The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XL.

Seymour was buried in the family vault, a large number of the country people following. In so big a crowd, one woman dressed like the rest, in black, was not likely to attract attention.

And no one noticed Martha Hooper standing at a little distance from the vault, and weeping quietly. She stood behind with the last of the mourners, and only turned away when the masses began to prepare for closing the vault; then, with the thick veil concealing her features, she moved away and was seen no more.

Large as was the crowd at Seymour's funeral, a much larger one gathered at that of Madge's.

She was buried in the church-yard, her grave being in the same place as that of her mother's. She was buried in the church-yard, her grave being in the same place as that of her mother's.

At Seymour's funeral no tears were shed, save by the lonely woman weeping in solitude for the son she had deserted; but it may safely be asserted that there were no dry eyes at Madge's.

"Seymour, second Earl of Landon," is engraved, all too falsely, on his tomb; but the memory of Madge and her heroic end and self-sacrifice is cut deeply into the hearts of all who knew her, and were witnesses of the deed by which she proved that a woman's love can be stronger even than the fear of death.

CHAPTER XLII.

One afternoon, rather more than two years later, Irene returned from her ride, for she rode every day now. The day had been clear and bright, and the sharp, keen air had painted a delicate rose upon her lily cheek, and imparted a sparkle to her eyes which two years ago they had not known.

She dropped lightly from the saddle, took the horse's nose in both hands, and gave him his customary kiss, and then entered the house.

A huge fire was burning in the great fire-place, and on the leopard skins in front of it stood the afternoon tea-table. In a low arm-chair sat the countess. The dark hair was white now, and the once proud and haughty face greatly changed. She was dressed in black—not satin or silk, but plain merino. Her only ornament was a small locket of black onyx, and it contained a lock of Madge's hair. Strange irony of circumstances! the egypt girl's hair resting as a sacred relic on the bosom of the Countess of Landon.

Irene went quickly across the hall, and bending over her chair gently kissed the sad, deeply lined face.

"Have I been too long, dear?" she said—she called her "madame" no longer. "It was a delightful afternoon, and the horse and I both enjoyed the ride so much that I nearly forgot the time, and that you might be waiting."

"No, no, dear; you are not late," said the countess, not in the cold tones in which she used to speak, but with an almost deprecating gentleness. "I am glad you enjoyed it. Did you meet any one?"

"Yes," replied Irene, taking off her gloves and seating herself at the table. "Lord Balfarras and the postman."

She took some letters from her habit-pocket and laid them beside the countess's cup. The countess took them up with a sudden eagerness, looked at the handwriting then laid them down again with a sigh.

"No letter," she said in a low voice. Irene's face was bent over the teacup as she responded.

"No, dear. But—but you did not expect one just now. You know he said that he might not be able to write, that he was going into the wilds, where there would be no means of getting a letter sent."

"Yes," said the countess; "but that was months ago."

"Three months and four days," murmured Irene, as if to herself.

The countess looked at her.

"There has been no time for a letter," she said. "During all the time he has been away—nearly two years—he has never failed to write, until now."

"Yes," said Irene, softly; "and that from Rome, who used to hate letter-writing."

The countess was silent a moment.

"He hates it just as much now," she said, very gently; "but he writes that I may know he has forgiven me, and still loves me."

(to be continued.)

The Mouth of the Treacherous Pit — OR — Revenge That Satisfieth Not.

CHAPTER I.

In the pretty quaint drawing-room of White Cliffe, Squire Clifden sat alone—an old man whose hair was gray and whose face was furrowed with age whose figure was bent and whose hands trembled with weakness—and old man who had not been please to grow old, whose thoughts, cares, and interests had been bound up in this world, and who knew no other. He sat in an easy chair, his head thrown back, his eyes closed, his hands folded, his face hopeless in its expression.

The Clifdens had once been the leading family in the county, and Clifden Hall the most hospitable mansion in it; but long before the present Squire was born Clifden Park was sold, its name changed, and all that remained of the once vast estate was a low, rambling, picturesque place called White Cliffe. It is an awkward matter to be born with the tastes of a grand duke, a love of luxury, and a desire for position.

He had gathered together every available shilling—he had even mortgaged White Cliffe, so sure was he of success—he had invested the money in mining shares, which he had been assured would bring him in at least thirty per cent, and sell at any time for three times their value. He was certain to make a large fortune—so the agents of the new company told him. And the Squire, never very keen where money was concerned, never very sound of judgment in making investments—was only too delighted. He staked every farthing he had in the world, and for one year he enjoyed a wonderful increase in income. But that morning he had received a letter which told him of his utter ruin. The company was a complete swindle; the manager had absconded—with all that remained of the capital, and there was nothing but ruin for all the deluded share-holders.

Blue-jay

When one possesses very limited means, this was what had happened to Squire William Clifden. His father's one prayer, one sincere desire, had been that he should win the old lands back again. He had died with such words on his lips, and they had set his son's heart on fire. But it was much easier for him to spend than to save. He went abroad, hoping always that some wonderful chance would enable him to retrieve his fallen fortunes, though it never came. At that time he was a handsome, gallant young man, with no more idea of the value of money than a child.

He passed some years—quickly vanishing in Spain, and then returned to England, none the richer for his wanderings in search of wealth. Soon afterward he married a fair, plebeian girl who had a large fortune, and with whom he lived happily enough. Catharine Summers loved her handsome, erratic young husband, and was quite content. She never wondered whether he had other loves or other interests; she was placidly, quietly happy.

One day a terrible accident happened to the Squire. He was struck by the falling branch of a tree, and carried home senseless. Even now he suffered from the effects of the injury which had nearly proved fatal at the time he received it. During his delirium his one cry was "Dolores, Dolores!" in a voice so full of acute pain and misery that it brought tears to the eyes of those who heard him. "Dolores, Dolores!" was reiterated by the sick man all through the dark hours of the night and the early hours of morn, while the simple, unsuspecting English wife knelt by his side and wondered who Dolores was.

As he grew better, the Squire ceased to repeat the name; and his wife believed the cry to have risen from his fevered brain. When his little daughter was born, he said that she must be called "Dolores," and his fair wife smiled as she said, "That was the name you repeated so often when you were ill." So the beautiful, golden-haired child was called "Dolores," a name as ill-suited to her bright, blonde loveliness as anything could well be.

Whatever the romance or tragedy of the Squire's life had been, it was never discovered. If a wild, deep, unhappy love, it died with him, and was never told; nor did he ever betray himself in any way respecting it, except when his voice took a more musical tone in the utterance of the name "Dolores."

The gentle wife died and was buried. Then the Squire devoted himself to the task of making a fortune for Dolores. But Fate was not kind to him. He liked to speculate, but so speculation ever turned out well for him; he lost more than he made; and now, when he was old, when energy, spirit, and hope were all gone, the news had come to him that he was utterly ruined.

He had gathered together every available shilling—he had even mortgaged White Cliffe, so sure was he of success—he had invested the money in mining shares, which he had been assured would bring him in at least thirty per cent, and sell at any time for three times their value. He was certain to make a large fortune—so the agents of the new company told him. He staked every farthing he had in the world, and for one year he enjoyed a wonderful increase in income. But that morning he had received a letter which told him of his utter ruin. The company was a complete swindle; the manager had absconded—with all that remained of the capital, and there was nothing but ruin for all the deluded share-holders.

He had gathered together every available shilling—he had even mortgaged White Cliffe, so sure was he of success—he had invested the money in mining shares, which he had been assured would bring him in at least thirty per cent, and sell at any time for three times their value. He was certain to make a large fortune—so the agents of the new company told him. And the Squire, never very keen where money was concerned, never very sound of judgment in making investments—was only too delighted. He staked every farthing he had in the world, and for one year he enjoyed a wonderful increase in income. But that morning he had received a letter which told him of his utter ruin. The company was a complete swindle; the manager had absconded—with all that remained of the capital, and there was nothing but ruin for all the deluded share-holders.

Just Folks.
By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SPIRIT.

I heard them talk within the darkened place
Of one whose life had closed, and this they said:
"With all who came he gladly shared his bread,
Now countless men shall miss his smiling face.
In him of late there seemed to be no trace,
He loved, was loved, kept faith and looked ahead;
And how we know, who look upon him dead,
Here was a soul the world could not debase."
How curiously the living praise the dead!

That which all men admire and all women mourn,
Is of the spirit, not the body born—
The gentle heart, and not the clever head.
In life, high conquest counts; in death,
We see
That waits the least of us has power to be.

A Dog's Right

NEW YORK, May 30.—(By Canadian Press)—A jury in Long Island City Court rendered a decision recently which in effect recognized that dogs have as much right on the streets as pedestrians.

The jury reached its decision in the suit brought by Harold Smith for $5,000 damages against John Rosen, 77, Reache's 160-pound dog, Fido, bumped into Smith and knocked him into the ditch. At the trial Smith testified that he had been laid up for weeks from injuries he had received. Rosen contended that he was romping with the dog and that Smith stepped into the way. He contended that well-behaved dogs are entitled to as much right of the way and consideration on sidewalks and streets as two-footed pedestrians.

The jury agreed with Rosen and ordered the suit dismissed.

What Are "Cates"?

The word "cates," meaning dainty food, is probably never used except in poetry, and seldom there, yet we call the person who caters for our food a caterer, and in that form the word is of everyday occurrence.

It has come into some prominence lately in connection with the fifth centenary celebrations of the famous Dick Whittington, whose fame rests more solidly on his possession of a fat than upon any municipal honors, which came to him.

There have been all manner of learned discussions as to Whittington's cat, one of which pointed to the probability that this City merchant had a ship called the Cat. But the late Professor Rowley, of Bristol, was perfectly sure that "cat" was an abbreviation of the old English word "cate," meaning provisions, which survives even in our geography, in the Cate River at Plymouth.

Mystery of the Herring

Around the shores of the North Sea, the talk during the summer months is mainly of herrings. On the success of the fishing depends the prosperity of thousands of people during the winter.

Strange beliefs have been held about the herring at one time or another. Year after year shoals of herring appeared on the coast, and after yielding a toll to the many nets which enclosed them in great masses they vanished completely. All sorts of theories were put forward to show that the fish spent the winter months, not in the warm Southern waters, but in the vicinity of the North Pole.

This theory was proved to be wrong, so a new explanation was put forward. The fish were said to make an annual excursion round Britain, being found later in the year at the more southern stations. This idea has now been discredited.

A curious thing is that a region of the sea may teem with herrings one year and be totally deserted the next.

Herriot Refuses to Form a Ministry Under President Millerand

Railway Shopmen Strike Ties up British Railways—Death Ray Proved Ineffective—Justice Feetham, of S. Africa, is Chairman of Irish Boundary Commission.

HERRIOT REFUSES TO FORM MINISTRY.

PARIS, June 5. Edouard Herriot, Radical leader, has declined to undertake the formation of a Ministry to succeed the Poincaré Cabinet. It was announced this evening. President Millerand offered the Premiership to M. Herriot, which he did after taking the advice of the President of the two Houses of Parliament. M. Herriot raised the question of the President's continuation in office. President Millerand reiterated his determination to remain for the full constitutional term and M. Herriot then declined the task of forming a ministry.

HERRIOT APPEALS FOR BRITISH AND U. S. SYMPATHY.

PARIS, June 5. Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radicals, and potential Premier of France, in a luncheon address before the Anglo-American Press Association of Paris yesterday, made a strong plea for British and U.S. collaboration and sympathy to aid him in the task of directing the new Government. At the same time he asked the Press of both countries to cooperate with him by assuring their readers he was not exactly an anarchist or a Communist. "Radical Socialism does not mean what you think, but only is equivalent of democracy."

SOUTH AFRICAN CHAIRMAN.

LONDON, June 5. Prime Minister MacDonald announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that Justice Feetham, of South Africa, would be Chairman of Irish Boundary Commission.

RAILWAY SHOPMEN STRIKE.

LONDON, June 5. An unofficial strike broke out today among the shopmen at the London electrical railway workshops and on the Great Western Railway. The men demanded ten per cent increase in their weekly wages, with a minimum of three shillings, the inclusion of 16 shillings a week war bonus in their present wages, and one week's holiday on full pay. The suddenness of the strike, which became effective at midnight, caused considerable inconvenience to thousands of workers using the stations in the north of London. The inconvenience spread later in the day to the underground system where only a skeleton service was maintained. This morning forty tube stations were closed, because many of the employees at the big Chelsea power station ceased work in sympathy with the strikers. The National Union of Railway men has not officially recognized the strike and has appealed to its members to remain at work, but there is fear that the movement will spread as a crisis has developed in connection with the demands made by the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen which is holding the final session of its annual conference today. The members of this Society threaten strike action unless the Railway Companies abolished certain classifications.

JAP AVIATORS KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

TOKIO, June 5. Five naval aviators were killed by the explosion of the fuel tank on a hydroplane of the 75 type this morning. The entire personnel aboard the craft died almost immediately.

FURTHER RADIO EXPERIMENTS TO BE MADE.

LONDON, June 5. Further tests in radio telephony between Australia and England are to be made next Sunday. Monday and Tuesday, on wave length of 100 metres and using about thirty kilowatts, according to the Daily Mail's Sydney correspondent.

POG MADE TRIP IMPOSSIBLE.

TOKIO, June 5. Captain Georges D'Oisy, French aviator, who reached Taikoo, Korea, yesterday on his flight from Paris to Tokyo, made a second attempt to fly to Japan, but was compelled to return to Taikoo owing to dense fog. It is reported he will make another attempt Saturday.

CLERGYMAN MURDERED.

LOWELL, Mass., June 5. Rev. Michael C. Gilbride, Pastor of St. Mark's Church, in Collinsville, District of Dracut, four miles from here, was shot to death at the home of John King, Sr., in that town today. Capt. David Petrie, of the Lowell police, was seriously wounded while pursuing John King, Jr., who was arrested and charged with murder.

DEATH RAY INEFFECTIVE.

LONDON, June 5. The "deadly power of the death ray" failed to materialize in recent government tests, the House of Commons was told last evening by William Leach, Under Secretary of the Air Ministry. During the tests, he said, one of the Ministry's experts placed himself in the path of the ray only ten yards from the point of emanation. If the inventor's claim had been borne out he ought to have disappeared, but the Under Secretary was pleased to report he was doing nicely and showed no signs of suffering.

YACHT RINNERS WOUNDED.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 5. Three men, including the Captain of the rum laden yacht Verelst, of New York, were wounded, one severely, when the Coast Guard cutter Somers fired on the vessel which attempted to escape capture eight miles southeast of Block Island last night. The Captain and thirteen members of the crew who refused to give their names, were held for trial. The Verelst sailed out of Newport early yesterday, taking a cargo of 1,300 cases of champagne, whiskey, and alcohol valued at $100,000. At rum row, off Montauk Point, according to members of the crew, a blank shot failed to halt the craft and four solid shots failed to hit the mark. The next two shots one of which exploded over the pilot house and the other hit the house, injuring the captain and two of the crew, halted the ship.

Majestic Artists Win Great Applause

Misses McShane and Habel continue without interruption to increase their popularity as entertainers. Last night, despite the interest manifested in the election counts, another large audience greeted the Majestic artists. Their programme was all that could be desired, each item calling for another, so much so that the talented ladies were forced to respond repeatedly to the requests for additional numbers. The violinist was never heard to better advantage, her rendition of the "Rosary" winning the admiration of all. The feature "Just Outside the Door" was likewise appreciated. Edith Halor, the star, recently won a universal popularity contest in which several of the greatest actresses had entered. In accepting the principal part in "Just Outside the Door" she instantly won place and fame in the film world seldom attributed to few in the profession. The Majestic comedy was very much enjoyed and the whole show pleased the patrons immensely. It will be repeated to-night, also tomorrow afternoon and night.

Carpenters' Local Union, 1320, U.B.

The eighth annual session of Local Union 1320, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America was held in the L.S.P.U. Hall, Duckworth Street, Tuesday evening. Reports presented show the Union to be in a good position financially. A large number have joined the past year and many transferred to the United States. By correspondence submitted from some of them it is very encouraging to note they are making one dollar and thirty-five per hour. Bro. H. Taylor, P.P., was appointed chairman to conduct the election of officers. In a short address he thanked the members for the honour conferred upon him. The election was as follows:—President—E. Horwood, re-elected. Vice-Pres.—J. Monch, re-elected. Rec. Secy.—E. Day, re-elected. Fin. Secy.—A. Johnston, re-elected. Treasurer—J. Clark, re-elected. Conductor—T. McCarthy, elected. Warden—M. Delaney, elected. Trustees—H. Taylor, J. Myler, J. Jacobs.

Investigating Committee—J. Bonnel, J. Keough, T. Green.

After a vote of thanks was tendered the chairman the meeting adjourned.

The Prince's Opinion of Canada

LONDON, Eng., May 19.—(By Canadian Press)—In an article entitled "Pull Together and Pull Through," the Prince of Wales, in "The World To-day" deals with his visit to various parts of the British Empire. Of Canada he says:

"The union of England and Scotland has been in existence for two centuries; the union of the British and French in Canada has been in existence for little more than half a century—but who can doubt that the union in Canada will produce as great, as powerful, as united a nation as the British Nation itself? No one can read Canadian history—much less can anyone travel in Canada, as I have done—without realizing that the spirit and genius of both races are closely interwoven throughout the great Dominion, not only in the West, but in the East, where both races share the honors of the early explorers and pioneers.

"But what is the secret of the success of British policy in this respect? I can see that the secret in Canada is just the same as in Great Britain. It lies in freedom and mutual respect—freedom of language, freedom of religion, freedom of speech.

"I have been right across the continent to Vancouver Island and back again, which enables me to look better upon Canada as a whole, and I think I can best express myself in military terms. The western provinces are like the outposts of the nation, held by the most gallant and enterprising outpost troops, who are continually pushing forward into the No Man's Land of the Great North West. Ontario and the East is still the main body of the nation and the main line of resistance.

"I was much impressed by all I saw in the West, and was attracted by the young and free spirit which I found there, and realized what a great future and development lies before it. Travelling back to the East in Southern and Western Ontario I was much impressed by the orderly and settled look of the whole country, which has a strong resemblance to the English countryside, and is such a great contrast to the West. Knowing that Ontario was practically virgin land only a century ago, I am full of admiration for what three or four vigorous generations can accomplish.

West Indian Islands

DEPicted AS VERY LOYAL TO ENGLAND.
PLYMOUTH, Eng., May 29.—(A.P.)—Sir Eustace Finnesse, governor of the Leeward Islands, on a recent visit to England, told reporters that he was certain the British West Indian possessions would never be ceded to America for war debt. The sentiment of the people was strongly against such a change of flag, and they were very loyal to Great Britain.

"Sir Eustace said also that despite the commercial loss occasioned by the war and four successive years of drought, the future outlook of the islands was excellent.

Women Quit Riding Astride

LONDON, May 3 (A.P.)—Women equestrians are gradually reverting to the side-saddle when on horse-back as they find riding astride develops muscles not good for dancing. A well known riding master says the side-saddle gives women more grace and security, and girls from 19 to 14 years of age only are being encouraged to ride astride.

Turks Grant General Amnesty

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 23 (A.P.)—The National Assembly has passed a bill granting amnesty to all military and political prisoners arrested during the war or armistice period. The bill exempts 300 prisoners stipulated in the Lusanne Treaty, whom the Ankara government determined should not benefit by the terms of any amnesty.

Germany Buying Dried Fruit

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—(A.P.)—A sudden heavy demand for dried fruit has come to central California from Germany. Since Jan. 1 German imports of dried prunes, peaches and apricots have been increasingly heavy. Before the war Germany was one of California's heaviest buyers of fruit, but in recent years her purchases dropped virtually to zero.

Govt. Reports Refuted

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Last spring a message appeared in the Advocate that Messrs. Stone and colleagues were ordered on when visiting this settlement. This was emphatically denied. Last week there appeared an item in the same sheet that the Monroe candidates held a meeting in the Orange Lodge attended by a few women and children, and that 70% of voters were for the Government. A slight deviation from the truth of what happens in all papers especially is this time of the Advocate, in making reports of movements of their opponents. In this instance the Monroe nominees did not visit George's Brook and they did not hold a meeting in the Orange Hall because they weren't there to begin with and there was no Orange Hall to hold their meeting in. If they had. Another item was—the only supporters they had—were Monroes dealers. Well, I've been living here nearly half a century, and never knew that Monroe had any dealers at George's Brook. They visited the brickyard a mile from George's Brook. There is one voter resident there who has a special mailman of his own and as a consequence he may be 70% for the Government, I don't know, but doubt even that a little farther South there is a mail carrier, who is reported to be getting $10.00 for what was done a few years ago for $150.00. He may be 100% per cent. for the Squander Mania Government, I could not say. I think you could count on 98% for the Opposition.

Yours sincerely,
FRUHH,

Preventable in Most Cases

TORONTO, Ont., May 19.—(Canadian Press)—"One-half of the blindness in Canada and in the world generally, is due to preventable causes," said Miss Hayhurst, Prevention-of-Blindness and Social Worker of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, recently, in speaking of the facts and figures in a report she is preparing for delivery before a number of Canadian Medical societies and social workers in the immediate future. "Blindness is almost always the result of abnormal, wrong conditions—poor nutrition, disease, dirt, filth, accident, shock, crime; therefore it is, in the main, preventable as other plagues such as small-pox, typhoid, general diseases or tuberculosis. It would be and often has been prevented. Think of the ravages of smallpox in older days, and of the negligible number of cases of this disease today. I hope the people of the next or following generation will be able to make the same comparison when speaking of preventable blindness. The old fatalism, which regarded blindness as the Divine Will, and which made no effort to discover causes, has now been replaced by the fact that blindness can be prevented. Let us then consider the facts regarding blindness and act upon them."

In support of the plan which the Canadian National Institute for the Blind now puts forward for legislation making treatment of the eyes of the new-born child, compulsory throughout Canada, this report will give statistics regarding the most frequent cause of blindness, Ophthalmia of the newly-born, in the provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island where the records show that there are 188 cases of need-blindness or about 14 per cent. of cases of blindness resulting from the cause alone. It will quote statistics of the Mayo Clinic who state that one-third of all cases of blindness in institutions in the United States and one-half of the "born blind" are due to gonorrhoea, a direct result of venereal diseases, which is itself a costly preventable social plague. Estimates made in the United States demonstrate that there are in that country 20,000 cases at least of need-blindness due to Ophthalmia of the newly born. From a knowledge of these figures there has risen across the line of late years, a nation-wide demand for compulsory treatment of the eyes of all newly-born babies, and to-day a large majority of the United States possesses regulations dealing with preventive measures against "babies' sore eyes." Known to the medical man as Ophthalmia Neonatorum.

"Education, intelligent action, prevention" is the slogan of the Canadian Prevention of Blindness Committee, which points out that, in Denmark where not only compulsory notification was but treatment has been in force for 80 years there is no blindness from this cause now. Chicago has reduced her figures to such an extent that though 331 cases of Ophthalmia Neonatorum were reported this year no infants suffered blindness from this cause.

"Canada must wake up," concludes the report. "This is only one of the preventable causes of blindness, but why not begin on it now? The cost of the treatment of the newly-born child at birth is only a few cents and takes two minutes. The economic and human sufferings from blindness are terrific. The education of one blind child in the Government schools costs from $500 to $600 per year for at least 10 years."

In many of the States regulations for the compulsory treatment of the eyes of newly born babies take the form of questions on the birth certificate: "Has a prophylactic for O. E. been used? If so, what?" These queries must be answered by the physician in charge. This is the regulation for which the various organizations are now working in Canada.

THE SITUATION.

(Halifax Chronicle, May 30th.)
The Boston News Bureau says:—President Coolidge now has before him the tax bill, as adopted by both the Senate and House, and the expectation is that he will promptly sign it. Although the measure is, in many respects, unsatisfactory, it affords some tax relief and is an improvement over the present law. Secretary Mellon has apparently accepted this view.

Railroad reports for April very clearly reflect, so far as gross is concerned, the recession in industrial activity, which was in progress over the country during that month. The result was earlier forecast by the decline in car loadings which for a number of weeks have been running considerably below 1923. Net earnings, however, indicate quite generally that the managements have their operating expense accounts well under control.

One factor which has been most encouraging to holders of railroad stocks is the indication that none of the adverse railroad bills which have been introduced in Congress will be passed at this session. Threats have been made in some quarters to hold Congress in session until certain measures are acted on, but it is encouraging to note that Representative Longworth is working on a plan to have all rail legislation now pending in Congress referred to a special committee of the Senate and House, with instructions to report back in December. This, if agreed to, would assure adjournment of Congress early in June.

The advance in the call money rate to 4 1/2 p.c. Monday afternoon was apparently without any great significance. It reflected withdrawals of funds by out-of-town institutions, which may have considered that in view of the long prevailing low rates on call money in New York they could employ money more profitably at home. Some of the withdrawals may have been in anticipation of the usual month-end settlements which are now but a few days off. Of greater significance is the pronounced ease in time money.

LONDON, May 3. (A.P.)—"Well, Mr. Morrison, have you brought your fireman's helmet with you?" said King George with a twinkle in his eye to R. C. Morrison, Labor M. P. for North Tottenham, when he attended a court function recently.

Morrison tells this story against himself and also the reason for the King's jocular remark. It appears Morrison in a recent speech said that if he had known what gorgeous dresses and uniforms were worn at the Speaker's levee, he would have borrowed a fireman's helmet.

Rotary Luncheon.

The Rotary Luncheon held at the Restaurant yesterday Mr. McKay's E. Hunt, chairman, introduced Mr. W. A. McKay, Mr. McKay made a very interesting address on "The future of Newfoundland" as regards the possible development of Newfoundland's resources, but principally of the vast quantities of copper ore lying dormant in the island.

Mr. McKay is well known to Newfoundland as a promoter and the Silver Cliff Mines at Argentia is but one of the many propositions which he has handled successfully. Mr. McKay stated that the unlimited wealth of resources held by Newfoundland warranted nothing but optimism. He stated the Rotary members a little more than called "sexometer," and that could actually determine sex, and was of invaluable assistance to the breeders. Mr. McKay stated that the idea of such an instrument was a few years ago, would have been laughed at, but the inventor became an Optimist and determined, provided a scientific instrument of great value. The big pioneer plant of Newfoundland was the idea of an optimist. Mr. McKay is Mr. H. J. Crowe, who has been a persistent effort in the movement for the development of Grand Falls. To-day this big industrial plant is a very practical matter of what well directed operations can accomplish.

Mr. McKay's efforts in Newfoundland are principally aimed at the development of copper. When the Little Bay Copper Mine was first operated 1800 men were employed. The development of this mine encouraged the building of the Newfoundland Railway. Unfortunately, operations at the Little Bay Mine were discontinued, and perhaps the main reason was that it was that it was discontinued too soon. The many improvements for the economic development and extraction of copper during recent years make possible the operations of mines such as the Bay on a very profitable basis, and results can now be achieved which were not possible when the mine was first operated.

While in New York recently Mr. McKay had obtained information regarding a new acid process for the treatment of copper ore. This process is not only economically and economical in other countries at the present time. The property now under consideration for development by McKay gives every indication of deposits—one seam about 10 feet, 7 miles long, estimated to contain 75 million tons of copper ore treated thereon. The immense quantities of this deposit can be treated. Its value would pay the small debt of Newfoundland ten times over. Mr. McKay pointed out that the Copper development was a mine in Newfoundland, exceeding that of pulp and paper.

Mr. McKay also stated that the process of extraction of iron from Copper Ore is successful. A daily output of thousands of tons of concentrates yield about three hundred tons of iron, 250 tons of Sulphur, and 250 tons of Copper.

Mr. McKay's recent visit abroad Mr. McKay got in touch with Mr. F. A. Mussolini regarding the manufacture of steel iron which is absolutely necessary for the manufacture of rustless iron and steel. The possibilities of the use of rustless iron and steel are one's imagination. Approximately 2 million tons of iron are lost through oxidation. The value of rustless iron and steel is therefore of immense importance in this respect is impervious to rust. Mr. McKay also is in negotiation with the Carnegie-Whitworth Company for the installation of the 60,000 horse power of surplus electric energy that Company will have when the plant is completed, and which might be used for electro-lysis, sulphur and copper production. The interest of big capitalists in the development of electric iron production is established in connection with copper, the result would produce surplus energy for Newfoundland. The value of the 60,000 horse power surplus electric energy, welded to copper holdings controlled by Mr. McKay would give a production of 2 million tons of ore with an approximate value of $24,000,000 daily. This surplus daily production, consisting of electric iron, copper and sulphur, would represent a gross recovery of $87,000,000, Mr. McKay claims.

Mr. Mussolini of Italy, has seen the possibilities of the Eustis process, and is today a demonstrating plant at Milan, Italy.

The introduction of new processes and improvements have been more or less retarded by the reluctance of the South African and other mine owners to discard old methods, but the economic value of modern processes is quickly being recognized, and our Copper Mine deposits in Newfoundland were developed by the equipment and operated scientifically in reduced cost and accuracy. The quality would easily bring the mine in the forefront as a profitable producer. He stated there are many thousands of horse power available in the Humber, which could be utilized in the operations in Notre Dame Bay. On his recent visit abroad Mr. McKay met Mr. John Stabler of the Newfoundland Power and Paper Company at the Ritz Carlton Hotel. Mr. Stabler stated that he was aware of the immense copper resources of Newfoundland, and that there was no doubt of their possible economic development. There are very many other things which can be done in Newfoundland if we had but the initiative to do them. For instance if the total coal consumed in St. John's was handled in a scientific manner, the by-products obtained from it would considerably reduce the cost of coal. Henry Ford in his immense plant is proving this every day. Benzol, gas, sulphite of amonia, coal tar, etc. would be extracted, and sold at a large profit which would be utilized to reduce the original cost of coal to the consumer.

With regard to the Silver Cliff Mines, Mr. Bennett, of St. Joseph Lead Company, is now here to visit the Placenta lead deposits to investigate the possibilities of the district for his Company.

Mr. McKay was accorded a vote of thanks. Among the guests present were Mr. A. F. Bennett, New York; Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Bishop of Toronto; Mr. H. Gillis, Halifax; Mr. McLaren, Mr. Ferris and Mr. Myers, of Syracuse, New York.

Will take a real interest and make a success of the fine art of cooking if you provide her with the necessary equipment at home. Just because her grandmother used an old-fashioned coal stove is no reason why the young generation should be burdened down with it. If your kitchen is equipped with a "SMOOTHTOP" VULCAN GAS RANGE, fitted with a Modern Heat Regulator, perfect results are certain. Try this recipe for NUT BREAD: 4 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup English walnuts, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add the chopped nuts. Add milk and well beaten eggs. Put in two buttered pans and let stand 20 minutes. Set your oven heat regulator at 375 degrees and bake for 20 minutes. The preliminary football fives in connection with St. Bon's Sports were drawn last night, and resulted as follows:—

- Feldians vs. Saints.
- Star vs. Guards.
- C. L. B. vs. C. E. I.
- B.L.S. vs. Cadets.

The games will be played at the College Campus, under the knock-out system, beginning on Monday next.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTBALL.

Guards 2; Feldians 0.
There was only a small attendance present at St. George's Field last evening, to witness the football match between the Guards and Feldians. The game was played under difficulties, the heavy rain of the afternoon, together with the disagreeable condition of the field, made the football entirely out of the question, and many of the fans went home displeased. The Guards team, slightly superior of the two, emerged victorious by a score of 2 goals to nil. The game was got underway at 7.40 with Referee Brien in charge. The Guards took up their position from the western end. Play opened up with the ball confined to mid-field, with neither side having any apparent advantage. The Feldians pressed matters but were quickly repulsed, and their backs were called upon to save off two deliberate attacks on goal. The leather was sent a rolling from end to end, and soon became in a greasy condition, making it difficult for the players to produce good football. Nevertheless, the game improved somewhat as the game progressed, and many were the spirited attacks made on the opposing goals, but without success. Shortly before the end of the period Macklin, for the Guards, secured a pretty pass, and was responsible in recording the first goal for the season. The Feldian forwards made a determined effort to get the ball east, but their opponents had set up a stolid defence and frustrated them from scoring. The half time whistle sounded with the Guards leading by an odd goal.

Second Half.
After a brief breathing spell the players again entered into action. Play opened up pretty brisk, with the Feldians bent on sending home the equalizer. Many were the attempts made to best Joyce, but several of the forwards lacked control and were decidedly weak when getting within shooting distance. The Guards players renewed their efforts after ten minutes of play and kept the ball in their opponent's territory. Several corners were secured, and well placed, but the work of Volsey, the Feldian goalie, prevented any further scoring. After 25 minutes of play had elapsed Charlie Quick made a pretty place kick and Dicky Quick, who lost no time in recovering it, ran clear through and landed the ball safely in the right upper corner of the net, which proved too much for Volsey. From then on play was very evenly divided, with no further scoring. The game ended in a victory for the Guards by 2 goals to nil.

THIS EVENING'S FOOTBALL.

The third game of the regular League fixtures take place at St. George's Field to-night, when the Star and the C.E.I. elevens will try conclusions. The Star will blossom forth with a brand new team, and big things are expected from them by their staunchest supporters as they have undergone weeks of stiff practice. The C. E. I. eleven has many new players and it is said they rank with the best teams in the League. An exciting match is anticipated. The line-ups will be as follows:—

STAR—W. Power, goal; R. Davis, W. James, backs; W. Moakler, W. McGrath, C. Doran, halves; P. Flynn, W. Finn, R. Moakler, J. Kelly, D. Meaney, forwards.

C.E.I.—Smith, goal; G. Hunt, C. O'Neil, backs; Raines, Drover, Fearar, halves; Newhook, Lona, Johnson, Winsor, Pennell, forwards.

GIBBONS DEFEATS CARPENTIER ON POINTS.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 1.—That Georges Carpentier is a game fighter and can take punishment was the agreement of experts who witnessed Saturday's ten-round international bout, won by Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light-heavyweight, the decision being made by newspaper writers as the Indiana law forbids prize fights and decision bouts. For the ten rounds the French Air Service veteran and pugilist who fell before Champion Grath, C. Doran, halves; P. Flynn, W. Jack Dempsey, withstood a battering that only few men of his class have taken since the time of J. L. Sullivan, the writers agreed. His much boasted right, wielded like a rapier, failed to injure his opponent, excepting once, when it caught Tommy flush on the chin but failed to stop him, Gibbons stepped in and battered the Frenchman's body. In the opening round Georges lashed out with his famous sleep producer, but Tommy was under and over the punch in time to clasp a jab into Carpentier's ribs, which raised a red welt marking the spot where further attacks were made when in-fighting was in vogue. Through the traces Carpentier elected to fight at long range in the hope of outboxing his opponent and to save himself from the hammer punches of the St. Paul battler. He was virtually on a continual retreat to escape the count.

In the final two rounds, after he had slipped on the canvas and injured an ankle he went into clinch after clinch to save himself, while Gibbons worked furiously for a knockout.

Gibbons was master of the fight from the beginning and only Carpentier's refusal to close in and mix things probably saved him. Gibbons' speed in beating Georges to the punch, his foot-work, and the phantom-like methods of evading the Frenchman's punches, gave him practically every round without a question of doubt.

A crowd of more than 24,000 fans crowded into the arena here and reports to-day were that only 16,000 paid admission, many crashing the gate and others being accounted for by passes.

Gibbons received $61,781, including $5,000 for training expenses, while Georges drew down $70,000. The total gate receipts amounted to $227,597, according to the figures made public to-day.

Georges, when both boxes were ready for the gong, slipped a rubber plate into his mouth to protect his teeth but Gibbons' seconds protested. The plate was shown to Referee Dickerson, who put it in his pocket. Gibbons had to remove the tape from his hands prior to the bout when Magages, Deschamps excitedly called attention to a violation of an agreement to have both boxers enter the ring with hands untaped. He made Gibbons unwind the tape, inspected it, and then watched the St. Paul fighter reroll it.

"Monsieur Gibbons is the best boxer I ever faced," Carpentier said after the fight. "If an injury to my ankle, otherwise possibly I could have made a knockout."

"I believe I have convinced everyone I am entitled to a return bout with Dempsey," said Gibbons.

Wonders of Wembley

LARGEST THING EVER BUILT.

To say that the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley will hold so many people, or is of such-and-such an acreage, means little to the ordinary reader. But if one says that a circle of five miles would be needed to enclose the grounds, or that one single building in it—the Palace of Agriculture—covers six times more space than Trafalgar Square, it is possible to realize something of what Wembley means.

International Exhibitions made their start something like seventy years ago, when the "Great Exhibition" of our grandfathers was opened in Hyde Park, housed in what is now the Crystal Palace.

From that time onward, international exhibitions have been frequent. Their main object has always been to act as a shop-window to some particular country, to attract customers to its wares, to show them the latest in goods, in inventions, and in other productions, that could possibly be turned out.

The present Wembley Exhibition, however, promises to put all its predecessors easily in the shade. Its organizers and other experts had to estimate the probable attendance of previous exhibitions, the population available within certain distances, the spending power of the masses, the availability of transport, and a thousand other factors.

A total attendance of thirty million people is confidently expected! Six million only was the record for our "Great Exhibition," and twenty million for the Chicago Fair, the "greatest thing on the earth."

While the France-British Exhibition managed with 140 acres, Wembley has 240 acres with 15 miles of ways and expects to deal comfortably with 300,000 visitors a day—the population of Bradford.

Before the wonders of the old world were known, the marvel of the steam of Rome was the marvel of the world over, vantage to sea. But it only held 80,000 people. The Wembley Stadium, reduced to its present plan, would accommodate 110,000.

Outside the Stadium is the Amusement Park, three times the size of the sort previously ever known in this country. The theatre is one building in the largest in the world.

It is like that everywhere in this exhibition. Wembley is the largest thing ever was!

HEAR STRAIGHT TALK FROM THEIR CAPTIVES.

LOS ANGELES.—(A.P.)—Chief of Police August Vollmer and his police captains recently instituted a new form of conference when they held a round-table discussion on crime, its causes, and means for its prevention with the inmates of the Lincoln Heights jail here.

At a luncheon in the jail, for prisoners, at the invitation of the chief, they told the arms of the law just what they thought of policemen, courts and law enforcement in general. Chief Vollmer said he learned much from the conference, including the following:

The character of men arrested should be more closely investigated by the arresting officer.

A court should be established to handle vagrants exclusively.

A sympathetic officer should be appointed to hear the pleas of these vagrants and those arrested on other petty charges.

Some of the remarks by prisoners that led to these conclusions were:

By an Irish prisoner, called by his co-inmates, Sam: "These cops pinch us because that's their business and they don't care if we're innocent or not. If they get nothing real against us, we're canned on a charge of being vagrants and a boob judge gives us 90 days for having an empty stomach."

But an educated prisoner, who said he had made it his business to study crime from both sides: "There is, apparently, only one tariff for a man to do when he is broke and hungry, and that is to knock somebody off. I believe that the majority of small crimes is caused by that reason and no other."

By a gray-haired inmate, whom all listened at Vincent: "Conditions are not going to be a bit better until the public is taught to place trust and confidence until the department merits it. At present some policemen will lie and cheat to convict a man."

By an admitted bootlegger: "What I want to know is this: when you pinch a man and get 15 gallons of good whiskey from him, why is it that the records show you confiscated only three gallons?"

Chief Vollmer asked for the names of officers who did this, but at a warning from other prisoners, the bootlegger sat down.

MAKES NATURAL AUTO SPEEDWAY.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—(A.P.)—The opening of the Victory Highway, the shortest transcontinental route from New York to San Francisco, this year, will make available for motorists what is considered a perfect speedway, the great salt beds along the Wendover Cutoff in Utah. The salt beds are level and absolutely "non-skid." They were formed by the same process as the Great Salt Lake.

During the rainy season a foot or more of water covers the beds, but in summer the water evaporates, leaving an area of many square miles on which tourists can test out the racing qualities of their machines. The salt is several feet thick and comparatively pure.

The inaccessibility of the salt beds heretofore prevented their use for racing. Some years ago, however, Tedd Tetslaff set a record of 130 miles an hour on them. Racing men here say there is "practically no limit to the speed that might be made on the salt beds. They predict that the opening of the Wendover Cutoff will make them great proving grounds for racing cars.

From the highway approaches will lead to the beds at frequent intervals.

Good News for Ailing Women

Much has been said for and against proprietary medicines by the medical profession. It will interest every woman to know that in a recent country-wide canvass of over 151,000 purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as to the results received from its use, the replies received showed that ninety-eight out of every one hundred women had been benefited by its use. Therefore every sick and ailing woman owes it to herself to give this remarkably successful remedy a fair trial.

Pope Pious Declares 1925 a "Holy Year"

THE PONTIFF URGES ALL TO PRAY FOR PEACE IN THE WORLD.

ROME, May 29.—In a Papal Bull issued to-day addressed to "The pious Bishops, servants of God and all the faithful," Pope Pious declares 1925 a "Holy Year."

He calls upon all to "celebrate the 22nd Jubilee."

The Bull constitutes a long invitation to the faithful to restore humane society and return to Holy customs. The Pontiff prays fervently "that all non-catholics should seek refuge in the true church of Jesus Christ and also that conditions in Palestine may be ordered arranged in the way demanded by the rights of the Catholic religion."

"In the perfection of charity," says the Pontiff, "we desire that the churches which through age-long and deplorable difference keep far from the Roman church, be joined to us. Nothing that could happen would be dearer or more pleasing to us than that. If not all collectively, many, at least, from both hemispheres should pass to the one and only fold of Christ on this occasion of great jubilee."

We should embrace them with special affection, numbering them among our dearest sons."

Continuing the Pontiff says the jubilee will be an occasion when he and all the faithful should ask special things of God.

"I speak of peace," said the pontiff, "not of peace written in treaties but peace written on hearts, which must be restored among the peoples. Though to-day it is not as distant as in the past, it still is more remote than all of us desire. At the tomb of the Apostles I implore the precious boon—that Christ the prince of peace the Galilean, moved with pity for his own, should command that the temper by which Europe is being beaten down be calmed, in order that a durable peace and charity too long forgotten should again be embraced by the peoples and inspire governments."

The Pope adjured the faithful, men and women, to avoid profane distractions and adopt a spirit of penitence. He said they should show modesty of expression and in manners and above all in clothes, and that they should seek during the Holy Year exclusively the interests of their souls.

THE LEADING CITIZEN.

I read the Pucktown Weekly Gaff, which is a new way sheet, and every other paragraph refers to James McPete. Whatever James elects to do becomes a vital theme; he's sure to draw a "stick" or two, if he should buy ice cream. The words that filter from his lips are quoted, line by line; he's always making "flying trips" which get ten lines to nine. To pave with brick Commercial street progressive people plead; if it's approval by James McPete, then let the work proceed. If James is sad, the town is blue, and tears are seen in pools; when James contracted Spanish flu, the paper "turned its rules." If James McPete should stub his toe against a kitchen chair, the Gaff would print a wall of woe, all throbbing with despair. I have a smile when thus I read of this excited gink; his every picaresque deed seems hardly worth the ink. And yet methinks that James McPete must be a happy lad; I seem to see him tread the street, the monarch of his grad. In Pucktown he, to greatness grown, is satisfied and gay what boots it if he isn't known some forty miles away? Far better he a Caesar there, acclaimed by every tongue, than walk a city's thoroughfare, unhonored and unsung.

GOVERNMENT ACCEPTS AMENDMENT WHEN FACED WITH DEFEAT.

LONDON, June 4. The House of Commons to-night agreed to a resolution introduced by John Wheatley Minister of Health, involving the expenditure of great sums of money for building construction to meet the housing requirements throughout the country. The Government, however, was again compelled to execute a quick volte face to avoid an adverse vote. The plan to solve the housing problem comprises a system of state subsidies of £34,000,000 annually extending over many years, with a possible ultimate expenditure of nearly one billion and a half pounds. The scheme was discussed in the House yesterday but no vote was taken. Today Sir George McKean, Liberal, moved an amendment providing for the withholding of contributions in the absence of adequate arrangements for securing labor and materials at reasonable prices. The Government at first declined to accept the amendment, but finding that the whole Opposition was prepared to vote for it, Minister Wheatley hurriedly changed his mind and announced he would accept the amendment.

Botany and the Bible

WHERE THE TRANSLATORS ERRED.

For the readers of the Authorized Version of the Bible many of the beautiful floral metaphors lose their significance through errors made by the learned bishops of wise King James's reign, who translated the Testaments "out of the original tongues."

Known by the popular name of the "Devil's leaning post," the juniper, a gloomy plant of the waste land, was regarded in Palestine as unholy, and this evil reputation adds point to the prophecy of Jeremiah (xvii. 6): "He shall be like the juniper in the desert and shall not see when good cometh."

In the Authorized Version juniper is mistranslated heath and the allusion is lost. While philologically there is no doubting that juniper is the correct rendering, the "heath" of the Authorized Version is discredited by the fact vouchered for by Canon Tristram, the authority on the flora of the Holy Land, that the heath has never grown in the country where Jeremiah preached.

"Coals of Juniper." While juniper is wrongly rendered heath, in three passages in the Authorized Version juniper is incorrectly given for broom. In one, the Palmetto (cex. 4) is made to speak of "coals of juniper," but the substitution of broom for juniper in the passage with the fact that broom was anciently employed for the production of the best-quality charcoal.

In one of the best-known passages in the Old Testament the infant Moses is recorded to have been hidden in an ark made of bulrushes, and it must be frequently wondered how the reeds of the English stream could be fashioned into a watertight vessel.

The difficulty is entirely due to the misreading of bulrush for papyrus, Moses' hiding-place having been constructed of the paper reed employed by the Egyptians to make their almost imperishable writing material.

Curiously enough, says a writer in "John o' London's Weekly", a race of African natives were found by Bruce during the last century to be still employing the identical reed for the construction of their rude boats.

The Bulrush Broomer.

The word rendered bulrush in the story of Moses seems to have been a sore perplexity to the translators. In two other passages in the Old Testament the same term is rendered "cauldron" and "hook," papyrus in each case being the proper reading.

In the stately passage in the Book of Ecclesiastes describing how the spirit shall return unto God who gave it, the Authorized Version reads: "The grasshopper shall be a burden and desire shall fall." Although the verse does not gain by the alteration, "desire" should be replaced by "caper berry" to give the exact meaning of the original, the caper having been employed by the Jews as an appetizer.

Instances of mistranslation might be multiplied. The lily-of-the-valley is not the sweet-smelling flower of old English gardens, but the lily. The camphire or camphire Song of Solomon, is really "papyrus" which was greatly esteemed in the East. In the sixth chapter of Amos, the prophet is made to say that the fruit of righteousness be turned to "hemlock" a translation for wormwood.

ON REPUTATIONS.

"I'm looking forward to your paper at the club next week," said a friend to my neighbor as she passed the porch where we were sitting. "Your papers are always so bright and interesting."

"That's very flattering and very complimentary," laughed my neighbor, "but it's my reputation to have to live up to the expectations of my neighbors when I have anything of that kind to do."

I notice that she seldom does anything that reputation is a challenge to her best efforts. She has a talk to give, and she comes through with flying colors. When I am thinking on my way home that it is that teachers of little children, whether at home or in school, do not use this challenge of reputation to think how they can best use the challenge.

A Bad Idea To Flout.

The stupidest class of children I ever had," declares a teacher. "It'll be just good and glad when she comes and I'll get rid of her."

A statement is a homerage. A workman always blames his own work. A stupid class? I'm sure just what that is, but I suppose it is a class in which there are children or slow thinking children ordinary. Such a class requires more careful training, to be a challenge to a teacher's skill in imparting knowledge, but calling names doesn't help. To begin with, it goes without saying that no child is going to be spurred on to better work and greater efforts by being told he is a stupid creature, well rid of. Such tactics simply create an inferiority complex and rouse antagonism.

"All right!" sulks the child to himself. "You won't be any gladder to get rid of me than I will be to get out of your room, and if I'm stupid, I can't help it."

The Wise Teacher's Challenge.

The wise teacher may sigh over the problem that confronts her but she will approach it somewhat like this: "Some of my classes have found their work pretty hard, but I have a feeling that you are going to take hold of it better than they did last year, and if you do, we will have more time to work up some of those plays you like so much."

And the children respond to such treatment as they do to the sunshine. "You can't find your gloves?" says the mother impatiently. "Oh, you're so helpless! You never can find anything."

And Mary accordingly never "half tries to find anything."

And Betty forthwith finds them.

"Will you see if you can find my scissors, dear?" asks Betty's mother. And then, to me: "Betty is the official finder in this house. She has the sharpest eyes! Whenever I mislay anything I always ask her to look for it."

And Betty, living up to her reputation, promptly produces the missing scissors.

Yes, I think if I were a teacher of little children I would be pretty careful what kind of a reputation I fastened onto them.

A Feast of Entertainment at the Nickel

LAST NIGHT'S AUDIENCE WITNESS GREAT SHOW.

Last night's programme at the Nickel can easily be termed a great show from all angles, and the Mack Sennett comedy "Where is My Wandering Boy this Evening?" was indeed a riot of fun.

Several new faces, excellent direction, a corking good story and—Bebe Daniels! These are the high spots, in clinching order, of "The Speed Girl," which opened last night to a large and appreciative house at this Theatre.

Elmer Harris's story is most entertainingly told, and has all the vital elements of action, suspense and attraction. Douglas Duty, in handling his continuity, has knit the several factors so closely and so well as to get the little speed girl into the most thrilling complications, such as a race with a train, an exciting skid in an automobile, and yet keep the sympathy with her all the time.

Miss Bebe ends her rapid adventure with what should have been a restful term in the county jail. But even there—things happen. There is another strong contender for sympathy in the unfortunate girl Hilda, a role beautifully played by Netria Johnson. Theodore Von Eltz is a new leading man with Miss Daniels, and Frank Elliott has the sort of heavy part in which you are used to seeing him.

Walter Hiers deserves a paragraph all to himself, though his part is not a large one. The fat actor has the role of Sopsy Taylor, the press-agent, and it's certain no editor could resist his beaming smile—even if the judge did! Truly Shattuck, Wm. Conright and Barbara Maier complete the excellent cast.

A Banner Show

STAR MOVIE TO-NIGHT.

As will be seen from the ad. on another page, the popular Star has for to-night both in music and pictures, the biggest show of the week. In the picture part we have that delightful little star, Wanda Hawley, in "The Love Charm," a most delightful social drama in six parts, and the ever popular William Duncan in chapter two of that whirlwind serial "The Steel Trail," in which Duncan will make you hold your breath with excitement.

The Hawaiians will be heard in an entire change and in this connection and big hits will be "The Wild Irish Rose," sung by Indetta in a most novel and peculiar way, and in which she will be accompanied by Charlie on his one string. This number will be well worth the admission fee. The other hit will be a dance by Jonia, entitled "The Hula Plays," and is also a distinct novelty. The management announces they have booked for exhibition shortly, the biggest production they have screened for quite a while, entitled "Above the Law," such another as "Manslaughter."

Obituary.

HENRY COFFIN.

The many friends of Mr. Henry Coffin learned with regret of his death, which took place at Detroit, Mich., at 8 p.m. on Wednesday. Mr. Coffin left here about six months ago for the shore city, expecting to return to Newfoundland during the summer. In May he received a fall, fracturing two of his ribs, and receiving other internal injuries. Immediately on receipt of the news of the accident his son, Ernest left here, and reached his father's side a few days before the end came. The remains will be forwarded here for interment. Mr. Coffin leaves four sons, Charles and Ernest of this city, Donald of Edmonton, Alberta, and Allan of Detroit, Mich. He also leaves one brother, Mr. Wm. Coffin and one sister, Mrs. Geo. Wareham, both of Haystack. Mr. Coffin was well known and highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

WEEKLY MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting of the Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided, and Councillors Martin, Outerbridge, Vialcombe, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present. The Medical Superintendent of the Grace Maternity Hospital wrote re the placing of a concrete curb and gutter, also a sidewalk and other improvements in the vicinity of this institution. The Engineer was instructed to make enquiries as to the estimate of cost in this connection, when the matter will be given further consideration.

Mr. Herbert Knight complained that the vacant land, adjoining his residence, Circular Road, is being used for dumping purposes against which he and other residents protest very strongly. The Sanitary Supervisor stated that the dumping was not being done by the Sanitary employees. Mr. Knight is to be dealt accordingly.

The residents of King's Road protested against the matter of the stable erected by Mr. Andrews, as they stated the regulations with regard to same, calling for concrete floor, water and sewerage connections, etc., were not carried out. It was decided that Mr. Andrews be notified to comply with the regulations immediately.

Applications were read from the Bandmasters of the Methodist Guards and Mount Cashel Bands, for permission to hold concerts in Bannerman and Victoria Parks on the same conditions as heretofore. It was decided that the matter be held over until it is known whether or not the C. C. C. and C. L. B. Bands intend to make similar applications this season. Water and sewerage connections, etc., were not carried out. It was decided that Mr. Andrews be notified to comply with the regulations immediately.

Messrs. Harvey & Company asked permission to roof with iron the small space adjoining their Batteries Factory. The matter was referred to the City Engineer, who is to make enquiries and if satisfied issue permit. The following orders were made: Water Street, from the Pirrass Withy Company's premises to Custom House Hill, to be repaired. Retaining wall, Battery Road, to be repaired.

PERMITS.

Permits are to be given the following, subject to the approval of the City Engineer:

Mr. Rahl, to erect garage, rear of dwelling, Quaidi Vidi Road.

H. W. LeMessurier, to repair dwelling, Winter Avenue.

The Sanitary Supervisor submitted his report on the collision between the Council's motor truck and motor car owned by Mr. Dewling. A copy of this report is to be forwarded the latter's solicitors.

Inspector Rooney in reporting on the installation of water and sewerage in houses, Kichham Place, and Lawrence's Lane, stated he found only two houses suitable for such installation.

The City Engineer reported on work performed by the various departments for the past week.

It was suggested that recommendations be made to the Government to amend the present schedule of Motor Car Taxes, so as to have small cars of the Ford and Chevrolet type rated on the same basis as the foregoing.

The payrolls and bills were ordered paid, and with the disposal of other routine business, the meeting adjourned.

residence consisted of one room in a the worst type of slum, and he was born John Wheatley
the eleventh member of the family.
Twenty-four years he lived in Lanarkshire slum, and now he is the biggest builder of houses in the country.
Study in The Pit
When he was twelve years of age he began in a few shillings a week as an errand boy, and at twelve he began work in the pit. For ten years he continued this occupation, until he was twenty-four he continued to live the ordinary life of a miner and coal-miner.
At this time, however, he was himself. Living eleven in the house there was little chance of getting home; so, except for such classes as he attended, most of his time was done in the pit. This time, in his twenty-fifth year, he was the work of the mines and employment with a publishing house.
That time until now his has been one of public service and success. He served on Lanarkshire County Council from 1912, and in the latter year he was elected to the Glasgow Town Council, and in the latter year he was elected to Parliament in 1918, and he was the leader of the Labour Party in the Council, succeeded in developing his mining business.
He is commonly regarded as a leader, but this is not true. He is a powerful exponent of the principle of his party, with a mind that with facts that make his determinations most ferocious in their effect.
He foresees his early life, and he is able to tell the House of Commons when moving the rejection of the Bill of his profession, and he did not understand that insuperable hate of the present bred in the breasts of the people of existing conditions."
When this up, he told an interviewer, "I was one of persons who lived, not merely to live, but for years, in a single apartment in Lanarkshire."
The man, with round fresh face, thick lips and narrow eyes that shined spectacles, he is the most able member in the House of Commons today. Greater power is to be seen in the future.
He is indifferent to social conventions and lives in a small house, with his wife, Mrs. Wheatley does her housework.
He is proud of his daughter,
Elizabeth Wheatley, who, although in her twenties, has been Assistant Resident Physician at the Glasgow Hospital, however, relax, and in his life is a genial companion.
He is, when a party of foreign officers were entertaining him, saying, the banker, that he was one of the generations of the country.
Wheatley takes a great interest in struggling boys to improve and kindly assistance is offered to encourage them.
