Mr. Blake seid so many wise and so many very foolish things in his speech the other evening at the Montreal banquet, that we are fain to accept for truth the saying of suppression.

"Great wit to madness is ever near Mr. Blake is an in ense Free Trader, and you could not take him away trail his idol, though you preved to Lis own thorough sa isfaction that Free Trade would ruin the country He looks upon protection as bad, and unwthing therefore that is the outcome of Protection he will not admit to be good. If because of the National Policy all the wealth of Ormus and of lad were transferred to Carada, and invested in rolling mills, in cotton and in woollen mills, in factories for making boots and shoes, and turniture, and nots and balts. and every conceivable thing; though by it our penulation was doubled in ten years, and our wealth trebled, Me Blake would say, "B cause protection is bad all this is not good -the people ought to be permitted to sell and buy where they please-Trade ought to be tree as the wind that blows." We have heard of one man bet re like Mr Blake, and he was an old lady who refused to cat apples that come off a neighbors orchard, "becaus." she contended in her subl'me logic. the is bad, and so is his orchard-and his apples cannot be good."

Now many an old theory like alchemy and astrology has passed away from the face of the earth, and Mr. Blake hopes too much it he think ab-olute Free Trade an eternal principle. By all means, if we be permitted to urge a word against such a learned doctor as Mr. Blake. let Trade be free as the wind that Free Traders does not go so far as Mr Blake-for he contends that moderate Protection in infant states, of good possibilities, may often be advisable.
