Look. Read. Realize!

We cater to the men's trade, and no other. If you were sick you wouldn't call to see a Tailor, or a Blacksmith, about the condition of your health. Of course not; you would call to see a Doctor.

If you wanted a Suit or an Overcoat would you go to see a Doctor, or a Shoemaker? Not at all. You would go to see a First Class Tailor.

WELL, there's where we shine!!! We study the business. We know what suits a young man.

We know what suits a middle-aged man, and we know what suits the old gentleman—both in goods and in style. It does not make any difference whether you want your clothes Ready-to-Wear, or Made-to-Order. We are equally in a position to suit you. We do not let a suit or overcoat leave our establishment until it suits and fits the man who is buying. Our prices are always right when you take the quality into consideration.

Do not forget that we are sole agents for the famous W H Leishman & Co., Wholesale Custom Tailors. We have an elegant stock of Overcoats to show you at the present time.

Overcoats, Made-to-Order-from.... $30.00 to $48.00

Overcoats, Ready-to-Wear..... $15.00 to $36.00

Success Is a Habit

Our habits make us. We are creatures of habit. Whether we are a success or a failure is a question of how we do things without thinking. To Save is the only way to success.

Gloves

We have just the kind of Gloves you need, lined and unlined. Also Wool Gloves for this time of year. Suedes and Tans—both combination. Price.....$1.00 to $4.00

Priest's Ghost Appears To His Bishop

At the close of the retreat of the clergy of a diocese the priest who conducted the exercises told this story at the end of a conference on the necessity of care in keeping account of Mass intentions; though I am inclined to think that it illustrates something else that is better:

I have been given retreats to the clergy in the Southwest and South this summer, and this is the fourth that I have given already. In one of these retreats I was talking to the priests on this subject, for I consider it one of the greatest importance, and at the evening recreation after supper the Bishop told me this story.

He had some time before received a despatch from one of the missions in his diocese which told that the priest there had just died. He was very much shocked, as he had seen him only a few days before, and he appeared to be in the best of health. He left at once for the place, accompanied by his secretary, and he arrived there early in the afternoon.

The housekeeper told him that Father R. had said Mass that morning as usual, and after his thanksgiving started over to the house to take breakfast, but was detained a little while in the parlor by an old woman who had insisted on seeing him, though the housekeeper had told her that the priest must have his breakfast first. After attending to the woman he came into the dining room, and as he stood at the table saying grace he suddenly began to sway a little backward and forward, and before she could reach him he fell to the floor. She managed to get him to a sofa in the room, and then she ran out to send some one for the doctor, who only lived a square away. The doctor responded at once, and as soon as he came to the sofa and examined the priest he told her that it was too late, as the Father was dead. The Bishop after his arrival called on the doctor, who told him that he had told Father R. several times that he must be very careful, because he had a very weak heart, and warned him that any extra exertion might entail serious consequences.

The doctor added that he had not seen Father R. professionally for some time, but was not at all surprised when he was called in, though he was much shocked.

A little after 8 o'clock two priests who had been classmates of Father R. arrived and came to the house. They all sat talking until after 10, when, as the Bishop was about to retire, he asked what arrangements they were going to make about accommodation for the night. The young priest who came with the Bishop said that there was only one spare room in the house, but that both rooms had double beds in them and the Bishop said they would have to manage by "doubling up."

The two late arrivals remained up for quite a while after the Bishop had retired, and they were a little disappointed when they found that they were to occupy the bedroom of Father R. The body of the dead priest had been taken over to the church. The Bishop said that he was rather tired, and soon fell into a sound sleep from which he was awakened by a noise as if some one was walking in his room. He thought it might be his secretary coming to go to bed, but he found the young priest sleeping soundly by his side, so he asked if there was any one in the room and what was wanted. Immediately he heard the voice of one of the priests who had been in the other room, and he called out and told the Bishop that he and the other priest would spend the rest of the night sitting in chairs in the Bishop's room.

The Bishop sat up and asked what was the matter. Then the priest told him that neither of them cared to stay in Father R.'s room any longer, because only a few moments before they had both seen him standing by their bedside. The bishop roused his secretary at once, and said sarcastically that they were going to give up their beds to a couple of boys who had seen ghosts, and were afraid of their own shadows.

The two priests said nothing except to declare that they did not want to deprive the Bishop of his bed, though they were firm in their resolution not to go back to their former bed.

The Bishop, however, insisted on going into the other room and got into bed. But his talking and perhaps the walking in his bare feet from one room to the other had so thoroughly aroused him that it was some time before he could again go to sleep.

He was just passing into a sound sleep when suddenly he was aroused by a feeling that there was some one standing by his bedside. He was lying on his side, and as he turned over he saw Father R. standing by the bed. He closed his eyes for a moment and still saw Father R. standing in the same place. The Bishop said to him:

"Father, tell me in the Name of God why you are here, and what can I do for you?"

The Bishop said afterwards that he was not afraid, as he knew that he could not be mistaken as to the identity of Father R.; but he was very anxious to know why Father R. had been permitted to go to bed.

After Father R. said:

"This morning, Bishop, a woman came to me and asked me to say five Masses for the repose of her husband's soul. I promised her that I would do so, and I placed the money in my Breviary, intending to record the intention after breakfast in writing; but God willed it. He has allowed me to come to you and ask you to say these Masses. The name is Patrick Moran. Will you say the Masses?"

The Bishop promised that he would, and then he asked Father R. if there was anything he could do for him; but the Father died him without saying another word.

The Bishop aroused his secretary, who heard nothing, and with him went down to the sitting room and soon found Father R.'s Breviary. Opening it they found a $5 bill folded in it. The Bishop made a memorandum of the intention and returned to bed.

Before going up stairs, however, he satisfied the curiosity of his secretary, who had no idea of what took the Bishop down stairs for some money in an Office Book; he told him of Father R.'s apparition. The young priest admitted next morning that he never closed his eyes for the rest of the night.

It seems strange to me now that at the close of the retreat I did not ask the Father for particulars of this strange visitation. Did Father R. appear to the Bishop? How can you account for finding the money if you think it was only a dream?

Centuries ago a young man lived and grew up in the old, cultured city of Tarsus. Jew by nationality and heritage, Greek and Roman by education and training, this youth early gave promise of a metropolitan career. Fiery of temperament, but honest and unflinching in his stand for the traditions of the fathers, the teachings of the Synagogue, and the unimpairment of God's holy commandments.

A new Man had appeared among his people, and in some mysterious manner had led many of his countrymen into hitherto unexplored fields. Terrible Sufferer From Her Kidneys.

When the kidneys get out of order the back is sure to become affected, and dull pains, sharp pains, quick twinges all point to the fact that the kidneys need attention.

Plasters and liniments may relieve for a short time, but to get rid of those pains you must get right at the seat of the trouble. You can do this by using Doan's Kidney Pills and thus obtain permanent relief.

Mrs. John Stephenson, 115 Stephen St., Kingston, Ont., writes:—"I certainly must praise your Doan's Kidney Pills. I was a terrible sufferer from my kidneys. I would have severe pains in my back and awful headaches. I became very weak and just felt as if I were being dragged down. I tried one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise I felt better. I could work hard all day and my back would not pain me at all. I can't praise them too much."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Constipation Headaches.

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers. Your bowels become constipated, head aches, tongue coated, breath bad, specks float before your eyes, you are bilious, have heartburn, water brash, indigestion, etc.

Use Milburn's Laxative Pills to make the liver resume its proper functions by removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the system.

Mr. Le Roy Allen, Springfield, N. B., writes:—"I desire to express my thanks for the relief Milburn's Laxative Pills have given me. I had been suffering from constipation for three years, and also had had headaches. I tried all sorts of remedies, but got no relief, until my grandfather told me about your pills. I tried them and soon got relief, and now I would not be without them in any case."

Milburn's Laxative Pills are small and easy to take, do not grip, weaken or sicken like the drastic purgatives do.

Price 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Paul, taught of the Synagogue, looked for the coming Saviour of his nation. Like the doctors of the law, Paul had already fore-shadowed in his own mind the personality of that Messiah. He would be powerful, imposing, majestic and the terror of the Romans, Judea's most hated conquerors. Often did Paul smile, doubtless, as he thought of the impending destruction of Roman arrogance through the Redeemer of Israel.

But this Man claimed to be the Chosen One of the Ages! He who apparently traced his lineage through lines of humble artisans! Impossible, reasoned Paul; He must be an impostor and his followers are but deluded heretics, worthy of prison and death. Impetuous and impulsive, Paul obtained a royal commission and set out to destroy the plague from his people lest others be contaminated.

"Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" were the words that hurtled through the heavens from a clear sky and struck the startled, self-appointed leader as he hurried on his way to lay waste the ranks of these new upstarts.

The rest of the story has been recounted throughout the ages ever since. Matching his intellect with the leaders of the day, he went to Athens, to Ephesus, to Rome, and there disputed with Jew and Pagan on the merits of this new Christ. To his ardent nature Christ had become the center of his existence; having loved God intensely, Paul turned his whole being into an act of immolation before the Man God. For this he became all things to all men; for this would he be anathema, cursed, for his brethren in Christ; for this did he yearn to be utterly dissolved that his union with Christ might be perfected.

An Objectionable Tax

Announcement that the British Government intends to abolish the Excess Profits Tax over there, stated by Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, heralds the approaching doom of the similar tax in the United States, and we hope in Canada. As an emergent war measure, a measure to raise money when circumstances made necessary the getting of Government revenue by hook or by crook, the Excess Profits tax was excusable; but as a reconstruction or peace tax, it is probably one of the worst taxes ever devised by the wit of man, for it tends to kill business expansion, upon which all taxes depend.

Once the war ended and with it the necessity of war revenue and an approach towards a time when abnormal profits made by many in business during the war, the operation of the tax tended to become both a check to business and an encouragement to reckless expenditure.

In many cases the knowledge that profits would be subjected to this tax led to the incurring of expenditures, which were frequently unnecessary, sometimes extravagant, even though those expenditures were sometimes for plant improvement or plant extension. The combination of these two factors—taxation and high expense ratio—operated to prevent the accumulation of any large liquid reserves. And now when the period of advancing prices and good times has been followed by the inevitable period of falling prices and hard times, a much larger number of firms than might be imagined are finding themselves in an embarrassing position, some of them in serious doubts whether they will be able to survive the ordeal or not.

Mr. Meighen presented the case concisely in his address to the citizens of Montreal. Canada owes two billions of dollars and has annual interest charges to meet of 240 millions. This interest must be paid by the profit from our production and sales—on the margin of our sales over our own purchases. "If," said the Premier, "we lower our tariff, against other nations while theirs is maintained against us, we make it inevitable that instead of buying less we buy more and produce less ourselves." The fact has been repeated so often that every body must be aware now that during the last war we bought nearly four hundred million dollars worth of goods from the United States more than that country bought from us. The Americans are not going to provide facilities for an increase of our sales to them. "Is it conceivable, then," asks the Premier, "that this country could seriously think of making their sales easier here?"

The United States industries already have the advantage of our Canadian industries in their larger scale of production. That advantage they employ to the utmost, and it is one of the reasons why we are buying at the present time nearly half a billion a year more from them than we are selling to the United States. Remove the protection our industries have under the tariff and what chance will there be for them? To what sum will the adverse balance of trade of four hundred million of dollars with the United States grow?

Canadians credit themselves with having a high average of common sense. The most unlearned among them have only to exercise their common sense a very little to recognize the absolute necessity for adequate protection and to realize the certain consequences of lack of protection

Enterprise is a Real Asset to the Country, and Care should be exercised to see that under any system of taxation he is left with sufficient incentive to continue an endeavor that is not only to his own advantage but to the advantage of his country.

Particularly at a time like the present with so much unemployment, it is of the utmost importance that those who would otherwise be willing to risk their capital in productive enterprises are not deterred from doing so by the removal of the greatest of all incentives, namely the prospect of a reward proportionate to the risk incurred. There are always open to capital two kinds of investments, those that bring a small return but that are absolutely safe, and those that offer the prospect of a larger return but that are more or less speculative. The investment of capital in the latter class will increase employment, stimulate production and expedite the return to normal conditions. But if by removing the incentive capital is deflected to low interest bearing securities, many of the difficulties with which we are at present faced will only be aggravated.—Ottawa Journal.

Canada's Only Means of Paying

The principle of protection of Canadian industries might be ignored entirely in present consideration of the tariff question and there would be sufficient foundation for the existing policy. That foundation would be the present financial position of the Dominion. We have enormous obligations to meet. We can only meet them and have prosperity by producing and selling. We must produce and sell more than we buy or we will have nothing with which to pay our debts and make for prosperity. We cannot do that if we make it easier for our chief producing competitor to sell to us than it is for us to sell to him.

Mr. Meighen presented the case concisely in his address to the citizens of Montreal. Canada owes two billions of dollars and has annual interest charges to meet of 240 millions. This interest must be paid by the profit from our production and sales—on the margin of our sales over our own purchases. Justification of the Real Issue

Turning to the speech of Hon. W. S. Fielding last night on behalf of the Liberal candidate in the West Peterboro by-election, he said that the report of that speech, in which Mr. Fielding did not suggest the lowering of a single duty in respect of goods manufactured in Peterboro, was in direct contradiction to the Liberal tariff platform as announced at the Liberal convention in Ottawa eighteen months ago. He quoted from that platform showing that the Liberal party had pledged itself to a downward revision of the tariff on many goods which plants in Peterboro were manufacturing, and denounced Mr. Fielding's speech as "a proclamation of infidelity."

Those of you who have had experience in public speaking will understand my feelings as I attempt now to say something worthy of this event," said the Premier. "There are those who expect, who are always expecting, and who are disappointed by announcements of 'great lines' of policy. This country has undoubtedly heavy tasks ahead. It has the special inequalities and evils to ameliorate; it has some class antagonisms to dissipate; it has, unfortunately, racial misunderstandings to dissolve; it has to steer a sane and helpful course in the evolution of labor and capital; it has the commercial handicap incident to a young nation to overcome; it has vast resources to develop and at the same time the just interests of the whole people in these resources to preserve. Perhaps you people in Montreal will say as well that have immense railway difficulties to surmount, and you are right. Besides the purely domestic affairs there is the ever-present, and, indeed, increasing responsibility of the relationship of the country with our Empire and the rest of the world; of its growth within the Empire, and of our voice in the common concerns of the British Commonwealth compatible with that growth. All these problems are before us; all of them rightly engage the concentrated attention of our public men, and ought to engage the thoughtful study of our people. Even to approach unanimous agreement as to what we should do on any of these subjects is impossible, but in general the principles which the present Government believes sound in the working out of them are known. They have been clearly affirmed in practice as well as in public speech.

"What I have to say, therefore, will not be in the nature of new pronouncements. It will be an humble attempt to expound and emphasize the broad lines that we are following, and that I think we ought to follow in the great work of keeping things right and making things better; of sitting on and getting up as a nation; of relating mistakes and delusions; of really improving our position and the well-being of our people."

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Militia, also spoke and made the point that just as Premier Taschereau had been elected to the Premiership of Quebec, so the Prime Minister of Canada had in the same way succeeded Sir Robert Borden in the Federal Government. Both procedures were equally constitutional. Mr. Guthrie urged that Quebec should be represented in the Government and deplored the fact that representation from that Province was so meagre in the Cabinet.

Hon. P. E. Blondin, Postmaster-General, urged that all prejudices should be laid aside, and that all should unite for the sake of Canada's destiny. He made a passionate arraignment of those who had reproached him because of his loyalty to the Government of which he was a member. They did not realize the need for unity in a time of great danger, he said.

The hall at the Windsor Hotel was crowded beyond capacity, in all 760 attending the banquet including a deputation of fifty from Quebec. There was such a gathering of citizens as is seldom assembled together, including many of all political parties. Those present included Right Hon. G. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice; Hon. P. E. Blondin, Postmaster-General; Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Militia; Hon. C. B. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine and Fisheries; Sir Thomas White, ex-Minister of Finance; Sir H. Laporte, Sir Olivier Taillon, who presided with Dr. George Armstrong, and C. Pelletier, Stationer of the Quebec Bar.

Discussing the tariff policy of the Government, Premier Meighen laid down the exact lines of the Government's position, summing it up in the sentence that, "I want the goods we make in this country to be made here still—add more besides—even though they are the necessities of life," and he urged that success was impossible and that Canada could not grow "as a one-sided field-products country." He also urged

Maintenance of Industry to Avoid Unemployment

Turning to the speech of Hon. W. S. Fielding last night on behalf of the Liberal candidate in the West Peterboro by-election, he said that the report of that speech, in which Mr. Fielding did not suggest the lowering of a single duty in respect of goods manufactured in Peterboro, was in direct contradiction to the Liberal tariff platform as announced at the Liberal convention in Ottawa eighteen months ago. He quoted from that platform showing that the Liberal party had pledged itself to a downward revision of the tariff on many goods which plants in Peterboro were manufacturing, and denounced Mr. Fielding's speech as "a proclamation of infidelity."

Those of you who have had experience in public speaking will understand my feelings as I attempt now to say something worthy of this event," said the Premier. "There are those who expect, who are always expecting, and who are disappointed by announcements of 'great lines' of policy. This country has undoubtedly heavy tasks ahead. It has the special inequalities and evils to ameliorate; it has some class antagonisms to dissipate; it has, unfortunately, racial misunderstandings to dissolve; it has to steer a sane and helpful course in the evolution of labor and capital; it has the commercial handicap incident to a young nation to overcome; it has vast resources to develop and at the same time the just interests of the whole people in these resources to preserve. Perhaps you people in Montreal will say as well that have immense railway difficulties to surmount, and you are right. Besides the purely domestic affairs there is the ever-present, and, indeed, increasing responsibility of the relationship of the country with our Empire and the rest of the world; of its growth within the Empire, and of our voice in the common concerns of the British Commonwealth compatible with that growth. All these problems are before us; all of them rightly engage the concentrated attention of our public men, and ought to engage the thoughtful study of our people. Now the Prices you've been waiting for are here

The old year took away forever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and

THE MOST STIRRING JANUARY PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN.

No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.

Look. Read. Realize!

We cater to the men's trade, and no other. If you were sick you wouldn't call to see a Tailor, or a Blacksmith, about the condition of your health. Of course not; you would call to see a Doctor.

If you wanted a Suit or an Overcoat would you go to see a Doctor, or a Shoemaker? Not at all. You would go to see a First Class Tailor.

WELL, there's where we shine!!! We study the business. We know what suits a young man.

We know what suits a middle-aged man, and we know what suits the old gentleman—both in goods and in style. It does not make any difference whether you want your clothes Ready-to-Wear, or Made-to-Order. We are equally in a position to suit you. We do not let a suit or overcoat leave our establishment until it suits and fits the man who is buying. Our prices are always right when you take the quality into consideration.

Do not forget that we are sole agents for the famous W H Leishman & Co., Wholesale Custom Tailors. We have an elegant stock of Overcoats to show you at the present time.

Overcoats, Made-to-Order-from... $30.00 to $48.00
Overcoats, Ready-to-Wear... $15.00 to $36.00

Success Is a Habit

Our habits make us. We are creatures of habit. Whether we are a success or a failure is a question of how we do things without thinking. To Save is the only way to success.

FOR OUR January Carnival of Economy

The old year took away, forever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and

THE MOST STIRRING JANUARY PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN.

No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.
