Opening of Parliament.

The opening of the parliamentary session at Ottawa on Thursday last was a brilliant ceremony. Always an interesting function it was on this occasion unusually so, and was attended by a very large concourse of people. The floor and galleries of the Senate chamber were thronged with visitors from every part of Canada and presented a splendid picture. The outdoor spectacle was more than ordinarily impressive. Ottawa was favored with a magnificent autumn day, and a crowd gathered on Parliament Hill and along the road from Rideau Hall long before the hour set for the arrival of the Duke of Connaught. The quaintly worded announcement in the extra of the Canada Gazette issued that afternoon gave but a poor idea of the splendor of the opening ceremony. It ran: "This day, at 3 o'clock, p. m., His Royal Highness the Governor General proceeded in state to the Chamber of the Senate, in the Parliament buildings, and took his seat upon the throne. The members of the Senate being assembled, His Royal Highness was pleased to command the attendance of the House of Commons, and that House being present, His Royal Highness was pleased to open the second session of the twelfth parliament of the Dominion of Canada."

At a quarter to three a red coated guard of honor from the Governor General's Foot Guards, commanded by Capt. H. B. Verret, marched up Parliament Hill with bugles blowing and took up a position opposite the main entrance. A few minutes later the royal carriage, with its mounted escort of Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, arrived at the entrance and the band struck up the National Anthem, while away on Nepean Point the gunners of the 2nd Field Battery were firing a royal salute. While this was taking place outside the buildings, the bell was summing the members of the House of Commons to the chamber. The attendance of members was very large for an opening day. A few minutes elapsed before the customary three knocks at the outer door and the announcement by the sergeant-at-arms of the arrival of a messenger from the Senate. The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, clad in a wonderful uniform of black velvet with ruffled surtouts, breeches and silver buckled shoes, performed the traditional three bows and delivered his summons in both languages, his efforts being roundly applauded as has been the custom from ancient times. Following Speaker Sproule and the Sergeant-at-Arms and the Mace, the Commons filed into the Senate chamber and stood without the bar.

Society in every part of Canada was represented in the gathering of handsomely gowned ladies seated in the senate chamber. His Royal Highness the Duke and Duchess of Connaught sat upon the throne, the Princess Patricia standing a little to the left. Before them, arrayed in crimson and ermine, sat the judges of the supreme court on the historic woolsack and beyond them a long line of representatives of foreign governments and the higher officials of the administrative service. Rt.

Hon. R. L. Borden in his Windsor uniform stood to the right of the throne where were grouped the aides of His Royal Highness and members of the military headquarters staff.

The members of the House of Commons having arrived, His Royal Highness proceeded to read the speech from the throne as follows: Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I have during the past summer spent several months in visiting the principal cities and towns of Canada from coast to coast, and have endeavored to make myself, as far as possible, acquainted with the conditions prevailing. It has been a source of the deepest satisfaction to me to see the universal prosperity which reigns throughout the Dominion and to witness the energy and enterprise which are shown in developing the rich resources of the land. It is most gratifying to observe that the trade of the Dominion is increasing rapidly and steadily, the aggregate trade for the last fiscal year being the largest on record. During the present year the same steady increase has been noted, and it is anticipated that the total volume of our trade for the present fiscal year will greatly surpass that of any previous year in our history. The revenue of the Dominion continues to expand, and in every branch of business and industry there is a remarkable activity which gives assurance of continued progress and prosperity.

A copious and welcome stream of immigration has poured into our country during the past summer. The volume of immigration during the present year is greater than during any corresponding period of our history, and in larger measure than usual it has been drawn from the British Islands. The labors of the husbandman have been blessed with an ample return, although in some districts the weather has been unpropitious for the harvest, it is expected that the total value of our field crops will be greater than in any previous year. Papers will be laid before you which embody trade arrangements that have been consummated between the Dominion and certain of His Majesty's possessions in the West Indies. It is hoped that these arrangements will prove of great advantage not only to those possessions but to Canada as well. A bill will be introduced for the purpose of carrying this agreement into effect.

During the past summer four members of my government conferred in London with His Majesty's government on the question of naval defence. Important discussions took place and conditions have been disclosed which, in the opinion of my advisers, render it imperative that the effective naval forces of the empire should be strengthened without delay. My advisers are convinced that it is the duty of Canada at this juncture to afford reasonable and necessary aid for that purpose. A bill will be introduced accordingly. A contract for the construction of the Hudson Bay railway from Le Pas to Port Nelson has been awarded, and the work is being pushed forward with all possible speed. It is abundantly evident that the highways of Canada constitute an important part of an efficient scheme of transportation. The necessity for improving our existing facilities in this regard is manifest, and a bill will be introduced for the purpose of enabling the Dominion to cooperate with the provinces in the accomplishment of this most desirable purpose.

It is satisfactory to know that the proposals of my government to cooperate with the governments of the various provinces in promoting the agricultural industry has met with hearty approval. The appropriations which were made last session in connection therewith have proved to be of marked benefit to the country. After a careful study of the whole question, my advisers are convinced that cooperation with the provinces on well defined terms and conditions will achieve the best results along the lines of agricultural instruction. Any such policy to be effective must be continuous. Accordingly a bill will be introduced by which a substantial amount of money will be set apart from the consolidated revenue fund for the purpose of assisting the provinces for a term of years in this highly important work. My government has succeeded in securing certain reductions in cable rates, and will continue its efforts to obtain further reductions. Under existing legislation the charters of the banks will expire on the first day of July next. A bill revising and extending these charters will be submitted for your consideration and approval. Several other bills will be submitted, including measures providing for increased representation of the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba in the Senate.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons: The accounts for the last fiscal year will be laid before you. It will be satisfactory to you to learn that the revenues has been ample to cover both ordinary and capital expenditure. The estimates for the next fiscal year will be submitted at an early date. They have been prepared with due regard on the one hand for economy and on the other for the necessary development of the resources of the Dominion.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons: I invite your earnest consideration on the subjects to which I have alluded, and I invoke the blessings of Divine Providence upon your deliberations.

The reading of the speech from the throne in French concluded the ceremony in the Senate, and the members of the House of Commons went back to their own chamber. Hon. Louis Coderre, who is technically not a member of the House until the return of the writ this week, was seated near the Speaker. The rest of the ministers were in their seats with the exception of the premier and Hon. George E. Foster, who is on the ocean.

Speaker Sproule formally announced the electoral changes which took place during recess, the dismissal of the two Mounts' appeal and the election of new members. The first of the new members to be introduced was W. A. Boyce, who succeeded Mr. Justice Lennox in South Simcoe. He was escorted by Hon. Sam Hughes and W. H. Bennett, of East Simcoe. The Conservative members gave him a great reception. Hon. Martin Burrell and G. H. Barnard, of Victoria, introduced R. F. Green, the new member for Kootenay, succeeding Hon. A. S. Goodeve, now a member of the railway commission. W. F. Garland, succeeding the late Edward Kidd, in Carleton, was introduced by Hon. J. D. Reid, minister of customs. Alex. Morrison, who won the great fight in McDonald, after the appointment of W. D. Staples to the grain commission, was supported by Hon. Robert Rogers and Hon. Dr. Roche, and was given an enthusiastic reception from the Conservative members. The opposition had an opportunity for one of those demonstrations, and made the most of it. This was when Peter Cardin, re-elected in Richelieu by a reduced majority, was introduced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux. The time-honored form of introducing the bill respecting the administration of oaths of office was then gone through. The bill by which the Commons assert its right to legislate was introduced by Hon. Robert Rogers, and read a first time.

Mr. Rogers then moved, seconded by Hon. Frank Cochrane, that the speech of His Royal Highness be taken into consideration on Monday, and by a second motion the debate on the address was given the right of way over all other business except the introduction of bills, until disposed of. On Mr. Rogers' motion, the following committee was appointed to strike the select standing committees of the House: Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. J. B. Reid, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Hon. Wm. Pugsley, John Stanfield, chief Conservative whip, and F. F. Pardee, chief Liberal whip. The House then adjourned till Monday afternoon.

Advisory Fishery Board.

Action which it is believed will have an important bearing on the Fisheries in the Maritime Province has been taken by the Department of Marine and Fisheries by the passage of an order in council authorizing the establishment of an advisory fisheries board with the idea of developing the fisheries on the Atlantic. Prince Edward Island will have one member on a board of thirteen. The board will meet half-yearly in Ottawa and outline plans for the development of fisheries. It is expected that valuable information will be secured and the department will be in a position to do more for the industry as a result. Officials of the department will have seats on the board and the other thirteen members will be representatives of the fishing industry.

Hurricane and Tidal Wave.

The official estimate of the dead in the hurricane and tidal wave which visited the western part of Jamaica last week places the number at more than one hundred in the coast towns alone. Details which are gradually coming in indicate great devastation in the western section where sugar factories and buildings almost without exception, were unroofed or wrecked and the banana fields recently planted were completely wiped out. Practically all the lighters, coasting sloops and small craft in the harbors of Greep Island, Montego Bay, Lucrea and Savanna La Mar foundered and a large proportion of the crew were drowned. Many persons living in these towns lost their lives in the collapse of buildings. The tidal wave at Savanna La Mar was the highest in a century. One coasting vessel was washed half a mile up the main street. Fully ninety per cent of the houses were blown by the hurricane. The two principal hotels were unroofed as were all the churches and the railway depot.

Canada's Attitude Praised.

London, Nov. 22.—An outburst of British pride and gratitude greets what the Morning Post calls "the simple but inspiring naval announcement in the King's speech at Ottawa."

"Who," says the post, "could fail to be deeply touched by the spectacle of this young nation resolutely shouldering its responsibilities as a partner in the empire and stepping forward eagerly to take part in safeguarding from attack the heritage of the British race."

"Contributions from Canada and the other partner states must be regarded simply as reinforcements which are intended to render the task of any possible enemy still more formidable. The Daily Telegraph says: "The heart of the British people will go out in unrestrained admiration and deep gratitude to the Canadian nation for its generous promise."

"Confronted by emergency of unexpected gravity owing to the rapid expansion of foreign fleets, the Motherland finds that it will not have to face the world in arms alone."

"Spontaneous offers of help come from all quarters. The rating Princes of the federated Malay states sprang forward with a gift of a first class armoured ship. New Zealand has given a splendid battleship to the metropolitan fleet. South Africa is considering what share she will take in shaping imperial destinies. Australia is creating a small navy to relieve the British fleet of the responsibility of policing her distant coasts and seas. Egypt is about to provide a mobile defence for her own littoral."

The Federal Capital.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The early introduction of the naval bill can only be delayed by lengthening out the debate on the address.

UNEXPECTED SENATORIAL DEVELOPMENT.

The Senate, which had been expected to attack the government this session with peculiar asperity, has taken an unexpected line.

A NEW MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Parliament is to be asked to incorporate the Canadian Medical Protective Association, having for its objects, among other things, "the support and protection of the honor, character, the interests of its members, the encouragement of honorable practice, the giving of active assistance to members of the association in cases where proceedings are unjustly brought or threatened against them, the promotion of legislative measures likely to benefit the medical profession, and the doing of such other things as are incidental or conducive to the above objects.

TO HELP FARMERS.

The first proposed amendment to the Bank act, of which notice has been given, is filed by J. A. M. Aikens, M. P., of Brandon.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—The Cabinet held an all day session on Saturday, when preparations for the coming week were completed.

The Bank Act will be also introduced at the earliest opportunity. It is understood that the bill to increase the senate representation in the West is also ready and will be brought down at a very early date.

The Hon. Martin Burrell's bill to encourage agriculture is also being prepared and will be ready for discussion before the holidays.

With the most important measures of the government programme before the House at such an early date there seems no reason to believe that the session will be long drawn out, and it is hoped to have it concluded as early as May 1.

Christian View Of Social Unrest.

Archbishop Helld delivers stirring address

Vancouver, Oct. 29.—With frequent hearty applause, and many interjections of endorsement, Archbishop Helld delivered a stirring address to the Congregational Brotherhood recently on "A Christian View of Social Unrest."

Commenting at the beginning of the present great industrial epoch, the speaker stated how the existing industrial unrest was due, in the first instance, to the substitution of machinery for hand craft.

Mac, with the introduction of mechanical power, became in many instances a mere mechanical worker without interest in his work, instead of, as formerly, a manufacturing agent, he continued, this parceling out of fractions of workmen brought discontent because they were more discontent to do work in which they had no interest.

Aching Joints

In the fingers, toes, arms, and other parts of the body, are joints that are inflamed and swollen by rheumatism, that acid condition of the blood which affects the muscles also.

Sufferers dread to move, especially after sitting or lying long, and the condition is commonly worse in the weather.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Removes the cause of rheumatism—no outward application can. Take it.

dividends paid, and better work produced. The whole system of religion, duty and brotherhood was twofold. He would like to see it applied to every-day working life.

Next To Consumption

There are more deaths from pneumonia than any other lung trouble.

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than what used to be called "Inflammation of the Lungs."

Consumption may be contracted from others, but as a rule pneumonia is caused by exposure to cold and wet, and if the cold is not attended to immediately serious results are liable to follow.

There is only one way to prevent pneumonia and that is to cure the cold on its first appearance.

When Paris Grieves

Voltaire has been written about Paris; poets have sung her charms, novelists, historians and playwrights have all in turn paid homage to the beauty, gaiety and atmosphere which cast a glamour of unequalled attraction over the City of Light.

Yet Paris, fever alluring, is no always wholly gay, like a finished coquette she knows that a tenderly veiled hint of sorrow but enhances her beauty, and at the approach of winter, she dons, it only for a day, the sable robes of sorrow.

November the first is well named "Le jour des Morts" (the day of the dead), although many old-fashioned Parisians speak reverently of La Toussaint (All Saints) and cling to the beautiful tenets of the Catholic Church, which teaches that death purifies and renders holy every soul that passes from this earth.

There is something very appropriate in the choice of the first day of the year's saddest month as a day of mourning, for in November, Nature herself suggests a vague grief in leaden skies and the chill winds that fret through the cypresses in Pers la-Obaize. Pere la-Chaise, the greatest of all Parisian cemeteries, is indeed a vast city of the dead; struggling in design, long since outgrown its original boundaries and in places shabby and ill-kept, it is nevertheless full of eloquent melancholy and holds the remains of those changing millions of people, who, for the past four centuries helped to make the history of France, and who now lie so quietly beyond the brilliance of Modern Paris.

Heartlessly gay, mocking Paris gives one day in each year to her dead and for that day the grim old burial ground is decked as for a feast. Graves that lie neglected for twelve months are brightened with flowers brought by fashionables and unfashionable folk alike, and it is a French boast that on All Saints Day none of the dead are slighted.

From the close of the first Mass until twilight wraps the earth, a never-ending procession of visitors crowd the dim alleys of Pere-la-Chaise, Ladies dressed in severely simple black bring armful of purple and gold chrysanthemums to the resting places of those whom they once loved and now but faintly remember. Even the coquette leaves her fiery at home and with a strange new timidity walks soberly towards the graves of the humble folk who befriended her early days of poverty.

Families—family ties are strong in France—meet at the graves of former relations and gossip quietly as they lay their flowers on the carved stones. Tired workers, eye and the shilleens, homeless poor come here to honor the silent sleepers. Few are empty-handed, for the bunch of wilted blossoms bought for two sous from a street vendor offers as much remembrance as the grande dame's expensive bouquet.

Women and men of all classes meet in these leafless avenues with that correct, easy politeness that makes equality so pleasant in France. Now and again the soft light laughter of Gallic life ripples from a group that chatter carelessly and sometimes a pretty face grows serious with wistful souvenir at the sight of families names cut on a cross that is almost new.

So the day goes, a long litany for those who may not hear, a gracious procession for those who cannot see, but the one day of all when the heart of all Paris throbs with unvoiced tenderness for those who have hung and suffered, rioted, sinned and died in the heedless folly of the call life.

Night—and a thousand stars shine peacefully on the still mounds of Pere-la-Chaise, Night and a million
