STRONG ARGUMENT MADE FOR SYSTEM OF BOUNTIES.

COLLINGWOOD, Jan. 25 .- (Special). -Everybody says that last night's banquet was the most important and most successful function ever organized here, and President Paton of the board of trade is receiving congratulations. The only criticism made of an adverse character is on the unaccountable omission to invite Maj. J. A. Currie, who was present to speak. Some allege that political reasons were behind the omission, but if this were the case it was a shortsighted policy, as it has gained him sympathizers among his opponents. The proceedings were so late tha some of the most valuable speeches and suggestions were made after the

He placed this at 36 a ton, the same figure mentioned by Mr. Sinclair, M.P., but Capl. Scott pointed out that this would not be sufficient. A 3000-ton ship was only 1500 tons to the builder, and $6 on this would only be give $3000, an inadequate amount. He greed that the competition from England was in boats of a size to pass thru the canals, under 2100 tons. He urged for a larger bounty on the smaller vessels, as the larger ones would be protected by the necessity of halving or quartering English vessels and the added expense. Justice Britton in charging the jury said there had been false swearing, and that, in his opinion, those who swore alsely did so in full knowledge of the fact. The stories as told by both sides couldn't all be true. The judge questioned whether it was a case where the plaintiff, after being hurt thru his own actions, was seeking to recover from a company not responsible, or whether his injury was due to the wrong-doing of an officer of the company, "and then the officers coming into this court and trying to swear the officer and the

"The conductor told the plaintiff he couldn't ride on the step, and that was perfectly proper. The plaintiff says he told the conductor there was no room inside the car, but that there would be room farther on. The plaintiff says that he offered his ticket to the conductor, who refused it. There the conductor, without saying anything the conductor, without saying anything further, called out Mr. Argue, who, the plaintiff says, pulled him off the car."
While officers of the company said the man was drunk, one Hodgson, who was in the best position to know, declared otherwise. While the defendants claimed that the plaintiff acted foolish and silly and threw himself off, the plaintiff claimed he was pushed off. The case will not be compromised, and there must either be a straight verdict for the plaintiff or defendant.

World's Trophy Score Smashed, After Being Held for Two Months -663 is Now the Score to Beat. LONDON, Jan. 25.—Following are day's football results:

—English League—

Two records were broken last week that will no doubt stand for quite a while and the honor of both goes to Ernie Dayment, who was spilling the pins with wengeance.

Rolling Thursday night in the Oddfellows' League, he totalled 266, heating out Pilly Beer's high single by three pins. No doubt Dayment had pleasant dreams that night, for he came back on Friday and totalled 277 the first game. The good work was kept up the second frame, a count of 222 resulting. Dayment got a little nervous the last game, when prospects of The World Trophy loomed up. However, encouraged by his teammates he settled down, getting 164 for the last call, making a total of 663, or 13 pins more then the record held for several months by Eddie Sutherland. Dayment had 18 strikes, nine spares, three splits, one of which he made and only one blow.

In the first game, when Dayment made the 27 score, the Maple Leats broke the record for the Toronto League, rolling 5%. They were anndicapped by one rollier, who before the game had announced his intention of going after The World Trophy, but when it came to playing, couldn't spill the pins with a broom.

Queen Citys have a clear lead in the Toronto League, with Americans and Maple Leats second. Rosedale are still leaders in both Oddfellows' classes, while Newton-Treloar top the list in the evening section of the Printers' League, and The World the morning section.

Royals B are still enjoying a comfortable margin in the City League, while Strollers and Brunswicks are having as tiden death fight in the Central.

Sometimes the "fugitive" attempted to make his escape by climbing up the almost perpendicular side of masonry walls, squeezing into holes between buildings and climbing fences. It was remarkable how easily the dogs followed up the stonework sides of the railroad wall at Fort Washington.

The dogs have been especially trained to fight men who strike at them with sticks and knives, the hardy little brutes apparently caring no more for these weapons than for the teeth of stray canines that sometimes tried to interrupt their lessons.

In fact, track laying will all be completed during the coming summer from the capital of Manitoba to the capital of Alberta, and by the time the crop is ready to move, there can be no doubt whatever as to the Grand Trunk Pacific's ability to bring down to Windener all that offers along their to Winnipeg all that offers along their 794 miles of system between the two western capitals. Business in the horse world is steadily improving and we are having greater shipments and larger sales week after week. We had about 175 horses of all classes for sale last week and those buyers who attended had their choice of a very fine los of draught, express and general purpose horses at reasonable figures. It is a long time since we were able to offer a much better list of such horses, and the selections did great credit to our shippers. Purchasers were very highly shippers. Purchasers were very highly pleased with the quality of the horses they got, and should get excellent value out of them. High-class drivers were somewhat scarce, but there will be a great improvement in this respect next week, when we will sell some tip-toppers without reserve great improvement in this respect next week, when we will sell some tip-toppers without reserve.

For our auction sales next week we have made special preparation and will sell around two hundred heavy draught. express, general purpose, drivers and saddle horses, affording an unequaled selection in any of these classes. Our very best shippers age hard at work now to supply the demand here, and will keep right on until the early summer, sending in fresh, sound young blocks of the highest class. These men are all tried and experienced, and their judgment is to be relied on. Beyond that, of course, we ourselves fully warrant every horse sold here to be according to representation. Buyers were numerous last week, and westerners are shipping out regularly now. We never had more customers from outlying points in Ontario and the demand in the city is very fair.

Prices have ranged somewhere as follows: Draughts, 5 to 8 years, sound, $150 to $185, tho some exceptionally good ones were bringing higher prices; express, general purpose and delivery, $130 to $190; drivers and carriage horses, $125 to $250; second-hand workers and drivers, $45 to $106.

Out of this, however, it has to pay $11,761.80 for the maintenance of city patients in the provincial asylums. The balance, $4881.40, goes into the coffers to reduce last year's over-

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE AND BUSINESS LIFE

Excerpts From Letters to a Business Man by an Upholder of the Faith.

Any system of human thought and man living in order to make good its claim. We have a right to expect this from religion, and we may reasonably reject as unsatisfactory any asserted evelation of truth which does not fulfil these conditions. Christ came to seek and to save that which was lost, to declare a full salvation. While the great Teacher plainly deprecated the merely commercial spirit, he showed saves from every form of limitation and provides an abundance of all that and provides an abundance of all that is needful. Jesus taught that financial discord, or lack, was a phase of error which could be and must be corrected by the true understanding of man's complete endowment. To-day, humanity presents the need of a whole salvation, of a full declaration of the benevolent purpose of divine love. benevolent purpose of divine love. FRANCE WILL STICK BY ALGECIRAS POLICY

Delcasse's Remarks Will Stiffen Public Sentiment in Moroccan Matters.

PARIS, Jan. 25. - The dramatic speech made in the chamber of deputies yesterday by M. Delcasse, who spoke upon foreign affairs for the first time since his retirement from the foreign ministry during the crisis of 1905, has produced a sensation in political circles where it is regarded as a trumpet call summoning France not to take a backward step in the Moroccan situation. His charge that France, in a moment of panic, consented to the Algecieras conference, when in reality Germany would not have dared to make war upon her because of her alliances and friendships, has created a deep impression thruout

M. Delcasse, in his speech, practically assumed personal credit, not only for the British, Italian and Spanish ententes with France, but also for bringing Great Britain and Russia to-

A portion of the French press is of the opinion that M. Delcasse's remarks may bring a number of surprises, but a majority of the newspapers advise prudence. The cabinet reconsidered the situation, but it is not likely that M. Delcasse's discourse will alter the direction of the government to announce on Monday its de-termination to adhere strictly to the Algecieras agreement. Nevertheless, the utterances of the former foreign minister undoubtedly will stiffen pub-lic sentiment in favor of more energetic action in Morocco.

M. Jaures, the Socialist leader in the chamber of deputies, announced to-day that on Monday he would read in the chamber the letters he claims to possess which prove that the late Dr. Mauchamp was a secret inter-mediary between Mulai Hafid and the French foreign office. A telegram received from Admira! Philibert says Mulai Hafid is reported be at Chair, 30 miles from Settat.

Echoes PARLIAMENT HILL

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—(Special to The Sunlay World.)-The Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on Tuesday night placed himself in the position of agreeing to a motion of the leader of the opposition when his followers in the full flush of party warfare demanded that the proposi tion be vetoed by the majority. Thereby hangs a tale. The whole country still holds in memory (for the incident happened less than two weeks ago), that the government supporters voted down a motion of H. B. Ames, member for the St. Antoine division of Montreal. for the production of the original papers relating to the granting of certain timber limits out west. The copies had been produced; but Mr. Ames told the house that in respect to nine documents out of a total of over 400 it was necessary, in order to have a thoro understanding of the matter, to see the originals. In payticular there was the handwriting which he desired to inspect. This was his reason for asking the government to lay the papers on the table of the house, and perhaps that it may be clear that Mr. Ames did state his ons, let us quote from Hansard

Mr. Ames: * * * Now, there are nine pages of that return which can be illumined if I may see the originals. As to all the other pages the copies are all I want. But there are nine pages there with respect to which the copy does not tell me all I want to know, or which I have the right to know, if I understand my rights in this house of commons.

Mr. Oliver: Does my hon. friend say that these nine pages differ from the original?

Mr. R. L. Borden: How could he tell unless he sees the original?

Mr. Ames: I say that these nine pages will in all probability clear up certain doubts which I have regarding peculiar features in con-nection with some of these trans-actions: I say that the handwrit-ing of some of these hime pages may have a very important bear-ing on the case. * * * Adopt any method you like, move any amendment you like, but establish the principle that when we on this side of the house have what we consider good and sufficient rea-son we may have the right to see an original document, or else be prepared to take the odium thruout the country that you do not wish an original document to come light.

r Wilfrid's answer was the ringing of the division bell, and the vote was 86 to 51 for suppression. This week he adopted the principle that the house had the right to see and examine all documents. Mr. Borden's motion declared that:

Subject to such considerations of public policy as can be validly urged in any case, it is the unubted right of the people's representatives, in parliament assembled, to be informed of everysembled, to be informed of everything necessary to explain the policy and proceedings of the government, and for that purpose to have an opportunity of seeing and examining all documents connected with the transaction of public business; and the denial of such right by the government justifies the refusal by this house of further republies to the crown. supplies to the crown.

"I have not a word of exception

"I have not a word of exception to that motion," said the premier. "It meets my views. It states a truism; but in the application of this truth, I simply go back to the position taken by the authorities and by my hon. friend himself, namely, that in the exercise of this right an oppressive demand might be made which the government might have the right to re-fuse. That being the case, it is necessary that the reasons for the demand should be given. If my hon, friend from St. Antoine division (Mr. Ames) or any other member should ask for the original papers and give good reasons for his request, certainly his demand will be immediately complied mand will be immediately complied with. But when he says that without any reasons whatever he claims the right to have the archives of the government brought down and laid on the table, I do not agree with him. For the reasons I have given I have no objection in agreeing to the mo-

It will, in the face of the declara-tion of Sir Wilfrid, be for the people to decide whether he was justified in refusing the demand of Mr. Ames. Two other events of supreme im-

Japan to discuss with the mikado's government the best methods to be adopted to check the flow of Japanese immigration into British Columbia. With regard to the senate, three propositions were discussed, and a variety of views were expressed. It is significant that only one of the speakers regards the upper chamber as an utterly useless body. H. H. Miller of South Grey is yet a young man, of abundant optimism—consequently he regards himself as well outside the class of public men who look forward to some day being put quietly away into the chambre de repos. There are other young men in the commons besides Miller, but they seem to have a sufficiently long sight to perceive in the distance a haven of rest into which they may drop, and the idea of not providing

Previous to 1896 there was a loud cry for abolition. The statesmen then in opposition had been crying in the wilderness for 18 years, and they had begun to fear that they were doomed to perpetual disappointment. Consequently they regarded the senate as a proper thing to attack. They wanted to do away with it. But not so the present opposition. Many of them are "fit and proper persons" to be pro-

The net result of Wednesday's byelections is that the government wins a seat. How to figure out, a moral victory for the opposition in the face of this fact seems to be a difficult proposition. The general public do not understand the processes by which moral victories are won—they look at the table of strength and they ascertain if the government is richer or receiver by reason of the test in the victory for the opposition in the poorer by reason of the test in the constituencies, and so the general pub ile knows that the government mahem. jority has been increased by two by the transfer of South Huron from the Conservative column into the Liberal.

Speaking of the constitutional aspect of the constitutional aspect of the stange the old order of things it so change the old order of things it we have the senate, and we must put up with it," some of these people say, forgetting always that if it can be shown that the senate is useless the sovereign people may abolish it, if not by one method, then by some other.

Those who regard the constitution as a sacred thing not to be changed are not few—there are many of them in this parliament. Discussing this aspect of the situation an M. P. reliated the other day a little story in lasted the other day all little story in lasted the other day all title story in lasted the other day all title story in the same to do the impossible. The debate of Jan. 20 was at feast illuminating, and those who took hart are to be commended for their centributions. That of G. H. He omitted nothine in the effort to do full justice to the senate claims of usefulness, and also he fully stated the arguments urged on behalf of abolition and reform. H. H. Miller of South Grey presented a strong argument for abolition, but he was the only speaker to advocate such a drastic measure.

The opinion is general that the senate has nothing to fear from this momentary expression of popular dissatisfaction. " Joan of Arc."

Nothing finer could be imagined than the operatic arrangement of the thrilling story of "Joan of Arc," as it will be presented on Thursday evenselected these stones from some which were produced in court last night.

Immediately following the disclosure last night, the president of the Jewelers'

Association of France lodged a complaint of the Toronto Oratorio Society, under the direction of J. M. Sherlock, assisted by Claude Cunningham, the handsome New York baritone; William Lavin, tenor, and Mabel Manley-Biological converses all supported by Pickard, soprano, all supported by the new Toronto Conservatory Sym-phony Orenestra of 57 players, under Mr. Welsman. The work is intensely interesting from beginning to end and contains patriotic and sentimental so-los, duets, trios and splendid choruses. The stirring song, "Who Would Not Fight for Freedom," is a thrilling number, as sung by Mr. Cunningham; and the soprano solo, "A Ring, a Simple, Simple Ring," will haunt many a one by its pathetic melody. The tenone by its pathetic melody. The tenor, too, has a lyric, "There is No One Like Her," that will give much pleasure, and the chorus, "On! to the Battle—On!" will stir the patriotic emotions to a pitch. Perhaps the prettiest chorus is the "Ave Maria," sung in the cathedral by male voices. The audience will be a large and no doubt the choice of the control of the cont a fashionable one. The plan is now pen at the box office.

Mrs. Cotton's Tea. Mrs. J. Milton Cotton was a hostess at one of the prettiest teas of the season, given on Friday afternoon at her home on Simcoe-street. The drawing room was fragrant with hyacinths and freesias. Mrs. Cotton received at the entrance and looked very handsome in a French gown of grey crepe with bolero of embroidered silk and diamond and coral ornaments. Her mother, Mrs. Douglas, was with her, wearing black velvet with a yoke of silk, yak lace and sequin trimming. Mrs. Wellington, Mrs. Fletcher Snider, Mrs. Hewes Oliphant, Mrs. Tower Boyd and Miss Taylor were attentive pilots between the drawing and tea rooms. They all wore dainty favors of the hostess of carnations and hyacinths. An orchestra, stationed somewhere in the distance, discoursed the prettiest of music. change in the balance of trade between the States and Europe during the last two months, but even this has not been sunicient to warrant the retention of the gold which was brought over in such large volume two months ago. Attempts have been made to get European investors to take American securities, but sentiment in the older countries is too much perturbed to admit of any volume of transfers of the minor securities. London is absolutely afraid of the American financing, and unless Mr. Morgan can straighten out this distrust during his pending visit the demand for United States securities promises to be very limited for the time being.

On the Toronto exchange very similar conditions exist to those at New York. There was a recovery from the low prices in November up till the middle of the present month of considerable dimensions, the rise in some instances going to the extent of nearly 20 points. It is, therefore, not wondered at that realizing has gone into effect in the market and that those who bought stocks when taking advantage of the higher prices to secure their profits. This event, to the small outside buyer, is not a difficult problem, as the market has got to be kept intact, and in the active issues sales have to be taken by the large holders to give the market the substance requisite to encourse.

SOVEREIGN BANK LOANS. As a market factor the Sovereign Bank episoue should not be taken too As a market factor.

Bank episoue should not be taken too seriously. The process of liquidation will not force any of the prominent local securities on the market, as rew if any of these are held in the banks' call loans. The sovereign had a fair amount of the locally listed stocks as collaterat, but when the institution was pressed for funds, the loans against these were the arst to be realized upon, as these were the most readily available. The securities now held by the bank are not heavy and their placing should not disture the securities market to any appreciable extent. appreciable extent.

CHEAP MONEY AND STOCKS. Cheap money is not always indica-tive of a rising stock market; in fact, the reverse is usually the case. There are times such as that of laus-4 when an accumulation of money can be used in putting up the prices of securities, but other conditions must also be favcrable. If, for instance, there is a plethora of money and business conditions are pad; two events which usually accord, speculative stocks are usually at the lowest ebb. This was the case in 1896, a year when the Canadian banks were averse to taking in turner deposits to pay interest on them. The business reaction now in effect is expected to release a capatidate the turner pected to release considerable funds, but will this fact help the quotations or stocks whose dividends are subject to change for the worse?

World Office Saturday Evening, Jan. 25. There are indications that a much Bank will mean the closing up of a large number of branches. It has been frequently asserted that the competition between the Canadian banks has led to unnecessary expenditures, because of the innumerable branches scattered in every little village in the country. It the banking of the Dominion can be done with a large reduction in their staffs, such as retrenchment in the branches would provide the earnings of the banks would show a corresponding increase. The dissolution of the Ontario and Sovereign ought to work to the benefit of the shareholders in the remaining institutions, even if further curtailment in banking facilities is not found necessary.

League bugs that Brush used to send down to the Yanks' park to roast the Yanks.

"It was no wonder that Ganzel refused to go back to New York. He bought the Grand Rapids club and managed from the bench the following gason."

Ganzel was one of the greatest minor league players that ever lived. He first attracted attention when playing the ball against the back fence so frequently and doing such finished work about the bag that the Chicago Nationals bought him. He didn't show quite his minor league form and was trained to the Giant for Jack Doyle. As a Giant his fielding was the talk of New York, but he failed to stick up to snything like what was expected of him. Then he dropped back to Louisville, where he capitained, played first and second. He led the league in batting, fielding in both positions, base broke and John went back to New York with the Yanks. The second year of his ownership of the Grand Rapids ever will see.

A Little Strap Oil for Foronto Sportsmen

Says the Toledo News-Bee: Organized bowling next?

We have organized baseball in the summer, and bowling is about the most popular of the winter games.

Therefore, it is being argued, there is no reason why the sport should not be put upon a business basis, leagues formed, crack teams organized and regular schedules played.

The idea was first taken up in the east, where the Eastern and Interstate Bowling Leagues have been successful. The fact that Garry Hermann is at the head of the A. B. C. this year; that Charley Comiskey has shown interest in the sund that Adrian C. a great white light on the sport that before long some of the baseball magnates may be financing bowling leagues.

Harney Dreyfuss has jumped into the same in Pittsburg and has opened his purse-strings enough to Barney game wonderfully. And of the A. B. C., with Shockeown as the place for the 1980 tournent.

It has been suggested that the baseball Records.

An item in the sporting columns of one of the Buffalo evening papers causes me in a little burst of connecting the custom have considered to the same time of the same wonderfully. And of the A. B. C., with Shockeown as the place for the 1980 tournent.

It has been suggested that the baseball magnates, having plenty of cash and also experience in handling professional attlets and the control of the same time of the same time to the same time, but the subject.

To a man athetically inclined—sports may be the same time, but the subject.

To a man athetically inclined—sports may be the same time, but the subject to the same time, but the subject prieties.

I am thinking of an evening last winter when a number of representatives of the Queen's Own, in this same 74th Anmory, played a waiting game, evidently having no option, and caused a humorous ripple of laughter, which they may have mistaken for applause, at their attempts to amble in the footsteps of the Buffaio runners in a number of races of varying distances. I really don't know that they wish to be dubbed "good fellows," but I cannot think of any other reason why they competed. It could not that they wish to be dubbed "good fellows," but I cannot think of any other reason why they competed. It could not be a mercenary one, for they were quite decidedly amateurs.

The last time Toronto athletes appeared in the 74th Armory was no farther back than Jan. 4, when two distinguished (?) Toronto bicycle riders essayed to ride a "five-mile, four-cornered, pursuit race" against J. M. Tanner and A. Mercer of Buffalo, and spent most of their time looking behind to see how fast they were being caught. One of them was quickly lapped, and so put out of the running; the other, whether accidentally or stupidly, it's hard to say, bored his competitor out into the audience and caused what might have been a serious accident to both and to a number of onlookers. I had not been surprised to hear during the contest the hisses that are occasionally heard when Canadians compete here, but I was surprised to hear so few after the flasco was over. If the spill was an accident, it was caused by the asinine style of riding of the Toronto men—"hind-before," instead of going on about the business of racing, but it appeared very "fishy" to me, and I was in a good position to judge. If they had been mobbed they could not have had cause for complaint.

If Torontonians expect a soft thing when they compete with Buffalonians at the 74th games, please ald me in disabusing their minds. Novice miles in 4.57 4-5, with about sixty starters bunched on a narrow track, where the winner frequently has to play hide-and-ner frequently has to play hide-andner frequently has to play hide-andseek in getting thru, is no child's play; neither is it unusual. Bobbie Kerr knows he has to go some to get even near the front from scratch in a 100yard dash, where as many heats are run in 10 flat as in 10 2-5.

If you can send over some bicycle riders of the calibre of Fred Schudt of this city, J. M. Tanner of the same place, Eddle Delling, who claims Buffalo as his home, or R. J. Hoover, Adam Fischer, Alf Mercer and Joe Tanner, all Buffalonians, then the sparks will fly; the crowd will get value for their money; 50c, 75c and $1 will not be to much to pay to see the fun, and your worthy sporting editor need exhibit no indecision about getting off at Buffalo.
But don't, please don't, let us have any more attempts to be considered funny at the expense of the feelings of old Toronto boys, among whom I wish to be always regarded as one.

Toronto—and Hamilton, for that matter—need have no fear that her athletes are not worthy. It's simply a case of knowing when you need send your best,
then send 'em.

knowing when you need send your best, then send 'em.

Bobble Kerr is a credit to Canada as a runner, and his ability is by no means confined to 100-yard dashes. I saw him last summer at Kenilworth Park on a muddy track, start from scratch on a curve in what I believe was a quarter-mile handicap. He sprinted along near the inner fence until level with the front man, and then cut diagonally across to the outside fence, on a track as wide as the Woodbine, so as to reach the better "going," and came away to the finish with ease.

On the same track I have seen a Toronfo bicyclist hold his own in good ronto bicyclist hold his own in good shape against some of the speedy ones above named. I am sorry, but I cannot recall his name. He won his heat by such a distance as to open the eyes of such a distance as to open the eyes of his competitors. In consequence, when it came to the final they watched him closely, bunched up at the finish, and as he was coming thru with a great spurt downed him within a few yards of the tape. I don't know if he was unattached, but I do know he was unattached.

tended, for he had to get a local boy to give him a start. Tom Coley ran Nebrich, the Buffalo tended, for he had to get a local boy to give him a start.

Tom Coley ran Nebrich, the Buffalo wonder, into the ground, going thru the field and over the jumps at Keniiworth. It is old news, of course, but I recall it because he impressed me as a coming man, and at the time it was about his second important race on this continent, he having won a road race in Canada a few days before. He won this race much easier than Tom Longboat a flash, as he didn't know Nebrich had race much easier than Tom Longboat a flash, as he didn't know Nebrich had race much easier than Tom Longboat a flash, as he didn't know Nebrich had race much easier than Tom Longboat a flash, as he didn't know Nebrich had race much easier than Tom Longboat a flash, as he didn't know Nebrich had the same man on the track, but that was simply a matter of conditions.

Tom Longboat's first race against the best in the country was also held at Buffalo, in the 74th Armory. That, I am told, was the first indoor run the Indian had taken part in, and it was a corker. Bonhag, then the best three-miler in the country, was his competitor, and at his favorite distance. At that date Longboat had more of a lumbering gait than he has now, and I remarked at the time that in order to win the race he would have to run it out and C. Keverson, the two laxter runters of appliance as he mile run at Kentiworth he did it easily.

that date Longboat had more of a lumbering gait than he has now, and I remarked at the time that in order to win the race he would have to run it out from the start and not imagine he could beat Bonhag out by a sprint at the finitish. Possibly he thought so, too; the time in which the race was run proves that there was no loafing on the way, but Longboat was beaten, I could see, but Longboat was beaten, I could see, before two miles had been covered. His wonderful. Bonhag was doing his best, and there could not have been more than a foot or so separating them when the line was crossed.

The position of the new shrine is on the east half of lot No. 4, concession 7. Tay Township, and it is claimed that it stands upon the site of the Indian village of history, called St. Ignace, where the missionaries suffered death. A few months before I examined the ground on the hill-top, where the shrine now stands; the land had been mostly plowed for corn, and turned up to a depth of 6 or 7 inches, thus exposing what it contained, so that when I saw it the conditions were favorable for showing contained, so that when I saw it the conditions were favorable for showing some evidences of Indian occupation, had any such existed there. To state the case in more definite words, on the patch in question no Indian village ever existed, and the Indian village claimed to have once been there had no existence outside of the imeginations of a few of the immediate promulgators of the theory. Pottery fragments, as also ashbeds, found on a patch of ground are good and reliable evidence that a village once was there especially where Huron Indians dwelt. The first attack is not attack upon a religious order which has nevel had any ground for complaint of unfair treatment at my hands. I am quite sure that none of the clergymen who took part in the dedication of the shrine last August, by which they set upon it the seal of their endorsement and allowed a broadcast advertising of it in the public press, would willingly (mach less would they wilfully) misrepresent historical facts if they knew it. Women of States Indifferent to Suffrage

So Declare English Sisters Who Are Well Informed on Political Matters.

She is revealing herself as a giganchances, for suffrage. The qualities of mind with which she has always been credited, independence, courage and enthusiasm for public interests, it has now been discovered, she can justly claim only in very small de-

They have found American women absolutely ignorant of political affairs and glorying in their ignorance, whereas English women all know about politics, and should any one of them chance to be ignorant of a public question she would sedulously conceal the fact.

They have found American women absolutely ignorant of political affairs and glorying in their ignorance, whereas English women all know about politics, and should any one of them chance to be ignorant of a public question she would sedulously conceal the fact.

This is the word of the pretty speeches which delude poor, unsuspecting men, over attitudes of the two countries—England and America—toward the equal suffrage cause. No woman glories in an unpopular kind of ignorance. A woman never confesses to lacking a virtue which she thinks the public wishes her to possess.

The American woman's indifference times they discover their falsity.

But these speeches are only for public use. No intelligent woman really means them. What she means—and what she really says behind the scenes—is that one can get all one wants without the suffrage, so why bother?

With this thought in mind she puts her husband under the care of his club

A fearful thing is happening to the American woman. She is being found out. Not found out of the house, because that condition, according to her detractors, would be too commonplace to call forth any comment. The discovery that is now gradually being made is a much more important one.

She is revealing herself as a gigan-son to feel exasperated with American tic fraud and a delusion in many of her most cherished traditions. She, who has been supposed to be the most who has been supposed to be the most makes our women who are of the wealemancipated of her sex, it has clearly been shown, is far behind many of her European sisters in all matters that affect her own hopes, or rather chances for suffrage. The qualities also is the hypocrisy of many American English women. Very example also is the hypocrisy of many American women in regard to the suffrage question. Many of them—since they are not prepared to wage an active campaign for suffrage—refuse even to admit their convictions openly.

What is the use, they argue, of saying one believes all women should vote if they wish to do so when one doesn't

This is the most significant of all facts bearing on the widely varying attitudes of the two countries—England and America—toward the equal suffrage countries—toward the equal suffrage countries are only for our suffrage countries.

And American women can't very well feel that they are oppressed in fact. They are permitted to be exceedingly extravagant, and they are made much of in various sorts of the minds of New York women, even if she doesn't procure a following sufficiently inspired to wish to vote or go "The Wheels of Anarchy," appearig next month with Cassell. The first thing the amateur driver would do would be to hitch him to a low wagon with long shafts, which gave the horse every freedom of action, and the herse would trot a mile in 2.10 or 2.11. For a long time it was a great question in the mind of the average trainer why a very hard, which made him very timid to the seconds. I then kent those boots for seconds. Ordinarily a horse hitched to a sulky has the saddle girthed very tight and the shaft girths pulled together to make the sulky run steady; and, in the second place, the driver generally sits on the tail of the horse, which makes a horse feel cramped, and with every effort that he makes feels a resistance, all of which goes to retard his flight of speed. To prove this, a man cannot even swing well unless he has freedom of movement in order to throw every bit of expression and sentiment into the song that he is singing. Neither can a man play baseball with a stiff shirt and high collar on, because when he goes to run he does not want to feel as tho he was hampered in any way. As an example, he gave Edwin Forrest a trial of 2.15 without toe-weights, and the horse was very much exhausted and distressed, because he had to depend upon taking hold of the bit to steady and balance himself. Twenty minutes later he gave him another trial with four-ounce toe-weights, and, to his surprise, the horse trotted an easy mile in 2!14 -2 and was not distressed at all. HOW THEY MAKE AUTOS TORONTO'S BIG FACTORY

a producer in a great and comparatively new industry, the building of automobiles. At the invitation of the Canada Cycle & Motor Co., a Sunday World representative was yesterday shown over the company's monster plant at Toronto Junction by Superintendent Pennal. To thoroly appreciate commercial endeavor of this high order one must be an all-round mechanic with some knowledge of motor-car construction. The seed of initiative was sown a little more than ten years the making of a bicycle. The molten ago, and there immediately sprouted spelter, as it is called, or really molten into sturdy manhood a business of enormous capacity and output that can only be appreciated by a visit in person. The officers of the company are always pleased to show strangers over the plant. Covering 5½ acres and employing a minimum of 600 people, will convey to the reader some idea of the factory's size.

Early in the afternoon the writer boarded a Dundas car at the corner of Queen and Yonge-streets, and in due course arriving at Keele-street in the Junction changed on to a Weston car, which passes right by the factory oors. The huge scale upon which buildings are all carried out, immediately impresses one on getting off the car. The entrance approach is lined with several hundred bicycle stalls, which are filled to their capacity with wheels owned by the employees. A siding from the Grand Trunk and C. P. R. tracks, both of which run by the plant, passes thru the shipping yards. From the comare all merrily clanking, one sees the first operation performed on the raw material in preparation for further treatment in other departments, and which will ultimately find its way to matic and 26 hand-screw machines which will ultimately find its way to the finished Russel car. This is the only plant in Canada, and one of the few on the whole constinent. which makes every individual part used in building an automobile. The

The Subject of Lights. Another matter of considerable im portance and one well worth carefu consideration, is that of lights for all rehicles. Why should not the horse drawn vehicle carry lights as well as the motor-car? A great many accidents would thus be avoided, and, at least, the blame would be placed in

along this line.

As "t is now, the motorist is generally blamed if he happens to have a collision with a horse-drawn vehicle, when in reality the other party is ofttimes to blame, as he had no light whatever, nothing to warn the motor ist. What is fair for one certainly should be fair for the other, and a benefit to both.

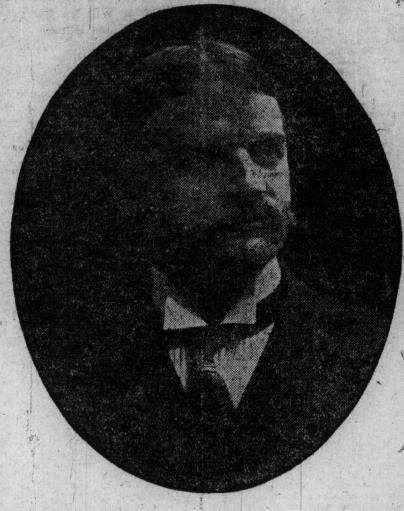

The Roads. A great deal has already been said; a great deal will continue to be said, ncerning the matter of good roads. However, far too little has been done

True it is that a great many experiments are being made with material of different sorts, in the en-deavor to ascertain the best materials for roads. The motoring public certainly are not doing everything possible in this line. Too many are simply sitting by waiting for the other fellow to make the first move. Every individual as well as every motor club should do all in his power to further the cause of good roads. Let each one do a little hustling along this way and there is no reason why they should not accomplish a great deal in a surprisingly short time.

Repairing Disabled Batteries. In using dry batteries, the motorist as a rule has little or no trouble from the time they are installed until the time they are "run out," at which time there is a possibility of stimulating them for a short time by boring a hole in the wax and then putting in a little water.

Occasionally, however, it happens that the motorist is disgusted to find one of the posts broken off, so that he has nothing to which he can attach the terminal wires. Such a condition need not necessarily make the cell entirely useless, especially if the driver has a knife and a little patience. In case the broken terminal is a negative one, the best way to do is to bore a small hole in the side of the zinc casing, insert the wire and twist it tightly so there is no chance for it to jar loose. When it happens that it is the positive terminal which goes wrong, it is generally possible to notch the carbon all around or bore a hole thru it if one is careful. Should the pole be broken off too near the wax, a common wire nail may be driven thru the wax, care being taken not to split the wax, nor to break the carbon. The nall should just touch the carbon and be left protruding far enough so that the wire can be twisted securely about it and thus complete the connection.

The Working Girl Problem

An editorial in The Sunday World of two or three weeks ago entitled, "Do Not Deserve Pity," has aroused some discussion. It dealt with young women who are resorting to a kind of charity search instead of going into household service where good wages are to be earned. A reader, who apparently has not grasped the full purpose and basis of our remarks, has written the following letter to the editor on the subject:

"Editor Sunday World: When my eyes fell on the article entitled 'Do Not Deserve Pity.' my heart went out in sympathy for the girls who have been so rudely misjudged, because the present hard times have deprived them of their work. Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to say a few words in their behalf

"In the cities and towns of this fair Dominion, there are dozens of homes where the only bread-winners are a couple of good, honest girls, girls who perhaps have been going to that shop or factory since they left school at the age of fourteen or fifteen. They have never had chance nor time to learn domestic work. There they toil from seven in the morning until six at night, week in and week out, year after year, whilst others have been deprived of their parents at an early age and have had to join the great ranks. Some are too weak and delicate to do housework and therefore try to earn their living at something easier. One thing is certain, no one is willing to pay high wages to an incompetent person.

"You Christian men who have given your employes starvation wages, and if they rebelled were ready to turn them into the street, now is your chance to stretch out your hand and help those who have perhaps given the best of their lives to your work. But no, instead it is, "No more work at present, times too hard; after a little I may want you again; in a few months when times are better." My imagination can follow that poor girl home. I know it all. I can and do pity her from my heart. No money, no profits for her. Thank God, there is a brighter side. Let us remember there is an eye that ever sees, there is an ear that ever hears and a hand in which a balance is held. A voice says: "With what measure ve mete it shall be measured to you again." Reader, if misfortune has deprived these girls of their work, and some of their true friends have extended a helping hand to them, don't ridicule, don't judge, I beseech you, for certainly they deserve our pity. Yours in the work.

A thoughtful, impartial study of the real facts will prove that the use of the words "rudely misjudged" is unjustifiable. The correspondent, perhaps, has not lived in large cities of Canada and the United States sufficiently long to see every side of social and economic conditions, to become fully acquainted with the false pride which exists amongst a multitude of our young, and to understand how difficult/it is to obtain reliable help in the home at any price. But leaving this phase of the problem aside. the statements in the above letter simply bear out what the editorial contained. There is no doubt that there are dozens of homes in the Dominion in which the only bread winners are girls "who have been going to shop or factory since they left school at the age of fourteen or fifteen.' say "they have never had a chance or time to learn domestic work" is reflecting on their industry and worth. There are few girls who have not more knowledge of housework at fifteen than they have of the work which they are required to do in shops and factories. Those who know nothing of domestic duties are indeed to be pitied, for their brothers are familiar enough with ordinary tasks around a home to do them if necessary.

When a girl goes out to work in shop or factory she has to apply herself. She has to learn how to perform certain labor. Her employers do not pay her to sit in a chair with her hands folded. Hence she begins at something of which she knows nothing, and by application and instruction she learns. After a while her wage is increased, until she can eke out

Does our correspondent suggest that the average Canadian girl knows less than nothing about housework? It is surely impossible, ridiculous, to suppose that she cannot inside of a week learn enough from her mother or her mistress to perform reasonable service in a home.

Any girl who has spent fifteen years of her life under her mother has had a chance to grasp at least the rudiments of domestic work.

To contend that some are too weak and delicate to do housework is to say that it is easier for them to toil from nine to ten hours a day in the unhealthy atmosphere of shops and factories, or stand from eight to ten hours on their feet in crowded stores. This seems preposterous. It might be true if girls were called upon to do drudgery in homes. They often are, but what we maintain was that there are hundreds of homes where no neavy labor is asked. These places are seeking help; they are willing to pay well for it, but rather than enter such service girls accept monetary assistance from friends.

The wail of the girl who will not work because she cannot find employment in shop, factory or office, may be pitiful, but its source is wrong. Social life to-day is to be blamed for this state of affairs. It has given girls the views they now hold. It has created in them a dislike for the broom and dishpan. It has brought girls to a spirit of rebellion when they are entreated to accept employment as maids. It has even given them the opinion that up to fifteen they should not even look at housework lest they learn it. How else could they arrive at that age and be ignorant of it. as "L. N." states?

We fail to see wherein our Lindsay reader has offered any argument, which, in all fairness, should be accepted as against the facts we have.

What Little Things Mean

Here is a world around you. You see it. You understand itlittle. You comprehend it-partly. You estimate its time by years and months and seconds, and its space by miles and inches. The universe is the largest thing we can think of, and an atom is the smallest.

The books used to teach us that an atom was a particle of matter on small that it could not be divided any further. Modern science admits that this is a mistake. It knows that atoms are made up of smaller parts. a hydrogen atom of perhaps 800 parts, a mercury atom of 160,000, and an atom of radium of more than 200,000 parts1

These parts are widely separated, too-not as we think of distance but tremendously far apart for them. Compared with the size of the atom, they are like so many grains of dust in a gigantic football. Sin Oliver Lorge likened them to mice in a cathedral.

Science admits that, if you were small enough, you could walk thru a brick wall or even put your finger into an armor plate, and never touch anything! More than that, you would scarcely see any of the particles in the wall or the armor plate except as far-distant suns or planets.

Still, all these 200,000 parts make the atom, and they are held in place as they whirl and circle by forces which must be something like those which hold our earth and planets together, making our universe.

Here is a part of the tremendous thought-our universe is only one of an endless chain of universes! The atom has its universe, which science calls the infra-world. It has its proportionate time and space, and its suns and planets which revolve, for the atomic universe, quite as majestically as ours do for us; only a thousand million of its years, or perhaps a thousand billion of them, make probably about one second of our time.

While you glance once at an atom, countless of its solar systems are born and swept away, perhaps with worlds and kingdoms and dynasties

Then there is also the supra-world, the next largest universe to ours, of which we are an atom. One of its days is a trillion of our years. A hundred billion of our years are less than a second in this next large

And that isn't nearly all. There is the infra-infra world, and the supra-supra world, and innumerable universes still smaller and still larger -a chain wherein the suns of one are the atoms of the next.

After this comes the greatest part of the tremendous thought-all these universes are related.

Every one depends upon the others. A single movement of one of the infinitesimally small portions of any one of the 200,000 corpuscles which make up an atom of radium—that has its effect upon the hugest central sun of the greatest universe of all!

The fruit of the smallest act lives forever. Everything is of infinite

Call this fancy, if you like, but it makes us think, doesn't it?—one ugly thought going out to do harm everywhere and as long as time continues, and one kiss which a mother gives her boy has an eternal and omnipresent influence for holiness!-Toledo News-Bee.

Democracy in Monarchs

In shaking hands with three leaders of a band of stonecutters who attempted tot mob him, King Emmanuel of Italy exemplified democracy is a way which monarchs rarely adopt.

The men were out of work, and they thought by mobbing him they would get a chance of expressing their grievances directly to the sovereign. The king sent for three of the principals, had an hour's talk with them in the quirinal, promised to see they were no longer idle and shook hands heartily with them on parting.

It is very rare that a monarch comes so closely in touch with those of his subjects who are workingmen. He is guarded by ministers and court attendants from everything of a common nature. This shuts him away from the real wants and needs of his people. He often does not know the actual conditions prevailing in the country over which he sways

When, however, he does get an opportunity of speaking man to man with the working class it is a manifestation of greatest kingship for him to avail himself of it.

This act of King Emmanuel will do much to endear him to his countrymen by whom he is already beloved.

When the congress of religions met in Chicago, a few years ago, the advocates of other faiths, acknowledged the supremacy of Jesus.

Where do you put Jesus Christ in your thoughts? Consider the homage the world pays to Him to-day. When all culture has done its best, a tithe of His beauty and perfection has not been told.

How do you account for His transcendent power of beauty?

The greatest element in Christianity is Jesus Christ. His character proves His divinity.

A great English author has said that if Shakespeare could enter into a room, those in it would immediately rise, as a token of respect, but if Jesus Christ entered the same room the same persons would instinctively kneel. The second great miracle is the power Jesus has over the minds, consciences and lives of millions of men.

BLAME YOURSELF.

It is amusing to the student of human nature (one of the most interesting and essential studies of this age) to hear men in trouble, or in debt, or in misfortune, blame someone else instead of blaming themselves. It is characteristic of human nature, and is an incidental proof that we all sprang from a common parentage. Adam (the prince of cowards) blamed Eve (the mother of apologists), and she in turn blamed the serpent, who then as now acknowledged the coin, and in common with the human race still bears the marks of his disobedience.

Now and then you meet a man who is courageous enough to admit his guilt, or want of judgment, or foresight—a manly fellow, who takes all the blame for his mistakes, or mismanagement—but 90 per cent. of the men and women in the world to-day will lay the blame on others. A owes B some money and can't pay it because C hasn't paid him. Mrs. S. didn't do her duty (to herself, her neighfor, her Creator), because Mrs. J. slighted her or didn't acknowledge her former kindness, or did her an injury. The president didn't save the company when it was in his power because the shareholders did not pass a vote of thanks to him for what he had already done.

And yet such people think they can square themselves with responsibility by their mean, cowardly excuses. It is well to remember as we pass along this way for the first and last time that God Almighty (who is the only one capable of judging the quality of our actions) takes no excuse from anyone. If we have a reason for our conduct, or our misconduct, He will accept it, but let us be sure that we have a reason and not an excuse. Most people see no difference.

A SOUTHERN HUMORIST.

George R. Stuart, who speaks in Massey Hall this Sunday afternoon and evening is the kind of man the people like to hear. Among the many testimonials sent to my desk I regard the following, from Rev. Frank, W. Gunsaulus, Chicago, as being worthy of note:

"I have just engaged George Stuart for the fifteen hundred young men at

we have a reason and not an excuse.

Most people see no difference.

First, don't blame the "times." What a lot of blame the "times" are getting just now from business men, as tho the "times" were responsible for the failure to meet their obligations! I am told that a well-known York-street delebrity blamed the "times" for his neglect to pay his pal the dime he borrowed the week before. And he would have just as good a reason for doing so as many of the promoters of wildcat enterprises nave for their inability to carry out their promises. How often have we heard of late the hackneyed phrase, "owing to the stringency of the money market." or "the times are so bad" we were unable "to float the company" or "meet our obligations"? Why not tell the truth, and nothing but the truth, as God knows it? Misfortune may come to any careful and honest man; troubles may enter the door unobserved of the best-managed business house in the city. These are among the "trials of our faith," designed for our good. Let us meet them like men-manly men-and not blame the "times" an irresponsible non-entity.

FELL DOWN STAIRS WITH CHILD

The following testimonial proves once again the superiority of "Nature's Healing Balm," Zam-Buk. Mrs. L. Spalding of 505 Erie St., Stratford, Ont., says: "Some time back I met with a peculiar accident while descending the stairs with a child in my arms. I slipped, falling heav by on my left arm and elbow, receiving a flesh wound. My arm was inflamed, swollen and very painful. I tried different preparations, but the wound kept discharging and refused to heal. About this time my brother suggested using Zam-Buk. I acted upon his advice. Zam-Buk thoroughly cleaned the wound, stopped all discharging and soothed the pain and in four weeks the wound was nicely healed. I have had perfect use of both elbow and arm ever since and owe this good luck to the wonderful healing balm Zam-Buk and would advise others to use nothing else." At the Princess. "The Walls of Jericho."

"The Walls of Jericho" was first produced at the Garrick Theatre, London, where it created no end of discussion and interest because it mirrored in such a powerful light the follies and weaknesses of the so-called smart set. It took all London by storm and caused the same interest and curiousity when it was first given in New York some few months later. There is an atmosphere of sincerity about this play, which gives it a charm that has merited the popular recognition accorded it.

England. In the Heidelberg University library is preserved the oldest newspaper extant. It found its way there from the monastery of Salem, on the dissolution of the latter in 1802.

Nathan Straus of New York, who has been attending lectures in Heidelberg, given by Prof. Adolf Koch, received from Prof. Koch some copies of this newspaper for disposal among a few American friends.

Prof. Koch prepared a partial fac simile in 1895 for presentation as a souvenir of the conference of German authors and journalists. It presents some amusing features when contrasted with the product of the presses to-day. For instance, the heading in the first communication begins with the word "Zeitung." At that time "Zeitung" meant simply "news." Under this head came items concerning events of world wide importance. It is as unemotional was The London Times' announcement of the battle of Trafalgar, which saved England from Napoleon—a single line, above a stick of news, "Death of Lord Nelson."

This German pioneer paper was published about 1609 by Johann Carolus. As an instance of the sort of news contained under the head of "Zeitung" may be mentioned the discovery of the telescope by Galilei.

In the preface, the publisher explains that he has been publishing newspapers for some years, and that the present volume is the continuation of former venture. Therefore, it appears probable that the first appearance of this paper was near the beginning of the 17th century.

A prettily engraved border sur rounds the title of the paper. Three angels are embracing each other, bearing a cross, an anchor and a flam-ing heart, symbolic of Faith, Hope and Charlty. In the right corner below the recumbent sheep, the monogram M. F. is visible. On the side panels is represented the fight between David and Goliath.

An Arabic numeral signifies the beginning of the first paragraph of the text overleaf. The paper contains correspondence from 17 towns, including Frankford-on-Main, Amsterdam, Brus-sels, Colonge, Rome, Venice and Vien-The letters are weekly. In fact, all the first newspapers were political

The Roman and Chinese Empires had from an early period issues simi-lar to newspapers. The Roman sheet was called Acta Diurna (Daily Occurrences), and, as may be surmised of those days of glory, there was a plentiful supply of "hot stuff." The reporters of this sheet were officers, and went by the name of actuarii.

Another official sheet which resembled a newspaper was The Peking Gazette (Tching-nao), which was published in the Tang dynasty, between 713 and 741. This paper has been issued daily for centuries, too.

the emigration to the Dominion of the workless from this country."

Such a mission on the part of the general organizer of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress is laudable enough, seeing that the object of the party he represents is to keep down the supply of skilled workmen, thereby maintaining the highest possible rate of wages for the Canadian trade unionist.

How far such a purpose tends to the ultimate good of the colony it is not for me to decide—the point that trouples me in the whole matter is that bles me in the whole matter is that Mr. Trotter in voicing the "eraigrants' bitter cry," fails to explain that he is only spokesman for a limited section of the community.

The market for skilled workmen in The market for skilled workmen in Canadian industrial centres is, I have every reason to believe, greatly overstocked; but there are openings—nay, more, there is a great need—for emigrants other than skilled workers who will only follow their particular trade; and this is where Mr. Trotter displays but one side of the case. The skilled artizan who goes out from our old country, with its crowded cities, to a young country where cities as we know them have hardly begun to exist, cannot in reason expect to find the work there, which our teeming populations here have denied him.

Wealth in the Soil.

The worker in cities for the needs of cities is likely to be idle in a land where cities hardly exist. In quoting the hard case of the "twenty stone cutthe hard case of the "twenty stone cut-ters, the draper, the six carpenters, the baker, the four bricklayers and two plumbers," who, in a gang of 60 men, dug trenches in the streets of Calgary in August, the delegate of the trade unions entirely forgets to mention that the department of the interior was simultaneously advertising for harvest-ers. While in Ottawa this September simultaneously advertising for harvesters. While in Ottawa this September I myself saw photographs of vast masses of wheat which were left to rot for lack of labor to deal with them. If the skilled worker in cities goes out to a land of small and few cities prepared to dig trenches in the streets rather than turn himself back to the soil, the mother of health and giver of wealth, he has small right to a of wealth, he has small right to shearing when he utters his "bitter cry." The point, it seems to me, is not to ventilate the failure of the unfitted who have gone to a new country and refused to adapt themselves to its needs (tho that is deplorable enough), but to insign widely and tralegally on the kind (tho that is deplorable enough), but to insist widely and tirelessly on the kind of emigrant likely to succeed in Canada. There is plenty of work for domestic servants, for farmers, for farm laborers; and the man of capital, however small, who goes to the Dominion goes to certain wealth.

In Nova Scotia, at Gaspereau, fruit growers make £1000 a year, and only work four months of the year; they can gather ten to twelve barrels of apples off one tree; and at least one farmer who began by working on the land of another farmer saved enough from his wages to buy some wild land, which he has now so well in hand that he would not sell it for $1000 an acre. While I was visiting Kingsmere, outside Ottawa, I found the farmer on the land adjoining had discovered mica of excellent quality on the soil he owned and was tilling. He possesses a for-tune in his land. A Devonshire man— settled at Birtle, in Manitoba—told me that during his first year in Can-ada he was so reduced that the he would have sold his shirt to return to the old country he could not raise hi passage money, and so was forced to work as a laborer on another man's farm. The nearest approach to this in a European step is the Hungarian mazourka, or "csardas." In this the syncopated time is used to a great extent. Announcement is made of the opening of an Optical and Kodak Establishment at 131 Yonge Street, Toronto, by Joseph C. Williams, Prescription Optician.

Mr. Williams' years of select experience with the leading optical house of New York, and his position of recent years as manager of Ryri Brothers' Optical Department, Toronto, are suggestive of the kind of service to be had at his present quarters.

Numerous styles of glasses offered are exclusive designs. All lenses and mountings made by him are of the very best quality. Mr. William enjoys the distinction of being the first optician in Canada to successfully grind the celebrated "Kryptok" Invisible Bifocal Lenses and has acquired patents and exclusive rights to manufacture these lenses for the Dominion

Mr. Williams says: "You may trust the care of your glasses here with confidence. The pleasure of serving you is most respectfully solicited.

To arrest an increase of naval expenditure the proper thing to do was to remove misunderstandings between the governments and the ings between the governments and t promote fraternity among the peoples It was no use swearing at the ther memeter that merely registered the temperature. Reduce the temperature and the mercury will fall in the tube as a natural consequence. Accepting this counsel we set to work to extend the entente with France to the Ger mans. We removed all misunderstandings and we seized every opportunity of showing sympathy and appreciation of the German nation and its sovereign, What followed? Alas the mercury ing the thermometer did not begin to fall. Armaments did not begin to contract. The very moment when the kaiser and his chancellor were publicly certifying that all misunderstandings had disappeared and that the two nations were on the best of terms, the German naval program appeared renations were on the best of terms, the German naval program appeared recommending an increase of expenditure amounting to three millions a year! I do not wish to exaggerate the significance of the increase. It is obvious that the program was prepared when that the program was prepared when the relations between the two empires were much less friendly than they are to-day. Estimates and programs, especially in a nation so methodical as the Germans, cannot be cut down at a moment's notice. But wtatever may be the explanation the fact remains. We have cut down the British estimates and it is now proposed to increase the German estimates by three millions a year.

Now what have we to do under these circumstances? We can do one of two things. We can either ignore the increased expenditure of our neighbors or we can meet it in such a way as to maintain the status quo. If we have to maintain the status quo, which is roughly that of two to one, then for every new Dreadnought Germany builds we must build two. If we do not do this, then the Germans will, to the extent of three millions a year, alter the existing status quo to their advantage and to our detriment. Can we afford to accept this position? To ask this question is to answer it. We can-not afford to be an empire on suffer-mates, and it is now proposed to in-

men as Robinson, Rubenstein, Pereira, Barnston, Geddes, and many others, some few years ago, led the world, but to-day, little or no interest is shown by the rising generation, in this, our noble and once national winter pastime. Ottawa, which is the home of the Minto Skating Club, perhaps is doing more to revive the "poetry of motion" than any other city in the Dominion. Annual contests are held and valuable trophies awarded to the lucky lady and gentleman competitor. Quebec, Tcronto and Kingston skapers seem Toronto and Kingston skaters seem content merely to skirt the rink and rarely ever attempt artistic figures, barring an odd "rocker" or so seen at their clubs. Montreal enthusiasts are wrapped up wholly in the old-time valse, and is it not to be regretted that Canadians generally, show such lack of interest in this graceful sport? Theirs is the most ideal skating ground in the world. Should this gloriously fascinating art become a lost one? To revive it would be a simple matter, were the various become a lost one? To revive it would be a simple matter, were the various skating rink directors to offer gold medals to be competed for by both children and adults. Many of the old-timers would willingly, in the name of this grand old science and sport (which Canadians have apparently let slide), participate as judges and assist our boys and girls in not being outdone by others over the line, or even across the big pond.

"I slip, I slide, I glance, I glide, On the oueside edge I dote; I rush on with a merry shout, Then like the swallow float."

Few places attract as large crowds of young people during the winter season as open air skating rinks. This shows a throng at Moss Park, Toronto. Long, it is evident that the year's publications in this field will have plenty of variety and interest.

McClure Company, Dr. Pappaport tells a gruesome story of two strange presentiments which Czar Paul I. had not only of his approaching assassination, but of the manner in which it would be but of the manner in which it would be performed. He was riding in one of the alleys of his new palace five days before his death when he suddenly stopped his horse, and, turning to his companion, exclaimed in great alarm: "I feel quite suffocated! I feel as if I were going to die! Will they strangle me?" On the night of his assassination the emperor was in unusually me?" On the night of his assassination the emperor was in unusually high spirits, joking pleasantly with his guests, but after dinner he caught sight of himself in a looking glass which had a flaw and exclaimed: "What a strange mirror! My neck looks as if it were twisted." When the end approached at last and the conend approached at last and the conspirators were entering his bedroom, the emperor, overcome with fear, hid in the chimney and had to be dragged down by the leg. "What have I done?" he exclaimed, trembling, and falling on his knees, he begged and prayed for morey. His protestations were unmercy. His protestations were un-heeded; several officers threw them-one of these physicians told the reporter that his brother had been almost entirely cured of deafness by Meyer's machine and that he regarded it as an interesting invention. He said the principles involved were simple, but that it produced affects upon the ear that it produced effects upon the ear drum which physicians had never been able to do.

The apparatus consists of small electric batteries, a delicate diaphragm that corresponds to an ear drum, small rubber tubes and other mechanism, with two little tubes that fit into the ears like the ear tubes of a phonograph. When these are applied to the ears the machine is set in motion and its functions are varied according to the condition of the patient. When asked to describe just what the

"It draws the ear drum out in position and holds it there, and while holding it massages, exercises and vibrates the drum, at the same time sending an electric current thru the auricles and auditory nerves of the ear."

COMPULSORY STUDIES.

S.J. MacKnight of Toronto has the following letter in The New York Post: At the session of the American Academy of Medicine at Philadelphia, an address was made by President J. G. Schurman against the "elective principle." This address has been widely reported, and in it the president says: reported, and in it the president says:
"It is the duty of college faculties not to allow a boy of 17 or 18 years to choose what he shall study, notwith-standing the fact that one of the leading educators of the United States (President Eliot) takes issue with me."
The present writer is one of those who are not very much enamored with col-lege education, taken even at its best, but who regard the "elective principle" as a slight step in the direction of ra-tionality. I should like to point out that young men are obliged to make choice, on their own initiative, of matters which are of more importance to them than even a plan of education. Take, for instance, the choice of a profession, or life-work, the choice of a helpmate, nay, the choice between virtue and vice, between temperance and debauchery, etc. Young men of 17 or 18, or "boys," as President Schurman is reported as calling them, are not necessarily such nincompoops, the the mollycoddling system defended by President Schurman has a tendency to discourage their self-reliance. How many "boys" of that age have laid down their lives for their country! Nay, more than this, college students are not thrown altogether on their own initiative. They have friends, fathers, grandfathers, uncles, mothers, well-wishers, some of whom may have pronounced opinions on educational subjects. The very fact of an elective program being laid down means that the burden of choice is taken off the young man's shoulders to a great extent, the faculty declaring tacitly that all the alternative courses are sound and good. In my opinion, the time spent by a medical student in his "arts course" is practically wasted, and the utility of the
