NEARLY 200 PERISH IN HORRIBLE MINE DISASTER

Explosion in West Virginia Mine Causes Heavy Loss of Life.

Pitiable Scenes Are Enacted by Those Left in Distress.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] ECCLES, W. Va., April 29.—One hundred and ninety men entombed and given up as dead, and 61 rescued—this was the result of the explosion which wrecked mine No. 5 and damaged mine No. 6 of the New River Collieries Company here late yesterday.

The entrances to the mines are far apart, but the workings join underground. When the dust exploded in mine No. 5 the fumes entered No. 6 shaft and there the eleven known dead were killed. Prompt measures taken by Superintendent Thomas Donaldson resulted in the rescue of 61 from No. 6 shaft.

General Manager Bayles at midnight said he believed the 190 men known to be in No. 5 were dead. This belief is also accepted by mining experts who rushed here last night, and by the relatives of the entombed men. It is not believed one man in No. 5 escaped alive, as the smoke and carbon monoxide was followed quickly by outburst of flames.

Most of the minors are American born, although there are quite a number of foreign-born workers. Of the bodies recovered, eight were white Americans, one negro and two foreign-born. The explosion was terrific. A rumbling noise was heard throughout the town and residents rushed to the entrances of the mines, timber, pieces of cars and other debris shot from the mouth of No. 5 shaft.

Many of those rescued said they were overcome by the gas fumes before they knew what had happened. The first man to leave the mine shafts climbed to the surface of No. 6 and over hand on a rope.

BATHURST HAD VERY BAD FIRE LAST NIGHT

Twenty-eight Buildings Are in Smouldering Ruins This Morning.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] BATHURST, N. B., April 29.—After destroying nine business buildings and nineteen houses the fire which broke out yesterday on St. George street, was still smouldering to-day, though its progress had been arrested after damage variously estimated between $100,000 and $150,000 had been done. So rapidly did the flames spread that at one time yesterday it was thought the whole business section of the city would be consumed and the local fire department was compelled to ask for assistance from Newcastle and Campbellton.

When it was found shaft No. 5 was burning, the entrance was closed and the entrances to No. 6 workings were bratticed. The task of finding the bodies in No. 5 must wait until the flames have been extinguished.

General Manager Bayles at midnight said he believed the 190 men known to be in No. 5 were dead. This belief is also accepted by mining experts who rushed here last night, and by the relatives of the entombed men. MAYOR GIVES RETORT COURTEOUS

Will Not Receive Lord's Day Alliance Man in Any Deputation.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] VANCOUVER, B. C., April 29.—Mayor Baxter told Dr. Eber Crummy, president of the Lord's Day Alliance for British Columbia in a letter to-day that he would not reply to any communication from, nor receive any delegation including Rev. C. H. Huestis, secretary of the Alliance for British Columbia, and Alberta. His Worship's action is the result of a letter from Mr. Huestis demanding more definite reply as to the enforcement of the Lord's Day Act than the "vague and childish" statement that the law would be reasonably enforced.

An Injustice To Women

Church of England Clergy on the Divorce Laws in England.

LONDON, April 29.—The lower House of Convocation of Canterbury yesterday discussed the attitude of the Church of England towards divorce. The Bishop of Southampton moved a resolution expressing the opinion that there should be one standard of morality for men and women and equality of treatment by the law. The present state of the law, the Bishop said, was barbarous in its treatment of women. The dignity of woman was as great as the dignity of men and the insult involved was as great to woman as to man. If there was to be divorce at all it should be readily available for women as for men.

PEACE POSSIBLE, BUT STILL THEY LEAVE MEXICO

Foreigners Are Taking No Chances on What Might Happen.

Villa Stands Between Huerta and United States Action.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] WASHINGTON, April 29.—While scores of Americans continued their hurried exodus from Mexico and Brigadier-General Funston's troops were landing to complete the occupation of Vera Cruz to-day the representatives of three South American republics gathered in the Library of the Argentine legation in Washington and arranged the preliminaries of their attempt to steer the Mexican ship clear of war. No indication of the tenor of their program has been revealed. There was no indication of when proposals would be submitted to Huerta or the Washington government, but it seemed probable that three or four days would be required before the next move would be made. Whether the exercise of the South American envoys "good offices" would progress to the point of actual mediation was a matter of tremendous importance to be settled by later developments, but a spirit of optimism over progress of the negotiations was apparent in executive quarters.

OTTAWA BY-LAWS QUASHED TODAY

Justice Middleton Finds That Liquor License Reduction Cannot be Effectuated

[By Special Wire to The Courier] TORONTO, April 29.—Both Ottawa by-laws reducing shop and tavern licenses in that city have been quashed by Mr. Justice Middleton, and his lordship cannot see why costs should not follow the event.

ASQUITH SPEAKS OF A COMPROMISE

Mr. Churchill's Offer Canadian Orangemen Asked For Help.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] LONDON, April 29.—Speaking in the House of Commons to-day Premier Asquith declared that the invitation extended by Winston Spencer Churchill first lord of the admiralty, to Sir Edward Carson to endeavor to compromise the home rule question on the federal basis, had been made on Mr. Churchill's own responsibility. He was, however, heartily in sympathy with the idea. In the present exceptional circumstances, he said any one who can contribute to a peaceful solution of the trouble is entitled to do his best.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The two thousand guineas stakes for the entire colts and fillies foaled in 1912 was won here to-day in a stirring finish by the favorite, Kenymore, who passed the winning post a short head in front of Corcyra. Black Jester was third.

John F. Schumacher, aged 25, coxswain of the battleship Florida, who was killed when the first U. S. force landed. His mother lives on Suydam street, Brooklyn, and with her he made his home when not on his ship.

TRIED TO GET TO ROCKEFELLER, WERE ARRESTED

New York Socialists Wanted to Protest Against Colorado Strike.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] NEW YORK, April 29.—Upton Sinclair, his wife and three women were arrested to-day after a demonstration at the offices of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the Standard Oil building. They had come to protest against the Colorado strike.

It's All Settled

A Synagogue Will Not be Erected on Commercial Street.

"Peace with honor!" There is said to be a likelihood that the much vexed question among William St. residents of the erection of a synagogue will be settled amicably. The Jews and Gentiles have conferred and it is understood that the Jews have agreed not to build on William St., but the by-law to prevent them from so doing must be withdrawn. This was the statement of a member of their community last night. The compromise would leave things as they were and would put an end to a year's dispute in which the opposing forces were equally determined.

EAST WARD, AFTER EIGHT-YEAR FIGHT, TO GET A NEW SCHOOL

Contract Was Let Last Night to Secord & Sons Company—Structure Will be Eleven Room Plan—Rawdon Street Site Chosen.

The East Ward is at last to have another school. In 1906 it was first felt that it was necessary, owing to the increase in population at the eastern extremity of the city and the general congestion existing in all the schools. Accordingly property was bought when land was cheap, but each year the actual starting to build was deferred until the stage arrived when the question could no longer be shelved, but had to be faced. Trustee David Lyle has spent the best part of two years in reminding the trustees that East Ward needed another school and succeeded at last. Last night Mr. Lyle put up a fine fight to have the report of his committee adopted and it was adopted. Secord and Sons will build the school and it will cost $44,000. The second tender was the lowest and was accepted. The school will be built on Rawdon street and will be an 11 room structure, one room larger than Dufferin school. As to when it will be completed, is not known at present. Outside of the contract for the new school, the trustees had little other business for the night to transact.

Inspector Kilmer and Principal Rowe Submit the Data Picked Up While in Toronto—Trustees Do Not Favor Proposition.

Inspector Kilmer and Principal Rowe last night submitted to the School Board information they had received at Toronto in regard to the school savings bank system. As a result of their enquiry the board could not see its way clear to again put the system into operation. It is said to be cumbersome, and for the amount of labor involved not as fruitful as it should be in results—that is, in the encouragement of thrift among school children. The cost of installing the system in one school at Toronto was $100.

Young Peoples' Societies Meet

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD.
The young people of St. Andrew's Guild held their weekly meeting Monday evening, with President R. Millard in the chair. After the opening exercises and business of the meeting had been transacted, Miss Annie Howarth contributed a solo. Three very interesting papers were given by Misses E. Beamer and Connie McDonald and Mr. A. McWhirter, on "The Gospel Amongst the French-Canadians." The meeting closed in the usual way.

Beattie and Mr. Chas. Hall. During the evening Miss Olive Hall favored the Guild with a piano solo and Mr. Walter Carpenter rendered a vocal solo very acceptably.

WOLFE LODGE S.O.E.

Very Pleasant Time Spent Monday Evening—Visit of Hamilton Brethren.

At the regular meeting of the White Rose Degree which was held in the lodge room, Temple Building, Monday evening, April 27th, a most pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent being honored with a visit of the degree team of Lodge Unity, Hamilton, who arrived by special car, 7:30 p.m., and was met by a delegation of past officers who escorted them to the lodge room, where they were accorded full honors and welcomed by the President.

Wolfe lodge, White Rose degree having nine candidates ready for advancement, the Hamilton degree team soon got down to business and advanced the candidates in a most efficient and creditable manner. The members of the team carried out their respective parts in a manner beyond all praise. Much credit is due the captain P.P. Bro. J. RHEUMATISM
SCIATICA AND LUMBAGO QUICKLY CURED BY "KEPHALDOL"

A druggist in Toronto said that he was asking an Old Country customer of his about KEPHALDOL TABLETS. This customer told him "I suffered from severe Rheumatism and Sciatica for twenty years, hardly ever being free from these troubles. I read about KEPHALDOL in the Glasgow papers and sent home for some. Three hours after taking two tablets, the pain was almost gone, and after taking six or seven, I hadn't a bit of pain."

This druggist went in to see his doctor about his wife and asked him if he had ever heard of KEPHALDOL. The doctor said "I understand KEPHALDOL is a reliable sedative and anodyne; relieving pain without affecting the heart or vital organs. Since KEPHALDOL has been introduced into Canada I have prescribed in cases of severe Rheumatism and Neuralgia and just recently succeeded in helping a most severe case of La Grippe with it."

Since then, this druggist has ordered KEPHALDOL and recommended it to those of his customers who wanted something to relieve pain. If you are unable to get KEPHALDOL Tablets at your druggist's, send 5c to Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The second trial of former police lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal will begin next week.

Martin T. Manton of new counsel for Becker joined in the motion of District Attorney Whitman for three hundred talesmen, from whose number a jury will be selected, and yesterday declared his readiness to bring the case to trial at once.

Mr. Manton's statement came as a surprise, as it was expected that he would ask for a postponement for a month or more from May 6, the date set by Justice Seabury, because of his unfamiliarity with the case.

NEWSPAPER MEN HAVE DISAGREEMENT Franchise Application Again Laid Over—Meeting Breaks Up. [By Special Wire to The Courier] TORONTO, April 29.—Another refusal of the application of The Evening News for an afternoon news franchise in Montreal, this time by the shareholders of the Canadian Press, Limited, from Ontario and Quebec, was registered at a meeting held in the King Edward Hotel today. The refusal was qualified by a statement contained in a resolution: "That the present situation in the English evening paper field in Montreal should not be allowed to continue indefinitely, and recommends the board of directors to reconsider the conditions in the Montreal English newspaper field on or before the meeting of the shareholders on June 24th."

After Eight Year Fight (Continued from Page 1) was $4,000 difference between the two plans. Dr. Ballachey took objection to the statements of Mr. Lyle. In the original plans fancy stone work was called for and Schultz Bros. agreed to eliminate this and save $1,000. Dr. Ballachey believed there was a big difference in the value of the original building and the one now planned. He did not think any trustee was opposed to building a school in the East Ward. He personally opposed putting up a cheap looking structure, and did not want to waste civic money but the first plans were the better ones. Trustee Lyle wanted to know how it was Schultz Bros price was $1,000 higher on the last building than on the first although the building is said to be an inferior one. Dr. Ballachey said he understood more brick would be required. It was a departure however from fair play to call for second tenders as had been done. Trustee Day said he wanted to see fair play. It was common talk on the street that if Secord and Co. had tendered lower in the first place they would have got the contract under the original plans. Trustee Clement remarked that a school was absolutely needed in the East Ward. The truth was that the board had been governed by the City Council and he was sorry for it. He thought the board would have been wiser to have proceeded under the original plans and if they were in the hole the city would have to make good. The board should have known its own business in the first place. Now they had to deal with the present exigency and it was up to the trustees who were bamboozled to make the best of a bad job. Trustee Arthur Coulbeck coincided with Mr. Clement's view. The board should never have yielded to the demands of the city council. That was the mistake which led to confusion, and charges of unfairness had been made. Trustee Armstrong thought there was a dark horse somewhere. He did not know where it was, and did not want to know. He did not want to take up any body's sins of the past. All the board could do now was to take the best of the present situation. Mr. Armstrong described the new plans as a mutilated evolution. Some members of the board apparently had proved good mixers. Trustee Coulbeck wanted to know if the contractor would be forced to pay union wages. Mr. Lyle said the contract was not made, but such a clause would be inserted. Trustee Armstrong thought that the matter should be looked after very sharply, stipulating that Brantford labor only should be employed. The "foreign truck" should be eliminated. Chairman Cutcliffe said he did not believe any trouble would be experienced in having the contractor adhere to the board's wishes. Trustee Lyle did not think a resolution to that effect was necessary, but Mr. Coulbeck thought it might be much better to have a fair wage clause inserted. Secretary Bunnell informed the board that in the last contract no such clause had been inserted. Trustees Coulbeck and Armstrong submitted an amendment to the report, calling for a fair wage clause lost on a show of hands. Asked when the amendment would be finished, Mr. Lyle said if they were as long in getting it finished as in getting it started he would be dead. They started the new school in 1906. The original report of the committee was adopted on the following vote: Yeas, Armstrong, Lyle, Coulbeck, Clement, Lane, Got, Nays Ballachey, Blanc, Day. Dental Clinic Dr. Ballachey said that two applica-

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS.

They had an election in France last Sunday, but the definite outcome will not be known until after second balloting on May 10th. This may sound like a cumbersome system, but it isn't, in fact, has very much to recommend it.

It may be of interest to know that their President is elected for seven years by a majority of the votes of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, meeting in common assembly. He chooses his cabinet from members of the last-named chamber. The Senate consists of 300 members, and the lower House of 584 deputies. Senators must be at least 40 years of age, and they are elected for nine years, one-third retiring every three years.

OFFICIALS COMPELLED TO BE PARTIZANS BY LIBERALS.

Liberal papers continue to throw a number of unlimited slurs at the Hon. Mr. Rogers. They hate him because of his political activities and his habit of coming back in forcible style. An illustration of this fact has been accorded during the present session of the Dominion House when he seized the opportunity to review the Liberal record in dealing with the participation of officials in Western elections.

Mr. Rogers showed that the partisanship of officials had been fostered by the Liberals and by none more than Hon. Frank Oliver. In 1896 Sir Wilfrid Laurier had enunciated the Liberal policy on this subject. His views then were embodied in the following resolution:

"That, whilst it is desirable that every official in the employ of the Government of Canada should enjoy perfect freedom of political opinions and the untrammelled exercise of his franchise in accord therewith, no official should be engaged or be permitted to engage in partisan work of any description in the election of a representative to a Provincial or Dominion Legislature."

How was this policy carried out when the opportunity was afforded the Liberals was the question of the Minister of Public Works. It was easily seen said Mr. Rogers, when, in 1905, every official of the Department of Interior in Saskatchewan, headed by the Minister of that Department, Hon. Frank Oliver, were at work in provincial elections in that Province. Then, when Mr. Oliver was asked to task for this work, and the work of his officials, he laid down in an interview to the press, the new Liberal policy. This was the way Mr. Oliver tried to stamp out partisanship. Speaking of the work of his officials in elections, he said:—

"They have the power of speech and therefore they are entitled to express their political opinions. They are entitled to express them to men under their control; they are entitled to go on the public platform and express them as presidents and officers of Liberal organizations."

Here the Minister of Interior gave a free hand to his officials to coerce the homesteaders and to assist the Liberal organization. Now, Hon. Mr. Oliver objects that the pernicious system he encouraged is not immediately stamped out.

the Liberal party and degraded political life. Here is the authority Mr. Oliver vested in this notable henchman.—

Memorandum. Mr. R. E. A. Leach—With a view to securing more efficient service in office and field work in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, you are hereby given authority to suspend, for cause and for such time as deemed advisable, any Dominion Lands agent, clerk, homestead inspector, sub-agent or other employee in the service of the Lands Branch of the Department of the Interior. You will promptly report to head office each case of such suspension, giving full particulars as to the reasons for the action taken, when the matter will be dealt with by the Department.

(Signed.) FRANK OLIVER. Hon. Mr. Oliver first informed his officials that they had a perfect right to participate in elections, and then gave Leach this authority so that he could see that they delivered the goods. This is the man who is now complaining that his pernicious system has not been entirely abolished.

Liberal pledges of non-partisanship of 1896, replaced by Oliver's policy of compulsory participation in elections by officials. As Hon. Mr. Rogers pointed out, any participation in elections by officials now is due to the Oliver policy laid down by him and carried out by "Thin Red Line" Leach. Mr. Leach's services in this regard were so appreciated by the Liberals that after they were defeated they attempted to enrich him out of the natural resources of the West.

HOT SHOT FOR CLARK Dr. Clark, member in the Dominion House for Red Deer, used to sit in the British House of Commons and he is a Free Trader of the most rabid type. Recently, Mr. Stevens, member for Vancouver, went after him during a speech on the budget in the following most vigorous style (Hansard report):

"My hon friend from Red Deer (Mr. Michael Clark) has often referred to the splendid condition of the workingmen in the old country, and has stated that there was no place in Europe where workmen were better off. What are the facts? Eighty per cent of the land of Great Britain is held by one and a half per cent of the population, and 18 per cent of the wealth by 11 per cent of the population; or 68 per cent of the wealth of Great Britain is in the hands of 12 1/2 per cent of the population. That is an indication of how wealth is distributed in a free trade country. Hon. gentlemen talk about combines, and the amassing of wealth by individuals, but there is no country in the world where there is so much poverty among the masses, and so much wealth in the hands of a few as in Great Britain. My hon friend from Red Deer may say that I am not very loyal to my native country, but one thing I do regret is that Great Britain ever adopted the policy of free trade. She is rapidly losing the position that she won under the protective policy. I have in my hand a great many figures relating to the increase of the cost of living in various countries, which I will condense as briefly as I can. These figures are given by the British Board of Trade—and this is a point we should consider in dairy products an increase of 26 per cent; in fish 52 per cent; animals 46 per cent; other foods 6 per cent; farm implements, of which we have heard so much, have increased by exactly 1 per cent. The British Board of Trade Inquiry into the cost of living had wages reported in 1911 as follows:

In 28 large American industrial cities east of the Mississippi (exclusive of New York) it was found that the hours of labor were 11 per cent shorter in building trades; 7 per cent shorter in printing and allied trades and about the same in mechanical engineering trades; and that wages were 113 per cent higher in building trades; 132 per cent higher in printing; and 140 per cent higher in engineering trades. Rents are 50 to 77 per cent higher in the United States.

They sum up the comparison as follows: The workman's wages are higher in the United States by 130 per cent (over double) with shorter hours, while his expenditure for food and rent is only 52 per cent higher than Great Britain, and unemployment is far less conspicuous than in Great Britain. Mr. Michael Clark—Does it say that in the report? Mr. Stevens—Yes, that is from the report of the British Board of Trade Inquiry. They further say: "It may be noted also that wages in the United States are higher relatively to the cost of living, with the result that in times of depression earnings may suffer a considerable diminution before the level of actual production is reached."

borough Commission's report. When the hon. member for North Waterloo was quoting from that report the other night the hon. member for Red Deer sent a note over to the member for Humboldt who afterwards pointed out that the report of that commission was totally unreliable. The Gainsborough Commission consisted of workmen who visited Germany to investigate working conditions there. I shall not quote them. They carry out the statements which I have already quoted from the Board of Trade.

I wish to turn now to another phase of the question and that is pauperism and unemployment. We have heard a great deal regarding pauperism, and therefore I would like to give some figures upon this question. These again are taken from the Board of Trade and I would commend them to any hon. friend for consideration. Germany has 27,399 paupers in the workhouse as compared with a population of 64,000,000. Great Britain has 400,000 paupers in the workhouse as compared with a population of 45,000,000. Great Britain gives annual relief to 700 out of every 10,000 of the population and Germany to 300 out of every 10,000.

NOTES AND COMMENTS The little Grit minority in the Ontario House seems to be largely composed of scandal-mongers. The Toronto Horse Show opened last evening, and Mrs. Thingamabob's hat is stated to have been very fetching, while Mrs. Muchinprint's slit skirt was a lolla palcoseram.

In an Ontario town recently Miss Lena Good married Mr. William Damm. When she gets really mad with reference to those household annoyances which are bound to occur, all she will have to do is to murmur hubby's name. A Liberal convention took place in Prescott to nominate a candidate because Evanturel was forced to resign, for the reason that he offered his services in the Ontario House for cash to the liquor interests. Said gentleman wanted to be selected again, but the officers of the association refused to let his name be offered. They selected a Mr. Senecal, and Evanturel's adherents were so wrath that they refused for a long time to let him speak. The deposed member says he will run as an independent, and he evidently still has many warm admirers in the constituency. He got there last time by 284 majority, and in a three-cornered fight a Conservative should win.

Press Comment Bruce Herald and Times: "What are you going to plant in the backyard this summer. Now's the time to thumb over the brilliant pages of the seed catalogue, and squint at the cabbages that look as big as wash tubs. Never mind if you don't grow any bigger than a teacup, try it anyway. A hoe and a spade don't cost much. Besides, you'll get some good exercise out of it, and be able to gather in great gulps of fresh ozone. By all means be a gardener, even if you do make a fizzle out of it."

A Dangerous Gamble. Ottawa Journal: "The people of Canada have expended $90,000,000 on the St. Lawrence waterway, and have $200,000,000 more going into the Welland Canal enlargement. They have expended $16,000,000 in addition on the ocean channel to Montreal. Into the C. P. R. they put $62,000,000 in cash, and vastly greater value in land. In the National Transcontinental Railway they have invested $180,000,000. Upon the Canadian Northern Railway they have spent upwards of $50,000,000 and given a vast amount of land. In the development of national ports they have expended the great sum of $40,000,000. For the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway they will expend at least $10,000,000. These colossal amounts, which taken together far surpass the national debt, were expended that Canada might be compacted, that Canadian trade might be kept in Canadian channels, might go to the markets of the world through Canadian ports. This has been the policy of both parties for nearly the past twenty years at least. Sir Wilfrid Laurier in launching his National Transcontinental project declared that he would never rest until every pound of Canadian traffic was being shipped through Canadian routes and ports. Canada cannot afford to turn back upon that policy by specious tinkering with the principle of the tariff to catch the votes of this, that or the other class. And pending the completion of the big enterprises with which the country is now engaged it would not appear to be in the national interest to gamble with established conditions."

Usually "Papa, what is the person called who brings you in contact with the spirit world?" "A barkeeper."

Birthdays of Note. WEDNESDAY, APRIL TWENTY-NINTH. EDWARD FIBLD HEBDEN, who succeeded George Hague as general manager of the Merchants Bank of Canada nine years ago today. He entered the service of the Bank, with which he is still associated, when he was twenty and rose through the various ranks to his present position. He is a man of quiet, retiring disposition, intent on his own affairs, though he has shown considerable interest in hospital work. He likes hunting and fishing and belongs to several clubs where he can enjoy these sports; he also plays golf at the Mount Royal Club in Montreal.

Uncle Walt. The Poet Philosopher. SNAKES. These sunny days bring forth the snakes from holes in quarries, cliffs and brakes. The gentle bullsnake, mild and meek, sets forth his proper prey to seek; of all good snakes he is the best, with high ambitions in his breast; he is the farmer's truest friend, because he daily puts an end to mice and other beasts which prey upon that farmer's crops and hay. He is most happy when he feasts on go-pheers and such measly beasts; and being six or eight feet high, when stood on end you can't deny that forty bullsnakes on a farm are bound to do the vermin harm. The bullsnake never hurts a thing; he doesn't bite, he doesn't sting, or wrap you in his slimy folds, and squeeze you till he bursts all holds. As harmless as a babe of hay, he does his useful work all day, and when at night he goes to rest he's killed off many a wretched pest. And yet the farmers always take a chance to kill this grand old snake. They'll chase three miles or more to end the labors of their truest friend. They'll hobble forth from beds of pain to hack a bullsnake's form in twain, and leave him mangled torn and raw—which shows there ought to be a law. WALT MASON. SUFFICIENT PROOF. She—"No, George, I am afraid I cannot marry you. I want a man who possesses a noble ambition; whose heart is set on attaining some high and worthy object." He—"Well, don't I want you?" She—"Oh, George, I am yours." Ladies' Home Journal.

Anyone who witnessed the fine display of physical drills given by the fair members of the Y.W.C.A. could have only one opinion of the past at that institution, under Miss Cor. Gould. A contingent of visitors from Stratford came down specially for the occasion and together with the local ladies' team they provided one of the base games of basketball seen in the Victoria Hall. The first part of the programme consisted of a number of pretty and effective drills, which were performed by Juniors, intermediates and seniors. These numbers included junior drill Indian club drill, staff drill by some very little maids, Swedish Scottish dumb-bell exercises children's game, senior wand drill. A very pretty may pole dance, which concluded with clever weaving of the centre pole. Elegant and graceful were the rhythmic steps of twelve damsels, who gave an exhibition of heat and high movements on the feet. And this can be said of all the items of the well arranged entertainment. A splendid boquer was presented to Miss Gould by the Sunshine Club in recognition of her valuable services which they appreciated greatly. She was also the pleased recipient of other tributes during the course of the evening. Miss Bessie Johnson accompanied in fine style during the course of the drills. Quite a feature of the night was the game of basketball between the Stratford and Brantford ladies, in which the local troupe ran out winners, after a keenly contested game by a score of 10 points against 6. The teams lined up as follows: Brantford: Kitty O'Reilly, centre; Mabel Bartle, Marian Tobias, forwards; Evelyn Tenn and Madeline Brohman defence. Stratford: Jeanette Allen, centre; Elsie Roadhouse and Eva Gilholme forwards; Elsie Rapp and Margaret Munroe defence. Referee—Gordon Berry. In a field of sparkling brilliance, somewhat hard to pick stars. Perhaps the hardest worker was Jeanette Allen, whose sturdy strength and forceful methods were prominent during the game. No less meritorious were the efforts of Kitty O'Reilly.

CLOSING EVENT AT THE Y.W.C.A. VERY PLEASING

Physical Drill Classes Put on Successful Program Last Night.

Anyone who witnessed the fine display of physical drills given by the fair members of the Y. W. C. A. could have only one opinion of the peasant who takes gloomily of the decline of the British Empire. The alleged decay was nowhere apparent in the little graceful forms and healthy good looks of the 150 maids who took part in the display which marked the closing of the physical classes held during the winter season at that institution, under Miss Cora Gould. A contingent of visitors from Stratford came down specially for the occasion and together with the local ladies they provided one of the best games of basketball seen in the Victoria Hall.

The first part of the programme consisted of a number of pretty and effective drills, which were performed by juniors, intermediates and seniors. These numbers included junior drill, Indian club drill, staff drill by some very little maids, Swedish, Scottish dumb-bell exercises children's games, senior wand drill. A very pretty maypole dance, which concluded with a clever weaving of the centre pole. The elegant and graceful were the rhythmic steps of twelve damsels who gave an exhibition of neat and light movements on the feet. And this can be said of all the items of the well arranged entertainment.

A splendid boquer was presented to Miss Gould by the Sunshine Club in recognition of her valuable services, which they appreciated greatly. She was also the pleased recipient of other tributes during the course of the evening. Miss Bessie Johnson accompanied in fine style during the course of the drills. Quite a feature of the night was the game of basketball between the Stratford and Brantford ladies, in which the local troupe ran out winners; after a keenly contested game by a score of 10 points against 6. The game lined up as follows:

Brantford: Kitty O'Reilly, centre; Mabel Bartle, Mattian Tobias, forwards; Evelyn Tenn and Madeline Brothman defence.

Stratford: Jeannette Allen, centre; Elsie Roadhouse and Eva Gilholme, forwards; Elsie Rapp and Margaret Munroe defence.

Referee—Gordon Berry.

In a field of sparkling brilliance it is somewhat hard to pick stars. Perhaps the hardest worker was Jeannette Allen, whose sturdy strength and forceful methods were prominent during the game. No less meritorious were the efforts of Kitty O'Reilly, whose indomitable energy in the difficult task of covering her clever opponent, was largely responsible for Stratford's score being kept low. Almost every time Jeannette had an opportunity the ball was buzzing round the basket, invariably resulting in a score. In Mabel Bartle and Mattian Tobias, Kitty O'Reilly was supported by two indefatigable workers. Mabel Bartle was responsible for a good deal of the Brantford score. Evelyn Tenn's excellent reach resulted in many Stratford raids being sharply repulsed. She and Madeline Brothman form a defence upon which it would be hard to improve.

Of the conquered, let it be said they were entirely game, but they seemed to be somewhat disorganized and never after making the first score, could they get working as a combination unit. They would have been seen to better advantage on a larger floor. Their pluck was commendable. Elsie Rapp and Margaret Munroe were resolute on the defence, but the local girls were not to be denied and it was not the fault of defence that the 'Climbers' registered ten points.

Starting with a rush at the commencement the visitors were the first to score, but the 'Climbers' replied swiftly and counted two points adding to their lead before Stratford obtained a free throw, which was converted into a point by Jeannette Allen. The interval found Brantford leading by one to two.

Fast and exciting was the second half during which the local girls took the upper hand, which they maintained to the end.

After the game the visitors were entertained to a splendid supper and a concert which ended a most successful closing of the physical classes.

THE BIG CIRCUS

Busy Scenes at Y. M. C. A. Getting Things Ready For it.

The scene at the Y. M. C. A. these days is a busy one. G. H. Roper and his many lieutenants are busy putting the final touches upon everything that appertains to the great second annual circus which they will open on Thursday, April 30th and continue during the following Friday and Saturday. A grand parade has been arranged; and no efforts will be spared to make the complete event as amusing as could be imagined. A freak kaecoo band will open the event by a special performance of the select airs of grand opera and some of the ideas incorporated in the production are novel and are the result of much thought and painstaking care. If there is a streak of humor in the most downhearted pessimist, he will be tickled by the forthcoming circus.

The Federal act respecting juvenile delinquents has by Royal proclamation been made applicable to Alberta.

ROWELL GUILTY; HELD TONGUE OVER IT ALL

An M.P.P. While an Employee of the Federal Government.

TORONTO, April 28.—One of the biggest sensations that has stirred the legislature for years occurred last evening when Howard Ferguson of Grenville, in denouncing the appeal of N. W. Rowell for candor and frankness, launched the charge that Mr. Rowell himself had, until recently sat in the Provincial House in violation of the law and had never in that time confessed to it.

Reference was to the re-enactment of the law which allowed members receiving pay from the Federal government to yet retain their seats in the Legislature. He went on to state that Mr. Rowell had received for certain services rendered the Dominion government in 1911 the sum of $3,250 and the files of correspondence in his own office would show it.

Facing Both Ways.

Mr. Ferguson referred bitingly to Rowell fighting on March 17, the bill which would save members who had done federal work, and yet while saved himself would never confess it.

This rebuke had come direct from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the small sum paid was only one-third of the amount to be received.

Mr. Rowell interjected on privilege that he was retained by a Missionary Society of the Methodist church and not by the Federal Government. There had been a dispute among the Oka Indians and the government because he involved had the whole account of expense sent in, and thus the money had gone direct to him. He had received the money but yet not for services.

The government refused to take the matter in that light.

A bedlam of voices called at him about the chamber.

"He wilfully and knowingly violated the law," continued Mr. Ferguson. "He assumes the role of frank candid censor and yet takes shelter under legislation he violently opposed. He says he did no work for the Dominion Government, yet he conducted correspondence and worked with R. C. Smith of Montreal, in the business. He personally conducted the negotiations."

Purposely Concealed.

Referring to the question on the order paper calling for members liable to be disqualified, Mr. Ferguson accused him of purposely and wilfully concealing information on the subject. He referred to the Federal auditor-general's reports of 1912, when the name N. W. Rowell stood out prominently.

"I was never retained by the Dominion Government," said Mr. Rowell.

"But you got money from them," burst in voices.

Mr. Rowell continued that being retained by the Oka Indians and the Methodist Church missionary society, he conducted the civil dispute for these. Later the Government became a party in the matter through its dealing with Indian affairs, and instructed the Indians and the church board to send in the accounts to Ottawa, where payments would be made direct.

"This they did," he said, "and Mr. Rowell, of the Government paying us, the account was paid direct."

Retained by the Indians.

He and R. Smith of Montreal were both retained by the Indians.

Mr. Ferguson—Is that accepting a fee from the Dominion of Canada?

"I never was in the employ of the Dominion Government," parried Mr. Rowell.

"Then you'd better look over your office files," shouted Mr. Ferguson, amid a thundering applause.

"Will you explain the difference between not being retained and paid and being retained and paid?" Mr. Rowell declared as he arose. "One is being employed and the other is not."

"Then why did you keep the money?" said a voice from the Government benches.

The Late Thomas Ryan Who Passed Away Last Week—A Former Brantford Man.

The Utica Globe of recent issue contains a two-column picture of the late Thomas Ryan of Schenectady, N.Y., who was the brother of Messrs. John and P. Ryan of this city. The following reference to Mr. Ryan's death was also made:

A highly-respected citizen and a well-known foreman in the Schenectady plant of the General Electric Company passed from life Monday, when death summoned Thomas A. He settled in Syracuse, where he remained until 16 years ago, when he came to Schenectady to reside and had since lived in this city. HEAVY LIST AT POLICE COURT THIS MORNING

Gains' People Found Guilty of Keeping a Disorderly House.

There was a very heavy list at the police court this morning, when serious charges were registered against different individuals.

The charge of keeping a disorderly house at 257 Marlborough street was preferred against Edward Gains and his wife Lucy. They are colored people, and pleaded not guilty. The wife was under another charge, that of theft.

Sergeant Wallace, P. C. Blanchard and Cox had made a raid upon the house and found in the building four men, two whites and two Armenians besides Gains and his wife. The white men admitted frequenting the house for immoral purposes, but the Armenians pleaded not guilty to a charge of frequenting.

Robert Donaldson, giving evidence, said he was a resident in Brantford, and he knew the house in which defendant, Lucy Gains lived. He had heard of it and visited the place and knew it was a house of ill-fame. He had frequented the house previously.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hollinrake, he admitted he had a drink on the night in question, but he, however, was not drunk and knew why he had gone to the house at Marlborough St. Thos. Gardner said he had met the woman on the street and she had asked him if he was good for a dollar. He knew the inference. This occurred on Grey street at night and he subsequently visited the house, which had visited before. During his stay the police had raided the house and he was arrested.

Sergeant Wallace said the house had a very bad reputation and it was known in the neighborhood.

Speaking for himself, Edward Gains said he had just arrived in the house just before the officers visited the scene. He knew nothing of the charge and did not believe his wife would be guilty of such an offence. Asked how long he had been in Brantford, he replied two and a half years. He denied that he started the same business as was carried on by him in Toronto. He admitted that he had been convicted of the charge of keeping a disorderly house in Toronto. This was not in regard to his wife, but she was discharged and let off on suspended sentence. He also admitted that he was convicted of an aggravated assault.

Lucy Gains, the wife of the defendant, said she had gone out to buy some groceries, and met Gardner, whom she knew. He said he had some drink and suggested he should go to her home and have a drink. She replied that her husband would not allow any visitors, but nevertheless the man came round after she had gone home, and had a few drinks in her parlor. Nothing had eventuated. With regard to the Toronto charge, she explained that it was a woman who lodged with them who had had visitors when the police made a raid. She pleaded entire innocence of being implicated in the charge, and had never led a bad life. The magistrate remarked that it seemed a clear case.

The case of theft from the person was then gone into. John Nicholl said he was complainant, and he stated that he was walking along Grey St. beside the subway when he saw defendant. She made a noise and attracted his attention and he went across to her and they started fooling, after she had asked him if he had a dollar. They were together about fifteen minutes, and when he proceeded on his way he discovered that $5 had been taken from him. He had had a drink and knew what he was doing, and had little doubt that she was the woman who accosted him. He recognized the coat and was ready to swear to her identity. The cheque which was missing with the dollars was found by him when he revisited the scene looking for it.

Donaldson and Gardner, recalled, both swore that she came from the direction of Rawdon street subway between the hours of eight and ten. She was confronted by him at her home and could not positively identify her. Asked about this, Nicholl said he could not identify her positively. Crown Attorney Wilkes said it was a remarkable coincidence that a dark woman should accost three men on the same night in the same manner and she had been identified by two men.

Mrs. Gains then made a plaintive cry that colored people never get a chance when the police are down on them. She flatly reiterated the statement of Sergeant Wallace as to what took place at the police station when she was brought there. She alleged she was taken from the cells by him and told to tell all she knew of the robbery and if she did, she would be allowed to go. This she declared emphatically and contradicted the Sergeant upon the point. She had only

RED SOX WALLOPED LOCAL STARS 14-0---FIRST GAME OF THE SEASON

There Was a Great Array of Talent Put on the Board by Both Teams - Gero Shows Up in Fine Style - Stars Get Only One Hit.

much speed and control as Gero, walking one man and hitting another. Of the Stars, Woolman was the best pitcher they had and had been started in the game sooner the score might not have been so large.

In the first of the third, Schofield, the first man up, stammered one at Honeck, but to no avail. Agnew took Deneau.

Have they any speed, did some one ask? Well, to watch Sandusky run, the fan is looking at a second Ty Cobb.

The Stars went to bat first and Gero promptly fanned Sears, Patterson and Fisher in order.

The Red Sox also went out in order. Lamond was out Sears to Littich; Gero fouled to Agnew and Burns popped to Littich.

They were used to a game in which every man made oodles of runs. Only the spectacular appealed to them.

The Stars went to bat first and Gero promptly fanned Sears, Patterson and Fisher in order.

The Red Sox also went out in order. Lamond was out Sears to Littich; Gero fouled to Agnew and Burns popped to Littich.

They were used to a game in which every man made oodles of runs. Only the spectacular appealed to them.

ling bating for Schofield was out Chase to Deneau. Agnew and Plant both went out. Beltz to Deneau. Beltz took Wagner's place at second.

O'Connor took Plant's place and promptly walked Ricart, making this man's third free pass of the game. Ricart went to second on a wild pitch and Deneau sacrificed him to third. Ivers went out to Littich unassisted and Rickart scored when the first baseman threw wild to home.

Sears opened the seventh by flying out to Honeck. Patterson was out Chase to Deneau and Fisher popped behind the bat. Coose relieved Matty.

Beltz batted in Wagner's place and walked, and went to second on a wild pitch. Coose struck out, but Chase scored Beltz on a long hit to centre, going to second on the throw in, and scored on the throw in, and scored a little later on Burns' hit to right, the latter going to 2nd on the throw in.

"Biddy" went to third on Agnew's bad peg to second, but remained there, Ricart flew out to Patterson and Deneau was out McKay to Littich.

In the 8th he Sears got their first man on first base. Chase handed Wilkinson a walk, went to second when the pitcher made a bad peg to second of McKay's grounder. Both men were safe, Littich struck out and McKay was caught off first base, Coose to Deneau. Dowling fouled out to Deneau.

Woolman relieved O'Connor and immediately struck out Gaby Ivers. Sandusky went out McKay to Littich and Honeck hit through short. Beltz hit to centre, but Honeck failed to touch second base and was out. Wilkinson to McKay.

Agnew started the ninth with the only hit of the Stars, a weak fly behind first base, near the foul line. Sears was hit by a pitched ball and Patterson popped in front of the plate. Clubby Coose dropped the ball but converted the error into a double play. Coose to Ricart to Beltz. Fisher struck out.

This ended the game with the score 14 to 0, in favor of the Red Sox. It was a good practice game for the Nelsonites and gave Manager Deneau an opportunity to look over his squad. Beltz was shifted to second for the last four innings and appears to have Wagner beaten for his job. Wag has slowed up considerably this year, and unless he shows some speed, very soon he will likely be replaced, and so far Beltz looks like the man for the job.

To-day, weather permitting the Sox will play a practice game with the Hamilton Rowing Club. Connell and Carroll and possibly Molyneux will work for the locals with Lamond and Taylor doing the receiving. The score:

ENGLAND LIKES HER CRICKET, AMERICA LIKES HER BASEBALL

It is very pleasing indeed for us Canadians who have been reading some of the trash in American papers in regard to the views of English and Australian sporting writers to see that at least one American scribe takes the proper view of the situation, as is shown in the following clipping from a Los Angeles exchange:

"Just because English and Australians failed to become enthusiastic the first time they saw a baseball game is no reason why we should abuse them. Baseball is not a hippodrome sport, like automobile racing. Baseball, like cricket or trap shooting, is interesting to those people who understand what it is about. You can't very well blame the English for being bored. They didn't care which side won; they didn't know a hit from an infield out. They were used to a game in which every man made oodles of runs. Only the spectacular appealed to them. No person could like baseball until he had been educated to understand each play."

"There is no reason for any regret. The world tour was fine for those persons who made it, but it doesn't mark an epoch in anybody's history. America doesn't care a whoop whether Australia or England play baseball, and they don't lose any sleep over the unimportant fact that we don't care for cricket. Arguing over the matter is as futile as a wrangle between two young men as to which has the prettier girl--when one prefers blondes and the other has a decided leaning toward brunettes. It would be a sop to our self-esteem if we should finally prove that the English are wrong. But even such an honor would be empty. We once spent several months trying to convince a friend that cysiers were edible, and finally won our argument; but after it was all over we had to admit that the joy of victory was hardly worth the effort put forth. Some of our best writers are highly indignant because the English called baseball "glorified rounders." Al G. Spalding and Will Irwin went deep into the history of baseball and finally proved that baseball did not develop from rounders. "Well, what of it. Baseball is more like rounders than any other game we can think of, and it might as well be called 'glorified rounders' as anything else. The fact that baseball did not develop from rounders is interesting, but not important. Rounders has no blemish upon its name that would cause the best of our eugenic fans to consider it an unfit parent for baseball. The game would be just as thrilling if it did descend from rounders."

Canadian League Notes

Dolan to Pitch. Manager Yates of Hamilton has heard from Dolan, the pitcher who showed up so well for the Athletics in the tail-end of the 1913 season. Dolan is coaching a New York college team and sent on word a week ago that he would not report until June 1. This did not suit Yates, however, with the result that Dolan has changed his mind and informed the local club that he will be here on May 1. Yates had a chance to secure a couple of pitchers from the Baltimore international league club, but he had deecided to depend entirely upon Dougherty, Donohue and Dolan, along with a fourth to be picked up from those reporting, and for that reason passed up the Baltimore recruits. --Hamilton Spectator.

Opening in St. Thomas. The management of the St. Thomas baseball club has received permission from President Fitzgerald of the Canadian League to open the season here on Wednesday, May 7, on account of the afternoon of the first-mentioned day being declared a half-holiday for the visit of the Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia. President Stapley will at once take up the matter with Manager Shaughnessy of Utawata, the team which plays here on opening day, and if agreeable to Shaug as it will, without a doubt the opening will be moved ahead. --St. Thomas Times.

Bits of Baseball in Big Leagues In Short Paragraphs Recounted

"Forget you are the world's champions and play ball" was "Connie Mack's advice to his "boys" after the farewell to the Yankees.

Charles Victory Faust is suspected of being the three giants who pleaded with James A. Gilmore for a job in the Federal League.

Walter Johnson wants to work at least twice a week and if Griffith intends to be near the top of the blond speeder may be called on often.

Chance says that he never had a better pitching staff than the present Yanks provide. This is recommended for September resting.

Proof that the league season should begin later is furnished in Brooklyn. Mr. Ebbets has a cold. Governor John K. Tener, who threw in the first ball, refuses to testify.

"Johnny" Evers hasn't begun to pay the interest on Boston's big big investment. The Trojan is finding it difficult to get speeded up, but promises heaps of baseball when the limbering process is finished.

Frank Chance, "Kid" Gleason and Larry Schaffly were the first to gun a coaching play under the new rules, leaving the standing in the "home" list—Americans, 2; Federals, 1; Nationals, 0.

"Any team will look like a weak hitting aggregation if that kind of pitching is shown," said Ira Thomas in commenting on the Yankee boxmen and two defeats charged against the champions.

"Tom" Daily, retired veteran catcher, now coaching the Yankees, is credited by some of the pitchers with having "shown something."

Mordecai Brown has told Otis Cranall that the latter is a "slashing good second baseman." Cranall is trying to uphold his boss's judgment with the St. Louis "Feds."

There is nothing conducive to gloom in recounting the Giants' experiences in Philadelphia. John McGraw's start last season was no more auspicious, and what eventually happened to a much stronger team of Quakers is also remembered.

Wilbert Robinson isn't satisfied with figuring on an even break in the present series. He thinks the Dodgers have the pitchers to keep the Giants from taking more than one.

Sporting Comment

There is nothing in the rumor that Superintendent Smith has declared an official holiday on the Reserve for opening day. The nickname "Brants" failed to work effectively there.

They looked pretty good yesterday, but still the Stars are conceded not to be in the same class as the Red Sox.

Wagner is apparently to have a fight with a rival this year to make good. Beltz occupied second base yesterday and for several stanzas looked good to the fans. It is reported among those who know that third base is practically settled, until Johnny Nelson comes, and that the scene of hostilities are now transferred to second base.

Wagner, like Coose, does not look the same ball player, but claims that he is not in condition. Rickart, in the meantime will hold down the red hot corner. He looked good yesterday and so did Beltz. We would like to see "Wag" back at the old stand again and showing old time form just the same, but it is generally understood that one, Chief Deneau, is running the team this year, and whatever happens we will have to respect his judgment, and pass sentence accordingly.

Eddie Taylor is to pitch. This was the announcement made by Deneau last night. Taylor is said to have the best kind of a spit ball and Deneau is confident that he will win at least two thirds of his games in this league. Taylor has the experience and fans will be glad to know that his sphere of usefulness will be the important position of heaver. Incidentally Deneau will play first base.

A lady fan remarked at the ball park yesterday that she didn't like Hon-back at shortstop. Better bring back the college boy Tesch?

The Eagle Place Stars did not compare very favorably with the Red Sox. Fans over at the park did not fail to notice the difference in class. However, that should be no discouragement to the young fellows, as the present Red Sox have been recruited from just such teams as the Stars. The same Eagle Nestors showed enough pitching strength to warrant expectations that they will be up around the top in the "Wobbly" league this year.

This fellow, Sandusky looks like a clonker from Law. Welcome to the Red Sox.

Latest reports are to the effect that Rube Deneau is learning the language of the Six Nations. The war whoop is already being acquired by the coaches.

It is officially denied that any holds a mortgage on the Red Sox.

Woodstock being the farm of the Brantford ball team, Jimmy Bradley intends nicknaming his players "the Papoose."

To strengthen the catching department looks like a laudable move on the part of the Rube. Coose is not a catcher, it being rumored among his confreres that he shuts his eyes when the ball comes up. With the declared intention of Deneau not to use Taylor anywhere else, except in the pitching box, that would leave the club with only one catcher, and Deneau says that the team cannot afford to take a chance with only one man. Consequently he is out for the very best that he can get hold of.

Honeck missed touching a bag yesterday, and was warned that the next time he does it, it will cost him a ten spot.

J. Ira Davis has written or rather telegraphed copiously to Deneau asking for a tryout for a relative of his. The telegram has been put away among the memoirs of President Nelson. It was an English classic.

There was a sufficient crowd over there yesterday to pay for another big haul of meal tickets.

Why doesn't Chubby Coose get the watch won last season? This question is being asked by a number of the fans throughout the city when the fact was made known yesterday that Chubby has not as yet received the gold watch awarded him for being the most valuable man on last year's Red Sox.

Coose as every one knows justly won the watch for he was one of the most useful men the cellar champs had last year. The watch has been lying in the jewellers since last September, but no one has made a move to present it to this popular player. When asked last night when he was going to get it, Chubby laughingly replied: "When I get hard up and then I'll pawn it." Better give it to Jim now because if another one is offered this year he may win it.

Now that the lacrosse season is about here and the time for training will shortly appear, the lacrosse club has decided to visit the people of Brantford, who are interested in Canada's game and asked them to contribute funds towards building up a practically new team in this city.

New uniforms, sticks, gloves, etc., are necessary, and it takes money to buy these things and every lacrosse fan in this city should respond to the call liberally. The sticks, etc., will have to be bought, this on account of the fire last fall in the Agricultural park grand stand, when all their equipment was destroyed.

Anything any loyal lacrosse fan can do towards helping the management build up a new team will be greatly appreciated and in return the officials will try and show the fans some results for their contributions.

Troubled Dream of The Head Waiter

I hear the Cook has been blowing of a dream he had about Rube Deneau offering him a job saying he could make a batter and of all the furniture coming to life and telling what they could do. Well, the Cook has nothing on me. I know I am a good waiter, and I see lots of things every day and they are not dreams either. If Rube has as much trouble keeping his bunch in shape as I have with mine he gets my sympathy.

Some days I think I will go crazy and could you blame me with coffee not kicking about the grounds, gas going out every night, potatoe losing his eye, cheese growing so old he can only crawl and knife cutting everyone. It is certainly hard luck when tea leaves, because salmon was canned, and I know if I use Calendar every day he will be no use next season.

I have a good pair of fly catchers in the season battery, one is full of pepper, but the other is not worth salt. Chicken cannot be depended on, although he has a good wing; he loses his head too easy, and there is a fizzle every time caisup works. Guion is showing strength but is yet green. Cottolene is sopping for butter, so often it is hard to tell which is the regular.

One of the boarders called for eggs this morning and after I served up three good ones, he kicked on going out and said the third was a fowl, when he knew as well as I there was no tip. Milk is the only one to have a job cinched, and that is as water carrier. Saucer can hold cup alright, but has his troubles with hangers in Vase is getting a big head because he received a bouquet yesterday as he stood by the plate. It is something fierce the way Veal is roasted and bread has a pretty good crust after getting a raise to loaf on the job.

Spoon seems to be reliable in scooping up anything that comes his way. Sugar has lots of sand, but butter knife seems dull and it looks as if he won't cut much ice.

There is a lot of quarrelling going on. Stew is always in a mix up, Milk and cream have to be separated nearly every day. Every time jar opens his mouth vinegar looks sour.

IN THE BIG LEAGUES In the opinion of Joe Tinker, Max Flack, the left fielder of the Chicago Federals, is going to be the young sensation of the year. Tinker describes his youth as being the image of Ty Cobb in action and claims for the young opening of the baseball seasons. Last year there was rain enough and cold enough in the early weeks of the campaign, but this season it is even worse. The first of May probably would make it possible for the fans to sit in comfort at exhibition games during the week preceding the regular season. As it is now, both fans and players risk their health in early April. All the Federal league teams have been seen in action enough now to give some sort of a line on the grade of ball to be offered in the independent circuit this season, and it must be admitted that the article is of better quality than most followers of the game expected. To all intents and purposes of the ordinary fan, the same thus far as that generally seen in the National and American leagues. Discipline has been preserved on the field, and the style of play has seemed to be as intelligent as that of the older brothers. Of course, whether such conditions are to maintain must be left for the future to prove, and it is well just now to reserve decision. The opening day crowds were all that could be expected, for were not all the parks packed to capacity, with big overflows on the field? That was the start auspicious. But a baseball season is no sprint race, where the start is half the battle. They are more like long distance grinds, and the pace must be kept up to the finish if the promoters are to do better than break even.

Eleven Years' History Of National League in Figures

Interesting figures have been prepared which give at a glance the history of the National League for the last eleven years. In this time New York and Chicago monopolized the pennant, the former winning it five times and the latter four. Pittsburgh, with two titles, is the only other club to win a championship. However, Chicago leads New York insofar as total games won and lost are concerned, having a percentage of .641 to .634 for the Giants.

In the eleven years Reulbach led the pitchers three times and Mathewson and Marquard each once, while Bescher and Wagner had all the best of it in individual base stealing and batting lines, respectively, the former leading in four years and the latter in seven. In seven years the Giants led all rivals in team batting, with Schulte and Jordan tied twice as the best home run swatters. Wagner and Mitchell each led twice in three-base hits, while Wagner outran all others in two-base hitting by standing at the head in 1904, 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909.

Following are the leaders each year:

What Villa is Like When Not Engaged Killing Men

NEW YORK, April 28—Alexander Powell, a journalist, in describing a personal visit to General Villa, at Juarez, among other interesting things, says—

"Villa is always grim and sullen, but when angered by anything, no matter how trivial, he becomes as ferocious as a wild beast. He has about as much regard for human life as a tiger. Here is an incident to illustrate my point:

Surveying the Captive.

After a recent rebel victory in northern Chihuahua four scores of Federal prisoners were lined up in the plaza for Villa's inspection. The rebel commander, hands thrust into the pocket of his frayed coat, sombrero pulled over his eyes, strode forward and surveyed the cowering captives.

"Viva Villa!" he snarled. "Viva Villa!" The shrill cheer, dominated, however, by an unmistakable note of fear, ran down the cringing line.

"You dogs!" he snarled. "You shout 'Viva Villa!' to-day because I happen to be on top, but if I had lost a battle to-morrow you'd be shouting 'Viva Huertal'!"

Then, turning to the commander of the guard: "Take them out and shoot them—and mind that you waste no ammunition. We've none to spare." They were placed in groups of five, and a soldier placed the muzzle of his Mauser against the breast of the foremost man in each group. . . . and pulled the trigger. In this way one bullet did the work of five.

A Bad Taste.

"A few more episodes like that, general!" I told Villa quite frankly, "and you'll lose for your cause all the sympathy that it has gained in the United States. The reports of these wholesale executions are leaving a bad taste in the mouths of the Americans." Those that I have executed deserved all they got," said Villa, with a sudden hardening of the muscles about his mouth. "Some of them helped to betray Madero; others were prisoners whom I had paroled and whom I had caught with arms in their hands. But that stage of the campaign is over now. Hereafter we shall conduct the war along more civilized lines."

"There will be no more executions except in aggravated cases—I give you my word as to that." Twenty-four hours later a messenger sent to Villa by Felix Diaz was taken out of that very room where we sat and shot to death beneath the very window out of which I had been looking. It made a most unpleasant mess in the little garden.

On another occasion Villa was anxious to send reinforcements to one of his outposts, then in danger of attack from the Federals. Something went wrong with the engine and it so angered Villa that he went to the station and, walking up to the officer in charge, showed his revolver barrel against his face and said:

"If that train isn't out of the station in five minutes," he snarled, "I'll blow your head off!" "But general," expostulated the trembling official, "I'm not responsible for the delay. The engine's broken down."

"That doesn't concern me," said Villa, coolly. "I'm not an engineer—I'm a soldier. If that train doesn't move in five minutes you'll be dead." The train moved.

As I rose to take my departure Villa, though obviously in considerable pain, stood up and took my hand and, with the next time we meet it will be in the City of Mexico in the National Palace."

His eyes flamed: "In the City of Mexico, perhaps," he answered, "if God lets me live to reach there; but in the National Palace—never! I have no wish to be president. Who am I to rule a country? I have no education for such a post. For eighteen years I was an outlaw with a price on my head. It was not until I was in prison in the capital, two years ago, that I taught myself to read and write. And my wife cannot read and write at all. I am no politician; I am a fighting man. I am fighting to free my country from the rule of a depot and to avenge the murder of Madero, who believed in me and befriended me. And I shall never rest until I have settled that score."

And, unless a knife or a bullet cuts short his career, I don't believe that he will.

You needn't keep on feeling distressed after eating, nor belching, nor experiencing nausea between meals. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures dyspepsia—it strengthens the stomach and other digestive organs for the proper performance of their functions. Take Hood's.

FAILURES WITHOUT EFFORT

Every One is a Step to Success—Instinct and Experience.

He only is exempt from failure who makes no effort. In the lexicon of youth, which fate reserves for a bright manhood, there is no such word as fall—it comes later in life.

There are so many reasons which can logically and truthfully be advanced as causes contributing to the numerous failures that I will endeavor to analyze only the principal ones—the business failures.

Every failure is a step to success; every detection of what is false directs us to what is true; every trial exhausts some tempting form of error. Not only so, but scarcely any attempt is entirely a failure; scarcely any theory, the result of steady thought, is altogether false. No tempting form of error is without some latent charm derived from truth.

Failure is, in a sense, the highway to accomplishment, inasmuch as every discovery of what is false leads us to seek earnestly after what is true, and every fresh experience points out some form of error which we shall afterward carefully avoid.

In this article we have not the space to treat of individual cases or their many causes, but will deal altogether with the commercial side of the question—the business failures.

Perhaps the most general and common cause is lack of capital. Many men venture into business with just enough money to "swing" the enterprise for a month, at the end of which they expect the new business to be self supporting. It seldom is, and as the concern becomes a financial cripple the inevitable is sure to happen—failure.

Business Instinct Required.

It may be said in passing that combined with the first form of failure there are two others, lack of business instinct and business experience. And these three are frequently augmented by another equally dangerous in business, and that is engaging in a business of which you have no knowledge or experience in. No man can hope to succeed in any line of business where his principal qualifications are assets and ignorance.

But without question the most pronounced cause of business failure in any line or in any community is that of lack of patronage. No business concern, professional, man, church or school can long endure without patronage. Heaven's eternal wisdom has decreed that man should ever stand in need of man.

The beautiful most ever rest in the arms of the sublime. The gentle need and long to sustain them, as such as rock flowers need rocks to grow on or the ivy the rugged wall which it embraces. Patronage is the sustenance of business, and without it failure follows just as surely as death follows the rock flower and the ivy when their support is withdrawn.

Farmers Frequently Fail.

Listed among the business men who frequently fail is the farmer, the greatest producer of us all. He fails for the same reason as do some of our other business men—because of ignorance. Many of these men have been born and reared as farmers and know all the qualifications necessary to follow that vocation. It is necessary to have all the qualifications. Technical education, constant study of conditions elsewhere and a full realization of the necessity of fertilization of his farm constitute the first principles of the successful farmer.

Few farmers have not been obliged to avail themselves of the local merchant's willingness to extend credit, and now that the local merchant is facing a graver calamity and a greater pest than ever a farmer was obliged to meet in the retail catalogue houses' methods of doing business would it not be right and fair for the farmer and every resident of the community to rally to the aid of the man who with a willingness only equaled by his confidence in his customer and his loyalty to his community?

When a farmer fails the whole community suffers, and the man who must bear the brunt of the burden is the local merchant. His capital is invested and his hope of return rests with the farmer's ability to produce. If a blight, a drought, a cyclone or pest bugs destroy the crops the merchant must make the best of it and "carry" the farmer for another season or until he has a good crop.

Loyalty is the greatest virtue that man is endowed with, and the practice of it by residents of small cities and towns in favor of the local merchant whose business is endangered by the retail catalogue trusts would be a display of generosity manifested only by men and communities where the practice of the Golden Rule obtains.

Tarzan of The Apes

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copyright, 1912, by the Frank A. Munsey Company.

"I think I understand you," he replied quietly. "I shall not urge you, for I would rather see you happy than to be happy myself. And I see now that you could not be happy with an ape."

There was the faintest tinge of bitterness in his voice. "Don't," she remonstrated—"don't say that. You don't understand." But ere she could go on a sudden gun in the road brought them into the midst of a little hamlet.

Before them stood Clayton's car, surrounded by the party he had brought from the cottage. At the sight of Jane cries of relief and delight broke from every lip, and as Tarzan's car stopped beside the other Professor Porter caught his daughter in his arms.

"For a moment no one noticed Tarzan sitting silently in his seat. Clayton was the first to remember and, turning, held out his hand. "How can we ever thank you?" he exclaimed. "You have saved us all. You called me by name at the cottage, but I do not seem to recall yours, though there is something very familiar about you."

"It is as though I had known you well under very different conditions a long time ago." Tarzan smiled as he took the proffered hand. "You are quite right, M. Clayton," he said in French. "You will pardon me if I do not speak to you in English. I am just learning it, and while I understand it fairly well, I speak it very poorly."

"But who are you?" insisted Clayton, speaking in French this time himself. "Tarzan of the apes." Clayton started back in surprise. "By Jove!" he exclaimed. "It is true."

Professor Porter and Mr. Philander pressed forward to add their thanks to Clayton's and to voice their surprise and pleasure at seeing this jungle fighter so far from his savage home. The party now entered the modest little hostelry, where Clayton soon made arrangements for their entertainment.

They were sitting in the little, stuffy parlor when the distant chugging of an approaching automobile caught their attention. Mr. Philander, who was sitting near the window, looked out as the machine, dreg, in sight, finally stopping beside the other cars.

"Bless me!" said Mr. Philander, a shade of annoyance in his tone. "It is Mr. Canler. I had hoped—er—I had thought or—er—how very happy should be that he was not caught in the fire," he ended lamely. "But who is the clerical looking gentleman with him?"

Jane Porter blanched. Clayton moved uneasily in his chair. Professor Porter moved his spectacles nervously and breathed upon them, but replaced them on his nose without wiping.

The ubiquitous Esmeralda granted. Presently Robert Canler burst into the room. "Thank heaven!" he cried. "I feared the worst until I saw your car, Clayton. I was out off on the south road and had to go away back to town and then strike east to this road. I thought we'd never reach the cottage."

No one seemed very enthusiastic. Tarzan eyed Robert Canler as Esmeralda eyed his prey. Jane Porter glanced at him and coughed nervously. "Mr. Canler," she said, "this is M. Tarzan, an old friend."

Canler turned and extended his hand. Tarzan rose and bowed as only D'Arnot could have taught a gentleman to do it, but he did not seem to see Canler's hand. Nor did Canler appear to notice the oversight.

"This is the Rev. Mr. Touseley, Jane," said Canler, turning to the clerical party behind him. "Mr. Touseley, Miss Porter."

Mr. Touseley bowed and beamed. Canler introduced him to the others. "We can have the ceremony at once, Jane," said Canler. "Then you and I can catch the midnight train in town."

The girl hesitated. The room was tense with the silence of taut nerves. All eyes turned toward Jane Porter, awaiting her reply.

"Can't we wait a few days?" she asked. "I am all unstrung. I have been through so much today."

Canler felt the hostility that emanated from each member of the party. It made him angry.

"We have waited as long as I intend to wait," he said roughly. "You have promised to marry me. I shall be played with no longer. I have the license, and here is the clergyman."

"Come, Mr. Touseley, come, Jane. There are witnesses aplenty—more than enough," he added with a disagreeable infection, and, taking Jane by the arm, he started to lead her toward the waiting minister.

But scarcely had he taken a single step ere a heavy hand closed upon his arm with a grip of steel. Another hand shot to his throat, and in a moment he was his being shaken high above the floor as a cat might shake a mouse.

CHAPTER XXII. Lord Apeman. JANE PORTER turned in horrified surprise toward Tarzan. And as she looked into his face she saw the crimson band upon his forehead that she had seen that other day in far distant Africa when Tarzan of the apes had closed in mortal combat with the great antropoloid, Terkoz.

She knew that murder lay in that savage heart, and with a little cry of horror she sprang forward to plead with the ape man. But her fears were more for Tarzan than for Canler. She realized the stern retribution which justice metes to the murderer. She laid a firm white hand upon Tarzan's wrist and looked up into his eyes. "For my sake," she said. "The grasp upon Canler's throat relaxed."

Tarzan looked into the face before him. "Do you wish this to live?" he asked in surprise. "I do not wish him to die at your hands, my friend," she replied. "I do not wish you to become a murderer."

Tarzan removed his hand from Canler's throat. "Do you release her from her promise?" he asked. "It is the price of your life."

Canler, gasping for breath, nodded. "Will you go away and never molest her further?" Again the man nodded his head, his face distorted by fear of the death that had been so close.

Tarzan released him, and Canler staggered toward the door. In another moment he was gone and the terror-stricken preacher with him. Tarzan turned toward Jane Porter. "May I speak with you for a moment alone?" he asked.

The girl nodded and started toward the door leading to the narrow veranda of the little hotel. She passed out to await Tarzan and so did not hear the conversation which followed. "Wait!" cried Professor Porter as Tarzan was about to follow.

The professor had been stricken dumb with surprise by the rapid developments of the past few minutes. "Before we go further, sir, I should like an explanation of the events which have just transpired."

"By what right, sir, did you interfere between my daughter and Mr. Canler? I had promised him her hand, sir, and regardless of our personal likes or dislikes, sir, that promise must be kept."

"I interfered, Professor Porter," replied Tarzan, "because your daughter does not love Mr. Canler. She does not wish to marry him. That is enough for me to know."

"You do not know what you have done," said Professor Porter. "Now he will doubtless refuse to marry her."

"Be most certainly will," said Tarzan emphatically.

"And further," added Tarzan, "you need not fear that your pride will suffer, Professor Porter, for you will be able to pay Canler what you owe him the moment you reach home."

"Tut, tut, sir," exclaimed Professor Porter. "What do you mean?"

"Your treasure has been found," said Tarzan.

"What—what is that you are saying?" cried the professor. "You are mad. It cannot be."

"It is, though. It was I who stole it, not knowing either its value or to whom it belonged. I saw the sailors bury it, and I saw it had dug it up and bury it again elsewhere."

Plea That They Are Hungry and That Cow Looks Like a Meal Ticket Does Not Count.

ST. PAUL, April 29.—If you must milk a strange cow, don't let the owner find it out. Judge T. S. Kennedy of South St. Paul sent two men to the county bastille for 30 days for taking two quarts of milk that had not been released from a cow with the owner's consent.

The judge declared the milk, before being withdrawn, was part of the bovine, and as bossie belonged to James Reid, so did the lactical fluid. Taking it forcibly from the animal just makes the offense that much the worse, says the court.

The men said that they had had food for twenty-four hours and that the cow looked like a meal ticket.

"Love Curls, Season's Favor"

By MAGGIE TEVET

"I'm not so awfully keen about curling the other in the most practical sense. Still, they suit some. They are not good for me. And they are not good for you. Besides every one will wear them that will be the end of them!"

It didn't take long to find the "love curls" of the spring may be "dreadful" were the "side-winders" lured to.

It didn't take much longer to find truth of the other two assertions. Times they are becoming. More they are not. Any way they are dabbly overdone. A tiny curl may be a plastered curl that covers the portion of the cheek from ear aim mouth disfigure.

Many Hair Innovations.

The style of hair dressing has changed distinctly. There have been many innovations besides the colored. Some are charming, but there is a way in which all women can wear hair and have it universally liked. The wise woman experiments well before she decides and when she has the right way to "do" her hair, it makes faithful to her feet. Let the most ideal beauty be crowned with some hideous curl and beauty would vanish like the rest. To begin with, the side curl was worth half the trouble it is to arrange. It must be cut with the right length and the smallest fraction of an inch will make a conspicuous difference in the amount of hair.

Then it must be curled at the exact angle, one which is at once and coquettish, interesting and pertinent, and securely transfixed. Handless or some other gummy rat.

And it is possible only for the dabbler. A dark curl lying against velvet cheeks may fascinate. A twist of hair in the same arrangement becomes insipid and looks simply glib and unkept.

Modes Require Study.

Then it should be studied from angles. The arrangement which coming in front, may be quite uninteresting from the side and impossible from the back view.

"Love Curls," Season's Fad, Losing Favor

By MAGGIE TEYER

The Noted Prima Donna.

MY DEAR, do you like the side-whiskers?"

I heard with some amazement one young woman ask the question of another as they promenaded the famous peacock Alley of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York city.

"I'm not so awfully keen about them," replied the other in the most matter of fact tone.

"Still, they suit some faces. They are not good on me. And where they are not good they are frightful. Besides every one will wear them and that will be the end of them."

It didn't take long to find the little "love curls" of the spring mode of hair dressing were the "side-whiskers" alluded to.

It didn't take much longer to find the truth of the other two assertions. Sometimes they are becoming. More often they are not. Any way they are decidedly overdone. A tiny curl may allure. A plastered quill that covers the major portion of the cheek from ear almost to mouth disfigures.

Many Hair Innovations. The style of hair dressing has changed distinctly. There have been many hair innovations besides the colored wigs.

The wise woman experiments well before she decides and when she has found the right way to "do" her hair, she remains faithful to its main features.

And it is possible only for the decided brunette, dark curl lying against a velvety cheek may fascinate. A blonde wisp of hair in the same arrangement becomes lispid and looks simply straggly and unkempt.

Modes Require Study. The wise woman who has decided to follow fashion's mandate and disclose her ears and elevate her coiffure, will lie herself to the best of hairdressers and learn the art of making the most becoming twist.

She will have all she can do to beauty properly her ears for exhibition, for the ear is a prominent as well as useful feature.

It must be the right size, the right shape, the most delicately tinted, in order to be the lovely, attractive adjunct it ought to be.

As for the new hair modes, they require study. The arrangement of the hair should, first of all, conform to one's individual style.

Then it should be studied from all angles. The arrangement which is becoming in front, may be quite unbecoming from the side and impossible from the back view.

There is a revival of the French twist—but it is not the old twist we used to know. It is more suggestive than positive. It rolls easily in soft ripples and tucks the tresses away with no distinct manner of disappearance.

CONVERSATION was merry and the linen spotless. The silver bore the crest of nobility and the china was like eggshells. What matter that there was but bread and weak tea? It was served in proper style and with a pleasing hospitality.

Such was the description of a tea party contained in some old letters, the paper on which they were written yellow and brittle with age, the ink faded almost beyond deciphering.

"The linen spotless" will alone make the simplest feast seem perfect. And yet in these days of roof drying and lack of the whitening aid of grass and sun beating down upon the linen spread of getting spotted and stained and gray.

Bleaching it to spotlessness is a matter which involves more patience than skill.

Here is the rule of an Irish woman who in her youth was a wonderful linen. First soak the clothes for 24 hours in water in which borax has been dissolved in the proportion of a tablespoonful to each gallon. After they have been soaked, wash them thoroughly in hot water and place them in a boiler, cover with cold water, and to each four gallons add a pound of soap cut in fine pieces, and the same quantity of household ammonia. Bring gradually to a boil and let it bubble for about 15 minutes.

Turn the articles into a tub and leave them to cool in the water in which they were boiled. Wring them slightly and hang them in the sun and as they wrinkle again and again with water. When they approach the desired shade of whiteness rinse them in several tepid waters. Line them and again hang out to dry.

This is the reason of the year when heavy stains decorate table linen and

JUST suppose they should—just suppose that Miss 1914, very sure of herself, very confident of the final beauty of HER clothes, should come face to face with Miss 1860 and Miss 1870, for instance. Wouldn't it be awkward! All awfully nice girls, you understand, and not wishing to hurt any one's feelings. Yet each would know that the others were so FUNNY! It would be a big strain on their self-control—not to giggle, or to say a word about wondering how they ever STOOD it. And all three would have another consuming wonder as to each of the others—how they ever contrived comfortably to SIT DOWN! Yet each (and this is the perennial miracle) knows that the supreme comfort is in being FASHIONABLE. Each knows that somehow, though in so many different ways, she is always charming as she IS.

What Is "Funny" About a Broken Heart?

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

The little white coffin was covered with a pall of lilies-of-the-valley, and when the carriage with the child's mother in it drove away the little dead boy's faithful dog looked through the bars of the garden gate and whined and cried almost like a human being.

I do hope my friend who wrote those headlines was there when that carriage drove away. He would have seen something exquisitely humorous about it. I'm sure—and treated us all to his point of view in the paper the next morning.

Think of it, a child dead, a jolly little fellow whom I saw playing in his mother's garden only two or three days ago—a cowboy he was with two pistols and a "lawyer"—that's the way he pronounced it. And the dog was a wolf part of the time, and sometimes he was a bear, and sometimes a lion, fierce and furious.

And the syringa bush was a hair. The little boy camped behind it and peered through the branches with his chubby face distorted in a fearsome frown.

The little boy's mother came to the window often to watch him play, and her sad little face lit up with wonderful radiance whenever she looked at him. She's a widow, they say, the mother of the little boy who died, and she loved her husband very dearly and was heart-broken when he died.

What a lot of fun the humorous headline writer could have about that! Why, that fellow could get all sorts of jokes out of the inscription the little widow had cut into the stone at the head of the low grave where the man she loves lies sleeping. And just think of the fun he could make of the way things looked to her in the little garden when she came home from the funeral!

I'll warrant she couldn't even look at the syringa bush without tears, and when the child's dog came and laid his snarling head upon her knee—what a howling farce!

And the little starchy shoes, and the faded little cowboy suit he was so proud of—just a few short days ago—the little, little boy—why, there's a whole column of wit in that.

I do love a man with a sense of humor—don't you? He brightens up the world so, for us all—even when he yanks the chair out from under you and cripples you for life or puts salt in the coffee, or pretends to be deaf and dumb, or does any of the rest of those charming little tricks of his which while away the time for his appreciative friends.

But, somehow, when I had finished reading all those funny headlines about the divorce, I went to the telephone and cancelled my subscription to the paper which printed the funny man's funny headlines.

A humorous divorce—what is there funny about a broken heart? Maybe it is ridiculous for a woman to love a man and believe in him and trust him and leave her own friends and her own family and her own home and follow him smiling down to the very gates of death again and again—bringing up from the valley of the shadow with her his children in her arms.

Perhaps she is a sentimental fool to think that the man loved her and would be true to her and that they two will stand together—against the whole world if they would have to, and be happy in poverty and in illness and in discouragement—just because they were together.

No woman ever went into the divorce court in her life with anything but a bleeding heart, and I have seen men go there, too, with faces as set in agony as if they had been going to their own execution.

I sat beside a woman in court the other day. She was there to fight for the rights of her children and herself. Her husband had fallen in love with a young girl—and turned her and her four children out like vagrant dogs to make their way in the world as best they could alone.

Oh, yes, he gave them money, a pension such as one gives an old and worn out servant, and he branded the children as worse than fatherless and the woman as worse than widowed.

The woman did everything in her power to get the man to let her live in outward amity with him for the sake of the children. But the man believed in him and she was in love with that he would get rid of his wife and self-respect.

I was at that woman's wedding and helped to dress her for the ceremony. How happy she was, how gay, how light of heart!

How sorry she felt for all of us who had not yet found such a prince among men for ours, to have and to hold, as long as we both should live.

I remember the man, too—how handsome he was and how triumphant and how proud; he walked as one who treads on air.

"For better or for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health until death do us part."

How the old, old words rang through the room and thrilled us all. And the other day I sat beside the bride—poor bride. Her wedding roses are faded in her cheek and no one in the world could say her eyes are like violets now. They have shed too many bitter, bitter tears.

What a lot of fun the humorous headline writer could have about that! Why, that fellow could get all sorts of jokes out of the inscription the little widow had cut into the stone at the head of the low grave where the man she loves lies sleeping. And just think of the fun he could make of the way things looked to her in the little garden when she came home from the funeral!

I'll warrant she couldn't even look at the syringa bush without tears, and when the child's dog came and laid his snarling head upon her knee—what a howling farce!

Secrets of Health

Grief Costs You Dearly In Vitality

By Dr. L. K. Hirschberg

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

SORROW, like lies of fire, grows by what it feeds on.

There are many good souls alive today who feel that their final love, the respect for their dear departed, the regrets over past errors, and the remembrance of things gone by cannot be sincere without deep, dyed-in-the-wool, heart-tormenting sorrow.

Yet sorrow really is an obstinate and unnecessary demon that gives up its solitude. Nothing more diverts it from its sad visions of the other world than to call it at moments back to this.

The busy, serious, efficient person with high resolve and high purpose has no time for tears. He bears both the torments and the sorrow that, to pay grief, must of poor patience borrow.

Disappointed joys are too many. It is the vile daily deep, drop, drop that wears the soul out like marble with petty cares.

Dismiss each unfulfilled wish, each unconquered task, each disappointed plan, at once and forever. Let Elliot and many other young-old men, at tribute with justice their long and beautiful life to the fact that they never moped when thwarted by others.

When joys are poisoned, when hope is turned into despair, obstructions put in your way, and all sorts of unexpected obstacles block your ambition, your life's desire, your lover, your yearning, calmly turn away into another path and raise a new plan and structure.

One fire burns out another's burning; one pain is lessened by another's anguish; one desolate grief cures with another's languish. Take then some new infection to the eye, and the rank poison of the old will die.

There is no sense, reason, justification, glory, health or beneficence in sorrow. Affliction is the old woman who lived in a shoe and had so many people she didn't know what to do. Each painful throe, each sigh of sorrow bears other sons, uglier than their brothers.

Happy deaths make healthful nature. Joy should displace everybody's sorrow. It is the malting of all forward movement. Without it stagnation and retrogression in strength, vitality, working power and the capacity to live follow.

The soul, secure in her existence, should smile at the drawn dagger, and defy its point. The stars may fade away, all lovers, friends and dear ones go, the sun himself may dim with age, and nature sink in years, yet the human spirit should flourish happily as a green bay tree.

The cracks of matter, the crush of risks, the war of the elements should give a calm, helpful mood, not the warlike one of sorrow.

Sir John Ramsden, Age 82, Dies After Short Illness

LONDON, April 29.—After a brief illness, Sir John Ramsden, one of the largest landowners in England, died the other day at his Buckinghamshire seat, Bulstrode Park, Gerrard's Cross, at the age of 82.

Sir John William Ramsden, Bart., was born at Newby Park, Yorkshire, on Sept. 14, 1831. He became the 5th baronet on the death of his grandfather in 1839.

Although Sir John owned 150,000 acres of land, up to three years ago this included the Ramsden estate in Yorkshire, of which the town of Huddersfield was built. In 1911, however, he made over the whole of this estate to his only son, Mr. John Frecheville Ramsden, thus avoiding the death duties.

Sir John's coming of age was celebrated with great rejoicing at Huddersfield, where for many generations the influence of the Ramsdens has been supreme. It was popularly hoped that the new baronet would introduce much-needed reforms in the management of the estates. These expectations were not fully realized, and the relations between the sole "overlord" and the people were at times strained.

In fact, Sir John had a seven years' war in the law courts with his tenants. The contest, which aroused much bitterness in the town and intense interest throughout the West Riding, arose in this wise:

The property of the fourth baronet included several pieces of common land, allotted to him in 1789, and these came to the late baronet under the will of his grandfather. The management of the estate was at the time singular, in this way: A person desiring land for building purposes had to stake out. The ground rent was fixed, his name was entered in the tenant-roll; he erected his building, and paid his rent at the annual rent audit. In these transactions there was no legal instrument to define the obligations of either party. If a tenant desired to sell his buildings he negotiated for the sale in the presence of the agent of the estate, and the name of the purchaser was substituted in the tenant roll for that of the late tenant, or, in event of death, for the name of the legatee or the lawful successor. These occupants were tenants at will.

At this time, if the tenants insisted, leases were granted, usually for sixty years, renewable every twenty or forty years, on the payment of a stipulated fine. The rents paid by the leaseholders were considerably higher than those paid by the tenants-at-will.

The Canny Quaker.
Of the former class of tenant was Joseph Thornton, of Paddock, who in 1837, acquired a plot of land on which to build a house. When the house was nearly completed Thornton had some misgivings about the security of his tenure. He consulted Jos. Brook, agent for the estate, as to the prudence of taking a lease. Brook was alleged to have replied that it would be folly to do so; that he would be equally safe without a lease, but that he could get one whenever he desired.

In 1845 Thornton acquired more land, and paid ground rent amounting altogether to five pounds six pence per annum. On taking the additional piece of land, Thornton signed the following form of application: "Huddersfield, June 16, 1845—Gentlemen,—I beg to make application to you for a plot of ground, situate at Paddock, Huddersfield on which I am desirous of building a mistal and other out-buildings, and which I am willing to hold under you as a tenant at will at such rent as you may think proper to fix."

Thornton alleged that he signed the paper without considering its meaning and effect, and in the firm belief that he would hold the second piece of land on precisely the same terms as those on which he had held the first piece. He also said that the purpose of the paper was not explained to him. He estimated that he had over £1,500 worth of his own property on the land.

Thornton received notice to quit, and appealed to the court of Chancery. Vice-Chancellor Stuart upheld Thornton's contention that, though he was a tenant-at-will, he had an equitable right to a lease. Sir John Ramsden, in 1866, appealed to the Vice-Chancellor, who reversed the House of Chancery's decision, but denied Sir John his costs.

Some years ago it was stated that Sir John owned the land on which every house in Huddersfield was built except one, and being desirous to obtain possession of this piece of land, Vice-Chancellor Stuart, in 1866, appealed to the House of Lords, who reversed the Vice-Chancellor's decision, but denied Sir John his costs.

"All right," was the reply, "I will sell to thee if thou wilt put them on edgeways up." The sale did not take place.

For thirty years Sir John sat in parliament. He was first elected as a Liberal member for Taunton in 1853, subsequently sitting for Hythe, West Riding of Yorkshire, Monmouth, the Eastern Division of the West Riding, and the Osgoldcross Division. In 1857-8 he was Under-Secretary of State for War.

Mr. J. H. Burnham (Peterboro) proposed in the Commons the Wel-land and Georgian Bay Canals that an airship transportation line be established instead of canals.

VILLA'S RECORD IS TERRIBLE ONE IN CRIME

He Has Himself Murdered Over 100, Mostly Poor People.

Writing to the "Daily Telegraph," a correspondent recalls the awful career of Francisco Villa, the Mexican General, whose hands reek with the blood of innocent men, women and children. The writer says that Villa, who was born in 1868, was only fourteen when he was sentenced to a term of imprisonment for cattle stealing. On his discharge he settled in the mining camp of Guanacevi, where a few months later he underwent another sentence of imprisonment for homicide. When he came out of prison for the second time he organized a band of robbers, who had their headquarters in the mountainous region of Durango, and were the terror of all that district.

In the year 1907 he was in partnership with one Francisco Reza, stealing cattle in Chihuahua, and selling them in the United States, and then stealing mules and horses in the United States, and selling them in Chihuahua. In consequence of some disagreement he shot and killed Reza in broad daylight.

During the early part of November, 1910, he attacked the factory of a Mr. Soto, in Alende, State of Chihuahua, and killed the owner. By threatening the latter's daughter he forced her to show where she had hidden a sum of 11,000 dollars, which he stole. He then joined Madero's revolution, uniting his band with Urbina's column. In January, 1912, he was at Casa Grandes, Chihuahua, where he killed Carlos Alatorre and Luis Ortiz for refusing to pay the money he demanded for their ransom.

At Batopilas, State of Chihuahua, in February of the same year he tortured Senora Maria de la Luz Gomez until he made her pay him $30,000. She died from the effects of the barbarous treatment she received.

After the triumph of the revolution, Villa, in November, 1911, obtained a monopoly on the then Governor of Chihuahua for the sale of meat in the city of Chihuahua which he procured by stealing cattle from the neighborhood, suspecting one of his subordinates, Cristobal Juarez, of stealing on his own account, he killed him.

Sacking a Town.
In the early part of May, 1913, Villa, with seventy-five men, assaulted a train at Baeza, State of Chihuahua, that was carrying bars of gold and silver, killing the crew and several passengers.

Later in the same month he entered the town of San Andres, Chihuahua, and assaulted the house of Senor Sabas Murga, an Hacendado, who with his two sons, tried to defend themselves. Two of his nephews were killed, but the Murgas got away. Villa then got hold of two sons-in-law of Murga who had not taken any part in the fight, and after torturing them to say where their father-in-law had hidden his money he had them killed.

Towards the end of the month Villa's band took the town of Sta. Rosalia, Chihuahua, shooting all prisoners and treating the principal officers with terrible cruelty. Many private persons were murdered, one of the worst cases being that of a Spaniard, Senor Montilla, cashier of the house of Sordoy Blanco, who was shot over the head by his wife, who tried to defend him. Villa personally kicked her in the face as she lay on the dead body of her husband.

He arrested more than twenty of the principal people of Sta. Rosalia torturing them and taking them out to be shot, until he obtained from them 70,000 pesos, which were collected by several people in order to save their lives. One of these was Senora Maria B. Coviero, who was herself also tortured.

In July, 1913, Villa took Casas Grandes, Chihuahua and shot more than eighty non-combatants, violating several young girls. He attacked and took the town of San Andres, which was held by the Federals, in September 1913, shooting many peaceable residents and more than 150 prisoners, many of these being women and children. In shooting these people, in order to economise cartridges, he placed one behind the other up to five at one time, very few of them being killed outright. The bodies of the dead and wounded were then soaked with petroleum and thrown into bonfires prepared for the purpose. The prisoners were forced themselves to make the bonfire and cover with petroleum the rest of the victims.

Held to Ransom.
On Sept. 29, 1913, Villa, having overpowered a force of over 600 Federals commanded by General Alvarez at Avies fifteen kilometers from Torreon, had every prisoner shot. Towards the end of November he took the city of Juarez by surprise. Nearly all the Federal officers who were taken were shot, as well as some sixty non-combatants, most of them inferior employes and servants.

Senor Pedro Olivares, an old and very infirm man, whose shop, under the name of Jose Ma Sanchez Succesor, had been already plundered, is being held until he pays $50,000 ransom. He has already paid $10,000 for two of his children, these also having been held for ransom. Villa also took prisoners two children of fourteen years of age called Lorenzo Arellano and Alfonso Moliner, sons of two gentlemen who were able to leave Chihuahua before Villa arrived.

Villa has shot in Chihuahua 150 non-combatants, the greater number being poor people who could not leave for want of means, or because they thought they ran no risks, as they took no part in politics. Senor Ignacio Irigoven and Senor Jose A. Yanez though in no way connected with politics, were taken by Villa and tortured for several days, with threats to shoot them until they paid ransoms of $20,000 each. Having obtained from Villa himself safe conducts to leave by train for the border, the train in which they were, was caught up at the station of Montezuma by a locomotive in which were several officers in Villa's confidence, headed by an ex-Maderista deputy called Miguel Baca Ronquillo, who took them from the train and shot them in the presence of the passengers.

A THRILLING STORY OF REVOLUTION AND WAR

By FREDERICK STARR, of the University of Chicago

MEXICO AND THE UNITED STATES: Tells not only what is known of the earliest inhabitants of the country, but it also gives a careful, most absorbing account of the course of government, and the conditions and modes of life of the people since the invasion and conquest of the Spaniards. It traces the development of railroads, commerce and progress, and the vital part which foreign capitalists and adventurers have played. It portrays the cruel rule of the Spanish viceroys, the terrors of slavery and peonage, and the oppression of the working people. It describes the winning of freedom in Mexico, the Texan revolution, the war with the United States, the French invasion, the empire of Maximilian, the rise of Diaz and the development of the peculiar complicated conditions that have resulted in the present situation.

It is in the revelation of Mexico's intolerable political and economic conditions that the book possesses one of its chief values. The story of the evils which exist in Mexico has never been adequately told. All previous attempts have been suppressed by powerful influences. Now, however, in this volume is given a complete description of the conditions which exist—a description which will arouse a nation and compel reformation.

To be fully informed on this very vital question one must read this book. Over 400 large octavo pages. Fine super paper. Over 100 great photographs, maps and portraits. Artistically bound in fine book cloth. $3.50 EDITION

PAINTERS ON STRIKE

Brantford painters walked on strike this morning and the conversation of one of the leading firms of the city this afternoon seems little of an amicable settlement. Some time the local painter has been gathering its strength and securing additional strength in membership and the war this morning was not unexpected. There is some doubt as to number on strike, but it is estimated that between thirty forty men have gone out. They are demanding 30 and 35 per hour and other conditions. There are five or six firms all the men have not gone. One proprietor said his men perfectly satisfied.
