the Ministers have no desire to increase the representation on the principle of population, if all be true that we hear. It is generally understood that they will attempt to increase the representation by a division of the present Counties, so artfully contrived, as to give but little abstract of the statement of the present counties. The London Timer does not admit that the unpoulation, if all the true training to increase the representation by a division of the present Counties, so artifully contrived, as to give but little chance of the return of a Conservative Member for any one of them. This will be done by cutting off a Conservative Township here, and tacking on a Radical one there, without regard to the population. We have advices from Constantinople to the 24th April, but they are quite unimportant.

A rumor prevailed at Paris on the 12th, that King Ferdinand, of the two Sicilies, had died of the Clear Grits—made his finisterial explanation in the same and prevent descrition, by which a Lower for much an alteration, by which a Lower is generally understood that they will at the unpopulation of the present Counties, so artification. This, however, for obvious reasons, would not have suited the views of Ministers.

There are many reasons in the split into two for Parliamentary purposes, in such a way as that the French party must have always had a majority in each section, whereas it might easily have been managed so that each race might have returned its own Member. This, however, for obvious reasons, would not have suited the views of Ministers.

The Queen Isabella of Santa.

There are many reasons why an increase of Members of our Parliament would be desirable, were it not for the increase of expense entailed thereby, amongst the most important of which, is the undoubted fact, that Ministerial influence, by means of direct or indirect bribes, cannot be brought to bear so well on a large as on a small number of Members; in England, you may carry the election of a small borough by bribery, but no man's power would hold out in an attempt to purchase the constituency of a county or a large city. As it is, the Ministers have enough to do to keep their share of the eighty-four Members in order by presents and promises; in a House of a hundred and sixty-eight, the attempt would be hopeless. It is quite probable that many difficulties lie in the way of apportioning the Members exactly to the population, but we should think it might be done approximately without much trouble, or confusing the present limits of the counties.

Health Before Riches.

The warm season is now at hand, and with the oppressive best of Summer, the value of Plantagenet Water becomes more appreciated. The superiority of this celebrated Water above all others. As all know who have once tasted it, it differs essentially from every other. Water, in preserving a solidity or thickness when in the mouth, which is met with in no other spring, as which makes all other Waters appear poor and inspid in comparison with it. It has also the property of varying its character with the temperature: when warm, it is more saline, when cold, it is less so. Several facts connected with its sanitary properties, may be stated here; and setting truth is unimpeachable, they are worth a volume of general statements:—

1st. Thera, is now at Plantagenet an elderly woman, who had been for six years deprived of the use of her limbs, and who, by the use of the well known in the neighborhood. The lady hereelf resides with Mr. Gancon, of Plantagenet, and will, if necessary, verify this extraortimary case.

2nd. Here is another instance: Mr. Mallet, of St. Ann, told Captain Barnum, of the Steamer Lilly, that he had severely injured his hand with a cable, and, by the advice of some friends, he wrapped his hand in a bandage well siturated with Plantagenet Waler, and in three days it was quite well.

a capie, and, by and in a bandage well asturated wrapped his hand in a bandage well asturated with Plantagenet Water, and in three days it was quite well.

3rd. Captain Dole, of Petite Nation, had a barrel of Pork which had become tainted. He release to take it out of the old rel of Pork which had become tainted. He re-solved, as an experiment, to take it out of the old btine, and wash it with Plantagenet Water. After doing so several times, it became an sweet as ever.

and so esteemed is the Water there, that no family is without it.

But it has been said, there are plenty of other saline springs, and why should this be better than the others 1. Why it should be so, it is not easy to say; but there is the fact—if is better. Wheever once uses the Plantagenet Water, will never use any other. It is true that attempts have been made to puff up others, and that deception even has been practised by manufacturing Water; but what has been the result? Who has been long deceived? The fact is notarious. At the present moment, every one uses Plantagenet Water who can get it, and so one who can get it will use any other.

As avidence of this, it is only measuring to refer cein get it, and as one who can get it will use any other.

As ovidence of this, it is only necessary to refer to the names of the entirent Physicians, and public and private individuals, who have certified to the virtue of the Pluntagener Waters, and who regard it as a loos to the country.

In conclusion, let it be home in mind, that it is not simply as a saline drink that these Waters are beneficial, but because they have as only, fattening property, unknown to any Waters busides. There as, in fact, but one Plantagener upping, and the more that is known, the higher its reputation, and the more all abbars tink into insignificance benefic it.

has the particular merit of being prepared purely from cogstable ingredients, so that its application is perfectly
