A NEW TACK BEING TAKEN UP IN CELEBRATED SAUNBY CASE?

Defense Claims It Is—Dam, as Well as Splash Boards, Alleged to Have Caused Loss to Millowner.

The case of Saunby vs. the Water Commissioners of the city of London, is still dragging its weary length through numerous legal coils at the court house.

Yesterday and today argument has been going on relative to the damage the plaintiff has claimed as the result of the placing of the splash boards on the Springbank dam by the water-work department years ago.

Like the famous case of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce, no one appears to know when it will end.

"Is argument on the damages question likely to end today?" The Advertiser asked Mr. C. H. Ivey, of Ivey & Dring, who, with Mr. I. F. Hellmuth, of Toronto, and formerly of London, is appearing for the plaintiff. "Search me," Mr. Ivey answered, as he leaned back and listened to Mr. Hellmuth's question to Engineer Bell, of St. Thomas, an expert who is appearing for the city.

Settlement Not Likely.

"Is there any chance of a settlement of the case now?" The reporter asked Mr. Meredith, the city solicitor, who is appearing for the defense. Some time ago it was stated that the plaintiff had offered to settle for $7,000.

Mr. Meredith surveyed the court room for an instant, and tossed his head in the direction of Mr. Hellmuth. "It doesn't look like a settlement," he said. And he continued making notes of Mr. Hellmuth's questions, some of which made him smile.

Engineer Bell was being put through a fire of questions today by Mr. Hellmuth, who was frequently prompted by Mr. Ivey, but the St. Thomas engineer apparently knew what he was talking about, and he did not place the plaintiff's solicitors.

Plaintiff on New Tack.

It was said by the defense that the plaintiff had adopted an altogether different tack today, and that Mr. Hellmuth is now seeking to establish the fact that Mr. Saunby suffered through the building of the Springbank dam as well as through the placing of the splash boards upon it.

It is alleged that in the main trial, Mr. Saunby and his counsel admitted that no damage had been sustained by the building of the dam, but merely through the splash boards.

If the contention of the plaintiff's counsel is admitted in the summing up of damages, a new field of argument will likely be opened up which will prolong the suit for years.

Some of the questions answered by Engineer Bell were of much interest to the general public.

Engineer's Interesting Answers.

In reply to Mr. Hellmuth, Mr. Bell said that there is a fall in the river level from the forks to the Springbank dam of probably 20 feet.

He did not consider that an ordinary rain will affect the current or volume of water of the river. The ground will absorb any ordinary rain.

Mr. Bell then made a statement which is of much interest to Londoners, as there are people here who claim that if a river water plant is installed London will have plenty of water practically forever for all purposes.

Thames Volume Will Decrease.

Mr. Bell stated that the volume of water in the Thames is and has been gradually decreasing for the past hundred years, and that in the future it will decrease probably at a greater rate than in the past, owing to the constantly improving system of drainage in the district through which the river runs.

He would not say the stream will dry up entirely in the future, but he would say that it will become a very small stream.

Within the last few years it has diminished much more rapidly than formerly, because prior to a few years ago there was not much draining done in these parts.

Further, Mr. Bell said he did not believe that the Springbank dam can possibly be the cause of any ice jam in the river sufficient to do any property damage.

The plaintiff is trying to prove that the dam caused the water of the Thames to back up and take the power away from the Saunby mill wheel, to the detriment of the property and the loss of the owner.

The defense is seeking to prove that this is not the case, and that if any damage was sustained by the plaintiff it was not through the dam, but through the splashboards, and then only upon very rare occasions when floods occurred in the river.

BEAR OVERTOOK AND ATE COOK

Pursued by Brute and Killed Near Manitoba Lumber Camp.

Dauphin, Man., May 22.—On Sunday, while John May, the cook of Camp No. 4, of the Red Deer Lumber Company at Etomiam, was taking a stroll, he came across a black bear. The animal showed a vicious disposition, and May fled for the camp with the bear in close pursuit. He was struck down and instantly killed, his vitals being torn out and the body partly eaten before the alarm was given.

May came from Smith's Falls in December.

Will Exchange Visits

Relations Between British and Spanish Royalty Very Close.

London, May 23.—According to the Madrid correspondent of the Telegraph, the relations between the Spanish and British royal families are becoming closer daily, and it is intended to make the future of the two countries one of perfect and intimate accord. Members of the British royal family propose henceforth to spend much of their holiday time in Spain, and with the view to their accommodation King Alfonso will by 4 two chateaux in the neighborhood of Villagarcia, a port much frequented by British squadrons. It is intended that they shall be ready by the summer of 1908 at the latest.

TEAMSTERS REJECT OFFER

No Prospect of Settlement in the Strike at Montreal.

Montreal, May 23.—Although the longshoremen's strike is over there is no change in the disagreement between the Shelden Carriage Company and their teamsters. Both sides are remaining firm, and it looks as though there was no hope at all for a speedy settlement of the trouble. Mr. Belcourt, manager of the company, told the men that if they would return to work the company would deal with them in the best possible manner. The company are willing to grant a uniform scale of $1.75, as they say that, while part of the men are worth this much or even more, there are many whose services are not worth more than $1.50, and that they could not therefore grant all the uniform increase. The men are standing firm for the increase, and refuse to take less.

VISCOUNTESS AOKI WILL HELP CAUSE

Wife of Japanese Ambassador to Aid Daughters of Empire in Big Undertaking.

The interest in the coming "Trip Round the World" is increasing daily, and indications point to an unequalled success for the decidedly novel and entertaining fete which is to be given in the amphitheatre first week in June for the completion of the monument fund. The Daughters of the Empire have been most fortunate in securing Sir W. Mortimer Clark, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, to officiate at the opening.

It is expected that a dozen different countries will be represented, among them, England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Spain, Holland, Switzerland, Japan, Egypt, the United States and Canada.

All the booths will be thoroughly typical in architecture, and otherwise of the country represented. The plan of the booths is a work of art, and the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire are deeply sensible of the valuable services rendered the order through the kind offices of Mr. J. Lewis Thomas, honorary architect of the plans, for the many different booths.

Mr. Thomas has not only contributed the plans, but he is supervising the construction of the various buildings, and the very grateful thanks of the order are tendered him for his generous services. With the exception of the Japanese booth, which has been planned by Mr. Herbert McBride, for the Lord Elgin Chapter, Mr. Thomas has planned and will supervise the entire construction.

The Japanese booth promises to be a most inviting and interesting one. To have very detail as perfect as possible, no pains or trouble have been spared, and the result promises to be most gratifying to all concerned.

The secretary, Mrs. R. M. Graham, is in receipt of a letter from the Viscountess Aoki, wife of the Japanese ambassador at Washington, giving much information regarding the Japanese booth, and very kindly promising to send Japanese articles for sale in the tea-room. The viscountess also expresses her cordial good wishes for the success of the entertainment.

Needless to say, the regent, Mrs. (Dr.) C. T. Campbell, and the members of the Lord Elgin Chapter, are deeply grateful to Viscountess Aoki for her great kindness and courtesy.

PLAY CENSOR FOR MONTREAL.

Montreal, May 2.—The city attorney of Montreal has given a decision to the effect that the city council has the right, without asking permission from the Federal or Provincial Governments, to appoint a censor of plays, and such an official will be immediately appointed.

NEW ONTARIO SOLD; PRICE PAID $6,500

Another Hotel on King Street, Near the Market, Changes Hands.

The New Ontario House, on King street, opposite the Market Square, has been sold to Mr. Robert Ferguson, of this city.

The house was owned by Messrs. Westbrook & Barkland. The price paid by Mr. Ferguson is said to have been $6,500. The hotel is well situated, and of late has been considerably improved.

Mr. Ferguson will take possession in a few days. The New Ontario is the second hotel in the vicinity of the market to change hands within a month.

INDIAN NOAH'S HEARING

Several Important Witnesses to Appear at Today's Hearing.

It is expected that some very sensational evidence will be brought out this afternoon at the hearing of Indian Noah before the court. There is a strong feeling that at least two of the witnesses who gave evidence at the inquest have concealed the really important part of what they know of the affair, and much interest is being displayed in reference to what may come forth. Four witnesses will give evidence this afternoon.

The most important witness perhaps will be Annie Fisher, the Chippewa squaw who was seated in the cage with Noah a few minutes before the fatal blow was struck. It has been said that Noah and Fox had engaged in a fistie encounter about two weeks before the tragedy.

BURNHAM RESIGNS

President of Mutual Reserve Company Was Indicted for Forgery.

New York, May 23.—Frederick A. Burnham, indicted for grand larceny, and forgery, tendered his resignation from the presidency of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Society, yesterday. The resignation was accepted, and Archibald Haynes, formerly general agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Society, was elected to succeed Mr. Burnham.

At the same meeting George D. Eldridge tendered his resignation as vice-president, actuary, and member of the board of directors. His resignation from the office of vice-president was accepted, but he still remains actuary of the company, and member of the board of directors. No successor as vice-president was chosen today.

It was stated that there was no truth in the report that a Philadelphia company was endeavoring to secure control of the company.

MENACED THE MINISTERS

Stormy Scene Follows Strike Interpellations in Belgian House.

Brussels, May 23.—The discussion in the Chamber of Deputies of interpellations, regarding the recent strikes in Belgium, led yesterday to a stormy session. A number of Socialists, benches surrounded the ministerial benches, and threatened the ministers with their fists.

KNOX PRINCIPALSHIP

Professor Ballantyne Has Refused to Stand for Nomination.

Toronto, May 22.—Prof. Ballantyne has declined to stand for nomination before the assembly for the principalship of Knox College, notwithstanding his selection by the board of management. He conveyed his decision by letter to the board yesterday, and that body adopted a resolution of regret. The nomination of a principal will be held meanwhile in abeyance, pending the securing of a capable financial agent, who will organize the campaign for the raising of funds for the erection of new college buildings fronting on the university lawn.

PASSENGERS COMPLAIN.

Montreal, May 23.—Complaints have been made to the shipping companies that second-class passengers, among them many persons of refined tastes, are put through unnecessarily severe medical test by the immigration authorities at Quebec. These tests are said to include jumping and dancing and running up and down the shed floor. It is said the matter will be brought to the attention of the inter-department.

BRUTAL CRIME IN MANITOBA

Young Immigrant Murders the Daughter of a Killarney Farmer.

Killarney, Man., May 22.—A brutal crime started this community this afternoon, when a young English immigrant named Lawrence Rowland, assaulted Miss Georgina Brown, a farmer's daughter, and then murdered her. He afterwards made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide.

The girl kept house for her brother on a farm two miles from here. Rowland had been making his home there for two years past. The brother was absent from home for two hours this afternoon and it was during this time that the crime was committed. The murderer cut the girl's throat with a razor, and then his own with a butcher knife.

1,000 SULTAN TROOPS

DECAMP WITH RIFLES

The Important Garrison of Uskub Desert to a Man.

Belgrade, Serbia, May 23.—The Turkish garrison at Uskub, consisting of about 1,000 men, has deserted. The soldiers claimed that they were given bad food, and that other conditions were unendurable. They carried off their arms, and thus far only 50 men have been captured.

Uskub, is situated about 100 miles from Saloniki with which it is connected by rail. It is an important trade center, and has a population of 20,000, consisting of Turks, Albanians, Serbians, Bulgarians and Greeks.

CUT LIVE WIRE; NERVY THIEF THIS

Takes 700 Feet of Wire Despite Heavy Voltage Passing Through.

Hamilton, May 23.—A nervy thief appeared in the police court this morning. He was Harry Smith, an electrician, and the charge against him was stealing 700 feet of copper feed wire from the H. G. and B. Electric Railway Company. Smith climbed a pole one of the city limits and cut the wire while a current of several hundred volts were passing over it. He protected himself by the use of a pair of rubber gloves. Today he pleaded guilty to the theft charge, and was remanded for a week for sentence.

INSPECTOR IS PRESIDENT

East Middlesex Teachers Elect Mr. Thompson Head of the Association.

At this morning's session of the East Middlesex Teachers' Association officers for the coming year were elected, and two excellent papers read.

Prof. Patterson, of the Western University, spoke at length on "The Ethical Basis of Education."

"Essential Factors of a Good School" was the subject of an address delivered by Mr. Wm. Scott, B. A.

The officers elected were: President and Librarian—Mr. P. J. Thompson.

Secretary—Miss Blanche Hayes. Treasurer—Mr. Geo. Duncan.

First Vice-President—Mr. H. A. McFayden. Second Vice-President—Mr. Warren.

Auditor—Mr. J. Day and Mr. J. A. McNaughton.

AN INTERIM INJUNCTION.

Toronto, May 22.—This morning an interim injunction was granted on the application of the Glenora woolen mills by Chief Justice Meredith restraining the Merchants' Bank, carrying out a strike of the stock trade, advertised for tomorrow. The injunction is returnable on Monday.

A winding-up order has been applied for by William Hogg, of Waterloo.

THE WEATHER.

TOMORROW—MOSTLY FAIR.

FORECASTS.

Toronto, May 23—8 a.m. Fair. Today—Moderate variable winds; generally fair and a little higher temperature. Friday—A few local showers, but mostly fair; stationary or higher temperature.

LOCAL TEMPERATURES.

The highest and lowest readings of the thermometer at the local observatory for the 24 hours ended at 8 p.m. Wednesday were: Highest, 57°; lowest, 29.5° above.

WEATHER NOTES.

A few light showers occurred during the night in the lower lake region, but the weather in Canada generally has been fair and continued unseasonably cool, except in British Columbia and over the Yukon Territory.

$642,000 Increase Shown in Ward One Assessment

Ward Shown To Be Forging Ahead—Population Increase of 500 Is Expected.

Assessment Commissioner Grant today made public the census and assessment returns for No. 1 ward, for 1907. The population figures are not as yet complete, but Mr. Grant places the increase for the year in the ward at 450.

The total assessment for the ward shows an increase of $642,612.

These figures are very satisfactory. It is estimated that with an increase of nearly 500 in No. 1 ward, the total increase in population of the city for the year will go over the 2,000 mark, as West London, North London and East London are to be depended upon to show big gains over last year.

The assessment figures show the city to be forging ahead at a very rapid rate.

$2,000,000 Increase Expected.

This year the increase of nearly $2,000,000 in No. 1 ward gives rise to the belief that the total increase in assessment for the city over last year will be close to $2,000,000.

At a 20-mill rate, this would add $40,000 to the amount to be collected for taxes next year.

Figures presented by Mr. Grant show that in 1887 the assessment of No. 1 ward totaled $5,527,310; in 1897 it totaled $6,061,840, and the figures taken this year show it to be $3,349,314.

Thus the increase in assessment in the ward during the past decade has been $2,257,474.

Of the increase this year, the first four, or the business, divisions, give an increase of $441,694.

On the other hand, the increase in population comes almost solely from South London, or the residential district.

Where Population Falls Off.

Year after year the assessors report a loss of population in the business districts of No. 1 ward, owing to the fact that residences are being constantly abandoned to make room for factories and stores.

It should be explained that the assessment department assesses a year ahead, and that what is known as the assessment for 1908 is really the assessment figures of 1907.

Mr. Grant furnishes the following comparative figures relating to the land, buildings, business and income assessments of the ward for this year and last:

Year.	Land.	Building.	Business.	Income.	Total.
1905	$2,641,054	$3,439,787	$1,275,230	$350,631	$7,706,702
1907	2,985,140	3,577,747	1,388,230	398,107	8,349,314

Net gain $ 344,086 $ 137,960 113,000 47,476 642,612

It will be noticed that land values during the year have materially advanced, as have also the value of the buildings.

Business assessment shows a respectable increase, but the increase in income assessment is quite small, being only $47,476.

EARL GREY NAMES MEN FOR HONORS

Secretary Scott and the Hon. Mr. Lemieux Slated for Knighthood.

Ottawa, May 22.—Inquiry in regard to this year's birthday honors, in connection with which the names of several Canadians are now being mentioned, reveals the fact that, following the precedents of recent years, no announcements need be looked for before the month of June, for although the 24th of May is the day set in Canada for the official observance of the King's birthday, it is not so in the old country.

It seems to be generally understood that, following precedent, knighthood will be conferred upon Chief Justice Fitzpatrick of the supreme court of Canada. The name of Hon. T. R. W. Scott, secretary of state, is also mentioned for the honor of knighthood, as well as that of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, postmaster-general and minister of labor. Charles Marcell, M.P., deputy speaker of the House of Commons, is said to be slated for a C.M.G.

SOME PROTESTS MADE.

The recommendation of these honors to his majesty is a prerogative that has been exercised by the Governor-General, although there has been from time to time a protest that the selection should be made by the crown's responsible advisers.

The cabinet is usually informed of the honors proposed by his excellency just before the list has been sent to England, but even this has never been done by letter, but only by word of mouth to the Prime Minister, and the Governor-General apparently does not recognize that the matter is one in which he is obliged to take the advice of his advisers, although in some instances he has seen fit to do so.

CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Three Toronto Men Said to Have Attempted Big Frauds.

Toronto, May 23.—Cecil R. Elliott, jeweler; Albert J. Hopkins, tailor, and Norman Hopkins, telegraph operator, were before the police magistrate this morning on charges of conspiracy to defraud. Albert Hopkins and Cecil Elliott are charged jointly with conspiracy to defraud the Anglo-American Insurance Company out of $4,000; Norman and Albert Hopkins are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Toronto Railway Company out of $300, and C. R. Elliott and Albert Hopkins are charged with attempting to defraud the Street Railway Company out of $485. The prisoners pleaded not guilty, elected to be tried by jury and were remanded till Tuesday for preliminary examination. Bail was refused.

The charge against Albert Hopkins and Cecil Elliott arises out of a fire on the jewelry premises of Hopkins on April 30. The stock was insured in the Anglo-American for $4,000. The Hopkins brothers are alleged to have developed the habit of falling off street cars and then collecting damages from the street railway company.

SWITCH-TENDER KILLED.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 23.—Robert Cain, aged 20 years, and unmarried, employed as switch-tender in the G. T. R. yards, jumped on to the pilot of engine No. 573 at 7:15 this morning, to ride up to the next switch, when a jolt threw him off his balance, falling in front of the engine. Cain was run over and his right foot cut off at the ankle and the left badly crushed. The unfortunate man was taken to the City Hospital, where he died.

SIR WILFRID AT FRENCH CAPITAL

Says Intermediate Tariff Will Be Brought Into Play in Europe.

London, May 23.—The Paris correspondent of the Express says Sir Wilfrid Laurier has enabled him to state that it is proposed to negotiate treaties with certain countries, including France, Italy and Switzerland. The policy of the Canadian Government, which is thoroughly understood and appreciated by the French people, is said to be the maintenance of the preference given Britain and the development of trade with Britain's least dangerous competitors under the integrated tariff.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier believes that the idea of colonial preference is growing very fast in England. He entertains a hope that it is being put into practice. For that reason it is unlikely that he will consent to any scheme which might prevent Canada at some future date from joining in a commercial union of the empire.

The Standard's Paris correspondent, confirming the statement in the Express, says he was struck by Sir Wilfrid Laurier's perfect confidence in the future of Canada, his loyalty to Britain and the British Government, and the practical philosophy with which he accepted its decision on preferences, but as to the soundness and wisdom of which he had great doubts. It is evident that he regrets sincerely the Government's refusal to take it up. It appears certain that his attitude towards the preference proposals at the conference was dictated by the necessity of admitting the fact that Britain must judge what suits her best.

Business assessment shows a respectable increase, but the increase in income assessment is quite small, being only $47,476.

At the investigation held immediately afterwards the C. P. R. was held responsible for the accident, and Capt. Griffin's certificate canceled for six months. Capt. Griffin was later tried and acquitted on a charge of manslaughter, and the damage actions were instituted. Instead of trying each action separately, the several actions were consolidated. Robert Bryce's was made a test case. In all the damages asked were $200,000. The defendants moved for trial by jury, but the motion was refused by the full court of Victoria, where the action was tried.

The suits arose over the collision between the Princess Victoria, owned by the C. P. R., and the tug Chehalis, of the Union Steamship Company's fleet, which had been chartered by Mr. Robert Bryce and party of fifteen to go up the coast to inspect the oyster beds. The Chehalis was sunk, and nine people were drowned.

C. P. R. WINS BIG CASE

Relieved of $200,000 Damage Suits Following a Collision.

Vancouver, B. C., May 22.—By a judgment given in the admiralty court at noon today by Mr. Justice Martin, the consolidated civil suits for damages against the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company, amounting in all to about $200,000, have been dismissed.

The suits arose over the collision between the Princess Victoria, owned by the C. P. WAITS 15 YEARS; THEN JILTS HIM

A Convict Released Finds His Fiancee Just About to Marry.

New York, May 23.—When James Carter was sent to Clinton Prison fifteen years ago he was a strapping, prepossessing young fellow of 25. But he was a burglar. He had been "caught with the goods" and so he had to go behind the bars.

It was a long sentence, but the unfortunate fellow was buoyed up by the promise of a pretty girl who lived in South Brooklyn and who had told him when he was convicted that she would be true to him and would marry him when he came back, provided he would lead a different life. He said he would, and served his sentence uncomplainingly. He came out of prison 40 years old, gray and friendless, but still buoyed up with the hope of matrimonial happiness. He began to search for his fiancée and finally found her. She was a sober-faced woman and she told him she had fallen in love with another man and was about to be married to him.

"You promised to wait for me," the poor fellow said.

"I know, and I did wait for years, but it got too lonesome," she answered. "I am sorry, but it is too late now. My wedding dress is all made."

"Well," replied the ex-convict at last, "I suppose I will have to give it up, but let me look at your wedding dress."

His former fiancée acquiesced and took him into the house. Once inside the broken-hearted, prematurely old man flew into a rage, tore the wedding dress to shreds, broke the furniture, and proceeded to make the house a wreck. Then he took his departure, saying he would return and finish the job.

The frightened woman sought the police, and as a result Carter was picked up and was in line in the Brooklyn detective department today for inspection by the squad. Captain McCuskey told the squad to arrest him whenever they set eyes on him, as he was a desperate crook who would shoot.

When Carter was subsequently arraigned in the police court on a charge of vagrancy he drew out a $2 bill as proof that he had visible means of support. The name of the woman to whom he was engaged was not divulged by the police.

ENGLISH AUTHORS FACE STARVATION

Trust Methods of London Publishers Are Doing the Business.

London, May 19.—The English publishers of the six-shilling novel—which is the equivalent of the $1.50 novel—have only just begun to discover that Harmsworth, Nevins and Pearson, each of whom publishes big London dailies and countless weeklies and monthlies, have practically cornered the market for the sixpenny rights of famous English novels, and are going to put them into such vast quantities that few henceforth will buy the six-shilling book, except for the libraries.

Practically every novelist in England who has attained a sale of, say, 10,000 copies of any one book in the last ten years, has been captured by one or other of these publishers, or by the two or three other firms that are publishing cloth-bound books at sevenpence, and are now paid over in the form of advance royalties on these books in the last month or two have been prodigious.

As all these sixpenny novels are by famous authors, and as the publishers of the same are so much disturbed by the condition of affairs over here that they will scarcely look at any novel, except by an author of established reputation, for publication in six-shilling form, there is evidently a bad season ahead for the moderately successful author, and for the beginner. Experts are of the opinion that, whatever his ability may be, now expects to pay liberally for at least a year or two for the privilege of being heard in London.

For the publishers estimate that at least 40,000 copies of a sixpenny book have to be sold before there is enough profit in it to make it worth while—and not more than one beginner in ten thousand can count on any such sale in England. The case for the moderately good author promises to be still worse, for with an unknown author there is always the gambling chance of making a big hit, whereas with the author who has been writing for years, books that sell only a few thousand copies, there is no hope of a big hit.

Already the fairly good English author has lost his American market, for the same reason. Publishers who come over here in droves every spring to pick up good things will no longer look at anything that is not expected to make a big hit. They are spending more money than ever on the big English author, but are economizing on the little author.

A SKIPPER IN TROUBLE

New Westminster, B. C., May 21.—With twenty Chinamen on board his ship, all eager to forsake a life on the rolling waves for the more attractive pursuit of agricultural life, and with bonds amounting to $10,000 up as a guarantee that the Chinamen "will not leave his vessel while in a British port, the captain of the Woodford is certainly having the time of his life.

The news leaked out yesterday that one of the crew had already escaped and a reward of $250 had been offered for his capture. If the Chinaman is not back on board the boat when it is ready to sail, the captain will have to forfeit $500 to the Government. This prospect is not in the least attractive to him, and in an effort to restrain the other slant-eyed sailors from following their compatriot's example, guards have been placed on board the vessel, and the Chinamen will be herded night and day until the good ship is once more on the salt sea waves. The captain of the ship is offering $5 a day to men who will undertake to prevent the Chinamen from escaping.

Meanwhile, the missing Chinaman is being sought for in all parts of the city and surrounding country, and several parties have been organized to try and corral the elusive son of the Flowery Kingdom, and incidentally secure the $250 offered by the captain. Every Chinaman answering to the published description of the deserter will be looked on with suspicion for the next few days, and the chances of the eventual escape of Hop Off are remote.

THE LADDER OF THE MORALIST WILL NOT REACH UP TO HEAVEN

It Is Only Good as Far as It Goes—Dr. Wharton in Jubilee Rink.

Although the sky last night looked threatening, indicating the near approach of rain, a large audience gathered in Jubilee Rink—considerably larger than that of Monday or Tuesday evenings. Those in attendance, too, appeared to be more responsive and more in touch with Evangelist Wharton in his kindly, gentle, but earnest appeals to their hearts and consciences. The speaker was listened to with the closest attention, as he pressed home the Gospel message of love and salvation, and when, toward the close of the services, he asked those who were willing to accept Christ to acknowledge it by rising to their feet, a large number responded.

An appeal to those who were church members, but were not fully satisfied that they were Christians, brought several persons around Dr. Wharton, who gave them his hand and a whispered word of encouragement.

An invitation to Christians and others who desired prayers for relatives, friends, associates or themselves, brought a large number from their seats to the floor where the evangelist stood, and here the divine blessing was invoked in their behalf. As usual, a preliminary offering of song by choir and audience, both separate and combined, was carried out with spirit under the leadership of Dr. George Lau, and with the able assistance of the cornet player and the pianist.

Seeing the Father.

Rev. A. J. Bowen, of Egerton Street Baptist Church, was invited upon to open the 8 o'clock meeting with prayer, which was followed by the singing of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." Dr. Wharton made a few introductory remarks, and related a touching incident that occurred while President Abraham Lincoln and his family occupied the "White House" at Washington. It seems that little "Tad" Lincoln, the president's favorite son, one day met a Union soldier leaving the White House, and in tears. Tad wanted to know why the soldier wept, and the man told the little fellow that he wanted to ask the president for leave to go home to his dying wife, but he was not allowed admission to the president's presence. "Don't go away," said Tad, "I'll take you in to see my father!" The White House officials demurred, intimating that the president was in consultation with the war department, but Tad made no difference to Tad; he took the soldier in to see President Lincoln, who at once signed the papers that gave the soldier permission to pass through the lines of the army to his home. "That is what Jesus Christ does for us," said Dr. Wharton. "He takes us into the Father's presence."

The Sinner's Substitute.

Rev. D. S. Hamilton, of the First Congregational Church, offered up a prayer; the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," was impressively sung, and then Dr. Wharton read a portion of Isaiah, III, in which the prophet foretells and describes the person and mission of Christ as the sin-bearer for the world. In illustrating the doctrine of substitution, the evangelist told an affecting story in connection with the civil war. A member of a New York regiment had been notified to report for duty, and, with a heart almost broken at the thought of leaving his sick wife and young children, he was about to start for the front, when a stalwart young neighbor came to him and insisted on taking the volunteer's place as a substitute, without any reward. The brave fellow died on the battlefield, and on his tombstone (erected by the man whose place he took) is seen today engraved this line, "He died for me." So Christ, in the words of Isaiah, "hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows." We can all say, "He died for me."

Three Kinds of Preaching.

Here Dr. Lau sang with fervor an appropriate solo, and then Dr. Wharton gave a short address from I. Corinthians, I, 23-24: "For we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumblingblock and unto the Greeks foolishness; but unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, the power of God and the wisdom of God." The speaker described the three kinds of preaching which prevail. First, that of the preacher and pastor who has a settled field of labor. Then there is evangelistic preaching. "Such is my sweet work," said Dr. Wharton, "going from place to place telling the old, old story. But there is the third kind, or conversational preaching, such as is done in the Sunday school, the workshop, or the home.

In speaking of the latter class of evangelists, Dr. Wharton mentioned a case showing the marvelous results effected, notably that of a Dane in Johnstown, Pa., through whose efforts seven out of ten of a party with whom he worked were brought to Christ.

"It behooves us to have the unlimited power of prayer," the speaker said. "I judge a sermon by the good it does; just as I judge a dinner—not by the kind of dishes on which it is served." Dr. Wharton said he had heard nearly all the noted evangelists and preachers of the day, "but the preaching that lives and lasts, and has done me more good than any other," he said, "was the preaching of my mother. Mothers, don't lose your opportunity. Take advantage of it now. The progress of the individual, he claimed, was the most effective of all.

The Ladder to Heaven.

Dr. Wharton went on to point out three different ways in which the Gospel message is received. The self-righteous class consider themselves as good as any Christian and depend upon their own merits. The most similar to the Epicureans and Stoics of old Greece live only for today, and to them the story of the cross is foolishness. Robert Ingersoll was the modern representative of this class, who go so far as to justify the crime of suicide. Ingersoll gave a lecture that he entitled, "The Mistakes of Moses," and said the preacher, "I agree with the New York philosopher, Josh Billings, who said he wouldn't give five cents to hear Bob Ingersoll on 'The Mistakes of Moses,' but he would pay fifty dollars to hear Moses on 'The Mistakes of Bob Ingersoll.'" Then there is the third class, the humble believers, to whom the Gospel is "the power of God, and the wisdom of God." The preacher asked his hearers to examine themselves under the searchlight of truth, and see to which class they belonged. In speaking of the moralist, Dr. Wharton said that the moralist is "in good as far as it goes," he said, "but it is not good enough to save you. There is only one ladder that will reach to heaven, and that is the blood-stained cross of Calvary."

The gathering of the numerous converts around the evangelist when he came down from the platform, and also of those who wished prayer to be made for themselves and friends, was a stirring sight, the entire assemblage singing and praising the Lord.

Rev. J. J. Teasdale made the closing prayer. Before dismissal, attention was called to the union preliminary meeting held each night in the Christian church, an hour before the meeting in the hall, also to the men's meeting in the Auditorium Sunday afternoon.

GRADUATION DAY FOR VICTORIA HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL

Seventeen Young Lady Nurses Received Their Well-Earned Honors.

Yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. Auditorium seventeen graduates of the Victoria Hospital Training School for Nurses were awarded their diplomas and badges, while Miss Florence Darville, of London, was presented with the gold medal, awarded to the nurse who showed herself to be most proficient in her work during her course of training. Miss Mary Thompson, of Paisley, was given the second prize for general proficiency, which was a silver medal. The following were the other graduating nurses: Josephine E. Archer, London; May B. Armstrong, London; Ada M. Evans, London; Edna Givens, Millbrook; Gertrude W. Hagar, Beamsville; Kate Hornegold, London; Jennie Johnston, Thamesford; Margaret C. Kennedy, Ingersoll; Sallie McKinnon, Walkerton; Jeannette McVicar, Wardville; Lella M. Reynolds, Sparta; Margaret Sinclair, Mitchell; Annie Talbot, Aylmer; Florence Waugh, London; Isabella Wilson, London.

A short programme of music and speeches was rendered during the afternoon, and in every way the event was of a very pleasing nature.

Rev. Dyson Hague opened the ceremonies of the afternoon with a short prayer, which was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. R. Munro, which, judging from the hearty applause which followed it, was greatly appreciated.

Mayor Judd, who presided, then called upon Rev. Dyson Hague to address the graduating nurses, which he did in a very thoughtful speech. After the presentation of the gold medal, the names of the trained nurse, Rev. Mr. Hague said the year 1893 was a memorable one for nurses, and then went on to tell the familiar story of the life of Florence Nightingale, the founder of the "White Cross Society," and the woman who is held up as an example of what a truly good woman can do for suffering humanity when she enters the nursing profession. Before her time there was no such thing as a woman going to a hospital or public institution of any kind to train for the nursing profession would have been looked on as out of all reason, and the woman who would have gone would have been scorned as being vulgar and even indecent. But the example of that great woman, who was known as the "Angel of Light," and whose very shadow the soldiers used to kiss, and the thought of whom used to make strong men weep, wrought a great change. No sooner had her fame spread abroad than the women of all over the world entered hospitals to gain the experience necessary to equip them for a life similar to that of Florence Nightingale. He told of her going out to the British battlefields, and working night and day, and all the horrors of war, in order to relieve the sufferings of the soldiers.

Florence Nightingale's Return to England.

When Florence Nightingale returned from the scene of the war, England almost went wild in an endeavor to give her a welcome, and do her homage, but she was too much for the world of the proposed honor to be done her. A purse of $250,000 was raised for her, but instead of appropriating this money to her own pleasures, she devoted it toward a fund for the erection of the Nightingale Training School for Nurses, in connection with one of the great hospitals of London, and in which hundreds of nurses have since received their training.

The speaker then compared the work of a nurse to that of an artist, and showed that in many ways the nurse's work is one of the finest, if not in every way the finest of arts.

Advice to the Graduates.

Mr. Hague then gave the graduating nurses some timely advice, advising them to be careful to maintain their health so that they would be able to stand the strain of their incessant labors. The advantages and absolute necessity of keeping a steady nerve, even temper, and pleasant disposition were referred to. "It takes an heroic woman to keep cheerful amid annoyances and trying situations," said Mr. Hague. "One essential quality of a nurse was the capacity for instant and exact obedience to the doctor's orders."

"Speaking as one who has had wide experience in visiting hospitals, and who has had the experience of lying for a long period in a hospital, and being attended by different nurses," said Mr. Hague, "I wish to say that I am thoroughly convinced that a nurse is born, not made." He then went on to show that to be a nurse in the true sense of the word a woman must be the power of swift, feminine intuition, and an infinite capacity for self-sacrifice. For this reason the mothers are the best nurses that the world has ever seen or ever will see, because they are imbued with true love and patience, and are willing to sacrifice their own pleasure to any extent. The perfect nurse must have, combined with a thorough training, that wonderful mystic inexpressible something which is found in a truly noble woman. "Love and serve, and about all things, think constantly of Him who went about healing the sick, relieving the suffering, and uplifting the downfallen, and his blessing will always be upon your work," were the closing remarks of the address.

The Florence Nightingale Pledge.

The Florence Nightingale pledge, which has to be taken by each nurse before she can receive her certificate, was then administered, as follows:

"I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly, to pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous, and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drug."

"I will do all in my power to maintain and elevate the standard of my profession, and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping, and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my calling."

"With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work, and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care."

The next number on the programme was a solo by Cyril Dwight-Edwards, who greatly delighted the audience with his magnificent voice.

Presentation of Honors.

Mayor Judd, who occupied the chair, then announced that the presentation of diplomas and badges would take place, and called upon Chairman Scretion of the hospital trust to make the presentations. The graduates, who occupied chairs on the platform, passed one after the other along in front of the audience, and were each in turn given their certificates, etc. The nurses also presented each of the graduates with a beautiful shower bouquet of roses. While friends contributed floral sprays to several of the graduates.

Miss Edna Givens, of Millbrook, was presented with a valuable special prize, of a case of instruments, awarded to the nurse who was most proficient at work connected with the surgical department. Dr. Niven made the presentation.

According to a long-standing custom a doctor had to address the nurses after their diplomas had been presented, and Dr. H. A. McCallum did so in a most satisfactory manner. He began by saying that in many cases a nurse is blamed for creating trouble in homes where she goes in her official capacity, when the trouble really lies with the people themselves, for they do not treat her properly. On this point the doctor gave the audience a few hints on how to treat a nurse. "No hospital is fulfilling its duty to the community unless it teaches as well as heals," said the doctor, "and we should all remember that there would never have been a hygienic institute here unless the Medical School had come first." Speaking of the glorious future in store for the nursing profession, he said that nurses are being trained in a far better way now in our hospitals than they were several years ago, but that they would make still greater progress in methods in the years to come. He was sorry to say on the other hand that the opportunities for teaching bedside medicine and bedside surgery to medical students were not

The One Gas Range for You

There is just one practical gas range that does all the best a range can do, and does it quicker, cheaper and easier than any coal range ever can. The gas range makes summer cooking clean and pleasant instead of mussy and toilsome. Its name is the Oxford Gas Range.

The Oxford requires less gas to run it than any other range, and its asbestos lining holds the heat in the oven. Other gas ranges radiate it out into the kitchen.

Cleaning the Oxford detachable burners is as easy as lifting up the grate and wiping it.

The oven doors drop flat instead of swinging sideways, so that a heavy roast can be drawn out for inspection. Rest the roast on the oven door to bake—the hinges cannot break down.

The Oxford Gas Range burns with a clear blue flame, all day long, and no waste. There is no odor of burnt grease.

There are many other reasons why the Oxford is superior to any other Gas Range. Call in and see this range and let us demonstrate its efficiency to you. The price of this high-grade Gas Range with 16-inch oven is $18 and $20, according to finish. We also make this range to burn natural gas.

"Let patriotism move the Canadian mother to direct her daughter, if she must follow nursing, to obtain her training in Canadian institutions and follow her profession within the confines of our wide Dominion."

The presentation of the gold and silver medals was made at this juncture by Dr. Niven, after which the chairman, Mayor Judd, made a short speech which concluded the meeting.

Out of the Darkness

"It is growing late, Mary—told, too, at your arm closer round me. There, good-night. God bless you, dear! Who says Bertie is here?" And as he held her closer, and called her by her name, those who were near saw that she tried to kiss him with her dying lips, and failed. One moment, and Rotha gently lifted her from his arms and laid her down.

"And I heard a voice say, 'Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. Yea, saith the Spirit, for they shall rest from their labors.'"

"It was over—the brief life, the weary restlessness, the suffering; those who loved her best said, weeping, it was better so, for the feverishness and the weariness were over, and she rested at last, and rested well.

They took the poor remains back to Kirkby; that was Rotha's doing, for they knew it was the spot where she would most love to lie.

So they took her back, and one wild March morning, when the dust was whirling down the white roads, and the wind swept the long grasses of the church-yard, and the gray clouds scudded over the sunless skies, the vicar went down bareheaded to the gate, and under the old lichen-gate they carried her, and laid her under the shadow of the west door.

And in time the green grass grew over it, and the sun shone down, and the dews and rains of heaven swept sadly over it, and the swallows that built their nests under the church eaves twittered and chirped endlessly about it; and there, in process of time, was placed a fair marble cross at the head, with but few words graven upon it:

"ISABEL FELICIA CLINTON,
Died February 29, 186—
Aged 25.
Jesus, Mercy."

But the cross had not yet been erected, and the sods were hardly green, when Rotha Ord went up to Bryn to wish Robert good-bye. She was sitting alone in the sunny parlor, and put down her work hastily, as though she suspected his errand.

"You are going?" she had come to say good-bye. She said, looking in his pale face anxiously. He had been walking up and down for hours trying to school himself to calmness, and yet he could hardly meet her eyes as he answered her.

"Yes, it is good-bye now, and for long enough, heaven knows. I suppose it will be four or five years at least before I get a chance of seeing any of you again."

"So long as that? Oh, Robert!"

"Yes, unless—He stopped, and then completed his sentence recklessly enough: "Unless I am dead and buried, I ought to say."

She sighed heavily, then put her hand in his, as a sister might have done.

"Poor Robert! and going alone, too. It seems hard, but he had, and yet it is better than staying behind and missing it all daily," she finished, with a patient, tired voice that was habitual to her now.

His heart smote him for his selfishness. Had she not suffered, too? How white her young face had grown! How thin, how anxious-looking! Some joy had passed out of her life, some hope that would never be renewed. A painful consciousness that this was so, that she would be very faithful to Gar, seized upon him as he looked at her. How could he ever ask her to come to him and comfort him for the loss of Belle if this shadow of her dead love were to be forever between them? Even now, when he had come to wish her good-bye, that look of pain on her face was not for him, it was for Gar—always Gar.

"I will write to me sometimes, Rotha—you will not forget me?"

"Forget my brother?" answered the girl reproachfully. Oh, how often she called him that now! How innocently she clung to the conviction that Gar's brother must be hers, too—that the name must be as soothing to him as it was to her!

He turned pale at that, even to his lips. Ah, the sods were not green over Belle's grave, and yet the mad infatuation for the living was blending with his sorrow for the dead. Rotha's sister—impossible! His race was stern enough, but he had schooled himself to patience—he bore even that.

"No, I knew you would not. I ought to have bidden good-bye to Kirkby."

to know your kindness of heart by this time, Rotha. When I ask you to write to me, remember that I shall be interested in anything, everything that you do."

"It is good of you to say so," she replied gratefully. But he interrupted her.

"Never mind how trivial it is—it will be soon to please me. Sometimes you may tell me about my golden boy, he has grown very dear to me lately, and about Rube—poor Rube!—and then there is Mary; I do not like to go away and leave her looking as she does."

"She will be better soon," returned Rotha hurriedly. "You know we are all going away, and for her sake principally."

"Have you any idea where?"

"Yes; the vicar and I have been talking it over. It is to be Lucerne or Zermatt, and the boys, even Arty, are to go with us. You know who is going to take the vicar's duty for a couple of months."

"The clergyman who came to poor Belle at the last?"

"Yes, Mr. Hillyer; he has resigned his curacy, and is waiting for another. We shall be away quite two months, all June and July, and we are going to Filey for a few weeks first."

"I am glad to hear it, for your sake as well as hers. You look pale and worn, almost as though you had been ill yourself."

She smiled at that, as though the subject did not interest her.

"You must take care of yourself, for all our sakes."

"It is nothing," she replied in a low voice; "only my nerves are out of order, and I cannot sleep—that is the excuse I am obliged to make to Mary to get her away. She has only agreed to go because she thinks I need a change."

"Poor Mary! she never likes to leave Austin; Belle would have been just like her. Oh, Rotha, no other woman will ever love me as she did."

Rotha shook her head; she thought so, too. And then her eyes fell on the glittering cross which she wore now, and night and day on the same finger on which he had placed his mother's old keeper. Someone would have loved her as well, if he had lived, as ever Belle had loved Robert—faithful even in death, blessing her with his last dying breath.

"Well, I must go now," exclaimed Robert hurriedly, as though the action moved him; "there is nothing more to say, and I have all my packing to do."

"Nothing; but God bless you, and grant you a safe voyage," said Rotha, rising; but now the tears were in her eyes. She was thinking of what had befallen his brother; she was sorry—yes, she was sorry even for him.

"If I do not say anything it is because I cannot," he said, pressing her hands. "The only thing I dare say is, God love you and bless you for all you have done for me and mine."

"And you, too, dear Robert," and then she put up her face and kissed him, and called him brother once more. And he went.

But that night, an hour before he was to start by the night mail to Liverpool, he left his brother and Mary, and went secretly and alone to the church-yard.

It was quite dark now; the wind was still abroad, and howled drearily round the church, and the rain splashed sullenly on the tombstones, or dripped silently into tiny pools. But Robert, as he stood bare-headed and with folded arms, heeded it not, for the fierce fever and pain that burnt in his veins.

But once, as he stooped and plucked a few blades of grass from the grave and hid them in his breast, a sudden overwhelming sense of his loneliness came over him. "Good-bye, Belle," he cried, pressing his lips to the dripping sod, and stretching out his arms over it in the darkness. "Good-bye, my darling. Never woman loved as you would have loved me." Then whispering low, as though he would hide his secret, in her very grave, "You know it now, dear, do you not? But you are not angry with me? Oh, Belle, to think that my heart is broken with all this, and that you are not here to comfort me!"

Three-quarters of an hour after this, Robert had bidden good-bye to Kirkby, and together.

and Blackscar, and had taken his place by the night mail for Liverpool.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Five years, five whole years, and Rotha is Rotha Maturin still.

Brief must be the record of these years, during which Rotha strove more and more in her honest woman's endeavor to follow out the divine precept, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might;" when she took up new work and found it rich with blessings, when her full measure meted out was pressed into her bosom, and she reaped her woman's harvest of pure, unselfish joys.

Five years, five long years, and the vicar looks proudly round at his growing lads, Guy—almost a man now—and Rufus, half a head taller than himself; and the mother's hair is quite gray, but her face is sweeter in its chastened gravity than it has ever been before; and Robert is working still, uncomplaining, but sad, in his far-off home; and the swallows fly down on the marble cross, and the daisies grow up among the grass on the dead boy's grave and on Belle's; and in the church, just opposite to where Rotha sits, is a noble painted window, with the Man of Sorrows bearing His cross along the bitter way; and under it is written:

"In Memory of
GARTON ORD,
Who Died December 29, 186—
Aged 23.
In Hoc Spero."

It was soon after the anniversary of his death that something very unexpected befell Rotha. Mr. Effingham made her an offer.

He had come up very boldly to Bryn to prefer his request, and bore himself in a way sufficiently manly; but Rotha shrank back, feeling herself wounded, she hardly knew why.

"I never gave you any encouragement—any right to speak to me this, Mr. Effingham," she said, turning pale and trembling at this strange story of love. Her tone was repellent, almost indignant.

"I never said that you did," he returned sullenly; "but when a man loves a girl I think he has a right to tell her so."

Poor George Effingham! He had a heart somewhere in spite of his shallowness, and, to do him justice, he was smitten by the woman as well as the heiress. Rotha, who had been so much to say for himself, he had been tolerably honest, and then there were tears of positive disappointment in the poor fellow's eyes. Her next words were more gentle.

"Perhaps I ought to thank you, Mr. Effingham. Many girls would feel themselves honored by what you have told me. If I have been impatient or ungrateful, you must forgive me; it is not my fault that I cannot forget him."

"I don't think that I shall ever be able to listen to anyone after Gar."

But, as he turned to go, she held out her hand to him with a little contrition for her hardness.

"You must not be hurt or angry because I cannot forget my trouble. I do not want to be anyone's wife now to marry—never, never," cried the girl, with a flush. "But I hope I shall your friend always," smiling in the face of the disappointed young man.

"There, go, Mr. Effingham, and God bless you!"

Rotha kept her word, for Nettie did not marry the widower after all; but fifteen months afterward she married George Effingham, and made him the best little wife possible. George told his wife everything, like a man. But he was hardly prepared for the confidence she gave him in return; he found that Nettie had loved Gar really, and truly, and that many of her reckless and fantastic ways had grown out of her disappointment.

She never told Rotha, though Rotha guessed it; but they all three became excellent friends. Nettie gave up fifteen out of her three-and-twenty bosom friends when she married, and "consoled herself" instead with her babies. But if anyone had asked who was the most notable housekeeper and the most domesticated little matron in the whole of Blackscar, they would tell you that it was Mrs. Effingham.

One day Rotha found a letter awaiting her from Robert, for they had kept up a steady correspondence now for more than two years. Robert wrote extremely well, and one of his long letters was always a treat to Rotha. She had just written him a full account of her plans for a children's home, and doubtless this was in answer: so, asking True to bring her a cup of tea in her own room, she sat down by the open window to enjoy that and her letter together.

But the tea cooled, and Rotha's cheek grew white before she had read many lines; but long before she had finished it her face was burning, and, as it dropped from her hands, she put her head down on the window-sill and cried long and bitterly. But all she said, was, "Poor Robert! poor Robert!" And then, "Oh, Gar, what would you say? Oh, Gar, never—never!" and kissed the gold keeper that guarded the glittering cross.

Advertiser Patterns

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

A MODISH COSTUME—6860, 6850.

Two very chic features of the newest waists are seen in the costume shown, namely, the over-blouse effect and the drooping shoulder here realized by the kimono sleeves, which end at the elbow. The waist is made on a lining, and the outer portion has its sleeves cut in one, with the front and back, the seam being on the shoulder and extending their entire length. The V-yoke is quite a la mode, and may be of any washable, lace or silk fabric. The sleeves may be of elbow or longer length, and of the material of whole is peculiarly graceful and becoming. The skirt is a double box-pleated one built after the latest models. It consists of a straight pleat of material shaped to the hips by the pleats. Any of the light-weight cloths or novelty goods or rajah may serve for the dress, while taffetas or a similar silk is perhaps best suited to a smart development. The medium size calls for 7½ yards, 44 inches wide.

Two patterns: 6860—Six sizes, 32 to 42 inches, bust measure. 6850—Six sizes, 20 to 20 inches, waist. The price of these patterns is 20 cents, but either will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents.

Bronchial Troubles

READILY YIELD TO SOOTHING, HEALING TREATMENT OF HYOMEL.

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mel in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The Hy-o-mel medication, laden with nature's remedies, is breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with the bronchial tubes and killing at once the disease germs. It allays all irritation and heals the inflammation of the mucous membrane with astonishing rapidity.

Treatment with sprays, douches and atomizers in bronchial troubles is condemned by the best physicians, as they cause further irritation. The first breath of Hy-o-mel's medicated air seems to soothe the inflammation, stop the cough, and thus relief soon becomes permanent and a cure results.

Hy-o-mel has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles and is sold by W. T. Strong with the same guarantee as he gives when Hy-o-mel is purchased for catarrh, that is, to refund the money in case the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit cost but $1.00 45c-ywv.

When the heart is healthy and performing its functions naturally, it should beat regularly seventy-two times a minute without causing its owner the slightest inconvenience or distress.

When it begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time, then so slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

UNBREAKABLE FIRE-POT

The lower portion of a fire-pot is usually nearly or partly filled with dead ashes, leaving the live, red-hot coals in the upper part. The result is that the upper portion expands much more than the lower.

This uneven expansion causes a strain too great for a one-piece fire-pot to stand. Sooner or later it will split, allowing precious heat and sickening gases to escape.

But the fire-pot of the Sunshine is constructed to meet this condition. It is in two sections. The upper half expands, as much as necessary, independently of the lower. When cool, it contracts back to its original size, fitting to the lower half perfectly.

And this strong, unbreakable, gas and heat-tight, two-piece fire-pot is just one of the many superior features of the Sunshine.

SNAPSHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

The East End baseball boys got their heads together last night and decided to play two games tomorrow, as originally scheduled. It had been decided to play only one game on account of the military exercises in the afternoon.

Toronto, the silent (?), is again in the lead, and everybody's happy, even if the other Canadian entry, Montreal, is running a race for "cellar" honors.

In the National League, Bowerman leads the batters. Youngs has two more points than the big fellow, but has played in ten less games. Bates, of Boston, is the king pin in run getting, and Wagner has the most base bases charged up to him. Seymour excels in long hits, Magee tied with Wagner for third place. The Phillies lead in long hits by clubs.

Bob Edgren, in the New York World, says:

Gameness is a trait brought out in other professions than boxing. I stood in the paddock yesterday after the big race and saw the jockeys come staggering back to their quarters. They literally staggered. And it wasn't the nervous and physical exhaustion alone that made them reel unsteadily. They could hardly see.

Jockey Miller came along with the rest. A man stepped up and took his arm to guide him. Miller, with his eyes full of black, gritty sand, fairly blinded by the flying mud of the track, could hardly see where he was going. And all of the others in every race of the day were in the same plight. Imagine what gameness it takes to ride a race out, fighting all the way, under such conditions!

The track was hard underneath, but covered with a thin ooze of sand and mud. The flying hoofs threw this up in splattering showers. The jockeys, leaning far over their horses' necks and staring straight ahead, with every nerve stretched, could not flinch. A single swerve of a second's duration might lose or win a great race, reputation, thousands of dollars. They could not close their eyes. They could not even blink or raise a hand to brush away the mud that was gradually smutting out their sight. To lose that sight entirely might mean a sudden collision, a throw, and then the terrible tramping under steel-shod hoofs. But still, with blurred sight and straining eyes, they fought it out, hoping only that they would be able to see until the finish line was passed.

And they were not old enough to know fear.

It was rumored last night that Amos would not start in the Y. M. C. A. road race tomorrow. This morning the little fellow stated that he did not think he would run in the Y. M. C. A. races, but that he intended to enter the two-mile team race to be put on at Queen's Park at 3 p.m. on Friday in connection with the military day. Amos also took occasion to remark that if he did decide to run in the morning he would have to travel a few to take a place, as the other entries had been allowed a handicap of four minutes over him. "That," said he, "is an awful start to give a man in a five-mile contest." And it is, but the idea of giving such a large handicap is a very good one, inasmuch as it will give some of the younger runners an opportunity of taking first place in the event, and thereby encourage the boys to enter the other races in the future. Amos is a good fellow, and no one begrudges him his well-earned laurels, but he has shown such a decided superiority over the other local runners in distance events that he is practically conceded first honors in any event run on even grounds that he enters. For sport's sake it were better if the honors were more equally distributed.

THE WORLD OF HORSES

[Written Specially for The Advertiser by J. V. McAree.]

It is safe to say that not many old country horsemen would have lost money on Sea Wall in the King's Plate race, for the very good reason that they make it a rule to avoid backing mares in the spring. Here any such prejudice is unknown, and the better does not trouble himself about the sex of a horse. It is usually the colors of the owner or some equally important circumstance that concerns him, and influences his judgment, and so we have such results as Kelvin, 10 to 1, and even as long as 40 to 1, running unbacked.

The "dope" of the race fails to explain the disappointing run of Mr. Beck's Photographer, made second choice at 3 to 1 by the public. There are three theories, any one of which would serve: The horse may have been not fit; he may not be a stayer, or his fast trial before the race may have taken the razor-edge off his speed. He was not interfered with, and ran in front for most of the journey, but then he faltered and went back to his horses, to finish behind the Kirkfield pair. Either one of the Mackenzie starters would have got a position in another furlong, for they were closing on the tiring Billberry.

The owner of the plate winner is probably the youngest on the long list of horsemen who have won this coveted prize. Ambrose Wood, who practically unknown, "Pud" Woods is one of the best-known names in Toronto among the sporting crowd. "Pud" is only about 20 years old, and keeps a liquor store on Dundas street. He recently married a daughter of Abe Orpen, the noted sporting character. One of his brothers, under the nickname of "Soapy," is an advertising man known from one end of Canada to the other, while an equally expressive nickname—"Bohoo"—also adorned Mr. Woods' father, who was once a Toronto alderman. "Pud" is of the half-filly type and his victory is very popular.

To the non-initiated, the circumstance that Kelvin was bought a couple of years ago for $100 seems a remarkable fact, and adds a smack of romance to the race. As a matter of fact, that is about what a winner of the King's Plate should fetch. If Kelvin were put up at auction he would sell for perhaps a couple of thousand dollars, but on the strength chiefly of his appearance, and his stout breeding; he is a better horse than the average winner of the stake. Where are the thoroughbreds as Eaton's store could get for its delivery horses, also, per head? Think it out and mail answers to the society editor.

By next year, we are told, there will be another King's Plate open to foals dropped in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. There is no question about the sporting blood of the west.

and the race would be sure of a good entry. Moreover, the probability is that in ten years there would be a better class of horse running there than in the east, for the simple reason that it comes natural to a westerner to demand a good article and to "unbelt" correspondingly. If the race is established it is to be hoped that the eastern pattern of King's Plate races will not be too slavishly copied. It has been a tremendous success, socially, but as a stimulus to raising a better type of horses, it has been a flat failure.

GIANTS EVENED UP WITH CUBS

Trimmed Champions Easily, Knocking Overall Out of the Box.

New York, May 22.—Overall, Chicago's jumbo pitcher, who had won about fifteen consecutive games for the Cubs was knocked from the throne in the fifth inning of today's game at the Polo grounds. Not only did he make forced abdication from the box, but his winning streak, dating back to last grass or some other medieval period, was severed. Outplayed and beaten on the merits of the strife in the first game, New York turned around today and played a much better ball in every respect than the Chicago. They gave the Cubs a harder lacing than that team is in the habit of getting, scoring seven runs, five in one inning. The Chicago plumes dropped greatly after those five runs, and they finished the game with little sign of fight. Nobody was mobbed.

McGinnity's excellent pitching threw a wet blanket over Chicago's hopes. The iron one kept the hits scattered, and it was only by grace of his easing up that the Cubs scored at all. There was not much pepper or dash in the game, but several sparks between players. Steinfield and Chance both assailed McGraw verbally, when walking back from first base to the bench, and there was a scrap between Tinker and Seymour at second base. In the third inning, Seymour went into the back field first, the men fell over each other, and Tinker declared that Seymour had tried to spike him. He shook his gloved hand. In Seymour's face, told the latter what he thought of him, and Si replied in kind. O'Day brushed the pair apart and bade them cease squabbling. The ancient lemon incident cropped out several times today. Lemons came singly and in showers at the Chicago players. This was so prodigiously funny that at least three persons laughed.

FALL RIVER ROVERS SEUT OUT RANGERS

Pan-American Champs Outplayed Berlin Seniors in Exhibition Game.

Berlin, May 22.—The Fall River Rovers, Pan-American champions, defeated the Senior Rangers by a score of 3 to 0 in an exhibition game of football.

The visitors did the scoring in the first half, and while the Rangers had the best of the second half, were unable to score. The visitors outclassed the home team in both combination and individual work. The attendance, owing to the threatening weather, was only about 600. The line-up:

Berlin—Brown, goal; Krueger, Hymmen, backs; Hodgins, Mitchell, Rickerman, half backs; Burnham, center; Pequegnat, Blitzer, Boetger, Emery, forwards.
Fall River—Healey, goal; Donnelly, Mercer, backs; Cyr, Dalton, Greenwood, half backs; G. Gauthier, center; Bowden, Sutherland, Gauthier, Adams, forwards.

Referee—Vogelsang.

WATERLOO BEATEN, PROTESTS.
Waterloo, May 22.—Guelph defeated Waterloo in a W. F. A. senior football game tonight by a score of 3 to 0. Waterloo has protested on account of Guelph being late. The game was called for 6:45, but did not commence until 7:30. The line-up:

Waterloo—Goal, Brown; backs, Devitt, Meyer, half backs; Nichol, Laing, Egert, center; Whiteman; forwards, Wagner, Holtzman, Seibel and Moser.
Guelph—Goal, Fields; backs, A. Patterson, Johnson; half backs, B. Patterson, Fife, Tonch; center, Selp; forwards, Carter, Walker, Fox and Brown.

LACROSSE.

VARSITY DEFEATS HOBBART.

Geneva, N. Y., May 22.—The Toronto University lacrosse team today defeated the Hobart College twelve by a score of 5 to 3.

A POPULAR WIN AT THE WOODBINE

Merry England Redeems Himself for His Defeat on Monday by Preen.

Toronto, May 22.—Warmer weather greeted racegoers at the Woodbine today. The attendance was the largest of the week. The sun came out just before the first race and made it pleasant for everybody. The track was fast and every condition was favorable for good racing.

The bookmakers were laid out in orderly fashion today beyond the iron fence. They formed a three-sided square with the public in the inclosure.
The plan worked beautifully. The pencillers all stood in line and it proved a great convenience to the betting public, both in placing and cashing their wagers. There were only three starters in the fifth race, the Leamington handicap. Main Chance and Temeraire, scratched, leaving Inferno, Col. Jack and Sir Edward to run for the prize. There were seven races on the card, the first event having been split in twain, the second half being run as the seventh race.

The victory of Merry England in the first race was very popular, as the Scottish champion is a great favorite with Toronto racegoers. He redeemed himself for his defeat on Monday by Preen and showed conclusively today that the victory of the Clyde horse on that occasion was more or less of a fluke. The public choice in two days, which was followed in the second race by the success of another favorite, Oscar T.

THE TIRE

Buffalo, May 22.—Sheriff James Smith when asked today if he was going to call on Governor Hughes regarding betting on racetracks, replied in the negative, but added that his lawyer was looking up the law.

"If the bookmaking and the selling of pools at the racetracks must stop, you can depend upon it that it will be stopped. The law will be enforced both in letter and spirit."

Asked what he would do if he made arrests and the Justice of the peace let his prisoners go, the sheriff said:

ADDED STARTER MADE STRONG BID

C. W. Burt Beaten in Stake
Event in a Drive—Books
Get Scorching.

New York, May 22.—C. W. Burt, an added starter, made a strong effort to capture the Manhattan stakes at Gravesend today. He went to the front at the rise of the barrier, and led the field through the stretch. Miller, on the favorite, Transvaal, caught him in the last furlong and won in a drive. Four favorites. The books received a good scorching in the second race, when Sun Glow, backed from 20 to 1 to 10 to 1, won with ease.

and Divorcee also ran.

PEDESTRIANISM

A LONG WALK.

St. Louis, Mo., May 22.—Wm. A.
Smith and Richard C. Belle, who have accomplished several feats of pedestri-anism, started today to walk from St.
Louis to the Jamestown Exposition, which they expect to reach Aug. 19.
The distance is about 2,800 miles. The walk is in the nature of a race. The general route extends to Helena, Ariz., Lavas, where the Mississippi River will be crossed, thence to Alabama, Atlanta, Ga., the capitals of the two Carolinians, thence to Jamestown. Railroad tracks will be followed to avoid hills. The race will end at the Exposition, where the two men will be met.
Several years ago Belle accomplished a "cross-country" walk from St. Louis to New York. Smith has mostly confined his efforts to track work.

It's Time to Think of Bicycle Riding

Nothing ever happened the bicycle. Nothing ever came along to fill its place. Nothing ever turned up to make the bicycle less useful than it always has been. Nothing in the final outcome of the wide and general use of the bicycle ever tended to show that it is not a most handy vehicle for speedy and direct locomotion, as well as for healthy, pleasant exercise.

It is a good guess to say that the falling off in the once surprising enthusiasm for the bicycle was owing to its having reached a fixed standard of construction and equipment. Every year used to bring around a new feature of improvement for the bicycle. When invention along this line ceased the buying of bicycles lost its novelty.

Once all bicycles were hard tires. If invention had stayed there the bicycle fever would have cooled off in 1888. But in that year Dunlop Pneumatic Tires were introduced and interest in the bicycle took a fresh new start.

And in this season of 1907 Dunlops once more put out a new style of tire as an improvement to the bicycle. In general features it is the same
"these are the only tools you need" tire, but it is made by the Doughty Process—a valuable patent controlled exclusively by the Dunlop Company.

BAD ROAD CAUSES RUNAWAY.

A horse attached to the delivery wagon of Joseph Beech & Sons, corner of St. James and Maitland streets, ran away Tuesday, and threw the driver, Mr. W. J. Beech, out of the rig, spraining his wrist and otherwise injuring him. The horse ran to the barn, but did no damage to the rig. The bad condition of the roadway on Piccadilly street, between William and Adelaide streets, is blamed for the mishap. As the driver was turning the horse across the roadway, the seat of the wagon came out of the socket, frightening the horse and causing it to run away.

NORTH END LOTS.
Another park is being placed on the market, to be known as Sunshine Park, situated at the north end of Waterloo and Colborne streets. The property comprises 250 lots and the sale will commence on Friday. The land is just outside the city limits, but the street cars are only two blocks distant. This will be valuable property, as it is the intention to lay cement walks in front of all the lots and grade the street. Mr. Thomas C. C.
Knott, the well-known real estate man, has the property in his charge, and he intends to locate himself on the grounds Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and at his office in the Masonic Temple every evening from May 24 to June 1 to give information to interested parties.

FORMER LONDON MINISTER DEAD

Rev. John Kay, of Plattsville, Passes Away—Buried
at Dundas.

Word was received in the city this morning of the death at Plattsville of Rev. John Kay, one of the best-known ministers of the old London
Methodist ministry in the old London
Conference, who was once stationed in this city.

Mr. Kay was born in Napanee on May 20, 1838, and after a short academic training at Newburg, entered the Methodist ministry in the old London Conference, in 1862, being received into full connection in 1867.

Being of a genial disposition and an active worker, he soon worked his way upward, and during his ministry occupied very many positions of honor in the gift of the Methodist Church. In 1878 he was chairman of the committee which arranged the hymn and tune-book now in use in the Methodist Church.

In 1882 he was financial secretary of the 1900-1901. While at Brantford he was also president of the Hamilton Conference, and delegate to the general conference in 1886-90-94-98.
The general stations occupied by him were: St. Marys, 1867; Manvers, 1868-69; Ingersoll, 1869-70; Milton, 1871-72;
Waterdown, 1872-73; Tillsonburg, 1873-74; London, Waterford, 1881-82; Thorold, 1882-85; First Church, Hamilton, 1884-87; Wellington Street Church,
Brantford, 1888-90; St. James, 1891-93;
Hannah Street Church, Hamilton, 1894-
96; Oakville, 1897-99; Thorold, 1900-03; Elora, 1904-05; Plattsville, 1906-07. In 1872 he was secretary of the London Conference.

While in his second pastorate at Thorold Mr. Kay's health became broken, and despite the best care and attention, he gradually grew weaker, until death relieved him of his sufferings yesterday morning.

He is survived by two sons, Rev.
Fred Kay, of Orton, and George, at home; and four daughters, Mrs. Ewart, of Kansas City, and Mrs. Hunter, of Detroit, and a widow, to whom much sympathy will be extended by friends in all parts of the Province.

He was 69 years of age, and in a few weeks would have completed 45 years in the ministry of the Methodist Church.

Interment will take place at Dundas today.

"THE TRAINING OF THE CHILD"

East Middlesex Teachers Hear
Interesting Address by Principal of Toronto Normal.

Principal Scott of the Toronto Normal School delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture on "The Training of the Child" before a meeting of teachers at the New St. James' Presbyterian Church last night. The address was delivered in connection with the East Middlesex Teachers' Association meetings.

Dwelling at some length on the great importance of the subject of how best to train children, and pointing out that a great responsibility rests on all who have to do with the education of the young, and that the result of allowing the latter to be reared under unfavorable circumstances, and in ignorance of certain truths, would result in their ruin, Mr. Scott quoted Victor Hugo, the great novelist, as having written,
"Where there is darkness there will be sin, and those who commit the sin are not so much to blame as those who cause the darkness."

Speaking of the importance of proper methods of training children and the effect of such systems on a country, he stated that in England in 1837 there were 53,000 inmates in the jails and houses of correction, while the population was 15,000,000. In 1904 there were 3,700 convicts in the prisons of England, while the population had increased to 31,000,000. The only reason which can be given for this decrease in the amount of crime, is that the public schools have been brought to the doors of the people, and that their children are better trained.

"Why do so few girls go astray in comparison to boys?" was a question answered by Mr. Scott, who explained that girls are in nearly all cases better cared for, and not allowed to roam the streets at will as many boys are.
"The training of a child, both physically and intellectually, is necessary, but the moral and spiritual training is of just as much importance. If the child is to grow up to be a moral,
good-living and successful citizen,"

said Mr. Scott.
One point to which more attention should be paid, and which should be thoroughly understood and taken into consideration, is the way in which a child or an adult learns to do any kind of work. New work is always more difficult, more fatiguing, and lacks accuracy when compared with work to which we have been accustomed. Another thing which should be taken into consideration when teaching children was that all differ, in their powers of reasoning, and possess different talents.
The fact that hereditary influence is not so great a power for good or evil, as environment, was next spoken of by Mr. Scott, who mentioned that a man's brain takes 40 years to mature. Gladstone increased the size of his brain after he had reached maturity, and the last time when he was 71 years of age.

Mr. Scott went on to say: "We must educate the nervous system to do certain things, both intellectual, spiritual and physical. The basis in the brain of a virtuous life, is the trunk lines where the incoming waves of stimulation, on reaching the brain, find there the well-worn tracks, with switches already set, leading to the God-given higher possessions of the soul, holy memories, pure imaginations, consecrated ambitions, righteous judgment, and a will whose higher possessions are so perfect that the commands for right conduct are flashed out through the outgoing nerve tracks and instantaneously obeyed."

"The basis of a virtuous life is a network of trunk lines, in which the incoming waves of stimulation awaken in the soul a host of accustomed activities, such as vile memories, alluring imaginings and craving appetites, etc."

"Every voluntary act beats its own track a little smoother for another of a like character, and more difficult for one of a contrary character, and that is the basis of education."

Inspector Archibald, of the Toronto police force, on one occasion stated that he had never met with a juvenile criminal who had been subjected to proper parental training and control.

By grounds were spoken of by Mr.
Scott as being the greatest schools for morality in existence. He said, "The games indulged in by children train them to concentrate their attention, quicken their powers of attention, induce determination and persistent effort. The training of organization, discipline, authority and system,
and develop all these qualities which

MUSIC AND DRAMA

For next Monday evening, Manager Bowers has booked at the Grand the phenomenal success of the century,
"The Lion and the Mouse." Probably no play of the last decade has met with the unequalled praise of both the public and the press alike that has attended this splendid play. After an uninterrupted run of two solid years in New York City at the Lyceum Theater
it goes on the road for a short spring tour, preparatory to going into Chicago for a two-years' run at the Illinois Theater. This company appeared at the Princess Theater, Toronto, all last week, and did the largest week's business of the season.

Smartest turnouts for spring weddings. Hueston's Liveries.

A popular resort for shrewd housewives just now is the New York Grocery. This stock was one of the best in the city. Mr. Lee always bought at lowest prices for cash, and he is giving some extraordinary bargains.
The early buyers will have the advantage, as the goods are going out rapidly.

One More Musician For London.
Mr. G. W. Day, of Toronto, has joined the forces of Gourlay, Winter & Leeming factory-store, 135 Dundas street, next door to The Advertiser. Mr.
Day is a musician of some note, and a practical pianoman, having been solo tenor in Christ Church, Hastings, Eng., and is also considered a fine pianist.
Mr. Day has made the piano business a study, and is well posted as to the merits of different makes of instruments. He comes to London from the factories of Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, and will act in capacity of salesman, and no doubt add materially to London's staff of acknowledged musicians.
