The assistants, however, show no more concern over the matter than if they were engaged n a most ordinary pursuit, except, of course, that they must work with great precision and rapidiy. Everything is timed, and as there are no waits between the several pieces, each man must be on the jump and act on the moment. With work laid out for them, however, it is seldom, if ever, that a

It takes three men to attend to the changing colored lights, which are posted around the outside of the track, They also have large stacks of rockets to look after and their time is well occupied.

The remainder of the men attend to the different "set-pieces," which occupy the prominent part of the display, and are consequently the most technical and difficult to operate. It states that Premier Balfour will

Mr. Chamberlain, also, does no look for an immediate general election, expecting at least twelve months' propaganda before the electorate can decide upon his proposals. Other rumors are current that Mr. Balfour is unable to find men to fill the vacancies, and that he will be obliged to hand to the King his own resignation. IN THE CATTLE SHEDS

Shorthorns Made by Far the Largest Exhibit This Year.

The cattle building at the Western Fair has been a point of great interest this week. There was a good showing of animals that was well worth seeing. Only a few breeds were poorly represented, the majority showing up well. There were no entries in Guernseys. One herd of Galloways was shown, that of Shaw & Marston, Brantford. The Polled Angus section was not filled either, though those exhibited were fine specimens of their breed.

The Shorthorns predominated, there being more of them shown than the total of any four other breeds. There was a large number of entries in this class and some of the finest of Shorthorns were snown. For instance, in the 2-year-old heifer class, Capt. T. E. Robson, of Ilderton, showed the heifer which won first prize at Toronto fair. It won here also and Capt. Robson got second, too. He won in the yearling heifer show, Goodfellow Bros., of Macville, second. The winners of the bull competition, bulls three years and over, were J. A. Crerar, Shakespeare; John Fleming, London, and A. J. Watson, Castlederg. Capt. Robson's 2-year-old bull won first in its class, besides get-ting the sweepstakes ribbon for bulls. There were twelve yearlings, Goodfellow Bros., E. C. Atrill, Goderich, and Hugh Thompson, St. Marys, winning. T. E. Robson's bulls under three years won first and second, Goodfellow's third. In cows, under three years, J. A. Crerar won first and third, Goodfellow's first and second in fellows second. The first and second in the 3-year-olds were won by Crerar, and third by Goodfellow. In the heifer were also others down calves' entries James Kennedy third; first, second and fourth all going te Capt. Robson. Crerar got the sweepstakes for cows and heifers. The show of Jerseys was very good. These favorites were of much interest to the fair visitors, and the exhibit was of much credit to those who brought them. The Holsteins were less con-

The great impression of all, who have investigated, is that the Nordheimer leads in quality the greatest essential. The construction of the Northelmer piano is so perfect that it gives it tone, one that makes it a favorite with all musicians. Why the "Slater Shoe" Is now a Union Shoe,

The "Slater Shoe" factory has always paid the highest wages in Canada, because the class of men employed could demand such wages irrespective of Union backing.

Also, the "Slater Shoe" factory has always been up to Union standards in lighting, ventilation and sanitary arrangements.

Dut even these highly favorable conditions cannot secure from inefficiently organized labor complete co-operation between employer and em-

So the "Slater Shoe" makers decided to make their factory a Union factory in name as well as in actuality.

Henceforward all "Slater Shoes" will bear the stamp of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union with the factory Number 350.

(This number will also identify the shoe bearing it as the genuine "Slater Shoe," as no other makers have the right to use it).

This Union Stamp stands for co-operation of employer and employee, for mutual good understanding, for immunity from strikes and lockouts, for the principle of arbitration, for a continuous supply of first-class help, for uniformity of workmanship, for fair conditions all round.

Reduces cost by increasing producing efficiency, by reducing number of spoiled pairs of shoes, by its greater uniformity of workmanship, by the more thorough organization of

The passing of an extra $10,000 for the completion of the waterworks by our civic fathers has occasioned a little ripple among a few of the ratepayers here. Some think the council should have measured well the expenditure likely to be incurred therewith before making such positive statements as to the cost not exceeding the original amount asked from the ratepayers. In conversation recently with a gentleman in quite a busy town to the south of us he said his town was "waterworks poor," and would be so for some years to come, the cost of putting in a plant amounting to over double the sum that mas asked for by the council at the opening of the game. He laughed quite heartily at the idea prevalent here that the extra $10,000 just passed Petrolea, Sept. 17.—The London Fair has by our council would see the finish of our system, he contending that we have only just started on our "extras," and St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 17.—The weather was chilly and the track heavy at louis an attrictive illustrated edition dealing our friend was poking fun at us. If she had been a man and had gone to war she would have won the toria Cross or been wearing shoulder straps early in the campaign Here's the story of this Downie girl's adventure. The other day she was driving home from the Classic City in a ingle buggy. In the rig with her she had her bicycle, which she had to the hop for repairs. About a mile out of Goderich road she met an automobile Her horse was no worn-out plow anibut a high-spirited driver, acted badly on the approach of the auto. In trying to hold the veins and keep the bicycle in the rig the young lady was thrown out into the ditch and her wheel with her. Her horse struck a 2:30 clip on the old cinder path, alongside the fence, which the Stratford folks started to build to Goderich several years ago. Disentangling herself from the wheel Miss McNichol, for that is the heroine's name, took in the situation at a glance and then she went into action. She had lost the reins, but she didn't for a fraction of a second lose her head. She mounted that wheel and went af ter that runaway. By a gallant effort she overhauled the galloping steed then for half a mile or more it was a neck and neck race. The horse was making Lou Dillon time, but Miss Mc-Nichol was breaking the record. In a phenomenal burst of speed she put the wheel well to the front, and when she got far enough ahead she dismounted

Fine Leather-Bound Poets, regu-Bright Vaudeville at the London lar 90c and $1 lines; clearing at 50c. Draws Full Houses. Odds and Ends in Fancy Goods,

> Like the weather this week, the Grand Opera management have performed a lightning change act. It's far cry from the frothy musical comedy to rural drama of New England, champagne and mince pies, tenderloin talk and village gossip. "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a dramatization of the novel of that name, is the usual thing-of it's kind. If you like that kind you may like this sample of it. There is the heroine about whose birth is wrapped dark mystery to which the villain (in this case villainess) holds the key. Also the 'stereotyped' hero, who stumbles (herolike) upon the papers that foil the ploters and sends the lovers rejoicing on their way. About these three, stock characters, in the country play, all the actors revolve. There's a fortunehunting singing master, who is after the heroine's money, the town bully, well thrashed by the hero, and a blind girl with a wonderfully sweet nature, a special privilege of the blind, at least as far as the stage is concerned. Needless to say the stock village characters gather at the cross-roads store, intrude on the privacy of their neighbors' affairs, eat raisins, whittle sticks crack topheavy jokes and do all the other inane things that are saddled on our country cousins—undeservedly, let us hasten to add. Also the slatternly maid. What would the rural drama be without her? The one thing missing is a vocal quartette of farm hands and for this let us be truly
