AROUSE PUBLIC TO MORE VIGOROUS PROSECUTION OF WAR AND CHECK PROPAGANDA IN INDUSTRIAL CENTRES

London, Nov. 23.—The morning papers attach the greatest importance to a programme of addresses in the various cities in Great Britain by prominent members of the cabinet, announcement of which has just been made.

The following schedule has already been arranged: Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade in Bristol; Harold J. Tennant, secretary for Scotland, in Edinburgh; Thomas McKinnon Wood, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, in Leicester; Lord Curzon, Lord Privy Seal, in Liverpool; H. L. Samuel, secretary of state for home affairs, in Newcastle; Arthur Henderson, minister of pensions, in Northampton.

It is said that the addresses are intended to gain the spirit of the public for a more vigorous prosecution of the war and thus to combat the anti-war propaganda in industrial centres.

It is believed that Premier Asquith, Lloyd George, Bonar Law and Reginald McKenna will participate in a joint meeting of the Unionist and Liberal war committees along the same line and that probably both parties will take official action in support of the campaign.

THE MEANING OF MONASTIR

"If Monastir falls to the Allies," Mr. Frank H. Simonds said the other day, "then they will have taken from the Bulgars the main prize that the Bulgars have so far won in the war."

Canadian newspapers have given of their good men in all departments of the news service to the cause of right in the European war but none who more ably filled a position of responsibility and importance than Major John S. Lewis, former editor of the Montreal Star.

"On the military side," he says, "the Allied occupation of Monastir will have interesting consequences. It will compel the Bulgarians and their German allies to retire north and east many miles in order to make a new line of trenches. These will doubtless rest upon the Shar Mountains southeast of Prizrend and, circling Skopje, come south along the western wall of the Vardar Valley. But such a line will be difficult to maintain on its western side, and it will have many obvious perils.

"If the German-Bulgarian front, when it is driven out of Monastir, is actually routed, it loses its heavy artillery, which is more likely, given the condition of the roads, than it may be able to rally and hold the Babuna Pass; such a rally would compel the evacuation of all the Vardar Valley south of the eastern entrance to Babuna and enable the Allies to make a sweeping advance north along the Belgrade-Salonica railroad. They now have the advantage of the Monastir-Salonica railroad which they are using.

"Actually the Monastir operation is an effort to turn the Bulgarians out of the Vardar Valley, the vital road to the Balkans, by a circling movement to the west through the Plain of Monastir. This is necessary because it is next to impossible to drive the Bulgarians up the Vardar Valley by direct frontal attack, so strong are the positions of the Bulgars in the narrow gorges, particularly at Demir-kapya. If the Allies take Monastir they are going to turn east, move up the road over the Babuna Pass, move down the valley of the Cerina, and along the foothills of the Shar Mountains, joining the Skopje-Mitrovitza railroad north of Skopje."

The Allied drive past Monastir, Mr. Simonds says, will weaken Mackensen by menacing the Bulgarians in Macedonia and disclosing to Bulgaria the peril threatening its national integrity. He feels, however, that the value of the Serb victory to the Allies cannot be measured with accuracy until it is known whether or not Roumania can be saved. But further:

"If Germany crushes Roumania she will be no nearer to peace than she was when she crushed Serbia. If her victory is attended by the success of the Serbs and her success in Belgium, she will only increase the anger of her foes and give still more strength to their arms and their wills. She will still further corroborate the assertion of French and British leaders that what is being fought is not a war between nations, but a struggle between civilization and barbarism, between men and beasts.

"If France, Britain, Russia were exhausted, if they were unable to bear new burdens, the conquest of Roumania might bring peace; but they are not exhausted. France kept on in 1870 after four times as much of her territory was occupied and Paris shuf up. France fought all Europe from 1792 to 1814, before she finally yielded, and then she yielded only because her enemies guaranteed her integrity and recognized her independence; she changed dynasties, but she kept her provinces."

In short, should Roumania be crushed, the Allies will only become the more determined to make their ultimate victory the more complete. They would recognize that such an event would prolong the war, but they would resolve that the lesson the German people must learn would be that account have to be made all the more severe. Just as this war is unlike all other wars, so the terms made at the end of it will be unlike any known in previous history.

KITCHENER'S GRAVE

(By Lily Young Cohen in "Current History" Magazine.) In Woe's black watch, bereaved, earth weeps, But the proud sea his body keeps And calls triumphant to the land, In tones none may understand: "Though for your fame he chose to fight, I am the measure of his might! Ah, never, now, in vaulted gloom, Shall keep the hero of Khartoum; But in my arms—exalted, found—I'll lull him in the great beyond, And so his resting here with me Will give new meaning to the sea. No graven tablet may I bear, Nor in mere words his deeds declare, But, better yet, from my deep throat Will ever clang a martial note To glorify this son of Mars And keep the memory of his wars. To children on the beach at play I'll sing the name of K. of K. While in the roaring tempest boom Will sound the message of Khartoum, And, e'en in calm, on every shore Of him I'll chant for evermore. Thus, his unfettered spirit brave Shall live forever in the wave. And so, O Lord, grudge not that he Sleeps his last place here in the sea!"

Sure Evidence. Post (returning to his den after a vacation)—There must have been burglars here in my absence! Here is a $10 bill on the floor, and the remains of a good cigar on the table! I never had either.

"I shouldn't call this a desirable flat," said the lady who was looking for a home. "There's a saloon next door." "That's just the point," replied the agent. "Think what a comfort it will be to know that your husband is never far from home!"

At a recent sports meeting in a country town an old countryman picked up a discarded programme of events and was studying it earnestly when a swell approached him. "Hello, old chap, what's the next event on the programme?" "Old Man (looking up from his card)—A donkey race, sir. Are you going to run?"

No Derrick Needed. Wife (leaving home for a few days)—You mustn't trouble to rise early. Get the baker to put the bread in through the window. Hatby (thinking of the high prices)—And when the butcher calls I suppose I can get him to put the meat through the keyhole.

Bangor Commercial—Francis Joseph did not live to see the final defeat of the Central Empires and so was saved from one great sorrow, although he must have been aware that defeat is pressing close. The territory that his death leaves to the rule of Archduke Charles will not long retain its present limits.

That France has decided to make Thursdays and Fridays "meatless days" is a new reminder that national and private economy must be practised. Canada in this war and Canadians must assist in other ways than sending men to the battlefields. Elimination of extravagance is one way.

THE BRITANNIC

Official London strongly suspects that the British hospital ship, The Britannic, went to her fate in the Aegean sea through the agency of an enemy torpedo or mine. Official London is careful in its public announcements and so does not say as yet beyond the phrase "strong suspicion." An investigation must be made before a definite official pronouncement will be given out.

Officials of the White Star Line, to which the Britannic belonged, say that only a torpedo could have pierced the steel hull of the great ship. If it proves true that this vessel was torpedoed, another crime will have been added to Germany's list—and one of the worst. That all but fifty of the 1166 persons on board were saved in no way mitigates the enormity of the crime, for doubtless the intention was to sink ship and all on board—doctors, nurses, and wounded soldiers included.

Neither would this prove the first time that an Entente hospital ship has been attacked. The Germans tried it in the English channel and the Turks sent down a Russian vessel in which wounded were being transported.

There has been in Germany, and is today, a strong party favoring resumption of submarine activity against everything that rides the waves and has the slightest favoring relation to the Entente Allies. This party calls out for ruthless warfare at sea, especially against Great Britain. London sees in the Britannic case an indication of the ascendancy of this murderous party and likelihood of savage submarine warfare to be carried on by the Germans. One effect should be to make more firm than ever the determination so to clip the wings of this Subalterns. A Song of Oxford. They had so much to lose; their radiant laughter Shook my old walls—how short a time ago. I hold the echoes of their song hereafter Among the precious things I used to know.

Their cup of life was full to overflowing. All earth had laid its tribute at their feet. What harvest might we hope from such a sowing? What new promise from a dawning so complete? And I—I watched them working, dreaming, playing, Saw their young bodies fit the mind's desire, Felt them reach upward, upward, still obeying The passionate dictates of their hidden fire.

Yet here and there some greybeard breathed derision, "Too much of luxury, too soft an age. Your careless Galahads will see no vision, Your knights will make no mark on honor's page." No mark—Go ask the broken fields in Flanders, Ask the great dead who watched in ancient Troy, Ask the old moon as round the world she wanders, What of the men who wore my hope and joy!

They are but fragments of Imperial splendor, Handfuls of might amid a mighty host. Yet I, who saw them go with proud surrender, May surely claim to love them first and most.

They who had all gave all. Their half-writ story Lies in the empty halls they knew so well. But they, the knights of God, shall see His glory, And find the Grail even in the fire of hell. MILDRED HUXLEY.

THE BEST THING FOR DYSPEPSIA. WHY PEPSIN, PANCREATIN, ETC. SO FREQUENTLY FAIL. An international specialist who articles on stomach trouble have been printed in nearly every language, recently stated that to treat the average case of stomach trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., by doctoring the stomach, killing the pain with opiates, or by the use of artificial aids to digestion, such as pepsin and pancreatin, was just as foolish and useless as to attempt to put out a fire by throwing water on the embers instead of the fire. He claims, and has seen to justify his claim, that nearly nine-tenths of all stomach trouble is due to acidity and food fermentation; and that the only way in which to secure permanent relief is to get rid of the cause, i.e. to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation. For this purpose he strongly recommends the use of a generally adopted throughout Europe, taking a teaspoonful of ordinary bisulphated magnesia in a little water immediately after each meal, and thus by removing the acid, stops the fermentation and permits the stomach to do its work in normal manner and thus by removing the cause, enables nature to quickly restore the inflamed stomach lining to perfectly healthy natural condition. The convenience of travellers it may be noted that most druggists are now able to supply bisulphated magnesia in grain tablets, 2 or 3 of which will at once instantly relieve the most violent attacks of indigestion.

MADAM TUSSAUD'S FAMOUS WAXWORKS AND THE KAISER. To the Editor of the Times. Sir—Readers who have visited Madame Tussaud's Waxworks in London, England, will be interested to know that the Sultan of Turkey, the King of Bulgaria and the Emperors of Austria and Germany are no longer to be found there. A London newspaper addressed a letter to the company, suggesting that the above four should be placed in the Chamber of Horrors, along with notorious scoundrels such as Charles Peace, Greenpeace, etc. The following is the reply sent to the paper by J. T. Tussaud—As a regular reader of your paper, my attention was drawn to your letter, addressed to my company. In it you call attention to what you describe as a blot—rather four blots—upon our "interesting display," namely, the inclusion of the Sultan of Turkey, the King of Bulgaria, and the Emperors of Austria and Germany in our collection of celebrities and notoriety. Of course, such a letter could not pass unnoticed, and it was brought before my board of directors at the earliest opportunity. Prior to the date of your letter the pack had already been re-shuffled, and the four figures to which you refer had been relegated to a much less conspicuous position than they had previously occupied. When your letter was penned they were consoling against the peace of Europe in a small room which contains the tableau representing "The Destruction of Messina"—a scene of ruin which seems to be in keeping with this Machiavellian group. Like yourself, other visitors had frequently suggested that the quartette should be placed in another famous—or infamous—part of the exhibition, but the trouble was that Burke and Hare, Charles Peace, Wireacre and Wainwright, whom you name, and their comparatively innocuous companions, would not hear of their abode being thus desecrated. What were we to do? I am now pleased to inform you that after considering your remarks a solution has been arrived at: the pack has been shuffled again, and, by a remarkable feat of log-rolling, the four knaves have now disappeared altogether.

COMFORT IN OVERSHOES

For the past few years people have been drifting away from the old-fashioned idea of keeping their feet warm and comfortable during the winter months. That they are again coming back to first principles is evidenced from the big business we have done in OVERSHOES during the past few days.

OVERSHOES, after all, are the correct form of foot covering. Nowadays they are made on shapely lasts, are neat looking, light and warm, and one can wear an old, comfortable shoe under them, thereby extending the life of a high priced shoe.

Captured Zepp Reveals Secrets

Study of Airship Which Fell in England

On Her Maiden Voyage

A Marvel of Ingenuity But Her Fate Indicates How Hopeless Were German Ambitions to Destroy England

Count Zeppelin is quoted to the effect that he will either destroy London or die in the attempt, and the picturesque American correspondent who communicates this news describes him as a "dying man who lives to kill." Undoubtedly the count is in bad health, and probably disappointment at the failure of his airships to fulfill the promises made in their behalf is responsible for his condition. It is said that one of the events that resolved the Kaiser's war was the perfection of the Zeppelin invention, the other being the deepening of the Kiel Canal, due to the British Dreadnought development which forced upon Germany the necessity of building similar ships. It was calculated that the Zeppelins could save England, drop a few tons of bombs upon London, terrorize the whole population and cancel the advantage held by the more powerful British fleet. How the Zeppelins have failed we all know. Since the beginning of the war they have killed fewer people than many an epidemic of measles; they have destroyed in two years property of less value than is destroyed by fire in the average week in peace times.

The Captured Zeppelin

Perhaps the most serious blow the Zeppelins have suffered since they began their raids upon England was in the aerial invasions of September and October, in which four of them were destroyed. Their greatest blow was their forced surrender of a super-Zeppelin, the L-38, to the British authorities. This ship was forced to land "somewhere in Essex" and the crew made prisoner. Before leaving the ship it was set on fire and all that now remains of it is a mass of wreckage. England remains to afford a perfect model to the British authorities if they desired to go into the Zeppelin business. Every secret of the count is revealed. It is possible to calculate to a pound the weight of the Zeppelin, her speed, and to size up her points of strength and weakness. For the purposes to which she was put it is safe to say that weakness rather than strength dominated, and that she will not be copied. It is possible that for purposes of observation, in a naval engagement, for example, the Zeppelin might prove of great value, and it is known that Germany has made certain calculations upon this assumption.

The Latest Model

The L-38 is called a super-Zeppelin. There is evidence to support the theory that she was on her maiden voyage when she met her fate. The date of July 14, 1916, is stamped upon her and the belief is that upon this day she was put in commission. She represented the best that Count Zeppelin could do, and yet she failed. Experts who examined her were not stinted in the praise they bestowed upon the craftsmanship, but that she was intended to do, she was a beautiful shadow of a force intended to destroy England. The Zeppelin is a counterpart of that famous motor that would do anything but work.

Part "Made in Manchester"

According to the calculations of some of those who examined and measured her, the Zeppelin weighed 60 tons with crew and full load aboard. She had six engines, each capable of developing 200 horse power. All hung in gondolas underneath the huge gas-bag, and from these gondolas the work of the Zeppelin was directed. The Zeppelin was 700 feet long, and her air chambers were 24, with a total capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet. Oddly enough, some of the fabric was made of Manchester shirting. There were receptacles for 80 bombs and places for nine guns. The latter were larger than the ordinary machine gun, but they threw solid shot, and not shells. The bombs were dropped electrically. The man in charge of them touched a button, a window opened and the bomb descended. The guns apparently were for use against hostile aircraft, and were distributed in the different gondolas. At intervals along the ship were cylindrical tanks, each containing a length of coiled rope. The idea is that when the Zeppelin lowers toward her anchorage the ropes will be tossed overboard, seized by the waiting soldiers and the huge ship thus conveyed to her shelter without delay. The machinery is said to have been remarkable for its ingenuity. In the keel of the Zeppelin which extended her full length, was hollow. It was in effect a tunnel through which the members of the crew could go from one part of the ship to the other. One of the officers who escorted a party of newspaper correspondents to inspect the wreck was able to raise aloft with one hand a great section of the keel. It was a light almost as sandalwood. The remains as they lay on the ground were described by the London correspondent of the New York Herald as looking like the Crystal Palace with its windows broken.

AGED YARMOUTH WOMAN KILLED BY IMMERSION

Mrs. Smith, mother of Charles Smith of Yarmouth Bar, who was killed about five weeks ago by coming in contact with a live wire, died yesterday as the result of exposure. She was living with her son, Thomas. He had gone to town to do some errands and when returning home she went to the wharf to meet him. She threw him a line and while throwing it lost her balance and fell into the water. The young fellow succeeded in holding his mother up until help arrived. She was taken to her home, but later died. She is survived by two sons, both of Yarmouth, and three daughters.

Of 255 women candidates for county officers in Lunenburg during recent election, 151 were elected. Lunenburg now has 126 women holding county offices. Eight women were elected county superintendents of instruction, 26 registrar of deeds, 25 clerks of district courts, 15 county treasurers, five county clerks and two probate judges. Classified as to parties, there were 92 Republican women elected and 59 Democratic.

Canadian Casualties Exceed Enlistments by About 15,000

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Canadian casualties since the first of June last have totalled over 42,000, or a little over twice the total of enlistments from the time the Canadian first got into the trenches until the end of last May.

The casualties and the wastage, through rejections of men found physically unfit on the second medical examination during the past five months total approximately 15,000 more than the total number of enlistments.

Jack London Died Suddenly

Famous Writer of Virile Stories Passed Away at His California Home

Glenn Ellen, Calif., Nov. 22.—Jack London, the writer, died here at 7:45 tonight. He was found in an unconscious condition at his ranch-house, having suffered from uraemia and failed to rally.

Jack London was born in San Francisco on January 12, 1876, and was, therefore, forty years old. He was twice married, in 1900, and in 1905, and he is survived by his second wife, Charmian Kittredge, who accompanied him on many of his travels and figured in several of his stories.

He was educated at the University of California and was in turn sailor, gold miner, tramp, writer, socialist, lecturer and journalist.

He went over the Chilcoot Pass in the Klondike rush of 1897, served as a correspondent in the Russo-Japanese war in 1905 and started on a seven years' cruise around the world in a fifty-four ketch-rig yacht. He wrote in a vigorous, gripping style with unique and original ideas. Many of his books dealt with problems of sociology and economics. As an apostle of the outdoor life he dwelt more in his later works on the nobility of the production of wealth from the soil.

One of his works which was looked upon as largely autobiographical, Burning Daylight, was published in serial form in The Telegraph.

Other works were: Martin Eden, one of his best; The Call of the Wild, The Sea Wolf, The Little Lady of the Big House, When God Laughs, and The Valley of the Moon.

15 YEARS SUFFERING FROM PILES

MR. J. McEWEN, of Dundas, Ont., writes:—"For fifteen years I suffered with piles, and could get no permanent cure until I tried Zam-Buk. After having given Zam-Buk a fair trial I found I was getting better; and in the end it cured me completely."

WHY ZAM-BUK IS SO SUPERIOR. An eminent scientist said, the other day, that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poisoning.

Then again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. Again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES. For eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, ulcers, sores, abscesses, varicose ulcers, bad leg, cold sores, chapped hands, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases. Zam-Buk is without equal. 50c. box, all druggists. 10c. box, by mail, and stores, or post free, Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse imitations.

BLACK HAND AGAIN THREATENS CARUSO

Tenor, However, Refuses to Endanger Voice by Early Morning Ride in Auto

Enrico Caruso, the Metropolitan Opera House tenor, has not been bothered by Black Hand letter writers since the time, six years ago, when he turned a threatening letter over to the police and two men were arrested as a result, but now they are after him again. It became known recently that he had received a threatening letter about three weeks ago, and when he paid no attention to its demands, it was followed by two or three more in the same hand. The first letter demanded that Caruso get into his automobile and ride to Jamaica, L. I., reaching there about two o'clock in the morning. The route was specified and the letters said that the writers, who professed to know his car well, would stop it at some point in Jamaica. The tenor was told to have ready $10,000, which he was directed to hand out quietly and go on his way.

The letter threatened death if the demands were not followed. It was written in Italian and signed "Be friends," in that language.

"That's too late at night; I won't go," Caruso is supposed to have said when he read the letter and found he was expected to be out at two o'clock in the morning, when the air is cold and damp. He is said to have told his friends that, for the sport of it, he would have kept the appointment—though without the $10,000 in his pocket—if he could have done so in the daytime, without risk to his throat.

Germany Gets None of Belgian Relief

Conditions of Agreement with Neutral Relief Commission respected by Germany

When the Belgian Relief Commission was organized, Britain insisted that Germany guarantee not to touch a particle of the food imported by the Commission for the Belgians. This guarantee, given to the American business men who are the executive heads of the Commission, has been respected—probably because its violation would be reported at once and would rouse the whole neutral world.

Soldiers' Kin to Organize

Dominion-Wide Body Suggested in Toronto

Mass Meeting to be Called to Discuss Plan - Aims of the Society

(Toronto Star)

The proposal to establish a new dominion-wide patriotic organization to be known as the Associated Kin of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, met with the unmistakable approval of the large audience present, when it was broached at the Loew's Theatre recruiting meeting last night.

The idea of the formation of such an organization originated with Gordon Wright of London, Ont., and was introduced at Loew's by Rev. Canon Tucker of that city.

So heartily did the audience fall in with the scheme that a unanimous motion was immediately passed asking Mr. Justice Riddell, who was present on the platform, to call a mass meeting of citizens at an early date to arrange for the definite organization of the association.

Its aims, Canon Tucker explained, were manifold, and the membership, which, of course, was to be limited to those who had kinsmen in any branch of the service, was to personally pledge itself to forwarding them. The members pledge themselves:

To personal, active and continuous effort in every way practicable to secure recruits as long as they are required.

To keep informed as to the conditions under which our men are enlisted, trained and equipped.

To encourage and expedite everything tending towards efficiency in our military and military authorities in correcting any abuses existing within or against the service.

To aid in securing for the forces the best possible conditions for service under all circumstances.

To protect the home interests of every allied member of the forces during his service, by assisting in securing for their dependents proper recognition and employment.

To secure for every returned member or the allied forces such employment as they may be best adapted to and which will best assimilate them into civilian life.

To assist all rightful claimants and the authorities in bringing about the prompt payment of all legitimate pension claims, insurance and patriotic allowances.

To assist in the detection of all fraudulent claims for pensions, insurance and patriotic allowances.

Free From Politics.

Canon Tucker laid particular stress on the fact that the association would be entirely free from political trammels.

He advocated it, he said, because it was only those who had kin at the front who have the war really at heart.

"I know of some recruiting committees that are composed of men who ought to be at the front themselves. How can their work be effective?" he asked.

Explaining his own presence, he told the audience that his own son was at present in England about to be sent to France, and gave a long list of his fellow clergymen, whose families had wholeheartedly answered the call.

The meeting was called to voice a dual appeal—for recruits to the Canadian naval service, and also for fifty men to bring the popular 19th Battalion, Col. J. A. Cooper's "Buffs," up to complete strength before they leave shortly for overseas.

Canon Tucker allied himself with the naval appeal, and urged men to sign up as jaunty "Jack Tars" and have a share in "the highest and most glorious service."

The claims of the "Buffs" found a forceful advocate in Lieut. Haywood, who referred to the discouraging fact recently brought to the attention of the public by The Star, that the daily enlistments failed to keep pace with the daily discharging of medically unfit men, let alone to keep pace with the casualties at the front.

What the fighting men needed most of all, he claimed, was backing up. He persuaded three men to come up from the audience and reduce by that number the reinforcements his unit requires.

Five Volunteers.

Justice Riddell, in accepting "gladly and proudly" the task of launching the proposed association, here thought that if people were banded together in that way with a common end to work for, there would be much less grumbling. He heartily deplored, he said, the habit of continual fault-finding that people were falling into.

The proposed association, he concluded, would work in harmony with other associations, striving towards a similar end, and would not be antagonistic to any existing society.

The meeting's net results, so far as actual recruiting went, was: Army, three volunteers; Navy, two volunteers.

New Tower Hill School

By a majority of sixteen votes the people of Tower Hill and vicinity decided last night to erect a new school building to take the place of the one now standing. The meeting was held in the Tower school on Tower Hill, Dr. W. F. Ellis was chairman. The new building will cost about $25,000 and will be of brick.

Stomach Was Very Bad Much Dizziness and Pain

The Liver Got Out of Order and the Whole System Was Poisoned

When the course of the food through the alimentary canal is impeded by sluggish action of the liver or bowels the food remains undigested, and as a result it ferments.

Mr. Louis Rochon, R. R. No. 11, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "For about seven months my stomach was very bad. I was troubled with dizziness, and had gas on the stomach and awful pains in the right side. The liver seemed to be out of order. I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This treatment seemed to be exactly what I needed, and before the first box was all used I was cured and feeling as well as ever. I also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when feeling weak and suffering from nervous headache, and was soon restored to good health. I am proud of Dr. Chase's medicines, and recommend them above any other." CATHEDRAL HIGH TEA AGAIN DRAWS CROWD

A total of 688 suppers were served at the Cathedral high tea last evening. The crowd in attendance was a record breaking one, and, with the games and amusements at their highest state of efficiency, a most enjoyable evening was spent. About 1,000 people paid admission to the hall last night and it was inspected in every detail. Tonight the tea and sale will be brought to a close and a record attendance is being looked for.

The voting contest for the most popular blue-coat was well patronized last night, and there being only a few votes between them, there will be a big night in this line tonight as the contest closes with the fair. The standing up to the present is: Donahue, 664; McNamee, 592; Caples, 514; Sullivan, 83; O'Neill, 51; Merrick, 17; Fitzpatrick, 15, and Baxter 2.

Thomas Reynolds had the lucky ticket for the heart booth and Miss Margaret O'Neil won the fern.

The ladies in charge of St. Monica's booth last evening were Mrs. A. C. Wilson, convener; Miss Haley, treasurer; Miss M. McCluskey, Mrs. E. J.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

FAMOUS NURSE DEAD

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 22—A cable was received here today from Sir William Osler, of Oxford University, announcing the death of Miss Louise Parsons, trained nurse, who studied under Florence Nightingale, and was one of the founders of Johns Hopkins Hospital. She also attended the University of Maryland Hospital here. Miss Parsons accompanied Lord Wolseley's Egyptian expedition in 1882, and the University of Maryland Hospital here. She also helped Clara H. Barton in the relief work after the Beaufort (S. C.) flood. She also saw service in the Spanish-American war, and also in South Africa.

LOSE $120,000 BET ON WAR.

But Amsterdan Men Had Wager Insured, So Companies Lost Most.

Amsterdam, Nov. 5.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Whether the war would end before October, 1916, was the subject of a $120,000 bet just liquidated here.

The members of the groups concerned were principally stock exchange and commercial men, and the bet was made last year. Both parties had insured their chances of losing by taking out policies, for which 10 per cent. premium was paid, and the risk of these policies was redistributed among various companies.

The winners of the bet had $108,000 to distribute, whilst the losers had to pay $12,000. The main loss fell upon the insurance combination.

"I hate to play poker with Hobbs." "A hard loser, is he?" "No, an easy winner."

Plan Air Trip Across Ocean

British and Norwegian Aviators Will Try Atlantic Flight

Paris, Nov. 22.—Lieut. Commander Kjell Nyegeard of the Norwegian navy, and Captain Hugo Stenstedt of the British navy, will make the first serious attempt since the war began to fly across the Atlantic.

Commander Nyegeard, who is a nephew of the Norwegian minister to France and a well known aviator, is the originator of the undertaking, which has the semi-official backing of the Norwegian government. Until a month ago he was a lieutenant in the French Aerial service, and has been three wounded during the war, the last time when he fell 2,000 metres, alighting in a tree.

Before the war he was an attaché at the Norwegian ministry. He is a personal friend of the Crown Prince of Montenegro, and recently received a decoration from the Montenegrin king. His companion, Captain Stenstedt, distinguished himself on the eve of the war by a record long distance flight of 1,600 kilometres. On June 29 he started from Paris at 1 a. m., flying via Bremen to Stockholm, thirteen hours, on a Maurice Farman biplane.

Scandinavian aviators intend placing an order in America for a Curtiss water triplane, to be constructed after their own design. The machine is to have a wing expansion of 181 feet, a lifting capacity of 4,000 kilos, six driving motors of 160 horse-power each, a seventh generating motor, and an eighth motor to serve for working the motorboat in case of a forced descent in mid-ocean, in which case the wings would be cut away. Although there will be seating capacity for eight persons, only two Scandinavian pilots and a mechanic are to undertake the flight with the aviators. The rest of the passenger space will be used for gasoline storage.

The triplane is to be ready in April for a trial flight. It is intended to start the trans-Atlantic flight from Newfoundland, landing in Ireland, and flying as much as possible by night, which is easier for the two pilots, who, as naval men, are used to steering by the stars. Before attempting to cross the ocean the aviators purpose undertaking a preliminary 800-kilometer flight as a formal test of the machine's power. Commander Nyegeard will be accompanied to America by his wife, formerly Mlle. Forzane, who was a Paris fashion expert for five years, and was married to the Norwegian aviator a year ago.

Huns Cut Tongue From Roumanians

Horrible Practices Exposed—Savage Cruelty Exhibited—Roumanians Excellent Soldiers and Fight Heroically in Passes

London, Nov. 22.—The Bucharest correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, in a despatch dated Nov. 14, says: "During last week I had the opportunity of visiting the Roumanian front-line trenches on the Moldavian and Southern Transylvania fronts. Two days were passed in the neighborhood of the Vulkan pass and Tregujuli front, where the Germans a fortnight ago sustained a temporary defeat."

"North of Tregujuli the Eleventh Bavarian Division was practically annihilated by the Roumanians. It had been sent specially from Kovel on the Russian front, with the Kaiser's telegraphed benediction.

"Much equipment was abandoned when the Bavarians fled toward the frontier, broken and panic-stricken. German military paraphernalia still littered the battlefields. Motor cars, machine guns and field pieces fell trophies to the Roumanians. The German general in the haste of retreat lost his pickelhaube with its gilt spiked top. Judging by the number found on the battlefield, a blank recommendation for the Iron Cross seems to form an essential part of the field kit of every German regimental commander.

Savage Enemy Practices

"The humane treatment by Roumanians of enemy wounded was in marked contrast to the savage cruelty exhibited by the Hungarians when some Roumanians fell into their hands. In one hospital I saw two Roumanians parts of whose tongues had been amputated by their Hungarian captors. "These maltreated soldiers were captured by a patrol, and because they refused to give information of essential importance to the enemy the tips of their tongues were hacked off with sword bayonets. They were then set at liberty. The victims are now recovering from their terrible injuries, though they have lost the power of speech, and it is feared, may be dumb forever. "The Roumanian is a splendid soldier. In the difficult passes of the Carpathians they have held back a powerful and well-organized enemy. "They defended their fatherland with tenacity and heroism. In the trenches, I saw and admired the soldiers who, for over two months, have successfully defied the armed might of the central powers. Practically ever since the beginning of Roumanian hostilities, these men have been fighting night and day with little respite."

An idea of the comparative standing of the different cadet corps throughout the province for the year just closed is given by the following awards in the Strathcona Trust prize, which in New Brunswick stood as follows: No. 360 Cadet Corps, Moncton (N. A. L. Barry, 73rd Regiment, 76 p. c., $50; No. 105 Cadet Corps, Chatham (N. B.), Capt. W. J. Dunsen, 75 p. c., $40; No. 197 Cadet Corps, St. John (N. B.), Col. Sgt. R. PHONOGRAPH PUTS MOVIE ACTORS IN RIGHT MOOD

"Since moving pictures are so dependent on facial expression and the poses and motions of the body in telling a story, directors are eager to employ every means available to put players in to the proper mood. In one motion-picture studio a phonograph is used in this connection, and selections are played on it which suggest and stimulate the emotions appropriate to the scene being presented. The instrument has proven very helpful particularly where actors enter scenes in which the relationship between their parts and the rest of the story is more or less unknown to them. —From the December Popular Mechanic Magazine.

DETECTIVE FINDS MAN; LETTER IS DELIVERED

Detective Thos. Barrett received a letter a few days ago from Mrs. Andrew Bryce, who is at present in Muthill, Perthshire, Scotland, asking that he locate her father, and if successful to hand over to him a letter which she enclosed in the one to the detective. Detective Barrett located the man and mailed the letter to him this morning.

Mrs. Bryce's husband went overseas with a New Brunswick regiment. At that time he and his wife lived in St. John. Following closely after her husband's departure his wife went to her home in Scotland. Pte. Bryce crossed to France to do his bit and in recent heavy fighting he was taken a prisoner and is now in Germany. Mrs. Bryce has heard from him and she said in the letter that he was doing well.

Some years ago Detective Barrett and Pte. Bryce were stone cutters in St. John together.

NO COUNCIL MEETING.

As there was no quorum, the common council did not meet in committee before the commissioners meet in council, and it was thought at city hall this morning that the council will not convene until next Tuesday, with the commissioners' meeting for committee sessions on Monday morning.

GOLD WATCH FOR SOLDIER.

There was a pleasant gathering last evening at the home of Charles Addison, Hawthorne avenue, in honor of his brother, Private Herbert Addison, who is going overseas with the 28th Battalion from No. 8 Field Ambulance Depot. A gold wrist watch was presented to Private Addison on behalf of the gathering. Music, games and dancing helped to make the affair an enjoyable one.

GLAD HE WENT

Private William Ross, of the 26th Battalion in writing to his sister, Miss Helen, of 55 Murray street, says that the country in which he is at present is very beautiful and that he not only likes the climate, but also the work, and adds that he would not have missed the trip over to Europe for a lot. IN TROUBLE AGAIN

John Travis, who has figured in police circles several times, was again arrested last night by Sergeant Journey and Policeman McAnish, on an old commitment. Travis secured his release some time ago on condition that he would keep the peace in future and upon condition that the sentence that was then struck be allowed to stand. The sentence was lifted pending his good conduct. Now the commitment went out against him for acting disorderly and drinking. He will now have to serve out his former sentence.

WIDOW OF SHERIFF REID

On last Tuesday evening Mrs. Amelia Reid, widow of Sheriff Reid, passed away at the home of her son, J. Frank Reid of Gagetown in the seventy-first year of her age. Mrs. Reid, nearly five months ago, suffered a stroke of paralysis and never recovered from the effect. It is with a feeling of deep regret that the community has lost the widow of a death, as, owing to her quiet, beautiful, Christian life she was much esteemed and loved. Mrs. Reid leaves to mourn a loving mother, three sons, James Frank Reid of Gagetown, Wm. C. of New York and Richard R. of Gagetown, and two daughters, Mrs. F. H. Colwell and Mrs. Alexander Duncan of St. John. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Harry Harrison and interment was made in the Methodist burying ground at Gagetown.

MISS BESSIE J. COLLINS

General regret was expressed this morning when it became known that Miss Bessie J. Collins, daughter of I. C. R. Policeman Collins, died at the home of her parents after an illness of five weeks. The young lady was only twenty-one years of age. Up to the time she fell ill she had been matron in the I. C. R. station. Typhoid fever was the cause of her death. She leaves besides her mother and father, four brothers and one sister. The brothers are William, James F., Albert C. and George C., and the sister, Mrs. C. A. Comeau, all of whom reside in the city. The sympathy of the entire community will go out to the bereaved ones. Her death comes just when life stretched out most invitingly before her. She was popular with a large number of friends, and her loss is missed not only from the family circle but also at the depot, where she rendered valuable service in the capacity of matron.

LANCE CORPORAL HAROLD MCKIEL IN TRENCHES AGAIN

In a letter to a friend in this city, Lance-Corporal Harold McKiel writes: "My good times in England are over for the present but I did have a very good time while I was there. After re-joining the battalion, we started on the march to a new part of the line, that is new to us, and on the sixth day of the march we landed in the trenches. The first night we were pretty tired but it was fine, thank goodness, and so we managed very well. It is a quiet spot where we are now, quiet for a place with a war on."

"We have now finished our first trip in this line and we are comfortable in an old house in quite a large French village. That is a peculiar thing about this country; the people all live in villages, with perhaps no houses at all on the road between. The houses generally are built in a clump of trees and whenever you see a bunch of trees, you may be pretty sure there is a village there."

"The mail arrived and caused quite a stir. I was lucky enough to get one of the letters and one of the fellows had a parcel to share with the rest of us, so it was quite a lucky event all together. The weather is getting rather nasty now but our trenches here are much better than where we were last winter and we know how to take care of ourselves much better."

MILK DEALERS MAY RAISE PRICE OF MILK

Meeting Held Last Evening and All Favored Increase to Ten a Quart

Some local milk dealers met in the Palmer building, Princess street, last evening and discussed conditions. They were unanimous in the opinion that the price of milk be advanced to ten cents a quart. There was no definite action taken, owing to the absence of some of the large dealers, so the meeting was adjourned until Friday evening.

The majority contended that owing to the advanced cost of feed and other commodities the price would have to be increased. L. C. Prime, one of the largest dealers in the city, was not at the meeting, and as he was absent from the city today his views on the matter could not be ascertained.

Solid Comfort and Good Looks in a Good Overcoat, or Shabbiness and Shivers Without One--Which?

We believe in the intelligence and common sense of the men who read this.

We have no bait to throw out to them, and in fact we don't believe many men of any account are looking for bait.

We have just two things to offer, and we will back these against the field.

They are our goods and our service. There are more Men's Overcoats in this store today than there have ever been in twenty-eight years of trying to give the men of Saint John a better kind of clothing service.

So far as close inspection can discover, every one of these belongs here by right, the right of good, honest, dependable quality.

We know that the test of them is not in what we say of them, but in what they prove to the experience of the wearers.

In selecting them and in having them made, we kept that fact in mind; and our own minds are now easy, for we know as surely as we write this that at their prices, $10 to $40, these Overcoats are not to be improved upon, and we doubt if, taken as a whole, they are equalled.

We are not less particular about Suits than we are about Overcoats, because we cannot afford to be. Our Suits are marked 10 to $35, and they carry a full measure of value for every penny of their price.

FURNITURE as Christmas Gifts

This winter weather sends our thoughts ahead to the holiday season, and the old question arises: "What shall I give for Christmas? The common-sense answer is Furniture!"

There never was a time in the history of Canada, when wastefulness was in such disfavor as at present, and the natural tendency at the Christmas season will be to make gifts of a practical nature.

For members of your household and your intimate friends, there are sure to be articles of Furniture which will make acceptable gifts and serve as lasting mementos for years to come, while, if you wish to remember your less fortunate neighbors, you will easily find something, usually classed as a necessity, which they lack and which will be received with joy at the season of Good Will.

Our large stock contains every conceivable article to meet every requirement, and you will do well to look it over early.
