THE PROPOSED MONETARY CON-FERENCE.

London, Aug. 28.-The Standard prints a Berlin dispatch saving that in consequence of the opinion recently expressed by Mr. Balfour that there was no reason for supposing that any agreement on the currency question would result from an international monetary conference at the present time, and that a second abortive conference was very undesirable, the German Government is reconsidering its plan for the convening of another congress

The paraders filed by the monument, and then proceeded to the burger park, where a concert was given by the military bands. In the evening the visitors were entertained at a commers, preceded by a brilliant display of

THE UNHAPPY PRINCESS. London, Aug. 28.-According to a dispatch received here from Naples, there as no truth in the report that a formal and final settlement has been the Princess Colonna, daughter of Mrs. John W. MacKay, and her husband, Prince Colonna, on the basis of the former having the custody of the children and the latter receiving an annual income of 60,000 francs. It is stated that the relations which have existed between the prince and princess for some time past are unchanged. The prince is at Sorrento with the boys, who often visit the princess. The latter is with her daughter at Castellamare, and the girl frequently visits her father, Prince Colonna, at Sorrento.

A CLERICAL SNAP. London, Aug. 28.-The new Bishop of Winchester, who succeeds Mr. Labouchere's brother-in-law, Dr. Thorald, is a remarkably young man, and owes his appointment entirely to court favor. He may be described as one of the ecclesiastical pets of her Majesty. fond has Victoria been of his spiritual administrations that even on the occagion of her annual trips to the continent she would insist on his going along with her to preach on Sunday, and to serve as a sort of guarantee against any tendency in the direction of Catholic worship. As Bishop of Winchester, Dr. Davidson becomes ex-officio the prelate of the Order of the Garter and wears the of that famous knighthous around his neck both when in his episcopal robes and in evening dress. He takes precedence over all bishops, and whereas they, in the House of Lords, rank after viscounts and beand whereas they, in the House of Lords, rank after viscounts and before barons, he ranks with the earls. Shood purifier, Hoed's Sarsaparilla.

He is the son-in-law of the late Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Tait, to whom he acted as private secretary, as he did also to his sucessor, the present Primate. His pay as Bishop of Winchester is $40,000 per annum, and he also receives, as an official residence, Farnham Castle, one of the most magnificent of all those grand old historic country seats of England.

The berth is one for life, and in the United Kingdom bishops are proverbially long-lived, Dr. Durnford, of Chichester, being still as active as a lad and as lively as a cricket at the age of 93.

ARMENIANS TERRORIZED. Consuntinople, Aug. 28.-Advices received here from Erzinghian say that a state of great terror prevails among the Armenians there, owing to the attitude of the Turkish authorities. The latter in consequence of an attack which was recently made by brigands upon a Turkish colonel, during which a number of his escort were killed, are believed to be taking steps which will have most serious consequences. The Armenians are accused of being the authors of the attack on the colonel, and it is alleged that a large of Turkish troops has been force retaliating by atfacking the villages and monastries of the vicinity and engaging in other acts of violence. The Armenians, fearing a recurrence of the Sassoum outrage, have appealed to the ambassadors of the powers at Constantinople for protection.

THE CHINESE INVESTIGATION. Hong Kong, Aug. 28.—It is reported here that all the members of the Ku Cheng Commission are in good health, and that the Chinese officials are assisting actively and thoroughly in the investigation being made into the recent massacre of missionaries. Ten vetegarians, it is added, have already been convicted, and the trial of others is proceeding. There is said to be no danger of any fresh disturbances in that district during the sitting of the

EDUCATING YOUNG CANADA.

Manitoba Leads the Dominion in Grants to Schools.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 29.-The Dominion Statistician has been investigating the cost of education in the several provinces of the Dominion, and has prepared under the head of "Special Statistics" an interesting chapter for his Year Book.

Data collected for the years 1888 and 1893 show that Manitoba expends proportionately more upon education, that is, for public schools, than any other province in the Dominion. Quebec spends least of all. In Ontario the expenditure upon public schools has remained stationary at $1 87 per head of population.

In Quebec it has increased from 81 cents to 87 cents. In Nova Scotia it has fallen from $1 51 to $1 45.

In New Brunswick the expenditure in 1888 was $1 26 per head and in 1893 it had increased to $1 31. In Prince Edward Island it rose from $1 36 to $1 40. Manitoba increased from $1 57 to $2 02. while British Columbia in the period rose from $1 40 to $1 87.

Taking the average of all the provinces, it shows that the people of the Dominion are now paying at the rate of $1 56 per head of population for the purpose of public schools, an increase of 6 cents in the per capita expenditure since 1888.

FATAL ENDING OF A PRACTICAL

"JOKE." Mackinac, Mich., Aug. 28.—As the result of a practical joke a year ago, Mrs. Garritty, of this city, became insane and cut her throat Sunday. She was taken to the asylum at the Traverse City. VERILY A FOOLHARDY BURGLAR Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 28.-Mrs. James Bellings resides at Ashley, and last night a foolhardy burglar sneaked into her house and up into the room where she was snugly sleeping. Mrs. Bellings was awakened by the strange sound, and, discovering the man under the bed, she arose, seized the intruder by the neck, and held him until her husband got his eyes open. Mrs. Bellings sent her other half for a policeman, she all the while holding the burglar. That was the most shamefaced looking thief that has ever trudged into the Luzerne lock-up.

Found at Last!

Important Discovery Made by the Detectives

Who Have Been Hunting for Evidence of Holmes' Crimes.

The Remains of Little Howard Peitzel Discovered, Together With the Trunk in Which the Body Was Shipped.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28.-Detectives Geyer and Cary, who are working on the Holmes case, have found evidence of Holmes' presence and crimes in this city. Yesterday morning they discovered a cottage in Irvington, a suburb where Holmes rented quarters for one day last fall. Under the porch of the cottage the detectives found the remains of the big black trunk belonging to the Peitzel children, which they have long sought. In the barn was also found a big stove which belonged to Holmes. The detectives have a theory that Howard Pietzel was killed in this city and his body taken to Irvington and burned.

PERSEVERANCE REWARDED. Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28.-In the chimney of a little frame cottage, standing at some distance from the other residences of Irvington, a small suburb of this city, detectives this morning found the charred bones of little Howard Pietzel, one of Holmes' victims. The find was the reward of a long and persistent search by Detective Geyer, of Philadelphia, who came here six weeks ago and has been young Pietzel had been killed here. Yesterday he and Inspector Gary found the empty cottage at Irvington, which had been occupied by a man answering Holmes' description, and a little boy, early last October. THE BOY'S BONES FOUND. was rewarded by the finding of a num-ber of charred bones in the chimney, together with the buttons of the boy's overcoat. Evidently the child had been murdered in the house and his body cremated there.

The supposed murderer and his victims came to the house together and were seen about the place for a week, when both disappeared, and nothing had since been heard of them.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28.—Detective Geyer is now sanguine that the entire mystery will be cleared up. There is no questioning the character of the charred bones uncovered, or that the belonged to a youthful person, while scores of people readily recognize the photograph of the deceased lad, frequently seen playing about the premises during the few days of occupancy by Clark. Several of the lads of the village tried to make friends with the youngster, but he was singularly uncommunicative, and acted to them as if he was under some severe restraint. It is Geyer's theory that Holmes had chloroformed the lad and then cremated his remains in the stove. Charred fragments of corn cobs were also found in the chimney, showing the character of the fuel used. When the house was leased, the owner spoke of his neglect in not having natural gas connections, to which Clark replied: "I am not going to have gas put in the house, for it would be unhealthful for the boys." There is an abundance of corn cobs close at hand, and, as is known, they generate an intense heat. The chimney in which the fragments were thrown is hollow to the basement, so as to permit the use of a stove below, although no flue was ever cut. Geyer believes that Holmes concluded that no one would ever think of looking there for evidences of his crime, and so chose that for hiding what he could not destroy by heat. Messrs. Geyer and Gary will return today to Philadelphia. It is very probable that a demand for the removal of Holmes to this city that he may be tried for the murder of the boy will be made. The evidence here

alus Tamarez, a noted bandit chief, who for the past ten years has committed robberies and murders in the mountains west of there, and who as recently captured by Government troops, was hanged at Parrallel yesterday. This is the first execution by hanging that has occurred in Mexico, the usual manner of death being shooting.

STRUCK BY A G. T. R. TRAIN. Kingston, Ont., Aug. 28.-Yesterday morning Joseph Morton and his nephew John Gray were driving into the city in a covered milk wagon. They were watching the Grand Trunk suburban train and did not notice the approach of the Kingston and Pembroke train. The wagon reached the crossing, when a collision occurred. The horse was killed, the wagon smashed, and Gray dragged by the train and injured about the head and broke an arm. He may re-cover. Morton escaped with a few serious bruises.

R. freight train running between that place and Collingwood, went to the end of the pier about 9 o'clock for a bath. As he failed to return before morning a search was made for him and some of his clothing was found there. The body has not been discovered, He

Late Canadian News.

Mr. Fred Gibson died on Tuesday at Whitby from injuries received while loading a wagon. Mr. Gibson while driving into C. F. Stewart's orchard was thrown from the wagon against a

THE GREAT CANAL.

New Developments in Chicago's Sewage Outlet.

Eow Much Will It Lower the Level of the Lakes?

Washington, Aug. 28.—One of the most important matters Secretary Lamont will be called upon to decide during his term of working ever since on the theory that office is now pending before the War Department. It is the report of the board of engineers appointed to examine and report upon the effect which the Chicago drainage canal, now in course of construction, will have on the waters of the great lakes. Two distinct interests are arrayed against each other in the matter-the people of Chicago on one side and the navigation interests of They began a search and soon found the lakes on the other. Chicago wants the a large stove and a black trunk in which it had been supposed that the body had been shipped. Further search Michigan for many miles, rendering the water impure and threatening the health of the city. The shipping people contend that in furnishing water to drain the city and carry off its sewage, the water level of the lakes will be lowered from six to twelve inches, but many eminent engineers disagree as to the exact limit the decrease of the water will rea ch. It is conteded that six inches will be the limit.

The Lake Carriers' Association is making the greatest fight against the canal. It is said by these representatives that all the harbors on Lake Michigan and Lake Huron will be lowered, and that vessels with full loads, built for the present depth of harbors, will not be able to enter. It is claimed that Lake Huron will be affected because the Straits of Mackinaw are so broad and deep that the level of one lake is governed by the other. The Canadian engineers are also making a protest against the canal, and they will try and interest the Canadian Government in opposition to it. It is possible that the matter may be brought to the attention of the State Department.

Chicago is determined to have the canal, and work upon it has been in progress for some time. It is claimed that in case Secrecary Lamont should decide that navigation interests will be injured to such an extent that the department cannot permit the construction of the canal, the fight will be carried to Congress and a bill presented authorizing the work.

Some of America's Fastest Wheelmen in London.

Welcomed in Proper Style at the G. T. R. Station.

The Names of the Flyers-Cuts of Two Switt Ones.

London is full of knickerbockered wheelmen today, who have gathered for the meet this afternoon. They all arrived last night from Stratford and were welcomed at the station by a brass band, Greek lights, a couple of hundred resident wheelmen, several hundred other citizens, who are saving their dimes to buy wheels, one monkey and a hand organ.

Before going to the station the wheelmen participated in a lantern parade that attracted thousands of citizens. The illuminations were not as plentiful as they have been, but those who did decorate, did not stop half way. The starting point was from the London Bicycle Club house on Dundas street. The route taken was Dundas street to Wellington street, and thence to the park. The park was circled, and Park avenue taken to Queen's avenue. Queen's avenue was followed until Adelaide street was reached, when the procession turned south to King street. They went back on King street to Clarence and thence to the Grand Trunk station.

Every inch of the route was crowded by spectators. The Seventh Band led the way in a 'bus and furnished music along the line of march. One jolly gang of wheelmen chartered a four-in-hand French brake, and by means of a hand organ and a monkey made lots of pupils at the Askin street school are pinched fun. The same monkey and organ was the cause of infinite amusement at the

C. R. COULTER.

Coulter began this season's races by running second by inches only to Eddie Bald, both in the one mile open and the two-mile open at San Jose, Cal., run in 2:04 and 4:15. He joined the national circuit at Ilion, N. Y., and the same day won the half mile and the mile open events. At Syracuse he repeated the performance, and for the week ending June 20 had to his credit seven firsts and two seconds out of ten starts. At Mansfield July 29 he reduced the State record from 2:12 to 1:55 3-5, the fastest exhibition mile ever ridden on a dirt track.

Gardiner sprang into prominence for the first time last year in the Chicago road race, and subsequently made many winnings in class A. He began this season with the southern circuit, winning eleven firsts out of twelve starts over last year's cracks, and at the recent Galesburg meet won four firsts and a third out of five starts. During the past month he has broken both the Ohio and the Indiana State records for the half mile, and in one week received $1,000 in prizes. At Chicago on Aug. 10 he won the unpaced mile, his only start, in 2:09, claiming a new world's record for the two-thirds

The meet will wind up with a promenade concert in the Princess Rink tonight. The Seventh Band and some of the very best local talent have been engaged. While the lantern parade was in progress last night a number of boys made it miserable for riders by snatching the lanterns and running off with them.

R. O. Blayney, one of the Toronto contingent of racers, met with an accident this morning which may prevent him from riding this afternoon. He was taking a little spin on the new track, when he ran to the inside and struck on a pile of stones. He received some severe bruises.

The kindergartens at Queen's avenue and South London have resumed their system of overtime. To accommodate the young ones at these schools they were ordered to be kept open in the afternoons in order to give those children a chance to attend who were crowded out of the morning class. Both afternoon classes are already largely attended.

THE KNIGHTS' PARADE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

Premier Greenway on the Latest Rumor

of a New Deal. Him the legislature Must Pro-

If any Revised Proposition is Made to nounce on It.

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—There is no excitement here over the statement that when Premier Bowell reaches Winnipeg he will make a new proposition for the settlement of the school question. in the nature of a compromise. Premier Greenway was seen with reference to the statement, but was not disposed to regard the communication very seriously, and said he had heard nothing of it.

In answer to a question on the subject, he said that the reply of the Province to Ottawa on the school difficulty had been passed by the Provincial Leg-islature, and that he should, therefore. expect, if such a meeting with Premier Bowell as was predicted ever came about, to lay any proposals the latter might have to make upon the matter before the full House, and that the Ex-ecutive Council would not take upon itself to settle the question off-hand. "You have no objection to talking the matter over with the Federal Premier?" asked the reporter. "Oh, none at all; none at all," said the Premier. "There can be no possible objection to hearing what Mr. Bowell has to say on the subject. If he wants to talk it over we shall be glad to hear of his intentions.

Rev. Principal Grant, of Kingston, being interviewed here, said if the Do-minion Government wished to have the question amicably settled the best way would have been to hold an investigation into the condition of affairs in Manitoba, instead of resorting to the extreme remedial order, which Manitoba cannot and will not obey.

Materially Interfered With by the Intense Heat. Hundreds of Spectators Prestrated-Formal Opening of the Conclave.

Boston, Aug. 28.—The marching Knights were greeted by the sun at about noontime, and its welcome was quite effusive as it began to beat with intense vigor on the heads of those in the parade, as well as on the dense throngs of spectators. Hundreds of women and children were overcome with heat in the densely packed throngs, and scores of Sir Knights who had started out to do the four and a half mile trip bravely, gave it up after a time and dropped out of the line. The ambulances from the various police stations and the emergency hospital were busy all the time and could not answer the calis for assistance quick enough. The most serious accident reported up to noontime was that to Miss Lillian Dudley, 16 years old, who was crushed in the crowd at the corner of Hanover and Washington streets, and seriously injured. Although it had been expected that the proceedings following the parade, which formally opened the 26th triennial conclave of the Grand Encampment, would be inaugurated by 3 o'clock in the afternoon, it wa o'clock before Most Eminent Sir Knight Hugh McCurdy stepped from has four-in-hand in front of the Masonic Tem-form, and after the routine business and a devotional service conducted by the grand prelate, Rev. J. M. Mc-Grath, the grand master addressed the assembly.

A CIVIC BEAR GARDEN. Lively "Scenes" in Brantford City Council. They have a lively lot of aldermen in Brantford this year. Here is a gem from the report of the discussion at the last meeting of the council of that city. It arose out of an application of the street railway to be permitted to extend their tracks: The mayor (Mr. Watt) shouted at Ald. John Brown, "Are you a ward politician?" Ald. Brown took no notice.

At 11:20 Ald. Elliott was talking, and told the council that he was prepared to talk all night. The mayor accused Ald. Whitney of telling a falsehood. The latter had been accused of fickleness and had charged the mayor with fickleness again. It was then that the mayor told Ald. Whitney that he told a falsehood. Ald. Elliott charged Ald. Whitney with changing his mind.

Ald. Whitney said that only a coward was afraid to change his mind. Ald. Elliott said the man was a bigger coward who always changed his mind. The mayor shook his fist at Ald. Whitney, and Ald. Whitney said that the mayor was as fickle as anybody. Ald. Harley said that the language used

It Comes Too Late to Do Harm to Grain -Threshing Is Now General. Portage la Prairie, Man., Aug. 28.-Light frost is reported from Newdale, Birtle, Binscarth, Langenburg, Saltcoate, Yorkton, and heavier at Rapid City, where potato vines were destroyed a good deal. The impression is that in other places very little damage was done, except at Newdale. The crops are out to a considerable extent, and as this is all a stock raising country, it is not fortunately dependent on the highest grade of wheat. If any grain is very much damaged it will be fed to the stock, but a great deal of the grain which is still uncut is beyond any great damage by frost. Frost is also reported at Edmonton, N. W. T.

but serious damage is not anticipated. A PARALLEL CASE

People in Detroit Are Interested in Great Resemblance in Two Cases. Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—Much interest has been manifested here over the recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, of Ottawa, from Bright's disease by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which is now in universal use, and many people have a clear recollection of the similar case which occurred in London, Ontario, not long ago, namely, that of Mr. Wm. Langley, who for some time was an immate of Harper's Hospital here and was operated upon without effect by several Detroit physicians. It was owing to this connection with Detroit and the long accounts published in the press that so much interest was taken in the case, and led to such an enormously increased sale of the medicine.

The Scrap Bag

The average pugilist's idea of a gentleman is probably exemplified in the person of James J. Corbett, a prize fighter whom they have dubbed with the sobriquet of "Gentleman Jim"; and it is understood that Corbett likes to consider himself a peg removed above all others of his class. Yet the wife of this "Gentleman" Jim was the other day divorced from him for his unfaithfulness, and he had two liquor saloon brawls in two successive days last week. "Gentleman Jim," indeed! Could there be a more forcible illustration of a complimentary term changed into a biting sarcasm? "Gentleman Jim!"if he is a gentleman, let us all turn

The pleasure of entertaining guests is often materially lessened by their manifest indifference to the trouble they sometimes heedlessly entail upon their hostess. For instance, the guest who visits a friend, by the way of a pleasant surprise, without having previously apprised her thereof, is seldom genuinely welcome, as the consciousness of having things prepared for the coming of a stranger in the household constitutes a great deal of joy in receiving a visitor.

Another disagreeable type of guest is the one who wilfully appropriates all her hostess' writing material, postage stamps and hair and hat pins without the slightest honorable intention of returning the same as soon as possible.

"Ef I had the money," said Mr. Weary Watkins, "ju know what I'd do? I'd hire me a private car with real feather beds on the trucks, an' travel about in one blessed dream of happiness the year round."

It is a mark of the dignity of human nature that normal man knows how to laugh. Not everything that is called man, and wears the human form, howover, is given to laughter. The degenerate races who have sunk toward the beast's level through their vices and their indifferences, seldom laugh. The Veddahs of Ceylon, for instance, are said to be unable to laugh. One of them who had been taken to Colombo, and had learned the speech of the Cingalese, was expostulated with because he never laughed at anything. "What is there to laugh at?" was his many waists with ruffles running up and down that it is a relief to learn that a bodice can be made with a circular, instead of a long, effect. The yoke is perfectly plain, and beneath it five narrow ruffles encircle the waist. Shirred epaulettes and two ruffles over the sleeves broaden the shoulder effect. The large puff sleeves are finished at the elbow under a band and bow of green ribbon.

With a gown of this material, soft China silk, it is very difficult to get the proper hang of the skirt, since no stiffening should be used. This difficulty is obviated by wearing a stiffened underskirt. White alpaca adapts itself to this usage very well and should be stiffened with haircloth about nine inches above the hem.

I also noticed some very light hats of manilla straw, with borders turned up behind and trimmed with rosettes and very simply with ribbons.

Natural ecru lawn, embroidered in the English style, esther shade on shade or white on ecru, is also much in favor. It is the same with royal lawn linen or silk, which are both light and brilliant. RUNNING STEAM BOILERS.

Foaming and Priming of Steam Boil-

Foaming and Priming-Explanation of These Terms—The R medy.

ers.—These terms are often confounded and used by many engineers indiscriminately. The resulting phenomena in either case are similar, but they are produced by different causes. The remedies are entirely distinct for each. Foaming is that condition of a steam boiler when more or less water and gritty matter is carried over to the engine by the steam, without any very violent agitation of the volume of water in the boiler. It is mainly a surface agitation. It is caused by water becoming saturated with foreign matter, such as lime sediments, mud, oil or grease, salt, etc., and is the result of steam trying to escape through the scum formed on the surface of the water by these foreign impurities. The steam, in its efforts to escape, raises the whole mass from the surface, forming large bubbles, and a general frothy and foaming condition of the water level. The upper gauge cocks may show water spurts, but the actual water line is generally lower. The remedy is to blow off frequently from the surface, to get rid of the scum which causes

Priming is that condition of a steam boiler when large amounts of water are carried over bodily by the steam. It may occur in a boiler perfectly clean, and is temporarily caused by a too great demand on the capacity of the boiler, by too sudden and fierce firing, or after a lowering of the pressure in the boiler, when the engine is working heavier and increased demands are made on the steam.

Priming causes large fluctuations in the level and volume of the water, and is indicated in the glass gauge by pulsations, and in the engine cylinder by a clicking noise.

Many boilers show a high apparent evaporation per pound of coal, while practically they are anything but economical. The water which is carried over mechanically with the steam not only carries away heat without any useful effect, but when present in any marked degree it becomes a source of danger and of serious loss in the engine. To a limited extent it is in the hands of the engineer to remedy such troubles by intelligent management and care of his boilers, but, if boilers are overworked, the remedy is a larger

The French are not a success as colonizers. They are stay-at-homes, as is shown by some curious figures which have been published to show the number of French people who live and die lation of 38,343,000 more than half are at this moment living in the same commune where they were born. Over three-quarters have never been outside their department.

Over one million bicycles are now in use in North America. And the man who gets struck by one, propelled at the rate of ten miles an hour, reaches the conclusion that they have all come down upon him at once.

In Hamilton, when a burglary is reported to the police, the mouths of all parties concerned are sealed, and every one is warned not to let the newspaper men hear a word about it. The idea is that if the fact that burglars had been operating were published, the burglars would leave the country, and would not tarry to be caught. When a burglary is reported by the press of this city, every police officer in the country becomes an aid to the city detectives, and in nine cases out of ten if the burglar attempts to clear out he is captured. If he stays in the city, every citizen becomes a detective. Thus the press is a most powerful aid to the prevention of crime and an effective detective agency as well.

Toronto will revel in the luxury of what the Star calls "five days of solid cricket" next week. The game grows in favor.

Toronto Trades and Labor Council, replying to the assertion that Canadian workmen are opposed without qualification to the immigration of other workmen from Europe, says the charge is untrue. On the contrary, they welcome every immigrant who comes on the strength of his own means, and with a fair knowledge of existing conditions in Canada. The council continues:

"The often repeated attitude of organized labor in the Dominion on the subject of immigration has been, and is, bearing in mind dearly bought experience and the undoubtedly overcrowded condition of our labor market, that the expenditure of large sums of public money, directly or indirectly, in assisting, bonusing, encouraging or misleading immigrants-adult or juvenile to Canada, is unnecessary and

It is the contention of the workers that instead of bleeding the public treasury for the maintenance of immigration offices and costly staffs throughout Great Britain and France; the paying of $5 a head for immigrants from the continent of Europe, and paying a bonus of $2 each for every orphan, waif and stray child imported by "philanthropists," who make a good living through their schemes, the first care of the Dominion Government should be our own workmen. There are many such in our cities and towns, the organized laborers contend, who should be helped to go on the land,

HOW TO RAISE MONEY.

A common argument against tax reduction is that if you reduce the tariff, you cut off your revenue, and there is no money with which to run the country. In national affairs, experience has proved, it is better to have a small balance than an overflowing treasury. When there is a big surplus the boodlers, contract brokers, and jobbery promoters never rest satisfied till they and their friends secure a distribution among them.

But it is not true that tax reduction would impoverish the treasury. Sir Robert Peel did not so find it when he reduced the taxes on hundreds of articles and made others entirely free, and in the United States they have had the same experience. In the last eleven months of the McKinley tariff, the tariff brought in $113,000,000 of revenue. The first eleven months of the reduced tariff, which, by the way, has largely increased trade between the United States and Canada, brought in $146,000,000 of revenue.

From this it appears that the greater the freedom in trade, under a lowered tariff, the bigger will be the revenue to the Government. Canadians have everything to gain by getting rid of as many taxes as is possible at the earliest moment.

THE CAPTURER OF CANADA.* In the "English Men of Action" series of biographies now being issued, no book should be of greater interest to Canadians than that devoted to the life of "Wolfe," whose daring assault on Quebec citadel resulted in the capture of Canada from the French, and in the establishment of this land as a portion of the British dominions. Most Canadians know this much, but how few know anything of the remarkable life of the hero who fell in the hour of his triumph on the plains of Abraham?

James Wolfe chose the life of a soldier because his father was an officer in the British army of some note, and because war was the one thing thought of and talked about in his early days. When he was but 6 years of age in 1733, Great Britain became embroiled in war over the dispute relating to the Polish throne. King George II. cared nothing about domestic reforms, and urged his Government to fight. Queen Caroline had strong German sympathies, but she was leagued in favor of peace with Walpole and against the King, and for a time the conflict was averted, but before James Wolfe was 12 years old amid great popular uproar and burning of bonfires in approval, Britain declared war against the Spaniards. With the death of Charles VI., all Europe was thrown into a blaze of war. Master Wolfe, then only thirteen and a half years of age, was imbued with the frenzy, and nothing would satisfy him but the opportunity to fight for his country on the Spanish main. This precocious proposition was humored so far as to permit him to go into the camp of observation, of which his father was colonel, for training, but he vas taken ill, and had to give up all hope of joining the expedition to Cartagena. It was fortunate for the future hero that it so turned out, for the expedition proved a dismal failure. Thirty years later, we are told, it acted in a curious way on the destinies of the nation. George Washington's elder brother was with the expedition as a gentleman volunteer from Virginia, and there contracted the fatal illness which subsequently carried him off. By his death, George Washington became heir of the estates, and was placed in that position of independence that enabled him to follow the bent of his inclination. If he had remained a younger son, all might have been different in 1775 when he slipped into the supreme command. He might have been an officer in the British army, in-

In 1742, Wolfe was appointed ensign in the Twelfth Regiment of Foot, destined for foreign service against The utter recklessness with which the nations in those days went to war and remained at it enabled intrepid youths like Wolfe to make a martial record very early in life. Nowadays, a young man thinks he is doing well if he gets a start in his profession before he is 21 years old. Wolfe was an old campaigner, "a soldier of Germany, of Flanders, and of Scotland, already familiar with Highland broadswords and French bayonets and carrying several years of individual responsibility," before he celebrated his 21st birthday. Wolfe participated in the battles of Falkirk and Culloden, where the last hope of the Stuarts to rule in Scotland was blasted. After he had served in seven campaigns, he was sent to Austria, where he remained till 1748, when peace was proclaimed, and everything was restored to its original position, it being declared "that a gigantic slaughter had been useless, and that tens of thousands of brave men had lain down their lives in vain." In 1749, he returned to Scotland as major of the Twentieth Regiment, with instructions to aid in the pacification and settlement of the country so lately torn by civil war. Wolfe was a lieutenant-colonel at 23, but even then we find him lamenting because he was kept dawdling his time in Scotland. He wrote that he was "still determined to employ some years of my life in the real business of an officer, and not sacrifice all my time on trifling scholarship." At this time Wolfe had a double disappointment-in love and also in his desire to travel on the continent to perfect his military knowledge. He got leave of absence from

stead of the choice of the confederate

Scotland, but was told that he must not depart from the United Kingdom. Returning to Scotland, the work of his command was chiefly to intercept the recruiting of Highlanders for French regiments. While engaged in this task. Wolfe was the first Englishman to conceive the idea of diverting Highland ardor into military channels by the fermation of kilted regiments in the British army-a project which was carried out when Pitt came into power. In 1743, Wolfe paid a visit to Ireland. He wrote in flattering terms of Dublin. then the second city of the United Kingdom in point of population and rrestige. The Protestant yeomanry of the north had been leaving in thousands for the mountains of Pennsylvania and Virginia. "But the vast Catholic peasantry of the southwest were motionless in that long stupor of despair that lasted from the Boyne to Bunker's Hill. Rack rents were drunk and feasted away in Dublin amid a curious blending of splendor and squalor, of refinement and vulgarity." Wolfe did not take kindly to life in Scotland, partly because his health was poor and because the raw climate did not agree with him. Of Glasgow, he wrote: "Dinners and suppers of the most execrable food upon earth, and wine that approaches to poison. The men drink till they are excessively drunk. The ladies are cold to everything but a bagpipe-I wrong them there-there is not one that does not melt away at the sound of an estate." Some years of garrison duty in England follewed, during which the country was in great straits for troops to repel the much-feared French invasion. Towns offered big grants and almost every place had its lottery with which to raise money to pay troops. Meanwhile, Britain was at war with France in America and in the Indies, and Wolfe was chosen as brigadier in the famous expedition to Cape Breton under Forbes, a distinguished Scottish officer. Louisburg fell, and Wolfe writes that he is impatient to push right on for Quebec, "and end the campaign in a single season." Of particular interest is this vein of prophecy in which at this time Wolfe broke out to his mother: "North America will some time be a vast empire—the seat of power and learning. There will grow a people out of our little spot, England, that will fill this vast space and divide this great portion of the globe with the Spaniard, who is possessed of the other half. It is my humble opinion that the Frenchman may be low the blows they have given and prosecute the war with the vigor it requires." In part this prophecy has been realized. The English-speaking people control the northern half of the continent; and France has been without today we have no more hearty supporters of British Institutions than the French-speaking population of the country. Every school boy is familiar with the details of the memorable siege of Quebec and Wolfe's tragic death in the hour of victory and in the prime of life, and reference to that episode need not be made at greater length. We have briefly sketched Wolfe's achievements to show how much service a busy and determined man can give to his country even in a

THEY LOST THEIR HEADS. The four leaders in the attacks on missionaries at Chengtu, China, reported in the cable dispatches yesterday as having been put to death, undoubtedly were beheaded. China has several methods of capital punishment, including the cord and boiling to death -the latter mode of execution usually being reserved for perjurers through whose false testimony innocent persons have suffered the extreme penalty for murder. Cutting the head off is regarded by the Chinese as the most disgraceful kind of death, because the head, which is the principal part of man, is separated from the body, and that body is not consigned to the grave as he received it from his parents. Decapitation swiftly follows conviction in most cases. Probably the Chengtu miscreants were beheaded the lay they were pronounced guilty. The malefactor kneels on the ground, the "board of infamy," which has been strapped to his back after condemnais taken off, and the executioner by a single blow of a two-handed sword strikes off the head with great dexterity. Frequently the body is then thrown into a ditch and the head is suspended from a tree by the side of a public road.

TORONTO AND ROCHESTER. Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Rochester and Toronto played two brilliant, snappy games yesterday, both of which were won in the last inning by Rochester. Both were pitchers' battles, and the fine work of the twirlers was matched by that of the fielders. Toronto had the first game until the ninth inning. when with two hands out and one on base Garry lined the ball to far left for three bases and drove in the run that tied the score. Lush then batted Canucks failed to score in their half.

Garry home and won the game, as the Crane and Dineen, Toronto's new twirler, were pitted against each other in the second game. It was a seven innings game by mutual agreement. Rochester scored in the first, and Toronto in the first and second. Star fielding and keen work of the pitchers kept the score 1 to 2 until the Roches-

THE GAME IN FRANCE. Baseball is catching on in great shape across the ocean. A diamond has been laid out in the Bois de Boulogne at Paris, and games between American collegians and some of the Parisian enthusiasts are very popular. There seems to be a mistaken idea among French people that the game is dangerous, and at one time the gendarmes were disposed to stop it on that ground, but were dissuaded by a Frenchman present. It is in no respect as dangerous as football, or fencing, and the brothers Renard have shown that Frenchmen can learn to play it well.

Galt got $700 as its share of two league games in Guelph. The last Canadian League championship game of the season will be played in London next Saturday with Galt. The Galt Reformer thus sizes up the Guelphs: "But in their cup of happiness surely the Royal City visitors must have had one drop of bitter sorrowtheir inability to kick at the umpire's decisions.'

The double umpire system gave unqualified satisfaction. Messrs. Reid, of London, and Lyndon, of Toronto, gave perfect satisfaction, although the Leafs tried to institute a little kick once or twice just to keep up a record which is chronic with them.-Galt Reformer.

SHERIFFS MAY SHOOT. Austin, Tex., Aug. 28.-Attorney-General Crane has handed down his opinion in the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize-fighting case in reply to an in-terrogatory of Sheriff Cabell of Dallas county as to whether he had a legal right to shoot down people while attempting to suppress the fight. The attorney-general's reply is to the effect that prize-fighters, referees, etc., constitute an unlawful assemblage, and the statutes of the State make special provisions for the disbandment of such unlawful assemblages; and that homicide is justifiable when absolutely necessary to suppress riot or unlawful THE ENGLISH ATHLETES CRITI-

London, Aug. 28.—The Pall Mall Gazette, discussing the prospects of the teams from the London Athletic Club and Cambridge University Athletic Club, which sailed yesterday by the steamship Aurania from Liverpool for New York, says that the London Athletic Club team is in no way the pow-erful combination expected. "The ab-sentees," it is added, "have very seriously weakened it, and we must anticipate a hearty beating with as much complacency as we can muster. The Cambride team, too, is not especially strong, and is scarcely likely to hold its own against Yale." TURF.

He closed his report with the following suggestions: That all courts have the same scale of regalia; that there be one design and color of regalia; that some provision be made whereby the several courts in each district can fraternally visit each other once a year; and that the incoming executive council take the necessary steps to procure Dominion incorporation of the Ancient Order of For-

A. O. U. W. IN TROUBLE Over the Border-Alleged Squandering of Funds.

Buffalo, Aug. 28.-The stability of one of the oldest, and what has been considered one of the strongest, fraternal organizations in the country, the A. O. W., is seriously threatened, according to dispatches received here from Chicago, which reveal that owing to squandering of funds, necessitating special assessments, fully 15 per cent of the members have withdrawn. Several lodges have filed protests against the action of the Supreme Lodge, and extremists declare that from 25 to 50 per cent of the members will withdraw in the next few weeks.

BEES ON BABY'S HEAD. Hamburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—Two children of John Fehr, residing near Straustown, had a thrilling adventure with a swarm of bees. The insects left the hive in a large, black, and variegated ball, as is usual when swarming, and alighted upon a 2-year-old child, who was playing in the yard, totally unaware of the danger. Another child, Merton, aged 14 years, fortunately realized the dangerous condition of affairs, and having learned that swarms will vacate certain places when a noise is produced, at once secured some tin kettles and hammered them with great energy. The din and confusion caused the bees to leave the child unharmed, and in a few moments more the swarm alighted upon a large pine tree, where the owner subsequently captured them and placed them in a hive. Neither of the children, singular to relate, had received a

A few weeks ago, in these columns we found it necessary to correct views held by ome persons respecting the form of treatment for alcoholism given at Lakehurst Institute, Oakville. While many of our patrons have been desperately heavy drinkers, a large percentage of those who undertake the treatment have done so while yet possessing the respect and confidence of their business associates, and before home, influence, wealth and honor shall have been sacrificed to the insatiable demon-alcohol. The example of these is well worthy of imitation by thousands of business men who are daily making fresh concessions to the growing fondness for strong drink. ### STOOD UP IN THE CANCE.

Further Particulars Regarding Norville Tulley's Drowning.

Swam Four Strokes and Sank-Premised His Mother He Would Not Go in Swimming and Did Not-Neither of His Companions Could Swim.

Further particulars regarding the death of young Norville Tulley are to hand with the return of the somewhat saddened campers to this city. It appears that only three of the quartet were in camp during the day-Messrs. Harry Strong, Norville Tulley and "Chic." Shannon. The fourth, Wilmot Clark, had returned to this city and resumed work. The four had been camping on different portions of the Thames, and had lately moved down to their last site, opposite Ward's and abreast of the very place where the two Warwicks were drowned. The canoe, out of which the lad fell, was a 14-foot birch bark affair. Tulley had often ridden in it before, but always sitting down about the center, when there was no danger of tipping. After dinner he took the cance and started out for a spin. Messrs, Strong and Shannon were watching him from the bank, and they were rather surprised to see him stand up in the frail bark in a position near the stern. This had the effect of raising the prow above the water and rendered what followed perfectly easy. When only twenty feet out Tulley lost his balance and went into the water. He immediately set about righting the canoe, and his position did not alarm his companions unduly, as they understood him to be a good swimmer. The canoe was nearly full of water by this time, and seeming for the first time to realize his position, Tulley turned it towards the shore and gave it a push. He then started after it. When he had taken four strokes something went wrong. His strength either gave out completely or he was seized with cramps. "Come on," he shouted once to the other young men on the bank. As he said this his head went under the water, and his soft felt hat floated above like a buoy to guide his companions to the spot. If he rose again to the surface he was not seen, as Shannon and Strong were busy getting out the boat. They were at the spot in a very short time, and had either been able to swim the body might easily have been recovered and resuscitated. There was nothing for it but to give the alarm, and it was an hour and a half before grapplers found the body. When Mr. Clark heard in the city that one of the boys was drowned he thought at once that it was young Shannon, whom he had warned against using the canoe. He secured an outrigger and was down at the scene in a short time. "Norville always said that he could swim," said Mr. Clark today, "but he never would come into the water because he had promised his mother not Tully was one of the first to bring in the news to the "Advertiser" of the finding of the second Warwick body. He was a quiet, unassuming young fellow and was studying photography. Dr. Flock decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The news was broken to the bereaved mother by a relative. She was ill before, but now her condition is critical. Deceased was a member of the London Bicycle Club. The camp has been broken and the boys have returned to town for good.

THE REGISTRAR MISSING.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 27,-J. C. Prevest, registrar of the Supreme Court, has disappeared. His books are being audited and his arrest and detention has been ordered. He is an official administrator, and it is not known how his affairs stand.

Montreal, Aug. 28.-Following upon the news that the Canadian Pacific Railway is building new cars to meet the great wheat rush, comes a report that within the next few days the officials whose salaries were reduced 10 and 20 per cent, will be placed on the rolls at the old rate of wages. To a reporter, Sir Wiliam Van Horne admitted that in a few cases, where the reduction was actually a hardship, the old salaries have already been re-

Busy as nailers. No waste of time here. The sound of the mallet is to be heard in our basement breaking into the large wooden cases containing merchandise for our various departments. Imported Dress Goods are amongst every shipment in such quantities that would make a faint-hearted buyer tremble. Last season we doubled the size of our dress goods department and this, still more space will be required.

A FRIENDLY TIP

As we pass by is all one needs a wheel to buy, More important than buying a bicycle is to get a good one. This is emphatically what the Brantford wheels are. Try one and you will be convinced that none can beat it. Drop in and see our 1896 road wheel at the agency, 122 DUNDAS STREET. DUNDAS STREET.

PERIL OF A WHEELMAN. Dismounted by Hornets While Riding Rapidly.

Center Moriches, L. I., Aug. 28.-The passengers in the stages on the way to the morning train today witnessed an unusual sight, and for a time feared they would have to deal with a maniac. Bowling along some distance ahead of the stages was a wheelr in, evidently out for an early spin. He was riding on the sidewalk, and some of the stage passengers were admiring his expert-ness, when suddenly he dropped from his bicycle, and, leaving it on the walk started for the middle of the roadway and toward the station as fast as his legs would carry him. As he ran, the bicyclist kept brushing his face with his hands and going through other actions that led the passengers to conclude that he had suddenly lost his reason. Some of the woman passengers became alarmed and screamed. They were certain the man was crazy, but the stage drivers new otherwise they had recognized him as Dr. C. H. F. Boedecker, a well-known summer resident here. Before the lumbering vehicles could catch up to the doctor he had taken several rolls in the dusty roadway and had danced first on one foot and then on the other, never stopping, but all the while brushing his head and face with his hands. When the stages reached the prancing physician the passengers learned the cause of his strange actions. They had not roticed that the doctor had deserted his wheel under a big tree. Neither had they learned, much to their own comfort, that the tree sheltered a very large nest of active hornets that had been made still more active by a shower of stones thrown at them some boys. The doctor arrived under the tree just in time to receive the full wrath of the swarm, and his strange actions on the public highway were fully justified by the number of stings he had received. The hornets remained so active that it was found necessary to station a man near the tree to warn passers-by.

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

Special to C. E. Turner, broker, Masonic Temple, from Walker & Co. Chicago, Aug. 28.-Market continues its weakness; also foreign markts. Our Leavy stocks in store anchors the trade. It finds it impossible to lift prices, and in the new spring wheat movement there is not any encouragement for holders. Manitoba has a 30,-000,000 bushel wheat crop, and the spring wheat chop will want buyers immediately for as much as transportation can carry away probably. Wheat is low, but there is no heart in the trade. Oats and other feeding stuffs—Stocks

THE CRUSHER BROKE,

And a Large Force of Pavers Were Laid Off.

A Delay in the Work-The Rails Are Here-Leveling the Tracks.

Today at noon the large force of men who were at work laying the concrete foundation of the asphalt pavement on Richmond street, were obliged to quit work on account of a break in the stone crusher. This deprived them of broken stone. They will probably be at work again in the morning. Another force of men have completely stripped Dundas street west of cedar blocks. and the whole of the north side of the street between Ridout and Richmond has been rolled by the roller. Dundas street is being undermined in about a dozen places by waterworks employes, although the city engineer has written a warning letter to the commissioners as to its effect on the pave-The imported rails for the street railway company arrived today and the work will be pushed rapidly ahead. There is no shortage of binder irons as stated. Rails have now been laid from Wellington to York street on Dundas and Richmond, and workmen are putting on the finishing touches and leveling them.

Thy thoughts after Thee!" is a type of Professor Farrar, who eccupied the chair of natural philosophy at Harvard University two-thirds of a century ago, was a man possessed of this enthusiasm for his work, and beloved by his pupils, whom he inspired with something of his own spirit. One day the class entered the lecture room and found the professor walking backward and forward, with kindled eye and working face, holding a ball in his hand. Presently he stop-ped and confronted the class, and exclaimed, suiting the action to the word: "I toss this ball into the air; the earth rises up to meet it, and the stars bow down to do it reverence:" Probably no member of the class who heard these words ever forgot their absolutely, accurate lesson; that action and reaction are equal; that the apple which falls to the earth, at the same time draws the earth to itself in the exact ratio of their relative weight and disturbs even the course of the planets and stars. Still less could they forget the grandeur and unity so viv idly expressed in that brief imagery. DIED.

The Secret Out.

It was 1 o'clock. Before the fire, which Q after much industry had succeeded in kindling for his own and Dr. Cameron's use, the latter lay, listening to the roaring of the tempest and sounding between his anxious starts at the vague noises which now and then came from the adjoining room, the depths of a misery which was now utterly unrelieved by hope. Near him, in the narrow recess made by the jutting of the chimney, slept Q, with his ear, as Dr. Cameron could not but notice, laid against the partition which separated their room from that occu-pled by Dr. Molesworth. Though he had no reason to think this was done nientionally, he was yet sufficiently disturbed by it not to let his eyes wander from the detective's face. Weird watching though it was, it gave him something to do, which is much to a man situated as he was. The room was full of shadows, and though he did not observe it, there was one which stretched across the ceiling like long arm reaching to clutch him. As he leaned forward to replenish the fire, from time to time, this arm seemed to acquire purpose, and threatened and reached at him in a way that was truly appalling. Happily, it was but a shadow.

It was 1 o'clock, as 1 nave said, and the storm was still raging, But it had its lulls now, and in the comparative quiet made by one of these, the doc-ter was suddenly startled by the sound of a voice-from what quarter he did not at first realize-speaking in what seemed to him the hurried and unnatural tones of a dreamer.

"Is the hall light?—Very fight.—No one on stairs—Able to reach street— Only keep cool-Oh! oh! the glassy look Great God! what talk was this? Dr. Cameron felt his heart stand still, and stared at the detective as if to see if such words could come from him. But the idea showed litself false in an instant, for Q's lips remained silent, while the horrible jabber, now apparently smothered by distance, went on. "How shall I carry her?—So? No, no, no, face exposed—This better? Yes—but now hand hangs down. O God! O God!-what a task? It was Molesworth. No other man had such memories to unbalance him. was living over the past, and saying in his sleep what the rack could have extorted from him had he been awake. As the doctor realized this, with all the possibilities of dis-covery it entailed, his soul almost dissolved in dismay, and he scarcely dared to glance again toward the quiet figure of the detective, lest he should perceive him start from his place, with ears wide open to catch the revelations let fall by the unconscious dreamer. And still the smothered and monotonous utterance went rapidly on. -Is very heavy-Not know dead heart-like lead, lead. Maddened, driven out of an command over himself, Dr. Cameron stirred and wildly threw up his arms. Should he rise and with frenzied exclamations drown the words that were giving away the secret of their neighbor's personality, upon the suppression of which his whole honor and happiness depended? Or should he slide to the floor and with the silence and celerity of a shadow fall upon the detective and stop his ears, so that he should hear no more of these dread utter-bodies weighed so much-Must be her

Both expedients were those of frenzy. and neither of them remained in his mind for a moment. If Q were awake —and who could say he was not—the least effort of his to hush the dreamer would be noted and given its true interpretation. He must therefore curb himself; he must not only remain still, but he must not appear to hear. Difficult, almost impossible task, yet he must perform it.

Letting his arms fall, he settled his head back on the sofa and shut his eyes in apparent sleep; and cold and icy as was the night, the perspiration started from every pore as he heard that voice again, saying in accents to which horror now lent a hollow sound: "Have handled many-never held dead body to breast before. Horriblegruesome-makes blood stand still in veins-Can't let it go-no stop now-Sounds-music-laughter-Must creep with dreadful burden-step by step-stair by stair-down, down, down-" There was silence, It was like a gulf into which every hope of the doctor went down. There was no denying now who the speaker was. But one man in all this community had secretly carried a dead girl out of a house of feasting and dancing. Molesworth was discovered, Molesworth would be taken back to New York and she whom his evidence would destroy-But that voice is speaking againfinal utterances, bitter and sad.

"My wedding night—Never marry now—chill of this body sinks deep through heart and spirit-Shall never see anything but death in-brightest eye-sweetest smile-Genevieve! Gene-That name was all that was needed. Dr. Cameron could not keep his glance from wandering in anguish to the detective's face, and thought he perceived a difference in its expression. But as the moments went by, and that person neither moved nor spoke, the watchful physician began to allow himself to hope that his companion's sleep was real and not assumed. He on his part preserved the quiet into which he had steeled himself, drawing longer and deeper breaths till he felt sure that the detective, if awake, must be deceived into a belief that he at least was sleeping. He even carried his ruse so far as to let the fire die down, though the increasing chill was almost intolerable to one with limbs so benumbed as his. But all this produced no effect upon Q. He remained in the same unstudied position into which he had at first thrown himself, till the doctor felt certain that he had heard nothing positions and the had heard nothing, notwithstanding his boast of being a light sleeper. And being him-self both physically and mentally at the last ebb, he finally let simulation merge into reality and fell into a deep and dreamless sleep.

He may have rested an hour, he may have rested longer, when he suddenly awoke. There had been a movement in the room, and he had either heard it or felt it. With a clear remembrance of where he was and the terrible circumstances surrounding him, he glanced towards the corner where he had left Q lying, and by the fading light of the candle, which had now reached its socket, discovered that the spot was empty. With a hasty turn of his head, he now looked towards the door in time to see the detective just disap-pearing behind it,

"He is going to interview Molesworth: I am lost!" thought the doctor. And reckless of consequences, he slid to his feet and carefully crossed the floor to the hall.

But before he got there he neard a very different sound from what he expected. Instead of that peremptory knock or that quiet trying of the opposite door, which seemed natural under the circumstances, there came the noise of the ladder being lifted and fitted to its place; and almost before the doctor could realize the happy cir-cumstance, Q had placed his foot upon the top round and was rapidly descending out of sight and hearing.

Astounded at this unexpected move, and determined to profit by it, risk or no risk, Dr. Cameron waited only long enough to hear him cross the floor below, and then, bounding to Dr. Molesvorth's door, shook it sharply, crying, "Open! open! I've a word to say to you, Don't delay for God's sake!" Would he hear? Would he answer? The instant of suspense was horrible. But in that moment, almost with the sound of the doctor's voice, a light tread crossed the floor, the bolt flew back, and the door opened.

"What is it? Who is the man and—" "Hush! it is a detective. You have been talking in your sleep and he must know you are in the house. Come out! creep down the ladder, hide yourself in a dark corner and awat an opportunity for flight."

"I have a better means of escape than that. Keep him from this room till 6 in the morning, then let him enter. He will not find me here.

"How-" "No questions. Let him come in, but don't let him remain. At 6 or after; but not a minute before." And with just a murmur of Good-by, Dr. Molesworth closed his door again and the other heard the lock shoot back into its bolt and all was as before, save for the beating of the listener's heant.

"What can he mean? How can he escape?" were the questions that naturally flashed through Dr. Cameron's "We are in the second story, and his room, if I do not mistake, overlooks the river, which is much too turbulent and wild to trust one's self to, even in the calmest of weather; while on such a night as this—" He did not pursue his thoughts for he heard Q returning, but crept back to his couch, where he lay with wide open eyes till that personage appeared in the door, dragging a great skin which he had bulled down from the wall be-

"Did you think I was going to freeze with such a coverlid to be had for the taking?" he cried, catching the doctor's eye and laughing merrily. "I'm serry to disturb any one, and I'm a little ashamed I didn't bring one for you too. But I'll go back if you say so; there's another prime one-But the doctor declined the proffered favor; he had an extra overcoat to keep him warm, and so the detective betook him to his corner again, and Dr. Cameron watched him as long as the light of the candle lasted, and when that had gone out, listened, while the gale blew on without, coming now in great gusts and then subsiding, only to gather fresh strength and shake the house and the hearts of all within, with its relentless fury. (To be continued.)

Home.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": In my last letter I referred to what we were given to expect for summer weather, and it has occurred to me that now as we have virtually passed through the summer months, some of your readers might be interested in our own actual experience. I confess we did not quite believe all we had been told, and indeed I hesitate to write exactly what I think about 15 myself, for fear of the same fate. Cre is apt to make so much allowance for undue enthusiasm or bias, and it is so hard to realize how it can be so cool and comfortable in mid-summer so far south. I will therefore give simply the figures taken from the official Government report, and let them speak for themselves.

The highest point reached by the thermometer in June was 75 degrees, and then only for two hours on each of two days, and in July 73 degrees for one hour one day. So far this month (Aug. 21) it has not exceeded from 70 to 72 degrees, except on three days on which it touched 78, 76 and 74 degrees respectively. The greatest range between maximum and minimum temperatures for June was 19 and 17 degrees on two days, 10 to 14 on six days, and only from 3 to 9 degrees during the balance of the month. In July it was from 9 to 12 degreeon six days, and 4 to 8 degrees the rest of the month, and with the even and moderate temperature there is a fine sea breeze every day and all day.

The winter was delightful, but the summer surpasses it. San Diego is an ideal summer resort. I never imagined anything quite so pleasant anywhere. There are a few things, however, which form, as it were, the hyphen in the "non-perfect." As there is absolutely no rain through the summer the dust is rather bad. I do not use a stronger expression, as it does not seem any worse than about Lon-The fact is that the frequent and heavy rains tend to cut up your roads more, and besides ours are naturally harder. We do not feel it in the city, as the streets are watered. The country is, of course, all parched where there are no fruit ranches, and the hills do not look nearly as well as in winter. We miss the green grass and the perfect carpet of flowers which the rains bring. The moths have to be watched, and the fleas are a perfect torment. They do not bother some, and it is said the rest don't mind them after awhile. That time can't come too soon for me. ### 34 YEARS IN SERVICE.

Retirement of a Prominent English Rail-of the London and Northwestern Railway Company, of England, has retired from that position, which he has ably filled for the past 34 years. He has been closely identified with railway work for over a period of 48 years, and has always been a conspicuous figure in the transportation interests of the motheriand. On two occasions he was chosen chairman for the year of the Railway Clearing House Superintendents' Conference, and in the work of the conference took an important part. His position naturally brought him in close contact with exalted passengers, and he has made no fewer than 112 journeys with the royal family. In the final one, in June last, her Majesty personally expressed her deep regret at his intended retirement from the service of the company, and the full appreciation of his constant attentions to herself and the members of the royal family during the numerous journeys they had made for so many years past over the line. He was also made the recipient of a handsome gift, on which was a flattering subscription by her Majesty. Mr. Neele is not unknown in Canada and the United States, having visited both countries, where he made many warm friends, especially amongst railway officials. Full of years and honors, his retirement from the responsible position he has filled so ably is accompanied by the best wishes of his subordinates, with whom he was deservedly popular, and by the deep regrets of the directors of the great railway company of which he was an efficient and loyal servant.

Nature's Voices. To the discerning ear Nature has many voices. She has a message in the sweet tones of the brook as it rushes down the hillside in ocean's moody voices, now rippling with gentlest ca-dence upon the golden sands, anon in deep boisterous voice as she lashes the beach with foam. Then the voice of trees which the laughing winds bear to our ears, of sunshine and shade, of hill and valley, of bird and flowers. But she comes in pain, too, the voice of the aching, stinging corn speaks impressively, but Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor removes the worst corn in 24 hours, painlessly, and without leaving sore spots.

Conceit is to nature what paint is to beauty; it is not only needless, but impairs what it would improve.-Pope. Why do we look at women's errors through a telescope, and reverse the glass when we view those of men?

A LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with re-Inctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

Grand Special Attraction. Those intending to visit Toronto during the Industrial Fair should not fail to spend an evening at the new Princess Theater, which is nearing completion, and will be opened on Monday, Sept. 2. It is said that this new theater, when finished, will not only be the handsomest in Canada but equal to many in the large cities of the United States and one of the attractions of l'oronto. It is situated on the site of the old Academy of Music, King street, west of York street, where only the very best traveling companies will be seen. Mr. Frank Connelly, the manager, has secured especially for the first week of the Fair America's greatest player, Mr. Frederick Warde, who will be seen in a round of superb productions, and will present for the first time on any stage the great drama, "Runnymede." The second week, commencing Monday, Sept. 9, will be devoted to high class musical comedy, "A Gay Old Boy," a new comedy on the order of a "Trip to Chinatown," presented with Mr. Joseph Hart, of Hallan & Hart, in the leading role. With two such strong attractions the new Princess should enjoy crowded houses during the fair, and those desiring a delightful evening should secure their tickets during the day, when all visitors to Toronto are cordially invited to inspect one of the handsomest theaters in America. THE MISSIONARY DISPUTE.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland Asks for a Suspen sion of Judgment.

Dr. Sutherland, missionary secretary of the Canada Methodist Church, writes: "The publication of the letter from six of our missionaries in Japan has placed before the whole church statements seriously affecting the action and administration of myself and Dr. Macdonald. As the whole question has been, and still is, under consideration by the executive committee, and will be finally adjudicated by the general board in October, it would be manifestly improper for me, as an officer of the society, to enter the arena of newspaper controversy, or to try to influence public opin ion on a question that is before the properly constituted court. But to prevent a grave injustice to Dr. Macdonald, by allowing one sided statements to go unchallenged, I will go so far as to say that documentary and other evidence will be placed before the general board sufficient, in my opinion, to fully vindicate Dr. Macdonald's course. As for myself, I will only say that I shall be prepared, at the proper time and place, to present such evidence as will effectually answer any impeachment of my administration, and show clearly where responsibility for the troubles in Japan properly belongs. Meanwhile, I would suggest that the only wise and safe course for the friends of our missions to pursue, is to suspend judgment until all the facts are before them, and especially to avoid further complicating the matter by a public controversy which, at present, must necessarily proceed upon one-sided and imperfect information.'
