THE POOR GENTLEMAN

CHAPTER XI.

"I have something to do too, Lenora. Professor Delsaux gave me some pieces face, which was red with mortification. of music to copy for his pupils, which will give me four francs in a couple of days. And now be quiet a while, my dear child; my nerves are so shattered that if we talk 1 shall make mistakes and spoil the paper."

"I may sing, father; may I not?"

"Oh, yes, that won't 'annoy ma: your song will please my ear without distracting my attention."

The old gentleman went on writing, while Lenora, with a rich and joyous voice, repeated all her songs and poured forth her heart in melody. She sewed meanwhile diligently, and from time to time, glanced at her father to see whethface and spirit.

They had been a considerable time engaged with their several occupations, when the parish clock struck; and, put. ting down her work hastily, Lenora took a tasket from behind the stove and prepared to go out. Her father looked up with surprise as he said,-"What! already, Lenora?"

'It has just struck half-past eleven father."

Without making any other remak, De Vlierbeck bent his head again over the music paper and continued his task.

Lenora zoon returned from her walk with her backet full of potatoes and something else tied up in a paper, which she hid beneath a napkin. Then, pouring some water in a pot which she placed beside her chair, she began to sing and threw in the potatoes as she peeled them, After this she kindled a fire in the his hand, held him motionless. stove and set the pot of potatoes to boil. After the fire burned well she put a severely. Have skillet, with a little butter and a good ness to moderate your transports deal of vinegar, over the coal,

Up to this moment her father had not looked up nor intermitted his work; he saw her getting dinner ready every day, and it was seldom that any variety of an agreeable perfume was diffused throught the chamber. De Vlierbeck glanced up from his writing, a little reproachfully as he exclaimed,-

'What! mest on Friday, my child' you know very well we must be economical Don't be angry, father," answered Lenora; 'the doctor ordered it.'

You are trying to deceive me, are you

,No, no; the doctor said you required meat at least three time a week, if we could get it; it will do you more good than any thing else in restoring your strength.'

'And yet we are in debt, Lenora!' 'Come, come, father, let our debts alone, everybody will be paid and satisfied. Don't trouble yourself about them any more: I'll answer for them all. And now be so good as to take your paper, so that I can lay the cloth.'

De Vlierbeck got up and did as he was asked. Lenora covered the dealboards with a snowy napkin and placed on it two plates and a dish of potatoes. It was indeed a humble table. at which all was extremely common; yet every thing was so neat, fresh, and savory that a rich man might have sat down to it with appetite. They took their places and asked a blessing on the meal; but, before the prayer was finished. Lenora started suddenly and interrupted her father, With eyes staring toward the door and head leaned forward, she listened eagerto be silent.

There was a sound of footsteps and voices on the staircase, and, as they approached, Lenora thought she recognised the tones. She bounded to the door with a sharp cry, and, closing it, leaned against the board to prevent any one around the young man,from entering.

'For God's sake, child, what are you afraid of?' cried her father.

'Gustave! Gustave!' whispered Lenora with pale and quivering lips. He is there! he is there! I hear him. Take away that last who should see our misery!'

De Vlierbeck's face grew dark, his head became erect and fierce, and his eyes flashed with their ancient fire. Advancing silently to his daughter, he drew her from the door. Lenora fled to a corner of the room, and covered her

Suddenly the door opened, and a young man rushed into the chamber wirh an exclamation of joy as he advanc-ed open armed, toward the trembling girl, whom he would have pressed to his breast had not the hand and look of her father arrested his steps.

For a moment he stood like one stupefied glancing from the wretched board to the miserable dress of the old man and his daughter. The sight affected the intruder, for he covered his eyes as he exciaimed, in subdued and despairing tones, 'Oh, God! has it come to this?'

But he did not allow himselt to re main long under the influence either of er the cloud had fallen again over his his teelings or of her father, and, advance ing anew to Lenora, seized and pressed both her hands ardently.

Lenora's eyes met his at once and with affection. It was a look that com pletely revealed her pure and constant

'Oh, happiness?' cried Gustave, enthusiastically; 'thou art still my dear and tender Lenora! Thank God, no power on earth can ever seperate me again from my betrothed? Rec eive, thers. And so thought Mrs. Ball, who receive the kiss of our union?'

He stretched his arms toward her Lenora. trembling with agony and hap piness. stood downcast and blushing, a if awaiting the solemn kiss, but; before Gustave could accomplish the Act. De Vlierbeck was by his side, and, grasping

'Monsieur Denecker,' said her father the are certainly glad to see you once more but neither you nor I can forget what we are. Respect our poverty?

What do you say?' cried Gustave What you are? You are my friend,food appeared on their table. But, har my father. Lenora is my betrothed dly had the potatoes begun to boil, when Oh heaven? why look at me so re proach fully?

He seized the hand of Lenora again and drawing her toward her father, rapi dly continued;__

'Listen? My uncle died in Italy and left me heir of all his property. He commanded me on his death bed to marry Lenora. I have come, sir, to ask the reward of my sufferings. I lay my fortune, heart, and life at your feet and in exchange. I implore the happiness of leading Lenora to the alter, Grant me that favor; O my father? Grinselhof awaits you, I bought it for you. Every thing is there again. The portraits of your ancestors are in their places on the wall; and everything that was dear to you is restored. Come let me watch your old days, your declining years, with the veneration of a son. let me make you happy again; -oh, how

The old man's expression did not change, yet a tear moistened his eye.

'Ah?' continued Gastave. 'nothing on earth can ever seperate me from her'_ not even a fathers power, for I feel that God himself has given her to me? Yet pardon me. father, for my rashness, and bestow your benediction.'

De Vlierbeck seemed to have utterly forgotten the young man and his trans: ports: for he stood with clasped hands and eyes raised to heaven, as if address ing his Maker in fervent prayer. At ly, motioning her father with her hand length his words began to be heard distinctly:__

'Oh, Margaret. Margaret, reloice on the bosom of God. My promise is fulfilled—thy child will be happy.'

Gustave and Lenora stood before him hand in hand, and, as he threw his arms

'May heaven bless you for your love continued he. 'Make my child happy She is your wife.,

'Gustave, Gustave - my husband,' exclaimed Lenora, as they threw them. selves into each other's arms, and the table quickly. Of all the world he is the first kiss of love -the first consecrated kiss_was exchanged on the breast of that happy father who went over and blessed his children.

> And now gentle reader I must inform you that I have had my own reasons for concealing the situation and even the true name of the chateau of De Vlier, beck None of you will, therefore, even know where Gustave and Lenora dwell I know Monsieur and Madame Denecker intimately, and have taken many a walk around Grinselhof with two charm ing little children and their venerable grandfather. I have often beheld the beautiful picture of peace. love, and domestic happiness that is seen in the old house beneath the grim ancestral portraits or in the fresh air under the trees. I will not say who told me the story of this family. Let it suffice that I know all the persons who have played a part in it and that I have often chat. ted with Farmer John and Dame Bess while they poured forth their gossip about 'The poor Gentleman' and his

MR. BAKER'S DOMESTIC SYSTEM.

From the Irish Monthly.

Mrs. Ball and Mrs. Baker had put the little Balls and the little Bakers to bed, and for the first time during the winter season were spending an evening together. It seemed very cosy and sociable to sit down in front of the fire with its bed of glowing coal, and talk familiarly of matters interesting to wives and moaffirmed that her little ones had been so cross and wayward that day, that she needed just such a quiet period to calm her irritated nerves; which remark was seconded by Mrs. Baker, who added that Frank, Frederick and Fanny had be haved shockingly all day, wearying her patience sadly, and preventing her from sewing, reading, or even thinking.

'I don't know that my boy and girls differ from other boys and giris, but I get very tired with the care of them of the day,' said Mrs. Ball, sighing softly.

'And so do I; yet my husband thinks the duty a very slight one,' returned Mrs. Baker, sympathetically.

'That I do! said the person alluded to, emphatically, abruptly entering. 'That I do: and as soon as I get on my slippers, I'll give you a good reason for it, Good evening Mrs. Ball. I didn't intend to be a party to your innocent remarks, but the last one of my wife's I couldn'r avoid hearing; an assertion, by the way, which I am ready to make again.'

'As she rendered your views so correctly, I presume no harm is done, laughingly returned Mr. Ball.

Discussing children, were you not, and trouble they impose upon tender mothers inquired Mr. Baker, half seriously.

'We stand convicted of the heinous st it?' retorted both Mrs. Ball and Mrs.

Nothing, certainly, of the right of every lady to talk about what pleases her; but a great deal against the erroneons opinion you maintain. The truth is Mrs, Ball, the truth is, wife, you magnify your motherly duties; you look at them through a glass which increases their dimensions wonderfully. You make mountain of a molehill and then imagine you are climbing up its rugged side when you are simply walking on level ground. You complain because it has become habitual; you talk of fatigue and nervousness because every other mother mother does the same. There isn't one woman in ten who knows how to take care of children properly.'

'Have you any experimental knowledge of the matter, asked Mrs. Ball. 'No, indeed! he knows nothing at all about it,' cried Mrs. Baker.

'I see I am in the minority, but I don't mean to be frightened out of my argument, quoth Mr. Baker. 'In the first place, I advance that women don't understand children.'

Mrs. Ball and Mrs. Baker looked volu-

They make, he continued, undaunted by two pair of sharp eyes, 'a great fuss about a very little matter. Children do not need continual talking to, one word is as good as ten, if rightly applied. Begin right, and there need be no trouble in managing them. When the cry, make them be quiet, when they want anything make them wait on themselves.'

'What if they can't walk. There is supposed to be a period in a child's life when its feet are of no possible service,' remarked the listening wife, in a tone the least bit malicious.

'As I have two such critical listeners it behooves me to choose my words more carefully. To amend my remark, teach children to wait upon themselves as soon as they can walk,

'A difficult theory to put into practice said Mrs; Ball, with the air of one con; fident of the soundness of her position Not at all I assure you nothing eas-

·Did you ever try it?' pursued the lady, survaying her masculine theorist as though she compassioned his ignor-

'Why_no_not exactly,' he stammer, ed, 'but that dosn't militate against the facts of the case. I'm confident I can take care of children without uring myself, or thinking it a burdensome duty, I should start right, Mrs. Ball."

The man in the dressing gown and slippers contemplated the fire with great apparent satisfaction,

'Then why not take your wife's place to-morrow; and let her spend the day with me,' queried the mother of four little Balls, She needs relaxation; and as you maintain that children are no trouble when rightly managed, they will not interfere with your happiness in any degree. You can 'start right,' and I have no doubt everything will go on swimmingly. What say you to my pro. DOSE!?

Mr. Baker eyed her attentively for a moment, then slowly replied:

I don't knew it's reasonable. Should vou like it? he added, turning to his wite, who had been exchanging glances with Mr. Balls

He received a hearty assent.

'Then it's settled. I'll keep house, and you shall go visiting. I'm not particularly wanted at the business premises. and it will be a fine chance to write sev. eral letters and look over a book of accounts, I'll wager's new bonnet against a new hat-and the bonnet with your permission, shall belong to Mrs. Baker that I will get through the day grandly, without fretting and scolding or worriment and weariness;' was the brave re oinder.

'You hear, Mrs. Baker—a beaver again st a two-guinea bonnet. I wish I was as sure of new velvet as what you arej exclaimed the merry Mrs. Ball.

'Don't be too positive? A hat may be called for before you are aware of it; briskly retorted Mr. Baker. Til dem. the tremendous burden of care and monstrate my system, or confess myself

Mrs. Ball smiled in a pecular way, spoke a few words in an under tone to crime. Pray, what have you to say again- her ally, and bade her friends good night.

Mr. Baker was awakened at a late hour the following morning by baby Fanny, who was amusing herself by pull ing his whiskers. Glancing at his watch he found it was past eight o'clock. Where was Mrs. Bakeri Why were not the older children dressed and out of the way, instead of jumping about the room, clamoring for their clothes. Mr. Baker did not make a very elaborate toilet. He ran down stairs, found a good fire in the stove, a pot of hot coffee and the table spread; but the party in. strumental in bringing about this comfortable state of things was non est. He went through the rooms glanced Into the parlor looked into the outhouse in to the cellar, and called Ellen several times. No response been given, he was driven to the conclusion that his better

Mr. Corcoran, called upon Don Calderon de la Baria, the Spanish minister to inform him that the engagement between his secretary of legation and Mr. Corcoran's daughter must be broken off. The minister promised to do everything in his power to gratify Mr. Corcoran's wishes and notified his attache that his relations with the young lady must cease. The young man became very angry, and challenged Mr. Corcoran to fight a duel.

The young lady sent for her lover and admitted him into the house through the back door, but their interview was interrupted by Mr. Corcoran, who was informed by a servant of what was going on. Leaving his books he hurried home and when his daughter saw him coming she got her lover to conceal himself under the piano. He was discovered, how ever, by Mr. Corcoran and kicked out of the house. Mr. Corcoran then went to Mr. Buchanan, who was secretary of state, and insisted that the young man should be sent back to Spain immediate. ly. Mr Buehanan said there was no way to bring that about without offending the Government of Spain, and declined to do it, and the two gentlemen never spoke thereafter.

But the young couple got tire of their engagement in due time, and the young lady married Mr. George Eustis, member of Congress from Louisians. and an uncle of the present senator from that state.

The celebration of the Sacerdotal Jubi lee of Leo XIII, otherwise of the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of the Pontiff as a priest, will, our correspon. dent at Rome informs us, be organized and conducted by a committee which includes the noblest names of the Roman aristocracy. One can hardly conceive of any Roman, whether ar istocrat bourgeois or plebeian, who would refuse to do homage to Leo XIII., if only permitted to take that course. The panegyric of the present Pontiff has just been pronounced in memorable words by the greatest statesman of the age Wise, liberal and prudent,, are the epit hets applied by Prince Bismark to the occupant of the Papal chair; and no one will say they are inappropriate or exaggerated. Fifty years a go Leo XIII. could have no idea of the dignity and responsibility that awaited him in his riper years. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology." "I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome.

8. Dawa HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country. No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world Health all over the world.

NOTE-The above Diagram illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair-minded person of these facts.

* While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

EXERCISE

Every healthy person, man or woman should be a good walker, able at any time to walk six or twelve miles a day at least and double that when gradually brought up to it. The points to be attended to are, to see that the walk be brisk and vigorous, not a lostering or dangling kind; that there be some object in the walk besides it being routine constitutional-i.e. not like the staid promena see of the orthodox ladies' school-and is possible in pleasant company, that there be no tight clothing, whether for the feet or body, which will constrain or impede the natural movement of the D. D. LL, D. limbs and trunk and that the walk be taken as far as possible in the fresh country air. Whenever an opportunity presents itself for a little climbing in the course of a walk, it should be taken advantage of We gain variety of muscular action, as well as increase the exertion, and we get into the reams of purer air and fresher breeze at the same time. What may be considered the weak point in walking as a mode of exercise is the comparatively small play which it gives to the muscles of the shoulders and chest while it is still less for those of the arm. This should be compensated for by the use of light dumb.bells or Indian clubs, or some other form of exercise which brings in play the arms and shoulders. One of the forms of exercises which requires the action of the muscles of the arms and shoulders, as well as those of the trunk and legs, is swimming. This, how ever, for many reasons, can not be used as a means of exercise except by a few and at certain seasons of the yenr. bnt where possible it should always be practiced. The great pity is that boys and girls do not learn it as a rule, while at school. Every large town should be well provided with swimming baths, and hoarse every time it thunders. A well if it could be made compulsory for scholars at a certain age; say, 12. to learn knock ther infidelity out of them and to swim, it would be a great advantage to all, and also be the means of saving dog in a ice house. I know them. The many lives.

DON'T SPOIL THE CHILDREN.

A child's truest and best happiness does not consist in making his individual well being the pivot upon which the whole household machinery turns. He will be the better, not the worse, for a little judicious letting alone occasionally, and for being taught that there are other people to be considered before himself. While a mother should always have quick and hearty sympathy tor all juvenile trials and perplexities, she should at the same time exact from the child a corresponding consideration for her own occupations and annoyances. The sym-Pathies, like evey other spiritual deve-Iopment, require diligent cultivation.

HOW TO SELECT MEAT.

The majority of the people who buy meat depend as to its quality upon the statements of the man who sells it to them. A rich piece of meat, in their eyes, is no different from a poor piece. A tough steak or roast is not discovered until it comes on the table. And yet the quality of meat can easily be told by Funning the finger over it. People can educate themselves in meat as well and as successfully as they can in art

"If people would investigate this subject." said an expert, "they need never ask a butcher's opinion. Regard should be had for three things-color, grain and the lines of fat. The color should be bright and red; the grain close, so that when the finger passes over it a smooth even surface presents itself, and the fat lines should be fine and run all through the red flesh.

ROUND SHOT AT INGERSOLL

A number of students attending a col. lege at Albany N. Y. went to hear Inger. soll lecture, and were so captivated by the 'Great Infidel's' subtle sophistries that they propounded the following question to their professor, Prof. Gouge

Dear Professor.—Are not Ingersoll' arguments unanswerable? What are you going to do about it?

Several Students. The Professor's reply was sarcastic logical and to the point. His descrip. tion of an amateur infidel is given here for the benefit of our home 'agnostics' article in reply to the students interroga

'But you say there are so many inhdels Boys you are mistaken, An infidel is an abnormal growth. Nature feels funny once in a while and creates a freakthe living sk eleton, the fat woman, the two headed girl. So there is about one infidel to a million sane men. He is a freak, and he pays, Men pay to hear Roberts abuse religion as they do to see Simmons wind up his watch with his toes, not that a watch is any better for being wound up with toes but it isn't every slouch that can do it. A genuine infidel is a moral mon strosity worth seeing. The most of those noisy fellows are mateur infilels. They talk Ingersoll in fair weather and pray themselves developed case of cholera morbus will leave them in a cold sweat, like a china most of them are like the boy who runs away from home and comes back to sleep with father nights. These men are only playing 'I spy' with their cons, ciences, and you can find them every time. They are no more genuine infidels than a news boy is an editor. They only retail somebody else's ideas. They are striving against their natures as the model farmer who thought his beans were coming up wrong end to, God knows best, and he has not made a failure of theface. Then, again, b oys take a look around you when you invest an: other fifty cen ts in liberty, and compare the crowd with the kind of people you find in almost any church, Is it the odor of sanctity you smell? Hardly, boys, hardly, But you can eat peanuts there and choke on the shel is while you ap, plaud the funny jokes about the heaven where you know in your hearts you hope your mother is, or hear the hum ble Nazar ene ridiculed who you think slways will think, gave and a home to your weary old father left the ine kind of lib erty Ingersoll retails is very expen. sive and comes our in blotches, so I

Yes, boys, his argument are unaswer. able, and I think the seasons will come along and the church will tinue to boom, and all nature will most exasperatingly and calmly perform her functions if Robert is not answered. You know then the first steamer crossed the Atlantic a great Philosopher was de livering a most conclusive argument to prove that by no possibility could a steam vessel cross the ocean. And he proved it, too. And no man could answer it either, and that provoking steamer came snorting, sizzling and splurging right into the harbor.

Boys, so will God's children go right on praying and preaching and dying and going to heaven in spite of argument. They can't help it. They were made so I suppose."

RELIABLE RECIPES.

A Light Tea Cake.—One cup of sugar; two eggs, half a cup of melted butter, one and a quarter cups of milk; two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and one teaspoonful of soda. Add flour enough to make a stiff batter. Bake twenty minutes in a good oven.

Minced Ham .- Mix half a pound of cracker crumbs with an equal quantity of fine minced lean boiled ham; moister this mixture with a little stock or water and butter, adding salt to taste. Put the mixture in a baking dish, make depress ions in it the size of an egg and break an egg in each hollow. Bake a delicate brown in a good oven.

Veal Stew. Take cold roast veal, cut into mouthfuls, add any gravy you may reduced from five to four, from four to have lett; season well, adding a dash of three and from three to two cents, or curry powder and some mace and a very Nice Ways of Cocking Veal,-Take a fillet of veal, have it boned, then stiff it with a dressing made of bread crumbs moistened with boiling watre. Add a gen erous supply of butter, season with salt, pepper, the grated rind of a lemon and the juice of the same. Put your meat in the dripping pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper, squeeze over it a little lemon uice; roast well; allowing fully twenty minutes to a pound. Make a rich gravy. andserve with sliced lemons.

THE WAY THE FRENCH GIRLS IS WOOED.

I remember, just before the Franco. Prussian war, a Mlle. Pairier, a very witty and intelligent girl of 18, attended the day -chool in which I was teaching She had passed her examinations at l'Hotel de Ville. but was so fond of her The Professor in the course of a long school that she protested she would not leave it until it was time for her to be married. She was a priviliged character among the teachers and pupils a sort of parlor boarder. One day she came running to us and said. , Mamma has seriously gone to work to find me a husband. I saw a candidate last night at the theatre? but 1 don't like hlm' He squint- I am going to see another at the Opera Comique to night. The next morning our first question was ·How did you like him!' 'Can't like him papa heard that his property was entail. ed. and that his father [died of some hereditary disease.' Thus, every mor. ning to our amusement, she would come with a new story told in her own sprigh tly way. Once she told us that one of her mother's horses was lamed; she supposed that he the horse was heartily tired running after a husband for her At last she found the right one, or, rather the right one was found for her. She then at once stopped sjoking; and, with the dignity bahe at once assumed as a flancee. she forbade us so to do. Her husband is a rich manufacturer of cloth at Elboeuf.

THE JOURNEY OF A WEDDING RING

The occurrence that gave rise to Schil er's famous poem of .The Ring of Poly. crates, says a German paper. has been acted over again in our days-with this exception, that the animal which swallowed thering and a wedding ring moreover was this time a calf instead of a fish. It happened to a cattle dealer in Labes (Pomerania, who coaxed a young calf to drink by allowing it to suck his finger, on which occasion the animal, sucked the ring from the finger without its master noticing the loss at the time. He sold the animal and to his great surprise about a week thereafter The Butchers, Gazette informed him of the remarkable fact that in the stomach of a sa lf slaugh tered in Berlin his wedding ring minutely described, had been found.

NOTS AND COMMENTS.

At the last meeting of the National Lea. gue in Ireland, it was announced that the subscriptions received from America dur ing the past fortnight toward the Parlia mentary fund amounted to $60,000.

Leo XIII has, according to the Figaro congratulated Cardinal Guibert on his letter to President Grevy. The Cardinal has also received congratulations from most of the French prelates, and several English clergymen.

The Rev. Father Drummond, of St. Boniface College, will preach in St. Mary's Church at both High Mass and vespers to morrow., In the morning the blessing of three magnificent statues. that of St. Patrick, St Joseph and St. Jean Baptiste, will take place.

The opening words of the Advertiser (a new weekly which made its first appearance on Wednesday last, are that it 'inaugurates a new departure.' Perhaps it does, for it says that people pay five cents to read the advertisements in the papers published in this city. have always understood that a paper was read for the news it contained.

The government of France has order. ed that the item of religion be omitted in the present census. They say the in. fidels are afraid to show their weakness by a comparative census. In the cen change. It is true that circumstances sus of 1876, according to results of that year we find 35,387,703 Catholics; 580, 757 Protestants; 49,429 Jews, 3071 be longing to other non Christian religious and 81, 651 without any known religion -infidels.

Г. M. Healy, nationalist member of Parlia ment for South Londondery, at the fort his claims upon the children of men nightly meeting of the National League said that Lord Hartington's assertion that flook, being convinced of his inflexible the British Parliament was incompetent adherence to justice and his calm and they are who cannot) should make it a to deal with the question of home rule careful deliverance will hearken to his duty to help Father Al'ain in his worthy who originally voted away Irish rights and liberties."

On the 12th instant the Dublin Express the mouth piece of the 'loyalists' pub. lished the following despatch from Col. eraine:

The Orangemen of Ulster are enroll ing as volunteers all members between the ages of 18 and 30 years, that the men will be supplied with arms. and will be drilled by army and navy and police officers, and that it is hoped their num bers will be augmented by volunteers from England, Scotland, and Canada. Arrangements are also being made to obtain arms and ammunition.

To this bluster of the Orange cohorts Mr Morley has answered by introdu, cing a bill to revive the Irish Arms Act, Mr. Morley's respect for the loyalty of Ulster is evidently of a very practical

The importance of the Manitoba and Northwestern Railway to this country may be gleaned from the following re, marks of the Hon. Mr. Girard made in the senate:

This is certainly one of the most im portant roads in the Province of Mani. toba. It is a large feeder of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and I think before long it will extend to the limits of the province, and thence, in another year, will be extended to Prince Albert, the seat of the late troubles.

It is to be hoped that the government will grant to this company the conces. sions sought and for which Manitoba's representative in the upper chamber is working so nobly.

It is evident that all the 'Glory hallu jah's' and the most enthusiastic 'amens!' of the Methodist "missionaries" are not relished by the Chinee at home. The missioners find it hard to 'convert' 'The heathen 'Chinee.' They have been working some thirty years in China, and the result of their labours and enormous expenditure of money is a membership of one hundred and and sixty three. The Rev. Julian C. Brown very frankly ac knowledges that this crop, which, 10 is hinted has been gathered from the most unworthy classes, is a poor return for so many years of singing and praying and talking and giving. It is calculated that at the present rate of progress it would require some two hundred milleniums to convert the population of the Chinese Empire to Methodism; and even then the work would not be fairly done. Mr. Brown thinks it is time for the Meth odists to quit the miserable experiment." The signs are against them; the figures are against them; and Heaven does not smile upon them under Mongolian skies.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Toronto World, in alluding to Archbishop Taschereau's mandement 88.VS:

It is comparatively easy matter for Mgr. Taschereau to fulminate against the Knights in order to prevent the French for as yet very few of that nationality prelat States and of English tongued Canada to come out against the Order is to place themselves in direct, antagonism with large numbers of their flocks who are already Knights and bound to be Knights. The labor problem is the great issue of the day and workingmen will organize to further their views in regard to it. Moreover they intend to band them. selves together in secret, and to avail themselves of engines questionable in their method and effect. Labour has a lot to gain, and it is going to gain it, many abuses to right and it it is going to wipe them away: but in doing these there will be much friction and not a few unjustifiable acts; in the end they will triumph to the extent at least of an im. provement in the condition of the labor er all along the line. Can the Church then afford to oppose labour in this strug ble! Archbsshop Lynch says his sympa. thies are with the laborer, man or wo. men. And many of his brothren will say the same. What the Church will do we cannot pretend to say. It must deal with its own children and mete out its own dicipline It remains to be seen how the motto of Rome, Semper Eadem will stand the jar of such a crisis seems to be at hand. It is not astonishing that the World cannot believe that the Church never makes any concession of principle. That at all times, in all places and under all circumstances her doctrines never may require a modification of discipline; but doctrine, never. Her adherence to principle is inflexible. She has always condemned secret societies of a certain character. If the rules and constitution of the Knights of Labor be finally condemned the Holy Father will put forth charitably but firmly, and his faithful told "still more strongly against the universal voice. The Catholic Church bribed ruffians in the Irish Parliament has always been the friend and sympathizer of the humble and oppressed; the consoler of the afflicted and has encouraged every legitimate effort of the working man to ameliorate his condition. But if unlawful means be resorted to she condemns without hesitating to consider whether she can or cannot, as the World puts it, 'afford to antagonize the movement.' The labor problem is certainly a 'great issue,' but it can be solved without the wage earners banding together in secret as the World suggests. That is unnecessary. They can work just as offectively for better pay, shorter hours of labor and the general improvement of their social standing without incurring the displeasure of the Church.

> THE DESTINY OF THE HOME-RULE BILL

It would appear from the tone of our "great dailies" that Mr. Gladstone's scheme is doomed and that defeat is inevitable. It is sufficient for the Manitoban, for instance, that Mr Gladstone is the leader of the Liberal or Reform party to warrant it in predicting failure of the Bill, as if the Reform party in England bore an y resemblance to its counterfeit in this country. But such is the case, The press of this city has time and again assured its readers that the measure is irretrievably doomed, but the Winnipeg public writers are not very trustworthy in gauging the political opinions of the old country, in view of Wednesday's despatches which directly contradict their confident asser tions. Mr. Gladstone is reported to have gained a signal victory over his oppon ents, and in most of the important political centres resolutions of confidence in the premier have been passed enthusias tically. The Liberal press in Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds and most of the large cities accord him unequivocal sup, port and strongly denounce the bolters. l'ogether with this the grand old man has been assured the universal approval of the American people in his scheme. Our daily confreres should not so often essay the role of prophet.

Another supposition which the wise cres on the daily papers throw out with their accustomed thoughtlessness is that a coalition will be formed by Lord Hartington and Mr Chamberlain to defeat the premier. How they would bring the somnolent-intellect of Hartington (who has been styled in British politics the 'Grand Old Woman') to harmonize with the vigorous mind of Chamberlain is hard to understand. But aside from this great barrrier to such a move, if it were possible, we do not believe that it would receive favor with the British people. Those who believe in such a scheme being effectual have a poor idea what the English call 'fair play' and about which they are so much wont to bluster. It would be a death blow to popular liberties in as much as it would be to acknowle ige that it was permis. Canadians from entering the Association sible to ignore the popular voice of the people. The Irish people have most unanimously asked for selfgovernment and to spurn their claim would be to challenge the advocates of constitutional liberties, a policy which we do not think would find favor with the English people

AN APPEAL.

Some of our subscribers may possibly receive bazar tickets from the Rev. Fath er Allain, of Uxbridge Ont. who is orga nizing a Grand Fancy Fair and drawing of prizes to take place in August.

Five years ago Father Allain was sent to one of the most difficult parishes of the diocese of Toronto, There were heavy debts on the place and vast improvements required. His parishioners were few, scattered and generally poor. However with hard work he paid the debts and greatly improved the Besides Uxbridge he has to attend Markham and Port Perry, in the latter place a new church was necessarily need ed to replace the old frame one which threatened to fall; it having been hurrid ly and temporarily put up after the first one had been maliciously burnt down. A year ago last March the Mothodists of Port Perry advertised for sale a very handsome brick church. Father Allain at once communicated with the board of committee and having obtained the Au. thorization of His Grace the Archbishop purchased it to the great advantage of the Catholics of that mission.

He now appeals to his friends and all charitably disposed Christians to help him to pay off the debt which, though considerably reduced is still heavy, Every Catholic who can afford it(and few

FROM OTTAWA.

The bill to establish experimental farms passed its third reading without amendment.

Colonel Scott and Mr. Royal will wait on Hon. Mr. Carling in reference to the early establishment of an experimental farm in Manitoba.

Mr. Royal asked to day whether the mission of the Alert is to ascertain the navigability of Hudson's Bay or in order to collect the information of the stations established there.

On the bill to amend the Inland Revenue Act, the clauses referring to oleomargarine and butterine were struck out. as the Government proposed to bring in a measure prohibiting their manufacture and sale.

Geological survey operations will be carried on extensively this year. Among st other employers, Bell will go to the Severn district, Hudson's Bay; Lowe west of the Severn district; McConnel Bow River and Kicking horse passes, making geological section of Rocky Moun tains; Tyrell, from Rocky Mountains House to Pitt, and Lawson Lake of the Woods and Rainy River districts. Several have already left for their work.

Sir John on moving the second reading ofthe bill respecting the representation of the Northwest Territories said he proposed that there be four representatives two for Assimboia and one each for Saskatchewan and Alberta, It might be contended that the population was to small for four representatives, but the various districts might have; different interests and might require different modes of legislation, and perhaps administration, so that following the example set in giving representation to Manitoba when it had been a very small population it was proposed to give four representatives. The same franchise would be adopted as for members of the Northwest Council. The council was now composed of 16 members, but when it reached 21 members it would become a legislative body, which he hoped would occur before long. Messrs Cameron and Mills objected to the bill but Mr Royal made a vig, orous speech in support of the measure after which it passed its second reading

VANCOUVER,

The baby city of Vancouver, B. C., seems to be growing very fast. It is claim ed that there are two thousand permanent residents there now and hundreds ST. BONIFACE ACADEMY are arriving every week. Eastern Canadians are interested in the growth of the Pacific terminal city, for if it becomes CONDUCTED BY THE SISTERS OF permanently greatend prosperous it will be the result of a healthy trade between the east and the west. It is to be hoped, however, that the prospects of the place will not be blighted by a premature boom Vancouver will not rival San Francisco for many years to come and it will be a mistake to fix the price of lots too high, High rents and high prices do not help the growth of a town, Vaucouver will probably be a great city some time; but it is well to be cautious. The collapse of the Winnipeg boom ought to be a warning to Canadians, Still it is better to be too hopeful than too pessimistic.

MISTAKES OF LIFE. Sor ebody has condensed the mistakes of life, and arrived at the conclusion that there are fourteen of them. Most people would say, if they told the truth, that there was no limit to the mistakes of life; that they were like the drops in the ocean or the sands of the shore in number, but it is well to be accurate. Here, then, are fourteen great mistakes: "It is a great mistake to set up our own standard of right and wrong, and judge people accordingly; to measure the enjoyment of others by our own; to expect uniformity of opinion in this world; to look for judgement and experience in youth; to endeavor to mould all dispositions alike; to yield to immaterial trifles: to look for pertection in our own actions; to worry ourselves and others with what not to cannot be remedied: alteviate all that needs alleviation as far as lies in our power; not to make allowances for the infirmities of others, to consider everything impossible that we cannot perform; to believe only what our finite minds can grasp; to expect to be able to understand everything."

The French Government has notified the Vatican that it will be impossible for France to approve of the appoint ment of a Papal Nuncio at Pekin, for the reason that the establishment of such an office there will prejudice the present position occupied by France, of being the sole and exclusive protector of Cat, holic missions in China. This notification however, has not closed the controversy.

CHARITY.

This institution, under the distinguished patrouage of His Grace the Archebishop of St.Bonface; is conducted by Sisters of Charity. The latter would respectfully direct the attention of parents and friends of education in general to the condition of well-being and comfort in which they begin this scholastic year. The new edifice, aituated a few steps from the old one, is equal to any establishment of the kind in Canada or elsewhere. Spacious apartments, well lighted and ventilated; comfortable class-rooms; vast dormitory; bath rooms: water-works: the most improved system of heating, and perfect security against five; gardens and play-grounds, laid out in the most salubriou and agreeable sites; such are some of the principal advantages afforded by the new building. The course of studies followed by the pupils, under the direction of His Grace The Archelsinop Tache, comprehends re tigious instruction, the usual branches of English ane French education, pleasing arts and domestic economy. It has received the approbation of most competent authorities. Difference of religion is no obstacle to admission, but external compliance with the rules is required from all. The St. Boniface Academy counts thirty-seven years of existence. Reports of conduct and progress of each pupil will be sent occasionally to the parents and guardians.

Terms—Entrance fee (once for all), $5.00. Board and Tuttion, per. month, $1.00. (A deduction is made when two of more of the same family are sent.) Music and use of Plano, per. month, $2.50. Payments to be made every two months in advance.

Pupils coming from other institutions must furnish certificates of good conduct from the establishment they left.

Every pupil should be provided with sufficient underclothing, a plain toilet case, a able knife and fork, spoons and goblet, six able napkins and a napkin ring,

The uniform, strictly obligatory, is a black merito dress, and a mantilla of the same color, a straw hat trimmed in blue for summer, and a white hood for winter, a white veil of platn ment, as also articles for toilet, drawing and fancy work, but payment in advance is required. School books and stationery are furnished at current prices. Other books and letters are subject to the inspection of the Directress. No deduction for pupils withdrawing before the end of the two monthly term, unless in case of sickness or jor other cegent reasons. Pupils receive visits of their parents, near relatives and guardians, on Sunday, between the hoursos divine service and after Vespers, until 53-sand on Thursday from 1 to 530 p.m. No other visitors are admitted unless they are recommended byparents or guardians.

Fortunate: ly. she was not much hurt; a little sug, ar soon dried up her tears,

The Canadian Pacific Erecting Motels at Vancouver and in the Rocky Mountains

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company have contracted for the erection of a large hotel at Vancouver, B, C, the young town which is destined to be the terminus of the railway. The hotel will accomodate 300 guests. The company also intend to erect two other hot, els, one at the famous sulphur springs at Banff, the other in the Selkirk range The first sale of the Vancouver town lot took place on Tuesday and $75,000 was realized on the first days sale.

The Company are concentrating all their new rolling stock in Montreal, including their new palace cars, which are admitted to be the finest in the world for the opening of the route, which is expected to be on the Queen's birthday or by the end of the month. It is understood that as many members of the two Houses of Parliament as can be spared will be invited to the first trip. The company are now hard at work on the time schedules, which will probably be issued next week. The service will be open to the general public the first week in June. The only cause of delay is the erection of water tanks in the mountains for the locomotives. The annual statement issued at yesterday's meeting, is most favorably received by the street, and confidence in the future of the company is general. Gredit is given to the energetic, hard working vice president and general manager and his assistant for the speedy termination of the work.

> Longevity.-The subject and facts of longevity have been made almost a life's study by Prefessor Humphrey of London. His investigations show that in the first year of life the mortality among males is much greater than among female... the latter, therefore have the start of former at the very beginning, in inherent vitality. The average height of women he has found to be five feet three inches and of men five feet six inches; in pulse and respiration also the women have the advantage, showing eighty nine in comparison with the men's seventy three while the latter's respiration is nineteen as against twenty two of the weaker sex. The bones of men and women which, up to maturity, increased in weight, after that period lost considerable, though with no decrease in size, but more often an increase, to which latter fact may be attributed the bony appearance presented by many old people. The average num ber of teeth in men and women above eight years of age was six and three respectively. The greater proportion of these old lived people, Prefessor Humpey found, came of long-lived fa nilies.

THINKS LOVE IS PAY ENOUGH-

In all our marriage services, if I remember rightly, some such stipulation is made as that we shall "love our husbands." It is, as I understand it, the principal part of the contract. Let those wives who are clamouring for pay ask themselves if they understood this part of their obligation. Let them ask their women's hearts if they know what love is. If they do not they are not wives, and if they do they will be patient. Tennyson says in "Locksley Hall:'

Love took up the harp of life and smote on all its strings with might: smote the chord of self that trembling passed in music out of sight.

The wife who values her labours for her husband at so many dollars and cents has not lose self in her love for him. She has not yet experienced the holy joy of giving all and asking nothing. When his mind and body are alike wearied and overcome by the toil and care, the disappointments and injustice, the never ceasing conflicts of life, he will never be refreshed and strengthened by the society of such a woman. He will have to turn to the wine room, the pool room, or still worse (having no one to remind him that he is better than an animal) he will finally seek distraction in some form or other, for there are very few men who can quietly eat their heart out in silence as we women often do. The wife who allows her husband to seek these distractions will find they cost something too. She will get less and less money from him in consequence. It will be wiser in every way to love him out of them. Save him from his very faults-it is easier than many think. Be his better, nobler self. Even if she cannot succeed—alas! there are men whom an angel cannot reclaim_verily she will have her reward in that she shall be an angel. In nearly everything I think we are not the equals of men, but let us remember that in our capabilities of serving and suffering we are far higher. Just as long as women become wives for any consideration, weether of money or ease, or anything test noble than a pure love, just so long there will be mis erable. disappointed, and ill paid wives .- A Wife in Boston Globe.

They are different in different sections. inndustry grant without disa ster would be ruinous to another. Some are barely sustaining themselves now, others are making profits which would admit of the work ers sharing the surplus. Even in the same industry the conditions are not all alike, and where they are alike they would be made unequal again if one yielded while another did not- Under these circumstances it is the duty and the interest of the workers to consider the facts and the conditions of each trade, and regulate their demands by the laws of reason. The unmistakable tendency is towards giving labor a larger share of the surplus. but the movement must not be so rash and: inconsiderate as to leave no surplus for it to share ..

RATION FOR COWS. Prot. E. W. Stewart, in the "Country

Gentleman," says:--"Wheat, bran and middlings are sweet and well flavoured as a part of the ration for butter. Oatmeal has always been found to produce well flayoured milk and butter, and when not too dear, should form a part of the ration. Corn meal is exceedingly rich in starch, and assists in giving well flavoured cream, but must be fed in moderate quantity. It is an excellent balance to new process or extracted liesced meal. This linseed meal is preferable to pea meal in the ration when costing no more, and it usnally cost less. The peameal is slightly constipating, while the linseed meal is smoothing to the digestive organs. The old process linseed oil meal must be fed sparingly to cows in calf, because of its larger percentage of oil.

"It is not advisable to teed undecorticated cottonseed meal to our northern cows, unaccustomed to its indigestible hulls. Only the best decorticated meal should de used in the ration for butterand then extracted linseed meal is preferable. Flaxseed, cottonseed or hempseed should not be used at all in the butter ration, for any considerable amount of oil will effect the butter unfavourably, and as we have seen, the oil is not needed. The kinds of food in the ration, the butter.

SPRING CARE OF CATTLE

This is the trying season of the year-'between hay and grass." See that your nest stock is not permitted to loose flesh One pound lost now cannot be restored at a cost less than that of two pounds. Young stock should be kept growing. To simply maintain the 'status quo,' as the lawyers call it_to maintain present con dition without loss or gain—is actual loss in their case. They ought to be kept growing. A check in growth is not only a cessation of progress, but has the effect of stunting the animal and retarding future growth.

the appetite as the warm weather comes on, until you can turn your cattle out to grass. Nice aftermath makes a good feed. The best of the hay should be aved for spring feeding. Do not count it loss if you feed grain to keep your stock thrifty.

of August, 1885, directed by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, under the high patronage of His Grace the Archbishop of St. Bomface.

Its course of studies comprises the Greek, Latin, French and English languages and itterature; History, Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, higher Mathematics, mental Philosophy, Natural Sciences and Theology. Although chiefly intended to prepare young men for the study of the liberal professions and divinity, it is also calculated to fit them for commercial pursuits: Its large and specious grounds, secluded from the city, offers all the advantages of a country site, and are so near the cities of St. Bonface and Winnipeg as to secure all the advantages of a town residence.

The College can accommodate a hundred students, of whom eighty may be boarders. The terms have been made as easy as possible. $13 a month for boarding, and $3 a month for those who take their meals in town and sleep in the college, beside a small additional fee, for a few dormitory articles, of $2 a year; the whole to be paid half yearly in advance.

advance,
The uniform consists of a frock coat, with trousers, necktie and felt hat, all black. Each student is to be sufficiently provided with other articles of clothing.
The discipline of the College, scrict in point of morality, is, as far as possible, paternal in character.

The scholastic year opens on the third Wednesday of August and ends about the 3th of June. Br. Bonipace, August 29rh, 1885.
