JANUARY.

The snow which fell during the later days of December will, with a fall which will take place on the 31, make the roads good for travelling with sleighs. After that period a succession of very mild cloudy days will occur which will last until the 8th, when the frost will become intense, with clear bright skies, the glass varying from 15 below to 7 and 12 above zero; after the 16th the weather will become more moderate. A heavy fall of snow will commence at 10 minutes before 10 o'clock on the 19th, which will last until the same hour next day. Every three days a change from severe cold to a more moderate temperature, interspersed with slight showers of snow, will be the characterizing features of the last part of January.

FEBRUARY.

The weather which prevailed during the last 10 days of last month will continue until the 7th, when an unusually mild thaw will take place, and a heavy shower of rain will fall on the 9th. On the 10th the weather will again become cold, and continue, with occasional showers of snow, until the latter end of the month. This last mentioned period of the month, with little intermission, will be unusually disagreeable, cold, cloudy and gloomy, with occasional heavy fogs. On the 28th the weather will become more agreeable.

Old Law of Courtship.—Oct. 27th, 1647.—The General Court enact, "that if any young man attempt to address a young woman without the consent of her parents or the County Court, he shall be fined 5*l.* for the first offence, 10*l.* for the second, and imprisonment for the third."

MARCH.

The weather which distinguished the last days of February will continue until the 4th, when the severe frost will soften again and more snow will fall. On the 10th a severe gale of wind, with snow, which will cause heavy drifts on the roads, sufficient for a time to impede travelling. On the 12th hard frost will again set in and will continue with little intermission until the 25th, when heavy gales of wind with snow and sleet, will characterize the remainder of the month. The weather during the last mentioned period will be unusually stormy and disagreeable.

APRIL.

The beginning of this month will be wet and disagreeable, rain followed by frosts and then snow again will be the distinguishing features of the first 10 days of April,—after that period the weather will again become more settled and indications of Spring will be discernable. The remainder of the month will remain unmarked by any great change, with the exception of a heavy fall of snow on the 23d. Rain will fall on the 15th, 19th, 24th, and 30th. On the 15th the snow will have altogether disappeared.

SEED POTATOES.—By an experiment carefully made several years ago, it was found that seeds from the top end of the potatoe yielded the largest and earliest crops; that seeds from the smaller or root end gave less than one-third of the first.

MUSHROOMS.—To ascertain whether what appears to be mushrooms (the true agaricus compestris) are so or not, a little salt should be sprinkled on the inner or spongy part. If, in a short time afterwards, they turn yellow, they are a very poisonous kind of fungus, but if black, they are to be looked upon as genuine mushrooms.

JUNE.

The first part of this month will be temperately warm, with occasional showers. On the 8th the weather will become more changeable, alternately warm and cold, with chilly rains,—on the 12th it will become more steady, and warm weather will recommence. On the 16th the heat will be excessive, but will not last. Changeable weather will again set in, sometimes warm and sometimes chilly and disagreeable with occasional rain. On the 25th a tempest of wind and rain, with thunder squalls, will occur, after which the weather will become steadily fair and warm to the end of the month.

“A good education is a young man’s best capital,” was truly and beautifully said by Miss Sedgwick.

JULY.

The first part of this month will be exceedingly sultry—the glass ranging from 78 to 90 fahrenheit in the shade, and on the 11th at noon, it will rise as high as 99. On the 12th a heavy thunder storm, after which the heat will become more temperate. On the 14th, 15th and 16th, cloudy weather, with nearly incessant rain. After this period the weather will again become bright and sultry and continue so to the end of the month, with occasional thunder squalls.

MILK.—To divest this, and butter, from the taste of turnips, cabbage, wild onions, or other offensive plants, on which the cows have fed, put a quart of boiling water into each pailful of milk, when it comes from the cow.

AUGUST.

On the 3d of this month the weather will become changeable, with considerable rain, and attended with colder breezes than generally prevail at this season. On the 7th the weather will again become warm, and on the 12th the heat will be greater than at any time of the preceding summer. On the 15th it will again become changeable, with rain and temperate heats. On the 19th another change to warmer weather, and so on to the end of the month.

PREVENTION OF TOOTH ACHE.—Every morning, immediately after breakfast, swill the mouth out successively, from a pint glass tumbler, filled with cold water, till the whole is used, retaining each mouthful for some small time.

SEPTEMBER.

The 1st day of this month will set in with bright weather and temperate heats, and will continue so with only occasional showers, until the 16th, when blustering and rainy weather will prevail more or less until the 23d, when it will become settled, with clear pleasant weather until the end of the month.

CURE FOR THE BOTS OR GRUBS IN HORSES.—Pour out half a gill of the spirit of turpentine into the hand, and rub it on the breast of the animal while suffering. Let it be applied to the hollow or pit of the stomach, just at the point where the neck joins the breast, on a space six or eight inches in diameter. The relief is certain if the grubs have not already cut through the coats of the stomach.

OCTOBER.

The same weather which distinguished the latter part of September will continue until the 7th of this month, when colder breezes will set in, with frequent changes from fair to very wet weather. On the 15th it will become cold and clear, with hoar frost at night. On the 20th a fall of snow, followed by soft weather, with much rain, until the 29th, when it will become steady and moderate until the end of the month.

BRIMSTONE FOR CATTLE.—A piece of brimstone as large as a grain of corn, well pulverized, given in a little salt, will cause ticks to drop off, and prevent others from getting on for eight or ten days.

NOVEMBER.

This month will set in with unusually fine weather, which will last until the 6th, when storms of rain and wind will prevail with only occasional intervals until the 14th, when it will clear up into clear frosty weather. On the 20th a considerable fall of snow, followed by changeable, rainy and disagreeable weather until the 23th, when a severe frost will set in.

PROTECTION OF GRAIN AGAINST MICE AND OTHER VERMIN.—Put at the bottom, near the centre and the top of each stack, as it is raised, three or four stalks of wild mint, with the leaves on. The same experiment may be tried with cheeses, and with equal effect, by laying a few leaves green or dry, on the articles to be preserved.

DECEMBER.

The frost which prevailed during the end of last month will continue until the 6th of this. On the 7th snow will fall. On the 9th a thaw, succeeded by temperate weather until the 12th, when a frost will again set in. On the 15th, dark, cloudy and cold weather, threatening snow, until the 18th, when it will again become clear and frosty. On the 22d a heavy fall of snow succeeded by clear weather,—on the 27th more snow,—on the 29th clear again, with good sleighing.

Blackberries are extremely useful in cases of dysentery. To eat the berries is very healthy. Tea made of the roots and leaves is beneficial; and a syrup made of the berries, is still better. Blackberries have sometimes effected a cure when physicians have failed.
