VERY HOT FIGHTING!

Boers Repulsed in a Fight to the North of Kimberley.

Gen. White's Reconnoissance from Lady-Smith Finds Boers in Great Force.

Smith Finds Boers in Great Force.

LADYSMITH, Oct. 29, 7 p. m.— The Boers are gradually closing around Ladysmith. They have mounted two big guns on Tinta Ingoni, 4,500 yards from the British camp. An attack is expected.

Do Great Work With Their Quick Firing Guns.

Arrival of Gen. Sir Redvers-Buller, the Commander-in-Chief-Emperor William's Significant Words-Clasp Hands With Canada.

ON THE WESTERN BORDER. LONDON, Oct. 27 .- During the momentary lull in the fighting in Natal comes news from the western border, which temporarily shifts the scene of chief interest to the beleaguered British force at Kimberley. The sharp struggle there on Tuesday appears to have been the result of a sortie, with the view of breaking the cordon surrounding the place. The British, apparently 500 strong, met seven hundred Boers, and, according to the official and other accounts, routed them after severe fighting, in which the armored trains appear to have done valuable services. The Boers were entrenched seven miles northward, and the British brilliantly carried the enemy's position without serious loss. It is said the Boers twice unfairly used a white flag. Botha, who was among the killed, was a member of the Volksraad and a famous Dutch fighter. He distinguished himself as a marksman at Brenkhorstspruit, when the 94th British regiment was moved down. He afterwards defended a farm house against the British. When he surrendered the farm house, Botha was found with five wounds, bathed in

A FIGHT AT KIMBERLEY. CAPE TOWN, Oct. 26 (ovening).— Official reports from Kimberley, dated Tuesday, state that Col. Scott Turner. with 270 men, proceeded northward to MacFarlane's farm, where they unsaddled their horses. At 9 o'clock a party of Boers was seen on the right flank and was quickly scattered, Col. Scott Turner opening fire on them, and several of the enemy being seen to fall. The enemy moved to a sand hill and opened fire on the British, which was returned. Col. Scott Turner attempted to prevent the Boers advancing against Col. Murray, but was met with a heavy fire from a wall, 600 feet to the left. At 11 o'clock Col. Murray ordered 150 men of the Lancashire regiment to proceed to the north. An armored train is already supporting Col. Scott Turner. At midday Col Murray started also with two field guns and two maxims and seventy mounted men. One of the two British guns opened suddenly upon the Boers. The Boer artillery fire was brisk. Another armored train was held in readiness. At 2 o'clock the second train was sent forward with additional ammunition. The Lancashires behaved splendidly. Commandant Botha and many Boers were killed. The British loss was three killed and 22 wounded. The engagement was a brilliant success for the British forces. VOLUNTEERS FROM MANILA. MANILIA, Oct. 27, 10 p. m.-An informal meeting was held here today of men proposing to proceed to South Africa to fight with the British. Over a hundred Englishmen, Australians and Americans decided to go. They organized a party and believe they can secure two hundred more men. The volunteers include ex-soldiers, frontiersmen, Englishmen familiar with the Transvaal and commercial elerks.

BULUWAYO ADVICES. CAPE TOWN, Oct. 27.-A telegram from Buluwayo, Rhodesia, dated Mon-

"A Boer force is threatening Chief Khama and Chief Linchwe, who are loyal to Great Britain. Khama and Linchwe's country lies at the extreme northwest of the Transvaal and includes Bechuanaland. It seems a gross mistake for the Boers to provoke war among the natives. The probable explanation is that the Boer force intends to destroy the railway to Buluwayo, which runs through Khama's country, and thus prevent any attempt of Col. Plummer's Rhodesian forces to go to the relief of Mafeking. Already there have been stories of a Rhodesian armored train engaging the Boers some distance north of Mafeking.

MANY BOER PRISONERS. LONDON, Oct. 27 .- A special despatch from Pietermaritzburg, Natal, dated Oct. 24, says: "Nine hundred and eighty Boer prisoners arrived here this morning. They include Captains Dewitt, Hamer, Fighlus, Dorrey, Vanlegger and Dottner."

CECIL RHODES CHEERFUL CAPE TOWN, Oct. 27 .- According to further advices from Kimberley, the Boers removed their killed and wounded in carts. No reliable estimate of their losses has been made. Mr. Rhodes rode out and watched the fight. The townspeople, including the women, mounted the trenches, watching eagerly for the return of the troops.

the Boers are reconstructing their plans and that the English are resting but telegrams from Ladysmith at express rates still occupy 48 hours in transmission to London, and therefore t is not impossible that something is happening.

LONDON, Oct. 30.-The position at Ladysmith, without being alarming, is sufficiently dangerous to excite anxiety. Evidently the Boers are trying to repeat their Dundee tactics. Roughly estimated, they have 17,000 men, as against 12,000 British. Gen. White has the better artillery, but his is of lesser range. The delay in the Boer attack is reported to be due to the non arrival of Commandant General Joubert's column. This has given the British a much-needed respite after their recent exertions. Everything, it is now considered. hinges upon Gen. White's resources and judgment. Nothing is known regardthe progress of defensive works

"The enemy began a bombardment of Mafeking at 7.40 a. m. today, at a range of two miles and a half, their battery of three Krupp guns throwing seven bound, nine pound and twelve pound explosive shells. IN MEMORY OF GEN. SYMONS. DRIJBAN, Natal, Oct. 26 (delayed in ransmission)-In reply to an inquiry made by him, General Sir Geo. Stewart White has received the following telegram from Commandant General Joubert: "I must express my sympathy. General Symons, unfortunately, was badly wounded and died. He was buried yesterday. I trust the great God will speedily bring to a close this unfortunate state of affairs, brought about by unscrupulous speculators and capitalists, who went to the Transvaal to obtain wealth, and in order to further their own interests, misled others and brought about this shameful state of warfare over all South Africa, in which so many valuable lives have been and are being sacrificed, as instance General Symons and others. "I express my sympathy to Lady Symens in the loss of her husband." "During the hight of October 22 (Sunday), a fresh position was occu-pied about 7,200 yards from the enemy's guns. News was received at o'clock Monday morning (Oct. 23) of he victory at Elandshagte and a division was moved toward Glencoe unction for the purpose of cutting off he retreating enemy, should they use Glencoe Pass. Two fugutives were captured. "We moved our guns down the ridge to the west of Impati Mountain, and our artillery exchanged with the enemy who brought six guns to bear on the transports. Rain and mist coming on, it was deemed advisable to concentrate on the positions occupied that morning. The movement was completed at noon, the British troops havng marched ten miles."

The column was en route for Ladysmith at 11 o'clock that night, passing through Dundee into the Helpmaakar road without attracting the attention of the Boers. Major Wickham, of the Indian commissariat service, joined the column with 53 wagons from the old camp. Moving eastward, through the Blesbok Pass, Beith was reached, and here the column rested, after which the night march was resumed, and Waschbank river reached the folowing morning at 9 o'clock.

"At 11 o'clock two batteries, two squadrons and all available infantry were moved toward Elandslaagte, in the hope of co-operating with the Ladysmith forces, whose guns could be neard; but as the firing moved in the lirection of the Orange Free State erritory, the troops returned from a six mile tramp in a heavy rain.

CAVALRY CAPTURED BY BOERS. DURBAN, Oct. 28 (delayed in transcission.)-The following official account of the capture of the squadron of the 18th Hussars by the Boers is given by Captain Hardy:

"After the battle at Glencoe, three squadrons of the 18th Hussars, with a Maxim, a company of the Dublin Fusiliers, and a detachment of mounted infantry, Col. Moeller commanding, kept under cover of a ridge north of the camp, and at 6.30 p. m. moved down towards Sandspruit. "On reaching the open, the British force was shelled by the enemy, but without casualties. Col. Moeller ledhis men round Talana Hill, in a southeasterly direction, across Vants Drift road, captured several Boers, and saw the Boer ambulances retiring, Tien, with Squadron B of the Hussars, the Maxim and the mounted infantry, he crossed the railway and approached a strong force of the enemy.

Cape was wounded, three of the detachment were killed, and the horses of Major Greville and Captain Pollock were

"The force finally reformed on a ridge to the north, which was held for some time. While Captain Hardy was attending Lieut. Crum, who had been wounded, Col. Moeller's force retired into a defile, apparently intending to return to camp around Impati mountain, but it was not seen afterwards.

FLOODS BAR THE BOERS. LONDON, Oct. 30.-The Daily Mail publishes the following despatch from Pietermaritzburg, dated Sunday: "Patrols from Ladysmith report that there are four large Boer camps within a radius of ten miles, extending in a semicircle northeast of the town. Evidently the enemy is concentrating all its forces. Gen. Joubert is in supreme command. One Boer laager has a Red Cross tent carefully posted in a conspicuous position.

"The British had several skirmishes with the enemy today. Railway cummunication with Ladysmith is still intact. At Colenso a couple of Basutos wers detected putting boulders on the railway. They confessed that they had done this by order of the Transvaal authorities.

"A war balloon, very small and so light that two men can hold it down easily, and which can ascend 3,000 feet. is now in use, and the full position of the Boer guns has been ascertained. "The heavy rains have flooded Tugela river, which will prove an effectual barrier to any Boer proceeding south-

There 's no fresh news from the western frontier. The miners are still working at Kimberly, where there are provisions enough to last nine months. Ceel Rhodes has mounted and fully equipped a town guard of 400 men at a cost of £1,500.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The special cor-respondent of the Daily Mail at Ladysmith, telegraphing Sunday, describes the arrival of the war balloon there on Saturday. It was welcomed, he said, with wild dances by the Kaffirs, who regard it as a deity. General White and General Hunter both ascended Sunday and thoroughly recompitered the enemy's position.

had hitherto not been given credit. It goes to say: "Their strategy is so well planned that it is impossible to doubt that it is the product of some officer trained in the best European school of war." Then speculating upon the probable intention of the Boers and the possibility that they have been able to bring up reserve batteries from the Transvaal without the knowledge of the British spies, the Standard says: "It is not impossible that we may hear of Sir George White retiring southward, where he could fight at greater advantage." LONDON, Oct. 30.-The war office here has received a despatch which says that General White has fought an engagement, presumably with General Joubert's force, which was pushed back after several hours fighting. The British lost about 100 men and

Boer losses were much greater. Boers were in larger numbers and had better artillery. GENERAL WHITE'S ACCOUNT. General White's despatch, which was dated 4.30 p. m. today, read:

"I employed all the troops here, except the obligatory garrison before the works. I sent a mountain battery, the Royal Irish Fusiliers and the Gloucesters, to take up a position on the hills, to clear my left flank. The force moved at 11 o'clock yesterday evening, and during some night firing the battery mules stampeded with some of the guns, which, however, I hope to recover. "I detailed two brigade divisions of field artillery and five battalions of infantry, aided by cavalry, under General French, to attack a position upon which the enemy yesterday mounted guns. We found this position evacuated, but our force was attacked with considerable vigor by what I believe had many guns and showed in great numbers. Our troops were all in action and we pushed the enemy back several miles, but did not succeed in reaching his laager. Our losses are estimated at between eighty and a hundred, but those of the enemy must have been much greater, the fire of our guns appearing very effective.

"After being in action several hours, withdrew the troops and they returned unmolested to their contonnents. The enemy are in great numbers and their guns range further than our field guns.

"I now have some naval guns, which have temporarily silenced and, I hope, will permanently dominate the enemy's best guns, with which he has been bombarding the town at a range of over six thousand yards."

Lt. Col. Hughes to Go - Montreal Waking Up-Lord Minte's Reply to the Queen's Message-At Quebec.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.-Hon. Dr. Borden, Gen. Hutton, Col. Foster and several officers left for Quebec tonight. Militia orders issued today give the official list of officers of the Canadian contingent as already published, with the exception that Major Biggar, who was offered the position of paymaster, drops out, as his business will not enable him to leave.

Lord Minto sent the following appreciative reply to the Queen's gracious

"The people of Canada received with sincere gratification the message from Her Majesty the Queen conveying her Canada's contribution to the British forces now en route to South Africa. The good wishes expressed by their sovereign for her Canadian troops will inspire them with deep sentiments of loyalty and patriot-ism and with a determination to sustain the reputation that Canadian volunteers have earned in the past history of this part of the empire.' Today's militia orders include the following:

A grant of $20 towards defraying the expense of outfit to be allowed to each nurse, and pay to the amount of $30 will be advanced. The pay of the nurses will be on the British scale from the date of disembarkation in South Africa. The department does not assume any responsibility as regards accommodation or rations for the Y. M. The liberal party here took no cognizance of Mr. Mitchell's death, and only three or four people were at the station to see the remains placed on board the train. Among them was Chief Justice Tuck of St. John, N. B. The liberal associations of Montreal sent no flowers. Mr. Adams of Newcastle, N. B., sent a wreath. Twenty-five men recruited in Mont-

The Prince of Wales Fusiliers, headed by their band, and a large number of members of other city regiments escorted the men to the station, the band playing the usual farewell airs, and the militia marching behind, with the crowd singing We'll Hang Old Kruger and Rule Britannia. At the station there was an immens crowd and a scene of delirious excite

Meanwhile those who were to blame for the fiasco which accompanied the departure of the Montreal corps are becoming aroused to the stameful position in which the city has been placed. A deputation is to be sent to Quebec to give the nen evidence of

COL. DOMVILLE'S CASE.

In the case of Domville v. Klondyke Company, the cross-examination of the plaintiff was resumed Tuesday morn-

The timber limits belonged to the government. The company got some of them. They were five miles each. Seven tenders were put in. That was ecause the government would not sell more than one limit to one person. The tenders were the highest. The names of six other persons were borrowed for the purpose. Among these was Henry Domville, the plaintiff's son. Plaintiff expended money on these limits. The company expended perhaps $24,000 or $25,000 on these limits. Could not say what the expenditures were made through witness. If he were shown the ledger or his accounts he might tell, otherwise not. There was a cable to buy the limits; that is, to tender for them. Was authorized to expend about $8,000. Did expend about $7,000 or $8,000. Erected a mill on these limits. Only erected one, but the law required seven: that is, one on each limit. The mill cost when located about $2,000 or $3,000. It was put on the limit at Caribou crossing, at Tagish. Should think it cut 150,000 feet. Witness appointed Perry as manager of the timber limits. The company was offered two-thirds interest in the limits. The tenders were called for the whole of each limit. The company could not get any interest until they gave a share of the information. Witness cabled company that two-thirds interest was all that was for sale. The limits were now all transferred to the company or held in trust for the company.

There was a local board of the company, having its office at St. John. They were E. J. Howell, Geo. Mc-Avity and witness. C. J. Milligan was secretary. Could not say what the net results of the timber limit operations were. When Capt. McLean built a ship on the coast the payments were small, and witness sent the vouchers to England. Two items appearing in two different accounts were the same. It was a repetition of Milligan's. Milligan had rendered an account. Witess had endorsed the same account himself. Could not say whether it was done under witness's instructions or not. They were virtually one and the same account. Had verified all his own expenditures. Witness did not know whether company had made or lost on the timber limits. Told company that he did not think government would insist on putting one saw mill on each limit. Thought the saw mill cost $2,800 or $2,400 at Seattle. The timber limits were good. Some were poorer than others. of the timber limits, the question was ruled out on the ground to tending to prove defendants' pleas. Witness did know who owned the other third at present and declined to answer. Was sole manager in Canda. Believed the title to the timber limits was in the name of the company. Harry Domville worked for perhaps three or four months for the ompany; that is, on the timber limts. He helped to get the mill over the White Pass. He was under Perry's orders. The company agreed to pay nim afterwards. He got $100 a, month. Phis was as a present. Witness was directed not to employ Harry Domville. Probably he was employed for six months. Met Harry at Lake Bennett on the other side of the White Pass. This was 24th June, 1898. He was then trying to sell boats for the company. He was paid under witness's

After recess the counsel engaged stated that they thought they might be able to effect a settlement. The court accordingly adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock. Several consultations were held between the parties.

Drury v. McLellan. Judgment in Drury v. McLeilan was delivered by Judge McLeod Tuesday morning. In this case the plaintiff, Samuel C. Drury, sued the defendant, Harry R. McLellan, on a contract for about $550 for carpenter work done to the defendant's house on Douglas avenue. The defendant claimed the contract had not been carried out and that the plaintiff was not entitled to his pay until the work was finished. The defendant further claimed that through the negligence of the plaintiff or his servants the water pipes in the house burst, and great damage to his property was done. For this a counter claim amounting to nearly $2,000 was

Judge McLeod yesterday morning came to the conclusion that the contract was not one in which the work should be wholly done before payment, and thought the plaintiff was entitled to pay for what he had done. The judge also held that the plaintiff was not responsible for the bursting of the water pipes, and although the defendant undoubtedly suffered great damage no negligence could be attributed to the plaintiff. A verdict of $536 was ordered to be entered for the plaintiff. tonight staples were plentiful, but Q. C., for the plaintiff, and Wm. Pugs-

JEMSEG.

A Particularly Fine Display of Ladies' Fancy Work-Animals of All Kinds Hardly Up to the Average-The Prize List.

JEMSEG, Queens Co., Oct. 19.-The annual fair of the Cambridge Agricultural society, which was held at its show grounds, Lower Jemseg, on the 17th inst., was in every respect an excellent show. The weather was very ane and warm for the season of the year, so that everybody thoroughly enjoyed the day.

The show of horses, cattle, sheep and swine was hardly up to the average, yet there were good exhibits in these classes. The display of produce was good, considering the unfavorable growing season. Many good samples of grain were shown.

The display of fancy work was one of the best in the history of the society. This department generally is the leading feature of the exhibition, showing that the farmers' wives, and daughters are able to hold their own against all comers.

The judges of horses, cattle, sheep and swine were: John Murray of Cole's island, John Robinson of the Narrows, Isaac Gunter of Grand Lake. Judges of agricultural produce: W. H. White of the Narrows, Abiathar Camp of Lower Jemseg. Judges of classes 2 and 3: Mrs. W. H. White of the Narrows. Mrs. Charles F. Dykeman of Lower Jemseg, Mrs. Abner Sharp of Lower Jemseg. Interesting Debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill.

Hon. Mr. Chamberlian Defends His Action-A Pugnacious Spirit Animating the Legislators.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—During the debate on the second reading of the appropriation bill in the house of commons today, James H. Dalziel, liberal member for the Kirkcaldy district, expressed the opinion that one of the greatest difficulties in arriving at a settlement with President Kruger had been that, rightly or wrongly, the president had believed that Mr. Chamberlain, the British secretary of state for the colonies, and Cecil Rhodes were identical. He added that Mr. Chamberlain had given grounds for this belief by suppressing telegrams, whereupon the colonial secretary tartly intervened, saying: saying:
"I have never suppressed telegrams. I have not got them."
Mr. Chamberlain also denied that he had refused to see Montagu White, the agent of the Transvaal, who, the colonial secretary added, had never applied for an interfew.

The speaker, William Court Gulley, interened at this juncture and declared that all eferences to such matters were out of references to such matters were out of order.

Michael Davitt, Irish nationalist, member for South Mayo, announced that he would resign tomorrow as a protest against the Boer war.

The pugnacious spirit animating the public has reached the legislators. Apart from the diversion created by Mr. Davitt, there was a lively scene in the house between Gavin Brown Clark, radical, ex-agent of the Transvaal, and Mayor Rasch, conservative. Mr. Clark denied Major Rasch's statement that he (Clark) was in the Boer camp at the time of the fight at Majuba Hill, and characterized the assertion as a sample of the misrepresentation now prevailing."

Major Rasch promptly retorted that his statement was made on the authority of Mr. Clark himself who had told him so six years ago, adding that if Mr. Clark again denied the statement, he (the major) would take the first opportunity of repeating the statement to him outside of parliament, when he could take what steps he liked.

Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt, the former liberal leader in the house, said he desired again to call the attention to the provocation of Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary of state for the colonies, during the negotiations the principles observed by all statesmen during the past ten or twenty years.

"There was a time," he explained, "when diplomacy was regarded ag given to states."

by all statesmen during the past ten ex-twenty years.

"There was a time," he explained, "when diplomacy was regarded as given to states-men to enable them to conceal their thoughts. That might fairly be called the 'old diplomacy, which I absolutely and entirely repudiate."

"People," he continued, "were entitled to demand a clear expression of views, and demand a clear expression of views, and there never had been the slightest justification for the statement that President Kruger had been in doubt."

Mr. Chambriain then said: "Our object, methods and determination, were to carry out these objects. It was necessary to impress upon Fresilent Kruger the seriousness of the step he was called upon to take and the consequences which would follow any mistake on his part. It was not desirable to include in an official despatch collateral suggestions and indications of opinion; but semi-official warning was frequently conveyed in a speech. A similar warning was given by Lord Salisbury to the Sultan at the Guild Hall banquet, and I am still absolutely unrepentant.

the Guild Hall banquet, and I am still absolutely unrepentant.

"Respecting today's speeches they are simply a 'rechauffee' of old arguments from Irish members, whose boast is that they are England's enemies, and from the radicals, who in principle oppose the war." Regarding Mr. Davitt, Mr. Chamberlain said he recognized that he had hitherto discussed the matter moderately and sincerely, "and," he added, "I would pay the greatest attention to his arguments if I did not know he would use precisely the same arguments in regard to any British war, which are based on his enmity to England."

lard."

Mr. Chamberlain then said: "What would have been the Irish argument in the Spanish-American war, in which Spain showed herself infinitely less capable of defending herself than the Transvaal?"

Here Wm. Redmond (Parnellite) shouted: "The Transvaal did not blow up your warships." Mr. Chamberlain continued: "The great,

Mr. Chamberlain continued: "The great, almost determining contest between the United States and Spain was fought with out the loss of a single American. We have never denied that the Transvaal was a foeman worthy of our steel. Not only was the disparity between the forces in the Spanish-American war as great as those now engaged, but the contention of the United States and their right of interference arose from the fact that at some distance from their territories there was oppression, not of American citizens, but of another race and people, and that justified the intervention of the United States in the mind of the civilized world, or, at any rate, in the eyes of Englishmen and Irishmen. But we are interfering in behalf of our own people. It is perfectly certain that Mr. Davitt, but for his hatred of England, would sympathize with us as he did with America."

America."

Mr. Cnamberlain then replied to the criti-Mr. Chamberlain then replied to the criti-cism of his not accepting the mediation of Mr. Hofmeyer, the Afrikander leader, point-ing out that while he believed Mr. Hof-meyer to be sincere, yet he could not for-get when President Kruger made "abso-lutely illusory proposals for a settlement." Mr. Hofmeyer was perfectly ready to ac-cept them. President Kruger misled Mr. Hofmeyer in promising him proposals which differed materially from those he really presented.

edness altogether incomprehensible if they desired a settlement. I believe that from first to last President Kruger never intenddesired a settlement. I believe that from first to last President Kruger never intended to give anything approaching equal rights to the white races, or any acknowledgement of British supremacy. Wartherefore, was inevitable. There has been an enormous strain upon us. We are called upon to bring the war to a quick conclusion and send across the sea a force no nation in history ever before sent. This is entirely due to the preparations which nade the Transvaal an armed camp and which not only secured it a defensive position, but enables it to take the offensive against the large force now engaged. Such a strain could not be continued forever. We should have needed a permanent force of 25,000 men in South Africa. Our foreign friends are convinced of it. Yet they are not happy. Such predictions were made before and were even current in the days of Elizabeth. But I am not alarmed. One great Teutonic people cannot hold in subjection another greater Teutonic people, but this has never been our course. It is impossible to pretend that the Dutch at the Cape are crushed by our rule, when they have all the rights Englishmen possess and even, in individual cases, are permitted to talk and write treason. Whatever may be the result of the war and the premature talk of the result of the present war, does anyone imagine that we shall fail to do for others what we claimed for our selves, or refuse equal rights to the Dutch in the Transvaal which they refused us?" (Cheers.)

 TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

By the Women's Christian Temperance Union of St. John.

CONVENTION NOTES.

The annual convention of the N. B Women's Christian Temperance Union will open in Orange hall on Friday evening, Nov. 3rd, when St. John mion will give a reception to the visiting delegates. The convention will last four days, the programme prepared is both excellent and interesting. Among the celebrities to be present are Madam Barakat, the Phenician lecturer, who will speak in the institute on Sunday afternoon, and Mrs. Rutherford, president of the Dominion W. C. T. U. Both are excellent speakers, and a rare treat is in store for those who avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing them. The New Brunswick convention to be closely followed by that of the dominton union, which meets in Halifax from Nov. 10th to 14th.

Among the subjects to come before that body is the matter of "Liquor Selling in the Military Canteen.' During the summer Mrs. Thornley of London, and president of Ontario W. C. T. U., has been collecting facts in regard to the sale of liquor in canteen. These have been forwarded to the minister of militia, but no action has been taken thereon, so that a vigorous agitation of the matter will probably be undertaken. The London News editorially says: "Leaving aside the question of the good or evil arising out of the canteen in the army, the News wishes to reiterate that the regulation and orders governing the Canadian militia were openly and glaringly violated in the district camp of instruction at London last summer, and if Major General Hutton is sincere in his protestations that the offence was committed without his knowledge, he should be sent 'ome' for treatment of his eyes. "The News makes the statement and is prepared to back it up, that every battalion in camp, including the cavalry, had a regularly appointed canteen from which beer was sold openly and without fear of molestation, day and night. The News, fur-ther, is prepared to furnish the names and addresses of several of the men who enjoyed regimental canteen privileges; these privileges were nothing more nor less than the right to sell intoxicating liquor, and they were had for the asking. Again, the sale of beer in the camp was not restricted to soldiers, but civilians were made welcome, and it was by no means an uncommon sight during camp to see a raw young militiaman and a civilian acquaintance going through the interesting performance of getting drunk together. "The establishment of a canteen was regarded by each battalion, apparently, as the most necessary and seriou part of the outing, and the greater number of them-they were rough board structures with shanty roofs were erected by the energetic vendors many days in advance of the arrival of the soldiers. "Every day during the camp, Major General Hutton, accompanied by his staff, rode past these canteens while they were in full swing, with rows of red-coats and civilians standing outside of them drinking beer; and if his powers of observation were not suffi-cient to enable him to see what was going on, then he is not a fit and proper man to command the Canadian militia. The News is in possession of the name and address of one conteen proprietor who boasted of having cleared several hundred dollars as a result of his operations during ten days of camp."

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. The annual meeting of the St. John Agricultural Society was held Thursday. The directors' report gave a summary of the year's work. The treasurer's report showed receipts were $1,192.25; expenditure, $1,179.25, leaving a balance of $12.96.

MEMRAMCOOK, Oct. 17.-The members of the Dorchester Agricultural society have reasons to feel proud of their annual fair, which was their grounds here today. The fair, which surpassed that of last year, was a success from a financial and productive standpoint. The exhibit of stock, dairy and farm produce, and dor manufactures, exceeded that of late years both in quantity and quality. The sports and horse races, although no records were broken, were up to the standard and tended greatly to enliven the enjoyment of the day. The follow-

ST. JOHN, N. B., NOVEMBER 1, 1899.

THE FIRST BATTLE OF LADY-SMITH.

From Tuesday's Dany Sun. Yesterday's engagement is the first of a series of actions which are likely to take place between the British and Boer armies now confronting each other at Ladysmith. General White's attempt to dislodge the enemy does not appear to have been permanently successful, though he drove the Boers in at some points and succeeded, for a time at least, in sliencing their guns. For this last service he was indebted to the timely arrival of a naval corps with heavier artillery than General White had at command . The presence of these reinforcements, the arrival of General Buller, and the approach of the transports which will now be arriving at the rate of two or three each week, must show Joubert that he has no time to lose. If Lady smith is to be taken, which of course is the hope and expectation of the Boers, it must be done quickly. Yet the first day's fighting does not appear to have brought Joubert any nearer to that result. He pounded all day yesterday, and the most that he can claim is that his forces held their own, if even they did so much, It is not enough that General White failed to take and hold an advanced posttion. The British force has no necessity to do more than hold what it has, while the Boers are beaten if they cannot get past Ladysmith. The battle is said to have been undecisive, But at this stage a pattle which is not decisive is a British victory, for the British are now largely outnumbered and in a week or two they will be the superior force. The way is still open West York 2. The London Mail gives between Ladysmith and Durban, and the numbers who were called and who it does not have at that the Free State responded out of twenty-two regi-Boers are making any effort to cut The purpose seems to be rather to destroy him altogether. This hope appears to be shared by the ingenious and imaginative person in Holland to whom the press of last evening was indebted for the despatch announcing that General White, with all his forces had surrendered to General Jouber This despatch was dated from Berlin, and was supposed to have reached there via Holland. General White's march out of Ladysmith was evidently for another purpose than that of handing his sword to Jouhert. The British officers have better uses for

A GOOD MACHINE.

According to the traditions of other days, the British war office should gone into the Transvaal war somewhat unprepared. Ancient precedent would have called for serious blunders and consequent disasters at the beginning of the war, to be retrieved later by brave fighting. These traditions have altogether lost their force. Whatever may be thought by other nations about the merits of the British cause, there is universal expression of admiration in military circles the world over of the workmanlike manner in which the British army has been organized and handled. It is true that when the war began the British force in Africa was greatly inferior to that of the Boers. But if this was a defect at all it was a defect of statesmanship and not a military error. The government did not adopt a menacing or threatening attitude by massing great armies on the Transvaal border in time of peace. The only considerable force sent forward was that to the Natal triangle. This was a purely defensive force and was smaller than that which the Boers had assembled on the neighboring frontier. This corps has met the whole force of the Boer rush into Natal, and has held the enemy in check not far from the frontier, defeating the Boers in three severe battles, though not without serious loss. There is reason to hope that the invaders will not get much farther into British territory before the reinforcements now on the way to resist them airive at the front.

But it is not the work in the fighting line that the foreign military men provide for the payment of a sum of admire. Everybody knew that British soldiers could fight. It was not so well known that the army organiza- ently thought the matter not worthy tion was so good as it proves to be, of notice, until Sir Charles, through The ease and regularity with which detachment after detachment has been assembled, equipped and embark- ernment agreed that this was an exed is a surprise abroad and a satis- cellent thing, and humbly following faction at home. Everything has the example, proceeded to insure the gone as smoothly as a dress parade.

After the periodical alarm cry which we have been accustomed to hear about the unfitness of the English soldier at home for service abroad, about the impossibility of rapid mobilization, about the unpractical tendencies of the war office, the people wake up to find that the British war machine is no less effective than the British soldier. The splendid tribute paid by the United States press is of value coming from a country which has learned within a year or two what it means to get ready for war even with a weak nation. An example of rapid organization was mentioned the other day by Lord Onslow at the Guilford Corporation banquet. Lord Onslow was speaking for the India department, and said: 'Those who are responsible for her majesty's Indian empire have not been behind hand in helping to provide for the safety of other parts of the empire. Early last month we naturally inquired, in view of the troubles which appeared to be before us, what possibilities there were of drawing troops from India. We were told that the Indian government would be able to send 5,000 men at ten days' notice, to arrive within four or five weeks on the East Coast of South Africa. On Sept. 8 orders were issued from the government at home that that force must leave forthwith, and within eight days the first transport salled, and within five weeks the last transport arrived at Durban with her troops."

The descatch of troops from London Southampton and Gibraltar has also been accomplished on time or within and so far each detachment has mustered to the full effective strength that was expected.

The response to the call on the army eserve shows that the soldiers are nore than willing to return to the colors. According to the returns made up some ten days ago, the war office got more men than were expected. Some of the reservists were a way from the place of muster, and hastened across sea and land to rejoin their regiments. Of the Connaught Rangers, numbering 328, the East Surrey Regiment, 650, the Black Watch, 442, and the Royal Welsh, 476, every man appeared to answer to missing from the 470 reservises of the Coldstreamers, only 15 of the 1320 Greadiers; the Scots Guards were short only 5 men out of 511, the 6th Dragoons were only 2 men short; of the Somer sets but 1 man was wanting, of the Royal Scots 2, of the Argyle Highlanlers 7, of the Gordon Highlanders 2, of the Scots Fusiliers 4, of the Scots Greys 1 of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers .. From this it would appear ments. that out of 11,000 men who were summoned from all parts of the country and even outside the kingdoms, not more than 200 had failed to return to the colors, and the few absent men were still coming in.

THE MINISTERS AT SCHOOL.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was described some time ago as "half a Bourbon." The Bourbon was supposed to learn nothing and forget nothing. Sir Wilfrid was said to be a statesman who learned nothing and forgot everything It must now be granted, however, that of late the premier has been a fairly good student.

Three weeks and Sir Wilfrid said that after deep study he had learned that the government had no power to send a corps to Africa. In the first place there was no authority to use the militia except for the defence of Canada. Secondly, it was impossible for the government to spend money for this enterprise without a vote of parliament.

Sir Charles Tupper told Sir Wilfrid that he was wrong, and assured him that it was not only the right, but the duty of the government to take such action as had been taken by the Australian colonies. Sir Wilfrid replied at once that he could not accept the view of Sir Charles Tupper.

Then he thought the matter over for a few days more. He concluded that Sir Charles Tupper was right, and acted accordingly.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier at first declined to do more than transmit to the Home Government the application of those who desired to serve in South Africa. Mr. Tarte declared that the government would go no farther. He wanted to know what Canada had to do with the Transvaal, Mr. Foster told Mr. Tarte that Canada had much to do with Africa and would have more, and that the ministers would not be able to resist the loyalty of the Canadian people. Sir Wilfrid reflected, end is now fitting out a regiment at considerable expense, just as Mr.

Foster said he would have to do. Sir Charles Tupper suggested to the premier that the sacrifice to be made by volunteers would be made easier if an arrangement were effected to money to their relatives in case they fell, or to themselves if they were incapacitated. The government apparthe generosity of a friend, was able to provide such insurance to the extent of a million dollars. Then the govlives of the volunteers against all risks during their absence. The pre-nier apparently discovered that mor things can be done without a vote than he dreamed of three weeks ago. So through the forethought of Sin Charles Tupper, the generosity of his friend, and the docility of the premier and his colleagues, the volun-teers have double insurance instead of

So much the premier and has col eagues have learned in three weeks But they cannot go to the head of the class yet. Before they are graded they must give up their idea that the Canadian corps is to be paid while in Africa by the taxpayers of Great Britain. Mr. Tarte and his subordinate must also abandon the idea that the volunteers are to get only a shilling a These lessons are yet to be learned. At the present rate of progress the ministers should accomplish the task in some ten days more.

GRANT ALLEN.

With the possible exception of Gilbert Parker, Grant Allen, whose death was announced yesterday, was probably the most distinguished of contemporary writers born in Canada. Ten years ago he was better known as a naturalist and as a philosopher of the evolutionary school than as a nevelist. His expositions of the Darwin ian theory are regarded as among most fascinating and romantic reading of their kind, while his early novels, though sufficiently absorbing as stories, are serious psychological and evolutionary studies. "What's Bred in the Bone" and "The Tents of Shem" were striking but not startling works of fiction. The shock came with "The Woman Who Did," published four years ago. This was a book with social purpose, whose teaching appears to be that marriage is or should be a of either party. Grant Allen has been anathema in orthodox reading circles since he published this book. Among Mr. Crant Allen's writings other than iction are his "Life of Darwin," "Physiological Aesthetics." "The Colo of Flowers." "Vignettes from Nature." and "Flowers and Their Pedigrees He was a native of Kingston, Ontarie, and there his father, a retired clergy man and man of letters, still lives Grant Allen was born in 1848. He geeived his preliminary education this country, but was a student of Oxford, where he won great distinction, taking his degree in 1871. He has never lived in this country since, but after an engagement in educational work in Jamaica, returned to England and devoted himself to literary work. We find twenty-five titles in an incomplete list of his works given by one au thority.

The Chatham Advance explains that Mr. Foster was never much of a statesman or much of a leader. A3cording to the Advance, Mr. Foster, in his recent speeches, "assumed that people would not remember how useless elfish and narrow he was as a Ne leader. As the Advance supported Mr. Foster in office it would be interesting to know how "narrow, selfish and useless!' a man in office would have to be before the Advance would refuse to support him. Mr. Blair is a minister and Mr. Foster is not. Mr. Blair is therefore great, while Mr. Foster is small. Five years ago both were in office and the Advance eulogized both. When Mr. Blair goes out and Mr. Foster goes in the Advance will conclude that Mr. Foster s a statesman and Mr. Blair as idiot. The Advance gives all govern ments a hearty support and requests a like return.

THE FORWARD MOVEMENT.

The despatch of troops from Great Britain for Africa goes forward regularly and methodically. The sailings for this week were to have been the Kildonan Castle from Southampton with two battalions, a stationary hospital, a R. E. regiment staff, a pontoon troop, and a balloon section; the Servia from Liverpool, with one battalion, one company of another regiment, a bearer company and a stationary hospital; the Catalonia from Liverpool, with the 5th brigade staff, one battalion, and a bearer company. At the end of this week no less than 29 transports will have left England with the army corps.

Lord Farrer is dead. He is the gentleman who gave Sir Wilfrid Laurier the Cobden Club medal as a reward for refusing to give a tariff preference to Great Britain. Lord Farrer in presenting the medal declared that it would have been withheld if the Canadian preferential tariff had not offered to foreign countries the same preference as was given to Great Britain. Afterward the preference was made imperial, but Sir Wilfrid held on to the medal.

The Canadian contingent is now on the way to South Africa. Nearly all the ministers saw the soldiers off, and the premier told them that it was the duty of Canada to take a share in this campaign. This is not exactly what the premier said three weeks ago, but it is true. The despatch of this Canadian corps is a conclusive answer to Mr. Tarte's famous question. It shows very clearly what we have to do with

QUEBEC, Oct. 30,-The day fixed for embarkation for South Africa of the Second Royal Canadian Regiment was an exceptionally fine one, and gave ample opportunity for extending to the departing soldiers an ovation such as has never been witnessed in this historic city. Early in the morning the city presented a more than usually stirring appearance. Military uniforms were conspicuous everywhere in the streets, which soon be came filled with an ever increasing crowd gathering for the final parad on the Eplanande and the presen of the city's address to the troops by the mayor. The trains as they arrived. well freighted with excursionists Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal herbrooke, etc., added to the already large number of visitors in the town and the hotels and boarding houses were filled to overflowing. Flags were flying from the public offices and buildings, arches had been erected over the route by which the troops were to leave, banners and streamers and bunting of every description were stretched across the streets, or were faunted from stores and private dwellings, and a large number of estabishments were closed. The route was carefully prepared with the idea of afording the fullest opportunity possible to witness the march, and to give farewell cheers and words of encouragement to the gallant men on whose shoulders the honor of the dom nion so securely rests. Today Quebec and the dominion has had but one tongue and one heart, and the whole country is a unit in its pride and patriotic fervor; the whole dominion is one in its good wishes for the succes and glory of our men now going out for the first time to battle for the mpire in foreign lands. The whole dominion is one in its prayers for their safe return, and in its sympathy with the anxious women who are giv ing of their dearest and best und many bitter tears, it may be in but ungrudgingly and with proud hearts.

Never since Montcalm marched ou o meet a soldier's death on the plains of Abraham has Quebec beer so stirred with martial ardor and with mingled hopes and fears, as today. I Never sion to be proud of her sons, the heirs of the two nations that were such bitter rivals, who are brothers-in-arms, marching forth to sustain the honor of a country which belongs to neither of the old rivals, and yet to both.

was carried out without alteration The contingent mustered on the Esplanade shortly before 11 a. m.. and half an hour later was inspected in companies by Major General Hutton. At noon His Excellency Lord Minto arrived, accompanied by Lt. Col. Evanturel, A. D. C., Cols. Otter, Foster, Stone, White, D. S. O., and Wilson and by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Mr Fielding, Borden, Dobell, Fitzpatrick and Sutherland. The regiment was then drawn up in companies, forming three sides of a square, and his excel drawn up in companies, forming lency inspected it. They were in marching order and made a magnificent the inspection the local bands, includ ing the pipers of the Fifth Royal Scots. played patriotic airs, and at the conclusion, speeches were made by Lord Minto. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Major General Hutton, after which the review address was read by His Worship Mayor Parent, and briefly and fittingly responded to by Col. Otter. The crowd gathered to witness the ceremony was a very large one and was confined within limits and prevented from trespassing on the space reserved for the troops by a cordon of the local volunteers. Most of the members of the city council were present, and the grand stand, which had been erected on the Esplanada, has filled with the elite of Quebec society. Shortly before one p. m. the march to the place of embarkation began Thousands of people were congregated all along the line of march, and the troops were received with cheers as they proceeded on their way to the Sardinian, which was moored at the Allan wharf. The sight of the men boarding the vessel was viewed by great multitudes collected on the ter-race and other points of vantage. The decorations were general throughout the route of march, and on St. Joseph street hundreds of flags floated to the breeze. Messrs. Ren frew & Co. made a very pretty display, while the arch on Fabrique street was much admired

Shortly after 4 p.m., when the military and baggage were all placed safely or board, amidst deafening applause from the terrace and along the river front, booming of cannon from the citadel, rockets from the vessels, and the playing of patriotic and other airs by the bands, the steamer moved out from the wharf and started on her long voyage with the soldier sons of Canada

Your correspondent was on board the steamer Frontenac, kindly engaged by Messrs. Allan to take a private party a few miles down river in company with the Sardinian.

There were several St. John people on the steamer, including Colonel Mc Lean, Colonel Jones and wife, Captain Baxter and S. A. Jones. The scene along the harbor front as the Sardin ian and the accompanying fleet passed along was one that never will be forgotten by those who witnessed it. the empire. It was a worthy tribute to Canada's worthy sons, and one that the boys heartily appreciated.

At the very stern of the steamer Colorel Sam Hughes occupied a pro-minent place, being conspicuous inasmuch as he was one of but two or three who did not wear a uniform. Col. Hughes told the Sun correspondent that he had permission to be attached to a British regiment. There was considerable speculation up to the very last as to whether the colonel would be allowed to go or not.

On the wharf while the men were going on board, some very amusing scenes occurred, proving that the sol diers were in the best of spirits. One of the bands stationed close to company G struck up "At a Georgia Camp Meeting," and some of the men of the company executed a first class cake To a man they express themselves well pleased with their surroundings, and are in splendid shape In this connection I may mention that an old soldier, an officer who has seen considerable service, remarked the regiment was as fine a body of men as he ever looked at, and that company G was the banner one of the While going down river on the steamer the men of company G recognized Col. McLean, Col. Jones and Capt. Baxter and gave them three rousing cheers for St. John, which were given by the company on Frontenae with right good will. The 62nd of St. John have the honor of contributing more men to the contingent than any other Canadian regiment. Lt. F. C. Jones has been given sentorlty over Lieut. Kave Conspicuous on the deck of the teamer were the lour nurses. They were attired in khaki, with a red cross on the hat. They were cheered almost continuously. The men have not yet received their khaki uniforms, but have been provided with rifle forms. Their service suits will be eiven out on shipboard. All the cabinet ministers took part in the farewell today except Hon. Israel Tarte and Hon. Mr. Scott. Canada Needs Greatly Improved Service With Jamaica.

Signed the Elder-Dempster Contract - Pri vate Postal Cards - Insurance For Transvaal Volunteers

OTTAWA. Oct. 29.-The departmen of trade and commerce has received a report from G. E. Burke, assistant commercial agent in Jamaica. He calls attention to the present steam ship service between Canada and "the colony, and urges, in view of the fact that the contract for the service is rearly at an end, it should be greatly improved. He says that on some lines of freight the present rates are almost prohibitory. He believes that the colony would contribute equally with Canada to a good service. Mr. Burke mentions the fact that the legislative council has made financial provision for the establishment of the West Indian commercial agency in Canada. He also administers a sharp nal officer of the army, who died reproof to Canadian houses for ne-arout ten years ago, and is a sister of glecting to respond promptly to correspondence from Jamaica.

Mr. Sinclair, of the Elder-Dempster line, was in town on Saturday, and with Sir Richard Cartwright, signed the contract for the Atlantic mail service for one year, dating from close of navigaion on the St. Lawrence. The British Columbia contingent had splendid reception passing through

LORD ROSEBERY

Looks upon the War as the Effort of Community to "Put Back the Clock."

LONDON, Oct. 27.-Lord Rosebery in a speech at a private dinner of politicians Wednesday referred to the war and heavy loss of life, saying they had had to deplore the death of Gen. Symons, and before they sheathed the sword there would be many more such losses. In his opinion the Transvaal was not a complicated question, but merely the effort of a community to "put back the clock." Referring to Majuba Hill, Lord Rosebery said Mr. Gladstone's action was determined by the belief that the power of Great Britain was so great she could afford to do things other nations could not afford to do without risk. The Boers regarded Mr. Gladstone's magnanim-ity as a proof of weakness upon which they could encroach. Dwelling upon the unfriendliness of the foreign press and of the American public opinion,

Lord Rosebery said:
"This is no little war. There are ations watching with eagerness every trip, every stumble, and, much more, every catastrophe and disaster that may overtake your arms. War waged under these conditions, therefore, is not 'little war.'

"I do not know why we should attract so much ill-feeling. There is one simple test that will apply to the British Empire as compared with other mpires who watch her with so much I wen't say malevolence, but candid feeling. (Laughter.) We would be only too glad at the present moment to strike a bargain with the rest of the world that every frontier should remain as now.

"Of what other empire can that be said? Yet we, who are not trying to gain but to maintain empire, we who, in the best and highest sense, are the most conservative force in the world, are the object of the concealed dislike of governments who, I think, are less single-minded than ourselves."

Lord Rossbery, in an impassioned peroration, calling upon the nation to maintain a united front, after speaking of Great Britain as "this lonely island in the northern seas viewed with such jealousy, such hostility, such jarred ambition by the great empires of the world, who count their armies with embattled millions," concluded amid stormy applause with Shakespeare's

If England to herself remain but true: Rear Admiral Charles Beresford speaking at Glasgow today against Lord Rosebery's candidature for the rectorship of the university, said he admired the earl's character and brilliancy out opposed him as a politician. PET DOGS KILLED AT ST. MAR-

A St. Martins correspondent writes: Considerable excitement prevailed last week when it became known that a number of pet dogs belonging to several families in the village had suddenly disappeared, never to return. The children, who were so fond of these animals, can hardly be consoled It is generally supposed that some in-dividual shot, killed and secretly disosed of them, as no trace of bodies can be found.

The train still continues to arrive faily from Hampton, and it is hoped the management will be able to continue the service through the winter

SCENE OF NATAL BATTLES. Natal, the scene of the most important battles of the Boer war, is a mountainous country, not easily ac- ony, having a population of 25,000. the problem of sea transport is complicated by the magnificent distances which it is necessary to cover.

It is approximately 6,000 miles from Southampton to Cape Town, and from Cape Town to Durban is about 800 miles. Moreover, in orer to reach Durban British troops embarked at Bombay in India must travel 3,550 miles. Durban, which is described as a most attractive place of residence, has a population of about 40,000 and is distant seventy miles from Pieterreached by railroad running almost directly west from the coast, and is the next considerable town of the colcessible by land and so situated with the rise is 2,218 feet, and as the road In the short run of seventy miles pererates the interior the elevations ere still greater. Ladysmith, the headquarters of General White, the British commander, is 119 miles be-yard Pietermaritzburg and 3,284 feet above sea level. It is a small place of only 4,500 inhabitants, but is an important function. One railroad line branches out here for the Transvaal on the north, another for the Free State on the west. In both directions, there is more mountain climbing. Harrismith, just over the Free State bor-maritzburg, the capital. This city is feet. To the south is Mount Tintwa, 7,500 feet, near which is Tintwa Pass. From these places and the passes further north the Free State burghers may advance so as to inclose Ladysmith on three sides.

On the other road toward the Transvaal are Elandslaagte, Waschbank and Glencoe, all centers of recent operations, and Dundee, where the first battle was fought, is about five miles east of Glencoe on a spur. The entire distance from Ladysmith to Glercoe is forty-two miles by rail, and the height of the latter place above sea level is 4,303 feet, a rise of 1,019 feet above Ladysmith.

Elandslaagte, battle of Oct. 21, is from Waschbank to Glencoe is about ten miles. Ladysmith is at all times open to an attack from the Free State. Apparently Glencoe is a better strategical point that Dundee, since it is some 200 feet higher. From this place coward there is not a uniform rise, but the greatest elevations are found in the mountain passes to the Trans-vaal some seventy miles beyond.

It is clear from this survey that the British have a very difficult position to hold. Numbers, the country, the transportation problem, have all been against them, and in building up an army they have been compelled to rely. almost entirely on outside sources. approximately eighteen miles beyond The ordinary defenses of the colony Ladysmith; Waschbank, where a corsists of mounted police numbering der, has an elevation of 5,250 feet, Van Bridge is said to have been destroyed, only 490 Europeans and a volunteer is about fourteen miles further, and force of 1,391.

QUEENSTOWN, N. B.

Annual Exhibition of the Queens Central Agricultural Society.

QUEENSTOWN, N. B., Oct. 19.—This has been a gala day on the grounds of the society. Everybody was happy. The very finest of October weather greeted the visitors and contributed largely to the enjoyment of all. Residents of the parishes of Gagetown, Cambridge, Wickham, Hampstead and Petersville in goodly numbers came to see the show and renew old acquaintanceship. An old custom of the society (and, by the way, r very thoughtful one, too,) is that of providing well filled taskets for the dinner hour. The adjournment of the judges for dinner is the signal when a general stampede is made for a true picnic luncheon, served with hot tea and coffee, in which all are invited to join. The writer confesses to a liking for that sort of thing and enjoys it hugely, it may possibly be that it being Thanksgiving lay, was an important factor to its keen and hearty enjoyment. But such is life, and a comfortable meal adds much to its pleasure.

keen and hearty enjoyment. But such is slife, and a comfortable meal adds much to use pleasure.

The secretary's books showed an entry of 123 horned cattle, 45 horses, 35 sheep, 20 awine, and 30 entries of poultry.

On butter and cheese, agricultural products, fruit, etc.—Fred McDonald, Mr. Nevers and Mr. Allingham. Fancy work.—Mr. Stewart, Mrs. S. L. Peters and Mrs. Fred McDonald

At the close of the exhibition the deputy commissioner of agriculture made a short address, in which he stated that the object of his visit was to secure samples of appless for the Paris exposition. He was delighted with the show of fruit, and knew that it could not be excelled in the province, and he was glad to say that he had been successful in securing what he dedesired. He complimented the society on its excellent exhibit.

The president made a few closing remarks, and invited all to join in the national anthem and cheers for our Queen, which were enthusiastically given.

AN I. C. R. CIRCULAR.

Firemen Required to Clean Their Engines After Bringing Them In. (Moncton Times.) Below will be found a copy of the circular recently issued to locomotive firemen by the mechanical superin-tendent of the I. C. R.:

firemen by the mechanical superintendent of the I. C. R.:

Dear Sir—The appearance of most of our engines is a disgrace to any road, and are such that the foreman, mechanical superintendent, and everybody who is responsible for locomotives, ought to be ashamed of, and I am determined to make an effort to see that engines are kept in decent shape. I have never seen engines on any road as dirty as ours, and the greatest trouble is that the firemen do not attempt to clean their engines or do the work which they are expected to do.

This is therefore my instructions, that in future the firemen keep their cabs, fittings, smoke arch, smoke stack, and all above the running board clean and in good condition, and you must see that this is done, appointing a man if it is accessary for the present, to examine and report the engines.

I will give the men one month from date in which to get their engines into fair shape, and after that the firemen must keep the eligine clean, or if they have too much to do, patting in too much time, drawing too much pay, they can put some one on to keep them clean for them, and any engine found to be dirty after that date, you will rlease fine the fireman who may be on her at the time, 50 cents. This system of fines will be continued until we feel that it is of no use talking to a man any further, and then suspension with lost seniority will take place. It is, as I raid before, a disgrace that the engines should be looking as they are, as this is a government railway and the appearance of engines reflects on the whole government; and besides, it is a bad thing for the men that they should be allowed to get their engines in such a dirty shape. They will never become good firomen or good drivers when they are allowed to do things in such a slip shod way.

The drivers when the not report dirty engines must also be noted and held accountable.

Yours truly,

G. R. JOUGHINS, Mechanical Superintendent I. C. R.

Moncton, N. B., Oct. 10th, '99. It is said the trip from Springhill to Moncton, with the heavy Doukhobor engines, frequently consumes 15 hours, and to do the work specified in this circular means two or three hours ex-tra labor on arrival at destination. The work is very heavy, and the men think the extra work imposed on them a great injustice. The intimation that the men may be "drawing too much pay," and if unequal physically to the work of cleaning their engines after their runs, may hire it done, is an un-called for stur upon a class of men who are required to work hard for every dollar they receive and run a good deal of risk of life and limb. Mr. Blair is able to increase the salary of his mechanical superintendent by more than double the amount of the total earnings of the average fireman, and the condition of the latter is made harder instead of being ameliorated. This is hardly what was expected from a party, leading members of which lost no opportunity to denounce the conservative government for pamper-ing the official class at the expense of the working men. But in this as in everythring else, the grits in power are very different from the grits in oppo-

Lynch Defeats Vail.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 25.—The race between Mark Lynch and Harry Vail on Bedford Basin this afternoon was won by Lynch by about ten lengths. The race to the turn was as pretty a contest as any one could wish to see, but after that Lynch had everything his own way. Both men started at a 32 stroke, Lynch dropped to 29 and Vail to 30. Lynch took the lead at the start, and was never headed Lynch's time to the turn was 9m. 5lsec., and for the race 2lm. 32sec. At the turn Vall was several lengths behind and lost as many more on the home stretch. Vail's time for the race was 22m. 10 sec. The water was in perfect condition, and all was highly satisfactory to both parties. Vail and his manager, Mr. Frvin, leave for home tomorrow morning. Lynch Defeats Vall.

VERY HOT FIGHTING.

THE STORY OF THE BATTLE. LADYSMITH, Oct. 30 (p. m.)-The advance was made at dawn with the object of shelling the Boers from the position where yesterday they had nounted a number of guns. On reaching the spot, however, it was found that they had evacuated the position. The British continued to advance and the movement developed into a re-connaissance in force. The enemy were posted on a range of hills, having a frontage of about 16 miles.

The British force was disposed in the following order: On the right three regiments of cavalry, four batteries of he Royal Field Artillery and five battalions of infantry. In the centre three batteries of the Royal Field Artillery, two regiments of cavalry and four infantry hattalions. On the left, the Royal Irish Fusiliers, the Gloucestershire Regiment and the Tentl

Mountain Battery. This force had been detailed to guard our left flank at a late hour ast night. Gen. White's plan of operations was that, as the movemen developed, the force constituting our centre, which was disposed under cover of a kopje, about three miles from the town, should throw itself upon the enemy, while the left flank was being held by the Fusiliers and the devised but failed in execution, owing to the fact that the Boer position which formed our objective was evac-

Our artillery quickly reduced the volume of the enemy's fire, but the attack delivered on our right flank was the principal one, and the column attack had been silenced for a time and our infantry advanced, covered by cavalry. The enemy now began to develop a heavy counter attack, and as they were in great nu nerical superiority, Gen. White gave orders for the infantry to be gradually withdrawn. The movement was carried out with great steadiness and deliberation, under cover of our guns, which made excellent practice.

Some shells were thrown into the town from the enemy's forty pounders at a range of over 6,000 yards, but no lainage was done. The engagement lasted several hours and resulted on our side in casualties estimated at from 90 to 100. The Boer losses must have largely exceeded this total.

The attack was admirably delivered by our right, and the Boers were fairly driven out of one of their strongholds near Lombard's Kop. It was not possible, however, to push the success much farther, as beyond that point lay a long broken ridge affording every kind of natural cover. Of this the enemy took the fullest advantage.

Our shells failed to dislodge the Boers: and, as our infantry moved forward in extended order, they came sent to their assistance the whole centre column, with the exception of the Devonshire regiment.

The battle had then lasted four hours, during which time the artillery fire or both sides had been almost incessant. The naval brigade, which landed at Durban, had arrived on the scene toward the end of the fight and immediately brought their heavy guns into play. Their practice was magnificent. At the fourth shot the enemy's forty pounders had been knocked out of ac-

The town, therefore, was freed from Throughout the engagement the Boers held their ground with courage and tenacity, and, considering the intensity of our artillery fire, they must have suffered severely,

ANOTHER ACCOUNT. LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Daily Tele graph has the following account of the Ladysmith engagement from its special correspondent at the front: "An indecisive reconnaissance occur red today. Gen. Sir George Stewart White advanced before daybreak (Monday) with all the available forces from Ladysmith, moving towards Tinta Inyoni. Two brigades were under Colonels Ian Hamilton and Howard, and another with Gen. Sir Archibald Hunter, went toward Balwayn, while two regiments, guided by Major Adye, marched on our extreme left beyond the old camp. "The Boers were found to be in great force at all points. Although we had seven batteries of artillery, their fire failed entirely to crush that of the enemy, until the Fifth Lancers, pluckily rode across the enemy's front and feigned retreat. This, however, failed to entice the enemy out, the Boers only replying with a shell fire.

"This flank attack so developed that Col. Hamilton had to reinforce our right with three batteries and the Gordon Highlanders, the Devonshire Regiment and the Manchester Regiment at intervals. Our artillery then changed front and a severe artillery duel ensued, the guns generously supporting the reinforcing infantry as they advanced.

"Two batteries remained in action against the twelve counder when the quick-firers of the naval contingent came into action. The enemy had field pieces, machine guns and a 100 pounder. Gen. White in the afternoon with drew his forces upon Ladysmith. The

losses on the Boer side were considerable.' LONDON TIMES STORY. The correspondent of the Times

Ladysmith says: "The action seemed to be proceeding most satisfactorily, when at 7.15 a. m., the enemy in large numbers, with field guns, Maxims and 37-millimetre guns began to develop a heavy attack on Col. Grimwood's infantry. The cavalry brigade had moved up on our right, holding the parallel ridge over Col. Grimwood's position and practically acting as infantry. In the meantime our batteries kept down the siege gun fire upon Ladysmith with shrapnel.

"At 9 o'clock there seemed to be luil, as our reserves moved up; but Royal Dragoons, of which regiment he the enemy on our right brought fur- ture for South Africa, expressing his
