Nations Unite in Reception Champlain, De Monts and Poutrincourt veiling of Monument to Canadian Heroes.

The spectacular feature of the Tercentenary celebration is over and it is safe to say that never in the history of this city had there been such a success, unless it was when three hundred years ago one June morning a French frigate rounded the island with the gallant explorer Champlain and sailed up the harbor and in a short time succeeded in convincing the natives of his peaceful intention, exchanged gifts, presented them with a royal proclamation from the King of France, marveiled at their dance and smoked their pipe of peace. This was the scene that was reproduced this morning, and every detail was carried out to the satisfaction of all, particularly the hundreds of visitors who all express themselves as delighted with the display and the arrangements. The glorious weather, bright and cool, could not have been better for the purpose.

The time set for the arrival of Champlain was 9 o'clock; but long before eight people had taken up positions on the wharfs, roofs of buildings and in fact every spot along the harbor front from which a view of any kind could be had was occupied. Even far off Fort Howe had its quota, who, with

Then we are old that the braves got out their birch bark canoes and made an attack on the essel, but were soon assured of the eaceful intention of the visitor. With what suspicion these wondering red men must have viewed the strangers would be hard to guess. To Champlain, while on either side stood W. H. Harrison as Poutrincourt and H. M. To him the one great mystery must have been—what is beyond? Through that narrow gorge, where rushed those restless waters could be had a glimpse of a wild and woody country—was it a land of gold and fabulous treasure, or laid and gold and fabulous treasure, or laid to the laid of gold and fabulous treasure, or laid to the laid of gold and fabulous treasure, or laid to the laid of gold and fabulous treasure, or laid to the laid of gold and fabulous treasure, or laid to the laid of gold and fabulous treasure. As the cumbersome looking vessel came in view one could not help thinking of the great contrast between the scene as it was today and as it was on June 24th, 1604. What a picture greeted the eyes of the venturesome sailors, gravel beaches, heavily wooded hills and rugged rocky projections, while suepiclous and wondering Indians looked cautiously from their concealment at the strange visitor that was so rude-

THE MILITARY PARADE.

The military parade of the demonstration was exceptionally well handled. Before nine o'clock the local militiamen, together with a detachment from the W. S. cruiser Detroit, a small detachment from the French cruiser Troude and the city cadet corps formed in Market square in line of quarter columns. The formation was three sides of a square facing the slip. Lt. Col. White, D. O. C., and his staff were in the centre. The corner near Dock street was held by the naval contingent, next came the squadron from the $th Hussars, then the cadet corps and one company of the 3rd Regt. C. UNVEILING THE MONUMENT.

The monument was draped in the Union Jack, and when Dr. Gilchrist took charge of the proceedings, a brilliantly colored gathering was grouped on and around the pedestal. Included among these were the major, the captains and officers of the men-o'-war lying in the harbor, the officials of the park committee and many. ladies, including Mrs. Baizley, Mrs. James McAvity, Mrs. Eagles, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. W. Gale, Mrs. W. H. Miles, Mrs. Geo. Thompson, Mrs. Whelpley, Mrs. Hawkhurst, Mrs. Hanselpecker, Mrs. Robert Dalton, Mrs. Vanwart, Mrs. Worden and Mrs. Parks.

We were not therefore in this celebration acknowledging a debt of gratitude, such as we should pay to the memories of men who had, for instance, founded our city or been largely instrumental in shaping our national destinies. We were rather honoring the courage and hardihood of those early pioneers and navigators of unknown seas. Incidentally we were not averse to felicitating ourselves on the age and respectability of this country of ours which borders la baye Francois of Champlain.

AMHERST, June 23.—Detective
Power arrived last night from Hallfax, bringing with him John McKinnon of Springhill, who was indicted for sending a threatening letter to Mines, in an attempt to collect an ac-count he said was due him. McKin-non attempted to escape trial by go-ing to Halifax, and when captured by Power, was arranging to go to New-foundland. He made arrangements to reimburse his sureties for the expenses of bringing him up for trial. He was brought before Justice Meagher this morning and pleaded guilty. Tartars, 7; Portlands, 5. At the Shamrock grounds yesterday afternoon the Tartars of Fredericton defeated the Portlands in a ten-inning contest, which gave the spectators a good run for their money. While the majority would doubtless have liked to have seen the home team win, they were satisfied with the afternoon's amusement and could hardly expect any other result with the pitchers available.

Malloy was in the box for the visitors and did magnificent work, holding the Portlands down to seven hits. Mc-Cormick essayed to do the twirling for the locals and went to the bad in quick time. He was followed by McLeod. There was a general feeling that the Portlands should have put a pitcher in at the start of the game instead of allowing an outfielder and backstop to do the work. Trecartin was on hand, but was not used. Howard and Titus could not get away from their business to play.

His Grace Archbishop O'Brien, who left for Halifax today on the Atlantic express, spoke in the highest terms of the tercentenary celebration, and notes with much pleasure the enthusiasm and hospitality of the people of St. John.

Chief Paul toid the Star that he was thoroughly satisfied with the manner in which the Melicite Indians carried out their part in the landing of Champlain. The manner of reception, he said, was copied from that of the great grandfather of the tribe, and the boys in the route next time the ferry has sure they were as tired of hearing him as he was of hearing him as he wa

As they passed Mrs. Baizley's house the artillery paid a compliment to her efforts in procuring the statue by saluting the house. When the procession reached the Market square the different units disbanded and marched to their own headquarters. The band of the artillery played the Marseillaise as the detachment from the Troude marched past.

THE CROWDS. Probably such crowds as filled the city streets today were never equalled here before, with the exception of the York. It was one continuous crush and with the arrival of each train the throng steadily increased. Everybody was astir early and the beautiful weather made all feel happy. Of course the objective point for all was Market Square and all roads, streets and street cars and vehicles led in that direction. The crowd was such that no sane man would attempt an estimate as to the number of people. However, all was orderly and the only excitement was that occasioned by the display and the satisfaction of realizing that the tercentenary was a real York. It was one continuous crush display and the satisfaction of realizing that the tercentenary was a real success; one that all could be proud of and that will never be forgotten.

One of the sights of the day was the crowds on North nad South Market wharves. Not only were the long wharves vlack with people but every window was filled and the roofs lined. Along the harhor front every available. Along the harbor front every available foot of standing room was occupied, while the vessels at the wharves were over-run. Several active men climbed the bell-tower containing the laborer's bell and as Champlain stepped from the cance to the shore the bell was rung with vigor but not much time. Telegraph poles were also used as observation points.

All along the line of march of the All along the line of march of the military procession to Riverview Park, dense crowds thronged the street. It was a good tempered and happy mob which stretched from Market Square to the depot, where an immense crowd had taken advantage of points which afforded a good view. Along Dock street and around the corner of Main it was the same. At Fort Howe many had gathered and got a splendid view of the troops marching past.

Along Douglas avenue there was one continuous throng of pedestrians. The cars were crowded to the steps and vehicles of all kinds, artistically and fantastically decorated had been

Words of praise were heard on all hands this morning for the manner in which the affiair was handled. The police did excellent work and deserve great' credit. Chief Clark had his entire force at work, even the night men being out. Only one rope was cut and then no effort was made to break

The street car service was interrupted for almost one hour this morning. Manager Earle seeing the trouble the passing of the cars through the square was causing the police ordered when the formation was broken up every car on the main line was in the vicinity of the square. The tercenten-ary committee and the police greatly appreciate Mr. Earle's forethought in stopping the cars.

The crew of the French warship showed their interest in the affair by vigilantly cheering the Champlain craft as she sailed past their vessel. So far the police have only heard of one case of pocket picking and this occurred in a crowd on King street on Thursday afternoon and was no doubt done by an expert as the job was an excellent one, at least that is the way the police look at it.
