effort made to rush it through but it was killed before it got very far.

Another proof that prohibition has been a success is found in the increased school attendance and in the amount of money spent for education. The number of high school students going for examination last year increased by over one thousand, the largest increase in any one year in the history of the free schools in the Province.

Some of the rural sections issue debentures and borrow money so that the educational facilities may be the most modern available. The universities have been taxed to their capacities and have very large graduating classes.

Of course a great deal is made of the rum-running from St. Pierre and of the smuggling into seaport towns, but the Customs authorities at Halifax, as well as at Ottawa, are most active in suppressing these violations of the law and finding the violators.—White Ribbon Tidings.

A good booster for one thing never tears something else down.

Conversation
Courtesy is the foundation of all conversation. Kindness in conversation is as much virtue as candor. Arguments should be avoided as well as contradiction. If you find yourself directed toward a heated discussion of some topic, it is wiser to withdraw or direct the talk into other channels.

As Hostess
You may assist a feminine caller in removing her wraps when she calls on you, but you assume that a man can take care of his own topcoat himself. You create an atmosphere of hospitality, but you do not insist upon replenishing a cup of tea or serving another helping of food after a guest has declined with thanks.

Hotel Register
A woman travelling alone registering at a hotel uses the title "Mrs." or "Miss" before her name. To sign oneself "Sally Smith" or "Dollie Jones" is undignified and incorrect.

Broken Engagement
If you break your engagement return all the gifts you have received from your fiancé. In case any wedding presents have been received return these to the sender with a formal note stating that the engagement has been broken. Or, your mother may undertake this duty.

At Table
Home life is much more pleasant if certain ceremonies and formalities are observed.

Dressing for dinner does not necessarily imply donning evening clothes, but members of the family should appear at the table neatly attired and carefully groomed.

It is most important that small children should be taught to "tidy up" before appearing for any meal.

WHY NOT?

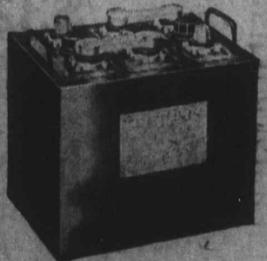

A wise old owl lived in an oak. The more he saw, the less he spoke. The less he spoke, the more he heard. Why can't we all be like that bird?

HORSE COMFORT IN COLD WEATHER

A good grooming costs no money and is equal to two quarts of oats. Stop the holes in the barn. Water the horses several times daily. A horse's stomach is small. Don't fail to use a blanket when the horses become heated. It may save a veterinary bill. Protect your animals from the cold. They will be more comfortable and you will save feed. An old horse, like an old man, feels the cold. Give your stock warm beds. Bedding is cheaper than feed. Punctuality in feeding and watering stock keeps them from worrying off flesh by waiting for feed.

Mr. Thomas Huges, mechanical superintendent at the Gaspereaux River Pulp Mill, left here on Friday last for a short visit in New Glasgow and Pictou. Mrs. Huges accompanied him to Pictou where she will visit her father during the coming winter.

PROGRESS OF PROHIBITION

Results in Nova Scotia

Attempts are being made to show that there is more drunkenness in the Province since 1916 when Halifax was brought under prohibition.

Criminal statistics give no support for this contention. Last year there were committed to our jails for drunkenness 2156 persons, while the yearly average for the previous four years was 2750, and the yearly average for the four years previous to 1916 was 3763, that is—comparing the license and prohibition periods there was an annual average decrease of 1031 under prohibition.

Again, there were committed to our jails for all offences last year 5572, while the yearly average for the previous four years was 5899 and the yearly average for the four years previous to 1916 was 6952. Comparing the license and prohibition periods there was an annual average decrease in convictions for all offences of 1053 under prohibition.

The records of the city Prison, Halifax, show that during the last six years of license there were committed to the City Prison for drunkenness 1918 persons and for the first six years of prohibition 272. During the license period for all offences there were committed 2750 persons and during the prohibition period 957.

Business men, employers of labor, social workers, clergymen of all denominations, bear testimony to the moral and economic value of prohibition.

In some municipalities the law is not well enforced, but steadily increasing temperance sentiment will compel negligent officials to do their duty, or compel their removal from office.

Notwithstanding the liquor propaganda for the sale of beer and wine the prohibition law will remain on the Statutes and be strengthened.

At next session of the House of Assembly the Government will be asked to improve the Act by Amendments, (1) to remedy abuses in the giving of prescriptions and certificates for liquor, (2) to provide that the Board of Vendor Commissioners in Halifax refuse to fill orders for excessive or unreasonable quantities.

With these and other necessary Amendments and the appointment of a sufficient number of Government Inspectors to ensure proper oversight and enforcement of the Act, conditions will be greatly improved.

THE LADS WHO ARE PAYING STILL

By R. O. Spreckley
We who unscathed in wind and limb
Came back from out the fight
Secure in mind and body, with
The blessed gift of sight,
But little reck now of the price
To war's infernal mill
That's hourly paid each living day
By those who are paying, still

We see them limping down the street
Devoid an arm or limb,
A lad who's blind, led by the hand,
Will smile, though sad and grim,
And lads whose wounds no eye can see
Will smile through grievous ill.
'Tis hard for them to e'er forget—
The lads who are paying still.

And yet they'll greet you with a smile,
I've seen it oft before,
I saw it in the old front line
In those fierce days of yore;
The boys who at the parapet,
Who by the star-shell's glow
With grim and gallant courage kept
Their gaze towards the foe.

The lads who shoulders rubbed with death
By night as well as day,
Who laughed at mud and lice and dirt
Encountered on their way,
They gave the selfsame smile before,
Brave mirror of the mind
Worn by our brave and our best,
The lads we left behind.

When we are discontented
What shame we all should feel
To think of the matchless courage
Such gallant lives reveal;
What tongues can praise the dauntless
Mind,
What words of tone or quill
Can voice the priceless valour of
The lads who are paying still?

Though war be but a memory,
A nightmare of the past,
And in the quiet paths of peace
Our happier lot is cast,
Yet must we e'er remember
The lads who foot the bill,
The gallant lads, the glorious lads,
The lads who are paying still.

OUR BOY SCOUTS
There is no community work that is more necessary, and that shows better results for the time and energy expended, than that of looking after the interests of the young folks. Our boys need some means of working off their superabundance of energy, and it pays to provide good, wholesome entertainment and pastime for their leisure hours. The Boy Scout movement is an excellent means of training our boys to become good, useful citizens, and we should encourage those who are giving their services in this good cause.

The recital given in the Baptist church on Friday evening last by the members of the faculty of Acadia Seminary was an exceedingly pleasing affair and was listened to by an appreciative audience. The artists who contributed to the program were Miss Ruth White, Violinist; Miss Natalie Gifford, Soprano; Miss Evelyn Cogswell, Reader; and Miss Lillian Wood, Pianiste. All won the admiration of those present in their first appearance in Wolfville, and the varied program presented was greatly enjoyed. Citizens will look forward with pleasure to another opportunity of hearing these talented performers.

The death of William W. Pineo, a well known resident of this county, occurred at his home at Waterville on Friday morning last. The deceased was a son of the late Henry Pineo and was sixty-four years of age. Mr. Pineo was an enterprising and successful agriculturist and his farm was one of the show places in Western Kings. His death followed an illness of considerable duration. The deceased was an ardent Liberal in politics and a Baptist in religion. He leaves a widow who was formerly a Miss Hoyt, of St John, and three daughters, all residing at home. His only son Henry paid the Supreme Sacrifice in the Great War, and this event was a great blow to his father who never fully recovered.

CANADIAN WOODS SETTING FOR FILM

While "The Trap" is primarily a story of tremendous power and remarkable acting, the scenic background alone makes the film worth seeing when it comes to the Opera House on Monday and Tuesday. Snowcovered peaks, towering to a point where they are lost in the idly drifting clouds, massive trees standing like silent sentinels over the great stretch of God's domain known as the Canadian northwest, rushing mountain streams tearing along with torrential speed, and rippling little brooks that amble along lazily—these give some idea of the scenic wonders forming the background for the terrific smashing action that culminates in the spell-binding battle between a man and a wolf.

A very distressing accident occurred on Friday afternoon last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ruffee, Main street. Through which their little three years old daughter Jannette received serious injury. The little girl was sitting on the floor before an open grate fire playing with a celluloid doll which in some way came in contact with the flame. The child retained her hold on the doll and received serious burns on the hands and arms and face. Dr. Elliott and Miss Harry were speedily summoned and all that could be done for the little one who is now progressing favorably toward recovery.

WILLIAMS & CO.

COLUMBUS OF TODAY

By Richard Lloyd Jones

Amundsen recently sailed from Seattle to become ice-docked in the hope that he might drift across the north pole.

What's the use, you wonder. Man has already been to the north pole and there wasn't anything there but a lot of cold weather. It was a lonely place. Why go again?

Columbus was jeered when he sailed against the whole world's unbelief. He set out to find new seas. To his own amazement he found new shores. Even when he returned to tell his tale wise men declared the venture interesting but what's the use; the new found land was so far away no one would ever go there.

Recently some mountain climbers, seeking to set foot on the "roof of the world" ascended the unexplored altitudes of Mt. Everest. High up in the Himalayas they found vast plateaus, rich in soil with forests and lakes and grasses such as are found in the north tier of American states. These were not little pocket spots in the mountains but a vast region.

But what's the use of it all? We say, we can't get there. Mile high precipices prevent.

The legislature of New York came within two or three votes of refusing to grant the Delaware & Hudson Company the right to build a railroad because it would scare the horses. But it was the railroad and not the horse that made possible a great nation of homogeneous people more than three thousand miles long.

They jeered at Fulton's boat. "It moves!" they cried. To their amazement, it moved up river.

When the first steel ship was launched foolish folk went down to see it sink. The crowd saw only the iron hull, they knew iron sinks. The inventor saw the air in the iron hull; he knew the air would float.

The world today is full of out-of-the-way places which tomorrow will be as much a part of the busy world as the shores Columbus found.

Aeroplanes will lift us into the new countries of the Himalayas. Rich farms will be there, towns, colleges and cities.

Radio is an amusing toy. Wonderful, we say. We wisely predict the time when it will carry music from a great operatic centre to even the most isolated and humble cabin homes. We talk wisely of its educational powers. These are near enough to be calculable. It is going to carry conversation around the whole world. It is going to print news in the parlor. Radio is going to give all nations one tongue.

Now scientists talk of sending heat waves that will modify inhospitable climates. These heat waves will make possible whole Australias where Amundsen is going and where Shackleton has been.

It is a wonderful world we live in. The laboratory is the mighty missionary. And there is many a Columbus serving a vaster future by beating pathways into the pathless regions of today.

THEIR ROW.

The couple were married and travelled to the lakes for their honeymoon. As soon as they arrived they took a boat out upon the lake.

The following morning the bride's mother got a post-card, which said:

"Arrived safely. Grand row before supper."

She read and sighed.

"My!" she muttered. "I didn't think they'd begin to quarrel so soon."

Perfection of the NEW EDISON Demonstrated in Unique Tone Test at the Opera House

It is asking much of any device of metal and wood to expect it even to approximate the tones of the human voice.

Yet before a large audience in the Opera House Wednesday evening, the remarkable NEW EDISON proved beyond a shadow of doubt that a mechanical instrument CAN RE-CREATE the very living voice of a famous singer.

Helen Davis, well-known mezzo-soprano, sang direct comparison with the RE-CREATION of her voice by the NEW EDISON. Even critical hearers could detect no difference between Miss Davis' actual singing voice and its RE-CREATION.

Could any other phonograph sustain this test? No other has ever attempted it.

All that has been claimed for the unequalled realism of NEW EDISON RE-CREATIONS is established in fact by the Wednesday night matchless performance.

Miss Davis took her place on the stage beside a graceful Chippendale cabinet. The delight of her golden voice reached out through the Opera House to scores of attentive music-lovers.

Unexpectedly—she stopped singing. The NEW EDISON at her side took up the tread of her song and, in the full, rich tones of the mezzo-soprano, continued alone.

Singer and phonograph alternated to the end. So exactly like Miss Davis' living voice was the RE-CREATED voice from the NEW EDISON, it was only by watching the movement of the singer's lips that they could be certain of the distinction.

Similar tests were made by Victor Young, the eminent composer-pianist. His instrumental selections could not be distinguished from the RE-CREATED performance—depth and quality of tone were identical—no difference could be found.

With the conclusion of the concert, it had been proved that the NEW EDISON is truly the artist in all but physical presence. Could better evidence be offered than the personal experience of a discriminating audience utterly convinced.

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph With a Soul"

Was the instrument used Wednesday night a special model? Most emphatically, No! It has been used and enjoyed for some years by Mr. R. A. Jodery of this town and is known as an Official Laboratory Model. Each Official Laboratory Model in our stock is guaranteed to sustain the same test of direct comparison with living artists. One of these remarkable instruments is waiting to be delivered to your home. Come in and hear it. And let us tell you about our Budget Plan, which brings this model into your home for no more than you would "pay down" for a talking machine.

FRUIT OR VEGETABLE?

It is an old story, that of the waiter's reply to the guest who put it up to him to decide whether a tomato was a fruit or a vegetable. "It's neither," he said, "it's an extra." The question of which of the products of the kitchen garden are fruits and which are vegetables has been going the rounds of the amateur and trade horticultural press for many years, and every once in a while it comes up anew, says the Gardeners' Chronicle of America, which goes on to point out that the question is seldom settled. Quoting Abraham Lincoln, the writer of the article in the Chronicle says: "Nothing is ever settled in this world until it is settled right."

How the question, as far as the tomato is concerned, was settled, and "settled right," by a judge in a New York City court, follows:

"A woman was arrested and brought before him for selling 'vegetables in such a way, or at such a time as to violate a city ordinance.' She was selling tomatoes, and in her defence contended that a tomato was a fruit, not a vegetable, and the judge ruled in her favor and discharged her, quoting as the basis of his decision from Joseph Y. Bergen's 'Foundation of Botany'. The passage quoted was essentially as follows: 'A fruit is the ripened ovary of a flowering plant with its contents and whatever parts are consolidated or intimately connected with it.'

"A tomato, egg-plant squash, pumpkin, cucumber, peach, orange and the like, are all fruits, because they are ripened ovaries of flowering plants, with their contents and whatever parts are consolidated or intimately connected with them. An ovary is that part of the flower which contains the seed.

"On the other hand, the edible roots of the turnips, beets, onion, carrot and the edible foliage of celery, parsley, mint, lettuce, cabbage, spinach and the like are vegetables, not fruits."

A GET RICH-QUICK STORY

A get-rich-quick story drifts in from Antigonish but it does not just end that way. A farmer from a few miles out had been in town delivering a load of cut stove wood, and on a return trip was accosted by a town acquaintance. "Angus," he said, "I saw you in a few days ago with a load of wood, what did you get for it?" "I got two dollars and a half," answered the honest son of the soil. "That's a pretty stiff price," remonstrated the prospective purchaser, "you must be getting rich at that price."

"Getting rich, is it?" hotly replied the man from outside. "I'll tell you about it. It took me nearly a whole day to cut that wood on the back lot, and another day to get it out of the farmyard and cut it into stove lengths. Then I hitched the little team, loaded the stuff and came to town. After hard work I found a buyer and carried every stick into his cellar. With the two dollars and a half I bought a pound of tea at Tom Bonner's and a little bottle of rum at the Vendors. On the way home I drunk the rum and lost the tea and got home with nothing. Like hell I'm getting rich." There was no further room for argument.—Eastern Chronicle.

HELPING THE TEETH

The beginnings of the teeth, twenty temporary and third-two permanent, are hidden away in the mouth of the newborn baby. When, later, these begin to appear through the gums, there are two things to be done to ensure their goodness. The first is to let the baby use his teeth, and the second is to keep them clean. As soon as the teeth appear or even sooner, when the gums look a little swollen, let the baby have a nice "drumstick of a chicken or a chop-bone to put in his mouth. If you are not quite sure that this bone is clean enough, just boil it first, but leave the tiny crumbs of meat sticking to it. A few grains of sugar may be sprinkled on the bone to make it more attractive. Be sure that the bone will not splinter. Give him at another time a hard crust of bread, or a hard bit of toast to work at. Of course never leave him when you give him these things, for if he happens to break off a piece of the bread he may try to swallow it and choke. Tiny crumbs he can manage well. And after this see that he has some hard food every day to use his teeth on. It is the want of use that spoils teeth. A diet of pap and pulpy foods only would spoil any teeth. But never give the baby "tastes" or "bits" of fish, meat or other bad food for babies. This is the way to kill the baby. Of course it sometimes fails to kill him, but it is always a risk.

Minaad's Liniment for Colds, Etc.

"HAD A NARROW ESCAPE"

"I never realized until a few months ago how risky it is to neglect a cold in the chest. I have always had such good health, that a cold either in the head or chest, while unpleasant, never gave me any worry. Outside an occasional cold, I had never known what it was to be laid up even for a day in all my life, until last December. One afternoon I got a chill and no matter how close I got to the stove, I couldn't seem to get warm. This chill was followed by a cold in my chest. As usual I neglected it and it kept getting worse and worse. Finally I had to go to bed and send for the doctor. His examination showed that I had pneumonia and a bad case at that. By careful nursing on the part of my husband, my children and some friends, I managed to pull through, but the doctor told me I had a narrow shave. And here's where my troubles began. While I was now out of danger, I was anything but well. I was still very weak from the effects of the pneumonia. Although I had lots of life and energy before my sickness, I was now worn out and tired all the time. I slept fairly well, more because I was exhausted, but my sleep didn't refresh me because, while I appeared to be asleep, I was conscious most of the time of what went on around me. Although all kinds of tempting dishes were prepared for me, I had no relish for food. This sickness had already undermined my health to such an extent that I was a living skeleton. I was getting discouraged as nothing I took seemed to do me any good. 'I wonder if Carnol wouldn't build you up,' a friend said one day, 'it'd do me a world of good. I was completely run down and you can see for yourself how well I look today. Why don't you try it?' Thanks to this friend's advice I am in perfect health again, as healthy and as full of life and vitality as I have ever been."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 9-622

PORT WILLIAMS AND VICINITY

A crowded house gathered in Temperance Hall to celebrate Armistice Day on Sat. Evening. The program was some what lengthy but the audience was attentive to the close. The Pres. for last year Mrs. A. The audience stood as the names of those who made the Supreme Sacrifice was read. Rev. A. J. Prosser spoke on what the "League of Nations" had been instrumental in doing among different nations in settling disputes and thereby establishing peace and then made a very practical and direct plea that each one be a member of what might be called a "League of Nations", Ideas or Conceptions, for the bringing about of improved conditions in our own County and province, as taken up by the Social Service Council. Mr. Prosser whose work covers an area of 60 miles and whose heart and hand is open to every call, was well qualified for such an address. Rev. Mr. Brown rector St. Johns (Episcopal) church then spoke on the tremendous cost in men and money that was for ages had involved, dwelling particularly on the last great world war and the significance of the day we were holding in remembrance. The Prize 1st. offered by J. W. Donaldson for essay subj. "Should Canada engage in another War" was won by Lucy A. Cogswell. The 2nd. offered by C. A. Campbell was won by Edith Hauson.

Like Grapes in September!

Rich clusters of Black Hamburg Grapes, their skins tight to bursting with goodness—they're never so sweet as when they come in to the crest of their season.

Tea too.

It holds its goodness for a season, then loses it a little at a time. Last year tea is like last year grapes.

The new crop of tea has just been gathered in the gardens of India and Ceylon. And it's the most delicious for decades.

Blue Bird is the first to offer this new season tea to you. For Blue Bird being the fastest selling tea was first to dispose of the last season crop.

So every package of Blue Bird offers you the new crop of tender young tips and baby blossoms. Want a royal cup of tea, right to your taste? Ask for
