Members of Committee Named To Draft Platform Are Deadlocked On Issue-Prospects of a Compromise Are Bad-Opposing Factions Charge Each Other With Being Responsible for Break.

COMPROMISE EFFECTED.
Chicago, June 10.—A league of nations plank drafted by Ellhu Root was accepted as a basis of compromise today by irreconcilables on the resolution sub-committee.
Omitting all indorsement of the pending league covenant, the Root resolution provides for a new agreement with other nations which shall include a tribunal for the settlement of international disputes. It was prepared by Senator Root before his departure for Europe, but has been modified considerably by the sub-committee.

Break is Feared.

Defined rumors of serious ruptures between factional leaders were abroad. There was talk of bolts, and of what delegations would walk out in that case, and there was no one to say from where this talk came.

A few hours ago it was the antileague forces against which a cry of prospective insurrection was raised. Yesterday the pro-leaguers, the 'reservationists,' were openly charged by their opponents with having brought discord into the council of platform makers. Until after 1 o'clock this morning the battle over the treaty plank waged furiously behind the locked doors of the hotel bedroom where the committeemen, in shirt sleeves and worn by the long strain, searched every avenue for possible escape from an open break.

As the platform makers resumed their work this morning they described the prospects for an agreement, as "pretty bad." The irreconcilables on the league of nations continued their threats to leave the party if the platform affirmed it in any way.

LETTER-CARRIERS OF SIXTY YEARS AGO. TORONTO VOTE TO GO OUT ON STRIKE

Walkout of 'Posties' in Queen City Seems Certain.

Toronto. June 10.—Toronto lettercarriers have taken the strike vote, and according to the results obtainable today between 95 and 100 per cent of the membership voted in favor of a strike. Prospects exist for the spread of the expected strike from the ranks of the letter-carriers to every branch of the Federal Civil Servants' Association, which in Toronto alone includes a total of about 3,000 carriers, postal clerks, railway mail and transportation clerks. Delegates have been elected to a round table conference next Monday, the committee having full power to act for every branch. Only the postal clerks have not nominated their representatives. These are to be named at a meeting next Sunday.

"A strike is practically certain. Things are in a critical state," stated W. J. Gallagher, president of the Dominion Postal Clerks' Association, this morning. "Nothing that I know can avert a strike."

Fundamentally, the chief cause of the unrest which threatens to precipitate the crisis is the alleged failure of the Government to approach a fulfillment of its promises in the latest amended re-classification bill.

EDWARDS GASSAC

EDWARDS CALLS FOR MODIFICATION OF U. S.

There had emerged after endless negotiating behind the scenes no agreement either as to a presidential candidate or on even a tentative draft of vital planks in the platform on which the party will stand.

Over night the league of nations is sue had been swept suddenly upward to a position of overshadowing importance, almost of menace, in party councils. It was the rock on which the special harmonizing sub-committee on platform split after hours of fruitles labor toward a compromise.

Unable to agree on any proposal to be incorporated in the platform, the sub-committee adjourned long after midnight. A disagreement report from the sub-committee faced the full committee on resolutions when it assembled at 9 a.m. to take up the task.

Meanwhile the convention itself must mark time.

A resolution from the social service committee regarding the relations between labor and capital in Canada was unanimously passed. It was to the effect that the assembly recognized that the prevailing unrest is a sign of the vital effort of the nation to adjust itself to the new and changing conditions. The unrest was realized as a belated protest against injustices that have been tolerated in the social system, the alienation of Canada's natural rebeen tolerated in the social system, the alienation of Canada's natural resources, the tying up of land for the unearned increment in value, profiteering in the necessities of life, the public indifference to the conditions in which many of the people live and towards the wrongs they suffer, and they called earnestly for extensive reforms of the Chicago, June 10.—At the first Republican national convention held in Chicago 60 years ago: An lowa delegate walked 150 miles to get to a railroad to come to the convention.

LEVIS COUNTY RAILWAY EMPLOYEES ON STRIKE

Quebec, June 10.—The employees of the Levis County Railway declared a general strike this morning following decision of the public service commis-sion yesterday, which failed to order a raise in the wages. The company claimed before the commission that it could not pay more in salaries because it could not get an increase in fares.

A broiling sun that raised the mercury to 94 degrees at 2 o'clock this afternoon ardently radiated home to Londoners' realization of the fact this was the hottest day experienced so far in 1920. The temperature of 94 degrees was officially recorded at the local weather observatory, and is just ten degrees hotter than it was a year ago today. Records of the bureau show that on June 10, 1919, the highest temperature was 84 degrees.
Ninety-four degrees was not reached last season until a week later in the month. If the same rate of increased temperature is continued, next week may find the thermometer registering 104 degrees.

This was a salaried high constable to transport their own prisoners to the industrial and prison farms. All Are Defeated.

All three proposals were defeated.

Aldermen Moorhead and Watkinson would not vote on any of them. Ald. W. A. Wilson was too ill to attend.

Ald. Harley was absent and Ald. Brighton left before a vote was taken. Ald. Ashton, a member of the union executive, stated that the men would not return to work under any temporary settlement. They would have to have a permanent increase of eight eents an hour before they would operate the cars, he said.

With this deadlock existing no one could say when the strike was likely to end. Mayor Little jocularly remarked that the franchise of the road lasted for only five years more and that it was bound to end by that time. An alderman agreed that the first six months walking would be the worst.

Ald Cameron Wilson, who presided at the meeting, announced at its conclusion that three proposals had been considered, and all had been voted down. He said that a majority vote bon increased fares, sufficient to operate the road, could have been obtained, but that the members divided into two direconcilable factions on the question of when a vote on the purchase of the road should be taken.

If such a vote is taken now the road must be turned over to the hydroelectric system. If the vote is not electric commission can purchase the system. Those aldermen favoring hydroelectric Commission can purchase the system. Those aldermen favoring hydroelectric operation held out persistently for an immediate election, while those who favored giving the citizens a chance to operate the road for themselves if they chose to do so held out just as persistently against a vote being taken until next January.

No Need of Spirits.

"I don't need saints or spirits from the other world to intercede or pray for me. All I need is the mercy and guidance of Jesus," said Dr. Dixon.

He also made some amusing remarks regarding sleepy congregations.

"I would rather preach," he said.
"in a cemetery than to a sleepy congregation. The only difference is, one is-a dormitory and the other is a cemetery. In the case of preaching in the cemetery they stones respect you and say nothing, but a sleepy congregation can only criticize and on the way home cut you up. What we need in the church today is people who have a live sense that Christianity is the greatest thing in the world."

Now that the street railway company put one over on the people and got away with it, the London Gas Company is trying the same stunt, and if they get away with it the people are entirely to blame. I would like to quote that the price of gas was 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, and now they put an extra 85 cents for "ready to serve charge," to all consumers, irrespective of the amount of gas used by them. It is evident that the workingclass will is evident that the workingclass will be the first to feel this new outrage. The manager of the gas company was approached by the writer, and was informed that the extra charge of 85 cents was only for about six months. In other words, until the people wake up and adopt the same method as they did with the street railway company to force the gas company into submission to the will of the people, and also to a level where they will be compelled to give the consumers a square deal and not use inadequate means to gain a "hog's end." The writer also questioned the manager to the effect of the and not use manager to means to gain a "hog's end." The writer also questioned the manager to the effect of the increase, asked from the Ontario Legislature of 40 cents per 1,000 feet. The company at present wants 85 cents until such a time as the Legislature cub. company at present wants 85 cents until such a time as the Legislature submits or disapproves to the demand. The company reaps a benefit of 85 cents per consumer. Now if the Legislature permits 40 cents per 1.000 cubic feet, where does the consumer come in with the other 45 cents, more or less? I sincerely trust the public will take immediate action to decide who is running this city, and for the people to use their ballot in the next election for the benefit of the public at large, and not for a paltry few. Three thousand people from all parts of East Middlesex and many Londoners, gathered in Queen's Park on Wednesday on the occasion of the first annual picnic of the East Middlesex United Farmers' Organization. The crowd centred in the huge steel grandstand and enjoyed thoroughly a long program of horse racing, athletic sports, several games of baseball and speeches.

The picnic as a whole was entered into with a spirit that is rarely seen on such occasions. The many different events almost without exception were closely contested and in many cases the finishes to the races kept the crowd on their feet, cheering.

Chief among the attractions billed were speeches by Hon. Manning Doherty and Hon. James Crerar, but owing to unavoidable circumstances both were forced to send their resrets. Their places were filled by Hon. Peter Smith, provincial creasurer, and A. Hicks, whip of the provincial farmers' party. Mayor E. S. Little welcomed the farmers to the city, while J. W. Freeborn, M. P. P. for East Middlesex, acter as chairman.

Mr. Hicks said he was thankful that when fortune sent him to the Legislature that he went as a member of the U. F. O. Government and not as a member of the Union Government.

"I am glad," he said, "that I am in a party that is doing things for the people instead of one that is recklessly squandering their money. The thing needed most in present day politics is education. It is because the U. F. O. realizes this that they are carrying on a propaganda to educate every man, event of the day. Those who entered the contest had to have their names registered. Several men did not know this, who went after the pig. One that did not register his name, caught the pig, but he was not eligible. As a result the committee decided to let the pig loose again. Mr. F. Pratton was the lucky one. He succeeded in nabbing the pig after a very few minutes. mabbing the pig after a very few minutes.

The first ball game, played between the Poplar Hill aggregation and the Thorndale nine, was won by the former by the one-sided score of 18 to 6. The winning of this game, gave the Poplar Hill team the right to play against the Meadowlarks of Ilderton. This game was the best of the day, and the Meadowlarks carried off the prize by a one-run lead. The winning run was scored in the first of the ninth. The score was 8 to 7.

This education, he said, would cement together the relationship of the farmers and the people in the urban centres. There was no reason why there should be any difference between the two classes. He predicted that time would entirely wipe out all distinction.

Speaking on the work of the last speaking on the work of the last session he said he would defy anyone to point a finger at any member who sat on the Government side and say that he had been tampered with, and that he was anything but strictly honest. He believed that the women had much to do with the turning the government over to the farmers.

He paid a great tribute to Mr. Freeborn. He was one man, he said, who could be strictly depended upon and he always took a stand. East Middlesex electors had honored themselves and their province when they elected Speaking briefly, Hon. Peter Smith paid tribute to Premier E. C. Drury. The premier, he said, was the biggest man in the province today, and easily stood head and shoulders above any other. In the longest session that was ever held by any provincial assembly. Mr. Smith claimed that the present Government had accomplished much in which they themselves felt pride. Because the Government did not have the majority it did not put through much legislation which it otherwise would have done. He praised Mr. Freeborn. Freeborn.

dollars, which is within two hundred and fifty dollars of the promised land. This is pretty good considering the hard times. The projected increase would mean an appropriation of half a million dollars, which, at five percent, represents a capital of ten million dollars. Even in these days of large figures, ten million dollars is a considerable investment, although it may not look so prodigious to a Government which is cheerfully losing a million dollars a week in the national railways.

ernment which is cheerfully losing a million dollars a week in the national railways.

Does Not Find Favor.

That the indemnity grab does not find favor with the Ottawa correspondents is shown by the fact that a week ago last Monday every daily newspaper in Canada carried a story from Ottawa, pointing out the impudence of the projected raid on the treasury. The Ottawa correspondent takes no stock in all this buncombe about the high cost of living for members of Parliament, because he knows right well how closely the average member of Parliament lives. Neither does he take any stock in the argument that four thousand dollars a year means better members of Parliament than twenty-five hundred dollars a year. If he is old enough he can remember when members of Parliament got only fifteen hundred dollars a year, and those fifteen-hundred-dollar members were the best members of all. They had some love for their country—they were not always trying to bleed it.

The salary-grabbers express surprise that the newspaper men should interfere in what they call a purely domestic affair, forgetting that the press is here to watch the interests of the people when the members of Parliament ignore than it takes a vigilant press to guard them. It takes a vigilant press to guard the guardians, and when that press has lately had its face stepped on by a Par-liament which condoned taking away from it the freedom of the lobbies—a very necessary thing in the correspondent's business—it naturally becomes that much more vigilant.

Where Thrift Comes In.

Where Thrift Comes In.
The average member of Parliament spends not more than a hundred and fifty dollars a month at Ottawa. Indeed one hundred and fifty dollars is a generous estimate. He pays perhaps seven dollars a week for his room or his share of an apartment, fourteen dollars a week for his board—that makes eighty-four dollars a month—and the other sixty-six dollars a month he has for laundry, tobacco, movie shows and the joy of living. I don't see how he gets away with that item of sixty-six dollars for sundries, considering the fact that he franks his laundry home to get washed, and enjoys besides free postage, free stationery and free travel on the railways. He is a great little man for railways. He is a great little man for getting things free and has no false modesty about asking for more. So far he has not been able to wrangle free berths on the sleeping car and free meals on the diner, but he will probably get them both in the long run. Mean-Presbyterian Assembly Hears

SCIENTIFIC FARMING.

When we consider the possibilities and the in the agricultural development of this country, we realize how important and necessary it is that the methods employed should be of the most advanced kind. At the Dominion capital the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists is in session with the object of furthering scientific research and cultivation. The farmers and the public generally are beginning to realize that the greatest production all but completely degraded the first principle foreign demand. Old methods of cultivation will not suffice under the new world conditions. We must produce stupendously and rapidly in order that the world may be fed and dangerous discontent disappear. As the Montreal Herald, in commenting on this matter points out, increased production is as necessary to peace as it was to war.

To meet the present world food emergency Canada is in an excellent position. Within the last few years additional land has been put under cultivation to the extent of seven million acres. For this year there is a total of 40 million acres ready for cultivation. An immense increase in the amount of live stock since 1913 is also reported.

It is estimated that the value of the annual production of Canadian farms is around 2,000 millions of dollars, but these figures can be expanded limitlessly by the application of the very latest scientific systems of cultivation and breeding.

THE COUNTY GRANT.

No finer memorial to the men of Middlesex who fell in the war could be reared than that which is insured by the action of the county council in granting $100,000 towards the buildings of Western University. In the entrance hall of the main university building will be tablets bearing the names of all the men who gave their lives, a record that must ever remain an inspiration to the young people of this and other counties who will enter those halls in the years to come preparing for their The county council has honored itself in honoring its heroes in such fashion, and there can be distinct pride taken in a body of men whose vision is as broad as that of the county councillors of Middlesex. A prophet might find in their action an omen of the closer relations that will exist between the universities and the rural districts in the days to come. It is a great mistake to think that universities are chiefly for city boys and girls and that they rather than the boys and girls from the country come first in the benefits. that are offered. Any such idea would be uprooted by the names of the hundreds of eminent Canadians, graduates of universities, who have come from the farms. There will always be sons and daughters of the farm whose abilities are along other lines, and it is from this good stock that the country recruits many of its doctors, its lawyers, its clergymen, its scientists and not infrequently its leading businessmen. We venture the idea, however, that in the near future the universities of this country will be so extending their influence that they will come very close to the men and women and the boys and girls who stay on the farm and who are proud to stay there. University extension work has been developed in some cases to an extent that justifies, as in the state of Wisconsin, the statement that the university body is nothing less than the population of the state.

Western University will owe a distinct duty to the counties of Western Ontario, both to their rural and urban populations, to find out how it can come into the lives of men and women and boys and girls and make them happier through being healthier and wiser. That is the office of a university if anything is its office, to show young men and women how they can be agencies to better the old world. Teachers who can inspire in youthful minds the idea that the greatest thing in the world is to serve others are worth more to this land than statesmen or millionaires. We are revising our ideas of many things, education among others, and it is noteworthy to what an extent we have widened out our ideas of what universities and higher education generally should do and who should be couched by the life and thought of universities. That is an evidence of our widening democracy. Education is no longer a mere privilege but a right, and today we seek out young men and women who have the right stuff in them and endeavor to open the way, by fellowships, scholarships, and aid of various kinds, so that they may be equipped equally with their better situated comrades. There are men in London who could make no finer investment of a few hundred dollars than to put it into the education of a promising boy or girl. There would be life-long dividends of satisfaction to the benefactor, age-long dividends of returned usefulness to the country itself.

We prophesy that in days to come citizens county's heroes on the walls of Western University and see the troops of young men and nen passing in and out of its doors sharing its offerings of light and knowledge will re- work on the roads, gard the county council of 1920 as having had far-seeing vision and a right sense of what those fallen heroes died for.

CANADA AND THE CONVENTION.

What will Canada do about the labor principles of the League of Nations?

The new era of human history, initiated by the League, and particularly by the labor section thereof, raised great hopes. Over-optimistic, perhaps, we had looked forward to advanced legislation, giving effect in Canada to the labor principles to which we pledged ourselves in the Treaty of Versailles. We should at least conform to the new international ideal, vet little advance has been made. There has been a dual policy at work. It is when the Peace Treaty was under discussion in Paris.

The text of principles, first recommended by the Commission on International Labor Legislation for insertion in the Peace Treaty, was very different from that of the principles later adopted by the conference. To cite one case. The first principle recommended by the

"In right and in fact the labor of a human being should not be treated as merchandise, or an article of commerce.'

irst principle reads:

"The guiding principle . . . . that labor should not be regarded merely as a commodity or an article of commerce."

Introduction of the sinister word "merely," is needed in order to meet the domestic and Somewhat similar treatment was meted out to the other eight principles. Their binding character was considerably slackened.

It is of especial interest to remember that Sir Robert Borden was largely responsible for securing amendments to the original principles, amendments which after much objection were finally accepted by the commission. Indeed, at the plenary session of the Peace Conference on April 19, 1919, Sir Robert moved adoption of the amended principles. A few weeks later, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who had returned to the United States, cabled in protest to President Wilson. "I cannot," Mr. Gompers wired, "Icannot ask the convention (of the A. F. of L.) or the rank and file of labor to indorse valueless."

been "materially weakened." And it was only after a long and dramatic debate that the A. F. of L. convention indorsed the amended principles. A French delegate on the commission put the position more succinctly when he genially referred one day to "our emasculated orinciples.' The Washington Labor Conference was the first called under the aegis of the League of Canadian delegates, particularly tions, except the convention referring to plied to employees in commercial as well as bing with machinery. industrial establishments. The other conventions had been applicable to employees in industrial establishments only. In support of Washington took an exemplary stand. That was admitted on all hands. But representatives of Canadian employers, understanding Canadian affairs better, were not so easily convinced. Six months ago, one prominent in the fight at Washington remarked that the Dominion Government would not bring down legislation to give effect to the conventions. The conventions would go over to the provinces, where, with nine different battlefields open and a greater farmer representation, they would have less chance of success. Labor men were inclined to make light of his view. Nevertheless, he appears to have possessed the golden gift of prophecy.

If the cabinet accepts the legal view, and it is hardly likely it will do anything else, the Dominion Parliament will be without jurisdiction. That is the strictly legal view. But the moral obligation remains. Federal states before have encountered similar difficulties and surmounted them. The Congress of the United States encountered similar difficulties in the protection of child labor. There, state rights were the stumbling block. Congress legislated. The supreme court of the United States declared the law unconstitutional. Then, by a revenue act, Congress imposed an extra tax of ten per cent of the annual net profits on any firm employing children under the age of 14 years. So in effect, a minimum age of employment was fixed. And so, if the will exists, means could be found to have the Children's Charter, if not all the convention, declared law in every province of the Dominion.

PROVINCIAL ROAD PROGRAMS.

[Farmer's Advocate.] Road programs have been drawn up and approved in several provinces, and highway construction and as sufficient for the purpose is practically assured epair much in excess of anything that has been attempted in the past will be got under way. Much of this enthusiasm has been created by the Dominion Government's grant of $20,000,000 to the provinces We need good roads in Canada; we need far better However, under the present abnormal conditions, we believe it would be better for the various provincia governments to go carefully in their road-building costs up in the skies for another five or ten years. When the Dominion Government grant passed the house it was thought necessary in order to give econstruction era. It may still be needed for such purpose at a later date, but at the present time absolutely unnecessary to boost construction work unduly in order to give work to any army of unemployed. The enthusiasm regarding good roads University. and the desire for them should not be allowed to Calvin wane. Every effort should be made to improve our market roads, make it possible for farmers to deliver their product to the shipping points, and for ordinary business to be easily and comfortably transacted The through highways, however, can well wait for more favorable times, when construction costs are less and labor more plentiful. An orgy of road-building at this time would rob agriculture and other industries of much-needed help, and even induce farmers themselves to grass their farms and work on the roads.

CHEERFUL WORK.

[London Express.] There are good workers and willing workers, and the two are not always one and the same. It is far better and much easier to be one of the willing workers. The soldier holdings average around 25 acres, and a feature is the number of men who have put in small fruits this season. The production of small fruits from Langley will be very materially increased as a result, and there is every prospect that the projected cannery will in the near future become an established fact, and add one more to the evidence of progress locally. A private cannery concern has agreed to erect a plant provided the acreage under small fruits is satisfactory, and the area regarded now, with more on the way.

President Casson Brings Tag Day Scheme Before 1. O. D. E.

President Casson of the Dominion Army and Navy Veterans, spoke at the regular meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., held in the rooms above the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon. He came to ask their cooperation in a scheme for raising money in aid of a large industrial farm for incapacitated war veterans. He stated that Mayor Little had given permission for the holding of a tag day on June 26 in this cause, and wished the I. O. D. E. to undertake the management of the tag day the tag day.

Nursing Sister Phillip of Toronto was also present at the meeting, and spoke in the interests of the same scheme. The result was that the I. O. D. E. passed a motion to the effect that Nursing Sister Phillip be advised to Nursing Sister Phillip be advised to call a mass meeting of the women of London to make arrangements for such a tag day. The Municipal Chapter felt that its promise to the United Welfare Campaign committee, to the effect that it would not come before the public for few weeks why I had been so unlikely it would not come before the public for funds during the next year, prevented it from undertaking this campaign as a chapter. Mrs. E. B. Smith, the regent, renwick of Thamesford, supported the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother on Wortley road. The rooms had been made beautiful with a profusion of spring flowers, and refreshments were served in buffet fashion. The bride's mother was wearing a handsome gown of black satin and chinchilly lace, while the groom's mother was also in a smart black costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballantyre has been now breaking down who have been able to work during the past two years. Some have nervous trouble, and some a general breakdown, and they must have some place in which to recuperate. The asylums and sanatoriums are not what they need, but rather a home, where they may engage in light work for part of the day and help eke out their government pension. Suddenly the air became filled with a great deal of barking; it was as if hundreds of dogs were doing their best to bark their heads off, and that's exactly what it was. Somehow, the first day of a dog show, every little dog barks himself hoarse, and when Tommy was carried shaking to his stall in the benches, he wondered what made them all so foolish. ### FAINT AND DIZZY SPELLS DOMINION-WIDE CRITICISM OF BUDGET FORCES GOVERNMENT TO MAKE AMENDMENTS IN TAXES

The Finance Minister Again Throws Nation Into Confusion by Proposing Practically New Budget — Disorganized the Whole Country's Tra de Without Knowledge of Price Necessities.

"No," replied the minister.

What Will Merchants Do?

[Special to The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, June 9 .- Having thrown the country into a state of confusion, irritation and perplexity by the im position of a multitude of so-called "luxury" taxes, which in reality affect the necessaries of life, having dis organized the trade of 200,000 retail merchants throughout the Dominion by making of them Government tax collectors, having added to the already great burdens of the housewife the further burden of computing what extra she has to pay on the necessaries of life which she buys, Sir Henry Dray-ton, minister of finance, tonight brought down what was practically a new budget, and shocked and aston-ished an already almost stunned House by presenting a long list of changes in by presenting a long list of changes in the new taxes by which confusion will the new taxes by which confusion will be even more confounded, Merchants, who by painstaking study have almost mastered the intricacies of the taxes as originally presented, and have succeeded in becoming fairly efficient in working out the percentage of tax on a yard of ribbon or a suit of clothes or a piece of embroidery, will have to lie awake nights once more to master the changes. House-wives who imagined they had succeeded in coming to a knowledge by which they could outwit attempted deception will have to start and learn ception will have to start and learn

Jumbled Commodities.

In fact, the changes announced by the minister tonight are an indication that in his original budget he simply jumbled a multitude of commodities to-gether, and without securing any esti-mate of cost or value, fixed a "luxury" price, and set a percentage for taxa-tion. Today he has decided to in-crease the duty on clothing, and boots and shoes from 10 to 15 per cent, but and snoes from 10 to 15 per cent, but to tax only on the excess over and above the price fixed. On other articles the tax is on the total cost of the article. So that here again is another confusion. In fact, it would appear that the Government has set itself determinedly to cast direct taxation into complete disrupt and contempt.

complete disrupt and contempt. Two Budgets at Once.

Not since confederation has there been two budgets in the one session. Old parliamentarians sat with dismay on their faces, as the minister proceeded to read the long list of changes and modifications.

Probably the most grotesque feature. Probably the most grotesque feature of the whole thing is the fact that mer-of the whole thing is the fact that merchants are supposed to go on collecting on the basis of the old resolution until the new resolution, or probably still another weird modification and carricature of it, has passed the House. The minister says he is still open for suggestions, and he is getting them from all sides. In the meantime the consumer will continue to pay the former rates of taxation, and will have to be content with the vague intimation on the part of Sir Henry that "we hope excise payments will be refunded."

How Will Refund Be Paid?

For instance, the original tax pro-

t every woman to know not the storal cost of a dress? It would take an army of civil servants to figure it out. In fact those who have already paid into the treasury in excess of what they ought to have paid, had the minister not botched the matter, can kiss goodbye to their money. Incidentally, it may be remarked that when this interesting spectacle was going on in the Commons the Senate, in which the Government has a large majority, were hilariously engaged in killing a government measure sponsored by the minister of labor (the bill to repeal the law allowing deporation of British-born residents without trial). Might Be Raised.

Sir Henry suggested that the tax on boots, shoes, pumps and slippers might be raised 10 to 15 per cent on all of those costing over $9, the tax to be figured on the excess over $9, instead of the total cost of the articles. "Will cripples' boots be exempted?" asked Dr. Clark.

"They are still exempted," Sir Henry replied.

"Are the profiteers always crippled?"

asked Dr. Clark.

"They are still exempted," Sir Henry replied.

"Are the profiteers always crippled?"
Dr. Clark pursued.

"Well." Sir Henry replied, "the present process is described by some as crippling them very severely; so much so that they say they will not be able to carry on business in the near future with any profit."

Sir Henry submitted further amendments in regard to essential articles of clothing. Instead of 10 per cent on the full cost, the tax on the following articles, if present suggestions are adopted, will now be 15 per cent on the excess: Trousers, soid separately from suits, in excess of $12 a pair; coats, men's and boys', sold separately from suits (not including leather - pats lined with sheepskin), in excess of $50 each; waistcoats, men's, sold separately from suits, in excess of $50 each; waistcoats, men's, sold separately from suits, in excess of $50 each; skirts, separate from dresses (except suits), in excess of $60 each; skirts, separate from dresses (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; skirts, separate from dresses (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's and misses', sold separately from suits (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats, women's

No change, Sir Henry added, was proposed on the tax on articles which might be regarded as an extravagance entirely within the control of the purchaser.

Sir Henry proceeded that he proposed to include walking-sticks as subject to luxury tax. Fur coats would be exempted up to $200 value, instead of $100, as provided in the original

"I don't think we can make the matter retroactive." Sir Henry replied.

How Are You as an Inexperienced Rider, or Prospective Rider, Going to Tell Them Apart?

You! who are looking for the best value that your money can buy, want to have some means of know= ing which is which, realizing that in these days of competitive advertising some unscrupulous merchants will tell you anything in their advertisements.

And for that reason we give you here a comparison between the RED BIRD BICYCLE and the OTHER KIND.

We have a reputation as truthful advertisers, and no amount of money could induce us to lose this reputation. So you can absolutely rely that what we tell you here are "FACTS." We have in the short space of six years built up a business that any concern might well be proud of, and a business that is a credit to any city.

And There Is No Secret in This Success

We played the game square, laid our cards on the table "FACE UP." We did not deal "FROM THE BOTTOM." Used modern methods of merchandising, "One price to all, the Plain Price Card on every article," and service behind every purchase. We talk to you through these columns just as truthfully as we would talk to you personally.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE RED BIRD AND Red Birds.

When you see a well-finished, maroon-enameled bicycle with gold stripes, and nickelplating done on copper, and no rusty parts, it's a Red Bird.

When you see a bicycle coming down the street, and the rider making apparently no effort to propel it, it's a Red Bird. When you see a young lady or girl riding on a neat, trim-locking bicycle that glides along without the slightest noise, it's a Red Bird.

RED BIRD BICYCLES

Are at least 90 per cent Made-in-Canada, are built in one factory, are built with the object to give services to the rider. "The rider's interests are the manufacturer's interests."

After years of service you are able to obtain spare parts, because you know where RED BIRDS are made. The money that you pay for them remains in Canada, and helps a Canadian workman TO BUY SOME OF THE ARTICLES THAT YOU MAKE, thus making your job safe.

When you see a common black bicycle or one with rainbow colors painted all over it that looks like a circus wagon, and plating all rusty, it's the other kind. When you see a bicycle coming down the street, and the rider has got to use one hand to help push his legs down in order to propel it, it's the other kind When you see a young lady or girl riding on a poorly-designed, clumsy-looking bicycle, with loose chain and making a noise like a rattle-box, it's the other kind.

THE OTHER KIND

Are brought in from another country, and only about 10 per cent of labor and material supplied in Canada is built of jobbing parts made up in a number of factories, and service is never thought of.

TAX CHANGES PROPOSED

e pending in the House. Tonight Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, indicated some changes he intends to propose. In brief they

(a) Boots and essential articles of clothing to be taxed 15 per cent on the excess, instead of 10 per cent on the total selling price. (b) Expensive furniture, walking-sticks and expensive china to be subject to luxury tax. They are not previously included. (c) Exemption limit increased on furs, coats, caps, muffs, neckpieces, robes and rugs.

(d) Modifications in the tax of sporting goods, velvets, vel-lace and braid, ribbons and carpets. Sir Henry did not give formal notice of his proposed amend-its. This will be given later. He also made it clear to the House that the taxes as laid down in the budget speech would be still in force for the present. Nothing said tonight," he declared, "will alter the present law until the resolutions have passed the House." Consideration of the proposed changes was deferred until Thursday, but the procedure aroused some criticism. Dr. Clark of Red Deer queried the minister of finance if the Sudget proposals were to be taken as serious proposals. Now, the minister was giving a whole list of alterations in detail. To this Sir Henry replied that no changes in principle were proposed. Certan luxuries were to be included, which were omitted in the orignal recommendations. Certan modifications were proposed in deference to resolutions received.

CANDY AND SUBSTITUTES.

The changes proposed in Paragraph 3 are as follows: Candy and substitutes for candy: a tax of 10 per cent on all candy and confectionery, except on original packages and original labelled pieces, bearing the name of the manufacturer on the package or labels, retailing for 10c or less; also confectionery described and known as gross goods as sold to children at one cent each. These exceptions not to apply to candy at any time when sold by the manuexceptions not to apply to candy at any time when sold by the manufacturer in bulk. On chewing gum or substitutes therefor, the tax is reduced from 10 per cent to 3 per cent.

Further suggestions will be made later with reference to pianos, organs and other musical instruments. It is proposed to increase the tax on automobiles adapted for passenger use, selling at $3,000 each, to 20 per cent. CUSTOMS DECISIONS.

Regarding customs decisions the resolutions providing for an increase of 2 per cent per gallon on spirits, lime juice or fruit juices, tinctures and medicines, means a tax of $4 on lime juices, medicines and perfumes, as the tax is held to be cumulative. It is proposed that this tax shall not be cumulative; that there shall be only one advance on the present rates for the alcoholic content in the lime juices, patent medicines of $2 in place of $4. A reduction is also proposed to be made on imported medical or medicated wines, vermouth and ginger wines, patent and proprietary medicines containing not more than 40 per cent of proof spirits from It is proposed to abandon the present stamp taxes now collected on patent and proprietary medicines, perfumery, etc. EXEMPTION OF BOOTS. Other changes include the exemption from all taxation of boots for lumbermen, fishermen and miners. Furs will be taxed 10 per cent instead of 20 per cent as originally provided.

Clocks and watches in excess of $10 will be taxed. Tax on Oriental rugs reduced from 20 to 15 per cent. Ten per cent on corsets in excess of $5; knitted sweaters in excess of $15.

Playing cards sold at $24 per gross packs or less are to be taxed 15c per pack; from $24 to $36 per gross packs, tax is 25c a pack. Cigarette and cigar holders, pipes, smoking sets, etc., are brought under the heading of jewelry, taxable at 20 per cent, as are gold and silver mounted pens and pencils, pocket knives, hunting and bowie knives, etc.; silver and gold deposit ware, etc.

A branch of a departmental store or any firm or corporation whose chief business is dealing in Jewelry, will be required to take out a license and pay a tax of 10 per cent on total sales.

the penalty was applied to check any attempt at deceit. Taxpayers were asked to be honest in making their re-turns when they would be liable to pen-

Products and Industrial Alcohol. Leading equipments, oils, rails, textiles and sundry specialties were fractionally lower on very light offerings.

Noon.—Bears renewed their attacks upon railway shares during the morning, forcing Chicago and Northwestern down 2½ points to a new low level. St. Paul preferred lost almost 2 points. Great Northern and Northern Pacific a point each, and other western and southwestern issues 1 to 1½. This was balanced by further pool buying of equipments, chemical and food shares. Gains of 1 to 3½ points were made by Crucible Steel, Harvester, Railway Steel Springs, American Car, Pressed Steel Springs, American Cotton Oil, National Analine, Barrett Company and Cuba Cane Sugar.
