MEETING OF THE LABOR CONGRESS YESTERDAY.

The President's Address—Appointment of Committees—List of the Delegates Present—Resolutions Introduced.

At half-past two yesterday afternoon Mr. Chas. March, president of the trades and labor council, informally opened the proceedings of the labor congress in Dufferin hall by extending a hearty welcome to the delegates from abroad, and then appointed J. R. Brown, Ottawa, Chas. A. Pettit, Belleville, and J. Armstrong, Toronto, a committee on credentials, after which an adjournment took place for thirty minutes to allow this committee to report.

On reassembling the committee reported that they had examined and found correct the following credentials: Thos. Martin and J. R. Brown, L. A. 2833, K. of L., Ottawa; Chas. A. Pettit, L. A. 2900, K. of L., Belleville; J. Aldridge, F. Howell and R. Johnson, bricklayers' union; J. Bedford and C. Armstrong, American brotherhood of carpenters; J. J. Rogers and S. Bailey, iron moulders, 140; A. J. Murray, J. Smith and J. Carver, L. A. 2895, K. of L., Toronto; L. A. 2822, K. of L., T. Moor and J. Ross, amalgamated carpenters, 301, Toronto; J. T. Carey, seaman's union, W. G. Garson and J. F. Keifer, L. A. 2056, St. Catharines; J. Gardiner and J. Armstrong, typographical union 91; J. Booth, C. M. Harris and C. Glendinning, builders' laborers' union; H. F. West, bakers' union; J. D. Murphy, seamen's union; J. Smith and J. Strachan, tailors' union; Chas. Chase and W. L. Miller, plasterers' union; B. McCord, stonecutters' union; D. McGregor, P. Shea and J. Dowling, longshoremen's union; C. March and J. O'Donoghue, trades and labor council; J. Perry and E. Ross, millers' union; R. Hutchinson and A. O'Brien, stove-mounters, stove-makers and pattern makers' union; O'Halloran, L. A. 2622, G. W. Read, L. A. 2518, K. of L., Port Dalhousie; J. McGhie and E. Farthing, stone-masons' union; J. H. Jones, iron-moulders' union; Thos. Hanton, sailors' union; H. E. Griffiths and R. Woodcock, L. A. 2782, K. of L., Toronto.

After the list had been read and reported on, motion J. R. Brown was called to the chair and the election of chairman for the convention was proceeded with.

On the name of Mr. Chas. March being put in nomination Mr. Meredith moved in amendment that a new chairman be elected each day. On this being put only five voted in the affirmative, and the motion was declared lost. The main motion was then put and carried. Mr. March on being conducted to the chair was warmly greeted. On quiet being restored he spoke for about ten minutes, alluding to the various resolutions which were being introduced, and the importance of the work before them.

As the result of the vote just taken, and for which all were here to return my sincere thanks, it devolves upon me to preside over the deliberations of the congress during its sittings until final adjournment. This honor I feel I must yield to the Toronto trades and labor council, the president of which body I happen to be at this time, and so, fully conscious as I am of that lack of experience so necessary in directing such an intelligent body of men as I meet before me. But as I always make it a point to do my duty as best I know how in every condition of affairs, I will endeavor that line now, trusting to your kind indulgence and direction where necessary.

Sudden Death of Dr. Thomas Beatty. Dr. Thomas Beatty of Lambton Mills was taken slightly but suddenly ill at his home about midnight of Tuesday night. A slight vomit was the only symptom of distress in the early part of his illness; but towards morning he grew worse, and at 7 o'clock he died. Heart disease was the cause of death. Dr. Beatty was an old and respected resident of Lambton Mills, and had practiced medicine in that neighborhood for about thirty years, and a native of the county Kerry, Ireland.

AN UNEXPECTED PHASE.

Dr. Beatty Passes Away and is Succeeded by Former Johnston—Entralty Opened Anew Last Night.

The sudden and unexpected death of Dr. Thomas Beatty, county coroner, at his home in Lambton Mills yesterday morning necessitated a complete reversal of the inquest touching the murder of the old woman Susan Gibbs. Coroner Johnston of this city was instructed to take charge of the inquest, and change of venue was made from Duck's hotel to Hicks' hotel at the Humber last night. A new jury was sworn in, composed of Edward Stokes (foreman), George Briggs, Robert Simpson, Patrick Donovan, Walter Wilson, Joseph Johnston, Joseph Bask, Walter Burgess, Charles Brown, James Dandridge, Geo. Rowett, Frank Daniels, John Noble, sr., John Noble, jr., John Johnston, Thomas Allen, George Armstrong, John White.

Yesterday Attorney-General Mowat instructed government detective John Ferguson to search the county constables in tracing the murderer to where it belonged, and he was on hand last night to keep the inquest going. Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Nicholas Murphy appeared for Aaron Harris, under arrest for complicity in the crime.

There was very little additional light thrown on the murder by last night's proceedings. Dr. Lynd of Parkdale testified to the death of Coroner Beatty, who had opened the inquest, and handed in certain papers which Dr. Beatty had in his possession bearing on the case.

Charles Nurse testified as to a conversation that took place between prisoner and himself on the railway platform at the Humber on Monday morning. Witness said to Harris in a joking way, that the latter had been discovered by the coroner (Harris) was the last one seen around the old woman's house before she was found dead.

Witness also told prisoner that crack had been discovered from Susan's hut to his house. Prisoner laughed and said "Susan was an old wench and had once been in my arms, and he would know if he would marry her." Mr. Nurse's evidence was unimportant.

Wm. J. Craig, son of the murdered woman, was re-examined. He repeated the evidence given on the first hearing, and stated that the prisoner had been in his mother's house at 212 Elizabeth street named Jane Rogers. This did not come out in the former hearing.

Maria Harris, the 12-year-old daughter of prisoner, also went over her former evidence, without much variation. On cross-examination by Mr. Murphy, she stated that when she accompanied prisoner to the railway platform at the Humber and saw a bundle lying on the floor that at first she was not sure whether it had been hung from or not.

She formed the opinion that it was afterwards. Dr. Kiddall and Lynd testified again as to the facts of this case, and the coroner, defence counsel, and Coroner Johnston adjourned the inquest till Jan. 2 next.

The inquest was adjourned until the 2nd inst. at 10 o'clock, and the jury were taken out to the Humber last night by the undercarriage, where they were viewed by the new jury.

The murder still creates great excitement throughout the township of Eglarville, and the jury were taken out to the Humber last night by the undercarriage, where they were viewed by the new jury.

HE WILL DECLINE THE CHAIRMANSHIP OF ONE COMMITTEE BECAUSE HE CANNOT GET ANOTHER. WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—"Sunset" Cox, who was appointed chairman of the house committee of naval affairs, has informed an intimate friend that he will positively decline to serve on that committee when congress reconvenes. The reasons assigned are that the committee on naval affairs will have comparatively little before it during the present congress, and that twenty-two years' service in the house entitled him to the chairmanship of foreign affairs. His friends say that in position Cox contemplated a number of reforms in the line of reducing the number of foreign ministers and vesting control with diplomatic power.

THE CONSULAR INVASION.

An informal conference was held at government house yesterday afternoon, at which his honor the lieutenant-governor, the honorable the commissioner of public works, and the government architect were present.

The governor opened the proceedings by somewhat abruptly saying that government house would have to be enlarged; that he did not wish his desire to do the honors of his office outstripped by his means to that end; that to say he wished, and was in fact most anxious, to entertain all who at all came within his purview, so to speak, but that the increase in the diplomatic corps has been so marked that he would certainly not be able to entertain in suitable form all the ambassadors from foreign potentates, all the consuls and vice-consuls, none resident in the city, unless he had a larger dining room, more reception rooms, a commodious wing to his wine cellar, and a new range in the gubernatorial kitchen.

"Have they increased so much as that," said the commissioner, as he tried to recollect how much government house had already cost the province.

But before he could make up the sum a knock came to the door, and a liveried servant asked his honor if he would be pleased to receive his superiority, the vice-consul of Patagonia, who had just arrived and desired to present his credentials. His honor consented to receive the distinguished envoy; he proposed to give to Gigs, the paper-box maker of Leander lane, who had driven up in a twenty-five cent cab, carried the Patagonian ensign, and bore an ensign as large as a cross-bill in his arms. His slinking spurred the hall with a dull thud.

His honor welcomed him to court, invited him to attend the vice-regal festivities, and to hang his banner on the outer wall. Mr. Gigs thereupon retired.

"We will certainly have to do something," said the commissioner, and thereupon sought the government architect report on the question. The architect said he would look into the matter forthwith and retired.

But before the governor could take leave of his loving minister, the commissioner, a page announced Mr. Buffum, the most eminent lawyer who wished to know his honor's decision in the matter of pleas on diplomatic coats. He had made a plea for the consul of Stungy on which he had, according to the best authorities, put three pleas; but that he now had an order from the consul of the Society Islands in the South Pacific, who had insisted on five pleas on his coat, and three slips in his coat tail. It was useless to try and follow the precedents of these little discrepancies were to be humored.

"You will have to see the provincial secretary," said his honor, "He may be able to arbitrate in such matters." Mr. Buffum retired. "But what do all the consuls do?" said the commissioner as he kissed hands.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING.

For Whom Does He Speak? Principal Grant of Queen's college is altogether too flippant.

Queen's college, if under the Presbyterian church, will be careful, nonetheless, not to anticipate the general assembly by entering up a list of procedures which the synod will not sanction.

The fact is that Queen's college is a private speculation, and it is only as men who have their positions and their salaries from it that Dr. Grant and his friends have spoken.

It also comes with rather bad grace from Provost Boyd, fresh from an Oxford cloister, to undertake to tell the people of Ontario how they shall conduct secular education.

And while they are about it we would like both of them, and Dr. Grant especially, to show why he has not included St. Michael's college, which also teaches divinity as well as secular subjects.

It is not to be included in the company? Or are the Catholics and Baptists to be left out of the provincial university?

In conclusion it is well to remember that the authorities of the provincial university have never taken the liberty of expressing any opinion as to the duty of the legislature in regard to other colleges than their own.

Just what good the insurance inspection established by the province of Ontario for life insurance has accomplished, is hard to tell. The Budget says it "is a very ludicrous performance."

One weakness of the assessment plan of life insurance by benefit associations is the carelessness of the medical inspection. A member of the A. O. U. W. complains:

Another thing these thirteen deaths this year from lung trouble, which were called chronic pleurisy, pneumonia, and consumption, these have not been in the end over two years, and some of them not under a medical examination. Do you not think so?

do not materially alter the 40 per cent. theory, for in his last letter, when forced to admit that University college was doing 55 per cent. instead of 40, he coolly declared that "Mr. Baker's 60 per cent. is as far off as ever."

The other religious denominations, Roman Catholics, baptists, congregationalists, etc., are beyond dispute a practical unit in their support of University college.

It is plain, then, from these figures, that University college has better right to call herself a representative of the Presbyterian and Episcopal bodies respectively than Queen's or Trinity; that she has as good a right to speak for the methodists as Victoria; and that she has no rival in the representation of the other religious denominations.

The thirteenth baseball game next year will no doubt be pitched as games, under the amended rules. The thirteenth game will be those of the Union association, owing to the heavy batting encouraged by their rules. The American association games will average about the same as last year, from very good to very bad.

Harry Wright, the baseballist, has two pet ideas which are worthy of consideration. First, he would put the pitcher back two feet, and secondly he would have base runners to overrun second and third base just as first is overrun now. The bases just give the batters a chance to display their skill and make the game lively, and the latter would prevent many of those painful accidents to players which yearly cripple clubs.

—"Words fail to express my gratitude," says Mr. Selby Carter of Nashville, Tenn., "for the benefits derived from Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Having been afflicted all my life with syphilis, my system seemed saturated with it. It came out in blotches, ulcers, and mattery sores, all over my body. Mr. Carter states that he was entirely cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, since discontinuing its use, eight months ago, has had no return of the scrofulous symptoms.

—The Best Polity.

—Regarding insurance policies against accidents, it is a good policy to have at hand a bottle of that invaluable medicine for internal and external use—Hagar's Yellow Oil—worth more than gold in relieving pain and suffering, for lameness, sprains, bruises, burns, stiff joints and all wounds.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases." J. W. WHITLEY.

"She Does Not Know Chicken from Turkey."

Helen is the handsomest girl of her race. She's an elegant form and an exquisite face. And she dresses with perfectly consummate grace. But she doesn't know chicken from turkey.

She doesn't know chicken from turkey. In science and fiction it is very well read. But she cannot cook meat, and she cannot make bread. And she doesn't know chicken from turkey.

She can play "Fantasia" or "Nocturne" with skill. Can sing up to "B" — has a wonderful trill. Can write a good story or sonnet, but she can't do it. She doesn't know chicken from turkey.

She's been up the Tiber, the Rhine and the Nile. She's a painter in every popular style — can do a delicate china, a playe or a tile. But she doesn't know chicken from turkey.

She always self-entitled, graceful and cool. A critic, both just and correct as a rule. And knows every stitch of the Kensington school. She knows many languages, living from dead. She can work a design in Lanang or Birt. But she cannot cut out for her children a skirt. Or make for her husband a well-fitting shirt. She doesn't know chicken from turkey.

I'm willing a girl should read Latin and Greek. She'd learn German and French and Italian speak. And be "up" in the latest statistical freak. If she only knows chicken from turkey.

I'd like her in music and to take part. Read poetry, science and literature art. If husband and children were first to her heart. And if she knew chicken from turkey.

Now barley from rice, knew a tart from a pie; A boil from a stew, a broil from a fry. And if she went into the market to buy, And she wanted her chicken from turkey.

For, to make a home happy, all knowledge must blend, Art, science and service their benefits lend. Then, ladies so clever and wise, condescend. To know about chicken or turkey.

Now, here comes the moral of this little tale. Which should make Helen do not know the word "Tail." For she went to where cookery books were for sale. And made known her desire to the clerk. He, from several volumes, immediately took A copy of "Mrs. Clarke's Cookery Book," And said, "You'll soon know, if through this you will look, What to do with a chicken or turkey."
