RUSSIAN AND ITALIAN INTEREST, IT IS FEARED, WILL BE HARD TO ARRANGE AFTER WAR

London, May 21—Italy's participation in the war, while welcomed in many quarters is not expected even by the most optimistic, to result in any quick termination of hostilities. While it may lead to immediate benefit for the allies, it is feared that several complications may result.

LETTER FROM STAFF SEGT. READE

German Shell Also Hits Hospital—Soldiers of Many Nationalities Under Care—Abner Belyea Writes of Experiences

Working in a hospital which the Germans, with their customary chivalry, made the latest for their shells, arising for wounded of several nationalities, and on the go day and night to keep pace with their work of mercy; these are some of the experiences told of by Staff Sergeant Joseph C. Reade of this city in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Reade, 98 Duke Street, West St. John. The letter follows:

Dear Parents: It is some time since I wrote you, as I have been so busy I could not get time.

We had in our hospital wounded from a great many countries, British, Canadians, French, Belgians, Gurkhas and Sikhs, Turcos and Germans (both Prussian and Bavarian). Of course our German patients were prisoners.

You have read of the battle and know where we are. It is in this section just now; the allies have regained more than they lost the first day. I do not know where they are now.

The Canadians have now been in the two greatest battles of the war, and each time have done well.

Our unit is still in the field, and also running a hospital some distance in the rear. I tell you we have some great and faithful workers. I have a slight cold but I could get a little rest.

From Abner Belyea.

The following from Abner Belyea comes to his sister, Miss Mabel Belyea, 5 Horsfield street—

April 29, 1915.

Dear Sister Mabel—Just a line to let you know that I am in the best of health and all the Gagetown boys are the same.

We have been very busy lately and I have not had my boots off for four days and nights and the horses have been harnessed all that time. We have been under some severe shell fire, but all have come off safely.

Just lost three or four wagons and some horses. Ben Dunn, Jack Pincombe and John Wright are in a three team hitch and had a narrow escape; a shell burst about twenty feet from them killing three horses and blowing a hole in the ground big enough to bury them. It splattered them with horse flesh, blood and mud. They were an awful sight.

Thank goodness, they came out of it whole.

We had a shell burst within twenty-five yards of me at the battle of the Marston, it blew a big tree about twenty feet in the air and killed one horse and wounded two men; that was close enough for me.

The roads are just strewn with dead horses and I saw two dead men, the first I have seen. They looked awful, they surely deserved me, but such is war and one must grin and bear it.

The 3th Royal Highlanders surely covered themselves with glory, and the Canadians as a whole did good work.

Send me the Telegraph that describes the second battle of Ypres. It will be very interesting to me. I have seen quite a number of towns shelled and it is a common occasion to see great holes in the road and fields from the explosion of them. I saw a house the other day that had been hit by a shell. The whole front had been blown clear out of it and the kettle was still on the stove and up stairs the bed was half blown away and the garments were hanging on pegs on the wall.

Well write soon, love to all,

From BROTHER ABNER.

From George Wilson.

Jas. Steen, manager of the Victoria Bowling alleys, has received a letter from Pte. George Wilson, of 44 High Street, his mother. He writes that he

French Drive Them Out and Gain Ground, While British Also Make Progress Near LaBassee

Paris, May 21—The French War Office reports: "To the north of Ypres, and to the east of the Yser Canal, the enemy early last night started an attack against our trenches. He was successful in the beginning, but an immediate counter attack resulted in his complete expulsion. At the same time we won ground beyond our original positions. We took 120 prisoners.

Further to the south, British troops made some progress at a point north of Ypres.

"At Notre Dame De Lorette, and on the front between Souchez and Nouville St. Vaast, there were artillery exchanges all night.

Pope's Gift of Ship Ophelia, which was captured at sea, as a lawful prize of war.

Amsterdam, May 21—Heavy casualties attended the latest air raid of the allies against the German concentration camp at Bruge, Belgium. Ten German soldiers were killed outright, scores wounded and damage done to military property.

But One Survivor. Brigham, Eng. May 21—The captain of the French trawler St. Just, which was blown up eight miles from Hartmouth on Thursday, was landed here today. He was the sole survivor. It is believed that the St. Just was torpedoed by a German submarine.

is enjoying himself and is having a good time. He also writes that they drill only once a week. They are in a thirty men to a hut, and sleep in the same hut, which, he says, is as clean as a pin. He expects to be sent down to Dover before they leave England.

Pte. Wilson left St. John with No. 5 C. A. S. C. and is now at Folkestone. He was a member of Douglas Ave. Church in Ypres. He wishes to be remembered to his friends.

From George Andrews.

In a letter to Mr. Steen, Pte. George Andrews, who left here with the first contingent, writes that he is well. He was through several engagements and came out unharmed. He says the English and French troops treat the Canadian boys like life long friends. He mentions that Signaller Leo Quigg of Fairville was laid up with a cold, but hopes to be about soon. All the St. John boys with him were all well, and wished to be remembered to their friends in St. John.

Under Fire for Ten Days.

A letter has been received by a friend in Sussex, from Murray MacLeod, written on April 29. He had been under fire for ten days.

Wounded in Hand.

Private Alex. Watling of Amherst, who was wounded at the battle of Langemarck wrote to his home in Chatham, stating that his wounds were merely superficial, he having received a bullet in the hand, affecting his fingers. He expects to return to the trenches within a few days.

BUDGET SHOWS DEFICIT

Newfoundlanders Are to Have Taxes Increase

St. John's, Nfld., May 21—The budget shows a deficit of a half million dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30. The government proposes a special loan for next year to provide against a possible deficit. The minister proposes a duty of three cents a gallon on kerosene and gasoline used in driving motor boats, and ten per cent on all goods previously on the free list.

GIVEN A SHOWER.

A good time was enjoyed last evening by members of the Friendship Camp, when they met upon Miss Nellie Quinn, 246 Charlotte street, and tendered her a shower in honor of her marriage next month. She was the recipient of best wishes and also a variety of remembrances.

The government is awaiting knowledge of the German reply to Washington. Behind the Swiss representations will be the Swiss army 500,000 strong.

VICTORIOUS ADVANCE OF GERMANS IS CHECKED

Russians, Too, Have Crushed Left Wing of Enemy and Exposed Army on San to Double Attack

London, May 21—The Times Petrograd correspondent telegraphs: "The victorious advance of the Austro-German army from the line of the Dunajec at length has been checked. The Russian armies had fallen back to the defences of the San, and for ten miles to the north of Jaroslau the enemy had forced their way to the western bank.

"Meanwhile the left wing of the invading army, operating to the north of the Upper Vistula, has been crushed by the Russians at Opatow and has exposed the Austro-German army on the San, to an attack from the north as well as from the east.

"Great masses of the enemy have arrived in the Stry region, apparently for an attempt to move on Lemberg. So far, all their attempts to advance in this region have been checked by the Russians."

Petrograd, May 21—Austro-German troops are maintaining their offensive on the San River around Przemysl and north of Jaroslau, but at other points the strength of their attacks has diminished.

Both Jaroslau and Sienawa are in the hands of the Germans.

He was a son of Prof. Hiram Ball, formerly organist of the First Moncton Baptist Church. He was twenty-one years old, and formerly was in the I. C. R. audit office.

FEW, IF ANY, ITALIANS HERE

Inquiries into the local effect of Italy's entrance into the war have revealed the interesting fact that there are few, if any, Italians domiciled in St. John at present. At one time there was a fair sized Italian colony here, but they all seem to have drifted away.

John deAngelis is the best known Italian in the city, but he is a naturalized British subject and said that he knew of very few of his countrymen who make their homes here.

The Italian consul at this port, Charles McLaughlin, said this morning that he knew of no Italian citizens living here. He had received word from several servants who wished to report for duty if they were needed, but they are not permanent residents of the city. He had taken their names and reported them, but so far had not received any instructions regarding them.

MRS. WM. S. BROWN DEAD; HUSBAND CRITICALLY ILL

The death of a well known North End resident, Mrs. Mary E. Brown, wife of William S. Brown, occurred early this morning at her home, 78 High Street. The death just at this time is regarded especially sad because of the condition of Mr. Brown's health, as he has been critically ill with heart trouble for the last ten days or more. His wife became ill only on last Saturday. Both have been held in high esteem, and the death of the one and illness of the other have been heard of with regret by many friends. They are buried now after fifty-six years of wedded life.

Mrs. Brown, who was seventy-seven years of age, was a member of Brussels Street Baptist church. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. S. Torrey of Linden, Mass., and Mrs. F. W. Daley of St. John, and two sons, Arthur W. and Aubrey S., of this city. The funeral will be held on Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

KELLY'S HIGH SCORING

Kelly certainly was in great form on Thursday, when he put up a fine string score of 591 on the Victoria alleys. His highest single was 136 and his lowest 107. His scores were 116, 136, 124, 107, 108—591, average 118.5. This is considered as good a score as was ever put up in this city. Covey was second with 522, made up of 119, 109, 114, 104, 106. Jack Cullinan had a high single of 133.

GREAT FIELD DAY FOR CONSTRUCTION CORPS MEMBERS

Galaxy Day of Sports on Monday and Big Assembly in the Evening

There is much interest in the plans of the Canadian Railway Construction Corps for the celebration of Victoria Day on Monday.

The sports will commence at 10 a. m. and will include one mile race, 100 yards dash, one quarter mile race, relay, tossing the caber, putting the shot, tug-of-war, standing broad jump, hop-step-and-leap, three quick jumps, three-legged race, greased pig race, and an association football and seven inning baseball match.

The programme will extend throughout the whole day from 10 a. m. The events will be under the supervision of Majors Reid, Hervey, Richardson and Lefevre, Captains Grant, Pope, Wellwood and Lieutenants Sherwood, Connors, Duncan, Wilson, Lewis and Murray.

In the evening the corps will be at home to their friends in the immigration buildings, West St. John, where they will conduct an assembly. Accommodation is being provided for about 1,000.

An attractive programme of dancing will be carried out. The dance is being conducted by invitation, but the members of the corps having the event in charge are asking that the ladies who received invitations to their last "at home" should consider themselves as invited also to this, as they fear they may not be able to have all the invitations issued in time. The programme is cordially invited to attend the sports.

YOUNG WOMAN MISSING

Digby, N. S., May 21—Excitement prevails at Smith's Cove this morning over the disappearance of Emma, twenty year old daughter of John McGuire, who left her home in that village at nine o'clock yesterday morning for a routine trip on the Chute Brook line, intending to return in a few hours. All last night searching parties were unable to locate any trace of her, and at noon today there was no news. The stream is not high and it is thought hardly probable that she was drowned.

HAWAIIAN BELIEFS

Natives Have Wealth of Superstitious Rites—Coincidents Due to Physical Causes

Like all primitive people, and some that are not so very primitive, as well, the native Hawaiians have many superstitions in which they firmly believe, and which they carefully conceal from the hailes, or whites.

No matter how long they have been civilized, or how much they have associated with Caucasians, deep in the heart of every one of them are strange beliefs and traditions, and not anything in the world can shake their faith in these age-old folk-lore. They are, of course, very interesting to the stranger, once he gets on the track of them, for they have a setting that is peculiarly their own, and they are, therefore, not quite like the superstitions of any other people in the world.

It takes a lot of courage for the average man to realize that he has grown so undemocratic (so he calls it) that he must have a dress suit. Ever truly it is no plebeian outfit.

Imperial Tonic and Satisfy The third episode of the "Black Box" at Imperial Tonic and Satisfy will deal with Sanford Quest's wonderful invention "The Pocket Wireless" and how this marvelous little device helped him to get near the mystery of the hidden hands and how it also saved "Sergeant Warren's Ward" a splendid feat which will be proved and illustrated by the German themselves in the singing of the "Lullaby" under the words of the Kaiser's hardy "anticipation" that he would do this damnable deed.

GERMAN CHILDREN REJOICE! (Western British American.) A very few months ago the children of Germany were dancing around Christmas trees laden with gifts from the children of America. Their Yuletide during the terrible war time was made merry by the sympathy and offerings of our young friends across the seas whose holiday was spoiled by the thought of the harvest of lives in the trenches.

Friday of last week these same German children were given a special holiday to rejoice over the drowning of dozens of Americans—fathers, mothers and children—by the cruel murder of harmless people—many of whom no doubt had made their last Christmas on earth a happy one by buying or making pretty or useful presents to delight the eyes of Hans and Gretchen in Kaiserland.

There are many angles by which to view the tragedy of last week in which German boys and girls were sent to sternly without a moment's notice by direction of the German government. They celebrated the cruel murder of harmless people—many of whom no doubt had made their last Christmas on earth a happy one by buying or making pretty or useful presents to delight the eyes of Hans and Gretchen in Kaiserland.

FOUR FROM THE CAPITAL WOUNDED

John Markey Latest Fredericton Man in the List

TWO BROTHERS ARE HIT

Lockhart Boys of Truro—German Declare Canadians "Devilish Good Fighters"—Sussex and Charlotte County Heroes of the War

Private John Markey, wounded in the 14th Battalion, is the fourth Fredericton man to be wounded. The others are Privates Archie Smith, Joseph Leford and Arnold Smith. Private Markey left Truro on August with the first draft from the 14th Battalion to reach the firing line, having been in the first draft from the 14th Battalion sent to France to reinforce the trenches for almost four months, and in letters to his wife in this city told of meeting several Fredericton men in the trenches.

He was a member of the "Maryville Lancers" and was in the Canadian Expeditionary Force as a sergeant in Major Guthrie's company.

Two Brothers Wounded. Private Frank M. Lockhart of the 18th Battalion and Private Wm. Parker Lockhart of the same battalion, of Truro, N. S., were both wounded at the battle of Langemarck. A later despatch told that Private Desmond Johnston had also been killed. The letter was with a copy to his parents, but was at camp with Major Laughlin in 1902. Mrs. Bernard Frost, of Milltown, Me., is a sister.

A letter received from Private Chas. Johnson states that he has been with the Princess Patricia's since January and has not been wounded.

Private William "Dell" was wounded in action on May 14, but not seriously.

"Devilish Good Fighters" "The Canadians are devilish good fighters," is the compliment paid to our boys by German military captives. The fighting in Flanders, according to Sapper Frank Estey of Fredericton, who has written an interesting letter to his mother, Mrs. J. D. Estey.

Sapper Estey is with the Third Canadian Engineers, and he says that the fighting in Flanders, according to Sapper Frank Estey of Fredericton, who has written an interesting letter to his mother, Mrs. J. D. Estey.

"I am well. We had an awful time for the last week. However, I guess we will be home real soon. The Canadian boys are a awful lot and so did the English, but we have those Germans under control.

"We were acting as infantry in the trenches. I never want to see the same thing again and I hope I never will. It was terrible but the fellows capture the English are good soldiers, but the Canadians are devilish good fighters."

"Our company was mentioned in the despatches to the War Office. The Third Canadian Engineers, with a few of our boys (band members) helped the left flank until reinforcements came up, causing the Germans to throw up reinforcements."

In Langemarck Fight. Joseph Hallett of Millville, York county, has received a letter from his son, Private Arden Hallett of the 14th Battalion, saying that he had been through the battle of Langemarck with that corps and had come out unscathed.

Private Hallett left Fredericton with the first draft from the 14th Battalion, and was drafted from the 12th Battalion to the 14th. Mr. Hallett has another son on active service. He is Horace G. Hallett and is serving in France as a telegraph operator.

A Sussex Hero. A. L. Bunnell, son of Albert Bunnell of Sussex, killed at Langemarck, was a bright young man of exemplary character. In a letter received from N. Bardon by his uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Proctor, writing of the battle, he says:

"Four Len Bunnell was killed at the beginning of the battle. We were advancing across a field in the open when he went down with several others. It was too bad about Bunnell; he was my comrade and a fine fellow; he was close to me when he fell."

Lance Corporal Bunnell previous to enlistment, was an employee of the Sussex Mercantile Company, and was extremely popular with his associates, and the public generally.

Nova Scotian Killed. Private Guy Ruffie, of Bridgetown, N. S., was killed in action. He went west over a year ago and enlisted at Calgary with the first contingent. He was twenty-seven years of age, a bright young man of cheerful disposition. He

"WHITE BEAUTY"
 ADVERTISED IN LEADING MAGAZINES

Saturday is the Last Day

Even tomorrow may end your chance to have the NEW HOOSIER for $1.

Will you decide now to come down tomorrow and settle the matter once for all, or will you let tomorrow drift by—and then realize you are too late to decide, because of the close of the Hoosier Plan of Sale?

Scores of other women are in your state of mind. They are reading this final call tonight. And many who have postponed as you have are making up their minds tonight to come down tomorrow for a final decision.

A choice still remains between "White Beauty" (selected by 3 out of 4 women) and the Hoosiers with "Oak" interior. But the numbers are few and you cannot hope to get one if you delay. You incur no obligation by coming, so let other matters wait tomorrow while you settle this important question.

You could scarcely imagine a decision of more importance to you. For the new Hoosier is a wonderful labor-saver—already used by 700,000 women. It saves miles of steps and hours of valuable time. It saves health and good looks. It is very low in price—and on the liberal terms of the Hoosier Plan is the Cheapest Kitchen Cabinet Ever Built.

We Now Have Kept Our Promise to You

Please remember, if you come too late, that we have told you every day of the progress of this sale, and that we now warn you of the final date in time for you to still enroll if you act early tomorrow.

Read About these conveniences that have made the HOOSIER necessary to over 700,000 Women

- (1) Mrs. Christine Frederick's famous "Housekeepers' Food Guide"—on the upper left door—answers every woman's eternally perplexing problem—"What shall we have for dinner?" You turn the dial to the meat you want and a complete outline of a perfectly balanced meal is before you—an exclusive Hoosier feature that is an invaluable help.
 - (2) The Cook-book holder on the middle upper door holds your cook book securely when not in use. When you are cooking, simply open up the book to the proper page behind the holder. It is on a level with your eye, always clean, never in the way.
 - (3) The Hoosier Metal Flour Bin holds fifty pounds. It is low and easy to fill. The sliding glass front enables you to clean the entire bin easily. The inside is entirely of metal, with no corners to hold flour. First flour in is always out first.
 - (4) The New Shaker Flour Sifter is the most wonderful of all the New Hoosier inventions. It is the only flour sifter ever made on a kitchen cabinet that shakes flour through instead of grinding it through. It cannot wear out and cannot grind through any grit or foreign substance that might be in the flour.
 - (5) The new Bill File is a complete bookkeeping system for most households. Most women dislike bookkeeping, but this simple book file for meat and grocery bills on the upper middle door shows exactly which bills have been paid and which have not. With it you can keep a complete, simple record of all your money transactions.
 - (6) Every woman has favorite recipes. If you're like most women, you have difficulty remembering where you put the one you want. The Metal Recipe Card File has 50 cards and 10 index guides. You can paste or write the recipe and file it always at your fingers' ends. A special holder is provided so you can keep any recipe you are using at level of your eyes—without holding or soiling it.
- These and 35 other conveniences are worth examining tomorrow—even at some personal effort on your part. Tomorrow is your last chance to decide whether you want them now on the easy Hoosier Plan.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Most Successfully Treated by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, which is serious. It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of their functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old reliable all-the-year-round medicine, is especially useful in the spring. Get it from your druggist today. By purifying and enriching the blood and giving vitality, vigor and tone, it is wonderfully successful in the treatment of loss of appetite and the other ailments prevalent at this time. It is not simply a spring medicine—it is much more than that—but it is the best spring medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the rich red blood the digestive organs need.

RECENT DEATHS

Mrs. William Sleeth of Moncton, died on Thursday, she was seventy-six years of age, born at Kingdon, N. B., but spent much of her early life in St. John and has been a resident of Moncton for upwards of forty years. She was formerly Miss Ellen McLaughlin. She is survived by her husband, and one daughter, Mrs. Harry A. Price, who resides in her mother, and one son, Herbert Sleeth, of the I. C. R.

Daniel O'Sullivan of Salisbury is dead aged seventy-five years. He is survived by two sisters and one brother.

THE LOBSTER INDUSTRY

Richard O'Leary of Richibucto, one of the largest lobster packers in the province, being the owner of the canneries on the North Shore and at several points in southern Nova Scotia, says the industry has been hard hit by the European war, having lost a profitable market for many thousands of cases in France, Belgium and Germany. The factories are operating at usual this year and so far the catch has been good. The demand for the lobsters is the large cities of the New England states keeps up well and heavy shipments are being made from Nova Scotian ports.

SUSSEX TREE PLANTING

About one hundred trees were set out during the past week in different sections of the town of Sussex, under the supervision of H. A. White, President of the Town Improvement Association and W. E. McLeod, chairman of the street committee. About sixty were furnished by the Town Improvement Association and the balance by private citizens who purchased them from the ladies committee. The trees were donated by S. H. White and came from Rockville. They are mostly hardy young maples.

FINANCIAL MEN IN PUBLIC EYE

"I've got a great money making idea," said Mr. Binks to his neighbor.

"What's that?" inquired the neighbor.

"Do you see that automobile of mine?" asked Mr. Binks, pointing with all of the pride of a campaign speaker.

"Well, every time I take that car apart to fix it and put it together I always have 15 or 20 parts left over and I can't find room for them. I have taken that car apart three times and I have got the back end of my garage full of parts and the car runs just as well as it ever did. My idea is that I think when a man has taken a car apart say six times, he will have enough parts left over to build a new car, exclusive of the body. I am going to take my car apart every week and I think I ought to be able to build at least three new cars out of it. Then I will sell the old car and get another and start taking that apart. I figure that I ought to clean up about 500 per cent on every car that I buy."

Mrs. Minna Mollman of East St. Louis aged 72 has achieved distinction as the "Mother of Mayors." The April elections saw two of her sons elevated to be chief executives of their home cities. A third was candidate for Chief Supervisor, sometimes called Mayor, of St. Clair, County, but failed of election. Fred W. Mollman took his seat two weeks ago as Mayor of East St. Louis. A month ago his brother, Julius, was elected Mayor of Mascoutah, Ill.

St. John Soldier Has Nine Wounds

George Wilson Recovering, But Says Germans Could Not Have Done Much More to Him

A letter received by his mother, Mrs. Charles Wilson, of 26 St. Andrew street, from her son, George, serving with the 1st Royal Montreal Regiment in the first contingent told of his having received wounds in the battle of Ypres. "I am getting along fine, now," he said, "but I had five shrapnel wounds in the left arm besides a bullet through my right leg. I was also hit below the cheek bone, and the shot passed through the roof of my mouth. I was also struck in the neck by shrapnel which worked itself out, and in addition I was struck in the left shoulder.

"I was operated on a few days ago and had the shrapnel taken out of my arm. I have been in hospital two weeks today, and expect to be about again in possibly two months, no thanks to the Germans, for they couldn't have done much more to me without putting me under completely."

TELL WORLD ABOUT LANGEMARCK FIGHT

Foresight of General Alderson a Factor in Victory

THE GALLANT CANADIANS

Territorials Also Won Glory in the Capture of St. Julien—The Terrific Fight as the Germans Came on Behind Poison Cloud

English newspapers received by the last mail contain much additional information regarding the battle of Langemarck, in which the First Canadian Division so nobly distinguished itself. The correspondent of the London Morning Post, for instance, emphasizes the work of the 16th Regiment, from Alberta and British Columbia, in the battle. With remarkable foresight, General Alderson, who was holding this battalion in reserve, instead of having it parallel to his front, had it perpendicular, that is to say, facing north. When, therefore, the Germans broke through from Langemarck towards the canal and swung south to cut off the Canadians, the 16th was ready to meet them and to advance at the crucial moment to maintain the line intact. This was undoubtedly the critical part of the battle.

From the reports cabled to Canada it has been understood that the reinforcements which were rushed up to the Canadian front at a critical time, and which participated in the taking of St. Julien, were regular troops. It appears, however, that they were English Territorials, and that they, shoulder to shoulder with the Canadians, bore themselves with the utmost gallantry. For many of them it was their baptism of fire, but the Morning Post correspondent says, "on all hands I hear warm eulogies of their steadiness and courage. They behaved like seasoned troops."

According to the Morning Post correspondent, it was on the afternoon of Friday, 20th, that the reinforcements, consisting of British Territorials, were brought round from behind Ypres and moved to the assault of St. Julien. Detachments of the Buffs were already with the Canadians, but three fresh Territorials included the 5th Yorks, the West Kents, and the Gloucesters. The taking of St. Julien was one of those brilliant minor affairs of which this war has been full, but which in any former campaign would have been written large upon the page of history. It was a little epic in itself. Up the open road and through the banks of the little River Haanebeck they poured, mowed down by the murderous machine guns in the ruined houses, and a fair mark for the artillery farther on. With dauntless courage they bore it for hours until at last, in one final rush, they gained the place. Then among the ruins they got a little of their own back with the bayonet, for the Germans held their ground. It was here that the greatest number of machine guns was captured and the deadliest slaughter effected. The pity of it is that the Territorials could not enjoy the full fruits of their gallant conduct, for, with the remodeling of our line, St. Julien was too far advanced and had to be abandoned again.

The British "Eye Witness" explains that an effort on the part of the Germans in the direction of Langemarck was not unexpected, since movements of troops and transports behind their front line had been detected for some days. It was peculiar and novel nature, however, was a surprise which was largely responsible for the measure of success achieved.

The "Eye Witness" was much impressed by what occurred behind the Canadian lines during the hot artillery fire which followed the first German onslaught on the right of the line held by the French. He remarks that throughout this period "our men in reserve near Ypres, seeing the shells bursting, had gathered in groups, discussing the situation and questioning some scattered bodies of Turcos who had appeared. Suddenly a staff officer rode up, shouting, 'Stand to your arms' and in a few minutes the troops had fallen in and were marching northwards to the scene of the fight. Nothing more impressive can be imagined than the sight of our men falling in quietly in perfect order on their alarm posts amid the scene of wild confusion caused by the panic-stricken refugees who swarmed along the road."

In the meantime, to the north and northeast of the town, a confused fight was taking place, which gave proof not only of great gallantry and steadiness on the part of the troops referred to, but of remarkable presence of mind on the part of their leaders. Behind the wall of vapor, which had swept across fields, through woods, and over hedgerows, came the German firing line, the men's mouths and noses, it is said, protected by pads soaked in a solution of bicarbonate of soda. Closely following them, again, came the supports. These troops, hurrying forward, with their formation somewhat broken up by the obstacles encountered in their path, looked like a huge mob heading down upon the town. A battery of 4.7 inch guns a little beyond the left of our line was surprised and overwhelmed by them in a moment. Farther to the rear and in a more easterly direction were several field batteries, and before they could come into action the Germans were within a few hundred yards. Not a gun, however, was lost. One battery, taken in flank, swung round, fired on the enemy at point blank range and checked the rush. Another opened fire with the guns pointing in almost opposite directions, the enemy being on three sides of them.

The War Office issues the following communication: "As a protection against the asphyxiating gases being used as a weapon of warfare by the Germans, supplies of one or both of the following types of respirator are required by the troops at the front. Either can be made easily in any household. First, a face piece to cover mouth and nostrils formed of an oblong pad of bleached absorbent cotton wool about 8 in. by 8 in. covered with three layers of bleached cotton gauze, and fitted with a band, to fit round the head and keep the pad in position, consisting of a piece of 1-2 in. cotton elastic 16 in. long attached to the narrow end of the face pad so as to form a loop with the pad. Second, piece of double stockette, 9 1/2 in. long, 3 1/2 in. wide in the centre, gradually diminishing in width to 2 1/2 in. at each end, with a piece of thick plaited wadding about 3 in. long attached at each end, so as to form a loop to pass over the ears. These respirators should be sent in packages of not fewer than 100 to Chief Ordnance Officer, Royal Army Clothing Department, Plimlico."

A letter despatch from Paris states: "An investigation into a number of so-called 'charities' which have sprung up since the war led to some astonishing results. One of these concerns was installed in a German hotel and was under the control of a secretary who had come within the clutches of the law on no fewer than eleven occasions. Two ladies of mature age who were without a penny at the time of mobilization today possess a fine motor-car and a private house. They were making something like $40 per diem, and this huge profit seems to have been gained by spurious agencies for tracing missing soldiers."

The most remarkable feature of the whole business lies in the fact that in several cases Austrians and Germans who had somehow succeeded in escaping from concentration camps got together with presidents of various organizations in order to carry on swindling on a large scale. Some of the concerns which the police are investigating were commercial in character, and sold various articles at exorbitant prices, customers being induced to buy in the belief that the profits were devoted to good works."

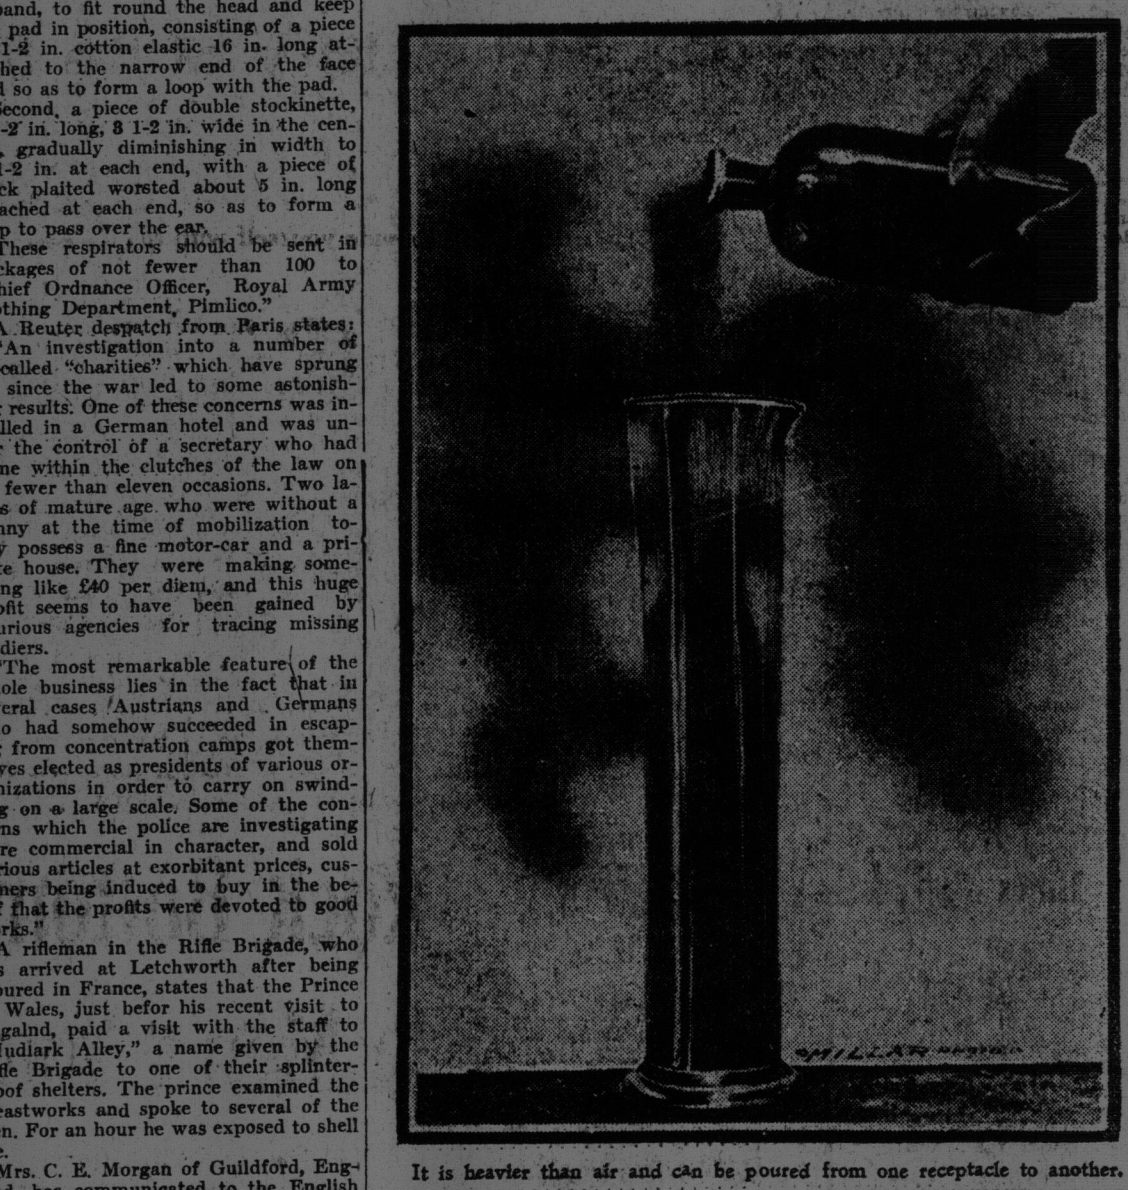

A fifteenth man in the Rifle Brigade, who has arrived at Letworth after being injured in France, states that the Prince of Wales, just before his recent visit to England, paid a visit with the staff to "Judith Alley," a name given by the Rifle Brigade to one of their splinter-proof shelters. The prince examined the breasting works and spoke to several of the men. For an hour he was exposed to shell fire. Mrs. C. E. Morgan of Guildford, England, has communicated to the English press a letter in which she says: "I have today received a letter from a company sergeant-major in the Queen's Regiment interned in a German camp. Writing on a postcard to thank me for a parcel, he adds: 'Three men have died quite lately.' He gives the names, all men of the Queen's Regiment. Last week news reached a mother through Geneva that her son, a 'Queen's' prisoner had also died. No notification of these deaths appears to have reached the War Office. A private writing to his wife about a month ago, said: 'For the love of heaven, send me bread. If you knew what was going on here you would not wait to be asked twice. How many more of our prisoners of war are to be allowed to die without any effort being made to save them?'"

WHERE THE BATTLE OF LANGEMARCK WAS FOUGHT

The Canadians were stationed between the railroad, running northeast from Ypres, and the Ypres-Poelcappelle road, probably along the well-marked cross-road leading from Langemarck and Kersselaar to Zonnebeke, for we read of one regiment "holding the cross-road" at a critical period of the battle. Eiken, the hill on which it rests, and the "Pulken i. om," to the west and northwest of St. Julien, mark the limits of the channel down which the Germans rushed in their attempt to overwhelm and surround the Canadian division when their poisonous gases had broken the line of the Allies and driven the French troops back. It was probably on the slope of this hill that the 47 battery, which the Canadians captured, was stationed.

TOUCHING TALE OF WAR

A correspondent of the London Morning Post touches for the truth of the following story: A Welshman and his wife anxious to adopt a child from among the Belgian refugees, journeyed from Abercromby to Swansea to make their selection. On their arrival they found that there were two young children—brother and sister—who particularly appealed to them and who might be adopted but that one could not be taken without the other. In the circumstances they decided to take both. As the children were being undressed to be put to bed after receiving home a locket was discovered hanging round the little girl's neck. Inside the locket was a photograph which the lady recognized as that of her own sister who had gone to Belgium as a governess many years before, had married and settled down in that country and who now turned out to be the mother of the little refugee. She had therefore unknowingly adopted her own motherless nephew and niece.

Germans in America Sending Millions Each Month

DR. DERNBURG'S ACTIVITIES

Notified Germans in Canada of War in July—Acted on His Advice and Sent Bank Deposits to United States

Gaston Alphonse of the Paris Temps, writes in his Journal from New York, under date of April 20: The German embassy and consulates in the United States have kept an annual census of the Germans in the United States, showing what each possessed and earned, and enabling the German government to levy a war tax on them. This tax was ten per cent of wages or income. These contributions amounted to over $6,000,000 francs in August and September, and never have fallen below $4,000,000 francs monthly since. Dr. Dernburg also organized a syndicate of banks which were pro-German, through which he tried to exert pressure upon those in touch with the government, and upon members of the government themselves. Several statesmen notified Dr. Dernburg that his show of friendship was distasteful to them. Since then the attitude of both Dr. Dernburg and Count von Bernstorff toward Washington has been marked by menace, abruptness and intimidation, thereby earning for them the gratitude of France, since their conduct has been the best possible propaganda for the allies. Canada can put Germans in the hospitals into concentration camps, but she is unable to seize their wealth, which as a result of a warning sent by wires from Berlin to Dr. Dernburg, was transferred to United States banks on July 24, ten days before the beginning of the war.

In December Dr. Dernburg ordered the German merchants in China, numbering 140,000, to send him all the money possible. The money, amounting to $75,000,000, arrived in California some weeks later hidden in metal building material, and Dr. Dernburg announced that Germany would issue a loan in Chicago of $20,000,000, saying that he was so sure of American confidence in Germany that he felt confident the loan would be covered within a day in Chicago alone. This was a safe prophecy, as the money already there, Chinese funds being utilized for the purpose.

GERMANY HAS LOST TWO MILLION MEN

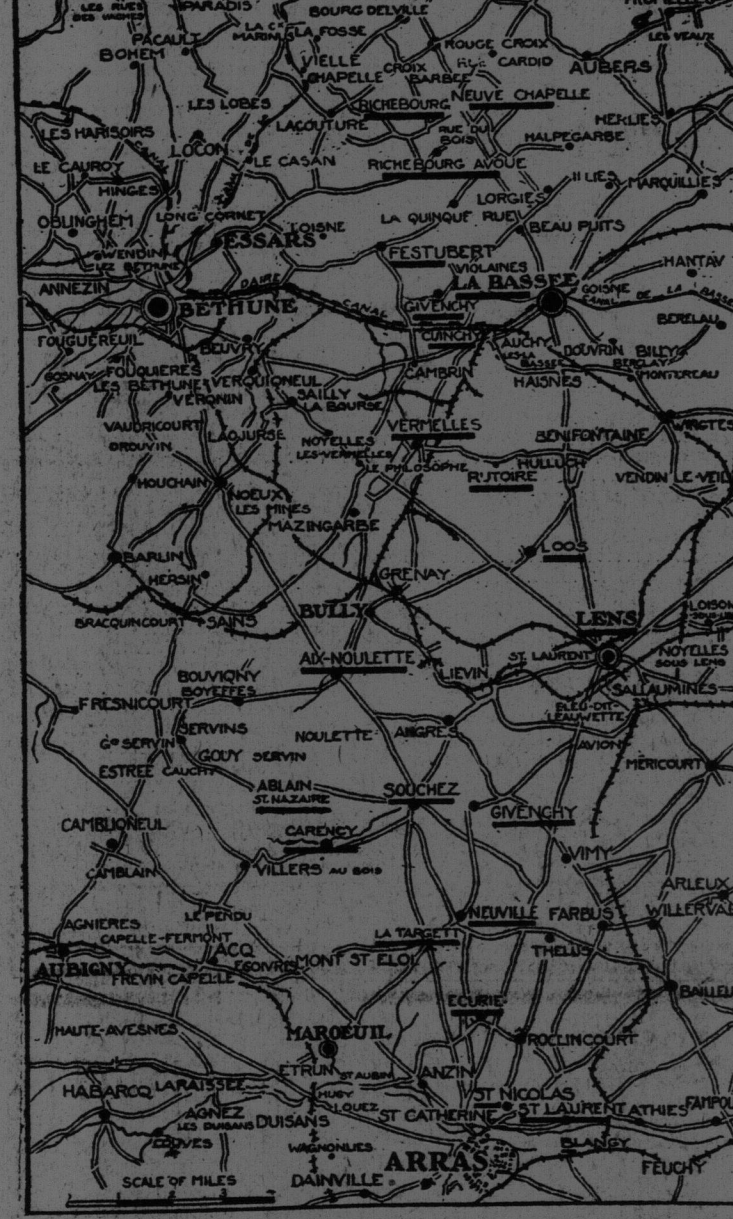

Estimate of London Daily Chronicle; 11,000 Officers Dead; 200,000 Officers and Men Missing

London, May 21.—The Daily Chronicle has received what purports to be an authoritative statement of casualties in the German ranks from the beginning of the war to the end of March. There are two sets of classified lists in the Chronicle's possession. The first set, covering the period of fighting from August 2 to February 14, numbers 180, and the second, from the middle of February to March 31, numbers 45, making a total of 225 lists.

"According to the general statement from which we quote," says the Chronicle, "the following is the classified loss until February 14: 'Dead—Officers, 10,951; non-commissioned officers and men, 287,697; wounded—Officers, 19,809; non-commissioned officers and men, 728,406; missing—Officers, 1,892; non-commissioned officers and men, 177,144; total, 1,175,881. 'We have not any classified statement with regard to the next 45 lists, but on the basis of the 180 earlier lists they would probably add an additional 800,000 to the total.

"It is to be borne in mind that the six weeks covered by the latest forty-five lists include exceptionally severe fighting in Poland, Galicia and the Carpathians, as well as the tremendous and sustained struggles in Flanders and northwest France. The probability therefore is that the grand total of German casualties until March 31 cannot be far short of 1,900,000, and another quarter of a million must certainly be added for the fighting of the last six weeks.

WHERE ALLIES ARE VICTORIOUS.

The storm centre of the war is now between Arras and La Bassée, where both French and British are advancing. The underlined places on the map are scenes of recent severe fighting.

Col. Currie, M. P., of Canadian Highlanders, Tells of Fierce Fighting—Capt. Cory Mentioned

"The 48th have made a name that will go down into history, but the price paid was awful," writes their commander, Lt.-Col. J. A. Currie, M. P., in a letter dated April 29, received by Mrs. Currie, of Toronto.

"We have had a terrible battle, lasting six days. The Canadian division replaced a French Army Corps on the line in Belgium. My regiment and the Highlanders of Montreal held the angle. We were on the right and they were on the left next to the French. The Germans attacked, using chlorine gas and shell fire, and drove the Turcos, who had only been several days in the trenches, out. Our division had to restore their line and hold our own. In several desperate charges we drove the Germans back to where they are now held.

Losses Very Heavy. "Our losses were very heavy. The second day they attacked our trenches, which were partially exposed by the retreat of the French. My men were in small redoubts which we defended so vigorously that they had to retire with heavy losses. The third morning at four o'clock they attacked us again with about forty heavy guns and using gas tried to rush us, but we beat them back and held the line all day till only Marshall and myself and about sixty men were left in support. Then the order came at five to retire. We sent it on but there was no one to retire. They had all died at their posts or were taken.

"The British troops came up and occupied the supporting trenches but it was too late. They got our first line. Our losses will run about 691 officers and men.

Saved the Day. "Capt. Alexander and Capt. Cory defended St. Julien for two days and two nights with their company and a bunch of Turcos, but they were washed out of

MOTHER'S TRAGIC SORROW

More Than 150 Babies Were Drowned on the Lusitania.

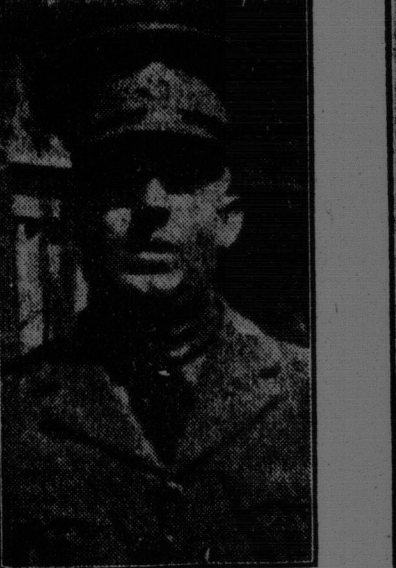

The Illustrated Sunday Herald, Cork, says: "There were on the Lusitania fifty babies who were less than twelve months old, and more than 100 more whose ages did not reach two years. They have all been drowned. The babies were the talk of the ship, and everybody tried to look after them. Not fewer than 150 of them, it is calculated, died from shock and exposure. They were afterwards seen floating in the water with life-belts tied around their little bodies, but they were past saving. Their mothers recovered consciousness in the rescuing boats, only to find that the little ones they were hugging to their bosoms were dead. One mother lost all her three young children, one six years old, one aged four, and the third a babe in arms, six months old. She herself lived, and held up the three of them in the water, all the time shrieking for help. When rescued by a boat party the two oldest were dead. Their room was requisitioned on the boat, and the mother was brave enough to realize it.

"Give them to me," she shrieked, 'give them to me, my Bonnie wee things. I will bury them, they are mine to bury as they were mine to keep.' With her hair streaming down her back and her form quaking with sorrow, she took each of the little ones from the rescuers and reverently placed it in the water again, and the people in the boat wept with her as she murmured a little sobbing prayer to the great God above. But her cup of sorrow was not yet completed, for just as they were landing her third and only child died in her arms.

SAYS GERMANS TREAT PRISONERS CRUELLY

Shocking Story of Berlin and Ruhleben Concentration Camps

BRITISH NEARLY STARVED

Barbarous Punishment Meted Out For Slight Infractions of Rules—Some Prisoners Slain, Says a Prominent Londoner

Intimate facts touching upon alleged brutality toward English civilians in the German concentration camps in Berlin and Ruhleben have been laid before Ambassador Page at London by a prominent Londoner who has just got back home after a harrowing experience.

On top of the revelations of the Londoner Mr. Page was visited by Graf von Moltke, private secretary to Ambassador Gerard in Berlin. Mr. Moltke was informed of the details given to Mr. Page and it is understood that he was to take the matter up with Mr. Gerard immediately on his return to Berlin.

At the outbreak of the war the ambassador's call was at Baden-Baden, sejourning with other Londoners. From the day the war broke out until Nov. 1 he was detained as a civil prisoner at Baden-Baden. Six days later he was put with 200 other Britishers in a common jail.

On Nov. 18, he said, "some dozens of us were marched through the town to the railroad station and sent to Berlin, a journey of about thirty-four hours. We had only one bowl of soup each on the way. Attempts to buy food on the platforms of the stations were ineffectually repressed. Throughout the journey we were insulted by soldiers."

On Nov. 18 we arrived at the Ploetzensee jail in Berlin, after marching through a drizzling rain from the Charlottenberg station. The exhaustion caused by this journey and the bad conditions, together with a lack of food, undoubtedly caused the death of Morrison Cleator, acting consul general at Mannheim.

At the jail thirteen of us belonging to the learned professions were divided between two cells, while the rest, about seventy, were housed in cages in one room unit for dogs. These cages were built especially for the British prisoners. They were not high enough to stand in—just room for a wooden bed. The sanitary conditions were terrible, and the beds were alive with vermin.

of the prisoners fell ill. One doctor died and now the remaining physician does the work. The prisoners had to help with the doctors' cases. Some prisoners went mad and we had to watch them.

Brutality By Officers. "While more than thirty prisoners have died it is amazing that more have not succumbed. I could relate innumerable instances of brutality by officers upon civilian prisoners. One feeble man of sixty was knocked down with a blow of a musket in the hands of an officer, and his face carved in. Right up to the time I was let out the unspeakable cruelty to prisoners went on."

The informant says he has indisputable evidence of reliable eye-witnesses that British soldiers at the Cellerager and Munster military camps have been hideously maltreated by German soldiers. Prisoners, he said, were tied to stakes for some violation of orders, after being stripped of their clothes. Three died after being cut down. One soldier was shot dead for trying to conceal a loaf of bread under his coat after he was nearly exhausted from hunger, another, who released his hold for a moment while helping to drag a vehicle along a road, was shot in the hand and his hand was so splintered by the bullet that it had to be amputated.

"Americans don't realize the awful treatment of these prisoners by Germans in direct violation of The Hague treaty," said the returned prisoner. "I hope that for the sake of the poor fellows now prisoners an inquiry may be seriously undertaken so that the exact facts may be revealed in the name of humanity."

A letter has been received in London from Fred Winter, a well-known English jockey, who before the war was first jockey to the Kaiser, and who is now a prisoner in the Ruhleben camp in which Winter asks for bread and biscuits. He says: "Oh, I do wish I could get my freedom. You can't realize what it is like to be caged up as we are. Just think, from 6 in the morning until 9 o'clock at night we have nothing whatever to do but walk about. It preys on the mind."

Winter does not explain the circumstances of his internment.

On Nov. 18, he said, "some dozens of us were marched through the town to the railroad station and sent to Berlin, a journey of about thirty-four hours. We had only one bowl of soup each on the way. Attempts to buy food on the platforms of the stations were ineffectually repressed. Throughout the journey we were insulted by soldiers."

"Miss Smith will now sing 'For All Eternity.'" "My goodness!" exclaimed the drummer, springing to his feet and upsetting his chair. "I'm all in—let me out!"

"I can't give you my opinion in this matter," was the response, "because it's a question I pay no attention to. I am indifferent to it—as indifferent as the backwoodsman's wife in Missouri. In Time of War Prepare For More War

(Prepared by G. F. HOBART, MANAGER, Hamilton Advertisers' Agency, Limited, Hamilton, Canada.)

WHEN the treaty of peace is signed in Berlin, a new and free Germany will arise from the ashes. As a business competitor it will be more aggressive than the Germany of the Hohenzollerns.

After the war of 1870 France paid her billion-dollar war indemnity to Germany with a shrug of the shoulders and became one of the great creditor nations of the world. Will Germany do less? Is it not probable that with its enormous and efficient industrial system it will do even better?

Germany must gain its revival from its exports. It must produce for other nations and pay its debts in manufactured products. The "Made in Germany" label is not popular in Canada at the present time. How long will that sentiment last? What is the usual course in analogous cases?

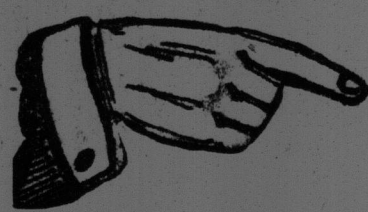

A brutal criminal is not popular. He might be in danger of lynch law were indignant citizens able to lay hands on him. After his trial and conviction, however, our tenderly sympathetic people send comforts and luxuries to his cell and sign petitions for a commutation of his sentence, while the less emotional members of the community simply forget. This kindly human spirit that occasionally is misdirected denotes a tendency that it is well to note.

A favorite trick of some salesmen is to insult a prospective customer and then subjectively ask his pardon. In the fulness of his forgiveness, and to demonstrate that there is no ill-will, the unsuspecting prospect signs the dotted line on the order blank. "Made in Germany" will not continue to be unpopular. The danger is that it may become too popular; that our sympathy for

A thrilling narrative of what the signallers under Major Powers accomplished in France during the heavy fighting recently in which the Canadians distinguished themselves, has been received by H. C. Creighton from his son, Leslie. He tells of laying wires while

It was decided to vote $500 to the Belgian relief fund and $500 towards the fund, kitchens for the 29th Battalion. President's Report. President White in his annual report said in part: "Your board during last year" subscribed $1,000 to the Canadian patriotic fund, and also guaranteed to four of its employees, who have enlisted for foreign service, that upon their return their positions would be open for them. This section we feel will meet with your unqualified approval. "While we all firmly believe that the cause of right will eventually triumph, and we who stay at home must be prepared not only to do all in our power for those fighting the battles of the empire, but we must expect sorrows and depression along certain trade channels. This will naturally affect public corporations such as telephone companies, and in view of this fact, it is not surprising that the normal increase in users of which has not been maintained. The increase last year was 1,171 phones, as against 1,004 and 1,024 in each of two years preceding. We believe, however, that trade depression has been less evident in New Brunswick than in any other province in the dominion. "Your board has continued to give

Would Nearly Yell With Pain. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS CURED HIM. Mr. R. J. Swales, Harrison, Ont., writes: "I have been a great sufferer with eczema. I tried all kinds of salves, but they did me no good. Sometimes I would nearly yell with the pain, and would pass little white worms. I was told to get at the blood, so I used four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it has made a complete cure."

All skin diseases such as eczema or salt rheum, itching or burning rashes, boils, pimples, eruptions, ulcers, etc., are all caused by the blood becoming impoverished, and while not usually attended with any fatal results, may sooner or later develop into some serious blood trouble, and the entire system become affected. Burdock Blood Bitters will cleanse the blood of all its impurities and by this means cure all skin and blood troubles. This valuable preparation has been on the market for the last forty years, so you do not make any experiment when you give it a trial. B.B.B. is manufactured only by The M. W.C.T.U. DISAPPOINTED WITH THE GOVERNMENT ACTION RE LIQUOR

"We ask bread; we are given a stone"—was an expression used in a resolution passed at the quarterly meeting of the St. John County W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon with reference to the recent "shortive" liquor legislation. The union sincerely regretted that the measure fell so far and so seriously short of their plea for total prohibition and drafted the resolution, a copy of which is to be sent to the government.

REDMOND NOT TO TAKE PLACE IN GOVERNMENT

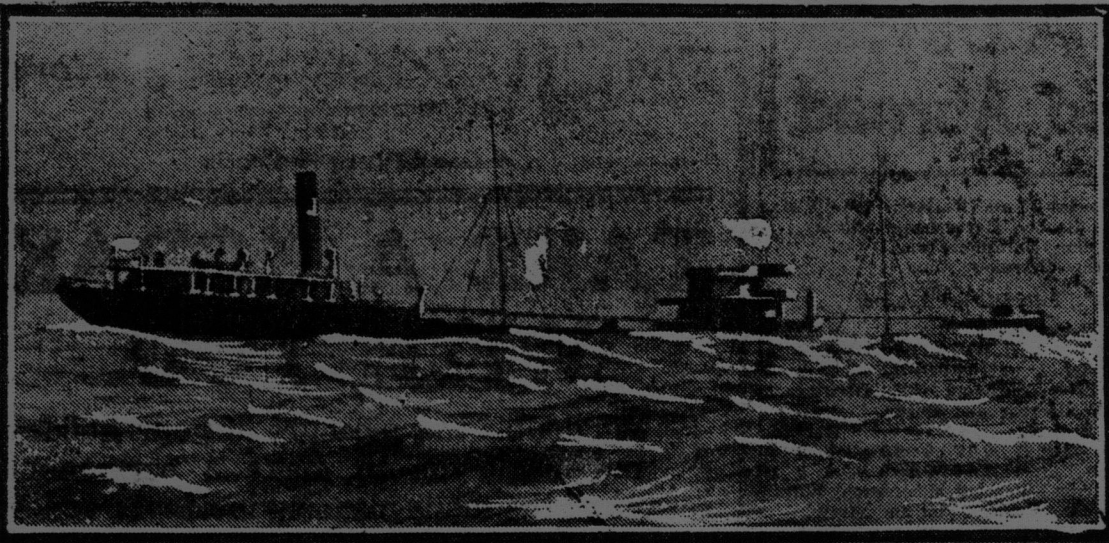

London, May 20, 9:20 p. m.—The National government which is to guide the British empire for the duration of the war is now in progress of formation. The leaders of the political parties were in conference throughout the day, arranging details. No statement has yet been made as to the personnel of the new ministry except that Premier Asquith and Foreign Secretary Grey will remain in the posts which they now hold. Thus far, all the statements as to the allotment of offices have been based largely on surmise. It appears certain, however, that there will be a new civil head of the Admiralty and war office, respectively, and possibly in the professional heads as well, on at any rate, a re-adjustment of the responsibility.

Could Hardly Straighten Up For The Pain In Her Back.

Many women suffer from an excruciating pain in the back. They are not even able to look after the common duties of their household, and cannot even walk at times. The whole trouble is that the kidneys have become affected, and when the kidneys get "out of kilter" the whole system becomes deranged. On the first sign of a weak, lame, aching back you should not neglect it, for if you do, you may be sure that some serious kidney trouble will follow. What you want is a kidney medicine, for kidneys only. This you will find in Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's Kidney Pills know nothing but kidney disorders, because they're made for kidneys only. Mrs. George Craigie, Rose Valley, P.E.I., writes: "I am writing to tell you what a wonderful cure Doan's Kidney Pills did for me. I was suffering with a lame back, and for several days I could hardly straighten up for the pain. I had used quite a lot of other kind of pills, but received no relief. Just then my sister told me about what 'Doan's' had done for her, so I decided to try them. I used three boxes and I am completely cured. I do not hesitate to recommend them to all. Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c a box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. When ordering direct specify 'Doan's'."

The Sinking of The Gulfight

HON. H. A. MCKEOWN IN ADDRESS TO CREDIT MEN'S ASSOCIATION

How modern commerce depends for its firm credit system on old English statutes going back to the times of Charles II. and Queen Elizabeth and to the decisions of judges rather than direct legislation, was shown by His Honor Judge McKeown in an address before the Maritime Division of the Canadian Creditmen's Association last night.

He took the stand that all trade and business today was based on credit and showed how the Babylonian clay tablets in the British Museum proved that the whole system of legal forms for trade existed then in a highly developed state. In the legislative records were many articles of beauty to the trained eye that exactly carried out to perfection the objects for which they were created. There was the Statute of Frauds which had grown up in the time of Charles II. at the instance of the judges who were aware of the corruption that existed before them. The principles of that enactment had been carried out in the most modern laws wherever the English language was spoken. It formed the basis of dominion and provincial commercial law as well as the laws of the United States.

"This is the blossom and the flower of the intellect of man in commercial law," declared the judge. "Then there was the Statute of Elizabeth's time, so well known that it had no other name. Those two statutes lay like the silks of a house unseen but built on and forming the very foundation of the superstructure of business law."

Judge McKeown then went on to show how all the great volume of what was known as common law was unwritten but was the sum of all the good sense of business in the past. No one could define common law; they could only say what it was not. He instanced the law of the stoppage of goods in transit in the case of a debtor being unsatisfactory. There was no written law on the matter but it was one of the fundamentals of Canadian law today. It had grown out of the ruling of judges in accordance with good sense and public opinion. Another point was that of the right of a workman to hold goods upon which he had worked until paid for them. That could not be found on the statutes of any land yet was well known and acted upon.

His honor's idea, he said, in the address was to show that while legislation could make the laws the conditions of trade could not be made and it was the conditions of trade, credit especially, that made modern commerce so different from primitive barter.

"It is to the wise legislation and the stern sense of the judiciary of days gone by that we owe today the conditions under which commerce can flourish."

A vote of thanks to Judge McKeown was moved by George A. Horton, seconded by J. Hargreaves, and carried.

J. G. Harrison, president, was in the chair at the meeting, which then proceeded to transact the ordinary work of the annual gathering of the branch.

Most of the matters were of specialized interest but the chairman mentioned that two of the aims of the body were the securing of a bulk sales act for the province and the registration of book debt assignments.

The following were elected on the board of governors: For two years, J. G. Harrison, W. E. Foster, F. W. Rosch, E. J. Murphy, J. F. Edgett and G. E. Barbour; for one year, F. C. Smith, F. A. Campbell, E. J. Fleetwood, Harold Hising, T. S. Fatullo and A. P. Paterson.

ART CLUB CLOSING MEETING OF SEASON

Beautiful water-colors by the talented English artist, Miss Edith Kirke, were the feature of the Art Exhibit in the St. John Art Club's studio in Peel street, last evening, on the occasion of the last meeting of the club for the season of 1914-15. The work of Miss Kirke was greatly admired by the large gathering of members and general comment was to the effect that Miss Kirke's studies are the best water-colors ever shown in the city.

Miss Kirke, who has travelled extensively in Canada, and who has done many western scenes, will make her home in St. John for a year during which she will do studies of New Brunswick scenery.

The conversation with which the art club closed the 1914-15 period, was presided over by T. H. Estabrooks, in the absence of President W. S. Fisher, and the entertainment was one of the most successful in the history of the club. At the first meeting of the club, next October, the members will assemble in the new studio, German street.

The chairman announced that the art club would hold an exhibition next Thursday, when tea would be served from 4 o'clock until 9 for patriotic purposes.

A feature of this exhibition will be the showing of work of art pupils. Miss E. Woodburn and Miss Kate Powell will act as judges and the studies will be on sale. T. H. Estabrooks has given $10 to be used as a prize fund for the pupils' exhibit.

The Story of the Flag, a patriotic address by Colonel Sturdee on the Union Jack, was a noteworthy incident of the annual closing which was marked by the carrying out of a programme of unusual interest.

A recital, Aux Illusions, by Miss Emma Heffer of the West End, with violin accompaniment by Mr. Thorne, proved a rare and timely treat.

The audience was insistent in an encore to Rule Britannia given by a quartette composed of Messrs. C. A. Munro and F. J. Hardiman, tenors, and E. S. Peacock and G. Currie, basses. The quartette responded with a splendid rendition of In This Softened Hour of Splendor, winning merited applause.

In a strikingly concise and clever history of the Flag, Colonel Sturdee brought before his hearers the formation, meaning and glory of the exemplar of the British empire. He told of the Union Jack as representative of England, Ireland and Scotland in the union of the crosses of St. George, St. Patrick and St. Andrew and pointed out that the bunting is now the emblem of justice and fair play on every sea and in every land. Colonel Sturdee explained the uses of the British Ensign and made clear the meaning and the different positions in which the flag is set.

In the art club, as well as in other organizations and associations throughout the city, a vacant chair is noticed at meetings in this instance, reference was made to Secretary E. C. Weyman, now a member of the 68th battalion.

The committee in charge of the conversation consisted of Mrs. Sturdee, Mrs. Raymond, Mrs. Robert Murray and Mrs. J. W. V. Lawlor. Miss Peacock acted as pianist.

A Beauty Hint

To rouse a sluggish skin

If your skin has become dull, sallow and lifeless looking, it needs stimulating. The following treatment is the most effective you can use.

Use this treatment once a day—preferably just before retiring. Wash your face and neck with plenty of Woodbury's Facial Soap and hot water. If your skin has been badly neglected, rub a generous lather into the pores very thoroughly with an upward and outward motion, until the skin feels somewhat sensitive. After this, rinse well in warm, then cold water—the colder the better. Then, rub your skin for five minutes with a lump of ice and dry thoroughly.

Woodbury's Facial Soap is the work of an authority on the skin and its needs. This treatment with it cleanses the pores, brings the blood to the face and stimulates the fine muscular fibres of the skin. You can feel the difference the first time you use it—a promise of that lovelier complexion which the steady use of Woodbury's always brings.

A 25c cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap is sufficient for a month or six weeks of this treatment. Get a cake today. It is made in Canada and is for sale by Canadian druggists from coast to coast.

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO CORRESPONDENCE FOR PRISONERS OF GERMAN. Letters (letters should be left open) postcards and postal parcels should be addressed as follows: 1. Rank, initials, name. 2. Regiment, or other unit. 3. British (or Canadian, French, Italian or Russian) prisoners of war. 4. Place of internment. 5. Germany. Place of internment should be stated always if possible, and parcels cannot be accepted unless place of internment is stated. All addresses must be in ink. 2. Communications should be limited to private and family news and to necessary business communications, and should not be sent too frequently. No references to the naval, military or political situation or to naval or military movements and organizations are allowed. Letters or postcards containing such references will not be delivered. 3. Friends of prisoners of war are advised to send postcards in preference to letters as postcards are less likely to be delayed. If letters are sent, they should not exceed in length two sides of a sheet of note paper and should contain nothing but the sheet of note paper. On no account should the writing be crossed. 4. Letters cannot for the present be accepted for registration. 5. Postage need not be paid either on letters or parcels addressed to prisoners of war. 6. No letters should be enclosed in parcels, and newspapers must not on any account be sent. So far as is known there is no restriction on the contents of parcels; tobacco may be sent and will be admitted duty free but food stuffs of a perishable character should not be sent. Parcels should not exceed 11 lbs. in weight. 7. Remittances can be made by money order to prisoners of war. Instructions as to how to proceed can be obtained from postmasters of accounting post offices. The transmission of coin, either in letters or parcels, is expressly prohibited. Postal notes and bank notes should not be sent. 8. It must be understood that no guarantee of the delivery of either parcels or letters can be given and that the post office accepts no responsibility. In any case, considerable delay may take place and failure to receive acknowledgment should not necessarily be taken as an indication that letters and parcels sent have not been delivered. 9. So far as is known, prisoners of war in Germany are allowed to write letters or postcards from time to time, but they may not always have facilities for doing so and the fact that no communication is received from them need not give rise to anxiety. East End League

In the East End League last evening the Glenwoods defeated the Commercials 9 to 8.

The latter team were unaccustomed to the grounds and considering that it was the first time they ever played together, their showing was not too bad.

Until the first of the third inning the game was well worth seeing, but during that period nine errors were made and the leaders practically put the game on ice.

The Commercials have several good players and when they strike their stride they will undoubtedly be heard from.

TO SEE THE SORTING GAPS IN OPERATION

Session of International St. John River Commission at Van Buren Next Week

In order to secure further information relative to the sorting gaps and the handling of logs by the St. John river at Van Buren, where several large lumber manufacturing mills are located, the International St. John River Commission has decided to hold a hearing at Van Buren on May 25.

At this meeting W. J. Lannigan of Waterbury, who is in charge of the timber land department of the large pulp and paper manufacturing concern of Hollingsworth & Whitney Co., and George Dunn of Houlton, a well known lumberman and large timberland owner in northern Maine, are to give expert testimony concerning sorting gaps and methods of handling logs.

The original trouble on the St. John river in 1905, known as the "Van Buren War," arose from the fact that the men handling the logs destined for further down the St. John river believed that the logs were being held too long at the sorting gaps and delayed so that the drop of water in the river might prevent them from reaching their destination below.

The point that the commission is to determine in regard to the handling of logs, is an important one.

RULES FOR DEALING WITH FLY NUISANCE

(Issued by the Department of the Public Health, Nova Scotia.)

As the fly season is just about due, attention is again called to the great importance of ridding our communities of this filthy, death-dealing pest.

It is now so well known that flies are largely responsible for the dissemination of such diseases as tuberculosis, typhoid fever and infantile diarrhoea, that indifference to their presence in the home and neighborhood would seem to merit the verdict of criminal negligence.

While the trapping and swatting of flies is a useful and same procedure, it must not be forgotten that the most rational way of attaining freedom from them is to prevent them from breeding.

This is to be accomplished by destroying or properly screening their breeding places. It is particularly in manure garbage and decomposing refuse that flies breed, so particular attention should be given to the frequent and thorough emptying of all receptacles against the entrance of flies.

Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened, or sprinkled with lime, oil or other cheap preparations such as are sold by a number of reliable manufacturers.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate in or near your premises.

Burn or bury all table and kitchen refuse.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered, and have the cans frequently cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding straw, papers, waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or kerosene oil.

If you see flies, you be sure that their breeding place is in nearby filth. It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

If there is a nuisance in the neighborhood write at once to the Board of Health of the community in which you reside.

See that your sewerage system is in good order; that it does not leak, is up-to-date, and not exposed to flies.

Four kerosene into the drains.

Screen all windows and doors, especially in the kitchen and dining room.

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious disease.

Kill every fly that strays into the sick room. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not patronize grocery shops and markets that harbor and feed flies. Insist upon screens.

WIRELESS PLANT AT PENNIAC

A party with equipment arrived at the head of Penniac settlement on the Ngl-wak yesterday and commenced erection of a camp in the woods on a high piece of ground.

They announced their intention of erecting a wireless telegraph station there, saying that the site had been selected by their forerunners two years ago.

It is said the station is to be a part of the system with which the big plant at Newcastle is connected.

STIRRING SCENE AS ITALY PRACTICALLY DECIDES TO GO TO WAR WITH AUSTRIA

History Making Session of Chamber of Deputies—Likely to Relieve Pressure on Russia—Germans Cross the San

Paris, May 20, 5:20 p.m.—The Chamber publishes a telegram from Rome, despatched at 8 o'clock, in which the correspondent says: "All the galleries of the Chamber of Deputies were crowded at one o'clock when the chamber re-assembled. There were 400 deputies in their seats. Only one incident marked the opening of the session; that was when Gabriele D'Annunzio entered the gallery. All the deputies stood up and shouted 'Viva D'Annunzio, Viva Italia!' Two or three Socialist members protested against this ovation to D'Annunzio, but their voices were lost in the cheering. "Signor Marcora, president of the chamber, took his place at 8 o'clock. All the members of the house and everybody in the galleries stood up to acclaim the old follower of Garibaldi. "Then Premier Salandra, followed by all the members of the cabinet, entered. It was a solemn moment. Then a delirium of cries broke out, 'Viva Salandra,' were the words, and the cheering lasted for five minutes. Premier Salandra appeared to be much moved by the demonstration. "After the formalities of the opening, Premier Salandra arose and said: 'Gentlemen, I have the honor to present to you a bill to meet the eventuality of a national war. Prolonged applause followed this announcement. "The premier began an exposition of the situation of Italy before the opening of hostilities in Europe. He declared that Italy had submitted to every humiliation from Austria-Hungary out of love of peace. By her ultimatum to Serbia, the premier said, 'Austria had annulled the equilibrium of the Balkans and prejudiced Italian interests there. Notwithstanding this evident violation of the treaty of the Triple Alliance, Italy endeavored during long months to avoid war. "But these efforts were bound to have a limit in time and dignity. This is why the government felt itself forced to present its denunciation of the Triple Alliance on May 4," said Premier Salandra. "A United Italy. "These declarations were received with great applause, which the premier tried to quiet. He said: 'Italy must be united at this moment, when her destinies are being decided.' "These words were greeted with renewed applause, the deputies and spectators rising. When quiet was restored, the premier exclaimed: 'We have confidence in our august chief, who is preparing to lead the army toward a glorious future. Let us gather round this well-beloved sovereign.' "It was observed that the Socialists took no part in the applause. "Premier Salandra then proposed that a committee of eighteen deputies should examine a bill composed of a single article, which he presented. "The bill reads as follows: 'The government is authorized in case of war and during the duration of the war to make decisions with due authority of law, in every respect required, for the defence of the state, the guarantee of public order and urgent economic national necessities. The provisions contained in articles 243 to 251 of the Military Code continue in force. The government is authorized also to have recourse until Dec. 31, 1915, to monthly provisional appropriations for balancing the budget. This shall come into force the day it is passed.' "After the presentation of the bill the president of the chamber submitted the question whether a committee of eighteen members should be elected. Out of the 421 deputies who voted, 387 cast their ballots in the affirmative. The other 34 were against. "The victory for the government was: "In the Shavli region our troops continue to push back the enemy on a wide front. We have captured several hundred more prisoners. The enemy is offering very stubborn resistance near the village of Kurechany, where the fighting still continued on the 19th. In the other regions in this vicinity there have been only slight skirmishes. "London, May 20, 4:20 p.m.—King George and Earl Kitchener, secretary of state for war, have gone to the north of England to inspect the plants in which munitions of war are being produced. They witnessed a large review of troops at Newcastle this afternoon. The workers at Elswick gave the king and Earl Kitchener an enthusiastic reception. Their leaders promised that there would be no slackening in the production of war materials. BRITISH HAVE NEW TYPES OF WARSHIPS

Fighting Ships Now Building on the Clyde May Prove Decisive Factors in Near Future

Glasgow, May 6.—(Correspondence of Associated Press).—That the shipyards on the Clyde are turning out several fighting ships of entirely new types which are expected to prove decisive factors both in the North Sea and in the Dardanelles, was revealed in an address made to a meeting of business men here by Captain A. J. Bartlett, of the Admiralty office. In urging the necessity of recruiting several thousand skilled workmen for the shipbuilding works, he said: "Our main concern up here and on the Clyde is the fleet. These yards are building ships of new types, and great things depend on their arriving at their stations. "To get these ships ready there are wanted many more men, especially iron workers. In order to beat the enemy we shall have to pool the whole of our resources of skilled labor and put them on government work. This will mean a very considerable displacement of labor, but I feel confident, by the readiness with which the representatives of the employers and men have come together, that the efforts will be successful. "Many firms have already most willingly met my request to draw men from their works to other firms engaged on government work, and the representatives of the boiler makers and other trades have also given me assistance. But the transferee must be done on a large scale. Transfer of men naturally involved financial loss through inability of firms to carry on contracts, but the government will arrange suitable compensation in these cases. "The public are still dependent upon unofficial reports for the progress of the campaign on the Gallipoli Peninsula. These reports are most encouraging from the standpoint of the Allies, as they state that the forts at Kilik and Bahr have been destroyed, that the bombardment of the forts on the eastern side of the Straits, is in progress night and day. "ENEMY'S FORCES HAVE GROSSED SAN. "Petograd, May 20, via London, May 21.—The following official communication was issued tonight: "During the 18th the battle in the region of the left bank of the Vistula, south of the Pilia, and on the whole Galician front, continued with constantly increasing intensity. "On this front were revealed new German elements which appeared there for the first time. "On the left bank of the Vistula, west of Ijka, Opatow, and Kopyjowca, and in the region of the confluence of the San with the Vistula as far as the environs of Nisko, our troops have pressed the enemy with success. The number of prisoners taken here in the course of the day of the 18th exceeded 4,000. "The great hostile forces which crossed the San after an obstinate fight have succeeded in spreading over the sector of Jaroslau, Radawa and Siemiana. "In the region between Przemysl and Jaroslau we have pressed the enemy somewhat on both banks of the San. "To the south of Przemysl the attacks of the enemy were conducted with intensity in the sector of Luptow, the enemy succeeding, at enormous sacrifices, in capturing several of our advance trenches. "On the front of Drohobycz, Stry and Dolina we have continued to repulse tenacious attacks and inflicted immense losses on the enemy. "To the west of Kolomea the fighting on both banks of the Pruth during the night of the 18th continued to our advantage. "In the Shavli region our troops continue to push back the enemy on a wide front. We have captured several hundred more prisoners. The enemy is offering very stubborn resistance near the village of Kurechany, where the fighting still continued on the 19th. In the other regions in this vicinity there have been only slight skirmishes. THINK BY WIRE, THE NEXT STEP

Suggestion of Alexander Graham Bell

GIVEN THE EDISON MEDAL

All Recent Steps in Electrical Development Have to do With Vibrations, Says Inventor—Big Field Still Unexplored

New York, May 21.—Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, recipient of the Edison medal for meritorious achievement in electrical science at the recent meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers tonight in the Engineering Society's building in his response to the presentation address by John T. Carby, chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who had been re-elected president of the institute at a business session earlier in the evening, Mr. Bell briefly upon the remarkable advances that had been made in the application of electricity since the telephone was invented. "What will come next? Now we have electric light, electric power, electric speech, and a swarm of electrical appliances that have come into use during recent years. All our knowledge of the modern world is derived from our senses, and science has brought electricity into the service of practically all our senses. Do you see what a field there is for further development are inconceivable. "Men can do nearly everything else by electricity already, and I can imagine them with coils of wire about their heads coming together for communication of thought by induction. "The audience of one thousand electrical engineers and their guests showed no sign of being incredulous, even of this suggested possibility of electrical development. Dr. Bell added: "But that is for you to make possible," with the emphasis on the "you," and when the laughter had subsided, he continued: "I have been struck by the fact that nearly all of the recent steps have had to do with vibrations. Suppose you have the power to make an iron rod vibrate with any desired frequency in a dark room. At first, when vibrating slowly, its movement will be indicated by only one sense, that of touch. Soon the vibrations increase a low sound will emanate from it and it will appear to you two senses. At about 30,000 vibrations to the second the sound will be loud and shrill, but at 40,000 vibrations it will be silent, and its movement will be indicated by touch. No ordinary human sense, at about one hundred to the second, will be able to detect its movement. Suppose you have no sense that can appreciate any effects. After the first by the sense of temperature and then, when the rod begins to red hot, by the sense of sight. The third illusion it sheds a violet light. "Now the thought has occurred to me that if we could make a rod vibrate in the great gap where the ordinary sense of touch is unable to hear, or feel the movement. The power to send wireless messages by other vibrations to the second, but the thought is so great that it seems there must be more than one sense that can appreciate any effects. You must make machines practical for a longer period than six months, except by the permission of the superintendent. "When in his opinion the best interest of the child requires it the superintendent shall have power to order the release of any child detained in violation of the preceding subsection. "Section 28 of chapter 4 is amended by adding thereto the following subsection: "The expense of apprehension shall include all magistrates, constables and witnesses fees, and the cost of conveying any child to a temporary home or shelter." "Chapter 4 is further amended by adding after section 11 thereof the following sections: "It shall be the duty of all constables

BRITISH DRIVE MAKES HEAVY GAIN

The results of the Neuve Chapelle victory, since consolidated and made permanent, have been followed up by a strong advance south of that historic battle ground. Field Marshal French reports a direct advance of a mile between Richbourg and Peulung, where the Quilque road was captured, and a strong salient pushed forward, threatening the communications of L'Escaut. The horizontally shaded section shows the gain of Neuve Chapelle. The perpendicular shading shows Saturday's important gain.

NOVA SCOTIA'S ADVANCED CHILDREN'S PROTECTION ACT

Halifax, N.S. (Special Act) The Children's Protection Act of Nova Scotia, as amended at the recent legislature goes further than ever in the matter of welfare of the young whose surroundings are considered unhealthy or otherwise unfit. A new subsection added provides that a municipality, city or town may assess for and pay such sums of money as may from time to time be determined by the council thereof, for the support and maintenance of children in such institutions and for the payment in whole or in part of the salary of any agent of a children's aid society. "Another sub section added to the act provides among the causes for legal removal of a child from his or her home: "Whose home by reason of neglect or depravity or disease is an unfit place for such child to live in." "Section 15, chapter 4 is amended by adding the following subsections: "No child shall be kept in any reformatory, institution, temporary home or shelter under the provision of this section for a longer period than six months, except by the permission of the superintendent. "When in his opinion the best interest of the child requires it the superintendent shall have power to order the release of any child detained in violation of the preceding subsection. SOAP IS BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is just ordinary milled coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), its cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use. One or two teaspoons will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, healthy and easy to manage. You can get milled coconut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

GERMAN SAULERS THOUGHT THAT ALL WAS GOING WELL

The Liverpool papers have published some interesting interviews with members of the crews of the ships destroyed by the German cruiser 'Kronprinz Wilhelm' before her internment. An incident described by the chief steward of the 'Colony' was that the German officers on boarding the ship made a thorough search for newspapers of every description, of which they took possession. "As they were supposed to be in constant wireless communication with a station in Brazil, I could not understand the meaning of it, but I found later that it was to prevent their own crew getting hold of the news. The crew told us we were better off as passengers than if we had continued our own voyage. Our ship, they said, would have certainly been sunk by German submarines, which had been successful in stopping all British shipping. The German sailors were also under the impression that their army had effected a landing in England. Their ignorance of the state of affairs was astounding, until we remembered that they had been at sea eight months and their officers, who would not so much as mention the war, kept news back from them. We could have enlightened them, but as they probably would not have listened to our stories, which would have been so unpleasant to them, we refrained."

ENTHUSIASM

Said a preacher, "Blessed are the enthusiastic, for they are the saviours of the world's lost cause." Enthusiasm is a plant of quick but tender growth. The cold winds of waiting may nip it; the frosts of no results may kill it. It is once the heat of the most erratic, the least stable, the quickest born, the shortest—and the longest lived of all virtues. This because it is the genuine enthusiasm that endures, and the counterfeit that evaporates. Enthusiasm, too, is the shortest cut to perfection and success. It must know; it demands to learn and quickly, it must rest on its own feet. Nothing has been achieved, no great victory ever won, without enthusiasm. You need but dogged stubbornness to set on the defensive. To take the offensive and win you need enthusiasm—hot. Enthusiasm can take a losing cause and save it. Enthusiasm is contagious, too. May the epidemic spread; may you catch it and never be cured. Enthusiasm makes light of obstacles. It will jump the brook while cold caution makes the inquiry as to depth. Enthusiasm wins always. Cultivate enthusiasm in your work, your hobbies, your recreations—in everything. Depression will never touch you then. It's the royal road to success. The enthusiast lives. He is bright-eyed, eager, and a worker; and the gods love him, and fill his lap with the prizes of life. Enthusiasm!

TWO MAINE BOYS WOUNDED

Letters have been received in Halliwell, from Lawrence Brocklebank and Frank Goodrich, both make light of their wounds and expect to be able to return to the front soon. Young Brocklebank was a short notice on the train as he was being taken to a hospital in France. He stated that his wound was in the left thigh and was caused by being struck with a fragment of a shell. He died, but "in a few days the time I shall be all right again." He thought it possible that he would be sent to the front again. Frank Goodrich wrote from a military hospital where he is rapidly recovering. He is in the thigh and in the face. He also expressed the belief that he would soon be able to go back to the front.
