DEVINE'S Compound Pitch Lozenge. An appeal to matter of fact, and common sense. IT is that which has so long been sought for, and in full faith offered to the public as a CERTAIN CURE for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Costiveness, Asthma, and Consumption, and will, in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration, and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial; but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted can be done. We do not ask you, reader, to take our word, but those who, but a few weeks ago had given up in despair and are now in the enjoyment of health, and without asking have given us their certificates in favor of this great remedy. Let all, then, who are afflicted, TRY IT, and if the assertions on each box are not proved, send an impartial trial, the price will be returned; when the article is not perfectly satisfactory. If the Lozenge on being exposed to the air in hot weather should become soft, it is no objection, but when you go to prove that they are in good condition. S. D. Fuller & Co., Boston, Proprietors for Devine's Pitch Lozenge, Dr. Corvelli's Pain Expeller and Macaronic, a sure cure for the Piles; also, the Yankee E. extract, an article warranted to take out all Grease, Oil, Paint, &c., without injury to the finest texture or showing any dust on the part cleansed. Literature, &c. MARY ME IN THE MORNING. BY MRS. HALE. Bury me in the morning, mother; Oh! let me have the light; For you leave me alone with night; Alone in the night of the grave, mother-- 'Tis a thought of terrible fear-- And you will be here alone, mother, And stars will be shining here, So bury me in the morn, mother, And let me have the light. Of one bright day on my grave, mother, Ere I am alone with night. You, tell of the Saviour's love, mother-- I feel it in my heart; But, oh! from this beautiful world, mother, 'Tis hard for the young to part! Forever to part, when here, mother, The soul is left to stay, For the grave is deep and dark, mother, And I cannot see you far away. Then bury me in the morn, mother, And let me have the light. Of one bright day on my grave, mother, Ere I am alone with night. Never unclasp my hand, mother, Till it falls away from mine-- Let me hold the pledge of thy love, mother, 'Till I feel the love divine: The rose, the thorn, the thistle and the saw-- Above, its beams I see; And there an angel's face, mother, Is smiling down on me! So bury me in the morn, mother, And let me have the light. Of one bright day on my grave, mother, For Death is the gate of life, mother, And leads to light on high. (From the Illustrated Magazine of Art for September.) EARTHLY HONORS. A SONNET BY EDWARD BOLTON, PUBLISHED IN 1610. As whither the primrose by the river, As fadeth summer's sun from gliding fountains, As vaniseth light blue bowlabl ever, As melteth snow upon the massy mountains, So, as, so vaniseth, so fades, so withers The rose, the thorn, the thistle and the saw; Of noise, pomp, glory, joy, which short life gathers, Fair praise, vain pomp, sweet glory, brittle joy, The withered primrose by the morning river, The faded summer sun from weeping fountains, The light blue bowlabl vanished for ever, The molten snow upon the naked mountains Are emblems--that the treasures we use lay, Soon wither, vanish, fade and melt away. English Society. An American Clergyman is giving his impressions of English Society, in a series of letters to the American Church Journal. From one of the latest of his epistles we extract a particularly descriptive passage on the tone and style of English society:-- "One needs only a few competent letters as a passport to English hospitality. After first introductions, the way of the stranger who behaves himself, is as open as his own land. Hospitality is, in fact, a part of English virtue. Nowhere else does the word imply so much genuine kindness. Nowhere else does it so completely make the stranger at home. Morning, noon, and night, it follows you up with its benevolent perseverance, and seems to exact the minimum of ceremony in return. It does not satisfy itself with politeness, it shows you the soul of friendship; and that, while it allows you all the freedom of a passenger, when you might otherwise feel embarrassed by your inability to reciprocate such proofs of good will. The truth is, there is real heart in the civilities which are proffered; and where politeness is rooted in sincerity, it is always congeniate, inventive, and unfeeling.--An English gentleman, whatever his circumstances, as soon as he knows that you are entitled to his attentions, does all that he can to make you really happy. If his means are small, he is not ashamed to offer you the best he can, give, and he is pleased with his success, if he feels that you have accepted his hospitality, in the spirit which prompted it. Contented, self-respecting, hearty Christian love, is the root of the matter, in those true specimens of English nature which are uppermost in my memory as I write, and 'whatsoever things are lovely' are but the generous product of a sound and healthful stock. Happy is he who has made a genuine Englishman his friend, for such a friendship implies the fullest confidence, and is a tribute accorded to integrity and worth. With regard to the tone of society in general, I think every stranger must be struck with its elevation, whether intellectually or morally considered. An English gentleman is generally highly educated. Society consists of cultivated persons, male and female, whose accomplishments are not displayed, but exist as a matter of course, and as essential to one's part in the duties and civilities of life. No one ventures to feel better informed than his neighbour, and hence there is a general deference to other men's opinions, and a reserve in expressing one's own, which is highly significant of extreme civilization and refinement. Such a state of society, however, has its drawbacks. Character often becomes neutralized, and genius itself is somewhat depressed; and when, upon some private occasion, I discovered that the smooth, quiet personage whom I had seen only in the dull propriety in which the pressure of company had held him, like a single stone in an arch, was a man of feeling, of taste, of varied information, and accurate learning, I said to myself--'What a lamentable waste is here!' This man who should have been enriching the world with his stores of erudition and of reflection, has never conceived of himself as having anything to impart, or by which his fellow-man should profit. His accomplishments are, like his fortune and respectability, his mere personal qualifications for a position in society, in which he is contented merely to move, without shining, or displaying anything more than the genial warmth of good-humour and benevolence. There are thousands of such men in England, living and dying in the most exquisite relish of social pleasure, and deriving daily satisfaction from their own mental resources, but contributing nothing to the increase of the world's intellectual wealth, and never dreaming of their attainments or talents which are bound to employ.--Home Journal. ALFRED THE GREAT. We copy the following eloquent passage from the Life of Alfred the Great, as published in the series of Bobn's Library, from the pen of Dr. R. Pauli:-- So stands the image of Alfred, shining brightly in the book of the world's history, never defaced by malice or ignorance, nor dimmed by his own errors. These he necessarily possessed, but they have been entirely forgotten in the blaze of his virtues, over which his former faults are now as a mass of fire, which soon reached the point of ignition, and burst up with a terrific explosion, carrying portions of the blazing wreck to a shed where the stores had been conveyed, and which was quickly consumed. Captain Davis and the crew were most hospitably received by Mr. Anderson (a son of the late Mr. Anderson), after having fitted out a boat that was saved, left for Fernando Po, where they arrived after enduring the greatest privation; and six arrived at Plymouth in the Forerunner. The Pytha was a fine ship of above 900 tons, and was, with her cargo, insured.--Landon Globe. A most horrible adventure with wolves is related in the "Frontier Land's of the Christian and the Turk." It occurred on the other side of the Pytha. A Russian peasant, in a sledge with his wife and four children, when a flock of these ferocious animals gave them chase; the horses were unable to run, and he was obliged to check the advance of the wolves, the four children were unable to them by their father, one by one. They reached their village in safety by this barbarous sacrifice, and the mother immediately denounced her husband as a murderer; the case was tried, and he was acquitted. THE UNPUNCTUAL WOMAN, like the unpunctual man, becomes disliked, because she consumes one time after another with our plans, our unsteady feelings, and virtually tells us we are not of sufficient importance to make her more prompt. To the business man time is money, and to the business woman it is more--it is peace, comfort, and domestic prosperity. Answer to a Banns--I beg to remind my new daughter that the husband has in his daily occupations a thousand elements of disturbance to which the wife is a stranger; and it will be her privilege, and her title to the respect of all whose respect is worth having, to make his own friends the most attractive place in the universe for the calm repose of a weary body or excited mind. Dresses worn at the late "Drawing Room" of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria:-- Her Majesty, the Queen, wore a train of white and gold brocaded moire, trimmed with white tulle, and white satin ribbons and gold blonde. The petticoat was white satin, trimmed with white tulle, and white satin ribbons and gold blonde, to correspond with the train. Her Majesty's head-dress was formed of diamonds and gold blonde. Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge, wore a train of rich grey satin, trimmed with point lace; the stomacher adorned with diamonds. The petticoat was also of grey satin, having six flowers of point lace. Her Royal Highness wore on her head a splendid tiara of diamonds, with white feathers and lappets. The necklace was diamonds. Her Royal Highness, the Princess Mary of Cambridge, wore a train of white moire antique, trimmed with white lace, joggles, and bunches of white roses. The stomacher, necklace and earrings were diamonds and turquoise. The dress was of white tulle, three skirts embroidered with silver, over a glaze silk petticoat. The Princess's head-dress was composed of a tiara of diamonds, with feathers and lappets. Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, wore a train of light blue moire antique, trimmed with blue satin ribbons and white tulle; the stomacher adorned with diamonds. The petticoat was white satin, trimmed with white tulle. Her Royal Highness, the Hereditary Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, wore a train of white silk, brocaded with flowers, and trimmed with white point lace; the stomacher enriched with diamonds and sapphires. The petticoat was white tulle, trimmed with gold lace and blue and gold flowers. Her Royal Highness wore a diadem of diamonds and lappets. Dress of Mrs. Le Vert, of Mobile: A white lace robe, richly embroidered in silver, trimmed with bouquets pink and silver convolvulus. The hair dressed a la Maria Stuart, and ornamented with flowers of pink and silver; diamond necklace, bracelets, and brooch. It fitted her graceful form to perfection, and amid the grand splendor around, her costume was conspicuous for its elegance and good taste. At the Drawing-room of Queen Victoria, held recently at St. James' Palace, an American lady appeared dressed in a rich presentation dress, composed of bodice and train of white moire antique, trimmed with point lace. Her dress was of a young virgin, disguised himself, and assisted at the Elusian rites; and at this time, he, together with his beloved, and divers other young ladies of that city, were surprised and carried off by pitally, in the spirit which prompted it. A most horrible adventure with wolves is related in the "Frontier Land's of the Christian and the Turk." It occurred on the other side of the Pytha. A Russian peasant, in a sledge with his wife and four children, when a flock of these ferocious animals gave them chase; the horses were unable to run, and he was obliged to check the advance of the wolves, the four children were unable to them by their father, one by one. They reached their village in safety by this barbarous sacrifice, and the mother immediately denounced her husband as a murderer; the case was tried, and he was acquitted.

THE UNPUNCTUAL WOMAN, like the unpunctual man, becomes disliked, because she consumes one time after another with our plans, our unsteady feelings, and virtually tells us we are not of sufficient importance to make her more prompt. To the business man time is money, and to the business woman it is more--it is peace, comfort, and domestic prosperity.

Answer to a Banns--I beg to remind my new daughter that the husband has in his daily occupations a thousand elements of disturbance to which the wife is a stranger; and it will be her privilege, and her title to the respect of all whose respect is worth having, to make his own friends the most attractive place in the universe for the calm repose of a weary body or excited mind.

Dresses worn at the late "Drawing Room" of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria:-- Her Majesty, the Queen, wore a train of white and gold brocaded moire, trimmed with white tulle, and white satin ribbons and gold blonde. The petticoat was white satin, trimmed with white tulle, and white satin ribbons and gold blonde, to correspond with the train. Her Majesty's head-dress was formed of diamonds and gold blonde. Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge, wore a train of rich grey satin, trimmed with point lace; the stomacher adorned with diamonds. At the Drawing-room of Queen Victoria, held recently at St. James' Palace, an American lady appeared dressed in a rich presentation dress, composed of bodice and train of white moire antique, trimmed with point lace. Her dress was of a young virgin, disguised himself, and assisted at the Elusian rites; and at this time, he, together with his beloved, and divers other young ladies of that city, were surprised and carried off by Meeting of the New-Branswick Auxiliary Bible Society.

Last Wednesday evening the Centenary Chapel in this city presented an imposing appearance. Fourteen hundred persons (some say more) were assembled to celebrate the Jubilee Year of the Bible Society.

The President of the Society, the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon, presided at the meeting. He opened the services by reading the opening prayer, and then proceeded to read the address of the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon.

The Rev. Mr. Spurgeon's address was characterized by that piety, which we are happy to say, marks all this gentleman's movements. He spoke of the propriety of lifting our hearts to God and interceding for the blessing of the Jubilee.

The last Speaker was the Rev. Mr. Churchill, of the Wesleyan connexion. Gifted as an orator, he laid hold of a subject that had been overlooked by those who had preceded him.

We cordially concur in the following remarks, which we copy from the New-Branswick of this morning, on the occasion of the demise of our late much respected and worthy townsman, Mr. George Murray.

OBITUARY.—We regret to record this day the demise of the late GEORGE MURRAY, Esq., who has been so well known to the commercial portion of the community.

The Freeman states that the three stores and buildings above, now in course of erection for Mr. John Gillis, on the Old Coffee House corner, Market Square, have been leased, the two fronting the square at £500 and £430 a year.

GOODY'S LADY'S BOOK.—We have received the October number of this interesting Periodical, by Mail, from the Publisher. It is replete, as usual, with attractive literary matter, and beautifully embellished with pictorial illustrations.

We learn from the Chronicle that Mr. John Barbrie, son of Oliver Barbrie, Esq., was unfortunately drowned, on Thursday evening, while steam driving on the Salmon River, having lost his foothold on some logs on which he was standing.

An inquest was held on Friday before W. O. Smith and G. Van Horne, Esq., on view of the body of a man found drowned in Pettingle's Slip. By the evidence it appeared his name was White, lately a fireman on board the steamer Eastern City, and that his wife recently died in Boston.

The new ship Matsoka, which sailed from this port on Thursday last, for Liverpool, returned on Sunday, with loss of Jibboom.

Charles W. Wardlaw, Esq., has been appointed Cashier of the Charlotte City Bank, in the room of John Rodger, Esq., who has filled the office with much satisfaction to the public and advantage to the Establishment, for nearly five years, and now returns preparatory to returning to his native land, Scotland.—Courier.

A man named Nash fell down the stairs of his own house in Spout's Cove, on Saturday night, and was killed by the fall. He had gone up with a candle in his hand, and as he was near the head of the staircase on his return the candle fell and was extinguished. While groping for this he fell forward down the steep narrow staircase.

On Sunday morning, about 3 o'clock, a steamer, with a gang of men were engaged unloading deals from a wood-barge lying at Peel's Wharf, Lower Cove, Riordon, the man lately tried for the murder of his wife, fell from the wharf and was drowned.—Freeman.

OUTRAGE.—As Mr. Meek, the deputy Clerk of the Market was passing by the corner of the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, he was assailed by a mob of about thirty persons, who struck him down with a club, and then jumped on his back, and endeavored to throw him overboard.

WRECK OF THE STEAMER FAIRY QUEEN AND LOSS OF LIFE.—Intelligence was received at the News Room on Saturday evening, of the loss of the steamer Fairy Queen, on the edge of the Grand Bank, on the 10th inst. It was first reported that eleven lives were lost, but a second dispatch announces the safety of eight of them, leaving but three unaccounted for.

MR. WILLIAM CHAMBERS.—Among the passengers by the America, we observe the name of Mr. W. Chambers, one of Scotland's most popular publishers and essayists. Mr. Chambers is a native of Peebles, and was born about the year 1800.

The Railroad Dinner took place yesterday evening, in the Music Hall, and was attended by a very large number of our most influential citizens. The hall was superbly decorated, and presented a most brilliant appearance to the company as they entered.

The Rev. Mr. Spurgeon, the estimable Principal of the Baptist Academy in Fredericton, was then called on by the President. He directed the attention of the audience to God as the giver of all good, with the view of causing them to remember, that from this divine source came the Bible, the Bible Society, and all the benefits and blessings that have resulted from the circulation of the Holy Scriptures.

To the call of the Chair, the Rev. Mr. Lightbody next responded. This gentleman is lately from Scotland, and fills the ministerial office at Sheffield, which the Rev. James Porter vacated, when he became General Superintendent of Parish Schools. He directed the attention of his listening audience, in a very eloquent manner, to the blessings we owe to the Bible. Literature, history, science, civil and religious liberty, civilization, &c., independent of the spiritual and eternal blessings which alone flow through the word of God, were shown to be, to a greater extent than is generally supposed, indebted to man's acquaintance with the Bible.

It is rumored that the Reverend John Cook, D. D., Minister of St. Andrew's church in this city has been appointed Principal of Queen's College, Kingston, and Professor of Divinity therein. The Principal of a college is one of the highest honors in the gift of the Church of Scotland, and we would congratulate Dr. Cook upon his being made a scholar and a preacher of the gospel.

AT FAIR IN CANADA.—The next term of the Supreme Court will commence at Montreal, on the fourth of the present month, when the trials will take place of those who have been arrested for the riot which took place in the month of June, and the firing of the troops by which some fifteen or eighteen lives were lost.

LAUNCH OF THE "GREAT REPUBLIC."—The launch of Mr. Donald McKay's mammoth clipper, the Great Republic, a vessel of 4000 tons, took place yesterday from his yard in East Boston, with great success and in beautiful style.

FRANCE.—Whatever may be the issue of the present Turkish difficulty, it is the general belief in Paris that the Emperor will not go to war; he is said to have expressed a wish that, after very recent, the reason assigned for this determination being the deficiency of the harvest, the large amount of paper now in the market consequent on the numerous speculations to which prosperity has given rise, and lastly, the probability that France will be invaded by a formidable enemy, the cholera.

THE CHINA REVOLUTION.—The Overland China Mail of July 23, gives the following account of another visit to the Rebels: "Contrary to our belief, to the injunctive of the Council of State, Lieut. Straat and boat's crew from the Hermes has contrived to make another trip up the Yang-tze-kiang, ostensibly to search for deserters, but in reality to visit the rebel camp at Chin-kiang Fu. The expedition was accompanied by Mr. P. Meadows, as interpreter.

PARISHES IN NEW YORK.—The convention of the clergy and lay delegates from the parishes in the New York diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church adjourned on Friday afternoon. It was voted that the salary of the provincial Bishop (Rev. Dr. Wainwright) when he is independent of parochial charge, shall be $2000, in addition to a suitable house for a residence, and so long as he is connected with Trinity Church, as its minister, he is to receive $3000 per annum; and that in case of the sale of the Episcopal residence in which Bishop Onderdonk is now living, he also shall be provided with a proper residence, in addition to the annual sum of $2500 now allowed him. These expenditures are to be defrayed from the income of the Episcopal fund, and in case of its deficiency, the parishes are called upon for contributions.

GO.—Whether the United States and England have been enriched by the gold mines of California and Australia, are questions not likely to be solved by any very public evidence or reasoning. Our own opinion is that both countries have been greatly impoverished by the discovery of these mines—in the abstraction of vast numbers of industrious men, very many of whom have found premature graves, and others still lead a life of the most degrading poverty—and also in the immense quantity of merchandise shipped to those countries and never paid for. It is easy to perceive that in these operations, connected with the accumulation of gold, a vast amount of capital must have sunk beyond the hope of recovery.—(Boston Adv.)

The articles from Madrid papers on the subject of the reception of Mr. Soule as American minister to Spain, are deserving of much attention. He holds the ministerial office, as we are first among the most strenuous advocates of the propriety of the Spanish government rejecting that gentleman's credentials, and refusing to acknowledge him as a representative at Court. It has since, however, probably modified its tone, and thinks it wiser to be on the whole, wiser to receive Mr. Soule and judge of his character and designs from actual observation and experience. The opposition journal, the Nordelta, is still bitterly opposed to his reception, but has, however, on Wednesday a communication from the Minister of State, in which he is permitted to present his credentials, and that the government will contain any expression or phrase which may possibly bear a construction disrespectful to the Spanish nation.—N. Y. Herald.

Straat and boat's crew from the Hermes has contrived to make another trip up the Yang-tze-kiang, ostensibly to search for deserters, but in reality to visit the rebel camp at Chin-kiang Fu. The expedition was accompanied by Mr. P. Meadows, as interpreter.

THE CHINA REVOLUTION.—The Overland China Mail of July 23, gives the following account of another visit to the Rebels: "Contrary to our belief, to the injunctive of the Council of State, Lieut. Straat and boat's crew from the Hermes has contrived to make another trip up the Yang-tze-kiang, ostensibly to search for deserters, but in reality to visit the rebel camp at Chin-kiang Fu. PARISHES IN NEW YORK.—The convention of the clergy and lay delegates from the parishes in the New York diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church adjourned on Friday afternoon. It was voted that the salary of the provincial Bishop (Rev. Dr. Wainwright) when he is independent of parochial charge, shall be $2000, in addition to a suitable house for a residence, and so long as he is connected with Trinity Church, as its minister, he is to receive $3000 per annum; and that in case of the sale of the Episcopal residence in which Bishop Onderdonk is now living, he also shall be provided with a proper residence, in addition to the annual sum of $2500 now allowed him. These expenditures are to be defrayed from the income of the Episcopal fund, and in case of its deficiency, the parishes are called upon for contributions.

GO.—Whether the United States and England have been enriched by the gold mines of California and Australia, are questions not likely to be solved by any very public evidence or reasoning. Our own opinion is that both countries have been greatly impoverished by the discovery of these mines—in the abstraction of vast numbers of industrious men, very many of whom have found premature graves, and others still lead a life of the most degrading poverty—and also in the immense quantity of merchandise shipped to those countries and never paid for. It is easy to perceive that in these operations, connected with the accumulation of gold, a vast amount of capital must have sunk beyond the hope of recovery.—(Boston Adv.)

The articles from Madrid papers on the subject of the reception of Mr. Soule as American minister to Spain, are deserving of much attention. He holds the ministerial office, as we are first among the most strenuous advocates of the propriety of the Spanish government rejecting that gentleman's credentials, and refusing to acknowledge him as a representative at Court. It has since, however, probably modified its tone, and thinks it wiser to be on the whole, wiser to receive Mr. Soule and judge of his character and designs from actual observation and experience. The opposition journal, the Nordelta, is still bitterly opposed to his reception, but has, however, on Wednesday a communication from the Minister of State, in which he is permitted to present his credentials, and that the government will contain any expression or phrase which may possibly bear a construction disrespectful to the Spanish nation.—N. Y. Herald.

At Hendley Fair, whilst Wombwell's show was crowded with visitors, the Leopardess broke loose, but was fortunately secured by the keeper, though not without frightening a polar bear to death.

A man named Whitehead, returned to England in the Marco Polo, with gold to the amount of $45,000, accumulated in the Australian diggings.

LOAN OF THE "GREAT REPUBLIC."—The launch of Mr. Donald McKay's mammoth clipper, the Great Republic, a vessel of 4000 tons, took place yesterday from his yard in East Boston, with great success and in beautiful style.

FRANCE.—Whatever may be the issue of the present Turkish difficulty, it is the general belief in Paris that the Emperor will not go to war; he is said to have expressed a wish that, after very recent, the reason assigned for this determination being the deficiency of the harvest, the large amount of paper now in the market consequent on the numerous speculations to which prosperity has given rise, and lastly, the probability that France will be invaded by a formidable enemy, the cholera.

Leslie's Stove Varnish.
A valuable discovery by which all Stoves, Pipes, Grates, Furnaces, Iron Rivings, and every description of Iron work, where an intense heat is not required, whether exposed to the weather or not, may be kept a splendid Jet Black with as beautiful a polish as a Coach Body and with one third the labour, bestowed on other preparations. This is a valuable preparation on account of its anti-corrosive properties; all Stoves and Pipes which are put away during the summer should have an application of the Stove Varnish which would effectually prevent the rusting or corroding of the Iron.
The Varnish is strongly recommended to Painters and the Public in general, from three facts: First, its cheapness brings it within the reach of all; Second, from its high polish and durability; and, lastly, from its being at all necessary for a Franklin and lastly, from its being required in its application, this last fact justly entitles it to the name of "SERVANT'S FRIEND."
