INTERVIEW WITH STEAD. London, Oct. 9 .- A representative of the Associated Press had an interview with Alfred Stead, who, with his wife, has just returned from Manchuria, belowed to traverse that country since the Russian occupation. Mr. Stead gave a glowing account of the pro-gress made by Manchuria under the Russians.

The country is absolutely peaceful, the Chinese are contented and better paid than under the old regime, and the 1,000 miles of railroad connecting the Gulf of Pe Chi Li with the Siberian line is completed, with the exception of a section 70 miles long. A train runs daily.

Besides the army of occupation, 3,000 men, there is a volunteer force of 24,-000 men under 400 officers who are not permitted to go more than two and a half miles from the railroad, which is patrolled from end to end by Cossacks in pairs.

There are fine stone stations, with refreshment rooms, every 18 whether there is a town in the vicinity or not. In twelve months trains will running from St. Petersburg to Delmy the Russian ice-free port on the Gulf of Pe Chi Li, where there is a town building with all the resources of civilization, electric lights, trains, gardens and docks. A NEW TARIFF. Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 9,-The Commonwealth tariff bill, introduced in the Federal House of Representatives yesterday, by Mr. Kingston, minister of trade and commerce, in addition to the duties cabled last night, provides for the following duties: Sparkling wines, 12s per gallen; other wines, bottled, 8s; in bulk, 6s; manufactured tobacco, 3s 6d per pound; imported leaf tobacco, 1s 6d per pound; excise. 1s; cigars, 5s 6d, plus 15 per cent ad valorem; cigarettes, 6s 6d; sugar, imported, £6 per ton, with a rebate of £3 per ton if grown by white cottons and linens, 10 and 15 per cent; furniture, 20 per cent.

CAPTURED TITLE AND FOR-TUNE.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 9.—The engagement of Miss Pattie Burnley Ellison, of this city, and Sir Charles Henry Lockhart Ross, of England, is announced. Miss Ellison's position among titled brides is unique, for she has no considerable fortune. She is the great granddaughter of Gen. Charles Scott, the third governor of Kentucky, and a general on Washington's staff. Sir Charles is staid to be the third larg-est land owner in Great Britain.

BRAKEMAN CUT IN TWO

And His Accession Accepted by Car Wheels Ground the Man's Watch to Powder.

> Elgin County Man Falls 40 Feet From a Bridge at St. Thomas-Other Casualties.

Branden, Man., Oct. 9.-William Mc-Intyre, brakeman on the Canadian Pacific, who was instantly killed in the yards here last night, was practically cut in two, ten loaded cars passing over his body. His watch was ground to powder. McIntyre got caught while making a coupling, but just how will never be known. Mc-Intyre was about 22 years of age, and an entire stranger here, arriving only recently from the west. He formerly worked at Cranbrook, but where his relatives reside or whether he is a married man has not been ascertained. It is believed he came from near Windsor, Ont., but even this has not been verified. The body is held await-ing instructions from the authorities.

AMPUTATED THE ARM. Hamilton, Oct. 9 .- The accident to Mr. Will Webb, pressman of the Ottawa citizen, was so severe that upon arrival at St. Luke's Hospital it was found necessary to amputate his left arm. Mr. Webb went from the Spectator office to the Citizen three or four years ago. His recovery is not considered very likely.

MURDERED BY ASPHYXIATION. New York, Oct. 9.-Alonzo Watson is held on suspicion of causing the death of 6-year-old Albert Ryan, whose corpse was found in a bag yesterday. Physicians say that the child's death was due to asphyxiation. They found a quantity of alcoholic fluid in the the lower parts of the abdomen. The physicians pronounced it one of the most ghastly of crimes. DIED IN CHURCH.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 9.—Abraham Schenck, 46 years of age, died here while attending the closing service of the Eastern Pennsylvania United Brethren Conference. Two candidates for the ministry were ordained, and Bishop Mills, of Annville preached the sermon. He had concluded with the sermon. He had concluded with the word "Amen," and Schenck was among those who responded from the audience. His head dropped forward, and he died instantly. He was a prosper-ous farmer of Iona, Lebanon county. SHOT HIS LITTLE BROTHER. Menominee, Mich., Oct. 9.—The 8-year-old son of Nick Faber, watch-man for the Menominee River Brewing Company, was accidently that in the stomach by his brother with a 22cabiber rifle. His condition is very serious. His brother had just loaded the gun, had the trigger cocked and when the little boy stepped in front it was accidentally discharged.

FELL FORTY FEET. St. Thomas, Ont., Oct. 9 .- The first accident in connection with the con-struction of the new Wilson bridge took place this forenoon. John Kenwho lives on the London and Port Stanley gravel road, was at work among the timbers of the old bridge, at a height of about 40 feet from the not being aware of this fact, Kennoy started to walk out along the partly sawed beam. The stringer gave way beneath his weight, and he shot downwards with terrific force. A doctor, upon examination, found that Kennoy's face was badly cut and bruised, his left shoulder blade was broken, his left arm was broken, and his hips terribly crushed. While it is possible there may be internal injuries, the doctor thinks there is hope of recov-

SMALLPOX PREVAILS

Nineteen Quebec Municipalities Are Affected-Case in Regina.

Montreal, Oct. 9. - The provincial poard of health has issued a preclamation to the sanitary authorities and the public generally, calling attention to the fact that smallpox exists in 19 different municipalities of the province, and is practically beyond control in the city of Ottawa, which is believed to be the source of cases in Rigaud and St. Henri. The proclamation calls on the people to take all possible precautions, and urges everybody to be vaccinated at once.

Regina, N. W. T., Oct. 8.—Dr. Martin, medical health officer, reported to the town council last night that a case of smallpox had been discovered at the house of James Miller, C. P. R. section foreman, the patient being Mr. Miller's son, who works on the Pasqua section. The young man was removed to an isolated building, his mother accompanying him as nurse.

REGIMENT OFF

The Corps Paraded in Full Marching Order and Made a Very Smart Appearance.

Never before has the 7th Regiment presented a smarter appearance than when it left the armories last night for the special C. P. R. train, which was to convey it to Toronto for the royal review. The regiment paraded nearly full strength, and, accompanied by its splendid band, under the direction of Mr. Hiscott, and headed by the stalwart drum-major, Sergt. Cockburn, marched by way of Central avenue and Richmond streets to the C. P. R. depot, where several thousand people ground. One of the heavy stringers had assembled to witness it entrain. had been almost sawed in two, but The streets along the line of the short march were crowded with people, and many were the expressions of approval heard on every side as the stalwart men in red swung past to the enlivening strains of "The Girl I Left Behind Me." The men paraded in full marching order, with leggings, busbies and great coats fastened over their shoulders. The marching was admirable the unbroken lines of each company making a very brave showing. As the special bearing the regiment pulled out of the depot, rousing cheers were given by the great crowd assembled.

In addressing the men before they left the armories, Major Little, on behalf of Lieut.-Col. Smith, the commanding officer, reminded them that the regiment had a proud record throughout Canada and express-ed the earnest hope that no individual member of it would by any irregularity while at Toronto tarnish this proud name.

CHARGES WERE ALL BASELESS

Joseph Marks Exonerated by Trades and Labor Council.

An Interesting Address by the Secretary of Toronto Labor Bureau.

At the regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last evening, the report of the special committee appointed to investigate the charges of dishonesty brought against Joseph Marks in connection with the recent street railway strike, was received and ordered to be published in the next issue of the Industrial Banner. The report, which was accepted by the council, completely exonerates Mr. Marks from the charges growing out of baseless rumors. Among those present at the meet-ing was Mr. Robert Glockling, secretary of the Ontario Labor Bureau, who delivered a very have been derived from labor bureaus since the establishment of the first one in the United States in 1862 emphasized, also, the importance of the active co-operation of everyone interested in labor to assist him in gathering all necessary information. In the school room at 6:30 through in about another week, weath-o'clock tea was served by the ladies er permitting. We have now one of o'clock tea was served by the ladies of the committee to a large and happy company. The programme opened with the singing of "All Hail the Power," followed by a brief address from Rev. Dr. Hamilton, the new pastor, who acted as chairman. Mr. Hamilton, in as few words as possible, endeavored to point out the importance of mutual confidence between pastor and people. He was sure of the congregation's confidence in him because of their action in calling him, despite the fact that he had not made application, and he had confidence in his congregation for precisely the same reason. In closing, the pastor pointed out the necessity of co-operation and determination in the church to make the work success-

COLONIZATION IN NEW ONTARIO

Over 127,000 Acres Taken Up Last Year.

Report of the Director of Colonization -Mr. Aubrey White's Comments on the Canadian Exhibit at the Imperial Institute.

Toronto, Oct. 8.-According to the report of the director of colonization, Mr. Thos. Southworth, which was issued on Saturday, 818 colonists took up land in Ontario in 1900, who, with their families, numbered 2,266 people, their holdings amounting to 127,494 acres. While this is regarded as very satisfactory, these figures will be greatly exceeded by this year's returns when they are completed. In fact the Temiskaming region alone will this year probably equal the whole of the province in settlement for 1900. Mr. Southworth points out that there are also many squatters who settled, particularly in Nipissing, of whom no record is available. According to the report, there were 250 locatees in Thunder Bay District, 273 in the Rainy River Valley, 112 in Temis-kaming, 163 in Parry Sound, and 20 in the Dryden Settlement. The report states that the primary object of the bureau was to furnish information to our own people respecting, and to enlist their interest in respecting, and to enlist their interest in the lands open for settlement in Northern Ontario. That this has been, to some ex-tent, carried out, is shown by the fact that of the 818 locatees for the year, 504 were from Ontario, 65 from the United States, 42 from Manitoba, 29 from Quebec, and the balance from several European countries. respecting, and to enlist their interest in

The report on immigration, which is under the immediate charge of Mr. David Epence, shows a slight revival, the number of steerage passenger settling in the province being 4,983, compared with 4,015 in 1899, although the number was as high as 27,119 in 1893. Juvenile immigration from the old country has decreased, the total last year being 981, of which Dr. Barnardo furnished 752, while the number was as high as 1,839 in 1888. The director was as high as 1,839 in 1888. The director, in commenting on the change in the character of the immigration by reason of parthern devolutions. northern development, points out that the work of the government in connection

In an appendix to the report, Mr. Aubrey White, assistant commissioner of crown lands, reports on the Ontario agency at Liverpool, which, he says, is doing an efficient though quiet work in sending out information. He considers that at the present time few immigrants need be expected from Great Britain, owing to the good times and the absence of so many young men in the army in Africa.

In a report on the Imperial Institute, In a report on the imperial Institute, Mr. White declares that the Canadian exhibit should either be brought down to date and kept fresh, full and efficient for trade uses, or that a commercial agency for the promotion of Canadian trade should be established in London, and an active, well-informed commercial man in charge.

MRS. F. E. McCANN'S STRANGE STORY!

About Her Father's Murder-She Hopes to Possess the Crawtord House in Windsor, Ont.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 9 .- Mrs. F. E.

McCann, of Joplin, Mo., is in Windsor, investigating the mysterious disappearance, half a century ago, of her father, John W. Sanford. It is her belief that he was murdered. Mrs. McCann says she was born in Windsor in 1850, and was raised in an orphan asylum. Her mother died when she was quite a little girl, and it was not until 1884 that she learned of her father's death. The information was very indistinct, but pointed to mur-der. For a few years she searched in vain for an authentic account of his demise. Last year she received a fresh impetus in a confession, which she claims to have in her possession. "I was living in McPherson, Kan. in 1900," said she today, "when I made the acquaintance of Sarah Eliza Mark, who had recently been released from jail. She delivered to me a signed confession, stating that her father, Simon Mark, and her brothers, had murder-ed my father in Windsor, in 1854, by cutting his throat from ear to ear. By forgery they succeeded in getting his property after his death. "Eliza Mark told me she had worked for the late Hiram Walker, of Walkerville, when a young girl. have confirmed that part of her story. This woman is better known by the alias Kate Bender, although the fact that she went by this name has never been published." Mrs. McCann spent the morning at the city hall looking up the records of Assessment Commissioner Black. There was nothing to show that such a man as John M. Sanford had resided in Windsor, but on Mr. Black's advice she will visit the registry office in Sandwich, where earlier records are kept. None of "the oldest inhabitants" can recall the murder of Sanford. Magistrate Bartlet said he was inclined to place little credence in the

Mrs. McCann's object is to secure clue to the property which she believes her father possessed at the time of his death. From her present information she thinks he owned the farm which the Crawford house now stands. She thinks she will be independently wealthy when she comes into her

A Beautiful Day Brings Out a Very Large Crowd of Sightseers.

A General Falling Off in Exhibits --- Boy Meets With a Painful Accident --- Classified List of the Prize-Winners.

The Caradoc Agricultural Society | McLean; ram lamb, 1 and 2 D. A held their annual fall show yesterday in Mount Brydges. There was a good crowd in attendance, but the number of exhibits did not nearly equal those of previous years, neither did the quality, especially in roots and grain, which are very poor in Caradoc, even potatoes being a failure. There was a good show of horses, which was about the principal feature.

An unfortunate accident occurred towards the close of the day. While the pony race was in progress and the horses were making for the home stretch, Cassie G., ridden by Hill, suddenly bolted, and knocked down Murray Clover, a lad about 12 years old, who resides with his parents on con. of Caradoc. One of the boy's legs was broken, and he was conveyed to Dr. Woods' office, where his injuries were attended to.

The trials of speed afforded some good sport, and resulted as follows: Pony race-1 Dollie B, 2 Cassie G, 3 Muncey Maid. Free-for-all race-1 Nancy R, 2 Little Joe, 3 Mohawk Chief. Green race—1 Barney H, 2 Maggie Murphy, 3 Bonnie B. Three-minute class-1 Cope, 2 Elec-The Muncey Band furnished a musical programme, such as only a fullfledged Indian band can give.

It will be a convenience, and secure rlier attention, if all communications ended for publication, or on matters lating thereto, are addressed to the DITORIAL DEPARTMENT, The Ad-

Death of Hon. Clarke Wallace.

rtiser, London, Ont.

The recent telegrams relating to the erious illness of Hon. Clarke Wallace, nember for West York in the Dominon Parliament, will have prepared the public for the announcement of his leath, which occurred at Woodbridge n Tuesday night. Though the intinent, the event after all will come as shock to the many thousands of eople to whom he was personally

Mr. Clarke Wallace was a Canadian, born at Woodbridge, of Irish derivation. From an early period in his carreer his abilities attracted attention. He soon started in on the asending scale, as reeve, warden, Member of Parliament; in the year 1892 becoming Comptroller of Customs in the Administration of Sir John Thompson.

But the chief strength of Mr. Clarke Wallace's public position arose from the unique influence he exerted as Grand Master and Sovereign for Canada of the Orange Order. A man of forcible and fluent speech, especially on the public platform, and possessed of a considerable sense of humor, he had attained a position of influence with Canadian Orangemen probably never surpassed by that attained previously by any other Grand Master. In denouncing Sir Mackenzie Bowell's

Government in connection with the Separate Schools controversy in Manitoba, and also as one of the "Noble Thirteen" who voted for the disallowance of Mercier's Jesuits' Estates Bill in 1888, and otherwise, he had cumulatively increased his hold on the confidence and sympathies of the Orange

No matter how favoring the circumcareer as Mr. Clarke Wallace has done, as the strongest Conservative leader in Ontario, had he not been possessed of much native force and ability. So strong was his position at the time of the selection of the Hon, L. H. Boren as leader of the Dominion Conservative Opposition, that the one man from Ontario who stood out prominently as a rival candidate for the position, was Mr. Clarke Wallace. It may be here remarked that the man who stood by Mr. Wallace in the contest for the leadership against Mr. Borden was Mr. W. F. Maclean, M. P., of the Toronto World; it remains to be seen whether Mr. Maclean, politically, will now be stronger or weaker because of the disappearance from the political world of Mr. Clarke Wallace. While not agreeing politically with Mr. Clarke Wallace, we have on more than one occasion spoken appreciatively of his abilities. It remains only to add that while he gave and received many a sturdy blow, he was a man of attractive personal disposition and kindly heart.

Is Protection Dying?

La Patrie points out certain facts which seem to indicate that protection is declining in favor; these facts are not merely local, but are drawn from widely separated and far different areas, as Britain, Germany and the United States. In Germany some hundred or more different chambers of commerce have protested against the proposed minimum duty on agricultural products. In Britain it has recently been shown that strong as the feeling may be in favor of protection among certain classes, the Government does not go far in that direction, as the British people are not prepared to have the whole people taxed for the sake of any one class. It is also remarkable that the last public utterance of President McKinley, before his tragic death, seemed to breathe a desire for freer Lady Brilliana Harley, one of the trade. The name of McKinley meant for Canadians a high protective meas- that she was troubled with the tempers ure, and the speech was welcomed by and jealousies of her servants, and many as a recognition of the need for longed for the assistance of a wellsomething freer and broader in international life. All these facts are real about me, of any judgment, to do anyand are also significant, but we do not thing," she wrote. So much for the think it will be too sanguine. Protec- side of the mistress. In those days returned east from an extensive trip tion will not die of itself, and it will the maids had their grievances, too, not die easily. It will have to be as we learn from a small black letter Empire representative that he found fought in the future as in the past by all fair means. The vested interests letter sent by the maydens of London nothing can meet them except of the same, in defense of their lawful united action on the part of the libertie, Answering to the mery meetgreat body of those whose interests are ing by Rose, Jane, Rachell, Sara, Philuaffected. In Germany the pressure on the industrial classes has become very heavy, and nothing but real relief can prevent the growth of that discontent | their views, and in reply to an attack of which the socialistic movement is a symbol. In the United States there are large resources and new fields for he would have us restrained of our libcommerce, but even there the feeling is going that a high tariff favors the few at the expense of the many. Those who pay dear for an article at home have no great consolation in the fact that the same thing is sold for much ernment has not, like the Opposition, spent its time crying for the moon, but has made such slight advance as was possible, and stands ready to meet our neighbors, or even the most of give and take. Protection will take some time to die, but it is likely that the nations will begin to learn that commercial wars are as costly and useless as other wars.

The Maids of Now and 400 Years Ago.

They have a servant girl's union in Ottawa, and naturally enough a disussion has ensued as to the status of the domestic aid, her privileges and her drawbacks. One writer takes up the cudgel in favor of the girls, and argues as if they were all equally harshly reated by their employers. The accusation is brought against the mistresses as a class, that they keep too much aloof from their assistants, and that they are not sympathetic enough with them. He further says that women, and the desirable aim, the mistresses put obstacles in the way of refuse to let them bring their gentlemen friends to the house to see them. Perhaps this critic of the relationship that exists between mistress and maid is too sweeping in his application. He certainly is if the conditions in Ottawa are akin to those which exist here. There are good and bad mistressesinconsiderate employers as well as inconsiderate servants-in every comparties to the contract are kindhearted and conciliatory will the affairs of the domestic circle be conducted without friction.

One trouble is that there are mistresses who ask too much of their work, and allow too of the nature indicated by the Ottawa critic. But there are servants who, getting an inch, and entitled to it, will demand or take an ell, and thus we have friction, and dissatisfaction, no matter which way we take it. "We have known of a maid visit her was gratified, wind up by having him every evening in the kitchen, enjoying all the privileges that a boarder would have looked for. week to tea, and wind up by bringing in, when that concession was granted, a half a dozen of her male and female associates, to be fed weekly or oftener at her employers' ex-kind they were to their assistants. Be this as it may, there can be no doubt that now as from time immemorial there are constantly arising domestic problems for solution, for membership might have to walk the though it has been so contended, there have never been any halcyon days when mistresses and servants invariably got along without friction. His- one of these had a majority of eight torians tell us that the Elizabethan age was perhaps the era in which the It would be cruel, however, to force a relations of the servant and served were at their best. Then the secretary of state acted as the amanuensis of Her Majesty, and every noble lady or gentleman, whose fortune warranted it, had gentlewomen in her service. One of Middleton's characters, Mistress Openwork, feels herself superior to the tradesman whom she married. "I came to him a gentlewoman born. . . . 'Tis well known he took me from a lady's service, where I was well beloved of the steward; I had my Latin tongue and a spice of the French, before I came to him." Although many women married into a lower rank than their own, it is not to be inferred that such service told seriously against them. Lady Hutton mentions the marriage of her waiting woman, "a gentlewoman of good house and well allied, to Sir Walter, now Lord Aston." It was a complaint of that day, despite the amicable relations usually existing between mistress the maid, that the servant girls were too much given to going to the theaters. Symonds tells of them that Thither our city damsels speed, Leaving their mistress' work undone."

Sir Thomas Overbury, indeed, compared the chambermaids to lotteries, and asserted that "you may draw twenty ere one worth anything." cleverest women of her day, records trained gentlewoman. "I have nobody volume, published in 1567, entitled, "A behind protection are very strong, and to the vertuous matrones and mistresses mias and Dorothie." This was evidently written, not by one of themselves, but by one willing to express

All of which shows how little change we have made in these regards in the last 400 years, and reconciles us to much that may be difficult to arrange in these later days, though we are prone to reason that the inventive genius of man-and woman-ought to have discovered some means ere now that would have made us less dependent on kitchen and other maids than many of us are ready to confess that Coming Holidays.

By the law of the land the birthday of the Sovereign is a statutory holiday; therefore, the 9th of November, King Edward's natal day, will be observed as a holiday throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion. This fact is brought out in a letter addressed to Mr. Guthrie, M. P., Guelph, by the Secretary of State, who, referring to the date fixed for Thanksgiving Day,

"I quite agree with you that a month earlier would suit the views of a considerable number of the people of Canada, but business men have always protested against having holidays in the months of October and November. As you know our canals close generally about Nov. 24, and those engaged in shipping object strongly to an additional holiday during the months referred to. You are aware that Nov. 9 will now be a holiday, and therefore it was considered reasonable to postpone Thanksgiving Day until after the closing of the canals.

Thanksgiving Day the impossible quantity.

IMPRESSIONS FROM NEW YORK.

The Results of the Yacht Race Cause Little Exultation.

New York Theatrical Circles-The Bonnie Brier Bush Dramatized-Jews Numerous-Dr. Parkhurst and Tammany.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

New York, Oct. 7, 1901. We have often been told that straws show which way the wind blows, and if the yacht race is to be considered a straw, it has served its time-honored purpose for while there can be no doubt of the intense loyalty of the average American, and his unlimited faith in his country. There could be no doubt that many, very many, Americans would have been pleased if the Shamrock had In this they show a disposition very much akin to that of the British, who never fail to recognize and respect pluck wherever they see We are not, therefore, surprised to find no exultation on the part of said. man worthy of their steel. It is claimed they have the clothing business almost entirely, very much of the tobacco business, and that, while as actors they have not made much headway, as managers they bid fair to monopolize the whole. On Broadway, with its thousands walking about five o'clock in the evening, you cannot fail to notice the larg? percentage of Jewish faces on both men and women, and the sign boards tell a similar They are undoubted!y an able, iale.

His composition is splendid; his delivery quite equal to it. the Americans because the Columbia won, but as a matter of fact one of the crowds in front of one of the newspaper builetins, burst into a cheer when they read "The Shamrock leading." Passing another crowd not very far away, I said to a young man read ing the bulletin, "It looks as if the Shamrock will win." "Oh, no," he said. "They'll play with her "They'll play with her while," and to anothfor a er, later, I repeated the prediction, when I was met with a very confident assertion, that there was no danger of that. It proved to be so. The fact worth noting is the good feeling towards the Shamrock, which though beaten, is regarded as a foe-

Leaving the yacht race, and turning to another subject, I went to hear the dramatized version of

Ian Maclaren's Scotch story. It has been dramatized by James Mac-Arthur. The leading actor, Mr. J. H Stoddart, who takes the part of Lachlan Campbell, a Highland sheep farmer, reminds you very strongly in personal appearance, as he is made up for the part, of our veteran townsman, Samuel McBride. He is a capital actor and brings out strongly the kind heart coupled with the determination to do his duty, as he thinks he sees it, at no matter what cost. He was wrong, but believed he was right. How often this happens? I remember a point once made by the late John and with many illustrations he drove home the wisdom of the fact that it is always best to "suspend your judgment until you know all." Had Lachsure; if he had been more like Dr. Mc-Clure, a character well taken by Mr. himself and others much bitter suffering. To think you are right is not always to be right. Perhaps the most pleasant part of the entertainment was the fact that Reuben Fax, a brother of the late Sim Fax, introduces nearly all the humor there is in the play. He takes the part of "Posty," Archibald McKittrick, and takes it well, fairly dividing the honors with fact that his intended Scottish accent is flavored with Irish takes away any of the enjoyment. I thank he is the best actor that London can claim to have any special interest in. Ilis voice is clear and distinct, and being near the front I had a good chance to note that his facial expressions correctly interpreted the feelings by which, fo the time being, he was possessed. I was pleased with his ability, and pleased that the "full house" at the Theater Republic gave him ample I was told that about 400 free invitations had been sent out for one entertainment, to the clergymen of New York, and that many of them availed themselves of the chance to

Only one other incident I noted, an old woman, hard to guess her age, perhaps fourscore, was sitting on the westerly side of Madison Square, on the stone steps, which no doubt led at one time up to a fashionable residence, but now given up wholly to business. Her wares, which she had for sale, were on her knees. Her head had fallen forward. She was asleep. She may have been happier than many of those who passed her. IMPOSSIBLE.

The Pecuniary Results to the Individual of an Equal Division—First of National Income and Secondly of Certain Parts of It.

The following is an extract from W. H. Mallock's book entitled "Labor and Popular Welfare." The matter will be seen from the terms used to apply more particularly to economic conditions in Britain. Reasoning. however, from the data given, the reader will be able to see how the writer arrives at his conclusion, namely that pecuniary equality is an impossibility: The entire population of the United Kingdom numbers a little over 38,000,-000; so our division sum is simple. The share of each individual would be about £32. But this sort of equality in distribution would satisfy nobody. It is not worth talking about. For a quarter of the population are children under ten years of age, and nearly two-fifths are under fifteen; and it would be absurd to assign to a baby seeking a pap-bottle, or even to a boy-voracious as boys' appetites are-the same sum that would be assigned to a full-grown man or woman. In order to give our distribution even the semblance of rationality, the shares must be graduated according to the requirements of age

The sort of proportion to each other which these graduated shares should bear might possibly be open to some unimportant dispute, but we cannot go far wrong if we take for our guide the amount of food which scientific authorities tell us is required respectively by men, women and children, together with the average proportion which actually obtains at present both between their respective and the respective costs of their maintenance. The result which we arrive at from these sources of information is substantially as follows, and every fresh inquiry confirms it:

For every pound which is required or received by a man fifteen shillings does or should go to a woman, ten shillings to a boy, nine shillings to a girl and four and sixpence to an in-

So much, then, being admitted, we shall make our calculations best by starting with the family as our unit and coming to the individual afterward. The average family consists of four and a half persons, and the families in the United number eight and a half millions. Twelve hundred millions-the sum we have to divide-would give each family an income of a hundred and forty

From this, however, we should have in no way except by marrying. to deduct taxes, and, since if all many of their expenses would be taxed equally, the amount due from each family would be consider-even if we assume that it would remain at its present figure each family would have to contribute at least sixteen pounds.

to be spent for the child's benefit. NET INCOME LIBERAL. Therefore, sixteen pounds must be deducted from the hundred and forty pounds. According, we have for four and a half persons a net income of a hundred and twenty-six pounds. Now, these persons would be found to consist, on an average, of a man and his wife, a youth, a girl and a half of a baby-for when we deal with averages we must execute many judgments like Solomon's-and if we distribute the income among them in the result we shall arrive at will in round numbers be: The man will have fifty pounds, the woman thirty-six pounds, the youth twenty-five pounds, the girl twentyfour pounds and the half of the infive pounds. And now let us scrutinize the result a little further and see how it looks in various fa-

proportion I just now indicated the miliar lights. An equal distribution of the whole wealth of the country would give every adult male about nineteen shillings and sixpense a week and every female adult about fourteen shillings. These sums would, however, be free of taxes; so, in order to compare them with the wages paid at present, we must add to them two shillings and sixpence and two shillings respectively, which will raise them respectively to twenty-two shillings and to sixteen shillings The smallness of this result is likely to startle anybody; but none the less is true; and it is well to consider t carefully, because the reason why startles us requires to be particularly noticed. Of the female population of the country that is above fifteen years old the portion that works for wages is not so much as a half; and of the married women that do so the portion is much smaller. The remainder work, no doubt, quite as hard as the rest, but they work as wives and mothers, and whatever money they have comes to them through their husbands. Thus when the ordinary man considers the question of income, he regards income as something which belongs exclusively to the man, his wife and his children being things which the man maintains as he pleases.

But the moment the principle equality of distribution is accepted, possible all such ideas as these have to be rudely changed; for if all of us have a claim to an equal share of wealth, just as the common man's claim is as good as that of the uncommon man, so the woman's claim is as good as the claim of either; and whatever her income might be under such conditions, it would be hers in her own right, not in that of anybody eise. Accordingly it happens equal distribution of wealth, though it would increase the present income of the ordinary workingman's family, might actually, so far as the head of the family was concerned, have the paradoxical result of making him feel that personally he was poorer than before-not richer.

GAINERS BY MARRIAGE. The man's personal share, then, would be twenty-two shillings a week, and the woman's sixteen shillings; and they would increase their income classes were equal all would have to greatly diminished by being shared, they would by this arrangement both be substantial gainers; but if the able. Public expenditure, if the state principle of equality were properly directed everthing, would of necessity carried out, they would gain very litbe larger than it is at presents out the further by the appearance of children; for though we must assume that a certain suitable sum would be paid them by the state for the maintenance of each child, that would have

We may, therefore, say that the utmost results which could possibly be secured to the individual by a general confiscation and a general distribution of wealth would be represented by the condition of a childless man and wife with thirty-eight shillings a week, which they could spend entirely on themselves; for all the wealth the nation that was not absorbed in supplying such incomes to men and women who were childless would be absorbed in supporting the children of those who had them; thus merely equalizing the conditions of large and of small families, and enabling the couple with ten or a dozen children to be personally as well off as the couple with none. Could such a condition of well-being be made universal, many of the darkest evils of civilization would no doubt disappear; but it is well for a man who imagines that the masses of this country are kept by unjust laws out of the possession of some enormous heritage to see how limited would be the result if the laws were to give them everything; and to reflect that the largest income that would thus be assigned to any woman would be less than the income enjoyed at the present moment by multitudes of unmarried girls whose wages amount to seventeen shillings a week, who pay their parents a shilling a day for board, and who spend the remainder, with a most charming taste, on dress. ABSOLUTELY CLEAR. But an equality of this kind, from a practical point of view, is worth considering only as a means of reducing it to an absurdity. Even were it established tomorrow, it could not be maintained for a month, owing to the difficulty that would arise in connection with the question of children as, unless a state official checked the weekly bills of every parent, parents inevitably would save out of their children's allowances; and those with many children would be very soon founding fortunes. And again it is obvious that different kinds of occupation require from those engaged in them unequal expenditures; so that the inevitable inequality would make pecuniary equality im-

We need not, however, dwell upon such details longer, for there are few people who conceive even a redistribution like this to be possible; and there would probably be fewer still who would run the risk of attempting it, if they realized how limited would be the utmost results of it to themselves. All these schemes, then, for attacking property as it exists, for confiscating and redistributing by some forcible process of legislation the whole or any part of the existing national income, are either obviously impracticable or their result would insignificant. Their utmost result, indeed, would not place any of the workers in so good a position as is at present occupied by many of them. This is evident from what has been seen already. But there is another reason which renders such schemes illusory-a far more important one than any I have yet touched upon, and of a far more fundamental kind.

NEWFOUNDLAND AGREES

At One With Canada in Its Opinion of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Fortune Harbor, Nfld., Oct. 7 .- (Specal).-However this Island and Dominion stand on political questions. there is one theme on which they are unanimous, and that is in their opinion of Dodd's Kidney Pills. In Newfoundland Dodd's Kidney Pills have duplicated their Canadian reputation. On all sides they are spoken of as a really wonderful medicine by those who have tried them, whose number increases every day. Richard Quirk, of this place, writes about Dodd's Kidney Pills in the universal terms of high praise.

"No tongue can tell," he says, pleasure I feel in being able to say that I am indeed permanently cured of my backache by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I never imagined that any medicine could cure me of so old a complaint, and am high in the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills to everybody who comes my way." HARD ON THE STAFF. Hamilton, Oct. 9.—The Times says: At a meeting of the Morning Post Company's directors yesterday afternoon it was decided to pay at once the vages owing printers, mechanics, apprentices, route boys, but the editorial staff, reporters, proofreader and artist must wait for a settlement of the concern by the assignee. It is stated the president-solicitor of the company does not think the salaried men on the paper can hold the directors personally responsible for salaries, under the incorporated companies act, which says directors are liable for the wages of "laborers, servants and apprentices." Some of the reporters consulted Washington & Beasley, in the matter, and suits will likely be brought at once. It is said that about $500 is owing the members of the staff, the editor's claim

The Gould Road Can Now Get Terminal in Pittsburg.

Extension of the System Agreed On at Annual Meeting-Sweeping Proposal to Abolish Railway Passes.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.-The North American tomorrow will publish an article to the effect that the Pennsyl-Railroad, which, the article vania says, has been opposing the efforts of the Wabash to gain an entrance into Pittsburg, has withdrawn ats opposition and that the Wabash will now be able to get a terminal in that city. The article goes on to say that Geo. J. Gould recently secured control of the Norfolk and Western Railroad from the Pennsylvania for the purpose of furthering his efforts in gaining a foothold in Pittsburg. The Pennsylvania wanted to get complete control of the Norfolk and Western, but the Gould interests would not sell until the Pennsylvania people consented to withdraw their opposition to the Wa-bash project. This, the North Ameri-can, says, the Pennsylvania agreed to do, and Geo. Gould sold the control of the Norfolk and Western to the Pennsylvania at a profit. The article says that the matter of a seaboard outlet for the Wabash system is still an open question, but that the big gap between Pittsburg and the Atlantic coast has been partly closed by the Gould interests securing control of the Western Maryland Railroad.

WILL BUY TWO ROADS. Toledo, Oct. 8.—The annual meeting of the Wabash Railroad Company was held in this city today. The following directors were re-elected by the stockholders and debenture bondholders—George J. Gould, Edwin Gould, Russell Sage, J. T. Terry, S. C. Reynolds, P. B. Wyckoff, O. D. Ashley, Edgar T. Welles, Thomas H. Hubbard, Francis Pavy, H. K. Mc-Harg and Cyrus J. Lawrence. These directors then elected Joseph Ramsey, jun., as the thirteenth member of the board, and according to the bylaws, the thirteenth member is the presi-

Two resolutions were unanimously adopted. The first was to purchase the Boone County and Boonville Railroad, and the second to purchase the Omaha and St. Louis; $300,000 to be paid for the first named road and $3,-000,000 for the latter. The Booneville road is now leased by the Wabash. The meeting was very harmonious as is shown by the fact that 80 per cent of the stock and bonds were represented, and there were no dissenting votes. This disproves the story recently published that the Pennsylvania had acquired large holdings in the Wabash in order to keep it out of Pittsburg. Another meeting is to be held in St. Louis tomorrow.

NO MORE PASSES! New York Sun: A sub-committee representing all of the railroads in the Trunk Line Association, the Central Traffic Association and the Western Passenger Association met in the offices of the Trunk Line Association in this city yesterday and voted to recommend the complete abolition of the free pass system, to take effect Jan. 1, 1902. This committee was appointed at a meeting of the presidents of about 40 important railroad systems, held in this city last winter. Its work was tion of the presidents in order that passes should not be given to influence traffic. The recommendation framed by the committee yesterday will be submitted to the associations represented for ratification. The action of the committee was unanimous, and the general sentiment among the railroad men is said to be in favor of the step recommended. It is proposed to stop the practice of issuing railroad passes, and no excep tions are to be made, according to the recommendation adopted yesterday.

There are to be no exchanges of annual passes between presidents and other leading officers of railroads. No trip passes are to be issued for political, business or other reasons, and the thousands of family passes issued to minor officers of railroads are to be discontinued.

President Newman represented the New York Central at yesterday's meeting, President Truesdale represented the D. L. and W., First Vice-President James McCrea the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg, and President S. M. Felton the Chicago and Alton. After the meeting President Truesdale said:

A CLEAN SWEEP. "The idea is to shut down on all passes. This is the only country in which the pass system prevails, and there appears to be no good reason to continue it. The railroads disposed of the question of issuing passes to influence traffic some time ago, and now an effort will be made to wipe out the pass custom entirely."

The advisability of discontinuing the granting of free transportation has been under discussion by the managers of the railroads operating between New York and Chicago for several years. The custom of exchanging annual passes for the personal use of presidents, vice-presidents, general managers, general superintendents, chief en-gineers and lesser officials of railroads has grown to such an extent that the principal roads regard it as a serious interference with their passenger traffic. Deadhead travelers, it is asserted, frequently crowd out persons ready to pay cash. A big railroad system like the Pennsylvania or the New York Central issues tens of thousands of free passes yearly.

One member of the sub-committee on abolition of passes was asked yesterday if the new rule was intended to apply to politicians and legislators, as well as to other persons, and he replied:

"Yes, we intend to make a clean sweep. If our recommendation is adopted no favors will be shown to any person. The only way to make such a movement a success is to treat everybody alike.' Under the constitution of this state it is a misdemeanor for any public officer, elected or appointed, to use a free VANDERBILTS NOT INTERESTED Cleveland, Oct. 9.—The Leader prints the following: From well-informed per-All records for the collection of taxes in this city were broken Monday when in Cleveland it is learned that the Vanderbilts are in no way connected with the project to build a line across Cape Breton to reach export points of the Province of Nova Scotia.

It seems that Nova Scotia has ofsonally taken advantage of the option of the bounty and will build a road inside of two years. The movement is one on his own personal account and is said to have no connection whatever with the New York Central or other Vanderbilt roads. Only such connection with United States lines will be made as are natural through the regular channels of Canadian commerce.

Dr. Seward Webb, president of the Cape Breton Railway Company, interviewed about the press reports as to his plans in Cape Breton, said: "Neither I nor the Vanderbils have any connection with the new bridge under construction at Montreal, nor do we mean to haid any religious." do we mean to build any railways to compete with the Canadian Pacific Railway, but on the contrary, all cur railway, but on the contrary, all cur railways will connect with both these roads. We are not building, nor are we in any way identified with a line of steamers, fast or otherwise, running between Cape Breton and Europe. Our railway interests at Cape Breton are purely local." purely local."

"FAUST" TONIGHT.

Lewis Morrison, in addition to being sistence on the absolute accuracy lights, scenes, music and properties is greatly responsible for the beauty of production of "Faust," which he will appear at the New Grand tonight. Several thousand dollars have been invested on the new scenery, costumes and prologue. Lewis Morrison has appeared five thousand times as Mephisto, and the presen production is said to be the most elaborate he has ever given to this play The scenery, costumes and electrical effects are all new. The prologue is new. The instrumental and vocal music is newly composed, while the artists selected to interpret the music were drawn from a well-known New York conservatory, and with the added attraction of Lewis Morrison himself as Mephisto, tonight's production of "Faust" at the New Grand will prove an unusual event.

"DOLLY VARDEN" FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

On Friday evening next, the Lulu Glaser Opera Company will open the musical season of the New Grand in the new comic opera, "Dolly Varden," which was written specially for Mr. F. C. Whitney by Messrs. Stanislaus Stange and Julian Edwards. The engagement is for two nights, with Saturday matinee. The company supporting Miss Glaser is a large and competent one. The names of the principals are familiar to opera-goers of this city The company contains efficient vocal groups, as follows: A male quartet the principals, a mixed double quartet insurance, $1,200, in Waterloo two sextets, and two double sextets of the chorus, and one octet. There are 24 musical numbers in "Dolly Varden," which means that fully one-half of the performance is singing. Mr. Julian Edwards, the composer of the pany of 50 is equal to the majority of companies of 80." This is quite a bold assertion for Mr. Edwards to make, but it comes from a man whose judgment in musical affairs cannot be questioned. Both Toronto and Montreal have set their seal of approval on "Dolly Varden," and there can be very little doubt that London theater-goers will sustain their verdicts.

> THE FAVORITE "BOSTONIANS." The near approach of the annual engagement of the Bostonians at the New Grand will no doubt be awaited with interest by music lovers. This famous and ever-welcome company is strongly reinforced and reorganized this season by a number of the greatest singers on the lyric stage, and "Robin Hood," by Reginald De Koven and Harry B. Smith will be the novelty presented here. For ten years this opera has enjoyed public favor. Among the famous singers who will appear here are Henry Clay Barnabee, W. H. MacDonald, Frances Miller, Albert Parr, Allen Hinckley, George Frothingham, Josephine Bartlett, Adele Raf-ter, W. H. Fitzgerald, MacDonald Dorrington, Vernon Stiles, Gertrude Zimmer, Charles J. Swikard. and S. L. Studley, musical director. A brilliant chorus of 50 voices and special orcas tra will be in support.

"THELMA" AT THE LONDON. Marie Corelli's much-talked-of "Thelma" has been dramatized, and will be produced at the London Opera House on Wednesday, matinee and night, Oct. 16, by Aiden Benedict's company. The version is by Mr. Chas. W. Chase. All of the main incidents of the book have been carefully reproduced in the play. The players and costumes have been selected with utmost care. "THE AMERICAN GIRL" AT THE LONDON. "The American Girl" will be presented at the London Opera House Saturday, matinee and night, Oct. 19. The plot circles around the adventures of an American girl, who has lost sight of her husband and been lost sight of by him, with a villain who adds bitterness to her life. From the start the dialogue, speeches which touch upon sentiment sympathy and patriotic pride, excites the interest of the audience, and the introduction of two clever children, especially when the little girl sings a childish song which her mother has taught her, particularly moves the female portion of an audience to the keenest appreciation. The comedy in the play is good. George F. Hay and Miss Frankie St. John, who were seen here in last season's production, will again appear in title roles.

THE BURRILL COMPANY. Tonight at the London Opera House the famous Joseph Jefferson version of "Rip Van Winkle" will be produced by special request. The demand for seats is an evidence of its popularity in London. On Thursday evening the Burrill Company will positively produce "Ten Nights in a Barroom." Friday night will be an amateur contest again for a prize of $5 to the winner. Saturday, Oct. 12, will be made a souvenir day. Every purchaser of a ticket will be presented with a souvenir photo of the duke and duchess.

THERE IS ONLY ONE ECLECTRIC OIL.—When an article, be it medicine of anything else, becomes popular, imitations invariably spring up to derive advantages from the original, which they themselves could never win on their own merits. Imitations of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil have been numerous, but never successful. Those who know the genuine are not put off with a substitute, but demand the real thing.

AT OSGOODE HALL

the following case was heard: Mc-Nulty vs. Morris.-Dromgole (London) and J. C. Elliott (London), for plaintiff, moved to set aside non-suit entered by Robertson J., in the London assizes in January, 1900, and for a new trial upon the grounds there were questions of fact depending on conflicting evidence, which should have been submitted to the jury. The action was brought by a laboring man who had his leg broken in Henry James' brickyard, at the village Delaware, by a large mass of clay falling on it, to recover damages for malpractice against Charles E. Morris, the surgeon who was called in to set the leg, and who attended the plaintiff from the 1st of September, 1899, the day of the accident, until the 18th of September, when the plaintiff was moved from Delaware to his home at Melbourne, a few miles away. There was an oblique fracture of the tibia and also a fracture of the small bone of the leg. There is no question that the man's leg is not right; there is an overriding of the bone. There was the usual conflict of expert surgical testimony. The plaintiff contended that the questions of disputed facts which should have been left to the jury were: (1) Was the fracture ever reduced? (2) What was the subsequent treatment; was tape measurement applied and was the proper splint applied? (3) Was the defendant relieved from the charge of the case? I. F. Hellmuth and D. W. Saunders, for defendant, showed cause. Reserved.

will write to my father, or telegraph, I can afford it." that moment she heard a door open, and the voice of a gentleman singing part of the duet in Sir Arthur Sullivan's opera "Patience," which begins:

"Prythee, pretty maiden, will you marry me?
Hey, willow, willow, willow, waily;
may say at once I'm a man of property,
Hey, willow, waily."

The voice and the words were English The voice and the words were English a fine baritone voice, well preserved.

Elsie started. She had never heard the voice before, had she? and then a step came down the carpetless corridor.

The door swung back and a gentleman advanced, walked straight into the little salon with a gay, debonnair manner. He even continued to hum the little operatic air which he had been singing when Elsie first heard him open the door of his own air which he had been singing when Elsie first heard him open the door of his own room. He started a little when he saw Elsie, and passed his hand through the fair curls that gave so picturesque and heroic a look to his handsome head. An excessively fine man, in the prime and strength of middle age, tall, muscular, cast in the moid of a Hercules. Breadth, height, statuesque pose, all combined to give a certain distinction to his appearance. His dress was half military, so to speak; there was a soldierly dash in his whole bearing. His countenance was fair and ruddy, his eyes large, bright, intensely blue. He wore a long, soft, yellowish mustache.

Instantly Elsie detected in this imposing individual a most striking resemblance ing individual a most striking resemblance to Miss Pauline Bracegirdle, and thus the first suspicion of the strange plot that had lured her across the seas and placed her in this unpleasant house amid these uncomfortable surroundings, dawned upon her like a revelation. Piece by piece she seemed able to put the whole puzzle together, and to see the ugly picture which deceit, treachery and falsehood had made.

"This is Miss Bracegirdle's father whom

had made.
"This is Miss Bracegirdle's father, whom I heard Mr. Basil Byrne speak of as a very unworthy man, from whose bad guardianship Lady Chase removed Miss Pauline Bracegirdle. She must have written to this father of hers, to tell him I was the proventive to her marrying the ten to this father of hers, to tell him I was the preventive to her marrying the heir to an earldom; and she must have induced him to send off a false telegram. bringing me here! My father is not in Paris at all! Let me watch this well throughout. I am sure they will tell me not to write to my father, and they will try to prevent my returning to Charteris. I will pretend to believe them." Elsie was not very diplomatic by nature; but circumstances had conspired to make her both self-reliant and some-what suspicious of those who made great professions. She was gifted with an exceptional quickness of eye in reading uman faces; this she inherited from her ather. Thus Elsie read a whole story did not like upon this strang nat she did not like upon this strange gentleman's handsome face. She read first and foremost an inordinate and overwhelming vanity; then she read treachery—the very blue eyes were treacherous. Besides all this, she read something else which she did not understand a well-something which frightened her. so well-something which frightened her, made her heart beat quick beats, made her wish that she were safely out of this man's power.

The captain slapped his broad chest and laughed heartily.

"I am Captain Bracegirlde, late of the Austrian service," he said, father's warmest friend."

Bracegirdle! Elsie saw it all most plainly. How perfectly these pieces of the puzzle fitted so far! She had felt from the very first moment that she looked into this man's handsome face that he was the father of Pauline Bracegirdle, but she had almost fancied that he would assume another name—that he would hesitate to another name—that he would hesitate to announce that of Bracegirdle, that he would know if he did she must read the sinister meaning between the lines of the false story he was telling.

"I will not go to your house, Captain Bracegirdle, until I hear from my father in his own handwriting—until I see his wishes so expressed, or until I see my father himself and he tells me to trust you; until then I will not stir from this house." Captain Bracegirdle turned to Madame Jotte, who of course had not understood one word of this colloquy, and he spoke to her now in rapid French. Then he turned again, after madame had answered him in high, screeching tones, shaking her head, gesticulating with her hands. and making ugly grimaces-he turned all bland, and handsome, and gracious to Elsie, and he said:

"It is quite impossible that madame can accommodate you here for another hour. All her rooms are engaged. This one is devoted to a dejeuner at twelve and a dinner at six. Madame provides these every day for some gentlemen en-in business at the adjacent bur-All her other rooms are let. Madame cannot even give you room in her kitchen, it is so small and she is so busy cooking; thus you see, mademoiselle, that you must come into the street without de-lay. Then what can so young a girl do lay. Then what can so young a girl do alone in a city like Paris? Ma foi! it is simply frightful! Am I to leave the child of my dear friend alone, at the mercy of the insolent populace? Mademoiselle, you must be mad; but indeed, in your day interests. I correct suffer you your own interests, I cannot suffer you to act so wildly."

Then Captain Bracegirdle turned again towards Madame Jotte, and gave her rapid, even flercely-enunciated directions.

rapid, even fiercely-enunciated directions.

Madame Jotte looked at Elsie; her funny little eyes flashed and danced; she shook her head a great many times, she grinned most hideously, and she said:

"Elle ne veut pas!—she will not! I know her; she is firm—she will not get into a voiture—it is impossible! She has, I say, a will as strong as yours, monsieur, and she will not let us force her into a carriage; it must be done by persuasion, and neither you nor I will persuade her to riage; it must be done by persuasion, and neither you nor I will persuade her to enter a carriage."

"Mademoiselle," said Captain Brace-girdle, turning towards Elsie, "you must, for your own sake and your father's accompany me to my house in the charming Boulevard St. Michel—one of the gayest positions in Paris. It is there that I and my wife and daughter are to have the honor of receiving you as our guest." honor of receiving you as our guest."
"Your daughter?" asked Elsie, in astonishment. "Is Miss Pauline Bracegirdle in Paris?"

'Ha! you know my daughter, my queenlike Pauline?"
A soft look came into the man's hard, handsome face. Captain Bracegirdle's one human weakness—as he reckoned human weaknesse—was a vast admiration for his brilliant and beautiful daughter.

"I suppose that you know that I have been visiting in the same house with your daughter when your false telegram called me away?"

"False telegram, mademoiselle! You insult me! Beware!"
Captain Bracegirdle's ruddy, clear complexion grew livid with evil temper. Elsie involuntarily wondered whether, after all, she was not suspecting this man wrongly.

He did not look exactly guilty—he looked He did not look exactly guilty—he looked terribly enraged.
"I sent my telegram," he said, arrogantly, and twirling his long yellow mustache—"I sent my telegram to Coome Hill House, where your father supposed you to be at school."

Elsie would not enter into explanations with him. She felt convinced that Paulge and her father had made up their minds to keep her a prisoner until Miss five francs—a month; and for my taking Bracegirdle had contrived to become Lady care of his letters besides he gives presents—six silver teaspoons and a fine clock. Hammond.

"I do not wish to meet your daughter, Captain Bracegirdle, if she is n. Paris. I don't like her at all."

Madame Jotte screamed in a shrill tone:

"I don't understand her English jargon, but I do understand that she is as saucy as a magpie or a poll-parot, and that she will not get into that carriage unless you gag her and tie her hands, and I will not run the risk of that myself!"

"My daughter Pauline," said Captain Bracegirdle, "is at present on a visit in the country mansion of the Right Honorable the Earl of Chase, but I have another daughter, Clara, with whom all your sympathies will be in accord. My daughter Clara will come for you in an hour. I will go and fetch her. Have everything in readiness, Madame Jotte. Here is the trunk of mademoiselle; bring her traveling-bag, her boots and walking attire. I take the key which is outside." Captain Bracegirdle rushed to the outer door, passed through, slammed and lock-self.

"She is not pretty, de tout, de tout, de tout! but she sparkles, she flashes, she burns with wit and fun, and all haughtiness of temper. You will be amused, mon enfant, with Mademoiselle Clara."

"But, madame," said poor Elsie, speaking eagerly, though in somewhat halting French, "I don't like bad-tempered people; there is nothing amusing to me at all in such characters. I simply wish to get away from Cantain Bracegirdle and the country mansion of the Right Honorable the Earl of Chase, but I have another daughter, Clara, with whom all your sympathies will be in accord. My daughter Clara will come for you in an hour. I will go and fetch her. Have everything in readiness, Madame Jotte. Here is the trunk of mademoiselle; bring her traveling-bag, her boots and walking attire. I take the key which is outside," Captain Bracegirdle rushed to the outer door, passed through, slammed and locked it on the outside, before Elsie could attempt to escape. Besides, if she had escaped, what could she have done—hatless and cloakless—in the street, wearing thin house slippers, and without her trunk?

She set to work to try and persuade old Madame Jotte to let her out. She offered her one—two gold napoleons from her slender store.

"I know that my father is not in France; and you, madame, you know dult well that all you told me last night of my father having been ill here was only a story which Captain Bracegirdle told you to repeat."

"Pardon, mademoiselle," returned old Madame Jotte, with a grin, "but the truth is that mademoiselle, having been brought up in England, speaks French in a way that I, an old Frenchwoman, cannot always understand. TURF. OPENING AT MORRIS PARK.

New York, Oct. 9.—Clarence H. Mac-Kay's Heno, second choice, at 3 to 1, won he rich Matron stakes of $20,000 at Morris Park vesterday. He made the running and won cleverly from William C. Whitney's Yankee, the Futurity winner. The race was the feature event of the opening day of the Westchester Racing Association's fall meeting. The track was fast. The Matron stakes was run as the third race, and 16 high-class youngsters faced the starter. Gold Seeker and Clonmel were scratched, but Lux Casta and Cham-pagne were added. The Whitney pair, Yankee and King Hanover, were coupled favorites, while Heno was a strong second choice. After a short delay they were sent off to a good start, and the Whitney pair, with Heno and Whisky King, practically had the race between them all the way, but through the last furlong Heno drew away and won cleverly by two lengths. Turner rode Yankee out with whin and sour and took the place with whip and spur, and took the place half a length before Whisky King. Muzette, an added starter, won the Manhattan handicap from end to end. Redpath was second, a head before King Pepper, while Unmasked, the favorite, was last. Blues had little more than a good gallon to win the Lovench and is a was last. Blues had little more than a good gallop to win the Jerome handicap at 1¼ miles, equaling the track record for the distance of 2:05¾, made by Banquet in 1893. Summary:

First race, 1 mile—McMeekin 1, McAddie 2, Raffaello 3. Time, 1:41.

Second race, 5½ furlongs—Namtor 1, Renald 2, Blanket 3. Time, 1:06¾.

Third race, the Matron stakes of $20,000, 6 furlongs—Heno 1, Yankee 2, Whisky King 3. Time, 1:11½.

Fourth race, the Manhattan handicap, 6 furlongs—Muzette 1, Redpath 2, King Peoper 3. Time, 1:12, Fifth race, the Jerome handicap, 1¼ miles—Blues 1, Baron Pepper 2, Hernando 3. Time, 2:065¾.

Sixth race, 1 mile, selling—Criterion 1, Astor 2, Alpen 3. Time, 1:40. COMING BIG EVENTS AT SARATOGA. New York, Oct. 9 .- The board of direc-New York, Oct. 9.—The board of directors of the Saratoga Association has decided to open the following events, announcement of conditions of which will be made later: A stake of $50,000, to be run in 1904; a 2-year-old stake in 1903 of $25,000; a 2-year-old stake in 1904 of about $40,000, and a 2-year-old stake for fillies to be run in 1903 of $14,000. In addition the regular events given in 1901 will be continued. There will be an entirely new track, which will be 1½ miles, with 1½ miles chute. This will necessitate an entire change in the arrangements of the course.

change in the arrangements of the course, and will include a new grand stand on an enlarged scale. LAUDATOR TEMPORIS ACTI. "The road to knowledge nowadays," said the old pedagogue, "is too swift and too easy. It's a regular railroad. POPLAR POINT.

Royal Party Get Together in the Wheat Fields.

Interested in the Operation of Threshing by Steam-Great Military Gathering at Toronto for the Royal Review.

Poplar Point, Man., Oct. 8 .- The Duchess of Cornwall arrived here at 11 o'clock this morning. The duke had not yet come in from the Karach hunting place, but arrived later, and there was an affectionate greeting when the royal couple met. Afterward the entire party were driven to the Bend ranch, where they were shown the workings of a modern steam threshing outfit. Both the duke and duchess manifested great interest in the work of the thresher, and enjoyed the drive through the wheat fields. The duke thoroughly enjoyed his hunting trip and thanked his host in cordial terms. The journey eastward was resumed this afternoon. A brief stop will be made at Winnipeg, where Sir Wilfrid Laurier will rejoin the first section of the royal train. Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 8.—The royal train will reach the city with their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York at 4:30 this afternoon, and will be in the city just half an hour. The first train with newspaper men and the vice-regal party will leave Poplar Point at 2:30, reaching the city at 3:35, and will leave at 4:10. The royal train leaves Poplar there are now over three millions Point at 3 o'clock.

NEARLY 12,000 TROOPS AT TORON-

Toronto, Oct. 8.-While the ducal review gives promise of being the greatest military function ever witnessed in Canada, only 2,000 of the 10,000 soldiers under arms are to be housed in tents. The remaining 6,000 visiting militiamen, with 2,000 living in Toronto, will find rest and rations in the spacious fair buildings. The 26th (Middlesex) has been assigned to a group of tents on Garrison Commons, and the 7th Fusiliers to the carriage pavilion. The art gallery of the Industrial will be occupied by officers only. The floral and fruit hall and the agricultural hall will also be utilized by them, and the dining-room and furniture taken for an officers' mess. The divisional office will be established in the honey building. The offices in Dufferin street are being used as supply stores. The telephone and telegraph buildings serve its original purpose. Quarters for have been provided in the machinery hall, and the dog show building made into an ordnance storehouse. The western corps, which arrived at the Parkdale depot after twelve o'clock

R., at 12:45 a.m. A large crowd of former Londoners had assembled later in the evening to give the crack corps an enthusiastic welcome to the Queen City. but the major portion of it dispersed on the announcement being made that the train was 75 ninutes late. About a hundred people were present, however, to give the soldier boys a salvo of cheers when they detrained. Owing to the lateness of the hour the band did not strike up, but marched in silence to the exhibition grounds. All along the railway route the train was heartily cheered. A BUSY SCENE. Another dispatch says: The military camp at the exhibition grounds was today the busiest 200 acres in Ontario. Regiments debarked from specials, and swarmed through the grounds with all their camp equipments. While carloads of food and stuffs were being discharged, trains of batteries and artillery came in, staff officers dashed hither and thither, bands practiced their regimental airs in a dozen corners and everywhere the was confusion and bustle. Gen. O'Grady-Haley and all his staff officers are now on the scene, and the general says the review will be, in point of numbers, the regiments coming are in almost every case over strength, and it looks as if the number on parade will be nearer

12,000 than 10,000 anticipated. The PRIVATE KENNEDY

"No one, who was not there, can imagine what some of the troops in South Africa suffered from tender and sore feet, and although some of the boys laughed at your 'Foot Elm' when it was being distributed aboard ship, they were surprised and delighted at the great comfort it gave on our long marches. No one who suffers from tender or sweath feet should be without it. It is worth its weight in gold.

GREAT GLUT OF WHEAT.

Elevators at Fort William Being Filled to Overflowing.

Fort William, Ont., Oct. 9.-Unless wheat begins to move from this place very soon there is likely to be more wheat in the elevators than should be here at the close of navigation. Elevator B is now practically full of wheat, and this week, with ordinary shipments, will fill A and C. Ele vator D has but little, but as ele-vator D is used for storage purposes only during the closed season, it is not likely that the company will want to fill that one until after navigation closes, unless obliged to. There is storage capacity here, including the steel tank elevator, for five and a half million bushels. The latter elevator holds one and a half million, and the way down from the west, so that unless some later shipments are made this week the question of storage will be a serious one.

IN WOODLAND

Remains of the Late Alan Gibbons Placed in the Family Vault.

The remains of the late Alan Gibbons, whose accidental death at Toronto Saturday evening has caused deep and widespread sympathy in London, were laid to rest in the vault at Woodland Cemetery yesterday. The funeral was attended by a very large number of sympathizing friends. The services at the family residence, 257 Dufferin avenue, were extremely simple, but none the less solemn, beautiful and impressive. They were conducted jointly by Rev. Dean Innes, of St. Paul's Cathedral, and by Rev. G. J. Bishop, pastor of the First Methodist Church

The casket, before its removal from the house, was almost completely surrounded by flowers, including tributes not only from friends in London, but from many in other parts of the Do-

Death is always impressive; but it seemed yesterday as if nature desired to soften the blow of a bright and loveable boy's death, by surrounding the funeral with every feature of pathetic beauty. The casket was wreathed, as we have said, with flowers, and in a rarely tasteful yet simple way. Outside the house, in the mellow autumn sunshine, under the park. great trees, were gathered most of the prominent citizens of London, together with many of young Alan Gibbons' former schoolmates. It was a day, a scene, and an occasion, that breathed of tranquility and sympathy. And as an occasional leaf fluttered down, one could not but be reminded of the lines,

Leaves have their time to fall, And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath; And stars to set—but all Thou hast, all seasons for thine own, oh!
Death."

The pallbearers, all former school companions of deceased, were Messrs. W. H. Littie, Allan Magee, Keith Hammond, John Grant, C. A. Fisher, J. Carling, Stewart Pavey, Ellis Hyman, Hugh Labatt and J. Meredith.

DOUBTERS Can Be Changed by Knowledge.

If there is any doubt about making brain power by the use of certain food, the doubter should make the following experiment. Helen Frances Huntington, of Gainesville, Ga., says: "Just a word of commendation regarding Grape-Nuts, which I have found to be the most wholenourishing and appetizing food that has ever come to my knowledge. "I am not a dyspeptic, but being constantly engaged in severe brain work I found that I did not thrive on ordinary diet; even a moderate dinner dulled my brain so as to be practically incapable of critical work. I tried meat juice, peptonoids, the two-meal system of light breakfast and no supper, which brought on nervous depletion and sleepiessness, so I resorted to one and another of the various health foods which all seemed alike tasteless and valueless as a brain food, until quite by chance I had a dish of Grape-Nuts food served as a dessert. I liked it so well that I began to use it daily, for supper four teaspoonful in a saucer of hot milk, eaten before it dissolves to mushiness. "This point should be remembered as, after a certain time, evaporation seems to affect the sweet, nutty flavor of the food as in the case of certain fine-flavored fruits. "The result in my case was simply astonishing. I had no desire whatever for sweet pastrys, meats, or, in fact, anything else; and my brain was as clear and active at night as on awaking from a long, refreshing sleep. "The peculiar advantage about Grape-Nuts food is that it supplies the nutritive qualities of a varied diet, without the bad results of heavy eating. I cheerfully recommend its use to all brain workers, if not as an exclusive diet, certainly for the last meal

Mrs. Wm. Muir, son and daughter, of the tenth concession of East Zorra, narrowly escaped a serious accident at the C. P. R. crossing on Dundas street west, Woodstock, on Sunday morning. They were driving in to the morning service at Chalmers Church, and approached very close to the above-mentioned crossing before they saw the fast morning express approaching. The horse shied and broke the shafts from the buggy, while the occupants jumped out. Had they gone a few feet further the horse would have been hit by the train and the occupants seriously injured and probably killed.

THE QUIET CLOSE

Death of Nathaniel Clarke Wallace, Promi nent Leader of the Orange Order in Canada.

Woodbridge, Ont., Oct. 9 .- Hon. N. Clarke Wallace passed peacefully away at 10:15 last night. Hon. Nathaniel Clarke Wallace was the third son of the late Capt. Nathaniel Wallace, a native of Sligo, Ireland, who came to Canada in 1834. Deceased was born at Woodbridge, Ont., May 21, 1844. He was educated at the local schools and at the Weston Grammar School, after which he gave some years to school teaching. Enterng commercial life 1867, he and his brother, Thomas F., established milling and mercantile firm of Walace Bros., at Woodbridge. His public career dates from 1874, in which year he was elected to the York county council as deputy reeve of Vaughan. He became warden of the county in 1874. In the same year he was returned to the House of Commons for West York in the Conservative interests, and continued to represent the riding until his death. In 1892 Mr. Wallace was appointed controller of customs in the admin-istration of Sir John Thompson. On Dec. 14, 1895, he resigned his portfolio as controller of customs, and denounced Sir Mackenzie Bowell's government as one under the heel of the Roman hierarchy, and determined to re-establish separate schools in Manitoba at their demand. He followed this up by a campaign of surprising vigor against the alleged coercion of Manitoba, and when the house met and Sir Charles Tupper, as head of the reconstructed government, introduced medial bill. Mr. Wallace led the fight, and supported the six months' hoist, moved by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and forced the govbill still in issue. The Orangemen of the country stood very generally by the grand master.

An Orangeman from his youth up, he became grand master and sovereign of the order in British America in 1887, and had been re-elected to that office every year since that time, a total of fifteen elections. He was also president of the Triennial Conference of Orangemen of the world. Mr. Wallace at all times fought strenu ously for the principles of Orangeism in the House of Commons. He was one of the thirteen who voted for the dis allowance of the Jesuits' Estate Bill in 1888. 'He remained to the last an uncompromising protectionist.

Mr. Wallace was president of the British and Canada Gold and Silver Mining Company. He was a member of the Anglican Church, and married June, 1877, Belinda, youngest daughter of the late James Gilmour, Ottawa, who survives him. He also leaves a large family. Captain Thomas Wallace gained laurels in the South African campaign.

THE ROYAL TRAIN IN ENGLAND

The Suggestion Accepted as a Compilment to Canada and Canadian Enterprise. The suggestion that the royal train be taken to England, there to be used by the duke and duchess, comes as a graceful compliment from our royal guests. That a traveling equipage of such magnificence, and showing so high a degree of perfection in construction, should have been built on this side of the water would doubtless excite wide and keen interest among the English people.

It hardly matters from what standpoint the train is viewed, it is a won-derful piece of railway building. For sake of illustration, take that one section of the train used as the reception room. We quote from a description given in a special article in the October Canadian Magazine by Nor-man Patterson: "The ceilings are finished in dead gold, and the moldings and ornaments are just touched with gold and blue, the decorations being of the Louis XV. style. The hangings and drapings are of dark blue velvet, while the floor is carpeted with a heavy Wilton of a quiet, gray green shade, into whose heavy texture the foot sinks without making a sound. The sofa, the arm chairs, table, escritoire, and other articles of furniture are upholstered in blue velvet to match the draperies. The piano is of Canadian manufacture-made by the old firm of Heintzman & Co., Toronto, in Circassian walnut, to conform with the paneling of the room, spe-cially on order of the royal party and is a very perfect instrument. One feature of the car is its admirable and airy appearance, this being due to the eight large plate glass windows at the side, together with the glass panels of the door and rear walls." The royal train would doubtless prove a very beautiful and indeed elaborate souvenir of the royal visit to Canada, and as it would speed its way through the different parts of the motherland, it would serve as a kindly suggestion of the bond of interest between the home land and the colony.
