

There are numerous uses in every household for Gillett's Pure Flake Lye. It costs very little but gives valuable service in cleaning and disinfecting sinks, closets and drains; softening water and making laundry soap; destroying vermin; cleaning dirty floors, greasy pots and pans, etc.; removing old paint, and for scores of other purposes. Avoid inferior substitutes. Ask your grocer for the genuine.

GILLETT'S PURE FLAKE LYE

The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XXVI.

They saw him before he saw them, and both noticed that he looked grave and annoyed. But his face cleared directly he caught sight of them, and he pulled up his horse beside the carriage with his usual cheery "Halloo!"

"Have you enjoyed your drive, young ladies?" he inquired.

"Oh, very much!" said Madge. Irene was apparently very busy keeping the reins still. "Where are you going, Joyce?"

"Into the town," he said; then, after a momentary pause, he added, with forced lightness, "By the way, Irene, can Johnson, the tailor, be trusted to make a habit for Madge, do you think?"

"Madge's face went crimson and then blue, and Irene blushed in sympathy. "Oh, yes, I should think so," she replied.

"Well, we'll give him a trial anyhow," he said, with an unnatural carelessness. "The fact is, I forgot to have one made for her when we were in London. I'll hurry up with it, for I've looked out a horse for you, Madge, this morning. You might drive in tomorrow and try it on—the habit, I mean, not the horse. Good-bye. I shall catch you up if you don't take care;" and he galloped off.

Madge looked straight before her as they drove on in a painful silence, then Irene stole her hand into Madge's, and whispered her name consolingly.

Madge turned her eyes toward her. They were full of tears.

"She told him she had seen me on the colt," she said.

"And if she did," retorted Irene, "who cares?"

"Royce cares," said Madge in a low voice. "I—I saw by his face. Ah! it is of no use—no use."

Irene tried to encourage her and make light of the incident; but she could not succeed, and as they drove up to the Towers, Madge looked up with a faint shiver, as if its shadow had fallen across her heart.

After the two ladies had left the cottage, Mrs. Hooper stood at the door looking after them for some time; then she went in, locking the door after her, and resumed her usual household duties. But when she had cooked her modest dinner she did not appear to have any appetite for it, and turning her chair to the fire, she sat, with her arm resting on the table and her head on her arm, looking into the grate with a sad and brooding air.

The morning passed into afternoon, and the afternoon into evening, and the waning light left her still sitting there brooding.

She got up at last with a weary sigh, and lighted the paraffine lamp, and had got the wick adjusted, when there came a knock at the door.

The globe almost fell from her hand, and she stood perfectly still for a moment, as if she scarcely knew whether to open the door or not; then her face brightened.

"It's she," she murmured. "I'm stupid and foolish to-night. But it's the thinking—thinking."

With the lamp in her hand, she went to the door, unlocked it, and opened it a few inches. Then she uttered a frightened little cry and tried to close it again, for a man stood on the step.

"Who's there?" she asked.

"Don't be alarmed, ma'am," was the reply in a whining voice. "It's only a gentleman as wants a drink of water."

She pushed the door hard, but the man had slipped his foot between it and the frame, and forcing it open, stood face to face with her.

Martha Hooper held the lamp as high as her trembling hand permitted, and as its light fell upon the man's face she screamed and shrunk back against the wall.

The visitor stood for a second looking at her with an evil grin, as if he were enjoying her consternation, then took the lamp from her and closed the door.

"How d'ye do, Martha?" he said. "Kind of a surprise, ain't it? You're knocked all of a heap with joy, ain't you? Come, pull yourself together, and don't stare as if I was a ghost."

She leaned against the wall, staring at him as if he were indeed a ghost, and seemed incapable of uttering a word.

"It is you, Jake!" she gasped at last.

"Of course it's me!" he retorted, with a mocking laugh. "Did you take me for my twin brother, who died before I was born?"

"I—I thought you were dead!" she called, crying him with hopeless and fearful helplessness, as the doomed rabbit eyes the serpent.

"I have say," he answered, "the wish was father to the thought, eh? Well, I ain't dead; though, for the matter of that, I am nearly for the want of something to eat and drink. Come, unfasten yourself from that wall and go to the kitchen. Is this the way to welcome the stranger? Where's the second call and the red, red wine?"

She went along the little passage with her hand against the wall, as if she had expected to find a dead man, and led the way into the room in which the two girls had sat.

Jake looked round.

"Thank you very much, but it ain't my idea of comfort. Take me where there's a fire."

He limped before her into the kitchen, and setting the lamp on the table, stirred the fire with his foot.

"That's better," he said; "and now what have you got to eat and drink—especially drink? Don't stand there gazing as if I were a stuffed pig. Pull yourself together, Martha. Lord! you're just the same frightened, scared, rabbit-headed individual you used to be. But you ain't married again, and you live all alone here? Why?—he laughed an unpleasant laugh—"blasted if I wasn't forgetting. Where's the boy?"

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Her hand unconsciously went up to a scar hidden by her smooth, thin gray hair.

Jake scowled up at her.

"Well, that's enough of old times!" he sneered. "What have you been doing with yourself?" He glanced round the plain but neatly furnished kitchen, with its spotless hearth and shining tins and covers, its red dimity window curtains and tidy fire-place. "Yes, you're comfortable enough."

She made a gesture of assent.

"And you ain't married again, and you live all alone here? Why?—he laughed an unpleasant laugh—"blasted if I wasn't forgetting. Where's the boy?"

A Double Tragedy of the '70's Recalled

A recent issue of the New York Sunday Herald-Tribune contains a reminiscence of the oldest active Fire Chief in the world, Stephen Hare, eighty-four, of the Sparkill, N. Y. Fire Department. He had, according to his own story, a checkered career, having been a grocery clerk, carpenter, hotel manager, printer and seaman. In the latter capacity he served on the George Washington and her sister ship the George Cromwell. Telling of the exploits of the former ship he says:

"I made maybe a dozen trips to New Orleans. Down there we used to go up to the theatres. I remember going to see Bob Hart, a New York actor, who was playing at the St. Johns Theatre.

"On one trip back I was continually smelling something burning. I told one of the officers.

"There's no fire on this boat, young feller, except in the engine?"

"But I knew there was, and we had no sooner docked than fire broke out in one of the cotton bunkers. The ship was scuttled and the crew was transferred to the sister ship, the George Cromwell. Captain Gager, the incidents recorded happened in the seventies during the Civil War, and Chief Hare gives the following account of his life on the Cromwell:

"We were running the privateers down the coast. We sighted a boat coming out of Savannah. It was a privateer of the Confederacy.

"Captain Gager ordered full steam ahead. We had an engineer named Staats and he was a good one too. Try our damndest, the privateer gained on us. Finally the captain called Staats and asked him if there was anything we could do to shake the enemy off. Staats went to the storeroom and took all the bacon and hams we had aboard. He put them in the furnace and we picked up to twenty-four knots an hour. That was the last we saw of the privateer."

In January, 1865, Stephen again sailed on the George Washington after it had been reconstructed. In

New York Harbor, while enroute toward the Star of the Union, he found the ship. On the return trip from New Orleans the ship was put into drydock. When almost completely done that a fire in the engine room looked the best over. One look was enough to show that the flames were rampant. He went to the engine room, and found the boiler had burst and the engine was ruined. He thought he had lost the ship, and was about to give up when the captain ordered the ship to be towed to the wharf. The ship was then repaired and sailed on its way.

"Let's go into my cabin and talk things over," suggested the captain.

"Captain," replied Steve, "I've got what I call a hunch. No more sea-faring for me. I'm through. And all your talking won't convince me I'm wrong."

"It was set like the movies or no-fiction stories," Steve explained. "The old ship didn't go right out and sink, but after three trips the George Washington sailed from New York and was never heard of again. And on every next trip to the water, the George Cromwell, scuttled."

NOTE—A great many of the older folks with recall that the George Washington and the George Cromwell preceded the Red Cross Line on the New York-St. John's service. The George Washington on her last eventful voyage left New York and was lost at St. Shotts. A week afterwards the George Cromwell sailed on her regular schedule with instructions to seek the Washington as nothing had been heard from her. Days passed and neither the Cromwell or her sister ship was reported. Eventually some mattresses were discovered floating on the water near St. Shotts. An investigation followed and a diver was sent to the scene, and both ships were found lying side by side on the bottom.

The test of Ivory Soap is that it keeps its promise which is to cleanse the skin thoroughly. No soap can do more. Many promise to work wonders with your complexion—but how many soaps can faithfully keep that promise?

The Canadian House of Commons has voted 1,800,000 dollars for the purchase of the Union Club building in Trafalgar Square, London, for Canadian Government offices. The purchase was vigorously opposed by the Conservatives and some Progressives on the ground that the country had been committed without Parliamentary sanction to an investment of doubtful value. Mr. Mackenzie King, the Premier, defended the action of the High Commissioner, declaring the site an excellent one and that the new quarters will suffice to house all the Canadian offices in London. He said the Government would stand or fall by the transaction.

Lure of London

LONDON, April 24 — (Canadian Press)—The lure of London in the 14th century was dealt with in an interesting manner by Sir Israel Gollance, University Professor of English Language and Literature, King's College, London, in a recent lecture to the Royal Institution. His subject was "Fourteenth Century Literary History and London."

Sir Israel emphasized the position of London—its life and politics—as the background of much of the poetry of the second half of the 14th century, and as a potent influence on the lives of leading men of letters. He placed in juxtaposition with the poetry of Chaucer, the Londoner, the writings of poets whose work belonged in form and spirit to provincial districts of England, notably the alliterative poetry of the Midlands, and dwelt on the predominance of references to London life and politics in the poems primarily intended for non-Londoners. The lure of London was evidently as great then for men of letters as for merchants and men of affairs. The acquaintance with London on the part of the alliterative poets of the West of England was so intimate as to even up the question whether some of these poems were not actually composed in London, Sir Israel said.

The lecturer called attention to the struggle between the rival London mayors, Brembre and Northampton, whose contests for the mayoralty were so closely bound up with the stirring politics of Richard II, and whose opposed systems, men of letters were involved in this protracted struggle, Chaucer among them. The anonymous Thomas Vok, the author of the "Parliament of Love," long known to be written in London, paid the same tribute to Chaucer, paid the same tribute to London, as the same man as Londoner, Sir Israel said.

Briefly sketched the history of the city of London, and the part it played in the lives of the poets of the 14th century, and the part it played in the lives of the poets of the 14th century, and the part it played in the lives of the poets of the 14th century.

CHARGING LUXURIES TO CITY.

WINNIPEG, Man.—(Can. Press)—Are cigars, consumed during the meetings of the St. Boniface School Board, a legitimate expense to be charged against the city? Trustee Mrs. McArthur raised the question at a meeting of the Board by challenging an item of $23.46 for cigars which appeared on the Finance Committee report. "I move that this be stricken off," she said. "I don't mind the cigars so much, but I don't think luxuries ought to be charged against the taxpayer at present."

Against the school board found they had a betrayer of their own sex among them; one of their number announced that, though he smoked, as a matter of principle he served the lady. But from the first he awaited the motion. Cigars were taken from the mouths of the members who protested. Other public bodies did it, so why shouldn't they? The thought of school board members that the city should pay for cigars. When the motion finally came to a vote there were just two for it. Mrs. McArthur and Mr. ...

French Coal Industry

The extraction of coal from the French mines during the month of January this year totalled 3,761,637 tons, showing a considerable increase over the amount extracted during January last year which was 3,147,962 tons. Both months had 25 working days.

Year 1923	136,147 tons
January 1923	121,064 "
July 1923	128,592 "
January 1924	144,680 "

The above results are due in large part to the reintegration into French territory of the Lorraine mines which produce about 17,300 tons a day. The reconstruction of the mines in the north of France is, however, also making rapid progress, the daily extraction of coal having risen from 60,230 tons in January 1923 to 80,109 tons in January 1924, a gain of 33 per cent in twelve months.

Mines in the center of France are also producing a little more now than in 1913. In order to achieve these results, the number of workers employed has been increased from 203,308 in 1913 to 242,566 in January 1923 and 286,804 in January 1924. This increase in the number of miners has also been due to another factor—the shorter working days which came into force with the 8-hour law.

The production of metallurgical coke by the French ovens has also risen from 331,994 tons in January, 1923 to 196,929 tons in January 1924.—Bankers Trust Co., N.Y.

Don't Say— "Just a Sore Throat"

IN a few days, you know, "just a sore throat" may be something much more serious. For science has proved that the throat is not only the first spot reached by infectious germs, but also forms the ideal soil for them to multiply on.

Throat protection, therefore, means germ destruction and is a duty that you owe your health. It is easily achieved by the regular use of Formamint—the germ-killing throat tablet.

Formamint (which is endorsed by over 5,000 American physicians) is the scientific way of disinfecting the mouth and the throat. Handy to have with you—pleasing in taste—it frees an efficient germicide that mixes with the saliva and so reaches where gargles cannot go.

And a tablet taken occasionally during the day not only brings grateful and immediate relief from "sore throat"—but affords protection against even more distressing ailments that so often follow infection of the throat linings. At all druggists.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A BETTER CHANCE.

A great many things are blamed on heredity that really should be blamed not on heredity at all, but on a faulty environment.

A woman told me one day that she had been almost struck by lightning when she was a young girl, that she had been terribly afraid of it ever since, and that her two children had inherited this fear.

Now according to the latest findings of biologists, they could not possibly have inherited this fear because it was an acquired characteristic, and acquired characteristics are not inherited.

"But," the woman would retort if I attempted to tell her this which I didn't, she isn't the kind to whom you try to tell things! They are terribly afraid of lightning and they never have been in any danger from it. How can you explain that?

An Adopted Child Would Have "Inherited It."

The explanation would be easy. I was in her home once when a thunder storm approached. At the first rumble of thunder she grew pale and began to rush about the house closing windows, calling the children to join her in a room which she felt for some reason was the safest part of the house. All through the storm they sat in this room with the windows closed. Whenever a heavy thunder-bolt came, the mother trembled and the children trembled with her. That is the sort of scene which has been enacted since their earliest infancy during thunder storms. Is it strange that they associate the idea of fear with thunder and lightning? If this woman had brought up an adopted child with them would it not have just the same association?

A Very Bad Planting.

People who thus act out their own fears of one sort or another before the younger generation are implanting a very unfortunate seed in the child's mind that will bear a crop of fears and inhibitions to hamper and distort its whole adult life.

A great many of these fears and inhibitions and notions of one sort or another that we think we get by heredity we really get by environment. The idea suggested to us by our parents in some way gets so deeply imbedded that we think we have inherited it.

The Baby And The Snake.

We may inherit some race fears but we don't inherit individual fears. And even fears that we regard as in-born in the race may come to us from imitation rather than instinct. I once saw a father who was of an investigating turn of mind hold out a tiny snake (perfectly harmless of course) to his year old daughter; she cowered with delight, reached out her hand for the snake, grabbed it, and if not prevented, would have promptly conveyed it to the receptacle into which young ladies of her age put every possession.

That certainly didn't show any in-born fear did it?

Every fear that we have in our subconsciousness is a handicap that we have to carry. Life is not easy for most of us. We certainly don't need handicaps. Let us be careful then, how by our example and our habit of talking about our own idiosyncrasies and fears we plant such ideas in the highly suggestive minds of our children.

Marooned Exiles Face Starvation

About For Three Months on Powder-Laden Ships.

Victoria, B.C., April 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Marooned for five months past, denied admittance to Japan, Hongkong, and even to turbulent China, has been the strange fate of Admiral Giebol, formerly of the Russian Imperial Navy, and 2,000 men, women and children, who are dragging out a cramped existence aboard four steamships anchored at Wosung, not far from Shanghai, according to J. L. Gardner, a well known Shanghai firm, who has arrived here on a business trip.

In addition to their woe-begone human freight, the steamers anchored at Wosung with their holds crammed with a huge motley of armament—rifles by the thousands, machine-guns, quick-firers, Mills' bombs, field guns, automatic pistols and two million rounds of ammunition.

Admiral Giebol fled from Siberia with his compatriots to escape the prisons of the Bolsheviks. How or where he got possession of the arms, and how he managed to load them aboard his flotilla, has so far remained a mystery.

Japanese officials at each port turned deaf ears to the pleading of the refugees for sanctuary. Hongkong authorities would not let them drop anchor. At Wosung they found succor from the tireless waves of the ocean. They were permitted to anchor in shelter; but Shanghai had had enough of Russian exiles, its streets having been crowded with them ever since the accession of the Reds to power, and not for the brief space of a day could the exiles stretch their legs on shore.

Thus for the last five months they have swung idly at anchor off Wosung, unwanted by any land within steaming distance of their dwindling coal supplies—2,000 people without a country.

Admiral Giebol's high hopes of selling his arsenal for millions to one or other of the many contending armies in China have dwindled as fast as his coal and patience of his fellow voyagers. From $2,000,000, his first offer to the Peking government, his price has fallen to $50,000, and even at this low figure he can find no takers.

Nevertheless, said Mr. Gardner, the arms are a slight source of revenue. Each night, despite the perfunctory watch of a gunboat of the Chinese navy, small consignments are smuggled ashore to equip the bands of freedom fighters who stalk the countryside, and of pirates that infest rivers and coastal waters.

The future of the exiles looks dark. Food is sent out to them by charitable organizations in Shanghai. Conditions aboard the steamers are conducive to sickness, and medical men in Shanghai view with alarm possible outbreak of an epidemic.

A Lady Efficiency Expert

TORONTO, Ont.—(Can. Press.)—The Star says of a recent visitor to the city, "Miss Helen Sutton, efficiency expert on pneumatic tube system, is one of the five women in America who are experts in her present calling. She began at a salary of $10 per week, and she now makes $4,500 a year exclusive of living and travelling expenses. So that her value to her firm is some $7,000 a year. Miss Sutton's job is to go from department store to department store across the face of America tuning up the various pneumatic systems. She can disarticulate the mechanism at any point and put it together again; she can play on a set of vacuum tubes as though they were a pipe-organ; she can read a blue-print like a first-grade primer. She is a most uncommon young woman.

"She sees it that the compression is adjusted so that the carriers containing money and bills flow from the various parts of the store with the maximum of speed and smoothness, and that the employees who are handling change do it with the minimum of time and motion. Her business really is to analyze the whole income receiving mechanism of the store, and to work it up to that dizzy peak of perfection which modern commercial establishments demand.

"Do you find that executives are willing to take advice from a woman—and so young a woman?" she was asked. "Why, yes, I have very little difficulty," she replied. "One doesn't

Another View Of An Old Topic.

In impressing upon the people of New Brunswick the necessity for an embargo on raw wood, the Chatham Gazette holds up as an illustration the contracts entered into by the Newfoundland Government with the American interests.

The fact that the operations were carried out at a tremendous cost to the country was bad enough, but that the money was expended in the wanton destruction of our forest resources makes it an example of official incapacity, and complete indifference to the country's interests.

Clean Up Day.

The suggestion of the City Council that May 21st should be set aside as a Clean Up Day is deserving of the support of all, and it is to be hoped that citizens will co-operate to the fullest extent to make the clean up thorough.

This is a matter in which energetic action on the part of the City Fathers alone cannot accomplish much, but with their assistance the householders have an opportunity to get rid of the accumulations in the backyards and basements, and to make the surroundings of their homes clean and wholesome before the arrival of the warm weather.

Week-End Excursion Rates

The management of the railway, beginning next week, will put into effect the regular summer week-end excursion for points along the shore. This will no doubt be availed of by many people who are looking forward to take up residence in the country during the summer months, or otherwise spending the week-end with their friends.

SUGGESTED INCREASES WILL NOT SATISFY POSTAL WORKERS. WINNIPEG, May 2. If the report of the Civil Service Commission, recommending a "fifteen per cent. increase in the basic salaries" of Postal workers, is meant as an abandonment of the bonus "it will not meet with the approval of men" according to the leading officers of the Postal Federation interviewed here. The increase, it was pointed out, would only benefit those receiving maximum salaries and other workers would receive less than they did with a bonus.

DEATHS PLACED AT 113. ATLANTA, Ga., May 2. Reports gathered place the total death list at 113, in tornadoes that swept through the seven Southern States Tuesday. The only estimate attempted, that of ten million dollars, probably will be eclipsed.

GENERAL MOTORS REGULAR DIVIDENDS. First Quarter Net at Annual Rate of $3.45 a Share on Common. NEW YORK, April 23.—General Motors declared regular quarterly dividends 30 cents on common, $1.50 each on preferred and 60 per cent. debenture and $1.75 on 7 per cent. debenture. Common dividend is payable June 15 to stock of record May 15, other dividends August 1, to stock of record July 7. President Sloan announced final figures for first quarter will not be available until later in week, but preliminary figures indicate net earnings available for dividends after depreciation reserve and tax reserve is $19,280,000, which compares with $19,405,000 a year ago. After deducting preferred dividends this is equal to 35 cents a share on common stock, or at a rate of $3.40 per annum, but does not include Fisher Body earnings in excess of dividends paid.

The corporation sold 212,572 cars and trucks, against 176,253 cars and trucks in the first quarter of 1923. Mr. Sloan also said: "Consumers' demand in the spring of 1923 exceeded all previous records, and this year is equal to, and probably 10 per cent. greater than last year. Due to unseasonable weather, which is termed spring buying is just getting well under way. We lost business, last year by not having sufficient cars in the field. To avoid repetition of this condition, the corporation changed its policy and ran its plant at peak during the past winter and this spring in order that dealers and distributors should have a sufficient supply of finished cars to meet this spring demand."

"This having been accomplished, the plants of the corporation are now being operated at a rate equal to slightly over 80 per cent. of sales for the first quarter. It will be noted that this policy of running plants at peak during winter and spring enabled the corporation to supply its dealers and distributors with sufficient cars to meet spring requirements and to slack off its operations during the summer months to that point necessary to cover lessened demand for automobiles during that season of year."

W. S. Knudsen, general manager of Chevrolet, was elected a vice-President of General Motors.

Buick 4-Wheel Brakes.

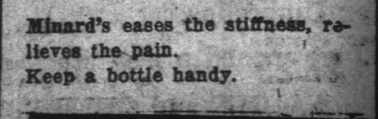

Said a chauffeur to his buddy. "As he threw her into high, 'My hat's off to the genius, Of that enterprising guy, Who made auto traffic safer For her sure had what it takes When he gave the world-known Buick With its four-wheel brakes."

"I have driven gas consumers For these many, many years; I've tried out each new contrivance, Shifted every kind of gears, Till my mind was most befuddled, And my body filled with aches, But—I'll hand it to the Buick, With its four-wheel brakes."

"Why, say, bo, let me tell you, It was just the other day, It was speeding up the highway When some toddlers at their play Daredt right into the roadway— Well might I have had the quakes Were I in aught but a Buick With its four-wheel brakes."

"Only yesterday when speeding On the main street of the town, Right before me reeled two toppers, And they promptly slumped them down— Did my heart stand still within me? Well, there would have been two If my car were not a Buick With its four-wheel brakes."

"Do I like the four-wheel feature? If I thought you were not for them, If I thought you were not for them, Well, I don't draw the line too fine, For I know whereof I'm talking, I respect the man who makes Traffic safe with Buick, And its four-wheel brakes."

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

May 1st.—To Water Street, where our good fortune was to find some very good silk neckcloths, such as I have needed this long time, and was pleased to do without $2.70. But the price so little as many other shopmen showing me many other neckcloths, I did forget for the nonce, how much I did balance with my banker, and did buy myself some hose shoes also. So out, talking with Baird, Sir P. McGrath joins us, and our talk turning towards politics, we did have good discourse of the town's rumours which beset the town, comes Mr. Carter and he too reports of what the town says. Indeed, there is so much talk of the greater part of it fit only to be ignored, and the rest of it taken with a grain of salt. But what I believe to be true is Mr. Monroe, he with Mr. Warren, and the announcement of their party to be announced tomorrow. Baird is no longer with W. W. Coaker, and some do say that Mr. Hickman will join him in an opposition. A good tale I heard today of an American commercial man, who being told of a strange animal called the Iceland gougou, sent it to the Herald sheet of New York. The animal described to him as having two short legs on the side, and two long legs on the other, and the purpose of them so the gougou can run round fees, and this the American did take good faith.

Thrilling Romance of the English Turf

Showing at the NICKEL THEATRE. In a manner has the English racing classic, "Son of Kissing Cup," at the Nickel Theatre last night been described. And the description is most aptly suited to the leading role is seen a female believed by thousands and thousands of picture fans across the Atlantic to be the most beautiful actress of the silver sheet throughout British Isles. Opposite her is Stewart Rome, supported by a cast of the outstanding features of the picture is the winning mare, England's master horse, with the Derby at Epsom Downs, at very last moment just when it was race is about to start with the programme of singing by the Harrod Chateaux Singers is exceptionally high order, with a variety. The opening number "Arrowed Kings," was rendered with noticeable expression and was widely applauded. The Jubilee Shout "Jericho," was something different from anything yet heard by the singers, and any who missed it last night should take it in.

Nova's Turn Out

The following is the official specification of seals, weight, value of cargo, turned out by the S.S. Terra Nova—15,242 young hares, 188 young hares, 2,009 bedlamers, 322 old hares, 419 tons, 4 cwt, 0 lbs. 19 cwt. The young hares averaged 4 lbs. Total value of cargo $36,000. The crew of 160 men shared each.

Dwyer Sisters Get Big Ovation

The Dwyer Sisters scored a wonderful hit last night at the Crescent. The character act has been termed "The Best Yet." These performers are real dancers from every standpoint. Their songs "She's Mine For Me" and "A Wee Doe and" were rendered in their own charming manner, whilst Salter's waltz dance was vigorously executed. The finishing number was a Scotch dance which was indeed most excellent. This is a feast of entertainment and we advise all to be at the Crescent to-night. All were delighted with the big crowd thriller, "The Westbound Train." The promise of speed and action in the appeal of simple life there is a youthful romance and enough intricate and action scenes to make a thrilling drama. There are several exceptionally dramatic situations skillfully photographed, as for example, the scene of the signal fire which the engineers son starts in an attempt to prevent a wreck. That all will enjoy. But above all, the act is the satiny singing and dancing act by the best team now in St. John's, the Dwyer Sisters.

Startling Bribery Revelations

The crime of bribery is as ugly as treason. It is on the increase here and the law is not adequate to cope with it. While hundreds of convictions have been obtained many of the worst offenders go unpunished.

It is high time that Parliament took some practical steps to strengthen the law with regard to bribery. For some time after the Prevention of Corruption Act came into operation there was a great improvement in what may be called "business morality" throughout the country. But the Act is embryonic; and people who give bribes believe they can do it in safety because the fiat of the Attorney-General is necessary to start a prosecution.

The records of the Courts are full of cases which show that bribery is rampant. In one year there were fifteen cases of bribes given to obtain employment, and fourteen cases where bribes were given to try to find out from employees trade secrets of the firm for which they worked.

Other cases included bribes to hotel employees to get orders, to buyers of drapery firms to pass inferior goods and short measure; bribes to Government officials to get aliens suffering from objectionable diseases into the country.

Everybody can see how bad this sort of thing is for commercial morality and honourable trading. It is often very hard to trace the bribe. In one case the bribe took the form of a present of a dress length to a Government inspector's wife, and in another case a war office official accepted a suit of clothes from a tailor.

A stockbroker got eighteen months' hard labour for giving over four thousand pounds to a bank manager to induce him to speculate with his employer's money. He did so, and both briber and bribed were sent to jail. An estate agent who was a Justice of the Peace, and ought to have known better, was sent to prison for three months for offering to divide secret profits from the sale of house property with an employee of the seller.

Hundreds of these cases could be quoted here, some of them offences committed by aliens, and many of them attempts to bribe Government officials and the police. For instance, a butcher was jailed for offering a bribe to a policeman to keep away while horse-flesh was substituted for beef to be sold to the public.

It is regrettable that public opinion does not deal more severely with offences in the way of taking and giving bribes. Men who have been denounced by judges for bribery still go about holding their heads high, accepted in their clubs, and are regarded as people who have sold the pass in the battle of civil life.

In America, where the contagion has also grown rapidly in recent years, drastic steps are being taken to purify public life of corruption and of dubious dealings. So far we have not had in this country any cases of men in high political power being publicly convicted of betraying their trust. But from the experience of other countries it is clearly desirable to keep public opinion alert and healthy here.

It would be a tragic misfortune if we were to see here men occupying the highest positions in the Civil Service of the Crown and the State denounced for corrupt conduct after official investigation.

This is what has happened in Newfoundland, where the people are howling their heads in grief and shame because of the revelations of a Royal Commission which have led to an allegation of infamy against Sir Richard Squires during the time that he was Prime Minister of England's oldest Colony.

The charge against Sir Richard Squires is that he took money from a man called John Meaney, the Liquor Controller; that the money came from the funds of the Liquor Department; and Mr. T. H. Walker, K.C., Recorder of Derby, who was sent out from this country by the Colonial Office at the request of the Dominion Government to conduct the investigation, states in his report that Sir Richard Squires accepted the use and benefit of over twenty thousand dollars, with the knowledge of their tainted history, and made himself an accomplice in Mr. Meaney's wrong.

The people of Newfoundland are horrified to find that Sir Richard Squires, in whom they had placed so much faith, the man who is the King's Counsel, who represented his country at the Cenotaph ceremony in London, and who was sent here to sit in conference amongst the Colonial Premiers, should now have such allegations of grave misdemeanour to his credit.

We can only hope that Sir Richard Squires, who denies all the charges, may be able to make good his defence. But the important thing is that public opinion here, as elsewhere, should be awakened to the grave danger that confronts a country if it allows the standard of conduct to be lowered in public and business affairs.

It is too late when the mischief is done to deplore the lowering of our standards. That is why every effort must be made to create and maintain

Skin Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Impure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor, Debility, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Bolls, Pimples, etc.

THERE is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-and-tried Blood Purifier and Blood Builder. A medicinal preparation that will truly purify, revitalize and renew the blood, restores hope and pleasure, ambition and happiness, vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a strengthener of the system, fortifying it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for Chronic Diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of this nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood deposited through the inactivity of the Liver and Kidneys.

These secretions if not removed from the circulation, gradually form poisons which deteriorate the condition of the blood and allow other diseases to obtain a more ready entrance to the system. In the effort of nature to throw off these impurities, frequently pimples, bolls, carbuncles, etc., appear, and it is wise to respond promptly to the Warning of Nature.

is a genuine preparation scientifically prepared from the best and purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is more apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition and you will be prepared to fight life's battles with greater success.

One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that you will need to take to produce results.

Bobbed-Hair Banditry

PAYS BETTER IN PRISON THAN OUT, CELIA FINDS.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Bobbed hair banditry pays—after you're in a cell, anyhow. Celia Cooney, pioneer of the profession, found recently.

After her oatmeal and milk, in a Brooklyn cell, where she awaits sentence for her crimes, Mrs. Cooney received an offer of $100 from photographers anxious to get her picture. She refused.

Then she was offered $1,000 for the story of her life. She agreed to write this. Her profits from robbery in more than a month did not exceed $900.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Cooney was found to have a brand new $10 bill in her possession. No one knows where she got it.

All in all, she finds it pays better inside jail than out.

During 1923 the Red Taxi Co. operated under the hardest conditions Five Buick motor Cars. The 7-passenger Six Sedan did over 17,000 miles in eight months of 1923, with 3 of its original tires still in use.

Two of the Buick Fours travelled 12,000 and over 14,000 miles respectively under the hardest of service on every kind of road. The cost of this service was low, and after such strenuous work the Red Taxi Buicks are to-day performing the same reliable service as during 1923.

Newfoundlander Aids American Youth to Escape Hanging

SIR WILLIAM GOODE INTERVENED TO PREVENT ENDANGERING NEW LOAN.

Budapest, April 25.—John Bartles, an American, has just had a narrow escape from being hanged in Hungary for refusing to do compulsory military service. He was saved by Sir William Goode, noted financier of Great Britain and Newfoundland.

The Peace Treaty forbids compulsory military service in Hungary, but in the country districts of the nation all boys are now being forced to undergo military training, and the Inter-Allied Military Control Commission knows of at least 100 cases where boys who have complained against this service, have been secretly court-martialed for high treason and hanged. These were mostly Jewish boys.

The Hungarian authorities must use compulsion to force boys in their volunteer army, which the treaty limits to 25,000, because it is impossible to get enough boys to sign up for twelve years at two cents daily.

Young Bartles, who has just come of age, was born in Johnstown, Pa. of Hungarian parents who returned to Hungary a few years ago. Although an American citizen on account of his birth in America he was notified to start his compulsory task. He was threatened with a court martial and hanging if he refused to obey the orders.

The boy came secretly to Budapest where he called on Judge Theodore Brentano, the American minister. The latter asked Washington to issue an immediate passport and he also notified the Hungarian authorities that he would hold them responsible if any harm came to the lad. If Bartles' life had been seriously jeopardized, Judge Brentano intended to bring him to the American Legation and defy the Hungarian Government to touch him there.

The Hungarian government refused for several days to release Bartles and then Sir William Goode, financial adviser who is arranging a $50,000,000 Hungarian re-construction loan, intervened and forced his release to prevent the flotation of the loan in America from being endangered.—Montreal Daily Star.

Factory for New Freezing Process

Carbon-Dioxide Plant to be Built By Frost Air Corporation.

MONTREAL, April 25.—As a result of the success of the experiment carried out the other day with carbon-dioxide gas, a new process for refrigeration, under the auspices of the Federal Government in conjunction with the Frost Air Corporation of New York City, was received in Montreal yesterday afternoon from New York that the corporation is taking steps for the erection of a plant in Montreal, which will constitute the first of a chain which it is intended to build across the whole of the Dominion.

It is anticipated that this new form of ice will revolutionize the present refrigeration system not only for refrigerator cars but for the transportation of fish, fruit, yeast and other perishable commodities. The Frost Air Corporation will also place on the market many other important devices which have been perfected in which the new gas is used for domestic and commercial purposes.

The car load of fish which was carried from Halifax to Montreal and delayed in opening for nearly three days in Montreal, and then opened by Federal Government officials and important and influential representatives of the fish industry proved to be sound and in a perfect condition as if the fish had just been taken out of the water.

First of Chain.

Walter S. Josephson, the vice-president and general manager, stated then in an interview that it was the intention of the Canadian Frost Air Corporation to erect manufacturing plants in various parts of the Dominion for the purpose of commercializing carbon-dioxide gas for refrigeration. The decision to erect the first plant in Montreal will be welcomed. At the moment the site has not yet been determined, but it is expected that a decision will be arrived at as soon as the officials of the company return from New York, which will probably be at the end of this week.

SHOPKEEPERS

The surest way to annoy a customer is to ask her to buy some other Soap, when she wants Sunlight Soap.

When a woman asks for Sunlight Soap, it shows that she is an intelligent woman, who wants value for her money.

When you ask such a woman to buy some other soap, it shows that you consider she doesn't know what she wants.

When you tell a sensible woman that some other soap is as good as Sunlight, she knows you are not telling the whole truth.

Naturally when she knows you are trying to fool her, she has a poor opinion of your judgment and veracity.

You cannot fool any woman regarding Sunlight Soap. Every woman knows Sunlight Soap to be purest and best.

This is why selling Sunlight Soap is the easiest thing any shopkeeper has to do. Every wise shopkeeper knows this.

Every now and then shopkeepers are asked to buy soap,—said to be as good as Sunlight Soap.

Eventually such soap has to be sold at a loss, and the loss is always made by the shopkeeper. The soap agent gets his money, the shopkeeper is the goat.

When next you are asked to buy such a soap, ask the agent,—“Will it sell as well as Sunlight Soap?”

Soap which won't sell as well as Sunlight Soap isn't as good as Sunlight, it won't pay for its keep.

Don't let any slick soap agent load you up with soap which will stick to your shelves and lose money on you.

STICK TO SUNLIGHT AND YOU WON'T BE STUCK.

Have you tried Small Sunlight Soap? A case contains 200 handy cakes. Small Sunlight retails for 5 cents per cake.

Fight Proposal to Spend $10,000,000 TO FEED GERMAN BABIES.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(United Press)—An attack on the proposal to appropriate $10,000,000 of Federal funds to feed the children of Germany and Austria, was made in the Senate today by Senator Dial, South Carolina Democrat, who denounced the proposal as a "vote-getting scheme."

"We are asked to reduce taxes and all that, and yet we want to give ten millions of our workers' money to the people who started the war and caused our high taxes," Dial declared.

"I've heard the cries of ten babies in my own home and I know how much they eat."

"Let the Germans go to work and support their own children like we do ours."

STAR MOVIE TO-NIGHT.

By reference to the ad. on another page it will be seen that the popular Star Movie has for to-night another of those banner shows that this theatre is now noted for. In the picture line, it will be seen that we again have the old favorites, William Duncan, Joe Ryan and Edith Johnson, in a picture that will make you hold your seats with excitement. This is entitled "Man of Mystery" and with such a trio we will see a picture that will make us go out and sing its praises.

Miss Fanchonette and Mr. Rellly will render in their usual classy way a singing and dancing number that cannot but fall to please, whilst Miss Pleasants has a very catchy selection, "Mother in Ireland." Miss Pleasants is now eagerly sought for by the patrons of the Star, and in this selection she will no doubt add new laurels to her reputation, and for this the Management has an extra attraction in the person of our local talented singer Mr. A. (Sandy) Lawrence, who will sing with Miss Pleasants this popular number. As usual there will be two performances at night, and patrons are asked to come as early as possible to enable all to obtain seats for the second showings.

British Trade

Imports into the United Kingdom in 1923 were in the following proportions: 33% from Europe, 16.8% from the British Empire, 10.8% from Mexico, Central and Latin America, and 9.2% from other countries. As reported to the Bankers Trust Company of New York by its English Information Service, imports from Europe increased in 1923 about 16% over 1922. Throughout 1922 imports from most of the European countries showed a general though not unbroken progress, and in each quarter of 1923 the volume of imports was greater than in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

Of the exports of British produce and manufactures, 33.7% went to European countries, 35.5% to the British Empire, 8% to the United States, 8.8% to Mexico, Central and South America, and 14% to other countries. The course of trade in exports of British produce and manufactures to Europe was somewhat complicated. Exports to northern Europe which progressed steadily throughout 1922, but they were greater in each quarter of 1923 except the third than in the corresponding quarter of 1922. Exports to Germany at par of exchange were $50,893,000 in excess of those in 1922, but $50,237,000 of this amount was in coal sent to make up for the loss of the Ruhr supplies. As a whole, exports to Europe were greater in 1923 than in 1922 by $19,571,000, but it appears to Germany should be excluded they would have shown a heavy falling off of $31,822,000. It was the export of coal which saved the situation.

Despite the application of the Fordney tariff in late Autumn of 1922, British exports to the United States were greater in 1923 than in 1922, both in aggregate value and in the percentage of total exports.—Bankers Trust Co., N.Y.

Grand Memorial Concert at Topsail

The young people of Topsail, under the auspices of the Memorial Association, united in giving a most successful concert and tea in the S. U. F. Hall on St. George's night, April 23rd. The effort was the last drive in aid of the completion of the Memorial railing, and the sea of faces that greeted the performers, showed that patriotism in Topsail is not a thing of the past. The hall, which was generously loaned for the occasion by the S.U.F., was tastefully decorated, and the footlights—in innovation in Topsail—were the great work of Mr. Seward, who is at present engaged in lighting the houses in our town. Mr. S. Vatcher acted as stage manager, while Misses Victoria Butler, Florence Miller and Lilian Chayer were accompanists. All our favorite artists were in their best form, and the continued patter of applause, and the many encores received, proved how well each item was appreciated. A new and particularly attractive feature of the programme was the Jazz Orchestra conducted by Mr. George Fowler as Prof. De Laha. When the curtain rose upon his gaily attired company—the young ladies in scarlet tunics, sequin-fringed, with Egyptian bandeaux of the same color on their flowing hair; the men with many-colored scarves and head-bands—the audience went wild with enthusiasm. Each instrument had streaming ribbons of the Newfoundland colors, and the effect was very charming. Prof. De Laha could not be surpassed as a band master, and as he gyrated in his flowered pantaloons, tying coat-tails and tasselled feet, he caused gates of merriment to sweep the hall. Rev. A. Pittman acted as chairman, and the programme was as follows:—

Chorus—"Soldiers of the King."
 (Soldiers, Messrs. W. J. Hibbs and G. C. Greenland.)
 Monologue—"The Bald-Headed Man"
 Miss Florence Miller.
 Song—"Then You'll Remember Me."
 Miss Minnie Tilley.
 Dialogue—"Pulling a Tooth." Mrs. W. J. Hibbs, Messrs. Reg. Ribbs, G. C. Greenland, George Fowler and Roy Mores.
 Part Song—"Huntingtower" (in Highland costume) Miss Florence Miller and Mr. P. L. Butler.
 Recitation—"There is no Santa Claus," Mr. Vatcher.
 Piano Solo—"Paderewski's Minuet," Miss Valda Bursell.
 Lullaby—"Ma Curly-Headed Baby," Mrs. W. J. Hibbs.
 Duet—"Harbour Watch" (Costume of old sailors) Messrs. P. L. Butler and Reg. Ribbs.
 Chorus—"Yes, we have no Bananas!"
 Round—"A boat unto the Ferry."
 Patriotic Medley, by Prof. De Laha's Jazz Orchestra. Violins, Messrs. Reg. Ribbs and Minnie Tilley; Mandolins, Mr. Bert Butler and Miss Victoria Butler; Harp, Miss Victoria Butler; Spoons, Mr. W. J. Hibbs; Kettle drum, Mr. Roy Mores; Combs, Messrs. Greenland and Harry Butler; Effects, Messdames P. L. Butler, W. J. Hibbs, H. Mercer, and Miss Lilian Chayer; Whistling Chorus, Mrs. Lloyd Fowler, Miss Minnie Pittman, Messrs. P. L. Butler and S. Vatcher.

INTERVAL
 Chorus—"Sailing."
 Song—"Three for Jack," Mr. Reg. Ribbs.
 Playlet—"Four After One," Betty Trotter, Mrs. Lloyd Fowler, Sally Trotter, Miss Minnie Tilley, Augustus Septimus Crutchebanks, Mr. Greenland, Barney Flippers, Mr. Reg. Ribbs, Peter Lungstockins, Mr. Vatcher, Policeman X.Y.Z., Mr. Roy Mores.
 Part Song—"Long, long ago" (in costume of long, long ago) Mrs. W. J. and Mr. Reg. Ribbs.
 Recitation—"Trials of a twin," Mr. Greenland.
 Song—"Lassie, O' Mine," Mr. P. L. Butler.
 Prantation Medley—by Jazz Orchestra.
 Dialogue—"Interviewing Servants," Misses Victoria Butler, Lilian Chayer, Minnie Pittman, Messdames Lloyd Fowler and Allan Mercer, Messrs. P. L. Butler and S. Vatcher.
 Male Quintette and Chorus—"Vive L'Amour," Messrs. Vatcher, Harry Butler, Reg. Ribbs, P. L. Butler and G. C. Greenland.
 "God Save the King."

Tea was served in the gallery, after which there was dancing, which was much enjoyed. The thanks of the Concert Committee are due to the S.U.F. for the free use of their hall, to Mr. Seward for his services in installing the footlights, to all who sent donations of cake, candy etc. to Rev. A. Pittman for acting as chairman, and to all who in any way helped to make the affair the great success that it was. Proceeds amounted to $70.

Too Much Ether
 In her own defence the accused stated she had just come out of the hospital a few days previously, when an operation had been performed on her throat. The medicine which she was using contained a large percentage of ether, and she claimed it had a drugging effect upon her senses, so that she did not know what she was doing.

London Letter

(By PANTON HOUSE, for the Canadian Press).

LONDON, April 24.—London honored on April 8th, the memory of her worthy merchant tailor and historian, John Stow, whose "Survey of London," published in 1588 (when he was 78) is regarded as one of the most valuable of English books for anyone who wishes to learn what the formation was to those who lived through it, what London was like before the process began, and what Elizabethan London grew to be. The Lord Mayor, with the Sheriffs and City Officials, drove in state to the Church of St. Andrew Undershaft, in St. Mary Axe, where Stow was buried in 1605. The commemoration service was conducted by the Bishop of London, and towards its close a procession was formed to Stow's Monument. The Lord Mayor, carrying on an old tradition, placed in the hand of the chronicler's marble figure a new quill pen to replace that which he has held for the past year. This monument, by the way, is said to be the work of the same sculptor as Shakespeare's bust at Stratford-on-Avon.

St. Andrew Undershaft is one of the few London churches which escaped the Great Fire in 1666. Its interior remains much as it was when Stow worshipped there. It gets its curious surname "because that of old time every year (on May Day in the morning) it was used that a high or long shaft was set up there before the south door of the said church." Stow himself tells how a certain curate, preaching at St. Paul's Cross, accused the parishioners of setting up for themselves an idol in this Maypole, which for 32 years had rested under the eaves of neighbouring houses; whereupon they set it up and burnt it, and never danced on Mayday any more.

"OLD BILL" MOVES.

Do you remember Old Bill, the baby walrus who arrived not long ago at the London Zoo? He is now ten months old, eats 25 lbs. a day of prime codfish and imported seal blubber, and is getting on for 400 lbs. in weight, yet is so frisky that the Zoo authorities have had to move him to a new and stronger home. Three times he had broken out of his old enclosure. At first he used to burrow under the fences, but as he grew heavier he discovered that no fence could stand being leant against by 350 lbs. of walrus. The intelligent creature was coaxed from one dwelling to the other by a keeper carrying lumps of blubber in a pail. With this inducement he travelled the 250 yards in 17 minutes, marching like Napoleon's army, on his stomach.

Another Zoo celebrity is Mickey, the senior chimpanzee, who has just kept the 25th anniversary of his arrival at the Gardens with a feast of rice and milk, lettuce, watercress, boiled potatoes, raw eggs, bananas, grapes, apples and oranges. Least talented apes shake the bars of their cages when they wish to produce a noise, but Mickey has a better plan, and bounces on all fours upon an iron trap door until sensitive people cover their ears and retreat.

COURT MOVES TO WINBOR.

The Court has removed from Buckingham Palace to Windsor Castle, where it will remain until the end of the month. The Castle, which is a little over twenty miles from London, stands on an isolated hill above the Thames, where it looks more like a town than a house. It has, indeed, a larger population than some towns when the Court is in residence. In King Edward's time the enormous place was served by a staff of about 2,000 persons, including the military guard, the flemen, the grooms and gardeners, with 120 footmen, the chef's staff of about 70, and more domenties than one could count. William the Conqueror built the great castle-fortress, beginning it in the first year of his reign (1066) and kept Christmas, Easter and Whitsunday there. Edward III (1327-1377) practically rebuilt it almost in its present form, and other monarchs, from Queen Elizabeth to George III, have left their mark upon it. When the Court is not in residence, the State Apartments, the Round Tower and St. George's Chapel are open to the public about five days a week.

OPENING THE EXHIBITION.

On St. George's Day, April 23rd, the King and Queen motored from Windsor to Wembley, and there transferred to the State carriages in which they arrived at the Exhibition grounds for the opening ceremony, which will take place in the Stadium, an enormous stand of masonry, holding anywhere from 110,000 to 125,000 persons. The Prince of Wales, as President of the Exhibition, will receive them with an address, to which the King will reply. His speech is to be broadcast, and as there were 72,000 wireless receiving sets at work in Great Britain last month, it is safe to assume that at least one million persons in Great Britain alone will be listening-in. The ceremony will begin at 10.30 a.m. with a musical programme by the massed bands of the Brigade of Guards and a choir of 1,500 voices, conducted by Sir Edward Elgar. After the King's speech, the Bishop of London will conduct a short religious service, the Exhibition will be formally declared open, and the Dominion and Colonial flags will be unfurled.

MORE WEMBLEY WONDERS.

The Canadian section of the Exhibition announces that all its exhibits will be in place by Saturday, April 12, and other Dominion's preparations are almost equally advanced. Every day one hears of new wonders awaiting the visitor, from Australia's great pearl—said to be the largest yet discovered, and worth $50,000—to the largest single sheet of plate glass ever made (14ft. by 24ft.). Burma has sent a company of dancers and musicians; so has Ceylon. South Africa will show an ostrich farm; the stock of 23 birds has just arrived. It will be news to most people that ostriches produce anything but feathers; but we hear that ostrich leather,

Boy Scout Work

OTTAWA, Ont., April 30.—(By Canadian Press)—Excellent progress in Boy Scout work during the past year was indicated at the annual meeting of the Boy Scout Association of Canada here to-day. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, with a present membership of half a million, was chief speaker at the meeting.

There are now over 50,000 boy scouts and "wolf cubs" in Canada, according to the census reports made known to-day. The exact figures, which include leaders, are given as 51,204.

The Dominion Medal Board's report for the year shows the awarding of 29 medals for gallantry or notable service, including 2 Bronze Crosses and 1 Cornwallis Scout badge. A number of the awards were for rescues from drowning, one a posthumous award to the parents of patron leader Ward Finch of Medicine Hat, Alta., who lost his life while endeavoring to rescue two Canadian girls in training at Elkwater Lake, Alberta.

The special Summer Giltwell Training Courses for Scoutmasters inaugurated during 1922 by Dominion Headquarters were expanded during 1923, training camps being held in every province. At the end of the year there were in the Dominion 223 graduates of these 10-day training camps. In addition to the summer camps a series of special winter courses were held in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Fort William, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, these being attended by some 400 Scout leaders. These courses resulted from a suggestion of the Chief Scout for Canada, Lord Byng.

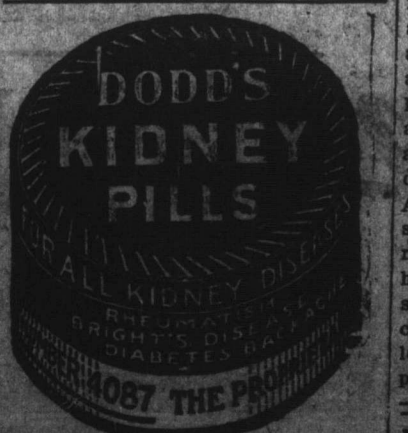

Mention was made in the annual reports of the splendid assistance rendered the scout movement through out the Dominion by the churches, schools, and fraternal organizations.

Lord Byng, Governor-General of Canada, is Chief Scout for the Dominion, and Dr. James W. Robertson, of Ottawa, is Chief Commissioner.

"Hello there! Where are you going?" "I came home and found my favorite bread was not on the table and I am just going to buy what I like best 'WALSH'S MILK BREAD,' made only by The Central Bakery, April 15, 1924."

Swept Out

WINNIPEG, Man.—(Can. Press)—Two young girls, one armed with a broom, upset the plans of an unidentified young man, who thought he could get some money. Late on a Saturday night he entered the "Central Provisions" store on Sargent Ave., and gave a dollar-bill for a packet of cigarettes. While Annie Dobson, the clerk, went to get change, he whipped out a revolver. Annie's sister Rose, countered with a very business-like looking broom and literally swept him out.

THE RAINMAKER.

There was no hopeful sign of rain; all parched and blistered was the plain, burned up the nutmegs and the oats, and singed the whiskers of the goats. So fierce a drought had not shown up, men said, since Hector was a pup. Then came Professor Bunkum Balm, who had a scheme for making rain. "For seven thousand bones," said he, "I'll make this country like a sea, with water sloshing all around, refreshing all this burned up ground." When first we heard his words we laughed, and said his was a foolish grart; we would not fall for such a fake; no man had power a rain to make; and still the skies were hard and blue; by night there wasn't even dew; the cattle sought the river's brink and couldn't find a drop to drink. Then we agreed with Wizard Balm to pay the price he asked for rain. So he puts up a tall tin pipe, and burned some chemicals or tripe, and made some passes with his hand, and rain came down and soaked the land. The water poured day after day, and washed our shed and coops away, and slung our houses out of line, and drowned a thousand head of swine. And so we roasted Wizard Balm, and said such people should be slain. No man should let the water drop unless he knows just when to stop; no man should turn a torrent loose unless he can shut off the juice. And so the learned Professor Balm can't get his pay for making rain.
