"KYRA,"

The Ward of the Earl of Vering.

CHAPTER XVII. The Mysterious Face.

The lawyer looked from one to the other, and did not seem to know what to say. Suddenly, Charlie Merivale came up to his cousin, and held out his hand, with a smile that was good to see.

"Percy, I may congratulate you, mayn't I? I do congratulate you, dear old fellow!" and he clung to the strong, white hand.

"Come, Mr. Merivale," said the lawyer, with a smile of relief, "that's the most sensible thing that could be said; and, if his lordship will allow me, I will follow your example. My lord, I congratulate you with all my heart. It is as it should be—as it should be—and I am certain that it will never be shaken. Had it gone any other way, I, for one, my lord, should have been heartily and sincerely grieved."

Lord Percy cleared his face with a smile, and seemed, for the time, at least, to be convinced and satisfied; he gave his hand to the lawyer, and then turned to the old man at his side.

"Stephen, you have not spoken yet; there is no need to. One clause, at least, of my uncle's will shall have due effect, so far as I am concerned. Stephen, may I think that you would still have remained steward of Vering, even if there had been no mention of it in this document?"

At this kind and delicate expression of confidence and gratitude, the old man broke down for the first time.

He rose, faltering and trembling. "My lord," he said, with a gesture of humble devotion, "I will serve you, as I have served your uncle, while there is life in me!" and then, with another gesture, he limped away.

"An admirable man," remarked Mr. Butterwick, looking at his watch. "And now, my lord, if you will excuse me, I will get back to Gray Norton, and return to-morrow to receive your commands, and go over the matter." Then the two cousins were alone together for the first time since that eventful night when Lillian Devigne had played traitor and destroyed Percy's faith in women forever.

"My dear Charlie," said Lord Vering, "how you have grown!"

Charlie Merivale flushed and laughed. "I need not ask if you have been happy; a glance at your face tells me that."

"Yes, thanks to you, Percy, I have been happy—quite happy—if you had been nearer home," he looked up as he spoke, rather shyly, at the grand face, with its tawny mustache and noble eyes.

"You must tell me all about everything," resumed Percy, with his hand on the young man's shoulder.

"I was hoping that you'd tell me all about yourself first, Percy. I'm dying to hear! I got your letters—the few there were—but they didn't tell me half enough. Ah, Percy, how I envied you! What a life it was—something fresh every day! Excitement and novelty for breakfast, dinner, and supper—"

"Sometimes we had the novelty and excitement without the meal, dear boy!" put in Lord Percy, with a quiet smile.

"Ah," said Charlie, with keen enjoyment, "fancy being half-starved in a backwood of America, in such common-place days as these! I'd rather be starved right out than lead the lives some of our men do, lounging about London—day and night—to the tune of Godfrey's Band!"

Percy smiled at the young man's energy.

Charlie ran on: "But you said 'we,' Percy. Did you join a band? I thought you were all alone?"

Lord Percy colored slightly. He was conscious of a strange repugnance to tell any of the story of the finding and adoption of the Indian girl. He hesitated, and Charlie ran on:

"And what a splendid place this is to come home to! All your own—your very own—Percy! Ah, it is so coldly that I congratulate you. What can I say? I am a thousand times more glad that it is yours than if it were mine! Do you know, I believe that I am looking forward to a regular inspection and survey with greater eagerness than you? It is all so new to me, all so grand, while it is home to you."

"Anything but that, as yet," said Percy. "You forget, dear boy, that I had only crossed the threshold twice within the last fifteen years. It is as strange to me as to you. We will go over it to-morrow, Charlie."

"Yes, and that reminds me that you would like to have a little quiet from my chatter. I may go out for a stroll, I suppose, without outraging the proprieties, so soon after the funeral?"

"Certainly," said Percy. "Go out, Charlie, and get an appetite; we shall have a tete-a-tete dinner at seven. Will you ride or walk?"

"Oh, walk," said Charlie, and, with an affectionate smile, he left the room. Percy Chester, the Earl of Vering, looked after him, with a wistful smile, and then sank into a chair before the fire, with a curious sigh of weariness and lassitude, and dropped into a very singular attitude of depression for a young, handsome man who had just come into an earldom and an immense fortune.

He sat for five minutes looking at the blazing coals, and the old habit of self-communing came out.

"What am I to do with it all?" he murmured, clasping his white hands behind his head. "What am I to do with it? And, still deeper question, what am I to do with her? She is a child now—yes, a child as yet, but children have an awkward knack of growing, and, ere I know it, she will be a woman—a woman as beautiful as Cleopatra—and as untamable. What can an unmarried, solitary man do with such a creature? Already I am hemmed in with perplexities. God knows that I miss the child as much as she misses me, who am her only friend and protector; and yet, can I have her here without setting every scandal-loving tongue in the county wagging? No! I feel that she cannot come here, child as she is, world-worn as I am; then, what am I to do with her?"

He rose, and paced up and down, his arms folded, his mind on the work at the knotty problem.

"She cannot remain at the inn; I know no one woman in the world who would take her in charge—no one to whom I could trust her. What shall I do with her?"

Then he sank into the chair again, with a sigh of irritation and indecision.

The hours passed, and the new earl fumbled still at the twisted knot. At last, with a grim smile, he rose, rang for his man, and slowly paced along the great hall, and up the staircase to his own apartments, to think for dinner, the spirit of loneliness holding him so tightly in its clutches that he looked back, longingly, to the snowy plain and frozen woods of the Wanah, for there he could enjoy the perfect, trustful smile of the Indian child he had succored and grown to care for.

Dinner had been ordered in the morning-room—the room in which Percy had eaten his luncheon on that eventful visit, three years ago; and Mr. Wornish, the butler, had done his best to dispel something of the gloom that had, of necessity, hung over the place for so many years, and reached its full depth during the last few months.

He had spread out some of the Vering plate of solid gold on the carved sideboard, and had lit all the candles in the candelabra; two great epergnes of glittering silver ran over with choice exotics, and the table was furnished with more than the usual appointments.

"It's something painful," said Mr. Wornish to Monsieur Dupres, the cook, "to see the unnatural, quiet way of the young earl—quite a young man, monsieur, and as handsome as any in the gallery; ah, and a good-hearted one, too, or I'm no judge of voices! It's quite painful, monsieur, and I think it's my duty to live things up a bit, and, if you can send up something extraordinary—something with a little genius in it, monsieur—I shall take it as kind of you."

"Ah, yes!" exclaimed the chef; "but millord does not care—does not appreciate my humble efforts. Did I not produce a masterpiece in the way of a salmi yesterday? And it came back untouched! Ma foi! but I will do my best; perhaps the other young millord will know something of the divine art!"

"Mr. Merivale is too young for that, monsieur," said the butler, shaking his head, solemnly; "but he may learn in time, and he could not learn in a better place than here, monsieur."

At this compliment, the chef declared again that he would exert his genius, and he kept his word; the young earl and his cousin sat down to a dinner worthy of the gods.

Charlie came down looking fresh and glowing after his walk—handsome and strong as a young Apollo, and quite prepared to assist Mr. Wornish in chasing away the gloom.

"I say, Percy," he exclaimed, as a clear soup was tasted, "you have inherited a good cook; this beats the Reaufort, and that is something!"

Mr. Wornish nodded to a footman, and instantly the word of praise and encouragement was conveyed to the great artist.

"Yes, he is a good cook," assented

Percy, absently, "but I am afraid his art is thrown away on me. I spoiled my palate in the backwoods, Charlie."

"It'll come back—it will come back!" pronounced the young epicure, devoutly. "Those backwoods set me longing again."

This meant "tell me the story of your adventures," and Percy complying, the chef's achievements were accompanied by a running recital of Percy's travels and doings—all mention of Kyra, however, being avoided, Mr. Wornish and his assistants listening as intently as Charlie Merivale, and the opinion of their new master going higher every few minutes, until it reached its zenith in the attitude of "hero."

Then the conversation veered round to Charlie's doings during Percy's absence, and at last, with a suddenness, the light-hearted young fellow brought it down to his walk of the afternoon.

"There is beautiful scenery in the neighborhood, Percy, and it is all stamped with your hall-mark. Everything is Vering, the Vering Arms. Ah, by the way, I have had quite an adventure—speaking of the inn reminded me of it. I took a complete round from the park, and came up the hill, you know—at a pretty good pace, too, for I pulled up at the top to take a look round, just in front of the inn. While I was looking at it, and admiring it, a young girl came and stood in one of the bay windows. I thought it was a woman at first, but at a second glance, I saw that she was quite young—about thirteen or fourteen only, although she was so tall—tall and straight, and slim as a sapling, and with a face like—like—what's the name of that dark goddess, in the first book of the Odyssey? I never saw such a face—very dark, with great coils of shining hair, and eyes like an antelope's."

"I was chained to the spot, and couldn't help staring; not that that mattered much, for she was only a child, you know, and she didn't see me, for, after a quick, eager look down the hill, she half sat down at the window, and, to my astonishment and dismay, covered her face with her hands, and leaned forward, as if she were crying—what's the matter?"

"Nothing!" said Percy, almost sternly; he had knocked over a glass.

The butler hastened, with noiseless alacrity, to replace it, and Lord Percy said: "You may leave us now, Wornish," then nodded to Charlie to continue.

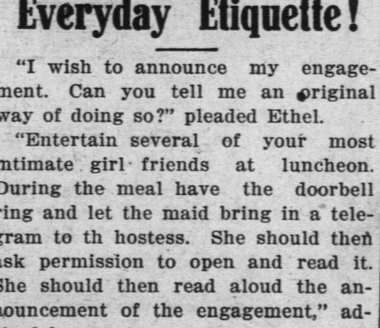

"St. Ivel! Lactic Cheese, small tins, at ELLIS."

Everyday Etiquette!

"I wish to announce my engagement. Can you tell me an original way of doing so?" pleaded Ethel.

"Entertain several of your most intimate girl friends at luncheon. During the meal have the doorbell ring and let the maid bring in a telegram to the hostess. She should then ask permission to open and read it. She should then read aloud the announcement of the engagement," advised her aunt.

before these clubs were formed, and can appreciate how much they have done, and will do, for the successive generations who will use them. Now, these men who have come from distant parts of the Island to enlist here as Volunteers or Naval Reservists no doubt feel that the conditions are somewhat strange to them, and they, I think, will fully appreciate what is being done by the ladies and the Institute in the formation of this Club House. From the St. John's point of view nothing gives such unalloyed pleasure to us as to show that we are not lacking in appreciation for those who have come forward in this great crisis, among whom are the best of Newfoundland, to battle for civilization, freedom and moral rights, and for defence of home, liberty and the maintenance of all our ideals and standards, and we are proud that Newfoundland has upheld the honour of the Empire, and we justly feel that nothing is too good for the men of both services.

"I trust that both branches of the service will regard the Club as their own, and be in full possession. I do not wish it a long career, but I wish it a successful one, that it will be fully used and fully enjoyed by both branches of the service—the Volunteers and Royal Naval Reservists."

Hon. Robert Watson, Chairman of the Institute Committee:—Sir William Horwood, Ladies and Gentlemen:—"As Chairman of the governing body of the Institute here, it is my privilege to hand over these rooms—the Grenfell Hall, the writing room and the gymnasium, to be used as a Club for our Soldiers and Sailors. The Chairman has told you of the remarkable work done by the ladies who set out to found the Club, and I know we are all glad their efforts have been successful, and the whole country will be very grateful to them for their splendid work.

To Dr. Grenfell and those who helping him it will be assurance of gratitude to know that the Institute will continue to be a home, for after all a club is a home, for the men of this Colony who have responded to the call of King and Country, and who are now in training to join their brothers on the other side. Like yourself, Mr. Chairman, I think it fortunate that this Institute, the patron of which is His Majesty the King, should contain the club rooms of the men of this ancient Colony who are forming part of His Majesty's forces by sea and land.

I would suggest, Sir, to Commander MacDermott and Major Montgomerie, that they select a provisional committee of six men, three from the Royal Naval Reserve and three from the Newfoundland Regiment, to take over the rooms and assume charge until the Club is properly organized and its Committee selected.

Sir William, I have much pleasure on behalf of the Committee in handing over the rooms, and my colleagues and I, Sir, wish the Club every success; and I can assure the Committee that anything the Institute Committee can do to assist in this work will be gladly done."

Miss Ethel Dickenson, on Behalf of the Ladies' Committee:—Sir William, Ladies and Gentlemen,—I do not know why I have been selected to act as the representative of the Ladies' Committee, except as a penalty for being absent from the last meeting, but I am sure I voice the feelings of the Committee when I say that whatever we have done has been nothing but a pleasure. We can do little enough for our brave soldiers and sailors who are fighting our battles for us and giving us our liberty. We also feel that the ladies should not take all the credit; we have had great help from Mr. Sheard and Mr. Jones, and the management of the Institute, and we should like to thank them, and also those who have assisted us with their subscriptions, without which we could have done nothing. I have great pleasure in handing over the furnishing and equipment of the room to the Soldiers and Sailors, and I hope they will enjoy to the fullest extent the rooms now placed at their disposal."

Commander MacDermott:—Sir William, Ladies and Gentlemen,—Before taking over the Club Rooms with Major Montgomerie, I should like, on behalf of the men of the Royal Naval Reserve to express our thanks to the ladies whose devoted work has made it possible to establish this Club. I should like to thank Mr. Sheard and Mr. Jones for their valuable help and co-operation, without which we should not have been able to have the Club so soon."

Major Montgomerie:—"Sir William, Ladies and Gentlemen,—I think all that is necessary is for me to re-echo Capt. MacDermott's words.

"I have been asked by my officers to apologize, or rather explain their absence. There are only a few officers (and I was selected as the one with least to do to come) and there is a large body of men to do for and to train, and it was impossible for them to come here to-day.

"I wish to thank the ladies who have taken this matter in hand, and I congratulate them upon the way in which they have carried it out for the benefit of the men of the Royal Navy and Nfld. Regiment. Some incidents have been stated in the press which would lead one to think the volunteers were a very rough crowd of men, and I wish to say that with the small body of officers we have it would be practically impossible to handle the work here were it not for the splendid control the men show and the way they look after themselves. I think I am correct, in saying that there are none so easy to handle as the men here. They will take in hand the affairs of the Club in a manner which will win the approval of all."

Captain MacDermott then nominated Petty Officer Ware, Petty Officer Macklin and Leading Seaman Murray to act on the "Provisional Committee" as the representatives of the Royal Naval Reserve.

Major Montgomerie called on Sgt. Major Moore to nominate three to represent the Nfld. Regiment, viz., Sgt. McHenry, Lance Corporal Balsam and Lance Corporal Tessier.

Hon. J. R. Bennett, Acting Premier of Newfoundland:—Sir William, Ladies and Gentlemen:—"It is my pleasant duty in the absence of the Premier, to propose a vote of thanks to the Ladies' Committee for the good work displayed in forming this Club. A great many people at the time it was proposed raised doubts as to the practicability of forming a Club in sufficient time to be of use to the men, but as usual when the ladies of St. John's take anything in hand, they let nothing stand in their way. I think this is demonstrated in a very remarkable way this afternoon. I am sure we all appreciate and admire those who have come forward to fight the battles of the Empire, and we all send them our best wishes, blessing, and prayers for their safety, but I think this great conflict in which we are engaged would be a very, very sorry one indeed without the great assistance displayed by the women of the Empire. Women are working in all parts of the Empire—on the battlefield, in the hospitals, and I am glad to say we have women from Newfoundland, as well as men, doing their part in this great battle for home and ideals. I think, Mr. Chairman, the ladies of this sub-committee of the Women's Patriotic Association of Newfoundland, who have been instrumental in forming and bringing to a successful conclusion this Club, have earned the gratitude of the whole country. It is a pleasure to propose a vote of thanks, not only from this audience, but from the people of Newfoundland to the ladies who are looking after the welfare of those men who have come forward so nobly to do battle for their King and Country. It must be a source of comfort to the mothers sitting in their homes far away to know that the ladies of St. John's are taking such an interest in the volunteers and Naval Reservists who come here, and to know there is a safeguard against temptations. I hope they will come in such numbers as will gladden the hearts of the ladies who have founded the Club. I cannot close without paying a tribute to Dr. Grenfell, who founded this Institution and placed it here. Since it has sprung up it has always stepped into a breach which no other outside place could fill, and this is one more instance of its usefulness.

"I wish therefore, to propose a vote of thanks to the Ladies' Committee, not from the audience, but on behalf of the people of Newfoundland."

W. Baine Grieve, Esq.:—"I need say very little in seconding this vote of thanks. Those who have undertaken this Club have done a great deal for the soldiers and sailors who are protecting us. It evidences to them that our interest is not confined to sending them abroad and giving them a trifling subscription to this or that object. I would just like to thank Captain MacDermott and Major Montgomerie for the very excellent speeches they have just made on behalf of the two branches of the service.

I have very great pleasure in seconding the vote of thanks which was proposed by the Colonial Secretary and Acting Premier."

The vote of thanks to the Ladies' Committee for the great work done in establishing the Club was carried with acclamation.

W. G. Gosling, Esq., Mayor of St. John's:—"It falls to me to ask you to pass a vote of thanks to Sir William Horwood, the Chairman, for the very excellent manner in which he presided at the meeting. I am sure we all appreciate the work done by the ladies, and wish the future of these really charming club rooms every success. It will be enjoyed very much by our men who are volunteering to do an active service for the defence of their country.

"I have very great pleasure in proposing a vote of thanks to Sir William Horwood."

Seconded by Mr. R. B. J. Job and carried.

Sir William Horwood expressed appreciation of the vote of thanks, and said:—"We have now a Club, to found which would have cost thousands of dollars if this Institution had not been placed at the disposal of the men. We appreciate the very great endeavours of the management of the Institute, of which we must feel justly proud."

SAILORS' AND SOLDIERS' CLUB.

Yesterday afternoon this Club was opened, and the rooms handed over to representatives of the Services, in a pleasing ceremony, of which we give a full account elsewhere. We are asked to state that the furniture and fixtures of the rooms have been made locally by the following firms: The Pope Furniture Company, 129 arm chairs and stools; Callahan and Glass, reading table, round tables, screens and refreshment counter; Howlett and Armstrong, tables for games, writing-desks and fixtures. The whole of this work has been carried out in mission style, and the excellence of the workmanship reflects much credit upon the firms mentioned. We do not need to be told that the Club is the result of the Ladies' enterprise: the appearance of the rooms is undeniable evidence of feminine taste. The furniture, admirably chosen for its purpose, is so arranged that every available inch of space is utilized without any suggestion of overcrowding. A large double reading and writing table runs down the middle of the room, while round tables and comfortable chairs are placed around the sides. At the western end the refreshment bar is screened off from the rest of the room. The prevailing color is dark green, and the whole effect is a very pleasant one which must be seen to be appreciated. Everything that could be foreseen for their comfort and convenience of the men has been provided, and in a most tasteful manner. We compliment the Ladies' Committee, and congratulate the men on their new acquisition.

The Dust Nuisance.

This subject recurs as a source of discussion regularly each year with the advent of summer and dry weather. Yesterday we published a timely letter which made particular reference to the Waterford Bridge Road, the direct thoroughfare from the city to Bowring Park. Having ourselves frequently traversed it of late, we can vouch for the truth of "Anti-Dusts" remarks. It is not often necessary to draw attention to the state of our country roads in this respect, that of the city streets providing in any case quite sufficient matter for comment, but this road is an exception. It leads to our principal and most valued recreation ground; it is much frequented on holidays and Sundays; and, most of all, it is easily the worst offender we have seen. We do not make these observations in a spirit of captious criticism, for we appreciate the difficulties of dealing adequately with the problem. Moreover, we know that in this instance the nature of the road itself is largely to blame. Its structure is very faulty. In many cases it slopes with the declivity along which it runs, and for a great part of its length it stands between deep ditches falling away on either side. Roads of this sort are invariably muddy. The traffic over them is compelled to follow a narrow track which quickly becomes worn and full of ruts; or, in the autumn gives abundant, we might say liquid, evidence. So that this particular thoroughfare will need structural alteration before it can be properly freed of dust. But there are many other roads, well built, where the nuisance is almost as much in evidence. We do not presume to be an authority on the question but of this we are certain—water does not lay dust. The most it does is to convert it temporarily into surface mud. Oil does lay dust, and lays it very effectively. We are sorry that the introduction of oil-carts some time ago was not followed up by the installation of a regular, universal system. Objections on the ground of expense should not be entertained. In the first place, it may be doubted if this would be really more expensive than the present watering system, which is quite inadequate. One application of oil should suffice for half the summer, or in some places for the whole of it. In the second place, the health of the city is gravely imperilled, to safeguard which no expense should be spared. Besides preventing germs from flying around broadcast, the oil, we believe, is an admirable disinfectant. While we give the fullest credit to the Commission for their work in removing one of the primary causes of disease, by thoroughly cleaning many of our worst streets, we recommend this matter to the new Council as one of the first and most pressing to demand their notice and action.

We learn that the offering taken up at the Dedicator Services of the Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Church on Sunday amounted to the splendid sum of ten thousand four hundred dollars. So generous a response from the congregation must be very gratifying indeed to the Church officials. Assured of such support as this, they will feel less the weight of the heavy debt that must necessarily be borne for some years.

The official definition of the qualifications necessary to entitle citizens to vote next week is given elsewhere; it has been prepared by the Attorney General. It will be seen that the franchise is a very wide one, permitting the casting of a large vote. Subject to the rules of residence and sex, anyone who has occupied a dwelling-house for a year prior to the election, or who has paid any recognized municipal tax, will be entitled to vote. This should remove any doubt on the subject. We understand that many names were omitted from the Voters' List which should be included in it. If this is so, the owners should themselves see that the omission is repaired. They may do this on Polling Day, by having themselves registered on the Supplemental Lists. It is not merely the privilege, but the duty of every man who is qualified to cast his vote on Thursday week.

The Women of Toronto

Pledge Their Utmost to Win War. Toronto, June 12.—Four thousand women, representing every woman's organization in Toronto, gathered to-night at a mass meeting in Massey Hall to discuss woman's share and duties in the great war. Lieut.-Col. G. H. Williams, chief recruiting officer, presided. Three resolutions were unanimously passed. By the first the women present pledged themselves to do their utmost, by influence and personal service, to set free every man eligible for enlistment. The second resolution cited that confusion and discouragement had resulted from the present methods of recruiting, which entailed a waste of time and money, and the withdrawal of men needed in industries, causing dislocation, and called on the federal government to register all men of military age, and to give badges to all required in home industries, including women, and also to the physically unfit and to thoroughly organize resources of the country. The third resolution expressed the gratitude of the women of Canada to the soldiers at the front, a copy to be sent to General Sir Julian Byng, commanding the Canadian forces.

St. John's Municipal Election.

QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS.

A voter must be a male British subject of the age of 21 years and upwards.

He must have resided for one year next preceding the election within the limits of the town of St. John's as defined in the St. John's Municipal Act, 1902.

Being qualified as above, he may vote if he

- (1) Has occupied a dwelling house within the above limit for the above period; or if he
- (2) Has been liable to and actually paid rates or assessments to the St. John's Municipal Council as (a) Ground landlord, or (b) Owner, lessee or occupier of any lands, tenements, buildings or any interest therein, or
- (c) Any other taxes under the St. John's Municipal Act, 1902, or any former Act relating to the Municipal affairs of St. John's.

The mere fact of the purchase of Coal upon which a revenue has been paid to the Customs does not in itself qualify the purchaser to vote.

Good Baseball To-Morrow.

THE RED LIONS.

Sadly though honorably crippled through eczema but none the less defiant, Mgr. Hiltz will lead forth his Red Lions to-morrow afternoon in battle array against the Wanderers. Crawford, Payne and Munn of his infield are "Somewhere in France" playing the greatest game of all, and owing to the scarcity of material it was difficult to see how they could be replaced, but the scouts got busy and to-morrow they will have a formidable lineup. As "Bud" Baird is not playing this season, Hiltz himself will likely occupy first, with Cooney on the mound. The Lions will present a new catcher in the person of Mike Power, who comes well recommended and promises to star. Jimmy Buckingham will be the custodian of the keystone with Maher—another newcomer—at short. "Nuts" Ellis, the clever ex-Shamrock man, will guard third. The sunfielders have not yet been selected, but it is likely will be composed of Jenkins, Quick and Rolfs, whose abilities are well known to the fans and who have earned their laurels ere this.

THE WANDERERS.

The champion lineup of the Wanderers remains intact from last year, so that the Allen silverware looks good to them, especially in view of the fact that one more Pennant and it is theirs for keeps. Their battery will likely be Ford and King, with Brown as assistant. Hartnett, Macleah, McLeod and Britt will complete the infield, with Hocken, McCriddle and Trappell chasing the ones that get through.

THE GAME

will start at 3 p.m., with Umpire-in-Chief Chesman and Major Montgomery in control. The meet between these two teams has always meant an exciting game and to-morrow's contest will prove to be no exception.

Musketry Notes.

On Monday, the 19th inst., the volunteers were engaged in practice under the General Musketry Course, part of one, Nos. 1, 2 and 3. At 100 yards, grouping practice, the following men made possibles, placing five shots each within a four inch circle: Corpl. H. Romani, Ptes. A. Moore, A. J. Larner, M. Gallant, H. T. Granter, J. B. Grant, J. J. Kelly, J. Woodman. This is a very good showing, as the men used for the first time the new Short Lee-Enfield Rifle, Mark IV, and were shooting with fixed bayonets under quite new conditions. Pte. H. T. Granter placed all of his five shots within a two inch circle at 100 yards. The other men placed their shots within an 8 inch circle. At application practice, 200 yards, 2nd class target, some good scores were also made, the possible being twenty points. Pte. A. Moore made 18 points and Pte. R. Johnson 18. This practice was also carried out with fixed bayonets. The good results obtained under strange conditions speak well for the training the men have received from our local instructors, and reflect much credit on Sergt. Byrne, who has been working hard to get the new system of training in shape.

Mrs. Gordon Lester will serve Teas and Refreshments at her residence, Mount Pearl, Holidays, Half Holidays and Sundays. Ten minutes' walk from Bowring Park; 3 minutes' walk from Mount Pearl Station.—11

Workman Fell Into Steamer's Hold.

At 11 o'clock last night Patrick Carroll, aged 59, a workman engaged on the s.s. Durley Chine, which is discharging general cargo at the Furness Withy pier, accidentally fell into the aft hold of that ship. He was standing on the gangway and in reaching for a sling of sacks that was hoisted out of the hold, lost his balance and fell through the open hatchway, landing on barrels and sacks about 18 feet below. As a result a bone near the ankle was fractured and the wonder is that he escaped so well. He was attended by Dr. Cowperthwaite and later conveyed to the General Hospital in the ambulance for treatment.

Sentenced to 9 Months Imprisonment.

A seaman named Cunningham, who is of unusual physique and who is notorious for assaulting the police, ran amuck at the home of his aunt last night. He was arrested under warrant by Detective Tobin and this morning was made answer to the following charges before Judge Hutchings: (1) for drunk and disorderly conduct, (2) for assaulting Mary Randall and (3) for maliciously destroying 2 mirrors, a stove, a picture, and several other articles, valued at $100. He was convicted on each charge and fined $25 or 2 months; it was also ordered that at the expiration of the six months' term, he give heavy bonds for his future good behaviour, or go to jail for an additional three months, an aggregate sentence of nine months' imprisonment in H. M. Penitentiary.

OFFICIAL.
(Received June 19th, 1916.)
The Governor, Newfoundland:
The King visiting the Grand Fleet congratulated them on the result of the North Sea battle, which has added another page to the glorious traditions of the British Navy.
Verdun.—Further enemy attacks. Situation virtually unchanged. French recaptured trench on Mort Homme.
On our front Canadians recovered lost position at Zillebeke, and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.
Russian offensive continues. Czernowitz has been occupied; prisoners exceed one hundred and seventy thousand.
Russian flotilla attacked the enemy convoy in the Baltic, sinking an auxiliary cruiser, two torpedo boats and several merchant vessels.
Italians report successes against Austrians.
Smuts' forces have occupied Wilhelmstadt. Successful operations continue.

BONAR LAW.
ITALIANS SUCCESSFUL.

ROME, To-Day.
Heavy attacks are being delivered by the Austrians near Magen Bosohl and Boscon in the Trentino, the War Office announced to-day. All assaults were repelled. That the Italian line remained unshaken, and progress for the Italians northeast of Asiago, north of the Franz Valley, is claimed.

AUSTRIANS WITHDRAW TROOPS.
LONDON, To-Day.
Among the prisoners captured in Galicia were many who had recently been fighting on the Italian front, says a Reuter's despatch. They were weary and ragged.

MEXICAN WAR IMMINENT.
WASHINGTON, To-Day.
Upon General Carranza's reception of the stern refusal to heed demands for the recall of American troops from Mexico hinges the question of a Mexican war is the opinion of President Wilson's close advisor. They were prepared to-night for the possibility of open hostilities after the note, which will be sent forward to-morrow, reaches Carranza's hands. While diplomatic steps were in progress to-day the nation was stirred throughout its width and breadth with the movement. The National Guardsmen were mobilizing to guard the border. At least one hundred thousand, possibly a far larger number, were preparing for active service under President Wilson's call. For the present their mission will be to hurry on to the defence, but should war come they will be ready for marching. Orders for new forces have gone out to-night. They will be assigned to border duty until they are mustered into the Federal service. Even when mobilization is completed, only such units will be ordered south as General Funston desires to fill the gaps in his 1800 mile ground line, but will remain at rest on their arms and stay in the military camps for the present awaiting the turn of events. Official reports from many quarters show the flame of popular feeling against the States is being kindled throughout Mexico. This is apparently being done with the sanction of General Carranza, for many of the acts are those of his authorized military or civil agents. From Juarez to the west coast of Mexico posters have appeared calling the people to arms, asserting the United States are preparing to hurl armies into Mexico. Neither the State Dept. officials nor members of the diplomatic corps here have been able to satisfy themselves of Carranza's motives. There are some who believe he should ride into popularity and diplomatic triumphs over his powerful northern neighbours upon a war wave, which might establish his tottering government. Once war was on, the certain defeat of his armies is foreshadowed. These observers say that Carranza might sue for peace, trusting to the magnanimity of the Washington Government to leave him in power.

ITALIAN STEAMER SUNK.
LONDON, To-day.

OUR PREMIER IN LONDON.
LONDON, To-day.
Premier Morris, Newfoundland, arrived in London to-night. He deferred making a definite statement, but it is gathered he will take up several matters of political and financial interest regarding the Colony. Lady Morris was already staying in London.

A GERMAN SUNK.
LONDON, To-day.
The German steamer Ems, from Christiania for Quebec, was torpedoed this morning off the coast of North Falkenberg, Sweden, supposedly by a British submarine, says a Reuter's despatch from Stockholm to-day. The crew were saved. The German steamer Ems was a vessel of 699 tons gross, built in 1907 and owned in Hamburg.

U. S. STEAMER MINED.
LONDON, To-day.
The American steamer Seaconnet, of Philadelphia, bound from Archangel for London with timber, struck a mine on Sunday and went ashore on the Scroby Sands. She has since become a total wreck; the crew were landed at Yarmouth. The Seaconnet was 2,294 tons gross, 247 feet long, and built in 1911.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN HOLLAND.
AMSTERDAM, To-day.
Another demonstration against the high prices of food stuff was held here to-day. A large procession, composed mainly of women, paraded the streets. The Telegraph announces that the police have prohibited all street demonstrations after to-day.

SAMALO DECLARED WAR ON THE UNITED STATES.

SAN DIAGA, To-day.
The Governor of the State of Simalo has declared war on the United States, according to a radiogram to-day from Commander Kavanagh of the gunboat Annapolis now at Mazatlan. No further details of the alleged declaration of hostilities have been given. The message was directed to Admiral Winston of the Pacific Coast fleet here.

LONDON BUDGET.
LONDON, To-day.
Having captured Czernowitz, the Capital of Bukovina, the Russians are well on their way from that city, and from various points along the River Pruth are driving Austrians before them towards the Sereth River and the Carpathian Mountain passes. Numerous additional prisoners have been captured by the Russians in their drive, and more guns, machine guns, ammunition and food stuffs have fallen into their hands. Heavy fighting is still in progress in North Galicia and Volynia, with the Russians generally on the offensive but with the Austro-Hungarians and Germans battling on various sectors. South-east of Trent, numerous Austrian attacks have been repulsed.

The Petrograd official states: On the front of General Brussloff's armies, the enemy tried by counter attacks to arrest our advance towards Lemberg. In the region of the village of Lokatchi, about four miles south of the main road from Latsk to Valdimer Volynski, the Austrians in mass formation attacked our units and breaking through one sector of the fighting front, captured three guns belonging to a battery which resisted bravely to the last cartridge. On receiving reinforcements we overthrew the enemy, recapturing one gun taking 300 prisoners and two machine guns. In the region of Korynitsky, southeast of Svineki and southwest of Lokatchi one of our regiments launched counter attacks and put the enemy to flight. Meanwhile a section of our light battery, posted in a wood in advance, cannonaded the fugitives point blank. We took in this action 3 officers, 100 soldiers and 4 machine guns. East of Borchoff we seized after desperate resistance, a wood near the village of Bojeff, taking one thousand prisoners and four machine guns. During attacks in the region of the southern edge of Radzivloff, the enemy received our troops with jets of liquid fire. We took in this region yesterday 1,800 prisoners. Near the village of Storozyreas we took two officers and 85 men. The prisoners made in the course of the day amounted to 3,000. At Zoutchka, a station north of Czernowitz, we captured depot of engineering material. On the front in France only one infantry action took place this morning. This was between Avre and the Oise, where the Germans attempted to approach the French lines but were repulsed with hand grenades. Only bombardments, violent in the region northwest of Verdun and against the British positions near Neuville St. Vaast but intermittent elsewhere, have taken place along the line in France and Belgium. Fighting between the Austrians and Italians is in progress on the Setti Comuni plateau west of the Asiago front where artillery duels continue.

BLACK SEA BATTLE.
LONDON, To-day.
Four units of the Turkish fleet attacked a Russian warship in the Black Sea, off Sulina Rumania, while the Russian ship was conveying lighters to Odessa, says the Times Bucharest correspondent. A lively battle followed, but the combatants eventually parted without decisive results being reached.

1.45 P.M.
FRENCH REPULSE GERMANS.
PARIS, To-Day.
Three German attacks made last night on French positions northwest of Hill No. 321 were repulsed by the fire of French machine guns. The Germans are heavily bombarding the French positions in the neighbourhood of Vaux, Chaptre and Chattancourt.

PARLIAMENT WILL BE BUSY.
LONDON, To-Day.
Matters of great importance await the consideration of Parliament which reassembles to-day. Since recess was taken three weeks ago there have been three happenings of great moment, namely, the naval battle off Jutland, the Allies economic conference at Paris and the death of Kitchener, which necessitates the appointment of a new War Minister. Legislators will want much information concerning these matters, and in addition the attitude of the Allies toward Greece and the Irish problem provide questions for deep consideration. Much attention will also be given to finance, as a new budget is promised for next month and another vote of credit is scheduled for early in August. There remain besides the problem of the extension of the life of Parliament. It is reported that there is a division among members of the Cabinet over the proposals for the settlement of the Irish question. Irish negotiations have been stopped for the moment owing to this difference of opinion.

2.15 P.M.
FRENCH LOSSES AT VERDUN.
NEW YORK, To-Day.
A despatch to the Sun from Geneva says the French losses around Verdun in killed and wounded amount to approximately 165,000 to date. These losses have occurred on a front not more than thirteen miles in length.

Fire at Factory.
At 7.15 this morning an employee of the Empire Woodworking Company ran to the East End Fire Hall and reported that there was a fire at the factory. The fire company were promptly on the scene and found a slight blaze in the boiler room, caused by the heat from the boiler igniting the wooden roof. A stream of water quenched the fire in five minutes. The damage done was insignificant.

Amusements.
GRAND PICTURES AT THE NICKEL.
The opening show at the Nickel Theatre this week was attended by large audiences yesterday afternoon, and last evening and patrons were more than pleased with the program which was an excellent one. The principal film was of course the attractive serial "The strange case of Harry Fagot" which is now as popular as the other five serials given at the Nickel during the last year. The second chapter was shown. "A Leap for Life" is a most spectacular picture of western life which found favor with all. Mr. Stanley's singing was also a feature of the entertainment. The show will be repeated this evening.

Collecting.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

An antique dealer who, among his other activities, buys and sells old books, told me that he had standing orders from collectors all over this country and from many on the other side of the water, for certain books. The prices these collectors were willing to pay ran as high as a thousand dollars a volume. "And are they very beautiful books?" I asked. "Beautiful? No!" he answered. "Some of them are the most hideous things you ever saw. They're rare. That's all." What does that mean, boiled down? It means that these people are willing to pay these big sums for the privilege of owning something other people can't get. No, They Didn't Want to Use Them. At the summer resort where I spent part of last summer, on one of the holidays the summer colony held an athletic meet. Among the events was a round of target shooting. The children of the colony were present, of course, and conceived a mania for collecting the various kinds of empty shells. What did they do with them? Nothing. They simply wanted to get possession of them. They made a nuisance of themselves hanging about the marksmen. They gave us heart disease by getting into the danger zone in their excitement. They showed their business instinct by contracting for specially rare and hence specially precious sizes of shells in advance. They compared and swapped treasures, they boasted and gloriated and even fought over their possessions. And yet, they really had no use whatever for the shells, for, if my small nephew is any sign to judge by, they threw them all away the next day. Even as you and I. And yet—what a lot of momentary fun they got out of it all. Again, even as you and I. Is it More Foolish To Collect Or Not To Collect? Is it foolish to be a collector, or is it more foolish not to, when one can get so much pleasure out of building up one's collection and showing it off to other collectors? I do not quite know how to answer myself. There are collections and collections. In some cases, where there is no utility or beauty in the thing collected, the only motive is to have things others can't have. In other cases that motive is present, but it is not the only motive. In any case, we should keep the collection where it belongs—in the perspective, as one of the smaller pleasures of life, and be careful that we do not ever fall to subordinate it to the larger and more vital interests and concerns and happiness. With My Letter Friends. Is it proper to accept the attentions of young men while visiting in another city with friends? Answer.—If the young men are introduced to the girl by friends whom her parents are willing to have her visit, why shouldn't she accept their attentions? In individual cases, there might of course be objections that I do not know of. Stafford's Liniment is sold in over 500 stores. Ask for Stafford's.—may3,tf

Milk is such a splendid thing for children, whether old or young, that it is a great pity when they tire of it. Quite often it can be disguised so that the child does not rebel. Sometimes egg poached in milk, served on toast softened with milk and with a spoonful of thickened milk poured over it, will often be eaten with eagerness by a child who refuses milk as a beverage. The same is true of cream soups, which, in their simplest nursery forms, are merely heated milk with the addition of vegetable purée. Creamed chicken and creamed flaked fish are both approved for the child's dinner and in vegetables wherever butter would be used by adults substitute cream or milk. Weak cocoa made entirely of milk and with sufficient cocoa for mild flavoring and coloring, is one of the simplest and most acceptable ways of disguising milk. Another good way is to cook the cereal in milk instead of water, or, if preferred, the cereal can be partly cooked in water first and the milk added afterward. If cooked entirely in milk a longer time must be allowed, as cereals do not absorb the moisture from milk as rapidly as from clear water.

He was supported by Dr. Campbell, Mr. J. M. Devine, F. Goff and J. Cull, each of whom gave a short address on municipal matters affecting the best interests of the city. Several committees were formed who pledged themselves to get in some effective work prior to the 29th in the interest of Mr. Kelly.

Opening of Football Season.

Terra Novas and B.I.S. Play to a Draw
All things considered, a really good "first evening" exhibition was served out to a large concourse of onlookers at St. George's Field last evening, by the Terra Novas and B.I.S. The game was hard fought and about evenly contested throughout, and much enthusiasm was manifested by the fans. The result at the close was a draw, each team having one goal to its credit. Though the name is familiar, the Terra Novas are a new aggregation and on making their debut last evening the "youngsters" were cordially received by the fans, as were also their opposing "has-beens." Punctually at 7 o'clock Mr. Foster, of the St. Andrew's team, ushered the teams into the arena. The B.I.S. at first appeared to be short-handed, but after a few minutes delay managed to scrape up a couple of subs. The teams then lined up in this order:
Terra Novas—Walsh, goal; L. Kavanagh, J. Kavanagh, backs; W. Duggan, T. Jackman, E. Kavanagh, halves; Evans, Simms, Jackman, Duffy and Gaul, forwards.
B.I.S.—H. Phelan, goal; T. Duggan, Walsh, backs; Brown, O'Reilly and Brian, halves; McGrath, Phelan, Morgan, Smith and Devine, forwards.
After winning the toss the Terra Novas detented the western goal and began hostilities first. Play was confined to the eastern portion of the field and the Irish back division was kept busy keeping the ball clear of the danger zone in which they succeeded, though the Terra Novas ferreted out several opportunities. Ten minutes from the beginning had elapsed, when Phelan, Jr., a brilliant player, captured the ball and traveling up field at cyclonic speed, passed all opponents and scored the opening goal for the season.
B. I. S. I.
On resuming, the Terra Novas worked with all the energy possible to equalize, but in vain. R. Jackman, the Terra Novas centre forward, met with an accident during a scrimmage and was compelled to "dry dock" for "permanent" repairs. He was replaced by Bell, the long distance runner, who proved a great help to his team in the forward line. No further scoring was done in the first half.
The next period was even more hard fought than the last, and some splendid, though ineffectual runs, were made by both teams. After about 15 minutes of play, Simms, by a well directed shot, recorded the equalizing goal for his side.
Terra Novas, 1.
Both teams worked with renewed vim and determination to score. Play was fast and furious, sprinkled with a deal of combination. Just before the close, Young Phelan again controlled the ball and got away, but got mixed up in the mouth of the Terra Novas goal and lost, and the game ended in a draw.
Practice is badly needed by many of the players.
The B.I.S. goal keeper saved his team from defeat.
The Duggan brothers "dug in" whenever occasion required.
The Kavanaghs and Phelans showed up well.
We wish to draw the attention of the municipal authorities and of the League to the disgraceful sanitary conditions at St. George's Field.

The New Charter.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The announcement made by the members of the Board already published states shortly their attitude in respect to the Charter.
The question has been asked, "If I vote for the members of the Board will I be endorsing the Charter?" The answer is "No." And any statement made to the contrary is only intended to deceive the electorate.
The members of the Board themselves are not in entire accordance in respect to all the sections of the Charter.

There are several which I am going to try to get altered, and other members have similar designs on other sections.
The Board was commissioned to prepare a Charter, and has submitted to the Legislature the finding of the majority in the shape of a Bill, and also several minority reports.
In the ordinary course of events the Legislature, through a Committee, or by the usual procedure, would debate the matter of each section, and it is to be presumed that the decision would represent the will of the majority.

The Government, however, decided to do more than this in order that a correct conclusion should be arrived at, and accordingly submitted it to a Committee of Citizens for their criticism.
It must be recognized that it is impossible for all to be of one mind on every section. For instance:
(1) Owners of houses will naturally object to being made responsible for all the taxes.
(2) Ground landlords, whether resident or absentee, will not approve of the clauses dealing with Leases-holds.
(3) Many people will think that the powers given to the Council to remedy the housing problem are altogether too large.
(4) The people who do not want to pay any taxes will think the provisions for collecting taxes too severe. Those who always pay regularly will think them not strict enough. It is therefore evident that you cannot please everybody.

The members of the Board have endeavoured to settle all these knotty points by one and the same method. They have asked, "What is right and just?" "What is best for the City as a whole?" and have formed their decision upon the reply, so far as they could determine it.
I am of opinion that the Citizens' Committee and the Legislature will arrive very nearly at the same conclusions as the Board has done in regard to the Charter. In any case it is in their hands, and voting for or against the Board will have no effect upon the issue.

The Board has had no opportunity yet to explain the Charter, and I am confident that when it is understood it will be approved. I have noticed that nearly all the criticisms that have been levelled at it are from individual and selfish view points, while the Charter was designed for the City as a whole, and it is as a whole we must learn to regard the City, if it is to be made a pleasant place to live in and one that we can be proud of.

Yours truly,
W. G. GOSLING.

Loading on Sunday.

Following the increase of wages on Bell Island a few days ago, strenuous efforts have been made in loading iron ore boats. The demand for the raw material, at the smelting works in Cape Breton, is so great, that boats reaching the iron island on Sunday are immediately hauled into the chutes and loaded within a few hours. Already several shipments have left the island. The ore, which is of a high standard, is used in manufacturing war material for the British and French Governments.

TO THE CITY RATEPAYERS!

GENTLEMEN:—
You hardly need to be reminded that six years ago you honored me with a seat at the City Council. At the expiration of that term I was appointed by the Government as one of the members of the Commission holding office temporarily pending arrangements for holding a new election. Having had during all that time exceptional opportunities for gaining more knowledge in civic affairs, I now feel that my experience warrants me in asking you for a renewal of that confidence at the forthcoming election. I intend to again put myself in nomination, and should I once more have the honour of representing you, my very best efforts will be in the future, as in the past, devoted to conserving the interests of the taxpayers of the City, and to co-operating to the best of my ability with the gentleman, whoever he may be, whom you may select to fill the Mayoralty Chair.
Respectfully yours,
J. J. MULLALLY.

Notice.

Complying with widely expressed public opinion as voiced by the Press and individual citizens, We, the undersigned members of the Municipal Board, deem it our duty to offer our services to the City for the next two years.

While making this announcement as a body, we wish it to be clearly understood that we are standing as individuals, and desire to express our readiness as individuals to work with any Mayor or with any other Councilors that the Citizens may see fit to elect.

In respect to the Charter which has been submitted to the Legislature, we beg to state that while firmly of opinion that its adoption will enable the City to be more effectively governed than at present, we have always recognized that some of its provisions are debatable. We have supposed that the Legislature and the Citizens would carefully consider such sections and would arrive at some decision in respect to them which would be generally satisfactory.

We can point with some satisfaction, if not with pride, to the improvements which have been made during our short term of office, and it is in the hope that we may be able to complete and perfect the work begun, and to institute further improvements, that we now signify our willingness to serve the City for another term of two years.

To the Ratepayers of St. John's.

At the request of a large number of my friends, both East and West, I have decided to place myself in Nomination at the forthcoming Municipal Election. Owing to the limited time between now and Polling Day, and the possibility of not being able to call on every elector personally, I would kindly ask them to accept this card as a personal canvass. I promise, if elected, to use all my energies to see that the civic taxes are spent judiciously.

AUSTRIAN FORCES RETIRING.
LONDON, June 19.—A portion of the Austrian forces from Czernowitz has retired westward toward Kolomea and Katy, the remainder, southward in the direction of Dornaustra, telegraphs Reuter's Petrograd correspondent. General Peñanzer's army is now isolated, it adds, and must depend upon its own resources.

FIGHTING IN THE AIR.
LONDON, June 19.—A British official issued to-night reads: During last night and to-day the German infantry carried out no enterprises along the front. Except for some heavy shelling of our trenches southeast of Neuville and St. Vaast, the enemy artillery was fairly quiet. Arras was shelled last night.

and during the day there has been some shelling about Becourt, Thiépal and Hüllsch. East of Souchez there have been trench mortar actions. To-day our artillery dispersed an enemy working party west of Hüllsch. In this region the enemy blew a small mine, which destroyed one of his posts, but did us no damage. The chief point of interest to record is the aerial report. Yesterday there was a marked increase of the work of hostile air craft. In all there were 27 combats, in which the enemy suffered the following losses: One hostile aeroplane was brought down in our lines near Doullens, and the occupants made prisoners; two of our fighting aeroplanes encountered two Fokkers in the vicinity of Lens, when one machine was driven down and damaged, and the other shot down, which crashed to the earth from a height of four thousand feet. Two more German machines were driven down in a damaged condition, while another was brought down near Viengles. Hostile reconnaissances which crossed our lines were attacked and dispersed by our aeroplanes. One of our pilots reported and saw sink two hostile machines, hit by anti-aircraft fire. As a result of the air combats two of our machines were brought down in the enemy's lines.

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED AS KILLED.

LONDON, June 19.—It was announced officially to-day that Brigadier-General the Earl of Longford, who was previously reported wounded and missing, has been killed. The Earl of Longford was reported last year as being wounded while fighting on the Gallipoli Peninsula. He was the fifth Earl of Longford, and was born in 1864.

ALFONSO ASKED TO TAKE ACTION

MADRID, June 19.—The Spanish Press Association to-day received a cable, sent on behalf of the Spanish Colony in Mexico City, urging King Alfonso to take action to prevent war between the United States and Mexico. The selection of the King to arbitrate the difference between the two countries is suggested, and the Press Association is requested to give its support to this project.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS, June 19.—South of the Somme a surprise attack by the enemy in Libons region completely failed. On the left bank of the Meuse the enemy violently bombarded the southern slope of Mont Homme and Chantancourt region. Everywhere our artillery efficaciously answered the enemy's by cross-fires, and counter-preparations were effected. On the right bank a German attack launched against our positions north of Hill 321, was completely repulsed by our fires. Last night two of our squadrons successfully bombarded the barracks and railway station at Vouziers, where the movements of trains were reported. One of them threw 36 projectiles of heavy calibre, the other 25.

COURT MARTIALS CANCELLED.

DUBLIN, June 19.—The announcement was made to-day that no further court martial will be held here. Persons arrested during the recent rebellion, whose cases have already not been disposed of, will be dealt with under the Defence of the Realm Act, and interned for the duration of the war, if found guilty.

MORE PRISONERS TAKEN.

PETROGRAD, June 19.—The Russians took 3,000 prisoners yesterday in the vicinity of Czernowitz the war office announced to-day.

WHISKERS.

I often cry, "Oh goodness gracious! My whiskers, rank, apocynaceous, grow faster every year; it takes so much of toll and trouble, to mow away the doggone stubble—I still must shear and shear."

I'm shaving, with the lather foaming, at early morn and in the gloaming, and by midnight lamp; I'm shaving when I should be earning some coin to keep the fires a-burning, till I have barber's cramp. The time men waste, their whiskers mowing, if it were spent in useful sowing, would renovate the earth; why, ask the Innocent Bystanders, do faces run to cleadlers, which have no price or worth? It must be great to be a woman, upon whose face, so fair and bloomin', alfalfa doesn't grow; she doesn't, with her sisters, gather, at barbershops, the taste of lather she doesn't ever know. But man must always be a-strooping; to mow away the new outcroppin', his tools must have an edge; and if his whiskers are neglected, his friends will cry, till he's dejected, "Come from behind the hedge!"

Weddings.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Wedding presents are a taxation with representation from guests who attend wedding ceremonies. The tax is collected in advance and ranges from $1.50 for a gallery seat to $1,000 for a seat in the family circle. This makes grand opera look cheap, though it must be remembered that in grand opera the audience does not get a chance to kiss the bride.

On the other hand, there are weddings to which the guests bring wagons loaded of costly gifts and then climb through the window in order to escape their great prizes.

Wedding presents are given with the idea of providing the happy couple with various articles which they would probably never think to get for themselves. If it were not for this pretty custom, the American home would be almost devoid of cut-glass bathtubs, hand-painted china wash-bowls, silver soup-ladles and Hungarian flower vases.

There are only four conventional proper wedding presents—cut glass, silver spoons, ornamental clocks and rocking chairs. If a bride is popular, and the wedding has paid expenses, she will receive about eighteen cut-glass bowls, twelve dozen solid silver spoons, fourteen clocks and six chairs. These can afterwards be exchanged for useful articles, such as knives and forks, cups and saucers, and a real clock which will run twenty-four hours every day, including Sunday.

Some guests, however, to be original, give presents which cannot be exchanged, because no sane storekeeper would take them back. They then prattle around like detectives and make unexpected calls in order to find out whether their red and yellow china waste-paper basket is being exhibited in the parlor or is being used to hold soap in the laundry room. Such people are pests, and do not deserve to be allowed to send any presents.

The investigation into the cost of living hasn't looked into the wedding present, which is a great omission. Of late years it has grown greatly in severity. Nowadays when the ordinary man has a college chum in every other town and a business acquaintance with a large family in the alternate ones, he is lucky to get off on less than $100 a year for wedding presents. Flated ware doesn't go any more, either. A man who would send a plated berry spoon to a trusting bride would steal sheep and borrow the owner's wagon to haul them off.

However, wedding presents are reciprocal, and when a young man marries he gets even with a glad cry, though, of course, there are always bad collections on his list. When a man is married and has four children and a grocery bill he is likely to forget that nine years ago he received a pie knife from a boyhood friend and to send that boyhood friend his deep and fervent congratulations instead of something more substantial.

The Kaiser Was Cause of the War.

Maximilian Harden Writes a Straight Article in Die Zukunft—Should Have Come to Agreement With England.

Paris, June 10.—The Imperial German Government has seized the latest number of Die Zukunft, in which Maximilian Harden writes:

"Germany is responsible for the war. She should have helped Lord Haldane and come to an agreement with England. The Chancellor is unreasonable to expect the allies to make peace based on the situation on the map. They will not do that until convinced that their cause is lost, and such a moment cannot be foreseen.

"All the belligerents must agree to an organized peace, guarantee absolute sovereignty to every one, with an international agreement on military questions and the establishment of an international tribunal with power to make unruly nations respect their decisions. Let Germany beware if she discountenance such a solution.

"The allies continue the war only because they fear if peace is made now, German armaments would force them to continue competition. Organized peace may be possible now, but the opportunity will soon go, forever."

"MEASLES."—Keep a bottle of Stafford's Lotion on hand for bathing the eyes. Price 20c.

Gardiner Says K. of K. Looked for an Early End to the War.

Had Revised His Early Estimate About It Lasting Three Years—Feel of Optimism.

New York, June 12.—A special cable to the World from London says: "Lord Kitchener looked for an early close of the war, according to A. G. Gardiner. In an article published by the Daily News, he says:

"I am told on good authority that a few days before the end which came upon him so swiftly and silently, Lord Kitchener said he had revised his estimate of the duration of the war. He had calculated that it would last three years. He now thought that estimate excessive, and looked for an earlier close."

And enormous impetus of action during the past few days give force to the prediction. There is on all sides a feeling of the imminence of final things.

Makes Hair Grow.

All drug stores sell SALVIA, and it is guaranteed to grow hair or money back.

The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of. If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears. The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

And remember it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots. SALVIA is sold by first-class druggists under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" on every bottle.

WILL HOLD DANCE FOR RED CROSS.—The returned Gallipoli and France heroes will shortly hold a dance in aid of the Red Cross Fund. It is expected the affair will come off in the C.C.C. hall. The C.C.C. band will furnish the music. Considering the ever pressing demand for financial help, and the excellent work performed by the noble Order of the Lady of the Lamp, we feel sure the young people will turn out in large numbers and help to swell this fund, which needs it most of all.

Corned Ayrshire Bacon and Fresh Sausages at ELLIS.

VOLUNTEERS SHOOT.—Yesterday a platoon of volunteers, in charge of musketry instructor Burns, visited the Southside Range and practiced shooting under the new range system. Although none of the men had previously used the new rifle, the scoring which was exceptionally good, included eight possibilities. Most of the shooting was done with fixed bayonets at 100, 200 and 300 yards.

Somewhere in England.

HEAD WAITER: Yessir, we are a bit old fashioned, as you say—but we find people like it so long as we make them comfortable. I 'avent 'eard no complaints on that score.

GUEST: Good beds and good food, eh?
HEAD WAITER: Excellent beds and good wholesome food—comfortable Gas Fires and 'ot water in every room in the 'ouse.

GUEST:—Gas Fires, eh! That doesn't sound old fashioned.
HEAD WAITER: No, sir, it don't. But we 'ad to move with the times, sir, and it's our business to give people what they want. If you'll excuse me, sir, that 'ave been 'ere all my life, I find that our people mostly want 'ot baths, 'ot water, well cooked food, good fires, good beds and no fussing. We couldn't do that with coal—not satisfactory as I may say. So we puts in gas—everywhere. We cooks by gas, we lights by gas, we 'eats the water by gas and we 'as Gas Fires. Es you can 'ave a 'ot bath in ten minutes if you want it, sir, a fire in your bedroom and whatever you like to order for dinner, sir, punctual to the minute.

GUEST: That sounds top-hole—but where's the old-fashioned part come in?
HEAD WAITER: It don't come in, sir, so far as that's concerned. But there's the 'ouse, the furniture, the pictures and—if I may say so—the 'omeliness of the place.

GUEST: (a trifle bored) Well, well I'll have that hot bath right away—if you'll get the bathroom ready.

HEAD WAITER: The bathroom is ready, sir, always. There's plenty of 'ot water, you'll find clean 'ot towels in the 'ot cupboard in the bathroom and the Gas Fire lighted in your room.

GUEST: Right O!—and dinner at 8 sharp, please!

HEAD WAITER:—What'll you 'ave, sir,—a nice sole, leg of mutton and sweets?

GUEST: Well, if that isn't troubling the cook too much—I'm rather late, I'm afraid.

HEAD WAITER: No trouble at all, sir. You see, sir, our kind of comfort means comfort for us as well as our people. We don't 'ave no coals to carry, no fires to make up, no bathrooms to attend to—This 'ere gas, 'if I may say so, saves money and time, and—

GUEST: You may say so at dinner time, please, I'm off to have that bath . . . (ascends stairs slowly) . . . Decent old boy, though he does talk a lot; and a real nice place. 'Thank heaven, I've struck a decent billet at last! (The bathroom door bangs sharply.)
