CHAPTER XIII.

"I know you!" she exclaimed, in accents of suppressed excitement. "I know you—I remember you! You are Ernest Mortimer!"

Nora flushed to the temples, but her eyes did not fall; she did not cower with shame and self-abasement, as Lady Florence expected.

"I remember you!" renegaded Lady Florence. Then she laughed with bitter scorn, as after looking Nora up and down she turned to Senley Tyers.

"Why have you brought me here?" she demanded, fiercely.

"Is this girl—boy—whichever she is an accomplice? Do you expect me to believe a word she says?" They turned to Nora: "You are Ernest Mortimer. You can not, dare not, deny it. Which are you, man or woman?"

Nora stood pale and speechless, Milly clinging to her in amazement and affright.

"Hush! hush!" said Senley Tyers. "This lady is Miss Nora Trevanion—Miss Vale. I know her whole history, and I will explain everything—why she masqueraded as a boy, how it happens that she is here, the mistress of this place. What you wish to know has little or nothing to do with that episode, any further than this: that she and Vane Tempest were together, close companions, not only here, but in Scotland. That is so, Miss Vale?"

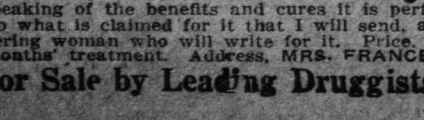

Nora assented by a gesture. "Quite so," he said, smoothly. He took a memorandum-book from his pocket. "Now, will you say simply, 'Yes' or 'No' to these questions I am going to ask you? Lady Florence will not, I think, suspect you of being an accomplice, as she phrases it."

"My name is Lester," he said. "I am a solicitor and Miss Vale's friend. I have heard your statement, sir, and I act on her behalf. Pray proceed."

Senley Tyers bit his lip and seemed confused for a moment, then he raised his head.

"Very good," he said. "I could desire nothing better. You are a solicitor, Mr. Lester. Oh, I know you!"

A WONDERFUL REMEDY

Orange Lily is daily during the most obstinate cases of Female Disorders, Falling of the Womb, Leucorrhoea, Painful and Suppressed Menstruation, etc. It is a complete cure. This remedy is a positive, scientific preparation, and is based on the discoveries of Pasteur and Lister. It is an applied treatment, but is applied direct to the suffering parts, and it therefore acts with all the certainty of the known laws of chemical action. As it comes in direct contact with the diseased tissue, its antiseptic and nerve-food properties cannot help have a beneficial influence. It is performing, and so sure and I that it will do what is claimed for it that I will send, absolutely free, a 25c box to every suffering woman who will write for it. Price, $1 per box, which is sufficient for one month's treatment. Address, MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

For Sale by Leading Druggists Everywhere.

You think you have no cause to leave me, Miss Trevanion, as I will call you?"

Nora opened her lips to call him villain again, but prudently checked herself.

"I will answer," she said, "but on one condition; that you leave the house immediately you have my answers."

"Good!" he said. "Now, you were at Laih, in Scotland, on November 30th, with Mr. Vane Tempest?"

"I was," said Nora.

As she spoke, the door opened and Mr. Lester entered. At a sign from Nora—whom Senley Tyers, intent upon his note-book, did not perceive—he remained standing by the door.

"You were, on the night of the thirtieth, in the presence of myself, the landlady of the house in which you were living, and her daughter, declared by Vane Tempest to be his wife. Is that so, or is it not?"

"I may as well tell you before you answer," Mrs. Tempest—Nora scarcely noticed the name by which he had addressed her; but Lady Florence did—and she caught the edge of the table and glared fiercely, proudly, defiantly at Nora—"that I hold here"—he touched some papers with his thin, white forefinger—"the affidavits of these people and my own. In our presence Vane Tempest declared you to be his wife, and you assented. It is not that so?"

"It is," said Nora, coldly.

As she spoke, Mr. Lester stepped forward and noiselessly took the affidavits from Senley Tyers' hand. He swung round upon him, but before he could speak, Mr. Lester took the initiative.

"My name is Lester," he said. "I am a solicitor and Miss Vale's friend. I have heard your statement, sir, and I act on her behalf. Pray proceed."

Senley Tyers bit his lip and seemed confused for a moment, then he raised his head.

"Very good," he said. "I could desire nothing better. You are a solicitor, Mr. Lester. Oh, I know you!"

"I have had a detective watching you and Miss Trevanion—I beg her pardon; I really beg her pardon—Mrs. Tempest—for months past. I now appeal to you for your decision. You know the Scottish law of marriage, doubtless?"

Mr. Lester inclined his head. He had been examining the papers, and there was an exceedingly grave expression on his face.

"Well, then, I ask you: Seeing that Miss Nora Trevanion was, in Scotland, declared by Mr. Vane Tempest to be his wife, and assented to the statement before witnesses, is she or is she not his lawful wife?"

Mr. Lester stepped forward and drew Nora's arm within his.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was doing for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. H. CHILD, Beatrice, Neb.

The Other Case. Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but my husband thought I had better write to you and I did so, stating my symptoms. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

Nora felt the ground slipping from her, the room spinning round. She was going to faint, but a cry from Lady Florence restored her.

"It is a lie!" exclaimed Lady Florence. "That woman—that woman his wife! It is a lie! It is—!" She sunk into a chair and hid her face in her hands, then suddenly rose and swept, with fierce defiance, to Nora:

"You the wife of Vane Tempest! You who, lost to all sense of decency—"

Senley Tyers touched her arm.

"Come," he said, in a whisper. "It is true; you can not undo it. This gentleman is not in league with me; Mrs. Tempest hates me like poison, and would rather contradict than agree with me. Come away; there is no time to lose." She would have shaken him off, but his grip was too tight. "Be sensible," he whispered, hurriedly. "You are beaten. Fate, as well as I, has been too many for you. Come! See, you are but adding to her triumph and your own discomfiture. Call your pride to your aid."

She put her hand to her throat, as if she were choking, and her eyes half closed.

Milly uttered a cry of alarm. "Lock, look! she is dying!"

Lady Florence raised her head and looked round with a dazed stare, as if only half conscious. Then, as her eyes fell upon Nora, she seemed to realize all that had happened.

"So you are his wife—you, and no other?" she said, painfully. "Tell him—tell him that I—pitiful him—yes, pitiful him! That I could wish him no hard or fate than that of being tied to the woman who disgraced herself by playing the part of Ernest Mortimer."

A cry—the first—escaped from Nora's lips, and she hid her face for a moment; then, drawing herself to her full height, the splendid light of indignation flashed from her eyes, she gave back the blow.

"No, Lady Florence, I may or may not be his wife, but I will not give him your message. It would be useless. He would refuse to accept your pity as he has refused to accept your love."

She had returned her rival's blow but in doing so she had exhausted the remnant of her own strength and with the last word she fell back into Mr. Lester's arms.

In the confusion that ensued, for Milly's shrieks brought the servant flocking into the room, Senley Tyers drew Lady Florence away, and hurried her through the hall and into the carriage.

"Drive to the station," he said to the coachman. "You have just time to catch the mail. Get up on the box," he said to the maid, peremptorily. And, after a moment's hesitation and a questioning glance at the mistress who lay back in a corner of the carriage, as if half conscious, the maid obeyed.

He got in and sat for awhile silent, his hand on his knees, watching her. At last, when they had travelled some miles, he ventured to touch her hand.

"Florence!"

She flung his hand from her and looked at him.

"You here still?" she said, hoarsely.

"Florence, my dearest!" he murmured, reproachfully.

She leaned forward and looked into his face, then burst into a harsh laugh of scorn and derision.

"I had forgotten you," she said.

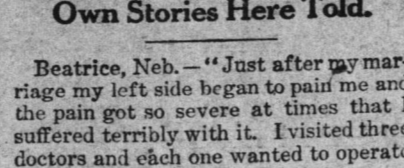

"Forgotten?" he exclaimed.

"Yes. Why are you here? Where

THE ONE THING THAT DOES ME GOOD

At 60 Years Of Age, Gin Pills Give Me Perfect Relief

As one begins to get along in life, the vital organs grow less active and need assistance. Men and women of 50, 60 and 70 should read the following letter very carefully. It points the way to a happy, healthy old age and long life.

E. G. WOODFORD, Consulting Mining Engineer, 29 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. 50 BROAD STREET HOUSE, LONDON. Bought some of your GIN PILLS at Victoria, B. C. last September. I made inquiries in New York on my arrival there but was unable to obtain any information about them. Your remedy, I find at 60 years of age, to give me perfect relief and I regret very much that you have not made arrangements to have GIN PILLS on sale in New York and London, as I urgently recommend GIN PILLS to friends of my age as being the one thing that does me good. I will be glad if you will send me a few boxes of GIN PILLS to my London address and a few to my office in New York by post if possible!

What Five People Saw.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Every human being's life is both subjective and objective. That is, it consists of things and people and conditions that surround him plus his reaction upon these things and conditions. We all know that. But do we realize that the individual's reaction is more important than these external conditions? Two people may live in the same house, read the same books, look at the same pictures and furniture, hold converse with the same neighbors, and yet live totally different lives, because their individual reaction on these identical conditions is so entirely different. Two people walking down the street together will not see the same things. One will see houses and types of architecture, another the babies in the perambulators, another the gowns of the women, etc., etc., according to their tastes and interests. But to go still further than that, two people may look at exactly the same thing and see something entirely different. Once upon a time I spent a summer in a cottage built near a bit of beach where the waves thundered in and broke in magnificent surf. We had many visitors and of course we took them all down to see this sight. And they all saw or heard something different. The engineer watched for a few minutes in silence and then he broke out, "What gets me is the wasted energy! Why, just look at the way those waves thunder in. I'd like to know how many foot-pounds of energy there are in every wave. Think of the work they would do if we could only harness them." The athlete immediately wanted to know if anyone swam on that strip of beach. "Those waves must be three or four feet high, but I swam in higher surf than that last summer." "I don't care so much about watching them," said one of my women visitors, "but I could sit for hours and listen to that dull boom they make." On the other hand, my artistic friend disliked the noise of the waves, but was delighted by the beauty of the scene and raved about the wonderful picture this view or that would make. A practical and cautious visitor scarcely conceded a glance to the magnificent surf, before he turned his back on it to look up at the cliff behind us and wonder how the cottagers dared build so close to the edge. "Look at the way the surf is eating away that cliff!" he exclaimed. "Ten years from now they'll have to move those houses back." And so it went. To each visitor that little strip of sandy beach, with the waves rolling in, meant something entirely different. The beach was always the same but the reaction was always different. And so it is all through life. The subjective dominates and moulds the objective, and it isn't the things or the people or the conditions about us that matter, so much as our own reaction upon them.

"The Dawning"

AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

The big Vitagraph feature entitled "The Dawning" attracted an immense crowd to the Nickel Theatre last night. It is a very powerful social drama with a charming story of love, pathos and excitement, ballroom scenes, luxurious homes, an art studio and much more. The beautiful actress Leah Baird plays a very difficult role in a faultless manner. It is a picture which will please and everyone present last night was more than charmed with it. "The Man, The Woman and The Boy" is also by the Vitagraph Co., and was much admired. "The Chaperonette" and "Duckling's" is lively comedy. Ruth Roland, the bright actress of the Kaleem Co., is seen in a number of her daring feats. Mr. Cameron sang "Stopped It" and Mr. Fleming, the delightful love song entitled, "Moonlight Bay." The programme will be repeated this evening.

New Treatment for Eczema.

The treatment of skin diseases, and especially of Eczema and Psoriasis is one that requires the very best remedies that can be had. Modern science has provided a remedy in Zylex, the result of many years experience with skin diseases. Zylex has the form of an elegant ointment made with such skill as to be absolutely smooth and gritless, which applied to irritated surfaces at once exerts its soothing effects in a way that some sufferers from eczema have called marvellous. If you have any skin trouble especially of eczema-like nature, we strongly urge you to try Zylex. Zylex may cure where other remedies have failed—relief it will certainly give. And not alone for eczema and kindred troubles, but for boils, local inflammations, piles, etc., etc., its qualities render it of special value. Zylex Soap contains in a modified form, many of the virtues of the ointment, and may be used with Zylex in many cases of skin disease. Both may be had from your druggist, the ointment at 50c a box, the Soap at 25c a cake. Zylex, London. -nov22.eod.12m

You're Bilious And Costive!—Cascarets

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, mean Liver and Bowels Clogged—Clean up to-night. Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin, and Miserable Headache come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gasses, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

SEAMEN CREATES TROUBLE.

Last night Constables Dempsey and Croft were called on board the S. S. Morwena to quiet the disturbances amongst the seamen. On entering the forecastle the officers found two of the crew fighting. They interfered and were attacked by a French seaman, the principal of the row. They remonstrated and brought their men to the deck. The latter became more obstreperous and tore off all his clothing—after a lively struggle, during which the seaman proved himself to be exceptionally strong, the officers succeeded in handcuffing the prisoner and took him to the police station.

Not Yet Out of the Woods.

Some people talk as if Sir Edward Morris had won the confidence of the electorate at the general election just past, and as if he had secured a safe working majority for his Government in the House of Assembly. But this is not so. The administration of Sir Edward Morris only received a minority of the votes of the electorate. The opposition obtained over 10,000 votes more than they did, and it follows from this that the electorate, on the basis of a referendum, have passed a vote of want of confidence in Sir Edward Morris and his colleagues in the Government. More than this, they have defeated two of the holders of portfolios who are also members of the Executive, and have defeated them under circumstances which are calculated to upset the confidence of the Government. The department of Agriculture and Mines has the past four years. The Minister of that Department, the Hon. S. D. Blandford, a few months after his appointment to that office obtained the greatest individual vote of any candidate at the General Election, which then took place. He received 3,158 votes, and was of course placed at the head of the poll. As Minister of Agriculture he commenced with the greatest expression of confidence that any Minister had at that time given to a Minister who faced a contest in any district. He started this under most favourable auspices. But the policy and work of his department gave rise to fierce opposition. The reversal of the agricultural policy of the Bond administration proved a great blow to Agricultural Development. The sound and scientific foundations laid down by the Liberal administration were ruthlessly overturned and a policy instituted which has earned the derision of the colony. It resolved itself into a mere system of giving-out, and the department became a bureau of placement. Even three members of the House of Assembly were enlisted in the ranks and a bill of indemnity was got through the Assembly, nobody seems to know how to clear them of the effects of Carter's purge. Even the Western Star bitterly assailed Mr. Downey as a placeman. Even more severe were the comments on the extensive grabbing of timber land which has gone on under this department, while Mr. Blandford has been the head of it. This leads up to the protests which were made in connection with the interests in timber land acquired by Mr. Morrison. These acts led to a request to the Governor

RICHARD HAKLUTT died 1616, aged 62. "Hakluyt's Voyage" is a well-known book to students. The writer's tastes turned to geography, in which subject he became so expert that he was appointed lecturer in geography at Oxford. He is said to have introduced the use of globes in schools. Helped by Sir Walter Raleigh, Hakluyt compiled a record of travels and geographical discoveries. He was buried in Westminster Abbey. What novelty is worth that sweet monotony where everything is known and loved because it is known?

SPECIAL EVENING TELEGRAM.
LONDON, To-day.
Lord Cowdray, who has large oil, railway and other concessions in Mexico, in an interview said he had learned with great interest from newspapers that a British warship had been dispatched to Puerto, the Mexico terminus of the Tehuantepec railway which he owns, because while that line is still running, the Government lines which join it have been cut, therefore several thousand employees for whom he is responsible, could only be aided by the States Battleship Louisiana. Cowdray answered, certainly it is bound to protect my interests. Cowdray expressed the opinion that he had made a great mistake by keeping silent so long under the charge that he was a concession monger. He said the last oil concession he had obtained from the Mexican Government was at a time slightly under eight years ago.

MEXICO CITY, To-day.
The bulk of evidence at hand continues to indicate that General Huerta is not to accede to the demands of the States Government for his elimination as President of Mexico, but there is some reason to believe he may at last give in, but in such a manner as to leave the impression he acted of his own free will, defying Washington to consider the demands of the States Government as a matter of internal practice in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon gave rise to considerable speculation. The roll of members was called it was quite evident the necessary quorum was present, but Col. Victor Carl, president in the absence of Eduardo Ariz, Speaker, who is said to be ill, looked the Deputies straight in the eye and declared no quorum. Not a Deputy protested. The Chamber stood adjourned until to-day; suggested this action might be part of a plan to bring about the resignation of the Congress and split heirs with Washington Government, which through John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative had insisted that the new legislative should not come into existence under law. Should there be no quorum three times in succession the House will be automatically dissolved.

WASHINGTON, To-day.
Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American fleet on the East Coast of Mexico, called the Navy Department and has received orders from General Aguilar, Constitutional leader, who has occupied the viceregal office since the resignation of American and other extensive oil interests territory that would be protected. Fletcher is under orders to take such steps as may be necessary to protect foreign lives and property. Reports from Tuxpan having indicated the Constitutionalists threatened to destroy the tanks of the British oil interests, this led to talk of possibility of landing marines or blue jackets from American battleships. Developments of situation have been awaited with intense interest. General Aguilar's message was seen in reply to Admiral Fletcher's demand that no harm should come to foreigners or their property.

He said I am governing on a constitutional basis, my attitude being to guarantee the interests of all foreign and domestic oil concerns, existing in territory I occupy, failing in this manner the demand of civilization and not being governed by vengeance. Officials here think this message is still to be an onerous complications as a result of Aguilar's occupation of the oil fields territory. The destruction of tanks would have endangered the lives of many Americans and other foreigners. Two British armoured cruisers have been ordered to the scene, but in the meantime the States have been asked to guard British interests.

CALCUTTA, To-day.
A police raid of a suspected house in Calcutta, led to the arrest of men and the discovery of a bomb factory. A quantity of correspondence found in the building is believed to give a clue to an anarchistic conspiracy which resulted in many recent out-castings including the attempt to kill the Viceroy with a bomb at Delhi last December.

THE IDEAL HOME.

The Ideal Home is first of all a comfortable home. It is of course an artistically furnished home, showing taste and judgment—each article pleasing in itself, and in harmony with its surroundings. But it requires a knowledge of stores as well as furniture in order to secure all these elements in the furnishing of one's home without its calling for an extensive outlay of cash.

It is for this reason that the C. L. MARCH CO'S. STORE appeals particularly to that large portion of St. John's home-loving people who have excellent taste but are economical.

We have shown the past month the many advantages we have to offer where we can save you considerable money by our recent arrangements. For instance we can now offer you a Surface Oak Sideboard for $15.00 that cannot be imported and sold less than $20.00. We can sell you our famous Felt Mattress for $15.00, as good as the Ostermorr that sells in Canada and the States for $20.00. Our cheaper grade Mattress from $2.00 up. Springs from $2.00 up. Our Celebrated Ideal Springs from $6.50 up. We have also Bed Outfits from $7.50 up; that is, Bed, Spring and Wool Top Mattress for $7.50.

We have also many things in the furnishing line, such as Carpet Squares, all prices; Curtains, Rugs, and a good line of Clocks, Wringers, Sewing Machines, &c. So when in need of Furniture and Furnishings, be sure and give us a call before buying.

Story of Premier Murray.

A favorite story in Nova Scotia relates to the time some years since, when Premier Murray's first son was born. He was living in North Sydney and was a regular attendant at the Presbyterian Church. The minister of the church happened to be an out-and-out Tory, who wag by no means adverse to expressing his political opinions in the pulpit. So outspoken did he become that his parishioners of the liberal persuasion one by one left the church in disgust until Mr. Murray was about the only liberal left. The future Premier was rather more amused than offended by the attacks of the true-blue parson and stayed on.

When it came time to select a name for the infant, he determined to get even with the minister. In spite of the protestations of his mother, who thought it a grievous thing to give her child anything but a family name, he decided on Wilfred Laurier, and he still chuckles as he recalls how the Tory preacher had to invoke the divine blessing on a Wilfred Laurier Murray.

The Dreamers.

HEART OF THE FIRE.
From the heart of the fire does the vision rise,
It is good to sit in the afterglow,
While some one's hand in your big one lies
And nobody there to know,
Ah, golden gleaming its many towers,
The palace ye build, ye twain,
Where two shall dwell thro' the love-lit hours in a golden castle in Spain.

Who is it laughs in the dusk behind?
Who lurks in the shadows there?
Will the years that are coming to you be kind
And the end of the dream be fair?
Ah! boy and girl, with the love-lit eyes!
Will the faith and the love remain
When only a crumbling ruin lies—
Your fallen castle in Spain?
—Sydney Bulletin.

THE CRY OF THE DREAMER.
(By John Boyle O'Reilly.)

I am tired of planning and toiling
In the crowded hives of men;
Faint-wearied of building and spoiling,
And spoiling and building again,
And I long for the dear old river,
Where I dreamed my youth away;
For a dreamer lives forever,
And a toiler dies in a day.

I am sick of the showy seeming,
Of a life that is half a lie;
Of the faces lined with scheming
In the throng that hurries by
From the sleepless thoughts' endeavor
I would go where the children play;
For a dreamer lives forever,
And a thinker dies in a day.

I can feel no pride, but pity
For the burdens the rich endure;
There is nothing sweet in the city
But the patient lives of the poor.
Oh, the little hands too skillful,
And the child-mind choked with weeds!
The daughter's heart grown wilful,
And the father's heart that bleeds!

No, not from the street's rude bustle,
From trophies of mart and stage,

I would fly to the woods' low rustle
And the meadow's kindly page,
Let me dream as of old by the river,
And be loved for the dream alway;
For a dreamer lives forever,
And a toiler dies in a day.

THE PORT O' DREAMS.
It is just beyond the sky-line
With its poppy-fields of rest,
Where day's storm-bewildered shallop
Drops its anchor in the west,
Where a silent sea of saffron
Stretches inland toward the streams
That go glimmering down the valleys
Of the purple port o' dreams.

In the far-off gloom behind it
Earth's dusky bound'ry lies,
And a step beyond its outpost
The hills of heaven rise;
So near that in the glory
Of their mystic haze it seems
That the dear dead walk beside us
In the peaceful port o' dreams.

Oh, strange and wondrous country,
Hiding close the goals of life,
Who wins to thee brings courage
For the long, dull march's strife,
And the prisoner of living Hope's freedom pledge redeems
In thine endless, boundless radiance,
Oh, blissful port o' dreams.

We have called thee Heart's Desire,
Or the Island of the Blest,
And the Land of Finished Stories,
Oh, dreamland in the west,
Yet every heart's the bound'ry
Of thy soul-reposing beams—
Art thou hope or love or heaven,
Oh, happy port o' dreams?

Sail away, oh, weary-hearted,
To the bayous of release,
Leave the drums o' life behind you
At the harbor bar of peace,
Come to anchor off the headlands
Where the light of heaven gleams,
In the haven where ye would be,
Past the purple port o' dreams.

HOW TO LIVE WELL.

(By George Washington.)

Be courteous to all, but intimate with few; and let those few be well tried before you give them your confidence. True friendship is a plant of slow growth, and must undergo and withstand the shocks of adversity before it is entitled to the appellation. Let your heart feel for the afflictions and distresses of every one, and let your hand give in proportion to your purse; remembering always the estimation of the widow's mite, that it is not every one that asketh that deserveth charity; all, however, are worthy of inquiry, or the deserving may suffer. Do not conceive that fine clothes make fine men, any more than fine feathers make fine birds. A plain, genteel dress is more admired, and obtains more credit, than lace and embroidery, in the eyes of the judicious and sensible.—From a letter to his nephew, Bushrod Washington, 1783.

Household Tastes.

(By Alvah Parsons.)

Did you know that—Straight hanging window curtains will make you sleep better?

You will feel better if pictures hang from two vertical wires?

Treading on flowers in rugs will make children insensible to beauty?

The trouble with American women is that they have beauty indigestion.

It isn't that they haven't seen good art, but so much of it that they have lost the power to distinguish. There is one hotel in New York which has eleven different styles of art in its lobby. It is a regular encyclopaedia of art.

The principle in household art is the principle of related shapes. Every line must be in harmony with the space it is to adorn. Nothing can make up for the crime of the looped window curtain. It causes bad dreams by night and uneasy conscience by day.

Consider the outrage of pictures hung by one cord, suspended at the centre. The triangle thus made above the picture is the only thing you can see in the room. It hits you in the eye. It follows you in your conversation. Why? Because it is the only triangle in a space of vertical and horizontal lines.

Now, if this is so at all, it is so a lot. If this is true of picture wire, it is true of furniture. You cannot put a square peg in a round hole; neither can you put a broad sofa against a long, narrow space; nor a tall, slim cabinet in a space built for a piano.

Another principle in applied art is appropriate decoration. What do you think of hand-painted china? I remember a set in Indiana. Each plate had a fish on it, and from that fish's back I had to eat peaches and cream!

Again, what do you think of a dead deer as an appetizer on a dining room wall? It doesn't help you any, either, to hear how your host shot that beautiful creature. Such things are relics of the thirteenth century, when the hunter barons dragged game into the great dining hall; they could stand it.

Our grandfathers of the mid-Victorian era could stand to have pictures of game on dining room walls. We cannot. A dining room is an eating place; the important piece of furniture is the table. You see that first when you enter the room.

Most dining rooms hide the table in a display of cut glass and painted china. Some say it is hard to think in a mob. I say it is easier to think in a mob of people than in a mass of cut glass.

In bedrooms the object of most importance should be the bed. You should see that when you enter—not the embroidered bedspread, nor the bed posts, nor yet two hundred college pennants prancing over the walls.

Another habit in which some people indulge is embroidery pin cushions. I remember giving a lecture with about a dozen pin cushions. Each one had a French tapestry lady embroidered upon it. I promptly forgot my lecture.

I said to a lad in the front row,
"pick out the prettiest four ladies and bring them to me." Then, "Will some one lend me a hatpin?" Then, "Show me the lady you like best of all."
Then, "Stick her!" Well, that audience saw the point. I don't think they have embroidered any more pin cushions in that town.

What of rugs that are covered with flowers, on which children trample with hobnailed shoes? How can you expect them to appreciate flowers if their souls are smeared with the insult to pictured flowers?

One more point, a third defect in American homes. That comes from sentimentality—sentiment gone sick.
We put the hair of our grandmothers and seventeen cousins in a wreath in the parlor. There must be some perverted idea that it is ornamental.

We worship atrocious mahogany and bad silver because it is old. We make homes a collection of wedding gifts. No wonder home life is unsatisfactory.

No Trouble at All.

The new maid had been on this side of the water but a very short time, and a most amusing thing happened when she answered the bell for the first caller at the house where she was employed.

"Can your mistress be seen?" the visitor asked.

"Can she be seen?" snickered Kathleen. "Shure, and Oi think she can!
She's six feet hoigh and haf as wide!"

"Have you read 'The Eternal

"I have."

"Have you read Marie Correll's

Greatest Thing in the World.

(By Henry Drummond.)

Love suffereth long, and is kind;
Love envieth not;
Love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,
Doth not behave itself unseemly,
Seeketh not her own,
Is not easily provoked,
Thinketh no evil;
Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth;
Beareth all things, believeth all things,
hopeth all things, endureth all things.
—St. Paul.

Everyone has asked himself the great question of antiquity as of the modern world: What is the summum bonum—the supreme God? You have lived before you. Once only you can live it. What is the noblest object of desire, the supreme gift to covet?

We have been accustomed to be told that the greatest thing in the religious world is Truth. That great word has been the keynote for centuries of the popular religion, and we have easily learned to look upon it as the greatest thing in the world. Well, we are wrong. If we have been told that, we may miss the mark. I have taken you, in the chapter which I have just read, to Christianity at its source; and there we have seen, "The greatest of these is love." It is not an oversight.

Paul was speaking of faith just a moment before. He says, "If I have all faith, so that I can remove mountains, and have not love, I am nothing." So far from forgetting he deliberately contrasts them, "Now abideth Faith, Hope, Love," and without a moment's hesitation the decision falls, "the greatest of these is Love." Nor is this letter to the Corinthians peculiar in singling out love as the summum bonum. The masterpieces of Christianity are agreed about it. Peter says "Above all things have fervent love among yourselves."

Above all things. And John goes farther, "God is love." And you remember the profound remark which Paul makes elsewhere, "Love is the fulfilling of the law." If you love, you will unconsciously fulfil the whole law.
Take any of the Commandments.
"Thou shalt have no other gods before Me." If a man love God, you will not require to tell him that.
"Take not His name in vain." Would he ever dream of taking His name in vain if he loved Him? "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."
Would he not be too glad to have one day in seven to dedicate more exclusively to the object of his affection?
Love would fulfil all these laws regarding God. And so, if he loved Man, you would never think of telling him to honour his father and mother. He could not do anything else. It would be preposterous to tell him not to kill.
You would only insult him if you suggested that he should not steal—how could he steal from those he loved?
And you would never dream of urging him not to covet what his neighbours had. He would rather they possessed it than himself. In this way "Love is the fulfilling of the law." It is the rule for fulfilling all rules, the new commandment for keeping all the commandments, Christ's one secret of the Christian life.

(From an address.)

Fads of Famous People.

No man or woman is so strong as to be wholly free from weakness. If a man occupies an humble sphere in life he usually is fortunate enough to keep his fads and follies from becoming known beyond his own circle of friends. If, on the other hand, he has attained sufficient distinction in the world to be called "famous," he must reconcile himself to seeing the public in possession of all knowledge that has to do with his personal peculiarities.

Descartes had a small garden where he spent all the hours not devoted to mental labor.

Queen Elizabeth was very profane, and when angry would kick and cuff
her maids.

Matthew Arnold's dog, cat, and canary are mentioned dozens of times in his poems.

William the Conqueror was immoder-ately devoted to dog-fighting and bear-baiting.

Mirabeau loved dogs, and had a famous pet, Chico, to which he was much attached.

Mrs. Radcliffe ate raw pork before going to work on a particularly thrilling chapter.

Washington was devoted to fox-hunting, and in the season usually hunted twice a week.

Socrates was fond of playing with children, and was often seen busy with them at their games.

Mme. de Stael always carried a bit of stick in her hand and played with it as an aid to conversation.

Blackmore, the novelist, was fond of gardening, and spent in that amusement all he made by writing.

Leigh Hunt, when tired out with work, found relaxation in riding to and fro on the London omnibuses.

Dumas, pere, disliked a noise in the house while he was writing, and kept a pet buzzard in his room.

Vincent, the landscape painter, disliked violets, and always avoided a field or garden where they grew.

Prince Rupert, the cavalrman, was fond of chemistry, and invented the glass drops called by his name.

Berlioz, though so famous as a composer, could play no instrument except the guitar, and that very badly.

Hazlitt was an enormous drinker of strong tea, which completely upset his nerves and made him miserable.

Tycho Brahe, "the Wizard of the Golden Nose," always became sick at the stomach whenever he saw a fox.

Herrick, the poet, was fond of pigs as pets, and taught one to follow him about and to drink beer out of a mug.

Francis Bacon was very fond of fine clothes, and spent much of his leisure in devising new costumes for court occasions.

Edward Fitzgerald was a vegetarian, and believed that in adopting such a diet he had, to quote his own words, found "the great secret of it all."

Charles Dickens was fond of wearing gaudy jewelry, and the clanking of his numerous gold chains announced his coming while he was yet some distance away.

Henry W. Longfellow had a weakness for flowered waistcoats; and he possessed many of gorgeous pattern and color.

Queen Victoria of England shared the common superstition about salt.
She would reprimand any guest who was unfortunate enough to spill it, and throughout the remainder of the meal she would be disturbed and in ill-humor.

Relations of a Man's Stature and Genius.

Evidence Produced to Disprove Napoleon's Theory That Short Men Are the More Intellectual.

What is the height of genius? How does its physical inches correspond with its altitude of mind and soul?
These questions are a subject of curious inquiry with the Boston Herald.

Napoleon the Great, a short man, surrounded himself with a staff of short men, but he did not care to look like a pigmy among his subordinates.
Doubtless vanity contributed to his preference for few inches. He said of General Kleber: "He has all the qualities and defects of a tall man."

Napoleon would not only have agreed with Lombroso that great men are short men, but he went further than that; he altered the stature of Frederick the Great, of Alexander, of Caesar, to suit himself. He always insisted that they were short men, but the chroniclers of their times tell us otherwise.

The chroniclers of Napoleon's time seem to have been struck by his own fancy, for they made him as short as they conveniently could. His old friend Bourrienne wrote Napoleon's height as five feet two inches. Constant put it as five feet one inch. But, after all, these were old French measures.

Captain Maitland's testimony is more to the point. It was to Captain Maitland that Napoleon surrendered on board the Bellerophon. Maitland measured him and recorded the fallen conqueror's height as five feet seven inches, English. That, by the way, is half an inch more than the stature of Lord Roberts.

The Test of Figures.

But the Napoleonic theory does not bear the test of figures. Intellectual power in its varied manifestations is not found at its utmost strength in small men only. It takes men as it finds them—tall and short, thin and plump—and it seems to rather like height.

Thackeray was six feet four inches. So was Fielding. Scott, Walt Whitman, and Tennyson were six-footers. Goethe, the elder Dumas, Robert Burns, and Longfellow were five feet ten inches. J. M. Barrie is only five feet five inches, and Kipling only five feet six inches. Edwin A.
Abbey had the same height as Barrie;
so has Alma-Tadema.

Lord Curzon is six feet one inch.
George Westinghouse is over six feet two inches, Andrew Carnegie is five feet four and a half inches, Roosevelt is five feet nine inches. Sir Henry Irving was an inch taller.

Bergson and the Steam Engine.

"A century has elapsed since the invention of the steam-engine, and we are only just beginning to feel the depths of the shock it gave us," writes Henri Bergson. "But the revolution it has effected in industry has nevertheless upset human relations altogether.

"New ideas are arising, new feelings are on the way to flower. In thousands of years, when, seen from the distance, only broad lines of the present age will still be visible, our wars and our revolutions will count for little; but the steam-engine, and the procession of inventions that accompanied it, will perhaps be spoken of as we speak of the bronze or chipped stone of prehistoric times; it will serve to define an age."

ishments in Prussia for keeping children away from school.

Our Boys Abroad.

Newfoundland is always pleased to hear of her sons doing well abroad. "Charlie" Penwick, ex-student of the Methodist College, of this city, who is now studying medicine at Toronto, is making a name for himself. However, his successes, we are pleased to say, are not limited to the school desk, for he is being posted conspicuously in the Canadian press as an athlete, notably as a footballer. He is a prominent member of the "Varsity Football Team" which won the Inter-Collegiate championship this season. In a recent play-off game, according to despatches to hand, "Varsity" defeated the Queen's team by three goals to nil. Out of this score Penwick, the left wing man, scored twice for "Varsity." His play was commented on in the Toronto Globe as being very effective and a hard man to beat.

"A Money Grabbers' War."

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Nov. 21.
Under the heading of "A Money Grabbers' War," the Outlook to-day publishes a bitter attack on the Mexican situation. The Atlantic, it says, there is in busy preparation, if certain forces can accomplish it, a crime against civilization and against humanity. At any moment we may hear of the first overt acts, and the inevitable slaughter of tens of thousands of young Americans and half-starved peasants, the devastation of humble towns and countryside, the suffering of the helpless and the innocent, and the pouring of millions of money, and all for what or for whom? Wars have been waged for military ambition but who is the Napoleon here? Wars have occurred for colonial expansion, but half the States are sparsely populated. There is no pretence of this or of any historic reason here. War between the States and Mexico, if it comes, will be the first war waged solely for private greed. It will be the first Money Grabbers' War. After saying that the Outlook has been fishing territory from neighbours for sixty years, and after having reduced weak States to obsequious dependents, through the Monroe Doctrine, which means anything it is required to mean, the Outlook predicts that American dollars will create revolutions in Trinidad and Jamaica, as it alleges they did in Panama and it predicts the annexation of the Northern Mexican States, if the guides of American opinion, among whom we refrain from mentioning Dr. Wilson, get their way. In a few weeks, perhaps, Jim Smith, Virginian, will be cutting the throat of Leon Ramirez of Morelas in the sacred name of Oil Trusts and a band of Wall Street hyenas.

Accident at Horwood's

A man named Chetman, of Spaniard's Bay, who has been recently employed at the Horwood Lumber Company, met with a serious accident yesterday evening. He was in the act of receiving a board from a workman on the top of a pile of lumber when it slipped from the man's hand striking Chetman in the head and rendering him unconscious. He was badly cut about the face, and Dr. Roberts, who was summoned to the scene temporarily dressed the wounds after which he was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. On making enquiries we learn he is much improved to-day.

Remodelling Hall.

Mr. E. J. Doran, contractor, returned from Bell Island this morning, where he had been superintending the work at Wabana Hall, upon which he has a staff of men employed. The hall, which was built some five years ago, is now being entirely remodelled for theatrical purposes and the ceiling raised to a height of 21 feet. The job will be completed about the end of next week.

Vengeance was wreaked on the suffragettes who set fire to the great Lumber yards on the banks of the Thames. Whilst the yards were still burning early this morning, the suffragette offices here were raided and wrecked. The damage to the yards reached $10,000. Usual placards and quotations from Lloyd George afforded evidence of the work of the unsexed women.

At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the City Council was held yesterday afternoon, Mayor Ellis being absent through illness.

Peters & Sons complained of condition of street in front of their place of business. Ordered to be attended to.

Councillors Ryan and Mullahy moved that the city crossings be cleaned daily.

A letter from Mr. Rennie, on behalf of the Gas Company, re extension of land, boundary lines and lease, was deferred for a special meeting of the Board.

Harvey & Co's request for extension of water pipe to facilitate the watering of steamers, was referred to the Engineer.

R. Callahan, in reply to Council's letter, said fault was not his for delay in making sanitary connections as per contract. The Secretary will look into the matter.

J. Ehsary, Southside, asked if his land had been acquired yet by the Council. Deeds of ownership are not yet in the possession of the Council.

W. Walsh's request to erect a fence on Duckworth Street was referred to the Engineer.

Plans of houses submitted by S. Rodway, were approved.

Councillor Ryan's motion to put a tank on Summers' Street was decided upon.

Permission was given Mrs. Pike to erect porch in City Terrace.

Councillor Coaker, moved that a sewer be placed at the Battery for dumping dirty water. The motion was seconded by Coun. Myrick and carried unanimously.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitalize, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting ventilation of air. It is for this reason among other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jameson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no man here who had experience of their meeting room under the old condition could deny the improvement that has taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light. It is for this reason among other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort sit through an hour's lecture, or wit pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the best possible conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewin, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov8,t

Twilight Dreams

I sit and muse at close of day
And view the twilight stealing on
I mark the sun's declining rays
And note the birds have ceased their song.

'Tis thus with life. I look it o'er,
I view the fast declining years—
Shall the receding angel find
My record filled with joy not tears

The youthful life is full of hope;
In manhood's prime our soul is strong,
In age, our thoughts homeward turn
For life at best is never long.

And yet our lives through years are full
Are only as the vapor passed,
Then we should strive with all our power
To live this day as if the last.

I sit and think when sunset-gold
Is flushing fields, and stream and shore—
The evening chill is gathering now;
They lead me in and close the door

Shall I when life's declining years
Has set like sun in western sky,
Assurance feel that even then
My Saviour's near, yea, even nigh

When I am through with troubled life
I trust I then shall know no fear:
I trust I shall brighten all my path
That leads across those waters drear.

And when the gates of pearl unfold
And brightness strikes upon my sight,
I need no sun or candle there
The Son of God is Heaven's own light.

Australian Stones for the Strand.
"There is something peculiarly happy in the idea that Australia should build her new offices in the Strand, as far as is possible out of her own soil," says the Daily Graphic. "The first consignment of stone from the Commonwealth, dressed ready for fixing, has just arrived at the Aldwych site. All the marble work for the interior is also to be similarly imported."

Wreckage Picked Up.

A message was received two days ago by Mr. A. Goodridge, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, from the Marine and Fisheries authorities at Ottawa, asking if any wreckage had been sighted lately between Cape Ray and Cape Race. Mr. Goodridge wired lighthouse keepers at once to keep a sharp lookout and report. Yesterday evening he had the following message from Sub-Collector Pittman of Lamaline: "Sixty to seventy steamers' harpoon pieces picked up since Sunday from 5 ft. 3 ins. to 11 ft. long; highest number of piece 88; highest number of hold, 3; between Dantzig and Lamaline. Some broke in two appeared to be a short time in the water. Reported a life buoy picked up at Dantzig. Don't know if ship's name or it. Will go there and investigate if instructed. Rush reply." It is the opinion that the reported wreckage belongs to the s.s. Bridgeport, now missing.

Mrs. Pankhurst.

She has come across the sea to explain to you and me why the women of Old England tried to poison their country that is us. I hope a h. i. won't incite a nutive suffragists to fight, won't stir up a bloody battle Rheta Dorr and Carrie Catt. Mrs. Pankhurst is a duck and I wish her bully luck, and I hope her suffrage coffers ne'er will seem an empty void; but I cannot help but think that her errand's on the blink, that a lame like Mrs. Pankhurst should be usefully employed. Far across the ocean foam she has doubtless got a name; if she hasn't she should get one and that home's the place for her; loaves of bread she ought to bake, or compound a tempting cake while she's ranting round the country, filling all the air with fur. If her home across the sea she should have a quilting bee, she should manufacture cookies for a bunch of little tanks; but she isn't built that way, and she spels from day to day, stirring up to fresh endeavour all the tiresome female cranks. To her mission I say "Plish!" Married women ought to mosh where the mishing most is needed—in their homes, among their kids; but I hope you're doing inc in this country. Emaline, and I'll join the girls who hear you, when they whoop and wave their lids!

Girl's Nerves Fully Restored

Was Never Able to Obtain Lasting Benefit Until Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Was Used.

Too many girls grow up with weak, anemic bodies and exhausted nervous systems. Indoor life and too much application in school are sometimes the cause.

Another needs enriching and the nerves need strengthening by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This food cure is doing wonders for many thousands of girls whose parents had almost despaired of their ever developing into strong, healthy women.

Mrs. J. Bagnall, 395 Woodville avenue, Toronto, writes: "My daughter suffered from nervousness since childhood, and any medicine she tried did not do any lasting good. We read in the papers about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and my daughter used it with wonderful results. This treatment has built up her system and so strengthened the nerves that she feels like another girl!"

New Cardinals.

One of Foreigners Will be a Canadian. London, Nov. 15.—Referring to the next consistory, the Catholic Times says: "Strangely enough, though death has reduced the membership of the sacred college to fifty-eight, and with at least three cardinals in bad health and two others past eighty-four years of age, rumor is very chary about the conferring of new red hats."

"Only two Italians and two foreigners, it is said, will be elevated among the former being the former Papal Legate to Canada, Monsigneur Sbarretti, who is now secretary of the sacred congregation of rites.

The other Italian is Monsigneur Lafontaine, Titular Bishop of Caristo. The foreigners will be a Canadian and a Mexican.

"Whether Quebec or Montreal will be the Canadian See chosen for the distinguished honor, rumor does not say. With regard to the two previous named prelates, however, there is much to recommend them for the nomination, Mgr. Sbarretti having had a long career in the foreign diplomatic service of the church and Mgr. Lafontaine accomplished the codification of Canon Law and the reform of the Roman Breviary."

If Universal Peace.

Prevailed, Sam Hughes Says He Would Still Have Cadets.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—"If war were to be wiped off the face of the earth, Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes would still train boys in military discipline by the cadet system." This he told the members of the Empire Club last night, "is because I am convinced that other things being equal the military trained boy develops into a better type of citizen than the civil trained boy."

The Minister of Militia expressed the opinion that the drill halls in Toronto have done more good, with the possible exception of the churches, than any single institution in the way of fostering a high ideal of citizenship.

Col. Hughes also referred to his campaign against drunkenness in the militia. "The officers who cannot keep liquor out of the training camps," he declared belligerently, "have got to get out of the service, and some of them have got out already. A canteen in a training camp is about as logical as would be a canteen in a collegiate institute."

The Ballot.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

The ballot is the weapon of liberty. Like other weapons, it is most dangerous to its owner when it isn't loaded.

So long as the common citizen keeps charging indignantly around with his ballot in his hand he is treated with fear and respect by all. But when he lingers at home on election day and toasts his toes at the fire while the hosts of evil hunt for votes with automobiles, his ballot withers and his power with it. And when he calls at the city hall to ask why he has been assessed for a payment which has been put in an alderman's pocket he receives the rude guffaw to say nothing of a punch in the back from a policeman's club.

The ballot makes our president and governors and congressmen and aldermen and justices of the peace and poundmasters. However, the ballot is not entirely to blame for what happens. A ballot must be used with intelligence just like a hair brush or a garden hose or a collar button. If some men put as much brains and careful thought into voting as they do into pushing a lawnmower the nation would get better results.

The ballot is the precious possession of every freeborn citizen. No matter how small or insignificant the citizen may be, the ballot makes him, for one day at least, as big as any other citizen. For months and years he may suffer under his wrongs without sympathy or remedy. Haughty officeholders may flout him and there is naught for him to do save write to the complaint corner of his daily newspaper. But on election day he rises a man of might, takes his ballot from its casket and as he walks down the street stepping over trolley wires and small buildings the potentates of yesterday bow down before him and ask him with anxious hospitality to have a drink. Until he casts his ballot he is a giant. Small wonder that so many men do not vote until 5 p.m.

Politicians stand in fear before the man who uses his ballot at elections as if it were a cutlass, and relentlessly mows down the unworthy officeholder. But they only laugh at the man who sits at home on his ballot like a setting hen year after year trying to hatch out good government.

Bishopric Wall Board.

BEATS LATHS AND PLASTER.
MADE TO LAST.

Bishopric Wall Board is made by imbedding kiln-dried dressed lath in hot Asphalt-Mastic, under a pressure of 500 lbs. to the square inch. The other side of the Asphalt-Mastic is surfaced with smooth, heavy sized cardboard.

COSTS LESS.
Bishopric Wall Board saves 75 per cent. of the labor cost and about a month's time in finishing walls and ceilings. With it there is none of that expense for repairs and re-decorating that you incur so often when plaster cracks or falls.

DRYER AND WARMER.
The layer of Asphalt-Mastic in which the laths are embedded is absolutely air-tight and damp-proof. It blocks all drafts, and keeps the inside of the house dry, warm and cosy.

RAT AND VERMIN PROOF.
These pests find it impossible to gnaw or bore through the tough, gummy Asphalt-Mastic.

EASILY DECORATED.
Bishopric Wall Board is surfaced with heavy sized cardboard, which forms the ideal surface for Wall Paper or Burlap. Artistic panneling adds to its attractiveness.

THE ONLY WALL BOARD MADE WITH LATH
Laths are positively necessary to back up wall board and Bishopric is the only Wall Board that has them. They make it rigid and substantial and prevent it from working, cracking or pulling away at the joints.

INVESTIGATE.
Whether you intend to build or remodel, don't overlook this opportunity to get a better house — at lower cost — in less time — by using Bishopric Wall Board. Ask your dealer for information. Write or 'phone for sample and descriptive circulars to

GOOD ADVICE

It is necessary to always have a bottle of good Brandy at hand.

What Brandy will you buy?

The Medicinal Brandy "Sanator" is not a properly so-called medicine, but it has been selected from amongst the best known growths for their effective principles, and it is distilled so as to develop its tonic and digestive qualities. It is really the FAMILY BRANDY, which name the public has, for a long time, bestowed on it.

The celebrated French physician, DR. PHAZELLE, Inspector-in-chief of the Great Medical Services, says: "The medicinal Brandy "Sanator" is eminently an easy digestive drink, remarkable for its tonifying and reinvigorating properties."

Ask for Medicinal Brandy Sanator from your liquor dealer; he has it.

DIRECTIONS.

Against weakness and bad digestion: a liquor glass at each meal.

Against Cold, Influenza: take as a hot drink, viz: one ounce and a half of Brandy, one ounce of hot water, with a little sugar.

Against summer complaints: use with chopped ice, or cold water.

Poultry Exhibition

CLOSED LAST NIGHT.

The poultry show, which had been so largely attended during the past few days, closed last night with an attendance of about 2,000. The presentation of prizes by Mrs. Davidson, wife of His Excellency the Governor, who was in the chair, was attended by Major Davenport.

His Excellency and party entered the Rink at 9 o'clock and were conducted to the western end of the building where the awards were on exhibition. Mr. G. W. Gushue, the President of the Poultry Association, in a short address, referred to the objects of the Exhibition, after which the Premier addressed the gathering, congratulating the Association on the success of the show, which reflected great credit on the managing committee and exhibitors.

Mr. G. W. Gushue followed in a brief speech thanking those who offered prizes for competition and called upon Mrs. Davidson to present the prizes, which were given to the winners with gracefulness and tact, typical of that lady. At the request of President Gushue, Governor Davidson spoke. His Excellency heartily thanked the gathering for the enthusiasm received, and Mrs. Davidson and himself. Before declaring the Poultry Show closed he congratulated the committee in charge of the arrangements on the excellent results of their efforts. He referred to the expert methods used in judging the show and paid a warm tribute to Professor Landry. In conclusion, His Excellency hoped that greater encouragement would be given to poultry raising and that next year's exhibition would be even a greater success, with a bigger display of birds than this season's. After finishing his address, many prizes were given for Governor and Mrs. Davidson.

We learn that the Committee regret exceedingly the omission of the mention in the Prize List, that Mr. Rusch won the special cup offered for Buff Orpington Cockerels. The omission was a pure oversight. We congratulate the Poultry Association on the great success achieved at this show, both on the popularity of the Exhibition and on the progress which has been made in poultry raising, largely owing to the efforts of the Association.

The Frailty of Man.

We are all liable to error and will be so to the end of time—the most careful will make mistakes, sometimes for art and sometimes for nature. With the fact of our own frailty staring us in the face, would it be reasonable on our part to neglect the means for its correction? We search for the elimination of error? Errors in the counting house are costly but they can be avoided by the use of present day inventions, constructed as well as human ingenuity can suggest. It is to busy men that we speak—the others have no time to listen. To busy office-men the "Globe-Wernicke" devices come as a boon and a blessing, guarding as they do the essential records, which are the main vitality of business. These articles are on view at Mr. Percie Johnson's office, and need only be seen to be appreciated.

Nomination of Officers.

The members of the Firemen's Union held a special meeting last night when the following officers were nominated for the ensuing term:

- President and Delegate—M. McAllister. Vice-President—P. Lundrigan. Secretary—A. King. Treasurer—P. McGrath. Asst. Treasurer—W. O'Toole. Rec. Secretary—M. Baldwin. Fin. Secretary—W. Whalen. Marshal—J. Saunders.

The election will take place at the next monthly meeting. The Union is now in excellent financial shape and have about $2,000 to its credit at the bank.

Stomach Troubles and Weakness of Kidneys Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

There is an enormous amount of suffering from liver and kidney derangements and stomach troubles that could easily be avoided by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If you could only realize the scores of everyday ills that arise from a sluggish condition of the kidneys, liver and bowels you would not be long in giving this medicine a trial. Mrs. Edward Stewart, New Richmond West, Que., writes: "I want to tell you how thankful I am for using your Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for stomach troubles and backache caused by weak kidneys. I was unable to wash my clothes for over two years on account of my back being lame. I read the Almanac and began using these pills. Two boxes made a complete cure. I can do my own washing and other work now, and want to say to ladies who suffer from these troubles, do not know how much I appreciate Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills." 25 cents a box. Dealers: Geo. That Bridge Again.

Editor The Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the item in your paper of Wednesday re bridges at the head of Quidi Vidi Lake, I think it necessary to give a few facts concerning them. In the spring of 1895 the Department of Public Works erected two substantial bridges over each river, within twenty feet of the margin of the lake, and they remained undisturbed until the big freshet of the autumn of 1906 when the main land there erected them every spring for the Department of Public Works, but some 100 feet from the margin of the lake on his own property, and removes them at will. Now, sir, I contend this is both unfair and unjust and a misuse of public money. These bridges should be built on the public margin of the Lake, and should be allowed to remain for the public's convenience. Thanking you for space in your valuable paper,

I remain, yours truly, QUIDI VIDU LAKE. St. John's, Nov. 22nd, 1913.

Some Worth More.

Two thousand pounds for a dog! he exclaimed as he looked up from his newspaper. Do you believe any one ever paid such a price, Maria?

"I'm sure I don't know, James, she returned, without stopping her needlework even for a moment. Does the paper say that much was paid?"

Yes, there's an article on valuable dogs, and it speaks of one that was sold for $10,000. I don't believe it. It may be true, James, she said, quietly. Some of these blooded animals bring fancy prices, and there is no particular reason why the paper should lie about it. But just think of it—just try to grasp the magnitude of that sum in our weak, feminine mind. You don't seem to realize it. Two thousand pounds for a dog! Why Maria, that's more than I'm worth!

I know it, James, but some are worth more than others.

Special to Evening Telegram.

HALIFAX, Nov. 21. The Drednought New Zealand arrived this afternoon.

LONDON, Nov. 21. In official quarters here there is a despondent feeling regarding the Mexican situation. Hope of a peaceful solution disappeared when Huerta's message to Congress became known. While the sending of British warships to Mexican waters is said, officially, to have been done for the protection of British subjects and property, it can be said on high authority that the warships were not sent till the Government were alarmed in consequence of advices from Mexico that danger was imminent. The last few weeks that Wilson's peaceful policy would be successful has given way to the conviction that the mess can be cleaned only by force, and a long and costly war.

NOGALES, Nov. 21. The reason of General Carranza's abrupt departure from here is said to be because Hale's leading proposal was that the Constitutionalists should lay down their arms and submit to an election being held. Carranza, it is said, realized that it was impossible to comply with the conditions, and left without seeking further negotiations, looking towards recognition by Americans.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. Icebergs have appeared in the lanes of Westbound Atlantic liners, considerably earlier than usual. The captain of the American Line steamer Pennsylvania, reported by wireless yesterday that he had sighted three bergs in lat. 43.04 N., long. 47.45, long. 48. Authorities, however, do not regard the presence of small bergs as indication of larger ones, and they are not considered dangerous to navigation.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21. The fact that Nelson O'Shaughnessy had two conferences with the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs during the past few days, has just become known. The particulars are not given; but it is understood that the net result was to leave the situation unchanged. Assurances were given by the Embassy to-day that no instructions had been received from Washington for O'Shaughnessy to leave his post, but it is known that his personal affairs are in such order that he could leave at an hour's notice, if necessary.

NOGALES, Nov. 21. It is learned to-day from authoritative sources that one of the principal reasons why the conferences between William Bayard Hale and Carranza have been broken, was the General's failure to give the U. S. Government assurances, that he accepted the rules of civilized warfare, that importation of arms and ammunition was permitted. Carranza professed inability to control the generals in the field. He first absented himself on leading illness. After his second failure to keep his appointment, Hale refused to confer with him, but notified his willingness before leaving for Tucson to meet Carranza personally, anywhere if so requested by him. It is said Carranza decided he was making a political blunder by permitting the Mexicans to believe he would submit to American dictation, if he defeated Huerta, and this caused his failure to give the assurances. Rumors prevail of disagreement between Carranza and General Villa, which threatens a breach in the Constitutional ranks.

Bring back its gloss, lustre, charm and get rid of dandruff—Try the moist cloth.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderline.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of Knowlton's Danderline now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fullness and an incomparable gloss and lustre. And try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderline is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once. If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderline and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

Goodyear Glove RUBBERS!

A Billion Dollars Lost Each Year.

Dry Feet Could Save The Most of it.

The International Congress on Tuberculosis that met in Washington last winter discussed the financial side of consumption as well as its medical aspect. Prof. Fisher, Professor of Political Economy at Yale, made the statement that tuberculosis cost the United States a billion dollars a year. He based his figures on the cost of doctors' fees, medicines, nurses, etc., and added the loss of earnings during the patient's period of sickness. He went into the question in great detail, and nobody disputed his figures.

There were 100,000 deaths from tuberculosis in the United States last year. Probably one-half of those unfortunate people would have been alive and well today if they had taken so simple a precaution as putting on a pair of rubbers every time they went out into the rain or snow.

That Sad Scene.

"Rattle his bones over the stones
A poor old pauper who nobody owns."

A sad scene was enacted at Harbor Grace to-day, when all that was mortal of poor old Jim and Anastasia Brien, was conveyed to the R. J. C. Cemetery, there to await the sound of the last trump that shall call both potentate and pauper to answer for the deeds done in the body.

The tragic circumstances surrounding their demise are of such a horrifying nature, that they make just one more black chapter in the history of Harbor Grace. That they literally died of starvation and exposure in a Christian community is only too true, and amid such circumstances as would make the stoutest heart feel sick. The story as told by an eye-witness is as follows: On Tuesday, about 12 o'clock, Bertram Gordon went to the railway station and asked Mr. Ford to telephone to the police station that he feared the old couple were either very ill or dead, as his mother who had been trying to gain admittance to their house could not get any response.

Constable Dooley was despatched, and he found things just as outlined above. He was shortly joined by Bert and Mrs. Gordon, Park, O'Neil and T. G. Ford, who on looking through a window saw a naked leg protruding from under a bedstead. Dr. Strapp, who was just driving by was called and on opening the back door of the hovel (I had almost said house), a horrible sight presented itself to them. Stretched on the back-house floor partially naked was the dead body of poor old Jim. He had apparently been dead for hours.

On going into the room where they had seen the naked leg through the window, they found his sister, Anastasia, under what one time had been a bed, breathing her last. Tenderly they picked her up and placed her on the bed covering her with whatever they could find, as bed clothes there were practically none. She must have fallen through the old bedstead in her death throes and perhaps had had lain there for hours in the cold. The doctor seeing her condition had the priest telephoned for, and shortly after his arrival to administer the last rites she passed away.

That they perished from hunger and cold is only too true, as there was nothing in the house to warrant any other theory. The house was in a condition beyond description, and the stench pervading it was sickening.

Mrs. Gordon did all in her power to keep them and reported their condition to those whom, in her opinion ought to know, but apparently no steps were taken to enquire into their condition. They were both old and eccentric and should have been sent to the Poor Asylum years ago.

There are yet two or three similar cases in our midst, which if not looked after right away may have the same tragic ending.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor,
Yours sincerely,
OBSERVER.

Hr. Grace, Nov. 19th, 1913.

Make Him
Take His Medicine.

Editor Evening Telegram,
Dear Sir.—In last evening's Herald, Morris's mud-squirt starts out on a begging game and appeals to "all right-thinking men to help the Government and not to hamper it." Just so. In other words, "to let Morris finish his work." That sort of guff won't work on the feelings of the deeply incensed citizen, or, on the man who knows the depth of infamy, deceit, hypocrisy and wrong-doing that was enacted in the election contest just over, to capture the reins of power for a further term by the mis-called People's Party. Morris played his game and in dishonor secured a majority of representatives; in that line of work he is recognized as an adept. But now, Mr. Editor, comes the work of the Statesman: how comes the trial when bluffs and bluster and catch-cries will not avail. On the floors of the Assembly, where it is open battle and where a straight answer must be given to a straight question—there is the spot where the big bluffer is not at home; there is the uncrossed corner he must get into at the opening of the People's House, and the desire of all true Liberals is that he gets no quarter but be made to face the music, or take a back seat—a position intended for him by the majority of the voters of this country at the late election.

Yours truly,
CAYENNE,
