The Florida Saurian Was Killed by His Bronx Park Rival.

New York, July 15.-A Florida alligator measuring 8 feet 9 inches from the tip of his tail to the end of his nose arrived at the New York Zoological Park a week ago. He was captured and sent north from Florida. The park people christened him Ike. Until yesterday Ike was kept in a tank by himself and seemed for all the world to be pleased with himself and purpose with a vote of 500,000 lire. It all around him. Yesterday it was decided to put him in the big pit with an old alligator which has been in the park collection some time, and whose name is Pete. Pete is 9 feet 7 inches over all. Hitherto he has had the pit all to himself and was thought good-natured. But when the new alligator made his appearance yesterday Pete didn't like it a bit. The two alligators looked at one another from different ends of the pit for some time. Finally Pete, diving under water reappeared within a few feet of Ike and opened his enormous jaws so that Ike could see down his throat. It was a gage of combat, and Ike accepted it. A fight followed that lasted for two nours and a half. The water in the pit was beaten into foam and was soon dyed red with the blood of the animals that flowed freely from the wounds made by the combatants. It wasn't long before the attendants heard of it. and four keepers hurried to the pit armed with clubs and spears. The pit about 10 feet deep and 25 feet long, and the fighting animals were fighting all over it. The clubs and even the sharp-pointed spears failed to separate them, and a rope was resorted to. After many attempts one of the keepers managed to lasso the big alligator. Then, while the others tried to keep Ike away with the spears and clubs, two of the keepers tried to drag Pete along to the end of the tank.

They had almost succeeded when the alligator got away and went and was tolled only on Ascension Day. after his antagonist. Despite the rope around his neck, which had worked down so far as to leave his jaws free, Pete met the rush of the other, and opening wide his enormous jaws, neck. There was a crunching sound, and it was all over. When Pete finally let go his hold it was seen that the new alligator had been choked death in the vise-like grip of Pete's

The body was lifted out, and then Pete became quiet again. It will be a long time before any more alligators are put in his pit.

New York, July 16. — "Whistling in church? Why not? If God gave me the gift to emulate the birds, why should

Young in years but aged in appearance, losing your vitality, nervous, forgetful. Have you wasted the vigor of youth? Are you weak when you should be strong? Do you have "come-and-go" pains in your back, hips, shoulders and around your heart? Are you worn out before your time, man?

If you want to be as vigorous as you were before you lost your strength, to get up in the morning brighter than when you go to bed, to lose your pains and have a sound stomach and regular bowels, and become again a strong, perfect and healthy man, use }

DR. McLAUGHLIN'S ELECTRIC BELT.

It has restored health and strength to thousands of weak and impotent men. If used as I direct it is a positive cure and cannot fail.

Estella E. Gordon, Staples, Ont., writes: "I received the Belt all O.K., and ammore than pleased with it. I think it is worth many times its price, as I have found it almost an instant cure. I have worn it less than one month."

Letters like this are in every mail. Ask them and be convinced. Mrs. John Whitefield, Columbus, Ont., says; "To speak the truth, I cannot say too much for your Belt. It is the best remedy I have used since my health failed, and that is 32 years ago. All this time I have been spending money for drugs which did me no good. Since I got your Belt I have not taken one dose of medicine."

Ennis Chambers, Massey Station, Ont., writes:—"It is two months since I received your Belt and it is all right, and more than I expected. The nervousness is all gone and so is the tired feeling. I could not have done the work I am doing this spring if it was not for your Belt."

The confidence I have in the wonderful curative powers of my Belt allows me to offer any man or woman who can give me reasonable security the use of the Belt at my risk, and they can

He gave chase, followed by the assistant jailer, and found difficulty in keeping up to his prisoner. Forepaugh-Sells Circus.

Now that the circus is coming tomorrow, there will be a general relation of first experiences at the circus. Every man's story is the same as all the others, although to him it seems as if no one else could have had so thrilling a time and carried quite as much water for the elephants as he did. The circus is certainly a great rejuvenator, and is just as wonderful in the eyes of the young as ever. The which is brought to mind by the fact that the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Enormous Shows United will be here tomorrow (Thursday), July 17.

CHICAGO STRIKE IS BREAKING

Most of Freight Handlers to Resume Work Today-Doings of the Molders.

END OF CANADIAN NORTHERN

STRIKE. Winnipeg, Man., July 15.-It is stated that the Canadian Northern Railway has agreed to recognize the unions of the engineers and firemen, conductors and telegraphers, and all that is to be done now is to sign the schedules. While this may be true, several officials of the various orders are on their way here, and it is hardly was heard. My little girl ran to me likely negotiations will be completed

GENERAL EIGHT-HOUR DAY. Toronto, July 15.—At the meeting of the Iron Molders' Union this morning a motion for an eight-hour work day, to be inaugurated on May 1, 1903, all over America, was presented and referred to a committee.

THE FREIGHT HANDLERS. Chicago, July 15 .- With agreements reached between four railroads and their employes, the strike of the freight handlers and teamsters, that has paralyzed the industries of Chicargo for a week, is apparently broken.

A majority of the strikers are expected to return to work tomorrow. By Thursday, according to the present outlook, there will be few evidences of the strike. Some of the more radical unionists may refuse to accept the terms accepted by representative committees, but apparently they will be able to wield but little influance with the majority of the strikers. It is possible, however, that the radicals may prevent the strike from being called off at a mass meeting of the freight handlers called for tomorrow morn ing. On the action taken at this meeting will depend the attitude of the striking teamsters. Their national president, Al. Young, ordered them back to work tomorrow, but if the freight handlers refuse to declare the strike officially off some of the teamsters may refuse to work. It is conceded that their officials exercise little absolute authority. The four railroads that entered into agreements with their men tonight were the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Chicago and Northwestern, the Nickel Plate and the Illinois Central. Of the four, the Northwestern and the Illinois Central accepted the proposition made upon advice of the teamsters' board of arbitration. The Nickel Plate and Lake Shore succeeded in getting their men to sign the scale submitted by the railroads on

While the signing of the agreement breaks the strike, it does not end it. It is still in progress as far as 20 o the 24 railroads in the city are concerned. President Curran and a few of his supporters are still unreconciled and state that they will not re cognize any of the agreements. The fact remains, however, that the majority of the freight handlers are seemingly tired of the strike, and eager to return to work. It is probable that they will be given an opportunity to do so tomorrow.

Anarchists Try to Blow Up English Ships-Intense Heat Prevails in Paris.

London, Tuesday, July 16.-The newspapers display great anxiety regarding the situation in the cotton trade. They describe Lancashire as preparing to fight for its existence as the world's closed and orders from India have al-

The Daily Mail says that at the bidding of bold groups of American speculators the mill owners had to choose between conducting their business at a heavy loss or stopping. The writer declares that certain groups headed by Theodore Price, of New York, have gradually acquired control of what is left of the old crop of cotton. The new crop not being available until September, the Lancashire manufacturers will have to pay about $100,000,000 extra for raw material between now and October unless something is done. The present situation means ruin for them. America is fighting for the British markets, and India is building her own factories.

TO BLOW UP WAR VESSELS. Paris. July 16.-Attempts to blow up arsenals and powder magazines have been made daily for the last fortnight throughout France, principally at Brest, Toulon, Nimes and Lyons. Brest the sentinels were attacked five nights in succession. The police inspector put in charge of the case says he believes the anti-war section of Anarchists, founded a year ago, now has branches in other countries, the members being pledged to destroy all kinds of armament by every possible means. He said that there were three attempts last week to blow up English warships, but they were carefully kept from the public. The Genoa coast batteries and several big guns have been ruined with acids.

LOYALTY STRAINED. Kingstown Island of St. Vincent, Saturday, July 12.—At an important public meeting held at Port-of-Spain, Island of Trinidad on Friday, July 11, largely attended by sugar planters and others, there was an interesting discussion of the sugar crisis in the British West Indies, and the inadegreat republic in the north that knows so well how to protect its own and foster the industries of its citizens.' This sentiment is shared by many people in the West Indies but the press generally deprecates the expression of such views.

Springfield, Ohio, July 16.—Charles W. Whitlatch and Lena Seigle, of this city, won a purse of $100 at the Elks' carnival by being married in the lions cage. In the presence of several thousand persons, the young couple were escorted to the cage by L. H. Harris and Frank Torrence, headed by the cadet band.

Two trainers entered the cage and drove the lions to one end, and the bridal party stepped inside and the door was closed. The ceremony was performed by Magistrate H. D. Brydon, Past Exalted Ruler Harris acting as best man. It took five minutes to tie the knot and the party then made a hasty exit, while the trainers kept the lions back with some difficulty. Whitlatch is a prizefighter and his bride is the divorced wife of a local merchant.

DEADLY GAS IN THE TUBE

A Serious Problem in London's Underground Railway.

Oppression-Poor Ventilation.

London, July 16 .- A serious question has arisen in connection with the un-derground tube railway, with which London within a few years is to be pierced in all directions. It has been argued from the start of the "tupenny tube" that the ventilation was auto matic and well-nigh perfect by reason of each train nearly filling the tube and acting like a piston, forcing out the bad air and drawing in the fresh air. The public accepted this theory; as there was no bad odors, it was assumed that the atmosphere was health-

The patronage has become so great great cotton center. Mills are being recently that the cars at certain hours have been badly crowded and many passengers began to complain of feelings of dizziness and oppression. It was found that this was due to the presence of a great excess of odorless carbonic acid gas generated by human lungs. A healthy atmosphere should not contain a larger proportion than seven parts in 10,000 of this gas. Ordinary London air contains four parts, a London fog seven parts, and the average living room seven. The standard of purity required in English workshops by the factory act is not to exceed nine. Three tests were recently made of the air in the tube. The first sample, taken from the top of a crowded car, showed 271/2 parts of carbonic acid gas. This is distinctly poisonous. A second sample, taken from a moderately filled car, showed 13 parts. A test made of the air in Chancery Lane station as a train was leaving, when the purest air should be obtained, showed 13 8-10 parts. It is believed that this serious situation can be much improved by closing all the openings between the two tubes. There is always a lively breeze blowing in the present tubes, but the foregoing tests show that the air simply moves in what may be described as a vicious circle.

Montreal, Que., July 16.-An accepted check on the Merchants' Bank of Canada for $18,000, the property of Riddell & Common, commission merchants, was picked up by a boy on the street and restored to the owners. The firm's office boy lost the check out of the bank book while on his way to the bank. A similar case occurred not long ago, but the finder was not so honest, and went to Toronto, where he opened an account in one of the banks and succeeded in realizing on the full amount of the check.

London, Wednesday, July 16. Sunday Cars in London.

The Free Press, under cover of an Imaginary dialogue among three citizens, put out a "feeler" the other day on the question of Sunday cars to Springbank. The motive for this is not very clear. There is no public demand for Sunday cars in this city. The only party interested would be the London Street Railway Company. The advocates of Sunday cars in Toronto could reasonably plead that these were n necessity in a city of that area and population, and that it was unjust to classes, of the privilege of reaching the in the hot summer months. The san.e argument does not apply in this umbrageous city, where every man may sit under his own vine and fig tree. No portion of the population here is huddled in tenements in stuffy little streets, without pure air or leafy shelter. We may not have as many parks within easy reach as we should have, but our thoroughfares are wide, most of them luxuriously shaded, and nearly every house has its stretch of lawn and arboreal surroundings. The peotaking a trolley to look for it. There can be no pretense that Sunday cars to Springbank would serve a public without regard to the sacred nature of carousal of it. It is to be feared the moral effect on the community would not be good and that the example try. would tend to undermine respect for the Sabbath, particularly among the young. When this city has attained a certain growth, Sunday cars will be necessary. The question is one of public convenience, but no one can say that the absence of Sunday cars is a deprivation at present.

The Preference Again.

Now that Mr. Chamberlain's influence is supposed to be paramount in the British Cabinet, some of the Conservative newspapers in this country argue that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be derelict in duty if he fails to bring home a British preference in his pocket. They seem to think that he can get anything for the asking. One thing he can get, if the Chamberlain influence is really uppermost in the British Government, is Imperial free market, and enables it to raise dotrade. Mr. Chamberlain has already pledged himself to that principle. Publiely, he has never gone further. But the Dominion is not prepared for this favor of the trust, and the trust disradical step, which would overturn its criminates against the American peofiscal system, disturb industry and com- ple in favor of foreign countries. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opponents pay him a great compliment when they pretend that he can get what he wants from Mr. Chamberlain, but even the "masterful blandishments" of the colonial premiers would not avail to draw the Colonial Secretary into a policy which would spell political defeat for him. No British statesman could safely propose such a jug-handled preference as Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opponents say he should get, namely, an advantage in the British market for colonial goods, without any reduction of the present colonial tariffs on British imports.

Vindicated.

The members of the hospital trust who a year ago favored placing all ward patients under the care of the medical staff have not needed to wait long for their vindication.

The Free Press endeavored to mislead the people and make them believe that this was a vicious system and that those who desired it were the enemies of the poor. Mayor Beck made it a plank in his platform and solicited support for that reason.

How is it today? The rules prepared for Mayor Beck and introduced by him and passed, provide as follows: Clause 7-"All ward patients in the hospital shall be under the care of the staff. Should any patient for admission to the general wards furnish sufficient reason to the board of trustees, or in an emergency to the superintendent, he or she, may upon request, have such medical attendant done to the poor? The clause is all right as it now is, and Mayor Beck and the Free Press were wrong before. Miss Mayou rightly claims that if every physician is allowed to treat patients in the hospital as he pleases it will lead to much confusion and injure the usefulness of the institution. One local paper appears to be still ignorant of the change, for it says: "The medical school went too far when it demanded that Victoria Hospital patients be not permitted to have their own physicians." We are pleased at Mayor Beck's conversion and pleased that the correct rule has been adopted. It is a matter for regret, however, that such abandoned methods were used to deceive the public. They will now see that Mayor Beck either wilfully or ignorantly misled them. Ex-Mayor He Rumball was right, Mayor Beck was Battle Hymn of the Republic.

[Julia Ward Howe.]

Julia Ward Howe was born in New York city, May 27, 1819. She had excellent instruction in her youth, and at an early age was proficient in several ancient and modern languages. At the age of 17 she was an anonymous contributor to the New York Magazine. She married Dr. Samuel G. Howe, of Boston in 1843. Her first book of poems, "Passion Flowers," was published without signature in 1854, and was followed in 1857 by a second volume, "Words for the Hour," and a drama, "The World's Own." Her third volume of poetry, "Later Lyrics," published in 1868, contained the poem printed below, which was written in beleaguered Washington, D. THE COLONIAL SECRETARY

Has Work to Do in Reconstructing the South African System.

London, July 15. - The Times says Mr. Chamberlain has not thought of leaving the colonial office, as the work he has undertaken for the welfare of the empire is by no means yet accomplished. Mr. Chamberlain (the Times declares) has put his hand to the plow for the construction of South Africa and other colonial problems, and is quite content for the present to prosecute his task to its completion.

A dispatch from Berlin says public opinion finds it difficult to believe that the state of Salisbury's health made his immediate resignation inperative. It is even suggested that the resignation was accelerated by the fear lest, if there were any delay, Mr. Chamberlain's popularity should assume such proportions that it would not be possible for King Edward to select any other successor to Salisbury than the colonial secre-A Vienna correspondent says 't

The most significant portion of the Duke of Devonshire's speech, in the Duke of Devonshire's speech, in the House of Lords yesterday, in which he assumed the leadership of that legislative branch, was his distinction between the great majority of this house, who have for a long series of years followed the leadership of Salisbury, and the political set to which the duke himself belongs. His grace thus emphasizes the fact that he considers that Liberal-Unionists still have a separate existence from the Conservative party, and also that the leadership of the upper house has now passed out which all others owe their success."

Grain—The offerings in this line have been light, especially wheat, which is unchanged in price, at $1.35 per cwt. Oats have been in fair supply, but not in sufficient quantity to meet present requirements; prices are higher; sales were made yesterday (Tuesday) at $1.40 to $1.41 per cwt.

WOOL MARKET.

TORONTO.

Toronto, July 15.—There is no change in the situation. The market for new clip wool is about as dull as ever. The low prices in the outside markets of wools corresponding with domestic fleece apparently keep down the values here. The duty of 100 per cent on wools shipped from Canada into the United States continues to act adversely to any export movement in Canadian fleece. The market for pulled wools is low.

Fleece—The offerings are quite free, but the absence of any outlet for the wool in export way at present keeps the trade quiet. Local dealers report no change in prices, washed being quoted at 13c and TORONTO. prices, washed being quoted at 13c and unwashed at 7c. Pulled Wools—Slow. The domestic mills

BELL TOWER FELL

Chipped Off a Corner of the Royal Palace in Its Descent-Loss of Life Feared.

Venice, Italy, July 16 .- The Campanile (detached bell tower) of St. Mark's Church, 98 meters high, collapsed at 10:40 Monday morning, and fell with a great crash into the piazza. The Campanile, which was entirely detached from the cathedral, collapsed where it stood, and is now a heap of ruins. The cathedral and palace of the Doges are quite safe, but a corner of the made $1,000,000 out of the recent rise royal palace was damaged. Repairs on burning and aching, tiredness the Campanile were to have been commenced today.

It is feared there was some loss of life. The ruins are surrounded by a cordon of troops.

The first intimation of danger was the sudden appearance vesterday of a longitudinal crack in the corner of the wall facing the clock tower and the breaking of two windows. A concert which had been arranged to be held on the piazza yesterday evening was stopped by order of the prefect, with the object of preventing a concourse of people.

The ruins are piled up to a height of 100 feet, and the Piazza di San Marco and' the adjoining square are covered with debris and dust. Some damage was done to the Sansovino Legetta, or vestibule, on the east side of the Campanile.

The Campanile stood opposite the Church or Cathedral of St. Mark's. It was founded in 888, restored in 1329, provided with a marble top in 1417, and in 1517 was crowned with the figure of an angel nearly 16 feet high. The logetta or vestibule on the east side of the Campanile was once a rendezvous of the Nobili, and afterwards a waiting-room for the guards during the sessions of the Toronto, July 15 .- The friends of great council. A meter is 38 inches and a fraction in length, which would make the height of the tower practically 325 feet.

Talk of a New Electric Railway Being Built.

Windsor, July 16.—An American civil engineer is inspecting the topography of the country between Windsor and St. Thomas for a syndicate, which, it is said, means to build an electric railway between the two cities. The road, some farmers have been told, will be built in the near future. It is proposed to have the line parallel the system of the Michigan Central and the Lake Erie and Detroit Rallway, through a rich and populous district, the residents of which have now to haul their produce a long way to the railway stations.
Just who is behind the movement for the new road the civil engineer refuses to say.

COMBINED PICNIC. The Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians of South London and the Maitland Street Baptists, picnicked at Port Stanley yesterday, the combined excursion numbering over a thousand people. Instead of providing the usual races, the Sunday schools paid the purailway fares and the children got all the fun they wanted at the beach. A couple of baseball matches and tugs-of-war were the only games indulged in. First the Methodists and Presbyterians engaged for the base-ball supremacy, the former winning on a score of 21 to 1. The Methodists and Baptists then played a game and the latter won handily. In the tugof-war contests the Presbyterians defeated all comers. A short open air meeting was held early in the afternoon. Rev. Messrs. Stuart and Howson spoke, referring to the gratifying evidence which the picnic afforded of the growing unity among denominations of the Christian church.

There is a certain rite performed by the upper classes during the hottest part of the London season, of which, to the uninitiated, it would be difficult to explain the advantages or the end. This solemnity, which has been in vogue for a good many years, was called by our grandmothers a "Rout," whereas modern irreverence, by an equally martial and inexplicable metaphor, designates it a "Drum"! Its chief characteristic seems to be suffection under certain restric-CHAPTER XV.

irreverence, by an equally martial and inexplicable metaphor, designates it a "Drum"! Its chief characteristic seems to be suffocation under certain restrictions, and it would appear to have been originally intended by some rigorous ascetics for the practice of mortification. and self-denial, moral as well as physical. The votaries, arriving at as late an hour as possible, sit for a consederable period in their respective vehicles, preparing, as it would seem, in darkness and solitude, for the approaching ordeal, and emerge under the immediate guidance of a policeman, where awning and footeloth are spread to protect the magnificence of their attire. Wedged in considerable masses, the next step is to considerable masses, and gentlemen, all at high temperature, until, by the exercise of patience, forbearance, and no small amount of physical strength, a distant doorway is eventually attained. Here the presiding priestess, enjoying the comparative freedom of breathing-space and elbow-room, stands to receive the homage of her guests; and when a formal bow has been tendered and returned, the whole object of the ceremonials would seem to have been accomplished, and nothing more remains but a second struggle for freedom, open air and the friendly light of the carriage-lamps, Recognition for persons of average altitude is impracticable. Conversation, beyond begging pardon for crushing, impossible. If friends are jammed against friends, the very juxtaposition forbids colloquial ease; and if ten yards apart, they are as effectually separated as if they were in different streets. The heat is intense, the physical labor considerable. Great lassitude and fatigue are the immediate results; and yet there results; and yet there is, doubtless, some hidden charm, some inexplicable advantage consequent on these gatherings, else how can we account for the eagerness with which they are sought, and the patience with which they are endured.

Lady Olivia's "at home" was no exception to the general rule; "the world" said "all the world" was there; and as "all the world" was likewise at another festivity on the opposite side of the Equare, much confusion among the chariots of the mighty, much strong language, clattering of hoofs, and application of whipcord, was the result.

How Bella's color rose as the carriage steps were let down! That little earthenware jug among all those vessels of Sevres and Dresden, and delicate porcelain, how she shrank to her chaperone's side—an ample matron, with daughters of her own; and whose heart, large as the capacious bosom under which it beat, was always ready to befriend the motherless girl, but who has nothing to do with my story, more's the pity—how she dreaded the coming presentation to Lady Olivia, and winced from the ordeal she had so teased John Gordon—the little schemer!—to enable her to undergo. She had ample, time for preparation however, and got through the introductory ceremous easily enough, Lady Olivia giving her the coldest of cold bows, and suffering her to pass on into the room without further notice or welcome. Then Bella was glad to sink into a seat, well sheltered under the protecting wing (for Bella's chaperone, though she knew everybody in London, and was liked in every efrele, had not forgotten that she had been a girl herself, and was once as shy as she was slim), and rest content to look about her, and think how few people she knew, and hope John Gordon wouldn't be late, for John had promised to come, and Bella said to herself, with a thrill of secret pride. "What John promises he always performs."

It was dull work though, for the uninitiated girl to watch the quiet movements of the puppets without knowing

John promises he always performs.

It was dull work though, for the uninitiated girl to watch the quiet movements of the puppets without knowing who pulled the strings. A fat bald man poposite was talking eargerly in whispers to an elderly lady, decorated with a profusion of diamonds and a flaxen wig. It might have been interesting to her had she been aware that the gentleman was a foreign statesman of eminence, the lady a political intriguante of European reputation. Truth, however, compels me lady a political intriguante of European reputation. Truth, however, compels me to acknowledge that the subject of conversation was not the interpretation of treaties, nor the fate of nations, but the merits of the Vichy waters, and their beneficial effects on the digestive organs. Again, she knew Lord Holvhead by sight; and she did weave a shocking little romance in her own head when she saw a stealthy and most affectionate squeeze romance in her own head when she saw a stealthy and most affectionate squeeze of the hand interchanged by his lordship with a remarkably pretty woman, hanging on an elderly husband's arm, accompanied by the softest of glances and a whispered "I'm so glad you've come!" So she was! for he ought to have dined with them that day, and she was his chief pet, and favorite of all his sisters. Moreover, she marked the meeting of a couple who seemed to know and yet not know each other, their recognition was so distant and constrained, their looks so embarrassed and quickly averted. Bella resolved in her own mind that they must be secret enemies, all the more bitter be secret enemies, all the more bitter that the forms of society compelled them to reciprocal civility. Had she seen the same pair together at four o'clock that afternoon, she could only have concluded that they must have quarreled since. Altogether she voted it rather stupid than otherwise, and began to think that she perseveringly through the throng, evidently to come and speak to her. No, it was not John Gordon, but it was his friend, Mr. Orme, Gilbert was unusually dutiful tonight; he had dined with his great-uncle and now came to look in great-uncle, and now came to look in before going to bed at his mamma's "at home." When he saw Miss Jones he started with pleasure, and made for her at once. To those who have ever been young lady's presence should have been such an agreeable surprise. Have you a favorite flower? Is there a color for ribbons that you prefer? Would you rather walk down one side of a street rather walk down one side of a street than the other? If so, you know what association means, and you can understand that the compliment to Bella was the least flattering possible.

"You don't know Gertrude, Miss Jones," said Gilbert shaking hands with her warmly, and bowing to her chaperone.
"Pray let me bring Castrude to an March of the street of th "Pray let me bring Gertrude to you. My cousin Gertrude; she belongs to the house, you know. Won't you have some tea? And, oh, Miss Jones, how's the

There was something irresistible in Gilbert's cordial manner; no shyness or reserve could stand before it for an in-stant. People felt at their ease with him directly. By the time he had found his cousin, and detached her from cer-tain admirers whom she was trampling under foot with her usual dignity. Bella's courage had risen several degrees, and she had made up her mind that next to John Gordon, who had not come yet, no-body was so nice (that's the word!) as Mr. Otme Like most high-bred young ladies. Ger-trude way also perfectly good-natured. The two girls were friends directly. "You must come and see me in the must come and see me morning Miss Jones, and make acculaintance with my snuggery upstairs. I don't call these crushes meeting one's friends. I am so glad, though that you found your way here tonight. I have heard so much of your from Mr. Gordon."

Bella colored. Some young ladies blush becomingly, and some do not: Miss Jones was of the latter class. Lady Gertrude scanned her narrowly, and felt she liked sean by her on the offense and they were setting on very well, when Gilbert lounged up to thom once more; he could not keep away from Miss Jones "pour

"I have never thanked you for the pleasant evening I spent at your house." said he. "You were not at home when I called. It's the prettiest villa in England. Gertrude, and Miss Jones has sot a parrot that you would give your two eyes to possess. He can talk and sing, and play the plane; can't he. Miss Jones? If you heard him Gertrude, you'd never look at the canary again."

AT DETROIT. Detroit, Mich., July 15.—The Detroit Driving Club's classic Merchants' and Manufacturers' $10,000 stake for 2:24 class trotters at Grosse Pointe track this afternoon was won in hollow fashion by Rythmic, a blind horse, owned by Jesse Turner, of Paris, Ky., who had never before been started in a race. Rythmic's best time was 2:111/2, which is 21/4 seconds slower than the record for this event, made last year by Eleata. J. C. McKinney's mare, Zephyr, ruled favorite in the early betting, but went lame while warming up for the race, and was drawn after a veterinary had pronounced the mare unfit to race. New pools were made, in which Rythmic brought $100 and the field $65. The track was in excellent condition, the weather was fine and over 10,000 people were present. Direct Hal was in front all the way in the last heat of the Chamber of Commerce stake, postponed from yesterday, which he won in 2:0714, and the remarkable son of Direct went faster than any previous record for the Chamber of Commerce in all three the Cicero course will not be ready for the entertainment of horse followers until the fall meeting. The most important of the Hawthorne stakes which closed early in the spring, have yet to be run—the Northern handicap, with $5,000 added, and the Monadnock handicap, with $4,000 added, being among them.

A peculiar accident happened to Jockey Winnie O'Connor at the Brighton Beach racetrack, the famous jockey having a toe broken when his mount was jammed against the fence. O'Connor was riding Kittaning in the first race at the time. Incidentally Kittaning's number was "13." The accident did not come entirely without warning, however, for O'Connor received a letter in the morning from some crank, telling him that he would ride a horse in the first race numbered "13." The superstitious class of racetrack followers, when they heard of the letter, were somewhat worked up, and A. Featherstone, the employer of the jockey, offered to give $1,000 to learn the identity of the writer of the Discussing Gold Heels, who is without a doubt the best handicap horse in the east, bring to mind how much a better horse was Wax Taper last sea-He met Gold Heels several times and invariably defeated him. Last season Wax Taper could give Gold Heels fifteen pounds; now Gold Heels could give him fifty pounds and still win out. A good deal has been said about Wax Taper's condition. The horse always goes lame, and he has very bad legs. They do not hurt him a bit. They are simply stiff through excessive ossilization. Ossilages are extraneous bony growths which come principally about the fetlock joints. They do not hurt when they have ceased growing, but they destroy the suppleness of the joint by binding it. Wax Taper's tendons are all sound. The horse never looked so well above the knees as he does today. It does not hurt him to run. He is not up to his form simply because the huge ossilages form around the fetlock joints and compel him to run stiff legged.

John A. Drake, the Chicago horseman, probably will have to spend a good portion of his racetrack winnings before he gets through with the customs officials. A statement of the duties to be collected on a string of horses recently imported from England has been received by Collector William Penn Nixon, and it is shown that the smallest amount at which Mr. Drake can settle is $2,700. The treasury department, however, has the matter under advisement, and it is possible the owner of Wyeth, the Derby winner, will have to turn over a total of $6,647. Mr. Drake's troubles Third race, the Edgewater stakes, for arose from the importation of several

Following Cincinnati comes the great meet-ing at Lexington for two weeks, and immediately after the close in the Blue Grass country, the Billings track at Memphis, which had such a glorious inauguration last season, will hold the attention of the light harness world for a week. Then comes the break for winter quarters, the snowpath and the speedway.

It will be noted in the schedule of grand circuit meetings the week of September 15 to 22 is not dated by any member of the organization, but this does not mean that there will be no occupation for the trotters and pacers during that period. Indeed, one of the grandest meetings of the year will be held that week at the beautiful Empire City track, which was built by the late William Clark, near Yonkers, N. Y., and which came into possession of the newly organized Empire City Trotting Club last winter. Horace W. Wilson, late secretary of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, has arranged one of the most attractive programs ever presented to the American public for this meeting.

BASEBALL.

A REMARKABLE FEAT. Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, says: "One of the most remarkable feats ever performed on the ball field was effected at Pittsburg. After reaching first base Lange took a good lead, as was customary. The pitcher threw to first to catch player off base. He threw a trifle wide, and the ball rolled a few feet from the base. The distance was far from great, and not one player in a hundred would have been desperate enough to take his boot off the big bag. Lange started for second. The ball again went a little wide of the mark. It struck the second baseman's hand and rolled toward shortstop. Lange did not stop, but kept on to third. shortstop hustled for the ball to head Lange off at third base. The runner did not dally at third, but continued the circuit and came straight for the plate. The ball was thrown to Denny Lyons, who was covering third base. He turned to put the ball on Lange, whom he expected to catch at third. His surprise was great when he saw his runner making for home, and only a few yards from it. Before the ball reached the catcher's hand Lange had scored the run, and not only did he bring in the run, but, what was of greater importance, won the game on that run. The play, in my estimation, was the most daring and remarkable ever witnessed on the ball field." THE BIG LEAGUES' RACE.

The Harlem track will be the scene of the Chicago Jockey Club's acof it for second, while Boston still looks tivity for the twelve days ensuing, as good for third. Then comes Chicago and the others, with St. Louis the probable target-bearer, now that Mc-Graw will take the giants in charge. In the American, Chicago is in the leading position to remain. Boston is playing good ball, and will be in better shape before going west again. St. Louis is coming along, and the Quakers will insist on remaining in the second division. Detroit and Washington are more than likely to bring up the rear, as those Cleveland boys will keep up a good clip to the finish. The

tional League's race is a procession.

George R. Gray, ex-champion and present record-holder for the 16-pound shot, contemplates returning to active competition, says the New York Jour-When he retired, several years back, he held the world's record and present American record of 47 feet. This has since been eclipsed by Dennis Horgan, the gigantic Irishman, who put the 16-pound missile the great distance of 48 feet 2 inches. It has somewhat nettled Gray to know that his figures were beaten so far. He set to work some months ago at his home, Coldwater, Ontario, and worked with such a will that he reduced himself from 250 to 210 pounds. It is rumored in the lumber camps of Canada that he has hurled the missile 49 feet in practice. Our weight-throwers have done such remarkable things within the past few years that even athletic authorities are inclined to treat the report seriously. A few years ago it would only have caused the athletic moguls to smile. Gray will make his first appearance as a rejuvenated athlete at the national championships in October. He will undoubtedly compete under the colors of the New York Athletic Club.

REV. DR. TALLING'S WORK

Former London Pastor an Author-"Extempore Prayer" the Subject.

"Extempore Prayer" by the Rev. Marshall P. Talling, Ph. D., will have a particular interest for a number of Londoners, from the fact that the author was for some seven years pastor of St. James' Presbyterian Church, in this city. In the introduction several reasons are given as evidence that the subject dealt with needs discussion, and while the book will be found lead in public worship. A chapter is devoted to "Free Worship versus Formularies," and the former declared to be the more excellent, and it is concluded that the best method of resisting ritualistic encroachments is the production of an improved free service. Prayer is defined, analyzed, comparison made between public and private prayer, and considerable space given to the necessary preparation, if he who leads the devotions of his fellows is to do so acceptably. The principles which govern true prayer are placed under two heads. The vital spiritual relations existing between God and the worshiper, and the qualities by which a leader is able to influence the worship of his hearers. These are examined in detail. Faults and excellencies are dealt with, and general practical rules given. "The Altar in the Home." "The Prayer Meeting," and "The Power of Prayer" are all given for illustration and as models, some from modern and others from more ancient sources, while a list of authors and sources of prayers as well as a full index are also found. There is abundant testimony of very careful preparation on the part of the author to deal with the subject he has taken in hand, and he seems to have found a field that has not been overtaken by others. It is a treatise especially for the minister and will doubtless find its way into many clerical studies. It is a pity to find in a book evidencing such careful preparation the name of Dr. Marcus Dods spelt "Dedds," and Principal Fairbairn's name spelt "Fairburn." The publishers are the Fleming H. The most sensational part of the story was the statement that Ninham drew interposed and struck Ninham a staggering blow. Another interesting orderbook of the livery at which the party of seven secured their rig, the time of their departure has been erased, and a much earlier hour substituted than that fixed by the young

The witness who did not appear, Walter Widden by name, is an employe at the livery in question, and his evidence might throw some light on the erasure. Two other possible witnesses, Harry Brown and Walter Cummings, are said to be out of the city. They were with Dean at Sharkey's on the night of the tragedy.

It was nearly 11 o'clock when they left Springbank and nearly all the crowd had gone. They passed several people on the road while driving to Sharkey's. Wm. Quick Spent Several Hours at Hote on Fatal Night.

Wm. Quick, of Bruce street, South London, next took the stand. He had to be twice admonished by the coroner, once for refusing to answer proper questions, and once for jumping at questions before they were asked. He had been at Sharkey's on the night of June 21, he said, going there at 8:50 with Abel. He stayed there till about 11:20 or 11:30. It was not as late as Club and stayed there about an hour and a half. Witness did not look at the clock when he went home, but it watch while winding it at 10:55. The witness objected to answering certain questions as to who went into the bar and out of it. He said he was not present to answer such questions. The coroner reproved him and advised him to answer the questions, assuring him that he would be protected against improper questions.

Quick said that persons came into the hotel and out of it after 11 o'clock, but he did not know any of them. He did not see John McArthur there.
Witness left the hotel with McBride and Abel. He arrived home about 12 or a little after. He was sure it was earlier than 12.30. Witness met a twoearlier than 12:30. Witness did not see Augustus Nin-ham knocked down. He did not tell anyone that he was within five feet of Ninham when he was struck. Witness did not see any Indians that night. John Clark, a cigarmaker, was next called. His manner of giving evidence said witness, would be what Widden did not seem to please either the coroner or the crown attorney. He was sure it was not later 11:20. Witness said he had a kind of an idea that their rig met and passed two men near Woodland Cemetery, but as his companions had sworn they had seen no one, he would not be sure that he had seen them. He just had an idea that he saw them, that was all. Witness could not describe the two men, as he had not noticed them particularly. They just passed by like a flash, he said. At Sharkey's the party went in just long enough to find that they could get no drinks there. There was a bottle of liquor in the crowd, but none of it was drunk in Sharkey's. Witness saw three men in a room at Sharkey's. He knew only one of them, Harry Brown. Witness saw no persons or vehicles while driving from Sharkey's to the London View Hotel.
