ASSERTS PINE LAWN HOUSES BADLY BUILT

TOO HIGHLY ASSESSED

Alleges Leaky Roofs, Warped Floors and Various Other Defects.

Vindicating the stand taken by The Advertiser in face of many denials one year ago, L. O. Swift of Pine Lawn appeared before the court of revision for ward three Friday night, on behalf of a deputation of citizens who have purchased homes in that district from the London housing commission, and declared that the "houses are extremely faulty."

Mr. Swift, and his neighbors, who backed him up in his statements Friday night, gave the lie to the statement published in London Thursday that "practically all of the houses have been disposed of to home-seeking citizens, who state that they have no reason to regret their bargains."

More Than Worth.

"We are paying a lot more than the houses are worth," said Mr. Swift, approved by eight other owners who appealed against the assessment on Pine Lawn property. Owing to the fact that Mr. Swift declared that "a majority of the faults are common to all," he was allowed to state the case for the entire delegation of indignant Pine Lawn citizens.

Despite the published statement that the occupants of these houses "in repeated interviews have declared to be as good as may be found on similar priced houses anywhere," Mr. Swift, with the approval of the deputation, said: "The roofs are all leaky, and the price is extravagant for that locality."

Additional faults listed by the deputation in connection with these dwellings purchased from the city included the following: "The basement let in water, most of the roofs are leaky, there are gaps in the floors that the dust comes through when we shake the furnace, the windows are warped, and there are a lot of smaller defects."

"All of us took the houses on the understanding that the assessment would not be more than $2,000," Mr. Swift informed the court. "The language used to sell the houses was low taxes and easy terms. We are paying a lot more than the houses are worth."

"Who made those promises?" asked Sheriff Graham, a member of the court.

Had No Power.

"You know they have no power to do as they said," commented Chairman P. B. Fetterly.

"But, gentlemen, they represented the housing commission," protested Mr. Swift. "Surely we could take these officials at their word. We wrote a letter to them asking the support of the housing commission in this appeal, but received no answer. We claim the property is assessed over its actual value at $2,200 for a four-roomed house, and $2,500 for a five-roomed home."

"We feel that an extraordinary mistake has been made," he continued. "The houses are extremely faulty."

"You can repair them," advised Chairman Fetterly.

"That is not up to us," replied the spokesman for the delegation, pointing out that the houses were purchased in good faith as being in first-class condition.

"We will take it up with Mr. Grant

SHOWERS ASSURE WESTERN CROPS

Calgary, June 24.—The district enjoyed intermittent and copious showers yesterday. The precipitation was not great, but cool weather and showers mixed with a couple of downpours within the last two weeks have made the farmers practically certain of a splendid crop this year.

Demands British Home Secretary Quit

ASK REMOVAL OF SHORTT IN WILSON PROBE

Coalition Unionists Inclined To Go Over To "Die Hard" Party.

SECRETARY MAY RESIGN

Waverers Take Attitude That Irish Treaty Fails To Bring Peace.

London, June 24.—The probable effect on the political situation of the assassination of Field Marshal Wilson attracts attention this morning, and all the newspapers speculate as to the position of the British government in view of the outbursts of anger in Parliament at the withdrawal of protection from prominent men.

The intense indignation over the murder is mingled with widespread feeling that it should have been prevented, and consequently a scapegoat is being sought. Home Secretary Shortt, as responsible head of the police, has been singled out particularly as a necessary victim, and his removal is demanded. That he will forestall the political pressure on the government by voluntarily resigning is predicted in some quarters.

Monday's session of the House of Commons may see the defection of a large number of the Coalition Unionists, who have hitherto supported the government's Irish policy, but who are now more than ever inclined to attach themselves to the "die hards."

These Conservative waverers are represented as taking the attitude that they supported that Anglo-Irish treaty because the government assured them it would settle the Irish question and peace would follow. Peace has not followed, they say, and the government must take the consequences. Nothing, it is declared, has occurred since the last general election to weaken the party allegiance so dangerously.

Whether this resentment will crystallize during the week-end into a solid opposition menacing the existence of the government or whether a calmer view will prevail by Monday will only be seen when the commons reconvenes. Many of the political writers declare the cabinet is seriously perturbed at the outlook and that the government whips are anxiously reckoning the strength of the support they may expect should the issue come to a head.

The report of a widely-organized plot of violence and outrage against British public men persists, but nothing tangible has been uncarthed to support it, and it is stated in some quarters that if such a plot ever existed the slayers of Field Marshal Wilson cannot be connected with it.

British officials are understood to have been in communication with the provisional government in Dublin concerning crime, but nothing authoritative in this connection is disclosed.

The official precautions to protect public men have not yet been extended to include the closing of the public galleries in parliament. They were open yesterday as usual, but some of the occupants apparently were detectives.

The Morning Post prints prominently a statement from a nunnamed correspondent that Lady Wilson yesterday sent a message to the cabinet to the effect that the presence of any cabinet minister at her husband's funeral would be distasteful to her. The message caused much consternation, and the newspaper says a letter was written to Lady Wilson begging her to reconsider her

WM. ROCKEFELLER, OIL MAGNATE, DIES

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 25.—William Rockefeller, oil magnate and brother of John D. Rockefeller, died here today from pneumonia shortly before 7 o'clock. Mr. Rockefeller had been ill at his home, Rockwood Hall, in North Tarrytown, since Sunday, but word of his condition was not made public.

Enjoying "Absolute Rest With No Visitors" At Home

His condition remains serious, and he is reconciled to his doctor's instructions, which are "absolute rest and no visitors."

When 21, Harmsworth founded "Answers" on the theory that a paper cheaply produced could be made within financial reach of the masses. As this was a departure from established journalism, failure was emphatically predicted for the young publisher. But a few years later, he sold Answers for $6,000,000.

Next he bought the London Daily Mail, and with it ventured into the then untried field of "tabloid journalism," the telling of news briefly and concisely. In three years the Daily Mail attained the largest circulation of any newspaper in the English language.

Harmsworth rapidly obtained control of other newspapers and magazines (including the London Times), until he became the largest newspaper and magazine owner in the world and one of the richest and most powerful men in the British empire.

He was created baronet in 1904 and raised to the peerage as Baron Northcliffe in 1905. He was made viscount in 1917.

Northcliffe headed the British war mission abroad in 1917, and was director of propaganda in enemy countries in 1918.

It is generally conceded that Northcliffe's attack on the conduct of the war was responsible for those changes which resulted in the elevation of Lloyd George to the premiership. Later, however, Northcliffe and Lloyd George became embroiled in a violent disagreement.

YOUNG DOCTORS LEAVE HOSPITAL

Members of Staff of Victoria Accept Appointments Elsewhere.

Senior Medical Students Will Fill Vacancies Created by Resignations.

Several changes on the staff of Victoria Hospital were announced Saturday. The appointments of internes who are senior students at Western University Medical School was made necessary in view of the fact that several young doctors have resigned to follow their chosen profession elsewhere. This practice has been in vogue at Victoria Hospital since the period of the war.

The new internes appointed this year at Victoria Hospital and their homes are as follows: J. E. Hunter, London; H. G. Fletcher, Ilderton; C. M. L. Beattie, Sarnia; H. H. Stothers, London; G. C. Leckie, Sarnia; A. R. Post, St. Thomas; L. G. Cargill, Cargill, Ont.; M. C. G. Fletcher, Strathroy, and Dr. Roy Kingswood of London, who is chief resident physician.

Internes who have resigned are: Dr. W. E. Mace and C. A. Cline of London, who have accepted appointments to the staff of Hamilton General Hospital, Dr. T. O. Smith of London and Dr. Murray S. Douglas of Ilderton, who will practice medicine in this district; Dr. Hugh Lewis and Dr. John Fisher, both of Glanworth; Dr. Kenneth Johnson of London, who will follow post-graduate work in England, and Dr. Murray Simpson and Dr. Carl B. Bowen of Niagara Falls and Aylmer respectively, who have accepted appointments elsewhere.

Dr. Robert Johnson of this city, chief resident physician of Victoria Hospital, has resigned in order that he might practice his profession in London.

APPROVE WASHINGTON TREATY.

Tokio, June 24.—The Japanese privy Council today approved unanimously the quadruple treaty recommended at the Washington arms conference. The treaty was sent to the prince-regent for ratification. He promised that this formality would be carried out.

Court Awards $200 Balm For Tax-Sick Stomach

H. SIGEL, a resident of Horton street, provided a laugh for the court of revision, which heard appeals against assessment of property in Ward Three Friday night.

Mr. Sigel did not take kindly to the prospect of having his taxes boosted, and so informed the court.

"The increase in assessment make me sick with the stomach," was the startling declaration made by him to the court.

Not desiring to accept responsibility for causing a citizen to suffer such inconvenience, the court reduced Mr. Sigel's assessment by $200.

RIDICULES WAR CRITICS WAGE TO DISCREDIT UTILITIES BODY

Acting Manager A. O. Hunt Believes Success of Water Well Is Assured, and Points Out That City Is Protected by Iron-Clad "No Water, No Pay" Contract.

Branding it as a deliberate attack upon the public utilities commission, A. O. Hunt, acting general manager of that body, took decided exception Saturday to the recent report with respect to London's deep-well undertakings in East London and elsewhere throughout the city.

Backed by the assurance of the experts in the employ of the Ohio Well Digging Company engaged by the city, Manager Hunt is confident that the 90-foot well now being sunk in the southeastern section of the city, will measure up to expectations at least 1,000,000 gallons of water every 24 hours.

By Saturday at 11 o'clock a depth of nearly 65 feet had been reached, and Manager Hunt points out that the progress from now on will be steady and satisfactory.

"We have come through the worst now," he explains, "the drillers have passed the clay, and are now in the gravel. They believe that from now on they will be able to sink two feet a day until the required depth of 90 feet is reached."

Believe Supply Sure.

Manager Hunt, as well as the drillers themselves, are enthusiastic concerning the volume of water that the well is calculated to yield despite all the pessimistic reports and rumors to the contrary.

"As an instance," the manager pointed out, "before the present well was commenced the drillers sunk a 4-inch test well, and when water was encountered it shot up through the pipe to a distance of four or five feet above the surface of the earth. You can imagine what a force must be behind it."

"It is reasonably safe to assume that the Ohio Well Digging Company, after completing careful tests not only in Southeast London but throughout the district, would not proceed with this undertaking unless practically assured of success. The city is protected by an iron-clad contract; no water, no pay. They would be simply foolish to start if they were not confident that the location would yield good fresh water in abundance. They would stand to lose money."

Although unwilling to make announcements of too great optimism Mr. Hunt stated that after the depth of 50 feet was reached water was actually found in the gravel, and the well was then but a trifle over half completed.

SCORES CANADIAN LITERARY OUTPUT

Fort William, June 24.—Canada has no genius in literature as she has in art, declared Miss Lucy Doyle, prominent Canadian newspaper woman, at a luncheon at the convention of the National Council of Women yesterday. Canadians need no encouragement to write, but they must be made to write well, she said. In spite of the output of Canadian fiction, the first-class productions are few. They are written for a great part in colorless English, and lack the vital element necessary in good literature. There is a tremendous lack of worthy criticism.

To Present Premier With Ancestor's Bayonet

TORONTO, June 24. — When Premier W. L. Mackenzie King pays his next visit to Toronto he will be presented with the old bayonet, supposed to be the one that William Lyon Mackenzie carried through the rebellion of 1837, and which was discovered by E. A. McCarthy, of this city, in the garden at the rear of his home over eighteen years ago. He has been treasuring it ever since, but now that he is leaving the house where he has lived for the last quarter century he desires to hand it over to the descendant of the reformer.

WILL CONSIDER PROTECTION FOR FRONT ST. LAND

Aldermen Attend Meeting of Residents of Menaced District.

CLAIM CITY NOT LIABLE

Ratepayers Claim Clinkers Still Dumped On River Bank.

Claiming that they are not engineering experts, and therefore cannot make any offer to the city, whereby their property can be protected from flooding by the River Thames, ratepayers of Front street, Friday night urged Ald. Ashton, May and Brighton, who attended their meeting, to obtain a report from the city engineer on the best method of protecting their land. Ald. John Ashton promised to obtain such a report, and to present it to No. 2 committee of the city council in session next Tuesday.

Devising a Scheme.

The meeting, which was called on the advice of the city council, was held for the purpose of devising a scheme for protecting Front street property to be presented to the council. In addition to the three aldermen, there were 20 ratepayers interested present.

A. R. Douglas, acting crown attorney, was also present on behalf of the ratepayers.

Ald. Ashton admitted to the meeting that no report on the matter had ever been given to the city council by the city engineer, and, therefore, the council had nothing definite to work upon. He promised to obtain a report from Engineer Brazier on the best method of protecting Front street from flooding, and to present it at the next meeting of No. 2 committee.

A report on various styles of a proposed breakwater will be obtained from Mr. Brazier, together with the estimated cost.

"The people have nothing definite to work upon," said A. R. Douglas.

No Claim On City.

"You have no legal claim on the city, but there is a moral obligation to protect every citizen," said Ald. John Ashton. "When a poor man needs protection his cause is seldom taken up. Everyone cannot live in the best residential section of the city, and citizens must often buy land

CELEBRATES 26TH YEAR IN COMMONS

Ottawa, June 24.—By the Canadian Press.—"I feel as young as I was 26 years ago," Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the speaker, informed the Commons last night, after the prime minister had congratulated him on celebrating the 26th anniversary of his entry into parliament.

No judgeship or governorship was comparable with the friendship of the members of the house, Mr. Lemieux said. "I thank you all for the kindness and courtesy you have shown to me this session."

REPORTS BUMPER CROP OF BERRIES

Simcoe, June 24.—Heavy shipments of strawberries for various points in Ontario and Quebec have left the largely-horticultural county of Norfolk this week. The strawberries this year are a bumper crop, and raspberries and cherries will also probably be heavy. Vegetable yields, especially in the case of peas, promise well, and the big canning factories are already alive with this year's crops.

ASSASSIN KILLS DR. RATHENAU

Fires Two Shots From Auto at German Minister.

Slayer Escapes, Leaving No Clue as to Identity.

Berlin, June 24.—Dr. Walter Rathenau, German minister of foreign affairs, was assassinated this morning.

The minister was shot and instantly killed as he was leaving his residence in Grunewald, a suburb of Berlin, for the foreign office in an automobile. The assassin escaped.

Official announcement of Dr. Rathenau's death was made in the Reichstag.

The murderer, who was driving in a motor car, slowed up as he was nearing Dr. Rathenau and shot twice at the foreign minister, the shots taking immediate fatal effect. Putting on high speed the assassin escaped. No clue of the identity of the murderer had been discovered up to noon today.

Dr. Walter Rathenau was styled the "wizard of the German empire," because of his high powers of organization and business ability, his expedients which kept the people eating and army shooting, when the blockade had shut off the importation of raw materials during the war. After the war, as minister of reconstruction, his meetings with the French minister, Louis Loucheur, brought about with businesslike directness adjustments and accommodations which had been the despair of diplomats. He was of Jewish birth, and was described as a man of great force and energy, vision and initiative. His father founded the Allegemeine Elaktrizitaets Gesellschaft (German General Electric Company of Berlin), commonly known as the A. E. G.

FLU DISRUPTS S. A. PARLIAMENT

London, England, June 24.—Canadian Press Cable.—Owing to a number of members of the South African parliament suffering from influenza, the parliament did not sit last night according to a cable from Reuter's Capetown correspondent. The outbreak of the influenza is widespread in the city of Capetown and Cape Peninsula, but there have been few fatal cases. All public offices and business houses in Capetown are affected by the disease.

KING'S DAUGHTERS ELECT OFFICERS

Vancouver, B. C., June 24.—Miss A. M. Brown of Toronto was yesterday re-elected president for the Dominion of the King's Daughters. Miss Brown, who has held this position in the order for the last 20 years, was unanimously re-elected. Mrs. W. E. MacMonagle of Woodstock, was chosen vice-president, and Mrs. J. E. Austen, Toronto, was re-elected treasurer. The next convention will be held in Montreal.

CITY FORCED TO ATTACK INCOME TAX SLACKERS

WARD 1 MAIN OFFENDER

Commissioner Grant "Going Right Down List and Summons Them All."

One hundred businessmen of London, who have disregarded notices served by the city to file income tax returns, will be summoned to police court next week, Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant informed The Advertiser Saturday morning.

Mr. Grant pointed out that the penalty which those offenders may be called upon to pay is a fine of ten dollars for every day that the income tax returns are delayed.

As these returns in the case of the one hundred Londoners are long overdue, they may be called upon to pay heavy fines if the court so rules. As they have been notified several times by the assessment department, Mr. Grant states that failure to file the returns is not an oversight and that there is no excuse which may be reasonably offered by the defense.

"There are about one hundred citizens who are going to be summoned to police court to explain why they have not filed income tax returns," said Mr. Grant. "They will not come to us, so we will go to them. Every one of them has been notified to file returns three or four times at least.

Bulk In Ward One.

"The bulk of these businessmen are assessed in ward one," continued the assessment commissioner. "The law provides a fine of ten dollars for every day that they have delayed filing returns, and some of them may be called upon to face a heavy penalty.

"We might just as well make a little money for the city as the Ontario temperance act, and I am going to summons these men. I do not know whether to start on the big fellows first, but I think the best system will be to go right down the list and summons them all.

"Four prominent citizens who failed to file income tax returns had themselves arbitrarily assessed by the assessment department," concluded Mr. Grant. "They then appealed this assessment, taking it to the court of revision, which met Friday night. The court allowed the appeals, as these citizens have since filed income tax returns."

URGES OPPOSITION TO SOVIET RUSSIA

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 24.—With adjournment tonight in sight, the American Federation of Labor convention began its last day's work with the question of recognition of Soviet Russia holding the right-of-way. Early disposition, however, was certain, for only two speeches—one for, the other against—was possible under the preliminary session.

President Samuel Gompers and other foes of the Soviet, having scored a preliminary victory in forestalling protracted debate, were ready to press forward with their program calling for the federation to go on record for a third time as opposed to the Soviet.

Kiddies Rejoice At Opening of City Playgrounds

NINE IN OPERATION.

With the coming of summer holidays London mothers, who cannot send their children to the lakeshore or to the country for a vacation, are no longer confronted with the problem of finding safe amusement for them at home.

London's nine civic playgrounds, each with a competent supervisor, were officially opened at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and the problem of keeping youngsters off the streets and out of the way of automobiles solved.

A splendid record was set last year, the first year in which the playgrounds were thoroughly organized and operated. Not a single child was hurt in a street accident, nor was there a case of drowning. At that time there were eight playgrounds in operation, and this year another has been added to the list. To provide for the children in East London, a playground has been set up inside the racetrack at Queen's Park, and although all the equipment has not yet been installed, it was opened with the others Saturday morning.

At Thames Park the baseball diamond and swimming and wading pools have been completed, and conditions are ideal for the children who spend their holidays in the city.

Mothers who have heretofore been sorry to see the end of school and anxious to see it open again may spend the summer in peace, and send their children to the playgrounds, confident that they will be as safe as on the veranda at home.

There is everything at the playgrounds to delight the hearts of school children from the youngest to the oldest, and it is a question of whether "going away on a holiday" will be as attractive to London children now as staying at home, and spending their time in the civic playgrounds.

7 LIVES LOST AS HURRICANE SWEEPS WEST

Roofs Carried Away From Many Structures in Winnipeg As Foundations Shake.

WINNIPEG, June 23.—After claiming seven known dead, severely injuring twelve persons, and slightly injuring many others, the cyclone which left a trail of ruin in its wake from Eastern Saskatchewan to the Ontario boundary has spent its fury.

The property loss will probably exceed the million mark, and it is expected that the casualty list will be greatly augmented when reports from sparsely-settled districts are received.

Many public buildings were damaged.

Brandon, Portage la Prairie, Winnipeg and Lydiatt were in the path of the storm which wreaked great havoc at Portage.

Among the list of known dead are: Charles Spence, 14, Portage la Prairie, killed in falling house; Garfield Price, 8, Winnipeg, killed when he touched live wire; 9-months' old baby of Mrs. Pauline Kormrie, Lydiatt, killed in collapse of house.

The Methodist, Anglican and Presbyterian Churches at Portage la Prairie were unroofed and badly damaged.

The city's hotels and garages fared badly, and in the collapse of a residence 14-year-old Charles Spence was killed.

The breaking of high-tension wires later started a fire which destroyed three grain elevators, those of the Metcalfe, Forsythe and Premium Companies.

No estimate of the loss is available.

Blew 84 Miles an Hour.

Accompanied by a rainfall of tropical violence, the storm struck Winnipeg and blew with an extreme velocity of 84 miles an hour, to an alarming accompaniment of electrical disturbances.

Terrific gusts of wind shook the city to its foundations.

Roofs were carried away from many structures, big and little alike; an ice warehouse toppled in a heap; hundreds of fine trees were uprooted or deprived of branches which fell to the roadways; windows were driven in like paper; telegraph and telephone wires were broken down to add an element of danger which later in the morning cost the life of Garfield Price, aged 8, who grasped a live wire and was instantly killed.

In half an hour the storm passed on. The farthest east damage was done at Lydiatt, where the home of Mrs. Pauline Kormrie was dismantled, baby Kormrie, aged nine months, was killed and Mrs. Kormrie and an older child were brought to Winnipeg very seriously injured.

The Canadian Pacific Railway station was shifted from its foundations, a railway sleeping-car was overturned and several employees injured, and damage was done to farm buildings and crops.

Communication Crippled.

Train services in and out of Winnipeg have been maintained unbroken, but all the other lines of communication were crippled.

Hundreds of telegraph poles in the vicinity of Portage and Lydiatt went down, and it was the middle of the afternoon before the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs had restored direct communication with Eastern Canada, while at that hour their western lines remained unbroken, although it was expected that the early evening would see a resumption of service.

The Canadian National Telegraphs were not so hard hit and maintained a limited service during the day. Telephone lines to Portage had not been re-established late tonight, although a line was working with Brandon most of the day.

The city hydro system lost one mile of towers and will provide a strictly limited service tonight. The Winnipeg Electric had to discontinue its Selkirk trains owing to the poles across the lines, but its Winnipeg service is being maintained and its lighting customers supplied by an emergency plant. Full repairs to both plants are expected Saturday.

The rain which fell will be of much benefit to crops in the storm belt, but in some areas the added presence of hail was a cause of damage and loss. It is thought that many farm buildings must have been destroyed or damaged, but the disorganization of telephones and telegraphs made it impossible to secure detailed information.

Further reports of casualties may come from isolated districts.

A ten thousand dollar seaplane, resting quietly at anchor in Winnipeg, was overturned and wrecked. Cases of minor damage were innumerable; of chimneys toppled, garages carried away and automobiles damaged, of overturned chicken-houses and missing poultry.

Explains Standing Back Dive

BY AILEEN RIGGIN.

Special to London Advertiser.

To do the standing back dive, one must acquire something of the ability of an acrobat.

It is good practice to try standing on the hands before trying to execute the dive. Practice soon will make perfect.

After you have become proficient in this, you are ready to go ahead.

Stand at attention on the free end of the board for an instant, then bend forward from the hips, and grip the end of the board with both hands.

Then swing into an upright position, hold it for an instant, and then spring out, bringing the hands smartly together.

Enter the water in a straight up and down position, with the fingers and toes pointed.

Canon Cody Preaches In Westminster Abbey At Consecration of 3 Bishops

London, June 24.—Canadian Press Cable.—Canon H. J. Cody, of Toronto, who preached in Westminster Abbey today, when the Archbishop of Canterbury consecrated three bishops, pleaded for a really spiritual leadership from the episcopate. Bishops ought not to be merely administrators or committeemen, he said.

Canon Cody, as one coming from the new world, where the future was seen in brighter colors than in the old world, ventured to voice a note of confidence and hope for the world at large.

The service of consecration was conducted with all the dignified simplicity of the Church of England, and it was impressive. Canon Cody simply and unaffectedly expressed his sense of responsibility in being given the privilege of participating in such an event in entire harmony with the occasion.

POSTAL CLERKS END SESSIONS

Elect F. C. Wilson of London As Provincial Vice-President.

Hamilton, June 23.—Better provisions in connection with the superannuation fund were urged at the closing session of the convention of the Dominion Postal Clerks' Association this afternoon.

Delegates resolved to request the government that payments into the fund shall not exceed 5 per cent of salaries received, and that those superannuated after 35 years of service receive 75 per cent of the actual amount of their salaries. Also that in event of death the widow of any such postal clerk shall receive two-thirds of the amount of the allowance, and each child under 18 years of age, shall receive $300. Consideration for those at present superannuated was also embodied in the resolution, as it is felt that many of these are not receiving an adequate allowance in view of the high cost of living.

Opposition was manifested to the proposal that a souvenir book of the convention be published, as it was felt that so far as local manufacturers are concerned they should not be exploited for any such purpose.

On motion of J. L. Keenan and W. J. Way of this city, the delegates resolved that at all future annual conventions each delegate will be called upon to bear a proportionate share of the convention's expenses.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, R. S. Bartlett, Toronto; vice-president, Pierre Menard, Montreal; secretary, B. B. Redditt, Toronto; treasurer, E. Hall, Ottawa. Provincial vice-presidents—For Ontario, Fred C. Wilson, London; Quebec, A. Beauchampe, Quebec City; Maritime Provinces, Charles O'Neill, Moncton.

COUNCIL OPPOSES INCREASED RATES

Special to London Advertiser.

WINDSOR, June 23.—City council tonight decided to oppose the application of the telephone company for increased business rates which place border rates on a par with those at London.

Special counsel will be engaged to appear before the Dominion Railway board when the application is heard. The company will spend $1,609,000 in extending the border system, according to F. W. Dewar, local manager, if the boost is allowed.

RAPS CRITICISM.

London, England, June 24.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Bishop of Ontario, Right Rev. Dr. E. J. Bidwell, in a letter to the Church Times, the leading high Anglican organ, characterizes as an insulting insinuation the passage in its recent review of the Canadian Prayer Book which describes the work as "timorous and apparently produced in terror of Protestant laymen with money." The bishop says it passes his comprehension how so disgraceful a charge should have been allowed to appear, and declares that it displays insular ignorance similar to that which lost to Great Britain the American colonies.

MINERS BOAST OF 27 KILLINGS

Illinois National Guard Mobilized in Chicago Awaiting Orders.

HERRIN, Ills., June 23.—Herrin today remained quiet after the wild disorders of yesterday, in which at least 27 men were killed and hundreds wounded, when 5,000 union miners and sympathizers attacked imported steam shovel men and laborers working in the Lester strip pit of the Southern Illinois Coal Company.

County officials maintained that since no one remained to work in the strip pit that of itself was a guarantee against further outbreaks, and asserted the 1,000 members of the Illinois national guard ordered to mobilize in Chicago for possible duty here were unnecessary.

An inquest into the carnage wrought by the miners and their supporters when, influenced by moonshine whiskey and angered at the efforts of the strip pit workers who had been termed in a telegram from the mine workers' international chief "common strike-breakers," they bore down at dawn on the huddled group, was set for today.

Miners Openly Boast.

Miners in Herrin streets openly boasted that they participated in the infliction of deaths by gunfire, hanging and dragging through the streets in a veritable Roman holiday, but no action was taken against them.

That the death list would be increased today seemed to be the concensus of opinion. Fifteen bodies were weighted about the necks and cast into a pond, a miner told a correspondent for the Associated Press, and the area over which killings occurred was estimated at 15 square miles of hilly timbered land.

The statement of Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois branch of the United Mine Workers of America, issued at Cincinnati, that his information indicated 44 men had been killed was interpreted as meaning that the entire number of besieged strike-breakers had perished, although of his own knowledge the Associated Press correspondent could account for but seven more than a score of bodies.

No Pitched Battle.

The dead at first were reported accounted for in a pitched battle between the strikers and sympathizers and the imported pit strippers when the local men attacked the barricaded workers at dawn.

Later, however, open statements from scores of persons on the streets here were to the effect that the workingmen surrendered at the first onslaught and, after having been tied into groups of three and six, were cruelly massacred; told to run a gauntlet of rifle fire, only to be shot to death at distances of a few feet when, wounded, one or two of a group would fall and drag the others to the ground; stabbed and hacked to death with knives; beaten with clubs, and at least three of them hanged, while in the instance of six men, at least, they were said to have been dragged over a rough rocky road behind an automobile.

FOUR KILLED IN ULSTER AMBUSH

Successful Cork Candidates in Recent Election Are Announced.

Belfast, June 24.—Four Irish Republican Army men were killed and several wounded at Cushendall, in Southeastern County Antrim, last night, when they ambushed a party of military and special Ulster constables. The crown forces suffered no casualties.

The constables and military left Ballymena, in Western County Antrim, at 8:30 o'clock, and while passing through the main street of the village of Cushendall, an hour later, they were attacked by a large body of Republican soldiers, who held positions on the high ground commanding the road. The crown forces left their motor cars and a running fight ensued.

Cork, June 24.—The successful candidates in Friday's parliamentary elections in the districts of North, Mid-west and South Cork, were announced this morning as follows:

Michael Collins, pro-treaty; Michael Bradley, labor; Sean Hales, pro-treaty; Daniel Vaughan, farmer; Sean Hayes, pro-treaty; Daniel Corkery, anti-treaty; Sean Moylan, anti-treaty, and Thomas Nagle, labor.

Those defeated included Mary MacSwiney, anti-treaty, sister of the late lord mayor of Cork, and Padraig O'Keefe, secretary of the Sinn Fein organization, and pro-treaty candidate.

Dublin, June 23.—Rory O'Connor, commander of the Irish republican army insurgents, has sent an ultimatum to Lloyd George that unless the British troops were removed from Dublin within 72 hours, military action will be taken, it was reliably reported here today.

All British troops on leave have been recalled to their barracks.

HOLD DEAN FAMILY ANNUAL REUNION

From far and near, members of the Garner V. Dean family gathered at Springbank, June 21, to enjoy one of the most successful reunions ever held by that family. The outing even surpassed the picnics of 1920 and 1921, which were the banner events in a long family history.

More than 240 people, many from several states of the Union were present. Among the out-of-town relatives were: W. A. Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Orpha Garner and son and daughter, as well as Charles Dean of Fint, Mich.; Jacob Garner of Flushing, Mich; Rev. Edward Sales and Mrs. Sales of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mrs. Boxall of Detroit; Mrs. Howell of Windsor, and others from Woodstock, Ingersoll, Embro, Thamesford and St. Marys.

Immediately after a program of sports, including an exciting baseball game in which Mrs. Orpha Garner starred with a record of nome runs, an election of officers was held. Charles Garner of Thamesford, was elected president; Robert Garner, London, vice-president, and W. J. Lince, London, secretary-treasurer.

Addresses were given by W. A. Garner and Robert Garner.

In the evening an enjoyable gathering was held at the home of Robert Garner of Oxford street.

Because everyone was so delighted with Springbank, the park was selected for the picnic of 1923.

O. T. A. OFFENDERS PAY HEAVY FINES

Special to London Advertiser.

CLINTON, June 23.—Two weeks' activities on the part of Inspector Pellow, Provincial Officer Whitesides and County Constable Wallis, has resulted in several convictions under the O. T. A.

It was known that outsiders had supplied local men with liquor for several celebrations.

William Bannon of Logan township appeared before Police Magistrate Meakins of Stratford, and was fined $1,000 and costs, and a stock of about $500 worth of whiskey (1922 make) which the officers discovered in a dug-out under his woodshed, was confiscated.

Bannon also faces charges of selling before Magistrate Reid in Goderich on Saturday.

Howard Doherty of Walton has been wanted by the officers for some time, and before Magistrate Reid he pleaded guilty by violating the O.T.A. and paid $100 and costs.

Ritchie's blacksmith shop in Brussels was the scene of a drinking bout recently ,and as a result four fines were recorded.

COW GORES BOY.

INGERSOLL, June 23.—Lloyd McMillan, aged 12, narrowly escaped serious injury today when he was gored by a neighbor's cow. He had gone to bring a cow from the pasture when he was attacked by another. As a result ten stitches were required to close a wound on his right arm. He was otherwise only slightly injured.

WINCHESTER JUNIORS HAD ANNUAL FIELD DAY

Events Were Hotly Contested and Rifle Demonstrations Were Interesting.

According to the usual custom, Unit 716 of the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps held their annual field day sports at the ranges at Westminster Valley on the afternoon of Saturday, June 17. About 50 guests were present, and spent a very enjoyable afternoon, with the following results:

The pro-marksman class was held down by Ted White with a score of 44 out of 70. W. Johnston was second with a score of 41, and Miss Clara Clark third, with 37.

In the sharpshooters class Miss R. Murtagh came first, score 60; second, Robert Frith, 58; third, Miss Pearl Fortner, 50.

The expert class, which is the highest, was won by Expert Rifleman Francis Floyd, with a score of 68 out of a possible 70. Frank Galloway came second with a score of 63, and Charles White won third place with a score of 60.

The races gave the following results:

Girls of 14, 100-yards dash—1 Miss Clara Clark, 2 Miss Rosa Murtagh, 3 Miss Beatrice Galloway.

In the evening an interesting exhibition was given o fthe use and abuse of a rifle—mostly the abuse—by Mrs. Fortner, Mrs. P. Floyd, Mrs. Frith, Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Murtagh. Mrs. Floyd easily carried off the honors of the day.

The married men also gave a similar exhibition, with Mr. Floyd, Mr. Watson, Mr. Peek and Mr. Tack. Mr. Watson was the winner.

Lunch was then partaken of, after which the prizes were awarded. Miss Fortner received the bronze badge awarded by the Dominion Rifle Club. She is the first in the city to win this mark of distinction among the girls. She has already in her possession three medals awarded by the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps, also the silver medal issued by the Playgrounds Association. She is now making her aim the expert medal, given by the W. J. R. C., and is also taking a course as instructress of a corps.

Great credit is due to the committee which arranged the afternoon, who were: Instructor H. Nicholls (chairman), Chief Recorder Francis Floyd, Instructor W. Galloway and Instructor L. Nye.

The ranges were in charge of Chief Instructor E. Murtagh of this division.

FINAL PLANS FOR FISHER'S GLEN CAMP

Registrations Coming In From More of the London Boys.

Fisher's Glen Camp registrations are continuing to come in to the Y. M. C. A. for both camps. The latest registrations for the Tuxis are: Mayer Lerner, Gordon Cummings, Sherwood Boughner, Jim Dey, Wilbur Keenleyside, Rev. F. W. K. Harris, Rev. W. L. Reid.

All the campers will be interested to know that Mr. R. Buchanan of Toronto has been secured as director of aquatics. Mr. Buchanan was the representative of Scotland in the international aquatic meet, and he will give a course in life-saving. He will prepare the boys for an aquatic meet, and will take an interest in every camper who wants to know more about the art of swimming.

ONEIDAS UNDEFEATED.

The Oneidas ball players are still undefeated. On June 23 they played against the Is-to-Bees and trimmed them to a score of 11—7. Wildgust took up the duties at the mound, and pitched good ball. In the first inning he was a little wild, but after that he held him opponents almost helpless. Vollick's, Graham and Drake all starred at bat. Wilgust had eight strike-outs, and only passed one man.

Score by innings:

	R.
Is-to-Bees ..... 4 0 0 1 2—	7

ONEIDAS' SECOND MEETING.

On Friday night, June 23, the Oneidas assembled in their club room at the Y. M. C. A.

The meeting was called and the minutes were read by the secretary. The meeting was conducted in a very business-like manner.

The manager and field captain of the ball team brought up an interesting matter. They suggested that the baseball officials draft up a league of four teams, and put up a cup for the winning team. Arrangements will be made and announced in next week's paper.

DOMINION RIFLE CLUB.

It is expected that soon there will be a match arranged between the Anzacs and the newly-formed club called the Isis, both of the Dominion Rifle Club.

DEMAND BRITISH SECRETARY QUIT

decision, which at first she refused to do.

The war office then informed the field marshal's widow, according to the Post, that the absence of cabinet members from a military public funeral would be regarded as disrespectful to the King. Thereupon she yielded, and it was arranged for the ministers to attend.

The Post's correspondent adds that when J. Austen Chamberlain, government leader in the Commons, called at the Wilson residence on the evening of the field marshal's assassination to express his sympathy, he was received by Lady Wilson's niece. Upon hearing him, she exclaimed: "You are the last man who should be in this house today!" She then left the room, and Mr. Chamberlain departed without accomplishing his mission.

ARREST SIXTEEN.

LONDON, June 23.—The police investigating the assassination of Field Marshal Wilson have come into possession of documents, says the Central News today, disclosing a conspiracy to take the lives of Premier Lloyd George and a number of other prominent persons and conduct a campaign of outrages.

Three factors led the police and military authorities to suspect that Wilson's death may have been only the first blow of a widespread murder plot against opponents of Republican Ireland. These were:

1. Discovery of a quantity of arms and ammunition, including hand grenades and gelinite, in a house within a stone's throw of Eaton Place, where Sir Henry Wilson was shot down.

2. Evidence of sixteen men and a woman arrested for questioning last night.

3. Stories of witnesses to the shooting of Wilson, who agree that apparent accomplices of the assassins were in the neighborhood and attempted to divert the chase following the murder.

16 Prisoners Held.

Fifteen men and one woman were arrested in the raids throughout London last night in connection with the assassination, it was announced in the House of Commons this morning by Mr. Chamberlain.

The Scotland Yard flying squad later made further raids in London. They took a number of men to the Cannon Row station for interrogation.

Questions put in the House of Commons today to members of the government, with regard to the assassination, constituted one of the most damaging demonstrations against the government that it has experienced, according to opinion in the lobby. The view was expressed there that had it been possible to debate the subject the existence of the government would have been seriously in question.

It had been decided, however, to defer debate until Monday, and government supporters argue that today's demonstration shows the wisdom of this decision as it is expected by them that opinion will be less inflamed by that time and the cabinet ministers will be in possession of the whole facts in the case.

Chamberlain Pale.

Mr. Chamberlain is said by those who were near him as he was questioned to have grown pale under the fire of interrogation, and a bad impression was created by his statement that police protection had been withdrawn from the cabinet ministers and other prominent men in England, when the position with regard to Ireland was believed to have improved. The government leader's answers, however, were generally more favorably received than those of Home Secretary Shortt, who replied to some of the questioners.

There was an unusually large attendance in the Commons. Mr. Lloyd George was not present, and his absence was the cause of some complaint, but Mr. Chamberlain explained that the premier was conferring with the police authorities regarding the steps to be taken in the situation.

The Conservative "die-hards" bombarded Mr. Chamberlain with questions, the cross-examination lasting half an hour. Some startling suggestions were contained in the queries.

Sir Hamar Greenwood Protected.

Mr. Chamberlain began by saying that everything possible was being done to protect life both in Ireland and England. There was little further information regarding the assassination, he told the house, adding it was inadvisable to make any public statement at the present time. The constables and the civilian who were wounded during the chase of the assassins were progressing satisfactorily, he said.

Answering questions, Mr. Chamberlain denied that instructions had been given Scotland Yard, in view of the improved relations of England and Ireland, to discontinue the Yard's activities with regard to Ireland. He added, however: "It was owing to what we believed to be the improved position that police protection was withdrawn from the ministers and others who had been under special protection."

Lady Wilson, who is heartbroken over her loss, has not left the body of her husband since the crime.

"The tragedy and inhumanity of it all," she exclaimed to friends today, "is that he should have been murdered by two of his countrymen."

Sir Henry will probably be buried in his field marshal's uniform.

HOSPITAL TRUST AMEND BYLAWS

Six Doctors Receive One-Year Appointments As Internes.

Six doctors received appointments to the position of internes in Victoria Hospital for a period of one year, from the hospital trust, at a meeting of that body in the hosopital Friday night. The six doctors appointed are: Drs. J. Alexander, H. M. Simpson, H. G. Fletcher, A. R. Post, M. D. Fletcher and L. Carghill.

The amended hospital bylaws received their first reading at the meeting. As amended the bylaws provide that free city patients are to be admitted to Victoria Hospital on an order from the medical officer of health of the city, if the city relief officer certifies to the inability of the said patients to pay for hospital treatment. This matter has been already before the city council, and it is expected that it will come into force on or about the first of July.

Previously free patients could be admitted for treatment on the recommendation of any physician in the city or on the recommendation of any hospital trustee.

The monthly report of the hospital for May presented at the meeting showed that in that month 371 patients were admitted to the instiution, and 248 were discharged. There were, accordin gto the report, 21 births and 17 deaths in the hospital, while the free dispensary treated during the month 590 patients.

Cash receipts in May amounted to $15,177.24. Other accounts were presented at the meeting and passed.

The trust gratefully acknowledges the following donations to the hospital throughout May: Weekly donations of magazines and periodicals from the Rotary Club; donations of flowers from the Horticultural Society; donations of flowers from Mrs. O. G. Edwards and Mrs. J. C. Duffield.

Those present at the meeting were Col. W. M. Gartshore, J. W. Laidlaw, Mayor Cameron Wilson, and the superintendent of the hospital, T. H. Heard.

Metropolitan Stores Purchase Dundas Street Building for $85,000.

With the purchase by the Metropolitan Stores of the property on Dundas street now occupied by them from the Gibbons estate, a new high record price was set for city property. The price was $85,000, or $2,430 a foot. deal was transacted through the London and Western Trusts.

The building at King and Talbot streets occupied until recently by the Merchants Bank has been sold to E. W. Moore of the Moore Fruit Company. Stables at the rear were purchased by A. Mann produce dealer.

ST. ANDREWS YOUNG FOLKS FROLIC AT SPRINGBANK

Exciting Baseball Game Features Delightful Picnic Attended by Over One Hundred.

The young people of St. Andrew's Church, numbering about one hundred, held a delightful picnic at Springbank Friday. The program commenced with supper, at a well-chosen spot just north of the loop. After supper teams captained by Charlie McGill and Dr. Giffen entered into a contest of baseball, which proved so keen that it kept enthusiastic fans in a continuous whirl of excitement.

The spectators were afforded much amusement when the umpire, Mr. George Hair, reversed the decision, and called the game off on account of darkness. The teams declared the honors even and parted friends.

Amongst the guests of the St. Andrew's young people were Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Mrs. D. C. McGregor, Miss Miller, Mr. and Mrs. George Hair, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Casselman, and Mr. and Mrs. Morley Adams. Miss Margaret Black most ably convened the social committee.

and let you know," said the chairman. "You know we turned one Pine Lawn resident's appeal down, and we cannot very well grant yours in the face of it."

U. A. Buchner then appeared on behalf of a client who appealed against assessment of a house of $3,300.

"You don't get much for $3,300 these days," said the chairman.

"You get more today than you did two years ago," came back Mr. Buchner amidst roars of laughter from the crowd, "especially if you are buying from the housing commission."

Jumped 90 Per Cent.

Israel Cohen asserted that the assessment had jumped 90 per cent in three years.

"It's up to you," he advised the court.

"Some cases have doubled in assessment," explained the chairman, confirming the assessment, "that is because they were not assessed properly before. You refuse to sell your property."

"Well, if the other people are satisfied I ought to be," said Mr. Cohen as he sat down.

S. D. Campbell appealed the assessment of his property.

"I can't get the price assessed for it," he declared.

"You are in the same boat as I am," the chairman sympathized. "Vacant land is a drug on the market." The assessment was confirmed.

E. B. Bourne appealed against being assessed $930 for a lot in East London, which he described as "a hole filled with tin cans, not fit for building."

Assessment Commissioner Grant declared that its use as a dump had increased the property by building it up. His recommendation regarding the property was accepted.

REPORTS CAR STOLEN.

On Friday night a touring car, license No. M-427, the property of J. Kent Campbell, 251 Sydenham street, was stolen between 9 and 11 o'clock, from in front of one of the theatres. Mr. Campbell reported the matter to the police, who have furnished a description of the car to all the surrounding towns.

BELIEVES MAYOR HAS HAD ENOUGH

Ashplant Declares Chief Executive Has Everything to Lose by Contest.

"I realize that Mayor Wilson has had enough in one round, and has no desire to come back for more," sarcastically remarked Ald. Ashplant, as he read Mayor Wilson's comments in Friday's Advertiser.

"His worship is wise in calling off the contest, as he has much to lose and nothing to gain by meeting me in the open.

"Discretion may in this case, be the better part of valor, but Mayor Wilson's method of retiring is not so graceful as it might be," said Ald. Ashplant. "In view of his worship's moral obligations as chief executive at the city hall, it is still up to Mayor Wilson to see that the downtown citizens get the relief they are entitled to, without the necessity of a mandamus to compel him to do his duty.

"Backing out of this contest like a 'petulant boy,' does not relieve the mayor of London from his moral obligations. What is he going to do about collecting the school rate from the $1,500,000 totally exempted property in the annex? That is the vital question, your worship. What are you going to do about that?" queried Ald. Ashplant.

LONDONERS LEAVE FOR CRUISE ON GREAT LAKES

Boat Special Passes Through City On Way to Meet Steamer "Noronic."

Many Londoners will board the Northern Navigation steamer Noronic today when she makes her second trip this summer up the Great Lakes.

The first boat special of the year arrived in the city at 1:40 today from Toronto, and took on several residents of London, who will spend a week on the largest fresh water steamer in the world sailing on the waters of Lakes Huron and Superior.

Six specials will pass through London every week during the summer season. Three of the trains are westbound, and will go through on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and the other three trains will carry the passengers from the Northern Navigation steamers Noronic, Hamonic and Huronic, on their down-lake trips.

Every year hundreds of Londoners have spent their vacation cruising the lakes, and as bookings have been made far in advance, the indications are that passenger traffic on the lakes this year will be exceptionally heavy.

N. Y. PROFESSOR SEEKS CITY JOB

It appears that they have heard of "London in the bush" down in the big metropolis, New York City. Secretary W. A. Tanner of the board of education reports Saturday that he has received an application from a Professor McDonald of that community, who seeks a position on the Collegiate Institute or Technical School staff.

The professor forwards rather attractive credentials and professes to be a master of arts, bachelor of law, as well as an expert in literature and several other subjects.

His request goes to No. 2 committee for consideration.

BEECH RETURNED TO REFORMATORY

Although C. H. F. Beech has been out on parole from the Ontario Reformatory only since May 15, he stole a suit of clothes and $1.50 in cash, pleading guilty in police court Saturday morning, and being sent back to the reformatory again.

Records showed Beech had been twice convicted. Acting Crown Attorney A. R. Douglas was of the opinion that Beech was incorrigible, so Magistrate Graydon sentenced the prisoner to a term not less than three months and not more than two years, less one day.

G. W. V. A. BAND TO GIVE CONCERT

The band of the Great War Veterans' Association will give the following program in Queen's Park Sunday evening at 8:30, weather permitting:

"O Canada"; march, "Vigilantia," Lacalle; Gloria, 12th Mass, Mozart; selection, "Faust," Gounod; cornet, "Home of Rest," Nichol (Mr. E. Ganny); grand march, "Honor the Brave," Rimmer; popular (a) "Three o'Clock in the Morning," Robledo; (b) "Venetian Love Boat," Magine; selection, "Echoes from the Opera," Lobani; valse, "Thoughts," Alford; march, "Militaire, Op. 51, No. 1," Schubert; "God Save the King."

CHITTICK HEARS MANOR PARK CASE

Both Morning and Afternoon Sessions Involve Suburbanites.

Both sessions, morning and afternoon, in county police court Saturday involved residents of Manor Park. As Squire Chittick points out incidentally, this is not the first time that persons from that suburb have appeared in his court as either complainant, defendant or witness.

In the morning the squire suspended sentence upon a juvenile, an 11-year-old son of a prominent Manor Park resident, who appeared to defend himself against a charge of trespassing advanced by another resident of that center, equally well known. The usual gathering of witnesses and sympathizers attended the morning preliminaries.

The court anticipates that from a viewpoint of attendance the Saturday afternoon session will measure up to expectations when Charles Quick and D. McKay will face a charge of "cruelty to animals." The charge is preferred by George Tustin, inspector for the London Humane Society, who claims that the defendants have been allowing their stock to go without food and water for an unreasonable period.

TO DISCUSS FRONT STREET SITUATION

as cheaply as they can. I am heartily in sympathy with your cause."

"In spite of the city solicitor's opinion I hold that the city has created a danger by dumping clinkers on the north side of the river," said Raymond Smith, one of the ratepayers. "I am no lawyer. We demand that they relieve us of it."

When the subject of the London West breakwater was introduced, Ald. Ashton admitted that the city was not liable for this area, "but they got the breakwater."

"The Free Press has not helped us by what they printed on thi question, and we doubt their sincerity," alleged Raymond Smith. "We do not want the London newspapers at loggerheads on this thing as it might harm our cause. It looked like spite, and as if they did not want to help the situation out. We have a just claim."

Still Being Dumped.

The ratepayers present declared that the clinkers are still being dumped on the river bank, despite the fact that this was promised to be halted. W. Yates stated that on the north bank of the Thames there are ten feet of clinkers propped up by a tree half burned through ready to drop into the river.

On promise of the aldermen present that a report would be prepared, the meeting, which was held at the home of H. Roberts, 90 Front street, was adjourned. Prior to discussing the problem, members of the city council who attended were taken over the land involved and the situation thoroughly explained to them by the ratepayers.

BRIGADIER CRICHTON of the Salvation Army will conduct week-end services in Woodstock.

FINES CRINKLOW $5 FOR ASSAULT

Squire Chittick Gives Judgment in Westminster Township Dispute.

Once again peace is established, if only for a little while, in Westminster Township. After a consultation with A. R. Douglas, crown attorney, Squire W. H. Chittick, in county police court on Saturday morning, announced his judgment in the assault case, Jones vs. Crinklow, finding the latter guilty, and assessing him $5 fine and costs.

"The crown gave a strong opinion," explained the squire, "that a heavy fine should be imposed upon John Crinklow, the accused. I do not quite agree with this, however, and think that the ends of justice will be sufficiently met by the imposition of a $5 fine.

"This has been a feud of apparently long standing, and to me it seems that no matter what persuasiveness or advice is proffered, it is impossible to get John Jones, the complainant in this instance, to agree to anything within reason. I will make this judgment in this case, trusting that it will put an end to a disagreeable state of affairs."

The contest, which attracted two score of Westminster's representative residents in the squire's court about two weeks ago, arose after Jones had laid information against his neighbor Crinklow, accusing him of striking him with a stick. The latter, admitting the deed, claimed justification, holding that Jones threatened him when he (Crinklow) went to his farm to bring home stray cattle.

DR. WEIR WILL ASK SALARY INCREASE

Former Request to School Board Has Been Forgotten, Says Officer.

Puzzled by the attitude of the educational authorities, Dr. George S. Weir, public school attendance officer, commented Saturday that he was contemplating the dispatch of another communication to the board of education respecting his request in January last for an increase in salary.

At that time, he explains, the matter was referred by the trustees to the salary committee, under Trustee A. A. Bice. The latter group, seemingly of the opinion that they could not deal with other than teachers' salaries, referred the issue back to the board again.

Then, the inspector relates, the board submitted the request to No. 1 committee, the members of which in turn passed the communication to a special committee of two, Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of the board of education, and Trustee A. N. Udy, chairman of No. 1 committee.

"While Trustee Smith assured me that the matter would be given consideration when the estimates were finally struck, nothing has since been heard about it apparently," commented Dr. Weir.

POLICE EXPECT MUNCEY ARRESTS

Concluding from their recent investigations in that district that they have the right party under surveillance, county constables announced Saturday morning that the Indian reservation at Munsey would be their objective Saturday afternoon, where they believe they will be able to place in custody the person or persons responsible for the wholesale theft of cattle there last week.

More than 100 miles of territory was traversed in one day alone in the vicinity of Munsey by the constables, following their receipt of the reported outrage. It develops that the cattle were actually butchered upon the reservation before being removed.

GORMAN ECKERT OBJECT TO TAX

Court of Appeals Hears Case of City Firm.

Members Think Rise in Assessment of Property Too Sudden.

Asserting that his firm is working under a handicap by increased taxes, W. Gorman, appearing in support of an appeal against increased assessment lodged by Gorman, Eckert & Co., informed the court of revision on Ward 3 Friday night, that his company could not compete against other similar manufacturers with such a heavy financial load to bear.

The assessment concerned aggregated $93,500, there being a $20,000 increase ths year on the assessment of buildings alone. Business tax had also been boosted 60 per cent, he declared.

"We are under a handicap in London," said Mr. Gorman. "A great deal of our trade is done in the Maritime Provinces, and we buy our raw material in Montreal, paying freight to London. The city has increased our taxes whenever they could, and they gave it a jolt this year. We paid $14,000 for the property, which with improvements since totals $53,000.

"It makes it harder for us to compete in the trade," he continued.

"When a great effort was made by municipalities to steal factories from one another years ago we were obliged to assess them at a nominal rate," explained Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant. "Now it has been adjusted by experts.

"We kept going and employ 85 people, not counting travelers," said Mr. Gorman. "We never laid a man off last winter. We have never asked the city for anything since we started in business."

As appeals against assessment on land and buildings have also been entered by the London and Petrolea Barrel Works and George H. Belton Lumber Company, the court decided to defer decisions until a personal inspection is made of the property involved, by the members.

Mr. Belton asserted that his property was assessed for $8,000 in 1921, while this year the assessment is $18,000. Stephen Grant stated that these are cases where the properties involved have never been properly valuated until this year.

"They are so badly used now, and it shows how well they were used before," said the assessment commissioner.

"Yes, but it is a question of putting the load on so suddenly," said P. B. Fetterly, chairman of the court.

James Francis protested that he was singled out for exorbitant taxation of his property on Rectory street, while other neighbors were more fairly treated. His house, he claimed, had been wrecked by an explosion, but no rebate was allowed.

"Mr. Francis' uncles assessed the property," said Clerk Harry Bennett.

The appellant then declared that his uncle had treated himself leniently in assessing. When he insisted that the other residents were getting off too easy, Assessment Commissioner Grant thanked him for the information, declaring that these charges will be investigated with a view to increasing the city revenue.

J. C. Park, 390 Rectory street, also appealed the assessment of his property. That the music provided by the Salvation Army Corps in the citadel adjoining his home is a detriment to the value of the property was his allegation. He opined that if any person liked music his home is ideal for them.

Mr. Park further contended that an explosion damaged his house. The court ruled that the music provided by the Salvation Army does not detract from the value of Park's house, but allowed $200 exemption for the damage caused by the explosion.

The court, which dealt with 93 appeals from Ward Three, and adjourned at 11:30 p.m., was of the opinion that the assessment increase was too great for any one year. The Richter system was responsible for such increases, but the court felt that the boost should be applied more gradually in each case.

MEET SUCCESS IN CHURCH CANVASS

The campaign of the Askin Street Methodist Church people for their Sunday school extension, has been proceeding this week with very gratifying results. A meeting of the central committee, held last night, showed that the canvassers were completing their lists, but that there were a considerable number of returns yet to come in.

The young people of the church have been taking a very active part in the campaign, and have been giving generously themselves. The choir of the church, at their regular weekly practice last night, voted a handsome subscription toward the new addition.

STATES FRANCO-CANADIAN TRADE CONVENTION NEEDED

LONDON, England, June 23.—(By Canadian Press Cable).—M. Dastous, president of the Canadian section of the British Chamber of Commerce, in Paris, in a speech at the monthly luncheon of the chamber in Paris today, according to a Reuter cable from that city, referred to the question of the export of French wines, and expressed the hope that the example of the provinces of British Columbia and Quebec in allowing the sale of liquor would be followed by the other Canadian provinces.

President Dastous urged the necessity of a new Franco-Canadian trade convention to replace the present modus vivendi, which, he said, was by no means satisfactory. Assurance had already been received from Canada, M. Dastous said, that the Dominion government was anxious to arrive at a prompt understanding with the French government on the matter.

Winsome Maid's Frock Soiled By Careless Motorist

LATE for work on Saturday morning. The alibis are infinite, but one young lady who did not reach her place of business on time Saturday can justly lay blame on the city of London.

The young lady in question was waiting for a westbound Dundas car at Maitland and Dundas, and looked very winsome in a dainty blue, frilled, summer frock, white silk stockings, and the latest in white pumps.

A minute later it was a very chagrined young lady, indeed, who wended her way home again covered from head to foot with the city's mud.

For without any warning whatever, a passing motorist, driving at top speed through a neat pile of the London's juiciest, slushiest mud at the curbing, had thrown it in every direction.

Whether or not the city will be notified of the omission on its part is not known.

TRY WHITES FOR BREACH OF O.T.A.

Police Charge Londoners With Illegal Possession of Still.

Morris White and Harry White are on trial in police court on a charge of having a still in their possession contrary to the provisions of the inland revenue act. Both pleaded not guilty. Harry White, the son, also pleaded not guilty to a charge of assisting in the distilling of spirits. They are being defended by John M. McEvoy, K.C. The police and inland revenue officials are represented by J. C. Elliott, K.C.

Police Inspector Thomas Lucas told of visiting a building at the corner of Rectory and Simcoe streets, formerly occupied by the Peacock Canning Company, and finding the still, which is a large one. He also claimed he found several barrels of mash and five gallons of some strong liquid.

Those who took part in the raid on June 12 were Inspector Lucas, Constables George Tomblin and Gavin Monahan and License Inspector J. E. Keenleyside.

At the time of going to press Saturday the crown had not concluded its case.

TO STRICTLY ENFORCE NEW LIGHTING LAW IN LONDON

Police Will Warn Violators for Few Days Before Taking Drastic Action.

Although police do not intend to force owners of baby carriages and wheelbarrows to carry lights at night, they do intend to enforce the new city bylaw which requires every vehicle to carry lights after dusk and before dawn. The word "vehicles" will be interpreted by the police to mean autos, horse-drawn vehicles and bicycles.

Chief of Police Robert Birrell has instructed his men to warn citizens for a few days before taking more drastic measures.

According to the chief, non-residents of the city who are in London at night will be inconvenienced the most. He believes that the law should be made a provincial one, so that non-residents would find the law in and out of the city the same, instead of being confronted with regulations in London different from those enforced outside the city limits.

L. AND P. S. TRAIN HITS MOTOR CAR

When two miles south of St. Thomas, the 5:20 o'clock London and Port Stanley Railway train, southbound, struck an auto at a crossroad and slightly injured the driver. According to the chief dispatcher of the railroad, the accident was not a serious one.

Obituaries

CHARLES B. TUXFORD.

BOARD MAY ASK OWN BANK BOOK

City Treasurer Gives Opinion On Argument Over Teachers' Checks.

School Trustees Entitled to Bank Account and Treasurer.

Should Mayor Cameron Wilson decline to sign checks involving expenditures for teachers' salaries, all the members of the board of education need to do is to demand a bank account for their department alone and leave the mayor and his associates strictly alone unless a debenture issue is required.

This is the opinion of James Bell, city treasurer, who Saturday morning cleared up, in a few brief remarks, all the argument as to whether Mayor Wilson affixed his signature to these checks in question or otherwise.

Treasurer Bell points out that, while the mayor does not sign each individual check, he merely signs a check for the gross amount. "This places him under no obligation, however," explained Mr. Bell, "he simply does it because the board has not a separate bank account. It has been done this way for years, and there has as yet been no difficulty experienced. It has been a matter of greater convenience for all concerned and saves the city not a little sum.

"Should the mayor decline to sign this check for the entire amount, or be prevented from doing so, the trustees may demand a bank account of their own. As a matter of fact because I am their treasurer as well makes no difference. Should they choose they could have another treasurer.

"The mayor and city council have absolutely nothing to do with the board of education, and cannot hold the trustees up in only one manner, the issuance of debentures. In this particular instance, involving teachers' salaries, I understand that the board has in the proper manner authorized their payment. Personally I fail to see how the expenditure can be interfered with."

PRESS 3 CHARGES AGAINST INDIAN

Crown authorities have now deemed it imperative to press two further charges against William Birch, the treaty Indian, residing on the Munsey Reservation, who is now lodged in the Middlesex County jail awaiting trial for "having liquor in his possession contrary to the provisions of the Ontario temperance act."

It now appears that Birch was not arrested at the time of the alleged offence last May. The crown now declares that he escaped from lawful arrest subsequently, and then again resisted lawful arrest when finally apprehended.

He will not appear for trial until next week. A. G. Chisholm, K.C., is defending him.

MASONS TO HOLD SUNDAY SERVICE

Members of the Masonic fraternity in this city will celebrate the Festival of St. John in the Masonic Hall Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The services will be conducted by Rev. A. E. M. Thompson, while the sermon will be preached by Rev. R. J. Bowen. A collection will be taken in aid of the War Memorial Hospital for Sick Children fund.

The Festival of St. John is held to commemorate the birthday of St. John the Baptist. The day carries a message of truth and righteousness to the world, for the life of the disciple is held up to all men as an exemplification of the way of repentance and patient suffering for truth.

TO WAIT IN JAIL FOR FARE HOME

Two boys, Kenneth Ward and Roy Livingstone, did not like life on the farm near Leamington, and ran away from home. Being penniless, they rode on a freight train. However, railway officers in London discovered them and brought them before Magistrate Graydon in police court Saturday morning. The pair were remanded for a week in order that they might write to their parents for the fare home. They were not sure, they told the court, that the money would be forthcoming.

Criticizing the Ministers.

NO SMALL amount of newspaper criticism has been caused by the discussions that have taken place at some of the conference meetings of the Methodist Church, particularly in regard to the use of tobacco by ministers, probationers and professors in theological departments of their upper schools.

Strange, perhaps, that so much should be said about this one discussion, more, perhaps, than about all the other matters that were taken up, the reason being that the discussion came close home to the pet pastime of a good many men. Whether any good purpose was served by bringing the subject up at the conference is another matter.

It is interesting to note the length to which some of the critics go in bringing the pipe into the church. Here, for instance, is part of a long comment from the Kingston Whig.

"Look over the roll of organizations of any church, and it will be found that at least 30 per cent of them are women's organizations, and that being the case, they must have 90 per cent of the minister's attention. This is, to some extent, due to the fact that our ministers, in many cases, have a tendency towards effeminacy. The men look upon the present-day codes of the churches as too restrictive upon their personal judgment, and in this matter, which has been under consideration in Toronto, they will find good grounds for their belief. The churches need ministers who are men's men, and the average man likes to see a minister who can sit down and enjoy a pipe with him as they talk over the matters which they have in common. The ministers who are successful in winning the interest of men are ministers who can do this, and that should be sufficient to dissuade any church body from enforcing regulations which would in any way hinder the freest fellowship between the pastors and the men of their congregations."

So much for that. THE ADVERTISER has in its possession what can be termed as the personal diary of a minister, not a Londoner, but a Toronto man. It is not possible to publish it in full or mention names, but here is enough from it to give a pretty fair answer to the elaborate criticism of the Kingston paper. The events mentioned were some of those in one week, besides which he prepared his Sunday sermons and carried on the usual work of a pastor:

"In court three times at the request of parents, and because of personal knowledge of some of the boys. While there also got in touch with two other cases where young lads needed help. Had four funerals this week, one case where father is left with four little ones. Held two noonday meetings in ——— shop, about 120 men present at each, most of whom never attend church, but will have some of them over Sunday night. Thursday night went to talk with ———, who is 72 years old and very successful man, but feels that he has money and nothing else, stayed with him until after 11; saw seven young men at my house by special appointment, and had wonderful chance to talk to them."

Other events of the week are not touched. What would the Kingston paper say of this man? Was his time taken up talking to the women? Was there a move in that week that he should not have made?

As a matter of plain fact, that pastor was a busy man. He was engaged in a great work, and he could not come down.

NOW for the smoking business among ministers. It is hard to see where there are any rules of conduct binding on a minister that are not binding on members of the congregation. Popular fancy has it, and perhaps it is well, that the minister should be a bright and shining example to the congregation. It is a fact that the men who have been rich in accomplishment in the ministry are men who have stood up above the crowd, their heads in the clouds, perhaps, but their feet on the ground. There must be that superiority that breeds confidence, and that eternal grasp that spells leadership.

Smoking, like many other habits, is a matter of personal judgment, and it cannot be put in any other class. If a man feels he is right in the habit, it is hard to see where any church law can stop him. If, on the other hand, he feels that his example is of greater importance than his personal pleasure, then, by the same code of church ethics, he must curb his desire to smoke. The attempt, though, to build up one standard of living for the pulpit and another for the pew is a hard matter to justify.

Murder Comes In.

MURDER has come in and taken the place of the peaceful strike that has been carried on by the miners of the United States coal fields for some months now.

Striking miners, according to reports that cannot be doubted, have armed themselves and shot to death men who continued to work in places on which a strike had been called by the organized miners.

Organized labor the world over will regret this practice and call for its punishment as quickly as any

OWN YOUR HOME IS RIGHT IDEA

Experienced Realtor Discussed Various Methods That Have Been Tried.

WHAT is the most satisfactory method of dealing with the housing situation—to have a housing commission, buy a lot and build, have a firm build houses, or to try and rent them?

The Advertiser asked a number of realtors in Western Ontario for their experience in these matters. Alex. Simmers, of Alexander, Coleridge & Simmers, Windsor, is a strong advocate of the "Own Your Own Home" idea, and does not look with favor upon the renter of a home. He deals with the matter in a large way, and has an extensive experience from which to draw. Mr. Simmers says:

THE best minds of the real estate profession have been dealing with this question for a great many years, and the National Real Estate Board of America has had a committee at work endeavoring to form a solution that would be permanent. I may say, however, that while the Border Cities Real Estate Board advocated and indorsed the plan of building houses under the Housing Commission, and if our requisition to the Ontario government had been carried out we believe that the results would have been better than they were. It was my own view, and the view of the majority of the Real Estate Board, that the government should meet the unusual problem arising from the scarcity of capital for home building during the period following the war in a manner that would be almost radical in its nature.

We pointed out to the government at that time that it must be carried on in a business way; that the house building should not be a matter of charity, but that the finances of the province or municipality could be used for building purposes, and should be loaned to the borrower at a sufficient margin over cost to pay for the supervision and operating of the funds. The government in its legislation, however, departed from that view, and loaned it at a lower rate of interest than the government was paying for it. In our opinion that was poor business, and would ultimately lead to disaster.

I CAN speak, however, for the Housing Commission of Windsor, Sandwich and Ford, that when handled by public-spirited citizens familiar with real estate and building values, the Housing Commission was a great success. There were in the neighborhood of three million dollars loaned out to individuals to build homes, and I am satisfied that the municipality will not lose one dollar from these loans. The homes built were a credit to the commission, the owners had the advice and supervision of practical men, and I believe from that standpoint the loan saved the owners of homes at a period, when prices were out of proportion, thousands of dollars. I believe that the operations of the Housing Commission throughout this district especially was the means to focus attention on the need of houses, and did a good deal toward stabilizing business at a critical period. However, considering general principles, I am not in favor of municipalities entering this business. It is class legislation, and puts in the hands of the commission considerable power and might lead to abuses, and is not, in my opinion, the solution of the housing problem.

IN regard to your second question, which is: The individual buying a lot, securing a loan and building his own home. This is the usual method of procedure, and in my opinion will be the only successful one. The difficulty, however, is in the securing of loans sufficient to enable a workingman to build himself a reasonable-priced house. This rests entirely with the moneyed interests of this country.

During the period following the war the municipalities and private corporations were offering excessively high rates for loanable funds; consequently there were withdrawn from the mortgage markets millions of dollars of money which under normal conditions would be funds available for use in the mortgage market. The situation in this regard has changed very rapidly, and there is now no difficulty in securing money for mortgage purposes. But the rate is still high, and the proportion loaned is too low to enable the workingman to own his own home; consequently he is obliged to allow the speculative builder to build a home, and purchase it from him with a small payment down. The speculative builder has to take a contract and discount this contract with a discount company. The discount, together with a reasonable profit to the contractor, is altogether out of proportion to what a workingman is able to afford.

There are three things that should be done to remedy this condition: (1) I am a great believer in the formation of home building associations. They have been extremely successful throughout the United States, and if taken up by businessmen will do a great deal toward securing far workingmen a home at a reasonable cost, with reasonable terms of repayment, which will enable the man to live and keep his family in reasonable comfort, and to pay for his house over a period of years. (2) I believe that the time has arrived when financial institutions, such as loan companies, life and fire companies, should be compelled to set apart a certain portion of their loanable funds to be loaned for the express purpose of building houses. (3) I believe that every city of over 50,000 people should have a local loan company, managed by practical and reliable men who will use every effort to secure available funds within the county for the purpose of loaning on improved property.

YOUR third question, which covers the firm building houses as part of their own program of development, is a matter in which only a very large industry can participate, and I do not favor the plan at all, because men living in a home owned by the company do not feel as independent as when living in a house owned by themselves. If the same money were used by the company and loaned through a commission to the individuals to build homes, it could be supervised by the commission, which in this case would be the company, and would be more satisfactory. It would give the individual a civic interest, and in my opinion would be far better than the plan of building homes and owning them by the company. This is a plan which I do not think will be popular in this country, and is not a solution to the general problem of the housing situation.

REGARDING your fourth question, dealing with the renting of houses. The basis of fair rental is a question that has been much written of, and very much discussed, and I am almost afraid to attempt to give my views. It is necessary for the healthy growth of any city to have at all times a surplus of houses, yet from the standpoint of the owner of the houses it reduces his income considerably if he has a number of vacancies throughout the year. I think it is acknowledged by all owners of homes for rental purposes, that it is not a profitable enterprise; the tenants do not seem to take the same interest as in a place that they own themselves, and consequently the up-keep of a rented house is too high. A renter as a rule is not a first-class citizen. In many cases he is a "floater," so that therefore it should be the aim of every city to secure as many home owners as possible. There is only one solution to the housing situation, in my opinion, and that is that the funds be available at a fair price to encourage "the own your own home idea."

class in the community.

The idea that a man shall pay the death penalty for going to work where and when he wants to is not in keeping with the degree of freedom that must be granted to men in this day and generation.

It is a hard matter for people, living entirely apart from the scenes of such struggles to imagine the degree of hatred that must be engendered before men will take guns out and kill off human beings because they are taking the places they left, and hope to return to when they have won the point for which they are fighting.

Once there has been bloodshed, it is a hard matter to settle a strike, and for that reason the United States government will have a harder matter on its hands than if it had acted weeks ago. The government must act now, and act decisively, for murder and outrage have been committed.

The latest turn of events in the United States coal strike brings home the fact in a forcible way that a victory by means of a strike under present-day conditions is almost an utter impossibility.

Creates Good Feeling.

EXEMPLIFYING a spirit of good fellowship, which is highly commendable, members of the Irish Benevolent Society of London are accomplishing a real mission in making life worth living in the Forest City. Not only are their efforts bearing fruit this year, but they have done so for more than four decades.

Contrary to the expectation of the casual onlooker, who is familiar with the political situation in Ireland at the present time, there is no enmity bred between these London Irishmen when they get together. Politics and religion are relegated to the background.

An ingenuous method of selecting officers for the society eliminates all possibility of religious jealousy. The chief officer of the Irish Benevolent Society is elected, to a minor degree, on the strength of his religious persuasion.

That is to say, a Roman Catholic president of the Irish Benevolent Society is always succeeded by a Protestant president, and the same method of selection is adhered to for the position of secretary. When a Roman Catholic president is elected he has for his assistant a Protestant secretary, with the order reversed the following year.

All of which makes for good fellowship, and augurs well for the harmony so characteristic of the Irish Benevolent Society. Membership fees of this organization are devoted entirely to charitable institutions of London each year. The annual picnic is self-supporting, and this factor permits ample scope for charitable work in the city.

In division of these proceeds no partiality is shown, the members voting equal amounts to Roman Catholic and Protestant charitable institutions of the city. For instance, the proceeds of the society amounted to more than $300 last year, and were donated to the Children's Aid Shelter, Mount Hope Orphanage, the Children's Hospital, St. Vincent de Paul Society and similar institutions in London.

Every man with a drop of Irish blood in his veins is eligible for membership in this society. Thursday night great enthusiasm marked the meeting of the members, when E. S. LITTLE was installed president by E. C. KILLINGSWORTH, the retiring chief, and HARRY BENNETT relinquished his duties as secretary in favor of NEIL COUGHLIN.

Every member present Thursday night pledged himself to add new names to the long list of the society register. The harmony which pervades this organization alone merits the approval of every public-spirited citizen.

The Irish Benevolent Society of London is proud of its splendid work achieved and the laudable esprit de corps practiced for so many years. While London retains such a desirable society in her midst, the future will never be in doubt.

Canoes and Bathers.

STRANGE that it should be necessary for life savers at summer resorts to issue their warnings at the start of each summer, yet it seems necessary.

People are not cautious, because they can only be drowned once.

A man who has been in an auto smash is generally pretty careful afterward.

But a man who gets out past his depth, often has not a chance to be careful afterward.

And so the 1922 season has started with the canoe in charge of the young man who knows no more about it than he would about a battleship.

And bathing suits are being rented to smart young chaps who get in to their necks, whereas they should be paddling up to their knees.

About the middle of the season all this tribe start to take notice of the casualty list and quit their nonsense.

But they seem determined to run up that casualty list before giving their common sense a chance.

An easy way to make a small boy bathe is to paint a "No Swimming" sign on the bathroom door.

LITTLE 'TISERS

Only 20 cents per person is spent for soap each year in Canada. Saturday night is surely going to the dogs.

Unfortunately times do come up quite often when the whole thing rests on whether you have the money or whether you have none.

And now comes a garage man with a phrase to show that he knows something about advertising. It reads: "Invite us to your blow-out."

Statistics show there is one auto to every nineteen people in Canada, so every nineteenth chap stands a pretty fair chance of not getting run over.

Here's a 1922 definition: My idea of a friend is a man who knows you haven't anything in the cellar and yet comes around to see you just the same.

Glancing at the notices of the June weddings that are running on the woman's page gives a fairly correct answer to the old query as to why girls leave home.

We're feeling a bit safer now that Mars has eased off in its course towards us. It was a fairly narrow squeeze, too, as that planet just missed us by 42,500,000 miles.

Clothing is now made in Italy out of feathers. And right in our own country some folks have been clothed in feathers, accompanied by tar. The costume was never popular, though.

Some of our fruit growers claim the strawberries are so big this year that they can only bring the smaller ones to market, as the big ones wouldn't go in the top of a quart sealer.

The Ontario Motor League has out a new set of rules, and right at the start says: "Put yourself behind the other man's steering wheel." Yes, and then the cop comes along and puts you behind the bars for so doing.

Kingston Penitentiary is now so full that it is hard to get accommodation there. The solution should be easy, as many of the inmates would be glad of a chance to get out and give the newcomers a chance.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is MORON.

It has not yet been long enough in use to appear in the dictionary, but usually is pronounced MORE-ON, with the two syllables almost equally accented.

It means—a man or a woman who is mentally deficient, but above the mental grade of an idiot; an adult with a child's mind; a person, physically mature whose mental growth stopped at the age—generally so placed—of 8 to 12.

It comes from—Greek "moros," fool.

It's used like this—"A moron, neglected, is a danger to society, but with proper training, he may become a contented and useful laborer."

SELLING THE DOWN-CROSSED.

Here is a letter before you, let us suppose, from a customer who is "raising a holler" because the goods you delivered to him weren't quite right, or did not arrive on time. You are hesitating whether to grant the kind of an adjustment he demands or to try to convince him that your viewpoint is the fairer one.

You glance at his writing and you notice two things. One is that he crosses his "t" with a decided downward slanting stroke. The other is that he has a tendency to make all of his downstrokes heavier than the upstrokes.

Other things being equal, you will do well to take cognizance of these two things and make your decision accordingly. As a matter of fact, the downward slant in crossing the "t" should be enough for you. The heavy downstrokes merely emphasize the revelation.

You will do well to grant the man's demands with alacrity and in good spirit, for these things indicate that he is a self-willed and obstinate person. To oppose him will make him only the more obstinate, and may result in your losing a good customer. On the other hand, let him have his way and you have satisfied him. You have "taken the wind out of his sails," and the chances are that you will rise greatly in his estimation and benefit therefrom in the future.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

HERE WE HAVE ITEMS OF LOCAL AND DISTRICT INTEREST AS RECORDED IN THE ADVERTISER OF 1897.

JUNE 24, 1897.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a small and animated group of men assembled in the city hall arcade waiting for a special car to take them to Springbank. They were the baseball teams of the city council and the school board, captained respectively by E. Francis Hunt and Blood Bitters Burdick, in the elegant language of the score card.

There is a new development in the London Diamond Jubilee Hospital. Last night all the medical men in the city, numbering about 60, were summoned to meet for the purpose of taking action with regard to procuring increased hospital accommodation. Eighteen members of the profession attended, and of these twelve supported a motion proposed by Dr. McCallum providing for the appointment of a committee of six to take measures to have a bylaw submitted to the people at as early a date as possible for the purpose of securing increased hospital facilities.

Frank Synder, catcher of the London baseball club, left for Toronto today, being summoned by telegram, owing to the serious illness of his father. Strowger will catch for London today.

The Pickwick Club had an outing at Dorchester on Tuesday, and the event of the day was the game of baseball between the officers and members. W. Brock and W. Grant comprised the battery for the officers and A. Tillmann and W. Harding for the members. The score was 36 to 5 in favor of the former.

The young people of the London presbyterial held a picnic at Tait's Corners on jubilee day, which proved a most successful affair. Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Henderson of Appin; Rev. Mr. Scott, Rodney; Rev. W. M. Wilson, Newbury; Rev. Mr. Ross, Glencoe, and Rev. Mr. Stevens of Dutton. Mr. A. McCall, reeve of Aldboro, and Mr. McDermid, reeve of Dunwich, also spoke.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE

SWAT THE FLY

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

IF there is a baby in your home, keep constant vigil against flies. Any fly may carry the germs of infantile paralysis. True, the cases in which flies have been proved to be carriers of the disease are few. Still, no risks should be run.

Generally infantile paralysis passes directly from the sick to the well person, yet it may be transmitted by a third, who has been in contact with a victim.

The early symptoms, as a rule, are fever, weakness, fretfulness or irritability and vomiting. Later there is pain in the back, neck, arms or legs, accompanied by great weakness. Often paralysis does not result; these are known as abortive cases. They, however, are as infectious as the others. If paralysis is to occur it usually appears from the second to the fifth day.

The germ or tiny virus of the disease is present in the discharges from the nose, throat and bowels of patients. It may also be present in the noses and throats of healthy children in the same family. Thus it is necessary to keep the children from a family in which there is a case of infantile paralysis away from other children.

All cases of infantile paralysis must be reported to the local department of health, which then placards the house.

During an infantile paralysis epidemic it is well to observe certain rules.

The house or apartment should be kept absolutely clean.

Windows should be screened against flies.

Garbage should not be allowed to accumulate; its receptacle should be kept tightly covered.

All forms of vermin, bed bugs, roaches and body-lice, should be killed.

Bodily cleanliness is especially important.

The best preventive of infantile paralysis is not patent medicine, but absolute cleanliness and a strict observance of those few important rules of hygiene.

The BOOKSHELF

NENE. Translated from the French of Ernest Perochon. George H. Doran Company, publishers, New York. $1.75.

WHEN you open the book "Nene" you open a door into the heart of France.

Read this book and you come to a truer understanding of that France which so magnificently bore the long burden of war, so uncomplainingly made the great sacrifice it was called upon to make, than anything but close contact with the people themselves could ever give any of us in Ontario.

It is a story simple as the growth of a flower, and as filled with miracle—with beauty, too. A tragic story, a story of the romance of unselfishness, of unasking love and labor for others. A girl, uneducated and ignorant, is the heroine; but her soul is full of rich beauty, and the course of her brief existence touches on the deepest emotions of life.

This book was written by a school teacher who lived and worked in the south of France, and he writes of the place and the people he knows. A strange people, mingled of poetry and passion and the clod, working harder than any one imagines it possible to work, yet finding time for dreams. A subtle people, yet simple; even uncouth at times. An old race full of the heritage of the past, their own past, made by their own forebears on the land on which they stand, the houses in which they live. A people quick as flame, yet steadfast and devoted.

This school teacher wrote what he knew, and wrote with his own passion, for beauty and for truth. The French of the original is clear and fresh as a mountain brook, and singing with its own music.

The translation is an excellent one, and it is a pity that the translator's name is not given. There is much to praise in the English rendering and little to criticize. The putting of the provincial French of some of the characters into incorrect English is not fortunate—the effect is quite unlike the original; and it is silly to translate some of the French names into their English equivalents. If one name is translated, all should be; this is not possible, and to mix the two languages in this matter leads nowhere.

It breaks the heart, this little book, that is written so close to nature and to the very core of men and women. It breaks it as beauty and sorrow must, when they are given to us with high art and delicate truth.

Suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven, we are told.

Madeleine is such a child, though she is 30 and over when she heeds the call. Corbier is a good man, but he entertained an angel unawares, and is no more than a fool. Will he ever realize what he might have had? Perhaps not; Madeleine never asked anything for herself, not even remembrance, and to them that ask not, nothing, in this world, is given. But to us, who have read the page of her soul, she will be one of the great, for all her simplicity, her insignificance and her defeat.

UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS.

Q.—Who were the United Empire Loyalists, and how many came to Canada?

A.—The United Empire Loyalists were citizens of the Thirteen Colonies who, at the time of the American revolution in 1775, came to Canada so as to remain under the British flag. It is estimated that 40,000 entered this country, forming the pioneer stock in many parts of the land.

TECUMSEH MOTHERS KEEN BASEBALL FANS

Stage First Match of Season Previous to Closing Meeting.

Members of the Tecumseh Mothers' Club are enthusiastic baseball fans. They played last year, and they are at it again this season, staging a baseball match in the school grounds as a prelude to their wind-up meeting for the summer on Thursday evening this week. The mothers were there betimes, after-supper duties and all, ready to participate, or play second fiddle as a gallery, and root to their hearts' content.

Mrs. H. Storie and Mrs. F. Wilson were the respective captains, and the line-up on each side follows:

Mrs. Storie, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. C. Tuttle, Mrs. Armour, Mrs. Dickinson and Mrs. A. Baldwin, with Miss Edna Knowles as pitcher.

Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. Maloney, Mrs. Plum, Mrs. S. Jones and Mrs. S. L. Merritt, with Mrs. A. Tapp as pitcher.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mrs. A. Tapp, a champion player, pitched for Mrs. Wilson's side, the game was called at the meeting hour, with a tie score of seven. Another match will be played next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and it is expected the great outdoor game will be a weekly event for the club, as long as weather permits.

While keen players, the Tecumseh mothers have no intentions of being tied down to such trifles as big league rules or stereotyped numbers.

"Everybody welcome" is the announcement for the summer's playing, "and the more the merrier. There will be a place on the team for everyone who turns up, and she'll get her turn to hit the ball later, if not sooner."

The final meeting, which followed the first ball game, resolved itself into a chatty social evening, to which readings by Mrs. E. Pellow and Miss Moorehouse, and songs by Mrs. Self added much interest. Arrangements were made for the annual picnic to be held at Springbank the last Thursday in July, and announcement made of the Chautauqua course from July 21 to 27.

Misses Anita and Doris Graham, 790 Queen's avenue, are visiting relatives in Montreal. They will return home by boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Branston, Miss Frances Cullis and Mr. Blackwell are week-end guests with Mrs. Roy Craig, Toronto.

Mrs. Joseph Axton of this city, who left recently to visit in England after an absence of 38 years, has arrived safely in Southampton.

Mrs. Lionel Tobias, accompanied by her young daughter Mary is visiting in Ipperwash, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCrimmon.

Miss Isabel Coles left Saturday for Ipperwash Beach, where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCrimmon at their summer home.

Owing to the death of Mrs. John Macpherson, a prominent member of Knox Church, the garden party which was to have been held June 27 has been postponed to July 11.

Mr. Arthur W. Linnell, Lovett street, associate matron of Forest City Chapter, O. E. S., will be a delegate at Grand Chapter, being held at Ottawa, June 26, 27 and 28. Mrs. Bertha Shannon, worthy matron of Britannia Chapter, Petrolea, will also attend the Grand Chapter, accompanying Mrs. Linnell to Ottawa.

Following the evening session of the Actuaries Club, which met at the head office of the London Life Insurance Company, Friday evening, the club was entertained at a delightful supper party at the Blue Dragon Tea Room by the London Life Company. The tables were decked with bright summer flowers, and covers were laid for 30.

Owing to examinations a number of 'teen age girls between 13 and 15 have been unable to get out for the opening of the Y. W. C. A. summer camp at Port Bruce, hence a large contingent will augment the party which went out Friday this week on Friday, June 30. Writing to the city, Miss d'Avignon, camp director, states that there still are some vacancies to be filled for the second week enrollment.

Much regret has been felt by the London Women Teachers' Guild that the overseas teachers who have been in Ontario this past year have been unable to pay a visit to London before going back home. A trip was made by them to Brantford this week, where a feature of the party was a visit to the Mohawk Institute, and the guests from all parts of the empire had the interesting experience of seeing Indian children at work and were favored with special songs and dances.

Before the summer camp at Carling Heights broke up this week the officers of the Middlesex Light Infantry entertained at the officers' mess in honor of Capt. Ralph Brock of Toronto, who was here for the camp, and his bride of the spring, formerly Miss Olive May of London. After dinner, Col. Burdon, on behalf of the officers, presented Capt. and Mrs. Brock with a wedding gift in the form of a beautiful silver coffee service, the young husband making a suitable reply.

Several happy events have been arranged this week in honor of the bride-elect, Miss Aimee Pearce, whose marriage takes place the end of June. Monday afternoon Miss Margaret Reid gave a luncheon in compliment to her. Thursday afternoon a group of girl friends had the pleasure of meeting Miss Pearce at a tea given by Miss Winnifred Taylor, Princess avenue, showering her with dainty kerchiefs. Friday afternoon Miss Marjory White gave a shower-tea at her home in "The Ridgeway," South London.

The friendly match played at the Kennels Friday afternoon between the Brantford and London teams, resulted as follows: The London team won six, lost one and halved one. Tea was served immediately after the match, Mrs. John Wishart acting as tea hostess. Previous to the games a charming luncheon was given at the Hunt Club in honor of the Brantford ladies, including Mrs. Leeming, Miss Thomson, Mrs. Martin, Misses Schell, Buck, Wilkes, Bunnell and Dempster. The following were the local players: Mesdames George Little, Frank Spry, Marshall Graydon, E. S. Williams, Ronald Harris, Basil Sterling, G. Q. Warner and Miss J. Belton.

WITH THE BRIDES

ARMSTRONG—GOURLEY.

A pretty June wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gourley, Downie Township, June 21, when their daughter Margaret Jane was united in marriage to Paul Switzer Armstrong. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. F. Duggan of First Presbyterian Church, Widder street, St. Marys.

The bride was charmingly attired in ivory silk and carried a bouquet of June roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lillian, as bridesmaid, and Miss Elsie, who played the wedding march. The groom's brother Ewen, of Hartford, Conn., acted as best man.

After the wedding ceremony, about 70 guests enjoyed an elaborate repast and social afternoon, following which the young couple left by motor to entrain at Stratford.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside in Blanshard Township.

HEIDERMAN—SKINNER.

Marguerites, peonies and greenery decked the home of Mrs. H. F. White, Milverton boulevard, Toronto, when her cousin, Miss Ella Skinner, formerly of London, became the bride of William F. Heiderman of Toronto. Rev. Mr. McTaggart officiated.

The bride wore a gown of blue canton crepe trimmed with beads, also a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Betty Heiderman, in pink silk and carrying a basket of baby roses and lily-of-the-valley, made a pretty flower girl.

After the ceremony a wedding luncheon was partaken of by a number of friends and relatives, after which the happy couple left on an extended motor trip.

The bride traveled in a suit of brown gabardine, with hat to match, and a grey squirrel scarf, the gift of the groom. On their return they will reside in their new home on Burwick avenue, North Toronto.

CAMBRIDGE—McCREATH.

A charming house wedding took place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCreath, Elmwood avenue, when their youngest daughter, Fannie Glen, was married to Melville Ernest Cambridge, only son of Mrs. Ellen Cambridge, and the late Owen Willard Cambridge of this city.

The ceremony was performed by Elder Frank Gray of the Latter Day Saints' Church. The Wedding March was played by Mrs. T. B. Richardson, sister of the groom, as the bridal procession entered the drawing-room. The ceremony was performed under an arch of peonies and roses, banked with ferns, with a white bell hanging from the centre, tied with white satin streamers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory duchess satin with a white tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms to form a coronet. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and carnations. White kid slippers completed her costume, and her only ornament was a white and yellow gold wrist watch, the gift of the groom. Miss Mary McCreath was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing a dainty cream organdy frock, and carrying Sunset roses. The groom's gifts, to the bridesmaid and pianist, were platinum barpins, set with brilliants, and to the best man gold cuff links. The bride received many handsome gifts; among them was a substantial check from the groom's mother.

Following the ceremony a dainty wedding luncheon was served in the dining-room, which was attractively decorated with roses, carnations and peonies. Mr. and Mrs. Cambridge left on a honeymoon which will be spent in Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara Falls and Kincardine. Upon their return they will reside in London. The bride traveled in a smart suit of navy tricotine, and a French hat.

MILLIER—MARCHAND.

St. Francis Church, Tilbury, was the scene of a pretty ceremony on Monday morning, June 19, when Miss Emma, daughter of Joseph Marchand and the late Mrs. Marchand, Queen street, became the bride of Leo Millier, railway telegrapher, of Toledo, Ohio. Monsigneur Parent officiated.

The bride was charming in her gown of white satin with coronet of orange bossoms and veil. The attendants were Calixte Marchand, brother of the bride, and Miss Marie Simard.

Following a wedding trip to Milwaukee, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Millier will reside in Toledo, Ohio.

ANTHONY—CLEAVE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at noon on Wednesday in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom at the home of Mr. Cleave at Neustadt, when his only daughter, Eliza, was united in marriage to Mr. F. H. Anthony of Harriston, Rev. Mr. Weaver, pastor of St. George's Church, officiating, while Mrs. Weaver played the wedding march. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a dress of blue silk and georgette crepe, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and maiden-hair fern. Immediately after the ceremony and the serving of a dainty wedding breakfast the happy and popular young couple left via motor for Ottawa, Montreal and other eastern points. The groom, who is well and favorably known in Harriston is assistant station agent, and the bride until her marriage held the responsible position of chief operator with the local staff of the Bell Telephone Company. Upon their return they will take up residence in Harriston.

HALL—LAMPMAN.

One of the smartest events of the season took place on Saturday, June 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Lampman, when their second daughter, Alice Amelia, became the bride of Mr. Chas. Russell Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hall of Warwick, Rev. C. L. L. Couzens officiating.

The house was adorned with a profusion of June roses and the ceremony took place under a latticed arch banked with ferns and syringa.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, looked very charming in her wedding gown of ivory satin girdled with white roses and customary bridal veil held in place with a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a rope of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Miss Alma E. (Lydia) Lampman was her sister's bridesmaid and wore jade green canton crepe with touches of gold, a wreath of daisies circled her head and she carried flame colored roses. Mr. Milton Hall supported his brother. The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, softly played by Miss Jenett Hall, sister of the groom. During the signing of the register, Miss Alena Shay of Forest, accompanied by Miss Margaret Clint of Sarnia, sang, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." While congratulations were being extended, Miss Alma Brown of Parkhill, little niece of the bride, played very sweetly.

After the ceremony the guests proceeded to a spacious marquee where luncheon was served. The tables, arranged in the form of a horse shoe, were beautifully decorated with peonies and ferns.

Guests were present from Edmonton, Toronto, London, Sarnia, Forest, Parkhill and Dashwood.

LITT—PREUTER.

On Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock a quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Prueter of Mitchell, when their daughter Hilda was married to Mr. Walter Litt, son of Mrs. Rachael Litt of Sebringville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Roberts, rector of Trinity Church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives. After the signing of the register and congratulations Mr. and Mrs. Litt left on a motor trip, and on their return they will reside at Sebringville.

WALKOM—CURTIS.

At 5:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, June 21, a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. James Curtis of Fullarton, south of Mitchell, when her daughter Olive was married to Mr. Walter Walkom, a prosperous young farmer of the same township. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens and flowers by Rev. Mr. Colling, in the presence of about 50 guests. The bride was given away by her grandfather, Mr. John Harburn of Mitchell, and the wedding march was played by Miss Anabel McLellan of Mitchell, cousin of the bride. The bride, who was gowned in white silk trimmed with beads, carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Her traveling costume was navy blue serge with white picture hat. During the signing of the register Mrs. Alvin Harris, aunt of the bride sang "O Perfect Love." Mr. and Mrs. Walkom will reside on the groom's fine farm on Fullarton.

BARLEY—McNAUGHTON.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. McNaughton of Logan, north of Mitchell, on Wednesday afternoon, when their daughter Rhea Viola was married to Mr. John Barley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barley of Fullarton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Allen of Monkton, in the presence of 35 guests. The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in canton crepe and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The wedding march was played by Miss Barley, sister of the groom.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GIVE SERIES OF RECITALS.

The Thamesford pupils of Mrs. Grant Harris gave a most interesting evening in the town hall on Thursday. Violin and piano solos and duets, and songs by Miss Webb of London and Miss Hamilton of Woodstock were very much enjoyed.

Mr. Leslie Gray of London played violin duos with Mrs. Grant-Harris.

The hall was filled to capacity. On Friday evening the London pupils of Mrs. Grant-Harris gave a recital in the A. O. F. hall, Dundas street, in violin and piano. Saturday afternoon was spent by the students in the north end at a happy picnic. Tea among the daisies and games and races were enjoyed by all.

UNIT AIDS BOYS' CAMP.

The final meeting of the Mothers' Unit of St. Mary's School was held Thursday evening at the school. A large donation was made by the club for the summer camp of the boy scouts of St. Mary's School. Arrangements were made for the picnic to be held in August, to which all the mothers and children have been invited. In the absence of the president, Mrs. M. Carney, Mrs. W. Hoy presided. An excellent report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. C. Conroy, showing a large balance on hand. A dainty supper served under the convenership of Mrs. J. Larkin, Mrs. T. Kinsella, and Mrs. D. M. McCormick concluded the meeting.

CHESLEY AVENUE CLUB.

The Mothers' Club of Chesley Avenue School are holding a social Tuesday evening at the school which will close the season. A program is being arranged, and dainty refreshments will be served. The club picnic will be held at Springbank, July 19.

D. O. S. GARDEN PARTY.

The garden party given under the auspices of the Daughters of Scotland, Friday evening, on the grounds of Mrs. B. J. Dunlevy, Quebec street, was a bright and successful affair. Gay-colored Japanese lanterns were strung from the trees, and flags, flowers and bunting decorated the booths. Mrs. James Hendrie, the chief, welcomed the many guests. A delightful feature was the W. O. R. pipe band, which provided stirring music. An interesting program, which was arranged by Mrs. George Stark, was presented, including dances by Leanore Gilmore, Marian Smith, Helen Wilkie, Kate Davies, Dorothy Tagg, Hary Henderson and Evelyn Nicholson; readings by Nan Kilman, and solos by Mrs. Ogg, Lorna Evingham and Allen Tagg. Misses Bernice Appleton and Helen Smith acted as accompanists.

The attractive booths were in charge of the following: Home-cooking, Mrs. Findlater, Mrs. Eddie and Mrs. Albert Webb; candy, Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Kelman and Mrs. Haldane; soft drinks, Mrs. James Smith and Mrs. Gilmore; fish pond, Mrs. Peter Russell, Mrs. Ogg and Mrs. Nicholson; ice cream, Mrs. Yule and Miss Marian Stark.

WELCOME AT PARADE.

Members of St. John Ambulance nursing divisions in the city are looking forward with keen interest to the annual church parade which takes place to St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday, June 25, the nearest date to St. John's Day, when the preacher will be the rector, Very Rev. Dean N. L. Tucker. All who have taken St. John Ambulance courses, it is stated, will be welcome to join the divisions and participate with them in the service. Those intending to do so are urged to be at synod hall, not later than 10:45 o'clock on Sunday morning.

MINISTER PLAYS PIPES.

An event of this week, enjoyed by a large number, was the garden party held at St. Paul's Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, for which Mr. and Mrs. George A. McGillivray opened the beautiful grounds of their home, "Bellevue Heights." While the ladies served strawberries, cream, cake and other goodies, the minister of the church, Rev. Mr. McKillop, and Mr. Russell, gave bagpipe numbers. Mr. McKillop acted as chairman during the program which followed, including violin and piano selections by the Morley trio, solos by Mrs. Faulkner, Misses Holt and Dickinson and Mr. E. Crawford, Scotch dancing by Jean and Marion McLean, and banjo selections by Mr. Echirberger.

BALL MANIA HITS EKFRID.

Baseball mania, so prevalent among London girls this summer, has hit the young maidenhood of North Ekfrid. Report has been sent in of a lively match played on the North Ekfrid School grounds, with Miss Elsie Mills, one of London's champion girl players, making the winning scores with the last bat. Miss Irene Roemmele and Miss Lizzie Pierce were the pitchers, and Miss McDougal, Ekfrid, a school teacher, and Miss Lila Roemmele, the catchers. An ice cream and watermelon treat followed.

Honor Lewis Mission In Heart of Africa

Mrs. M. B. Tule, who left London early in the year to engage in missionary work in Africa, and was given a heart-warming send-off by Lewis Mission, has written the mission that its name will be perpetuated through the station she is establishing in the interior on the Gold Mine road, Carysburg district. Writing from Monrovia, Liberia, West Africa, on May 12, she stated that 100 acres of land had been donated to her by a Mr. Woodson, and the station to be built up there will be called the Lewis-Woodson mission, in honor of the efforts of Lewis Mission and friends in London, and also in honor of the donor of the land.

After the land is cleared, two buildings will be erected, one for boys and one for girls, which will cost $10,000. The land will yield enough food for the students. She adds that the land is very mountainous and that her work takes her miles upon miles on foot through trackless jungles, with death lurking in poisonous plants and flowers. She was just recovering from an attack of fever.

"The people are harder to reach in some ways than the South Africans," says Mrs. Yule, who is of African descent, "but chief after chief has asked me to come into their territory because they want God's palaver."

She expresses grateful appreciation of a donation of $50 from the Lewis Mission.

GLENCOE W.M.S. ARRANGES RALLY

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, Glencoe, held a rally of all the auxiliaries of the district this week, including Newbury, Wardsville, Tait's Corners, North Ekfrid, Appin and Burns' Church, Mosa. Mrs. Paton, president of the Glencoe Auxiliary, presiding. Mrs. M. B. McEachern of London, presbyterial secretary, gave an interesting report of the Ontario provincial annual meeting, held in Ottawa. At the close tea was served, and a social hour enjoyed.

Much gratification was expressed by presbyterial officers over the rally which, if is hoped, will establish a precedent in the presbytery. It is felt that such rallies will greatly increase interest in missions.

Preserve Strawberries Now

The fruit this year is of first quality, but the season promises to be short. We advise you to do your preserving now. You will get the best berries if the Niagara Penninsula Growers' Limited mark is on the containers.

CRUMLIN W. M. S. IS THIRTY-FIVE.

The 35th anniversary of the W. M. S. of Crumlin Presbyterian Church was fittingly observed on Sunday and Monday last. On Sunday evening Mrs. D. L. McCrae of London gave a very interesting talk on missions, and Mrs. Arthur Brown of Crumlin gave an historical sketch of the Crumlin W. M. S., which was greatly appreciated.

On Monday evening a supper and concert were held. The basement of the church was like a bit of fairy land, with its twelve tables, lighted shaded candles, and decorated to represent each month of the year. The June table, the birthday month of the society, was lovely, with its birthday cake with 35 glowing candles. A delicious supper served by the ladies was followed by an excellent entertainment by the Harmonic quartet of London, and readings by Mrs. J. Salisbury Baker of Hamilton. Mrs. Baker, with her charming personality and wonderful elocutionary powers, held her audience spell-bound, while the Harmonic quartet, under the able direction of Mr. Pink, gave a rare musical treat.

Rev. Mr. Stewart, Belmont, presided. The receipts were most satisfactory. At the regular monthly meeting held recently in the home of Mrs. Frank Wilson, a paper "The Lord's Day, the Best Day," was given by Mrs. Angus. The missionary topic was taken by Mrs. J. Fox, prayer offered by Miss J. Woods, and a solo sung by Miss Rita Gee. Dainty refreshments were served at the tea hour by the hostess.

ZONE CENTER GARDEN PARTY.

The members of the Zone Center W. I. gave a garden party on the school grounds adjoining the town hall on June 15. The grounds were brilliantly illuminated by an electric plant installed by Roy Chaplan of Inwood. The Moraviantown Brass Band gave excellent music throughout the evening. Of the two baseball clubs, Moraviantown and Florence, the latter won. The spirit of co-operation in the neighborhood was shown by the excellent luncheons provided, ice cream, cakes and sandwiches. The refreshment booth was also well patronized, the receipts from which were nearly $50. Elder John Dent of Bothwell occupied the chair. The chief entertainers were: The Smith Orchestra, Mrs. Kenner, Miss Misner and Miss Ritchie, vocalists, and Miss Joyce of Detroit, elocutionist. The humorous dialogue, "Safety-First," was splendidly rendered. The president of the W. I., Mrs. Mahuske, in a few appropriate remarks, thanked all present for their help in making the institute's first garden party a success. The gate receipts were $81.

LOBO WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

The monthly meeting of the Lobo Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wash. Irvine, Lobo, this week, with an attendance of 45. Community singing was followed by a splendid paper on "The Ideal One-Room School," given by Mrs. Duncan McCallum. The report of convention was also given. "Our Poets" was a very interesting feature of the afternoon. Each member was given a slip of paper with the first line of a poem to be completed. Refreshments were served. The July meeting will be held in the Masonic Hall, Lobo, on Wednesday, July 19, at 2:30 p.m. Roll call will be answered by one word beginning with the letter "x."

Capt. and Mrs. Ralph Brock have returned to Toronto after a fortnight's visit in town, during which they were guests of Mrs. Brock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William May, Dufferin avenue.

SCARAMOUCHE

by Rafael Sabatini

M. de Chabrillane, leaning upon a cane—for he had relinquished his sword to M. de Vilmorin—looked on with quiet interest. Facing him on the other side of the combatants stood Andre-Louis, the palest of the four, staring from fevered eyes, twisting and untwisting clammy hands.

He clung to the conviction that the issue could not really be very serious. If the obligations of Philippe's honor compelled him to cross swords with the man he had struck, M. de La Tour d'Azyr's birth compelled him no less to do no serious hurt to the unfledged lad he had so grievously provoked. M. le Marquis, after all, was a man of honor.

The encounter was very short, of course. In youth, Philippe had received the tutoring in sword-play that was given to every boy born into his station of life. And so he knew at least the rudiments of what was now expected of him. But what could rudiments avail him here? Three disengages completed the exchanges, and then without any haste the marquis slid his right foot along the moist turf, his long, graceful body extending itself in a lunge that went under M. de Vilmorin's clumsy guard, and with the utmost deliberation he drove his blade through the young man's vitals.

With white face and twitching lips, Andre-Louis looked up at M. de La Tour d'Azyr, who stood surveying his work with a countenance of grave but remorseless interest.

"You have killed him!" cried Andre-Louis.

"Of course."

The marquis ran a lace handkerchief along his blade to wipe it. As he let the dainty fabric fall, he explained himself. "He had, as I told him, a too dangerous gift of eloquence."

And he turned away, leaving completest understanding with Andre-Louis. Still supporting the limp, draining body, the young man called to him:

"Come back, you cowardly murderer, and make yourself quite safe by killing me, too!"

The marquis half turned, his face dark with anger. Then M. de Chabrillane set a restraining hand upon his arm. Although a party throughout to the deed, the chevalier was a little appalled now that it was done. He had not the high stomach of M. de La Tour d'Azyr, and he was a good deal younger.

"Come away," he said. "The lad is raving. They were friends."

"You heard what he said?" quoth the marquis.

"Nor can he, or you, or any man deny it," flung back Andre-Louis.

"Yourself, monsieur, you made confession when you gave me now the reason why you killed him. You did it because you feared him."

When the landlord and his people came, they found Andre-Louis, his arms about the body of his dead friend, murmuring passionately into the deaf ear that rested almost against his lips:

"Philippe! Speak to me, Philippe! Philippe . . Don't you hear me? O God of heaven! Philippe!"

At a glance they saw that here neither priest nor doctor could avail.

Andre-Louis, holding the dead man's hand in both his own, swore to him out of his impotent rage that M. de La Tour d'Azyr should pay a bitter price for this.

"It was your eloquence he feared, Philippe," he said. "The thing he feared in you, he shall fear in me. He feared that men might be swayed by it still. For your eloquence and your arguments shall be my heritage from you. It shall profit him nothing to have your blood upon his soul. That voice in you would never half so relentlessly have hounded him, and his as it shall in me—if all else fails."

CHAPTER V.

FOR the second time that day Andre-Louis set out for the chateau.

The squat Seigneur de Gavrillac was restlessly pacing when Andre-Louis was introduced. He was already informed, as he announced at once, of what had taken place at the Breton Arme.

"The pity of it!" he said. "The pity of it!" He bowed his enormous head. "Ah, this La Tour d'Azyr is a hard man, and he feels very strongly in these matters. He may be right. I don't know."

"The question, monsieur my godfather," said Andre-Louis, "is what is to be done." He was quite calm and self-possessed, but very white.

M. de Kercadiou stared at him blankly out of his pale eyes.

"YOU HAVE KILLED HIM!" CRIED ANDRE-LOUIS.

"Why, what the devil is there to do? I am told Vilmorin struck M. le Marquis."

"Under the very grossest provocation."

"Which he himself provoked by his revolutionary language. The poor lad's head was full of this encyclopedist trash. It comes of too much reading. I have never set much store by books, Andre; and I have never known anything but trouble to come out of learning."

Andre-Louis felt a tightening of his heart, a lessening of his hopes.

"Your criticisms," he said, "are all for the conduct of the dead and none for that of the murderer. It does not seem possible that you should be in sympathy with such a crime."

"Crime?" shrilled M. de Kercadiou. "My God, boy, you are speaking of M. de La Tour d'Azyr."

"I am, and of the abominable murder he has committed . . ."

"Stop!" M. de Kercadiou was very emphatic. "M. de Kercadiou is my friend, and is likely very soon to stand in a still closer relationship."

"Notwithstanding this?" asked Andre-Louis.

M. de Kercadiou was frankly impatient.

"Why, what has this to do with it? I may deplore it. But I have no right to condemn it. It is a common way of adjusting differences between gentlemen."

Andre-Louis interrupted him. "It is no more a duel than if it had been fought with pistols of which only M. le Marquis' was loaded. He invited Philippe to discuss the matter further, with the deliberate intent of forcing a quarrel upon him and killing him. I am telling what M. le Marquis himself admitted to me."

"And what the devil do you propose to do, if you please?"

"I shall go to Rennes, and lay the facts before the king's lieutenant."

"He'll be too busy to see you. There is trouble enough in Rennes already on the score of these crazy States General."

"Good afternoon, monsieur my godfather," said Andre-Louis.

"Wait, boy, wait!" The squat little man rolled forward, affectionate concern on his great ugly face, and he set one of his podgy hands on his godson's shoulder. "Now listen to me, Andre," he reasoned. "This is sheer knight-errantry—moonshine, lunacy. You've read 'Don Quixote,' and what happened to him when he went tilting against windmills," the seigneur stormed. He was very angry now. "Since you choose to disobey me, you can break your empty head against the windmill, and be damned to you."

"If the windmill should prove too formidable," said he, from the threshold, "I may see what can be done with the wind. Good-bye, monsieur my godfather."

He was gone and M. de Kercadiou was alone, purple in the face, puzzling out that last cryptic utterance.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Sprinkle-Bow Tells Tale of Comet-Legs' Misdeed

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

"Well, hop on behind me," said Mr. Sprinkle-Blow.

THE Twins were on their way up to the Moon when they met the Weatherman, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, riding to meet them on his magic umbrella.

"Hello!" called Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, "did you find the Moon-Man?"

"No," answered Nancy. "And we asked everybody we met."

"Well, hop on behind me," said Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, "and I'll tell you what happened on the Moon after you left."

As soon as Nancy and Nick were nicely settled and the big green umbrella was turned Moonwards again, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow told his story:

"I was in the engine-house where Mr. Peerabout keeps all the handles for running the Moon when I heard someone laughing fit to kill.

"I looked out and there was Comet-Legs, the rascally fellow, who has caused all this mischief, shaking something out of a salt-shaker all over the Moon."

"Oh, that was the shaker with the magic powder," exclaimed Nick. "He stole it!"

Mr. Sprinkle-Blow nodded.

"And what do you s'pose was happening? Every tree and stone and flower turned square the minute the powder touched it. I never saw such a sight in my life!"

"What did you do?" asked Nancy.

"Do!" exclaimed Sprinkle-Blow. "I chased him. But wait till I tell you everything. When I caught him the shaker fell out of his hand to the ground, the top came off, and the powder spilled. The next thing I knew the Moon itself had turned square!"

"Then the little woodchuck baby was right," Nick said to Nancy, "and it wasn't a dream after all! What happened then, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow?"

"I whistled for my Four Winds," said the Weatherman, "and they came hurrying as fast as they could from Bluster-Gust Land."

Frills For Flappers—Summer Ousts Sport Attire

Soft shirred sleeves, wide bouffant skirts, sheer fabrics and delightful colors can do much to make one endure the heat.

The tightly-cuffed frock sketched is of figured batiste, which has come back into vogue. The other dress is of dotted Swiss—white with green—and both are as cool and dainty as could possibly be expected.

Gingham is favored for young girls dresses and grows more tailored every day. Tissue gingham is used a great deal. Calico prints are very modish, indeed.

Surprise the Family With Something New To Eat!

AT this season, the housekeeper has the pleasant task of giving her family little surprises! The warmer days cause a distaste for the heavier dishes of winter, and the appetite has to be coaxed.

The first sense to which an appeal should be made is the sense of sight. Food must be attractive, so that the mouth is ready with its sense of taste to enjoy the food; it in turn sends a message to the stomach to be ready for something good.

June gives us many good fruits and vegetables, and in each instance the color is one which appeals; green peas, asparagus, red strawberries, radishes and delicious onions.

One day one will find strawberries in the market which are large, ripe and delicious for serving plain with cream and sugar—another day the berries may be much cheaper, but because of rain, soft and bitter, they are better suited to be mashed and used as a sauce, or into the suggested marmalade or bar-le-duc.

When possible, make curd cheese, or cottage cheese as it is called, and serve the strawberry jam over it.

Almost every housekeeper will have cold meat left, and after serving it sliced cold, the remainder may be chopped and made into souffles, timbales or croquettes. Very few, however, realize that tiny slices or cubes of meat make an excellent salad, and will be enough for the main dish for luncheon or supper.

Rub the inside of a bowl with a clove or bean of garlic, place in it the meat, add three tablespoons of oil and one of vinegar, salt and pepper to taste. Cool and serve on lettuce with any cold vegetables, also dressed with oil and vinegar.

A few peas and carrots will go well with lamb, and string beans and tomatoes or beets will add just the needed touch to roast beef.

Never give the family any one dish, no matter how well it is liked, too many times in succession. In like manner, either dress the left-over meat differently, or skip a day, so that the family does not remember it in its original serving.

Form has a great deal to do with the successful disposing of a dish. Often food served in individual forms will be much more appreciated than when served in one dish.

That is true with a shortcake. Good as an old-fashioned, rich biscuit dough is in one large pie-shaped piece, it will be enjoyed more in biscuit size split and filled. And do not forget to butter generously the biscuit while it is hot!

If the children, who ought to like carrots, do not, try chopping them after boiling; add butter, salt and pepper, and one slightly-beaten egg to three cups of carrot. Pack into butter molds or cups and let stand in hot water 10 minutes. Turn out and serve with or without a cream sauce.

Radio Radiations

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

THAT the mere change in relative position of two coils of wire will actually "cut out" one transmitting radio station and bring in another, is rather surprising. Yet that is exactly what happens when the variometer in a radio set is adjusted.

All radio circuits must have two things—capacity and inductance.

The capacity is usually composed of a condenser; the inductance of a number of spiraled turns of wire.

Variable inductances are of three kinds—those known as slide wire inductances, wherein a sliding contact moves up and down the coil, making contact with each turn of wire; step-by-step inductances, where a switch contact with certain predetermined points along the coil, or the variometer.

Magnetic Change.

In the variometer, inductance is varied by a change in the magnetic relationship of its two coils. Usually one coil revolves within the other and the two are connected in "series."

When their planes coincide, and the direction of winding on both stationary and movable coils is the same, the magnetic fields produced by currents flowing in them also coincide. The inductance of the combination is then at a maximum.

Should the movable coil be revolved 180 degrees so that the planes of the two coils again coincide, but so that the direction of the winding upon the coils is in opposition, current flowing through the combination will produce magnetic effects which oppose each other.

Since the coils are exactly equal and since the current flowing in them is also equal, the magnetic effects will be equal. If the coils were so close together as to actually merge one into the other, the inductance of the combination would be zero.

It is mechanically impossible to build a variometer so that the coils actually do merge. Many designers have made the effort, however, to keep the two sets of coils very close together in order that a maximum range may be had.

Capacity.

In addition to having inductance, all coils have capacity. In the best variometers a very careful balance between a minimum of capacity and a maximum of inductance variation is made so that the maximum of wave length variation may be had. That is the important thing.

If the coils are too close together, the greater capacity of the combination will completely offset any increase in the range of inductance variation.

How to Best Treat Stomach Trouble

A TONIC MEDICINE IS NEEDED TO STRENGTHEN THE STOMACH.

The old-fashioned methods of treating stomach diseases are being discarded. The trouble with the old-fashioned methods was that when the treatment was stopped the trouble returned, often in an aggravated form.

The modern method of treating indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble is to tone up the stomach and glands to their normal work. The recovery of the appetite, the disappearance of pain after eating, the absence of gas, are steps on the road to health that those who have tried the tonic treatment remember distinctly. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic which through their action on the blood are helpful in building up the digestive organs, and therefore the best remedy for simple or chronic cases of stomach trouble. The success of the treatment is shown by cases like that of Mrs. Joseph Leclere, Wellington, P. E. I., who says: "I have been a great sufferer from indigestion and stomach trouble, and nothing that I took for it did me any good until I began Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was so bad that I did not want to eat, and when I did take food it lay like a weight on my stomach, often causing me much pain and misery. I saw in an advertisement what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done in a similar case and began taking them, with the result that after taking the pills for five or six weeks, I am feeling better than I have done for years. I hope my experience will help other similar sufferers."

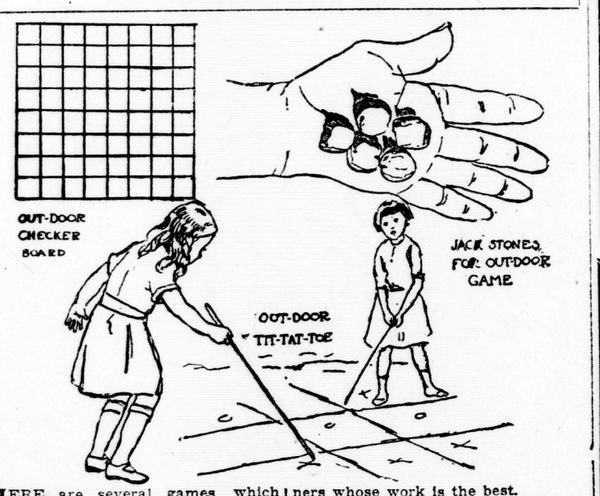
You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, postpaid, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR BABY'S OWN TABLETS

No medicine receives such great praise from thankful mothers as do Baby's Own Tablets. Once a mother has used them for her little ones she will use nothing else. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels and stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; relieve colds and simple fevers; promote healthful sleep and make teething easy. Concerning them Mrs. Omer LeBleu, Maddington Falls, Que., writes: "I am well satisfied with Baby's Own Tablets and will always use them for my little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUMMER STUNTS FOR GIRLS

OUTDOOR FROLICS



HERE are several games which girls always enjoy, and to play them out-of-doors with outdoor material will give the sport an added zest and delight; for there is a certain charm and sense of freedom in being able to breathe the fresh air and walk around the lined spaces while engaged in the games.

Take the good old game of tit-tat-toe. It's lots more fun to mark the crossed lines for the game with a stick on the bare earth and then have each player, while standing, draw her X and her O with her own stick. Put these hints to test and enjoy them.

The cross lines for the game should be about six feet in length (Fig 1). Have a number take part in the game and divide the players half for the O's and half for the X's. The side first winning three games is the victor.

For the outdoor checkers, an even number of players are required. Divide them equally and number them, odd numbers are on one side and even numbers on the other. Every odd number must have an even number for her partner. Number one and two could play together, three and four, or three and six, for an odd number may choose any even number, and vice-versa.

The checker boards are made by the girls, and are lined out on the ground with short sticks. Nine lines running in one direction are crossed by nine going in the opposite direction, making eight square spaces along each side of the board. Three checker boards are needed for six girls and an extra checker board for every additional two girls. Make lines for the board straight and even and have the players inspect the boards and congratulate the partners whose work is the best.

Hollyhock seeds may be used for checkers without their coats for one side, and hollyhock seeds wearing their green coats for the opposite side. If hollyhock seeds are not to be had, tree bark cut in round pieces can take their place, one partner using the bark with outside uppermost, while the other players turn the checkers over, bringing the inner side of the bark uppermost.

The game of jackstones is well adapted to the open, as all the equipment needed is jackstones. Large white pebbles, sufficiently flattened on one side to make sure that they will lie steady when caught on the back of the hand, are fine for the game, but any suitable stone may be used. However, try for the prettiest to be found. Play the game according to the regular rules which are too well known to need explanation.

STEWART ACTS TO ALLAY FEAR OF SIX NATIONS

Wins Approval of Premier King To Appointment of Royal Commission.

FULFILLS HIS PLEDGES

Minister of Interior Determined To End Indian Controversy For All Time.

Advertiser Staff Special.

OHSWEKEN, Six Nations Reserve, Ont., June 23.—Gradually the veil of uncertainty as to the future of the Six Nations Indians is being lifted. A royal commission will investigate its affairs.

After years of struggle for what they claim as their rights the chiefs and warriors of Tuscarora are convinced they will receive justice at the hands of the Liberal government.

Since Hon. Charles Stewart, superintendent-general of Indian affairs and minister of the interior, assumed office he has turned turmoil into calm on the reservation, and has won the sincere gratitude of the Indians for what he has done for them.

Remedies Injustice.

When they were on the verge of open rebellion the minister visited them, and after a day of speeches in the council house, agreed to remedy any injustice confronting them. Now he is doing all in his power to fulfill that pledge.

Through his efforts the King government has become acquainted with the entire matter, and as a consequence has decided to authorize a royal commission to investigate the grievances of the Indians, and make decisions by which the government will be bound.

The commission will consist of three supreme court judges, one to be selected by the government and one by the council of the Six Nations, and the third by the other two judges.

Informs Tribe.

Following in a copy of the letter regarding the matter received by the chiefs and warriors of the Six Nations from Hon. Charles Stewart:

Ottawa, June 13, 1922.

To the Chiefs and Warriors of the Six Nations Indians:

"Dear Sirs,—I have to inform you that I have given the affairs of the Six Nations Indians the most careful attention, and they have been the subject of consultations between myself and the deputy superintendent-general.

"The department has no other object than to conserve and promote your interests, and our mutual desire has been to take some action now which will result in permanently defining your position, in settling any controversies, in promoting your interests, and in ensuring the progress of your people.

"We decided that the best method of dealing with your claims and all questions affecting your past and future interests would be by the appointment of a commission of judges, who would be empowered to take evidence, make decisions and recommendations, before whom the department and the Six Nations could bring anything requiring investigation and settlement.

"I decided, therefore, to make this recommendation to the right honorable the prime minister, and I have pleasure in stating that the government has agreed to appoint a royal commission to inquire into the affairs of the Six Nations Indians, such commission to consist of three judges of the supreme court of Ontario, one of whom is to be selected by the government, one by the council of the Six Nations, and the third by the judges selected by the government and council.

"The government will be bound by the findings of the commission, and will carry out whatever recommendations are made by the commission. The appointment of this commission is contingent upon an undertaking by a majority of the male members of the Six Nations band of the full age of 21 years, given in a solemn and binding manner, to accept the findings of this tribunal as a final settlement of all claims of the Six Nations, and to acquiesce in the carrying out of the recommendations made by the commission.

"The Indians shall bring before this tribunal the question of their status, and all other causes or matters, financial or otherwise, for determination. The government shall also submit any questions regarding the Six Nations, upon which it is thought advisable to have decisions and recommendations. The Indians shall select as counsel to represent them a competent and qualified lawyer, and the department shall also be represented by counsel. The costs of the commission shall be borne by the government.

"I have to request that at as early a date as possible you signify your willingness to accept the above proposal, and to concur in the action necessary to obtain the consent of the majority of the Indians as above mentioned.

"(Signed) CHAS. STEWART,
"Superintendent-general of Indian Affairs."

BILL TO AUTHORIZE LOAN OF $350,000,000 PASSES

Fielding Explains Purpose of Measure to Retire Outstanding Liabilities.

OTTAWA, June 23.—(By Canadian Press.)—The bill to authorize a loan of $350,000,000 was passed in the House of Commons tonight without debate. The minister of finance explained that the purpose of the bill was to retire outstanding loans and treasury bills. The treasury bills now outstanding total $143,000,000, and there is a loan due on Dec. 1 of the present year for $182,000,000. He is taking power also to provide for two further loans which will fall due next year and the year following, the first being for $172,000,000 and the other for $108,000,000. In addition to the loan of $350,000,000 which was authorized tonight, provision has already been made, he stated, for $100,000,000 by the loan recently floated in New York.

STATES CARBON INJURES MOTOR

Expert Suggests Scraping or Burning As Means of Elimination.

CARBON is indeed a plague of the modern motorist, for to its presence may be laid many of the ills of the average gasoline engine, and anyone who has removed cylinder heads and scraped the substance will agree that it is assuredly black.

Carbon reduces the efficiency of an engine in a variety of ways.

1. It is a poor conductor of heat and consequently retains the high temperatures of the explosion within the walls instead of allowing them to be carried away in a "hot" engine, reduces lubricating efficiency, and sets up rapid wear and deterioration.

2. It forms an incrustation on the piston and cylinder heads and thus reduces the volume of the "clearance." This increases the compression and helps to cause pre-ignition with the pronounced knock attendant upon such operation. Engines originally designed with high compression are more susceptible to the carbon knock than are those of lower compression.

Forms Unevenly.

3. Carbon forms unevenly and accumulates on the valve seats, thus serving to prevent complete closing of the valves with a consequent loss of power and efficiency.

4. It's uneven formation leaves projections or points which become incandescent from the heat of previous explosions and ignite the mixture in the cylinder previous to the proper firing time. This adds to the tendency to "knock."

5. Carbon in the form of small particles is dislodged from the piston and cylinder heads and finds its way into the crank case, where it forms a gritty sediment that interferes with efficient lubrication and necessitates a frequent change of crank case oil.

Like an aching tooth, the most effective way to be rid of carbon accumulation is its absolute removal by positive means. This can best be done by scraping with sharp-edged tools provided for the purpose. The seat of the carbon formation must be reached, however, and this means the removal of the cylinder head, of the cylinders themselves, or of the plugs screwed in over the valves in the integral type of T-head or L-head engine. The scraping should be thorough and should leave as smooth a surface as possible, inasmuch as carbon will more readily form on a rough or pitted surface. At the same time that the cylinders are scraped, the valves should be ground and the stems cleaned and thoroughly lubricated.

Burn With Oxygen.

The labor involved in the removal of the cylinder head, cylinder block or other means of reaching the seat of carbon formation may be considerable, and in these days of high labor charges its cost may be prohibitive. In this case the burning method would be found effective and economical if the job is done by a man who understands his business. The burning method is nothing more than the application of oxygen into the cylinders by means of a small nozzle. Oxygen will not burn, but it supports combustion of the carbon. The latter burns with a white heat until entirely consumed, provided the oxygen blowpipe is moved around so that the gas will reach all parts of the cylinder. The danger of this method lies in the amount of heat formed and its tendency to warp the valve seats. This difficulty can be overcome by care in the burning by making certain that the piston of the cylinder to be treated is at the top of its compression stroke, and by keeping the radiator and cooling system well filled with water.

The simplest system of carbon removal is not necessarily the most effective, especially if it is necessary to eliminate large quantities of carbon. Steam will serve to reduce carbon formation and this may be generated by introducing small quantities of water into the intake manifold of the engine when it is running. The introduction of the water will tend to "kill the engine," but if the throttle is opened wider and the amounts of water introduced regulated, a considerable volume of steam can be generated.

Will Soften Carbon.

Kersone will also soften carbon, and if it is introduced in the same manner as prescribed for the water, removal of small quantities of carbon can be effected.

Some chemical forms of carbon remover have a more pronounced softening effect on carbon than has kerosene. These are introduced into spark plug or pet cock openings when the engine is cool and allowed to stand for from two to ten hours. Then, when the engine is run at a good rate of speed, the carbon previously softened by this dissolving process will be blown out through the exhaust. As a rule such carbon removers are not explosive and difficulty may be encountered in starting the engine if all cylinders have been so treated. The generous use of the choke, however, or priming with raw gasoline will overcome this difficulty.

One of the best means of introducing water, kerosene or carbon remover into the cylinders is to employ the positive suction afforded by the piston. The engine is a powerful pump, and the air rushes into the cylinders through the intake manifold as soon as the intake valves are opened. This suction is used in the vacuum fuel tank now found on the majority of cars, and by disconnecting the fuel pipe suction line and attaching a rubber hose leading into the can of water, kerosene or carbon remover, the liquid will be introduced to the very point at which it is most needed.

A regular pace saves gasoline and time.

The body is painted in Orriford Lake, the fittings are nickel plated and the equipment are such as to satisfy the most fastidious.

Auto Driver Requires Time To Sense Emergency Before Applying Brakes

What is the shortest distance required to stop your car going at a certain speed in an emergency?

The answer to this depends on two things:

First—Condition of brakes and the road surface.

Second—Time required for the driver to sense an emergency before applying the brakes.

Of these conditions the second is most important. Tests have set certain minimum distances for stopping, based on knowledge of brakes and road surfaces, in relation to the various speeds of the motor car.

For instance, 86 feet has been fixed as the minimum distance required to stop a car with good brakes, going 30 miles an hour on a dry, level road. With poor brakes on a slippery road, the distance is 258 feet.

But the human element must also be considered. It takes one-half a second for an experienced driver to sense an emergency before he begins to apply the brakes. In this one-half second of time, at a speed of 30 miles an hour, the car will have gone 22 feet.

International MOTOR TRUCKS in the Packing Industry

ANYBODY who knows the packers of Canada will agree with the statement that they are careful buyers. They are noted for their ability to get full value for every dollar.

Perhaps that is one reason why International Motor Trucks are at work for the leading packing companies of the Dominion.

One of the trucks in service for John Duff & Son of Hamilton, makes country trips almost daily, over roads that frequently become well-nigh impassable. Yet the truck has cost its owners very little for upkeep.

Sturdy strength that endures is the result of years of manufacturing experience and is backed by regular inspection by International road engineers who call on International Motor Truck owners as long as the truck is in use.

How Many Miles per Dollar Do Your Tires Give You?

If the miles per dollar on cheap tires were computed against the miles per dollar on good tires, good tires would show the least cost. Here's an actual instance: Two friends had summer cottages at the same lakeside resort, some hundred and fifty miles away. They used to motor up week ends. On one occasion, "A" put a cheap, new tire on his Overland Touring and a cheap new spare. At the end of 50 miles the new tire blew out, and at the end of 80 miles the second new tire blew out. He had no repair kit or blow-out patches and, it was so far to the nearest garage, he had to stay all night at a farm house. "B," who travelled the same roads, had two "Gutta Percha" Tires on his Dodge car, which lasted two seasons, without even minor mishaps. One blew out at 10,000 miles and the other is still going and looks good, with a record of over 12,000 miles. Which Tire Cost the Most? The Cheap Price Tire, of course. Which Tire would you buy? "Gutta Percha," of course.

"Gutta Percha" Tires do not demand a higher price than other standard tires, so why not have the best when they cost no more?

SOME RECORDS SHOULD CRACK AT M.A.A.A. MEET

Class of Entries For Today Highest in History of Event.

Judging by the class of the entries in the big M.A.A.A. track meet at Queen's Park this afternoon, there should be some records go by the board. There have been more entries, but it is doubtful if there were ever more talent collected than in this year's competitions.

The track is in splendid shape, and the local industrial teams have been practicing steadily all week for the closed events, and some of the best will be seen in the open competitions as well.

The Hamilton Spectator says of the entries from the Ambitious City:

Several members of the local "Y" track and field club will go to London Saturday to take part in the London Manufacturers' Association annual track field day. Lloyd Walker will take part in the sprints, Charlie Smith in the 440 and 880, Reg. Orr and "Pete" Richardson in the mile, Jack Histed in the high jump. Hamilton's best long-distance runners will represent the local "Y" club in the London Free Press 12-mile modified marathon, in Eddie Rae and Charlie Morton. Eddie finished third last year, and Morton fifth, General of Brantford winning the event. It is a safe bet, however, that the Indian will have to step considerably faster than he did last year if he wants to hold the cup, for both the local boys are in the best of shape, and have greatly improved in the last twelve months.

The program has been shortened by the bicycle events being taken off. The bridging of the track for the subway excavation, while it will not interfere with the runners, would make the bicycle events impossible.

Two Grand Trunk teams will put on a tug-of-war contest, billed as an exhibition, but unofficially and privately a real attempt to decide the claims made by both crews.

Mayor Wilson will fire the starting gun for the modified marathon.

TILBURY NINE WINS TIGHT 5—4 VICTORY

TILBURY, June 23.—Tilbury defeated Thamesville here on Thursday afternoon in a Kent County Baseball League fixture by a score of 5 to 4 in an eleven-inning game. W.O.R.'s SHOOT OFF WITH ELGIN REGT.

This afternoon at the Cove Ranges the W. O. R. rifle team of twelve men will compete against the rifle team of the Elgin regiment, St. Thomas, and it is expected that a hard competition will be shot, as the St. Thomas team is one of the foremost teams in Western Ontario.

The local team will be somewhat weakened by the very serious illness of Sergt. C. W. Morgan, who is in Victoria Hospital.

ACES SHORTEN UP HAMILTON'S LEAD

SAGINAW, June 23.—Saginaw evened the series and reduced Hamilton's lead to two games Friday by winning 5 to 3. It was Herman Schwartje's twelfth win in fourteen starts.

Hamilton hit Schwartje rather hard the first four innings, but after that he tightened up and allowed only three hits the last five rounds.

Petie Behan, Hamilton's star pitcher, will be out of the game for two weeks as the result of having the nail torn off the index finger of his pitching hand in the second inning. Hughes, who replaced him, was wild and not particularly effective, but he was given good support. The Aces also gave Schwartje grand support, Miller playing a sensational game at short, and Pike and Mills also were steady.

Calbert and Miller hit home runs over the right field fence, an unusual occurrence, for both are right-hand hitters. It was Calbert's sixteenth of the season.

SALADNA STOPS SAINTS.

PORT HURON, June 23. — Big John Saladna stopped the Saints today in the second game of the Brantford series, and the Kellymen were handed a 9 to 3 defeat.

Three home runs featured the game, accounting for most of the runs. Lalonge made one with two on and Getsie hammered out another with one on. Prysock connected for the other. The game was played in Petrolea, and the numerous errors were caused by the bad infield.

HOOKER FINED $25.

BAY CITY, Mich., June 23.—The Wolves added to their season's achievements Friday by scoring in every inning to set a new league record, and soundly trounced the lowly Kitchener Beavers 16 to 3. Gene Tippett, Kitchener's star hurler, was touched up for seventeen hits, including two doubles, two triples and a home run. Harris led the Wolf attack with a home run, triple and single in three times at bat for a perfect percentage. Boothby for Bay City pitched good ball, but never exerted himself. Shortstop Lena Hooker of Kitchener was fined $25 for wrangling with the umpire last Saturday, and was out of the game, Schaefer coming in from the outfield to play shortstop. He distinguished himself with two wonderful stops. First Baseman Wire of Bay City was fined $10 for arguing with Umpire Anderson Wednesday. Ernie Sharp, who has been out of the Kitchener line-up with injuries, got back in the game, and drove in all three of the visitors' runs with three hits. The box score:

LITTLE DRIBBLES

Grand Trunk juniors beat United Vets last night in the Railroad City 1—0 in a league fixture. Henderson, on a pass from Morley in the last five minutes of play, beat the St. Thomas goalie on a splendid shot, after the two teams had fought a close battle with little to choose between them.

What will probably be one of the best games of the season is to be played tonight at Springbank between W. O. R.'s and St. Johns Rovers. The kick-off will be at 6:30.

The fixture comes under the St. Thomas City League, and a win for the W. O. R.'s will put them at the top of the league.

An emergency meeting of the London and District will be held at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock Monday night. All officials and referees must be on hand.

There is a possibility that W. O. R.'s will arrange their semi-final cup game in Sarnia for July 1. This date is convenient for the locals, and the Port Huron-Sarnia baseball team will be away on that date.

The locals are not over-confident of their success in this game, but figure they'll get through on a close margin. The Tunnellers have some very fine players in Weston, Harry Manchester, George Cooper, and Charlie Hicks.

These players made their appearance here three years ago with the Sarnia all-stars against a representative team from this city. The score then was 1—0 for the borderers.

Wallaceburg will be in the injured players series. They are a team to be considered. Alf McVitie, their captain and goalkeeper, won his first soccer medal in 1897 playing for Wandsworth Rovers.

The W. O. R. lineup for tonight will be picked from the following:Fuller, Herring, Nudds, Dennis, Ashton, Broomhead, Whitworth, Croot, Short, Taylor, Barcombe, Ridley, Turner, Perins, Moore, Woods.

WHEELMEN'S ASSOCIATION BACK AT WATERLOO JULY 1

Athletic Program Added to Bicycle Events as Variation.

The Canadian Wheelmen have completed their arrangements for their big day in Waterloo on July 1. This will be the greatest sporting event held in the counties of Waterloo or Wellington since the war started in 1914. At that time the officers of the C. W. A. called off all sporting events in honor of the riders who enlisted. In 1921 they opened their championships again, and this year are going back to the old hunting ground. In addition to the championship bicycle races this year, they have decided to put on athletics, and this will give a variety for all.

In prizes the old town has come forward in the old-time manner, and any athlete fortunate to win a prize is assured of something worth taking home.

The events are as follows:

Bicycle Events.

One mile novice.
Quarter-mile championship.
Half-mile, boys under 17 (open to Waterloo County only).
One-mile championship.
Five-mile championship.
Two-mile handicap.
Miss-and-out race.
Half-mile championship.

Athletic Events.

100 yards foot race, open.
440 yards foot race, open.
One mile foot race, open.

Entry blanks can be had at any of the Y. M. C. A.'s in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Guelph, Kitchener, Brantford, Galt, Stratford, Preston, or from Fred A. O. Johnston, 106 Adelaide street west, Toronto, Ont., chairman, C. W. A. Racing.

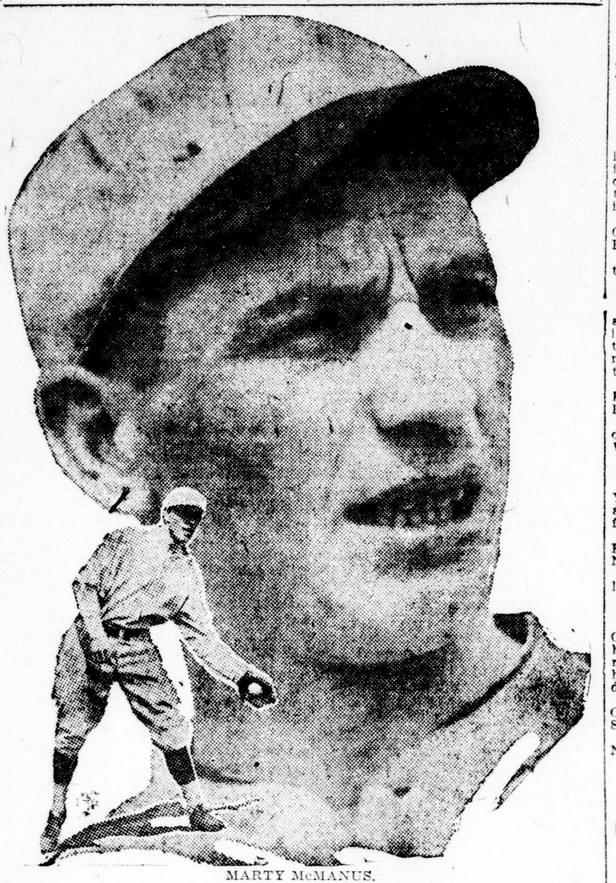
Browns' Star Second Sacker



MARTY McMANUS.

THERE are a number of reasons why the St. Louis Browns continue to make things interesting for the seven other clubs.

It has a number of stars who work for the interest of the team. They add color and strength to the club.

At first there is the incomparable Sisler, back of the bat the high-class consistent catching of Severeid, and leading the pitchers is the brilliant Shocker. At short the sensational Gerber.

The outfield would be hard to improve upon. Tobin, Jacobson and Williams make a great trio.

Williams Adds Color.

Kenneth Williams has added the proper touch of color to the club.

Yet, in a sense, the work of two of the lesser lights have added the strength which has converted the Browns from a strong club into a dangerous pennant contender.

McManus Real Star.

Ellerbe has plugged up the hole at third base which has existed ever since Father Time made the going rough for Jimmy Austin.

However, the work of Marty McManus at second base has been the sparkle of the combination. The loss of Joe Gideon made a big flaw in the inner defense of the Browns. McManus has finally filled it.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 23.—The field for the $50,000 Kentucky Special, at 1¼ miles, for three-year-olds, is virtually complete, and the seemingly impossible task of bringing together eight of the best colts of that division has been accomplished. Five of them come from the east—Morvich, winner of the Kentucky Derby; Pillory, which won the Preakness and the Belmont, and three from Harry Payne Whitney's stable, Whiskaway, the only horse that ever defeated Morvich, and Olympus and Broomster.

The west will make its bid with Deadlock, John Finn, who ran third in the Kentucky Derby, and Thibodeaux. Each horse will carry 126 pounds.

In addition to the cash value of the race, a $2,000 gold cup will be presented to the winner.

OLD ELI TRIUMPHS OVER CRIMSON 8

Three-Foot Lead Steadily Increased To Three Lengths At Finish.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 23.—Rowing a steady, sustained stroke of 32 to the minute for the full four miles, the Yale Varsity crew defeated Harvard's eight by close to three lengths in the feature race of the fifty-fifth regatta of the rival universities here late this afternoon. The story of the race is a story of a three-foot lead snatched in the first few beats of the contest, gradually stretched into a three-length lead at the finish of the long, four-mile up-stream row.

The contest savored more of a well-ordered procession rather than a battle of blades, was without particular thrill other than the perfect form and oarsmanship shown by the New Haven crew coached by the English oarsmen, George and Jim Corberry. In this respect Harvard was not far behind, but the even administration of power so noticeable in the Eli blades was missing in the beat of the Crimson.

The superiority of the Yale crew is well given by the official time for the race, which was won in 21 minutes and 53 seconds to Harvard's 22 minutes and 6 seconds. The winners' time today fell 1 minute and 51 seconds behind the course record made by Harvard in 1916.

Yale: 2:34, 5:17, 7:57, 10:37, 13:17, 16:11, 18:58, 21:53.

HUGE CRIB RAFT BEARS 5,000 LOGS

Special to London Advertiser.

OWEN SOUND, June 23.—The tug 'Harrison' arrived in port yesterday with a crib raft for the North American Bent Chair Company, containing 5,000 logs, nearly 500,000 feet board measure. The crib was 475 feet long and about 24 feet beam and drew about ten feet of water.

This is much the largest crib raft ever handled on the Georgian Bay and that it was delivered here in 38 hours, or at a rate of about three miles per hour, makes the event of more than local interest.

The crib is built up on a platform of pine logs, chained together with 12-foot stakes running the full length. The hardwood logs are placed tier upon tier, with cross chains about every three tiers. It is impossible to tow hardwood logs in an ordinary boom without a very heavy loss.

The crib raft, which was first used on the Georgian Bay by the owners of this raft, has solved the towing problem. The logs are being unloaded at the chair factory dock.

ONE KILLED, TWO HURT IN ACCIDENT ON HIGHWAY

Clifford Wardell Meets Death When Speeding Car Overturns.

TORONTO, June 23. — Clifford Wardell, manager of the Wardell Monument Works, was fatally injured; G. S. Donaldson, Toronto, agent of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, sustained a fractured skull, and is lying in a critical condition in the General Hospital, and William W. Creighton, a traveler for the railway, was badly cut and shaken up, when a motor car driven by Wardell, was overturned about two miles east of Oakville, on the Toronto-Hamilton highway early this afternoon.

According to spectators of the accident, the automobile containing the three men was being driven at a furious rate of speed. The car swerved to pass another westbound machine, and to avoid a collision with an eastbound automobile Wardell made a desperate effort to swing again to the north side of the highway. The car overturned twice, falling into the ditch. Wardell and Davidson were pinned underneath the machine. They were extricated as quickly as possible and hurried to the General Hospital, but on arrival it was found that the former had died. Donaldson's chances for recovery are said to be slim. Wardell leaves a wife and one child.

HAGEN CAPTURES BRITISH TITLE

SANDWICH, Eng., June 23.—Walter Hagen, U. S. professional golf star, won the British open championship today.

Hagen did the fourth round in the British open championship today in 72, giving him an aggregate for the four rounds of 300, which gave him the title.

The other leading scores, in order, were: C. A. Whitcombe, 303; J. H. Taylor, 304; Jean Gassiat of France, 306; Tom Walton and Harry Vardon, 307; Percy Alliss, 308; Charles Johns, 309; B. L. Holland, F. C. Jewell, E. H. Whitcombe, A. Havers and George Gadd, 310.

Hutchison made a game struggle to retain the championship. In the third round this morning he wrested the lead from Hagen with a splendid score of 73. If he could have duplicated this performance in the final round he would have saved his title, but a 76 was the best he could do.

It looked at first as if the three United States players would hold a clear title to the first three places, but the British veteran, George Duncan, coming through brilliantly in the final round, scored an aggregate of 301, bringing him into a tie with Barnes for second place.

MAY NATURALIZE FORMER ENEMIES

OTTAWA, June 23.—Former alien enemies will have the same rights of naturalization in Canada as persons of other nationalities, providing a bill introduced in the Commons this afternoon by Hon. A. B. Copp, secretary of state, is approved.

The bill is to amend the naturalization act, 1914. Another amendment contained in the bill provides for the acquiescence to the draft bill to amend the British nationality and status of alien acts.

HURT BY FALL AS LADDER BREAKS

Special to London Advertiser.

WABASH, June 23.—Wesley Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson, met with a very unfortunate accident this week while engaged in nailing galvanized sheet iron roofing on his father's barn.

He was standing on the top of a long ladder, when the rung on which he stood broke, and he fell heavily to the ground on his back.

He received some internal injuries, but it is expected that he will recover.

End Hunt For Jesuit Treasure When Diver Finds "Chest" To Be Flat Rock

PENETANG, June 23.—The hunt for the Jesuit treasure chest has ended in no-decision bout with the River Wye.

The solid oblong object discovered by the steel probe during the last few days has been revealed as nothing more than a flat six-foot rock which the hoisting apparatus is incapable of coping with.

The hunt is ended with the searchers convinced that either the rock contains iron and gold streaks or that the Jesuit treasure lies concealed beneath its immovable bulk.

This morning was spent in dredging again to hard bottom and removing several small limestone boulders which had raised false hopes. With the excavation thus cleared, Capt. Bob Carson, the diver, descended for a half hour investigation, armed with probe and scraper.

Nothing could be seen but air bubbles for long minutes, while the audience held its breath and visions of fabulous wealth floated above the muddy water, then Capt. Carson reappeared and in a few sentences destroyed the hunters' dreams. "It's a rock," he said, "about six feet long and three wide and I don't know how deep, because I couldn't get to the bottom of it.

"It's as flat as a table, and at first I thought it was what we wanted, but the ends are rough, and I'm certain it's a rock." Discussion as to drilling or raising this obstacle ended in the decision that the former operation entails too much time and expense, and that the good dredge Baltic is incapable of the latter feat. And so the searchers went home.

GIRL, 14, FALLS FROM BALCONY

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, June 23.—Reaching out to catch a ball thrown up to her, Morfa Symmonds, 14, of 61 Water street north, fell to the sidewalk twelve feet below when the railing of a balcony gave way. She now lies in the hospital in a serious condition, suffering from concussion and possibly a fracture at the base of the skull.

Despite the fact that she put out her hands to break the fall, and that she struck the walk with the left side of her face, the girl did not suffer any broken bones. Her arms, however, were badly bruised and sprained.

The Wellington Street Methodist Church Sunday School of Brantford today held its annual picnic at Soper Park.

G. A. Dobbie and L. L. Lang of this city have been appointed to the directorate of the Waterloo Trust and Savings Company, which has opened a branch here.

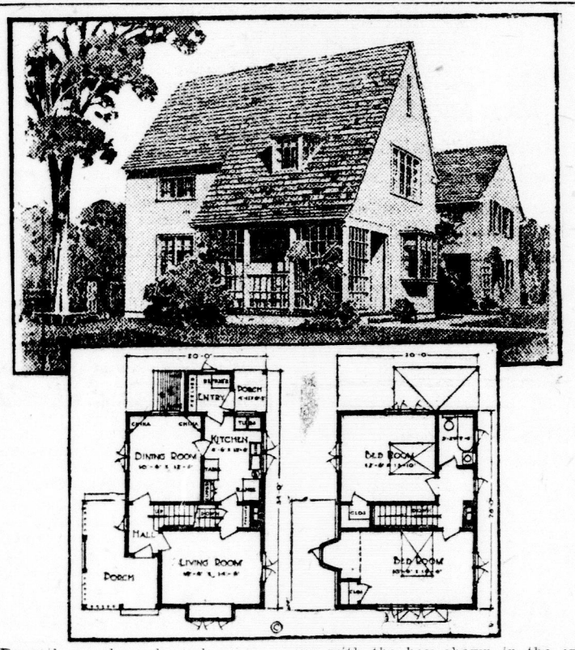
This House Will Last Long



Recently we have been hearing a good deal about permanent building materials. It is fitting that a good deal of attention should be given to the kind of materials from which our homes are to be built, both from the construction standpoint, and the standpoint of their appearance.

This five-room English house is well suited for permanent construction. Stucco may be used, in any one of a variety of tints and textures, to harmonize with the surroundings and contrast pleasantly with the white interior woodwork. Brick, limestone, and other fire-resistive materials are also suitable.

This house is adaptable to a great many lots; first, because it is only 28 by 20 feet, it can be used on a small city lot; second, because of the enticing little latticed porch around one corner, either the wider or the narrower side presents an attractive frontage; and third, because of these two frontages, it will do full justice to a corner lot. The treatment of the roof is especially good as it gives the house a much broader appearance, which is desirable in small houses. The dormer and the bay are carefully studied details.

The front entrance leads to a hall so small as to be practically a vestibule. It contains the boxed stair, and opens into both dining-room and living-room. The living-room is the one with the bay shown in the exterior view. The wide shelf is an admirable place for a homey row of potted plants, where they will get the sun all day long; and, of course, there will be a bowl of goldfish, or perhaps a caged songbird. A built-in bookcase is another homelike feature of the living-room. A rear door permits direct entrance to the kitchen or to the basement, a convenience for the man of the house when he tends the furnace.

Two pairs of casements on adjoining sides, and a pair of corner china closets are the most interesting features of the dining-room. There is a double-acting door between the dining-room and kitchen. The kitchen also has light from two sides, so that it is bound to be well-lighted all day. The rear entry offers a convenient storage place for many unsightly, but necessary, housekeeping adjuncts, and is a desirable place for the refrigerator. There are both inside and outside basement steps.

Upstairs there are two unusually large, light bedrooms. One of them has casements on three sides, so is almost a sleeping porch. The dormer is in an alcove. The compact, convenient bathroom occupies one corner of the second floor, directly over the kitchen. In this way, an economy of plumbing is effected.

TELLS WORK NECESSARY TO PREPARE ADVERTISING

That this is an age of specialization is becoming more and more evident, and that the man or firm that specializes is the one that is sought when real service or sound counsel is needed, is quite apparent. With these facts in mind the foundation for Federal Advertising Agency, Limited, with head office in London, and branch office in Hamilton, was built on the firmest of business bedrock, with experts in charge of every department, men who are conscientious, who endeavor at all times to give clients helpful advice, and who try to administer a client's advertising appropriation as carefully as if it were their own funds and the advertising campaign their own.

One of the reasons for advertising failures is lack of knowledge. A businessman who, by every right in the world, is called keen, analytical and a producer, will decide to spend a certain sum in telling the general public of the quality of his product. Without much thought as to his markets, the class of people who can or will buy his products, the possible sales by districts, etc., he will plunge into print to the extent of thousands of dollars. Perhaps he will write the advertising himself, or intrust it to an assistant, and by the time the copy appears in print it probably fails to create a demand for his product, or perhaps kills all possibility of interesting prospective buyers. In a word, he uses space that costs dollars per inch in the same way as he would use whitewash on a chicken coop.

100 Per Cent Values.

This is where the modern advertising agency with its specially trained men steps in, and where it obtains as nearly as possible one hundred per cent value for money expended on advertising.

The expert space buyer knows media and markets. He knows, after making an investigation, where advertisements should appear and what amount of money should be spent in that publication to the client's benefit.

The advertising agency's merchandisers know the class of people who will buy any particular product. They know approximately the number of people in a certain district who are possible buyers, the class of paper that reaches those people, and the kind of sales talk that should be used to interest them and create sales.

Then there is the copywriter, who is really a supersalesman, with tools of printer's ink and white paper. His first work with any advertisement is to create such interest that it will attract the attention of the reader; his next object is to hold that attention by making his copy so interesting that people will read it, and the third and hardest task of all is to produce such convincing arguments that he implants in the minds of readers a desire to purchase the product advertised.

Important Link.

The layout man is also an important link in the chain. He must devise the attention-arresting illustration or type arrangement, the intriguing pictorial vizualization that wins the reader's interest. He must know what designs and drawings will bring out the best points in the advertised article and he must have skillful artists to work with him in producing his thoughts.

To give clients the kind of service they should have in so vital an undertaking as the handling of an advertising campaign, which in reality is the precursor of a selling campaign, Mr. T. H. Yull of Federal Advertising Agency, Limited, gathered about him the best men he could secure to supervise the different departments; men who had had years of experience in their particular work; men who would be anxious at all times to produce maximum results for clients at minimum cost, and so build up his own business.

That he has succeeded is evidenced by the unusual growth of Federal Advertising Agency, Limited, and the varied business activities of the clients now being served.

Six years ago, with nothing but a determination to win out by high-class service and a thorough understanding of advertising in all its branches, Mr. Yull started the Federal Advertising Agency. Today the company is doing an annual business that mounts into hundreds of thousands of dollars, and is serving over sixty firms in all parts of Western Ontario, with advertising appropriations ranging all the way from $50,000 a year for the large concern to the small initial advertising investment of the growing manufacturer just beginning to feel his way in the important field of popularizing his product by persistent publicity.

Succeed In London

LONDON grows as a city, as its citizens grow in public spirit. Co-operation is the secret of success, and those pioneers who first lived in the tiny village which has become the city of London, left a reputation for hard and honest work which their descendents have lived up to faithfully. The result of that work is seen in steady progress and social advancement of the city of London.

Its manufacturers and businessmen work together as citizens for the civic benefit. The aim is to benefit London, and the consequence is a benefit to all, and it is with the continued success of its citizens that the success of the city has been built up.

The superiority of London as a labor center is easily demonstrated. Sufficiently large in itself to insure an adequate supply of workers at all seasons, it has the additional advantage of being so situated as to be the natural center of the whole of Western Ontario, the most populous district in Canada, containing nearly a million people, or one-eighth of the populace of the Dominion.

London is a city of home owners. Seven per cent of its citizens own their own homes, and new homes are continually going up in every part of the city. The fact that they are home-owners induces every citizen to take an active part in city life. Every possible means of beautifying and improving the city is taken advantage of, so that each year sees a decided step forward in every department of city life.

It is a fine city to live in, to work in, and to play in.

CAN MAKE OLD RUGS INTO FINE "VELVETY" ONES

It was a sultry evening in June, and Tom called to take Jessie for a spin in his car, but Jessie explained to him that as it was only two days to their wedding day, she could not spare the time, as there was so much to be done; so Tom had to content himself with reading magazines on the veranda, till at last he was tired of his own company and thought he would go home, so he entered the house and called to Jessie, and told her he was going home.

Just as he was leaving he said: "Just two days, Jessie, and it will be our wedding day," and Jessie looked at Tom and said: "Oh, Tom, so it will, and we will be starting on our lovely trip to Calgary. It will be just great traveling part of the way by boat across the Great Lakes." "You know, Jessie, we will have to return all the way by train, as I have to be back in town by Aug. 14."

"By the way, Tom, we must have some rugs for those hardwood floors upstairs. We have that square and runner that your aunt and uncle gave us to use downstairs; but we ought to have more protection or our floors will be absolutely spoilt." "Yes, Jess, you are right. I heard a fellow down at the office talking about a rug firm down on Carling street. I wonder if they sell rugs? I will find out and let you know. Well, good-night, Jessie."

It was within half an hour after Tom went home that the telephone rang, and Tom wanted to speak to Jessie. "Oh, Jessie, mother said that the rug firm on Carling street is called the Canada Rug Company, and have made rugs for a bazaar held in the church Aunt Maud attends at Sarnia, and she said they make lovely rugs just out of old carpet, and mother said she has some old carpet she would give us, and grandma has some." "Isn't that just lovely, Tom. Just hold the phone and I will find out if mother has any." Jessie left the phone and ran into the kitchen. "Oh, mother, have you any old carpets you do not want? Tom says they can be made into lovely 'Velvetex' rugs." "Yes, dear, we have some in the attic you can have, and welcome." "Thank you, mother, ever so much."

Jessie goes back to the phone. "Oh, Tom, mother says we have some that can be used." "That's great Jessie. Now I will phone the Canada Rug tomorrow to call at your house and mine, and will you and your mother go down to the office and decide the size to have made?" "Oh, Tom, you come too, and then we can decide together." "All right; will you and your mother meet me at Richmond street corner at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon?" "Hold the phone just a minute, Tom. Oh, mother, can we meet Tom tomorrow at 1 o'clock and go with him to the Canada Rug Company and help to choose the size 'Velvetex' rugs we want made?" "Yes, dear. How far is it?" "Only on Carling street, near Talbot, mother." Jessie turned again to the phone. "Yes, Tom, we will meet you at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon." "That will be fine, Jessie. Good-night." "Good-night, Tom."

CLAIMS DRUGLESS HEALING MAKING GREAT PROGRESS

People at the present time are fast becoming followers of the drugless healing arts and sciences. More than forty million people on the North American continent today are followers of one kind or another of this work.

The wonderful results obtained by chiropractors, osteopaths and those practising other methods of drugless healing are phenomenal. Rational therapy has done more to eliminate chronic and nervous diseases during the last few years than drug medication has done in a century.

Of all the different forms of drugless healing none has the following that has the younger one, viz., chiropractic. Chiropractic, though only 25 years old, claims a larger following both in practitioners and patients than the other forms of drugless healing.

Today there are 15,000 practitioners on the North American continent and over 7,000 students attending its colleges. Thousands of persons are treated daily in its clinics free of charge.

Dr. Macfie, who is London's only chiropractor holding a diploma from the Ross College of Chiropractic, Fort Wayne, Indiana, told of a recent visit to that institution, where it is claimed that the largest chiropractic clinic in the world is held. There were from 400 to 500 people being adjusted daily in the free clinic by the student body, some students taking care of as many as forty clinical patients in a day.

Speaking of the growth of the science and the Ross College, Dr. Macfie stated that "he could hardly conceive such a wonderful change would take place in a few years." From a class of twenty students in which he graduated in March, 1914, there are now over 300 there.

THE O'BRIEN BUSINESS COLLEGE.

If you want to secure a business education and a good position now is the time to arrange for a course at the O'Brien Business College. You gain nothing by waiting, and every day you delay your enrollment is a day lost and postpones that much longer the time when you will go forth bearing an O'Brien Business College diploma to take your place among that great army of O. B. C. trained businessmen and women. Opportunity is knocking now. What are you going to do? Your future career depends upon your decision. What can you do? There is but one answer—enroll now.

It will pay you to take a course at the O'Brien Business College. It will pay you in increased salary. It will pay you because of more pleasant employment, and, what is most important of all, it will pay you because you will have ten times as many opportunities to win success in the business world. It is the trained man who leads everywhere.

Lieutenant-Governor Pugsley of New Brunswick Makes Suggestion.

C. M. A. MEETING CLOSES

Protests Raised Because of Deficits Arising Out of C. N. R.

ST. ANDREWS-BY-THE-SEA, N.B., June 23.—Canada should dispose of the sixteen hundred miles of Grand Trunk Railway running between Chicago and Portland, Lieutenant-Governor William Pugsley of New Brunswick, told the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at their annual banquet here tonight. He was confident United States interests would take the road.

The banquet tonight brought to a close the 51st annual general meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the outstanding feature of which, in the words of John R. Shaw, of Woodstock, was the strong note of Canadian national sentiment expressed throughout the meeting.

Retiring President W. S. Fisher, St. John, stated that the meeting had been characterized by more profitable discussion than any he had ever attended.

Address Conference.

The representatives of the Dominion and provincial governments of Canada should hold a conference at the earliest possible date to define their respective fields of taxation so as to avoid unnecessary duplication and expense, was suggested by resolution here today of the annual general meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

C. Howard Smith, newly elected first vice-president of the association, was given applause from the convention, and the support of a number of members when he read a review of the Canadian National Railway problem, and suggested ways of economizing and increasing efficiency. He advised abandonment of six hundred miles of railway in Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario and Quebec, decreased train service, smallest possible purchase of coal from the United States and an increase in the output of Canadian coal and a central board of management for the Canadian National and Grand Trunk systems.

Submits Protest.

He protested that the Canadian people, who were paying the deficits of the National Railway system, did not receive as favorable freight rates as did persons shipping into the country.

In the course of his address, he said: "Canada has 42,500 miles of railways with a population of 8,729,000, or one mile of railway per 206 inhabitants."

"The United States has approximately twice the number of inhabitants per mile, and the United Kingdom ten times the number. Railway traffic increases approximately in proportion to the square of the tributary population, indicating that the United States should yield four times the traffic per mile as compared with Canada."

VETERAN OF BRANTFORD FIRE BRIGADE PASSES

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, June 23.—One of Brantford's oldest residents, Dennis Burns, 119 East avenue, passed away yesterday afternoon at the General Hospital.

Coming to the city from Ireland as a child, he had lived here almost continuously for nearly 70 years. His reminiscences of early life and happenings were always interesting and illuminating.

Mr. Burns learned the pottery business and was associated in various capacities with the old Brantford Pottery on Dalhousie street. Later he worked at the Goold Bicycle Factory, and in the works of the Steel Company of Canada, retiring only a couple of years ago.

He was from boyhood a member of the old-time volunteer fire brigade, first as a torch boy, then with the Brant hose section, until the present paid system was instituted.

He had been a member of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows for many years, and from his boyhood an adherent of the Congregational Church.

His widow, a daughter, Mrs. W. J. Haddow, and a son, Frank D., of Detroit, survive.

The funeral will proceed from the residence to Greenwood Cemetery Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

WILL OPEN NEW LONDON OFFICE

Following the visit of Capt. S. Johnston and Capt. D. B. Weldon, of the firm of Johnston & Ward, members of Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges, to London last week, it is announced that that firm has opened an office in London for the conduct of a general investment and stock brokerage business.

Temporary quarters have been secured in the Royal Bank Building, Richmond street.

This office will be connected by private wires with both Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges, as well as with the New York stock exchange and with Johnston & Ward's branches at Halifax, Sydney, Moncton, Sherbrooke, Kingston and their correspondents at Three Rivers and Quebec.

ACCIDENT LEADS TO FINE OF $200

HAMILTON, June 23.—William Murray, Duchess street, Toronto, was fined $200 in Wentworth police court for a breach of the O. T. A.

Last Sunday he was driving an automobile on the Dundas highway and it overturned. Chief Clark was passing, and noticing an odor of liquor, made a search and found a bottle of wine. Analysis showed it to be over strength.

Redskin Halts Case to Obtain Loan of Fifty Cents From Judge

Even the courts have no terror for Lo, who has the temerity to halt the wheels of justice when the judge happens to be a friend of his and he wants to borrow a half dollar.

Judge Fred W. Wilson, with his usual dignity, was presiding in circuit court here. District Attorney Francis V. Galloway was making a vigorous statement in a bootlegging case.

Into the corridor outside strolled Indian Spencer, a gorgeously-attired Warm Springs reservation Indian. He inquired for "Fred Wilson," and was informed that Judge Wilson was on the bench in the court-room.

The fact that the courtroom was filled with spectators and that the dignity of the state was being preserved didn't alarm Spencer. Right up to the bench and the judge's chair marched the brave Indian.

"Four bits, Fred, please," said the old brave.

"That's all right, Mr. Galloway, proceed with your case," directed the court. "This is just a family affair."

Judge Wilson later explained that Indian Spencer looked him up every time he came in from the reservation and "borrowed" 50 cents.

Over Half of Total Subscribed by 196 Citizens.

At a well-attended meeting of the United Welfare Association Friday night it was unanimously decided to raise the amount of money necessary to reach the objective of the association by a supplementary canvass along lines similar to those of the previous canvass.

It was reported at the meeting that the association had raised so far $99,735.05. Additional amounts received since the meeting make the total over $100,000, leaving some $25,000 yet to be raised.

Charted lists were presented at the meeting of those who had subscribed to the fund and those who had not, which demonstrated to the association that there was still a large amount of ground to be covered before the city was thoroughly canvassed. It was determined that the supplementary canvass should be brought about by bringing again to work the organizations that were engaged in the canvass before, namely, the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, etc., with the Knights of Coloumbus assisting the Lions in their district.

The partially-complete list of subscribers this year showed a total of $54,000, as against $64,795 last year. It was also noted at the meeting that 196 subscribers this year had contributed $55,455 of the amount raised.

It was also clearly shown to the association that many subscribers in the city had contributed to the campaign in the same proportion that they would contribute to one campaign for a single institution of the fourteen benefiting by the welfare fund.

Committees were appointed at the meeting to carry out the program of the supplementary campaign at the meeting.

ENTERS SUIT WHEN LIQUOR IS RETAINED

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, June 23. — Last September Alfred Riddolls and a party of other young men were charged with entering the cellar of John H. Spence, customs officer, while the latter was staying at Port Dover, and taking a large quantity of liquor valuer at over $2,000, so it was stated. The case was heard before His Honor Judge A. Hardy, and a jury found that the liquor was the property of Riddolls, who at the time acknowledged that he was a bootlegger, and that the liquor was for sale. Judge Hardy dismissed the case against Riddolls, but the liquor was held by the inland revenue officials here. The climax came today, when it was announced that Riddolls had, through his solicitor, Lewis S. Heyd, issued a writ for $2,000 against the sheriff for keeping the liquor in his possession, as Riddolls contends that the liquor should have been returned to him when it was proven that it was his property, and that it had been obtained legally.

Officials state that Deputy Attorney-General E. Bailley has entered an appearance to the writ on behalf of Sheriff Westbrook.

At the time of the trial certain evidence was found to have mysteriously disappeared from the strong room of the police station. The evidence was known as "exhibit 6," and it was alleged that there were only two persons that had access to the strong room, namely Detective James Chapman and ex-Chief Charles Slemin. As a result an investigation was started, and three officers were suspended. Detective Lincoln Schuler, Inspector James Chapman and Constable Alex. Stewart, but no charges were laid against them, but thye were dismissed from the force at the inaugural meeting of the police commission when Magistrate Blake and Mayor Parker were elected to the board.

As a result of the evidence being lost certain officials in the city advocated the police probe, with the result that many changes were made in the personnel of the police department, which included the request for the resignation of Chief Slemin by Commissioner Gregory. Sergeant Donnelly was appointed to act as acting chief until an appointment was made by the board. It was reported that there was a motive behind the holding of the liquor, and that inland revenue officials will take a very active part in the trial when it takes place.

INGERSOLL WOMAN PASSES.

INGERSOLL, June 23.—The death of Mrs. Bower, widow of George Bower, occurred at the family residence following a brief illness. She was stricken with paralysis on Tuesday and never rallied. She was in her 75th year, and had lived here for more than 50 years. She is survived by four sons and three daughters.

LUMBER DEALERS SAIL ON HURONIC

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, June 23.—Sarnia will be a port of call tonight for the members of the Ontario, Michigan and Ohio Retail Lumber Dealers' Associations, who are taking their annual summer outing this year on the steamer Huronic of the Northern Navigation Company fleet, which has been chartered for the trip.

The steamer will leave Windsor at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and will arrive here about 9 o'clock with the majority of the members aboard.

It will wait here until the arrival of the 10:50 train from the East, bringing 40 or 50 more members.

Leaving Sarnia at 11 o'clock tonight, the itinerary for the remainder of the trip is as follows: Arrive at Owen Sound 7 p.m. Saturday, leave Owen Sound at 11 o'clock; arrive Killarney 7 a.m. Sunday, leave Killarney 9 a.m. Sunday; from Killarney the boat will travel via the north channel route of the Georgian Bay, passing Little Current and all the northshore lumber mills during the daylight on Sunday, thence up the St. Marys River and through the Canadian locks into Lake Superior far enough to turn the steamer around, and then down through the American locks, arriving at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, about 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

CONVICT INDIAN ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, June 23.—William Antone, an Indian residing in Dunwick Township, admitted that he had grabbed Louis Fulkerson by the collar and had threatened to smash his face during a dispute on the evening of June 21, and was convicted Friday before County Police Magistrate Hunt of assaulting and occasioning bodily harm.

A dispute arose between the parties on the night in question over the defendant's right to certain rooms in a house in Dunwich, which belongs to John A. Bobier. Antone said that he had come home and found his belongings moved out of his bedroom. He had asked Kulkerson why his things were moved out, and had thrown him on a bed.

"I grabbed him by the shirt collar, and I pushed him on the bed, and I said: 'I got a good notion to smash you right here.'" Antone explained to the court. "Then his wife, she come up and she pleaded for me not to hurt her man, and I let him go, and he ran downstairs and said: 'I'll get my gun!'"

"And what did you do?" asked the squire.

"I go downstairs and I get my rifle and I got outside and I say: 'Lou, I'm ready now. Come on out if you're going to use a gun!' His wife, she come to the door and she say: 'He has no gun.'"

Fulkerson claimed that the accused had struck him on the cheek with his fist, clutched him by the throat, and had brandished a knife. When Mrs. Fulkerson interfered, the accused went downstairs for his gun, he declared.

"Yeah, sometimes they don't tell the truth."

Antone was remanded a week for sentence.

THREE KITCHENER TEACHERS RESIGN

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, June 23.—The resignation of three of Kitchener's most popular public school teachers was announced by the secretary of the school board here today. The resigning teachers are, Miss Alice Cowan, Miss I. H. Waugh and Miss Erma Dirhl. He stated that eleven applications have been received for the vacant positions and that the applications will come before the regular meeting of the board.

The secretary received a communication from Fire Chief Guerin, complaining against certain conditions existing at Margaret Avenue School which are considered as a fire menace. The matter will be immediately taken up by the management committee of the school.

INDULGE IN TILT AT RAIL PROBE

Committee Differs On Controversy Over Rate Reductions.

W. A. Boyes Protests Entering of "Outside Influences" in Discussion.

Ottawa, June 24.—By the Canadian Press.—A strong protest against "outside influence" being brought into the proceedings of the special House committee on railway rate reductions was made at the session of that body this morning by W. A. Boys, chief Conservative whip.

The committee was called together with the expectation in many quarters that it would lead to a speedy settlement of the question, but it had not been long in progress before sharp differences arose.

C. A. Hayes, vice-president of the Canadian National, submitted a correction to the figures previously given the committee. The correction was that the loss to the railways by bringing Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain into force would be $3,824,000 instead of $5,567,000, as had been previously intimated.

W. M. German, Liberal member for Welland, asked him if the rates on grain were reduced to the Crow basis, the railways would still be willing to grant reductions on basic commodities.

"That is rather a difficult question," replied Mr Hayes. "I presume we should have to submit to the wisdom of parliament and of the railway commission."

At this point, Mr. Boys entered his protest. "We have been brought here this morning," he said, "by influence outside of this committee. It is an affront to the committee. If there are honest changes of figures to be made that will enable the railways to give this special reduction on grain and also give the reductions on basic commodities, it may change my opinion, but I am not going to grant special reductions to one section at the expense of my own."

Chairman MacLean interposed that he had discovered the error in the report, and had sent for Mr. Hayes. "It's no use saying," he emphatically declared, "that Mr. Hayes is here on a suggestion from the government, the caucus or anyone else. It is not true. And there is no use suggesting that the committee are going to report the Crows Nest rate on grain. They have not so decided."

"There will be a motion made which is cut and dried," Mr. Boys heatedly retorted. "It will absolutely reverse the finding of this committee without any additional evidence except this slight change in the figures."

The chairman rejoined that the original figure had been challenged by Mr. Hudson, and he wanted the matter put right. "Surely there is nothing wrong in that," he added.

The committee returned to examination of Mr. Hayes.

STEEL COMPANY ISSUES DIVIDEND

MONTREAL, June 23.—Following a meeting of directors of the Steel Company of Canada, held here today, announcement was made of the declaration of the regular 1¾ per cent dividend for the quarter on both the preferred and common stocks, payable Aug. 1 to shareholders of record July 8.

The dividend was for the quarter ending June 30, thus completing the first half of the year 1922 at the regular rate of 7 per cent, which had been maintained for a number of years past.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SMALL CROWD ON LOCAL MARKET

Good Demand for Cherries, But These Were Not Plentiful.

Saturday's market, although a good-sized one, was not nearly as large as a week ago, because strawberries are going out of season and the majority of people are waiting till cherries will be in full swing, which will be the latter part of next week.

Strawberries and vegetables were the features of today's market.

Berries were fairly steady at 14c to 16c, wholesale, and 15c to 17c retail. The variety of fruit offered was smaller than was sold a week ago. One crate of exceptionally fine berries sold for 17 3-4c a box, wholesale. Growers state that if a rain comes before Tuesday there will be a good offering on that day.

There was a good demand for cherries at 10 to 15 cents a box, and 60 to 75 cents for a six-quart basket. There is a big crop of cherries this year, and the latter part of next week will be the feature of the market.

Choice hay was in good demand, selling for $16 to $19 a ton, while new oats were bringing $1.40 a cwt.

Straw registered a slight increase, at $10.50 to $11 a ton.

Vegetables were plentiful, with prices remaining fairly steady. Cabbages were selling at $1 to $1.50 a dozen. The biggest load this morning was brought from Leamington this morning.

Potatoes were steady at $1.50 a bag, wholesale, and retail prices showed a drop to $1.60.

Shelled peas were bringing 40c to 60c a quart, and peas in pod 10c a quart. Beets and carrots were down to 50c a dozen.

Poultry was steady, a few spring chickens selling at 75c to 90c each.

WALL STREET REVIEW

New York, June 24.—Movements of securities on the stock exchange this week were very uncertain. Shares showed considerable irregularity, while bonds, especially Liberay bonds, rose to record prices of the year.

The extraordinary performances of Mexican Petroleum, at an extreme advance of over 50 points since the latter part of the preceding week, dwarfed all other developments and occasioned much criticism, which finally resulted in the adoption of remedial measures. No very definite trend was evinced in the general list, although lowest call money rates in almost five years and easement of short time quotations encouraged a revival of speculative operations for the long account.

Rails were the only standard issues to show consistent strength as a group. Higher levels in that division accompanied the publication of better earnings, increased car loadings and the growing belief that labor difficulties would be overcome.

The most significant and constructive event of the week was the lowering of rediscounts and advances by the local Federal Reserve Bank, in recognition of country-wide cheap money and the previous week's reduction of the Bank of England rate.

MEETINGS MEETINGS MEETINGS MEETINGS

A WORLD-WIDE PROCLAMATION

Christians for nineteen hundred years have prayed, "Thy Kingdom Come."

All close students of God's Word realize that it is the only panacea for earth's social, financial, economic, political and religious ills—that His Kingdom will bring to all mankind the greatest blessings the world has ever known—blessings of world-wide peace, happiness, prosperity and life in its fulness with "no more. . . sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain." "Times of Restoration" of all things that Adam lost, and promised by all God's holy prophets. Rev. 21:4; Acts 3:19-21.

While God has promised such wonderful things for mankind He has also given to the Christian who faithfully proclaims the message of His Word, even greater promises, "exceeding great and precious promises"—even a heavenly inheritance—joint heirship with Christ Jesus. 2 Peter 1:4; Heb. 3:1; Rom. 8:16, 17.

That God's kingdom is to be ushered in and earth's old order of sin, sorrow, sighing and death, is to pass away in the greatest time of trouble the world has ever known, is also clearly taught in God's Word. Dan. 2:44; 12:1-4; Matt. 24.

The Scriptures teach the Kingdom is now at hand, even at the door—that the present generation will witness this momentous change, and those witnessing it and coming into accord with the laws of the New Order when established, "will never see death," and therefore Christians can with a full assurance of faith proclaim:

THE magazine "Investing For Profit," sent free, is worth $10 a copy to any one who intends to invest any money; who has invested unprofitably; who can save, but hasn't learned how to invest profitably. It demonstrates the real earning power of money—knowledge generally hidden from the masses; it shows how to invest small sums and how they grow into fortunes; it reveals the enormous profits of successful business and shows how one may make the same profits; it explains how stupendous fortunes are made, how $1,000 grows to $22,000; how to borrow and how to loan. To introduce our magazine write us now, and we'll send it six months free. Investing For Profit, 20 W. Jackson Blvd., Dept. A-382, Chicago.

Life and Character Reading.

Not withstanding their love and loyalty, people born on this date and under the sign governing it are apt to change companions and friends very frequently, often becoming the bitterest enemies of those to whom they previously were attached. They are tactful to diplomacy in some matters, and show their hand with painful clearness in others.

Their powers of understanding are very quick and keen, and they have excellent memories. Among some of our finest public speakers, both men and women.

These people are usually of medium stature, rather large in the upper portion of the body, with round face, soft skin, tawny or very pale complexion, small features, and light or grayish eyes.

Steel workers, metal workers and iron molders will do well to use the Want Ads if they are looking for positions. They will be advertised extensively the next week or two, and will help some one.

Own Your Home

The act of putting your own roof over your head gives you back the independence you need. It gives you freedom from fear and uncertainty you cannot escape at times when you depend on others.

It proves your ability and gives you confidence in yourself. It gives you the courage and self-reliance to strike out boldly and exact your full rights from the whole world, without fear or favor. It gives the spirit that wins through sheer positiveness and refusal to consider defeat.

It begets self-respect, independence of spirit, and self-reliance.

It develops initiative and sets people in motion.

It awakens honest pride, establishes higher ideals, and raises the standards of living.

It makes for good citizenship.

The London Real Estate Board is a responsible organization, and it is advisable to consult them when buying property.

Treasury Stock, $10.00 Par Value.

This is the greatest money-making proposition the world has ever known. The Jewett Phonograph Co. of Allangan, Mich., are opening a Canadian factory at Walkerville, Ontario, to take care of Canadian and the Empire trade, and offer to the public a portion of the treasury stock at the very attractive price of $10.00 per share, par value.

The Canadian Company, capitalized at $1,000,000. Present issue only $400,000, of which Mr. E. H. Jewett has subscribed and paid for $100,000 of this issue, leaving only $300,000 to be offered at par value. The Prudential Bond Company of Toronto beg to announce that they have appointed Messrs. Palmer and Chellingworth their representatives for the city of London and County of Middlesex, who would be glad to meet both their old and new clients at their new addresss, 359 Richmond St.

The leadership that made the Paige automobile the most beautiful car in America is behind the Jewett Radio.

$6,900—85 Becher St. I have been given the exclusive sale of this exceptionally fine residence on Becher St., the owner of which on account of being out of the city for a considerable period of time, finds it impossible to look after the place as it should be. The house is a 1½-story red pressed brick, 3 bedrooms, 3-piece bathroom, 3 living-rooms, 3 clothes closets and linen closets, fine garden planted, built-in cupboards, soft water, full three-part basement and furnace, fireplace, veranda, garage, driveway, and is in one of the finest residential districts in London.

PARTNER WANTED.

I have an exceptionally good proposition at Port Stanley for a man with $3,000, to buy half interest in the box ball alleys, which contain 14 American box ball alleys and one spare alley stored. There is a large refreshment booth in one corner of the front facing the Board Walk, that is now rented for $300 for the season; also a game booth on other side rented for $200, and a living-room at rear of building for two people. No expense attached to this, as the alleys are automatic. The present owner has other concessions on the Board Walk and cannot look after all. Owner will pay this partner $100 monthly to look after the business, as well as half the profits. I consider this an exceptionally good proposition for a real live man. Owners will take as part payment a house in London or a good automobile. 71u

SCHISM LOOMS ON CROW'S NEST DEAL

Malcolm of North Bruce and Euler of Waterloo Want Grain Rate.

OTTAWA, June 23.—Liberals and Progressives held separate caucuses today, and while the report of the transportation costs committee has not yet been formally presented, it is believed that freight rates formed the chief topic of discussion at both gatherings.

The report in question has been drafted and redrafted without bringing satisfaction to those who demand the reinstatement of the Crow's Nest agreement on wheat and wheat products. And the Progressives are girding up their loins for a fight in the house in the event of failure to gain their end in the committee.

Progressives are not alone in their objection to the complete suspension of the agreement. It is estimated this morning that a score of Liberals will vote for the application of the grain rate.

These include McMurray and Hudson of the Winnipegs, Malcolm of North Bruce, Euler of Waterloo, all members of the committee; Chisholm of Inverness, Martell of Hants, Kyte of Richmond and other Maritime Province members, together with several members from Quebec.

It is understood that this morning, Premier King was informed of their intentions, and while he is probably powerless to influence the committee his attitude in the house when the report comes down may be influenced by the warning given.

The official opposition is keeping its own counsel. Conservative members in the committee voted solidly against the proposed application of the Crow's Nest agreement on grain, but there are good reasons for believing that in doing so they did not represent the opinion of their leader, Mr. Meighen, and it is more than possible that, unless the report is changed to provide for the application of the grain rate, there will be a split in this party also.

HOLD FAMILY REUNION AT ELGIN COUNTY HOMESTEAD

Baker Residence is Scene of Pleasant Anniversary Picnic.

ST. THOMAS, June 23.—The Baker family reunion was held at the homestead in Elgin County Wednesday to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the arrival of the family.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable condition of the weather there assembled about 175 of the family connections at the old home, and a happier or jollier lot would be hard to find. The frequent showers that dampened the lawns and interfered with the setting of the long rows of tables on the lawn, could not dampen the spirits and ardor of the great Baker family, who had something doing all the time.

On reaching the Baker home the visitors passed through the gate leading to the house, under a streamer-bearing motto, "1847, Welcome, 1922," marking the 75 years that the Baker family has occupied this farm. Passing up the driveway, the visitors found the house, built by this family just 70 years ago, well decorated with flags and mottoes. Reminiscent of the times that are gone, there were placed on view many relics and articles of domestic use that are now obsolete, old spinning wheels, reels, chimney hook, tongs, bake kettles, warming pans, etc.

After a sumptuous dinner followed a full program of sports that were eagerly participated in, including races and contests for all ages, from the little tots up to the married ladies and married men. This was followed by a game of baseball in a nearby field. Then followed a rather extensive program of addresses, recitations, etc. Brief addresses were delivered by the president, W. H. Baker, London; G. Vandelinder, Lambeth; Rev. Isaac Baker, W. M. Baker, Rev. Mr. Keyes, C. W. Baker, Arthur Old, Thomas Baker, sen., and H. Fishback. Also a well-rendered recitation was given by Helen Baker. The addresses were practically all of a reminiscent nature, very appropriate for the occasion.

PROVIDES AID FOR THOSE IN CIVIL SERVICE

TOTAL $13,298,015

Western Ontario Places To Benefit Under Additional Appropriations.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 23.—Included in supplementary estimates amounting in all to $13,298,015, brought down today by Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, was an item for $5,500,000 to provide for provisional bonus allowance for inside and outside civil service.

The item gives definite assurance to those in the employ of the government throughout the country that the Liberal government intends to give practical assistance to all public servants whose salaries are insufficient to allow them to meet properly the cost of living.

Western Ontario will receive a considerable share of the additional money, which will be spent chiefly on harbors of the great lakes, which did not receive sufficient recognition in the original estimates.

The sum of $470,000 to provide for expenditures not otherwise authorized, arising out of the recommendations of the special parliamentary committee on pensions, insurance and re-establishment, is also placed in the estimates. For the purpose of providing further assistance to unemployed pensioners and vocationally trained disabled men and their dependents, an amount of $150,000 is provided.

An amount of $175,000 for the purchase of British Columbia House, London, England, is provided.

Bill Is Amended.

As stated by the minister of marine, the sum of $30,500 to provide for compassionate allowances to relatives of officers, crew and light keepers on board the lightship Lambton which foundered in Lake Superior last April, is placed in the estimates.

The bill to amend the returned soldiers' insurance act was amended before being given a third reading. The amendment, which was proposed by Hon. H. S. Beland, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment, added a schedule to the bill containing regulations to guide the minister of finance in the exercise of his discretionary powers to refuse insurance.

There was attached to the clause inserted in the schedule a proviso that provided applicants with or without pensionable disability who are so seriously ill that they have no expectancy of life, and who have dependents who are entitled to become beneficiaries under the contract as provided under the act, shall be insurable under the returned soldiers' insurance act up to and inclusive of the first day of January, 1923.

The schedule contains a carefully classified list of the circumstances in which insurance is to be refused or accepted as the case might be. In the first case, those not seriously ill, the application is to be accepted in all cases. In the second class, those seriously ill, the application is to be accepted if the applicant has dependents and is suffering from a pensionable disability; otherwise, it is to be refused.

In the third class, with no reasonable expectancy of life, the application is to be accepted if the applicant has dependents and is suffering from a pensionable disability, providing that death does not occur before the application is approved.

In the fourth class, general, it is provided that the application is to be refused where the applicant, with or without dependents, has had his health impaired as a result of immoral conduct prior to enlistment, during service, or after discharge.

Major Powers Objects.

The amendment as originally proposed by Dr. Beland, restricted the original provisions of the act to September next, but the extension to January was made at the suggestion of Sir Henry Drayton.

On the suggestion of Colonel Arthurs (Conservative, Parry Sound) Dr. Beland agreed to accept an amendment dropping the seven-year period and substituting a clause which would give the pension board the right to grant relief to widowed mothers in cases where circumstances warranted it.

A clause in the bill was struck out at the instance of Major Power. He contended that it would prevent giving a pension to a soldier who had a disability due to service, but whose effective disablement was due to another cause.

Major Power objected to another clause on the ground that it opened the door to grave abuses. Up to the present Canada had refused to grant a pension to a woman who married a soldier after he had become disabled, but this section would reserve that policy.

If the door were open to this sort of thing "we might have young girls marrying doddering soldiers for the sake of a pension."

Gen. A. E. Ross (Conservative, Kingston) said that so long as Canada was refusing assistance to tubercular and blind cases he did not think the government should look around for people to whom to give pensions. The clause was adopted by 49 votes for, to 10 against.

Clause seven of the bill provided that one "who is immoral" may be refused a pension. This was objected to one the ground that people's views of morality were very different. It was considered by some immoral to smoke a cigarette, said Major Powers, while Mr. Hanson caused some laughter by remarking that he understood the Progressive leader had stated that protection was immoral.

Strikes Out Clause.

The minister then moved to amend section eleven of the act, and to provide that any soldier who was discharged with a disability would be considered to be suffering from a disability attributable or aggravated by war service, unless the commission could show otherwise.

Mr. Marler said the amendment had been drawn by the law officers of the crown to cover the point raised in committee.

Mr. Ladner moved further to amend the clause to cover the case of members of the permanent force enlisted prior to the outbreak of war.

Mr. Marler doubted the wisdom of putting any new sections into the bill without very mature consideration. He was fearful of making the measure too complicated.

The question had been debated in the pensions committee, and the amendment presented by the minister was the outcome of very careful study by the committee members.

Will Make Danger Turns in Kitchener Safe.

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, June 23.—The remaining dangerous corners in Kitchener are to be rounded off in the interests of public safety, according to an announcement made by City Engineer Shupe today, in which he stated that the land necessary for the rounding off of the sharp intersection at Chapel and Lancaster streets had been donated by the executive of Bethany Church. There are now only four sharp dangerous intersections, King and Wellington, King and Breithaupt, Lancaster and Bingeman, and Chapel and Lancaster. The engineer stated that the board of works have provided the funds and that the work of making these corners safe will be started also.

SLATER HAD FAITH IN NUKOL DEALS

Claims Dissension Led To Corporaton Making Assignment For Creditors.

TORONTO, June 23.—Hiram F. Slater, accused with J. Leslie Thompson, of theft, receiving and conspiracy to defraud of about $400,000 in connection with transactions of the Nukol Fuel Company, continued his evidence today. Peter White, K. C., conducted the examination of the witness.

"Did you know Mr. Harrington, Ontario fuel controller?" "Yes."

"Did you have any dealings with him about the Nukol proposition?" "Yes, in 1919."

"Under what circumstances did Joseph Brindall, the first plant manager of Nukol, resign?" "He thought the proposition was too big for him to handle and he resigned."

"Who succeeded him as manager?" "Mr. Fletcher, who remained till May, 1920."

Was Good Manager.

"Were the results he obtained satisfactory as far as production was concerned?" "He was a good manager, but knew nothing of the briquetting process, and after a conference it was decided to get a practical briquetting man in his place. We got Mr. Schoch from New York."

"In 1921 what was the situation so far as manufacture was concerned?" "The sales dropped off in January, because of mild weather."

"You ceased operation early in 1921?" "Yes. We resumed in September, 1921, and the sales increased."

"What was the relation between cost and selling price at that time?" "The cost of operation was greater during a period when we were not running to full capacity."

Was Optimistic.

"Up till November 3, 1921, what did you believe as to the result of the Nukol project?" "I believed it would be a success."

"How did you justify that belief in the face of the losses sustained in 1920?" "Early in 1920 we were selling at a low price, and the cost of initiating the process was very high. We had mostly inexperienced men. For the last two months of 1920 we were making a profit, and this gave me courage to believe that it would be a success."

"How do you account for the making of the assignment on December 12, 1921?" "Dissension among the stockholders at the annual meeting brought things to a head, and as we were not making a profit at that time the directors decided to assign. I voted against this action, as I still believed the proposition could be made a success."

HEAVY RAINS AT SASKATOON.

Saskatoon, Sask., June 24.—No high winds are reported from any part of the district surrounding Saskatoon. During yesterday heavy rains fell intermittently. The land has been thoroughly drenched, which, according to farmers, is a consummation sorely needed.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures,' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change." You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil or try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of The Advertiser wishes "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism," overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Clearwater, 47th street, Hallowell, Maine. Send now, lest you forget! If not a sufferer, cut out this notice and hand this good news and opportunity to some afflicted friend. All who send will receive it by return mail without any charge whatever.—Advt.

Come · To · Church · Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss.

"You will take part in singing some good hymns.

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

CLAIMS LETTER GIVES CLUE TO SMALL TRAGEDY

THEATRE MAN DRUGGED

Private Detectives Declare Missing Magnate Was Hidden in Cellar.

Advertiser Staff Special.

MONTREAL, June 23.—Important light on the mystery of the disappearance of Ambrose Small, the Toronto theatrical millionaire who vanished on Dec. 2, 1919, was revealed today by a Montreal hotel keeper who made public a letter evidently written by the wife of one of the men engaged in kidnapping the millionaire.

Other documents discovered by the hotel keeper in the baggage of a man and woman who claimed to come from Rochester, N. Y., and who disappeared, were investigated by a Toronto private detective, and led to the belief that Small was drugged and brought in an automobile unconscious to Montreal, where he was thrown into the cellar of a house.

Georges Henri Chenier, president of the company which owns the Vigor Square Hotel, 356 Craig street east, claims to be in possession of the documents which designate, it is believed beyond all doubt, one of the kidnappers of the Ontario theatrical magnate.

Written by Woman.

One of the letters was, it appears, written by a woman, who was afterwards arrested in New Brunswick, where she declared to a policeman that she traveled in the automobile in which Small was kidnapped. Her husband, she said, was the chauffeur of the machine, which took the road to Montreal.

On arrival here the unconscious form of the millionaire was deposited in the cellar of a large house. The millionaire, she affirmed, seemed to her to be under the affect of a powerful narcotic. He did not speak during the whole journey, and allowed himself to be lifted out of the automobile with the docility of a child. The representative of a private detective agency, according to information furnished by Mr. Chenier, expects the veil of mystery to be raised soon.

In this case Mr. Chenier will be in line to receive a large part of the $50,000 reward offered to anyone able to help in discovering the millionaire.

According to Chenier, a man and woman who gave the name of Dr. and Mrs. Gray, registered October 6, 1921, at the Vigor Square Hotel and occupied room No. 21. They said they came from Rochester, N. Y., but Mr. Chenier is able to state that the automobile in which they traveled bore an Ontario license number, "27-659, Ontario, 1921." The couple spent a week here.

Deposits House Plan.

The husband requested Mr. Chenier to deposit in his safe the plan of a house in Toronto, and warned him that this document was very precious. On the back of this plan he could read the name of the architect, S. B. Coon, 36 Toronto street, Toronto.

The following day Dr. and Mrs. Gray left the hotel in order, they said, to take a walk. They had left their automobile in the Vigor Garage, St. Louis street, corner of Bonsecours street. Before leaving they offered to sell their automobile, but found no buyers. They then set off towards the postoffice, where they renewed their attempts to sell their car. The postmaster, who was afraid he was dealing with automobile thieves, asked them to wait, telling them he would have to consult one of his brothers. He went to the telephone and got into communication with the detective office.

On hearing him the two strangers at once disappeared in the automobile.

The following evening Chenier was surprised not to see his guests return, so he deposited in a safe place all that belonged to the two travelers, photographs and baggage, ticketing the lot with $700, the amount due to the Vigor Square Hotel.

He thought no more of the couple until six months later, when, on the 22nd of April last, a private detective from Toronto registered at this hotel.

Examined Baggage.

Chenier spoke to him of Mr. and Mrs. Gray, whereupon the detective drew out a notebook and showed the name of the husband written there, adding that he was implicated in the affair of Ambrose Small. They then examined the baggage of the travelers and found some notebooks containing addresses which the detective noted carefully, saying that with them he would probably be able to clear up the mystery of the disappearance of the millionaire.

In the grips they found amongst other things a letter written by the wife to one of her friends and which she had not had time to post. In this letter she said her husband had been mixed up in the Ambrose Small affair.

The letter read as follows:

"Dear Martha: Gray is still in trouble. I fear that he will be suspected everywhere he goes. I have advised him to sell the auto before we are arrested, as he can get $300 for it. I had told him first not to use the auto, because it had been mixed up in the affair of Small in Toronto. I believe that the individual there has twirled him around his fingers, notwithstanding the risk that Gray took in getting him away from Toronto. He has had scarcely half of what was promised him.

"They knew, I understand, that he would not be able to force their hand, Gray assures me that he will have some other money when 'D' is able to put him in communication with a certain friend. I am sending you this letter to the poste restante so that your husband will not see it. If he should read it by chance that would compromise everything, for he detests Gray. We are at the Vigor Square Hotel.

"Do not write before receiving other news from me, because we will leave Montreal as soon as Gray is able to procure some money. There are two strangers who have spoken to him in the office of the hotel. I shall finish now. I should like well to know what they want."

(Signed) "Lillian Gray."

Yesterday the detective returned and told Chenier that he had arrested the woman in New Brunswick, and she had told him the part her husband had taken in the kidnapping of Small.

Chief Lepage of the city detective office, tonight declared that his office had not been advised of the latest developments in the Small mystery.

SUNKEN STEAMER SEARCH DELAYED

Owner of "J. H. Jones," Lost in 1906, Believes Recovery Will Be Easy.

Special to London Advertiser.

LION'S HEAD, June 23.—Owing to the fact that the Queen, which is to assist the steamer Pedwell in the search for the steamer J. H. Jones, lost with 26 people on the night of Nov. 23-23, 1906, was busy on Monday, the Pedwell did not make the expected run to Cape Croker.

To carry on the search it is necessary to have two boats, and the weather must be absolutely calm to carry on the work.

The Pedwell and the Queen intended to leave for the cape on Monday, but there was such a sea that if they had gone it would have been impossible to carry on the search. All is expected to be ready to start the search next Monday.

Mr. Crawford, owner of the lost steamer J. H. Jones, and Mr. Tackaberry of Lion's Head, owner of the Pedwell, are sure that the Jones is resting on the bottom of the bay near Cove Cork at Cape Croker, and it only remains to locate it, as they claim the matter of raising the sunken vessel to the surface will be easy.

Lovelock, Toronto.

Representatives from the Grand Lodge of British America, M.W. Bro. Honeywell, Ottawa, and M.W. Bro. Hart, Orillia.

SAYS 360 CHINESE LAND IN CANADA

OTTAWA, June 23.—(By Canadian Press).—T. G. McBride (Progressive, Cariboo) asked the prime minister in the House of Commons today if he was aware that some 360 Chinese had been landed at Vancouver recently.

Premier King replied that he was not aware of this, but would see that an inquiry was made immediately.

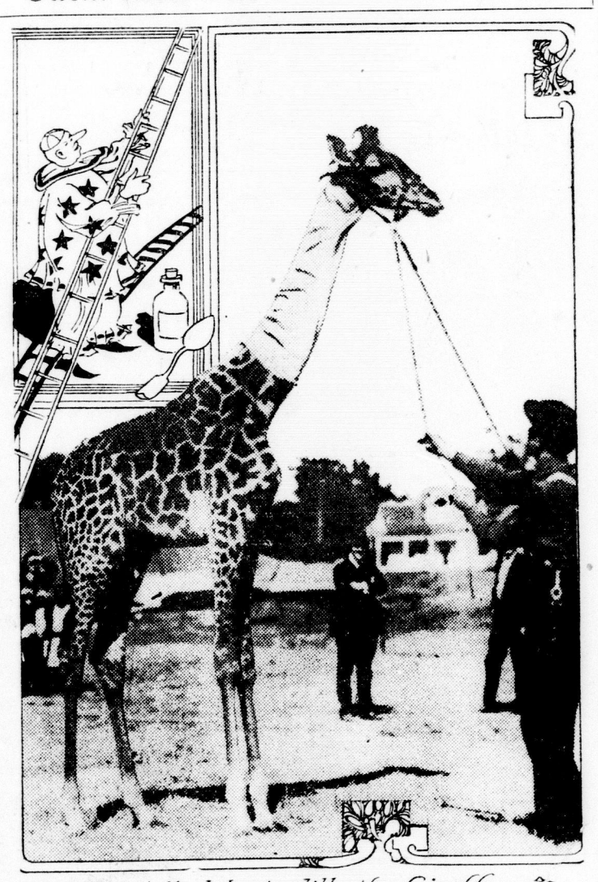
WILL PLACE NEW "BAR IN COMMONS

OTTAWA, June 23.—(By the Canadian Press).—A new bar for the House of Commons is being made and will be in place before the opening of next session.

The bar now in use is made of iron piping and has long aroused ironical comment from members who desire a proper brass one such as adorned the old chamber.

The "bar," it should be explained, is a railing immediately inside the main entrance to the Commons Chamber. Before it must appear all those who have so offended the house as to be summoned to give account.

Ouch! Look Who's Got a Sore Throat!



Sore Throat No Joke to Jill, the Giraffe

JUST think of a giraffe the next time you are afflicted with a sore throat, and thank your lucky stars that you are not in his elongated class.

The accompanying picture is of Jill—one of the herd of six giraffes carried by the great Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows. John Patterson, who is boss of all the animals in the mammoth super-menagerie, is of the opinion that one of the higher air currents struck Jill when she was a bit overheated and so gave her a cold. It took a whole pail of goose-grease to cover Jill's neck and yards of canton flannel to wrap it up. But Jill got well and will be but one of the hundreds of strange sights to be seen when the circus exhibits in London Wednesday, July 12.

After circus patrons have visited the zoological display they will pass in to the mammoth "big top." Here they will witness the gigantic introductory pageant with its great companies of knights and fair ladies and gorgeously-costumed groupings which tell in pantomime many of the stories made famous in fairyland and nursery lore.

Following the pageant will come more than a thousand arenic sensations introduced by scores of performers new to Canada, three steel arenas filled with trained animals, more than 100 performing horses in a single number, and an army of clowns that breaks all precedent in point of fun and numbers.

CARRIED IN CASKET BRIDE LEAVES CITY

Lovely One Is Clad in Nuptial Robes, But No Bridegroom Weeps.

The bride is gone, the fair, lovely bride, with her patrician features and stately grace, the bride in her shimmering satin robe and floating gossamer veil. The place that knew her in London knows her no more. Her passing was so unostentatious that the girl who had admired and envied, the woman who had sighed for dear days vanished, as she gazed on the radiant one, and the man who wondered how somebody else would look in that costume, were all unaware of her silent departure. She was voiceless, because she could not speak.

"They are taking away the bride," said a man in hushed tones, as he stood looking out of the doorway of a fashionable Richmond street shop on Thursday.

"Where?" exclaimed the newspaper woman, on the alert for a story.

At the curb stood a motor car with white ribbon streamers and peppering of confetti. But neither bride nor bridegroom was there. The car had, earlier in the day, carried some other winsome bride and paid the penalty in decoration for its precious freight.

"There," said the man who knew, and the hardened newspaper person shuddered as he pointed to a wooden box that was being lifted from the sidewalk to a waiting vehicle. It was thus that the lovely bride made her departure, her motionless form still draped in the rich wedding robe, still veiled with shimmering gauze caught to her shining hair with band of orange blossoms.

"That's the way she came to us," said the man with a suspiciously husky voice. (He had a cold in his head.)

A "Perpetual Bride."

The bride in the case has adopted the role of "Perpetual Bride." Her mission in life is to be looked at, so she persistently refuses to doff her wedding garments and take to traveling costume or the more utilitarian raiment of a homemaker. Bride she is, and bride she will continue to be, now in this city, now in that, and no bridegroom accompanies her or loses sleep or tears over her bride-o-mania.

She came to London from the Maritime Provinces, so 'tis said, a-wearing her wedding gown and veil. And such a dainty bride was she that the delicate fabrics were unmarred by speck or stain of travel. Her complexion and constitution equally gave cause to marvel. She emerged fresh and fair from her rough-box journey to gaze sweetly and patricianly from a London jeweler's shop window and remind that June is the wedding ring time of the year.

A bulletin states that she took her place overnight in a Woodstock, Ontario, shop window, in order to be able to greet the morning after the longest day in the year from that vantage ground.

If she is a perpetual bride, she also insists upon being a bird of passage (and perhaps the poor dear is not entirely to blame). A week or so hence she will be off on a lone, lorn journey to Winnipeg to test out prairie hospitality, and from there she takes wing for Calgary Town, which hobnobs with the foothills and Rockies, and thence to Edmonton, capital city of Alberta. After that? She refuses to part with any more confidences. Who knows? After seeing for herself the valor and manly virtues of the far-famed Western eligibles, she may willingly drop the role of "perpetual bride" and get into clothes more adapted to comfort and "human nature's daily food." In other words, she may cease gadding about from the Maritime Provinces to the Pacific Sea, giving broad hints that when people's fancies turn to thoughts of love, the correct thing to do is to settle the question of a wedding ring.

GIVING REPORTS OF RECENT DRIVE

Mrs. B. C. McCann, London, diocesan president, who has just returned home after visiting and addressing several of the larger subdivisions, has been invited by Mrs. Joseph Leech, president, to speak at the meeting Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Catholic Club of the Catholic Women's League.

Owing to special church festivals observed early in June, the meeting is the first in several weeks, and will be the last until September, hence it is hoped to have a very large attendance. Mrs. McCann, it is stated, will have most interesting news to tell of what is being accomplished by other sub-divisions.

In addition, the meeting will wind up for the present the grand membership campaign which has been in progress in every parish in the city, with the hopes of enrolling every Catholic woman in the league. It is believed that the reports will be most encouraging.

"While we have set a 100 per cent membership as our objective," stated Mrs. Leech to The Advertiser, "we can scarcely hope for such ideal conditions right away. However, we will continue to work with this aim in view."

THE TORTURE OF INDIGESTION

Thousands Made Miserable By This Trouble

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Relieves It

What is Indigestion and what causes it? As you know, solid food must be changed into a liquid by the stomach before it can be taken up as nourishment by the blood.

The stomach acts as a churn. It is covered by a strong, muscular coat and lined with a soft, delicate membrane which secretes the Gastric Juice which digests or dissolves solid food.

When food enters the stomach, the muscular coat squeezes and presses the food from end to end, or churns it, with the gastric juice to dissolve or digest it.

But—if the stomach muscles are weak—or if the dissolving fluid is poor or insufficient—then food cannot be digested properly and you have indigestion.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the most wonderful medicine in the world for strengthening the stomach muscles, and providing an abundance of pure, full-strength dissolving fluid to completely digest every meal. "FRUIT-A-TIVES" does this because it keeps the kidneys active, the bowels regular and the blood pure, which insures pure Gastric Juice.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" will correct your Indigestion or Dyspepsia and enable you to enjoy every meal. Try it.

Fifty cents a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.—Advt.

URGES PUBLIC PHONE CONTROL

A. Groh of Preston Stresses Advantages of Municipal Systems.

Elected President of Western Counties' Association At 12th Annual Meeting.

Anson Groh of the Waterloo Municipal Telephone Company, Preston, Ontario, was unanimously elected president of the Western Counties' Telephone Association at the 12th annual meeting of that association in the city hall chambers Friday afternoon.

The other officers are: Vice-president, G. L. Shipley, Denfield; second vice-president, F. B. Stewart, Innerkip; secretary-treasurer, Dr. W. Doan, Harrietsville.

Valuable advice and helpful suggestions were given to the delegates assembled by F. Dagger of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, Toronto. Mr. Dagger reviewed the experiences and the losses incurred throughout Western Ontario as a result of the great sleet storm in the spring.

Storm Losses Heavy.

Out of 323 different systems, one suffered losses amounting to $20,000; four, $10,000; five, $9,000; eight, $8,000; nine, $6,000; seven, $5,000; eleven, $4,000; fourteen, $3,000; eighteen, $2,000, and 243, $1,000 and less. The total damage was more than $600,000.

A great many companies suffered more from these losses than the figures would indicate, he said. They had no reserve funds to replace equipment, and so some had still many repairs to make.

This condition, he asserted, had come about because the rural companies had been spending depreciation funds in extensions and new lines. This would not be allowed by railway commission in the future.

From now on companies would be forced to protect themselves putting in reserve in banks or securities easily negotiated, 5 per cent of the total capital invested.

If new work was to be undertaken, he said, the companies would be forced to borrow or issue new stock.

Aim to Give Service.

The aim of the board, Mr. Dagger continued, was to see that the public was given the best service possible.

If this was done he assured the delegates that the companies would be given every protection in the way of adequate rates. The investments of each company would be protected within reason by rates which would allow sufficient revenue to meet current expenses and interest on investments.

He advised all companies who were not already on a dividend basis but were operating at cost giving stockholders a preferential rate, to organize on a dividend basis immediately. A flat rate should be paid by all, and the profits divided among the stockholders. In this way there would be no discrimination, and each customer would be assured of a square deal.

H. R. Polson of the workmen's compensation board, Toronto, explained to the meeting the advantages to be gained by linking up with the compensation board. It was the only way to stop litigations or suits for damages by injured employees. It also assured the employees a fair consideration under all circumstances.

"The Farmer and His Telephone," was the subject of an address by Anson Groh of the Waterloo Municipal Telephone Company. He unheld the public or municipally-owned lines as the only satisfactory way in which the rural districts could be served.

Urges Municipal Control.

He strongly advised every privately-owned company serving farmers to end their troubles by disposing of their property to the municipality. The public, he said, unfortunately considered every increase in rates put into effect by private companies as a deliberate attempt to take money from the pockets for the benefit of stockholders.

This feeling would only pass when the public itself was given the responsibility of carrying on its own business. If service was wanted it would have to be paid for, and chances were that the additional expense would be met willingly enough.

A demonstration of radio telephony was given during the afternoon by a representative of the Independent Electric Company of Toronto. The messages picked up from a sending station in Toronto were clearly heard throughout the room, despite atmospheric conditions which were not the best.

Denies Smoke of Daddy's Pipe Brings Death.

TORONTO, June 23.—The Toronto health department finds no such danger in tobacco smoke as did the lady speaker at a meeting of the Hamilton W. C. T. U., who stated that young babies often died from the effects of their fathers smoking in the house, though the deaths were ascribed to other causes.

"The statement is intensely exaggerated," was the remark of Dr. Grant Fleming, acting M. O. H. during Dr. Hasting's absence at Niagara.

The same lady speaker considered that the "noxious weed" was often the cause of cancer.

"That has never been established," said the doctor. "Cancer most often appears in parts of the body not reached by tobacco smoke. It is often thought that the irritation caused by a clay pipe starts cancer on the lip, but that has nothing to do with tobacco smoke," he said.

It's So Tasty, So Flaky, So Pure--

Butter-Cream Bread

When we first put Butter-Cream Bread on the market we felt sure it would meet with the favor of our patrons, because we knew it was really the finest Bread that skilled bakers, working with high-class ingredients, could produce. But the unusually large demand astonished us and showed us that people really appreciate the fact that this particular loaf is in a class by itself.

Butter-Cream Bread

grows in popularity every day. Right from Niagara Falls to Sarnia it is in big demand, and orders for it are increasing every day. The reason, of course, is its goodness and tastiness.

If you have not tried Butter-Cream yet you had better order a loaf today.

From your grocer, from our wagons or by phoning us.

Personal Service

Few, if any, professions demand the quality of service which marks one funeral director above another.

In this calling, which has ever to deal with sadness, he must be quietly sympathetic yet ever keen to handle unobstrusively a maze of details.

Our plan of keeping in close and personal touch with every service intrusted to our care explains in part the success which has attended our efforts.
