A BIG PROGRAMME OF FINE ATTRACTIONS

Will Be Offered Visitors to the Great and Only Western Fair This Year.

The programme of attractions for the Western Fair of this year is meeting with general approval. The public as a rule are fond of seeing well-trained animals, and the management this year have certainly procured something that will be pleasing as well as instructive. Herzo's stallions will give three distinct acts before the grandstand twice daily that will eclipse anything ever seen before. In the line of trained horses, the management has also procured something that will be pleasing as well as instructive. The Motor Cycle Club will put on some very exciting races. The athletic programme will be carried out as printed, and also two good speed events. Admission to the grandstand for the afternoon will be 15 cents for the covered stand and 10 cents for the open stands. Reserved seats will be on sale for each performance for the rest of the week at Mills' book store previous to the exhibition. The Ninety-first Highlanders, 41 men strong, have been engaged by the management this year in addition to London's popular Seventy Fusiliers Band. The personnel of the famous Ninety-first is made up of artists in the highest sense of the word. Every man has been well trained and examined before being admitted to membership. Not only has he to be an efficient performer on his particular instrument, but he must be of excellent character. The uniform worn by the Ninety-first Highlanders' Band is one of the most picturesque of Highland costumes, the tartan being that of the renowned Argyle and Sutherland Clan. No band could present a finer appearance than do the Ninety-first in their gorgeous kilts and uniforms.

Their library of music is very comprehensive, embracing over fifteen hundred standard compositions by world-famous composers.

The male choir in connection with the band has won much praise from both the press and public. Great care has been given to the training of the choir by the bandmaster, who, besides, having a complete knowledge of band and orchestra instruments, is a recognized vocal instructor. This choir will render vocal numbers at each and every performance.

A false friend is like the shadow on a sundial, which appears in fine weather, but vanishes at the approach of a cloud.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Prisoners held themselves so well cared for and comfortable in Hull jail that occasionally they have to be fairly chased away after serving sentence, and yesterday saw a case in point.

Dolphus Auger, a Hull man, who got a term of imprisonment for chastising his mother-in-law, finished his hard labor on Saturday. He pleaded a slight indisposition, however, and asked to be allowed to remain in the peace and seclusion of Gov. Moussette's institution.

When Dr. Fontaine reported that nothing at all serious was the matter with him, he was told to quit instantly.

It took some time to chase him to the gates.

HARRY THAW IS LIBRARIAN.

Matteawan, N. Y., Aug. 30.—In their search for regular occupation for Harry K. Thaw, recently recommitted to the state hospital for the criminal insane here, the authorities of the institution have appointed him to the post of librarian.

Another Airship Contest To Be Arranged for August, 1910.

Rheims, Aug. 31.—"Aviation week" came to its official close yesterday with a gala breakfast, given by the committee of organization in honor of the aviators, Bleriot attended with his arm in a sling, a result of his accident of Sunday, and he and Henry Farman, the Englishman; Glenn H. Curtiss, the American; and Hubert Latham, and Louis Paulhan, the French flyers, received ovations, the assembly arising again and again to cheer them.

The Marquis de Polignac, president of the committee, announced the results of the awards and prizes, and a series of speeches followed. M. Lorku, president of the mixed aerial committee, referred to the disappointment of France at the failure to retain the international cup, and provoked a hearty round of applause when he declared: "But I appropriate for myself and all Frenchmen the remark Bleriot when he learned that France had been defeated. This was, 'I will go to America and win it back.'"

During the banquet the Marquis de Polignac announced that a second series of contests between aviators would be held on Aug. 21, 1910.

DARED THE HYDRO GANG

St. Catharines, Aug. 31.—There will be bloodshed yet if the hydro-electric construction gangs who are working in the district do not watch out. Some trouble is reported from Gainsboro Township. On Saturday Theron Felker, a son of a well-known fruit farmer, stood with a shotgun ready, threatening that if the hydro-electric men came on his land he would blow them full of holes.

"You have no rights here, and I am standing on mine," said Felker, "so if you come on you'll do it at your own risk."

The workmen were prepared to put up a tower, but they decided not to, and went away.

At Lee Shaw's farm, a short distance away, the hydro-workmen forcibly entered the Shaw property, and after thrusting Farmer Shaw and his men rudely aside, they went to work and put up the tower. Shaw has laid a complaint, charging the foreman of the gang and the agent of the hydro-power commission, who was present, with assault, and the case will be tried at Smithville, either today or Wednesday. Much fun is promised.

ANOTHER BORE FOR THE DETROIT

Rumored That the Grand Trunk Will Spend Millions in Tunnel.

WABASH MAY BE IN IT

Announced Road Has Option on Long
Strip of Land in Walkerville
For Several Years.

Detroit, Aug. 31.—The Detroit Free Press says: That the Grand Trunk Railroad Company will construct a four-track tunnel from the foot of Dequindre street, Detroit, beneath the Detroit River, to Walkerville, is now said to be practically assured.

It was given out from authoritative sources yesterday that the Canadian trunk line has secured an option on a strip of land extending three miles back from the river at Walkerville. This option, it is said, is for three years.

The Grand Trunk Railroad has made no attempt to effect a physical connection with the Michigan Central near Windsor, it was stated yesterday. "Moreover, the Grand Trunk will not attempt to do so. The railroad is now planning to construct a tunnel under the Detroit River, which will be a four-track tube instead of a two-track tunnel, such as the Michigan Central has."

According to an engineer familiar with the work on the Michigan Central tunnel, the cost of a tube such as is planned by the Grand Trunk will be from $18,000,000 to $25,000,000. It is said that the Grand Trunk will soon decide whether to build a tunnel of four circular tubes, each containing one track, or to construct one of two elliptical tubes each containing two tracks.

Confirming the first announcement of the Grand Trunk tunnel plans, made in the Sunday Free Press several weeks ago, was the authoritative statement made yesterday of the railroad's having secured land options in Walkerville. The fact that the Grand Trunk is planning to build a tunnel also explains why the railroad has been reluctant to enter into negotiations with the city for the separation of grades on the river front, has much as the engineers have not yet decided what the grade on that street will be should the proposed tubes be laid.

Wabash May Be In It.

It is said that the Wabash Railroad is directly interested also in the proposition to build another tunnel. The Michigan Central and the Wabash are strong rivals for freight business in the east. This being the case, it is hardly probable the Michigan Central will allow the Wabash to run trains through the tunnel for a long time. In fact, it is reported the price per car that will be asked from competing in the east will be $1. This means that it will cost the Wabash a pretty sum to use that self-made tunnel.

Furthermore, the railroad has considerable eastern business. It seems logical that the two roads should band together in an effort to compete with a big rival that has managed to get in on the ground floor.

Another interesting consideration is that the Grand Trunk transport boats will have some difficulty in getting in and out of the Michigan Central ferries. The Michigan Central transport boat, the Transfer, is conceded by river men to be the best ice crusher on the river. This boat has been called on many times to keep a passage open between Windsor and Detroit for the transfer of passengers and freight.

Another Airship Contest To Be Arranged for August, 1910.

Rheims, Aug. 31.—"Aviation week" came to its official close yesterday with a gala breakfast, given by the committee of organization in honor of the aviators, Bleriot attended with his arm in a sling, a result of his accident of Sunday, and he and Henry Farman, the Englishman; Glenn H. ### HARRIMAN "O K" SAYS SO HIMSELF

Comes Out Into the Open With Statement to the Press.

ALL NEEDED IS REST

Admits Consultation of Specialists,
But Says No Necessity For an Operation.

Arden, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Edward H. Harriman, urged by weary representatives of the press, who camped about his mountain home since Wednesday last, came out in the open air yesterday, with a statement that he was all right.

Though brief, the statement is straightforward and explicit, with perhaps a touch of patient resentment at the surveillance to which he has been subjected, and a request that the reporters withdraw, not so much for his sake, but for his friends, who have been intercepted daily coming to and from his residence, by zealous interviewers eager for the latest bit of information. It concludes thus frankly:

"If there should be anything serious I will let the press know, and as I have never deceived them, I ask that the press now withdraw its representatives."

The message was so characteristic of Mr. Harriman's affable attitude toward newspaper representatives, an attitude which was marked when he underwent the strain of an extended interview on the day of his return, that most of the men who have been here during the scare over his illness returned to New York relying on his word. The general opinion is that Mr. Harriman would have broken his continued silence of himself, his family and associates bred wild and sensational rumors. It was by impressing this upon the press that the statement was obtained.

The newspaper representatives held a conference, drew up a letter, and sent it to the Arden house by special delivery yesterday morning. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Superintendent Ford of the estate, brought his employer's answer down from the house. The statement, which had been made public in New York earlier in the afternoon, was written on a sheet of Arden house stationery. Miss Mary Harriman, the railroadman's daughter, wrote it at his dictation, but across the top of the first page Mr. Harriman had written this message: "Gentlemen,—Thanks for your letter of today. The statement made in New York by me over telephone today and published. You see it covers the whole subject. Believe me, yours sincerely, E. H. Harriman."

In the statement Mr. Harriman admitted that there had been a consultation of specialists at his house, but that they had decided that there was nothing seriously the matter with him.

He did not mention the possibility of an operation.

With the reassuring news of today the New York stock market settled itself, and advances were general. The effect on the Harriman stocks was, of course, most marked, but there was a buoyant tendency everywhere manifest.

Nothing Serious.

Mr. Harriman's statement follows: "I am pursuing the course laid out before I went abroad, and advised by the physicians. I intend taking a rest as soon as my responsibilities would permit. My treatment abroad reduced my strength and vitality, and weakened my digestion. The medical specialists in London advised me to have an examination by surgeons as a matter of precaution. This has been done very carefully by Drs. Brower and Cline, in conjunction with Dr. Walter James and Dr. Lyle, and the whole result is that they find nothing serious, and renew the advice previously obtained that I should have rest, and not see many people at one time, and this I am trying to do."

"This covers the whole case, and later on, if the representatives of the press desire, and there is any purpose to be accomplished, I will see them up here, but now I ask that the surveillance of the operations of my family or myself, but that the coming and going of my friends may not be interfered with."

"I appreciate the interest shown in my welfare by the press and by friends in all sections, and perhaps by some others. If there was, or should be anything, I will let the press know, and as I have never deceived them, I ask that the press now withdraw its representatives and rely upon me."

FISHERMAN DROWNED.

Thessalon, Aug. 31.—Albert Hicks, 22 years old, son of William Hicks, of Day Mills, lost his life by drowning in Lake Waquoiboging. He and his brother were going fishing, and after launching their boat, were making some preparations, and did not notice the boat drift from the shore until it was some distance out. Albert started to swim after the boat, but the distance was too great, and he sank before reaching it. His brother nearly lost his life in trying to rescue him. The young man was very much respected.

When a man inherits money he tries to show how much smarter he is than his father, who made it, by getting rid of it.

COULD BUILD WARSHIPS ON THE GREAT LAKES

Canada Could Do So and Send Them to Ocean Without the Guns.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Any formal application for permission to build warships on the Great Lakes would have to be made through the governor-general and the British ambassador at Washington. The belief is expressed here that Canada would not have to get the permission of the United States to build warships herself which could pass through the canals. The Rush-Bagot agreement is only in respect to armament, therefore, Canada could in all probability build vessels on the lakes and send them through the canals to Halifax, there to be armed without infringing the agreement.

Canada, of course, has the right to bring the Rush-Bagot agreement to a termination by giving six months' notice. With the agreement out of the way there would be nothing to prevent the building of vessels at the lake ports, but the United States could do likewise. It is an open question if the United States has not already evaded the terms of the agreement by placing a number of training ships in lake ports.

BOYLE GETS THE MINE.

Detroit, Aug. 31.—Joseph W. Boyle, the Klondike miner who began a fight two years ago in the Canadian courts against a number of wealthy Detroit men, claiming they were trying to freeze him out of the Canadian Klondike Gold Mining Company, and who won some notable victories in the courts, has made good all along the line, and sold the mine within the time allowed him to take up the property. It is said by insiders that the Guggenheims are the purchasers. The price is something more than $500,000, which the Detroiters get, while Boyle and his backers get the mine.

HADA A CLOSE CALL

Serious Accident to a Rebecca Couple
On the Way Home From London.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Rebecca, Aug. 31.—What might have been a fatal accident occurred on Saturday afternoon at the C. P. R. crossing, Wyton road. Mr. Frank Pined and his mother were driving home from London about 5 p.m., when a lone engine passed along, and about five minutes later a way-freight came along, passing the same way. Mr. John Logan's corn field obstructed the view of the second train, which the party driving did not expect so soon after the other. They got so close to the truck before they could see the train that the horse became unmanageable, and as a result the occupants were thrown out of the rig. Mrs. Pined was slightly injured, but Frank is seriously hurt. The horse's shoulder was broken, and the animal had to be killed. The buggy was smashed to pieces.

Miss M. Carson, of Detroit, is spending her vacation with Mrs. D. Urquhart.

Miss Maggie Judd is visiting friends and relatives in Hamilton.

Miss Annie Bailey entertained a number of friends on Thursday afternoon.

A number from here attended the harvest home services in the Bailey

Methodist Church last evening. Wedding bells will be ringing in this vicinity shortly.

Mr. M. Ashman has improved his residence a great deal.

Miss Jane Brown, of London, a former resident of Rebecca, spent Friday with her nephew, Mr. J. Brown.

RESULTS OF RECENT SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH.

The address of Sir Joseph Thomson, President of the British Association, at the opening of its meeting in Winnipeg last week, was notable for its thorough grasp of scientific subjects. In a masterly way the eminent scholar reviewed recent advances in mathematical physics and unfolded his interesting story of atoms and their component corpuscles, and of the real and tremendous activities which underlie the apparent quiet of earth, air and sky.

Nothing in all Sir Joseph's very lengthy address is likely to appeal more strongly to the lay mind than his references to the sun's heat and its possibilities. We owe to the sun not merely night and day, springtime and harvest, but it is the energy of the sun, stored up in coal, in waterfalls, in food, that practically does all the work of the world.

According to measurements of Langley, the heat received by the earth under a high sun and a clear sky is equivalent to about 7,000-horsepower per acre. Sir Joseph says that though our engineers have not yet discovered how to utilize this enormous supply of power, he has not the slightest doubt they will ultimately succeed in doing so; and when coal is exhausted and our waterpower inadequate, it may be that this is the source from which we shall derive the energy necessary for the world's work. When that time comes about, said he, our centres of industrial activity may perhaps be transferred to the burning deserts of the Sahara, and the value of land determined by its suitability for the reception of traps to catch sunbeams. He is of the opinion that this energy, in the interval between its departure from the sun and its arrival at the earth, must be in the space between them, and that this space must contain something which, like ordinary matter, can store up energy associated with light and heat, and which can, in addition, exert the enormous stresses necessary to keep the earth circling round the sun and the moon around the earth. Sir Joseph considers the study of this all-pervading substance perhaps the most fascinating and important duty of the physicist.

Scarcely less attractive are Sir Joseph's remarks concerning the age of the earth. The discovery of the properties of radium, he says, has entirely altered the aspect of this most interesting geological problem, and upset Lord Kelvin's theory of a few years ago, that the earth was less than one hundred million years old. It has been found that the gas helium, given off by radio-active bodies, unlike radio-active elements, is permanent and accumulates in the mineral; hence if the amount of helium in a sample of rock and the amount produced by the rock in one year are measured, the length of the age of the rock can be determined. In this way it has been shown that a specimen of the mineral thorite must be more than 240,000,000 years old. This method, Sir Joseph says, may lead to determinations not merely of the average old age of the crust of the earth, but of the ages of particular rocks and the date at which the various strata were deposited.

Sir Joseph says the new discoveries made in physics in the last few years and the ideas and possibilities suggested by them have had an effect upon the workers in that subject akin to that produced by the Renaissance. Enthusiasm has been quickened, and there is a hopeful, youthful, perhaps exuberant, spirit abroad, which leads men to make with confidence experiments which twenty years ago would have been thought fantastic.

TRIBUTE TO THE LEMIEUX ACT.

Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, has made a close study of the operation of the Canadian industrial disputes act, and unhesitatingly recommends the enactment of similar legislation by the States of the American Union.

In McCleure's for September, Dr. Elliot, after outlining the chief features of what he terms "the beneficent Canadian act," which has now been in operation since March 22, 1907, proceeds to deal with what has been accomplished by it. He shows that in 98 per cent of the cases coming within its purview, strikes have been averted. These pertained to disputes concerning mines, railroads, street railways, longshoremen, teamsters and sailors. A-lyzing the 55 applications that have arisen under the act and have resulted in the creation of 49 awards, the writer shows that strikes were avoided or ended in 25 coal mines, 4 metalliferous mines, 15 railroads, 3 street railways, 2 bodies of longshoremen, 1 of teamsters, 1 of sailors, and in 2 industries that are not public utilities. The six cases in which boards were not created were settled promptly through the influence of the act. Some of the disputes involved thousands of men.

The fact that Canadian workmen have been applicants for the creation of boards in 46 cases is considered by Dr. Elliot's evidence that they have acquired confidence in the operation of the act. Not in a single case did the employers ultimately reject the advice of the boards, "and," the writer says, "they must have taken satisfaction in the fact that interruption of service to the public was prevented in 53 cases out of 55."

One feature of the act which appeals strongly to Dr. Elliot is the entire absence of any provision whatever for arbitration. Neither party promises to abide by the decision of the board or to adopt its recommendations. The act relies exclusively on discussion, conciliation, publicity and public opinion.

In the opinion of Dr. Elliot, not the least beneficial result of the act is that although perfect liberty to strike or lock out ultimately is reserved under the act, several weeks must elapse from the time the dispute began before work can be stopped. Thus there is time for passion to cool and for the cost of war to be counted by both parties. The interests of the public may also get some sort of effective expression during this interval, and when the report of the board is thoroughly published, in accordance with the provisions of the act, public opinion, being well informed, usually expresses itself with clearness and force.

ROSEBURY AND THE BUDGET.

There is no surprise in Lord Rosebery's acceptance of an invitation to speak at an anti-budget meeting in Glasgow. He has been out of sympathy with the progressive tendencies of the present Government, and his estrangement from the Liberal party has been steadily deepening and widening. He sided with the Unionist peers in the rejection of the Scottish land bill, a measure overwhelmingly popular north of the Tweed. He deprecated the principle of old age pensions. He has already taken more than one fling at the present budget. As this measure has become the very citadel of the Liberal position, it is difficult how he can longer retain even a nominal connection with the party of which he was once the chief. The Government will probably prefer his open enmity to his pose as a candid friend.

Lord Rosebery is a Whig by inheritance and instinct, and has never been able to rise above the sentiments of his class. Whiggism is a splendid tradition, but an obsolete one. It spent its force in the great work of political equality, but a new spirit was required for the social and economic problems pressing for solution. There is now no standing ground for the Whig between Toryism and Liberalism. The majority of the historic Whig families have been absorbed into the Tory ranks, and it is there that Lord Rosebery properly belongs. He stands for the aristocratic principle, and is imbued with the patriarchal ideas of the land-owning class. He looks at politics and legislation through the monocle of the lord of the manor. He would not have led the Liberal party into its present radical courses, but on the other hand he would have had no party to lead, for British Liberalism has marched past the position which he immovably occupies. His following is a purely personal one, composed of men of his own social plane, who are attracted to him by his brilliant intellectual qualities. He is a charming speaker on any and all subjects, but the public have come to regard him as a dilettante in statesmanship, and are less interested in his opinions than in his manner of expressing them. Such shoulders were never fitted for the mantle of the masterful Gladstone, and could not wear it long.

Condor Charlie prefers co-operation to centralization in imperial naval defence. It is the Canadian idea, too.

The 24-hour automobile race across the line is an exhibition of lunacy. The speed demon is the worst enemy of the motor industry.

Lord Rosebery, as a bloated landowner, has been hit by the budget, and is going to squeal. But the laird of Dalmeny can squeal in such beautiful periods that the whole country is looking forward to the performance.

Birmingham is to have a week of political excitement next month. Mr. Asquith is to speak on Sept. 17, and Mr. Balfour will reply two days later. The Asquith meeting will be presided over by Mr. Arthur Chamberlain, who is an aggressive Liberal, though a brother of the great Unionist. The chairman of the Balfour meeting will be Austen Chamberlain, the son of Joseph Chamberlain. Bingley Hall, holding 10,000 people, is being fitted up for both meetings, the two parties sharing the cost. The platform and the stump still count for much in British politics. It is a healthy symptom.

Memphis, Aug. 31.—Five Southern League players will receive try-outs by major league managers this fall or next spring, according to official announcement by President Kavanagh, showing purchases. They are: Pitcher Atkins, bought from Atlanta by Philadelphia Americans; Pitcher Lively, by Chicago White Sox; first baseman Montgomery; Catcher Casey, by Detroit, from Little Rock, and Pitcher Lively, by Baltimore Orioles. The former purchased by Detroit and the latter by Brooklyn. Other promising players are to be drafted, but the five players named represent the smallest number to be drafted by the league in the history of the Southern League.

CANADA'S FAMOUS MEN AND WOMEN

GLADLY TESTIFY TO THE GREAT VALUE OF "FRUIT-A-TIVES."

Hon. Senator Costigan (member of the cabinet of five premiers of Canada), says: "Fruit-a-tives is the only medicine I ever took that did me any good for Constipation."
Mrs. J. R. Flock (widow of one of the most prominent physicians in London), writes: "I was a constant martyr to Stomach Weakness all my life, and no physician could cure me, but Fruit-a-tives gave me entire relief, and I strongly recommend this medicine."
Mr. James Dingwall (superintendent of St. Andrew's Sunday School in Wilkeshamtown, Ont., for nine years), states: "I am now 70 years old, and I can strongly recommend Fruit-a-tives for Bladder and Kidney Trouble and Chronic Constipation."
Mr. H. Marchessault (high constable of Quebec), testifies: "I suffered for years with severe pain in the back. Nothing did me any good until I tried Fruit-a-tives."
Mr. W. J. McComb (the leading merchant of Trenton, Ont.), writes: "I was a martyr to headaches—consulted doctors—wore glasses—without the slightest relief. Then I took Fruit-a-tives and this remedy cured me."
This is the kind of evidence that convinces. Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives," 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25 cents. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE FLYING MEN AT RHEIMS

From the New York Sun.

The wonderful achievements of the flying men on the plain of Betheny leave no room for doubt that we shall soon be familiar with the spectacle of the aeroplane in flight, in public exhibitions at least. There is already talk of converting the Hackensack Meadows into an "aviation plain." Nor will sport-loving individuals be far behind the amusement purveyors in taking advantage of the opportunity offered by the aeroplane, which M. Ernest Archdeacon, the French patron of flight by heavier-than-air machines, calls the engine with wings. The operation of it, if we may judge from the performances at Rheims, is not attended with serious risk.

There have been two or three falls in scores of ascents, and except for a few bruises, none of the aviators has been hurt. Fragile wings have been bent and propellers broken, but that has been the extent of the damage. When Mr. Henry Farman flew 118 miles he was never more than 30 feet from the ground, and at any time he could have descended with scarcely a jar. During the meeting at Rheims several records have been broken in the air races in this country, and their solid machines of iron and steel have been smashed into junk. Provided the aeronaut selects his weather carefully and is content to fly low, his sport seems to be less hazardous than that of the scorching automobilist.

It is a fair conclusion, then, that the aeroplane will soon be in high favor with sporting amateurs. Moreover, it will be inexpensive, both to build and operate, compared with a luxurious motor car. The engine with wings can be supplied, it is said, for $2,500.

The great meeting at Rheims has been an electrifying, a delicious success. It must have far surpassed the expectations of the promoters. All records for speed and endurance have been broken, and one record has disappeared, while the spectators have been thrilled by the passage of a flotilla of aeroplanes at different altitudes; and in one instance they saw two machines racing neck and neck. It was only two years ago that M. Ernest Archdeacon offered a prize, which Mr. Henry Farman won, for a flight of one kilometer, about five-eighths of a statute mile. On Friday he enjoyed the experience of seeing the same aviator sail 118 miles, and he believes that members of our species have started on a return trip.

be dogmatic about the rate of the aeroplane's speed, the limits of its flight, or its capacity to weather a strong wind. Rheims has latterly been famous for its champagne; formerly it was most distinguished for its Roman remains and as the time-honored place where many kings were crowned. The future of it will also be known as the foster mother of aviation, a distinction that may be remembered when the world has forgotten the Mars gate and Philip Augustus.

KEENE'S GREAT "SWEEP" WON FUTURITY STAKES

Candellberry, Ridden Out With Heel and Whip, Beat Winner's Stablemate Grasmere.

New York, Aug. 30.—So hard did that his head lay almost in his rider's lap, and yet, without maintaining his graceful long stride and with his feetness of foot unimpaired, James R. Keene's Sweep, a son of Brushy Pink Domino, won the twenty-second running of the Futurity at Sheepshead Bay today.

Five lengths back, ridden out with whip and heel to beat Sweep's stablemate, Grasmere, a short length for the place, staggered the tired Montpelier stable's candidate, Candellberry, also a son of the sire of Sweep. Grasmere, an added starter, was a good fourth, but the other nine contestants were beaten off and well strung out over a furlong. The time for the race was 1:11.55. Sweep's share of the purse of $31,000 was $27,000.

THE MAN FROM THE WEST

BY E. EVERETT GREEN.
Author of The Marriage of Marcia, Lady Elizabeth,
The Juggernaut, etc.

The ferret-like eyes of the lawyer were watching the other man's face. It did not change its expression, or put on any look of dismay; yet Lawley was not sure, in the dim light diffused by the shaded lamp, whether it did not grow a little livid in color. By this time he was becoming rather keenly interested. At the first he had not been keen; he considered that he was only being used as a stepping-stone during a few preliminary inquiries, and that very shortly the case would be taken out of his hands and intrusted to some more experienced and better known firm of lawyers, in large practice. At this moment for the first time the hope shot through him that perhaps there was grist to be brought in no small in his own mill.

"I see," said Gaskell slowly. "That hadn't occurred to me. I'd have thought that the fact of my being Anthony Gaskell, in possession of all these papers, and of all the facts of my father's and mother's past, and a few small family relics, which can be identified over here, no doubt, would be proof sufficient. My wife has known me from a child. Wouldn't her evidence go for something?"

The lawyer shook his head. "Too much an interested party, and in law husbands and wives are one, you know. You'll have to get other witnesses over. But that sort of thing, surely. You said yourself that there were plenty over yonder who knew the Gaskells—father and son."

"Yes, that's so," Gaskell said looking down at the table, his head resting on his hand. The lawyer watched him as a cat watches a mouse; his interest was growing every minute. "It's a shifting sort of population out yonder," said the man after a long pause; "it isn't always just easy to lay your hands upon the men you want."

The lawyer was again looking through the papers. "Seems as though the Todd family had rooted a bit over there. Your father, now, he married a Eunice Todd, and your good lady was a Miss Sadie Todd before you made her Mrs. Gaskell?"

"That's so." "Well, ain't there some Todds out yonder as could be brought across to give evidence? Seems as though there should be, and they might be ready and willing to come. The Cotswold rents come to a pretty penny, and you've money of your own, too, I take it?"

"Yes, I've made a bit of a pile myself." "So much the better for all of us. Well, you'll have to disburse some of that pile getting witnesses. To get over to your identity as Anthony Gaskell's son. That won't be such hard work, will it?"

Gaskell did not immediately answer. He was thinking hard. The next words spoken by the lawyer had a new note in the tones, something suggestive and insinuating. "I thought out yonder that the dollar was almighty. I thought anything could be done—by a little judicious disbursement—let us call it."

"What in thunder do you mean?" "Why nothing in the world but what I say, my dear sir," spoke Lawley with the utmost suavely. "To get witnesses over all this long way involves the disbursement of a good deal of money. They will expect payment for their time and their services, and with such a stake at issue it would be unwise on your part not to offer them liberal compensation."

The two men sat eyeing each other like duellists, each taking the measure of the other. Gaskell was the first to speak. "I suppose you have your price, too?"

"Certainly, I have. I am much interested in this matter. I have a private grudge against the present holder of the Cotswold title and estates. I should particularly like him to be deposed of both. It would suit me remarkably well. I think we ought to be able to work together and help each other."

"I believe I take you now, Mr. Lawley. You want to marry Mary Acryngton and so does Lord Cotswold." "How you have come to this knowledge I do not know, sir, but your surmise is correct. I should be glad to give Lord Cotswold other matters to fill his mind than those of love and courtship; and if we were between us to beggar him, then he could not very well enter into matrimonial relations with anyone."

Gaskell's eyes were alight now. He saw his way to getting this man's heart and soul with him; and already he began to see that a cunning and unscrupulous ally would be a vital necessity.

feel that myself each time I approach her." "Say, what would you do for the friends who helped you to overcome Mary Acryngton's resistance?" "I'd serve them with the best powers that I have." "I believe you would—just they should blow upon you, and let the world know how the trick was done. Now, Mr. Lawley, let us talk business. You've got a sort of arrangement over here by which marriages can be solemnized in rooms or houses—same as we have over yonder, eh?" "Certainly; marriage by special license can be solemnized in any place and at any hour by any clergyman found to officiate. That's not the difficulty. The trouble is with Mary herself. She'd tell the clergyman straight out that she wouldn't have me—and then—where'd we be?"

Gaskell sat drumming with his fingers on the table. "You could get the special license all right." "Of course I could; but I'll not chuck fifty pounds into the gutter over some fool's game." "By no means; it would be a wifely waste; but just you listen for a moment to me. My wife's taken a mighty liking to Mary, and I guess it won't be long—we must give 'em a bit more time—before Mary takes a liking to her. Sadie has a way—with her, I'll tell her to begin to use it on Mary. Say, did you ever hear of hypnotic suggestion?"

"Pack of rubbish I always call that sort of thing." "Well, you call it quite wrong, then. There's a heap more to it than is well understood yet. Sadie's got some of the power. I've seen queer things she's been able to do. It may come useful later with our witnesses; but leave that for the moment. She shall try it first on Mary—little by little—get a sort of influence over her. Oh, bless you, Mary'll know nothing; only that she's gettin' mighty fond of Sadie and bein' with her. One day we'll ask her for a spin up to town in the motor. She doesn't like the motor now, but she'll come to it, you'll see, with Sadie at her back. She'll like the notion of the little jaunt."

"We'll get her right away from here and from everybody—up to some London hotel. There's where you can join us with the special license and all that. By that time Sadie'll have her hand on it, and she will have got things so well in train that you'll be able to persuade the lady yourself. If not, Sadie shall help you. Oh, we won't have any violence or trouble or risk. Mary will be a sweet, docile bride when the clergyman comes. There'll be no revolt and no scene. I've seen queer things than that. And so long as Sadie's about here—so long as you're working with me over this thing, you'll have no trouble with your wife. She'll be docile and affectionate and all you could wish. And maybe she'll grow into it in time without any help from me. You play fair and square by us, and you shall have your Mary safe and fast!"

Gaskell had been hanging on the speaker's words, his eyes gleaming with an almost wolf-like greed. "It's all true what you're saying? It would be more like a fairy tale to me. Mary is—"

Gaskell made a gesture of impatience. "Mary is just an ordinary unsuspicious English girl. Sadie is ten years older and knows her way about the world. If she doesn't twist this or that, you'll have her little finger in a short while, you may write me down as an ass. I know what I'm talking about. You're about a century behind the times, and you're a water."

"You shall have your Mary fast enough; and then you've got to see me through this business. Is that a bargain?"

Lawley's hand went out and gripped that of Gaskell fast. The two men sat for a moment staring fixedly at one another, and then they both rose. "It's a bargain," said Lawley, and so the pact was made.

CHAPTER XXI.
Disquiet.
The boy Bosh came bursting into the room where the Henkle family sat at lunch, boiling over with indignation and excitement.

"I say, have you heard? I lost a most awful chouse if it's true. It's all over Basset Hatch today! They say that a fellow has turned up who's going to cut Cotswold out of everything."

"Hotaps!" cried his mother. "My dear boy, what do you mean? It can't be true!"

"Bosh, mater. Well, I hope I'll prove to be all right. But all the town's wagging with the news of some Anthony Gaskell that's turned up somehow."

"Yes, he's a people called Gaskell stopping at Miss Lawley's," cried Hilda; "I saw them when I went over to look up the kids. But they're Yankees."

"Well, what's the odds if they are? It seems there was an Anthony Gaskell—the elder son—who ran away to America. That's just the beastly part of it. Everybody's asking if this man is his son. If he is—"

Mona was following every word her brother spoke. "If he is, then won't Lord Cotswold be Lord Cotswold any more?"

"By what I make out, he won't. The new man will have the title and estates. I call it a beastly chouse. A fellow's no business to run away and disappear, and then for his son to be able to come along and turn out to be a man like Cotswold! I bet my bottom dollar he ain't fit to black Cotswold's boots."

It had been one thing to learn about the Gaskells from Val; it was quite another to hear the rumor circulating about the place. It seemed to be bringing the danger so much nearer; and although both Bosh and Hilda were to a great extent behind the scenes, and knew that the man from the West was quietly working in hopes of discomfiting this upstart claimant, yet it seemed to them that dangers were getting a bit hot and dangerous, when the town was beginning to take up the talk, and to remember Anthony Gaskell, and try to recall all he knew about him.

TWO PLACES SUFFER FROM FEVER OUTBREAK

Cobalt, Aug. 30.—A serious outbreak of typhoid fever has caused general alarm here. There are now 70 cases in the hospital. Fourteen nurses have been sent up from Toronto, and six are on the way from Ottawa.

Peterboro, Aug. 30.—An epidemic of typhoid fever in Brockville is so serious that the trip of the Fifty-seventh Regiment on Labor Day has been cancelled.

CLASH OVER POWDER

Miners Say It's Safe, But It Reduces Their Earnings.

Pittsburg, Aug. 30.—Representatives of coal operators and miners in the Pittsburg district are in joint conference today for the purpose of reaching an amicable adjustment of a dispute regarding the use of a new explosive in mining. The situation has reached a serious stage during the past month. It is estimated that over 6,000 miners are idle in this vicinity as result of the attempt to use the new explosive. The trouble is with Mary herself. She'd tell the clergyman straight out that she wouldn't have me—and then—where'd we be?"

National President Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, who is also chairman of the powder committee, will take the case to the operators of the Ohio, Indiana and other coal fields have been invited to attend.

Considerable difficulty will be experienced in reaching a settlement, it is said, because the state authorities have ordered the use of the flameless or safety powder, while the miners strenuously object, asserting that it shatters the coal and reduces their earnings.

WEDDING ON SKATES

Bridal Procession Goes on Rollers From House to Church.

Berlin, Aug. 30.—The roller skating craze which dominates all Berlin reached a culminating point when a bridal procession numbering twenty went to church on roller skates.

The bridegroom was in evening dress and tall hat, as is the custom in Germany, and the bride wore a white satin robe and long veil, holding her train in one hand. One witness was on their right and one on their left. The father and mother of the bride were behind the young couple, the guests following.

They all "roller" through the street somewhat astounded by the Berliners, who greeted them with cordial cheers. It was a rather difficult performance, especially for the mother, a typical stout German woman, but all went.

At the entrance to the church a messenger boy was waiting to watch the skates during the ceremony. Afterward all got on their skates again, scooted to the registrar's office, and then to the restaurant, where the wedding dinner was given.

REMARKABLE DISEASE

Developed After Boy Had Been Run Over by a Motor.

London, Aug. 30.—In city of London court, before Judge Lumley Smith, K. C., Philip J. Davis, 15 years old, sued the Great Eastern London Motor Omnibus Company, Limited, to recover damages for a remarkable disease which, it was alleged, had developed as the result of his being run over by one of the defendant company's motor omnibuses.

Martin O'Connor, who appeared for the plaintiff, said that the boy was an in-patient at Guy's Hospital for many weeks. Skin grafting was resorted to, but it was not successful, and a keloid had supervened. That was a remarkable disease, of a cancerous order, and there was, it was said, only one other previously known case in medical history, according to a leading work on the subject. The plaintiff's knee was contracted, and it feared that the boy would never be able again to follow any occupation because of the keloid condition.

Dr. Lawson Brown said that keloid was common among the natives of West Africa, where it was due to the use of dirty knives in marking their skins, and to clay stains. The first man who discovered it was Albert, in 1810, who called it canceroid, a resembling cancer.

Ultimately the plaintiff agreed to accept $375 as compensation.

ECCLIES' BODY FOUND

Remains Will Be Taken to Old Home at Almonte for Burial.

Almonte, Ont., Aug. 30.—United States Wireless Company, at Seattle, has sent word that the body of George Eccles, who it was due to who was the wireless operator here of the wrecked steamer Ohio, has been recovered, and on instructions forwarded to Almonte, where it will be taken to Almonte for burial.

Ecclies' widow, who is now in Winnipeg, will come east for the funeral.

DOMINION STEEL DIVIDEND.

Montreal, Que., Aug. 30.—The directors of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company will meet in this city on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. to declare the regular half yearly dividend of 3 1/2 per cent on the preferred stock of the company, payable Oct. 1. The company paid a dividend of 10 1/2 per cent May 10 last, out of the money received from the Dominion Coal Company on account of the settlement of the dispute between them following the judgment in favor of the Steel Company. The last previous regular dividend paid on the preferred was in April, 1903.

BURGLAR AT BRAMPTON.

Brampton, Aug. 30.—An enterprising burglar entered the houses of several citizens early yesterday securing a pretty good bag of loot. At Dr. Moore's, nothing of consequence was taken. R. Blain, M. P., did not suffer, but two gold watches and several rings were taken. George Williams, and Miss Rutherford was a sufferer to the extent of $100 cash and some jewelry. No trace of the burglar has been discovered.

BROKER WRITES POEM TO VANISH ANN

Diss De Bar Comes Near to Swindling a Lot of Rich New Yorkers.

New York, Aug. 30.—While inspector McCafferty's sleuths are searching the truck farms for a roly-poly old lady who is 70, and sometimes claiming to be 500, years old, and a long, lanky crank, who is her affinity and assistant, it develops that the exposure of Ann Odella Diss Debar, which came in a dispatch from Detroit, came just in time to prevent the notorious Ann—or Mother Elmer, or "Eve," or Mrs. Jackson, or "Adiva Veed-ya," as she has variously entitled herself—from thoroughly fleecing some of New York's rich men.

Adiva Veed-ya—a composite name made up of the letters of David, Eve and Ann—David being the name of David Livingston Mackay, the mildly crazy ex-Detroiter who is her present dupe—had wormed herself into the home of Mrs. Lillian Hobart French, where she had a mahogany throne-chair from which she delivered solemn yards of bewildering bosh about living forever, reincarnation, hidden cities and other truck. Mrs. French was drawing in her friends. One of these is William J. Robinson, Mrs. French says Robinson got so interested in Ann that he wrote her a little poem about her, which reads:

Mother of mysteries, enthroned she sits,
Ten thousand days and nights, and
Have waxed and waned;
Some power yet all unknown to human sense,
But simple as the daisy in the dell,
Doth keep her young in heart and sweet of tongue.

Mackay claimed to be a reincarnation of David, King of Israel, and to be physically immortal. He also claimed Ann was his "earthly mother," although he was born in a little Highland Scotch parish, the son of a poor clergyman, and his honest wife, about 40 years ago, and unbalanced his wits while studying on insufficient food, becoming a follower of the fantastic James Jezreel, founder of the "Flying Rollers," and writer of incoherent books about the "religion."

If Ann is caught she'll be sent up for old swindling operations, and David may land in some asylum.

Who Is Mrs. French.

Mrs. French claims to have met Diss Debar at a lecture in Carnegie Hall, and being interested in certain investigations—mostly efforts to reduce Flying Rollers to coherence—she found Ann and David to be adepts—Mahatmas. So she installed them in her house and set about a hot-house propaganda of the religion with rich men as prospective pupils. When the exposure came Mahatma Dave went away so suddenly that he forgot to take along his Panamahatma, going attired in his long, flowing locks.

Mrs. French says Ann and Dave have a truck farm near Nyack where they are initiating a lot of young girls into their mysteries. As Lolita Jackson Ann served a term in prison in England for conducting a "school" of this alleged kind, in which practices of an unprintable nature were "taught."

Now comes the aftermath in which everybody is wondering who Mrs. Lillian Hobart French may be. She poses as a deserted wife. She professes to teach a "religion"—and smokes cigarettes, drinks cocktails and omits to pay bills promptly. She is known to Bessie Roberts, and in Augustus Heinze—and some say she has an interesting past. There was a Margaret Murry in Buffalo a few years ago, with a dashing husband—and a lot of society people were plucked and the man went to prison while the woman vanished. Nobody can yet tell whether or not Lillian Hobart French ever knew Margaret Murry. But they're trying to find out.

She Snaps Her Fingers.

When Mrs. French was asked concerning a report that Mr. Heinze had once been especially interested in her, but had quarreled with her and now even avoided speaking to her, she retorted:

"There has been a lot of talk about me and Mr. Heinze. They even said that I was the mysterious blonde woman who gave away the secret of a pool in United Copper and led to a panic in that stock two years ago. It was a lie, but people persist in bandying it about."

"Has it ever been you a large amount of copper stock with the understanding that you simply hold it and you quarreled with him through putting some of it on the market?"

"Yes, but that story also is not true!" exclaimed the seers, raising her slender white fingers with a warning gesture.

"Neither is the report true," she continued, "that I met Mr. Heinze in Butte, Mont., and came to New York some time after he did."

It has been stated that the management of one hotel, on the complaint of Mr. Heinze, requested one not to call on him," remarked one visitor.

"Is that so?" retorted Mrs. French angrily. "I would just like them to try to put me out of any hotel. So there!"

NEW DIPHTHERIA CURE

German Professor Has a Substitute for Dangerous Antitoxin.

Berlin, Aug. 30.—The growing prejudice in America, as in England and Germany, against diphtheria antitoxin on account of the number of children who died after it is administered, even when the diphtheria itself has been apparently overcome, has led Prof. Fritz Meyer to make an exhaustive investigation of the subject.

The professor discovered that the toxin, or diphtheria, exerted a specially destructive effect on the suprarenal gland, or gland above the kidneys.

neys. He found this out at his autopsy.

He, therefore, made an extract from a healthy supra-renal gland and injected it under the skin in a salt solution in cases where the diphtheria had progressed past the point where the heart was affected. The supra-renal extract acted quickly and definitely in raising the blood pressure. It was the only agent he could find which had this action. Thus it would appear that the supra-renal extract, which any chemist can make, may, by restoring the blood pressure, save patients from death without the use of antitoxin. Further experiments are to be made by other German scientists along this line.

CHILDREN IN PERIL

Fifteen Hundred Little Ones Were Menaced by the Flames.

New York, Aug. 31.—A thousand children were called from their bedtime prayers by the clanging of fire bells at the St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Home at Rockaway Park, on the Long Island shore, last evening, and rushed down fire escapes to the martial music of their file and drum corps to join a crowd of many thousands which had gathered to watch the spectacular destruction of the asylum. In a Jewish Home nearby 500 sick and crippled children were also taken from their beds for fear that the flames would reach them.

SAME OLD WAR SCARE

Strained Relations Exist Between Argentine and Brazil.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Word was received here today by H. L. Myers, consul-general to Canada for Argentine Republic, that strained relations exist between Argentina and Brazil, as a result of Brazil's desire to annex Uruguay.

The immediate cause of the trouble, however, has been the arbitration proceedings over certain rich rubber-growing lands near Bolivia. These lands were sold to Brazil by Bolivia, and since the sale Peru has claimed them.

The dispute was referred to Bolivia, which upheld Peru's claim, but Bolivia refused to give up the purchase money, and now Brazil threatens to enforce payment of it, and also threatens Argentina.

TO EXHUME THE BODY

Sutton's Body To Be Disinterred and an Autopsy Performed.

Washington, Aug. 31.—A permit was granted last night by Mrs. James N. Sutton to have the body of her son, Lieut. James N. Sutton, which is buried in Arlington National Cemetery, disinterred and an autopsy performed.

The permit was received by Mrs. Sutton by the office of the quarter-master-general of the war department. When Mrs. Sutton is ready for the autopsy all that will be necessary will be for her to give the war department a doctor's notice in order to have the grave opened and the body transported to the naval hospital.

Mrs. Sutton said that she would do nothing in the matter until the return of her attorney, Henry Davis, to the city, which would be about Thursday. He is now in New York.

After the autopsy the body will be placed on a hermetically sealed casket and reinterred in consecrated ground at Arlington. Rev. Father Griffiths, of St. Augustine's, Roman Catholic Church, will perform the rites.

PARLIAMENT ON WHEAT

Wheat Industry Problems Discussed By British Association.

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—The British Association yesterday elected Dr. T. G. Bonney, F. R. S., the eminent British geologist, who is not present at the present meetings, president for 1910. The subject of wheat next year will be held at Sheffield, Aug. 31 to Sept. 7.

A parliament on wheat was held by the scientists this morning, three sections, comprising problems of the greatest importance to the wheat industry of the west. Outside of this the chief interest lay in the economic section, where Professor H. B. Clarke, of Edinburgh, read a paper on "The Policy of Preferential Duties Within the Empire," which aroused a lively discussion.

Professor Clarke, who is an all-around free trader, said he considered this morning that his wife had left home last week and left three small sons and one daughter to shift for themselves. The husband said his wife had been hanging around nickelodeons and other cheap shows, and he feared they had affected her brain and resulted in her skipping out. Murray thinks she has gone to Rochester. The police are investigating.

HIS LOSS LIGHT

Toronto, Aug. 30.—Mr. William MacKenzie, speaking today of the floods in Monterey, Mexico, where it was reported by the Associated Press that he had lost a huge amount of property, declared that the loss was trifling, and the car service, the power plant and waterworks, as well as the sewerage systems, in which he was interested, were practically untouched, the whole loss being not more than a few thousand dollars.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

A SUDDEN DROP IN HAY PRICES

Supply Was Very Large Today and a Slump Naturally Followed.

FRUIT SUPPLY SMALLER

Peaches Are Beginning to Make Their Appearance—The Ruling Prices Today.

Sales were fairly brisk on the local market today, though the market itself was not particularly large.

There was a very large supply of hay, and as a result the prices dropped perceptibly. Last week the amount offered, but this morning it was almost a drop on the market. This was partly due to the fact that it was not of particularly good quality. The price was generally $14, though a few loads sold at $14.50.

There were only about five loads of oats offered, and there was somewhat of a drop on these also. One load of old oats brought $1.00, while the new went from $1.25 to $1.40, one load going as high as $1.50.

One load of wheat was offered, and sold for 50c per bushel.

Vegetables Firm.

Vegetables showed little change, save in the case of tomatoes. There was a small supply of these, which naturally tended to reduce the prices. They sold at 20c to 25c a basket. Potatoes remained about the same, but there was only a comparatively small supply of these. Root vegetables were much in evidence, as were also vegetable marrow, Hubbard squash and similar varieties of vegetables.

The Fruit Supply.

The fruit supply was somewhat smaller than usual. There was a good supply of plums early in the morning, but the low prices brought a rapid sale for them, and they were soon disposed of. Peaches were offered in moderate quantities, and had a ready sale, while the few pears offered were rapidly disposed of. Plums today were selling at 20c to 25c for the common varieties, and 30c to 40c for the fancy and other fancy stock. The pears now on the market are some of the best canning varieties, Clapp's Favorite, the Bell, Flemish Beauty, and even some Bartlett's.

Peach Prices.

The better varieties of peaches, too, are beginning to make their appearance. The Yellow Star, John, one of the best canning varieties, has been in the market for some days, and is now at its best. No. 1 quality were wholesaling at 90c and retailing at $1, while the second quality were wholesaling at 80c and retailing at 90c. White flesh peaches, which are mainly eaten peaches, and are little use for canning, were selling at 40c to 50c, according to the quality. Other prices remain as follows:

THE GROVER SHOE STORE
GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

For the past three months C. M. Grover & Co., 265 Dundas street, near Wellington, have been selling out their large and comparatively new stock of Boots and Shoes, Trunks, Club Bags, Suitcases, etc., and judging from the splendid trade they have been doing the sale has certainly proven an unqualified success. The claim of this firm is that in order to get out of business quickly they are selling the highest grade goods and at the lowest prices. Suitcases, Club Bags and similar leather goods, at prices that save the purchaser the retailer's profit. They also invite an honest comparison of goods and prices, and are confident of the result of such an investigation by every prospective buyer. Grover & Co.'s advertisement and list of prices appeared on Page Five of last Thursday's Advertiser, which may be easily looked up by any of our readers, who are in need of the class of goods handled by this firm. Western Fair visitors will do well to call at Grover & Co.'s store while in the city.

COMPANY BLAMED

Q.—That would give quite a jar? A—

No; my hand-lamp was standing on the top of the car and it did not topple.

Q.—What if it had been on top of the cars that were struck? A.—It would not have been upset, as the jar was not great.

Q.—Do you usually give warning of your approach? A.—No, not unless we see anybody working around, and then we whistle.

Coupling the Air-Brakes.

Q.—Do they usually couple these air-brakes while the train is being made up? A.—No.

Q.—You coupled the cars to those already there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where was the engine cut off?

A.—I don't know; possibly about six car lengths this way.

Q.—You were going fast enough to send the other string about half a car length ahead? A.—Yes.

Q.—Would it be possible for a man to be on the north side taking car numbers and you not see him? A.—

Yes.

Q.—You did not see any lights? A—

No.

Q.—The train would pull out in a few minutes? A.—Yes.

Q.—Say, in this case, if a man were working there? A.—No; not until the train was made up.

Henry Gilligan's Evidence.

Henry Gilligan, a yardman in the East End, stated that on the night of the accident he was helping to make up 418. When the cars were cut off the train was going very slowly, not more than two miles an hour. Witness did not see any lights about the section that was standing still. For some time it has been customary for the brakemen to couple the air-brakes.

Yardmaster John Cloughesy stated that neither brakeman, nor car inspector, nor any employee, was supposed

They must either be winked at or else

a dead-letter," said the corner.

"We are all supposed to help in getting trains out, but no one is asked to cut out life. They are supposed to do it if ordered."

Asked if it would be necessary for a man to get on his knees to make a coupling, witness said no.
