Peary Denies Authenticity of Alleged Proof of Discovery of a New Land—Praise for His Party

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The following despatch from Commander Peary was received by the Times yesterday: "Battle Harbor, via Cape Ray, N.B., September 14.—The following is the report of the expedition which I led to the north pole. It was a successful one. I discovered a new land, which I named 'Cape Peary' in honor of the late President Roosevelt. The land is situated in the Arctic region, north of the Canadian coast. It is a large island, about 100 miles long and 50 miles wide. It is covered with snow and ice. The climate is very cold. I was accompanied by five men and a dog. We spent several weeks on the island. I was able to collect a large amount of scientific material. I also discovered a number of new plants and animals. I am proud to have discovered this new land. I hope that it will be the starting point for a new era of exploration and discovery."

(Signed), PEARY. The report to which Commander Peary's message refers is in a despatch contained in the report made by Captain Nielsen of the steamer Tasi, of his meeting with the explorer at Battle Harbor.

Peary said that he discovered a new land nearly 200 miles south of the pole and in proof of it showed a piece of quartz which he asserted was brought from there. He added that there was so much of this mineral there that the explorers informed him that the ground glistened with it, as with glass.

A news despatch from Battle Harbor to the Times says that Commander Peary's appearance is that of a man who has gone through a tremendous strain with high strung nerves but is now in the pink of condition. He feels similar conditions with every hope of again reaching the pole.

He attributes the success of his expedition to the personnel of his party which he says was the finest that ever sailed across the Polar Sea. His improved type of dog sleds aided in his success, together with his magnificent dogs and strong and healthy Eskimos.

The Roosevelt was decorated with the flag yesterday in honor of the birthday of Peary's daughter, Marie, born in the Arctic in 1883. Except for being very kind and no occasion to use any of her spare equipment. All of the members of the party are in good health but feel keenly the death of Professor Marvin.

Representatives Present from Every State in the Union as Well as Hawaii and Wall

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Bankers from every state in the union and representatives of the financial institutions in Cuba and Hawaii joined today in the opening session of the thirty-fifth annual convention of the American Bankers' Association here. The convention was called to order by the president, George M. Reynolds, president of the Commercial and Farmers' Bank, Chicago, in the Auditorium Theatre in the presence of close to 500 delegates.

FUNERAL OF REV. CHARLES COMBEN

Many local clergymen assisted at the funeral service of the late Rev. Charles Comben which was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Centenary church.

At 2:30 fellow clergymen met at his late residence, City Road, and held a prayer service, singing the hymn "Jesus Lover of My Soul," after which they marched in a body behind the remains of their deceased brother.

The Revs. Dr. Flanders, Dr. Wilson and Dr. G. M. Campbell assisted by other local clergymen conducted the service at the church, and spoke in most eloquent terms of the deceased. Centenary choir furnished special music, after which the remains were taken to the Union depot to be forwarded to Woodstock.

Clergymen from outside places who were present to pay their respects, formed a guard of honor, accompanying the body to the train. The funeral carriage was a large and representative one, including clergymen and laymen of other denominations.

The pall bearers except for being the remains at Woodstock and accompany them to the cemetery.

The pall bearers were Rev. Messrs. Jas. Crisp, George Ross, Jacob Heaney, C. W. Squires, Neil McLaughlin and H. D. Marr.

Floral contributions were very handsome, and included wreaths from many of his friends.

Walter Allen, a seven year old boy, has been reported by Policeman Lee for throwing a stone and breaking a plate glass window in E. O. Parsons store, corner of King and Ludlow streets, West End.

Gulph Woman Commits Suicide—Harvesting Practically Over—Record Yield in Alberta.

UNDERWOOD, Ont., Sept. 14.—Donald McPhail, one of the pioneer settlers of Bruce County, was burned to death yesterday in a fire which destroyed his home. He lived alone and when neighbors noticed the house on fire the flames had gained such great headway that they could do nothing to save it. The old man leaves a son in Arcola, Sask., and two daughters in Detroit, Mich.

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—Lord Charles Beresford, who arrived in the city on Sunday night after a trip to Cobalt and an expedition to Timagami, leaves this evening for New York and thence to Mexico. It is said that the Admiral and his secretary, Hon. Dudley Carleton, are purchasing islands in the Georgian Bay and will come to Canada each year during the fishing season.

GUELPH, Ont., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Haugh, wife of Robert Haugh, a grocer, was found in the bathroom of her home unconscious and with a bullet hole in the right temple, and the revolver with which the shot had been fired by her side. She died a few hours later without regaining consciousness. Dependancy due to ill health was the cause of her suicide.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 14.—Harvesting through the west is now practically over and the crop for the west. The yield is even better than expected and there is little doubt but that it is a record crop for the west. The acreage sown is probably the largest average yield of the three provinces. Forty-five bushels of wheat, the acre was reported from a number of districts.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 14.—Father Canning, of Toronto, who has been visiting the west on behalf of the Catholic Extension Society, announces that a chapel car is being fitted out which will travel all over the west to administer to isolated districts.

MAGISTRATE WANTS POWER TO APPLY LASH TO OFFENDERS

ADDRESS PRESENTED TO JUDGE WHITE

His First Session in His Native County

Honored by the Bar and Grand Jury—His Reply—The Docket.

HAMPTON, N. B., Sept. 14.—The September session of the Kings County court opened this morning shortly before twelve o'clock. Mr. Justice White presiding. His Honor spent the week-end at St. Martin's expecting to come out on the train this morning, but an accident occurred on the shore end of the line last night by which traffic was so disarranged as to prevent the train leaving today on schedule time, and Judge White had to drive over the highway road nearly thirty miles. He left at four o'clock in the morning to keep his appointment. The grand jury summoned were—Jas. E. Waddell, E. A. Flewelling, H. V. Dickson, F. C. Hogart, Jas. McCroslin, City Manning, Joe Alexander, Allen Price, D. O. Laughrey, Earl Harmer, Herbert S. Jones, J. Mont. Belyea, Fred Weidman, J. Leonard Steele, Wm. Howard, Harry Hayes, Geo. Ingram, Frank McPherson, Pearl Fairweather, John A. Morris, Geo. Sutfren, E. A. Schofield, R. Hamilton, Winford and Joseph Kennedy, E. A. Schofield was elected foreman. Before the charge to the grand jury, Mr. Geo. W. Fowler, on behalf of the Kings County bar, presented him with an address accompanying it with laudatory remarks upon his Honor's past record and assurance of the loyal support in all that concerns the proper administration of justice as between the bench and the bar.

A. Schofield, foreman of the jury, also presented an address.

His Honor expressed his gratification at the good feeling expressed by the bar and grand jury, and pledged himself to do his best to warrant the high praise accorded to him and to faithfully without fear or favor strive to administer the law so as to make his people. He had hoped on this his first sitting on the bench of Kings County, to receive a pair of white gloves, indicating the entire absence of crime in the county. He briefly reviewed the indictments against three boys for breaking into a car on the I. C. R. at Sussex and stealing therefrom a cheese, part of freight in transportation on July 16th last, in which case seeing the accused had acknowledged their guilt they would have no difficulty in finding a true bill. The petit jurors are—George Hennessey, Jr., Samuel Scribner, Alfred Whippley, T. Fred Wood, James Webster, John Kelly, Patrick Murphy, M. R. Proven, Frank Roach, H. Deforest, John Dalling, Duncan Stockton, Michael Gilroy, George Ryan, A. F. Wetmore, J. D. Seely, James Coates, George H. Barnes, Thomas Bell, John F. Frost, Fred Farnwick.

The grand jury found true bills against Harry McArthur, Lawrence Lynch, and Abram Andrews, junior, three boys accused of breaking into an Intercolonial freight car and stealing cheese. Adjourned till 2 p. m.

BOARD OF CONTROL GETS INTO POLITICS

Aldermen Achieve Petty Revenge Against Hon. Rudolph Lamieux—Bourassa Also Marked.

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—The campaign over the Board of Control for the city has got into the political stage. Hon. Rudolph Lamieux, as a citizen, took the platform in favor of a board and spoke of the graft going on at City Hall as shown in the Commission. This aroused several of the aldermen and they have made a set against him and last night succeeded in getting a special meeting of the Lamieux Club called together, changing the name of the club and ousting Mr. Lamieux from the list of members of the club.

At another meeting in the Jovial quarter the speakers attacked Bourassa, who was intending to run for alderman in St. Lawrence Ward. He was told that if he ran he would be defeated by the Jews who would give him a vote after his utterance in the House at Quebec last session. As there are 25,000 Jews in this ward he may take the warning and not try for aldermanic honors.

ROBERT S. LOVETT SUCCEEDS HARRIMAN

As Head of Executive of Union Pacific—Personal Counsel and a Close Friend—Will Continue His Policy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The stork alighted yesterday on the Babylon, a ferryboat running between Long Island City and East Thirty-fourth St., as the boat was on her way to New York. The woman's cabin, which was crowded with passengers, was suddenly cleared, and the pier was made under full speed. When Dr. Cresce was called from Bellevue Hospital he attended Mrs. William Landon, of No. 138 Second Avenue, Astoria, and announced a girl, weighing six pounds and having excellent lung power.

The Union Pacific still remains without a president as Mr. Harriman occupied this position also. It is understood, however, that an operating man, probably L. E. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, will be elected for the place at the annual meeting of the stockholders to be held on October 12.

Fully five thousand people arrived in Montreal yesterday to attend the celebration, which lasts till Sept. 21.

SHANDON, Man., Sept. 14.—Thos. G. Taylor, working for a farmer near here, has been committed to the insane asylum. He was a Winnipeg motorman and was out on bail until the fall assizes in connection with the killing of two young men on July 26 and the case had so preyed on his mind that finally his reason gave way.

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—Counsel for Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P. for West Peterboro, has given notice of a motion to commit to jail J. H. Burnham, the petitioner, for his unseating. Burnham on re-examination refused to reveal what sums he had paid the detectives who prepared the material on which he based his protest, and Stratton's counsel alleges this in violation of the order made by the judge.

THE LAUGHTER OF LIFE

A NOVEL
AND A VERY INTERESTING ONE.
Copyright 1908 By MARIA ALBANESI

"I am so sorry my uncle cannot dine with us," she said, "he is too much fatigued; but I hope you will meet him tomorrow."
Bertha looked rather wan, as though she were tired.
"You will take in her, Drusilla, you two girls must go in together."
Mrs. Lingfield chose to be unusually amiable to the young man because she had known some people bearing the same name as his own.
"I lost sight of them when my husband and I went to live abroad, and I have often wondered what became of Rosalie Keaton; she was a very pretty woman."
"My mother's name was Rosalie," Brian said, but he spoke quietly, almost uninterestedly.
"A strange coincidence," Mrs. Lingfield turned her well-organized smile on the young man. "And what was your father's name? It would be odd if you should happen to be my old friend's son, Mr. Keaton."
"My father was Richard Keaton, at one time a fairly well-organized literary man; he died comparatively young."
Mrs. Lingfield repeated the name and then uttered an exclamation.
"But, of course, how foolish of me not to remember! Richard Keaton was my husband's name, and he was one of his greatest admirers. And he died young! And your mother?"
"My mother married again many years ago."
Mrs. Lingfield said, "How interesting!" and meant what she said.
"It would give me so much pleasure to meet your dear mother again," she said graciously.
"But the information she naturally expected was not forthcoming."
"No doubt an excellent young man, but absolutely devoid of manners," Mrs. Lingfield said to herself, and for the remainder of the dinner she talked to Lord Carlingford. But while she chattered, her mind was working in an old channel, recalling old things, and all at once there came to her a remembrance which explained much that Brian Keaton had let unasked. "As she was rising from the table she turned again to him.
"Forgive me for reminding you of old things, but was it true that your father was involved in the Spanish war? I remember he was a very good friend of George Spenser, and I always feared he might be sacrificed as so many others did."
"He lost every farthing he had in the world," Brian Keaton said half-heartedly. "It was that which killed him."
"How solemnly!" said Mrs. Lingfield with a sigh. "It was a terrible business." She moved away and passed directly close to the piano and gave herself up to real enjoyment. She did not hear the words on Wednesday morning in one of the gardens by the Great Wheel of Paris. At the end of

FRENCH OFFICERS FIGHT A DUEL

Five Wounds in Twenty Three Minutes
With Army Swords—Described by an Admiring Witness.

Capt. Ange, of the 61st French Infantry at Beauvais, accused a fellow officer, Capt. Gerard, of having spoken as a Socialist meeting. "You lie!" and Gerard, thereupon, Ange slapped his face. Therefore French Army honor prescribed a duel, which was fought with swords on Wednesday morning in one of the gardens by the Great Wheel of Paris. At the end of twenty minutes fighting the combatants were level, with a score of two slight wounds each. In three minutes Gerard pierced Ange's wrist, which began to swell—and the fight was stopped.

But those who were present declare that the fight was splendid. "Capt. Gerard," says an admiring witness, "wears a silk shirt and trousers. Capt. Ange's shirt is of fine linen. The former is muscular and slim, the latter powerfully built, but short-statured, and wears glasses."
"First engagement: The two men watch each other. Capt. Ange attacks. Capt. Gerard hits with the fist. "Second engagement: The foes have changed sides. They watch each other again, then attack rapidly. Capt. Gerard lunges, Capt. Ange catches him in the arm. A scratch. The fight goes on. Third engagement: The fight is animated. The two adversaries fence beautifully. The strokes are precise and straight, but there are no hits."

MAGNETS FOR EYE HOSPITALS.

Many hospitals in England are provided with a special apparatus for extracting iron and steel fragments from the eye. The magnet employed has a core three feet long and six inches in diameter of the best Swedish soft iron. Two hundred pounds of insulated wire are wound in two coils about the core, the ends of the magnet is threaded to suit various conditions. The magnet is mounted on ball bearings, and can be moved in any direction. The strength of the magnet field may be varied at will by means of a rheostat. When used at its maximum power, the magnet carries a pull of 200 pounds per square inch at a distance of an inch. A special type of apparatus is provided for reclining patients. In this case the magnet is mounted on a tripod stand, and is tilted by means of a cable passing over a pulley and operated by a hand crank.

CAMPBELLTON, N. B., Sept. 13.—N. Locker, a Jew, who is managing S. Rosenfeld's store, made an attempt on the life Sunday evening and when he was found this morning was nearly dead. Locker morning the old Masonic Hall building. Usually he has a room-mate, but last night he was alone and about 8 o'clock he took a razor and cut an ugly gash in his throat, partly severing the windpipe. When found by friends this morning he was very weak. He was rushed to the hospital and it is thought tonight that he will recover. The unfortunate young man lost his father some time ago and it is supposed that this worry made him temporarily insane when he committed this rash act.

This showed four convictions during that month. Ald. Loggie declared this report unsatisfactory. Inspector Lawson in his opinion was going from bad to worse. He was not doing his duty, he was only playing at it. He moved that the inspector be discharged. Ald. Gaillivan said this was too abrupt. Why not give him thirty days notice. His salary will have to be paid for this month and the town will therefore be paying two salaries for this work. He moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Carvell, that the matter lay over until the next monthly meeting.

Chief McLeod, however, is working hard on the case. The chickens were valuable leggers.

TO STARTLE THE WORLD WITH NEW AEROPLANE TYPES

New York Engineer Describes Air Turbine and Other Novel Features to be Employed in New Machine

He Is to Build.

"These machines, compared with the flying machines of the future, are the canines of savages alongside the Lullala."

M. Frank Fourrier, once a noted aviator, recently made that striking comment to a friend as he stood looking over the field of "new" machines at Rheims.

In a general way aviators and scientists the world over believe in M. Fourrier's prophecy. They are looking into the future. Many of them are ready at work on air vehicles which will be as great a surprise to the world as were the first performances of the Wright machine.

They are younger and interested in the present types of aeroplanes, but are working out new problems of propulsion and design, which they believe will transcend the flying machine from a competitor of sportsmen into a reliable vehicle for the multitude.

Many American experts are watching very closely the experiments of Mr. H. Faehrmann, of Brooklyn, a practical mechanical engineer, who is associated with one of the largest engineering concerns in this country. Mr. Faehrmann has not only his own ideas, but is entirely along scientific and practical lines, and is now preparing to put his ideas into shape.

He declares that all along inventors have been wasting their energies in the wrong direction. In the construction of aeroplanes, he says, they have started to begin with, he proposes to use a new type of propelling apparatus—a turbine, instead of the present two or four bladed propeller, which he compares with the old style overhauler water wheel.

He will have his turbines in front rather than behind his planes, and will create air currents in the sustaining agency, and by this method will be enabled to lift the machine direct from the ground and go slowly and swiftly, as may be desired. The present type of aeroplane cannot fly in a narrow and much smaller—sustaining—planes, to have an enclosed air for support—a tubular pontoons beneath the structure which may be used for carrying gasoline and for supporting the machine when alighting in the water.

RESISTANCE AND SPEED.

In speaking of the main principles upon which his machine is to be constructed, Mr. Faehrmann said: "Everything in the line of aeroplanes up to the present moment represents the old type of wheel, and its efficiency is so low that it will remain only as a souvenir of a few superfluous things."

"The turbine is the master successor, must soon take away the honors and will become the road breaker in final shape."

"Air has very little weight per cubic foot, but we utilize it as a resistance. Without resistance no one—bird, insect or human—could fly. It is resistance which enables us to keep up in the air certain weights, which will enable us to carry and lift a plane that is a plane of certain size suspended in the air must fall to the earth when freed from its support. Every boy has found that when he moves the plane at a certain velocity, it will take more weight to fall than, and will not fall at all when a certain speed is attained. In fact, it will not only carry its own weight, but will carry a considerably more than that it moved rapidly. The higher the speed the greater the power we require to propel it forward. If properly placed, of course. Every boy has found this simple experiment with small flat stones by throwing them over the surface of the water, and has found to his delight that the stone, though heavier than the water, does not sink, but skids along the surface until the velocity has died away, when it sinks."

"High speed is the fundamental necessity of all aerial navigation, but in order to obtain high velocities we must have propellers of great strength to transmit these enormous strains that come upon them."

"The turbine is the master successor of all steel and of novel construction. The average speed of a propeller today is about four miles a minute; that means a point at the rim will travel at the rate of four miles a minute. I purpose greatly to increase this speed and still have a factor of safety of five in my design."

Mr. Faehrmann declared that it was entirely out of the question to use wood for the most efficient propellers and continued to describe his own design.

"In my machine, which will be called the aeromobile, the propellers will be in front, where undisturbed columns of air which are taken up produce great pressure. To make this clear I refer to the turbines at Niagara Falls. The enormous masses of water coming down the shaft reach the bottom of the shaft under a tremendous pressure, and exert this pressure on a wheel, or wheels, by spinning them around, thereby changing the pressure into velocities. We have here a similar transformation. Instead of the water power we use a motor, which revolves propellers at tremendous speed to produce that pressure directly behind the blades. Again, through a simple arrangement, this pressure is transformed into velocities which will carry certain weights per square foot area. In the first case, we move the plane and have the air standing, and in the second case, by moving the currents—we move the air and have the plane standing. The results are similar. But the advantage is certainly gained that by mechanically produced air currents a machine can be made narrow and long, which gives little resistance to advance, and which can be held under perfect control of the operator, which solves the question of equilibrium and stability."

"In the aeromobile the propellers will be set at a slight incline from the horizontal, thereby making the front of the machine, the rest of the weight being carried by the air currents produced. There will be four working planes, two upper ones, one right hand and one left hand, two lower, one right and one left. By changing velocities from right to left, and if the velocity on the right hand side is greater than on the left hand side the machine must turn to the left, and vice versa. If the velocities under the lower planes are greater than under the upper planes the vessel must rise, and if the velocities are equal it will rise directly from the ground, no starting device being required. Four wheels are used simply for transportation. If we desire to float in the air, the smaller velocities are simply changed into greater ones and the aeromobile rises. So, simply by handling a few levers, we absolutely control where and when and how we desire to navigate. According to theory, the wider and narrower a plane, moving against the air, the more efficient it is with low velocities, but the more troublesome it becomes when we wish to handle it against uncertain and unknown winds.

"I shall use only narrow and long planes, which will require higher velocities than the former ones, but which will be in our favor, as they give little resistance to the advancing machine. At the same time they will control any wind which it may be necessary to contend. The top plane is a safety plane and is required only in case the motor should stop. I consider it a great mistake to have the propellers in the back. We have the best proof of this in the case of the accident which befell the O'Neill Wright and in which Lieutenant Selfridge lost his life. His propellers were in the back and the Wright machine the one propeller would have pulled the machine along instead of upsetting it. Remember that Mr. Wright at that time was in a six mile breeze and that such a wind would have pulled the machine along with the motor. The propellers in the front and six foot long plane. In the aeromobile the safety plane is so far away from the center of gravity that an upsetting is well nigh impossible.

CHANGING OF VELOCITIES.

"The changing of velocities at the will of the operator lies the whole secret of successful navigation. To go fast in an aeroplane is not a difficult feat, but to go slowly is an art should be recognized as such. By making slow speed almost any one may learn to fly without the risk of the old type of aeroplane. It is not to navigate in a wind much stronger than twenty miles an hour, and present types will never be able to do so, prove on that very much. The reason for this is that the aeroplanes as now constructed rest on a disturbed air, instead of columns of air—very well, indeed, in theory, but a heartbreaking failure in practical life, as calm air is very rare."

"Why not imitate the birds, is a question very commonly asked. The birds fly in a natural enough, but the bird has instinct—a gift which we, I am afraid, must always do without. Any one who has to rely upon an engine as motive power our first consideration must be that of equilibrium and stability. There is one way, and only one way, to accomplish this. We must produce air currents mechanically for our use, and rest upon, the same as does the bird. With such generated air currents it does not matter where the planes are, as long as they are near the ground of a above the tree tops, as the currents produced will always be greater than the resistance to the machine. A wind of forty miles an hour is very unusual, and if the air currents produced is to be fifty miles or more then we certainly must be able to go ahead under any circumstances. This is the only correct solution of aerial navigation."

TO BE BUILT OF STEEL.

Mr. Faehrmann proposes to build his aeromobile of steel, with steel frames of novel design and planes of magnesium especially rolled, which, he says, will show a factor of safety of five in a sixty mile wind. He gives much credit to Professor Langley, and says he has contributed more to the aid of inventors in perfecting aerial locomotion than all other scientists who have worked in the realm of aerodynamics.

Patents have been procured on the aeromobile and the new type of air turbine which we propose to use, and he states that he is now at work on a new type of gasoline engine, which he hopes will be better adapted to aerial work than any of the existing models.

"About all that now remains to be solved in this complex aerial problem," he said, "is how to produce an air current that will carry two or four pounds per square foot of area. The solution of this problem we are about to demonstrate in our new machine."

He then referred to an accident which recently happened on the Manhattan bridge, as showing what it was possible to do with artificial air currents. While the men were at work on the structure one of the compressed air couplings burst and the escaping current from a 1-1/2 inch air hose was powerful enough to carry a workman, weighing 160 pounds thirty feet up in the air.

"That shows what force there is in these currents," he said, "and it is very reasonable that, since we have in actual use fans for cupolas which produce a pressure of 150 pounds per square foot, it will be an easy matter to build a fan or propeller for ten or twelve pounds per square foot pressure. That will settle the whole question of practical air travel."

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—The declaration under oath, by Ald. Clearhue, that Mr. Mark Workman, a heavy share holder, had offered him $3,000 to vote for the Montreal Heat and Power Company's contract, caused a sensation before the Royal Commission this afternoon.

The Common Council debated harbor matters for some time yesterday afternoon and ended by recommending to the Harbor Board two courses of action. One is embodied in the agreement the draft of which was presented to the Common Council by Recorder Skinner. The other course is contained in a resolution moved by Ald. Kelly, and passed by the Mayor's Harbor Board consider as a course alternative to that implied by the draft of the agreement that was presented by the Recorder, the proposition to induce the Old Dominion Government to take over the harbor properties on West Side.

BUSINESS WITH THE WEST INDIES

Given Some Attention by Board of Trade

VERY LITTLE DONE—Report of Council Deals With Subsidies—Other Matters

The Board of Trade met yesterday afternoon in regular session, but the attendance was so small that it was deemed wise to adjourn to meet at the call of the chair early next month. Little business was transacted. The summary of business done since the last meeting was reviewed, but was discussed very briefly.

H. B. Schofield spoke of the importance of the visit of the British West Indies trade commission which had been invited to meet in St. John. This port, he said, was in a position to get the West Indian trade if its merchants would make an effort to get it. Every member of the board should try to attend the meeting of the commission, which would be held in St. John.

The following firms were nominated for membership on the board: Charles Robinson, W. A. Munroe, J. C. Mackintosh & Co., Tilley & Fairweather, and Hilyard Brothers. The summary covered six months' work on the part of the council.

Concerning the application of Mr. Giffins, manager of the D. A. R., for an increase in the subsidy of the St. John Digby service the report said nothing had been done.

The Magdalen Islands Steamship Company had been recommended for a $10,000 Federal subsidy for the South Shore route and was in a fair way to receive the provincial grant of $3,000 as well.

The council recommended the greatest publicity concerning the transfer of harbor lots to the C. P. R., and urged that immediate steps be taken in view of the rapid approach of the winter port season, to supply grain shipping facilities for berths 5 and 6.

The report mentioned that booklets advertising the province had been issued by the Dominion government and by the C. P. R., and also mentioned the advertising of the port of St. John which had been done by the board. Concerning the Mexico-Cuba trade the report mentioned the fact that the Elder-Dempster, the Munson and the Boston-Cuban steamship lines would all provide sailings from this port to the countries mentioned, during the coming winter.

The committee on the Tobique Dam had devoted some attention to the provisions of the Tobique Dam bill and would have before it some of the Bill's inspectors to give evidence.

Mention was made of the appointment of W. P. Hattey, M. P. E., and James Pender as delegates to the congress of chambers of commerce of the Empire, which will meet in Sydney, Australia.

The work of the New Industries Committee was touched upon and the importance of New Brunswick taking steps to induce the Dominion government to establish a navy yard in this province was urged.

It was also stated in the report that an invitation had been extended to the commission appointed by the British government to inquire into the means for promoting closer trade relations between Canada and the British West Indies.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—A big commercial deal involving a million and a half was put through when the Toronto firm of A. E. Rae and Co. purchased the Departmental stores business of the Carley Company Limited. The sale included the up-town store and the stock of the up-town and down-town stores.

QUEBEC, Sept. 13.—The Province of Quebec is getting after New Brunswick for taking without license in the Metepedia and Restigouche rivers. L. Cannon, of this city, left today for New Carlisle to represent the Government.

RADIO-AUTOMATIC TORPEDO THE LATEST

Can Go at 20 Knot Speed and Be Steered for 5 Miles

Frenchman's Fearful Marine Instrument
Carries 1,800 Pounds of Explosive—
Operated by Hertzian Waves

PARIS, Sept. 13.—M. Gabet, inventor of the radio-automatic torpedo, made several tests of the torpedo in the Seine last week near Malesherbes Lighthouse, preparatory to the official test to have next month in the open sea. The new torpedo when out of the water has the appearance of two torpedoes, one above the other about six feet apart. The upper section is about twelve feet long. It is merely a float. The lower section is about eighteen feet in length and is much larger in circumference than the upper one. It contains a motor battery of accumulators and an apparatus for the reception of Hertzian waves and at the nose an explosive charge weighing 1,800 pounds. M. Gabet furnished one of the torpedoes with 200 pounds in the ordinary torpedo.

When in the water the apparatus weighs five tons. It sinks to the upper float. This carries two masts four feet high, connected by wires, which receive the Hertzian waves. They are fitted with electric lamps, which light up when the waves reach them, thus serving to the operator that they have been received. The lights are directed aft so as to be invisible from the object toward which the torpedo is moving.

When the torpedo was placed in the Seine Gabet, in a motor boat, which was an apparatus for assisting the Hertzian waves which radiated a miniature piano with ten keys and immediately the motor on the torpedo, which was about twenty yards away, started.

By sending a varying number of waves he moved the rudder to right or left. He turned the torpedo sharply around in its own length and made it come toward him. In fact the control was absolute. The waves caused by passing tugs and steamers did not seem to affect the machine.

M. Gabet told the correspondent of the Sun that he had been working on the invention for seven years. The cost of each torpedo was $8,000, but he would not sell them under $11,000. A speed of twenty knots can be obtained. He calculated at one to thirty chances of interference by Hertzian waves from a warship.

When the test is made at Havre a steel vessel will be present to test this point. M. Gabet placed the torpedo's range of action at about five miles. He is building a small tower at Havre, from which the Hertzian waves will be sent out.

RAISED BUNS

To one pint of raised bread dough add one cup of granulated sugar, one half cup of soft butter, one beaten egg, one-half cup of milk and one-half level teaspoon of soda. When well mixed add enough sifted flour to make of the consistency of bread dough and so that it can be kneaded well. Cover and let raise in a warm place until very light. Then work in one-quarter cup of currants and a half teaspoonful of lemon extract. Make small buns not larger than an egg and set closely in a buttered pan. Let rise very light and bake. Brush the tops with sugar and water when taken from the oven.

ANGEL'S DELIGHT

Mix sliced, seedless cherries, white grapes cut in halves, Maraschino cherries cut in halves, and shredded pineapple with half a cup of powdered sugar, and set aside to cool. At serving time fill sherbet glasses with two or three tablespoonfuls of this mixture, orange water, lemon juice, and two Maraschino cordials and whipped cream, put one or two Maraschino cherries, whole, on top and serve.

CAPT. OSBORN SAYS PEARY CAPABLE OF ANYTHING; COOK A DECENT MAN

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 13.—That Polar polemic could not only generate but maintain unabated such heat as the proof of seeing and hearing to believe, but with Dr. Cook's homebound, and Commander Peary now in touch with the correspondent, comment and criticism lack none today of their previous acuity, and rather gained than lost in volume.

Previous assumption that Commander Peary would have the United States navy solidly behind him was not borne out in a letter from Rear Admiral Schley (retired), made public today by Captain E. S. Osborn, secretary of the Arctic Club of America, of which Dr. Cook is a member. The letter under date of September 11, from Plover Manor, La., reads in part as follows:

"I like Cook's attitude immensely in this unfortunate, unnecessary and unwise controversy. He certainly has been dignified and manly in the stand he has taken in this matter. The letter from the admiral tonight with a lecture on 'Who Discovered the North Pole' found in his possession."

"Dr. Frederick A. Cook," he said, "was for two years my wife's physician. I saw him two or three times a week and we chatted many hours. He was secretary of the Arctic Club while I was chairman of the executive committee. If I have ever known a man of integrity, probity, sincerity and modesty, it is Dr. Cook."

"I have known also the other fellow—knowing him to depart from truth by large margins. A man who will open a cablegram and keep it four days from his superior, a man who could prevent the club from giving a dinner to the Duke of Abruzzi, is capable of other things."

"He has also opened letters addressed to me. One letter opened by him was subscribed 'opened by Peary' and sent to me. When this thing happened a second time I told him that if I was chairman of the executive committee, I would be very energetic with him."

"But as soon as the other claimant got within reach of the wireless," said the captain, he sent despatches to everybody he could think of, but delayed in informing the mother of the unfortunate Marvin, who perished during the expedition.

"Dr. Cook is but an ordinary physician," the speaker continued, "the other being in the navy is supposed to have received the training of a gentleman, yet when Cook heard that Peary had discovered the Pole he congratulated him. When Peary heard of Cook's claim, he wired that the doctor had handed the public a gold brick. Some men dig pits under themselves."

"There is a mystery in the disappearance of Mr. Whitney, who is coming home with Cook's papers. I think, Capt. Osborn continued, "he got on board the Roosevelt, took his letters and left for his own ship, the Jeanie, because of Peary's attitude."

A. P. Tag at Battle Harbor

BATTLE HARBOR, Labrador, Sept. 13.—The Associated Press tug Doctor Thomas arrived here this afternoon. Commander Peary's steamer Roosevelt was found to be in good condition, and will leave Battle Harbor on Thursday or Friday for North Sydney. From that point the steamer will proceed to New York, and it is possible she will take part in the naval parade at the Hudson-Nulton celebration.

No Man's Land—Any Man's Land

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The Temps today, discussing the sovereignty of the North Pole, expresses the opinion that the relative permanence of the ice there might properly raise the question whether this territory comes under the ordinary international rules applying to land and the high seas. The paper insists, however, that exploring expeditions such as Cook's and Peary's cannot give title, and to this end it quotes Calvo to the effect that the acquiring of sovereignty is involved with effective occupation, namely, accompanied or followed by the commencement of administrative organization or commercial and industrial exploitation. A majority of the authorities agree, the paper says, that the simple planting of the flag is not sufficient. It points out that this doctrine was affirmed by the international conference at Berlin in 1884, and that it was applied by the Pope when he acted as mediator between Germany and Spain in 1885 in the dispute regarding the Caroline Islands. The Pontiff held that Spain was obliged to occupy the islands effectively. The same doctrine was applied in the question between Turkey and Italy regarding Massouah hinged upon this point.

It's Up to Peary Again

The Temps also again severely criticizes Commander Peary's "broadcast accusations" against Dr. Cook, as well as his "general grandiloquent attitude" saying in this connection:

"Peary's patriotic declaration about taking possession of the Pole in the name of the President of the United States contrasts strangely with the commercial spirit he displayed in copyrighting the story."

Confirms Cook's Claims

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 13.—Allan Whitford, who was Peary's bowman on the Peary auxiliary steamer Erik in 1906, and again in 1908, admits his quota to the Polar controversy today. On his expedition, he naturally saw much of Peary and knew of Peary's plans. He was also in the Erik in the summer of 1907, when she lay for a week at Sydney alongside the schooner John R. Bradley in which Dr. Cook was starting for the Pole. The Erik that year went to Hudson Bay for the Canadian government. Whitford says that the Cook's expedition, having supplies for at least three years. He confirms Dr. Cook's charge at Copenhagen that Peary's men took Cook's provisions, adding that not only did the crew of the ship take Cook's supplies, but were at Etah, but boats were sent to remove Cook's provisions which were stored there.

DELIBERATELY KILLED HER FATHER-IN-LAW

Harvey Scott, an Old Man, Put Out of Way by Woman Who Said He Abused Her

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Harvey Scott, aged 75, a retired farmer, living at Lot 12, Concession 8, of Nissouri, was shot and instantly killed early this morning. Mrs. Scott, his daughter-in-law, called Dr. Armstrong of Thorndale immediately after the shooting was notified and acting under instructions from Crown Attorney McKillop of London, at once placed the daughter-in-law under arrest. She takes the matter very coolly.

The family consists of Harvey Scott and his wife, who are considered very well to do. His son Wesley also lives on the same farm in a small 34-acre house, and another son, Albert, who is one hundred years old, lives on a farm near St. John's. Wesley Scott was a well-to-do farmer in front of his 75th birthday.

Constable Gurn of Thorndale was notified and acting under instructions from Crown Attorney McKillop of London, at once placed the daughter-in-law under arrest. She takes the matter very coolly.

NORTH POLE MOTOR SUIT NOW ON SALE

New Garment Viewed by Ladies' Tailors

When Worn by Blond Model It Created Enthusiasm—U. L. T. Casts Off Shackles of Paris, Vienna and London

The United Ladies Tailors Association of America assembled yesterday afternoon at the Masonic Temple in West Twenty-third street and announced that it has cast off forever its shackles on London, Paris and Vienna. "Henceforth," said Grand Master Paul with a gesture indicative of all sorts of sartorial magnificence, "our customers—clients I should say—will be distinguished for an elegance, exclusiveness and individuality of attire which hitherto they have not dreamed of."

"And why will this be so?" he demanded.

The U. L. T. A., seeing that the question was rhetorical, thoughtfully refrained from replying, and Mr. Paul answered it himself.

"Every suit they wear," he explained, "will be the product of American brains and American workmanship. Paris! London! Vienna! Forget them! New York has every one of 'em beaten to a dash right now, only the women haven't seen enough to see it. It is our business to make them see it."

He passed emphatically and the U. L. T. A. promptly applauded.

Several things happened at once. Congressman Henry M. Goldie and Mrs. Alexander S. Rosenthal of Brooklyn, mounted the platform the hand struck up the "Star Spangled Banner" and a smaller girl who had been sitting on either side of a tall object wearing a drapery, pulled up the drapery, and the Hon. Mr. Goldie and the Hon. Mrs. Rosenthal smiled upon the U. L. T. A., and the U. L. T. A. gazed rapturously upon the object from which the drapery had fallen.

It was a lovely lady—the kind that doesn't talk—arrayed in the latest thing in the way of a Columbia costume. It was of the princess type, with a pleated flounce, and was composed of thirteen red and white stripes vertically arranged. Forty-six white stars on a blue ground formed the yoke, below which gleamed a golden cascade four inches from wing to wing. That hat was of white felt trimmed with a scarf of the national colors.

Mr. Goldie said that he honored the U. L. T. A. for its noble and patriotic attempt to place America in the proud position it ought to occupy in the world of fashion and that he was sure it would be successful. Judge Rosenthal expressed similar sentiments and again the U. L. T. A. improved the opportunity to make a demonstration of appreciation.

After that it was time to get down to the real business of the day, and every tailor present did his level best to make the persons who were best tailors understand what an original fellow he was.

There was Talbot Nodolman, for instance, who ushered in a tall, slender blond young woman wearing what he described as a north pole motor suit. This suit has no many features that are so altogether different from anything ever seen before on a woman's garment that it took two great big sheets closely typed to set them forth for the lawyer who is going to get them patented. It would be impossible to mention half of them here, but a few of them may be noted briefly and inadequately.

In the first place the coat and skirt are both made of gray and black striped ed diagonal cloth trimmed with red cloth and black leather. The front of the coat is composed of Y shaped pieces of the stripes and disposed that when the wearer sits down the lower part falls over her feet and protects them from the cold. The collar, which is in four pieces, looks very much like an ordinary sailor collar, but when the wearer sits down the pieces fall over her feet and protect them from the cold. The collar, which is in four pieces, looks very much like an ordinary sailor collar, but when the wearer sits down the pieces fall over her feet and protect them from the cold.

The U. L. T. A. exclaimed as with one voice, "Magnificent!" But there was still more for them to wonder at. The blonde obligingly turned back the cuffs of the sleeves and let every one look at the cunning white satin pockets inside. Then she pulled them down and put her right hand in the left cuff and her left hand in the right cuff, and the U. L. T. A. saw at once that the suit was really really become established Russian sailor muffs would be a drag on the market. The stripes and the red cloth pipings and the black kid facings were so mixed up that not a single tailor could guess how the blouse got into that coat, or the skirt either, for that matter, and neither she nor Mr. Nodolman would give the slightest hint. It was generally admitted, however, that nothing could be more suitable for a little jaunt to the pole, or, if but meantime another creator was yearning to know what all the others

WENT ST. JOHN BACK IN THE FOLD

The question of the St. John Board of Trade rectifying the Maritime Board of Trade will be discussed in the near future by W. B. Snowball of Chatham, president of Maritime Board of Trade, and representatives of the local board. On the result of this conference will depend the action of the St. John Board.

At yesterday's meeting of the local board the summary of proceedings of the council mentioned the coming visit of President Snowball and the possibility of the Maritime Board being organized as an independent body, independent of purely sectional interests and not to the detriment of purely sectional interests.

President W. B. Foster at yesterday's meeting commented briefly on Mr. Snowball's visit to this city. Over to the smallness of the attendance here was little discussion on the matter. However, there is no evidence but the members of the local board have changed their views as far as the Maritime Board is concerned. They demand that the board be so organized that it will justify its existence.

thought of his Suffragette Sammie. He hadn't been able to find a blonde, or a brunette either, who was willing to wear it, so he had to display it on a mere lay figure. Even at that the merest tyro could see at a glance that the suit was the most original thing ever invented.

It is made of that quiet looking navy blue material, this is a quiet walking skirt. It has deep hip pockets, and there are inset plaits in the back that carry out the draped effect. As for the middle of the front, that gives it a decidedly divided appearance, and the outward crease on either side just where any man would have his trousers, but so severe as those just described. One of the most popular things shown was the Vampire cape, an alluring affair in silk broadcloth, with a vague suggestion of wings. A Washington member brought up one of those new things, a jacket, but the jacket was a Manhattan member offered a peach that evening, and the jacket was a coat front which in a burst of patriotic fervor he had christened the American Eagle.

But perhaps when all is said and done the palm actually belongs to the member who was bold enough to invent it.

"They are in," he declared stoutly, "I don't know if it is just what you want, but it is pointed proudly to a costume in artichoke green, the curves of fair in silk broadcloth, with a vague suggestion of wings. A Washington member brought up one of those new things, a jacket, but the jacket was a Manhattan member offered a peach that evening, and the jacket was a coat front which in a burst of patriotic fervor he had christened the American Eagle."

THREE ADMITIONS.

Three not of a kind set out to do something for the world and incidental by something for themselves.

"I will break mankind," said the first, and he wrote the verses that went to the hearts of men and touched their souls with heavenly fire. The verses, however, didn't seem to do much for the poet, for he starved to death in an early age and was buried in Potter's field.

"I will instruct mankind," said the second; and he stored the minds of men with the choicest treasures of knowledge. But the professor found that instruction doesn't pay much better than inspiration. He lived poor during his active life, and now, in his old age, he is taking a crust from the Carnegie foundation.

"I will feed mankind," said the third; and he rejoiced the stomachs of men with soups and canned goods and choice meats and wholesome delicatessen articles, surpassing in their excellence and abundance any other man who ever was made a centre, and now owns three counties, two banks, and a legislature.—L. M. H.

MODERN SCIENCE STILL TRIUMPHS.

"Do you believe surgery can ward off old age?"

"Oh, yes. Frequently the patient dies under an operation."

DO NOT BE HUMBLED.

MORE THAN EVER

Diabonolone and diuretic preparations are flooding the market with cheap and worthless preparations designed to be imitations of "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry." Some of these are even labelled "Extract of Wild Strawberry," "Wild Strawberry Compound," etc., in the hope that the public may be deceived and led to purchase them, thinking they are getting the genuine "Dr. Fowler's."

Are you willing to risk your health—perhaps your life, to these no name, no reputation, likely dangerous, so-called bright hues will be stylish for but a short time, and when the novelty wears off, green will in all likelihood become practically the sole fashionable color in this season's millinery.

A notable feature will be the absence of the mushroom shaped hats, the new features being turned up sides and back. The trimmings will be mostly of corded silks and satins. Bugle trimming—bugle pins and cabochone—will also be used extensively.

The dimensions of the hats will not be decreased, but rather increased, while ostrich feathers of good dimensions will adorn the head wear.

There will be more plumage this season than in preceding years. The introduction of novelty shapes of medium size having rather large and high creases, will be another important feature.

Toggles of the puffed Turban character, comprised of velvet and other materials, will also be extensively employed. Prominent and very attractive is the Mousquetaire type of shape, the brim of which curls up boldly on the right side, though without touching the crown. The other side is flat, or slightly raised. Turban effects are popular, whilst deep up-turned backs strike a new note in the season's fashion. Generally speaking, length has taken the place of width in regard to the brims of hats.

Velvet has again come into vogue and promises to be the chief commodity of the season. It is largely used for covering hats, but at present

GUELPH WOMAN, IN POOR HEALTH SHOT HERSELF

GUELPH, Sept. 13.—In an unaccountable condition, with a bullet hole in her right temple and a revolver from which the shot had been fired, by her side, Mrs. Haugh, wife of Robert Haugh, grocer, Glasgow street, was found in the bathroom at her home about 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Medical aid was summoned, but she never recovered consciousness and survived but a short time. She had been in poor health of late.

SHOTS AT STRAY DOG, HITS MAN AND WOMAN

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 13.—After a woman and man had been wounded by a stray shot here today, R. P. Bressinger, a representative of the State Board Live Stock Sanitary Commission, was arrested and held in his own recognizance to await the result of injuries of the woman, whose condition is regarded as serious.

The woman is Mrs. Edward Dunn. She was standing on the steps of her residence on East Main street, when Bressinger shot at a dog that was running the streets without the regulation muzzle, four of the heavy pellets striking her in the breast. The other person wounded is William Cordona. Several shots struck him in the neck. Bressinger shot thirteen dogs.

WHAT LADIES WILL WEAR ON THEIR HEADS THIS YEAR

Tomorrow will mark the millinery opening for the fall and preparations have been made in order that the opening might be an unrivalled success. St. John is now recognized as one of the leading millinery centres.

Brew & Patterson, London House, and also Moore and Saitz, reversible ribbon, and Ottomar for plain and tailored effects being mostly used.

Wings are again to have a full measure of popularity. The large varieties are mostly favored, both in solid and two-tone effects. Offtime the entire trimming of the hat will be of wigs, which are of many and varied shades. Soft fluffy effects are also extremely good.

For the high class trade expensive ostrich mounts are again in evidence. That an effect will be made to bring about for the coming season has voluminous shuffles there is little doubt, though whether it will be successful it is yet difficult to say, as there is no consensus of opinion among Paris milliners.

Napho Soap will not Injure Woolens or Flannels

Flannels and woolens should not be washed in hot or boiling water. Napho is the only soap that properly cleanses such fabrics, and leaves them clean, soft and unshrunken. The powerful dirt dissolving and removing elements of Napho eliminate all necessity of boiling, rubbing, soaking and Wash Day Slavery required by other soaps when washing such fabrics. Napho weighs more and goes further than any other soap. Simply rub lightly with Napho and rinse in cold or lukewarm water.

PROBABLY A LONG TERM FOR JOSEPH DAVID

Released on Suspended Sentence He Robbed Farmer Who Defriended Him—Remanded to Jail.

Joseph David, the young French Canadian who was allowed out on suspended sentence by Judge Forbes for stealing a quantity of clothing from Walter H. Bell, was before the magistrate this morning on another charge of theft. When the young French Canadian got his liberty from the county court it was understood that he would leave the country. The first day from the city he walked out the Marsh Road and sought lodging at James Connell's for the night, and managed to ransack the house and rob the kind people who befriended him. He was arrested yesterday evening at Thomas Barrett's Red Head.

In court he pleaded guilty and desired to be tried by the magistrate. James Connell was the only witness to give evidence this morning and he told of David stopping at his house one night and the next morning while he was in the field and his wife was milking the cows, David ransacked the house and then took his departure.

In remanding David to jail the magistrate told him that all he could get in the police court was about six months, but as he was out on suspended sentence, if proven guilty, he was liable on the other charge to get from two to five years.
